

Beneficial Rain Falls In County

Rainfall measuring from a half to an inch fell over Eastland County Monday as a cool front passed through this region. Cisco area rain gauges measured from .6 to an inch.

Hail was reported in the Rising Star area as a thunderstorm moved through that region. The hail was described as ping-pong ball size and crops and orchards suffered damage, the report said.

County Agent DeMarquis Gordon described the rainfall as "very beneficial" to pastures and crops.

Very little peanut harvesting has taken place this month, Mr. Gordon said. He said recent rainfall has been a big help to the peanut outlook and that most farmers were waiting to get maximum benefit from the moisture before harvesting.

The rain began falling early Monday morning. Cisco police reported that two minor auto mishaps were due to slick streets.

Scramble Golf Tourney Is Held At Local Course

The team of Mike Thiberville and Bennie Nichols won the Cisco Country Club partnership scramble golf tournament last weekend. The team posted scores for three 18-hole rounds that totaled 26 under par. They had a 11-under par score for the final round.

Winning second place was the team of Gerry Webb and Tracy Owens with a score of 14-under par for the three days. Bobby Smith and Delbert Schaefer, tournament chairmen, placed third.

In the first flight, Carrel Smith and Tim Jones were the winners with Roy Gevara and Roy McCoy coming in second. George Owens and Charlie Graham won the second flight with Steve Thomas and Jimmy Yowell placing second.

All of the first round losers played in a special lame duck medal score flight and this event was won by O.B. Edmondson and Oliver Smith of Cross Plains. They posted a 70 in the Sunday event.

Some 20 teams took part in the tournament. A barbecue was served Saturday night with Oscar in charge of the food. Arrangements were made for the event by Mrs. Major Farnsworth.

Claborn Wins

Tommy Claborn, Cisco FFA member, won first place in his class with his registered Suffolk ewe at the West Texas Fair in Abilene. His ewe won over all youth and open show. Later in the morning his ewe was named Reserve Champion of both the youth and open division.

Contract Is Awarded To Build New Athletic Track At CHS

A contract to build a regular track for track and field events at Cisco High School was awarded to Bronthe Brothers of Abilene by the board of trustees of the Cisco Independent School District at their monthly meeting Monday night.

The project will cost $129,800 and funds from a surplus left over from last year will be used in financing, Supt. James Couch reported. The track will be built in the area west of the high school building.

Work is due to begin this month and the track will be completed and ready for use when needed. Specifications call for a 400-meter eight-lane track with facilities for field events in the center. The center area will also serve the junior band as a marching practice area.

The track will have a rubberized all-weather surface-material that has a long life, Supt. Couch said. School officials had been working on the track project for several months.

In other action, the board approved the CISD's participation in the new Eastland County Tax Appraisal District. Health insurance for school employees was approved for another year.

Employment of Mrs. Brenda Land to teach a class for gifted and talented students in Grades 7 through 12 was approved. The new program will cover a variety of subjects for exceptional students. Some 25 students have qualified for the program, Mr. Couch said. Mrs. Land is the wife of Bruce Land of the Cisco Junior College coaching staff.

Cisco received the second half kickoff and after five plays a handoff was fumbled by the Loboes and Baird's Ronnie Casey recovered the ball on Cisco's 45-yard line.

The running abilities of Baird's Sid Grant, Billy Deel and quarterback Ronnie Casey, moved the ball to Cisco's six-yard line in eight plays. On the next play, QB Casey took the ball into the end zone to break the 0-0 tie. The extra point kick by Grant was good making the score 7-0 with seven minutes left in the third quarter.

On the ensuing kick-off, Cisco's Larry Adams received the kick from Baird's Ben Mendez at Cisco's 20 yard line. Adams then scampered 57 yards before Baird's Casey could tackle him at the Bears' 23-yard line.

Cisco's possession ended four plays later with an interception by Baird's Grant in the end zone to kill Cisco's drive.

Cisco's Adams fielded a Baird punt late in the third quarter at the Loboes 15-yard line to set up Cisco's scoring drive.

Cisco QB Rattan made five yards on the first play and a handoff to Speegle got two more yards. QB Rattan got the first down on the next play and two plays later he had another first down with the keeper play. A handoff to Jason Potter moved from Cisco's 45-yard line to the Bears' 44-yard line for another first down. A pitch back to Potter got five more yards and another keeper play by Rattan placed the ball on Baird's 35-yard line. Potter took the next handoff and scampered the 35 yards to the goal line for Cisco's only points in the game. A try for two extra points was no good making the score 7 to 6 with 9:30 left in the final quarter.

Baird's Deel fielded Cisco's kick from Kenneth Preston at the 20 and ran it back to the 30 before Preston tackled him. From this point, Baird started their final scoring drive of the game.

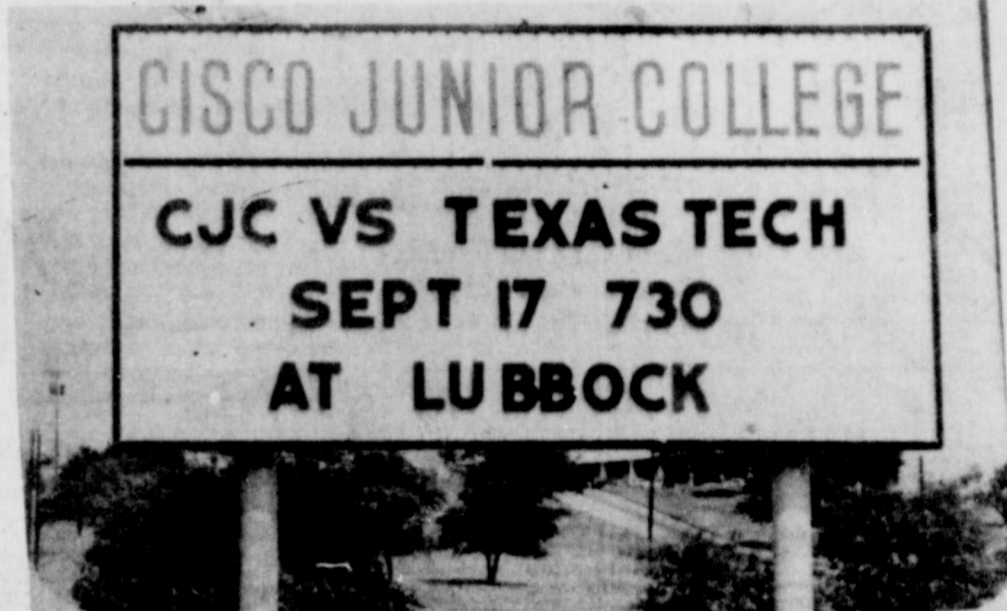

Runs by QB Casey, Grant and Deel moved the ball 55 yards in 12 plays to Cisco's 15-yard line. Baird made five first downs during the drive.

Baird's Deel took the handoff from QB Casey and scored on a 15 yard run with 3:20 remaining in the game. The extra point kick by Grant was no good making the final score 13 to 6.

Defensive standouts for Cisco were Shane Posey, Gary Speegle, Blair Boyd, Larry Adams, Bubba Eaker, Joey Worley, Danny Garcia, Kenneth Preston, Manuel Marquez, Brian Fleming, Tommy Thackerson, Bud Wood and Terry Owings.

Wranglers To Battle Tech's J.V. Thursday

By Bill Roberts

Thursday night when the CJC Wranglers battle the Texas Tech Red Raider Junior Varsity, Coach Bill Anderson and his team will be facing a team which is probably the only well-coached, well-trained junior varsity in the state.

This comes from the fact that the philosophy of Texas Tech is to field a junior varsity which is as well-coached as most small college or junior college teams.

Head JV coach is Rodney Allison, former Odessa High School and Texas Tech quarterback and Anderson feels this will be the best team the Wranglers have faced so far this season.

"They put a lot more emphasis on their JV," Anderson says. "They're more serious about their JV program. They have a philosophy much like Nebraska. They encourage 5-year participation, play on JV, red shirt the second year, on specialty teams the third year and that leaves them two years to play."

Mrs. Bill Howell Wins Microwave Oven In Drawing

Mrs. Bill Howell of Cisco has been named the winner of a Microwave Oven in the 4th Quarterly drawing of Stanley Home Products, Inc., in the $50,000 Gold Rush Sweepstakes.

Mrs. Howell had received her entry blank from Earline Payne of Snyder a local Stanley dealer. The manufacturer of household cleaning products held this contest for the past year in conjunction with the Company's 50th Anniversary Celebration.

that the Tech JV opened the season with a convincing win over a future Wrangler opponent, West Texas State University's JV, and this poses a problem for the fourth year Wrangler coach and his team—coming up with its third straight win of the 1981 season.

The Wrangler defense, which is being led by an imposing figure on the field thus far this season—linebacker Mark Sanderson. Sanderson, a 6-0, 216-pound sophomore from Calhoun, La., leads the Wranglers in tackles with 10 and has assisted on four more. He's followed by another sophomore linebacker, Doug Barton of Gatesville and defensive tackle Fred Stafford of Houston Spring Branch with six each. Barton also has three assists and Stafford has four. Stafford Presentation To Be Made On Rock Music Sat.

Do you really know what your listening to? Mike Johnson has done much research to expose the connections of cults, witchcraft and satanism with rock. He gives reportedly undeniable evidence that today's music is engineered to get directly into the subconscious. He also reveals how groups are reportedly highly involved with the occult such as the "Eagles" belonging to the First Satanic Church in San Francisco.

Come hear Mike as he gives his multi-media presentation on rock music. Youth and adults are invited. Saturday night, September 19, at 7:00 p.m. at the First Baptist Church in Cisco. For more information call Craig Childress at 442-1160.

WORD OF GOD

Fulfillment (New Testament)
Then Herod, when he saw that he was mocked of the wise men, was exceeding wroth, and sent forth, and slew all the children that were in Bethlehem, and in all the coasts thereof, from two years old and under, according to the time which he had diligently inquired of the wise men.

Then was fulfilled that which was spoken by Jeremy the prophet, saying, In Rama was there a voice heard, lamentation, and weeping, and great mourning, Rachel weeping for her children, and would not be comforted, because they are not.

Car Owners, Protect Yourselves!

COLLEGE STATION--Who needs "uninsured motorists coverage" -- one of the six automobile coverages offered to the consumer.

You may need it, says Linda McCormack, a family resource management specialist.

Charged with helping families manage their financial "and other" resources, McCormack is part of the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas

A&M University System. One way to manage resources is to protect them, McCormack says. That's the reason for her advice to consumers to take a close look at "uninsured motorists coverage."

COVERAGE FEATURES
This coverage is designed to pay for losses due to bodily injury, including payments for medical expenses, loss of income, loss of support, pain and suffering and losses due to permanent disability or death.

Also, other persons occupying your car are covered. However, coverage does not include damages to the automobile.

Simply said, "uninsured motorists coverage" protects Texas car owners from other drivers who carry no automobile insurance and from hit and run drivers, McCormack explains.

ACCIDENT RISKS HIGH
Risks that you might have an accident with an uninsured driver are high, the specialist adds. One of five Texas motorists has no automobile insurance, she says.

quoting compulsory liability insurance, the specialist reminds, but evidence of financial responsibility is demanded only in certain cases, such as after an accident occurs, or if a motorist is stopped by a policeman or patrolman.

Failure to provide proof of coverage can result in a penalty, such as a fine, or, if convicted of failure to maintain financial responsibility, uninsured motorists may face having driving privileges revoked.

If you are involved in an accident with an uninsured vehicle and the other driver is responsible, Uninsured Motorists will pay the amount that you would be entitled to collect as though the other vehicle had been insured, subject to the state limits.

In Texas, this means 10/20 for bodily injury (coverage up to $20,000 for all persons injured in an accident, subject to limit of $10,000 for one individual). This includes payments for medical expenses, loss of income, pain and suffering, and losses due to permanent disability or death. However, it usually does not include damage to your car, as mentioned above, unless you purchase another "rider" in your insurance policy for "collision."

COVERAGE ADVANTAGES

The advantage of protection against uninsured motorists is immediate payment from your insurance company for hospital and medical bills, McCormack points out.

If the uninsured motorists is at fault, it may take some time for an agreement to be reached on the amount you should receive for your injuries.

Finally the uninsured motorist may have little or no property or money and may not ever be able to pay, no matter what penalties the law faces with.

Glaucoma: The Gradual Darkness

If you're 35 or over, you should know about glaucoma warns the Texas Society to Prevent Blindness.

"Glaucoma is an insidious eye disease that is the leading cause of blindness today," says Richard L. Kimbrough, M.D., a member of The Society's Medical Advisory Committee. "Over 100,000 Texans have it and half of them don't even know it because glaucoma can nibble away at vision without pain or noticeable symptoms."

"For this reason the disease is often called The Sneak Thief of Sight," he went on "but it is a thief that can be arrested if the disease is discovered early. Glaucoma cannot be cured and any vision lost cannot be restored; however, the sight-destroying process can be halted with treatment and sometimes, surgery."

Abnormally high pressure within the eyes causes glaucoma, Dr. Kimbrough explained. The eye is bathed and nourished by a fluid called the aqueous humor which is constantly being formed and drained off. This fluid circulates over the lens and around the front of the eye draining out through sieve-like outflow structures at the side of the eye.

In glaucoma the outflow structures fail to drain off sufficient fluid. This causes increased pressure to build up within the eye. In time, the pressure caused by the fluid build up destroys the sensitive cells within the optic nerve and causes loss of sight, so gradually that the victim is unaware of the change.

"The best defense against glaucoma is a simple test called tonometry which measures the pressure within the eye," Dr. Kimbrough said, adding that Prevent Blindness uses two forms of tonometry at its many free glaucoma screenings around the state.

"At some screenings ophthalmologists test using a hand-held Schiotz tonometer. At others, trained lay people use a machine called a non-contact or Air Puff tonometer that is transported to the screening in one of the Society's four new glaucoma Alert Vision Vans."

Although glaucoma can occur at any age, the older the person, the greater the risk of glaucoma, he noted. The Society therefore advises that all persons 35 and older should have a thorough eye examination at least every two years. Senior citizens, people with a family history of glaucoma and those with diabetes and cardiovascular diseases are more at risk and should be checked annually.

To alert people to the dangers of glaucoma the Society has three films on the subject that may be borrowed without charge for community shows. They are "Seeing," featuring Helen Hayes, "Glaucoma, A Silent Threat to Sight" and "The Glaucomas," a film for professional audiences. For information on the films or a free copy of the publication

"Glaucoma, Sneak Thief of Sight," send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Prevent Blindness, P.O. Box 2020, Houston, Texas 77001.

The Texas Society is an affiliate of The National Society to Prevent Blindness, the oldest voluntary health agency nationally engaged in preventing blindness through community service programs, public and professional education and research.

At area test centers on national test dates it will take about three hours to complete the ACT and about four hours for the SAT. In order that students may be familiar with the character and format of test items and responses, a copy of a full-length test booklet is available in the counseling office. Students who wish copies of additional tests may obtain them upon request from ACT or the College Board at cost.

Information reports resulting from the tests and the questionnaire are sent to the students and their high school counselors, as well as to those colleges and other institutions specifically designated by the students.

It is recommended that students take these tests during their junior year or early in the senior year so that resulting information will be available in time to be of maximum assistance to students and their counselors in education and career planning. Students who are uncertain if they need to use the ACT or the SAT, or are concerned about the location of the nearest test center, are urged to contact Mrs. Mouser in the counseling office.

It is noted that the ACT will be given at Cisco Junior College on the February date.

PSAT Test To Be Given At High School Junior-Senior High Elects Class Officers

Juniors who are interested in going to college after graduation should take note that the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test/National Merit Scholastic Qualifying Test (PSAT/NMSQT) will be given on Tuesday, October 27, 1981, at Cisco High School.

The PSAT/NMSQT is co-sponsored by the College Board and National Merit Scholarship Corporation. It is administered annually to more than one million students and measures verbal and mathematical abilities that are important in college work.

The PSAT/NMSQT gives students a chance to find out what the College Board's Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) is like and can be used to predict scores on the SAT. It also helps students in planning for college. Further, students who opt to participate in the College Board Student Search Service have an opportunity to hear from colleges that they might not otherwise learn about. The PSAT/NMSQT is also the qualifying test for students who wish to participate in the nationwide scholarship competitions administered by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation.

Students in competition for this scholarship awarded in 1983 must take the PSAT/NMSQT in 1981. Before the test, students will receive the PSAT/NMSQT Student Bulletin which contains a complete sample test with an answer key and scoring instructions. In December, students will receive a Report of Student Answers which displays the correct answers and the students' responses as well as scores. Schools will return test booklets at the same time so that students can review the original questions. Students will also receive About Your PSAT/NMSQT Scores, a booklet containing information on interpreting PSAT/NMSQT results and on general college planning.

The fee for taking the 1981 PSAT/NMSQT is $4.25 per student, to be paid at the time of registration. Fee waivers may be requested for students from low-income families who cannot afford to pay the fee. Students may register for the test in the counselor's office before October 9th. Students requesting fee waivers must register before September 28th.

Sunday School Class Meets In Payne Home

The Homemakers Sunday School class of East Cisco Baptist Church met September 8 in the home of Mrs. Annie (A.V.) Payne. Members present were Thelma Bosworth, teacher, Pauline Ingram, Mable Thetford, Fay Clack, Artie Shirley and Edna Neely. Outreach leader Mable Thetford called the meeting to order. The class repeated their watch word from Proverbs 31:26. Pauline Ingram lead the opening prayer. Mrs. Payne gave a devotional from Proverbs 31. Mrs. Ingram lead a quiz of Proverbs. Mable Thetford presided over a short business session concerning ways to improve the class. All reported an enjoyable time of fellowship. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Massey Reunion Held Sept. 6th

The relatives and descendants of John and Ida (Marchman) Massey held their annual reunion in the Corral Room of the Laguna Hotel in Cisco Sunday, September 6, 1981.

The day was spent in conversation and showing pictures and snapshots (mostly by dotting grandparents, who just happened to have them in their billfolds).

At noon a delicious covered dish lunch was served, followed by a business meeting. Officers for next year will remain in the same office as this year. The reunion time will remain the same and in Cisco. The place will be decided later.

Numerous members were kept away by illness or distance. Those attending were from Denison, Odessa, Midland, Gordon, Austin and Cisco. Everyone is hoping for a good year for all "until we meet again."

President Dick Woolley Describes New Building For Bank To Rotarians

President Dick Woolley of the Cisco First National Bank described to the Cisco Rotary Club Thursday noon, the general features of the new 12,100 square-foot home of the bank to be located over most of the area between Avenue D and Avenue E and fifth to fourth streets. Razing of existing buildings to make way for the modernistic structure was begun this week. Only the Cisco Junior College Annex, originally the Laguna Hotel, will be left standing and in harmony with the new building, whose design was developed by the bank officials, in consultation with Architects Boone and Pope, of Abilene, to blend into the future development of the area and to incorporate all the features of modern electronic banking.

Haney and Sivley of Abilene are the contractors who hope, Woolley said, to have the new quarters ready for occupancy by September of next year.

The one-story structure will front on D Avenue in a line of deeply recessed windows overlooking an area of landscaped parking. At the rear of the building paralleling E Avenue and extending from fifth to fourth street, a four-lane drive-in facility equipped with the most advanced features of electronic remote control, will serve car-sitting customers.

Incorporated in the spacious layout will be a large lobby, fronting tellers' booths and quarters for the bank's loan officers; an accounting department, staffed with all the modern magic of electronic records-keeping; a generous lock-box department provided with customer conveniences emphasizing both access and privacy; a community room at ground level, three vaults instead of the present one; a cooling and heating system which can be switched from refrigerated air to ventral air on mild days; conference rooms and etc.

The murals, painted by the late Randy Steffen, which have been a feature of the present bank lobby for many years, will be removed to the new bank and fitted as a back-drop for the new tellers cages.

The new structure is the result of two years of planning which began with an idea of rebuilding on present site at D Avenue and Eighth Street, Woolley said. Difficulties in fitting the design into the space available there soon dictated a new location, and the present property, including the old Masonic Building, formerly occupied by Mott's, has been leased to an out of city firm which will take charge of it when the new site is ready for occupancy, he said. The banker said he did not know what the lessee intends to do with it.

The new facility, one of several in the bank's long history, is in keeping with the growth of the Cisco financial institution since its beginning in March, 1917, with assets of $114,000 and deposits of $74,000. John Garner, pioneer Cisco merchant, was the principal stockholder and the bank's first loan was for a mere $630, the banker said. He illustrated his descriptions with a table model of the new building.

By 1958 when the present quarters were remodeled, deposits had grown to $4,500,000. Its assets today total approximately $30 million.

For next week's luncheon Al Anderson announced an outstanding musical program.

Texans May Pay For Doing Without

AUSTIN--Texans face the "looming spectre of living in the midst of rich gas field, unable to get adequate supplies, and paying artificially bloated prices for the privilege of doing without," said Railroad Commission Chairman Jim Nugent as press conferences in Austin and Dallas this week.

Nugent said Texas consumers face higher natural gas prices and probable shortages in supply unless changes are made in the federal Natural Gas Policy Act.

As the act now stands, an estimated 40 percent of all U.S. natural gas will remain under federal price controls after 1985.

Most of the low-cost, price-controlled gas continue to flow to other states under the federal law. The department of Energy estimates that this so-called "old interstate" gas will cost $1.01 per Mcf (thousand cubic feet) in 1985, compared to 93 cents per Mcf in 1978.

By contrast, old intrastate gas prices will cost Texas consumers $3.29 per Mcf in 1985 under the NGPA.

"This is the gas you and I burn every day, and we'll be paying over three times what it costs our northern neighbors," said Nugent.

Problems multiply for Texans when interstate customers use the dollars they save to bid up the price of new gas supplies. Nugent seriously questions whether the intrastate pipelines can compete for these new supplies without a base of controlled low-price gas. He cited a recent Department of Energy study which estimates that half-a-trillion cubic feet of gas will be transferred from intra- to interstate markets in 1985 under the NGPA.

Even if state pipelines do compete successfully, Nugent said they will have to pay higher-than-market price for the gas. "If Texans are to burn gas, they will have to pay more than the free market price, because they will be subsidizing the costs to consumers in other states, particularly the Northeast," he said.

Other factors add to the problem, noted Nugent. Not only will interstate customers have privileged prices, they will have privileged access to new supplies as well.

With few exceptions, he said, once gas is placed in the interstate market it is forever committed to that market. In many cases, the sale of gas from a single well binds the gas from an entire field until the field is depleted and abandoned. In other words, gas can move freely from Texas markets to the interstate market, but not back again.

Finally, Nugent said, federal rules effectively preclude intrastate pipelines from bidding on any gas produced from the Outer Continental Shelf, one of the most promising new areas for gas discoveries.

Nugent called on Congress and the Administration to:

1. Change the federal law which guarantees privileged prices to interstate buyers, and

2. Change the federal laws which guarantee privileged access to interstate buyers.

Nugent recently returned from a round of talks with congressional and administration officials in Washington where he discussed natural gas policy problems. He has also written to Texas senators and congressmen urging their assistance.

SMITH, VERETT & CO., certified public accountants, now occupies one of the city's oldest buildings that has been completely remodeled and redecorated. They are located in the old Lemore Pharmacy building at the corner of Avenue D and 5th Street.

The building was purchased from the Joe Lea Moore Estate last year. The brick exterior was sand-blasted and the border joints were removed. After repainting the brick, the joint border material was replaced. The interior was paneled and partitioned for three offices, a conference room, reception room, utility room and rest rooms.

The back part of the building, which is used for storage, was built before 1900 and was the site of the originate Red Front Drug, a pioneer Cisco business that later moved a block south. Later, the building was a bakery and a shoe repair shop before the front part was built early in the century.

The firm is a partnership composed of Bobby Smith, Vic Verett and Ken Parker. The company also has offices in Breckenridge with Verett in charge. Smith and Parker have offices in Cisco. The partnership was formed in July, 1977, by Smith and Verett, with Parker joining them in March, 1980.

The firm has two computers for use in servicing client accounts, including accounts receivable, payrolls and other records. Some 60 area clients are served by the computers.

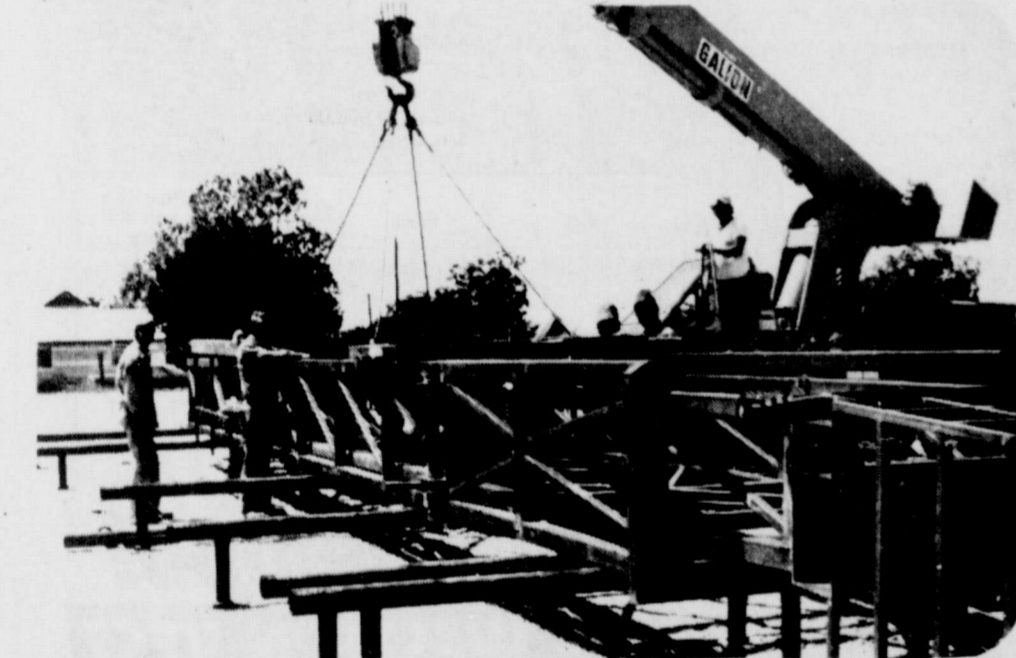

Employees include Linda Witt, office manager; Connie Donica, computer operator; Beverly Smith, secretary; Susan Schaefer, accountant and Carla Begley, DE student.

NEW BUILDING—Central Masonry, Inc., is erecting the building shown in the above picture at 606 East 8th Street in Cisco. The structure will be used as a warehouse by the firm that contracts building construction work throughout the state. Work is due to be finished in a month.

Central Masonry has its offices at 307 West 11th Street. The firm employs some 40 men on brick, block and stone commercial projects over the state. Officers of the corporation are Kerry Nelms, president; Dan Wilks, vice president and Alva Nelms, secretary and treasurer. (Staff Photo)

NEW SERVICE RIG—The machine pictured above is the first oil well servicing rig turned out by Bandera Supply & Manufacturing Company at their plant in Cisco. The 98-foot telescoping mast was moved from the company's facility on East 21st Street last Friday to Bandera's yard in Abilene where it was mounted permanently on a huge truck.

The new rig, the first of several due to be built here, has a hook capacity of 220,000 pounds. It was designed by a Canadian firm. LeRoy Kirby is supervisor of the Cisco facility. Several plant employees are shown working on the rig in the picture. Bandera has some 20 employees here and builds drilling rigs as well as the new servicing equipment. (Staff Photo)

FHA OFFICERS for 1981-1982 held their first meeting August 27 at the Homemaking Lab of Cisco High School. They are (sitting) Eloise Torres, Leslie Roberson, Velia Lopez, Becky Chamness and Tricia Zellman. Standing are Gayla Gwinn, Diane Zarate and Trecia Reich.

The musical Friday night was well attended, despite ball games and the West Texas Fair. We want to thank the musicians who brought the good music and all who attended.

After beating the St. Louis Cardinals 30 to 17, the Dallas Cowboys will go to New England for a Monday night game against the Patriots.

New England is described by Tex Schramm as an up and down team that may play very well or very poorly depending on the game. They also have about as many first round draft choices playing for them as any team in the N.F.L.

The heat was a problem in the St. Louis game that contributed to a lot of minor injuries, but only two Cowboys are not expected to be able to play Monday. They are center Robert Shaw and backup defensive tackle Don Smerek, both of whom have sprained knees.

Offensive tackle Jim Cooper will practice at and play center this week in Shaw's place, as John Fitzgerald the other center, is on the injured reserve. Fitzgerald may be well enough to start working out next week. He could be placed on the team in a couple of weeks if he is first able to clear waivers without being claimed by another team and if a player is removed from the team to make room for him.

Rookie Angelo King was recalled to take the place of linebacker Mike Hegman who was placed on the temporary injured reserve with a broken arm. King is backing up Guy Brown at strongside linebacker. Pro-Bowl offensive tackle

Pat Donovan has reportedly agreed to salary terms for a new multi-year contract with the Cowboys.

With rookie free safety Mike Downs out of the last game, rookie cornerback Everson Walls got a lot of playing time but failed to make an interception. Walls had made an interception in each of the previous games with the Cowboys.

These rookies, who figure heavily in the Cowboys future plans, are improving but still make mistakes sometimes that leave an opposing receiver in the opener.

Cornerback Aaron Mitchell, who was earlier traded to Tampa Bay, was said by some to not have the speed that the coaches desired, to be having trouble learning the Cowboy system, and to have an eyesight problem that prevented his being able to properly judge distances. Walls may have taken his place in the Cowboys plans for the future.

The Cowboys plans for Walls may be to first play right cornerback, then to move to strong safety to replace Charlie Wates when he retires. The cornerback spot might then be filled by a future draft selection with greater speed.

The heat at the St. Louis game could lead to more early season games being played at night.

Water Gardening

By Ted Brice, the Garden Editor

Probably no single feature add as much charm to a garden as an aquatic display. In addition to grace and beauty, they are both tranquilizing and rejuvenating qualities in water - great for today's besieged and battered nerves. And yet, now many of us have the beauty of water in our gardens. From a fountain to a trickling waterfall to a pool as large or as small as one's resources will allow, there is some sort of water display that will fit every situation.

Perhaps the most desirable choice is the garden pool. The thoughtfully planned, well placed aquatic pool with interesting plants, colorful fish and intriguing reflections make a focal point of serenity that adds to the grace of any garden, large or small. Also, the pool can easily have a fountain or waterfall incorporated into its design.

Today a do-it-yourselfer can install a garden pool relatively easily and inexpensively by doing the excavating himself and using one of several methods to line or seal the hole.

LINING: Instead of concrete, fiberglass or metal, which are good pool lining materials but which unfortunately share the disadvantages of being difficult for the amateur, consider one of the following easier methods:

1. Sink, or partially sink, a child's plastic wading pool or a galvanized water trough (available at farm supply stores) which has been painted both sides with an epoxy paint. Blue paint gives the illusion of deeper water; black paint reflects the sky and clouds and bright days but tends to look gloomy on dreary days.

2. Use a flexible plastic pool liner designed especially for this purpose. Available in a number of shapes, sizes and depths, these start at about $10 for a 2x3 foot size.

3. Use one of the sheets of heavy plastic made especially for lining pools. These last a long time and conform to any shape.

4. Apply several inches of smooth clay worked to mud-pie consistency to sides and bottom of hole. This makes a natural pool.

5. Pour a special sealing material (for use with clay-type soils only) into the water of the newly dug and filled pool. When using this be sure to follow the instructions concerning any waiting period from date of application to time of planting and introduction of fish.

Consult the yellow pages of the telephone directory for the nurseries which stock aquatic plants and supplies.

EDGING: For aesthetic reasons, concealing the edge is often desirable with concrete, fiberglass, plastic or metallized pools. Rocks, stones, bricks and/or plants make attractive edges. The natural or clay-lined pool usually needs no concealing edge for appearance's sake. However, with any type of pool it's advisable to erect about 12x15-inch barrier of some kind, such as concrete, brick or wire to prevent a boom in the toad or frog population. Toads and frogs seek out water in which to lay their eggs. These are stringy and messy looking and later hatch into tadpoles. Also, frogs have a habit of croaking all night long.

PLANTING: A number of our local wild water plants adapt well to culture in the home garden pool. Such species as water hyacinth, American lotus, the native Nymphaea water lilies, arrowhead, pickerel weed and swamp iris are beautiful, of easy culture and grow naturally in our area. In addition to these, numerous cultivated species are commercially available for use in almost any size pool.

Some water plants are floaters, requiring no soil in which to grow, such as the beautiful water hyacinth and floating heart.

Usually, water lilies requires about 18 inches of water depth (24 is even better), full sun and still or only slightly moving fresh water. Most gardeners prefer to plant their lilies in plastic or wooden containers of rich soil rather than directly in the mud of the pool. Since container size, planting, method and depth requirements vary with different species, follow the supplier's planting instructions. Generally, however water lilies like a rich soil and fertilizer every year. GOOD GARDENING UNTIL NEXT WEEK FROM THE GARDEN EDITOR, TED BRICE.

Constitution Week Is September 17th-23rd

On July 23, 1956, Congress adopted a Resolution authorizing and requesting that the President of the United States designate a period beginning September 17 and ending September 23 of each year as Constitution Week, and to issue annually a proclamation inviting the people of the United States to observe such week in schools, churches and other suitable places with appropriate ceremonies and activities.

Our Constitution, adopted in 1787, is the greatest inheritance ever given to a people. It is a sacred compact between the past, the present and the future. We owe a solemn debt to our forefathers to preserve this heritage for the unborn.

Americans have shown the greatest demonstration of progress that the world has ever known because of this mantle of protection; this declaration of human rights - our Constitution.

Let's observe September 17-23 and review our Constitution.

Tahlequah — An End And A Beginning

By Viola M. Payne

People who travel much learn that many places are overpublicized, and their attractions are mainly designed to separate tourists from their money. How refreshing it is to find an area which is rich in culture, historic sites, and scenery, yet not overwritten, overpriced or overcrowded. This is the situation in Tahlequah, northeast Oklahoma, Cherokee County, site of the old Cherokee Nation. In some ways it is a whole universe away from Eastland County, but in actual miles it is only 390.

The land around Tahlequah is structured in blues and greens in the summertime - greens of the large trees, gentle hills and valley, and blue of the running streams, lakes, and intensely blue skies. And fortunately the Cherokee Indians, whose population outnumbers the Anglo-Saxons in the area, still think enough of their land to preserve it. The actual town of Tahlequah - the County Seat and 12,000 population - has many people of Cherokee blood, or those who at least have enough of the ancestry to be listed on the Cherokee Registry of the seven Clans. But visitors to the town soon forget previous ideas of what an Indian is like or even looks like. For the Cherokees are different from other native Americans, and even their wide variety of looks is different. Although they generally have dark hair and eyes, many are fair-skinned.

Their uniqueness, which extends to their concept of life and immortality, is baffling enough to make a person wonder if they may have a direct ancestral tie to Ancient Greece or Southern Europe, rather than Asia. There are a number of Christian Churches in Tahlequah, and a State University with tree-shaded grounds. And the Chief of the Cherokee Nation, Ross Swimmer, would be most astonishing to Television Producers out looking for "horse Indians" to put in a battle scene. For he is an attractive young Community leader who serves as a Bank President as well as Head on the Tribal Council. His other interests include work with the Historical Society, which is helping to preserve the Cherokee heritage from the past.

The numerous attractions at Tahlequah, which would take days to view properly, include the famous "Trail of Tears" historical Pageant, presented during the summer in an outdoor amphitheatre. This is a gripping drama which uses colorful symbolism and realism to bring the story of the Cherokee Nation up to the time of the Oklahoma statehood. Nearby is the Ancient Village - an authentic representation of how the Cherokees lived 300 years ago. Then there is a reconstructed village from about 1880, an Arboretum and Herb Garden, and a large Cherokee National Museum, constructed on the historic site of the old Cherokee Female Seminary, which burned in 1887. Three brick columns remaining from the old structure are surrounded by a reflecting pool which continues into the lobby of the Museum. Exhibits in this magnificent building include ancient artifacts of the Cherokees, as well as material relating to the Cherokee history of the present. In the Tribal Arts and Crafts Center, located on a highway leading from the south into Tahlequah, there are many interesting examples of modern crafts by regional citizens.

Other interesting places in the area are the Cherokee Courthouse, the Murrell Home, the site where the Chief Vann House was rebuilt, the Chouteau Memorial, Sequoyah State Park, and Ft. Gibson.

The Cherokee paintings in the Museum and Arts Center and even in buildings around town are stunning examples of native American art at its best - ranking right with the Navajo. It is a totally different kind of art - no European background here! It is a type of impressionist, truly holistic art, in which man, nature and the supernatural are linked together. And a dark thread of tragedy, just as in the Cherokee thought patterns, run through the colors of many of the pictures. Many depict the "Trail of Tears", in which the Cherokees were marched from their old homeland in Georgia to the Tahlequah area.

Sixteen thousand Cherokees began this trip - four thousand died on the way. Many had scattered, before this disaster of the 1830's, into the Carolinas, Tennessee and Arkansas. It is estimated that 100,000 people with some Cherokee blood live in the United States today - with about half of them in Oklahoma.

Since time immemorial human beings have been herding each other around for purposes of removal. But this part of man's inhumanity to man seems so alien, so foreign to American ideals that it comes as a shock to realize that it happened here too.

When the Europeans came to America the Cherokees were an enlightened people with a Government resembling what we live under today. Their native religion and culture, in which they worshiped a Supreme Being, was not incompatible with Christianity. So they began to accept this new religion as soon as Missionaries came and lived among them. Lela Latch Lloyd's book "If The Chief Vann House Could Speak" tells of some of these early Missionaries in Georgia.

The Cherokees, who claimed large tracts of land in the Southeast part of the United States, helped the Americans win the war of 1812 against the British. They still feel betrayed by President Andrew Jackson for the loss of their homes across Georgia and up into Virginia. But they were promised territory for another Nation in Oklahoma, and picked the site at Tahlequah for its headquarters.

Their days in Tahlequah, in which they attempted to rebuild their Nation, have been interesting and sometimes tragic. Cherokees became involved in the Civil War, with divided loyalties. There were many struggles to hold their small country together during a time of American expansion on the frontier. Finally the Cherokees (or some of them) decided to accept Oklahoma statehood in 1906.

In 1918 a Cherokee Elder, Redbird Smith, stated: "We must now get together as a race and render our contribution to mankind."

The contributions of the Cherokee have been amazing, both in war and peace. Will Rogers is only one of the well-known Americans with Cherokee blood - there are numerous others. There are many University graduates among the people now, and others who are excellent farmers, ranchers, and craftsmen.

The Cherokees have had a lot going for them during their push upward from near-extinction - good humor, patience, persistence, courage, and adaptability. This adaptability has led them to learn from others and accept change, while winning out all that is best in their past culture.

The legend of the Phoenix - the bird which rises from the ashes of death and defeat - is depicted with a haunting dance which concludes each performance of the "Trail of Tears" in the amphitheatre. This becomes a portrayal of the essence of the Cherokee spirit, which has refused to die. It too becomes a lesson which is useful to all of us - whether we are early Americans or later ones.

Frying The Proud Catch

COLLEGE STATION--Frying the "proud catch" over an open campfire is one thing, but cooking it at home may be quite another, says Anette Redell Hegen, a seafood consumer education specialist.

Excitement and exhaustion of the moment makes up for lack of cooking expertise at the campsite, but "doing the proud catch justice" at home naturally carries a bit more responsibility with it.

For the at-home cook who wishes to "live up" to the almost-certain expectations for this cooking feat, Hegen has a sure-fire technique: "Sesame Fried Fish."

"Pan-frying is the all-time favorite way of preparing fish, and corn meal is the traditional coating used in Texas," she carefully explains.

"However, pan-fried fish take on a new dimension when prepared with the method below suggested by the Texas A&M Marine Advisory Service," Hegen continues.

"Although the recipe requires more ingredients than a fisherman normally carries on his trip, it's perfect, remember, for the grand meal back home.

"Oh, yes, and just in case that touted bait or new lure didn't work after all, go 'fishing' in a seafood market to get the items you need for this recipe, if your culinary curiosity now has the best of you," she says.

SESAME FRIED FISH

2 pounds fish fillets
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1 cup pancake mix
1/4 cup yellow corn meal
1/2 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
dash pepper
1 1/2 cups milk
1 jar (2 1/2 oz.) sesame seeds
Sprinkle fish with salt and pepper.

Combine pancake mix, corn meal, salt and pepper. Add milk and stir until blended.

Stir in sesame seeds. Roll fish in flour and dip in batter.

Place in single layer in fry pan with 1/8" hot oil. Cook two to three minutes, turn and cook other side - or deep fry.

Drain on absorbent paper. Keep warm. Makes six servings.

Learned Judges Make Wise Law

by
W.B. Allen
Dr. Allen is Associate Professor of Political Science at Harvey Mudd College (c) Public Research, Syndicated, 1981

Were we to ask for the appointment of a Solomon to the bench of the Supreme Court, our problems would only have just begun. For where would we find Solomons to people our courts? There does not seem to be any university which specializes in Solomonic wisdom. And even if there were, we have become so accustomed to thinking of judges as merely lawyers by another name that it is nearly impossible for the ordinary citizen to conceive that qualification a judge needs beyond a license to practice law.

This identification of law schools, lawyers, and judges has come to be firmly fixed in the popular imagination only since the start of the twentieth century. Before then judges were usually lawyers, but their training often was much broader and, interestingly, they were chosen as judges rather for their knowledge of the law than for being lawyers. As it happened, however, few there were with knowledge of the law who were not lawyers. In that simpler time, it was easy to make the mistake that people were being chosen as judges because they were lawyers rather than for any more weighty reason.

The founders defended the establishment of the Supreme Court and the practice of judicial review as an institution designed to capture for the benefit of free government the wisdom of the learned. They often spoke and wrote of the "learned professions" as standing apart from the normal social classes and able to arbitrate the divisions of contending factions, Solomon-like. In Congress, therefore, it was to be the members from the "learned professions" who could impartially judge between manufacturing and agricultural classes. In 1789, though, members of the "learned professions" were almost exclusively clergymen and lawyers, with a smattering of professors.

We see, then, how easy the first generations of Americans may have come to depend upon lawyers for learned judgement of the law. What is more difficult to see is that they saw in these lawyers not mere advocates who practiced the art of manipulating the law. They saw, rather, gentlemen schooled in the arts of free government, habituated to seek the common good through the processes based on the consent of the governed, mindful of the claims of justice not in the form of legal pleas but rather in the form of a sound constitution, and able to find in the expression of public opinion the high ground of the rule of law. The learned judge was not expected to "decide in the last instance,"—that privilege belongs to the Court, not the judge—but rather, like Solomon himself, to strike upon those decisive mans which would preserve for self-governing freemen the capacity to judge rightly themselves.

It would be an understatement to say that modern law schools do not prepare lawyers to assume this role. They cannot do so, for their very goal contradicts this role. They instruct their students in the arts of employing the law as a means to obtain one's ends rather than a source of guidance for forming one's ends in accord with justice. (For most lawyers, the justice which eventuates from our legal processes is a mysterious presence or spirit which is entirely inexplicable.) The law in modern law schools is a useful instrument; it is not a tutor.

If we will have Solomons as judges, they may yet be lawyers, but their legal training will not have made them Solomons. This is to say nothing more than every lawyer will admit. Besides, it is no longer the case that persons learned in the law are necessarily lawyers. The education revolution in America has so greatly diversified the "learned professions" that we often find knowledge of the law in other fields of endeavor, as, for example, in the social sciences. Here, to however, we are hard pressed to find the specific training of Solomons.

All is not lost, however. If our first justices were in any way Solomons, and not on account of having been lawyers, we can perhaps take guidance from such training as they did have. In this regard, nothing stands out in sharper relief than their intimate involvement in democratic political processes, above all having actually held elective offices and participated with their fellow citizens in the practice of law-making.

This is certainly the case with the outstanding example, Chief Justice John Marshall, whose outstanding political career included participation in the debate on the formation of the Constitution. Marshall was above all a statesman nurtured and matured in political and party wars. This, more than legal study, made him a great Chief Justice. Nor was he a mere party infantryman, receiving, as the reward for loyalty and bravery, custody of his people's destiny in form of a high judgeship. The latter description better fits Roger B. Taney, whose Dred Scott decision, as much as any one factor, condemned his people to the fratricide of Civil War.

Marshall, rather, was a captain in the field. In his knowledge of the law meant deep learning and deep responsibility to public opinion. Justice Story, again, while a lesser political luminary, advanced to the Court from the U.S. House of Representatives. It may be said, in sum, that inasmuch as the Supreme Court's task in many and perhaps most respects bears a stronger resemblance to the supreme legislative task than to the ordinary tasks of jurisprudence, the school for justices is more fittingly the democratic political process than even the practice of law.

This essay is not meant to boost the candidacies of Jimmy Carter, Jerry Ford, or, Heaven Forbid, Richard Nixon for the vacancy on the Court which President Reagan now has to fill. Nevertheless, those were in some respects the glory days of our republic when former presidents could serve profitably as Congressman and Chief Justice, rather than as useless appendages. In those days, the perspective of the office-holder as public servant kept open the door to useful service, and did not nurture the idle pretense that, having held the highest office on earth, there remained nothing for one to do but to write fables. Every elected official, past and present, ought to be regarded as a suitable candidate for the Supreme Court, provided he unite in his person the unique qualities we seek in this Solomon.

Accordingly, we can advise our President to seek for Solomons to appoint to the Court among those learned brethren, steeped in knowledge of the law and the claims of a just conditional order, who have already revealed their judiciousness amidst the trials and temptations which beset our representatives. These are they who, in addition to knowledge of the law, have acquired a knowledge of the people. They know not only the law, but the lawmakers. But give us a Solomon, and we will make wise law.

Congressman
Charles W. Stenholm

Congressional Comment

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Most of us are familiar with the term, "rob Peter to pay Paul." We also know, when dealing with our personal budgets, that the time invariably comes when they no longer work. So it is with the Federal budget.

It is no secret that for years, politicians on both sides of the aisle — both Democrats and Republicans — have taken "the easy way out" and responded to a variety of social ills by approving more and more money to create programs to deal with those problems. Many of those programs were very popular with their constituencies and, so long as no one seriously complained (usually serious complaints are defined as votes during election time), business went along as usual.

Business as usual meant "robbing" the Defense budget, for example, to finance domestic programs. In 1970 defense's share of federal expenditures was 40 percent. A steady decline in that share since then has finally dropped defense spending to only 20 percent of the total budget in 1980. With our new emphasis on defense (even with some cuts) we will be spending over 30 percent by 1984.

We are currently examining the Defense budget for areas where spending can be tightened and, in some cases, cut outright. There is no area of federal spending that cannot stand close examination. Defense is no exception. I am confident, that cuts can be made in non-essential areas — the fat that is present in every federal budget — while we are concurrently concentrating on strengthening our overall defense "muscle".

We have now reached the point when even the liberals admit that there is no more room for such spending shifts away from national defense. The question now before Congress is how can we best improve our defense posture at the least cost to the budget. There is no question, however, that improvements have to be made.

The Social Security Program grew by leaps and bounds during the same time frame. As long as the voting public did not complain, Congress increased payroll contributions to Social Security from 3 percent at the end of World War II, to the present 13 percent and benefits increased accordingly.

Such increases are no longer "politically easy", however. Workers now question the stability of the program and it takes no economic genius to recognize that revisions to the Social Security Program are in order. "Easy revisions?" No. I can think of no easy answers to the current Social Security dilemma. I can

Past History Indicates We've Only Just Begun

If you think the Legislature has had difficulty in reapportionment, a look at past history may indicate that we've only just begun.

The Texas Constitution has always required periodic reapportionment based upon substantially equal population; although over the years, it has been sometimes less periodic and sometimes less substantially equal in population.

The present State Constitution adopted in 1876 required the Texas Legislature to reapportion after each federal decennial census. This generally went smoothly from 1881 through 1921. Then in 1931, the Legislature found itself unable to agree on the redrawing of existing legislative districts. The Legislature found that to base the districts on substantially equal population, many of the districts would have to be combined and some incumbents would be paired. So the Legislature agreed to do nothing. The Legislature did not redistrict the House nor Senate in 1931 or 1941. New lines were not drawn until 1951.

Congressional redistricting found similar difficulties. The Legislature failed to pass any congressional redistricting plan between 1917 and 1933. The measure enacted in 1933 remained in effect until 1957, when only one significant change was made in the 1957 plan was struck down by a 1963 lawsuit. The court trying the case found the ratio between the districts of excessive population and lowest population to be 4.4 to 1.

Subsequently, in the mid and late 1960's, the Legislature acted to eliminate the gross disparities in population and redrew the Congressional, State Senate and State House plans and did pass plans with less population variances.

Still, the growth and shift in location of the population evidenced by the 1970 census required the Texas Legislature to redraw the House, Senatorial and Congressional lines in 1971. The only plan that got out was the State house. The Congressional and State Senate lines remained unchanged. The Governor immediately called a Special Session and within three days the Legislature had passed a Congressional plan.

The Senatorial redistricting, following the dictates of the State Constitution, was referred to the Redistricting Board, and that Board passed a plan on October 15, 1971.

The Board also wound up unwillingly drawing the State House boundary lines. The House plan passed by the Legislature was declared unconstitutional by the State Supreme Court as it failed to adhere closely enough to the requirement for preserving county boundaries (the same conclusion the State District Court reached on the 1981 House plan).

The plot thickened as the Redistricting Board refused to accept the responsibility of redrawing the House lines. A lawsuit was filed by a State Senator in the Texas Supreme Court to require the Board to draw the House lines. The Supreme Court so ordered, and a House plan was drawn by the Board.

Now, I would hope to be able to say that the job was done and everyone lived happily ever after. Not so.

The Congressional Plan was challenged in Federal Court in 1971. The court struck down the plan as deviating too greatly in population and adopted an alternative plan. The State appealed, and the Supreme Court stayed the lower court's plan and the 1972 elections were held under the original Legislative plan. Subsequently, the Supreme Court declared the Legislative plan unconstitutional and the case was remanded to the lower court where a plan was adopted. Subsequent Congressional elections were held under this plan.

The Senatorial and House plans were also challenged in the courts. While the Senate plan was upheld, certain parts of the House plan were overturned. Litigation continued until 1975 when combined efforts of the courts and Legislature had finally drawn plans that were constitutional.

This phenomena of difficulties in reapportionment has not been peculiar to Texas. All or part of the State Legislative Districts in use in 1978 in twenty states were the products of court-ordered redistricting plans. Two states in 1978 were still involved in litigation over plans redrawing the lines after the 1970 census.

Hopefully, plans will be drawn by the Board that will not be challenged, but the probabilities are such that when a plan is drawn, litigation will follow. The possibility remains that the reapportionment efforts will be mired in the courts and the 1982 elections will be conducted using the old boundaries.

CISCO IS WELL represented at the West Texas Fair in Abilene these days. Cisco Junior College has a nice booth in the display building to tell one and all the story of this fine educational institution. Mrs. Jammie Fry is in charge of the booth, and members of the Wrangler Belles help her each day.

Mayor Eris Ritchie's Southwest Enterprises has an exhibit of his wares with Mrs. Bob Bevers in charge. Bob Bevers, local Salad Master distributor, also has a booth to advertise his product. And S&M Supply Company has some products on display with Harvey Hull looking after same.

The CJC Band and Belles weren't able to appear in last Saturday's Fair parade due to previous commitments.

YOU'VE PROBABLY noticed that the Gulf Service Station at 310 West 8th Street has a new proprietor - Mr. Bruce Speegle - since Sept. 1st. Bruce bought the business from Mr. Wilson Smith, who has been in the service station here for many years.

As you know, Bruce is a native of Cisco - the son of the Johnny Speegles. He's a former Lobo at CHS and had been teaching school at Houston before deciding to return home and go into business.

Understand that Mr. Smith is considering retirement.

OUR SCOUTS report that the CJC Band and Belles Special to New York City for Macy's Thanksgiving parade has reached the 300 mark - their goal. Directors Eris Ritchie and Tim Jones were checking lists Monday to see if they could take two or three more ticket orders before starting a waiting list.

If you're interested and didn't get on the list yet, contact Eris or Tim very soon.

CITY MANAGER Mike Moore was in Austin Monday checking with EPA officials in re Cisco's application for a grant to correct sewer water problems. The sewer project will be discussed by the City Council at a special meeting Thursday night at City Hall. Ed Wende of the Post Office staff was back on the job Monday after a vacation. Highlight of last week, he reports, was attending the West Texas Fair in Abilene.

The post office flag flew at half mast several days in tribute to Roy Wilkins, civil rights leader who died last week.

CISCO WAS well represented at the big picnic honoring Congressman Charlie Stenholm and family near Stamford last Saturday afternoon. It was rainy and muddy but the affair attracted over 1,000 people and was a good success, we were told.

Those making the trip from Cisco included the J.C. Fletchers, the Sutton Crofts, Jack Farleigh, the Archie Chamnesses, the Truman Kirks and Raymond Smith. Garner Altom, formerly of Cisco, also was there.

VISITING OUT in El Paso recently, we met up with a man who has a diesel powered automobile. And he buys his fuel in Mexico at 16 cents per gallon - about a dollar less than you pay in the USA.

Our friend goes to a bank in El Paso and gets $50 worth of Mexican pesos - about 23 for $1. He puts his pesos in an envelope in the glove compartment of his car and uses them when he goes for fuel. The $50 runs his car for about six months.

AFTER READING an article in The Press recently about a resort type place the Post Office Department is building at Potomac, Md., we've been meaning to write our senators and congressman. This type of waste of public funds doesn't set very well with folks.

It's not too hard to understand why postage rates have increased more percentage-wise than anything else in the country when you hear about such things as this facility they're building.
