

Police Chief Reminds Of 20 M.P.H. Zones

Citizens of Cisco are being advised by Cisco's acting Police Chief Raymond Blevins that all school zones have a 20 M.P.H. speed limit. Chief Blevins reported that officers will be running radar in all school zones during the mornings and afternoons.

He also reported that a new officer has been hired by the local police force and was to begin work during the latter part of the week. The new officer is Jerry Carter, a resident of Cisco. His wife is the former Joy Theford of Cisco and they have two sons.

Local officers investigated two shootings, an assault, a one-vehicle accident and recovered some stolen property during the past week.

Chief Blevins reported that Officer Mike Loudamy investigated a one-vehicle accident Thursday night on Highway 6. The vehicle involved was a 1978 Oldsmobile Delta 88 driven by James Michael Mosley of Cisco. There were no injuries reported.

Earlier in the week, an assault charge was cleared by an arrest by Officer Loudamy. A stolen Schwinn bicycle belonging to David Callarman and a stolen Western Flyer bicycle belonging to Harold Davies were both recovered. Some stolen property was also recovered at Cisco's Lake cabins and the matter was cleared by an arrest by the Sheriff's Department and the local police department.

Local officers also assisted in the investigation of two shootings here this week. One shooting took place on West 11th Street and the other on West 7th Street. They were two separate incidents and had no relation to each other. There were no injuries reported in either incident.

Both incidents were cleared by arrests, the first in cooperation with the Sheriff's Department and the Department of Public Safety, and the second by the Sheriff's Department and the local Police Department.

East Cisco Baptist Church To Have Special Program

East Cisco Baptist Church will have a special program Sunday morning featuring Miss Lela Mayfield. Her story depicts a life confronted with insurmountable handicaps can find victory with a dynamic faith in Jesus Christ.

Born legally blind, with little that could be called a nose, and many medical difficulties, Lela's faith in Christ has enabled her to share her faith in her Lord across the United States. Her story deserves to be told in Cisco. Your life will be inspired, challenged and motivated by her story. You are invited to attend this service beginning at 11:00 a.m. Sunday, Jan. 24, at East Cisco Baptist Church.

Hall Of Remarks

by Herrel Halmark

ONE OF THE most important pages in the Sunday edition of The Cisco Press is its church page. The page which lists all the area churches and give their time schedules.

If any of the churches listed need to have some of their items changed, they are asked to contact our offices and give us the new information. Also, if a church is going to have a special service on Sunday, then why not let us know so we can include it on the church page under Church News?

Especially needed on the church page are some local sponsors. Our number of sponsors on this page have been slowly declining and we need some new persons who are interested in showing their support of the churches in Cisco.

We express our heartfelt thanks to those persons who help sponsor this page - the present ones and those in the past.

If you are interested in having your business to help sponsor this page, then please call The Cisco Press office and we will explain the cost of sponsoring the page. And this Sunday, be sure and do as the page says. Attend the Church of Your Choice.

LOCAL CITY Councilman Bobby Ingram gave us the following clipping from an old copy of The Cisco Press and asked if we would reprint it because he believes it may have some ties to the way the people feel today. He also said he hopes it may help people to have some insight into the way American soldiers in Vietnam felt during the war.

A poem was sent to Mr. Cats Ingram here from Viet Nam by his son-in-law, Bruce Withers. It follows:

DIGUSTED

The leaves of the palms seem to hang in sorrow. As if they won't see a coming tomorrow.

The big guns are still, the flares do not shine. Off in the distance, a lonely dog whines.

I sit here on guard, so lonely and blue.

But remember, America, I'm thinking of you.

It's a shame that the people of America can't see what it's like in a country where you can't be free.

I read in the paper only last night

That Americans at home are starting to fight.

They kill and they rob, for reasons unknown;

Do I have this to look forward to, when I come home? So you see, America, I can't understand Why I'm fighting for freedom in a foreign land.

It's true, there's a purpose for being here.

But what about America: Is there a purpose there?

Yes, America is there, so brilliant and great.

But sometimes I wonder if it isn't all fake.

These people in America that fight and kill

Should be over here, on this lonely hill.

For if they were here to take part in this fight,

Perhaps they could see what freedom is like.

I was sent here by chance, not choice of my own,

But I'm glad that I'm here, for I've learned to love home.

Home isn't Washington, Alaska or New Jersey,

Home is America, the land that is free.

I hope these Americans will wake up and see.

What it's really like, to live in a land that's free.

THE 10 COMMANDMENTS OF HOW TO GET ALONG WITH PEOPLE

1. Keep skid chains on your tongue; always say less than you think. Cultivate a low, persuasive voice. How you say it often counts more than what you say.

2. Make promises sparingly and keep them faithfully, no matter what it costs.

3. Never let an opportunity pass to say a kind and encouraging word to or about somebody. Praise good work, regardless of who did it. If criticism is needed, criticize helpfully, never spitefully.

4. Be interested in others; their pursuits, their work, their homes and families. Make merry with those who rejoice; with those who weep, mourn. Let everyone you meet, however humble, feel that you regard him as a person of importance.

5. Be cheerful. Don't burden or depress those around you by dwelling on your minor aches and pains and small disappointments. Remember, everyone is carrying some kind of a load.

6. Keep an open mind. Discuss but don't argue. It is a mark of a superior mind to be able to disagree without being disagreeable.

7. Let your virtues, if you have any, speak for themselves. Refuse to talk of another's vices. Discourage gossip. It is a waste of valuable time and can be extremely destructive.

8. Be careful of another's feelings. Wit and humor at the other person's expense are rarely worth it and may hurt when least expected.

9. Pay no attention to ill-natured remarks about you. Remember, the person who carried the message may not be the most accurate reporter in the world. Simply live so that nobody will believe them. Disordered nerves and bad digestion are a common cause of backbiting.

10. Don't be too anxious about the credit due you. Do your best and be patient. Forget about yourself and let others "remember." Success is much sweeter that way.

Mayor Ritchie Tells Rotary Of Four Public Service Problems

Four long neglected problems of public service are being seriously addressed by the present Cisco City Council, Mayor Eris Ritchie told the Cisco Rotary Club at its noon luncheon Thursday at the Colony Restaurant.

Foremost of these problems exists in an overloaded sewer system. The second most serious problem, he said, is the quality of the city's water supply, and other two are the need of a modern sewage treatment plant and the improvement of the city's streets.

He warned that a solution to these needs will be long-drawn-out and expensive process but that they must be met and provided for if Cisco is to have a future consistent with its opportunities.

One step toward putting the city on a sounder financial basis was taken by the council shortly after its inauguration as a completely new body in a recall referendum and election last year. That was an increase in the city tax rate the first in half a century. The increase, amounting to about 60 percent, was accomplished after a public hearing and with a minimum of dissension. It has given the city more of the necessary funds to operate and improve its services.

He warned that with the effectiveness of the new state-mandated system of property evaluation this year - a system which bases evaluation for tax purposes on market values and is mandatory upon all state taxing authorities - will mean that many property taxpayers whose renditions have been consistently low may find themselves paying yet more taxes, while others will have their levies reduced. He explained that the city cannot collect more in taxes under the new system, and the effect will be an equalization rather than a general increase.

In attacking the sewer problem, he explained, the city has planned and is now considering means of financing a 10-inch line to serve the western part of the city where housing and business growth in the past few years have caused serious difficulties in handling the volume of sewage. This project alone is estimated to cost about $150,000 and the Council is in prospect of a source of financing it on a revenue basis. If successful it will mean about $1.50 per month added to the sewer charge on the monthly city utilities bill, he explained.

This project does not include the general overhaul of the city system for which plans are yet to be made.

The quality of the city's water as served its customers is unacceptable, Ritchie said. "I have heard it said that we are the only city in Texas which serves unfiltered surface water to its citizens. It is just like taking a glass of water out of the lake and treating it with a few chemicals. It is fortunate that we have had no health problems of a serious character."

He said that Cisco must have a filtration plant to conform to accepted standards of water purity. It is a project that would cost $1 million, possibly a million and a half dollars, he estimated. The entire distribution system must also be remodeled, he explained. "There are few loops, and a lot of dead ends," he said.

Another and almost as serious problem is the proper treatment of city's sewage, involving an additional $600,000 or so of expenditure.

The Council is hopeful of assistance through the Federal Home Administration in the funding of these projects. It anticipates making a submission of an overall plan to the citizens for their approval or disapproval when plans are completed and a method of financing arrived at.

"It will be up to them," he said.

One of the most serious difficulties which the city faces is the lack of credit in the bond market because of Cisco's record of default in the Depression period, he admitted. Other means of obtaining funds for the necessary improvements must be found, he indicated.

The street situation, in which most the community thoroughfares are unpaved and many, even the paved streets, are in bad condition, will be met through the use of increased municipal tax revenues, under the Council's present plans, he said. He suggested that the improvement would be a gradual process.

He paid tribute to the harmonious way in which the Council is functioning. "We have our differences," he said, "but they are being handled in a gentlemanly way."

He, himself, he said, had entered upon a job that he did not want and had had no experience in, with considerable reluctance and small confidence. With the sudden resignation of the then city manager and the necessity of employing a new manager, all members of the city's governing body faced a serious organizational challenge. But the situation has improved, he said, and there is now much better control. He thought the present city manager, Michael Moore, is doing a good job.

Big Country Art Assoc. Paintings Now In Cisco

During the month of January paintings from the Big Country Art Association, held in Snyder, are on tour and now in Cisco.

The paintings are of the highest quality and have been executed by some of the best artists in the Big Country.

One of the paintings was done by the late John Crump, who was teaching a class in Cisco at the time of his death.

You will be enriched when you see this exhibit.

LeFlore To Go Before Grand Jury Tuesday

Charles Allen LeFlore, 20, a native Ciscoan will go before a 91st District Court Grand Jury Tuesday in Eastland. He is being held presently in Eastland County Jail under a $50,000 bond.

LeFlore was charged last Monday with the murder of Debra Garcia, a Cisco convenience store clerk who was abducted Nov. 29th from work and found shot to death two days later. Cisco Justice of the Peace Carlton Holder set the bond.

The suspect gave a four and a half page statement in connection with the incident, and officers are in possession of the .22 caliber pistol, and a 1972 Oldsmobile Cutlass which they believe was the vehicle used in the abduction.

A bouquet of roses from Cisco Library to the unknown donor of 26 adult reader books that suddenly appeared on the Library's doorstep shortly before Christmas, according to the Librarian, Mrs. Mary Bob Leveridge.

Most are current editions and many are labeled, "Book Club Edition." Among them are: ROOTS by Haley; BLOOD AND MONEY by Thomas Thompson; THE BOURNE IDENTITY by Ludlum; SERPEN-TINE; RANDOM WINDS, and others. Whoever you are - the gift is greatly appreciated.

A new shipment of on-loan books from the Abilene Big Country Library System has arrived. This is one of the services made available through the Texas State Library System. Many of these books are in large print - a special accommodation to readers who may have difficulties with fine print, and, in fact, rather pleasant for any reader.

"Magazine Day," an experimental project by the Library, will have its first day on Saturday afternoon, January 30, regular Library hours of 2 to 5. Available for purchase at very nominal prices will be back issues of such publications as: National Geographic, 1979, 80 and 81 issues; Good Housekeeping; LadyCom; Reader's Digest; Texas Highways; Good Old Days; Prevention; and many others. COME SEE.

The closing prayer was given by Mrs. Wanda Payne. Those attending were Mmes. Betty Green, Barbara Mayberry, Maunia Copeland, Nelda Gary, Wanda Payne and the hostess, Elizabeth Lee.

Also taken in the investigation were statements from some other Cisco persons who stated that the subject had admitted the killing to them.

On Friday of this week, Cisco's acting Chief of Police Raymond Blevins said there was nothing new to report in the case and the Eastland County Sheriff's Department said there have been no more arrests in the case.

LeFlore is on probation for burglary according to District Attorney Emory Walton. He was given a five-year probation term in Callahan County after he pleaded guilty to a March 28, 1980, burglary in Putnam.

Walton said the grand jury may consider capital murder charges since Mrs.

Garcia's death was associated with other felonies - robbery of the store and kidnapping.

A conviction of capital murder carries a maximum penalty in Texas of death by lethal injection; a murder conviction, a maximum penalty of 99 years to life in prison.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

The next time a bid for cooperation is stressed, in any sort of venture, the following illustration might be used to excellent advantage.

A concert is enjoyed only when each musician does his part. Individual renditions when given separately from the over all orchestration, are never as interesting or exciting. In any sort of venture, people working together create a working team similar to a good orchestra. Each player in the symphony is an individual with his specified part to play. Any foul up by the individual detracts from the finished result - or product. Similarly, every worker in a team is important with his own function to perform.

Each player in the symphony has to keep in mind the listener, playing his part so well that the listener can find nothing to criticize. Similarly, each worker in any venture must think of the person who will use his product or service.

ONLY when this is done can each participant have a common joy in a finished product or service . . . Much of today's criticism of service and/or products can be completely avoided if this sort of illustration is remembered - and stressed.

WHERE FAMILIES OF ONE OR MORE ARE WELCOME

What picture comes to mind when you hear the word "family"? Do you see a mother, father, and 2-3 children? What does a family look like?

Every family is unique. There are families with children, some with no children, some are single-parent families, and there are blended families - where a new family is formed from former ones. Part-time families occur when a parent has custody on week-ends or during vacations. Families come in all sizes and in wide variation.

Your family - of one or more - is welcome with us. Though every family has its own specific set of problems and potentials, we all need Christ, His love, and human caring. Let us meet your family this week!

Letters TO THE EDITOR

Editor:

Concerning the article "Texas Lutherans plan Jan. conference on the Holy Spirit" which appeared in the Thursday, January 21, issue of The Cisco Press, the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod and its affiliate congregation in Cisco, Redeemer Lutheran Church, disclaim any and all association with said conference in San Antonio. Such a conference is not "Lutheran in its roots," but is neo-pentecostal in character and an extension of the ancient Gnostic heresies concerning the Person and work of the Holy Spirit which plagued the Church during the first and second centuries after Christ's resurrection.

The Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod and its member congregations believe in the Person of the Holy Spirit and rejoice in His work of bringing sinners to faith in Jesus as Savior and nourishing that faith through God's Word and blessed Sacraments of Holy Baptism and Holy Communion. Lutheran Christians who are faithful to the canonical Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments and who subscribe without reservation to the Lutheran Confessions of 1580 A.D. as correct expositions of the Scriptures do not condone, support, or participate in conferences with neo-pentecostal and/or Gnostic influences.

Will Rogers Memorial

By Viola Payne

Too many times a "Memorial" to a person is built like a mausoleum, and is about as lifeless. Not so with the Will Rogers Memorial at Claremore, Oklahoma, a "must see" spot for Eastland County travelers. (Including the armchair travelers, who have almost as much fun as the other kind). It's not too early in the year to plan a trip up to Claremore and vicinity, about 26 miles N.E. of Tulsa in north-east Oklahoma. Especially since there is plenty of gas - as long as we rake up the $1.35 per gallon. There is even gasohol for sale at the pumps in that part of Oklahoma.

There has always been a lot of interest in Will Rogers in this part of Texas. As recently as 1971 Will Rogers Jr. brought a program about his father to Cisco Junior College, and he had a good turnout of people. It is difficult to define the appeal of Rogers, unless we say he voiced the dreams and frustrations of individuals who try to live in the middle of systems. His combination of disarming clarity in the midst of complications may baffle the psychologists, but it strikes a deep chord with the unsung and unheard.

Anyone who thinks Rogers was a total unsophisticate or dated buffoon has only to catch some of the remarks in the columns he wrote for around 500 newspapers. The penetration of such statements as: "The U.S.

never lost a war or won a conference", or "If we run into trouble 5,000 miles from home we must be looking for it!" have scarcely been excelled. For in his later years Rogers was more of a statesman, radio commentator and columnist than an entertainer.

The place where Will Rogers was born, in 1879, where the Verdigris River comes out of the plains, lies only twelve miles from where he and his wife, Betty, and a child are buried - in a beautiful garden behind the Memorial above Claremore. His old home, like the large stone Memorial building, is open to the public and costs nothing to enter. The white log and frame ranch house looks familiar and inviting. It has actual furnishings from the Rogers family, even to family dishes in the cupboards, and handmade quilts on the beds. The house seems waiting for familiar steps in the hall, waiting for those who will never return.

The Memorial reflects what Rogers's life became after he left the home place - a huge but still inviting ranch-type building full of splendid things he accumulated, or mementoes of exciting events in his life.

Both are in what Rogers called "bed rock country" - an area which meant total reality to him. Perhaps he always felt he was off somewhere playacting, even when he became wealthy and highly successful. (Two things which are not always synonymous). Somehow he always expected the whole of his life away from Claremore - all except his wife, Betty, and the children - to go up in a puff of smoke.

"Some time they're going to find out the truth about Old Will," he often chuckled, "And I'll have to make a run for it!"

His "run" was slated to end right in Claremore, on the grounds where the Memorial is now located. That was land he bought in the early years of his retirement. After his death in the Alaskan air crash, in 1935, his family gave the property to the State and the State of Oklahoma constructed the Memorial.

Old neighbors, as well as Will, expected the high-spirited country boy to leave his make-believe world. Once a ranch neighbor happened to be in a mid-western city, and caught a Vaudville show starring Will. When he returned home, the local people asked him:

"What's Will doing?"
"Oh, he's acting a fool, same as he always did around here," the rancher replied. "But there, he gets paid for it!"

Up the road from Will's birthplace is a settlement with an unusual name.

"Only an Indian can say 'Oolagah'," Will Rogers once commented on the little town near the Verdigris. He should have known, for he was part Indian, inheriting the main part of the Cherokee blood from his Mother.

"When I was born," Will once explained, "It was at our old ranch twelve miles north of Claremore. It was a big two-story log house, but on the back we had three rooms made of frame. Just before my birth my mother, being in one of those frame rooms, had them remove her into the log part of the house. She wanted me to be born in a log house. She had just read the life of Lincoln. So I got the log house end of it O.K. All I needed now is the other qualifications."

In spite of the house being part log, it was an elegant place for its day. Called "The White House" because of its two-story columns and paint, the Rogers ranch home offered hospitality to a flow of guests. Will's father, Clem, had large ranching operations extending from the Caney River to the Verdigris, covering around 60,000 acres. A large blue lake now fills much of the valley where Will rode as a child.

His father taught him to work in all parts of the ranching including roping and branding. He expected to toughen Will for ranch life in Indian territory, yet also educate him.

But Will, a restless boy, was in and out of school - with a little dose of College - until age 17, when ran away to see what ranch life was like in Texas. At age 19, to please his father, Will returned to manage the old home ranch. But by that time his Mother was dead and things were quite different around the place. Travel, too, had a magnetic pull. So the disappointed father finally agreed to let Will "ride his own horse", and go his own way.

Clem Rogers remarried and became a banker in Claremore, and the ranch was leased out. Upon his father's death, in 1911, Will purchased his sister's share of the estate. In 1927 he hired a nephew to be ranch foreman. The ranch home was then restored, and the ranch rebuilt on a smaller scale.

The famous "dog iron" Rogers brand is now reserved to the state of Oklahoma for historical purposes, with the exception of use by blood relatives.

Sunday, January 24, 1982

battled through the depression on a dry-land cotton farm in western Texas. His earthy wit and wisdom cheered them - and if anyone ever needed some cheering up, it was the dry-land cotton farmers. (They still do, in fact).

He fortified the idea that the "real folks" - those who were generous, courageous and good humored - would somehow endure. And he typified what my father always declared to the family:

"Don't you ever judge a man by outside appearances! What a person wears and the amount of money he has is not the most important thing about him. His character - what he is like inside - that is what's important!"

So I was revisiting part of my own heritage - finding it in an unexpected place like this Memorial.

The Lowly Cockroach

Gordon Woolam
Almost everyone had encountered one of these disgusting little creatures at one time or another. They can be unwelcome guests even in the cleanest of homes. Cockroaches are flattened, fast-running, nocturnal (night) insects that seek warm, moist, secluded areas. They are among the most important of the household pests. Cockroaches are also known to cause severe injury to plants and their fruits.

Most cockroaches are tropical or sub-tropical in origin and generally live outdoors. However, some species have become well-adapted to living with man. Though it is true that dirt, filth and grime are what they like best, roaches at times infest even the most sanitary and well organized homes and buildings.

Although they may bear names such as "German" or "American" cockroach, all domestic roaches originated in north or tropical Africa. The world-wide distribution of the domestic cockroaches was made possible by their ability to infest various means of transportation, especially ships.

Cockroaches bred within the home, sharing with man his food, water, shelter and warmth and therefore active throughout the year. They consume any human or animal food or beverage, as well as dead animal and plant materials, leather, glue, hair, wallpaper, fabrics and the starch in bookbindings. They contaminate food, especially with organisms which cause food poisoning.

Good housekeeping and taking precautions to prevent the invasion of cockroaches into a home or building works better than applying insecticides to control an established population. However sometimes chemical control becomes necessary. To effectively control roaches with insecticides, it is necessary to inspect closely for their shelters and thoroughly treat these areas. Regardless of the insecticide used, chemicals placed in or near regular hiding places will provide better control than those places only occasionally visited.

Present methods of insecticidal control generally provide temporary control. Since some roaches invade homes and buildings from outside, reinfestation can occur once the insecticide has broken down. Therefore outdoor populations must also be controlled.

There are three basic insecticide formulations used to control roaches: residual sprays, dusts and baits. Residual sprays are applied to cracks, crevices, baseboards and other runways and hiding places. Dusts which generally have longer residual action than sprays are most often used as a supplemental treatment. Baits are usually long lasting and often can be applied to areas that cannot be effective sprayed or dusted.

Some of the more commonly used insecticides for control of cockroaches are Baygon, Carbaryl, Diazinon, Dursban and Malathion. Always read and follow carefully instructions on the product label. Always use extreme caution when applying insecticides near foodstuffs or areas of food preparation.

Homemaking Hints

THE CARE AND CLEANING OF OLD QUILTS

There has been much interest in old quilts. They often record family history and provide a link to the past. It doesn't matter if you inherited yours or purchased it at a flea market, yard sale, etc. Plan to use your quilt(s) in your home for that special touch. Many magazines have articles on room settings that feature old quilts.

Quilts are perishable. You should care for a quilt so it will survive to enrich future generations. How fragile is an old quilt? This will depend on the materials used and the conditions under which the quilt was used and stored.

Very old, fragile or valuable quilts, or those containing many kinds of yarn and fabrics should be cleaned in the home. If you're in doubt, don't clean it. Contact a professional textile conservator and restorer to clean and restore your quilt. Remember - Improper cleaning can permanently damage your quilt.

Each quilt needs special care. Professionals don't always agree on the best methods for the care and cleaning of quilts. The following are some general rules.

VACUUMING - Remove airborne dirt and dust by vacuuming the quilt. This is done by laying the quilt on a smooth, flat surface. Cover it with a piece of fiberglass screen (purchase at hardware stores). This prevents it from being sucked in the vacuum cleaner. Using low suction, pass a hand vacuum cleaner above the screening. Continue cleaning sections until the entire quilt is vacuumed. Repeat the procedure for the other side. This may be the only type of cleaning possible if the fabric dye is not fast.

IDENTIFYING FABRICS - Old quilts are made of cotton, linen, wool, silk or a combination of these. You can usually identify a fabric by its feel. However, use the burn test if you're not sure.

Snip a thread from a hidden area. Light it with a match. Cotton burns quickly and smells like paper. Wool will smolder and has an unpleasant odor.

Generally, woolen and silken quilts should be dry cleaned. Cotton and linen quilts can be dry cleaned or laundered. Only sturdy cotton and/or linen quilts should be laundered at home.

TESTING DYES - Before wet cleaning any type of cotton or linen quilt, all the dyes must be tested to see if they are fast. This is done by putting a drop of water (use an eye dropper) on an inconspicuous area of the quilt. The solution should penetrate the fibers. Then press the damp area with a white blotter. Continue testing each different color. Repeat the process for any cleaning solution you plan to use.

If color is transferred to the blotter, don't wet clean it. Have it dry cleaned by a cleaner that is willing to test each color with each solution he will be using.

If the blotter is white, continue with the cleaning.

HAND WASHING - (a) Lay the quilt in the bath tub in accordian folds. Soak it in cool water for 4-6 hours. It is best to use distilled water. However, since this isn't available to most people, use tap water. Check the quilt every hour or so. If the water becomes yellow, drain and refill the tub with fresh water. You'll be surprised at how much yellowing and Machine dry on a gentle cycle.

Next week I will continue this column on quilts and discuss removing stains in old quilts, proper drying, and storage of your quilts.

RECIPE FOR THE WEEK
Prune Cake
2 cups flour, sifted
1 1/2 cups sugar
1 teaspoon soda

oder can be removed with just water. If you are pleased with the results, dry the quilt. If not, continue with (b).

(b) It may be necessary to wash the quilt with a powdered soap, mild liquid detergent or special cleaner. Don't use heavy duty detergents. Add the cleaner to the tub as it fills with warm water so it dissolves before adding the quilt. Soak the quilt 4-6 hours or overnight.

When the quilt appears clean, drain out the water. Refill the tub with warm water. Rinse the quilt and drain out the water. This should be done at least 7 times or until the rinse water is clear of soap residue.

MACHINE WASHING - You shouldn't machine wash an old, valuable quilt. However, this method might be used for quilts that are new, sturdy or not valuable. For added protection, put the quilt in a white nylon mesh before washing.

The same cleaners used for hand washing can be used for machine washing. Let the quilt soak in the machine tub. From time to time agitate the quilt for a few minutes on a gentle cycle. When clean, rinse the quilt thoroughly until the water is clear.

GORDON SPOT

by DeMarquis Gordon

The next three or four weeks will be a good time to prune fruit trees, nut trees and ornamentals.

Most people are horrified at the thought of pruning their first trees and vines. However, pruning is important for a number of reasons.

First, pruning promotes large, well-flavored fruit. A plant has a certain capacity for production. Through proper pruning techniques it can concentrate all available nutrients into fewer fruit, yielding large and juicy products.

Another advantage of pruning is to enable a plant to develop a proper framework which can support more evenly distributed fruit. This will prevent tree breakage when fruit matures.

The most overlooked, and possibly most important aspect of pruning, is the modification of growth conditions. If a tree is allowed to over produce, a smaller amount of shoot growth and nutrient storage occurs the next year.

I believe February or even early March is a good time to prune. It is best to prune after most of the winter freezes are over, but before spring.

Prune young fruit trees to develop and open center system. To do this, select three limbs radiating in 120 degree angles from the uppermost part of the trunk in primary scaffold branches. The lowest scaffold branch should be 18 inches from the ground level and pointing southwest to shade the trunk from intense sunlight. Leave enough trunk space so there are 8 to 12 inches of trunk between primary scaffold branches. If all these branches emerge from the trunk near the same location, the trunk may split from a heavy fruit crop.

Form secondary branchings by cutting the main scaffolds 20 to 30 inches from their juncture with the trunk. After second branching is formed, light pruning will cause new growth which will bear most of the fruit.

Once the main branch system is established, subsequent pruning includes cutting back tall shoots, keeping the tree's center open, and removing suckers, watersprouts, dead or diseased branches, and rubbing or shading branches. Do not allow the tree to grow higher than 8 feet.

Remember, no new growth equals no fruit, and pruning stimulates new growth.

The Eastland County Livestock Show is coming up in March. Members of the stock show committee are busy selling ads for the stockshow catalogue. This is the method used to raise money to pay expenses of the show.

This money goes to the county youth in premiums, ribbons, and awards. We hope you will help support the county stockshow by purchasing ads in the catalogue. Money is also being raised to complete the new show barn. The new barn will help to have a better show for both the exhibitors and spectators.

Lights from the Christian World

By Josephine Cleveland
A shopkeeper placed a price tag on his Christmas trees before the Christmas season. The day after the season ended he removed the tags and carried them away to be destroyed; for the season was over and they were now worthless.

Ecclesiastes, the ancient teacher wrote, "To everything there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven."

Friend, you must deal with Time. What are you doing with it? There will come an end to Time and then it will be eternity.

Jesus said, "Therefore keep watch because you do not know on what day your Lord will come. So you also must be ready because the Son of Man will come at an hour when you do not expect him." -Matthew 24:42.

Let your life carry the price tag paid by Christ; for He purchased your salvation with His blood. Now is the day of salvation. Now is the accepted time.

What joy to hear His words, "Well done, my good and faithful servant. Enter into the joy of your Lord."

THE REST OF THE GOSPEL

Satan's main purpose is not to get men to commit evil; it is to keep us from returning again to be with our Heavenly Father. Satan doesn't care how he does it as long as he can deceive us about God. Ever ask yourself, why, if Jesus authorized only His church, are there so many churches? There can only be one true church. No matter if you are a perfect being, if he can deceive you into going to the wrong church then you will not go to be with God. If Satan can get you to persecute and deny the true church, then he has won. If he can get you to deny God's powers in these latter days, then he has won. If he can deceive you into saying it doesn't matter which church you go to, then he has won. The Rest of the Gospel, P.O. Box 763, Cisco, Texas 76437. p-9

Senator
Lloyd Bentsen

Watching Washington

If "push comes to shove," I'll fight hard to prevent states in the Northeast and Midwest from denying Texas its fair share of a shrinking federal budget.

It is important to insure that the people of our state are not asked to do more than their fair share as spending on federal programs is reduced further.

We've got to make maximum effective use of the resources available to us. And, when you're slicing up a smaller pie, it becomes important to see that it is fairly divided. We must make an extra effort to end a petty, grasping regionalism that can divide this country.

There is no question that those of us in the Sunbelt are enjoying a period of prosperity in comparison with some other regions of the country. But our prosperity is not something to apologize for. It has been a long time coming and it has been hard earned.

What bothers me is the way the Frostbelt states of the Northeast and Midwest have banded together in a coalition, with a paid staff, to try and win a greater share of federal expenditures for their areas.

Their primary weapon in Congress is a campaign to change formulas for allocating federal funds to their advantage, and they have enjoyed some success in the past.

It's not right that a state like Texas should be penalized for its prosperity. In many respects we're already down at the bottom of the totem pole when it comes to benefits from federal programs.

We receive less than $24 per resident in Revenue Sharing funds, while the national average is $27. There is only one state in the nation—Indiana—that collected less than Texas in total federal aid during 1980.

No, no one can honestly suggest that Texas is benefiting unfairly from federal spending programs.

We're certainly not going to sit back and let other regions reduce even more our share of a shrinking federal budget by changing allocation formulas.

In the weeks and months ahead there will be further cuts in the federal budget. Even though this past year the biggest spending cuts in history were approved by Congress, we must work for additional cuts in the budget.

I'll be supporting efforts to make more spending reductions. But I'll also be working—and working hard—to insure that these cuts treat all regions of this country, all citizens of this country, fairly and equitably.

Guest Slot

Some columns have pointed out some of the frustrations of editing a newspaper in a small city.

Be assured, however, that being a newspaper editor is a rewarding, challenging and entertaining job.

On a newspaper, no two days are ever alike. Every morning you start fresh, searching through a million or so words trying to find the right combinations to fill up the pages.

In other professions you can have a bad day and no one knows about it. On a newspaper, you transcribe two letters and thousands of people notice.

But today I'd like to mention the little things that make the job worthwhile each day. Here are some of them:

- Thumbing through one of the first copies off the press, knowing that somehow another day's paper is done.

- Finding a map, design or drawing we'll be able to use some day and mentally tucking it away for the day we'll need it.

- Seeing any photograph that catches a special, unexpected facial expression.

- Getting an unsolicited compliment at an unexpected moment, just when you were down in the dumps.

- Listening to any political speech shorter than 15 minutes.

- Going to amateur theater and being pleasantly surprised.

- Coming back from an important event or controversial meeting and knowing that hundreds of people will be waiting to read what you will write about it.

- Eating warm cookies after a cold Friday night football game.

- Walking past people at the market as they pay their 25 cents for the paper.

- Writing the weekend weather report with the firm assurance that sunshine is on its way.

- Running into one of our paperboys. I was a paperboy once. Delivered as many as 100 copies per day.

- Receiving a release that's neatly typed and doubled spaced.

- Following an election that's going down to the last precinct.

- Waiting for the jury to come in with the verdict in an important case.

- Speaking to a roomful of students on any subject.

- Demonstrating our computers to a bunch of wide-eyed youths.

- Designing a page and having it turn out just the way you intended.

- Walking down the street and having a child stop you with the ever-present phrase "take my picture."

- Laying out a page or half-page of photographs.

- Getting a story tip from a reader that turns out to be a good one.

- Watching a photograph appear, like magic, in the developing tray.

- Being able to hire someone for his or her first job.

- Having something turn out to be even better than the mounds of advance publicity you've given it.

- Walking home at night with a paper in my briefcase, knowing all the copy is up, all the advance pages have been laid out and all the phone calls have been returned.

Phil Angelo, managing editor of the Urbana (Ohio) Daily Citizen, writes a regular column explaining his paper's policies to his readers. He is vice president of the Blue Pencil Club, an Ohio society of editors and reporters.

Property owners must pay taxes by Jan. 31

AUSTIN—An important deadline occurs this month for property owners in Texas.

Kenneth Graeber, executive director of the State Property Tax Board, today reminded Texans that local property taxes assessed for 1981 by cities, counties, school districts and special districts must be paid by the end of January.

"Taxes not paid before February 1 are delinquent and penalty and interest begin to accrue," Graeber said.

The state tax administrator noted that delinquent 1981 taxes will incur a 6 percent penalty and 1 percent interest charge on February 1.

Combined penalty and interest charges will total 9 percent in March, 11 percent in April, 13 percent in May, and 15 percent in June.

Total penalty and interest on delinquent taxes reaches 18 percent in July, 19 percent in August, 20 percent in September, 21 percent in October, 22 percent in November, and 23 percent in December.

If not paid until January 1983, delinquent 1981 property taxes would be subject to a combined 24 percent penalty and interest charge. And, Graeber noted, the interest would continue to increase by 1 percent per month.

In addition, if a taxing jurisdiction or appraisal district has contracted with a delinquent tax attorney, its governing body may add an additional penalty to any tax delinquent on July 1.

The additional penalty may not exceed 15 percent of the taxes, penalty and interest due.

Graeber pointed out that some home rule cities may have different delinquency dates for 1981 taxes. "The Property Tax Code does not affect a city's delinquency date for its 1981 taxes if the city charter or ordinance provides an earlier delinquency date," he said.

He also noted that if a taxing jurisdiction mailed its 1981 tax bills after January 10, the delinquency date is postponed to the first day of the next month that will provide a period of at least 21 days after the date of mailing for payment of taxes before delinquent.

Taxpayers with questions are encouraged to contact local government tax offices.

Maranatha Baptist to host singing

The Maranatha Baptist Church, 2 miles West of Eastland on U.S. 80, will be hosting the "Fifth Saturday Gospel Singing". The fifth Saturday will be on January 30th.

Everyone is welcome to come and sing praises to our Lord as well as enjoy listening to the many beautiful songs. We have much local talent and therefore we DO NOT have any one special group present. There are many from surrounding areas who are known for their special talents and all are welcome to sing. Some have songs of their own, some play guitars, some play piano, but all are present to praise our risen Lord who is coming again.

January 30th, 7:30 p.m. The country church by the side of the road.

Tax Loopholes

President Reagan would do the nation a favor, and raise billions in needed revenues, by proposing to end tax loopholes not addressed in the 1981 law lowering personal income taxes.

The reason these loopholes were not addressed last year is that it would have cost supporters of the new law votes needed for passage. A bill aimed only at tax loopholes might find the necessary support in Congress—if Reagan makes clear to the American people the choice and publicizes his efforts sufficiently.

Mr. Reagan, in a separate effort, should also send legislation to the Hill which would change the present system of semi-annual cost-of-living hikes to employees and other federal check recipients to annual adjustments (Economists have estimated this would save $20 billion and slow inflation).

This proposal, also, is sure to find opposition in Congress. But the president should make the fight, even if he doesn't succeed this year, and again in 1983 if necessary. There is also an unchecked growth in many federal entitlement programs. This too should be brought under control.

These changes, plus perhaps new taxes, would do much to prevent huge budget deficits being predicted, and strangely enough, being accepted by Mr. Reagan. If he doesn't reduce them, he isn't likely to be reelected in 1984.

Doctor Talk

By Dr. Harold B. Ligon

The thyroid gland, an integral and foremost member of the endocrine system, continues to be the topic of our discussions. Abnormalities, such as too much thyroid activity, too little thyroid activity, and the formation of goiters, have been generally talked about in the last few articles. We still need to bring up one or two remaining thyroid disorders; i.e., thyroiditis (or inflammation of the gland) and tumors.

Today, we'd like to present a general discussion of thyroiditis. Unlike hyperthyroidism, which is caused by too much thyroid hormone production—or hypothyroidism, i.e., too little hormone production, thyroiditis occurs in its most common form as subacute granulomatous thyroiditis, and it's caused by a virus. (There are some other forms of thyroiditis—rare, infrequent, and caused by more complicated phenomena.)

Viral thyroiditis in itself is not very frequently seen in the family physician's office, but it is a thyroid disorder, and we'll discuss it a bit.

Thyroiditis is often caused by the mumps virus and the coxsackie virus (common cold) as a complication of those diseases. Pain in the neck, especially in front, with radiation to the jaws, shoulders, and upper chest is present. The thyroid gland is usually enlarged, firm, and exquisitely tender. Fever is usually present.

Laboratory tests are difficult to assess, and interpretation of lab studies requires much biotechnical skill.

As with all viral infections, antibiotic treatment is usually unsuccessful. The recommended therapy for thyroiditis is aspirin, sometimes cortisone, rest, and patience. After a few weeks there is usually full recovery.

PARENTHOOD GUIDEBOOK

By Nancy Moore Thurmond (author, Mother's Medicine, Pub. by Wm. Morrow, N.Y.)

APPETITE AND WEIGHT LOSS: A healthy baby has a vigorous sucking reflex. One of the first indications that he may not feel well is a loss of appetite and lack of interest in sucking the bottle or breast.

As a general rule, healthy babies gain around one and a half pounds per month from birth to age six months, at which time the weight gain begins to taper off. Weight loss or failure to gain weight usually means a serious medical problem may be in the making.

OVERWEIGHT BABIES: Chubby, roly-poly babies may be cute to look at and a picture of health, but they often have underlying medical problems.

Flabby, fat, listless babies may be overfed and in need of a change in diet. Obesity can be caused by an all-milk diet, if the baby is old enough to be eating solids.

COUGHING AND BREATHING DIFFICULTY: If your baby coughs persistently, appears to be having trouble breathing, wheezes, is gasping for breath, or is breathing at an unusually rapid rate, report it immediately.

A good way to test his breathing is to watch his chest. If it heaves and appears to retract with each breath, and his nose flares, your infant may have an infection or allergy in his lungs or throat which needs prompt medical attention. An expiratory grunt with respiration may mean pneumonia.

In faith and hope the world will disagree, But all mankind's concern is charity.

-Alexander Pope.

OFF THE WALL

I GET A LOT OF REQUESTS WHEN I PLAY MY GUITAR-- BUT I PLAY IT ANYWAY

In spite of high taxes, wars, atomic bombs, and other horrors, life gallops along and young people still fall in love the same old way.

Now that we've had a taste of it, winter doesn't seem all we thought it was-- last summer.

People n Things

HARLINGEN--It is a case you've missed us, we left Cisco on Jan. 10 to escape cold weather. And our efforts in that respect have not been too successful.

A norther blew into Cisco the night before we left. We hitched our travel trailer to the car the night before and the first thing we noticed on Sunday, the 10th, was a flat rear tire on the car. At the 4th service station we visited, the man said "take her loose from the trailer and I'll fix it." He found a screw imbedded in the tire.

We started south and got to Brownwood in time for the Dallas-San Francisco football kick-off at the home of old friends. We spent the night there with the trailer in their yard. And the temperature was nine degrees Monday morning.

We headed south again on Jan. 11th and arrived soon after lunch at San Marcos and a stop in the yard of relatives. Next morning, the re was sleet and snow and freezing rain. Ice was half an inch thick on the car and trailer.

By mid-morning on the 12th, we decided to head south again as more freezing rain was forecast. And trucks and cars were moving on the highway. In an hour or two after leaving San Marcos, we got out of the ice belt and drove on to Corpus Christi for the night.

A new cold front with light rain arrived there during the night and we drove on south to the valley next morning in light drizzle and high winds (tail wind) most of the way to Harlingen.

WE CHECKED IN at a travel trailer four-day convention on Jan. 13th. Some 850 trailers from throughout the USA were parked on the Harlingen Fiesta Park (community center area) for the affair. The program was real interesting. Top entertainment features were a group of valley young folks who stage Mexican folklorico-type dances and routines, a C&W band that had a few numbers that sounded somewhat like music, a Miss America runner-up with a good voice and a ventriloquist routine, a man and his organ that delighted everyone, an orange juice party staged by the Harlingen CofC, and an assortment of programs and activities of interest.

AS THE TRAVEL trailer meeting ended Jan. 17th, the trailers began moving out. Some headed back home and others went to trailer parks throughout the valley to enjoy sunshine and recreation while northern neighbors continued to shiver.

Temperatures have been 28 to 30 a couple of times since we've been here but, so far, the fruit crop hasn't been damaged. Some of the vegetables, including tomatoes and cabbage, have suffered. Oranges and grapefruit that you buy at the orchards here seems to have a lot better taste than fruit you buy in the grocery stores.

As usual this time of year, the valley is full of trailers and folks from the northern states and Canada -- Winter Texans, they are called. They have the longest lines you ever saw when you go to a cafeteria at meal time.

The valley's business economy is good, we're told, due in a big part to the winter visitors. The high price of gasoline hasn't stopped the big winter crowds.

AS THE WEATHER warms (and it's supposed to), we plan to get out into the sunshine to visit the golf courses, walk in the sand at nearby Padre Island and, maybe, make a foray or two into the Mexico border towns for a bit of sight-seeing. Will report later.

The van was on the north service road of Interstate 20 at the western edge of Cisco, and was attempting to make a left turn, according to DPS trooper Steve Foster who investigated the accident with Trooper Rusty Condry. Ms. Downing received a broken arm and other injuries and Ms. Whitson had a broken leg.

Following the recital of the club creed and a prayer, the meeting was opened with roll call response by ten members present -- "My Favorite Home Appliance." Two new members, Mrs. Lynda Beebe and Mrs. Ardythe Caldwell, were introduced.

A brief business followed. A very interesting and informative program was presented by Mrs. Janet Thomas, the Eastland County Extension Agent. She discussed how future new large appliances will be built to conserve energy; also Energy Costs, Energy Efficiency Rating Guides, and Generics.
