

Hall Of Remarks

by Herrel Hallmark

IF YOU MISSED the drug program sponsored by the Cisco P-TO here Monday night, you missed a very informative and interesting talk. The speaker was Marilyn Golightly of San Angelo.

Mrs. Golightly related that she had been teaching 4-year olds in San Angelo when she learned that at least three of these children were getting marijuana at least two times a week. She said she was literally "kicked out" of her classroom because she was needed on the road speaking of the drug problems in Texas to concerned parents and teachers.

She said Texas is a center for illegal drugs to enter into the United States because of its proximity to Mexico and its large coastline. She stated there are approximately 50 flights a night into Texas of illegal drugs. She also stated two out of every three kilos of heroin in the United States comes through Texas.

Drug pushers are using more and more items which look cute to small children so they will be tempted to have those things and not be afraid of what is inside. According to Mrs. Golightly, small children receive marijuana free for the first few times they use it.

The average age in Texas for young people to start smoking pot is eleven years old. Eleven percent of American high school seniors are daily users of marijuana.

Mrs. Golightly said there have been 7,000 researches conducted on the use of marijuana and not one has given it an absolutely "clean bill of health."

Different types of power-hitters were displayed at the meeting and Mrs. Golightly stated that one night of using a power-hitter was equivalent to two years of smoking two packs of regular tobacco cigarettes a day.

An interesting statement concerned the use of marijuana ten years ago by "hippies" on campus. She stated marijuana is now a highly cultivated plant which is 22 times stronger today than ten years ago; however, today the older college-age students are not the only ones using it. Today the drug business is geared towards the younger students.

Five marijuana cigarettes have the same cancer causing capability in the lungs as 112 tobacco cigarettes, according to recent research figures.

If marijuana is smoked before the age of 18 the growth of the brain is stopped and school subjects, if already difficult, will become even more so. Mrs. Golightly also stated that regular smoking of marijuana shrinks the size of the brain. She said it "kills learning."

She said the best way to control drug use, is to absolutely forbid the usage of drugs by your children. Let them know they will be punished if they fool around with drugs (marijuana) and stick to what you say.

Start parent groups where the parents are aware of who their children spend time with and set up similar rules concerning things which the children enjoy doing. Know where your child is, who they are with and what they are doing.

She said the profile of a family which is least likely to have drug problems is as follows: The family has strong religious convictions; it is a close-knit family; the parents know their children's friends and parents; and there is discipline in the home.

The average length of time before parents realize there is a drug problem in their home is two and a half years.

ALL PARENTS are urged to learn more about the drug problems in Texas and in Cisco. There is a lot of peer pressure on young people in this day and time to use drugs so they can be accepted by their friends.

Talk to your children and let them know how you stand in the use of drugs and what the consequences will be if they use any type of drugs while living in your home.

Cisco Historical Society Holds Annual Meeting In Bank Room

On February 15, 1982, the Cisco Historical Society held its annual meeting at the Community Room of First National Bank, presided over by Joe Wheatley. Following routine business, reports were given by John Muller indicating that there had been a large turnover of personnel at the State Historical Society, with a new resource person in charge of the Cisco project. At the present time there are still no Federal guidelines regarding participation in a Historical District. Dr. Rino Petri and Mr. Peter Maxson, our new representative in Austin were due to be in Cisco on February 17 to review the proposed District.

The treasurer, O.L. Robinson reported that the outstanding debt to Dr. Petri had been paid by a small amount of contributors: the Chief Browns, Tommy Popes, Joe Wheatleys, Ayres Cermins, Allen McGinnesses, Billy Wrights, Winston Heidenheimers, Mrs. Flora Mae Lee, Mrs. Polly Wright and First National Bank in Cisco.

A site for the Bacon log cabin to be moved into town was discussed, and no action was taken pending outcome of the Historical District Project, and actual con-

Member Of Cong.

Stenholm's Staff

Due Here March 4

A member of Congressman Charles Stenholm's district staff will be in Cisco on Thursday, March 4. He will be the Chamber of Commerce office from 2:00 to 4:00 p.m.

In announcing plans for regular visits by members of his staff, Congressman Stenholm said that this part of an effort to do a better job in serving the people of the 17th Congressional District.

"With thirty-five counties to represent and help in any way I can, I believe this will be a valuable means of access to my office," Stenholm said.

Anyone with a problem or desiring to have direct communication with the Congressman is urged to take advantage of this opportunity.

struction on the Hilton Project.

New officers elected for the year will be Dr. Chief Brown, president; John Muller, vice president; Jo Ann Cermin, secretary; O.L. Robinson, treasurer; Wes Valek, curator-historian; Joe Wheatley, director (3 year term); Barbara Pope, 2 year term; Kitty McCracken, one year term.

Discussion was held concerning the Community's confusing the activities of the Historical Society with those of the Hilton Project. Several members felt that dues should be assessed in order to clarify membership, and steps were taken to draw up an amendment to that effect.

Concern was expressed over the need to emphasize to property holders in the Historical District the need to maintain the character of the buildings. Information is available regarding the proper restoration techniques for community members who are interested in participating.

REST OF THE GOSPEL

The body is nothing more than a flesh and blood container that houses our spirit. When we die our spirit goes to the spirit world to await the resurrection. This is the same spirit world that Jesus' spirit went to when His body lay in the tomb for three days. According to I Peter 3:19 and 4:6 Jesus went to preach the gospel to the spirits of all the dead. Jesus fully expects the spirits of the dead to abide by the gospel or He would not have gone personally to give it to them. But how can spirits abide by all the gospel, such as baptism, which is absolutely necessary for everyone who has ever lived. John 3:5; I Corinthians 15:29 is the inspired answer given by the Apostle Paul. The Rest of the Gospel, P.O. Box 763, Cisco, Texas 76437. p-17

Smokeless Doesn't Mean Harmless

COLLEGE STATION-- "Snuff dippers" and "tobacco chewers" - the smokeless tobacco fad has become increasingly popular among children and young adults, says Dr. Mary Ann Shirer, a health education specialist.

But just because it's "smokeless" doesn't mean it's harmless, the specialist warns.

Shirer is with the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Tobacco and its by-products - used in snuff and chewing tobacco - are extremely irritating to the mouth's sensitive tissues, she says.

A dipper's or chewer's mouth may show signs of "leukoplakia," wrinkled, thickened and white leathery areas inside the mouth.

About six percent of persons with leukoplakia develop oral cancer, Shirer remarks.

TOOTH PROBLEMS

Not only does tobacco cause tissue irritation, but chewers and dippers tend to have greater tooth wear than non-users, the specialist notes.

The gums tend to recede in areas where tobacco is held, as between the lower lip and gum, she explains.

Consequently, bare roots caused from receded gums become more susceptible to decay and are more sensitive to heat, cold, air, certain food and chemicals, Shirer says.

Also, tobacco that has been sweetened may increase tooth decay, she adds.

Tobacco juices also contains hundreds of chemicals which may delay wound healing, especially when a tooth has been pulled or oral surgery has taken place, the specialist reports.

Tobacco products decrease the user's ability to taste and smell bitter, salty and sweet foods. Dippers and chewers use more salt on their food. Additional sugar also may be required. Excessive salt contributes to abnormal blood pressure and kidney disease.

NICOTINE BOOST

Tobacco juices as well as smoke contain a harmful substance - nicotine - which may be habit-forming, Shirer warns.

Nicotine is readily absorbed through the lining of the mouth and has a direct effect on the nervous system.

This habit-forming stimulant first causes its users to become stimulated and excited, but later they may feel depressed and let down.

To keep this "lifted" sensation, a person with the nicotine habit needs a "booster" every 20 to 30 minutes, the specialist explains.

Nicotine can also affect the heart and other parts of the circulatory system, she says.

As nicotine enters the bloodstream, the arteries constrict and become smaller, the blood platelets clot and the heartbeat rate increases.

Consequently, blood pressure may rise and this increases the risk of strokes and heart attacks, the specialist warns.

Recruit Busy People For Volunteers

COLLEGE STATION—If you need volunteer help for your group, agency or association, search out busy, dedicated people—they usually make the best volunteer leaders.

"Volunteers play a key role in the success of many organizations and groups," notes Dr. Lanny Bullard, 4-H and youth specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. "PTAs, civic groups, social agencies and youth organizations such as 4-H depend heavily on volunteer leaders for the success they enjoy."

Getting the type of volunteers an organization needs to accomplish its goals and objectives requires careful attention to recruitment, emphasizes the specialist.

"Recruiting can never be a mass enterprise—it must be highly specialized and detailed," says Bullard. "Each person is an individual and must be treated as someone special. Facts about individuals, such as their special interests, abilities and skills, are essential in the recruitment process."

To centralize recruiting, assign names of potential volunteers to the membership committee and others in the organization with similar personal interests, suggests the 4-H and youth specialist. For instance, it's best for a recruiter to work in his own neighborhood, social circle or business firm where he has prestige and influence. Also, recruiters with interests similar to those of potential volunteers should make those contacts.

Bullard advocates the personal approach in contacting potential volunteers. "No method has ever been more effective than face-to-face contact," Bullard points out. "Your personal conviction and enthusiasm about your organization is evident in the tone of your voice, your facial expression and your choice of words. Thus a personal interview is a recruiting must."

To find prospective volunteers, recruiters can turn to various community resources, including directories, voting lists, chambers of commerce, churches, alumni groups, existing organizations and clubs, and listings of new residents.

"As a recruiter, be sure you are familiar with your organization's policies toward volunteers, what kind of people are to be approached and what the organization requires of them," suggests Bullard. "Remember that good volunteers are developed, not born."

"If, for example, you need more young people, you might concentrate on alumni lists, young marrieds known to business or real estate firms, or parents of kindergarten children. If you want those interested in civic affairs, you need to turn to voting lists, public affairs groups or subscribers to certain magazines and newspapers," notes Bullard. "And if you're seeking supporters for a cultural program, you might turn to a list of library card holders, college alumni, recently retired businessmen, or participants in arts and crafts fairs of exhibits."

"Of course, the best resource of all for finding volunteers is the present membership of your organization," he says. "A satisfied member is the best advertisement."

CAPITOL UPDATE

John Tower
 U.S. SENATOR for TEXAS
 142 RUSSELL OFFICE BUILDING
 WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

The increasing productivity of American farmers is one of the greatest success stories of the 20th century. This phenomenon has been made possible not only by improved technology, but also by the ever-increasing skill of our farmers.

Farming today is both a business and a precise science. Today's farmer is an expert in meteorology, soil sciences, marketing, finance, and even computers.

The Future Farmers of America have played an important part in developing today's cadre of skilled farmers. We observe National FFA Week February 20-27, a good opportunity for all of us who enjoy the bounty of the farmer's labor to pause to consider his contribution to our lives and our nation's economy.

For 55 years, FFA has helped prepare young men and women for careers in the industry of agriculture. I am proud to be the first member of the U.S. Senate to become a life member of the National FFA Alumni Association.

This vocational student organization has given us producers and suppliers of agriculture products, community and business leaders, and government representatives at all levels. Currently, the organization includes nearly 500,000 students in 8,000 schools throughout the U.S. These young people are learning to be good citizens as well as productive agri-business leaders.

FFA Week coincides with the birthdate of George Washington, a fine agriculturalist as well as a primary shaper of our nation. Farming was the mainstay of early America, and continues to be our most basic industry. We are the best-fed nation in the history of the world. Our farmers also supply much of the rest of the world with basic agricultural commodities -- and in the process make a major contribution to the U.S. balance of payments.

Texas plays a particularly crucial role in American agriculture. Our state ranks third in cash receipts for overall agricultural production. We produce in some quantity virtually every agricultural product that is found within the continental United States. We rank first in upland cotton production, first in sorghum grain production, first in wool production, first in cattle feed, and high on the list for a host of other products.

Texas owes much of its prosperity to its farmers. Thus, it is particularly fitting that we recognize the young men and women in FFA who are about to embark on careers in agriculture.

This is a trying time for the agricultural industry. Costs are rising; markets are uncertain, and high interest rates impose heavy burdens. But the need for dedicated, competent farmers is greater than ever before. I am proud of the young Texans who are working to make farming more productive, and who are willing to commit themselves to a career in this vital industry.

DIAGNOSIS: WORKAHOLIC

Allan R. Magie, Ph.D., M.P.H.

The expression is good for a laugh: "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." But have you ever stopped to think that the warning is worth considering seriously?

We are an achievement-oriented society. "Keeping up with the Joneses" is more than just a cliché. In order to achieve a position, reach a goal, or obtain material rewards we often push ourselves relentlessly. Working from dawn to dusk becomes routine. Relationships are neglected. Communication breaks down. We lose touch with the real meaning of life.

Of course we tend to associate the workaholic image with the harried executive who seldom is home when his children are awake—he is up before dawn, gulps down a quick breakfast, gives his wife a hurried kiss, and rushes off to another busy day.

But what about you? You don't even have to be employed—much less be an executive—to qualify as a workaholic.

Being a workaholic means you feel you must be accomplishing something every moment of the day. Ask yourself: Do you try to accomplish two things at the same time—like talking on the telephone while cooking, shuffling through mail, or paying the bills? Do you check for the mail even before it's due? Do you find yourself going out of the house while your spouse is coming in? Do you leave the car motor running while stopping by a friend's house? Do you take care of business calls when you're supposedly relaxing with your family? Are you always making lists and revising them? Is a visit to the office more important than a family outing?

The Eastland County Poor Farm-Lending To The Lord

By Viola Payne
It has been said that life must be lived forward and understood backward. This is true for nations as well as individuals. So it is worthwhile to reflect on an old landmark like the Eastland County Poor Farm, and try to understand the part it played in society. For this institution was an attempt by the local people to provide for the most needy of this area. And - as quaint as it seems - it did help. For the people who lived there had nowhere else to go.

The main topics of their discussion is how best to care for needy persons. A gigantic change of National Administration Policy called the "New Federalism", in which many welfare programs - and the authority to run them - will go back to the states, dominates the thinking. The Federal cuts in all programs are initially expected to be 11 per cent.

"What's 'new' about it?" Someone asked. "That's the way this country was set up in the first place!"

Most of the Governors have stated general agreement with the idea that Federal expenditures must be cut. They also indicate that state and local government can do a better job of managing many programs. But the actual details - and the question of who is to pay the bills - seems to create confusion.

This Conviction has been treated to the unusual experience of Gov. Bill Clements and Gov. Jerry Brown of California agreeing on a number of issues!

"You can't separate this Federalism from the Federal budget." Both stated today. "An overall plan must be worked out - instead of this piecemeal information!"

In many countries of the world the care of the poor would not be a topic of discussion. Either a person's family cares for him - or he is abandoned to die. But the so-called "Western" world has enough "salting" of the Judeo-Christian tradition to be interested in provision for the weak and unfortunate. This undoubtedly stems from the social principles taught in the Bible, including the ideals of government set up when the Israelites returned to their homeland after Egyptian captivity. While advocating work for all who were physically able, this economy was charitable to the unfortunate. Its principles are expressed by the Proverb which says: "He that hath pity on the poor lendeth to the Lord..."

The amount "loaned" to the Lord has varied during different eras. Provisions are written into the Texas State Constitution concerning care for the indigent. In pioneer Eastland County most families, Churches, Civic Organizations and individuals assumed responsibility along with that of the County officials.

But even these efforts were apparently not enough. Courthouse records relating to the Eastland County "Poor Farm" begin in 1899. At that time the County owned 150 acres of land about one mile south of Eastland, where Highway 6 now goes toward Carbon.

The population of the County was over 17,000 with many farm families. Minutes from a Commissioner's Court meeting state that the County entered into contract with a Mr. Jaco, who was to plant 40 acres of cotton and 20 acres of sorghum and corn on the County Farm. Mr. Jaco was to sell the cotton and pay the county 1/4 of it as rent, and the County's part of feed and corn was to go in cribs and be fed in County livestock - which worked the crops.

Mr. Jaco was to care for the paupers and indigent people on the farm, for which he would be paid (Quarterly) $10.00 per month for each. Presumably the $10.00 was to cover such items as food and clothing.

Various orders concerning the County Farm are recorded afterward. Among other things, money was appropriated to fence the property. Then, in 1906, the County Commissioners decided to sell the 150 acres, setting a ceiling of at least $2,000 on the land. Soon afterward it was sold to J.R. Stubblefield, who purchased the tract for $2,050.00.

For 14 years after the County Judge and Commissioners Court attempted to handle the problems of needy persons by making cash allowances to anyone who would care for an individual in a private home. The amount allowed sounds unreal - $6.00 per person. (Presumably per month.) Obviously the indigent did not live in luxury!

In 1918 a major oil boom hit Eastland County, and the 1920 census shows 58,000 persons living in the County. It is estimated that about 30,000 more were living in tents or drifting in and out, and uncounted by the census takers. But the oil activity was on the way out too, leaving behind old, sick, and displaced workers who couldn't move on.

In 1920 the Commissioner's Court authorized purchase from Mr. John Hart of 40 acres 1/2 miles south of the first "Poor Farm". Then an order was recorded naming the farm the "Eppler Memorial Poor Farm", after W.M. Eppler, a Commissioner from Cisco. Eppler was described as "patriotic and unselfish". A suitable sign or tablet was voted to be encribed with the words "Eppler Memorial" at the Farm, but no record indicates that this was actually done.

A home was built on the Poor Farm for the manager to live in, and another building housed the residents. This structure had a hall down the middle, with dormitory-like rooms on each side. The women lived on one side - the men on the other.

The residents generally worked what they could on the farm or grounds. Some other Counties - which had no such facility - regarded Eastland County as having an especially good Farm. Occasionally inquires would come from Officials want to know how the place was operated, or whether they could "farm out" someone there. The answer was generally "No".

Money was provided for the operation of the farm periodically. The only charitable bequest to the Poor Farm seems to have come from one Edward Disney Farmer of Tarrant County. Upon his death, in 1934, it was found that he had willed Eastland County at least six different small tracts with undivided mineral interest to use for the poor. Until recently it appeared that the County would not benefit from these minerals. Now things look more favorable for some modest returns, since some of the tracts lie inside the Sun Oil Company Recovery Project near Ranger.

In 1928 the County hired Mr. Ed Hatten to administer the Poor Farm, and he and Mrs. Hatten and their ten children (7 boys and 3 girls) moved into the overseer's house. Mrs. Hatten, besides cooking for her own family, which made a sizable group at her table! One of the sons, Ray Hatten, now lives in Cisco, and he recalls that "about 15 or 20" persons were living on the Farm when his family was there. The children enjoyed the residents, who were generally friendly to them.

While the Hattens cared for the Poor Farm a tragedy struck their own family. One of their sons, Charlie, decided to go hunting one day, and walked across the farm to where the County had stored dynamite (used in road work) in an old metal house or shed.

Although not completely sure, Ray Hatten thinks his brother Charlie must have fired his gun into the shed. Possibly he tried to dig a rabbit out from underneath, as some persons suggest. The building exploded instantly, killing the boy. All the residents of the Farm were saddened by this loss.

The depression crashed upon Eastland County, and the services of the Poor Farm were needed more than ever. But controversial changes were in the wind, spearheaded by President Franklin D. Roosevelt. The Social Security Program was only one of the many pieces of legislation enacted during his terms. The Program had a modest beginning, but it eventually expanded to include medicare and a number of other benefits.

While much of this was still in the future, W. Lee O'Daniel arrived on the Texas political scene in 1938. He pointed out the plight of aging Texas pioneers, and proposed to shift their care from the local scene to the state level. He won the Governor's race by a landslide, and managed to get an old-age pension plan enacted.

On a County level, these small checks (around $15.00 per mo.) came to the County Judge, who maintained a "Pension Roll". The Judge could also use discretion about whose name to put on it! The Regional Director of the State Department of Public Welfare for this area was D.E. Frazer of Eastland, who also trained other persons in this function.

To an elderly person who had nothing, even a modest pension helped provide a place to live outside the "Poor Farm". So the Farm was on its way out, although the facility was not closed until around World War II.

Unfortunately, W. Lee O'Daniel's programs helped put the state in debt before he left office to run for the Senate. Coke Stevenson, the Governor who followed him, helped pass an amendment to the Constitution requiring a balanced state budget. This amendment has undoubtedly prevented past Legislators from overspending, and has helped put the state in a financial position to tackle the New Federalism.

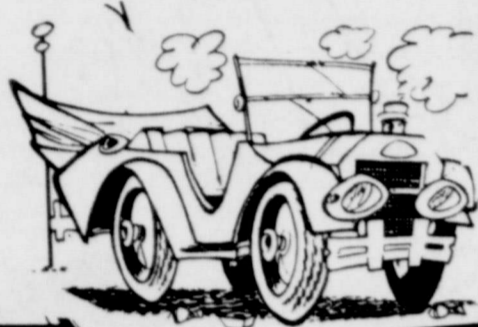

Eastland County still owns about 25 acres of land out on the Highway where the Poor Farm stood. The County Dispatch is located there now, and the Farm is only a fading memory. The current Senior Citizens usually manage to live independent lives, although they have special problems.

But there are no easy solutions in a world in which the weak and helpless (young as well as old) do not have the money and power of the strong.

"On the New Federalism -" Governor Clements stated today - "I estimate we'll be revising this for the next 20 years."

Time will probably prove the Governor right.

Washington's Last Farewell

by
W.B. ALLEN
Dr. Allen is an Association Professor of Government at Harvey Mudd College. Under a grant from Liberty Fund, Inc., he is planning a series of programs and researches in honor of the bicentennial of the Constitution, 1787-1987.
(c) Public Research, Syndicated, 1982

The reason we remember George Washington when we do and the way we do is that he quite literally formed the mold of American politics. Today, politicians and officeholders do not often remember that there was a time when the institutions and practices they count on so heavily did not exist at all, anywhere. They seldom ask themselves what they would do if, instead of just moving into their fancy offices, they had to create the mechanisms of democracy.

Our current President shows himself a striking exception to this pattern. His state of the Union address offers one of the finest celebrations of George Washington we have had since Light Horse Harry Lee's eulogy dubbed him "first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen." When Mr. Reagan set his own program for America in the context of Washington's first state of the Union and first inaugural address, he appealed to a deeper understanding of Washington's purposes for America.

Washington sought to place America on the path of safety and prosperity, benevolence and justice. By the time of his "Farewell Address" he considered it established. Washington's view was tested in the Civil War, and Lincoln saw us through. Nevertheless, Mr. Reagan needed to explain why we do not now seem to enjoy the fruits of their efforts. To do this in a way which would not discourage his fellow-citizens, he leaned on the legacy of Washington and Lincoln for inspiration.

Mr. Reagan suggests a new source of discord, introduced fifty years ago; to wit, 1932 and Franklin D. Roosevelt, who began "taking power away from the hands of the people in their states and local communities." How did he do this?—by building a legacy of "tax and tax, spend and spend," which makes every generation at once the enemy and bond-servant of its forebears.

Mr. Reagan was able to set forth a positive view of the reforms he proposed, drawing on the plan for "compensated emancipation and colonization" from Lincoln's second state of the Union address, and Washington's articulation of the need for relying on the people. Mr. Reagan's speech characterized American government as an over-weight patient whose biggest problem is that he has more than enough to eat and to spare.

One word recurs frequently and emphatically: uncontrollable. Everyone, he argued, sees our problems of the federal budget, the economy, and government programs as uncontrollable. "The time has come," he said, "to control the uncontrollable." For, he urged, nourishment is going "not to the needy but to the greedy." Mr. Reagan's response to

"50 years of taking power" from the people in his "New Federalism." It follows that the era launched by FDR had made America the land of the greedy.

While the President recognized that no American president should ever stigmatize his people as greedy, any more than he should attack them as cowardly, he was yet able to urge their being the kind of people "who may not have realized their dreams themselves but who then reinvest those dreams in their children." Although the nation's problems began with Roosevelt's derailment of the founding, the call for a "New Federalism," inspired by Washington and Lincoln, is far better than an accusation that the people are slaves to the two things from which Roosevelt most aimed to liberate men: want and fear.

Mr. Reagan encouraged the people to expect of themselves the same elevated spirit and deeds that characterized America's founders. Self-sacrifice and bravery are the standards called for by Mr. Reagan—they are his version of Lincoln's "new birth of freedom."

In his speech, Mr. Reagan quoted Washington who thought the preservation of liberty an "experiment entrusted to the hands of the American people." That sentiment echoed what Washington said in his 1783 "farewell," when he disbanded the Revolutionary Army and "retired" to his Virginia estate. By the time of Washington's last farewell, in 1796, he was able to claim that the "experiment" was a success. Washington believed that the people were well fit for self-rule, moderate in their ambitions and settled in the resolve to defend freedom.

The ordinary dangers of political life of course remained. War would threaten again and domestic discord would always have to be resolved. But Washington concluded that the foundation for peace and prosperity had been well laid. So he could retire, knowing that good prevailed on the domestic as on the foreign front. The people's assumption of power within their states and localities as well as in the shape of a single people meant just this, that a just order in the parts had become the foundation for all justice in the whole. The "New Federalism" recovers Washington's concern with safety and his reliance on the people. But it is modeled on Lincoln's compensated emancipation, right down to the careful prescription for gradual change and allowing the states themselves to judge when it were wise to alter their practices.

Washington and Lincoln both insisted on placing the reins of government in the people's own hands. Washington's last farewell seems to have prematurely concluded that the people were "ready" to assume the burdens of self-rule. For Mr. Reagan, this may not have been true even "20 years ago," let alone 200 years earlier! But now, in 1982, we "believe in the integrity, decency, and sound good sense of grass-roots Americans." We can henceforth look to them from our heroes. And "two centuries from now" our posterity will say we were right.

Thus, Mr. Reagan modestly compares himself to Washington, rather than our "greatest president" of "one hundred and twenty years ago." He closed the 1982 state of the Union address by uniting his two icons in his own project to preserve "the sacred flame of liberty—the last, best hope of man on Earth."

Putnam News

By Mrs. R.B. Taylor

If the wind would stop blowing we would have ideal weather though we need rain. I guess we should not complain we talked to the folks up in the mountains and they are having 80 mile winds at Denver today. And Farmington had the biggest snow of the season there this past week.

I do not know if the weather has anything to do with it, but seems we have an unusually long sick list this week.

We are sorry to report that Mrs. Thelma Odom Davis is seriously ill at Hendrick Hospital at Abilene. She is due for surgery tomorrow (Monday). Our prayers go with you, Thelma.

John Mask of Dothan went to Veterans Hospital at Big Spring this week. Mrs. Mask is the former Mrs. Robert McKinney.

Billy Clinton of Cisco and the Scranton Community is undergoing treatment at Temple.

Bennie Nettles spent some time in an Abilene hospital this week.

Mrs. R.L. Clinton of Cisco who has been in Cisco hospital for several weeks came home Thursday. Her son, Bob and Wanda of Austin are with her for a few days.

Mrs. Annie Mae Donaway is free of the heavy cast on her arm, which she broke in a fall sometime ago. Her arm is doing fine.

Belinda Maxwell and W.L. Jagers both celebrated their eighth birthday Thursday, Feb. 11. Their mothers entertained 16 of their school friends at a party at the Jagers home Thursday after school.

Mrs. I.G. Mobley and Mrs. R.B. Taylor spent Wednesday and Wednesday night with Mrs. Fred Heyser and Mrs. Maggie Cook at Baird.

Mr. and Mrs. James Burson of Houston visited her mother, Mrs. Maxie Solomon Saturday and Sunday.

The James Isenhower family of Coleman visited her mother, Mrs. Ollie Burnam Saturday.

Mrs. Mildred King of Cisco celebrated her birthday Sunday with her brother, Calvin King and Mary.

Mrs. Annie Mae Donaway has donated some lots west of her house as a playground. The Community Club will meet next week and decide as to moving equipment from the school house. Everyone is invited to attend this meeting February 18.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Farmer of Baird accompanied by Mr. Don Wilson of Abilene went to Austin last week to attend funeral services for Mr. Marshall Turner of Austin. Mr. Turner was a brother-in-law of Howard Farmer. He married Lucille Farmer in Baird in 1924. They had lived in Fort Worth and Austin. He was a 33 degree mason and very active in the Shriners. Our sympathy to the family.

Visiting the Hulen Smiths this weekend were his three brothers, Mr. and Mrs. J. Smith of O'Keene, Okla., Mr. and Mrs. Austin Smith of Waurika, Okla., and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Smith of Williston, North Dakota.

Women's Study Club The Putnam Women's Study Club met at the Community Center at 2 p.m. Monday, Feb. 15, for its monthly meeting. Thirteen members and five guests answered roll call. Don Weathermon of San Antonio who is with the F.B.I. brought a very interesting and informative program on security in the home. He showed a film and answered questions and gave a demonstration on how to defend oneself in case of an attack.

Mrs. Ruby Weathermon presided at a business session after which refreshments were served from a table beautifully decorated in the Valentine theme. Mrs. Burnam and Mrs. Fry were hostesses.

Our local grocery woman, Mrs. Thelma Davis, is still very ill at Hendrick Hospital at Abilene. She underwent surgery one day last week. We wish for her a speedy recovery.

New Azaleas

by Ted Brice, The Garden Editor

Four Azaleas varieties with high tolerance to extremes in growing conditions have been developed at North Carolina State University.

The Azaleas, named Autumn Sun, Cochran's Lavender, Wolfpack Red and Pink Camellia, are being released to the nurseries for propagation.

Autumn Sun is a medium small plant with rich bronzed hose-in-nose flowers about one and a quarter to one and three-quarter inches in diameter. It is a profuse bloomer with clusters of two to three blooms, per truss.

Like the other three new Azaleas Autumn Sun flowers in mid-season around April 15 to April 25.

Cochran's Lavender is of medium height with a dense spreading growing habit. It has single light lavender flowers that range around three to three and a half inches in diameter. Its flowers are borne in moderate profusion over the plant.

Wolfpack Red is semi-dwarf in height and has a very dense spreading growth habit. The strong red single flowers are borne in great profusion with one to four flowers per truss. The flowers are one to one and three-quarter inches in diameter.

Pink Camellia is medium in height with a spreading growth habit. The double, light pink flowers resemble camellia blooms when they fully opened. They range from one and a half to two and a half inches in diameter. The flowers are borne one to two per truss in moderate profusion.

These for new releases should become popular with Azalea fanciers because they all are very tolerant to all the weather conditions and are very disease resistant. These four will produce a fantastic array of color if they are planted properly and fed the correct fertilizer. Remember Azaleas like an acid soil and does not like wet feet. Azaleas should be planted in an area that is sheltered from the midday sun. Good fertilizers for Azaleas include cottonseed meal, soybean meal, tankage, old well-rotted manure and commercial fertilizers prepared especially for Azaleas.

GOOD GARDENING UNTIL NEXT WEEK FROM YOUR GARDEN EDITOR, TED BRICE.

WORD of GOD

Warning Promise

And this is the will of him that sent me, that every one which seeth the Son, and believeth on him, may have everlasting life: and I will raise him up at the last day.

He that eateth my flesh, and drinketh my blood, dwelleth in me, and I in him.

As the living Father hath sent me, and I live by the Father; so he that eateth me, even he shall live by me.

An articulate and vigorous advocate for the family farmer and rancher, he has been honored many times as one of America's most forceful ambassadors for Agriculture.

His training in sociology and psychology has brought a new dimension to one of the state's largest agencies. He holds three degrees from Texas A&M University and has studied at Cornell, Michigan State, and Utah State Universities. He was a member of the graduate faculty at Colorado State. For nine summers his course there on "Human Behavior" was rated as one of the most popular ever conducted on that campus.

As a captain in the 69th Infantry Division during World War II, he received eight decorations, including the Purple Heart. The Leon-Bosque Area covers Bosque, Comanche, Eastland, Erath and Somervell Counties.

The public is invited to attend and tickets can be purchased at the local soil conservation offices in the various counties.

News From The Center

By Luke Green

On Wednesday, February 10, at 10:00 a.m. Bro. Stephen Wheeler, pastor of the United Pentecostal Church, conducted the church services at the Center in the absence of Bro. Dell Crockett, pastor of the Redeemer Lutheran Church. His message was taken from John 3:16. It read, "For God So Loved The World that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life." We were all inspired by this message.

On February 7th, at 3 p.m., Bro. Armo Bentley, pastor of East Cisco Baptist Church, conducted the church services.

On February 21st, Bro. Ben Hubert of the First Christian Church of Cisco, will be conducting church services at 3 p.m. We appreciate these ministers for conducting these services for our residents; because they too need inspirational and spiritual guidance.

Thanks to Diane Wheeler and the young people from the United Pentecostal Church, for remembering our residents on Valentine's Day. The young people presented a short musical program; after which they presented each resident with a Valentine. The young people add so much to the lives of our residents.

Mrs. Sarah Hinchey did the mending for our residents this month.

All of our volunteers and staff play an important part in the lives of our residents. Thank all of you for taking time to care.

Harry Roe Brooks Fined $200 Before 91st District Court

Wright, 91st District Court, Eastland, and was fined $200. The State Board of Registration for Professional Engineers had investigated Brooks' claims to be a petroleum engineer based upon the complaint of the owners of an Eastland County firm which had engaged Mr. Brooks to "engineer" and bring in a well for them and their investors. Mr. Brooks is not now nor has he ever been a Texas Registered Professional Engineer.

'ROUND AND 'ROUND SHE GOES...

The question is: where will it stop? Many people have no idea. Life can be lived in a flurry of activity — flitting from person, to thing, to dream, and back again. Or it can just settle into a monotonous routine. Either way, meaninglessness has taken hold.

Lack of meaning in life has been called furious activity around an empty center. That's what a whirlpool is. Activities, meetings, schedules, parties, appointments — no direction. The swirling pace can get to you — especially if there's a holiness inside.

Jesus talked a lot about meaning in life. But he not only talked about it. He gives it! He came to take us out of the whirlpool and set us on course in the Life Stream.

West Central Texas Oil & Gas Association Annual Meeting

Governor William P. Clements will be the keynote speaker at the 49th annual meeting of the West Central Texas Oil & Gas Association on Sunday and Monday, March 7-8, at the Abilene Civic Center.

Harry Bettis of Graham, president of WeCTOGA, said the association had lined up an outstanding panel of speakers.

In addition to Governor Clements, speakers will include Harold E. "Gene" Wright of Glimmer, Vance Maultsby of Dallas and Tom Haywood of Wichita Falls.

Wright will speak on the possibility of price controls being lifted from natural gas. Wright, a petroleum engineer, is chairman of the Natural Gas Supply Association and chairman of the Natural Gas Committee of the Independent Petroleum Association of America.

Maultsby, a partner with Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co., a leading accounting firm, will discuss the so-called "windfall profit" tax. He is Peat Marwick's national "windfall profit" tax liaison tax partner.

Haywood, executive vice president of North Texas Oil & Gas Association, has been instrumental in leading the fight against oil field theft. He will discuss the industry's efforts to curtail the recent rise in the theft rate.

Wright, Maultsby and Haywood will be the featured speakers at the Monday morning session at 9:30 a.m.

Governor Clements will deliver the keynote address at the noon luncheon on Monday. Clements, a native of Dallas, elected governor in 1978, has announced his candidacy for re-election this year. In 1973, he was appointed Deputy Secretary of Defense, a position he held under two presidents. He established SEDCO in 1947 and is now a worldwide drilling contractor.

Also highlighting the meeting will be the election of a new slate of officers.

The annual meeting will begin with registration at the Civic Center from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. on Sunday, March 7. A cocktail party will be held from 6 to 7 p.m. in the West Hall of the Civic Center. The barbecue/dance will begin at 7 p.m.

On Monday, breakfast will be served from 7 to 9 a.m. at the Abilene Petroleum Club. The general session will begin at noon in the Civic Center Foyer. WeCTOGA's Board of Directors meeting at 2 p.m. in the Civic Center Auditorium will conclude the meeting.

Registration is $25 per person and is open to all WeCTOGA members and their guests.

Senator Lloyd Bentsen

Watching Washington

In the high gloss, fast-paced 1980s it may be easy to believe that multinational corporations and conglomerates are the dominant factors in this country's economy.

It is easy to forget that the downtown barber shop, the corner grocery, the feed store and the pharmacy are vital businesses, too.

The fact is that small, hometown businesses remain today the very heart of the American economy.

Small business employs 60 percent of the workers in the United States and, of all the new jobs created, small business accounts for 87 percent.

Obviously, then, government should be doing everything it can to nurture small business and ensure its continued prosperity. Anyone who runs his or her own business, however, can tell you that this has not been the case.

Small business bankruptcies increased by 42 percent last year and for each business that went through the legal formalities of bankruptcy, there were eight or 10 others that simply closed their doors.

We must act decisively to prevent small business from choking to death in the strangle hold of high interest rates and government red tape.

Hearing the problems of local businesses at small business conferences in two Texas cities earlier this year has reconfirmed what I believe is the only sensible course of action.

First, the Federal Reserve Board must put an end to the stop-and-go, erratic monetary policies that have plunged the United States into an interest rate recession.

Second, small business must be provided with some legislative relief for several of its special problems. For example, I have introduced bills which would ensure that government gets out of all activities that can be performed by the private sector, and which would require federal agencies to reduce by 25 percent over the next five years the burden of major regulations and paperwork requirements on small businesses.

One of the more aggravating impositions on small business has been the Internal Revenue Service requiring use of the complex and costly accrual method of accounting. I have proposed that businesses be allowed to use the simpler and more favorable cash accounting method.

With cash accounting, a merchant may list as an expense for tax purposes all the inventory purchased during the year. Under accrual accounting, the only expense that can be listed is the cost of inventory sold during the year.

This may sound like a minor matter to some people, but for neighborhood merchants it often means the difference between profit and loss, prosperity and failure.

FUEL-SAVING DRIVING TIPS!

Here's a list of what we feel are the simplest—yet most effective—ways of conserving fuel when driving. Since these tips are designed to modify motoring habits (rather than suggesting expensive add-on equipment), they can only save you money when they're properly observed.

- Press the accelerator down slowly when you're starting off from a dead stop, and try to avoid pushing the pedal more than 1/4 of its full travel whenever possible.
- Keep your windows closed when you drive, especially when you're traveling at highway speeds.
- Inflate your tires to their maximum recommended limit. Also, if you're in the market for new tires, consider a radial-ply design—or at least a larger-diameter tire—since such items are proven fuel-savers.
- Always obey the 55-MPH speed limit. Actually, whenever you drive above 40 miles per hour, you not only consume extra fuel but also waste even more gasoline by forcing your auto to overcome additional wind resistance.
- Try to maintain a steady road speed. The best way to maintain constant forward momentum is to avoid tailgating.
- Don't let your engine idle for long periods of time when you're warming it up, even on cold mornings. Modern cars usually require only about a minute's worth of running—at the most—before they can be driven in wintertime temperatures.
- Time your driving to avoid getting "caught" by stoplights. On many boulevards, traffic control signals are purposely scheduled to the motorist's advantage... assuring that by traveling at the correct—and steady—speed, he or she will have green lights all the way!
- If you are stuck in a stop-and-go driving situation, you can save gasoline by shifting your automatic transmission to neutral when the car is at a standstill.
- Don't allow your car to idle for more than a minute in traffic. If you know that you'll be sitting in one spot for longer than 60 seconds, shut the car's engine off.
- Be certain your vehicle is in top mechanical condition at all times. Keep it tuned and periodically check its points, plugs, and especially its air filter... to see if the components are in good condition.
- Purchase your gasoline during the coolest times of the day, when the liquid is densest. You'll actually be getting a more concentrated gallon for your money when you fill up in the chilly hours of early morning or late evening.
- Drive in a straight line whenever possible. Choose the route that offers the fewest corners and curves.
- Avoid pressing the accelerator to the floor when climbing hills if you possibly can. You will, of course, lose momentum by going "easy" on the pedal... but if you can still maintain a safe speed, do so and save gasoline.
- During the icy winter season, always scrape the snow from your auto before starting the engine and driving off. Such frozen moisture not only offers additional wind resistance, but can add as much as a hundred pounds or more to your vehicle's total weight!
- Try to keep the fuel tank filled on the "high" side as a rule. A fairly full fuel reservoir has less evaporation loss than will a nearly empty one.

THE REV. Russell Pogue, a former pastor of the First Baptist Church in Cisco, has retired after more than 40 years in the ministry and has enrolled in the Baptist Foreign Mission program and accepted a year's assignment to Uganda in Africa.

Mr. Pogue told the congregations of the First Baptist Churches of Cisco and Eastland about his plans in pulpits appearances last Sunday at their respective churches. He has spent the past eight years as pastor of the FBC at Spearman. He is a graduate of Baylor and has been preaching since age 19.

After he decided that it was time to retire, Mr. Pogue and his wife were at Glorieta, New Mexico, attending a church encampment. A new foreign mission program that has places for senior folks was outlined and he volunteered. "I told them to send me where they needed me most," he said.

After a few weeks, the Pogues were notified that they had been accepted and would be sent to a city of some 400,000 in Uganda. The city, on the shores of Lake Victoria, was literally ravaged by Edie Amin when his dictatorship crumbled and he fled with his army of followers.

Mr. Pogue has been informed that he can expect the worst. Food items like flour and sugar cost $10 per pound if you can find them. Gasoline, if you can find it, is $5 and up per gallon and is purchased in five-gallon cans. Mail is almost non-existent, so they will have mail box in another African country 450 miles away. They and others there in similar work will pool their resources for occasional trips to pick up mail and supplies.

When Edie Amin fled, he slaughtered virtually all of the country's leaders and seized their property. Mr. Pogue was informed. The country needs everything.

The Pogues spent the weekend in Cisco with Louise Karkalits, a long-time friend. In Eastland, they enjoyed a meeting with the Rev. Jim Hooten, FBC pastor, who spent a good many years in Africa as a missionary. They'll be leaving March 7th and will land at the famed Entebbe Airport in Uganda. You'll want to join us in an expression of good luck.

OVER AT Carbon, the Lions Club staged a public auction sale last Saturday and it was a good success, according to scout reports. In the some three years since it was organized, the Carbon Lions Club has raised and put about $10,000 into community projects.

Mr. Kenn Norris, formerly of the Cisco Public Schools faculty, is a member of the club and has had an important role in the Lions Club's activities there.

IF YOU'VE SEEN Carl Kleiner and his little son Chris, who is nearly three years old, together you know that Chris is a carbon copy of his dad. We saw them together the other day and they were wearing identical coveralls that were very distinctive. And we learned that Mrs. CK made the garments.

The other afternoon, Carl had his big steel tool box open on the back of his pickup truck. He had some tools out working around front when he heard a noise and Chris yell. Somehow, Chris had pulled the tool box off the truck and it spilled tools all over him. The box and tools must weigh 150 pounds.

Carl hastened to dig Chris out and took him to a doctor. Chris was not injured except for a minor scratch or two. Carl had a skinned knee and several cuts and bruises on his hands.

THE MARSHALL Joneses, touring the hill country with friends last week, stopped in at Luckenbach, the town you hear about in the C&W song. They were having a "hug-in" that night. The Joneses didn't find out what it was as they were due elsewhere that evening. The Arlie Whiteleys are expecting to complete their new house in West Cisco in three or four weeks. A lady we know drove over to Eastland the other day. She parked and did some business and then got in the car to return home. It wouldn't start. She called her husband he went over. He put the gear shift lever in the "park" position and the car started without further trouble. Don't you think this lady should bake an apple pie because we haven't used her name?

MR. ED Pugliese, who is a senior student over at Howard Payne in Brownwood, spent last weekend here with home folks. He's busy practicing teaching this final semester of college. The Tops Baileys recently enjoyed a vacation up in Steamboat Springs, Colorado. It was nice and cold and snowy, they report. Glad to hear that the little granddaughter of the Ed Clarks, who suffered serious burns during the recent holiday season, is doing nicely.

THE ALLEN Fannins of Fort Worth spent last weekend here with home folks. He went to work for Gulf Oil over there six months or so ago. Saw Harry Holt, the Abilene television farm editor, in town the other day. He had been spending some off time at his farm southeast of Cisco. The City of Cisco is looking for a 50-acre site for a new sewage water disposal plant. And the water, which will be treated, will be available for use to irrigate fields or pastures. If you live northerly or easterly five miles or less from Cisco and are interested in talking about selling land or using water, contact City Manager Michael Moore.

LAST SATURDAY night's Winter Ball that the Cisco Civic League sponsored at the Cisco Country Club was a good success from all standpoints, according to several reports. Some 40 couples enjoyed the event. Music was provided by the Tim Jones orchestra. Guests included Ray and

Gifts Continue Coming To Clark Scholarship Fund

Loving gifts are continuing to come to the John Clark Memorial Scholarship Fund. All financial institutions in Eastland County are accepting the contributions and directing them to the Fund, set up at Eastland National Bank.

Mr. Clark was killed in a truck accident here last week and his survivors include five children.

Board of trustees set up to administer the scholarship fund is Justice of the Peace I.W. Ussey (at whose court funds are also being accepted), Jay Clark (the deceased's brother who will represent the family) and a prominent local attorney who prefers to remain anonymous.

A generous gift by the Eastland Goodfellows opened the fund for the Clark children's education.

Out-of-town gifts may be mailed to the Fund to the bank's post office box: Eastland, Texas 76448.

Applications Being Accepted For The 1982 Farm Programs

Applications are being accepted for the 1982 farm programs, James Chesshir, chairman of the Eastland County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said. Secretary of Agriculture John Block recently announced acreage reduction programs for wheat, corn, grain sorghum, barley, oats, rice and upland cotton.

To be eligible for loans and target price protection farmers must sign up and comply with the acreage reduction program requirements, Chesshir said. For reducing their wheat acres by 15 percent, farmers will be eligible for the $4.05 per bushel 1982 target price for wheat, a regular loan rate of $3.55 per bushel, and a grain reserve loan rate of $4.00 a bushel.

Farmers who reduce their feed grain acreage by 10 percent will receive federal target prices of $2.70 per bushel for corn; $2.60 for sorghum and barley and $1.50 per bushel for oats. They will also be eligible for loan rates of $2.55 per bushel for corn, $2.42 for sorghum, $2.08 for barley and $1.31 per bushel for oats.

According to Chesshir, 1982 wheat and feed grains will be eligible for immediate entry in the farmer-owned grain reserve. Feed grain reserve loan rates are $2.90 a bushel for corn, $2.75 for sorghum, $2.37 for barley and $1.49 per bushel for oats.

The upland cotton program offers farmers a target price of 71 cents per pound and a loan rate of 57.08 cents per pound for reducing their cotton acres by 15 percent. Farmers who reduce their rice acres by 15 percent will be eligible for target price production of $10.85 per hundred weight and loans at $8.14 per hundred weight.

Participation in the 1982 farm programs is voluntary. However, only those farmers who take part in the program will be eligible for benefits, the ASCS official said. The sign up period ends April 16.
