Roy Wheeler against fines

of illegal aliens

AUSTIN--Independent Attorneys' Association President Roy Wheeler today contacted members of the Texas Congressional delegation asking that they not support pending legislation levying stiff fines on employers hiring illegal aliens. The legislation sponsored by Senator Alan Simpson of Wyoming and Rep. Ronald Mazzoli of Kentucky was recently reported out of committee and will soon be considered by Congress.

Wheeler explained the legislation requires an employer establish the citizenship of all his workers, including temporary employees, before hiring. If illegals are hired, the employer could face stiff fines of up to $2,000.

"Such requirements would be resented by workers, encourage discrimination and lend themselves to fraud," Wheeler insisted. He suggested that a far better process of combatting employment problems would be to arrange a federal bracero program, strengthen funding for the border patrol or tighten visa eligibility.

Wheeler concluded that's difficult to believe that the government is placing immigration liability on employers when they have refused to properly consider a bracero program and hire more people to police Capitol Hill than they hire to police the entire U.S. borders.

Homemaking Hints
By Janet Thomas

June is National Dairy Month. Milk is an important food for milk's importance in the human diet has been recognized for many ages. It is interesting to note that the earliest written records date back 6,000 years ago and were found in the Sanskrit of India.

Milk is high in protein, calcium and riboflavin. Milk contains a high quality protein which provides all the essential amino acids. Protein's main function is to build, repair, and maintain body tissues, and also helps in the resistance to disease.

Milk is probably best known for the mineral, calcium, which functions in the development and maintenance of bones and teeth. Riboflavin aids in the energy utilization in the body.

Daily milk requirements include: children - 3 or more cups; teenagers - 4 or more cups; adults - 2 or more cups; and pregnant or lactating women - 4 or more cups.

Some common misconceptions surrounding milk in the diet are:

*Does the curdling of milk in the stomach cause sour and upset stomach?

The curdling of milk which occurs when it is mixed with the stomach acids is a natural process of digestion and does not cause stomach upset.

*Does milk slow down digestion?

Contrary to popular opinion, milk digests relatively fast. However, the length of time that milk remains in the stomach varies with the amount taken at one time and with presence and absence of other foods.

*Will milk cause sluggishness, loss of agility, and laziness?

Milk does not effect the athlete's ability to perform or has desire to perform effectively. An examination of the nutrients in milk and the process of digestion reveals nothing in milk which could adversely affect physical performance.

*Does milk cause "cotton mouth", and decrease speed of movement?

The cause of cotton mouth is usually tension which decreases the flow of saliva and causes the mouth to feel dry and fuzzy. The idea that milk increases mucous in the respiratory system thus "cutting wind" is scientifically unsound.

*Is milk fattening?

Like all other foods which contain protein, fats and calories, milk can produce body fat. Whether or not it does produce fat and carbohydrates, milk can produce body fat. Whether or not it does produce fat depends upon the amount consumed, and the amounts of other food eaten.

RECIPE FOR THE WEEK

Summertime is here and what could be more refreshing than sherbet or ice cream. This week I am including a recipe for Pineapple Sherbet.

Pineapple Sherbet
3 cups milk
1 1/2 cups sugar
1 1/2 cups pineapple juice
Juice of 1 lemon
2 egg whites, beaten

Add sugar to pineapple juice. Heat until sugar is thoroughly dissolved. Add lemon juice. Chill thoroughly. Add to very cold milk slowly, stirring constantly. Pour in freezing tray. When it begins to freeze, fold in beaten egg whites. Serve 8 to 10.

Note: In using a crank freezer, the egg whites may be omitted.

The local Extension Service office has a good supply of food preservation bulletins which are free. Persons needing this information are invited to call (629-222) or come by the local Extension Service Office, courthouse basement.

Quarter Horse Classic to perform

STAMFORD--Top bloodline Quarter horses from the Rio Grande to the Red River make up consignments to the 1982 Rehab Quarter Horse Classic here June 29 at 11 a.m.

This halter, performance, and race horse sale will kick off the 52nd version of the Texas Cowboy Reunion scheduled for June 30 through July 3.

The Quarter Horse Classic will allow breeders a golden opportunity to exhibit and merchandise their breeding programs. But, more importantly, it will allow quarter horsemen an opportunity to support the West Texas Rehabilitation Centers in Abilene, San Angelo, and Snyder, beneficiary. The sale is being sponsored and promoted by Burns-Hutson Auctioneers of Sweetwater as a charitable fundraising activity for the Rehab Center.

Early consignments include: Adams Pride, SI-92, Pac of Heritage; Miss Buncha Bunch, a full sister to AAA runner; Worry Seven; Flag's Belle; Watch Stacey; Queen Susi Bar; and King Rocket Bar.

Eastland County Fair

New officers for the 1982 Eastland County Fair were elected this week. The officers include: Joe Frank McCollum, of Rising Star, the overall Chairman; Vice-chairman, Craig Lund, of Eastland; Secretary, Mrs. Sue Davis, of Cisco; and Treasurer, Mike Parsons, of Eastland.

This year's Booth Chairman is Gordon Woolam. Woolam will be in charge of accepting requests for booth space in both the educational and commercial booth divisions. Booth rules and fees will be announced in the near future.

The Fair Association voted to let some organization, within the county, sponsor the concession stand during the county fair. The concession stand profits will be divided between the Fair Association and the sponsoring organization. The sponsoring organization would receive 60% of the net profit from the concession stand. Any organization interested in operating the concession stand may contact the County Extension Office at 629-2222 or 629-1093. The deadline for bidding on the concession stand is Monday, August 2. The concession stand is an excellent money raising opportunity.

The Fair Association voted that no food booths will be allowed this year. This means that a club or organization may not sell cakes, pies, cookies, watermelon slices, etc. during the fair.

The next meeting of the Fair Assoc. will be June 22 at 8:00 p.m. This meeting will be at the Livestock Show Grounds where the fair will be on Sept. 30, Oct. 1 and 2. The major purpose of the June 22 business meeting is to determine what facilities will be available for the various activities scheduled during the fair days. All fair workers and interested supporters are urged to attend this important meeting.

RELEASE YOUR NEEDS

"I therefore so run, not as uncertainly; so fight I, not as one that beateth the air."--I Corinthians 9:26

Troubled one, grasp hold of Faith. It is not required of you to possess a great measure; for it is the quality and not the quantity that makes the difference. The One who knows all understands that you are weary and tired. His eyes of compassion and love have seen you today. He is speaking softly to you. Stop your struggling and listen carefully. Can you not now hear Him say to sav. "See the birds of the air; for they sow not neither do they reap; nor gather into barns; yet your Father feedeth them. Are you not much better than they."--Matthew 6:26.

Release your needs to Him now. Lay your needs at the feet of Jesus--You will find that He can be trusted to handle what you are too weak to manage. His strength is made strong in your weakness. As you relinquish your needs to Him, then, my Friend, you will find to your amazement a miracle has occurred--Strength has once more been restored to you.

EQUAL HOUSING OPPORTUNITIES

Prosecutor & residents can work together to alleviate problems

The following article is a public service by the Eastland County Newspapers through the cooperation of District Attorney Emory Walton, and The Prosecutor Council. Its purpose is to make you aware of a prosecutor's role, of your responsibility as a resident of Eastland County and how we can work together to alleviate some of society's problems.

HELPING THE STUDENT DRUG ABUSER

The problems of identifying drug abuse and what to do if drug involvement is suspected should be of special interest to parents and teachers. Early detection of a drug problem is vital to preventing serious damage to the emotional well-being of the abuser and those close to him. Drug abuse is often a symptom of a deeper problem.

Chronic abusers often exhibit three traits. First, they have low self-esteem. They don't feel good about themselves and are dependent on others for their self-worth. Second, they lack emotional control. They allow negative feelings to drag them along and feel chronically miserable. Third, they have difficulty establishing close relationships.

Some common physical symptoms of student abusers are:

- Changes in school attendance, discipline and grades.
- Change in character of homework turned in.
- Unusual flare-ups or outbreaks of temper.
- Poor physical appearance.
- Secretive behavior regarding possessions.
- Wearing sunglasses at inappropriate times.
- Long-sleeved shirts worn constantly to hide needle marks.
- Association with known drug abusers.
- Borrowing money from students to purchase drugs.
- Stealing small items.
- Finding the student in odd places, such as closets and storage rooms.

If you discover a child using drugs, calling the police usually isn't the answer. You may be relinquishing responsibility when the child needs your support the most. Also remember that some young people experiment with drugs in response to peer pressure without developing a serious problem. But don't ignore the situation. Get outside help quickly.

Check with your local mental health and mental retardation center or family service center for drug problems. For problems with alcohol, Al-Anon Family Groups are listed in most telephone directories.

Call (800) 252-9642, a toll-free number of the Drug Abuse Prevention Division of the Texas Department of Community Affairs if you don't know the location of a drug treatment service in your area. In addition to directing you to help in your area they publish over 200 informative pamphlets, booklets and posters suitable for Junior and High School students and parents, in addition to highly technical research on drug abuse. They also have films available for free loan to groups and individuals. You may write the Drug Abuse Prevention Division at: P.O. Box 13155, Capitol Station - Austin, TX 78711.

Information for this article came from publications of the Drug Abuse Prevention Division of TDCA and Hill County District Attorney Dan V. Dent. This article is provided by The Prosecutor Council in cooperation with your local prosecutor.

Registration underway for first Howard Payne summer music camp

Registration is underway for the first Howard Payne University Summer Music Camp July 12-15, said Dr. Jack Bottoms, Dean of the HPU School of Music and camp director.

Those who may attend are students who are participating in a school or church choir or studying piano privately and will enter the eighth grade or above in the Fall of 1982.

Elective classes will include theory and sight-singing, piano and voice class, beginning conducting, handbells and development of popular music. There will be a show choir, madrigals and handbells groups; and private lessons will be given in voice, piano and organ.

Bottoms said that recreation will include swimming and intramural sports, a watermelon feast, a Coca-Cola party and talent show. To conclude the activities of the week, the camp will present a public concert at 8 p.m. July 15.

Guest Clinician for the camp is Dr. Hugh Sanders of West Texas State. "Dr. Sanders is well-known among church, college and public school musicians and has had great success as choral director in all of these areas," said Dr. Bottoms. "His expertise with young voices has placed him in great demand for clinics and festivals throughout the country, and I think we are very fortunate to be able to secure his services for the camp."

Cost for the camp is $80 for those desiring room and board and $40 for those who plan to stay off campus. Fee for a sponsor or director is $60.

For more information or to register, Call Dr. Bottoms at 915-646-2502, Ext. 252.

County Appraisal District releases new value notices

The Eastland County Appraisal District will be releasing the new 1982 reappraisal values on Monday, June 14, 1982. The notices will show the new market value of the property as well as the estimated tax amount that could be due on the described property.

The appraisal work has been going on throughout the County for over a year. It is the result of the new State Property Tax Code which requires all taxable property to be valued equally and uniformly at market value for 1982. The reappraisal work was done by the firm of McMorries and Company, a professional valuation firm.

The Southern Magnolia is an evergreen and leaf-losing tree and a shrub, many of them having large and attractive flowers which place them among the most decorative occupants of our gardens. Some kinds of flower in earliest spring in advance of the leaves, others flower in late spring, and still others during summer and early autumn. Some have attractive fruits.

The hardy kinds are found wild in the Himalayas, China, Japan and North American, but there are also hybrids, some of which can be grown in colder districts than most wild kinds.

Magnolia gives its name to the family Magnoliaceae, and the name commemorates Pierre Magnolia, Professor of Botany and Director of the Botanic Gardens, Montpellier, during the latter part of the seventeenth and the early part of the eighteenth centuries.

The fruits of the Magnolias are often conelike and brightly colored. When the seeds are ripe, they are released from the fruits, but are held for a few days by short silky threads before falling to the ground.

The Southern Magnolia is not the slow growing tree that so many people seem to think it is. It can be made to grow at an unusually fast rate, according to the horticulturists at North Carolina State University.

The "slow-grow" reputation may have become attached to the Southern Magnolia because it is so often planted and neglected. Under those conditions it probably will not grow fast.

With proper soil preparation and fertilization, it will grow rapidly. It could grow 20 feet tall in less than 10 years.

Here's the formula for such growth: Start with a large tree, around four to five feet tall, if possible. The hole should be three to four feet across and two to three feet deep.

Thoroughly mix in some form of organic matter with the soil removed from the hole.

Use about one-third peat moss, leaf mold, pine bark or similar substance. Plant the tree NO deeper than it grew in the nursery. Mulch with pine straw or similar material to a depth of about two to three inches of settled mulch. Extend the mulch three feet from the trunk. Water during any dry period, especially during the first and second growing seasons. Fertilize twice a year with a balanced fertilizer, such as 8-8-8. Apply one cup of fertilizer per inch of trunk diameter. This should be done each spring and repeated in midsummer. Soak the fertilizer into the soil.

The Southern Magnolia has been proved to be winter hardy as far North as Washington, D.C. Do no discount this beautiful flowering tree when you are planning to add trees to your landscape when it will grow fast with the proper attention.

The Abusive Partner

The struggle to provide refuge, resources, and information to the millions of battered women in the world today requires not only help for the victims, but complementary services for the batterers inflicting the harm. The Abusive Partner is a vital aid to finding lasting solutions for both partners.

Maria Roy, author of the widely acclaimed Battered Women, now provides a thorough analysis of the abusers, complete with proven methods of treating them. The Abusive Partner features practical guidelines for organizing community social services, as well as excellent source information for educators, psychologists, legislators, police officials, military personnel, and the clergy. She provides a new emphasis on determining the ultimate responsibility for eliminating assaultive behavior patterns and focuses on the crucial role that batterers must play in bringing about positive change.

She also includes the most extensive study to date of the psychosociology of current abusive behavior, medical and environmental factors, criminal justice aspects, and treatment strategies. Detailed coverage is provided of: -Nutritional factors that may affect the behavior of potential and actual batterers

-The role of alcohol and drugs in triggering abusive behavior

-A system of classifying violence for purposes of effective and rational treatment planning

Roy is careful to distinguish between primary psychotic conditions, episodic dyscontrol syndromes, and domestic violence. She reveals disturbing insights on how the increasingly standard tactics of using violence to prevent violence in the world relates to abusive behavior on the smaller scale.

Fully assessed are nationwide counseling programs for batterers that are currently in use, including information about developing additional intervention programs and methods of delivering services. A trend analysis of 4,000 urban and suburban cases of spousal abuse over a four-year period uncovers correlations between different cases and provides a solid foundation for further studies. Numerous therapeutic case studies that demonstrate the thought processes, emotions, and events that cause and result from violence in the family are examined. Timely answers to questions about treatment modalities, services for batterers, telephone hotlines, community education, and legal steps are provided. This guide includes both a national survey of services for batterers and a description of useful films to show for insight into abusive behavior.

Maria Roy is Founder and President of the Board of the first specialized social service agency for battered women in New York State - Abused Women's Aid in Crisis, Inc. She has appeared on numerous television and radio programs and in documentaries, generating public awareness of a surprisingly pervasive horror in our society. She has also testified at legislative hearings to affirm the need for city, state, and federal programs for studying and assisting battered women and their children, and has served as a panel member for The President's Commission on Mental Health. As an international authority in the field, she has lectured both here and abroad including parts of Asia. She has written many articles and has currently co-authored the book entitled Up From Battering, supported by a grant from the Exxon Foundation.

Ms. Roy compiled and edited the first comprehensive study of wife-beating ever published, the landmark volume entitled Battered Women: A Psychosociological Study of Domestic Violence (Van Nostrand Reinhold, 1977) That work has been hailed as the best and most valuable anthology to date on its subject.

Collins Reduces Automobile Regulations

Serving as Ranking Minority member on the House Subcommittee on Telecommunications, Consumer Protection, and Finance, Texas Congressman Jim Collins has been a leading advocate of reducing automobile over-regulation. In a speech before the U.S. House of Representatives, Collins pointed out that 3,000 franchised automobile and truck dealers have gone out of business in the past 30 months, meaning that 125,000 dealership employees have lost their jobs.

As a strong supporter of recent House and Senate passage of a resolution disapproving the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) Used Car Rule, Collins called on Congress "to spend more time thinking about jobs for American and how to create jobs and less time on adding burdensome regulations." Praising passage of the resolution, Collins said that this 50-page regulation would have resulted in higher used car prices for consumers who would have been saddled with added costs for inspections, which the FTC has no authority to require.

"We have such high regulatory costs now on automobiles that the increased costs are beginning to price automobiles out of the range of the average person. The average vehicle selling price rose from $3,430 in 1970 to $8,850 in 1981, reaching an all time high of $9,030 in December," Collins stated. Collins noted that the FTC proposed rule would not have applied to individuals who sell 50% of the used cars in this country. He explained that under this rule, if a dealer sold a car, he would have been subject to a $10,000 fine on each of 52 different items on which he was supposed to have full knowledge.

Two other regulatory plans came before the Energy and Commerce Committee in the last few weeks. "One suggestion is to stamp a number on 14 different car parts to identify the car in the event of a theft. But can you imagine the problems of stamping cars as they come down the assembly line? We also had a duplicative proposal requiring State approval on parts when there are current Federal safety standards for motor vehicle equipment."

"Federal regulations are now costing taxpayers $107 Billion a year. Congress clearly voiced its opposition to over-regulating the automobile industry with defeat of the FTC Used Car Rule and this was a step in the right direction. In my Committee, I will work for passage of legislation to end mounds and mounds of unproductive and duplicative regulation of automobiles," pledged Collins.

OUR ONLY BOAST

"God forbid that I should glory, save in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ..." (Gal. 6:14).

St. Paul was once a proud Pharisee, smug in his self-righteousness. In Philippians 3:5,6, he lists some of the things in which he took great pride:

"Circumcised the eighth day, of the stock of Israel, of the tribe of Benjamin, an Hebrew of the Hebrews; as touching the law, a Pharisee; concerning zeal, persecuting the church; touching the righteousness which is in the law, blameless."

But everything was changed since that day when the Lord appeared to him on the road to Damascus. Suddenly he had seen himself a lost, condemned sinner in the sight of a holy God and had tasted the matchless grace that could reach down from heaven and save even him. He knew now that he could not stand before God in himself, or "on his own two feet," as we say. His only safety before the bar of God was to take refuge in Christ, as he says in Verse 9:

"And be found in Him, not having mine own righteousness, which is of the law, but that which is through the faith of Christ, the righteousness which is of God by faith."

Now he knew, as we all should know, that he really had nothing to boast of as far as his own standing before God was concerned. For the rest of his life, however, he did constantly boast of one thing: the cross, where the Christ he had so bitterly persecuted had died for his sins that he (Paul) might be justified before God. All else of which Paul boasted was embraced in the cross of Christ. This too is really the only thing we have to boast of and the most godly saint will enthusiastically join Paul in saying:

"BUT GOD FORBID THAT I SHOULD GLORY. I SAVE IN THE CROSS OF OUR LORD JESUS CHRIST, BY WHOM THE WORLD IS CRUCIFIED UNTO ME, AND I UNTO THE WORLD."

Special Devices Are Making It Possible For The Blind To Lead Productive Lives

many legally blind persons see well enough to maintain an independent life-style.

Other devices help the totally blind lead active lives.

Randolph Greene, a VIS staff coordinator, knows from first-hand experience what a big difference these small devices can make in a blind person's quality of life:

"I was an avid reader before I lost my sight. Now I use a talking book machine with a cassette for reading. I suppose the other devices that I depend on most are my Braille watch and my talking calculator that helps me do the statistical reports I have to turn in every month."

Blinded when he stepped on a land mine during World War II, Greene is among the 15 percent of legally blind persons who truly have no vision. For these people, special aids such as Braille writing devices open the door to learning and communication—to schools and jobs.

However, the majority of visual impairment aids now on the market benefit the 85 percent of people who, although legally blind, have some remaining vision.

This group of people can often maintain good mobility with the help of rehabilitation programs such as those at VA medical centers.

E.M. (Al) Moody has been a patient in the Houston program for many years. A World War I veteran, 87-year-old Moody said he had seen other doctors before coming to the VA who never told him about low-vision devices.

Moody knew his sight was deteriorating when his wife had to read street signs for him and tell him to stop at traffic lights. Then a day came when he had a hemorrhage in one eye and doctors informed him he had a condition called macula degeneration that affects the most sensitive area of the retina and used for discrimination of color vision and for reading.

Since developing this disorder which is most common in elderly persons, Moody has used a variety of devices to lead as normal a life as possible. Holding a small telescope in the palm of his hand and raising it to his eye, he demonstrated how he's learned to keep the instrument from shaking by steadying his hand against his forehead. "I can do a lot with this—watch television, look for a bus."

Whipping a square-shaped object out of his pocket, Moody said, "I used this to read menus in restaurants and sign checks."

Moody is one of more than 1,700 visually impaired Texas veterans participating in the VIS program. Established by the VA in 1967, VIS is funded by the Veterans Administration and supported through voluntary activities by the Lighthouse for the Blind, Disabled American Veterans, and the Blinded Veterans Association. Visually impaired veterans who don't qualify for VA rehabilitation services are referred to local agencies and the Texas State Commission for the Blind.

Lions Install New Officers At Dinner

Members of the Cisco Lions Club installed new officers and directors and raised $262 for their statewide crippled children's program at a dinner meeting Thursday night at the Laguna Hotel Corral Room. A good crowd turned out for the affair.

Damon Smith of Comanche, the incoming district governor, was the installing officer, and he charged the new club leaders to observe the traditions of Lionism in serving in their positions.

New officers, who take up their duties July 1, were installed as follows: Ivan Webb, president; C.B. Dill, Bobby Smith and Robert Dudley, vice presidents; Jasper W. Cook, secretary and treasurer; Walter Knowlden, lion tamer; Willard Johnson, tail-twister; Wyley Peebles, song leader; and Ken Hammes, Robert Conner and Loyal Lundstrom, directors.

Jack Farleigh, the retiring president, expressed his appreciation to club members of "helping me enjoy a wonderful year as your president" as he turned the gavel over to Mr. Webb. The new president pledged his best efforts and urged club members to present new ideas for community service.

The club presented a gavel to the new president and a gift to the incoming district governor. A 60-year insignia, denoting the age of the Cisco club, was presented to Mr. Farleigh.

S. Lopez, retiring tail-twister, collected $62 from club members to go with two life memberships of $100 each to benefit the Lions Camps for Crippled Children at Kerrville. The two new life members are Mr. Lopez and Eddie McMillan.

The Chamber of Commerce presented a certificate of appreciation to Lion E.L. Jackson who is completing his 59th year as a Lion. The certificate noted that "Mr. Jackson's contributions to Lionism and his community have been substantial over the years."

LADY LION was the title conferred on Mrs. R.W. Merket, above, by the Cisco Lions Club. She attends their annual installation dinners and contributes a substantial check each year to the Lions program for crippled children. Her late husband was a member of the club. (Staff Photo)

The Postal Inspection Service is attempting to prevent theft of mail from all sources by informing and educating as many elements of society as possible. The United States Postal Service is a principle victim but the ultimate victim is a business or individual who depends on mail for their livelihood and existence. The loss of a social security or retirement check addressed to an elderly or retired person can have devastating emotional and financial significance.

Mail is most vulnerable at the point of delivery. An extra effort should be made by mail recipients to know their carrier's schedule and make every effort to be at home to personally accept delivery of valuable mail. Retirement and social security checks are delivered on a fixed schedule which is known by the addressee and criminals as well. Have a neighbor retrieve your mail if you cannot be available and do the same for your neighbor. Also, deposit your mail for collection at a post office or collection box. If this is inconvenient, place letters on your house letterbox for collection shortly before your carrier arrives. Your personal mail can be used most effectively to defraud your bank, consequently creating a very inconvenient situation. Make every effort to protect your income as well as outgoing mail by using these common sense suggestions.

Crime prevention can be a community effort. Everyone receives mail almost on a daily basis. This provides common grounds for neighbors to become better acquainted and watch out for each others mail and mailbox. If a concentrated effort is made to protect your mail, potential mail thieves will not be given the opportunity to make you a victim.

If you have information regarding theft of mail, contact your local Postal Inspector or Postmaster.

DPS Releases

1981 County

Accident Figures

The Texas Department of Public Safety has released 1981 vehicle accident figures for Eastland County, showing that total accidents have increased over those in 1980.

This local increase in total accidents is above the six per cent increase reported state-wide last year. There were 458,017 accidents in Texas in 1981.

Sgt. Jerry Mathews of the Eastland office notes that in 1980 there were 252 total accidents in Eastland County, with 283 recorded in 1981. Injury accidents, however, were down from the previous year. Injury accidents totaled 106 in 1980, with 88 in 1981.

Deaths from traffic accidents in the county continue to hold at the same figure for each year eight persons killed.

"Unfortunately, the figure seems to average out at that each year," says Mathews. "We would like to break that cycle."

"We fear that the current year may not be lower, however, for there have already been several fatalities for 1982."

Colonel Jim Adams, DPS Director for the state, notes there were 4,701 fatalities in Texas during 1981.

"This was the fifth consecutive record year for motor vehicle deaths in Texas," he says.

Adams states that DWI related deaths last year totaled 1,082, an increase of eight per cent over 1980.

"Fatalities attributed to drunk driving made up 23 per cent of the total killed, according to investigating officers. We believe this figure would be as high as 50 per cent, however, if Texas law required blood alcohol measurements from all drivers involved in fatal accidents."

Motorcycle deaths reached 442 in 1981, rising 17 per cent as compared to the previous year. Seventy-five per cent of the cyclists killed were not wearing helmets.

The State Director and local DPS officers urge drivers to observe speed limits, use seat belts, and refrain from drinking if they plan to drive.

"The Troopers and I sincerely wish that something could be done to prevent more fatalities this year," states Sgt. Mathews. "That would be a real cause for celebration."

Kenneth Hawari Tells Of Accomplishments And The Inspiring People In His Life

Sometimes young people are called "promising", and a few actually fulfill a lot of the promise in early adult life. Kenneth Hawari, of Cisco and Austin, has already chalked up achievements in writing, law studies, and other academic work. His first job experiences have also involved work of extraordinary interest.

Kenneth, a son of Tarek and Kay Hawari of Cisco, was born in Eastland in October, 1958. His first public accomplishments came during High School days in Cisco, but he feels that his grandparents also had a great deal of influence upon him. A grandmother, Mrs. Johnnie Cheshire, lives in Cisco. Her husband was Clyde, or "Mac" Cheshire - as most people knew him.

"Grandfather Cheshire died when I was only two years old," Kenneth Hawari states. "But I can honestly say he has had a great influence on my life as anyone. He was a proficient writer and cartoonist - his forte was political comment.

"Although he and I would probably have disagreed on many topics, from reading his Editorials, letters, etc. I have learned an appreciation for the value of the written word - not to mention the power.

"I think that had he had the opportunities I have, he would have done what I'm doing. But he didn't have those opportunities. And because he didn't, he learned from the people who knew him what it means to be a human being first.

"Hopefully, that won't be lost in the long run."

Kenneth's High School years - 1973-77 - were full of activity. He was in the Band, played football, tennis and basketball, and entered U.I.L. competitions. He was a member of the Spanish Club, a King Lobo nominee, a state Essay Contest winner, and a Class President. He was in the National Honor Society, a Senior Who's Who, served on the Student Council, was a Lobo Howl Co-Editor, and a Salutatorian at graduation.

Does he feel like he worked too hard? Not at all!

"My most influential teachers," he says, "were Mrs. Ernest Reich, Mrs. W.A. Cotton, Mr. Jim Coats, and Mr. Ken Norris. They were influential because each one demanded the most from me and expected to get it! They did me a favor - College was much easier because of them."

Hawari attended Cisco Junior College for the term of 1977-78. He played in the Band, was in the Wagon Wheel's Service Club, and was on the President's List.

Since 1977 he has worked summers - and occasionally during the school year for International Royalty and Oil Co., managed by Robert Kamon and Ivan Webb of Cisco. This has consisted of writing and laying-out annual reports, stockholder's letters, and filings for the Securities and Exchange Commission.

In the fall of '78 Hawari enrolled at the University of Texas in Austin.

"Thanks in large part," he says, "to the Leon Maner Scholarship and the Cisco School Board. Maner set aside $100,000 to endow a fund for scholarship aid to students graduating from Cisco High School and/or CJC who want to attend the University of Texas. I don't know how many people have received it but the Scholarship is an incredible asset to students in the area. The School Board administers the grants."

As a Government Major, he attempted to choose suitable classes.

"My first Government class, as I found out too late, was probably one of the hardest government classes for undergraduates, with one of the hardest professors. Call 'Constitutional Interpretation', it was taught just like a Law School class.

"Even though it accounted for my lowest college grade, I was inspired by the subject and the teacher - Prof. Wallace Mendelson. He was not unlike Prof. Kingsfield in the Paper Chase. Anyway, that's when I think I really fell in love with the law."

Kenneth Hawari received his Bachelor of Arts Degree in May, 1981, with Highest Honors. He was given Special Honors in Government. He was also inducted into Phi Beta Kappa, the oldest Honor Society in the country, Pi Sigma Alpha (A Government Honor Society), and the pre-Law Association.

While at the University Hawari married Beverly Preston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Preston of

Farmers Shoot For Higher Number Of People To Eat Their Products

Farmers like to shoot for numbers when it comes to marketing. The more people like and eat their products, the better.

Numbers will always be important, yet producers should start paying more attention to the types of people who eat what they produce.

Actually foods are like people - they are known by the friends they make and keep. Over time, they don't keep all their friends, so every product has a continuing job of making friends. Who these friends are makes a lot of difference.

If a food product is popular with a segment of people who will become more numerous in the future, then its prospects are bright. If it is popular among people who will make up a small part of the future population, its future is then less favorable.

Indications are that there will be more large cities in the future. Urban people don't necessarily buy the same things that smaller city residents and farmers buy. But, as people move to the larger cities, they tend to adopt food habits of the people already living there. This is true regardless of where people come from.

If foods are popular among people with a lot of education, they are likely to be less popular among people with little or no education.

The kinds of friends a product has can determine whether or not that product will be around in the future. Unless some products are remodeled to catch the attention of more people, they are apt to fade into oblivion.

Pest Alert

Now is the time to be keeping a close eye on your squash and other cucurbits (pumpkins, melons and cucumbers) for squash bugs. If you plant squash, you will more than likely have squash bugs. So unless this is your first time to plant squash you have probably encountered this pest before.

These insects suck the juices from the foliage causing discoloration and stunting. The leaves wilt rapidly and soon become blackened, crisp and dead. Attacked plant stems often are enlarged but later wither and die.

Mature squash bugs are brownish gray to dark gray. The immature squash bugs have a green abdomen with a crimson head, throat, legs and antennae. They later become grayish-white with nearly black legs and antennae. They grow to about 5/8 inch long at maturity. Eggs are yellowish to bronze-brown and laid in clusters on the underside of leaves, usually in vein angles.

Eggs hatch in 1 to 2 weeks. Both the immature and mature squash bugs feed in groups. Six to eight weeks are required for squash bugs to reach maturity.

Control of this insect is often difficult, especially if populations are allowed to reach high numbers. Squash bugs can often be controlled in the home garden by hand-gathering or by trapping them under boards or shingles placed beneath the plants. Early monitoring and removal of eggs is also very important.

If insecticides are used, apply when the squash bugs first appear on plants. Probably the most effective insecticides for controlling this pest are Sevin and Thiodan. The wettable powder formulations are preferable because of the better coverage provided by spraying. However, heavy dusting of the crown area can also be effective.

As always please refer to label instructions for applications rates, minimum days between application and harvest, and other important information. Please contact the County Extension Office with any questions regarding this or any other pest problem.

Cisco. Beverly was a Queen Lobo in Cisco High School, and attended Cisco Junior College. She graduated from C.J.C. in 1979, and from the U. of Texas - with High Honors - in 1981. Her Degree is in Elementary Education. She is currently employed by the Employees Retirement System of Texas.

In June, 1981 Hawari went to Washington to serve as a legislative intern for Congressman Charles Stenholm. He was selected with three others from a field of 55 applicants.

He researched legislative issues, replied to constituent mail, attended committee hearings, and even wrote a colleague letter. He feels that he was fortunate to be in D.C. during the first big budget battle in recent history.

After work hours he saw most of the sights and sounds of the City, attended a state ceremony on the lawn of the White House (President Reagan officiating), and even got to go sailing with friends from Stenholm's office.

Hawari entered the UT School of Law in the fall of '81, and has just finished his first year. He has won Honors in Civil Procedure, and Honorable Mention as outstanding oral Advocate in Moot Court Competition.

"In the future," Hawari says, "I hope to work for a small law firm in Texas - but not Dallas or Houston. I hope to eventually open up my own practice, or go into partnership with one or two others. I like small towns, have always been a small town boy, and I plan to stay that way - regardless of the aspirations of 99.9% of all law students.

"I may eventually consider politics, however, although probably as an advisor or assistant head of an elected official.

"And hopefully - I'll have the time and 'stuff' to write. Editorials and fiction are my favorite mediums." When Kenneth Hawari talks of such things, you somehow expect it will all come true. For he has a way of putting out a lot of effort - of working toward goals. Maybe that's what you call adding substance to the promise.

Studies of aging indicate the saying, "Don't just get older - get better" shows there is more to aging than marking the years off the calendar. Four major poets who lived to be over 80 did more work in the last 10 years of their lives than between ages 20 and 30. William Gladstone took up a new language at 70.

At 83, he became Prime Minister of England for the fourth time. John Wesley was 88 and still preaching daily with eminent success, eloquent power, and had great popularity. Abraham was called to be the founder of Israel at 99 - and he had no children, at the time. We have scores of older people in their 70's and 80's who devote hundreds of hours of volunteer work, caring for children, taking their friends to shop, counseling with young people, caring for their own home and yard, calling their friends by telephone and reassuring them, visiting the shut-ins and the ill. Become a member of this vast network of people "who get better by getting older." Call your Senior Center today and become active in helping others. Cisco Garden Club Holds Final Meet

Mrs. Betty Harrell was hostess for the Cisco Garden Club's final meeting of the club year at her home on the Rising Star Highway. She was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Lucy DeVault, Mrs. Pearl Carson and Mrs. Louise Allison as co-hostesses.

The covered dish luncheon was served at tables centered with spring flowers. Door prizes were given, and favors were tiny baskets filled with flowers that were created by Mrs. Charlotte Kaltenbaugh and her daughter, Amanda. Mrs. Kaltenbaugh also brought for each guest, a setting of Angelwing Begonias. A special treat was a tour of the Harrell home and surroundings that are self-evident of the tremendous amount of work that has gone into beautifying the home and grounds.

The club president, Mrs. Sue Davis, presided at the business session and announced that the spring convention of District VIII Garden Clubs will be held in Breckenridge, with the Cisco Club participating.

Present were: Mrs. Anton White, guest, and members, Mmes. Edna Bint, Barbara Bostick, Ardythe Caldwell, Kathryn Cole, Alea Cole, Etta Judia, Charlotte Kaltenbaugh, Marcia Kelly, Vera London, Lorena Smith, Viola Webb, Miss Josephine Wallbraun and hostesses.
