

HALL OF REMARKS

BY HERREL HALLMARK

HAPPY HALLOWEEN this Sunday. I just hope and pray that no one is harmed this weekend by someone who doesn't know better. With all the scare across the country about finding different types of poisons in all types of foods and medications, its probably recommendable not to allow children to go trick-or-treating, unless the person's home they are going to is well known by you or your family. Even if kids do not go trick-or-treating in Cisco, they will still be able to have plenty of fun since they can attend the Cisco Service Club carnival Saturday night at Cisco Intermediate School.

GHOSTS AND goblins were very visible in Cisco Friday morning and afternoon as students from Cisco Primary School were paraded downtown with their Halloween costumes donned for the event.

CONGRATULATIONS to Cisco's Junior High and Junior Varsity teams on defeating Hawley football teams Thursday night in Hawley.

que put in the school's showcase for their excellent playing this year. So far, they have only lost one game in the two years the boys have been playing football together.

Cisco's Lobo Junior Varsity will apparently go undefeated this year since they only have Jim Ned to go before the end of their season. Be sure and turn out next Thursday night at Chesley Field in Cisco and back the J.V. and help support them to a undefeated season.

Turn out Thursday to cheer both of the Junior High teams also.

Cisco Teams Defeat Hawley Thursday

Cisco took three teams to Hawley Thursday night for football games and came home with three winning, unscored-on teams. Cisco's seventh grade won 26-0, the eighth grade won 22-0 and the Lobo Junior Varsity won 16-0.

The seventh grade team started out the winning night for Cisco, with all of their points scored in the first half of play, when Raiford Rattan returned the opening kick-off 85 yards for a touchdown. The try for two extra points failed making the score 6-0.

The second touchdown came on a quarterback keeper play by Lance Angel. The extra point try failed making the score 12-0.

Cisco's Brian Wagnon made Cisco's third touchdown and again the extra point try failed, making the score 18-0.

The final points of the game were scored by Kevin Kirk on the touchdown run and also on the extra point try, a pass from QB Angel to Kirk. The half-time and also the final score was 26-0.

Cisco's eighth grade team started their scoring following a punt return by Shelby Nixon to Hawley's one-yard line. Quarterback Jason Rattan kept the ball for the touchdown. QB Rattan then passed to Ricky Chambers for the extra two points making the score 8-0 in the first half.

Cisco received the second half kick-off and Jason Rattan raced from Cisco's 35-yard line to the end zone for a touchdown. Rattan also ran the ball in for the extra points making the score 16-0. In the final quarter of play, QB Rattan kept the ball for a three-yard touchdown. The try for two extra points failed making the final score 22-0.

Cisco's Junior Varsity started their scoring during the second quarter of play when Josh Potter made a touchdown from five yards out. Quarterback Joe Perry kept the ball for two extra points making the first half score 8-0.

In the final quarter of play, Cisco's J.V. added their final touchdown when QB Perry scored from the 25-yard line of Hawley. Perry then passed to Stanley Callahan for two points making the final score 16-0, leaving Cisco's J.V. undefeated for the season with one more game to play, against Jim Ned.

The house belonged to O. McCoy.

WORD of GOD

What shall be the sign?

Mark 13:4

And except those days should be shortened there should no flesh be saved: but for the elect's sake those shall be shortened.

Then if any man shall say unto you, Lo, here is Christ, or there; believe it not.

For there shall arise false Christs, and false prophets and shall show great signs and wonders; inasmuch that, if it were possible, they would deceive the very elect.

Behold, I have told you before.

Wherefore, if they shall say unto you, Behold he is in the desert; go not forth; behold, he is in the secret chambers; believe it not.

For as the lightning cometh out of the east, and shineth even unto the west; so shall also the coming of the Son of man be.

For whosoever the carcass is, there will the eagles be gathered together.

Lt. Governor Bill Hobby Is For Funding Colleges

Lt. Governor Bill Hobby says he is for full funding of Texas' 47 public community Colleges.

In a meeting with Houston Community College System officials, Hobby said he supports the contact hour system for funding community colleges in Texas and that he will push for full funding based on the cost of study committee's report submitted to the Coordinating Board and the Texas Education Agency with reasonable inflation factors. Escalating costs of energy, construction, renovation, transportation and other expenditures necessary to serve an ever-expanding student body makes it imperative that this vital segment of the educational community receive the total level of financial support as specified by the funding formula.

"Community colleges are among our State's greatest resources," Hobby said. "They train the technicians who, in turn, keep Texas on-line in the expanding fields of technology. They are the lifeblood of our workforce."

Hobby noted that all 47 public community colleges have had a positive impact on the economy through retraining and upgrading Texas workers.

On a related issue, the Lieutenant Governor said the recommendations from the Governor's Special Task Force on Higher Education may come before the Legislature next session. One of the recommendations is for the State to partially fund public community colleges with the remaining support coming from each local district. Hobby said he supports the committee's recommendation "but only if the ways and means of local support is left in the hands of the local college boards of trustees."

Organizational Meeting Set For Cisco Arts Club

Mrs. Myrtle Wilks and Mrs. Sue Mullinax announce an organizational meeting for the Cisco Art Club to be held Thursday, November 4th, at 3 p.m. at Room 109 in the Fine Arts Building on the Cisco Junior College campus.

The purpose of the meeting is to determine the activities and times for the club to meet. It has been proposed that the club be a working club so the members might come together to paint with oil, water color or acrylic and use the interaction and knowledge of fellow members to enhance each particular artist's knowledge and ability.

Many potential members might be working during the daytime and might prefer at least one night meeting per month. Anyone unable to attend the November 4th afternoon meeting, but wants to voice their desire for the club to have some night meetings, is asked to please call Mrs. Wilks at 442-3962 or Mrs. Mullinax at CJC, 442-2567, extension 120. Anyone unable to attend the first meeting but would like to be put on the list to be notified of future meetings is asked to please call.

The meeting is open to anyone who would be interested in a workshop environment and would enjoy the fellowship of other artists.

Senior Citizens Nutrition Menu

Last week we commented on the writing of Dr. Lester L. Coleman and Ms. Sonia E. Patten in regard to elderly people who often have inadequate nutrition.

We have known for many, many years that food is universally used to maintain and foster social relationships with others. Stop to think...we give and receive food at holiday feasts, or have family dinners...this dining with friends and relatives help us achieve appetites. If an individual is isolated from such social settings, as 31% of Americans over 65 who live alone, you will find nutritional problems develop.

Families should watch carefully if their relatives live alone to determine if the elderly person is eating properly. In other words a careful study of the living circumstances of the elderly person is the means of attaining the goal of good nutrition.

Families and friends should ask themselves these questions when reviewing nutrition for the elderly:

Does the elderly individual associate food and health? Is the elderly person able to make changes in habits and environment?

Does the person eat alone or with others?

Do the elderly persons prepare their own meals? Do they do their own shopping?

Finally, are the economic resources adequate for nutritional needs?

All the above questions resulted from many months of study. If you know of an elderly individual be sure and study their eating habits. One way to help the individual is to encourage the person to come to the Senior Center where they are taught how to select and prepare nutritional foods.

The programs for the week included: Stan Boose talked on the subject "Security Tips for Senior Citizens"; Janet Thomas discussed the nutritional value of peanuts in the diet; Rev. and Mrs. W.E. Hallenbeck, Ruby Smith and Steve Wilson presented a musical program.

A Halloween breakfast was held for the Cisco and Eastland Senior Centers. The breakfast was held at the Cisco Senior Center. Marguerite King presented peppy Halloween music. Everyone was dressed in some form of Halloween costume.

Dinner music was presented by Addie Mae Cooper, Mrs. James Fellows, A.E. McNeely, Billie Wood and the Senior Center Choir.

The menus for the week are:

Monday--Oven fried chick, glazed carrots, potato au gratin, fruited jello, bread, butter and drink.

Wednesday--Beef pattie, pinto beans, relish, apple/carrot/salad, banana pudding, bread, butter and drink.

Friday--Chicken & dumplings, peas & carrots, raw vegetable salad, pudding/topping, bread, butter and drink.

In the years prior to Ranger, coal and wood supplied the energy for a young American industrial base.
After Ranger, petroleum became the primary energy source.

The change is significant.
The development of large pools of oil, particularly in West Texas during the decade following the Ranger
discovery, guaranteed life
for the automobile industry.
And the automobile effect on American society can not be underestimated.

The development of the automobile prompted the industrial rise of the American Midwest. Meanwhile, the construction of roads in the 1920s and the use of things like school buses brought about the dissolution of many rural communities,
particularly in the years
after World War II, and the consolidation of schools,
banks and other services in rapidly-growing urban centers.

Another form of
mechanization, the tractor, had a profound effect on agricultural production and rural farm life. Petroleum, a convenient, mobile source of energy, made it all possible.
Oil was the catalyst.

And while the transition from coal to oil is symbolic of the change in American society during the 1920s, it is particularly descriptive of events in North Central Texas. Here, oil production was a logical step in an area
whose economic strength had been derived from mineral extraction. The story of the mineral industry
in the Ranger country began east of Ranger Hill in the early 1880s.

By 1900, coal production was an important factor in the local economy and Ranger lay just west of the region whose mineral deposits made it the center of the Texas coal mining industry.

The early decades of the 20th Century were peak years for Texas coal production. After 1895, mining operations increased rapidly in North Central Texas and contribution to a "boom"
economy for the next 20 years. Texas produced 150,000 tons of bituminous coal in 1895; in 1915, production reached 1.2 million tons and was valued at $4.2 million. The coal industry was at its apex and there were no real indications that the collapse was just a few short years ahead. It was an auspicious time.

Military expeditions reported evidence of coal in North Central Texas as early as 1854 but it was not until the 1880s that any consistent efforts were made to mine
the mineral.

The Texas and Pacific Railroad operated three drift mines near present-day
Gordon in 1886. Labor problems so vexed the mines
that the railroad shut them down and obtained coal from outside the state.

Similarly, the Texas Central Railway operated mines
near Cisco until production proved of poor quality and the mines were abandoned.

The Johnson Brothers
started the most significant mining operation. The Michigan natives spent the early years of the 1880s acquiring acreage in Erath,
Palo Pinto and Eastland Counties after learning from a geologist that coal existed in commercial quantities at shallow depths. One shaft was opened and the Johnson Brothers signed a contract for marketing the coal with
the Texas and Pacific Railroad.

Harvey Johnson managed
the mine, which employed
the old miners from Coalville, north of Gordon.
Meanwhile, William Whipple
Johnson handled legal matters and sought additional funding for the fledgling enterprise. It was tedious work. When Harvey Johnson died unexpectedly in January 1888, William temporarily lost interest in the mines and sought a purchaser.

That purchaser was Col.
R.D. Hunter, a St. Louis cattle broker who was seeking new ventures following the disastrous collapse of the cattle industry in 1886. The rivalry that soon ensued between Hunter and Johnson had repercussions that resulted indirectly in the Ranger oil discovery.

Col. Hunter was a native of Scotland who had emigrated with his family to the United States at an early age. In 1859, a year after he married, Hunter and his young wife journeyed to Colorado seeking excitement in the newly-opened gold mines.
Hunter fell ill in Colorado
and it was some time before he recovered. The experience proved beneficial,
however, and Hunter learned the logistics of the mining industry while he was in Colorado.

He made his fortune in cattle following the Civil War by driving Texas longhorns
from the Gulf Coastal Plain to railheads in Kansas. In 1873, Hunter joined Albert Evans in a livestock brokerage commission firm which became one of the most respected exchanges in the American West.

The firm held interests in operations as diverse as a beef canning company in St.
Louis and the old John Chisum range in New Mexico Territory which the firm bought in the late 1870s on the eve of the Lincoln County War.

It was as a cattle broker
that Hunter made the acquaintance of Jay Gould, president of the Texas and Pacific Railroad. It may have been Gould that told Hunter about the problems of the Johnson Mine in Texas. At any rate, Col.
Hunter was receptive to a new undertaking. In 1884, he had been on top of the cattle industry. His interest included 386,000 cattle, $5.6 million in capital and title or leases to an estimated 11.4 million acres of land. His peers responded to his success by electing him first president of the newly-organized National Cattlemen Association.

Then came the winter of 1886-7. Hunter lost 20,000 cattle on one Montana ranch alone. With the subsequent collapse in the cattle market, Hunter and Evans
barely escaped bankruptcy.
Hunter, somewhat wary of the cattle industry, left the partnership.

In May 1888, Col. Hunter
signed an option to purchase the Johnson Mine. As far as William Whipple Johnson knew, Hunter was acting as agent for a group of New York investors. Disputes soon developed over title to some of the coal lands and the Hunter faction refused final payment to Johnson.

In later years, it was an embittered W.W. Johnson who sought revenge against the newly-organized Texas
and Pacific Coal Company

by opening mines at Lyra, two miles east of Strawn. His one troubled dream was to own a successful coal mining property. William Whipple
Johnson died without achieving it.

Ironically, all the mines he started later proved successful in the hands of other individuals.

With the mining boom
underway in 1895, North Central Texas attracted outside capital. It was the influx of capital that made the mines
a success. Coal companies organized in the area bounded by Strawn, Mineral Wells, Thurber and Bridgeport.
The most prominent operation was at Thurber. The community was a mining camp for the Texas and Pacific Coal Company which formally organized with R.D. Hunter as president in October 1888.

Under Col. Hunter's management, additional mines were opened and a screening process instituted to remove many of the impurities that had so upset the Texas and Pacific Railroad.
There is little doubt that the railroad, major market for the coal, encouraged the Hunter faction to purchase
the Johnson Mine. The railroad had threatened to cancel its contract with Johnson, but the Texas and Pacific quickly signed a rival contract with the Hunter faction at the sale of the coal mines.

When W.W. Johnson
realized what happened, he angrily sought to organize a rival coal company to exploit the Thurber coal vein at Lyra.

Meanwhile, population at Thurber grew from 200 in 1888 to 2,500 in 1900. As early as 1892, there were 225
company-owned houses with rents varying from $7 to $15
monthly for the more expensive quarters. Five dollars monthly represented an average rent in a town with a general store, hardware store, drug store, billiard hall, saloon, bakery, meat-shop and grainery. Families had access to churches of all denominations and several schools.

In 1895, a brick plant was opened at Thurber which, in 1902, employed 200 individuals. The brick plant proved a money loser over the ensuing years and was shut down for 18 months in the early years of World War
I.

Company lands supported farms, a cotton gin, a dairy and were the scene of an early cattle-feeding experiment.

But it was the mines that remained the focus for the town of Thurber. In 1898, miners earned an average $1
per ton of coal excavated.
Between 1890 and 1903, the labor force increased to 1,400, many of whom had emigrated from Italy or eastern Europe.

In the years following 1900,
capital improvements
brought about a greater use
of machinery in the mines.
Where mules and horse
labor had once been common, electrically run cars furnished motive power. And while development work was cramped, the mines overall were clean, dry and relatively safe.

Individual production averaged nearly 20 tons per month in 1898 though a select few managed to produce twice that. And despite deductions for electricity, transportation, rent and company advances, most miners managed to take home a fair wage.

Though Thurber was, in a sense, the capital of the Texas coal industry, growing competition in the region prompted the Texas and Pacific Coal Company to examine additional properties.
Using a diamond drill, the company began prospecting
work in an area by Weatherford, Comanche and Graham prior to 1900.

The prospecting campaign
lasted better than a decade
and showed the best coal property divided between the TP and the Strawn Coal Mining Co. which had purchased W.W. Johnson's interests in the Lyra mines.

In October 1911, W.K. Gordon, vice president and general manager for the TP
ventured out to a core drilling site at Staff, eight miles south of Ranger on the Leon River. While examining samples obtained from about 700 feet, Gordon, who had acquired extensive geological knowledge, noticed leaking petroleum.

It was a significant find.
For that discovery marked
the beginning of a campaign to locate petroleum in the coal measures section of North Central Texas, a campaign that would culminate
six years later in the J.H.
McCleskey No. 1.

Extension Homemakers Sponsor Drug Abuse Program

The Eastland County Extension Homemakers will be sponsoring a special Drug Abuse Program on Tuesday, November 9th in the First Baptist Church Fellowship Hall in Eastland. The public is invited to this program which will begin at 1:30 p.m.

The speaker will be Marilyn Golightly, Region 3 Coordinator for Texans War on Drugs. Ms. Golightly is from San Angelo and serves over 50 counties. The primary purpose of the Texans War on Drugs is to educate and make parents aware of the illegal drug abuse problems that are present today.

Recently, Eastland County has been proclaimed as having a serious illegal drug traffic problem. Let's all help stop this situation by learning more about illegal drugs and not let our children and grandchildren suffer from these harmful drugs.

Everyone is urged to attend this special county-wide program and hear Ms. Golightly.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor,

May I please take this opportunity to recommend to the voters of Eastland County Senator Mike Richards, candidate for State Comptroller.

Senator Richards, from the Houston metropolitan area, is a long-time personal friend and a gentleman I know to be a man of character and leadership. He is a family man, recently named Father-of-the-Year by a state-wide mothers' organization, and he is also an elder in his church. Politically he is a conservative and he has demonstrated his leadership in the financial community as well as in the state senate. He was a co-sponsor of Governor Clements' wiretap bill to combat dope pushers.

Coach Tom Landry has been actively campaigning for Senator Richards, and in fact the two were together in Abilene this week. Coach Landry has said about Richards, "I am interested in getting people of good moral character in public office. I think that Mike will be that type of a person: a conservative leader where we need one. A victory for Mike Richards, in my personal opinion, will be a victory for Texas."

However you choose to vote in this race, nonetheless I urge all citizens to go to the polls and vote on November 2.

Respectfully,
Eris Ritchie

LICENSED AND BONDED

Thanks to the voters of Eastland County!

Martha & I want to take this opportunity to express our deep gratitude to the voters of the Rising Star, Eastland, Ranger & Cisco area for the overwhelming support they have given me in my campaign for State Representative.

Because of our close association with so many people in the Eastland County area, we have probably been guilty of not spending as much campaign time with you as we really should have. I apologize to those of you that we haven't seen personally and hope you will not think less of us for that reason.

I am going to need all your votes and support on November 2 in the General Election and I sincerely hope I can expect your continued support and confidence at that time.

On November 2 ----

By Philip Jaffa
Theme: NFL players are rightly troubled by anti-competitive practices engaged in by management.

Most of my friends are angry at the NFL players for striking. They are outraged that anyone making $80,000 or more annually should complain about salary. And asking for a percentage of gross revenues or of TV revenues seems even more unreasonable. Not even the IRS takes it out of the top before deducting legitimate business expenses.

But for those who promote the virtues of competition in the marketplace, it's hard to direct anger strictly towards the players. The NFL owners have engaged in some clear anti-competitive practices.

First, NFL owners limit the number of professional teams. With strong fan interest in the sport, football owners now appear to be making profits far in excess of what they could earn by investing elsewhere. If there were no restrictions on the formation of new teams, people would invest in professional football until the rate of return dropped to the same level as other investments. Americans would likely have more local professional football teams.

The players themselves don't really object to the monopoly profits generated by expansion restrictions. While the union would have more members if the league expanded, the average wage level would decline with average profitability.

No. The players are upset by another anti-competitive practice engaged in by management. The NFL owners receive most of their revenues from TV, which the teams share equally.

The sharing of revenues is not a new monopolistic practice. U.S. railroads pooled revenues in the 1880s, eliminating the need for competitive pricing. The resulting higher prices came right out of consumers' pockets and the government properly outlawed the practice. But, contrary to the views of many, the NFL owners' scheme bilks players rather than consumers.

Here is how it works.

In the NFL, with TV revenues pooled, all teams apparently generate about the same revenues. The teams with the lowest costs therefore earn the highest profits. And with players' salaries reputed to be the majority of team costs, it seems that teams with the lowest payroll — not the best winning record — are the most profitable.

By pooling revenues, the NFL owners have made winning largely irrelevant to profitability. If this isn't illegal, it ought to be.

The NFL players association could certainly use a good PR man and economist to explain what the owners are up to. The public wouldn't be so hostile if they knew what the players were fighting against.

Granting the players a percentage of gross revenues or TV revenues, obviously, would not reintroduce the principle of competition, which is what most of us would like to see. To do that, players and owners will have to turn in a different direction.

They could, for example, grant TV and other revenues to teams with the best records, to be divided among players and owners. That way, players would play as if their income depended upon it. And owners would bid for players and coaches, knowing that their income depends upon a winning record.

Vince Lombardi would turn over in his grave if he knew that, in his beloved NFL, winning isn't the only thing — it isn't anything.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Election Day is a day of decision. Each registered voter has the opportunity and the duty to go to the polls and vote. Yet, many do not. They ask: "What good is my vote? The politicians will do as they want. Does my vote mean anything?" Of course it does...Just think what would happen if these same people were denied the right to vote?

During the preceding months the candidates for public office have discussed many issues, offering solutions and making promises. We have had the opportunity to listen to each of them, read their literature, their newspaper advertising and in some case hear them debate issues on the public platform.

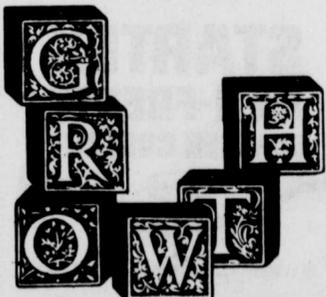

We let our ideas be known at the voting booth. A vote speaks for each citizen. It helps us control government. We lose part of our control each time we do not vote. We risk showing our preference for loss of freedom by not making the effort; we can help protect our freedoms by making the effort.

It may take approximately five minutes to cast a vote - but its result could affect our lifetime... Isn't it worth it?

News From The Center

By Mae Green

On Friday, October 8, at 10:00 a.m., the residents had a different but very special treat. Mr. Alvin Young, instructor of the High School Stage Band, and members presented a program to our residents. The program was held on the patio. The residents thoroughly enjoy the music and the singing. We thank them for presenting this wonderful program. On October 12th, Roland Smith accompanied Wanda Rainey of Carbon, on piano presenting a program of country and western songs and hymns of faith.

On Friday, October 15th, the Lions Club brought fruits to the residents. Thanks goes to the Lions Club for remembering our residents.

We would like to thank the following ministers for conducting services on Sundays: Rev. Milo Steffen II, 1st Christian; Rev. Ronnie Schakelford, Calvary Baptist; Bro. Cliff Reneau, Nazarene Church; and Bro. O.R. Williams.

The residents look forward to your visitations. Thanks to the Monday night gospel singers, headed by Mr. Carlton Holder, for donating money to have the piano tuned. We also thank Mildred Giest for donating money to put a damp chaser into the piano. The damp chaser's purpose is to keep the moisture out and enable the piano to hold its tune longer.

Our birthday party will be hosted Saturday at 2:30, by the Women of the Altar Society of the Holy Rosary Catholic Church. The birthday honorees are: Alma Keough, Earl Steel, Alton Ingram, Mae Courtney, Floyd Rains, Zona Buford and Cora Lee Thomas.

The new additions to our Nursing Home family are Cora Lee Thomas, Winfred Tucker, Alma Hall, Louis Starr and Oscar Schaefer. We are happy to have them with us.

Your visits are always a blessing to us. God bless all of you for taking time to care.

People n Things

THERE HAS been unrest in the country of Ecuador the past few days (this was written Oct. 19). Cause of the unrest, which included strikes by bus drivers and taxi drivers and demonstrations by college students, was an increase in the price of gasoline from about 25 cents per gallon to about 80 cents per gallon. In addition, an increase in bus fares from around 5 cents to about 8 cents was turned down by the government.

Strikers and demonstrators used all kinds of tactics to tie up traffic, including building fires across streets, throwing rocks, dumping loads of dirt in the middle of streets and the like.

There was evidence as this was being written that tempers were returning to near normal and that Quito, where we've been working for more than a month, will settle down again.

WENT TO THE movies the other day and tickets were about 50 cents for a first run USA picture. The actors talk in English and they've put in Spanish sentences across the bottom of the picture for the benefit of the local audience.

We give the Spanish folks an A plus. Their Spanish sentences eliminate the profanity and dirty talk that have come to characterize our USA movies the past few years. And we still say that the profanity and dirty talk add absolutely nothing to the pictures.

HAVE BEEN enjoying some bridge games with interesting Quito folks lately. A man and two women, all Jewish people who left their homeland of Germany when Hitler came to power prior to WWII, play with the JWSS once or twice a week. One of the group of five observes each rubber of bridge game.

The man, who is in his 80s, came to Quito with his family in the 1930s. He served as manager of the city's largest rural hotel for a good many years and now owns and operates an apartment house. The husbands of both ladies are deceased. They were business men, and the ladies stay on in Quito because it has been home.

EACH SUNDAY we attend services at the English Fellowship Church. The church is interdenominational with some 20 different denominations numbered among its members. The minister is from New Jersey and has been in Quito only a few months. Services are in English and well planned. The good size church is always full.

The minister told us that Quito has some 10,000 USA folks living in the area. They have programs for the lady folks and three preaching services on Sundays.

MET AN INTERESTING couple at church last Sunday. They are missionaries for a religious organization headquartered at Nyack, New York. A postcard was given us by the man. It gives their home address in Quito, in New York, and lists their three children.

Under the name of each of the children appears their address. One daughter's name is listed with "address unknown" under it. And it makes you wonder. They seem such a nice couple.

STROLLING DOWN a street the other day, our attention was called to a pathetic sight. Two small children, a girl of about two and a boy of four, didn't seem to be attended. The girl was crying and the boy was trying to lead her somewhere and she didn't want to go.

You want to offer help but you're in a foreign country. The children couldn't speak your language. If you try to help, an adult might step forward and charge you with something. What can you do except move on and hope that the youngsters found parents.

THE LARGE newspaper building where we work has a full staff of people. A boy of about ten years seems to be a member of the staff. He is in the building all day with his shoe shining box and equipment. And for about eight cents, we get a shoe shine two or three times a week - like in the olden days.

We inquired if the lad went to school and learned that he goes to classes at night.

THE MARLBORO people of the USA have a cigarette factory across the Pan American Highway from the newspaper office. Understand they buy and use local tobacco in their cigarette making. Their cigarettes sell for about 35 cents a package here, but they're not quite as good as USA Marlboros, a smoker told us.

Voters across the nation will "go to the polls" Tuesday on General Election Day in what is generally considered an "off year" election - but for some it's never an off year.

The General Election will be going on an end what has been going on for the year, starting before the party primaries back in May. Absentee balloting ended at 5 p.m. Friday at the County Clerk's Office, and the some 10,000 eligible voters in Eastland County presumably have voted or ready to march to the polls Tuesday.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. in nine voting boxes around the county.

All voters in the county will have the same long ballot down through the county surveyor office, and all will help decide the fate of six proposed constitutional amendments, as will voters throughout the state.

As is customary, The Democratic Party has candidates in every slot, and the Republican party has candidates in five "local" races, as well as another one in a precinct election. The Libertarian Party has a candidate in a local race (state Senate) as well as candidate in most state and national races.

United States Senator Democrat Lloyd Bentsen is opposed by Republican Jim Collins and Libertarian John E. Ford.

Cong. Charles Stenholm is opposed only by Libertarian James A. Cooley.

Hot race for the state pits Incumbent Republican Gov. William Clements with Challenger Democrat Mark White, Libertarian David Hutzelman and Citizens Party Bob Petec.

Incumbent Democrat Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby is opposed by Republican George Strake and Libertarian Laurel Kay Freeman.

Hot race for Attorney General pits Republican Bill Meier, Democrat Jim Mattox and Libert. Katherine S. Youngblood.

Incumbent Comptroller Democrat Bob Bullock is opposed by Republican Mike Richards and Libert. Janet Tlapek.

Democrat Ann Richards, Republican Allen Clark and Libert. Alma Kucymbala vie for the state treasurer's office.

Woody Glasscock, (Rep.), Garry Mauro, (Dem.), and Charles S. Fullen, (Lib.), are seeing General Land Office Commission post.

Dem. Jim Hightower, Rep. Fred Thornberry and Lib. Stanley Keen, seek the State Ag. Commission office.

Dem. Jim Nugent is opposed for Railroad Commissioner by Rep. John Henderson, Lib. Dick Bjornseth and Citizens Bob Russell.

Dem. Ted Robertson and Rep. John L. Bates seek the Place 1 slot on the Supreme Court.

Bill Kilgarlin (Pl. 2, Sup. Cr.); Charles W. Barrow, (pl. 3, Supt. crt.); Jack Onion (Court of Crim. Apls.); and Charles F. Campbell, (Pl. 1, Crim. Apls.), are all unopposed Democratic candidates. Dem. Chuck Miller and Rep. Ray Moses seek Place 2, Crim. Aps.

LOCAL RACES

Democratic Nominee Bob Glasgow of Stephenville is opposed by Republican Gary Hagman of Weatherford and Lib. Robert Mitchell for State Senate, District 22.

Eastland County was recently re-districted into State Rep. Dist. 65, and Republican Gary W. Logan of Brownwood and Democrat Jim Parker of Comanche seek the office.

Dem. Jewel Harris is opposed by Republican Carol Hunter for State Board of Education, Dist. 17.

11th Court of Appeals Chief Justice Austin McCloud, Democrat, is unopposed.

County-wide race of great interest pits Incumbent Democrat Criminal District Attorney Emory Walton and Republican Challenger Stan Boose for local D.A.

County Judge Scott Bailey, District Clerk Mary Jane Rowch-Brown, County Clerk Joann Johnson, County Treasurer Edith McCullough and County Surveyor Richard Johnson (all Democrats), are all unopposed for re-election.

EASTLAND

Voters in the Eastland Box have one Justice of the Peace vote: Democratic Nominee R.G. (Guy) Lyerla is unopposed.

PRECINCT TWO

Voters in Olden, Ranger, Desdemona and Lake Leon will also have on their ballots: J.P. M.D. Underwood, Dem., who is unopposed.

In this precinct Incumbent Democrat Jack Blackwell is opposed by Republican Robert Dale Butler for County Commissioner Pct. Two.

RISING STAR

Democrat Harold L. Evans is unopposed as candidate for Justice of the Peace in Rising Star.

CARBON, GORMAN

On the Carbon and Gorman ballots, the name of Democrat V.O. Huff is listed for J.P., Pct. 5.

CISCO

County Commission C.B. Dill, Democrat, is unopposed for re-election as is J.P. Carlton Holder.

The propositions will be "for" or "against": Repealing the state property tax.

To authorize the Legislature to provide assistance through the appropriations process to needy persons and to place a ceiling on payments for needy dependent children at one percent of the state budget.

If you're concerned about rising grocery costs, here's something you can do about it.

On November 2, you can make a positive step toward helping hold the line on rising grocery costs. Proposition 3, one of six proposed Constitutional Amendments which will be offered on the ballot, would correct the tax exemption for agricultural machinery and equipment. The effect of passage of this amendment will be to lower production costs for food and fiber. In the long run, this will be a positive step we can take to help hold the line on grocery price increases. For you and for your family, both now and especially in the future, this may be one of the most important votes you'll ever cast.

VOTE FOR 3.

Gardeners Make Ready For Cold Weather

The approaching cold winter weather has driven the home gardeners indoors or least reduced gardening activities. Now is a good time to take care of that equipment used to spray the garden for diseases and insects. Inflation has increased the value of equipment so that replacement would require a considerable outlay of funds. The one-to three gallon type sprayers should be thoroughly washed to remove any chemical left in the tank. Also wash out the nozzles to remove any trash. Once this has been done, fill the tank with clean water and then spray about a quarter through the nozzle. A small amount of summer oil may be added to the water to protect sprayer parts. Drain the tank thoroughly and store the sprayer with the lid off in an area out of the reach of children. This will help insure that the sprayer is ready for next year.

A hose-on sprayer should be washed out and then clean water run through the nozzle tip to insure that no chemicals are left in the tank.

Many gardeners have chemicals left from last year. In most cases the materials, if stored properly, will still be effective for next year. Most fungicides are wettable powders and, as such, should be protected from exposure to high humidity. If you have fungicides left over, place them in a large plastic or glass jar with the lid tightly sealed. Do not remove the chemical from the original container.

Remember the label on the bag is your final authority on how you can use the pesticide and at what rate.

Pesticides should be stored where they will not be exposed to extreme hot or cold temperatures and out of direct sunlight. Fungicides which have lost their effectiveness should be placed in a dry hole in the soil and covered with one to two feet of soil. Most fungicides once they are placed in direct contact with the soil or inactivated within a few days.

Insecticides should be handled much like fungicides in regard to storage. Most insecticides are liquid and it is sufficient to seal the container thoroughly. Destruction of old materials should be like that carried out for fungicides. Do not dig in an area which would wash into a garden site or into an area near a source of water.

All spray equipment and chemicals should be stored in an area out of the reach of children. A locked cabinet is ideal. By taking these precautions, you will be able to keep the last of your garden supplies as long as possible and be confident that you will not be the cause of any accidental pesticide poisoning. Please contact the County Extension Office for more information on this or other subjects.

Homemaking Hints

Smart shopping still pays off today - with 35% savings.

In 1972, a national consumer organization conducted a study on food buying habits. Two shoppers were sent to the supermarket with the same grocery store list. One was told to buy the best buys, the other to shop haphazardly.

When register tapes were compared, the careful shopper had spent 30% less than the casual shopper.

After a decade of runaway food prices, the same survey was done in August, 1982. The haphazard shopper's bill had shot up more than 250%! The carefully selected market basket was over 200% higher than in 1972. But in 1982 dollars, comparison shopping saved 35% over haphazard grocery store selection.

No wonder 75% of U.S.

supermarket customers have had to change their lifestyle because of inflation and uncertain economy, as the 1982 nationwide survey reveals. Many of these shoppers are from upper-or middle-income earners who've have recently began to cut back.

Here are some supermarket shopping hints. These strategies will help you save money at the grocery store:

1. Shop less often, and buy carefully larger quantity. Surveys show that more shoppers are doing that today.

2. Before you shop, check your supplies and bone up on some recipe ideas. Look for new ways to avoid monotony while saving money.

3. Simplify: Serve fewer courses. Make more-attractive arrangements of basic foods, relying less on store-bought garnishes. You cut salt intake as well as costs when you omit extras such as pickles and olives.

4. Buy essential nutrients first-foods high in vitamins, minerals, protein and fiber. You may find your cart is full, and feel no urge to go back for soft drinks, ready-made desserts, snacks or other frill foods.

5. Budget enough time for preparing food so you can avoid last-minute splurge shopping or restaurant meals.

6. Enjoy good quality in less expensive foods-perhaps banana bread instead of a more expensive frosted banana cake, or homemade lemonade instead of costly bottled drinks.

7. Grow some of your own herb seasonings in windowsill pots.

Youth Invited To Join 4-H

How would you like to join 4-H? You can, you know, if you really want to, and we'd be glad to have you.

4-H is a national youth program for all youth between the ages of 9 and 19 regardless of race, color, ethnic background, economic status or cultural differences. The Texas 4-H program is administered by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, a part of the Texas A&M University System.

The purpose of 4-H is to develop leadership and character in young people. 4-H'ers learn by doing through actively working on projects and participating in club meetings and 4-H activities.

4-H clubs are organized in such places as rural, suburban and urban neighborhoods. Groups may be organized among neighborhood families in one or two city blocks, housing complexes or anywhere they are needed.

Youth can participate in a variety of projects in 4-H, such as foods, clothing, animal projects, electricity, photography, arts and crafts, and many, many others. In fact, almost anything you want can be a project.

Most important and most of all, 4-H is a lot of fun! Where else can you get together with other people your age and have fun while you learn? Boys and girls in 4-H are always on the move doing something and participating in various activities.

For instance, the 4-H shooting sports project attracts numerous youngsters who are interested in learning to shoot and observe gun safety.

Livestock projects give youngsters a chance to be responsible for an animal and enter stock shows where they learn competitiveness and sportsmanship.

4-H'ers can even learn to make their own clothes through clothing projects.

Besides projects, other activities such as the share-the-fun give youngsters a chance to participate in organized recreation. County 4-H Fun Day, Day Camp or Rally Day is the time for playing games and making new friends. Members in 4-H can go on trips, take tours of interesting and educational places, and help finance their college education with scholarships awarded through 4-H.

Boosting the 4-H program is the private sector which provides great resources of money, personnel and materials for the advancement of 4-H. The many business and industrial leaders who support 4-H give significant testimony that 4-H is a valuable educational program for America's youth.

Remember, you are what you want to be in 4-H. It is educational, interesting, challenging and lots of fun!

For information regarding your local 4-H program, contact your County Extension Office.

Memorial Being Constructed

57,942 Names To Be Engraved

WASHINGTON, D.C.—The new Vietnam Veterans Memorial, being constructed near the Lincoln Memorial, represents the largest single engraving task ever undertaken. Names of all 57,942 American servicemen and women who died or are missing in Vietnam are being included.

The engraving has been accomplished using a new technique, developed through research at Binswanger Glass Company, Memphis, Tennessee, a division of National Gypsum Company.

Binswanger photographically generated a mask on each of 140 black granite stones selected for the monument. The stones are worth several thousand dollars each.

Using its exclusive method, Binswanger completed the mammoth project in less than three months.

Stones currently are being installed into two, 250-foot walls which meet in a V-shape and gently slope 10 feet into the ground. All stones in the project will be assembled in time for the national salute to Vietnam veterans on Veterans Day, November 11, 1982.

Binswanger Glass Company produces glass fixtures and furniture and decorative mirrors. It distributes and installs glass for autos and building construction through 72 branches in the South and Southwest.

"I shall keep working for you in Washington. I encourage everyone to vote on November 2."

.....give little thought to the question of values when we should measure them in terms of personal worth in everything he buys, enjoys or does. For example, some folks will buy real estate without any kind of evidence of title disregarding the fact that the principal value of the purchase is in the title, not in the land itself or the improvements thereon. This kind of thinking costs property owners thousands of dollars annually which could be saved and a part of the savings wisely spent for an abstract of title or title insurance.

Three Governors, Four Attorneys General Support Governor Clements.

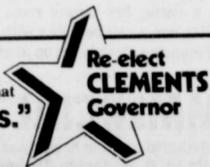

Because of Governor Clements' record, three former Governors—Allan Shivers, John Connally and Preston Smith—and four Attorneys General—Gerald Mann, John Ben Shepperd, Will Wilson and Waggoner Carr—are supporting him for re-election.

This is the first time in history so many elected state Democratic leaders are backing the Republican candidate for Governor. They served Texas in public office for a combined 54 years and know what the job of Governor takes. Although elected as Democrats, when they examined Mark White's record, they found it lacking.

These Texas leaders have crossed party lines because they feel that
"He's doing a good job for Texas."
