

HALL OF REMARKS

BY HERREL HALLMARK

NOW IS THE time of year when everyone begins reflecting on what happened to them during the past 12 months and they begin looking forward to what may lay in store for them during the approaching 12 months.

To some the past may be sad or to others extremely joyful, but the future can always hold hope.

The hope of solving problems which are faced now and the hope of becoming a better person in all facets of life.

We can also hope for more understanding among everyone and especially between countries with the constant prayer for world-wide peace.

FOR CISCO, the past 12 months have been very good with several new businesses opening their doors and new families moving to our town. Even with the few layoffs Cisco has experienced, it still has a much higher rate of employment than other cities in different states of the nation.

Cisco has the future to look forward to with the promise of more expansion and more businesses coming to Cisco. We can look forward to more civic-minded persons who are willing to do something for the community (and we can salute those Cisco already has).

WE ALWAYS have the promise of a new life if we turn our lives over to God and ask his forgiveness for our past and look forward to the future. In that respect, any day can be the beginning of a new year even if the numbers of the year do not change.

I hope you will make a new year's resolution to get your life in order with God so you may look forward to the coming days with a much brighter outlook.

NEW YEAR'S is traditionally a time of getting smashed at a New Year's Eve party and going home to start off the new year with an aching head and sick stomach from the night before.

If you are planning to attend such a party, I just want to urge you to make arrangements for someone who is not drinking to drive for you, so you won't get smashed after the party in an auto-wreck.

If you don't care about yourself, at least care about an innocent victim who might be in the other car which you wreck with in your drunken stupor.

WE WISH YOU a Happy New Year.

DPS Official Reviews Proposed DWI Laws

With state and national statistics showing that some 50 per cent of highway accidents involve drivers under the influence of intoxicating liquor, the Texas Legislature will consider proposals in the session beginning Jan. 11 to enact new penalties for DWI offenders.

This statement was made Wednesday noon by Sargeant Jerry Mathews of the Eastland County office of the Department of Public Safety in a talk at the weekly luncheon of the Cisco Lions Club. Lion C. B. Dill was program chairman and introduced the speaker.

In 1981, 4,700 persons - about the same number of people as the total population of Cisco - lost their lives in USA accidents, and 50 per cent of the accidents involved DWI drivers, Sgt. Mathews said. He added that there have been 10 fatalities in Eastland County accidents this year and that five of the number involved DWI drivers.

Last January, the governor appointed a 17-man task force to study the DWI problem and to recommend changes in state laws, Sgt. Mathews said. These recommendations will be presented to the new legislature.

The new proposals will include:

"Specializing in just you." 442-9979 or 442-2551. 709 Conrad Hillon, Cisco, p-9

CISCO KID CAR WASH

1. Raise the legal age for young people to buy liquor from 18 to 21 years. This would reduce teenage accidents by 28 per cent, the study showed.

2. Make it unlawful to have open alcoholic containers in moving automobiles. The present laws do not cover this.

3. Increase the fines for DWI conviction and let 40 per cent of the money from fines go to cities instead of 100 per cent to counties. Twenty per cent would be used by police to upgrade equipment. The same percentage of fines collected outside cities would go to sheriff's departments for equipment needs.

4. Suspend driver's licenses of those convicted of DWI for a few months and for longer periods for repeat convictions. Impound the cars of DWI violators who drive with a suspended license.

5. Suspend for 90 days the driver's licenses of those arrested for DWI and who refuse to take breath tests. Make refusal to take the tests an automatic conviction. (If the test shows a DWI suspect's blood to have .10 of alcohol, he would automatically be considered drunk.)

6. Establish three levels of punishment for DWI conviction, depending on the seriousness of the accident. A jail sentence would be mandatory in cases where death resulted or a driver was convicted of a 2nd or 3rd DWI offense.

Sgt. Mathews said that statistics show that DWI was the leading cause of traffic deaths involving teenage drivers. He urged Lions to write their state legislature members to urge support of the new regulatory proposals. He added that "there will be strong resistance due to the automatic provisions

Public Schools Will Resume On Monday

Classes will resume Monday, Jan. 3, for students of the Cisco Public Schools and the coming week concludes the fall semester of the current school year, Supt. James Couch reported Thursday.

The school calendar calls for the fall semester to end January 7th and for the spring semester to begin January 10th. There will be a work day for teachers of the school system on Saturday, Jan. 8, Mr. Couch reported.

Plans call for students of upper grades to spend the coming week taking final examinations. Classes will operate Monday on the regular schedule.

Classes were turned out

Dec. 17 for the Christmas holiday season.

New Year's Eve Party Planned

There will be a New Year's Eve Party for all young people - junior high, senior high and college ages - from 7:30 p.m. to 12:01 a.m. Friday night at the First Baptist Church, according to an announcement.

"A great time is being planned for the youth of our church, and they will enjoy being with us," the announcement said. "There will be games of all kinds and plenty of food. All youths are encouraged to invite their friends."

Business Office At CJC Opens Monday

The business offices will reopen at 9 a.m. Monday, Jan. 3, at Cisco Junior College and final preparations will begin for spring semester registration on Monday and Tuesday, Jan. 10 and 11, according to an announcement.

Classes will begin for students on the main campus and other CJC centers on January 12.

Registration at the Cisco campus will be held in the Student Union Building from 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon and 1:00 to 4:00 p.m. on Monday, January 10 and Tuesday, January 11; also from 6:00 to 8:00 p.m. on January 10 only.

Dormitories will open at 2:00 p.m. on Sunday, January 9. The cafeteria will open at 7:00 a.m. on Monday, January 10.

Students wishing to register at the Clyde and Abilene centers may do so January 4 thru 5 from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. and 6:00 to 8:00 p.m. at the Clyde Education Center in downtown Clyde and in Abilene at 1600 Sherman.

Late registration will continue through January 21 during regular office hours at the Registrar's office on the Cisco campus.

For more information, call the appropriate campus at one of the following numbers: Cisco - (817) 442-2567; Clyde - (915) 893-5876; Abilene - (915) 698-2212.

CofC Banquet Ticket Sale Is Ready To Start

Tickets will go on sale Monday for the annual banquet of the Cisco Chamber of Commerce, which will be held at 7 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 20, at the Cisco Junior College Ag Building, according to an announcement by Manager Randy Speegle.

The tickets are $6.50 each and they may be purchased through January 18th at the CofC offices. A catered dinner will be served to begin the evening's program.

State Representative Jim Parker, who was elected to the office in the 1982 general election, will be the program speaker.

A highlight of the program will be presentation of Cisco's annual community service award, recognition of someone for an "over-due" award, the top two students of Cisco High School and Cisco Junior College, and the city of Cisco's Employee of the Year.

Dr. Norman Wallace and his program committee expect to complete all details of the program within a few days, Mr. Speegle said.

Kiwanis Club Will Install Insulation For Sr. Citizens

During the next few weeks the Cisco Kiwanis Club will be installing low-cost ceiling insulation in the homes of some of Cisco's senior citizens of 55 years and older.

These homeowners and renters will be taking advantage of a community service project which will have able volunteers install loose-fill

Most Business Firms Plan To Observe Jan. 1 Holiday

Most Cisco business firms along with city, county and virtually all offices planned to be closed Saturday in observance of New Year's Day as a holiday, according to a survey. Jan. 1st is one of the holidays that are usually observed by Cisco businesses.

A number of offices, including city and county offices, were planning to close on Friday, Dec. 31, to give their employees another long weekend as an extra Christmas bonus. Police headquarters offices will be closed Friday and those needing the services of officers were asked to call the County Dispatch (629-1728).

Department of Public Safety, along with authorities of the city and county, renewed their statements to urge caution in all highway travel. They pointed out that some 45 Texans lost their lives in highway mishaps during the Christmas holiday weekend, and a like number was expected to die in New Year's weekend accidents.

DPS and officers throughout the state were paying particular attention to apprehending drivers under the influence of intoxicants.

Cisco business firms reported that business was good during the week beginning Dec. 27th.

The Cisco Chamber of Commerce will have new officers on the job as the new year begins Jan. 1st. Elected to serve during the coming year were Robert Dudley, president; and Gene Gwinn, Jerry Morgan and Dan Dixon, vice presidents.

The first CofC board meeting of the New Year will be held on Tuesday, Jan. 11, at noon, Manager Randy Speegle reported. Committees to serve during the year are expected to be named at that time.

In the absence of planned activities, New Year's Eve and New Year's Day were expected to be comparatively quiet in this community.

Eastland County Super Duper Sets Grand Opening Beginning Sunday

... people make the difference ...

Super Duper Food Store will hold its Grand Opening during the month of January with special attractions and features throughout the month, Manager Frank White has announced.

The giant, new super market opened on East Main St. the first of November, located in the area that has officially been named Crossroads Plaza, adjacent to Int. 20, Highway 80 and FM 570.

Open seven days a week, 7 a.m. to 11 p.m., the store features a full-line grocery, full line, on-site bakery, full-line delicatessen with sit-down snack bar, full line florist and other special departments, including a unique "enclosed produce center."

Owners James and Jimmy Parker, who also operate Super Duper Food Stores in Clyde, six in Abilene, Winters, Ballinger and South Texas, stated in announcing the Grand Opening: "We are very happy with the reception that the people of Eastland County have shown us, and we want to make this Grand Opening an event which they will long remember."

The giant store presently employs 50 full and part-time employees and features a 130-foot front.

"We are especially pleased with the staff that we've been able to assemble to operate the Eastland County store," Mr. Parker said. "There's no telling how many years of grocery experience that they've had in all."

In addition to Manager White, Randy Wheeler is assistant manager; William Corley, market manager; Keith Young, produce manager; Anita Whitley, delicatessen manager; Barbara Benton, Bakery manager; Betty Woods, Floral; Gail Jennings, bookkeeper; and Gayle Keller, cake decorator.

Night managers are Randy Hutte and John McKinney. Checkers include Dorothy Pelham, Arlene Moran, Cindee Renee, Flo Honea, Jennifer Stevens, Annette Bowls, Lillian Davis, Terri Parsons and Janice Hoodie.

Fred Hull is assistant market manager and Betty Butler and Julia Hunter are market employees. Others in the bakery are Ellen George, Virginia Tucker, Becky Hoodie and Gayla Whitley. Assisting the deli are Ann Smith, Carolyn Bilger, DeeDee Bledsoe and Gwinn Simms.

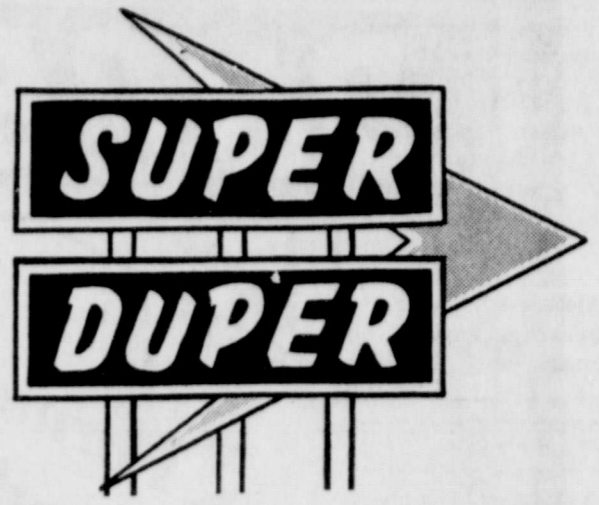

Other employees include J.A. Fox, Kenneth Holland, Derrick Fox, Roy Vaughan, Tommy Wells, Brian Larence, Mike Langford, James Reger, David Wilson and Darrell Whitley.

County Judge Scott Bailey Says:

'I Am Cautiously Optimistic About 1983'

By Viola Payne
We are told that time and space are relative in the Universe. But here in Eastland County we are still living in our usual frame of reference - bound by days and years. So as the year 1982 comes to a close, we look forward as well as backward, wondering what 1983 will bring.

County Judge Scott Bailey, with an office on the second floor of the courthouse, discusses such things in an interesting way. Bailey is not only a Judge, but an attorney, a historian, and a person well-versed in government and current events.

Besides his local duties in County government and civil matters, he works on a regional level in programs to prevent alcohol and drug abuse. He also represents the counties of Texas on an Advisory Committee of the Texas Department of Community Affairs. In work for senior citizens he serves on the Citizen's Advisory Committee of the Texas Department of Aging.

"You can say that I am cautiously optimistic about 1983," states the Judge, looking up from correspondence on his large oak desk. In a room nearby his secretary, Mrs. Jean White, answers the phone.

"America is at a crossroads, especially in values, goals, and education," Bailey continues. "The year 1982 had a lot of unforeseen things.

"But at least Eastland's state-wide image has been changed!" He chuckles. "Before this, when Eastland County was mentioned the first thing people thought of was a dried-up horned frog.

"Now they know we have a very wide-away, vigorous, State Championship Football Team.

"Coach Hess and the Eastland Mavericks are to be congratulated for what they have done.

"But on the activities of County Government - it is getting to where about the only thing we can predict accurately is the rise in cost of all goods and services. We spent $2,310,334.05 to run the County in 1982. We anticipate this will be about 15% higher in 1983.

"The 1982 figure is considerably higher than that of former years. For one thing, the county is now paying $40,000 per year to help support the new Central Texas Appraisal District, as mandated by state law.

"We also had to repair the courthouse this year. A heavy rain in Oct. 1981 caused some interior damage to the basement, as well as to the curbs, gutters, and sidewalks. Fortunately there was no great structural damage, and the building is back in good shape.

"Inflation is supposed to be down, nationwide. But on things we really need, the opposite seems to be true. Our County bills for utilities and telephone service are really up. Social Security taxes went up for all employees, and hospital insurance almost doubled. (Tripled, in some cases). County employees received a raise in wages.

"We have had no really new road equipment for a long time, other than four brush cutters. And heavier traffic has caused a lot more maintenance work.

"Maintaining the new jail, of course, costs more than the old one. The county has not been able to pay any of the principal on the cost of the new building - we have just been able to keep up the interest on the loan. The lowering of the interest rates will assist us; we might be able to pay some of the principal in 1983.

"But in spite of increasing costs here," he adds, "We have fared much better than most other counties. For we still have oil development, giving a huge boost to the local taxes and economy.

"Right now the Romney vicinity has proved to be a leading area in shallow production. And over near Ranger, the secondary recovery of oil by Sun Oil Co. appears to be right on schedule.

"What were some of the other important events of 1982, Judge Bailey?"

"The weather continued to make news in '82, with heavy, unseasonable rains in the spring, and a long dry spell in the summer. Peanut production was 'way off, as well as that of some other crops. Farmers and ranchers continued to have difficulty with low prices for products.

"In public ceremonies, the Boles farm had its Family Land Heritage Marker erected in 1982 - a first for Eastland County. The Presbyterian Church of Cisco, also, erected its Historic Marker this year.

"The Flag Raising Ceremony for the new flag here at the courthouse, and the Memorial Day Service at the Eastland Cemetery were impressive. Some of the World War I veterans were able to attend the Memorial Day Ceremony, which especially honored them.

"The Roaring Ranger Days were memorable, and the civic leaders of the town should be commended for the fine job they did. Not only with the celebration, but with the setting up of the excellent museum.

"Eastland, too, had a fine celebration this year, with its County Fair and Oil Appreciation Day. The Parade was the longest and best I have ever seen here.

"Cisco Frontier Jubilee, with its arts and crafts, continued to be outstanding.

"The year 1982 saw funding denied in Washington for the Sabanna Flood Control project - something I have been interested in since I became Judge in 1963. Much time, effort and money has been spent on this project - in my opinion the flood-control dams are still needed.

"This year also brought difficulties to the town of Rising Star, and I find myself sympathetic to its plight.

"Expenses of the town are growing, and the tax base is diminishing. This is an example not only of what can happen to an outstanding town, but to a State and Nation as well - if we are not careful.

"The election this year created a lot of interest, and some changes were made. Three new Justices of the Peace were elected: Guy Lyerla for Eastland, Texas Evans for Rising Star, and Leo Huff for Gorman. I appreciate being returned to office here.

"I am encouraged by the rising public awareness in Eastland County concerning drug abuse, including that of alcohol. Full public cooperation is needed to deter this type of crime.

"The Garcia murder trial made the news over a wide area this year.

"Another court case was the Federal Suit brought against County officials, pertaining to the handling of probation.

"This was halted when Judge Hal Woodard, in Abilene, ruled that Eastland County officials were not violating the civil rights of persons involved."

The Judge pauses, looking across his book-lined office.

"Yes - 1982 had been quite a year. The good, the bad, the unexpected. And 1983 should be an equally challenging time in which to live and serve."

When I walk outside the Judge's office, I hesitate for a moment. The courthouse seems ageless, with its marble floors, and muffled sounds of traffic. Can another year really be gone? These walls absorb all, and reveal nothing. They never change.

But life is not like that. It is fluid, moving on swift currents. And 1983 would soon be flowing right into the Judge's office.

About Film Storage...

Q: I was reading an article in a photography magazine and found a reference to storing film in the refrigerator. Now, I'm not exactly a new photographer, but I'd never heard of this practice. Does it have any benefits? I know that film should be used before the expiration date stamped on the box. If I do that with my film, should I store it in the refrigerator anyway? And if so, what benefits are there? I might add that my wife is against the idea, already. So it will take some pretty good arguments to get her to change her mind.

D. B., Chicago, IL

A: How much film do you want to store and how large a refrigerator do you have? Actually, the practice of storing unopened containers of film in the refrigerator is common, especially among pros who need to be assured that the film they shoot on assignment is as fresh as possible. Storing film in the refrigerator eliminates the two major reasons for film deterioration-heat and humidity. Too much of either can result in the premature deterioration of film, especially color film. Ideally, storage conditions should be around 40 degrees F. and 40 percent humidity-about what the average family's icebox offers. In addition to the benefit of delaying deterioration, refrigerated film storage has the added benefit of extending the shelf life of film. While no hard and fast laws exist, you can generally assume that, if your film has a stamped shelf life of, say, one year, you can increase that to two years-about double-by storing the film in the refrigerator.

And, for those of you already thinking ahead, yes, you can also freeze-store film. By doing that, you can actually triple the recommended shelf life of film.

However, there are some drawbacks to cold storage. The first is that the film must be taken from storage and allowed to warm to room temperature while in its sealed container prior to shooting. This can mean up to several hours for frozen film. If you remove the film from its container before it has reached room temperature, it may gather condensation, which can mar the surface.

As a happy medium, why not try storing some film in the freezer, yet keep a nominal supply in the refrigerator and even more at room temperature. As you shoot the warm film, replace it with film from the refrigerator, which you may replace with film from the freezer. In that way, you'll have a continual supply of fresh film and not have to worry about those tedious "warm-up" times.

Q: I recently picked up an old view camera at an auction. It seems to work fine. All the shutter speeds seem about right-at least as far as I can tell. And the aperture ring is functioning. My problem is I don't know the first thing about shooting a view camera. Can you give me some information on where I can go to learn? I'm not interested in taking a course. I just want to pick up some basics so I can load the holders with film and have a little fun.

P. L., Wausau, WI

A: I hope you're not looking for detailed operating instructions, for those are only available in the owner's manual, which I assume turned into worm food years ago. If you'd like to know generally how your camera operates-and, more specifically, how to take quality view-camera photos-I can recommend a very interesting book entitled, The View Camera, Operations and Techniques, by Harvey Shaman (Amphoto, New York, NY, 1979). In it you will find everything from the equipment to focusing, film, setting up, and using the various tilts and swings. Have Fun!

KNOW YOUR LIMITS

Anyone Who Can't Walk a Straight Line Can't Drive One

It's amazing how some people who can't even control their feet think they'll be able to control their cars once they get behind the wheel.

Statistics show they're dead wrong.

That's why we, the people who make and sell alcoholic beverages, are offering a pocket chart called "Know Your Limits."

Get one at participating restaurants, bars and liquor stores. Or write 205 San Jacinto Bldg., Austin, TX 78701. Because the worst time to find out you can't drive a straight line is when you're on the wrong side of one.

Senior Citizens Nutrition Menu

This week, being the last on 1982, will be a short period dedicated to looking back over the past year and endeavoring to take a "peek" into 1983.
It is also a period when we resolve to do certain things that we have intended to accomplish over the past year.
Let's make a few resolutions, for ourselves, and the Senior Center for the year 1983.
Let's resolve that we will make every effort to maintain good health.
Let's resolve to be more friendly.
Let's resolve to let more people know about the Senior Center and how it will affect their lives if they will become an active member.
Let's resolve to help more people this year. The utility bills, the general cost of living, all demand that we help one another.
Let's finally, resolve to put God ahead of all our thinking because without Him all resolutions are of little value.
The programs for the week included: Lois and Tracy Jones played and sang old, old Religious songs. Birthdays and Anniversaries of the members were recognized and Leah Brown played the piano for the event.
The menus for the week are:
Monday-Swiss Steak, Cauliflower/Cheese Sauce, Pineapple/Carrot Jello, Fruit Cobbler, Bread, Butter and Drink.
Wednesday-Beef Brisket/BBQ Sauce, Potatoes Au Gratin, Mixed Vegetables, Chocolate Pudding, Bread, Butter and Drink.
Friday-Chicken Fried Steak, Cream Gravy, White Kernal Corn, Spinach, Banana Cake, Bread, Butter and Drink.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

New Year's Day is a day we need. It is a day of gaiety and sobriety. A milestone in life has passed. A year has ended and a New Year is about to begin. New goals are about to be set. It is a day when thoughts turn to bringing in the New Year with parties, laughter and wishes of good luck. It is a day of resolutions and high hopes.
Yet, after the gaiety of the holiday there is need for sobriety. It is so easy to go along in life hoping that everything will turn out all right!... It is so easy to put off until some future date the hard decisions, the self-disciplines, the changes that may be necessary to attain the success for which one hopes. These take clear thinking; a sober kind of judgement. They must be faced.
If the calendar did not provide a New Year's Day, wouldn't we have to devise one? We need an annual breaking point... A time to stop and take stock of ourselves... a time to renew our determination... a time to recheck our goals... and a time to make a fresh start...
And may we take this time to wish all of you a "Happy New Year" with the hope of Spiritual strength for all in the coming year...

THE J.V. Heysers were in Lubbock one day last week to attend the mid-term graduation ceremonies when their son, Joe, was awarded a BS degree in animal production. And the Heysers applauded as four other Ciscoans were also awarded degrees.

Cheryl Ann Ward, daughter of the Dick Wards, received a degree in anthropology. A degree in elementary education was awarded to Cheryl Sue Endebruck, daughter of the Milton Endebrocks. Timothy Duane Bint, son of the Gerald Bints, received a degree in accounting. And Betty Donham Evatt, daughter of the W.T. Donhams, received a degree in elementary education. Misses Ward and Endebruck and Tim Bint finished with high honors, the Heysers report.

Joe Heysers will put his degree to work immediately at the Heysers Ranch here. Plans call for him to supervise the installation of new equipment and a new plan of operations.

Christmas was a nice affair at the Heysers home with daughters Sherry and Sicily of Houston and Joe and Al of Cisco at home along with five grandchildren.

WHEN WE HEARD that old Santa Claus brought Mrs. Jim Webb, principal of primary school, a progress report for Christmas we did some checking. And we learned that Husband Jim began building something special for her in his workshop, some months ago. Since the item didn't get finished in time for Christmas stockings, there was a progress report. In case you've missed the Ernie Rices at the golf course, they have been out west for six weeks or so while he supervised the drilling of two oil wells. The Rices play golf almost every day at the Cisco Country Club.

OUR SCOUTS report that the president of Hendrick Center, Abilene, will be here Monday afternoon to formally sign a contract to take over operation of Cisco's E.L. Graham Memorial Hospital. Don't you feel for folks who are hooked on cigarettes? The new price tags are over $1.00 per package. Van Reynolds, college student at San Marcos, squirreled away eight or ten loaves of bread that his dad, Bill Reynolds, cooked to take back to college with him.

MET UP WITH the Rev. Ben Hubert, TCU ministerial student, in town last week. He spent more than two years with the First Christian Church here as youth director and interim pastor before going to TCU last fall.

Ben is due back in town on Saturday, Jan. 8, to meet Miss LeAnn Robinson of Morton Valley at the altar of the FCC for a marriage ceremony. She is the daughter of the D.C. Robinsons. They met while both were students at Cisco Junior College.

Ben's parents live at San Saba and he spent most of the holiday season there. His grandfather, Rev. Thurman Boswell, and an uncle, Bill Boswell, will officiate at the wedding. There will be a reception following the 8 p.m. ceremony at the FCC fellowship hall.

BILLY RAINS will take over Saturday, Jan. 1, as acting police chief as Chief Raymond Blevins turns in his badge after a couple of years. Mr. Blevins will enter private business. Mr. Rains has been the police sergeant for the past year or two. Bennie Phippen, pro shop operator at the Cisco Country Club, has been doing some trapping in the area of the CCC lately, our scouts report. His traps have yielded a half dozen raccoons, several foxes and a skunk or two. Old Santa Claus brought Realtor Garl Gorr three neckties.

THE DICK WOOLLEY family feels real honored that their No. 2 son Mike has been nominated by Congressman Charles Stenholm for appointment to the Air Force or Naval Academies, reports Mr. DW. and Mike, a freshman at CJC, appreciates the honor and is checking into same. He is most interested in the Air Force Academy, we understand.

No. 1 son Audie Woolley, a junior at Angelo State U, plans to enter medical school when he finishes at the San Angelo school where he is an honor student. Audie has been visiting home folks during the holidays.

IVAN WEBB went to Denver the other day on business for the oil companies out at Kamon House. And he got snowed in, he reported when he telephoned that he wouldn't be here to preside as president of the Lions Club on Wednesday. Susan Addy, daughter of the Dr. E.E. Addys, had to cut short her Christmas vacation and go back to Duncanville Monday to coach DHS's girls basketball team in a tournament. Santa Claus brought Susan's dad one of these three cornered seats that you sit on while shooting doves for Christmas. Guess you could say that Earl Ray of the machine shop on East 9th Street got lit for Christmas. Santa brought him two new quartz flashlights.

THE JIM SITTONS of El Paso spent a few days this past week here with home folks. The Lee Wallacees were due to leave Saturday for their home in Fayetteville, N.C., after spending Christmas with her parents, the Marshall Joneses and his mother Mrs. Forbes Wallace. The John McGuires spent most of the past 10 days recovering from heavy colds and the flu. They visited in Haskell with relatives on Christmas day. Cliff Ash, who lives over in Louisiana, came for a holiday visit with his parents, the Bill Ashes. He underwent minor surgery at the local hospital on Tuesday and is doing nicely. The employees of Russell Newman Company are due back to work this coming week after a vacation during Christmas week. Mrs. Louise Pryor's Christmas visitors included her daughter and family, the Mickey Morgans, of Oklahoma City.

MR. FRANK Burkman of San Antonio, member of the Texas and national associations of left handed golfers, and wife were holiday visitors in this area. He's a retired Army military police officer. Bob Fletcher, son of the J.C. Fletchers, visited home folks last weekend. First National Bank's new Banker 24 computer machine is due to be ready for use by mid-January.

PERSONALS

Guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. V. B. Ferguson on Christmas Day were 5 of their 8 children, Bruce and Joan Ferguson, Dustin and Destine; Bobby and Pam Ferguson and Jacob all of Cisco; Vicki and Bobby Hitt, Scarlett and Camille of Austin; Martha and Bill Westfall, Steven and Kathleen of Robstown, and Ivy and John Thompson, Brad, Melissa and David of Arlington.

Also visiting Christmas Day were Mrs. Ferguson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Ivey of Baird, her sister Carol Moring, and husband Marvin of Austin, their children from Baird, Odessa, Midland, and Texas Tech.

The Ferguson's other 3 children, visitors at different times during the holidays, were John Ferguson of Sonora, Tim and Stacy Ferguson of Austin, and Brit Ferguson of Stephenville. Ladd Turner of Sonora was also a guest.

Guests in the home of Mrs. M.D. Bailey during the holidays were: Mr. and Mrs. R.J. Edwards of San Antonio, Texas; Kenneth Alan Edwards of Oakland, California; Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Adams, Sr. of Denton, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Corley of Corsicana, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Lyon of San Antonio, Texas; Col. and Mrs. Gayle Bailey of San Antonio, Texas; Judge and Mrs. Scott Bailey and children, John Melvin and Melissa Beth of Cisco.

FISHING WAS good at Lake Cisco in 1934 as evidenced by the above picture, which was loaned to the Press by Hubert Kennedy of 1104 West 14th Street. Shown at top is the late Bill Bennie, who was an ardent fisherman here all of his life. The man with the 63-pound catfish was identified as Mr. Barrow, who was a regular fisherman at the lake in the early 1930s. The picture was among a collection at the Bosworth home.

HOW DID MAIN Street, Olden, Texas, look in 1921? The above picture was made there early that year and it was on a postcard that Mrs. Dana Tomlinson of Newark, near Fort Worth, received from a relative. The postcard, dated July 20, 1921, says: "Dear Mother and all: Lessie and I are making a cross country trip with Flora and Ira this week. Love." The postcard has a cancelled one-cent stamp and was postmarked at Olden, a small Eastland County town east of Eastland on IH-20. The photo was loaned to the Press by Hubert Kennedy of 1104 West 14th St., Cisco.

'Old Time Country Revival' Is Underway At Corinth Baptist

An "old time country revival" is underway at the Corinth Baptist church with revival services scheduled for Friday, Dec. 31, through Sunday, Jan. 2.

Young people will be leading in the services with Steve Gardener of Lynchburg in Virginia preaching, East Cisco Educational Director Mark Bird leading the singing, Steve Jackson from East Cisco and Cisco Jr. College playing the piano, and Lynchburg student Debbie Hitt bringing special music.

Something is happening at the church as it has suddenly spurred in growth, a new educational building has gone up, a new chain link fence has enclosed the cemetery, the seats in the sanctuary have been cushioned, and revival services have been set for this weekend.

Pastor Burdett Hitt says that the church is already in revival as the people have been working hard and donating generously to improve the church, have had many of their prayers answered, and are very concerned for the people of the local area.

"Come see what is happening at the church and hear Steve Gardner, a dedicated young preacher, give some answers to the many serious problems troubling area people," is the invitation extended to everyone by the people of the church, which is located on the county road that runs north from Hwy. 80 near the Kendrick Amphitheater.

Preaching will be at 7 each night, at 10 on Saturday morning, and at 11 on Sunday morning following Sunday School at 10.

A prayer meeting will be held before the services each night. It will be at 6:30 on Friday and Saturday and at 5:30 on Sunday.

Consumers with touch tone dialing can save money on long distance calls by investigating discount services available to them.

"Companies offering these services provide a variety of rates and plans. Take time to investigate alternatives before selecting a service, since benefits and limitation vary," reports Beverly Rhoades, consumer information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Discount service is presently available in 15 to 20 cities in Texas, but the locations served vary with the company. Rhoades recommends checking the local telephone directory for companies serving a particular location.

Names of the companies include MCI, SPRINT, ITT, WESTERN UNION and U.S. TEL, the specialist adds, and there may be others. Many toll free numbers are offered through credit card companies—and consumers receive an itemized bill for calls from the long distance credit card company rather than the regular telephone company.

"Perhaps the greatest drawback to the service is the amount of numbers that must be dialed before completing a call on the service. You are given a local access number and then your personal authorization code.

These combined numbers are usually 12 to 13 digits. If you get a busy signal or a wrong number, you have about 20 numbers to redial," Rhoades explains.

Cisco has touch-tone dialing, Eastland and Ranger customers do not.

Other considerations in order to select the best service are accessibility and line quality. Ask a friend who has the service if lines are generally available when needed, and if it is possible to hear as well on the discount lines as on regular long distance lines.

Before actually "signing up" with a discount service, ask these questions to determine if you can really save money with the service:

- Do you make enough calls? There's generally a monthly minimum charge and may be an additional per call, monthly or annual fee. If your long distance bills are not large enough, the service charges can "eat up" your saving. To determine the benefit, consider the amount saved per call. Discount rates offered range from 15 percent to 80 percent—depending on the company and the time of day the call is made. Get specific rates from each company and the time of day the call is made. Get specific rates from each company that services your area. Naturally, if you make most of your calls during the highest discount times, you will save more. The discount rates are in addition to the normal discount rates offered through the regular telephone company.

- Are most of your calls to cities covered by discount services? Cities serviced vary with companies, but most large and some medium-sized U.S. cities are covered. U.S. TEL allows you to call any city or town in the U.S., except Alaska. However, Texas residents must call from a town or city currently serviced by the company.

- How much will it cost you to call the local access number from your home phone? If you live in the suburbs and the access number of the phone service is in the central city, the call to access the service might be a toll call.

- Do you make many long distance calls from other phones in your city and from other cities? Generally, calls can be made from other phones in your home area without charge. Also, calls can usually be made from any city serviced by the company, but some companies charge extra for this option.

Even with an extra fee, these "credit-card" calls can save you money if the initial discount is great enough. The service may also be accessed for calls generally made collect, if a family member lives in—or is visiting—another city. You can give him or her the appropriate access number for that city, reminds Rhoades.

Real Estate Consumer

The Real Estate Consumer is provided as a public service by this newspaper and The Texas Real Estate Research Center. Address inquiries to: The Real Estate Consumer, Texas Real Estate Research Center, Texas A&M University, College Station, Texas 77843.

One of the long-running debates between Dallasites and Houstonians concerns the price of housing. It's been documented that the average house price is higher in Houston than in Dallas.

But Dr. Richard Peiser of Southern Methodist University has completed a study which reveals that when similar houses in equivalent locations are compared, it turns out that the home in Houston cost $4,000 to $10,000 less than a comparable one in Dallas.

One reason, says Peiser, is that lot prices are lower in Houston. The primary reason for higher development costs in Dallas appears to be the cost of land available for immediate development, says Peiser.

More regulatory hurdles exist and developers in Dallas are more dependent on other agencies—such as utility companies—to open new sections for development.

FORECLOSURE IS SERIOUS

If you are facing default on your home mortgage, there are a number of steps you should take.

First, you should let the lender know as soon as possible that you have run into serious difficulty in making your payments.

Second, seek counsel. Various counseling agencies, legal service groups and the local office of the Federal Housing Administration can help you. Using their advice, try to work out an arrangement with your lender to make up your overdue payments.

If the lender agrees to the plan, the lending institution may hold off or forebear from taking legal action to get back the money. If satisfactory arrangements cannot be worked out, foreclosure is the legal process by which the lender takes the house from you and sells it to pay off the money you owe.

Foreclosure means you lose the house, the money you put into it and your credit rating.

HOUSE ORIENTATION AFFECTS ENERGY

If you are in the market for a house or about to have one built, you should seriously consider how the house will be situated on the lot.

In most circumstances, the major glass areas of your house should face south. Such an exposure generally is the most pleasant and energy efficient.

Why Lot Prices Are Higher In Dallas Than Houston

In winter, a southern exposure allows your front windows to receive bright, warm sunshine all day. While the back of the house is turned toward the cold north winds. As the sun climbs higher in the summer, trees or awnings can shade your southern windows, while only the smaller eastern and western exposures of your house will receive the harsh morning and afternoon sunshine.

Of course, some lots simply will not accommodate a house oriented toward the south. If you buy such a lot, you will have to compromise on siting the house, but even so, often you can take partial advantage of southern exposure.

TIPS FOR SHOWING YOUR HOME

Are you trying to sell your home? When you show it, consider these tips.

A home that is well lighted is inviting. Open draperies during the day, and turn on all lights in the evening. Turn off the radio and television so there will be no distractions.

Avoid having too many present during inspection. The potential buyer will feel like an intruder and hurry through the house. Small children often have the uncanny knack of interrupting at the very moment the prospect is trying to find out some information. Make an agreement with your spouse to have one of you occupy the children while the other remains available to answer questions.

Keep pets out of the house during inspections. Be courteous, but don't force conversation with the potential buyer. The prospect wants to inspect your house, not visit. Your broker can provide you with more ideas on how to show your house.

PRICING YOUR HOUSE INTELLIGENTLY

If you are going to sell your home, how can you price your home intelligently?

You might have a price in mind, but unless you have studied the market, you could settle on a price higher or lower than the market value of your house. If overpriced, the house may remain on the market for some time, incurring expenses from continuing payments and maintenance.

On the other hand, if the house is underpriced, you forego money needlessly. There are two sources available to aid in evaluating your home's value. An appraisal by a professional appraiser represents an impartial and expert opinion of the property's value. Many experts in the field are members of the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers or the Society of Real Estate Appraisers.

THOUGHT FOR THE NEW YEAR

"IN THE WAY OF RIGHTEOUSNESS IS LIFE- Prov. 12-28"

(Note: The thoughts of this "Devotional" for Jan. 1 are so inspiring that I have been reading them on that date for a number of years. They were first compiled in a little book called "My Life Today", by E.G. White. It seems that such good things should be shared.)

"Another year now opens its fair pages before you. The recording angel stands ready to write. Your course of action will determine what shall be traced by him. You may make your future life good or evil; and this will determine for you whether the year upon which you have just entered will be to you a happy new year. It is in your power to make it such for yourself and for those around you.

"Let patience, long-suffering, kindness, and love become a part of your very being; then things which are pure, lovely, and of good report will mature in your experience.

"Angels of God are waiting to show you the path of life. Decide now, at the commencement of the new year, that you will choose the path of righteousness, that you will be earnest and true-hearted, and that life with you shall not prove a mistake. Go forward, guided by the heavenly angels, be courageous, be enterprising, let your light shine."

Word Of God

Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also; and greater works than these shall he do; because I go unto my Father.

And whatsoever ye shall ask in my name, that will I do, that the Father may be glorified in the Son.

If ye shall ask any thing in my name, I will do it.

John 14:12-14

TESCO & NRC Issues Report

Texas Electric today announced that the Nuclear Regulatory Commission has issued inspection reports on construction and operations activities at Comanche Peak.

The inspection of operations activities occurred during November and all areas inspected were found to be satisfactory.

The inspection of construction activities covered a period from April through September. This construction inspection identified an unresolved item regarding the piping support verification program and summarized findings on an earlier reported notice of violation regarding the Comanche Peak Unit 1 polar crane.

In addition, a notice of violation was issued involving an allegation made by a former inspector at Comanche Peak that he had not received the required training for his position.

The NRC inspector determined that, while the individual was qualified for the particular job, the documentation of stated training could not be verified.

The former employee had made a total of some 20 allegations before and during public hearings on an operating license for Comanche Peak in September. All his other allegations were refuted or found to be unsubstantiated or of little technical merit by the NRC investigation.

Comanche Peak is owned jointly by Texas Electric, Dallas Power & Light, Texas Power & Light, the Texas Municipal Power Agency, Brazos Electric Power Cooperative Inc. and Tex-La Electric Cooperative of Texas Inc. Texas Utilities Generating Company acts as agent for the owners in construction of the plant and is responsible for the operation of the plant.

Election Law Recommendations Being Made

Part one of a two part series:

Following a number of extensive surveys and questionnaires the Texas Secretary of State Office is making certain election law recommendations to the Texas Legislature.

A detailed summary of each Recommendations follows.

I Texas should hold a Presidential Preference Primary on its Regular Primary Election Day. A majority of the registered voters surveyed after the November 2 general election agreed that Presidential Preference Primaries should be held in Texas. Currently, the political parties in Texas select their delegates to the national presidential nominating conventions without voters registering their preferences at the polls while in other states, voters select their delegates to the national nominating conventions through presidential preference primaries.

Registered voters were asked "Assuming presidential preference primaries were to be held, should they be held on the same day and at the same location as regular party primaries in May?" Almost three-fourths of the registered voters surveyed stated that presidential preference primaries should be held on the same day and in the same place as the regular May primary election. Shortening the campaign period would give the incumbent an unfair advantage and stifle the development of the two party system in Texas.

It must be noted that in the May 1982 primary election study, a majority of the voters surveyed were in favor of holding primary elections closer to the general election in Texas. However, to hold a regular primary closer to the general election together with a presidential preference primary would in effect render the outcome of the presidential preference primary moot in Presidential election years due to the holding of party nominating conventions in late summer. It should also be noted that the percentage of registered voters surveyed in November 1982 in favor of a combined regular May primary and presidential preference primary exceeds the percentage of registered voters surveyed in May 1982 who are in favor of holding primary elections closer to the general election. In addition, holding primary elections during the summer months could in fact result in a lower voter turnout due to summer vacations and college students away from their campuses at which they vote.

Registered voters surveyed clearly favor holding a presidential preference primary in conjunction with the regular May primary elections and the holding of these two elections in May would decrease the cost of holding separate elections to the State, increase voter turnout, and lessen "voter fatigue."

II Texas should hold a unitary primary similar to the unitary primary conducted in the States of Alaska and Washington.

Changing to a unitary primary election in which all political parties' primaries are held together in the same polling place in each precinct by trained election officials rather than party personnel with only a plurality required to nominate to the general election; therefore, no primary runoff elections.

Texas is one of only four states that does not hold a unitary primary. The states of Washington and Alaska hold unitary blanket open primaries using a single ballot and under this system, the highest vote-getter from each party advances to the general election. The general election, therefore, is essentially a runoff election between the parties.

A majority of the registered voters surveyed after the May primary election were in favor of a unitary primary in Texas. A significant 62 percent of the registered voters surveyed who did not vote in the May primary said that they either "definitely" or "probably" would have gone to the polls if Texas had held a unitary primary. Over 60 percent of the registered voters surveyed after the November 2 general election agreed with the registered voters surveyed in May and favored a unitary primary system in Texas.

Changing to a unitary primary would diminish "voter fatigue" because there are fewer elections in which voters must go to the polls. Texas now holds five elections - two primary elections, two primary runoff elections, and the general election - under the unitary primary system there would be only two elections - a primary and a general election. Cost of elections would therefore also be greatly reduced. The total cost of holding a single primary election would be substantially less than holding two primaries and two runoff primaries. Changing to a unitary primary would save at least the cost of the two primary runoffs which amounted to $2.5 million in Texas in 1982. Consolidation of polling places, election workers, and election equipment could have saved Texas taxpayers between $3.6 million and $4.8 million in 1982, and will save them between $4 and $6 million in 1984.

A single ballot unitary primary like that of Washington and Alaska would also increase voter interest in the election as voters could vote for any candidate on the ballot in a particular race and thereby choose the candidate that best reflects his or her views, regardless of political affiliation. The political parties would, however, be assured of ballot status in the general election. Finally, the use of trained election officials to conduct the election would enable the political parties to focus their attention on traditional party activities, thereby strengthening party development. In Texas' 1982 primaries, the political parties mobilized nearly 45,000 workers to hold the elections - this manpower under a unitary primary system could have spent its time concentrating on traditional party functions. Financially costly and politically divisive runoffs would be eliminated.

A unitary primary system in Texas would ease the burden of primary election costs, minimize voter confusion, increase voter turnout, and lessen "voter fatigue." In addition, a system similar to that of Alaska and Washington would endure ballot status for the political parties in the general election. In essence this proposal would revitalize the state's primary elections.

III State judges in Texas should be elected on a non-partisan basis.

Fourteen states, including Texas, select their judiciary on a partisan ballot, while twelve states utilize a non-partisan selection of their judges. The remaining states use a combination of appointive and elective methods. Two-thirds of the registered voters surveyed after the May primary elections favored election of judges on a non-partisan basis. A majority of the registered voters surveyed on this issue after the November 2 general election also agreed with the selection of the judiciary on a non-partisan basis.

A move to "take politics out of the judiciary" would result in election of judges who are in essence elected solely on the basis of their judicial experience and qualifications. It is also argued that partisan politics can bias a judge's necessary independent perspective. The non-partisan election of judges is supported by the majority of registered voters surveyed after the 1982 primary and general election and should receive the attention of the state's elected leaders.

IV Local elections in Texas should be consolidated on three or four specific dates each year and be held at the same polling places within each precinct.

In some Texas counties, there have been as many as twelve county wide elections in a particular year for city races, school district races, party primaries, etc. A majority of the 50 states, in an attempt to limit rising election costs, have consolidated elections.

Nearly three-quarters of the registered voters surveyed after the May primary election favored consolidation of state, local, and school board elections on the same day, at a single polling place, with votes cast on a single ballot. More than four out of five of the respondents surveyed after the November 2 general election favored holding all local elections on three or four specified dates in the same location within each precinct.

Consolidation of elections would reduce the cost of elections, increase voter turnout, decrease "voter fatigue," and minimize voter confusion. Combining election workers and election materials would significantly decrease the administrative cost of elections. Voters would be more encouraged to vote of the process appeared more simple and convenient and confusion surrounding the various elections would be minimized under a streamlined and consolidation election process.

V Current office holders with more than one year remaining in their current term should be required to resign their current office when seeking election to a different statewide office.

A majority of the registered voters queried on the "resign to run" issue after the May primary and November general election agreed that all office holders with more than one year remaining in their current term should resign to run for a new statewide, district, or local office sought. The State Constitution currently has this provision for municipal and county officials, and Texas voters want it expanded to state officials as well.

It has been argued that the citizens of Texas elect office holders for their full term of office and for those office holders to campaign for a different office with more than one year remaining in their current term constitutes a disservice to the electorate. The registered voters of Texas surveyed on two separate occasions support the "resign to run" provision and the state's elected leaders should give serious examination to amending Texas law in this regard.

VI An election central vote tabulation project should be statutorily carried forward by the Secretary of State's Office.

Since 1916, the Texas Election Bureau (TEB), a non-profit organization of statewide media representatives has tabulated vote totals in 119 elections, including 30 general elections.

Beginning with the 1982 November 2 general election, the Secretary of State's Office tabulated vote totals and the project was known as the Secretary of State Election Central. The directors of the TEB voted not to tabulate the votes and instead supported a merger of experience with the Secretary of State's Office.

On November 17, the Board of Directors of the TEB voted to institutionalize the project in the Secretary of State's office via legislation to be proposed to the 68th Texas Legislature.

In nine states, the central tabulation of votes on election night is provided by the state. In ten states a private organization is used, most often a media organization. However, 28 states have no method of centrally compiling election results. No information was available for the two remaining states.

The Chief Election Officer of the State has responsibility for ensuring uniform administration of Texas' elections and election laws, and to that end, prompt statewide election returns in a quasi official manner will reduce the opportunity for election fraud and post-election electioneering. With the support of the Texas news media, the Texas Election Bureau's Board of directors, and the state's county clerk's the state-sponsored vote tabulation project was a successful undertaking that should be continued through legislation by the 68th Texas Legislature.

VII Constitutional amendment elections in Texas should be held in presidential and gubernatorial election years. At least 25 percent of all registered voters should go to the polls before the state constitution can be amended. Prior to each constitutional amendment election, the Secretary of State should provide a written summary of the advantages and disadvantages of the proposed amendments to each registered voter.

In light of the facts that: (1) only 12.2 percent of the state's registered voters participated in the 1981 Constitutional Amendment election; and, (2) numerous hotly contested local issues were also present on the ballot, it has been suggested that constitutional amendments be placed on the general and presidential election ballots as a means of encouraging voter interest. A majority of the registered voters surveyed after the general election agreed that constitutional amendment elections should be held in conjunction with presidential or gubernatorial elections. Since Texans have historically turned out in greater percentages to vote in these elections, it is assumed that constitutional amendments would receive greater attention by the electorate.

Registered voters surveyed after the November 1981 Constitutional Amendment Election indicated that a major reason for not voting in the election was "a lack of information" regarding the election or the proposed amendments. In Texas, constitutional amendments are explained and advertised in newspapers statewide in English and Spanish, on two separate occasions prior to the election. In five states, the Secretary of State conducts an extensive mailing of constitutional amendment literature to registered voters. Based on the response from survey participants following the 1981 constitutional amendment election, and the fact that over 70 percent of the registered voters surveyed support the proposal that the Secretary of State provide a written summary of the advantages and disadvantages of proposed amendments to each registered voter, it is recommended that the Texas Secretary of State provide each registered voter with a written summary of the pros and cons of each proposed amendment to assist in educating the public on these important issues.

Given the far reaching impact of constitutional amendment elections, and the fact that a minority of the registered voters in 1981 participated in the election, it is necessary that at least 25 percent of the state's registered voters go to the polls before amendments are added to our State Constitution. A majority of the respondents in the 1982 general election survey agreed that at least 25 percent of all registered voters should participate in constitutional amendment elections before a proposed amendment can become law.

The implementation of the three proposals cited above regarding constitutional amendment elections would further ensure that decisions affecting the daily lives of all Texans are indeed the will of a significant proportion of the Texas electorate.
