

HALL OF REMARKS

BY HERRELL HALLMARK

IF YOU RECALL my last column in Sunday's paper, I said weather forecasters were calling for a pretty weekend, well they were almost right.

The weekend had some pretty, clear skies and some warm temperatures, but it was not as nice as we had been led to believe.

Now they are forecasting cooler temperatures for this week and possibly some rain.

Well, at least we can be thankful that maybe gardens and farmers will benefit from the wet weather.

SPEAKING OF gardens, have you started your's yet? I recently tilled up an area for our garden and my wife has been busy, along with our children, planting onions.

So far, that is all we have planted, but she has plans for several other plantings.

Isn't it funny how I have a sudden desire to go fishing or do something else on the days she wants to work in the garden? Oh well, I guess the fish will just have to wait.

WE RECEIVED a note at the Press office this week from Mrs. O.L. Lee, who sent a clipping from THE ENNIS DAILY NEWS. The clipping concerned the appointment of three new directors to the Ennis State Bank.

One of the new directors was Bill R. Lee, M.D., of Ennis. The article said "Dr. Lee, 36, was born in Denton, reared in Cisco and attended Cisco Public Schools there, graduating from Cisco High School in 1964."

Isn't it nice to hear of successful graduates of our local school system?

WINNERS AT The Lobo & JR's this week were Suzan Jones and Martha Rich.

Mrs. Rich won the stuffed dog named "Willie the Pooch" and Suzan Jones won a curling iron.

Owner Jim Roberts said he still has three curling irons to give away. He said he will give one away each week for the rest of the month.

Jim also reminded customers to use the coupon in the paper to get a free brush when they come in for a hairstyle or perm. It is good until the end of the month.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK 100% IN COMMUNITY CHEST—The Community Chest received 100% participation from the First National Bank of Cisco and its employees. Ivan Webb, president of the Community Chest, greatly appreciates the sponsorship that each employee and the bank has given to the campaign. Mr. Webb urges other businesses to be 100%. All that is necessary to be 100% is to have each employee in a business contribute to the Community Chest along with the business. A 100% award certificate is given to the business in recognition of their 100% support to the Community Chest. Pictured above is Ivan Webb presenting a 100% award to Ron Patton, Vice President of the First National Bank. Also in the photo is Lola Cozart who was in charge of the Community Chest table in the Bank lobby Monday morning. (staff photo)

County Commissioner's Court Holds Regular Meet Monday

The Eastland County Commissioner's Court met in their regular scheduled meeting Monday, February 14 in the Eastland County Commissioners' Courtroom and took action on several items on the agenda.

The commission postponed action on a request for permission to cross county road 165 in Precinct 1 with a pipeline by Sun Oil Co. and also postponed action on a request for permission to cross county road 411 in Precinct 3 with a pipeline by Northern Gas Products due to neither of the company's representative being present at the meeting.

The commission granted First National Bank in Gorman with the County Depository fund while Eastland Savings was awarded the County Clerks trust fund with Eastland National Bank being awarded the District Clerks trust fund.

The commission also agreed to let county judge Scott Bailey contact the Attorney General's office for assistance in collecting a claim from the Comptroller of Public Accounts against Eastland County.

A report was given to the commissioners on the Emergency Assistance Program (Lone Star Gas and Texas Electric Service Company) and afterwards the commission agreed to let the Community Action Agency of Coleman handle the program.

The commission agreed to let the City of Eastland, City of Cisco, Pafford Ambulance and the County of Eastland pay an additional $50.00 as an assessment for Eastland County Cooperative Dispatch due to a lack of funds.

In other action the commission:

- Approved the auditor's quarterly report.
- Postponed action on the Salary Grievance Committee.
- Heard a review on the building improvements and the handicapped persons entrance ramp on the East side of the building and was told that county crews were still working on the projects.
- Approved budgetary and appropriate matters including the right for the sheriff's department to purchase additional needed stamps for postage.
- Read and approved the minutes as read by the clerk and approved the routine bills and accounts as presented.

The next commissioner's meeting will be Monday, February 28, 1983 in the commissioners' courtroom.

Cisco ISD Implements A Modified Teen Program

Cisco ISD has implemented a modified program of Teen Involvement. In this program high school students (11th and 12th graders) serve as youth facilitators and role models for elementary age children.

The idea behind the Teen Involvement Program is drug abuse prevention. The Teen Involvement Program tries to deal with the underlying cause of drug abuse by helping elementary children and teenagers understand and accept themselves and others.

The Teen Involvement Youth visit the fifth and sixth grade classrooms approximately six times. They go in boy and girl pairs. This gives both the boys and girls a role model. Although the teacher is always present and in control, the Teen Involvement persons conduct the class activities that include ways for improving self esteem and interpersonal relationships, decision making skills, and specific drug and alcohol abuse discussions.

It is hoped that when young people are provided with the tools necessary to make positive decisions, are taught to examine their own feelings, and learn to understand the link between choices and consequences that stem from them, they will be able to cope with such things as negative peer pressure and drug and alcohol abuse situations.

Working with the fifth grade are Tracey Couch and Matt Ritchie, Sue Scott and Tommy Elrod, Rhonda Bradford and Mike Williams. Working with the sixth grade are Tawni Angel and Greg Sipe, Vicki Wilcox and Kendall Anderson, Lezlea Hull and Frankie McLeary. The Teen Involvement sponsor is Mrs. Sharon Mouser.

Church Holds Valentine's Banquet

Saturday evening, February 12, East Cisco Baptist Church had a Valentine's banquet for their young people. The theme of the banquet was "On Moonlight Bay." The tables were decorated with different colored tablecloths and each table had a smiling moon as the centerpiece.

The young people also had their pictures taken in a boat underneath a smiling full moon.

The young people enjoyed a meal consisting of fried chicken, green beans, corn-on-the-cob, mashed potatoes, gravy and rolls. While the young people were eating, the Senior Center Rhythm Band provided dinner music. After everyone had eaten, Russ Davis, Youth pastor, (Lavon Drive Baptist Church,) Garland, spoke to the young people about the true meaning of love. Everyone had a delightful evening.

SUE SCOTT is shown working with fifth graders on writing compliments.

Many Good And Sincere Individuals
...give little thought to the question of values when we should measure them in terms of personal worth in everything he buys, enjoys or does. For example, some folks will buy real estate without any kind of evidence of title disregarding the fact that the principal value of the purchase is in the title, not in the land itself or the improvements thereon. This kind of thinking costs property owners thousands of dollars annually which could be saved and a part of the savings wisely spent for an abstract of title or title insurance.

THE REAL ESTATE CONSUMER is provided as a public service by this newspaper and The Texas Real Estate Research Center. Address inquiries to: The Real Estate Consumer, Texas Real Estate Research Center, Texas A&M University, College Station, Texas 77843.

If you are having a hard time finding a new home to buy, there is a reason for it. Despite the fact unemployment rates in Texas have been one to two percentage points below the national average, the homebuilding industry here has been seriously affected by a lack of money and credit. Many homebuilders have cut production or gone out of business.

In the second quarter of 1980, building permits for dwellings in Texas dropped to half the level of 1979. Although some recovery was noted in the fall, 1980 went down as the third worst year since World War II for housing construction in the United States.

On the bright side, Texas' continued overall prosperity and growing population create a pent-up demand that will likely cause a building boom when interest rates decline.

USING LEVERAGE FOR INVESTMENT

One of the biggest advantages of investing in real estate is using other people's money to acquire property. This use of borrowed funds can result in significant financial leverage and can magnify returns on an investor's funds.

For instance, if you buy an old house and restore it using $10,000 of your own money and $30,000 in borrowed funds, you are using leverage. If you can sell the restored house for $50,000 a year later, you can repay the loan with interest and still obtain nearly double your original investment of $10,000.

Most investments are not as profitable as this example, and there is always the risk of losing money. But the financial leverage which comes with borrowed funds does allow you to increase your potential for profit on a real estate investment.

CONDOS OFFER HOUSING ALTERNATIVE

With the price of conventional housing continuing to rise, more and more people are looking at condominiums as alternative shelter. But, remember, like most purchases, condos have advantages and disadvantages.

A condominium entitles you to all of the benefits of homeownership. Property taxes and the interest on the mortgage loan are deductible from your income tax if you itemize deductions. You also benefit from the buildup in equity, increase in value and pride of ownership.

But condos also involve other people. You own one of many units. You will have a vote, but the majority will rule on matters such as pets and exterior changes.

Condominium ownership can be more complex than ordinary ownership. Ask questions and investigate before signing any legal documents.

NEW MORTGAGE GAINING POPULARITY

It is claimed the renegotiated rate mortgage (RRM), and it may provide a means for you to buy a home you could not otherwise afford.

The RRM is a short-term loan of usually two to five years but with payments based on a 25- to 30-year repayment schedule. When the short-term loan becomes due, you may renew the loan at a new rate offered by the lender or you may shop for a better rate elsewhere.

Lenders have constraints which provide the interest rate not be adjusted by more than one-half percent per year or five percent over the life of the mortgage. You pay no penalty for retiring the loan after the first term, and you are guaranteed renewal at the new rate if you so desire.

The RRM represents a compromise between you and the lender. It is likely to become more popular while interest rates remain uncertain.

CONSIDER AN ASSUMPTION

In these days of tight money and high interest rates for housing, taking over somebody else's mortgage may be the least expensive way for you to become a homeowner. Assuming the payments on an existing, low-interest home loan could prove less expensive than paying for a new loan at prevailing market rates.

When evaluating an existing loan in comparison with obtaining new financing, consider these things. Does the existing mortgage allow for an assumption? And if it does, can the lender change the terms of the loan or charge significant assumption fees?

What would be your liability under the loan assumption? In some transfers, the seller remains solely liable for the mortgage note, even though the buyer takes over the payments. In other assumptions, the buyer takes over liability along with the payments.

Financial Aid Assists College Students

by Debora Robinson
EHS Counselor

The time for students to be deciding on their choice of a college or university is rapidly drawing to a close. As students wonder which institution is best for them, the cost is often foremost in their minds and the minds of their parents. Many families are suddenly realizing the enormous cost of a higher education, and they are looking towards financial aid as a means of meeting these costs.

There are two primary categories of financial aid. The first category is merit-based aid, which is generally given to students in recognition of special skills, talent, and/or academic ability. This type of aid often involves band scholarships, academic awards, or department scholarships. Students are encouraged to contact the school of their choice for further information regarding these scholarships.

The second category of financial aid is need-based aid. Need-based constitutes the major portion of assistance available for post-secondary education. Eligibility for need-based aid is based upon the difference between the cost of attendance and the family's ability to pay. Within this category are two types of financial aid: gift aid and self-help aid. Gift aid does not have to be repaid and does not require a service commitment. Self-help assistance consists of loans, which require repayment, and employment, which consists of part-time jobs usually within the institution.

The federal government is the largest single source of student financial aid funds. These aids include the Pell Grant, National Direct Student Loan, College-Work Study, and the Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant. The Pell Grant is the largest program administered by the federal government, and eligibility for the grant is determined by a formula developed by the Education Department. The National Direct Student Loan program allows students to borrow from $3,000 to $6,000 at 5% interest with repayment beginning after graduation. Furthermore, the repayment may be deferred if the borrower enters certain professions or serves as a volunteer for certain organizations. The College-Work Study Program provides jobs for undergraduate students who are in need of earnings to meet a portion of their educational expenses. The Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant (SEOG) provides awards from $200 to $2,000. In addition to these aids, there is a guaranteed/federally insured loan and a PLUS Loan Program.

In addition to these federal aid programs, there are several state aid programs. Two of the most well-known programs are the Hinson-Hazlewood College Student Loan and the Texas Guaranteed Student Loan Corporation. The Hinson-Hazlewood Loan averages about $748 per year and may have a maximum interest rate of 9% per year with repayment beginning six to nine months after the students cease to be enrolled. The Texas Guaranteed Student Loan is designed to assist students of parents that make up to $30,000 per year. Loans under this program come directly from hometown banks, savings and loans associations, and credit unions. Interest is at 9% with repayment beginning six months after the students cease full-time enrollment. Another state program designed specifically for students in private colleges is the Tuition Equalization Grant. This grant can provide up to $1,328 per year if a need is demonstrated.

These aid programs are only the core of all aid programs. There are many other programs for specific types of student. Students majoring in the health professions, minority students, handicapped students, children of disabled firemen and peace officers, children of certain religious or ethnic backgrounds as well as many, many others may qualify for special scholarships, grants or loans.

Anyone that knows they have a financial need should seriously consider applying for financial aid. Even individuals that believe they make too much money to qualify should consider at least completing an application. Eligibility for aid is based not only on income, but also on expenses and special circumstances. In order to apply, students need to contact their prospective school for that institution's financial aid form. Students needing to apply for federal or state programs can obtain applications from their high school counselor.

Parents are encouraged to begin applying for aid NOW. In order to apply, parents will need to have completed their 1982 income tax returns. Everyone is encouraged to apply now because many schools operate on a first come, first serve basis. In other words, even though a student has qualified for aid, if a school has all of their money committed, then the student will get nothing.

Students or parents having questions about aid need to contact the financial aid department of their prospective college. Also, high school counselors have some generalized information. No student that wants to attend college need be denied the opportunity due to lack of money. Now is the time to prevent such a thing from happening.

TESCO Gives Kite Flying Tips

Kite flying season is here again, and Texas Electric Service Co. urges young kite flyers to follow a few simple rules for their own safety.

Ron Keeney, TESCO manager, warns them of the danger of flying kites in the vicinity of electric power lines.

"If your kite should get caught in the electric wires, call Texas Electric Service Co.," Keeney says, "and someone will be sent to get it down for you."

Keeney also recommends the following safety rules for kite flying:

-Always use dry string, not wire, anything metallic or any string with metallic threads.

-Always use kites made of wood and paper, not wire or metal.

-Don't fly your kite on rainy days.

-Always avoid busy streets and highways while flying your kite.

-Don't pull on the string or climb a power pole to loosen a kite snagged in electric wires.

-Always fly your kite far from electric or power lines.

-Always fly your kite away from TV and radio antennas.

"Posters containing these safety rules have been distributed by the company to all schools," Keeney said.

A number of friends gathered in the Carbon home of Mr. and Mrs. Tim Webb on the evening of Feb. 14 to help Tim celebrate his birthday. Mrs. Tim Webb (Sherril) was hostess for the occasion.

A meal was served, with the dessert being a three-tiered red and white cake baked by a relative, Melba

Williams of Cisco. Visiting, gospel singing, and instrumental music was enjoyed by all. Besides the Webb, and their daughters Kim and Chris, those attending were:

Lynn and Dyann Justice, Melba Williams and son Rodney, Edith and Lee Rodgers and son Billy, Viola Payne, Lewis and Joyce Hut-

Sewing Clothing Saves Money

COLLEGE STATION-- "Saving money is the major reason for increased interest in sewing children's clothing," says Becky Saunders, clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System.

"More mothers are also sewing because children appreciate something made just for them," she adds.

Children under six years old usually are not too particular about how a garment fits or how it is made. This gives a mother time to learn or to improve sewing skills, Saunders says. Children's clothing is excellent for learning since it requires less fabric and many unused garments can be remade.

According to Saunders, a recent survey of clothing stores in the South shows the high cost of children's clothing. Dresses bought in a department store range from $25 to over $50.

Similar dresses can be made in around three hours for less than $10 if the home sewer used fashion fabric costing from $3 to $7 per yard. Pull-on pants cost about $20 but can be made for just over $5 in about one hour, Saunders notes. Better quality construction, fabric and style account for the difference between department store and discount store prices, Saunders says. But after comparing the cost of making high quality garments to buying them, more mothers are turning to their sewing machines.

"Probable Cause" — A Court Problem?

(ED. NOTE: The term "probable cause" is an enigma to citizens and law enforcement officers. So often, citizens read or hear of someone "getting off" because of "probable cause," and the question arises "what's that?" A two-part article in the November and December issues of the FBI Bulletin attempted to answer that question, and the following is a condensation of that article. Copies of the original article are in the office of Criminal District Attorney Emory Walton, and most police chiefs in the county have been furnished copies for the training of their personnel. Questions concerning "probable cause" might be directed by D.A. Walton or Assistant D.A. John Hawkins).

PROBABLE CAUSE

In this country before an arrest or "seizure" of a person, or an entering of a home or "search" of property can be done, an arrest or search warrant must be obtained. This requirement stems from the fourth amendment of the Federal Constitution and further states that "warrants may be issued only upon a showing of probable cause."

Though the Supreme Court has continuously stated that in dealing with "probable cause" we deal with "the factual and practical consideration of everyday life on which reasonable and prudent men not legal technicians act", it is far from a simple concept to fully appreciate. Like all legal principals it is interpreted differently in each changing political and social environment, so that "probable cause" in time of world war may be entirely different than that which is required in peacetime. Nevertheless, this article's purpose is not intended as an exhaustive lesson on what is "probable cause", but merely a layman's handguide as to why probable cause is required and what it generally entails.

WHY ALL THE CONCERN?

Perhaps there was no political structure more indicative of the need for probable cause than in Nazi Germany, where the mere suspicion that you were a subversive or Jew was sufficient grounds for you to be arrested and your house entered and searched. The political climate was one of fear: neighbor could turn against neighbor and there was nothing to contain the movements of officials acting in the name of law enforcement.

Consider a neighbors claim to the police that you are harboring illegal aliens. The determination is a legal one, and the Judge must follow standards laid down throughout the years in countless court decisions.

WHAT IS SUFFICIENT TO SHOW PROBABLE CAUSE?

Attached to an application for a warrant, the police must submit an "affidavit" or "sworn statement of facts". This affidavit states the facts the officer believes to be true and the reasoning behind his beliefs. Obviously the knowledge by an officer that he has personally seen drug trafficking would be preferable, but more often the courts are faced with the problem of an affidavit based on "informants' information" or "hearsay" information. An example of this is an anonymous call to the police saying that there are three people next door who are selling drugs.

WHO DECIDES WHAT PROBABLE CAUSE IS?

Basically probable cause is a judicial determination. Facts are gathered by law enforcement officials and presented to a judge (frequently a Justice of the Peace) who determines if there is sufficient probable cause to issue a warrant.

For the police to act on this tip alone would be unlawful, for again their only job is to ferret or stamp out crime and not to make a "neutral" judgment as to whether the informant's tip justifies "probable cause." Likewise for the police to state to the judge that they have received an anonymous tip that drugs are at a given address would not be sufficient, since the judge would be in no better position than the police to know what the informant is or what his basis is for suspecting drug trafficking.

What the judge needs to know is the factual basis within the informant's mind; he must be placed in the informant's shoes and informed of his knowledge and reason for believing there are drugs at that address. An informant's suspicion that people are drug traffickers based on their dress and hair length is not to be considered a sufficient factual basis for issuance of a warrant; neither is the informant's second-hand knowledge that he overheard someone else call them a drug dealer. Generally, an informant must have first hand knowledge of the presence of drugs or illegal activity and must fully convey what his eyes and ears have seen and heard to the officer. Secondly, the information must pertain to immediate occurrences, and not based on yesterday's or last weeks happenings.

As important as knowing the informant's "factual basis" the Judge must also be informed of the officer's underlying reasoning for believing the informant's tip, or that the informant is a credible person with reliable information. Factors which aid the police officer in the presentation of his warrant application to the Judge in this respect are (1) whether the person has supplied information which on previous occasions have proven correct; (2) whether the officer personally knows the informant is a reliable or credible person within the community; of (3) whether similar information has come to his knowledge which "corroborates" of strengthens the likelihood that the informant's tip is reliable.

In sum though "probable cause" is not a simple concept to understand it is an important and necessary safeguard to our individual privacy and liberty. It is a legal consideration, and it is not an excuse for lack of law enforcement. It should also be no excuse for your failure to report a crime. If the police are to be effectively aided in law enforcement then they must be fully informed as to any and all "factual basis" for your suspicions when you report a crime. While one call may not be sufficient basis for "probable cause" for the issuance of a warrant or for the police to take effective actions, it is nevertheless advisable to always report suspected crime as it may later provide the basis for future criminal investigation or a warrant.

Look What Diet Center Did For Leroy Steinman

I came to Diet Center for help in losing weight because I was fed up with feeling tired all the time and I was having problems breathing. This is the only diet I have had success with. The food is good because I can season it. This is the only diet I have been on and didn't crave sweets, or was hungry. It would have been impossible to lose without my counselor, because she encouraged me, she took interest, she helped me plan different kinds of food, she took time to talk to me - I was never rushed. I was a person who needed and wanted help to her, and not just a number. The more weight I lost the more confidence she gave me to lose some more.

This is the smallest I've been in over fifteen years. I feel super, I feel younger, I can cross my legs, and tie my own shoes. My feet and legs don't hurt anymore because I don't have to carry all that extra weight around. I can go in any store, now, to buy my clothes instead of going to the big man's store.

I have lost 117 1/2 lbs. in 25 wks. and have gone from a 52 1/2 inch to a 34 inch waist.

Reflections In Perspective

By I.W. Ussery

When I first became acquainted with Sheikh Rashid bin Maktoum al Qassemi he was the Ruler of the autonomous Trucial State of Dubai. Actually, it was never officially referred to as "The Trucial State, etc.". It was one of the seven Arab Sheikdoms which formed the Arab coast of the Persian Gulf from Qatar to the Straits of Hormuz, and just beyond to the south. How those seven tribal states were given the name "Trucial States" is quite a long and interesting story. Perhaps we can discuss that later.

Anyway, Sheikh Rashid was the well-loved and widely respected Ruler of Dubai. Kindly, soft-spoken and totally unpretentious; Sheikh Rashid insisted that his philosophy of development of his country was contained in the statement: "We are merchants. We are traders. If oil is ever discovered in our land or underneath our waters it shall be considered to be a gift from Allah. Meanwhile, there is stability and growth in being sound tradesmen. Dubai shall become the commercial center of the Lower Gulf. We shall not depend upon anything so uncertain as petroleum". And following that philosophy Sheikh proceeded to build the image of Dubai, once quite a center of piracy and smuggling into that of a highly respectable little trading city. With about the lowest import duty anywhere in the Gulf; imported goods, which included just about anything which was a part of life to locals and the populace of surrounding states, from canned groceries to Cadillacs could be purchased in Dubai at prices which were in many instances lower than in the countries of origin.

With the minimal import duty, and with even a lower tax on goods handled through his bonded warehouses "in transit" and with the steadily increasing volume of trade, Dubai prospered. With its commercial development booming, Sheikh Rashid saw the need of banking. As a correspondent with one of the major banks of England, he chartered The First National Bank of Dubai. Actually, it was "The National Bank of Dubai". National of Dubai was designated as the State Depository. Under astute and capable British management, the bank prospered. Another bank or two came along with branches in Dubai. Sheikh Rashid welcomed them, but favourable consideration was always given to Dubai National in transactions of State.

Now all of this took place 'way back when the worldwide fixed price of gold was that of $36.00 per ounce. Gold seemed to intrigue Sheikh Rashid, so he encouraged its import. Consequently, East Indian craftsmen in the field of manufacture of fine solid gold jewelry (none the less than 18 karat) were attracted to Dubai. The "Gold Bazaar", where Indian merchants and craftsmen dominated the field became widely known.

And then Sheikh Rashid, probably encouraged by his Bank Manager...and the fact that many Indians made journeys to Dubai to purchase gold jewelry with their non-convertible Rupees, and to return to India literally wearing their life's savings...hit upon a scheme.

It seems that courageous and enterprising Indian and Pakistani "merchants" were buying gold in the bazaar in the popular 10-tolah (four ounce) bars, and were smuggling it into their countries where currency control was very strict. Needless to say, the merchants sold the gold bars at a price which returned a handsome profit.

At that time, the United States would sell gold to any depository of a recognized state, on official order from the government of that state, at $36.00 an ounce. Smugglers were buying the gold in the bazaar, and were selling it to their "connections" offshore India and Pakistan at prices which made the profit worth the risk. Rashid went into the gold business. And Rashid's gold business prospered to the point of attracting almost worldwide attention. He was "written up" in many prominent newspapers and magazines. Even that conservative publication, "Wall Street Journal" published quite an article in which Rashid was identified as "King of the Gold Smugglers". A gross misnomer. Rashid was a dealer in almost any commodity except narcotics, the trafficking in which was a capital offense. And to Sheikh Rashid, gold was a commodity.

It was a commodity the handling of which he could control, and over the handling of which he maintained control; but it was still merely something which could be purchased at a price and sold at another. And at considerable profit. Rashid signed the orders to his banks for gold to be purchased in the U.S. "Merchants" purchased the gold from the banks at prices ranging from $40.00 per ounce to $80.00 per ounce. And there was no danger of the goods spoiling on the shelves. It "kept" remarkably well in the vaults of the banks.

Other banks opened in Dubai until when the estimated population of the city was that of 25,000 there were no less than 57 banks doing quite a good business there. And each was identified officially as a "Branch Depository". And Rashid spread the business around, although Dubai National continued to be his "preferred customer". A leading New York bank had not one but two branches in Dubai, each of which, to quote their managers, "were in the gold business". A "fee" was paid to the government of Dubai on each ounce handled, and business was booming.

Although I was aware of Rashid's gold merchant operation, its magnitude was a mystery to me until late one afternoon when I was awaiting a flight at the old Dubai International Airport. Flying into that airport on the day before I had noticed quite a stack of gold bars, 30 kilograms (66 lbs.) to the bar lying on the floor in the Customs and Immigration office. There must have been as many as twenty of them, just lying there on the floor with no armed guard anywhere in sight.

But on that afternoon in question, an airliner of British registry landed and taxied up to the stand near the departure lounge of the terminal building.

The ground crew pushed the gangplank out, and the cabin staff of three charming young ladies in neat gray uniforms came down and straight into the lounge to do some duty-free shopping.

Under the watchful eye of the one armed guard on duty whose armament consisted of an old Martini action, single-barrelled 16-gauge shotgun, a forklift rumbled out and from the open cargo compartment of the aircraft proceeded to take, one at a time, no less than twelve pallets of gold bricks into the Customs' shed!

One ton to the pallet, that represented a value of just at a million dollars per trip for the forklift.

Out of curiosity, I asked Rashid once during a visit what the attitude of his government was toward contraband (it was well known that hundreds of cases of contraband cigarettes were landed on the beaches of Iran every month).

His reply was quite simple, straightforward and to the point.

"Contraband? Just what is contraband, my Brother? We are merchants. We deal in many things. Vessels put into our port, pay their port dues, purchase their cargo, pay for it and depart. Is that contraband? Where do the vessels go? We never ask. It is of no concern of us".

CRIME

Crime is getting out of hand. Our laws favor the criminal instead of the victim.

Crime is actually profitable. The criminal can make money faster than they can working for it.

Drops outs and some who have an education, do not have the wherewith to hold down a job and since crime is so easy to get by with, turn to it for a livelihood.

We can get the laws changed if we get behind the lawmakers.

DWI is an example of getting the law changed. Last year, on a local, as well as the national level, the laws were tightened up and as a result, that crime certainly has been reduced and the DWI's are having to pay a much steeper price.

When and if we, the people, decide that we have had enough and put the pressure on our congressman, we can get the laws changed.

Changes that are being suggested by a lot of people are: (1) death penalty for Murder I; (2) Life sentence for other murder and man-slaughter crimes, without parole; (3) parole only for the first offense of any crime; (4) for the third offense of any crime, life sentence as a habitual criminal, with no parole.

Prison riots and crimes while in prison should be punishable by death.

All of our sentences used to be so many years of hard work. We should certainly go back to this practice, so they would have to at least pay their own way.

Get the above laws passed and you would see the crime rate go down at a very fast clip.

Let's make crime very unprofitable.

Host Families Needed For Foreign Students

The American Scandinavian Student Exchange (ASSE) is seeking local families to serve as hosts for Scandinavian and German high school students who are part of the ASSE exchange visitor program, according to Susan Hayes, Director of ASSE. The non-profit ASSE operates under the auspices of the Swedish Department of Education and is officially designated by the U.S. International Communication Agency as an Exchange Visitor Program.

The students, 16 and 17 years old, are fluent in English and are carefully selected for the program based on their high school performance, good character, and interest in the ASSE program. All of them are covered by comprehensive medical and liability insurance and have adequate money for personal needs supplied by their parents. The host family furnishes meals and housing.

The ASSE program offers families the opportunity to share American cultural and educational experiences with a Scandinavian or German young person and, at the same time, to learn about another culture and language. Hayes indicated that a volunteer Area Representative, provided by ASSE, will contact the host family and the guest student on a regular basis to assure that everything is going smoothly.

Families interested in serving as hosts for the 1983-84 school year should contact: Carroll Draper, Route 4, Box 33, Comanche, Texas 76442 915-966-3588 or 817-734-2721.

Auction's Best

1981 Auction Marketing Network

WRITING BEST SELLERS

Successful auction selling begins long before auction day. It really begins on the day you call.

On my first visit to your place I can obtain a list of the items you wish to sell. And, I can gather the information that will help make your auction advertising more helpful to those who read it.

By determining quality and condition I can properly describe your offering. And by seeing them in use at your place I can tell all those interested bidders how they can benefit from buying your items.

My auction ads are easy to read due to the special efforts I make to set them up right. And your friends and neighbors can quickly spot the good items you wish to sell.

My auction ads are "best sellers" and I'd like to get started right now on writing one of my "best sellers" for you. You will get my best effort from the first call and I'll begin selling for you from that day on. And remember, when it comes to buying or selling AUCTION'S BEST

H & R BLOCK HAS 1040A'S INSTANTLY PROCESSED PRICES START AT $7.50

H & R BLOCK fights inflation. Again this year, short form (1040A) prices are starting at only $7.50 which includes the full Block guarantee. In addition the 1040A form will be instantly processed, so you will only have one visit to H & R Block. All you will need to do is sign and mail it, to get your refund.

Block has never charged on the basis of income or the size of the refund, but solely upon the return's complexity. THE AVERAGE CHARGE last year for all returns in the Dallas area was less than $40.00.

Skilled preparers conduct personal interviews to be certain that every legal deduction to which the customer is entitled will be un-guaranteed. Often taxpayers are short changed when they simply file the form they received in the mail from the government.

All types of tax returns are done by H & R Block. This includes the Federal 1040A, 1040, state returns, complex corporations and foreign tax income and preparation.

H & R Block has 2 conveniently located offices to serve you.
