

Capitol Update

Senator John Tower

One of the most important pieces of legislation Congress will pass this year is the Budget Resolution which sets spending levels and revenue requirements.

The House of Representatives already has passed its version of the Budget Resolution. Its content is nothing short of alarming, for it threatens to un-do all of the progress we have made during the past two years in controlling domestic spending, reducing the tax burden on the American citizen and rebuilding our national defense capability.

The House-passed resolution would raise taxes by $315 billion over the next five years. The only way to achieve such a massive tax increase would be to cancel the 10 percent income tax cut scheduled for July and the indexing of income tax rates scheduled to begin in 1984.

This would mean the average family would pay an additional $3,570 over the next five years. Those earning less than $10,000 would see a tax increase of 24 percent. For those earning between $10,000 and $50,000 the tax increase would amount to 15 percent; but for those earning more than $200,000, the increase would be only 3 percent.

Additionally, the House would have us launch a five-year domestic spending spree amounting to $181 billion. It would spur runaway spending for so-called entitlement spending by repealing $10 billion of previously enacted food stamp, welfare and Medicaid reforms and flatly rejecting $71 billion in new entitlement savings proposed by the President's budget for the next five years.

The House-passed version also would add an additional $58 billion for next year in anti-recession and social spending programs -- money which experience has shown us is not likely to be spent until the recession is well over.

In the area of national defense, the Budget Resolution passed by the House would cut spending by $206 billion in budget authority over the next five years. This would result in lower defense spending than even that which President Carter proposed, and would effectively cancel our efforts to rebuild our national defense capability.

Fortunately, the House action is only the first step in adopting a Budget Resolution. Now the Senate will pass its version, and then a conference committee made up of members of both houses will reach a compromise agreement.

But the House action does put much more pressure on the Senate to act responsibly. When we consider the Budget Resolution, it is critically important that we retain the income tax relief for lower- and middle-income Americans embodied in the July tax cut and 1984 indexing of tax rates. We must hold our ground in the battle to control domestic spending. And we must allow for adequate funding of our national defense needs.

I believe that the American people will insist that we do these things, and that the House yield on the major elements that threaten our economy and our security. I urge you to let all of us who represent you in Washington know what you want from us in the way of spending and tax policy.

House Of Representatives

Jim Parker-District 65

While it is not necessarily on the subject of today's article, I am pleased to advise you that I have come from a meeting with Gov. Mark White wherein seven of the State Representatives presented him with the prospect of adopting what I have referred to as the "Barton Plan", of financing schools with sales tax as opposed to ad valorem taxes as an alternative to the school finance program that he had proposed, which would, in effect, leave the State $1.3 Billion short on total revenue and would additionally, if a reasonable teacher pay raise were granted, shift a good portion of the burden of meeting the increased salary expense to the local schools and their taxpayers. My position with the Governor quite simply was that my constituents cannot stand additional ad valorem taxation.

The Governor appeared to be excited about the proposed substitution and our collective hopes for passage of a tax relief package were greatly strengthened. I need your help, in the form of cards and letters to the Governor, to show your support for this proposal. His address is:

Representatives Present Governor With Plan

The Honorable Mark White
Governor of Texas
Post Office Box 12428
Capitol Station
Austin, Texas 78711

I think if we can get this to the people and make them understand it and the benefits involved that there will be virtually no opposition to it because it absolutely benefits all of us.

To give you just a brief report on prior topics of this column, I would advise you that it appears that the parimutuel betting issue is probably not going to get out of committee and would appear to be relegated to a slow if somewhat unobtrusive death there.

The "Blue Law" repeal appears to be stuck in committee and while it still has a chance of coming out of committee and being acted on in the House, support for the repeal appears to be lackluster at best.

Because of the length of the above comments and being ever mindful of the courtesies of the very fine editor of this paper in allowing me to place the column here for your information, I will not speak on any new issue this time but will save it for next week over hopefully, a relaxing Easter vacation for all of us.

Dr. Thomas Starkes

Named Professor

NEW ORLEANS -- Dr. M. Thomas Starkes has been elevated to the rank of Professor and designated as the first Chester L. Quarles Professor of Christian Missions and World Religions at New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary. The promotion was voted during the annual meeting of the Seminary's Board of Trustees March 15 and 16.

As one of the most sought after speakers in the denomination Starkes has challenged Southern Baptists in matters of Christian social missions, social action, ethics, and in missions. Of his more than 25 published books and over 70 articles for denominational publications, the majority have dealt with interfaith witness, missions, Christian apologetics, world religions, and cults.

New Orleans Seminary President Landrum P. Leavell said Starkes was a natural selection for the chair. "Chester Quarles was my personal friend. He was dedicated to missions and to Christian education, as is Tommy Starkes. Dr. Starkes is perhaps the foremost authority on religious sects and world religions in the Southern Baptist Convention. He is an excellent teacher. We are pleased to have him as a part of the New Orleans Seminary family," Leavell said.

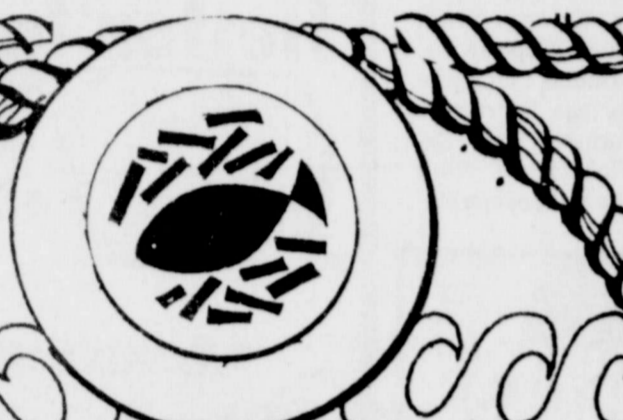

The Chester L. Quarles Chair of Missions is the second academic chair to be occupied at the Seminary, with both being filled in the last six months. The other is the Roland Q. Leavell Chair of Evangelism, occupied by Dr. Clarence Cecil Randall.

Quarles, born in Wiggins, Miss., was a minister, denominational worker, and denominational executive. He was Executive Secretary of the Mississippi Baptist Convention from 1950 until his death in 1968 during a mission trip to South America. He was dedicated to missions at home and abroad, and participated in a number of overseas mission trips. He served as a member of the SBC Foreign Mission Board.

Starkes, a native of Eastland, Texas, received the Bachelor of Arts degree from Wayland College. He earned the Master of Divinity degree from the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary and the Ph.D. degree in World Religions from the University of Iowa. He has served in pastorates in Texas, Kentucky and Iowa.

As an employee of the Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention, he served as Assistant Secretary in the Department of Work Related to Non-evangelicals, and later as Director of the Department of Interfaith Witness. He was also Campus Minister at Southwest Missouri State University.

Prior to joining the New Orleans Seminary faculty in 1979, Starkes was a visiting professor at the Nigerian Baptist Seminary, Ogbomoso. He and his wife Carol have two children: a daughter, Tami, and a son, Monte, and they reside at 4329 Seminary Place in New Orleans.

Spotlights & Sidelights

Julia Worthy

There is a wisecrack about Texas cooking which threatens to become an adage: "If it stands still long enough, somebody will barbecue it."

It's almost to the point that you could paraphrase that and say: "If three people are interested in the same subject, they'll start a club"

The Cisco Writer's Club included more than three people when it formed several years ago, and we are still clubbing away at our typewriters and listening to all the advice we can get.

Benny Butler, retired newspaper man, was the advisor for our aspiring group at our April meeting.

Mr. Butler left me "spaced out" any way you want to take the term. My mind now roams along the solids of the Galaxy, and I don't know whether it ever will settle down to a proper—even an improper—orbit.

Benny Butler, originally from Mexia, published papers in Cisco, Eastland, and Rising Star. He was in Breckenridge and Sweetwater, too, I believe. Where doesn't matter so much, though I am not paying proper attention to the accuracy dear to an editor's heart. The point I sharpen is that he knows whereof he speaks.

Though he disclaimed proficiency as an extemporaneous speaker and seemed to prove it by reading to us a chronicle of the ideas he wished to share with us, I nominate Benny Butler as the ideal "Question-and-Answer" person. He's welcome to ready any "speech" he chooses in my book.

"I's not going to try to teach you how to write," Mr. Butler told us. He got my attention right there. Anyone meeting with a writer's group anywhere can assume 1.) those persons assembled already know the framework, or 2.) they'll never learn, so don't waste time on them.

Technique was mentioned, however. Benny Butler believes it would profit each of us to write an essay on the poetics of Aristotle. Reading the classics is an area I have neglected as someone like Louis L'Amour has held my attention far more often than Aristotle or Homer.

'They'll Start A Club'

One of the truths that struck home to me was Mr. Butler's comment on a writer's need for discipline. So, maybe I should bone up on Aristotle, but I'm afraid I've left it a shade late. Emerson's Essays again? Lamb's "Essays of Elia"? Maybe Addison and/or Steele?

Bits and pieces culled from Mr. Butler's paper follow to give you a sketchy idea of what sent my thoughts milling among the stars.

A writer's group has a practical purpose quite beyond the cultural. To condense, which I dislike, Benny Butler sees mankind as a creature of conflict with the urge for self-expression. The writer has a spiritual ache; a compulsion which drives him to speak for himself. In doing so, the successful writer verbalizes for the less articulate.

The importance of an article or story really is not what it says but in what it inspires.

The supreme reason for good writing is that it needs to be...as in "exist" as well as in quality. (It occurs to me that an awful lot of sorry writing will be done along the way.)

The writer can give his words no more than he feels. What he feels is determined by his personality. That is shaped by the writer's heredity, his experiences and his reading—including the writings of Aristotle or lesser luminaries.

The writer must reflect the emotion of his subject through the means of his own personality. But his own emotional reaction to a given set of circumstances must be separated from the report. Difficult.

Accepting a symbol for reality is idolatry, Mr. Butler told us. Words are symbols for emotions.

As I understood it, if writers accept the responsibility for entertaining or informing our fellowman, we must be selective and accurate in our choice of words; especially accurate, as frequently, "the result is greater than the sum of its parts."

Other club members may have found different remarks more important to them than are these I record. I am aware that this record of our club meeting is inadequate. It becomes apparent to me that the way to adequacy is the path of inadequacy... "Triumphs grow out of defeat—not victory," says Benny Butler.

Anyone want to join me to start a Benny Butler Club?

Reflections In Perspective

By I.W. Ussery

What is the plural of Mongoose? You know, that bright, chipper, ever-active (and bloodthirsty) member of the weasel family to have one of which in your home in India is to be Heaven-blessed? Is it "Mongoosees", or "Mongoosee"? I seem to recall having seen the latter used. Anyway; the blessing of the mongoose in your home lies in the fact that it is about the only natural enemy of the cobra. It is also, it seems, the natural enemy of just about any other small warm-blooded animal. And therein lies a tale.

Das Island was totally barren little speck of volcanic rubble eighty miles offshore the coast of Abu Dhabi. It was inhabited each Spring by thousands of Arctic terns. They paused there on their migration flight to the Antarctic Circle, stayed a few weeks while they nested and hatched and reared their young, and then went their way. Nothing else of a living nature was ever seen on the island except for the huge turtles that came ashore on the very small beach on the southern side of the island. They, like the terns, laid their eggs. And, unlike the terns, having laid the eggs they went their merry way, leaving the newly-hatched young to fend for themselves.

In 1956, a British firm leased the island from the then ruler of Abu Dhabi, Sheikh Shakhbut bin Sultan al Nahayyan for use as a base of operations in the exploration and perhaps development of what they hoped to become a producing oilfield and the area for which had likewise been leased from Sheikh Shakhbut. They went ashore, the British did, and characteristically had quite a going concern in operation in very short order.

They set about, first, making the island habitable. A landing strip a half mile in length was levelled and compacted, a smaller harbour was dredged and a protective seawall built, and camps were laid out for Staff, Junior Staff, Intermediate Staff, Artisans, and Coolies. Separate camp for each classification, in keeping with local custom. And, since there was not a living thing, including vegetation, growing anywhere on the tiny island (3/4 mile by 1/4 mile), all supplies of "life support" or "creature comfort" nature had to be imported.

In a "pioneer" situation of that sort, it seems that the British excel in giving attention to the welfare of the employees. In a bachelor situation, with no nearby town to provide any sort of diversion, shopping or entertainment, considerable outright pampering must be engaged to keep the men content and "work-wise". So, the manager of the Staff Mess was not only a man with whom anyone in the world could get along, he was a "Cordon Bleu Chef". And he also managed the purchasing of all supplies of a foodstuff nature. Likewise, it was his responsibility to provide the safe storage of such supplies. "Commissary Stores" consisted of large concrete block building in which one could find in the storage shelves bins just about anything one could desire in the line of foodstuff which could be kept under such circumstances. The Staff Mess was the principal beneficiary of John Erne's knowledge of feeding people in a manner to which they could only hope to become accustomed...and could afford.

Among the staples which were imported somewhat in bulk quantities were flour, rice, corn meal and sugar. And before the end of the first year it was discovered that from somewhere rats had joined the ranks of the immigrants and in Commissary Stores they'd found quite a bounteous free lunch. They multiplied until they were devastating the place. What to do?

A meeting was held in the General Manager's office and at the Staff Club. It was decided that the first order of combat against the rats would be to import cats. Cats don't eat the same things that rats eat, and they have been known to eat rats. A delegation would be deputized from the volunteers (practically the entire staff) to proceed to Bahrain, 180 miles away via DC3 and to arrange for the capture and transport to the island of what the delegation should consider to be cats in sufficient numbers to take care of the rat problem. It only took the delegation about a week to complete the arrangements for the transport of the cats, of which there was a plentiful population in Bahrain. I seem to recall that twelve cats made up the entire anti-rat force, and they arrived by charter flight. Practically everyone on the island was on hand to greet the writhing, spitting, meowing rat eradicators, following the release of which in the storehouse everyone repaired to the Club to venture bets on how long it would take to decimate the rats.

Now cats are among the leading opportunists of the world when it comes to making himself comfortable...and well fed. And the first order of becoming comfortable is to be well fed. And the cats discovered that in the garbage cans at the various kitchens there lay gold mines of the first means of survival. Where else could one find cordon bleu garbage than outside the kitchen at the Staff Mess? And it was there, simply for the taking. No lying in wait in the corner of a musty warehouse until all hours of the night, only to wind up with a scruffy old rat too tough to chew. So....

Cats began to multiply. John Erne began complaining that rats had again begun to infest his stores. And more and more the cats in steadily increasing numbers could be seen lazily stretched out in the shadow of the garbage cans or on stones and boulders nearby. Another meeting was held.

Since there was, it was finally agreed, that the totally cat-proof garbage facility had yet to be invented, some other natural enemy of the rat must be determined...and provided. Someone with a background of service in the Indian Army came with a proposed solution...Mongoosee! He was the envy of everyone at the meeting. Why hadn't I thought of that? Was in their minds. Now HE will get to go to Bombay for a fortnight. And so he did. Major Frank Haugh (Retired) was appointed a committee of one to proceed, post haste, to Bombay and then there to obtain by whatever legal, or almost legal means whatsoever a suitable number of the sleek born ferrets and to so maintain and keep said animals until their return to Das Island. Voila!

Predictions were quite accurate. At the end of the speculated time...ten days...came a cable from Haugh "Arriving Das Wednesday charter in company of six, to wit three pairs, mongoosee". And arrive he did, to a rousing cheer. The very alert, sharp-looking little animals were escorted to Commissary Stores where, after all doors were closed and water basins were in place they were released to skitter into whatever hiding place they considered to be suitable for the moment.

And within days the damage from rats in the warehouse began decreasing. In almost no time at all there just wasn't any damage at all. Captain Jones of the supply ship even toyed with the idea of "borrowing" a couple of the animals to rid his vessel of rodents. The thought of the possibility of one's sampling his ankle vetoed that idea. But the mongoosee were running out of game. They'd long since been given free reign, being allowed to come and go at will to and from the warehouse. They are very unobtrusive, clean little animals about half again the size of a full grown squirrel, and they could now and then be seen slipping out of the warehouse through holes provided for the purpose. They'd come forth in the late evening, and would just disappear. There were no longer any rats to be found, but the mongoosee continues to appear to be well-fed.

And then, wonder of wonders! The cat population appeared to be decreasing noticeably. After about a year with the mongoosee, about the only cats to be found on the island were a few scruffy, old, battle-scarred toms whose sense of survival had enabled them to escape the mongoosee. And the mongoosee totally disdained to eat garbage! It was beneath their dignity, I suppose.

One early evening toward the end of my last tour on the island I was on the jetty at the little harbour at the southern tip of the island when I caught a movement along the breakwater stone off-side from the jetty. You're right; it was a pair (I suppose) of mongoosee. They took up a low-profile stand just at the water's edge on a 10-ton stone and waited, motionlessly. I stood, as quietly as I could, and watched. Finally, one of them moved. In a brown flash he dived into the water without so much as a splash, and surfaced with a zebra fish the size of your hand. That ended my worry as to the survival of the mongoosee.

So; mongoosees, mongeeese...whatever. They'll get along.

WIC Program Needs Sponsors

"Eating a nutritious diet is one of the most important things a pregnant woman can do to help assure a healthy baby, but eating a nutritious diet isn't always as easy as it sounds" according to Ms. Cathy Litteer, nutritionist and chief administrator of the Texas Supplemental Food Program for Women, Infants and Children (WIC). This is why she is encouraging local health agencies to sponsor

WIC in their communities. WIC is a Federal health program designed to prevent malnutrition during pregnancy and early childhood. The program has gained a solid reputation as a preventative health and nutrition program that actually saves Federal dollars. At a time when so many Federal programs are being cut, the WIC Program enjoys bipartisan support in Congress, and in Texas it's actually continuing to expand. The Texas Department of Health is currently soliciting applications from any local or migrant health agencies, community action programs, or neighborhood health clinics, who would like to sponsor a WIC Program for their communities. interested agencies should contact: Cathy Litteer, R.D., Special Project Director, WIC Program, 1100 West 49th Street, Austin, Texas 78756. Phone: (512) 458-7632.

Currently, there are 52 local WIC projects in the State, but the program is not available to women, infants and children in many Texas counties. WIC needs a sponsoring agency in Eastland County.

The WIC Program provides food assistance and nutrition education to low-income pregnant and lactating women, and children up to five years old, who have been found to be the most vulnerable to the effects of malnutrition. To receive this assistance, participants must have health or nutrition related problems and meet specific low-income criteria.

"Some pregnant women simply can't afford a nutrition diet, and many more don't know how to plan one," explained Ms. Litteer. "The consequences of poor prenatal nutrition can be anemia, toxemia, prematurity, low birth weight infants, complications in delivery, or other maternal or infant illnesses."

The benefits of good prenatal nutrition, achieved through the WIC Program have been documented in a study conducted by the Harvard University's School of Public Health. The study found that every $1.00 spent to aid pregnant women avoided $3.00 in hospital costs that would have been spent for treatment of their babies. The cost to taxpayers is less to prevent complications than to pay costs resulting from complications. Since the program is delivered through local health care agencies, WIC encourages early and frequent prenatal and child health care.

WIC participants receive a monthly supply of nutrition foods such as milk, eggs, fruit juice, iron-fortified cereal and iron-fortified infant formula.

Monthly nutrition education classes are also provided so that WIC participants can learn about the relationship between health and good nutrition, and how to buy and prepare nutritious meals. The ultimate goal is a positive change in dietary habits that will improve participants' nutritional status. The futuristic nature of the program, training young mothers, who will in turn teach their children good eating habits, has far reaching potential.

Glenn Liles Displays Art AT ENB During April

Glenn Liles of Eastland will have oil paintings in the Eastland National Bank through April.

Glenn is the owner of Liles Frame Shop in Eastland. Her late husband, Artie Liles, began the shop and sold custom-made frames. Glenn is continuing the business, selling ready-made frames.

County Girls' Softball To Organize

Eastland County Teen Age Girls Softball Association will hold their annual meeting at the First State Bank in Ranger on Tuesday, April 12, at 7:30 p.m. All interested people in Eastland County are encouraged to attend this open meeting.

DID YOU KNOW THAT - The drug industry ranks in size with AT&T, General Motors, and Exxon—it's a $78-80 Billion Dollars a year industry?

Sybil Urban of Eastland was Glenn's first art instructor. Phyllis Sanders of Seymour, JoAnn Hubbard of Rising Star and Mary Hoggsett of Abilene also taught Mrs. Liles in her art education.

Glenn prefers floral and still life paintings. She uses oils in all her work. She says her method in obtaining her goal in art is trial and error. Eastland County Art Association elected Glenn as Artist of the Month.

H & R BLOCK UNCOMPLICATES THE NEW TAX LAW

This year there are 47 different forms and schedules for income tax filers. The so called short form is now two pages, which call for up to 63 entries and refers you to the instructions more than 10 times. Misinterpreting the instructions could cost you money or cause an IRS inquiry.

The tax act of 1981 affects every taxpayer regardless of income. Your H & R Block tax law helps you save money on your 1982 taxes, and points out changes that could affect your taxes in 1983.

Even the 1040A short form is affected by the tax changes, so no one can afford not to use H & R Block with prices starting at $7.50 and the average fee last year in dollars was under $40.00.

Your local H & R Block tax preparers have been thoroughly trained and brought up to date on the latest tax information for 1982 tax returns. The changes in the tax laws have been studied and analyzed to determine what effect they'll have on your tax return.

Through the personal interview that every H & R Block client gets, you can have peace of mind that every deduction to which you are entitled to will be uncovered.

H & R Block has 2 conveniently located offices. Call today, appointment available.

BOOKS IN REVIEW by HVO

The Westminster Press is one of our favorite publishing houses, and their new listings offer a variety of treats.

We'll start off with one that will be popular with many, but not necessarily one of our favorites. "Dramas of Life: Lazarus and His Beloved and The Blind."

These are two short (one-act?) plays by celebrated writer Kahilil Gibran, best known for "The Prophet". This volume is put together by his nephew and wife, and the information on Gibran is good, but the plays, — well.

Lazarus is shown as not pleased to have been brought back from the dead and as seeking his "other life".

The Blind is a strange story. The hardcover sells for $8.95.

Highly recommended out of the Westminster list are: Your Church: A Dynamic Community by Arleon L. Kelley, $7.95.

The Power of God (from the Library of Living Faith) by Daniel L. Migliore. Paper at $5.95.

The Human Face of God by John A.T. Robinson, in paper at $5.95.

A Handful of Pearls (The Epistle of James) by Addison J. Eastlan. Paper at $5.95.

$5.50. God With Us (A Theology of Transpersonal Life) by Joseph Haroutunian, paper at $7.95.

Still available and recommended are the Pastor's Handbook, Vol. I and II, by Wayne E. Oats at $5.95 each. Dating to the early '50s publication are the Westminster Historical Atlas to the Bible, edited by Floyd V. Filson and G.E. Wright, in hardcover at $16.95, and Westminster Historical Maps of Bible Lands, edited by same men in a paper version at $2.50.

A popular list introduced in 1980 are the Christian Care Books, and chances are we all can think of a great need for each of these:

Understanding Aging Parents by Judith L. Lester and Andrew D. Lester, $5.95. Coping With Different People by Paul F. Schmidt, $4.95.

Coping With Physical Disability by Jan Cox-Gedmark, $4.95. Parents and Discipline by Herbert Wagemaker Jr., M.D., $5.95.

For Grandparents: Wonders and Worries by Myron C. Madden and Mary Ben Madden, $5.95. Mid-Life Crises by William E. Hulme, $5.95.

And finally, this for all of us:

Just out in March: Coping With Your Anger: A Christian Guide, in paper at $6.95. By Andrew D. Lester.

Lights From The Christian World

Josephine Cleveland

Two brothers liked to watch men working on the cross country electrical lines being constructed across their father's large ranch. "Boys," their father told them. "Stay at a distance from the men as they work. They understand the need for safety measures. Those wires carry 50,000 volts. You could get killed if you touched them."

One day while hunting one of the boys saw two doves sitting on the 50,000 volt wire. "Look", he said, "those doves are singing and seem perfectly at ease as if they realize they are safe from danger."

Puzzled, the boys later asked their father why the birds were not injured. The father explained, "They were not grounded."

Friend, in Christ you are not grounded. The secret of your well-being is keeping separate from the destroying forces of the world. The power to experience a feeling of security, a thrill of joy is realizing that you are in the world but not of the world. All thanks and praise to Him who makes this possible.

Word Of God

Behold, to obey is better than sacrifice, and to hearken than the fat of rams.

For rebellion is as the sin of witchcraft, and stubbornness is as iniquity and idolatry. — 1 Samuel 15:22-23 church services...

REDEEMER LUTHERAN CHURCH
Sunday School and Bible classes begin at 9:30 a.m. The worship service begins at 10:30 a.m. Pastor Crockett's message is entitled "Christians On Trial!" based on Acts 5:12, 17-32. The disciple Thomas is an example of the saying "Seeing is believing." To believe in someone or something we cannot see is not popular today. However, in Christ we live in faith, not sight. Hear Dr. Oswald Hoffman, Lutheran Hour speaker, deliver his message "The Thomas Principle" on radio station KERC, Eastland at 12:30 p.m. Sunday. There will be a Quarterly Voters meeting at 2:30 p.m. in the Parish Hall Sunday.

The Sunday School Staff will have a meeting in the Parish Hall Monday at 7:30 p.m.

The Cisco Nursing Center worship service will be Wednesday at 10:00 a.m. Catechism will be in the Parish Hall Wednesday at 4:00 p.m. The Choir will hold practice at 7:30 p.m. at the church on Wednesday.

Jesus Friends will meet in the Parish Hall Thursday at 9:30 a.m. and 2:45 p.m.

The LWML Zone Workshop will be held in the Parish Hall of Redeemer Lutheran Church Saturday at 9:30 a.m.

Senior Citizens Nutrition Menu

Do you really understand all you should know about the poor misunderstood peanut?

Some call it a goober, a groundnut, a manilla nut or a monkey nut, but make no mistake the peanut is not a nut!

The peanut plan is actually a vine related other legumes, such as peas, the fruit of which grows underground. In this sense the peanut can rightly be called a ground pea, belonging to the pea and bean family.

Peanut seeds develop into a small green bush which sprouts delicate yellow flowers. Those flowers, when fertilized, lose their petals as the ovary appears.

In time, the budding ovary or "peg" grows away from the plant on a vine, eventually penetrating the soil.

The peanut embryo, at the tip of the peg, turns horizontal to the soil surface and begins to mature into a peanut. Planting to harvesting takes four to five months.

We will discuss more about the peanut next week, but just remember, when you use the peanut for food, it is one of the most nutritious foods on the market.

Programs for the past week included: Rosie and Trudy Marshall sang several songs and played the guitar; Wylee Peebles from the Cisco Junior College music department, sang many songs and was accompanied by Steven Zell at the piano. Dinner music provided by Vida Killion, A.E. McNeely and Marguerite King.

The menu for the week will be:

MONDAY--baked chicken/barbecue sauce, potatoes, greens, lettuce salad/1000 island dressing, caramel pudding, bread, butter and drink.

WEDNESDAY--beef casserole, corn, cabbage slaw, coconut pudding, bread, butter and drink.

FRIDAY--cheese meat loaf/tomato sauce, buttered corn, lima beans, pineapple/grated cheese, jello, bread, butter and drink.

WORD of GOD

For if ye forgive men their trespasses, your heavenly Father will also forgive you: But if ye forgive not men their trespasses, neither will your Father forgive your trespasses.

Matthew 6:14-15

People n Things

A CAPACITY CROWD turned out Wednesday night at the Church of Christ to hear the A Cappella Choir from Abilene Christian University in concert. They sang a program of sacred and semi-classical songs that delighted the audience.

For the finale, the choir sang "The Lord Bless and Keep You," and they invited any former members of the body who might be in the audience to sing with them. And there was one former member—Mrs. Eris Ritchie—Cisco's first lady was pleased to join the choir for the number.

THE WM. E. (Bill) Austins were over in Abilene Thursday night to say "welcome" to a brand new granddaughter—Carie Elizabeth Austin, daughter of the Steve Austins. Little Miss Austin arrived Wednesday night at Hendrick Memorial Hospital, and she weighed in at seven pounds and 12 ounces. She has four-year old brother Zack. Carie Elizabeth was named for a great grandmother, the mother of Mrs. Wm. E. Austin, and for her mother, Besty. Maternal grandparents are John and Peggy McDaniel of Marfa where he is district manager for West Texas Utilities Co.

CROSSING A downtown street during the big wind last week, City Judge Jasper Cook wiped sand out of his eyes in time to see a check blowing along. He picked it up and saw that it was made out to a local man in the amount of $240.

At City Hall, Secretary Beth Prickett got on the phone and the delighted owner soon came by to pick up his missing check.

THERE'S A LAW now that you can escape a fine when you're given a ticket for a class "C" traffic violation—a minor one—by taking a two-night course in defensive driving. And Judge Cook currently has 26 people enrolled in the course at Cisco Junior College.

A bonus for taking the course is that you get 10% off your auto insurance. CJC regularly and the AARP Chapter sponsors one occasionally.

AREA THERMOMETERS haven't been below freezing this past week but the chill factor has. The temperature has been around 35 degrees several nights...

Folks who got up by 5:30 or 6 a.m. Thursday saw sleet on the ground when they went out to fetch their newspapers... Observer Jerry McBeth reports that he saw a scissortail bird the other day—a lone, jittery looking one—as he has been watching for signs of spring. He can't find any buds on mesquite trees yet.

SORRY TO HEAR that Miss Patsy Nance of Cisco entered Seton Hospital in Austin last Tuesday for a medical checkup and possible surgery. She was installed in Room 529, Seton Hospital, Austin 78712. Her mother, Mrs. Garland Nance, was with her... Mr. Tommie Ball, retired painter, was surprised the other day when he was presented a roll of tape like material that they used to use in repairing the tops of Model T Ford cars. It was found in the garage at the home of the late Dr. D. Ball and Tommie recalled that he ordered it for his brother years ago. If you have any need for some, it's in good condition and you can have it by contacting Tommie Ball.

MR. WALTER Knowlden of 1212 West 9th Street drove over to DFW Airport on March 1st—the day of the big wind—to meet daughter Virginia and grandson Alex who flew in from New Jersey for a visit in Cisco. The airplane was considerably late due to weather.

The two visitors were due to depart this weekend to return home where Alex is due back in school Monday and his mother resumes teaching and working on a doctor's degree. While in Texas, she went to Tyler for program that she presented at Tyler Junior College. Alex was his granddad's guest at the Lions Club meeting last Wednesday noon.

THERE WERE five-foot waves on the beach at Galveston on the day of the big wind, reports CofC Manager Randy Speegle. Making the trip with Randy and Charlotte Speegle were their daughter Lori Ann and friends Stephanie Kimbrough, Aki Kleiner and Julie Weathers.

The group took bathing suits and all except Randy went swimming... The high winds helped save a lot of gasoline en route there. They made the trip in a Jeep Waggoner.

SOME 24 LADIES enjoyed a benefit bridge tournament last Tuesday afternoon at the Laguna Corral Room. Hostesses for the event were Mesdames Reba Merket, Muri Guyger, Bertha Reimer and Evelyn Fry.

The door prize, a loaf of super bread from Mr. Billy Reynolds' oven, was won by Jewel Cole... Alleye Terrell won high score in bridge, and the prize for low score went to Mrs. Marshall Jones

The First Industrial Arts Club sponsored the affair. And the FIA Club does a good job in our community. Among other things, they maintain a CJC Scholarship each year, donate to the Community Chest, support Girls Town and the like.

West Of The Brazos Club Will Meet Tues.

The West of the Brazos club of Telephone Pioneers will meet Tuesday, April 12th at 7 p.m. at the First National Bank Community Room in Breckenridge.

Each member is to bring sandwiches for a sandwich supper, the drinks will be furnished.

All members are urged to attend.
