

HALL OF REMARKS

BY HERBERT HALLMARK

EVEN THOUGH the night's have been kind of cold, the days have been very pretty with clear skies and plenty of sunshine.

I hope the pretty weather continues.

PLANS CONTINUE developing for this coming week in Cisco. Cisco Junior College will be holding its annual Ranch Week Monday through Friday with a special emphasis being put on Ranch Day Wednesday.

Over the weekend Cisco's annual Folklife Festival will be held at CJC's Ag Building. The Cisco Civic League sponsors this event and this year will be the 10th anniversary.

A number of other clubs have also shown their support for the Folklife Festival. There will be plenty to do all week long, for all age groups of the family.

LOCAL RUNNERS might be interested in a Spring Run (10K, 2 Mile) being planned in Big Spring, Tx., on May 21 of this year. The run will be held at the First Street Industrial Park with the starting time at 10:00 a.m.

Entry fees will be $7/$9 day of race. An aid station and medical facilities will be available. The course will be flat out and back.

T-shirts and race packets will go to the first 350 entrants. Awards will also be given in each race.

For more information contact: Craig Bailey (915) 267-8805 (home) or (915) 263-3109 (office).

Dill Is Elected Lions President

C.B. (Runt) Dill, member of the Eastland County Commissioners' Court, was elected president of the Cisco Lions Club for 1983-84 at the weekly luncheon last Wednesday noon at Colony Restaurant. He will take office July 1 along with other newly elected officers.

The club elected other officers for the coming year as follows: Bobby Smith, Robert Dudley and Bob Conner, vice presidents; Jasper Cook, secretary and treasurer; Marcus Ray, lion tamer; Phil Schaefer, tailtwister; Jerry McBeth, assistant tailtwister; Wylee Peebles, song leader; Bob Conner, assistant song leader; Ken Hammes and Bruce Sellstrom, directors for one year; and Walter Knowlden and Earl Ray, directors for two years.

The new leaders will be installed at a dinner meeting in June.

The club elected delegates and alternates to attend the District 2E-1 Convention in Abilene on May 6-7.

President Ivan Webb reported that plans are complete for the club to operate a "sausage-on-stick" booth at the Folklife Festival here next weekend. He said that 300 pounds of sausage has been ordered along with other supplies. Club members will be organized into groups to man the booth, he added.

Plans called for a work day to be held Saturday, April 16, at City Park where the club is building a picnic pavilion.

Report Cards

Will Be Issued

Wednesday

Cisco Jr.-Sr. High School will issue report cards on Wednesday, April 20th, according to CHS principal Mike Turner.

Two debate teams and a poetry interpretation participant were entered. Matt Ritchie and Sheila Prickett were members of one team, and Rhonda Bradford and Margaret Yeager composed the other team. Michelle Dempsey was taking part in the poetry interpretation event.

The group went to Stephenville Friday and were due to be there until Saturday afternoon.

The Jahns

Missionary Visits In Local Church

David Jahns, Evangelical Methodist missionary from Bolivia, South America, talked and showed slides at the First Evangelical Methodist Church Wednesday evening and Thursday at noon.

David is from Illinois and his wife Maria is from Bolivia. They met while she was attending school in Illinois. They have two sons, Christopher and Alex. They left the First Evangelical Methodist Church in Bartlesville, Oklahoma, to preach the gospel of Christ and work with the sick in Bolivia.

Wednesday, David gave a program on the important work in the missionary field and the atmosphere in Bolivia. On Thursday, David talked to the EMW during a salad luncheon hosted by the ladies. He told of the women's role in Bolivia. It seems as though the women take care of the business in the villages and Mother's Day is one of the most celebrated holidays there.

Real Estate Consumer

David S. Jones

The Real Estate Consumer is brought to you as a public service by this newspaper and the Texas Real Estate Research Center. Address inquiries to: The Real Estate Consumer, Texas Real Estate Research Center, Texas A&M University, College Station, Texas 77843-2115.

California led the nation in the use of creative financing for home buying in the last five years. When home prices and mortgage interest rates soared, sellers arranged special loans for buyers.

These arrangements usually involved a seller-provided second loan which included a lump-sum balloon payment after a few years. Now that these payments are coming due, California leads the nation in balloon-payment defaults.

The problem stems from the borrowers' need to find new financing to pay off the special loan. Although interest rates have dropped, they are still too high for many borrowers to qualify.

In some cases, sellers extended loans. In others, buyers have lost their homes. Reports from lenders in Texas indicate that balloon payments are not such a problem here. Still, those with such loans should begin looking for refinancing with a permanent loan while opportunities exist.

THE YOUNG TEXANS
Generally speaking, Texans are younger than the rest of the nation. Although the median age of Texans has been increasing, we still are about two years younger than the typical U.S. resident.

In 1980, the median age for Texans was a little more than 28. At the same time, the median age for other Americans was 30.

Being younger than the nation is nothing new for Texans, however. That's been the case all this century. In 1900, for example, typical Texans were more than four years younger than the overall population of the nation. Today only six states have a lower median age than Texas. Utah has the nation's lowest median age with 24.

In 1980, the five Texas counties with the lowest median ages had considerably more births than deaths. Although Loving County has a high median age—more than 45, births and deaths were not an age factor. That's because in 1980, Loving County had no births and no deaths.

LIKE-KIND EXCHANGE HELPS BOTH PARTIES

When changing job locations, employees generally sell their homes and make purchases in the new locations. However, an alternative to the sometimes difficult buy-sell arrangement is the like-kind exchange under Section 1034 of the Internal Revenue Code.

The relocating employee may advertise in the new area or contact a broker who specializes in property exchanges. If the homes are comparable and both parties are agreeable to a transfer, the two can simply exchange homes and avoid many buying and selling expenses.

If the two homes are not of comparable value, some monetary award may be exchanged in the transaction.

Obviously, any lien holder on the property must be contracted. This may trigger an increase in interest rates. The house exchange arrangement may prove beneficial to all parties if the details can be worked out.

SOURCES OF HOME LOANS

With the rising cost of housing and current income instability, sources of home loans are of critical concern to prospective homebuyers.

According to data obtained from a statewide survey of homebuyers in Texas, half the respondents arranged home loans through mortgage companies. Two out of three new homes and one out of three resold dwellings were financed through mortgage companies in 1981.

Banks and savings and loan associations were the source of 38 percent of all home loans, including almost half of all mortgages of resold units. Many of these mortgages represent loan assumptions. Finally, 13 percent of the surveyed homebuyers negotiated their own loan through the previous owner or the builder.

Apparently, mortgage companies currently are the strongest source of loans, particularly for homes in the mid-price range.

FNMA MORTGAGE SOLUTION

Home sellers with low interest rate mortgage loans often find the loan can be a major selling point. If the buyer can assume the loan, a sale is much more likely.

Lenders, however, often escalate the old interest rate as a condition of assumption. This destroys the advantage of the old loan. But if the existing loan is owned by the Federal National Mortgage Association, nick-named Fannie Mae, a new loan may be arranged at below-market rates. Not only that, but the loan amount may be increased to as much as 95 percent of the current property value.

In addition, Fannie Mae offers adjustable rate and graduated payment mortgages as well as fixed-rate loans. The new rate will depend on the amount of increase in the loan principal. Also, the seller may refinance the loan through Fannie Mae now and it can be assumed by a buyer anytime during the following year. For more information on this subject, contact your broker or your loan officer.

Women Still Spend Time On Household Chores

The annual rite of spring cleaning may be a thing of the past, but that doesn't mean women are doing fewer household chores.

"The average amount of time women spend in household activities has changed very little in the past fifty years," says Lynn White, a home economics specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. According to White, research shows that homemakers as a whole spend 47-52 hours a week in household activities. Employed wives spend 26-35 hours per week on household activities in addition to their forty-hour work week.

"Major appliances, easy-care clothes and convenience foods have not led to a decrease in the total time spent on household work," says White, "although they have changed the way in which that time is spent."

Employed women spend less time than housewives in all types of household work except shopping. Some researchers suggest that the "recreational" aspects of shopping accounts for the extra time devoted to it by the whole family, says White. Husband contribute an average of only about 1.7 hours a day to household work. But they significantly increase their time in food preparation and dishwashing as the wife's hours of employment increase.

Family composition also affects the time a woman spends in household work. For example, one study found that as the age of the youngest child increases, the mother's time for care of family members decreases, reports White.

Teenagers contribute an average of about two hours a day to household production, and tend to absorb the reduced food preparation time of employed homemakers.

"So the trend toward smaller families with fewer teenagers present to help may account for the fact that husbands are helping more with food preparation," says White.

Home economics researchers have been studying household production since the 1920's says White. "Continuing research of this type is important for determining the value of household production and understanding the impact of family lifestyles on individuals and the economy," she adds.

House Of Representatives

Jim Parker-District 65

The homestead aspect of the constitution of the State of Texas is almost as old as the State of Texas itself and is based on the very sound reasoning that the home and hearth should be protected and that no person should be placed in a position to be "turned out of their home."

Traditionally, the two (2) types of homesteads in Texas have been the Urban Homestead, consisting of a lot, exclusive of improvements, with a value of $10,000.00; and a Rural Homestead consisting up to two-hundred (200) acres of land. There are provisions for business homesteads but they are seldom seen in this day and age.

Three (3) means are available to obtain a valid lien against a person's homestead so that the valid heir could, for reasons of non-payment, be foreclosed and the person could lose his or her homestead. The three (3) ways are:

1. A lien created as a result of a third person lending money as purchase money for the homestead property. This is usually evidenced by a Deed of Trust and Note.

2. A lien created as result of third party making valuable improvements to the homestead property. This is usually evidenced by a Mechanics and Materialman Lien Contract and Note.

3. A lien created by the non-payment of ad valorem taxes on homestead property.

Additionally, the IRS can do some nasty things to a homestead but it has been my experience that they are usually above the law in all cases.

Effectively, the homestead is protected from all other types of debt and a spend-thrift is, in essence, protected from himself, to the extend of his home. Neither can a person borrow money against a homestead for any reason than those stated.

Currently, legislation is pending in Austin that would virtually eliminate this homestead protection. Proponents of the legislation point out that Texas is one of only two (2) states that will have this restrictive law and that a person should have the right to encumber his or her homestead with second, third, fourth or fifth liens if they so desire. They state this would free up to $300,000,000.00 dollars in home equities that could be actively placed in the economy.

Of course, on the opposition side, it is pointed out, and rightfully so, that a person could, in a weak moment, purchase a item like a television, give a lien on their home as additional security for the debt, and wind up losing their home if unable to pay for the television.

Often I can tell a good deal

about legislation by the persons supporting it. The supporters of this measure are not the Savings and Loan Companies and banks, but the smaller consumer loan companies.

All my life I have had the very good advice that "if it an't broke, don't fix it."

While there is a tremendous equity tied up in homestead property, and while the benefits to the economy would be significant, can we be sure we would not be creating a monster if this protection were eliminated?

Unfortunately, some of our brothers and sisters, are "Dummies" on financial matters and it just boils down to whether or not we really are "our brother's keeper."

I look forward to hearing from you.

remain open. This was announced by Major General Hugh G. Robinson, Southwestern Division Engineer, U.S. Army Corp of Engineers.

The Park was closed by the Corp on Oct. 1, 1982, and some facilities were being removed before a suit was filed by the State of Texas. The lawsuit was initiated with the intent to allow the public a chance to comment on the park closure.

The citizens of the area submitted more than 4,000 signatures protesting the closing of High Point Park.

A decision to keep the Park open was made after a revised Environmental Assessment, the receiving of public comments, and a meeting at the State Attorney General's office.

Lights From The Christian World

Josephine Cleveland

A small boy was pleased when he arrived home from summer camp to find a puppy his father purchased for him. The father had trained the dog to sit upon a hassock and remain there until told to leave. The puppy soon learned to jump from the hassock and to the open door to get his meals in the garage.

One morning the lad decided to feed his puppy. He held out meat to the puppy and called him to the open door into the garage. Immediately his dog followed him anticipating eating the delicious morsels. However, instead of giving his puppy the food, the lad changed his mind. Following the boy into the house the puppy jumped upon his hassock. The lad took another variety of food from the refrigerator and held it out to his puppy. The puppy became confused and did not know whether he could trust the lad.

The mother of the boy seeing the situation quickly called her son and puppy to the door where she watched as the lad fed his dog. Later she explained to her son the reason for the puppy's lack of trust in him.

Friend, do you feel confused, betrayed by a friend or possibly even a member of your own family? David, the Psalmist experienced this, yet he found there was one who never failed him. He penned these words, "For a day in Thy courts is better than a thousand. I had rather be a doorkeeper in the house of my God, than to dwell in the tents of the wickedness. For the Lord God is a sun and a shield; the Lord will give grace and glory; no good thing will he withhold from them that walk uprightly. O Lord of hosts, blessed is the man that trusteth in thee."

Even as the mother observed the error of her son's action; the Lord will intervene to help you.

Beloved, forgive; for the very act of forgiveness will perform a healing in you.

Trust Jesus; for the very act of trust brings peace.

Order Of The Eastern Star Honors Masons

Approximately 50 people were present Saturday evening when Cisco Chapter #461, Order of Eastern Star honored the members of Cisco Masonic Lodge #556.

The evening started with a covered dish supper at 6:30. The dining tables were beautifully decorated by Elizabeth Webb, using assorted colors of spring flowers and potted chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Merle Murphy was mistress of ceremonies for the program. Lynn Williams was introduced as worthy patron of the Cisco Chapter. Mrs. Velma Williams, worthy matron, extended a warm and cordial welcome to all. The response was given by Virgil Murphy, worshipful master of Cisco Masonic lodge.

Mrs. Doris Griffin of Rising Star rendered two beautiful vocal solos. She was accompanied at the piano by Luella McKinney of Rising Star. Mrs. Webb introduced the German Band, who played a melody of tunes of polka and dixieland.

The speaker of the evening was Sam Hilburn of Midland, past grand master of the Grand Lodge of Texas, A.F. & A.M. He gave a very interesting explanation of some of the history of Masonry.

Visitors were present from Eastland, Midland and Rising Star.

Bible Baptist Women Meet

The Bible Baptist women met in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Green for their monthly meeting of fellowship and Bible study. The meeting was opened with prayer and the blessing on the food by Mrs. Nelda Gary.

The table was loaded with good food which was a pleasure enjoyed by all feasting and visiting, after which a business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Louise Sowels. Next followed the honoring of one girl "spot lighted", Miss Tammy Wells. Some special words of praise and encouragement, and also a red rose, followed.

Mrs. Betty Green was the speaker for the Bible study after leading in prayer. The subject was "Lesson of Life." We learn from our affections in our every day living and from Jesus. Jesus said, "Learn of Me." Matthew 11:29.

If we keep our minds on God and learn from him, it will purify our souls and give us perfect contentment. Phillipians 4:11.

The closing prayer was given by Mrs. Elizabeth Lee. Those in attendance were Mmes.: Faye Owings, Tresa Martin, JoAnn Gary, Dian Crow, Louise Sowels, Linda Wells, Nelda Gary, Ruby Wells, Paula Potter, Tammy Wells, Jenean Wells, Wanda Payne, Maunira Copeland, Elizabeth Lee and the hostess, Betty Green.

High Winds Delay Pilot's Record Attempt

by Gary Slade
Staff Writer

The strong West Texas winds proved to be too much for Jo Anderson's 250 pound Ultralight aircraft Thursday morning forcing her to make an unplanned stop at Eastland Municipal Airport.

Mrs. Anderson, 36, is attempting to set a new United States record for flying an Ultralight aircraft coast to coast.

The flight started back on March 28 at the Oceanside Airport in San Diego, California and will take her to an airport in Kittyhawk, North Carolina.

Anderson, who is from Denver, Colorado, said she hopes to have the 2700 mile, 70 flight hour trip completed by the end of next week.

The aircraft that Anderson is flying is a Quicksiher MXL and has a cost of about $5300, weighs about 250 pounds and has a five gallon gas tank, which causes refueling about every 60 miles, and has a 33 1/2 horse power engine allowing a cruise speed of 40 mph and a maximum speed of 63 mph.

Referring to the aircraft Anderson said, "I have been real happy with it. We haven't had any trouble with it thus far and it has preformed real well."

When asked why she was attempting to set the record Anderson replied, "I wanted to go somewhere and I thought it would be fun to set a record seeing the parts of the county I wanted to see plus this is the Bi-Centennial year of aviation and I wanted to contribute to that. It was 200 years ago that the first balloon flight was recorded."

Anderson, who has had her pilots license for 1 1/2 years, said, "Another reason I wanted to make the trip was to help clean up the image of the Ultralight aircraft. The aircrafts themselves are not dangerous as long as you stay within the planes boundaries. It's like anything else, you have to obey the rules otherwise you get in trouble."

Anderson pointed out that a person does not have to have a pilot's license to fly the plane. "There is no training required on the plane by the government right now although some dealers do require that the buyer go through their class if they don't know how to fly," Anderson said.

High winds caused Anderson to land in Eastland Wednesday about 8:30 a.m. where she picked up a thorn in one of the tires after landing in the craft causing a further delay and thus making Thursday daybreak the next scheduled take-off.

Anderson said that she cannot fly the craft into the larger cities because of the controled airspace so she planned the route through the smaller towns.

"The further away I get from the big cities the nicer the people get," Anderson said. "I really enjoy talking to the people at the airports when I am grounded or I am refueling."

One example Anderson gave of that hospitality was when she was flying over New Mexico. "The winds had gotten really bad and I needed to land as quick as I could so I spotted this grass airstrip on this private ranch. I landed there about 6:15 Easter morning and wasn't for sure how the people that owned the ranch would appreciate me just dropping in on them from out of nowhere. They turned out to be real nice. The first thing I herd the owner say was that I was just in time for breakfast."

Anderson is not making the trip alone as her brother-in-law, Monte Sprague, drives a chase vehicle along on the trip carrying luggage and extra parts.

Jo has a family back in Colorado running their plane dealership that is waiting for the word to come that she has made the trip. "I was hoping to be in North Carolina this weekend but I am not going to be able to make it. I have had too much bad weather coming through New Mexico and West Texas," she said.

To make her record official, Jo has been recorded each time a stop is made, going by the federal regulations for flying the aircraft and not carrying any extra fuel so that the National Aeronautics Association

(NAA) will reconize the record when she reaches Kittyhawk.

If everything goes well, Jo should reach North Carolina in another week once she leaves Eastland and when she does reach Kittyhawk the name Jo Anderson will be in the record book as being the first woman to fly coast to coast in an Ultracraft aircraft.

Jo Anderson displays her Ultralight Aircraft that she is flying coast to coast in and trying to set a new record at the same time. The trip when finished will have taken Anderson over 70 flight hours and 2700 miles. Anderson stoped in Eastland overnight Wednesday when the winds became too strong. (Telegram Staff Photo)

Prevent Blindness Introduces Adult Home Eye Tests

A do-it yourself Home Eye Test for Adults that will enable people to determine if they are seeing as well as they should is being introduced this month by the Texas Society to Prevent Blindness as part of its April, Prevent Blindness Month activities.

"The purpose of the test is to alert an estimated 10 million American over the age of 25 that they have lost some vision and that they need have to have their eyes professionally checked to prevent further loss of sight," says John L. Mann, M.D., an ophthalmologist who is the Society's State Medical Chairman.

"Three basic eye tests are incorporated into the new kit," Dr. Mann explained. "The first test checks distance vision using a wall chart that is hung at eye level and viewed from ten feet. It depicts what appears to be variations on the letter 'C' but which actually are broken circles facing in different directions."

This test, known as the Landolt Rings, does not require language or reading skills, he added, and has been used internationally since 1909.

"The second test checks the near vision that is used for reading and close work," Dr. Mann continued. "It consists of sentences set in telephone directory size type that are to be read while held 14 inches from the eyes."

The third part of the kit is a chart called the Amsler Grid. The horizontal and vertical lines on the grid provide a test for macular degeneration, a disease which affects central vision and the ability to see fine details in sharp focus. Although some forms may strike young people, macular degeneration is most commonly a problem associated with the aging process.

"If a person fails any of the three tests, the Society suggests a retesting on another day. If failure results on the second try, a professional eye examination is recommended," Dr. Mann said.

"The majority who fail may only require glasses or change in their current prescription. But, on the other hand, since the test can also warn of more serious eye problems such as glaucoma, cataract, or macular degeneration, its results should not be ignored," he stressed.

The Home Eye Test for Adults was developed by Prevent Blindness with the help of some of the country's leading ophthalmologists. On their recommendation the kit includes, in addition to the tests described, a list of signs of possible problems that can also indicate the need for a professional eye examination. Dr. Mann described some of these signs as having double vision or seeing halos around lights or seeing showers of black spots or flashes of light.

Those who wish to test their eyesight with the new self-help kit should send one dollar ($1.00) to cover postage and handling to Prevent Blindness, P.O. Box 20/20, Houston 77252.

The Texas Society to Prevent Blindness is an affiliate of the National Society to Prevent Blindness which is marking its 75th Anniversary this year as the nation's oldest voluntary health agency engaged in sight conservation. The Texas Society will be marking this milestone throughout 1983, and especially during April, Prevent Blindness Month, with special vision and glaucoma screenings and educational programs throughout the state.

MHMR Center Gets New Name

MHMR Center Renamed

James Johnson, husband of Berta Hardin Johnson, and son Leslie Johnson stand beside the sign designating her name for the MHMR Work Activity Center. The sign was unveiled Thursday afternoon April 14. (Staff Photo)

An official Dedication of the name of the late Berta Hardin Johnson for the Eastland County MHMR Work Activity Center was held at 2:00 p.m. Thursday, April 14. A crowd of persons from this area gathered on the west side of the Center to watch the program and the unveiling of a large sign with the name.

Lights From The Christian World

Josephine Cleveland

A small boy was observed by a minister in church praying very fervently, but much to the pastor's surprise, he was heard to say from time to time, "Tokoyo, Tokyo, Tokyo."

When the service was over the minister went to the boy and said, "Son, I was very pleased to see you praying so devoutly, but do tell me, why did you keep saying, 'Tokyo, Tokyo, Tokyo'?"

The lad replied, "Well, you see, sir, I have just taken my geography examination in school, and I have been praying to the Lord to make Tokyo the capital of France."

Friend, James wrote in the Word, "Ye ask, and receive not, because ye ask amiss, that ye may consume it upon your pleasures." James 4:3.

Col. Donald Jones, U.S.A.F. Ret. of Ranger, Eastland County Board Member of Central Texas MHMR, was Master of Ceremonies. Delbert Smith,

Baptist Minister from Carbon, gave the Invocation and recited a poem Mrs. Johnson had enjoyed. Richard Robinson, County Commissioner, read the Proclamation of the name change. Roy Cronenberg, Executive Director of Central Texas MHMR, read the Resolution for the renaming of the Center.

"This facility is part of a much larger work," stated Director Cronenberg. "The people involved are what count. Love of the people caused it to be here, have allowed it to stay, and will provide for it in the future."

Cronenberg cited the unselfish work of Mrs. Johnson on behalf of the Center, and the supreme sacrifice she made in trying to help it continue. Berta Johnson and her son, Haden Lee, died in an accident Aug. 15, 1982, while on their way to Olden carrying food for a concession stand to benefit the Center.

Among the visitors recognized at the Dedication were Von Heflin, MHMR Director in Brownwood, and her staff. Plaques with the Proclamation and Resolution were presented to James Johnson, husband of Berta Hardin Johnson. A plaque was presented to Idella Taylor, Director of the local Work Activity Center, for the Center.

The sign, light-green with black letter, was unveiled at the conclusion of the program.

Dennis Noska, Director of the Eastland MR Center, and Idella Taylor, Director of the Work Activity Center, welcomed visitors to the Activity Room for a reception following the Dedication. Among the family members of Mrs. Johnson attending were her husband James and son Leslie of Lake Leon and her parents Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hardin of Eastland.

THE JOYS OF WALKING

If you aren't the jogging sort, and you'd like to discover a simple, inexpensive way to get a good cardiovascular workout and stay in shape... finding your ideal sport might just be as easy as putting one foot in front of the other: try walking.

Now we're not talking about merely sauntering along. The kind of walking that's being advocated here is really a move-em-out, where's-the-fire, low-key trot. In effect, it's a less stressful, slowed-down version of jogging... that, at the same time, allows you to lose weight, improve the muscle tone throughout your body, experience lowered blood pressure, enjoy better rest, and benefit from an overall sense of well-being. Most doctors agree upon the positive results of walking, while opinions vary on the benefits of jogging and running.

The single most important investment a walker can make is in high-quality, comfortable shoes. If you don't already have a pair of jogging or walking shoes, it would be a good idea to buy some before you start your new exercise program.

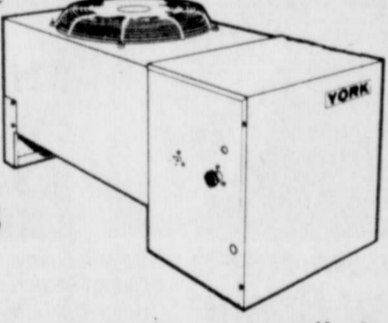

You can wear most anything you want above your shoes and socks, as long as it's comfortable and is suited to movement. Shorts are appropriate for both sexes from spring to fall, while a full, free-flowing skirt is OK for women who like to walk home from work. In the winter you may need to wear layers of clothes, since you'll undoubtedly warm up—and perhaps want to slip your outerwear into a daypack—after a short period of brisk walking.

If you're like most people, you've probably never given much thought to how you walk, even though a person's stride is nearly as distinctive as his or her fingerprints or voice. Many individual mannerisms, however, aren't appropriate to brisk, recreational walking. For example, notice how you plant your feet. Do they turn out or in significantly? If so, try marching along a painted line in a parking lot, placing your feet parallel to the stripe on either side and pushing off from the ball of the big toe with each step. This sort of practice will help you develop an efficient gait... similar to that used by Olympic race walkers.

Learn to swing your arms rhythmically as you go, too, holding your forearms at an angle of 90° to your upper arms. Walking is an exercise that involves the whole body, and good arm action is one key to obtaining overall fitness benefits and achieving a stride that will really move you on out.

Of course, it's best to start out covering short distances... perhaps as little as a half- or quarter-mile. The Complete Book of Walking by Charles T. Kuntzleman and the editors of Consumer Guide (Simon & Schuster, 1980) cautions beginners on three points: You should not walk so vigorously that you can't carry on a conversation as you go... you should feel no pain... and you should experience no great fatigue during the remainder of the day following your walk. If your body disagrees with even one of these statements, you're simply going at it too hard for your present level of conditioning. (A reasonable goal, after six to eight weeks, would be to travel a full two miles in 40 minutes.)

Walking can be extra fun if you organize several people into a walking club. In fact, one of the best aspects of walking for exercise is that almost anyone can join in... from grandparents to toddlers. And this sport is versatile enough that you can make it a solitary, personal activity. Any way you choose, the most important thing is to put your best foot forward and walk your way to fitness!

There have been a lot of questions recently concerning certification to purchase and use restricted pesticides. More pesticides were added to the restricted list on January 1 and some producers have been unable to purchase certain chemicals because they do not have a private applicator certificate.

Those whose need a private applicator certificate should contact the County Extension office and pick up a study book and application. A questionnaire will need to be completed and submitted to the Texas Department of Agriculture following a review of the self-study material.

Producers who have a private applicator certificate that has not been renewed since 1980 should contact us and ask for an application for recertification. There is no fee to pay and you may be recertified even if you have lost your old card.

Farmers have several good choice of cover crops to plant on conserving-use acreage in the new PIK program.

Both legumes and annual grasses can be used as cover crops on this acreage. Both would provide ground cover to prevent erosion and would produce residue that could be incorporated into the soil for improvement purposes.

Legumes are traditionally thought of as soil improvement crops because they offer the ability to naturally fix the nitrogen they use for growth if they are inoculated at planting. Legumes would require a good phosphorus and potassium level for adequate growth.

Legumes need to be planted as early as possible in the spring. Some types of legumes that would be useful are alfalfa, cowpeas, guar, and sweet clover. Seed availability and price could be major considerations regarding legumes. With sizeable acreages being planted, many types of legume seed will be totally

Warm season annual grasses, such as hybrid sudans, forage sorghums, sudansorghum crosses and millets would offer ground cover and residue for incorporation. These grasses would require the addition of nitrogen fertilizer, when compared to legumes, to provide maximum dry matter production. Seed should be readily available for these forages, and they could be planted later than legumes.

Conserving-use acreage will have the limitation that the cover crop cannot be grazed or harvested during a designated six-month period during the growing season. In most instances, this period will be May through October, but local ASCS offices will provide actual dates for each county. Cover crops can be plowed under as green manure crops during this period, again according to local ASCS guidelines.

For individuals considering grazing or haying the cover crops after the restricted period, the long growing period has some drawbacks. In most instances, plants will have made seed crop that may complicate future crops on that field. The forages will be quite mature and, therefore, lower in quality than desirable. Livestock grazing these over-mature crops or fed the over-mature hay would require supplementation to maintain body weight.

With this regard, the cover crops would need to be treated like crop residue from any other crop. The final consideration is that crops baled after the restricted period will reduce the amount of organic residue going back to the soil, thus reducing the soil improvement aspect to a degree.

While the choice of cover crops for conserving-use acreage is fairly broad, seed supplies will be a limiting factor. For best conservation efforts, cover crops should be allowed to grow throughout the growing season and then plowed into the soil for residue incorporation.

Growing Tomatoes Like A Pro

Tomatoes are grown in about 95 percent of all home gardens in Texas, estimates Dr. Sam Cotner, a horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Once people taste the great flavor of vine ripened, homegrown tomatoes, they just don't want any other kind, says Cotner.

To grow a bountiful supply of tomatoes in Texas, Cotner first of all emphasizes planting the right varieties. Varieties such as Big Set, Spring Giant, Jack Pot and Better Boy consistently perform well in all areas of the state.

The horticulturist advises buying transplants of these varieties at nurseries or garden centers or buying seed and planting it in a hot bed or containers but not directly in the garden, since plants need to be started well before cold weather is over.

Before setting out transplants, get the soil in good shape by adding plenty of organic matter and a complete fertilizer such as 10-20-10 or 12-24-12.

Set plants at least three feet apart, with three to four feet between rows. Use boards, shingles, milk cartons or something similar to protect them from early spring winds. Wire cages around plants can provide a structure for plastic trash bags or plastic sheeting that will protect young plants. Later the cages will support the plants, eliminating the need for staking and trying each plant.

Tomatoes also need nurturing throughout the season. This means applying a fertilizer solution—one to two tablespoonfuls of a garden fertilizer dissolved in a gallon of water—every week to 10 days once small tomatoes appear. This solution can be applied in a depression in the soil around the base of the plant or in pots or containers (with holes in the bottom for drainage) set in the ground mid-way between each plant.

Cotner also emphasizes the need for proper watering during the growth season and for controlling insect and disease problems should they occur.

Paying attention to these key practices can lead to a bountiful harvest of tomatoes—the Number One Texas vegetable.

City Council Handles Full Slate Of Items Tuesday

The City Council passed on final reading an ordinance providing for a taxi service franchise license, approved an emergency measure permitting carnivals in Cisco, and ordered an election to fill Place III of the Council at their semi-monthly meeting Monday night.

The taxi franchise measure establishes requirements for the operation of a taxi service in Cisco, repeals conflicting ordinances, and sets conditions for drivers, hours of operation and rates. A companion ordinance was on the agenda to grant a license to operate taxi service to Ed Clark, local service station operator.

Mr. Clark, appearing before the Council, suggested that the operator be permitted to change hours of operation and rates by publishing a notice in the newspaper instead of going before the Council for approval. When these provisions of the ordinance were not changed, Mr. Clark withdrew his application for a franchise.

An ordinance of the City of Cisco, enacted in 1930 prohibiting carnivals within the corporate limits, was repealed as an emergency. City Manager Mike Moore explained that with this ordinance on the books the city could not grant any club, organization or individual permission to hold a carnival within the city limits.

After this measure was approved, the Council moved to the agenda item to "consider permitting the operation of a carnival sponsored by the Cisco Volunteer Fire Department from April 18 to April 25."

Fire Chief C.W. Guthrie said the same carnival, Kid-die's Funland, that played here last year, has requested permission to return under fire department auspices. The fire department made some $600 from sponsoring the carnival last year. He said they received two complaints about the carnival operations and both were eliminated.

The Cisco Civic League, sponsors of the annual Folklife Festival, had a committee of some 10 women present to oppose permitting the carnival's appearance. Mrs. Smothers, CCL president, told the Council that her organization plans its 10th anniversary festival April 20-24 and that they feared the carnival would detract from their crowds and from the festival atmosphere generally.

Mrs. Smothers said the Civic League has spent more than $4,000 in City Park improvements - money raised in events like the Festival.

Mrs. Ayres Cermin of the committee noted that some $2,500 has been pledged by the league in improvements and to promote this year's festival. Mrs. Winston Heidenheimer, also of the league committee, suggested that the Chamber of Commerce keep a community calendar to help prevent events from being staged at the same time.

Rex Harwell of Family Recreation Center said he would be willing to make a donation and help raise funds to replace any losses the Fire Department might have as a result of the carnival not being permitted to appear.

The Council voted 4 to 1 against a permit. Councilman Bobby Rains did not vote since he is a member of the fire department.

Council Place III, from which Loyal Lundstrom resigned at a meeting last month, will be filled at a special election on Saturday, Aug. 13, the Council voted. Under the City Charter, any vacancy of two years or longer must be filled by special election, and the state election code permits special elections once every three months and the August date is the only one available at this time, City Manager Mike Moore explained.

After considering a survey report by Dick Johnson, Eastland County Surveyor, regarding the location of Spears Avenue in College Heights Addition, the Council decided that it lacked authority to change streets as requested by Harold Stedum of 409 Spears. Helen Easter of 403 Spears told the Council that her family bought lots in the addition in 1920. The addition was originally platted in 1909 and 39 lots were sold in one day, records showed.

T.D. Patterson of Pafford-Patterson Ambulance Service appeared to discuss his firm's franchise to operate in Cisco. He asked for an exclusive franchise and offered to pay the city two per cent of his gross receipts. He said his firm spent some $32,000 here during the past year in the expenses of their operation. The Council approved a new franchise for 1983-84.

Mr. Patterson said they would begin a new ambulance service enrollment program in the near future. The Council decided they would like to see present operation of the Eastland County Appraisal District continued without changes.

The Cisco Council will appoint a director for the district for the coming year, Mr. Moore said. After discussion, the Council voted against any changes in city regulations concerning burning trash and debris.

The Council spent considerable time studying an agenda item about vandalism at City Park, Lake Cisco Park, and Williamson Dam and possible remedies and solutions.

Mrs. Smothers told the Council that "there isn't much left of items the Civic League spent $4,000 for at City Park." Others said there was no garbage or trash pickup at the park and apparently no efforts were to control vandalism.

Councilman Bobby Ingram said he recently attended a school board meeting to discuss park vandalism. He believed that control of the park should be a cooperative matter with both the city and schools seeking to eliminate vandalism.

The city manager said there have been no reports made to police. Mr. Ingram said the city replaced two commodes in rest rooms there last year - commodes that were destroyed by vandals with rocks. Mrs. Barbara Pope of a Chamber of Commerce committee said that after discussions with city and school officials she felt that they were ready to cooperate. Her group is planning a fitness center project at City Park.

Mr. Moore said that one city policeman has volunteered to spend his lunch hour at the park. He suggested that it would be

Music Study

Club Holds Meet Wednesday

The Cisco Music Study Club, a member of Texas Federation of Music Study Clubs, and the National Federation of Music Study Clubs, met Wednesday morning, April 13, at 10:00 a.m. at the Federated Club House.

Mrs. J.C. Dyer presided and members repeated the club collect, led by Vida Killion. Mrs. Ben Krauskof, secretary-treasurer, read minutes of the March meeting. She informed members a check had been given for the "Christmas in May" project; that the Music Club will have a car in the Folk Life Festival Parade.

Mrs. Dyer gave a brief report of having attended the 68th annual convention of Texas Federation of Music Clubs that convened recently in Houston. (See separate article).

From the Course of Study, MUSICAL ANNALS OF TEXAS BEFORE 1890, Mrs. Garland Shelton gave interesting sketches of the development of early music in Texas, adding that many foreigners contributed to its progress. She noted that Houston, Galveston, San Antonio, Austin and Dallas became main centers offering special musical entertainment.

The following musical program was presented by piano pupils of the Shelton Studio: Joe Beth Landers played "Jumbo"; "Song of the Prairie" was played by Nikki Shimp; "The Roadrunner," selection played by Stephanie Mims; Kay Tabor rendered "Chopsticks de Luxe." A piano duet, "The Sleeping Beauty Waltz" featured Joe Beth Landers and Nikki Shimp at the keyboard.

Members present were Mrs. J.C. Dyer, Mrs. Ben Krauskof, Mrs. Garland Shelton, Mrs. Milo Steffin, Mrs. Lynn Williams, Mrs. J.S. Mobley, Mrs. Hal Lavery, Mrs. Vida Killion. Mrs. Connie Mims was a visitor.

helpful for anyone witnessing acts of vandalism to call and report same to police.

Councilman Brad Kimbrough said that reports on police activities by the city judge indicates that progress is being made. Mr. Patterson told the Council that a community awareness program in another city was proving valuable.

The manager said that problems at Lake Cisco Park include littering with bottles, cans and the like. He suggested that the city consider an ordinance outlawing drinking intoxicants on public property.

The Council decided to continue the study at an early meeting.

Councilman Rains said he has had a request from an oil company for help in locating a site where they can build a softball field for use of adults in league play. The Council will study the matter, it was decided.

The city manager reported that engineering details will be ready for the city to call for bids on paving Front Street at the April 26 meeting.

City Judge Jasper Cook made a quarterly report of his office's activities. The report showed that he handled 324 traffic law violations, 63 state law violations and one city ordinance violation. A total of 236 fines were paid, bringing in $10,146 of which $8,596 went to the city and the balance to the state. He added that his office has 34 bad check case warrants out.

Mayor Pro Tem Ivan Webb presided in the absence of Mayor Eris Ritchie. Councilmen Ingram, Kimbrough, Rains and Bates were present along with City Manager Moore, City Secretary Ginger Johnson and City Attorney Wm. B. Wright, Jr. Some 25 persons were in the audience.

Fleming Aims for Moon

By BILL HART
Asst. Sports Editor

Call him Mister Magoo or Howdy Doody, but like the cow in "The Cat and the Fiddle," Brian Fleming of Cisco would like to jump over the moon.

However, he'd settle for 14-6 or 15 feet and winning the Class AA pole vault at the state track and field meet in Austin next month.

Fleming has the best vault among area high school athletes this spring, 14-0. Yet not many athletes would be competing if they had gone through all the pain he has.

Last spring after winning the District 10-AA championship with a 13-0 leap, he tried to get on a larger pole to go higher. At a workout the next week, he didn't carry into the pit, fell back into the box and tore ligaments in his knee band, getting the same thing as two kneecaps, or so a doctor told him.

Fleming tried to compete at regional, but the pain became so intense he finally quit and settled for fourth or fifth.

Surgery was eventually required. It was performed in Dallas in August, but when football rolled around the next month he tried to play.

He had been groomed as the top running back on the football team, but that never came about because of the injury.

"I made a mistake by trying to come back too soon because I knew the knee was weak," he said prior to workouts Tuesday. "I played against Seymour, but during the week of the Eastland game, I fell trying to catch a pass and tore up my ankle. I think I hurt the knee some, too, but that ended my season."

Pole vaulting has always been something special to this freckle face redhead, hence the Howdy Doody tag by some of his friends. Others refer to him as Mister Magoo because he used to wear thick glasses and in bright sunlight would blink his eyes, like the cartoon character, until he bought contact lenses.

...vaults over pain

"Coach (Danny) Kent got me started in the eighth grade and he's really helped me," Fleming said. "We had a high school vaulter that year, Tim Chessire, who jumped 13 feet and went to the state meet. Watching him vault made me want to do it, too."

He cleared 8-6 the next year, not a start worth writing home about, but he improved to 11-6 as a freshman, not spending as much time on the event as he did working in a feed store.

"As a sophomore, he went 12-6 and finished third at district. "I should have won it, but I choked," he said. His best last year was 13 feet and he erased the memory of his sophomore year by winning district.

He believed he cleared 14-6 in a meet at Cisco earlier this month, however, officials ruled he knocked it off, not the wind. But that decision didn't upset him. He knows he'll get it sooner or later.

He went 13-11 last week, and while most area vaulters would be jumping up and down over doing that, Fleming wasn't happy with it.

"The wind was in my face and I couldn't get my steps down," he said. "But, it had been cold all week and I didn't get to work as much as I would have liked. For some reason, I felt tired."

Former Cisco football coach Jim Puryear thinks Fleming is doing so well because he's not afraid of work, which he demonstrated after football season with a strenuous weight program that has strengthened his knee.

"He's a super kid and he's dedicated," Puryear said. "And he'll play with pain."

The injury vaulting last year wasn't his first venture with pain. As a seventh grader, he was playing basketball and jumped for the ball. Somehow, he came down on both knees and was told if he continued in that sport the knees would require surgery because of the bouncing on the hardwood floor. Needless to say, he dropped the sport.

He also hurt his wrist during his junior football season, but it didn't bother his vaulting.

"My left knee still gives me a little trouble, but it doesn't slow me down much," he said. "However, I sure do know when the weather turns cold."

He knows the trip to Austin won't come easy.

"Kirk Duffer at Early is a good vaulter and Dublin has one who is a freshman," he said. "I'm sure there'll be others at regional who are good, too."

There usually are.

Old Buildings Make New Subjects

I'm an old building freak. I admit it. But not necessarily in the manner you think. I mean, there are old building freaks, and there are old building freaks — those people who fall in love with anything that looks like it's about ready to fall for them... literally. I wouldn't live in a 150-year-old farm house if you paid me. But I wouldn't miss a chance to snoop around in one... and outside, too, for that matter.

What's the fascination? It's a little like my obsession with older people. Those furrowed brows just below the roof line, the crow's feet surrounding the wisened, all-seeing windows. If an old building could talk, I would certainly want to be there to listen.

Looking at an old building is a bit like stepping back in time. You can practically see mom and dad sitting, rocking on the front porch, the farmer leading the cow past the sliding barn doors, the workers whisking heavy crates from the loading dock to the warehouse.

Some old buildings have far more character than others, of course. Some have deteriorated to the point of near collapse. Others have been rejuvenated to the point of near perfection, sometimes more than once. Each has its own particular charm, and that makes every one of them an appropriate photographic subject.

I don't necessarily expect you to share in my mania. You know what they say: different strokes for different folks, or some equally catchy hip phrase like that. But if you don't at least slow down when you pass an old building, if you fail to give it a cursory glance before discarding it mentally, you could well be missing the chance to take some visually stimulating photographs... and, by the way, to record history that might otherwise go unrecorded.

There are plenty of opportunities to photograph old buildings — more so, it seems, in rural areas or in small towns. Where I live, nine out of ten barns still standing were built better than three-quarters of a century ago. Likewise, nearly half the churches. But even in the cities — Chicago, New York, Minneapolis, Los Angeles — there are plenty of examples of architecture dating back to the Turn of the Century.

Where do you begin photographing an old building? Well, you can stand on the front walk and, using a wide-angle lens, shoot the place head-on. But that strikes me a bit like the door-to-door salesman who, with one foot wedged firmly inside the jam, tells the occupant, "My, what a lovely home you have here." How does he know unless he sees it?

This 100-year-old barn stands in sharp contrast to the newer steel grain bin on the right.

So, see it. Check it out from all possible angles. If the home is still occupied, that may mean contenting yourself with examining the outside... possibly from a distance via a telephoto lens. If the building is unoccupied and unposted, you'll have a better chance to snoop around, to check out the front, back, and sides. Pay special attention to the windows and doors, to the decorative cornices, pillars, balconies, and posts. A century and more ago, even basic barns were built with a great deal of pride and workmanship. Look for those things which seem to set the building apart from others you've seen.

Take in the whole scene, but don't neglect to check out the details, too. Sometimes, a closeup shot of a doorknob can say as much about a building as anything. And pay special attention to such things as weathered wood, peeling paint, and shadows cast by the sun at varying times of day. It's good experience, a great way to train your photographic "eye." And, besides, it's just plain fun.

A Nickle In Time

We started paying an extra nickel per gallon at the gas pump last Friday (April 1). It's the federal gasoline tax hike recently passed by Congress.

The temptation is strong to grouse about the government hand digging deeper into our pocket, but this tax is different from most. It is different from a tax to pay for programs and facilities not used by the taxpayer. It is a free way to use highways, just like the fee we pay to see a movie. The money raised will keep the highways we use in good condition.

There always will be differences about the fairest way to divide costs among highway users, but everyone agrees that highways need help. On a constant-dollars-per-mile-of-travel basis, our investment in highways has been cut almost in half in the last 10 years. The consequences show—Potholes, rusting guardrails, worn bridges, and traffic congestion are familiar signs of neglect that increasing driving costs, lengthen driving times, and reduce efficiency in business.

No one likes taxes, but the adage remains: "We pay for good highways whether we have them or not, but we pay more if we don't have them." We would rather pay now and have good highways. The 5 cents gas tax increase is the least painful way to meet our travel needs.

County Publication Progressing

Thanks to the hard work of a lot of dedicated people, preparation of Eastland County's special publication to sell the county to the nation is moving forward on schedule.

Hundreds and hundreds of entries came in the students' "You'd like living in Eastland County" contest and these are being judged now. A winner will be picked from each of the six public schools and from each junior college, with a grand prize winner to be picked from the winning entries.

Volunteers who are working on the project have been meeting regularly—and the fringe benefits are already apparent. (A representative from one town said "Our greatest need is for a motel". Representatives from a town where three motels are now a building in Eastland County shared names and addresses so that contacts could be made, and hopefully result in that need being met.)

Advertisers are assisting with "hard sell" layouts which further exploit the advantages of doing business in Eastland County. The "bottom line" purpose of the effort is to bring more jobs to the county.

Upon publication, several means will be used to help distribute the issue far and wide, and it is hoped that issues will eventually find their way to executives who either will make or help make decisions about re-locating plants which will employ people.

One new idea advanced at the last committee meeting was the use of ex-student mailing lists to be used to mail the issue to, realizing that these ex-residents are as interested in their old hometown and county as are those who still live here, and that they might be in a position to put the issue into the hands of friends and acquaintances where they now live, which might finally result in more jobs in Eastland County.

A special mailing list is being prepared of top executives with major companies around the country, so that they may learn about Eastland County and its advantages. Unique mailing devices are being considered to deliver the issue to these officials.

And perhaps one of the most important means of distribution will be that done by the good citizens of Eastland County. The publication will be included as a part of the Eastland County newspapers and every subscriber will be asked (yeah, urged) to "read it, sure, but be sure to pass it on." To mail it (and others) to friends, relatives and acquaintances far and wide who "need to know about Eastland County." Virtually everyone has friends or kin in other towns, other states, who might be able to put the information to good use for the county.

If we all become ambassadors of good will for our county, there surely will be good results coming from the effort. The Texas Industrial Commission has endorsed the program and will be furnished copies for their use.

Certainly, all chambers of commerce and utilities in the county will be furnished extra copies for their use in helping sell the county.

But, even if the publication turns out to be a virtual almanac of Eastland County, it won't fill its full purpose unless we get it to the people who can make decisions for the benefit of jobs in the county.

State Capitol Highlights Texas Press Association Lyndell Williams

AUSTIN—The economic bad news got worse at the Capitol last week when State Comptroller Bob Bullock told legislators his revised revenue estimates fell $1 billion short of his earlier prediction, leaving state budget architects with $2.4 billion less from his original figures.

Meanwhile, the figures on last month's unemployment rate reached nine percent, a post-World War II record for Texas. Capitol watchers who study political maneuvering saw two unusual occurrences last week: Gov. Mark White lost his first big political battle in the Senate—and, amid several state newspaper editorials calling for House Speakership reform, a small group of House members launched a program to dilute Speaker Gib Lewis' powers.

The Senate rejected Gov. Mark White's repeated demands for election of Public Utility Commission members. During debate on Sen. Kent Caperton's PUC reform bill, four amendments calling for election of commissioners were voted down.

House Majority Leader Bob Bush, D-Sherman, said he is working on rule changes to reduce the power of the speaker by installing a House executive committee.

Bush, who said he does not seek the speakership himself but who is frequently mentioned as a possibility, said Lewis' ineptness and "imperial speakership" was hampering the Legislature.

But even Lewis' nemesis, Rep. Carlyle Smith, D-Dallas, questioned whether a committee was the answer, and other House members suggested another speaker's election was much more likely.

New Speaker? Several legislators have said privately that Lewis may find himself challenged when the session ends at the end of May.

Three candidates mentioned besides Bush are Bill Messer, D-Belton; Stan Schlueter, D-Killeen; and Gerald Hill, D-Austin.

Lewis met with Bush last week and issued a statement saying Bush's plan would reshape the Texas House along the same lines as the U.S. Congress, which was a bad idea in his opinion.

Bush said if his proposal gains support, he will introduce it as a bill.

Tax Proposals

Although Lewis has met with his share of troubles this session—including failure to disclose business ties with a horse racing lobbyist and with liquor and beer distributors, hiring a chief of staff offensive to the governor and several senators, and a legislative logjam created by his administration—his trump card is his steadfast refusal to allow a tax hike bill out of the House.

Revenue Estimates Fall

While the governor, the comptroller and several senators have called for tax hikes to replace dwindling state revenues, Lewis has stalled all tax efforts to the gratification of many House members. Over 40 freshmen representatives won election in November, many of them on a "no new taxes" theme.

Lewis' stance is critical, because tax bills must originate in the House Ways and Means Committee, according to the Texas Constitution.

So far, the House triumvirate, composed of Lewis, Ways and Means chairman Schlueter and Calendars Committee chairman Messer, has shown no signs of weakness on the tax issue except to allow the House to approve a one-time five percent tax on employers. The bill would allow Texas to continue to borrow millions of federal dollars to avoid bankruptcy of the unemployment benefits fund.

Other bills passed last week by the House included:—Establishing a central registry to keep in-state adoption records. The registry would attempt to "match" adopted persons with their biological parents and siblings on voluntary consent of all parties.

—Overhauling the state textbook selection process under the State Board of Education.

—Giving recreation and wildlife conservation equal status at the Matagorda Island State Park.

House committees also approved a bill prohibiting justices of the peace from refusing to perform interracial marriages, sent to subcommittee a bill raising the legal drinking age to 21, and subpoenaed the telephone records of an anti-horse race gambling lobbyist.

Last week Senate committees approved a $125 million construction fund for 25 state colleges (minus the severance tax proposed by Lt. Gov. Hobby); approved a 1984 statewide referendum to legalize betting on horse races; and passed a Houston auto inspection program aimed at salvaging about $235 million in federal highway funds to the city. The feds threatened to cut off the funds because of that county's high level of air pollution.

Bullock, Krueger, Hill Comptroller Bob Bullock made unsavory headlines last week when he was ticketed for driving his new car at 106 mph down an interstate highway. The state trooper who stopped Bullock told reporters the comptroller's breath smelled of alcohol and that he admitted to having consumed two cans of beer.

Bullock, a recovered alcoholic, denied the DWI implication and plans to take a defensive driving course instead of paying the $206 speeding fine.

Former Texas Congressman Bob Krueger said last week he will challenge Republican U.S. Sen. John Tower again in 1984.

DWI Bill Aimed At Repeaters

Intoxicated drivers involved in an injury-causing accident often go free, with little penalty, to drink and drive again and again, says a safety official.

This happens due to what is called "deferred adjudication," says Dr. Gary Nelson, vice president of the Texas Safety Association and a safety specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. "The practical effect of deferred adjudication is to allow alleged DWI offenders to continue to drive, serve no jail time, receive no insurance penalty and have no record of drunk driving offense."

The Texas Legislature is currently considering Senate Bill 1 which includes elimination of deferred adjudication. Probation for first offense DWI would be allowed, but it would be part of a driver's record for future DWI court action. Sen. Bill Sarपालius of Hereford, co-sponsor of the bill, expects strong debate on this issue before a decision is made.

Nelson explains that when deferred adjudication is granted, final determination of penalty is withheld or deferred to a later time.

The court's final judgement is then based on known actions of the defendant during the deferment or probationary period, he says. Alleged DWI offenders may serve an unsupervised probation. Successful completion of probation only requires that the defendant avoid being arrested and charged with crimes, including DWI, and not be brought before the same court in which he appeared for the earlier charge.

Following successful completion of deferred adjudication, the defendant's court record is either removed or excluded from use as evidence in later DWI arrests. Thus, says Nelson, there cannot be a repeat offense if the first offense never becomes a matter of record. Theoretically, then, a drink driver is allowed unlimited "first offenses."

Department of Public Safety records indicate some individuals have been charged with first offense DWI as many as 10 to 15 times. These offenders often go on to cause DWI accidents resulting in serious injury to others, Nelson says.

Wanted: "Some Ingenuity"

"It may take some ingenuity and determination to part an intoxicated guest from his car keys..."

This is what our Party Guide for the Holidays Ahead campaign says.

However, when a reporter asked The Magazine's editor for some specific guidelines for detaining the guest who is insisting, "Thash okay, I can drive jus' fine," the only thing she could think of was a flying tackle.

Not only would she usually be a size disadvantage in such a situation, but it jars with her image of herself as the perfect hostess. Besides, it might be misconstrued as a romantic overture.

The thought occurred later of employed a night club-type pickpocket to swipe keys surreptitiously from all the guests early on in the evening, so they could be returned only to those capable of walking a straight line to their cards, but such a person might be hard to find and rather expensive.

How is your ingenuity? Send your solutions to this vexing social problem to The Magazine of the Texas Commission on Alcoholism, 8th Floor, Sam Houston Building, Austin, TX 78701.

Religious War Underway In Re-Vitalized Rural Church

By RICHARD KURKLIN
Yes it sounds unbelievable, but there are many reports that it is quite true, both here and in other areas of this country. It is a battle involving not just individuals or groups alone but also higher powers.

As the people of this country are faced with a soaring crime rate, corruption in high places, a poor economy with unemployment, large numbers of people becoming addicts or sexual perverts, immorality and treason becoming acceptable with many, the threat of Communism conquest and enslavement and the threat of war and nuclear destruction, not to mention pollution of the environment, shortages, natural disasters, and severe weather, they can either despair and give up or seek for a solution.

Mankind throughout the ages of history have brought these conditions on themselves in cycles and the solution has always been to turn to and worship God. The alternative has always been the demise or destruction of the people.

Many people now seem to be looking for a solution to these problems and to a lack of happiness in their lives. Believing that nothing less than divine intervention can solve these problems, many people are now willing to look to God for the answer.

According to a number of Christian people, as they seek to encourage people to turn to God for the answers, they are helped by the Spirit of God working in people, but the spirit of the devil seems to be harassing and discouraging people at an alarming rate.

Such opposition from the devil is considered by many to indicate that this nation may be on the verge of turning back to the God so important to the founders of this nation that so many have wandered away from.

One example in our county, but certainly not the only one, is the Corinth Baptist Church, a small, country church located just north of Highway 80 at the Kendrick Amphitheater mid-way between Eastland and Cisco.

After the church had gradually declined to one service a week with an average attendance of eight, things began to happen last fall with people deciding that the church should continue.

With people being invited to the church and with an atmosphere of friendliness such as seems peculiar to country churches prevailing visitors have been regularly attending services since. But a number of these visitors are no longer visitors as there have been conversions and people joining the church.

Attendance has steadily grown with Sunday morning worship attendance usually exceeding sixty now and with a goal of fifty in Sunday School being exceeded just this last Sunday with a record 52.

There are also Sunday night and Wednesday night services.

After the church raised enough in donations to build a new chain link fence around the cemetery, a church building and improvement program was undertaken that, according to church members, exceeded what had been their wildest dreams for the church.

A new educational building which almost doubled the building space of the church was added beside the existing beautiful rock sanctuary. The building also contained a fellowship hall and the first indoor rest rooms at the church.

The grounds have been cleaned up and improvements are regularly being made to the facilities and the services.

Items presently being added include a new piano, new song books and some new carpeting for the sanctuary. It has all been on a pay as you go basis with members doing much of the work.

A new entry foyer for the sanctuary, a covered concrete walkway between building, furniture for the education building and improvements to the yard and parking area are some of the things being talked about in a program of continuing improvement.

In these hard economic times, the people have generously given of both their time and money to make these things happen.

But as the church grows and improves and the Spirit of God seems to be working there, it also seems that hindrance from the spirit of the devil grows more intense in the lives of the church people.

In an effort to use the armor of God against the devil, revival services have been scheduled at the church each evening at 7:30 following a prayer meeting at 7 from Sunday, April 24, through Friday, April 29. The Evangelist is Darrell Dossey of Gorman and Bill Gressett of Carbon is the song leader.

Burditt Hitt, pastor of the Corinth Church, invites you to attend any or all of the services and see what is happening in the church and what can happen in your life.

Legal Notice

The Eastland County Appraisal District wishes to remind property owners that Monday, May 2, 1983, is the deadline for filing property exemption applications and business personal property renditions.

State law requires that all business personal property be rendered each year. Renditions were sent or delivered to county business earlier this year. If you have not yet returned your business rendition; you should do so before the May 2nd deadline.

If you did not receive a rendition or have lost it; you should check with the appraisal district office.

The deadline for filing open space land exemption applications and residential homestead applications is also May 2nd.

The open space or agricultural use exemptions allows the property owner to pay on an Ag-use value rather than the higher market value. If your land was granted an exemption for 1982 and the use of the land is still the same as previously reported, a new application does not need to be made. Only those whose land may qualify for the first time need to apply.

The residential homestead application needs to be filed by those homeowners who were not signed up in 1982 or who have since changed their place of residence.

Those homeowners who have recently turned 65 years of age should check to see if they are not eligible for an additional exemption for those over-65 granted by many of the taxing jurisdictions.

If you have changed your residence between January 1, 1982 and January 1, 1983; a new application will have to be filed on the new residence in order for the exemption to be granted.

The exemptions and renditions must be filed with the Eastland County Appraisal District by May 2, 1983 in order to be accepted for the 1983 year.

If you have a question concerning the filing of your applications or renditions, please contact the Eastland County Appraisal District prior to the May 2, 1983 deadline.

Many Good And Sincere Individuals

...give little thought to the question of values when we should measure them in terms of personal worth in everything he buys, enjoys or does. For example, some folks will buy real estate without any kind of evidence of title disregarding the fact that the principal value of the purchase is in the title, not in the land itself or the improvements thereon. This kind of thinking costs property owners thousands of dollars annually which could be saved and a part of the savings wisely spent for an abstract of title or title insurance.

The club is truly an Eastland County club, as its members come from Gordon, Eastland, Carbon, Ranger and also from outside the county, Breckenridge and Fort Worth.

The current presidents are Willie and Hilda Tipton, of Ranger. Other members include Jerry & Pat Edwards, Bob Rogers, Al & Jan Novak, Bill & Barbara Lawrence, Jerry & Sue Williamson, Dorothy Henson, Gerald & Elizabeth Harris, Terry & Phyllis Edwards, Freddie & Fern Johnston, Corky & Delia Finch, Fred and Jackie Tucker and Holly Tucker, Floyd and Patty

THE OLD RED Front Drug, 508 Hilton Avenue, is going to become the Red Front Mini Mall if Mr. Jerry Jeffcoat of our town has his way. He purchased the old building recently from the Stansell family and is spending his free hours hammering and nailing there.

Plans call for a hallway to go down the center of the building that will be divided for six shops and two offices plus a reception area out front. Jimmy Walker and Jackie Witt are the construction team.

Mr. Jeffcoat, head man out at Ensearch Corporation's Pueblo plant, tells us that he has tenants lined up to operate a sandwich shop, a T-shirt shop, an athletic supply, and a quick print shop (Bill Roberts) and that others are talking.

There are no present plans for the upstairs.

IF YOU HAVE the lucky ticket you can win a Western Auto Go-Kart (value $450) that the Cisco Evening Lions Club will give away at 3 p.m. Sunday, April 24, at the Cisco Folklife Festival. And you don't have to be present to win.

Mr. Al Young, CBS band director and an official of the Evening Lions Club, is in charge of the project. All club members plus others, including Truman Kirk of the noon club, have tickets that you can buy for $1 each. Proceeds will be used by the club in local projects.

MRS. LOUISE COOPER, legal secretary at Lawyer Billy Wright's office, was ready to go home and pack her bags when we met up with her Friday. She was going to big D to meet Mr. Eric Nelson Jean, her brand new grandson.

Little Mr. Jean was born at 4:20 a.m. Monday, April 11, at Baylor Hospital in Dallas. He weighed just under eight pounds. He is the son of Steve and Donna (Cooper) Jean of 6915 Blessing Drive, Dallas 75214. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Jean, Jr., of Wimberly. And Mr. and Mrs. B.E. Cooper of Olney are maternal great grandparents.

OUR SCOUTS report that Mr. Jim Puryear and Mr. Delbert Schaefer, members of the faculty out at the junior-senior high school, must have buried a hatchet and joined forces. They've been fishing together at Lake Cisco lately and with good results. Crappie fishing has been getting a bit better lately.

Our scout figures that since neither Jim nor Delbert will believe reports of the other's catches, harmony is best served when they fish together. And, of course, both are dedicated fishermen.

SHERIFF JOHNNY Morren tells us that they're real pleased to have Risa Livingston, formerly of the Cisco Police Department, as a new deputy sheriff. Her duties at the new jail include being chief jailer, and she does investigations.

Risa is married to Deputy Sheriff Albert Biggs and they live in Eastland. She was with the Cisco PD some eight months.

MET UP WITH Mr. Pat Fee, son of Mrs. George Fee and the late Mr. Fee of our town, here Thursday. He lives at Capistrano Beach, Calif., and has been on the west coast for a good many years. He flew into Houston last week and he and sister Linda Fairchild came up for a visit with home folks.

Pat, who worked for The Press for a time during his school days, plans to return to the Catholic priesthood in September and will be assigned to work on the west coast. He will be here through the coming week before returning to Houston where he'll fly out to California.

A REPORTER FOR the Abilene newspaper was interviewing Cisco's Mr. S.L. Cook the other day - gathering material for a piece about Mr. SLC's upcoming 91st birthday. In the course of their conversation, the Ciscoan observed that he doesn't have an enemy in the world.

"How come you don't have a single enemy?" the reporter asked.

"I've out-lived all of them," replied Mr. SLC.

The birthday will be a June event.

AND SPEAKING OF birthdays, Mr. Bob Elliott of The Man's Store observed one Wednesday. And he celebrated by spending the afternoon at the golf course.

Mrs. Evelyn McGuire, manager of Olney Savings' Cisco branch, spent Tuesday and Wednesday at the home office attending conferences... Audie Woolley, son of the Dick Woolleys, took the IN-CAP exam at H-SU last Saturday. Same is a prerequisite to attending medical school. It'll be a month before results are known locally. He's in his junior year at Angelo State U.

Audie's dad recently put out tomato plants in his garden for the second time, and he'll probably do it again soon as Thursday night's low temperatures may have killed tender plants.

THERE WAS A big turnout of folks for the introduction of the new Banker 24 service at First National Bank the other day. You can now use your B24 card to obtain cash money in Abilene and, eventually, you'll be able to use your cards all over the country... Dr. Norman Wallace, CJC prexy, was a business visitor in Austin last Wednesday and Thursday... Saw Dr. C.M. Cleveland, who is on the mend from leg and arm burns, working in his yard the other day... A front window at Dean Drug is full of Girl Scout cookies that you buy if you're hungry for same... Hear that Mr. Sterling Drumwright is progressing after undergoing surgery over in Big D recently.

MR. IVAN WEBB, Cisco's new mayor pro tem, was initiated in good style at the Cisco council's meeting late Tuesday night. They had a long agenda that required some three hours of business transacting.

Mr. Webb was out of town when a special meeting was held a couple of weeks ago, and they told him that he was elected mayor pro tem because he wasn't there to defend himself.

Seriously, it is an honor to be chosen for the post and Ivan's friends know he will do a good job. He was in Canada on business for his oil company.

MAYOR ERIS Ritchie and his missus were in New York City and Washington D.C., most of the past week, and he had to miss the Council meeting. He transacted business for his Southwest Enterprises in NYC, and they tied up loose ends for the April 27-30 Band and Belles trip to Washington, D.C., and Winchester, Va. Eris reports that DC folks are still "living it up" because the Redskins beat the Cowboys for the NFL title.

ing served in an active capacity for some twenty years.

Services were held Saturday afternoon, April 16th, at 2:30 at Cisco Funeral Home Chapel, conducted by her son, the Rev. Erwin Prange of Forest Lake, Minnesota. Interment was at Romney Lutheran Cemetery south of Cisco, directed by Cisco Funeral Home.

Other survivors than her three children include her step-daughter, Mrs. C.H. Neuhaus of Pembroke, Ontario, 11 grand-children and 13 great-grandchildren.

Pall bearers were Ed Wende, Ray Prange, Tim Reich, John Gerhardt, Carl Reich, and Edward Steyer. Honorary pall bearers were Mark and Stephan Prange, Jeff and John Karau, and Dr. F. Clark Olom.

Those desiring to give memorials may designate Lutheran Bible Translators, Box 5566, Orange, Calif. 92667 - specified for the Esther Unger Ministry, now stationed in Monrovia, Liberia.

Services For Mrs. Armstrong Are Tuesday

Funeral services for Lucille McKay Armstrong, 83, Houston resident over 40 years and formerly of Cisco, were at 11 a.m. Tuesday at Settegart-Kopf Chapel. Rev. M. Eugene Vickery officiated. Burial was in Forest Park Lawndale Cemetery.

Mrs. Armstrong died April 3, Easter Sunday in Houston. She married James E. Armstrong, who was a long time employee of Exxon Oil. Survivors include a daughter and son-in-law, Edleen and George F. Connolly of Houston; grand-daughter and husband, Patricia and Lon Miles; great-grandchildren, Melissa and Melinda Miles, all of Bellaine, several nieces and nephews.

From the Pastor...

I invite you to join us in worship this year. Join the multitudes of people who come through our doors week after week finding peace, joy, and the answer to the problems that life presents. A church that believes in miracles, divine healing, the baptism of the Holy Spirit, and exalts JESUS AS THE MIGHTY GOD.

It is "old fashioned religion" in all modern facilities! Gospel singing is featured each week. With our two preaching services on Sunday, Bible Study on Wednesday night, and Friday Family Night, your family will be blessed.
