Calf Feeding Feature Of 4-H Club Work

Calf feeding long has been a feature of 4-H Club work in extension district 2, and shown here is a typical group of young registered stock being fed out for the show ring and market. In 1941, boys' 4-H enrollment reached an all-time high of 2,745 in the district. After the 4-H cooperative livestock show at Plainview in April, 285 calves of this type were taken to Kansas City along with other club stock by special train, accompanied by their boy owners, and sold at the livestock market there.

Flying School Asks Citizens To Cooperate

LUBBOCK, Tex., March 17—With the Lubbock Army Flying School here now training its first aviation cadet class, South Plains citizens may at any time find themselves called upon to take an active and important part in the nation's campaign to "Keep 'em Flying."

Cooperation between civilians and Army personnel in case of airplane accident or forced landings in this area has been asked by officials at the twin-engine flying school, who have issued an Army Air Forces Headquarters bulletin outlining the procedure for such cooperation.

Any military aircraft forced down it is requested, should be guarded against molestation by unauthorized persons after crewmen have been rescued, since it may be carrying live bombs or ammunition.

Anyone witnessing an aircraft accident, according to the bulletin, should report immediately to his local police officials, who will relay the information to the nearest Air Corps station and will provide proper protection for the scene of the accident until Army personnel arrive.

"Law enforcement officials," it continues, "can best cooperate with military authorities by assisting injured crew members, obtaining names and addresses of witnesses and making certain that no one moves any part of the plane or its equipment after crew members are rescued."

Two More Good Sales Are Held

Two more good sales were held in this vicinity the first of the week, one at the Ed Pointner place south of Baileyboro, and the other at the Bill Brooks place near Muleshoe.

Col. W. D. Wanzor said Wednesday that cattle and other livestock continued to bring good prices. At the Brooks sale, cows and calves averaged more than one hundred dollars and one cow and calf brought $115. White Leghorn hens sold for as high as $11.50, Wanzor said.

A dairy cattle sale will be held Tuesday, March 24 at the J. S. Pollard place near Stegal. An advertisement in this issue of The Journal lists much of the property to be sold.

BEAUTY SALON OPENS

St. Clair Beauty Salon opened for business last Friday. The equipment was formerly at Hamilton's Shoppe, but was recently purchased by Mrs. St. Clair. The management invites you to call at your convenience.

NEW OPERATOR

Mrs. Mary Lee Tidwell is now with Triple-O Beauty Shoppe, it was announced yesterday. Miss Tidwell was formerly with Hamilton's Shoppe and she invites all her old customers and friends to call at her new location.

April 4 Date Of County Junior Livestock Show

The third annual junior livestock show for Bailey County EPA and 4-H Club boys will be held Saturday, April 4, it was announced this week by Sam T. Logan, county farm agent.

With the exception of the swine department, the show will be similar to those held in the past. Due to the presence of swine diseases in the county, the agricultural committee of the chamber of commerce voted to not have the swine show this year in order to avoid any chance of scattering these diseases.

The show will consist of two classes of fat calves, four classes of dairy cattle, one class of fat lambs and poultry, provided enough interest is shown to justify it.

Judges will be V. F. Jones, county agent and W. B. McAlister, assistant county agent, both of Lamb county.

Boys who plan to display calves at the Lubbock show will carry their calves direct to Lubbock from the Muleshoe show. The Lubbock show opens April 6.

Four Bailey county boys have already filed entries for the Lubbock show with seven calves. They are Jack Hicks, Alfred Hicks, Richard Dennis and Bill Dotson.

Good Will Trip To Maple Made Monday Night

Between seventy and eighty Muleshoe folks attended a banquet in Maple Monday night, which was given by ladies of the Maple Methodist church. Members of the Muleshoe Lions Club and Chamber of Commerce were present, as well as some twenty-five members of the High School band.

An excellent program by the band was enjoyed, as well as short talks by most of the "visiting firemen." Tye Young, playing at the tail-twisting position for the Lions, passed first on all, without fear or favor, to such an extent that he turned over a considerable sum to the church ladies fund.

Total funds raised was about $125, it was reported Tuesday. Maple folks wish to extend their thanks to the following firms: Baldridge Bakery, Lubbock, for donating the cake; Campbell Ice Cream Co., Clovis, for donating the ice cream; Muleshoe Bakery for donating the bread and Duncan Coffee Co., Houston, for donating the coffee.

OES To Hold Memorial Service

A memorial service will be held Tuesday, March 24, by the local chapter of the Order of Eastern Star. Officials wish to call this to the attention of members, as they are expected to be present to assist in greeting and entertaining visitors from six neighboring chapters.

Members of the local Masonic Lodge are also invited to attend. I. C. Enoch of Lubbock and J. H. Lucas of Enochs were business visitors in Muleshoe Friday.

Remodeling Going On At Lumber Company Office

Extensive remodeling is being done at the Higginbotham-Bartlett Lumber Co. office this week. Streamlining of the store and office will make this one of the most modern business establishments in the country. New hardwood tops are being put on counters and new shelves and display cases are being installed.

Office space is to be larger with a reception room for customers and visitors. There will be special departments for wallpaper, paints, etc., and the entire office is being redecorated. One feature of the new arrangement is the installation of a paint conditioner, and you are invited to call at any time and see this machine work. Clarence Goin, local manager, said that the work would be completed within the next two weeks.

GUNS OR BUTTER?

Citizens of the state of Oklahoma started something last week that should be duplicated in 47 other states. They got tired of the government's system of "piddling" with radical labor and black manufacturers.

Do you think those sons of a gun at Bataan, in Australia in Ireland or Iceland or those boys on the destroyers and battle cruisers are on a 40-hour week schedule? Ask any old AEF man. For the love of Pete, what do you think THEY think of labor, haggling over another, and still another raise in wages, while they are slaking their lives—and losing them? What do you think they'll think of YOU, if you permit these things to continue?

Don't think for one minute that your congressman or senator will do anything about it till you start a fire under that easy chair. As things now stand, this one-shift, day, 40-hour week idea is a disgrace to the country. Are you folks out there on the farm on a 40-hour week schedule? Mr. Roosevelt said Tuesday that you couldn't pass a law which would make a man turn out more work. We wouldn't think of arguing with such eminent authority. But there is a law which says that men, within a certain age, must fight, and they fight. Mr. Wilson, who was president in 1917, told labor in that year, that they could choose between two occupations. The making of war equipment or fighting. They made war equipment.

Sit down tonight and write your congressmen that you want this labor squabble settled now. DEMAND that they help change the law so that honest labor can work any number of hours necessary. That they also put a limit of 6 percent profit on war contracts. You don't have to beg them—demand it. You are paying the bill, you are entitled to tell your public servant that you want your boys to have guns and planes and tanks to fight with. It's not only your privilege—it's your duty.

We know there will be those who will grin and say, "Old Baldy's got the pot over his big burner this week." There will be those who, as usual, will "let George do it." But, if you want to do something for your country, "Believe-it-or-Not," cartoonist, is perhaps the most famous bearer of this name in America.

Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Butts of Plainview were here Saturday visiting their son and family. Mr. and Mrs. Buford Butts, Mr. and Mrs. Buck Wood have moved into the new duplex recently completed by Doc Wilhite.

Dear Pa: If you want me to come back to the farm when Uncle Sam says he don't need me any more—here's what you'd better do. Buy two of the meanest mules you can find. Name one of them "Corporal" and the other "Sergeant." I'll be glad to spend the rest of my days just telling them two jackasses why I made a mistake when I didn't join the Navy instead of falling for this soldier stuff. Your loving son. The motor purred softly along the deserted country road. The moon was bright. It was spring. But he kept his hands firmly on the drive wheel, and eyes to the front. Suddenly, the engine wheezed, coughed, slowed down, stopped.

"Well, it has plenty of company in this crowd," remarked the young lady.

"There's nothing there, now, except two chimneys, I suppose," he said as he sat, his arm holding her close.

? YOUR NAME ?

By CHARLES DIDWAY

STEVENS, STEPHENS Stephen came into wide use as a baptismal name due to the influence of Saint Stephen, the first Christian martyr of the New Testament. Then when names were being adopted Stephen was used in a number of forms, accounting for Stevens, Stephans, Stevenson, Stefans, and so forth.

Stephen is derived from the Greek "stephanos" (a crown) and means "the crowned one." Many kings and popes have been named Stephen, which further accounts for the rapid spread of the name.

Alexander Hamilton Stevens was an American statesman and vice president of the Confederate States. Thaddeus Stevens was an American statesman and abolitionist.

GIBSON The surname Gibson means "the son of Gib," a familiar abbreviation for Gilbert. Gilbert is an ancient Saxon name, originally Gildberht; "noble sacrifice." The patent rolls of Herefordshire date 1230, contain the name Gibbessone. From the same source come the names Gibbon and Gibbons. Charles Dana Gibson is an American artist and illustrator.

BURTON A local name from Burton in Leicestershire, England, possibly from any of several different places named Burton. The name is derived from the Old English "burh" (a hill) and "ton" (a town) meaning "hill town." Sir Richard Francis Burton was an English traveler and author.

RIPLEY is an English name of local origin and comes from Ripley in Derbyshire. It means "harvest field" from the Old English "rip" (harvest) and "ley" (field). Robert L. Ripley, the "Believe-it-or-Not" cartoonist, is perhaps the most famous bearer of this name in America.

CHARL FROM PORTALES Carl Case of Portales, N. M., operator of the Muleshoe Canning Co., was in Muleshoe on business last weekend. Mr. Case is interested in getting additional tomato acreage for the coming season, and is working with local business men to furnish plants to farmers who will put in as much as two acres.

ELECTRICIAN Dave Coulter

They stood on the gravel beach and Blaise pointed across the lake to the western hills where a dull glow streaked the violet sky.

"Why, it's a forest fire!" exclaimed Finlay.

"You suppose Wabistan's behind this?"

"That's just what I suppose, Red!"

On the second day the yellow smudge of sun glowed dully through a shroud of smoke. Like a barren and heavy-laden tree, the great lake lay shrouded in its gray pail. A canoe was invisible at a distance of one hundred feet. Leaving Lise in camp, the three men, with Patamish, started in the Peterboro for Isadore's.

They landed below the post and put Patamish ashore to find Lise's hidden clothes bag, learn what he could and return at once.

"What's that, Garry?"

"It's that overdue plane! Come on! He's caught and can't see where to set her down!"

Nearer and nearer came the approaching plane. At last, judging from the roar of the motor the plane was over the canoe and going east.

"Give him three shots, Red! He could circle and set her down south of us if this breeze would only stiffen!"

The Lee-Enfield crashed three times.

"He heard our shots!" He's circling! With the rush of a great bird the plane shot past the canoe, caught the water with a splash and bobbed on ahead to disappear into the smoke haze.

Finlay shook his lifted paddle. "You got him! Come on! They may start hunting him from Isadore's."

As the boat moved up to a pontoon a voice called from the open door of the cabin fuselage: "That you, Isadore? I've been lost two hours hunting—"

"Don't move a hand!" Red rasped. "Come out on the pontoon, one hand in the air!"

"What the—what's wrong here!" objected the astonished pilot. "This is Waswanipi, ain't it? Where's Isadore?"

"Come out on—that—pontoon—or—"

"I know when I'm licked!" he said.

"Into that canoe!" ordered Finlay. "If he moves, Blaise, drill him!"

"Now, what's this, a case of grill-jack? Who are you birds? Where's Isadore?"

Finlay flung back from the door of the fuselage: "We're Mounted Police and you're under arrest!"

"Good Gawd!" The pilot's face dropped into his hands.

Finlay peered into the freight compartment of the plane. "Look, Red! She's loaded with cases."

conscious of the two watching in the doorway. "Jules, this place is doomed! Look at the smoke outside!"

Isadore, who sat with back to the doorway, sneered: "That's from the back-fire Tete-Blanche started! Felix, you're yellow! It won't reach us! We'll stop it on the ridge."

"I'm going to get out, I tell you!" whined Blundell.

"You're drunk!" snarled Isadore. Then, catching the raw terror in Blundell's stare, he wheeled in his chair to meet Finlay's stone-hard face.

"Good afternoon, gentlemen!" Isadore sat frozen. "Mounted Police! So this is what you were? Damn me for a fool!"

"Okay!" snapped Malone. The police approached the two waiting men.

"It was pretty soft while it lasted, Isadore, this little god strike, but you murdered the wrong man when you had Bob Finlay shot!" All Finlay's pent bitterness echoed in his words. "You're through!"

Isadore's hand carelessly reached for the drawer in the table.

"Keep your hands still, Isadore!" snarled Red.

"We've got your plane from the Bay!" Finlay bit off. "That gives us our motive. Didn't want it known in Montreal—that plane from the north! Don't blame you! They've been wondering where that dog came from. Well, you're going to hang for those six men!"

Isadore shook his head as he met the stab of Finlay's pitiless eyes. "No, Jules Isadore will never hang!"

The sound of voices in the rear of the house put the police on their guard. "Watch this door!" warned Malone as he flattened against the wall outside the closed door.

The door was swung wide and, covered with char and soot, the panting Tete-Blanche stared into the room.

His smudged face flamed as his bloodshot eyes marked Finlay standing by the chest of the dodging Finlay, who held his fist and struck quivering in the wall beyond.

"The white-haired boy, at last!" With a roar Red dove from the side at the surprised breed, hurling him headlong into the room. Like a cat Tete-Blanche gained his feet and closed with the trooper.

"Don't move!" bit off Finlay, covering Isadore with his 45 as the two fought across the room.

The killer was powerful and slippery as a snake. Fighting with legs as if clear under the injured floor with a crash. Fighting with the strength of despair again and again Tete-Blanche wriggled out of the jiu-jitsu grips Red started to put on him. Then the enraged Malone wrenched his right hand free and hunched his fist into Tete-Blanche's jaw. But the panting killer only snarled and redoubled his efforts to break the trooper's hold.

"White-haired killer, are you!" Red sneered through his teeth. "How's this, killer?" And he jammed a savage uppercut into Tete-Blanche's chin. But the breed was made of iron and only shook his head as if clear under the injured floor with a wrench. He strained forward and bit into Malone's arm.

By sheer strength the infuriated Mountie pinned his man to the floor, forced back his chin and jammed his thumbs deep into the vital pneumo-gastric heart under the jaw. A shudder ran through the half-breed and he lay helpless from the shock. Malone lifted him, rose, and hurled him headlong into the stone fire-place.

"There's your killer, Isadore! He'll shoot no more boys from ambush! Take him! He's yours!"

Isadore's face was drained of color as his dilled eyes stared at the sprawled heap on the hearth. Then he slowly nodded as he muttered: "Yes, there he is! There he is! A'voir, good and faithful servant!"

With a quick movement his hand shot to the desk drawer, fumbled, then found his mouth before the surprised Finlay seized him. He swallowed twice then sneered into Finlay's face: "No rope for Jules Isadore! I prefer prussic to hemp! Good-night, gentlemen!"

Finlay and Red, wearing service blouses, belts and Stetson hats, hurried Blaise to the living quarters. They stood in the doorway of the large living room. At a table on which stood bottles and glasses, two men sat arguing with voices hoarse from prolonged drinking. "We've got to get out of here, right away!" A large man with a soft face, white from indoor living, pounded his fist on the table, un-

"The hands of that lump of flesh in the chair is the name of Blaise and we'll find Blaise. We must work fast or we'll be caught."

Finlay hurried to the shore where he found Wabistan at the boats, with the prisoners and coughing women, their heads graced in wet cloths. Corinne rushed to him.

"Lise!" she cried. "Is she safe?"

"Yes, she swam to the island! I'll take you to her!" Garry turned to Red. "Quick! Hop into that ship and see that the pilot taxis her to the island!"

The night there was a heavy rain with wind, and the smoke partially cleared the lake. Later, wind and rain ceased. The hysterical Corinne had cried herself to sleep in the tent when Garry asked Lise:

"Would you like to go in the canoe and see your last Isadore? The fire is breaking out again."

"I'd like to go anywhere with you, big boy!"

"That means, lover of mine!" she said, wrinkling her nose and dodging his outstretched hands.

"That's better!" He caught her and held her until she lifted her dark head and found his lips.

They padded out to where they could dimly see smudges of red glow here and there along the north shore.

"There's nothing there, now, except two chimneys, I suppose," he said as he sat, his arm holding her close.

"It's better that way. It became a place of horror to me. Think of the men who had died because of the avarice of Jules and Blaise!"

"He was the coldest fish I've ever met."

"But to think it was drugs he was covering up and not gold at all! I suppose he feared if he allowed prospectors here, some day the lice would hear of that mysterious plane from the north and his game would be up."

Exactly. He killed six men make the Chibougannu Nottaway a death-trap—some men feared."

"But you took it."

"I had a brother lying somewhere on that trail and it was my job there was a case at Waswanipi I was dying to meet. Ever hear of her?"

She shook her head and a cloud of dark hair veiled his eyes.

"You'll get the credit of suspecting the man, the dearest sergeant, hanging on to capture that plane." She kissed him on the nose and rumbled his crisp hair. "But, cross my heart! I'll never breathe a word—never! How surprised you were! You're the dearest sergeant, I tell the whole Mounties even if you did stumble on dope when you thought you were hunting gold," she teased.

"For that, beautiful, you are sentenced to a hundred kisses to be applied until dead."

"Is that all? Please make it a thousand! A hundred's no punishment! It's merely a slight recompense for loving you so much."

For a long time the canoe drifted in the veiled moonlight. Trail of the air-dale in the bow wondered why hums sat so long without speaking.

In the morning the hum of an engine drew Garry and Blaise to the shore.

"Who can it be, Red? Isadore wasn't expecting another plane."

Red grinned. "Not that I know of!"

Finlay scratched his head, then turned to Blaise: "I forgot to ask you. What became of Wabistan? I asked Wabistan but none of his men had seen him."

Blaise slowly traced the white scar across his temple with a thick finger. "Batoche, he front and crawl around to look in from window. Den I reach him!"

The eyes of Finlay and Red met in a comprehending look. "You needn't finish, Blaise. We know the rest."

"Where are your glasses, Red?"

His eyes snapping with amusement Malone handed his glasses to his chief.

"Blue bird! Yellow wings! Why, it's one of ours, Red! It's a police plane! The Mounties are here!"

The plane was set down and taxied up to the waiting canoe.

The cabin door opened and a red-jacketed man with a grizzled moustache leaned out and waved. "Hi Sergeant Finlay! Are you all right?"

Garry Finlay thrilled with pride as he replied: "Everything okay, Inspector Haldane!"

Shortly Finlay was telling his story to the inspector and the four men of the rescue party. When he finished, Haldane enthusiastically reached and clapped him on the back.

"Do you realize what you've done against what looked like hopeless odds? You two men have broken the biggest ring of opium smugglers the Canadian police have ever had to deal with!"

Later when good-bys had been said, Wabistan sat in the Peterboro loaded with supplies which Finlay had given him. With Mikis and Patamish, he waved to the climbing plane carrying Garry, Lise and Corinne.

Followed by the two planes carrying Red, Blaise and the prisoners, bound for Matagami to take the depositions of McNab and his head man. The police plane circled into the stars. For a space a silence reigned. Finlay gazed back into the northeast where dim, blue hills marked the Waswanipi valley. Lise watched him curiously as he stiffened, lifted his hand in salute and said: "Good-by, Bob! The Chibougannu Trail is clear!"

Schedule Of District H D Meetings Set

A schedule for spring district meetings of the Texas Home Demonstration Association or gainment of more than 40,000 rural club women, has been received by Helen H. Swift, chairman of the Association's advisory committee composed of members of the Extension Service home demonstration staff.

The schedule has been prepared by officers of the association according to an announcement made by Mrs. W. G. Kennedy of Muleshoe, Bailey County, president. It is as follows: District 1, Amarillo, May 7; District 2, Lubbock, April 11; District 3, Graham, May 6; District 4, Greenville, April 21; District 5, Longview, April 22; District 6, San Angelo, May 4; District 7, Baird, April 7; District 8, Palestine, April 14-15; District 9, Rusk, April 23; District 10, Bandera, April 8-9; District 11, Old Washington, April 23, and District 12, Crystal City, April 10.

Last year approximately three thousand women attended meetings over the state, but the conservation may reduce the number somewhat this year, Miss Swift says.

Importance Of Children's Health Is Stressed

AUSTIN, Tex. — In his recent May Day-Child Health Day proclamation, President Roosevelt stressed the vital importance of the health of children to the strength of our nation. He urged that all Americans exert every effort at this time to conserve childhood health, not only through qualified application of positive health of course, but also by reducing the incidence of the more devastating childhood diseases.

Dr. George W. Cox, State Health Officer, today issued an appeal to all Texans to let it be their whole-heartedness in this conservation program.

A Very Successful Patrol . . .

THREE BRITISH SUBMARINES, back from extended raids against Axis supply lines, are quietly tied up to their "Mother Ship" while their commanders report their successes. The sub at left (its control room is shown below) reported destruction of several Axis ships, thus swelling the total of 8,000,000 tons of Axis shipping known to have been sunk by Britain's "Silent Service" since war began.

"While it is true that science has had at hand for years the means to reduce almost to the vanishing point the incidence of diphtheria and smallpox," Dr. Cox stated, "nevertheless the actual control of these two diseases is largely in the hands of parents."

Children should receive toxoid treatment between the ages of six and nine, he declared, and pointed out that the necessity for immunization at this early age is based upon the fact that nearly two-thirds of all diphtheria deaths occur in children under six years of age.

"I cannot emphasize too strongly that to deprive your children of the protection that science has made available amounts, almost, if not altogether, to criminal negligence," Dr. Cox warned. "The family physician and the public health workers can only point the way" and urge action but the essential factor still lacking in most diphtheria illnesses and deaths is parental cooperation.

Care Of Washing Machines Urged

COLLEGE STATION — Families fortunate enough to own electric washing machines had better take good care of them for production of war equipment has curtailed the supply of new washers.

Mrs. Bernice Clayton, Extension Service specialist in home improvement, says rural electrification has made it possible for many Texas farm and ranch families to install washing machines as one means of saving homemakers a great deal of hard work. To these families she offers some suggestions on making the present machine last longer and serve more efficiently. Here are some of them:

Follow the manufacturer's directions for oiling the motor, wringer gears, or any part of the machine. Do not over-oil any part.

Keep the washing machine clean. Rinse and drain it well, wipe out any lint, and dry the machine inside and out. To keep the outside frame from rusting, if it is made of steel or iron, rub it occasionally with a little oil. If the machine is out in the open, cover it to provide added protection. Between washdays, leave the lid open an inch or two, the specialist suggests.

Now that rubber is scarce, it is especially necessary to take care of rubber rolls in the wringer. "Don't stall or strain the wringer by putting too much clothing through at one time," Mrs. Clayton warns. Buttons and buckles should be folded to the inside of clothes before they are wrung out.

After every washing the rubber rolls should be wiped clean and dry and the pressure on them released. One added warning is: Never use harsh scouring powders on any part of the machine, especially the inside.

Exercise Proves Stimulant To Aggie Appetites

If your appetite for breakfast isn't so hot these days—and if you don't mind an increase in the family grocery bill—here's a remedy.

Just set the old alarm clock to ring an hour earlier, take 25 minutes of strenuous calisthenics out of doors, bathe, shave and clean up your bedroom and sit down at the table.

At the Agricultural and Mechanical college of Texas this routine was installed as a wartime speed-up program to increase physical fitness and health of the student body.

The new order became effective in January, and February's mess hall accounts immediately reflected the appetites of Aggies. Subistence Supervisor J. Cliff Hotard is authority for the fact that each student is eating nine and one-quarter cents worth of food that he did not consume before reveille and calisthenics became the order of the day. That is a 24.42 percent increase.

On the basis of 28 days in February, 4,507 Aggies consumed $62,839.31 in foodstuffs in the college dining halls. From October 1 through 28, the 5,271 students eating in the mess halls consumed $59,594.65 worth of foodstuffs. The increase in food disbursement, though 766 fewer students were fed, was $3,045.16.

On the basis of the October attendance of 5,271 students, the increase in disbursements could be assumed to be $517.08 per day or $14,478.82 for 28 days.

Add that to your grocery bill! Sleep while you want ad works.

Third annual Texas Drama Conference will be held at the University of Texas May 7-9.

Bridal Shower Honors Mrs. Witte

The Methodist Fellowship Hall was the scene of a beautiful bridal shower Friday, March 13, at 4 p. m. in honor of Mrs. Lamar Witte, the former Miss Irene Villarreal of El Paso, Tex., and Silver City, N. M.

The hall was decorated with pot plants and artificial flowers. A table was loaded with gifts from a host of friends who had known the groom most of his life. Martha Jean Witte, sister of the groom played several selections on the piano.

The bride entered to the strains of soft music. She was accompanied by a cousin, Mrs. Horace McAdams of Muleshoe. The bride was seated at the lace-covered table of gifts with her mother, Mrs. S. L. Villarreal of Silver City, and the groom's mother, Mrs. Walter Witte of Muleshoe.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Jim Cook and Mrs. Olen Jennings, as the guests entered, and Mrs. Horace McAdams gave two appropriate readings.

The bride opened her gifts after which she expressed her appreciation for the many gifts.

Mrs. Clyde Bray presented the bride's book, in which the names of those attending and those who sent gifts were registered.

Little Billie Fay and Joanna Taylor, dressed as a bride and soldier, marched in to soft music and sang "Happiness Melody."

Hostesses for the shower were Mrs. Clyde Bray, Mrs. R. G. Spence, Mrs. Kate Yarbrough, Mrs. W. E. Young, Mrs. Olen Jennings and Mrs. Jim Cook.

Father Of Local Resident Dies

Funeral services for C. L. Karr, 61, who died March 6 at Lubbock, were held there with burial in the Lubbock cemetery. He was the father of R. L. Karr of Muleshoe.

Mr. Karr became ill last Christmas. His death was attributed to pneumonia, which developed after he had been ill several weeks. He came to the South Plains from Farmersville in Collin county, Texas.

Survivors besides the son here include his wife; two sons, T. A. Karr of Seagraves and A. W. Karr of Lubbock; and three daughters, Mrs. W. E. Conway, Pampa; Mrs. T. M. Deatherage, Lubbock, and Mrs. R. A. Gibson, Los Angeles, Calif. All the children except Mrs. Gibson were present for the funeral.

University of Texas sociologists are studying the effects of defense industry and army commitments on an average Texas community—using towns in the several size ranges for examples.

Accidents In Home Deplored By Specialists

Recent increases in home accidents prompt Miss Lillie Gentry, county home demonstration agent, to urge more accident prevention work in wartime. At a time when every citizen must contribute his maximum to the nation's victory effort, home accidents slow down production, rob the nation of essential manpower, and are costly in money and morale, she says.

Remedies for home accidents are more difficult to effect than remedies for industrial accidents, since there is no direct control over family life. Miss Gentry says that means the responsibility for accident prevention lies with every family. She says house-makers can make their homes safer by doing these things:

- Use care in waxing floors and placing rugs.
- Install handrails or other simple safety devices over bathtubs.
- Light stairways.
- Keep matches and poison out of the reach of children.
- Dispose of can-openers which are dull or broken.
- Keep knives and other pointed instruments in their proper place.
- Don't allow children to avoid them or to use them carelessly.
- Don't teach children to boil over, for water will extinguish a gas burner. If you notice a gas leak, extinguish all flames, ventilate the room, and call your gas company.

Methodist Church

Are the church people of Muleshoe fiddling while the world is on fire? Are we making first issues secondary and putting secondary issues into first place? These are the days of re-thinking the issues of life. Let us do some of this Sunday morning with the pastor of the Methodist church, as he discusses the above theme.

Sunday night, Dr. L. N. Lipscomb is to preach and hold the second quarterly conference. We invite those whose churches are not holding preaching services on Sunday to be with us.

At 7:45 P. M., the young people are to discuss "Spiritual Growth through Prayer," the pastor leading in a round-table discussion of questions about prayer.

R. N. H. J. B. Owens of Cisco, Tex. was here last week as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Bass and other acquaintances. Mr. Owens and Mr. and Mrs. Bass attended church at Stegall Sunday.
