TIPS TO CRIME Line led to indictments last week in a four-year-old murder case and in the Feb. 2 death of a 19-month-old child.

741-1000

A 32-year-old Lubbock man was indicted by a Lubbock County grand jury last Thursday in connection with the 1976 slaying of night club dancer Marcella Valenzuela. The woman's partially-clad and decomposing body was found Jan. 5, 1976, in the bathtub of her small apartment east of Texas Tech. The same grand jury indicted Karl D. Johnson, 21, an airman stationed at Reese Air Force Base, for murder and injury to a child in the death of Brandon Fansler.

Lubbock County Sheriff's deputies had been told a car fell on the boy shortly before noon Feb. 2. An informant called Crime Line the next day with information on the death. That information was passed on to sheriff's deputies.

Since Jan. 1, calls to Crime Line have resulted in the arrests of 25 alleged felons in 24 cases.

Crime Line is supported entirely by private donations. Anyone wishing to make a tax-deductible donation to the Crime Line reward fund should mail the contribution to Crime Line, P.O. Box 2000, Lubbock, 79457.

A $500 reward is offered in the Dec. 15, 1979, rape of a Lubbock woman. The woman told police a Mexican-American man came to her door about 9:30 p.m. and asked for "Roy." After being told no one by that name lived at the residence, the man left.

About two hours later, the woman heard another knock at the door, and the man forced his way inside the house, this time wearing a ski mask.

The man then forced the woman into her bedroom and raped her after hitting her and threatening to harm the woman's son, who was asleep on the couch. The man left after the assault, apparently through the front door.

The suspect was described as stocky, about 5 feet 7 to 5 feet 9, with black hair, between 14 and 17 years old and wearing a tan corduroy coat with a black fake fur collar.

A $300 reward is offered in the Sept. 23, 1979, burglary of a residence at 2115 7th St., in which guns and stereo equipment valued at $1,800 was taken.

The missing items include a Nikko AM-FM stereo tuner, a Nikko stereo amplifier, a Toshiba stereo cassette deck, a Toshiba stereo turntable, two Ultra-Linear stereo speakers, a JC Penney rust-colored leather jacket, a .44-caliber black powder pistol, a Snake Charmer .410-gauge shotgun, 10-12 stereo albums, 50 cassette tapes and a Winchester Model 94 .30-30 caliber rifle.

A $300 reward is offered in the $51,000 burglary of a residence at 804 84th St. The burglary occurred about Feb. 4 when the victim was away from home, police said.

A burglar or burglars removed from the home a safe containing $21,000 cash and $30,000 in gold and diamond jewelry. The safe is black, about two feet square, mounted on rollers. It weighs 275 pounds empty.

Crime Line is offering a $300 reward for information leading to the arrest of Jerry Don Ward, who is charged with felony theft and a probation violation.

Ward is described as a white male, 21 years old, 5 feet 6, weighing 130 pounds, with brown hair. See THEFTS DATA Page 14

Carter Beats Kennedy In Maine

Anti-Carter Vote Split By Brown

AUGUSTA, Maine (AP) — President Carter beat Sen. Edward M. Kennedy Sunday night as Maine Democrats voted their presidential choices at political town meetings in the first showdown between the two in Kennedy's home territory.

The president, from his retreat in Camp David, Md., thanked his Maine supporters for victory, and his chief spokesman said Carter had dealt Kennedy a major setback in Kennedy's New England.

Kennedy Claims Dead Heat

The Massachusetts senator claimed satisfaction in what he called a "dead heat" with Carter.

With returns tallied from 84 percent of the town Democratic caucuses in Maine, Carter had 44 percent of the vote to Kennedy's 39 percent. The president's margin in local delegates, the competition that really counted, was 46 percent to 39 percent.

California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. was gaining 14 percent of the popular vote and 13 percent of the delegates.

Carter thanked the Maine supporters and volunteer workers "whose efforts made this victory possible."

"I regret that international circumstances made it impossible for me to travel to Maine during this campaign..." Carter said.

Kennedy said the Maine results show that the voters want to hear a debate "on the issues of war and peace," and repeated his vow to go with his challenge for the Democratic presidential nomination.

"So we head to New Hampshire and all the other states of what the outcome will be," Kennedy said in Washington.

"Four days ago, we were 19 points behind President Carter and tonight we're in a virtual dead heat with him," the senator said.

White House press secretary Jody Powell said Carter had won on Kennedy's home court and called it "a major setback for the loser."

Powell questioned where Kennedy can win if not in a state like Maine, close to his own Massachusetts.

Maine Gov. Joseph Brennan claimed Kennedy's showing was a victory for the challenger because Carter was falling short of half the vote.

"Up Is Down" Powell said that was like saying up is down.

"Where I come from, when you win, you win, and when you lose, you lose, and close counts in horseshoes," Powell told cheering Carter supporters at a victory rally at the Howard Johnson's restaurant where the votes were counted.

Kennedy's strategists had said all along that Brown would cut into their vote and thus help the president's showing. His share of the Maine vote was more than double the margin between the two leaders, Carter and Kennedy.

The tally by the Maine Democratic State Committee read this way with 410 of the 486 town caucuses reporting:

Carter, 12,453 or 44 percent, for 759 local delegates or 46 percent of the delegates elected so far.

Kennedy, 10,870 or 39 percent, for 635 delegates or 39 percent.

Brown, 3,959 or 14 percent, for 230 delegates or 13 percent.

Uncommitted, 429 or 3 percent, for 24 delegates or 2 percent.

All told, the caucuses were choosing 2,220 delegates to the state Democratic convention on May 16. Maine's 22 presidential nominating votes will be shared.

Three Deputies Injured In Jail Melee

By ESTHER LONGORIA
Avalanche-Journal Staff

TWO LUBBOCK COUNTY Sheriff's Deputies were hospitalized and another deputy slightly injured Sunday afternoon as they thwarted an escape attempt by four inmates at the Lubbock County Jail.

The inmates attempting to escape included one convicted of murder and another of armed robbery.

Deputy Lonnie Bright was listed in satisfactory condition at West Texas Hospital, after Willie Jordan, 19, attempting his third escape, splashed scalding water on his back during the escape attempt, said a spokesman in the sheriff's office. Deputy Mike Guerra was listed in satisfactory condition at the same hospital after Jordan, who has been sentenced to 40 years for burglary, reportedly struck him in the face and mouth during the incident. Another deputy, Donnie Pitts, suffered minor injuries and was not hospitalized.

Law enforcement officers said the would-be escapees never got off the fourth floor of the jail during the escape attempt, which was thwarted within 15 minutes.

Reports indicate that Pitts and several trustees were bringing food to the inmates in a nine-man cellblock on the fourth floor. Pitts reportedly checked the cellblock and found everything in order and was securing the door to the cellblock, when Jordan and Floyd Lee Ellis, 27, ran out of the cellblock.

Pitts reported that he was attempting to shut Jordan into the cellblock when the inmate grabbed his neck from behind. The deputy then reached for a can of tear gas in his boot, sprayed the inmate and got into an elevator to get assistance from downstairs.

While Pitts was struggling with Jordan, the trustees reportedly caught Ellis just outside the cellblock and summoned for help over the prison intercom.

Jordan and Ellis reportedly were hiding in a shower stall when they made their attempted escape. Two other inmates, Maurice Dancy, 19, who two weeks ago was convicted of the murder of Texas Tech graduate student Claude Ventry Bridges, and Valton Dondell Lewis, 22, last fall convicted of the armed robbery of a city convenience store equipped with a Crime-Eye camera, refused to go back into their cells but did not leave the cellblock.

Pitts returned with five additional See OFFICERS Page 14

Vance Pressing IOC For Olympic Boycott

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (UPI) — The confrontation between the United States and Soviet governments over Afghanistan, in which the International Olympic Committee and its Moscow Games are now tightly wedged, escalated further Sunday into the sporting arena.

Secretary of State Cyrus Vance bluntly spelled out to the IOC Saturday night the United States' determination to prevent Moscow from holding the Summer Olympics because of the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan. One of President Carter's aides was quoted as saying the Administration would "destroy" the IOC if it rejects its proposals to take the Games away from Moscow.

In return, the Russian organizing committee boycotted Vance's speech in a calculated diplomatic snub, and Sergei Pavlov, the Soviet sports minister, accused the CIA of trying to lure Soviet athletes in Lake Placid for the Winter Olympics into defecting.

Vance's speech at the formal opening of the IOC's 82nd session, in which he said no American team would take part in an Olympic Games held in an invading country, was not heard by Ignati T. Novikov, the president of the Moscow organizing committee and a ranking member of the Soviet Politburo.

Novikov and his delegation read an advance copy of Vance's speech and deliberately stayed away from the ceremony, informed IOC sources said.

Vance's speech also was greeted coolly by the 60 or so IOC members present. Fewer than half a dozen were seen to applaud.

"Mr. Vance's speech has united the IOC in its determination to go ahead with the Moscow Olympics," said former IOC vice-president Willi Daume of West Germany.

The chances of the IOC coming around to the American viewpoint were not helped by a report in the Washington Post Sunday which quoted White House deputy Counsel Joseph Onek as telling the U.S. Olympic Committee that the Carter Administration would "destroy" the IOC if it rejects the U.S. proposals to cancel, postpone or shift the Moscow Games.

The Post said Onek apologized for the remark the next day but that several U.S.O.C. members were resentful of the "strongarm" tactics being used by the White House.

Pavlov, in Lake Placid as the leader of the Russian Olympic team, accused the CIA of trying to entice Russian athletes to defect with promises including cash bribes, according to a well-placed European Olympic source.

Pavlov said the CIA wanted to get a Russian competitor to defect so that he would denounce Soviet policy in Afghanistan, the source said.

Lord Killanin, speaking before Vance at the opening ceremony, urged all governments not to use athletes as pawns in their political battles.

"Do not use the Olympic Games to divide the world but to unite it. Do not use athletes for the solution of political problems," Killanin said.

"I have never denied or ignored the intrusion of politics into the Olympic movement, but I believe it to be in all our interests that these intrusions be resisted," said the 65-year-old Irish peer.

Late-In-Week Icy Storm Holds Threat Over Area

BRIGHT sunshine and cloudless skies should team up today to de-ice city streets and melt off the remains of Friday's snowstorm for good as part of a gradual warming trend that is expected to last through midweek.

The high in Lubbock today should reach into the lower 50s, a few degrees warmer than the 50 recorded as the high Sunday. Lows tonight should be in the lower 20s with winds blowing from the southeast at 10 to 15 mph during the day.

The warming trend is expected to meet a swift doom late in the week, though, as another blast of arctic air rushes in from the Rocky Mountain states, according to the National Weather Service. In fact, the last part of this week very well could see a repeat of the last days of last week, when subfreezing temperatures and snow dominated the forecast.

The current break in wintry weather comes courtesy of a weak high pressure system centered over the Texas Gulf Coast with lee-side troughing over the Texas and Oklahoma Panhandles and northeastern New Mexico. No major changes in the weather are being predicted because, as weak as the high pressure system is, there are no major weather systems moving in to push it out into the Gulf. Such a system is expected to enter the South Plains about Thursday or Friday, said the weather service.

The national forecast for today calls for snow showers across New England and into the Appalachians, the Great Lakes Region and the upper Mississippi River Valley. Rains showers should wet parts of northern California, Washington state and portions of the lower Atlantic Coast, which is recovering from a surprise blast of winter that left up to six inches of snow on the ground.

The rest of the nation should see sunny to partly cloudy skies with about normal seasonal temperatures.

By United Press International

IRANIAN President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr, on the eve of the 100th day of the hostages crisis, Sunday accused militants occupying the U.S. Embassy of giving orders to foreign ambassadors without his permission and said, "I will not accept such behavior."

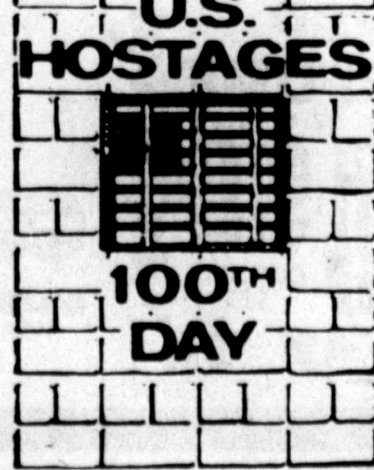

In an interview with the official Paris news agency broadcast by Tehran Radio and monitored in Kuwait, Bani-Sadr also accused the militants of interfering in governmental affairs by inviting a group of 49 Americans to Iran without official permission.

The group of Americans visited the occupied embassy for four hours Sunday to meet with the militants, but the group's spokesman said they did not meet with any of the 50 hostages, now in their 100th day of captivity.

Bani-Sadr has steadily escalated his war of words with the militants since his election as Iran's first president with an overwhelming 77 percent of the votes a mandate he evidently interprets as a weapon with which to deal more firmly with those holding the U.S. embassy.

Bani-Sadr said Iran's foreign minister, Sadegh Ghotbzadeh, told him the militants were issuing instructions and orders to foreign embassies without his knowledge.

"I will not accept such behavior, which I consider a government within the legitimate government," Bani-Sadr said.

"In my capacity as president of this government, I call on students to put an end to this behavior and to unify their opinions and actions with the government's opinion."

He did not elaborate on the alleged instructions to embassies.

However, the New Zealand embassy in Tehran closed down last week after a burglary. Its staff left Iran for New Zealand.

New Zealand officials later issued denials their embassy had hid any of the six American diplomats who fled Iran with Canadian help.

Norman Forer, spokesman for the Americans invited by the militants, said in a telephone interview with UPI in New York after emerging from the embassy. "We're not going to confirm or deny at this point" that the group saw any of the hostages.

Forer, a University of Kansas professor who visited the militants last December but did not meet any of the hostages, said the Americans met with "about 100 students" inside one of the embassy buildings.

He would describe the meeting only as "very interesting and frank and far ranging. We choose to make no further details available."

In northeastern Iran just south of the Soviet border, heavy fighting broke out over the weekend between leftist guerrillas and revolutionary guards in the city of Gonbad-e-Kavus, leaving 22 dead and more than 100 wounded, an Iranian newspaper and Tehran radio reported.

Two reporters working for NBC and CBS were deported from Iran after being detained by authorities in Tehran, the networks said.

The 100th day of the hostages' captivity today — they were seized Nov. 4 — coincides with the first anniversary of the revolution that overthrew Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi and ushered in the Islamic republic.

Iranians prepared a "grand military parade" to celebrate the anniversary, but Khomeini, architect of the revolution, was too weak to take part in the proceedings, Tehran Radio, monitored by the BBC in London, announced.

Khomeini's office said because of cold weather and the 79-year-old leader's health, it was canceling plans for a march past the Tehran hospital where he is being treated for a heart ailment, the radio reported.

Instead, units of the Iranian army, police, revolutionary guards and revolutionary committees will parade in front of new President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr and other officials to mark the revolution's See IRAN Page 14

Hostages May Need 'Cooling Out' Period Following Captivity

NEW YORK (AP) — If the American hostages are finally released by their Iranian captors, many will need a "cooling out" period before they can rejoin families and resume the lives they knew 100 days ago.

The families also will need help, say psychiatrists who have studied hostage situations. They say the families have suffered even more than the hostages.

"What the terrorists have done is a terrible injury, but the American people have to prevent a second injury," said Dr. Martin Symonds, director of the Victim Treatment Center at the Karen Horney Clinic in New York.

"There's going to be a lot of anger — constipated rage. We must restore feelings of power, and the restoration of power helps restore self-respect."

Both the hostages and their families are victims, experts say. Both feel helpless, bitter, frustrated and dependent, and thus have lost self-respect.

The younger ones are more vulnerable, said Dr. Charles Bahn, professor of psychiatry at the John Jay College of Criminal Justice. "These are people who have not been able to form a philosophy of life — whose views of the world are superficial.

"Those who were able to construct a structure of inner belief are able to keep their spirits up. Those who are despairing are likely to become bitter and accept the notion that they have been allowed to remain in Iran because the United States government does not want to accept responsibility."

The men and women held by the terrorists have difficulty keeping a hold on reality, and can become childlike because of their dependency for such simple things as going to the bathroom or getting a glass of water, say experts.

"And that dependency carries terror with it, as though the personality is being erased," Bahn said.

Their families suffer from "sleeplessness, violent mood shifts, jumpiness, guilt and anticipatory grief," said Dr. Charles Figley, director of the Family Research Institute at Purdue University.

"The families don't know what's going to come out of this and they think the worst," he said. "The father might have more stress than any other family member because he's viewed as the family protector and in many ways he's rendered hamstrung and helpless. The mother is more visibly stressed because she's allowed to be seen this way.

Younger brothers and sisters, he said, are frightened. Older ones are belligerent and are willing to do anything to save the brother or sister being held. And wives of men held hostage must try to maintain family morale despite their own emotional reactions.

Dr. Frank Ochberg, director of Michigan's Department of Mental Health, said a "decompression period" after their release will help ease the hostages into the roles they once knew, as well as permit physical and psychological checkups.

"Prisoners have said that, looking back on it, they wish they had had more time between going from the jungle to Los Angeles or wherever they lived," he said.

What the long-term effects of captivity will be on the hostages and their families will depend on the individuals.

"Some people will respond with an inner panic," said Dr. Stanley Cath, medical director of the Family Advisory and Treatment Center in Belmont, Mass. "Some people will respond with strength. For others, this will lead to fragmentation. Not everyone comes out with the feeling that they will never trust again and will be traumatized forever."

A study last year at Leiden University, conducted on Dutch victims of terror, found two-thirds of all ex-hostages held for long periods suffered negative long-term effects: irritability, fatigue, undefined fears, physical complaints, insomnia, feelings of being misunderstood and preoccupation with having been a hostage.

The study also found many hostages said they had a greater appreciation for life than before. "I would not have thought that I could keep myself so well in hand," one ex-hostage said.

But Bahn said there are flashbacks and feelings of terror that can overwhelm the ex-hostage. "It can be someone wearing the same jacket or hat as the captors, or being in an elevator can give them the feeling of confinement." And he noted potential physical problems. "These people have been under stress. The adrenal gland has been working overtime and that means they might be prone to hypertension and ulcers. These people should have medical check-ups twice a year to make sure their organs aren't damaged."

Byrd Criticizes Bribery Probe Leakage

NEW YORK (AP) — Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd said Sunday news leaks about the FBI's Abscam bribery investigation were "reprehensible" and added that congressmen implicated should be presumed innocent until proven guilty.

The West Virginia Democrat also said members of Congress should uphold a higher standard of ethics than the average citizen.

It was revealed last week that the FBI was investigating congressmen for allegedly taking bribes from agents posing as Arabs.

"When all is said and done, the people are going to make the judgments on their individual representatives," Byrd said. "I think we (the Senate) have to wait until all the facts are in" before conducting an investigation.

Byrd made the comments on NBC-TV's "Meet the Press" program.

"I'm not saying there should not be a Senate hearing," Byrd said.

Heartline

EDITOR'S NOTE: Heartline is a service for senior citizens. Its purpose is to answer questions and solve problems — fast. If you have a question or a problem not answered in these columns, write Heartline, 114 E. Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio 45381. You will receive a prompt reply, but you must include a stamped, self-addressed envelope. The most useful replies will be printed in this column.

HEARTLINE: My mother told me recently that she was going to have surgery. I asked her why, and she said she wasn't sure exactly but that it was necessary. I have tried to call her doctor three times, but he has never been in and so far has not returned my call.

I asked my mother to get a second opinion and she won't. She is afraid that it will offend her doctor or make him mad at her. Trusting your doctor is one thing, but this is ridiculous. I asked her if it was serious and she said not very. However, others I have talked to tell me otherwise.

After several arguments, my mother's final defense was that a second opinion would be costly and if another doctor did not agree, it would only confuse her. I am ready to cry! Can you help. What do you think about getting second opinions before having surgery. I am hoping my mother will listen to you. — K.S.

ANSWER: First, let us say that if your mother's doctor gets angry or becomes offended because you want a second opinion, then it is time to get another doctor.

Second, Medicare will pay 80 percent of the reasonable charges for a second and third medical opinion after the $60 deductible has been met. In most states, Medicaid will pay these fees.

Third, your mother needs a second opinion, and even a third if the first two do not agree. However, we do want to point out that in cases of emergency surgery, there is often not enough time to get a second opinion.

Finally, and it's about time, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has launched a campaign urging all adults to seek second opinions when faced with non-emergency surgery. Heartline has been urging its readers to do so for over a year.

Ask your physician for the name of another doctor, or select another on your own. Or you can obtain the name of another physician from city or county medical societies.

HEARTLINE: My wife and I have been dreaming of moving to either Florida or Arizona for years. Even though we have been saving for years, the ever-increasing cost of land had all but dashed our hopes until recently. A few months ago we received literature about land for sale in Florida. It looked good, so we sent in a card. Later they flew us down and gave us the V.I.P. treatment. But now they are rushing us.

They say if we don't buy now, we will lose our chance to purchase a prime lot. We never did see the lot that we would be buying and we want to see it first. We want to know more, but they are really pushy. We don't want to miss out on a good deal, but we don't like to be rushed. What do you think? — H.W.

ANSWER: We think that before you rush out and purchase a retirement home you should first investigate. Is it really such a good deal? Maybe. Maybe not!

Have you looked at other lots or other land developments in the same area or in nearby areas. We would say that elderly people whose appetite for a retirement home is making them prone to hasty decisions would do well to consult with a lawyer or a real estate agent. Thirty-five states have some kind of land sale transaction laws. Fifteen states and the District of Columbia have none.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) administers a law that affects mail order sales of land of 40 or more unimproved lots, for sale or lease, in interstate commerce.

Before you purchase land, contact the proper state agency in which the land is located, or HUD, Office of Interstate Land Sales Registration, Washington, DC, 20411, and learn about the seller.

AN EDITORIAL:

Uncle Sam Does Need Help

PRESIDENT CARTER'S call for registration of both young men and women for a military draft may get embroiled in issues which have no real bearing on the major one at hand.

That is, obviously, putting the nation on a footing whereby in a national emergency, or the threat of one, the country could move more speedily toward mobilization.

While millions finally are realizing that the U.S., as well as the rest of the Free World, faces its gravest challenge since the days of Hitler, ironically there still is much sentiment not only against including women in any sort of registration but a draft of any kind for men.

AS A RESULT, the upcoming debate in Congress, which gets the President's requests today, is most likely to be emotional and politically-charged.

In issuing his call, one for registration of men and another for women, the President wisely separated his requests so as not to bog down the measure involving young men with the more heated issue of women in the service.

The President also noted that he would ask for an extra $29.5 million for this fiscal year and $24.5 million next fiscal year "for the Selective Service System to carry out this program."

The program, as envisioned, would require men and women to go to their local post offices and fill out a brief form. No draft card would be issued at this point.

MOST PERSONS, we feel, now realize that if the United States is to remain in a position to defend itself, and its vital interests, it must set up a system whereby it can tap the needed manpower and knowhow without delay.

The ideal situation, of course, would be to have an adequately trained force, both in the military arts and civilian-related duties, already trained. A system of universal training, long advocated by some, would have already accomplished this.

But, since we do not have such a system, the next best thing is to register those persons who may be needed, for both combat and backup duties. To do this quickly and efficiently, the government needs to know how many and where such manpower is available.

A NATION which faces the ever-increasing threat of Soviet Russia's growing military might has no choice but to make whatever plans are needed to meet whatever challenge it may face.

At this point, Mr. Carter specifically has exempted use of women in combat, nor does he foresee such a likelihood. In fact, except in a major emergency, we doubt that it would be necessary to even call women into uniform.

However, while the "women in the trenches" debate most likely will cloud the real issue, as we noted, it might be recalled that women served in many jobs in World War II for the U.S.—ranging from driving trucks and making planes and tanks to desk work. Those in Britain and Europe faced mandatory duties in factories, on farms, in uniform.

Regardless, registration is a necessity whose time has come. If we can't face up to that, we can't face up to the more serious decisions later.

AN EDITORIAL:

Bush Playing In Big Leagues

NOW COMES the tough part. George Bush has, on the momentum of the Iowa caucuses, taken over the leading role in the Republican presidential scramble.

Not yet the front-runner, he occupies what can be an even better position. He's the contender all the others (including faltering front-runner Ronald Reagan) know they have to beat.

This means a quantum jump in media exposure, helped plenty by his rivals' shift from scattershot campaigning against each other to concentrating fire on him.

There has been a surge in campaign contributions and in the crowds turning out for his appearances. There also has been a surge in problems—one of which is welcome.

The emergency occasioned by the proliferation of newsmen suddenly assigned to his campaign, for example, required the acquisition of a new plane to accommodate them.

ALL THIS in the few weeks since some 100,000 Iowans gathered in living rooms and community halls to pass judgment on the important outsiders seeking their approval (Who says ordinary citizens can't influence the political process?)

Bush, who was traveling the next thing to solo in the long months leading up to Iowa, is now the center of an entourage as he sweeps on to the New Hampshire primary.

But for George Bush, it is no longer a first testing. He has already passed that.

The new Bush media plane has been nicknamed "Asterisk One" in recollection of the not-so-long-ago days when Bush was listed below the leading candidates in the polls, among the "also running."

GEORGE BUSH has moved from being "a" candidate to being "the" candidate. But even that has its disadvantages.

He must now choose his issues and state his positions with greater care in the quest for ever broader support.

Larger crowds and more media exposure mean not only more votes to be won by an effective performance but also more to be lost by an unpopular stand or a blooper.

Recent political history is studded with victims of early success. One only need recall George Romney and Ed Muskie.

Gaining "Big Mo," as Bush calls it, isn't easy in a presidential race. But even hanging onto momentum on an uphill grade can be easier than maintaining it throughout a campaign after it is once acquired—as Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., to name just one, now knows from first-hand experience.

ROBERT W. ALTERS:

Automakers Paying Big For Not Thinking Small

WASHINGTON—Buried in the massive pile of paperwork generated by the debate over federal financial assistance to the Chrysler Corp. is striking evidence of the plight of the country's entire auto industry.

It is a chart entitled "World Production of Motor Vehicles," containing the Treasury Department's detailed presentation to the House and Senate committees that recently considered legislation to rescue Chrysler from near-bankruptcy.

As recently as 1950, the United States accounted for more than 75 percent of all production, the chart shows, but by 1960 that figure had plummeted to less than 50 percent and by 1970 it had plunged below 30 percent, where it remains today.

IN 1950, ASIAN automakers produced a minuscule 0.3 percent of the world's output, but the comparable 1978 figure was more than 22 percent, with Honda, Datsun, Toyota, Subaru and other Japanese manufacturers of small, economical cars accounting for the dramatic increase.

In 1950, European automakers produced slightly more than 20 percent of the world's cars, but in more recent decades that figure has climbed to well above 40 percent.

That increase can be ascribed to Germany's Volkswagen, Italy's Fiat, France's Renault and other manufacturers of fuel-efficient autos.

Although the Treasury Department's figures are complete only through the end of 1978, a headline in a mid-December issue of Automotive News, an authoritative trade journal, is both more current and more discouraging: "U.S. Car Sales Plummet But Imports Set Record." The story says, in part:

"NEW CAR sales in November continued their downward slide, with the domestic industry reporting a 22.14 percent decline...

"While the U.S. automakers struggled in the marketplace, imports seemed to have been granted immunity from the sales recession as they set a record for the month."

This country's auto industry now is paying the price for decades of stubborn refusal to de-emphasize oversized, fuel-thirsty cars whose principal attraction was high sales prices that produced greater profit margins for manufacturers and dealers.

THE KEY to the current problem obviously is the declining supply and rising price of gasoline. But the domestic auto industry even managed to ignore the handwriting on the wall when sales of its gas-guzzling behemoths plummeted following the 1973-74 Arab oil embargo.

After conducting elaborate nationwide surveys of consumer intentions, the industry concluded—wrongly—that potential purchasers really hadn't abandoned big cars but instead had only temporarily postponed their buying decisions.

Those miscalculations now are taking their toll.

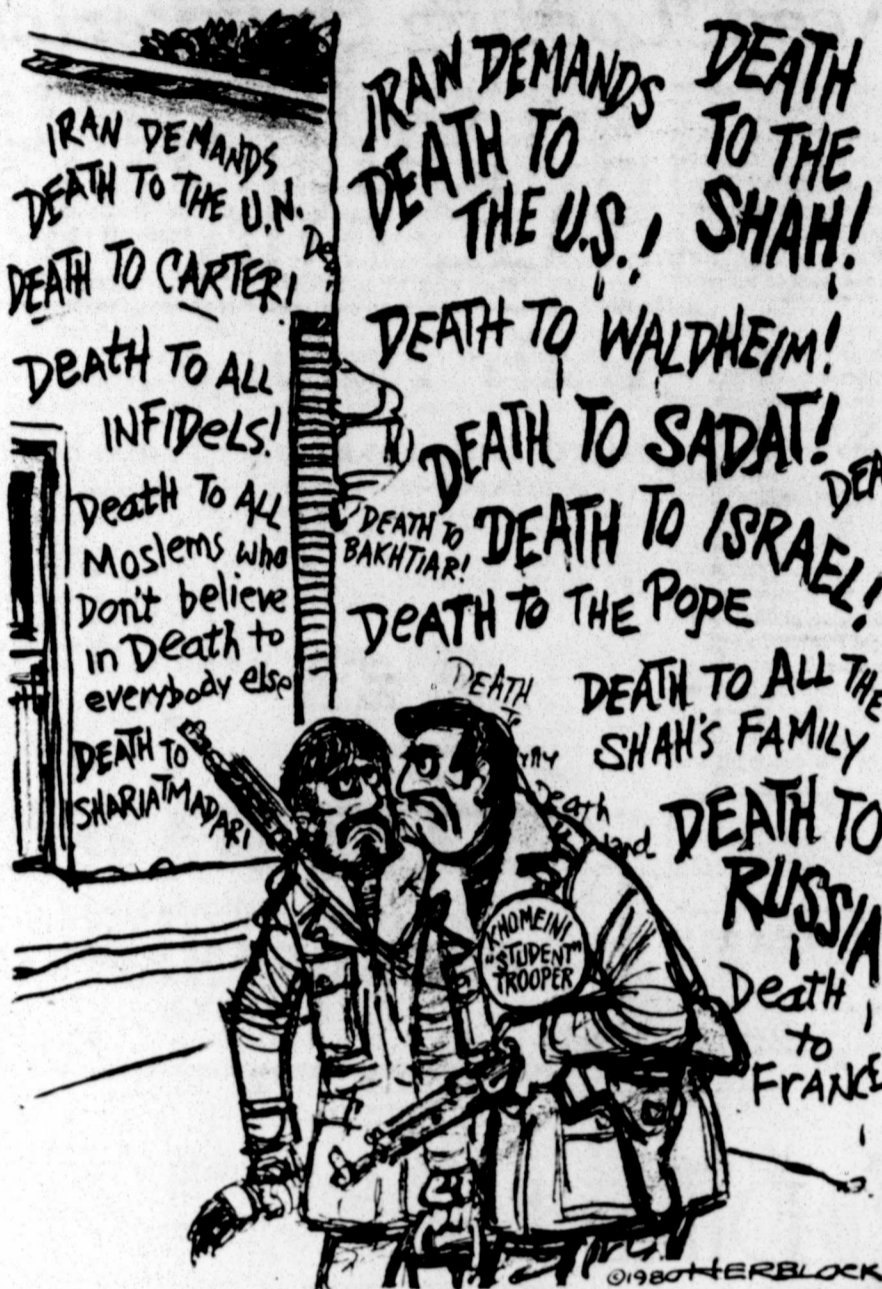

THE INVENTORY of unsold new cars has swollen to an estimated 1.75 million vehicles—the highest level in five years.

Chrysler, which lost an estimated more than $1 billion last year, was not alone. North American operations of the Ford Motor Co. also showed a loss of approximately $1 billion, offset by overseas profits.

Chrysler Board Chairman Lee A. Iacocca recently told a congressional committee that Chrysler, Ford and the General Motors Corp. racked up combined operating losses of $1.4 billion in the third quarter of 1979.

"Something is wrong somewhere," Iacocca concluded. "We can't all be bad managers." At this very late date, the industry continues to look everywhere but at itself to find the cause of its problems.

"IS THERE ANYONE WE'VE FORGOTTEN?"

ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK:

Stranger In Night

WASHINGTON—At 9 o'clock in the morning on Jan. 1, a liberal Democratic politician in the Midwest who was considered part of the Kennedy orbit was awakened by a telephone call from the President of the United States—getting an early start on the new year in a re-election drive that is remorseless, pugnacious and unique.

The politician, who had never before talked to Jimmy Carter, had been ignored by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and may end up supporting the President. He is not alone. Never before have so many total strangers been telephoned by a President.

The prospect of President Carter, spending nights and weekends alone by the telephone, is accompanied by unpleasant agents issuing unveiled warnings to Kennedy backers.

ANDREW TULLY:

A Private Problem

WASHINGTON—Back in 1976, both the Republican and Democratic platforms favored tax relief for parents of private-school students. Nothing happened, mostly because the idea wasn't judged on its merits but on opposition from the national education establishment.

This year, the establishment is even stronger, with its own new Department of Education, which is seeking a whopping $15.5 billion for its first budget.

With that kind of money to spend, the anti-private school lobby's political clout will be felt right down to the last one-room schoolhouse.

As a result, the latest, unsung minority will continue to be ignored. It is composed of parents with children in private schools, and few figures of influence in the land argue that such parents should share the rights demanded by other minorities.

I HAVE never been able to understand the prejudice against those who send their children to private schools. The belief seems to be that such parents seek special privileges for their offspring. That may have been true 30 years ago.

Today, children are enrolled in private schools because their parents believe that is where they will get a better education. It costs money, but it is a sacrifice willingly made to prepare the young for living in the grownup world.

This is one of a parent's duties that cannot be passed off to the state.

Besides, most parents choose private schools because public schools are in such bad shape. Standards are higher in private schools, and the teachers do a better job of teaching.

THEN THERE is something one almost hesitates to mention these days. Parents believe that private schools offer an atmosphere of moral and religious values not found in neutralized public schools.

A private school is not a refuge from the brawling outside world but a place where family values can be protected and advanced.

I suggest that public schools spend too much time trying to "liberalize" our young. Time is taken from studies to "educate" them in their "rights."

If those "rights" are legitimate, surely they are part of a litany that should be heard at home, not in a classroom supposedly dedicated to the dispensation of pure learning.

THERE IS a great deal of talk about the First Amendment and its prohibition against any relationship between church and state. That's the big argument against tax relief for parents with children in parochial schools.

But the American public school system has become a kind of established temple of the state. The law says we all must pay taxes for its support.

Fair enough? Not quite. For the law's effect is to discriminate against all religious denominations by making it difficult for many and impossible for some to support the church of their choice.

That is not quite freedom of religion in its purest form.

By both word of mouth and mass media advertising, Kennedy's integrity is questioned.

The result: a campaign even less edifying than most. Nor does it bear much relationship in substance to Carter's three years in office.

But combined with events in Central Asia, the President's telephonic campaigning plus gut-fighting backstage has produced one of the most dramatic turnarounds in American political history. It seems unlikely to be abandoned in favor of more enlightened fare.

THE CAMPAIGN'S underlying claim is that Carter has abandoned partisan politics since the U.S. Embassy takeover in Tehran.

Having found time to appear on NBC's "Meet the Press" the day before the Iowa caucuses though not to debate with Kennedy, the President declared on nationwide television:

"In a time of crisis for our country, I believe it is very important for the President not to assume in a public way the role of a partisan campaigner in a political contest."

Carter also has found time for calls whose number the White House cannot fix but run 20 to 40 each weeknight and a great deal more on weekends. In New Hampshire, Kennedy's precinct workers are finding that in some blocks, nearly every Democratic household has received a presidential phone call.

THE SOFT-spoken Carter invariably makes a soft-sell. The harder sell comes from his agents, who blanch before the uncommitted treasured memory of a White House visit.

For those who stay neutral too long (such as Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan of New York) there are reminders that the train is leaving the station and there may not be any more empty seats aboard.

The language is appropriately harsher for those Democrats who actually came out for Kennedy.

Life has been less pleasant of late for Tom Hagen, the pro-Kennedy Allegheny County (Cleveland) chairman in Ohio.

Democratic National Committeeman Joe Crangle of New York found that his loyal support of the President at party gatherings the past three years meant nothing once he came to Washington to work in the Kennedy campaign.

JOEL McCLEARY, Carter's New York coordinator, was overheard telling Crangle face-to-face: "You (expletive). You're the one guy we're going to get."

That tone was faithfully conveyed in describing Kennedy, first by word of mouth and now in television and radio commercials prepared for New Hampshire.

Each Carter radio spot there begins: "Whenever Sen. Kennedy paints his vision of the American future, his record catches up with him."

With that opener, Kennedy is attacked for opposing higher defense spending and for failing to pass "71 percent" of his tax reform proposals. "We cannot spend our way out of every problem," the commercial's narrator intones.

Running against Kennedy in upper New England as detente crumbles, Carter's projected image is of born-again hawk.

Although he has squeezed hard against the military's spending request for three years and still proposes increases regarded as grossly inadequate by defense-oriented legislators, one radio commercial has his voice putting "a strong defense on the top of my priority list."

AS FOR KENNEDY'S 71 percent alleged failure quotient on tax reform, the President's commercials do not mention the burial of his entire tax reform program.

Nor do they discuss his intense objection to tax reduction, overriding in the current budget the advice of key economic advisers.

Until now, mundane discussion of how much should be spent on defense or whether taxes should be cut has been isolated from Carter's immaculately sealed campaign.

With the President seldom submitting to questions or making a political speech, such debate is not necessary in a campaign of blandishments, threats, negative media advertising and those nightly presidential telephone calls.

JAY HARRIS:

100--And Counting

IN A WAY, the tragedy still being played out in Tehran as regards the hostages is a trilogy...

And as such it says something about U.S. policy in the world today, at least as practiced by President Carter and the U.S. State Department.

As more than one astute military man has learned through the years, it still is important to get there fustest with the mostest... to paraphrase a bit.

The problem for America, at least since Korea and Vietnam, is that we have been cast in the role of reacting instead of acting, both in the global diplomatic and military chess game. To a great degree, it is a scenario being repeated in Iran and Afghanistan.

BACK ON NOV. 4, when the "student" militants seized the U.S. Embassy and took Americans prisoners in violation of every known law, the outrage in the U.S. was immediate.

President Carter and State Department spokesmen wasted no time branding the terrorism as a virtual "act of war" and vowed to leave no stone unturned to free the hostages and punish those responsible.

Suddenly, millions of Americans who had almost swallowed the canard that the nation had lost its will to stand up for its rights, that it should still wear sackcloth and ashes for its "guilt" in Vietnam, regained their pride and stood tall.

Old Glory again became a symbol of everything right about America and not something to be worn on the seat of someone's jeans or to be torn from its mast and burned, as was happening in Tehran.

THEN, AS THE days dragged into weeks and the weeks into the second month and the holidays for the hostages, the U.S. found its hands shackled.

As the more strident calls for drastic action, even "nuking 'em" died down, the realization came that short of a major military effort, other means would have to be used.

The President at that time, we said, did just about all he could do in exhausting all peaceful means at seeking release of the hostages, even stooping to enlist the aid of the Third World dominated and Communist tainted United Nations.

Nothing seemed to work—UN censure, vetoed by the Russians; World Court verdict, ignored by the Iranians; threat of sanctions, ignored even by many U.S. friends and so-called allies whose own security once was paid for by American blood.

Then as mounting resentment grew in the U.S. and demands for the Carter Administration to "do something," it appeared that the U.S. would impose either sanctions or a blockade, even as the President said, if we had to go it alone.

THEN CAME the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan.

In Iran, the reign of the Ayatollah Khomeini continued to come loose at the seams...

Suddenly, it was a whole new ball game. Not only was the U.S. confronted with its inability to free 50 citizens and its Embassy from a nation on the brink of anarchy, but Moscow had thrown down the gauntlet on the doorsteps of the Persian Gulf's vital oil supply.

President Carter, properly incensed, went before Congress and the nation in his State of the Union address and threatened to meet the Soviet challenge to protect vital U.S. interests, by whatever means, "including military force, if necessary." It was an empty threat, as Moscow knew. Presidential candidate John Connally branded it "political pabulum" designed for domestic consumption.

IN THE MEANTIME, Mr. Carter moved on a number of fronts...

On the heels of the naked invasion of Afghanistan, he blandly admitted to the nation and world that he had learned more about Soviet intentions in one week than he had in his entire three years in office, if not his life.

It was a shocking confession of Presidential naivete, but not surprising to those who had been warning the nation about U.S. foreign policy from the day Mr. Carter assumed office.

To the President's credit, his "born again" knowledge of Communist Russia's real aims spurred him into action. In quick order, he dispatched more naval units to the Indian Ocean and sent top officials to the Mideast in an attempt to build an Arc of Defense in the Arc of Crisis. And he called for either moving the summer Olympic Games from Moscow or a boycott, by the U.S. and all others who would join in.

Thus far, U.S. envoys seeking to set up a defense arrangement in the Mideast have met with only medium success, including use of vital Israeli-Egyptian bases in the Sinai and naval facilities in Oman and elsewhere.

BACK IN IRAN, the Tragedy and the Trilogy may be nearing some sort of finale...

It has been hinted the U.S. may agree to a plan by UN Chief Kurt Waldheim in which an international tribunal will investigate Iran's charges against the U.S. and the Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi as a "price" for freeing the hostages.

Instead of the hostages going on trial, something Mr. Carter once flatly rejected, the whole nation may. The resulting propaganda and "verdict" would be a foregone conclusion—America and the Shah would come off as the bad guys, Iran as the put-upon victim.

Anger, Cold Reality, Frustration—three acts in a world drama. In the meantime, a President and a State Department, whose past policies can be blamed for much of it, seek ways out of the dark dilemma.

In Tehran, it's 100 days and counting for the hostages. For America and Armageddon, what is the count?

Pass It On:

THE CHAMPIONSHIP football game between the National and American Leagues wasn't called the Super Bowl until its third year. Credit Lamar Hunt with the name. But when he first suggested it at a league meeting, he drew some laughter. Lot of people thought it was ridiculous, then. Now everybody's used to it, and it seems most appropriate.

Q. How much does it cost now to turn out a business letter?

A. About $5.59, and that's not counting postage.

Observed Mark Twain: "We should be careful to get out of an experience only the wisdom that is in it and stop there lest we be like the cat that sits down on a hot stove lid. She will never sit down on a hot stove lid again, and that is well. But also, she will never sit down on a cold one, either."

Philadelphia Police Protesting Mayor's Plan For Job Cuts

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Spared layoffs for years under former Mayor Frank L. Rizzo, police now are staging demonstrations and a "Green Flu" sickout named for the mayor. On Sunday, nearly 75 percent of the officers in two districts called in sick.

The protests are over an edict by the new administration cutting 750 jobs from the city's 8,500-member police force, cuts the department was exempt from during the eight years Rizzo — a former police chief — was in office.

Police officials say they have more than enough officers to staff every district in the city despite the sickouts.

"We're holding people over and calling in officers from other districts," said policeman Daniel McGlaughlin in the city's 9th District, where 14 out of 25 scheduled officers failed to report to work. In the 17th District, 31 of the 34 officers on the day shift called in sick.

The two districts, situated in mainly working-class neighborhoods in South and North Philadelphia, have the highest proportion of rookie officers among the city's 26 districts, police said.

"If you're 22 or 23, and they tell you that they're taking your job away in two weeks, and you look at your calendar and see how much sick leave you have, what are you going to do?" asked a veteran officer who asked not to be identified.

Policemen were outraged last week when Mayor William Green, after his first month in office, said he planned to slash 1,000 police officers and firefighters from the city payroll.

Green, elected after the city charter barred Rizzo from a third term, said the cuts were needed because of a projected $167 million deficit over the next 17 months.

"The simple fact is that there was no place else to cut," said Managing Director W. Wilson Goode.

Two angry demonstrations followed and union leaders promised another traffic-snarling march Monday. Some police refused to write traffic tickets or make vice arrests.

The city's 2,850 firefighters, also facing a cut of 250 jobs, were not taking time off, but said they planned informational picketing and promised to join police for protest marches on City Hall.

"We're hope to have more people out Monday than we had last week," when more than 1,000 police officers and firefighters massed in downtown traffic, said Dan Harrigan, recording secretary for the City Firefighters Association.

"We figure we've got 2½ weeks before the layoffs take effect, and we hope we can make the city budget by them," Harrigan said.

Union leaders hinted that police and firefighters may yet violate state law and strike — unthinkable during the Rizzo years.

The son of a South Philadelphia policeman, Rizzo rose through the ranks, earned the nickname "Cisco Kid" for his exploits and later took command of his fellow officers in the nation's fourth largest city.

As mayor, he lavished public funds on the 8,500 officers, and Philadelphia consistently reported the lowest crime rate of the country's largest 10 cities.

Police salaries were among the highest in the nation, with recruits at the police academy earning about $17,000 and rookies and experienced officers getting higher pay.

Rizzo's devotion showed when he was forced to eliminate city workers. In August and September 1978, when 1,223 jobs were cut through layoffs and attrition, police were exempted.

In a televised address last Monday, Green cut 386 active officers, 110 civilian police employees and 242 recruits.

"Seven hundred and thirty eight people are not going to be able to pay their rent. I guess you can say we are bitter," said Joseph Pinto, a spokesman for Lodge 5 of the Fraternal Order of Police, representing about 8,000 of the officers.

"I'm just sick about the whole thing. I waited two years for this opportunity," said recruit Denise Stewart, 24, crying as she learned she was losing her job.

But Green stood fast, saying: "Unless we take the actions we're taking, this city will be bankrupt. And we will not allow this city to become another Chrysler or New York."

Aides to Green pointed out that even with the layoffs, the city will have a higher police-citizen ratio than any big city except Chicago or Washington, D.C. — about 50 officers to every 10,000 residents. Before the layoffs, it was about 55 to 10,000.

Two Die, Two Jump To Safety In Fire

SALEM, Mass. (AP) — Two 11-year-old Salem girls died, and a mother and daughter leaped to safety in an early morning house fire Sunday, fire officials said.

When firefighters got to the 2½-story wooden dwelling, 6-year-old Sheila Lavoie and her mother, Diane, 37, had jumped from the second floor of their burning house. Deputy Fire Chief Joseph Sullivan said.

Rescuers were told that another daughter and a friend spending the night were on the second floor, Sullivan said.

Eleven-year-old Karen Lavoie and Michele Titus were found on the top floor on a bed. Both were pronounced dead at Salem Hospital.

Sullivan said the blaze broke out on the first floor where Sheila was asleep on a couch. The child heard a crackling noise, he said, and ran to the second floor to awaken her mother. She jumped to safety and then caught Sheila in her arms.

The two suffered minor injuries and were treated and released from Salem Hospital.

The cause of the fire was not immediately known.

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN AND OMAR SHARIF
1980 by Chicago Tribune

Q.1—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦83 ♦Q954 ♦K98 ♦AJ73
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♦ 2 ♦ 4 ♦ 4 ♦
Pass Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—Your four heart bid was a bit of a stretch, but it was forced on you since three hearts would have been a gross underbid. Now, you must alert partner that your jump to game was not a preemptive action, but was predicated on sound values. Double. If your side can make five hearts, Partner will have to make that decision.

Q.2—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♦852 ♦AK10954 ♦A ♦A94
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
Pass Pass 1 ♦ Dbie.
Rdbie. Pass Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—Initially, you chose to double because you felt your hand was too good for a simple one heart overcall. Despite the redouble, don't be deflected from your course—partner might have the right cards for you to make game. Jump to two hearts. This isn't forcing—it simply shows good values and a long suit.

A.—Partner's bid should be music to your ears. Game is a virtual certainty—but not in spades! In a suit contract, partner's diamond values could be wasted and will be exposed to an opening lead through. At no trump, your hand will produce at least six tricks, probably seven, so bid the game you expect to make—three no trump.

Q.5—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦KJ ♦K72 ♦A10965 ♦K94
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♦ Pass 1 ♦ Pass
2 NT Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—It is hard to visualize a hand that partner could have on this bidding that won't offer good play for twelve tricks opposite your holding. Since you have the point count for a small slam, bid six no trump. Pussyfooting around to investigate alternative contracts could result in the auction being dropped short of slam.

Q.6—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦A982 ♦6 ♦Q743 ♦10852
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♦ Pass 1 ♦ Pass
3 ♦ Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—When we are vulnerable, we will stretch for every reasonable game. However, the key word is reasonable. Here, you have a minimum response and no fit at all for partner's suit. His jump rebid in his own suit was invitational, not forcing, so you should decline. Pass.

Q.3—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
Pass Pass 1 ♦ 1 ♦
Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—Had your distribution been anything but 4-3-3, you might have opened your hand. Now, even though partner could only overcall at the one level, not vulnerable, you must make the strongest effort possible to show your good hand. Cue bid two hearts, then raise spades at your next turn.

Q.4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK

Neighbors who live side by side share more than mail deliveries and garbage pickups.

They're part of a community that absorbs one another's sounds, lifestyles, and overflow.

Yet, the neighbors of some of television's series stars are never seen. I somehow find them more fascinating than the stars.

Don't you ever wonder about the people who live next door to the Incredible Hulk? Have they noticed how upset he gets over little things by knocking out walls with his fists? Do neighborhood kids let the air out of his tires just to see him turn green and grow? Is he on everyone's list for the Halloween party?

Wouldn't you love to live next to Jim Rockford? That little trailer of his by the beach attracts more visitors than the Lincoln Memorial. There isn't a week goes by that someone isn't shooting at him, knocking on his door in the advanced stages of hysteria or ordering him into a long, black car at gunpoint. I can just see his neighbors, Fred and Margaret. Fred rolls over in bed and mumbles to Margaret, "Is Rockford home?" and Margaret says sleepily, "You just heard his car blow up, didn't you? Of COURSE, he's home."

Haven't you ever been curious about the Welcome Wagon lady who paid a courtesy call to Mork and Mindy and later reported, "The girl is okay, but the guy has a cork that won't stay on top of the water—if you get my drift. When I gave him a free pastry brush, he stood on his head on the sofa and put it in his ear."

With my luck, I'd buy a house next to the Bionic Woman who opens up cans of tuna with her fingernails and jumps over three shopping carts on double stamp day. I'd be the idiot who suggests we go jogging in the mornings to get some exercise.

Come to think of it, Baretta, the Ropers, Charlie's Angels, the Happy Days family, Laverne and Shirley, the cast of Three's Company and Eight Is Enough are probably no weirder than most of the neighbors I've lived next to.

I've listened to my share of slammed doors, scuffling, heavy breathing, shouting, wall-to-wall kids and undisciplined, and viewed my share of strange habits and bizarre behavior.

But there's one thing I can't remember. I never lived next to a laugh-track that enjoyed life so much.

Hearing Test Set for Lubbock, February 11-12-13 Texas State Hearing Aid Center

Free Hearing Tests. Introducing the "Gem" Hearing Aid by NU-EAR

Free electronic hearing tests will be given on February 11-13 from 9:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. The hearing tests will be given at Texas State Hearing Aid Center, 2321 50th, Suite A.

The tests have been scheduled because many people suspect they have trouble hearing and understanding. Use of the latest electronic equipment will indicate whether there is such a problem and whether it can be helped electronically. Experienced hearing aid specialists from NU-EAR Electronics will be present to perform the tests and discuss the "Gem" hearing aid.

Worn totally within the ear, the "Gem" features automatic noise suppression which automatically shuts down background noises, enabling one to hear and understand conversation better in a crowd. It also has a built-in analog computer which is programmed and custom built to accommodate individual hearing needs. During this special event sponsored by Texas State Hearing Aid Center, free tune-ups on your present hearing aid along with free batteries will be available. Texas State Hearing Aid Center suggests that everyone have their hearing tested at least once a year. Texas State Hearing Aid Center also encourages the general public as well as those presently wearing hearing aids, regardless of the make, to take advantage of the free hearing tests February 11, 12, 13. To avoid waiting please phone 792-0254 for an appointment.

Hints From Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

Do you know any way fusing hem tape can be completely removed from fabric?

My daughter has several pairs of lovely slacks which we hemmed with fusible tape. Now, with the higher heels being worn, they are too short.

Heat will remove the bonding but the residue remains on both section of fabric and becomes very stiff and hard, which ruins nylons.

Any help will be appreciated. — Mrs. Dorothy Wiley

You're in luck!

A letter from Mildred Spiers, who had the same problem, came in the same mail as yours. Here's what she had to say: "At last I have found something to remove the residue of fusible webbing from sewing projects when I need to let down a hem or have accidentally ironed some of it onto something else."

"Use denatured alcohol! Rubbing alcohol will not do it."
(Denatured alcohol is available at drug stores. — Heloise) "Saturate a small piece of terry cloth with the alcohol and rub with the grain of the fabric until the webbing dissolves and can be wiped away. (Test a scrap of fabric or a spot first to be sure it won't leave a ring.)"

"Those who sew with fusible webbing know that if the residue isn't removed on a let-down hem, the garment will be unwearable because it snags hose when worn."

"To let down a hem, steam with a steam iron and a wet piece of terrycloth, working with a small section at a time. PULL the garment and the hem apart while still hot."

Isn't Mildred a doll for taking the time to share her solution to a "rough" problem. Heed her advice, gals, and test a spot first. Fabrics are many and varied, as you well know.

I might add one more thing... When "un-gluing" the fusible webbing on a hem, turn the garment wrong side out and place a piece of aluminum foil under it.

This will reflect the steam from the iron right up through the hem. Makes pulling the hem and garment apart a little easier.

Love both you gals for writing. — Heloise liquid to the yeast, besides mixing other ingredients. Not wanting to waste anything, I added enough biscuit mix to make the dough the right consistency.

Result? Perfect, light loaves of bread, which browned nicely and were delicious. — Florence White

DEAR HELOISE:

I use the tabs from pop-top soft drink cans, nailing or taping them to the backs of lightweight pictures.

They make the best hangers ever. You don't even need wire or string, just hook them over a small nail. — Mrs. B.H. Foster

Have you discovered a great household hint? Share it by sending it to Heloise, 235 E. 45th St., New York, N.Y. 10017. Sorry, she can't answer your letter personally but she will use the best tips received in her column.

To Your Good Health

BY PAUL DONOHUE, M.D.
Dear Dr. Donohue: What do you think about spinal blocks? Years ago I heard that some doctors considered it dangerous. Is there great danger compared to generals? What is the difference? How does a spinal block differ from an epidural block? — H.L.

Stopping pain is what any anesthesia is about.
If you stub your toe your toe nerves send signals to your spinal cord, which "boosts" the signal along to the brain. Not until the brain gets the signal do you say, "ouch." That's how pain is perceived, no matter where it originates or whether it's from stubbing your toe or being cut in surgery.

The doctor must decide at what point along this transmission network he wants to stop the pain process. If it is at the injury site, that's called a "local." If he wants to step in at the spinal cord level it is called a "spinal." If he wants to stop it at the brain level, he uses a "general" anesthesia. The patient is "put to sleep." Your concern is about the spine.

The spinal cord is covered by three membranes. The innermost clings to the spinal cord itself. The outermost of the other two is called the "dura." If the doctor wants to interrupt pain at the spinal cord level he can inject the anesthetic just outside the dura. That is called an "epidural block." Or he may want to inject it just inside the middle membrane (arachnoid) and that is called a "subarachnoid block." Either method is safe and effective. There is less headache associated with the epidural block. On the other hand, less anesthetic has to be used for the inner (spinal) block.

Spinal anesthesia may have gotten some bad press in years past. It was probably unwarranted. It has advantages. For example, it has less of a chance of disturbing breathing. In some patients, this can be an important factor.

I would leave the type of anesthesia up to my doctor and feel no anxiety about the one he chooses.

sodium-rich foods for their patients on low-salt diets.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Will you explain in one of your columns about Stokes-Adams syndrome and syncope? Does it have anything to do with the heart? — Mrs. H.T.

It has everything to do with the heart. Stokes-Adams attacks are periods when the heart beat temporarily stops or is ineffective. The electrical impulses formed by the heart's natural pacemaker fail to get transmitted to the lower chambers of the heart, the ventricles. If they do not get the electrical impulses they do not contract. No blood is pumped out and syncope (SIN-cop-ay) follows. That's fainting.

You regular readers should be able to tell Mrs. H.T. what the answer to this problem is — a pacemaker.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Donohue, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611, for his booklet, "Ear Noises — Their Causes and Cures." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dear Ann Landers: In regard to the 80-year-old grandfather, alleged to be a child molester, shame on you for suggesting that "a man of that age is not about to accept counseling."

Willingness to accept counseling bears no relationship to age. Clinical studies have demonstrated that older people with emotional problems do respond positively in the course of treatment by experienced, understanding therapists.

More importantly, that 80-year-old grandfather has a right to receive treatment. It's not like you to say a situation is hopeless. Please retract your statement. — Claude Pepper, Select Committee On Aging, U.S. House Of Representatives

Dear Congressman Pepper: Of course, you are right — age should not be a factor when it comes to counseling. I'm sorry I neglected to spell out more clearly why I discouraged counseling for this 80-year-old grandfather. I should have been more specific, as was Dr. Roy Menninger, president of the Menninger Foundation in Topeka, Kan., when I told him of your telegram.

Dr. Menninger said, "Many older folks respond well to therapy, but in the case of a man who has been molesting children for over 30 years, the prognosis for change is very poor. Your advice to pass the word to family members that 'Grandpa' should not be left alone with youngsters was perfectly sound."

And now, a word from Ann Landers: I heartily recommend "Children's Secrets" by Thomas J. Cottle (Doubleday — $10). The chapter on incest is just one of the eye-openers about family life that we all need to learn more about.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm awfully late with this letter, but please print it anyway.

We have all heard that suicides hit an all-time high around Christmas. Many theories have been offered, but I'm sure I have the correct one. It's those mimeographed letters with all the brag stuff we get from people who never write otherwise. They're enough to make a normal person put a bullet in his head.

Then there are the "family" pictures with the dogs, cats, raccoons and hamsters lined up with the kids. Sometimes you can't tell who is who. I have resolved that next year, in the interest of my mental health, I'm going to toss out all such nonsense without bothering to see who sent it. — Fed Up With Fantasies And Foolishness discouraging three from his partner. It should be apparent to West that a diamond shift is indicated. South surely has only three minor suit cards.

Oswald: Most West's lead the diamond deuce. The illusionist leads the king and continues with the deuce. East is in with the ace and leads his diamond five. What should South do?

Alan: "South must play West for a doubleton diamond and ruff high. This play can only cost him if trumps break 4-1, but that is the way they break and expert South bites the bullet."

Oswald: "We keep getting questions about whether a player is legally entitled to pass his partner's forcing bid."

Alan: "Of course, he is! He does so at the risk of losing a partner, but he is not violating any law."

'David Versus Goliath' Case Nearing End

Texas Court Expected To Rule On Charges Against Bell System

By MACK SISK

SAN ANTONIO (UPI) — More than five years after top Texas telephone company executive Thur O'Dell Gravitt asphyxiated himself in his Dallas garage — leaving a note saying "Watergate was a gnat compared to the Bell system" — all the charges and counter charges finally are coming due.

When the Texas Supreme Court makes its final ruling, expected this year, on the libel and slander suit filed by Gravitt's survivors and former Southwestern Bell official James Ashley, the lid on Pandora's Box likely will close.

It has made years of interesting — and costly — reading for ratepayers as Southwestern Bell paid some $2 million in attorney fees to defend itself against the sensational charges generated by Ashley and Gravitt.

The telephone company and some of its executives were accused of maintaining illegal political slushfunds and making illegal campaign contributions, tapping telephones, pressuring female employees into sexual relationships, engaging in underhanded rate practices and winning and dining — and providing women for — the politicians who set the rates.

During the long court battle the reputations of Ashley and Gravitt, which the libel and slander suit ostensibly sought to protect, took a mauling as company witnesses testified the two executives were at the bottom of the very wrongdoing which they alleged was carried out by the huge utility.

Ashley and Gravitt were accused of sexually harassing female subordinates, padding their expense accounts and engaging in conflict of interest.

It never was established definitely who — if anyone — emerged victorious. Both sides now claim triumph and exonerated. But both indicate they would just as soon forget it.

One San Antonio jury awarded Ashley and his wife $1 million on grounds Bell tapped their telephones, and another local jury presented Gravitt's widow and Ashley with $3 million on grounds the two executives were libeled and slandered by company investigators.

But Ashley has collected nothing and maintains "money never was the primary issue. It was a principle thing — don't get me wrong — but I'm not sitting around waiting for any money that might be forthcoming."

Bell officials proudly note that both money awards were overturned on appeal on grounds the evidence did not support the verdicts reached by the San Antonio jurors. They also point to a lengthy Federal Communications Commission investigation which last October absolved the company of any of the wrongdoing alleged in the sensational trials.

The Texas Supreme Court has forever doomed the original $1 million wiretapping award and unless it departs from its standard procedure of upholding civil appeals courts in such cases, it will also rule in Bell's favor in the remaining libel and slander suit, previously overturned by the 4th Court of Civil Appeals.

"We're confident they will rule on behalf of Ashley and Gravitt," Ashley said. "We've always felt that way."

"I think this is a different lawsuit," added Maloney, who portrayed his client as David versus Goliath. "We really have high hopes. It's been pending more than a year now. One can conclude from that that it is being seriously regarded."

But Bell officials, with two major court victories to their credit, are more optimistic. The Supreme Court also will uphold its arguments.

"Folks over here feel that we don't have any comment. We couldn't add to what we've said repeatedly before," said company spokesman Marco Gilliam. "We consider the case closed and we're looking forward to other matters."

Ashley, who once called himself "The Ralph Nader of the telephone industry," claims his revelations in the lawsuits helped push the legislature to final approval of a Texas Public Utilities Commission, which for the first time regulates telephone rates throughout the state. Previously each city dealt individually with the telephone company, leading to Texas being one of the top profit-making states for the American Telephone and Telegraph Co.

It is debatable whether Texas ratepayers have noticed much difference, however, because the commission continues to approve telephone rate hikes, the most recent one for $137 million, just $9 million less than Southwestern Bell requested.

They're (Bell) the master of the mechanics (of obtaining rate hikes). Throughout the country they've majored in living comfortably with regulation boards," Maloney said. "We're disappointed (with the commission), but obviously it's an improvement."

Maloney admits he may not make any money for his legal services because appeals courts overruled both jury awards, but said he would take the case again in similar circumstances.

"It's been a costly experience, but one I would relive again," the attorney said. "It's a difficult thing being against the largest corporation in the world which has endless resources."

The allegations began flying after Oct. 17, 1974, when Gravitt, handsome silver-haired Texas vice president of the company and former president of the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce, closed his garage door in Dallas, started his car and died of carbon monoxide poisoning.

Two weeks later his friend, Ashley, was fired from his $60,000 a year job as commercial manager in San Antonio. Then on Nov. 15, 1974, the $29 million libel and slander suit was filed, alleging the two officials were being harassed because they opposed widespread wrongdoing in Southwestern Bell.

The Telephone Company And Some Of Its Executives Were Accused Of Maintaining Illegal Political Slushfunds And Making Illegal Campaign Contributions, Tapping Telephones, Pressuring Female Employees Into Sexual Relationships, Engaging In Underhanded Rate Practices And Wining And Dining — And Providing Women For — The Politicians Who Set The Rates...

The suit portrayed Southwestern Bell executives as "super high livers" engaging in rampant promiscuity and keeping a double set of books to obtain unjustified rate increases in Texas. The suit charged Bell investigators hounded Gravitt to commit suicide and caused Ashley's firing.

C.L. Todd, local Bell chief, counter-charged that if there was any wrongdoing, Ashley and Gravitt were behind it.

"Many of the charges he (Ashley) has leveled against the company are the very ones for which he was dismissed," Todd said at the time.

Todd recently preferred to let Gilliam do the talking after claiming numerous times the appeals courts had upheld his original position.

Bell's battery of attorneys countered the allegations in court by calling 15 women who told of alleged sexual harassment and sexual encounters, on desk tops and in motel rooms, with the two former executives. They also presented evidence of false vouchering by the two men and an alleged conflict of interest by Ashley in a printing firm which did business with Southwestern Bell.

But Maloney also presented some damaging testimony, such as Bill Holman, Austin division manager for Bell, saying he had prepared false vouchers for years to cover up political contributions of corporate funds to back up Ashley's contention that such practices were "a way of life" in the giant utility.

And Ward Wilkinson, Bell's assistant vice president for public affairs, said in a sworn statement he received $1,200 to $1,500 a month from Bell executives in Houston, Dallas and San Antonio to use for lobbying at the state capitol.

Hank Hudson, general marketing manager for the San Antonio area, said he collected $50 a month from nine other company officials for a "public affairs fund" when he was general staff manager.

Although Hudson maintained the Bell officials made the donations voluntarily, Ashley testified raises were granted with the understanding the money, less taxes, would go to a political slush fund.

Ashley, contacted at a successful real estate firm he has established at nearby Blanco, Texas, hints he is ready for the long confrontation with his former employer to be over, regardless of the Supreme Court's ruling.

"We've been very fortunate," he said. "People have been very helpful. In the real estate business, we're doing something we enjoy a lot. We're making a living and living in a place we enjoy."

"As far as I'm concerned, I'm completely happy with my new life. I feel they're (Bell) leaving me alone and I'm pretty well leaving them alone. If you're going to make a living, you've got to devote all your energies to it."

Dallas County Deputy Accused Of Abuse

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas County deputy sheriff has been accused of burning a prisoner's chest, hips, arms and genitals by hosing him down with scalding water.

Dale Pallett, 31, was arraigned Friday on a charge of abusing an inmate, a second-degree felony. He was released from jail on $50,000 bond. He also was fired from his deputy position.

The injured man, 33-year-old Curtis Washington, was hospitalized in fair condition with second-degree burns over 14 percent of his body.

Washington, a pre-trial detainee charged with burglary of an auto, had been confined in the Dallas County Jail's "behavioral observation area," for those with suspected emotional problems.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By BILL DOYLE

Q. My grandmother has $50,000 in six-month savings certificates. The interest from the certificates and her social security are more than adequate to meet the budget we have worked out for her. But we wonder what she should do when the certificates mature. She is only 66.

A. I understand that the interest on six-month certificates issued in future months and years may not be as high as those rates are now. I have also been told that the interest on long-term investment is about as high as it ever will be, right now.

A friend suggests that my grandmother put her money into a long-term deal. But how will we know the right time for her to make this move out of six-month certificates. What kind of long-term investments would you advise?

A. Your friend's suggestion is a good one. As I put this through the typewriter, many high-quality corporate bonds are selling at prices where the interest they pay produces yields of 12 percent or higher. That's even more than she's getting on her savings certificates.

By buying such bonds, your grandmother can "lock in" the yield — meaning that she will continue to receive the high interest until the bonds mature or are called for early redemption. She will be protected, when interest rates in general fall — as they eventually will.

When will be the absolutely right time for your grandmother and others to move out of short-term and into long-term interest-paying investments?

Anyone who could come up with a sure answer to that wouldn't have to work for a living. Big bucks are made and lost "playing the money market."

I do feel, however, over the long haul, your grandmother will come out ahead by going into long-term investments as soon as her present six-month certificates come due. She may miss the peak of the interest rate cycle — but not by much.

My advice is to take her to a brokerage house or bank and make plans to put her money into quality — AAA, AA or A-rated — corporate bonds.

And I can't let your letter — condensed for use here — go by without some words of praise for the concern you show. Would that all grandparents were so well looked after.

Q. An older person wants to live on the income from investment but does not want it tied up to the degree that it would be difficult for the investment to be divided among heirs. What do you suggest?

A. Any "marketable securities" — bonds, stocks or mutual fund shares — would do the job. They are easily sold, with the proceeds distributed to heirs. Or, except when small numbers are involved, the certificates can be reassigned to heirs.

An older person's first concern, how- ever, should be getting income from his or her investment — not worrying about how the heirs will get what he or she leaves.

Q. I asked my bank to give me the booklet listing what each of my Series E, U.S. Savings Bonds, is presently worth. I was told that the booklet is not given out and is for the bank's use, only for cashing the bonds.

Where should I write in Washington to get that booklet?

A. You can get the semiannual publication "Tables of Redemption Values for U.S. Savings Bonds" from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402. The price is $1.30 for a single copy; $5 for a two-year subscription.

There is, however, an easier way to get the information you want. Write to the Bureau of the Public Debt, 200 Third Street, Parkersburg, W. Va. 26101. Ask for "Tables of Redemption Values of $25 Series E Savings Bonds." It's free.

If you have $50 bonds, multiply the numbers by two; $100 bonds, multiply by three, etc.

Doyle welcomes written questions, but he will be able to provide answers only through the column.

Student In Critical Condition After Shooting Incident In City

A 16-year-old Lubbock High School student was in critical condition Sunday at Health Sciences Center Hospital with a bullet wound he suffered Sunday morning in the 1800-block of Sixth Street.

One of the boy's friends told police that he, the victim, and several other youths were riding around when they stopped and walked onto the porch of a friend's home.

Reports indicate that the victim and another youth were standing on the porch, when they heard a shot and then jumped into the house. The victim reportedly told his friend that he had been hit in the stomach by a bullet.

Police said that while the victim's friends were attempting to drive him to the hospital, the driver apparently lost control of his pickup truck in the 2600-block of Sixth Street. Texas Tech police, who arrived at the scene of the accident transported the gunshot victim to Health Sciences Center Hospital.

One of the victim's friends told police that when he heard the shot, he turned and saw a black over green Ford Gran Torino traveling north on Avenue S.

Police late Sunday had the names of two suspects in connection with the shooting.

A 26-year-old Slaton man was in satisfactory condition Sunday at Health Sciences Center Hospital with a stab wound to the chest he sustained at an East Fourth Street club about 12:50 a.m. Sunday.

Raymond Torres told police that a man had approached him and stabbed him once for no apparent reason. The victim said that he knew the man and believed the stabbing was related to a fight in Slaton between himself and the suspect's wife.

The suspect was described as a Mexi-

Solon Concerned, Wants Explanation About Rights Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Jim Collins, saying he was concerned about the friends lost internationally as a result of the Carter administration's human rights policy, asked the State Department for an explanation.

The conservative Dallas Republican appeared before the House Foreign Affairs Committee to ask how the U.S. government decides that a foreign government is violating human rights.

"We've never had another country in the world come in and tell us (about human rights violations here)," Collins said Wednesday. "How do we determine whose people are too severe?"

Patricia Derian, assistant secretary of state for humanitarian affairs, replied that the U.S. was acting in concert with other nations, mostly western democracies, in responding to violations.

"It is not based on Washington's ideas of how other people ought to behave," she said. "We don't believe these are unique western values."

Noted Historian Ernest Dodge Dies

SALEM, Mass. (AP) — Ernest S. Dodge, noted authority on 18th century explorer Capt. James Cook and director of the Peabody Museum, is dead at age 66.

Dodge was the author of eight books on the early history of the Pacific Ocean and was considered a world expert on ethnological material collected by Cook of whom he wrote: "Capt. Cook discovered more islands, surveyed more coasts, charted more waters, and cleared up more geographical nonsense than any single man before or since."

Dodge died Saturday at his home after a long illness.

Dodge joined the Peabody Museum in 1931, rather than attend college, and was its director for 30 years. The museum was founded by Salem merchants and mariners in 1799.

Goo Records Must In Figuring Home-Sale Tax

(11th in a Series)
By RAY DeCRANE
If you sold your home at a profit in 1979, you could have any one of these three results: an immediate tax on the gain, a deferred tax, or a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to receive as much as $100,000 in profit without paying a penny in income tax.

The route you take depends upon your age at the time of the sale and what you did with the proceeds of the sale. The age borderline is 55. The tax consequences of the sale of a home by a taxpayer 55 or older will be treated in tomorrow's installment. Today's discussion concerns a home sale by one under 55.

At no time in good record-keeping more important than at the time of a sale of a personal residence. For you are not comparing the original purchase price of the home with the selling price in determining the amount of gain; rather, it is

STRONG BUSINESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — While the Washington branch of Dallas-based Neiman-Marcus has reported strong business since its opening several years ago, the Mazza Gallerie, the shopping center that houses it, has had plenty of room for more occupants. That may change with the recent announcement that the New York-based toy store F.A.O. Schwarz and three other nationally known merchants are opening branches there.

the total investment in the home that is important — and that means what you paid for it plus all the major improvements you put into it.

This includes such things as the new roof, the added insulation, that new furnace, the hot water heater, whole-house air conditioning, the extra bath, the finished recreation room, and the patio that was added on. Lucky is the person who has retained the receipts and bills and the canceled checks to support the cost of the improvements.

Let's assume you sold your home for $68,000 while incurring these expenses: $4,760 realtor's commission, $412 in escrow fees and one and one-half points charged you by the financial institution for arranging a mortgage loan for your purchaser. You bought the home for $25,000 15 years ago, and during the period of ownership you added an extra bath ($4,850), patio ($3,000) and storm doors and windows ($1,200). You buy a replacement home for $75,000 and occupy it within 18 months of the sale of the first home. Here is the tax consequence:

Selling Price	$68,000
Less expenses:
(4,760 + 412 + 6,000)	11,172
Adjusted price	$56,828
Cost price	$25,000
Improvements 9,050

Investment in home $34,050
Gain $22,778

Since the purchase price of the replacement home ($75,000) is more than the adjusted sales price of the first home ($56,828), there is no immediate tax on the $22,778 profit. But now an adjustment must be made on the cost price of the second home. That $75,000 must be reduced by the deferred gain of $22,778, to produce an adjusted basis of $52,222. When the home is sold for more than that amount there will be a gain.

Of course, you can keep moving up to ever more costly homes, thereby avoiding the inevitable tax to be paid.

So much for the deferral of gain where a more expensive replacement home is purchased. What happens when you make a profit and then buy a less expensive home? Let's assume in the above example that the replacement home cost $50,000, instead of $75,000. Here is the way it would work out:

The taxable gain is the lesser of the actual gain, or the difference of the adjusted selling price and the purchase price. And then, deferred gain causes an adjustment in the cost basis of the second home. This is how part of the gain is taxable now, the rest is deferred:

Adjusted sales price	$56,828
Replacement home	50,000
Difference	$6,828
Actual gain	$22,778
Taxable gain	$6,828
Deferred gain	$15,950
Replacement home	$50,000
Deferred gain	15,950
Adjusted basis	$34,050

Draft Matter Predicted To Be Settled In Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — While Congress seems cool toward registering women for the draft, legal scholars say no matter what happens on Capitol Hill, the courts most likely will have the final say on whether women join men in registration lines.

And in the courts, those advocating the registration of women as well as men, including President Carter and his advisers, are expected to carry the upper hand, say many legal experts.

"Whichever way it goes (in Congress), there will be a suit filed," says Thomas Emerson, a professor of constitutional law at Yale University. "There's no way that the courts can avoid it."

The American Civil Liberties Union already has said it will challenge any attempt to register only men. The day that the president signs (male only registration), we will be in court," vowed David Landau, a staff attorney in the ACLU's Washington office.

Phyllis Schlafly, a leading opponent of the Equal Rights Amendment and harsh critic of women's registration, said she will focus her efforts on Congress, which must approve such registration.

"There's no way Congress will register women," she insisted in an interview. But if unsuccessful in Capitol Hill, she does not rule out some court action, although the basis of such a suit on constitutional grounds is not clear.

After Carter announced Friday that he wants to register both men and women 18 and 19 years of age, White House officials said a major factor in the decision was the prospect of court challenges if women were excluded.

If the president had decided to register only men, said Sarah Weddington, a lawyer and presidential adviser on women's issues, "there was a feeling that a lawsuit (against Carter) would be successful" in light of a number of recent Supreme Court rulings on women's equality.

Carter said in a statement his decision to include women "is a recognition of the reality that both men and women are working members of our society. There is no distinction possible, on the basis of ability or performance."

A number of experts on constitutional law agree.

They note that when the all-male draft was in effect, various court challenges were rebuffed on the grounds that military necessity and national defense outweighed consideration of sexual equality.

But "the whole court position on differentiation of men and women has changed. The court now is looking much more carefully at discrimination," said Emerson. He added that it also has become clear "that women in the modern army are capable of doing many kinds of jobs that men do."

Andrew Kaufman of Harvard Law School said the courts in recent years have required that there be "substantial justification" for discrimination — a much stricter view than the "reasonableness" standard which prevailed when the last draft cases were heard.

No Frenetic Pace Seen At White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — If President Carter is trying to knock Sen. Edward M. Kennedy out of the presidential race this month, there was little sign of it at the White House.

Staff members from several offices were taking time off to campaign, first in Maine this weekend for Sunday's Democratic Party town caucuses and then in New Hampshire for the Feb. 26 primary election.

But with the president spending his usual weekend at Camp David, there was little indication of a frenetic pace to keep up with any backlog of work created by a flow of staff members to the North.

"Of course, if someone is not here, someone has to do their work," said one domestic policy official at the White House. But she said the workload, as a result of campaign departures, had not been overwhelming.

White House press secretary Jody Powell, asked about a report that staff members left behind were grumbling about the workload dropped on them by the part-time politicians, said Friday with a grin, "I think we're getting along reasonably well."

Powell said he did not know how many White House staff members were working part time on the campaign. But just before the Iowa precinct caucuses that Carter won Jan. 21, Powell disclosed that about 35 White House and other administration employees were working in that state.

Under federal laws, any staff members who participate in the campaign must do so on vacation time or on unpaid leave.

Some mid-level White House employees have been working on the campaign in Maine for more than a week.

Among those has been Mike Pohl, whose duties in Washington as a member of the "press advance" staff include making arrangements for reporters accompanying Carter on campaign trips. With the president remaining off the campaign trail during the Iranian crisis, Pohl's work has been limited.

The campaign roster also includes an assistant press secretary, Dale Leibach; Michael H. Chanin, deputy to White House political assistant Anne Wexler; several members of the congressional liaison staff, and David M. Rubenstein, deputy to domestic policy chief Stuart Eizenstat.

Rubenstein spent Friday giving speeches on Carter's record, addressing, among others, an environmental group. Of the more than 30 members of the domestic policy staff, only four are eligible to take such campaign time from their jobs. Rubenstein is the only one of the four working in Maine.

One volunteer in the Carter headquarters in Maine who left a non-government job in Washington in the middle of last week for several days of campaign work said of his colleagues with White House jobs:

"There's not enough of them up here. We could use more help. I'm in a madhouse."

Among the reinforcements planned for Sunday was Powell, coming in at the last moment, as he did in Iowa, to handle press matters on the day of the caucuses.

Asked how members of the congressional liaison staff could take vacation time now, with key issues pending before the House and Senate, rather than during a congressional recess, Powell said they did not anticipate missing any action on major issues.

Besides, said Powell, "folks take time off for vacations."

In this case, he said, they are taking their vacations in Maine, in February, rather than, say, in Hawaii.

Then, referring to the popularity of the eastern edge of Long Island, N.Y., in the summer among members of the Washington establishment, the press secretary said:

"We have to make sure we have a large number of people here in August when all the movers and shakers go to the Hamptons."

Five Die In Train-Car Wreck In Italy

POLLENA, Italy (AP) — A train slammed into a passenger car at a railroad crossing near this town north of Naples on Sunday, killing five persons and injuring two others, police reported.

All seven — six of them members of one family — were driving to a mountain resort for a day of picnicking, police said.

Police said the car was smashed into pieces and five passengers were killed instantly.

The two survivors were rushed to a nearby hospital.

Authorities said their preliminary checks showed that a rail traffic technician permanently posted at the intersection had failed to shut the crossing gates at an appointed time.

Police were searching for the technician, 55-year-old Concetta Pignatello, who reportedly fled shortly after the incident.

The guard post was set up after two passenger trains collided near the intersection last July, killing 15 persons and leaving 80 injured.

The Welland Canal was officially opened in 1932.

Your Personal Biorhythms

by Bernard Gittelson

Figure your numbers here — For your own permanent biorhythm number for the Physical (P), Emotional (E), and Intellectual (I) cycles, just follow these steps:

STEP 1	YEAR OF BIRTH	P	E	I
STEP 2	A-B MONTH OF BIRTH
STEP 3	DAY OF BIRTH
TOTALS

YOUR PERMANENT NUMBERS

Step 1 — Year of birth. Read down the left hand column to find the last number in the year of your birth then go across to the appropriate decade. For instance, if you were born in 1947, your number for Physical would be 21, Emotional 17, Intellectual 19. Note whether your numbers are preceded by an A or B; this will be used for Step 2.

1910-19	1920-29	1930-39	1940-49	1950-59	1960-69	1970-79

Step 2 — Month of birth. Find the corresponding numbers for the month you were born. If your month is February, and your year numbers were preceded by a B, your month numbers would be 8 for Physical, 3 for Emotional and 31 for Intellectual. Enter your own numbers in the figure chart for Step 2.

Step 3 — Day of birth. Enter your day of birth three times in the figure chart, once each for Physical (P), Emotional (E) and Intellectual (I).

Add the three columns to derive your permanent biorhythm numbers for your Physical, Emotional and Intellectual cycles. Now you can refer to today's biorhythm readings.

Home Heating Oil Plan Near Completion

BOSTON (UPI) — Joseph P. Kennedy III's plan to make 8.5 million gallons of heating oil available to poor people in Massachusetts for as little as 70 cents per gallon seems one signature away from approval.

Kennedy, oldest son of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, formed the non-profit Citizens Energy Corp. to purchase Venezuelan crude for delivery to terminals in Boston for 45 cents a gallon. Independent oil dealers would add 14 cents a gallon for delivery and another 10 cents would be added for processing.

William Cox, regional head of the federal Community Services Administration, sent the plan — drawn up by the Office of Energy Resources and the Office of Communities and Development — to CSA headquarters in Washington last week for final clearance.

Peggy St. Clair, who is coordinating the plan for Energy Resources, said Washington's decision was expected early this week.

When and if CSA approves it, Energy Resources spokesman Larry Carpan said the oil would be available for delivery in the state within a week.

Although bureaucratic wheels have spun rapidly since Kennedy announced Jan. 26 he had reached agreement to purchase crude oil from Venezuela, some of the machinery has clunked in the process.

As a result, about one-third of the state's 24 Community Action Program agencies have refused to participate in the program. It calls for them to locate oil dealers in their areas to distribute the oil, and process the paperwork to get the oil to low income families who qualify for the $400 emergency fuel assistance grant.

Joanne Duhl of North Shore Community Action Program described the process as a "bureaucratic nightmare," and said her agency would not participate.

The Office of Communities and Development wants the CAPs, for accounting purposes, to charge the existing market rate for the oil.

She said this flies in the face of Kennedy's goal in providing the oil in the first place — it was supposed to be at a lower than market cost so poor people could get it at a cheaper price.

The poor who qualify for the oil would acquire it through a voucher, and would have the amount of so-called Kennedy oil they obtain deducted from the $400 fuel assistance grant available to most low income households.

The statewide average price for heating oil jumped to 96.9 cents a gallon last week, with $1.02 a gallon prices being recorded in the Berkshires.

The Venezuelan crude purchased by Kennedy's non-profit Citizen's Energy Corp., with a 30-day credit line extended by Petroven, the country's national oil company, is being refined at Commonwealth Oil Refining Co. in Puerto Rico.

Benjamin Franklin's "Poor Richard's Almanac" was published in 1732.

Afghan Guerrillas Recapture Towns

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — Moslem rebels recaptured two towns in Badakhshan province in northeast Afghanistan on Sunday and laid siege to the capital city of Faizabad in bitter fighting with Soviet troops, a Pakistani newspaper reported.

The daily newspaper Jang said the rebels seized the towns of Tashkan Arbo and Bagh in the Kasha district of Badakhshan, and that fighting continued in nearby Zebak. It said they seized arms, ammunition and food from the fleeing Soviet troops.

In Moscow, the Communist Party newspaper Pravda charged that the United States — with the backing of Pakistan and China — is striving to step up offensive operations by the Afghan guerrillas. The Soviet news media made no direct mention of Western reports that in coming weeks Moscow may withdraw some of the estimated 90,000 Russian troops now in Afghanistan.

Cosmetic Change Seen

U.S. officials have said they expect the Soviets will make only a "cosmetic" withdrawal in an attempt to defuse Western opposition to the intervention.

A Pravda commentary repeated the Kremlin's previously stated position that if outside "interference" in Afghanistan ceases, "the limited Soviet military contingent... will return home."

But Pravda indicated that Moscow does not foresee any significant reduction in rebel fighting against the Marxist government in Kabul.

"Facts go to show that they in Washington do not want to part with their designs," Pravda said.

"Zbigniew Brzezinski's trip to Pakistan, his talks with Pakistani authorities and backstage collusion with Peking, all this clearly shows that they intend, despite everything, to broaden their thrust into Afghanistan," wrote commentator Yuri Zhukov.

There was no immediate comment from Washington.

Brzezinski, President Carter's top national security adviser, visited Pakistan recently to discuss increased U.S. military and economic aid and to inspect the Pakistani-Afghan frontier, where thousands of Afghan refugees have fled since the rebel fighting began 31 months ago against a succession of pro-Moscow governments.

Officials Subpoenaed In Louisiana Probe

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — More than a dozen Louisiana state officials, including the governor, lieutenant governor and treasurer, have been subpoenaed to appear before a federal grand jury this week in an investigation of insurance kickbacks.

Not all of those subpoenaed are believed to be targets of the investigation.

Another person named in the investigation is reputed south Louisiana racketeer boss Carlos Marcello, who was reported to have demonstrated he had the muscle to influence group insurance purchases.

Federal sources have said Lt. Gov. (Sting Victim Clayton Plans 1981 Race, Page 14, Sec. C)

Jimmy Fitzmorris and Public Service Commission Chairman Louis Lambert, who ran unsuccessfully for governor last fall, allegedly accepted $10,000 payments each from undercover FBI agents.

Fitzmorris emphatically denied it Saturday.

refused comment on the investigation.

FBI agents used the Travel Inn, a suburban Metairie motel with a view of Marcello's offices, for surveillance — "both videotape and electronic bugging" — in the investigation, WVL-TV reported.

The two rooms — No. 6 and No. 10 — had been rented since August and were paid up through Feb. 12, WVL said. Motel employees said they were occupied by four or five men who kept to themselves. The men were in the rooms Friday, but left before Saturday afternoon.

The names used on the registration forms were Hardy and Hartley, WVL said.

Lambert, who remained unavailable Sunday, said earlier that he was "somewhat puzzled" about the reports and that he did not believe he had taken bribes. He said he would have to review his campaign records.

Lambert's attorney, Vincent Sotile, Sunday said Lambert felt he had done nothing wrong and wanted the full story to come out. "Louis' position is this: If they're going to leak part of the information, play the tapes, Louis says he'd love to have them play them all," Sotile told UPI. "Let everybody hear everything that was said. He says he has nothing to hide. He has nothing to hide. He did nothing wrong."

The Washington Post Sunday reported the FBI was investigating allegations against Mario Noto, the former No. 2 man in the Immigration and Naturalization Service. The Post said Noto was believed to have interceded in behalf of Marcello, who has been fighting deportation for 30 years.

At a news conference Saturday, Fitzmorris refused to answer questions on the advice of his attorney, Jack Martzell, because of the seriousness of the case.

Only Friday — the day the scandal broke — Fitzmorris was appointed to a post in the administration of incoming Gov. Dave Treen as "personal representative of the governor" and a business development specialist.

In a state where political corruption is commonplace, and many public officials have been indicted or convicted at least once, Fitzmorris has been widely regarded as one of the cleanest politicians.

Treen said he "obviously" believes Fitzmorris is "a man of honesty and integrity." And some of the lieutenant governor's political supporters said they could not believe the allegations.

It's like hearing that Santa Claus is a peeping Tom," said Auralie Lacoste.

It's just not true, Jimmy wouldn't do that."

And Aaron Mendel, another Fitzmorris supporter, asked, "Why do you newspaper do that? Why make a good man like Jimmy out to be a crook? That man can't be dishonest."

'Rudeness Cited

The Pravda commentary added: "It is not fortuitous that now they are talking loudly in Washington about bringing together the (rebel) gangs smuggled into Afghanistan and turning them into some sort of army."

Zhukov said the United States has been exerting pressure with "unceremonious rudeness" on its North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies in an attempt to gain support for countermeasures against Moscow.

"As for the Soviet Union, it retains its usual self-control, watching the development of events and leaving open the door to a return of common sense" in U.S. policy, he wrote.

Meanwhile, the Soviet military newspaper Krasnaya Zvezda said Washington was whipping up a "dirty slander campaign" about an alleged use of chemical weapons by Soviet forces in Afghanistan.

'Rabid Slanders'

"Representatives of the U.S. administration have not hesitated to help rabid slanderers and liars by stressing that (intelligence) information at their disposal causes 'serious concern,'" it said.

Krasnaya Zvezda said Washington was trying to "play the role of a prosecutor" by offering to undertake a full-scale investigation into the alleged chemical attacks against the rebels.

"The question arises: Who gave the U.S. administration the right and powers to 'investigate' any actions of the Soviet Union?" the commentary said. "No one has given it such rights and no one has authorized it to carry out an 'investigation'."

The Soviet Union began pouring troops into its southern neighbor last Christmas. Hafizullah Amin, the president, was ousted in a bloody coup Dec. 27 and later executed. He was replaced by Afghanistan's current strongman, Babrak Karmal.

The Soviets apparently made the move because of Amin's inability to quash the rebels, who claimed to control much of the mountainous countryside.

Vance Criticized

Also Sunday, the Soviet news agency Tass called Secretary of State Cyrus Vance's appeal for action against the Moscow summer Olympics "crude political interference" in the affairs of the International Olympic Committee.

Vance's speech Saturday to IOC officials in Lake Placid, N.Y., site of the upcoming winter games, was "unprecedented in the history" of the IOC, Tass wrote from Lake Placid.

President Carter has urged the games be moved from Moscow or cancelled unless the Soviets withdraw from Afghanistan by Feb. 20, and Vance told the IOC officials the United States "will oppose the participation of an American team in any Olympic Games in the capital of an invading nation."

Supporters, Polls Say Bush Making Campaign Strides

WASHINGTON (AP) — There is rapidly mounting evidence that the Iowa caucuses have turned around the presidential campaign of Republican George Bush just as they did for Democrat Jimmy Carter four years ago.

"It's no longer 'George Who?'" chortled Bush campaign chairman Jim Baker.

Before Bush beat frontrunner Ronald Reagan in Iowa last month, he had never ranked better than 5 percent in the major national polls. Now he is running dead even with Reagan in those polls.

Other polls show Bush leading in New Hampshire, Massachusetts and Florida, key early primary states.

Contributions Leapfrog

Before Iowa, Bush was taking in about $35,000 a day in campaign contributions. One day last week he got $165,000.

In a four-day period right after Iowa, the Bush headquarters in Massachusetts got 1,000 cards filled out by people volunteering to work in his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination.

His national headquarters in suburban Alexandria, Va., is so overcrowded that volunteers are being turned away, or put on hold, for lack of space.

All Phones Ringing

"Our phones have been ringing off the hook since Iowa," said press secretary Pete Teeley. "Frequently it's difficult for people to get through because they're busy."

"I'm sitting here now looking at nothing but lit up lines," Baker said. "We're getting a new telephone system in here."

Bush also is getting a new campaign airplane — a 727 with seats for 100 or more, compared to the 24-seat Fairchild F-27 he has been using.

Baker says a gradual turnaround actually began late last year when Bush ran a strong third in a straw vote at the Florida GOP convention and then won one in Maine.

But it was mainly Iowa that turned the almost-unknown into a contender, as it had four years ago for Carter, who was a little-known former Georgia governor before a plurality in a crowded Democratic field launched him to the presidency.

In a non-binding vote taken at the

Jan. 26 Republican caucuses in Iowa, Bush led the field with 31.5 percent of the vote. Reagan, the generally acknowledged frontrunner for the nomination, came in second with 29.4 percent.

The next day, Bush's fundraisers dropped 1.7 million letters into the mail, urging undecided Republicans and switchers to fall in behind the "new frontrunner."

"It's beginning to pay off," Baker said last week. "Over the course of the past week we've generated a number of days in excess of $125,000 in receipts. Those are very big days. Tuesday we pulled in $165,000."

"That's about as good an indication of momentum as I know," Baker said.

"Our budget in December was $185,000 on the income side, because it was Christmas and a bad time to raise money. We took in $850,000," Baker said. "In January we had a budget of $600,000, and we took in $1 million. This month there's no telling what we're going to do."

New Workers Added

In January, before the Iowa vote, receipts averaged $35,206 a day. For the rest of the month, the average daily take was $79,346. The campaign treasurer's office has had to hire four new hands just to cope with the legal reporting requirements of the new contributions.

From the dozen staffers who first opened the national headquarters last spring, the Bush force has swelled to about 270 paid employees and thousands of volunteers.

Quarters on the third floor of a red brick imitation Georgian office building have spilled over through most of two more floors while volunteers sometimes literally stand in the street waiting to apply.

Before Iowa, the volunteer corps at headquarters numbered 350. Since then, almost twice that number have tried to sign on.

"The night after the Iowa victory, between 6:30 and 7:00 in the evening when people are going home from work, I had 14 walk in off the street after they heard the news," said Judy McClennon, who heads the volunteer operation.

Strike Ends With Accord In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Members of the striking Chicago Teachers Union voted Sunday to approve a compromise agreement that would save teacher jobs and cleared the way for classes to resume in the nation's third-largest school district.

Officials said schools would be open Monday.

Earlier, union leaders voted to accept the agreement with the city school district.

Public school teachers have been off the job for two weeks, affecting classes for 473,000 students.

About 5,000 teachers who attended a rally Sunday afternoon at the International Amphitheatre heard Robert Healey, Chicago Teachers Union president, recommend that teachers return to classrooms Monday.

The teachers voted 4,645-213 to approve the agreement, Healey said.

The agreement would restore 300 teaching jobs and 200 teacher aide jobs scheduled to be eliminated to save money.

The CTU Executive Board unanimously endorsed the tentative settlement before the general membership meeting, and the CTU's House of Delegates then voted 607-2 to support ratification of the pact.

A weary Mayor Jane Byrne emerged from all-night talks earlier in the day and expressed hope the teachers would ratify the compromise, which was worked out in marathon talks by union and school district representatives.

Mrs. Byrne, who has been working to find a way to bail out the financially strangled school system, declined comment on the agreement until the ratification vote by teachers.

Healey said of the proposed pact: "The whole team recommended it... we're satisfied that it's fair."

The teachers had refused to work for one week until they received paychecks, and the work stoppage escalated into a strike last week even though they were paid.

Teachers decided on the strike because they feared other budget-cutting measures being considered by the Board of Education — phasing out teaching jobs and cutting the school year to save money.

"We built up this contract over 12 years, and we're not going to let them chip away at it now," one union member had said.

The board had been caught between teachers demands and the reality of the district's financial crisis. It had been ordered to slash its annual budget by $60 million as part of a financial restructuring plan agreed upon by school, government, and business leaders last month in Springfield.

As part of cost cutting moves, the board had planned to cut 638 teaching positions and 200 teachers' aides jobs. The compromise agreement called for 300 teaching jobs and all 200 aide positions to be restored.

At no time in my career of some 30 years of public life have I ever accepted money in return for favoritism or awarding of a contract," Fitzmorris said.

The agents posed as representatives of the Prudential Insurance Co. and made the payments in exchange for assistance in the sale of big insurance contracts, the sources said.

Gov. Edwin Edwards, who was out of state and unavailable for comment, was subpoenaed to appear before a grand jury in New Orleans Tuesday.

Others subpoenaed during the week included Fitzmorris, Lt. Governor-elect Bobby Freeman, a state representative, state Sens. Edgar "Sonny" Mouton and Ted Hickey, state Rep. Harry Hollins, state employee group insurance program director James D. McElveen, and members of the board of trustees of the insurance program.

McElveen was ordered to bring records of the insurance program.

by the candidates in approximate proportion to their shares of the delegates chosen Sunday.

The turnout was nearly five times over that of past campaigns, when Democrats caucused over a five-week span instead of registering their choices all on the same day.

It was Carter's second win over Kennedy in as many contests. He beat the senator in Iowa's Democratic caucuses on Jan. 21 by a 2-1 margin.

While Brown trailed far behind Carter and Kennedy, his Maine showing was a sharp improvement over that in Iowa, where he conceded in advance by asking his supporters to vote uncommitted.

Brown declared in Boston that Maine is the first place where my campaign has really begun to take off.

Tracy Gallagher, New England coordinator for the Carter campaign, said the area is a difficult one for the president because it is Kennedy's region. "We've demonstrated tonight that we're going to do well in New England," he said.

New Hampshire looks next in a presidential primary two weeks from Tuesday. Massachusetts and Vermont follow, one week later.

Powell, calling the victory important, said Kennedy was able to pour organizational manpower into Maine. "He's sort of had the field to himself with the president locked up in the White House," the press secretary said.

Kennedy protests that at every campaign stop, demanding that the president come out and debate.

The spokesman was also asked if the militants would welcome increased Soviet influence in Iran.

A $300 reward is also offered for information leading to the arrest of Willie Calvin Thomas, 28, who is charged with forgery. He is described as black, 6 feet 2, weighing 182 pounds, with black hair, brown eyes and a heart tattoo on his right arm.

A $300 reward is offered in the Feb. 1 burglary of the Best Products warehouse, 5001 50th St., in which several pieces of gold jewelry were taken.

Police were called to the warehouse at 2:48 a.m. when a burglar alarm sounded. The burglar or burglars had removed a door to gain entry. The alarm system wiring had been removed from its box and was hanging loose, police said.

In a telephone interview with UPI in London, a spokesman for the Moslem militants holding the U.S. Embassy was asked if they would release the 50 hostages if so ordered by the ruling Revolutionary Council.

"Yes, we will do that," the spokesman replied, adding that the militants were in daily contact with Khomeini and "we think Ayatollah Khomeini will not say this, because we are working in the line of him."

armed men took Cochran into custody and escorted him to the airport to await a flight out of the country.

CBS said Ostrander was held for several hours and ut aboard a flight to London.

In the fighting in Gonbad-e-Kavus, 27 miles southeast of the Soviet border near the Caspian Sea, leftist rebels marched on a telecommunications center and clashed with revolutionary guards.

The radio identified the attackers as followers of the leftist People's Fedayeen Party, opposed to Khomeini's Islamic regime.

Details of the fighting were scanty, but the Iranian newspaper Al Jomhouriah Al Islamiyah said 22 people were killed, and Tehran Radio reported 101 others wounded, in the clashes.

"The newspaper said the town became 'completely non-functioning amid the bomb explosions and the artillery sounds.'"

All stores, offices and schools were closed because of the fighting and the town's security council appealed for a ceasefire.

Baker Wants Panel To Study 'Arab Scam'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Republican leader Howard Baker, saying Congress cannot "sit back and wait for justice to take its course," called Sunday for creation of a special panel to look into the "Arab scam" bribery scandal.

The allegations that lawmakers took bribes from undercover FBI agents are "as bad as anything that's been alleged against Congress since Teapot Dome," Baker said.

"There is a real danger Congress may lose the (public) esteem and respect it has left," he said on ABC's "Issues and Answers."

The Tennessee Republican called for the creation of select committees in both the House and Senate, or a special joint commission, to look into the charges.

He compared the panel's role to that of the Senate Watergate committee, on which he served.

The congressional inquiry should consider the validity of the charges, Baker said, and also address "the fundamental question — are we trying people on television?"

Reports of the "Arab scam" investigation were leaked to the press as the eight congressmen implicated in the bribery scheme were being told they were under investigation.

The "scam" involved FBI Agents posing as representatives of a wealthy Arab who offered thousands of dollars to lawmakers in return for legislative favors.

No charges have yet been filed against anyone, and there have been allegations that the congressmen were entrapped.

"I do not believe the Congress can sit back and wait for 'justice' to take its course," said Baker. "I don't think the public will sit still long enough."

On CBS' "Face the Nation" program, meantime, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said any congressman who accepted bribes should be "kicked out of Congress promptly."

But he added he was "troubled and disturbed" by tactics used in the FBI "sting" operation which implicated one senator and seven House members.

"I do think these people who have been accused have been outrageously and unfairly treated," he said.

Sen. Harrison Williams, one of those implicated, has a long record of honesty, he said, and now he has been "seriously hurt, maybe even ruined with no opportunity to respond."

Senate Democratic leader Robert Byrd called the leaks "reprehensible."

"But the important thing here is that the criminals be punished and the innocent go free," he added in an interview on NBC's "Meet the Press."

He said he felt Congress should go ahead with its own investigations if they do not interfere with the Justice Department investigations.

Connally Struggling To Stay In Race For GOP Nomination

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The recent news that John Connally, awash in campaign contributions, had to take a loan to buy television time did not in itself signify a serious problem in his presidential campaign.

Neither did the departure of two top aides and the reassignment of a third. Nor did his failure to win a single delegate in Arkansas a week ago.

But, taken together, the episodes point to Connally as the first likely casualty in what is now a four-man race for the GOP presidential nomination.

With less than a month to go before what is expected to be a free-for-all in the March 8 South Carolina primary, Connally is struggling, in the face of President Carter's effective use of the incumbency, to maintain his "leadership" theme and image as a tough foreign political innovator.

More important, his long planned strategy of isolating and then eliminating Ronald Reagan has been demolished by the rise of George Bush to potential dominance in the field.

The former Democratic governor of Texas and treasury secretary under Richard Nixon began his assault early in 1979 loaded with campaign money — now more than $10 million — armed with a crowd-pleasing rhetorical arsenal and gifted with the charisma of a 6-foot-2, silver-haired, blunt-talking cowboy who took foreign policy advice from Henry Kissinger.

His publicity wasn't bad either, being escorted into one town by roller skating teen-age girls, riding a white horse into a Puerto Rican village and staging a 40-hour bus marathon across Iowa to show his physical stamina.

But nothing produced votes. He was stung after budgeting $300,000 in the meaningless November Florida GOP straw vote and finishing a distant second to Reagan, finishing fourth in Iowa and getting shut out in Arkansas after taking most of the state party leader's to a resort for the weekend to woo them.

In the meantime, Connally's finance director quit in a dispute over his refusal to accept federal matching funds; the issues director — who came up with the candidate's well-publicized Middle East policy — was fired; and the campaign manager was reassigned while a business associate was brought in to cut spending.

After gearing his strategy toward a head-to-head run against Reagan in the Californian's South Carolina stronghold, Connally now is running third behind Bush and figuring on coming in fourth in Florida three days later. There are also reports, denied by his campaign, that solid support of the state party machinery for the critical March 18 Illinois primary is starting to desert him.

And a recent national poll showed President Carter and every major GOP candidate beating a presumably weak Sen. Edward Kennedy in trial heats — all except Connally.

The most damaging signal, however, is Connally's own diminished expectation.

One pound of tea can make nearly 300 cups of the beverage.

'Angel Dust' Antidote Tested

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A drug used to bring schizophrenics back to reality could be the first effective antidote for PCP, or "angel dust," researchers here say.

Dr. Richard Garey of Tulane University said apomorphine, which has been tested on schizophrenics, brings PCP-treated rats down faster and more thoroughly than the tranquilizer now used to treat people on bad PCP trips.

"Apomorphine improves a lot of schizophrenics, but it's very short-acting," Garey said. "But with a drug overdose, you wouldn't need it to last long. You'd just need to bring them down."

As a PCP antidote, the drug has only been used on rats. But Garey said human trials should begin, based on the success it has shown.

PCP — short for phencyclidine — is an animal tranquilizer that can bring on a number of symptoms common in persons suffering from schizophrenia. These include delusions and bizarre, suspicious or aggressive behavior.

The National Institute on Drug Abuse estimates that 6 percent of young people aged 12 to 17 — and 14 percent of those from 18 to 25 — have tried "angel dust."

There is now no effective drug to treat PCP, Garey said. The drug that is often used — haloperidol or Halidol, a tranquilizer prescribed for mental patients — is inadequate, he said.

In a recent issue of Life Sciences, Garey said PCP-treated rats returned to normal behavior in five minutes when treated with apomorphine.

By contrast, it took 35 to 40 minutes for haloperidol to bring about any change in the rats' behavior, and those changes were not significant based on standard statistical ratings, he said.

Business & Industrial Review

FOR TOWING, COMFORT, ECONOMY — The versatile Eldorado Custom Cab is now made available at Pharr RV's in Lubbock, with Harold Pharr shown here with one of the units operating on choice of LP gas or regular gasoline upon flip of a switch. Check the accompanying report for other most appealing advantages of the vehicle.

Pharr's Introduces Custom Cab Unique In Design, Performance

For all the things that contribute to a great towing vehicle (including economy of operation), the Eldorado Custom Cab pickup now available from Pharr RV's, Inc., 1702 Clovis Road, can be a revelation. It must be seen to be believed and fully appreciated; it is really something! "Combining functional beauty, convenience and the rugged engineering resulting in a vehicle to please... and to last... this Eldorado pickup is heartily recommended." See the unit now... it has pilot and co-pilot type front seats that swing and recline, rear seat that makes into a bed! Decor treatment makes it really beautiful. With a 460 motor and 410 rear end, this custom cab unit operates on LP gas or regular gasoline, with the changeover fantastically simple... just flip a switch. The unit is represented to have over 1,100 mile range on either regular gasoline or the LP fuel! The Custom Cab by Eldorado is available with or without duals; one has choice of Ford, Chevy or Dodge motors; and all in all, the unit is great for towing, for the farm and ranch or for just about any situation calling for economy, performance and comfort in a utility vehicle. It is all new! See it now... at Pharr's. Pharr also has some extremely good buys in new '80 Silver Streak and Coachmen trailers. There are some quite good purchase opportunities for '79 Apollo drive units now presented at reduced prices. Select from special good buys in two 33-ft. low-mileage previously owned units. Pharr also maintains covered and open storage for RV units. Parts, accessories and service add to the picture of the firm's popularity. More about the Coachmen units in stock. Coachmen is the world's largest full-line manufacturer of recreational vehicles. New this year is the Citation model with livability features you've asked for, and with features you'd expect to find on much more expensive trailers. Now might be the very best time ever to acquire a great trailer with Coachmen value. Value Engineered. Among the Citation features are one-piece aluminum roof, full fiberglass insulation, tubular frame, painted exterior graphics, galvanized metal underbelly.

interior cabinets fastened to sidewall studs, floor and rafters, aerodynamic front end styling, tandem wide track Kelsey Hayes running gear, four-wheel electric brakes, lockable outside storage compartments, dual holding tanks, positive latches on cabinet doors and lined wardrobes, increased kitchen counter-top, vinyl backsplash, rolled edge, laminated countertops in most models, and larger double stainless steel sink, plus name-brand refrigerator, range and oven. And much more assuring elegance, serviceability and full value. Options are available for even greater convenience and flexibility. "Let Pharr open a whole new world of livability, convenience, comfort and style for you... the kind of travel excitement and vacation value you can rightfully expect from Coachmen... and Pharr RV, Inc. Pharr appreciates the customer confidence in the just-concluded year and in years past, humbly recognizing the loyalty of the growing family of customers, appreciating every friendship and every transaction, pledging entry into the '80s with all-around value and consideration in each department. It is just another situation of home folks serving home folks to the best of their ability, we believe

ABC Sewing Center Providing Finest In Products, Services

For White, Elna, and now Necchi sales and service, it is the ABC Sewing Center, 3104 34th St. So very much could be said, and should be said, for the products and service advantages of this center! In brief, however, the fact is that this home-owned and home-operated firm is thoroughly customer oriented in its every department. The ABC Sewing Center buys, sells and trades, servicing all brands of machines, also maintaining a rental service. New Models Excel. Specific attention is called to some of the great new machine models stocked, such as the Elna Model 69. It is advertised as the only free arm sewing machine that fits most standard sewing machine cabinets. And this is a big item. Likely it is the last sewing machine you'll ever need! The "new dimension" Elna Air Electronic is available in three models, with the Air Electronic Portable machines also in three models. It is a new generation of sewing machines! Free Instruction. Check such features as the most-wanted stitches are built into each. It is a multiple sewing program extended via interchangeable Elna discs supplied as standard equipment with every Elna Super model.

These are exciting new machines! And one year free instruction is given with purchase of every new machine at the ABC Sewing Center. Established and actively operated by lifelong Lubbock resident Susan Young, the ABC Sewing Center is factory authorized dealer for several leading lines of machines. For White, Elna, Necchi, Brother, Dressmaker and other machines, check ABC first! Susan, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Dennis, is a '66 graduate of Monterey High School and is a '73 graduate of Texas Tech. Multiple Lines. The above explanation of the Elna models available is indicative of the fine products that are the rule at ABC. Susan is quite enthused about the White line, too, as example, a respected name in sewing machines for over 100 years. Further Aids Cited. A five-year parts warranty and one-year service guarantee is effective on all reconditioned units. Parsons cabinets are stocked, adaptable to all brands of machines. Financing plans are available, together with Visa and Master Charge use. The ABC Sewing Center is open six days a week: Mondays through Fridays from 9:30 a.m. until 6 p.m., and Saturday closing at 4 p.m.

Twice-a-year free White seminars are conducted to the firm, with home economists from the White factory on hand to bring latest techniques, etc. (One is invited to check regarding the summer seminar.) More about the White line: The Model 710 flip-top open arm model with one-step buttonholer is especially recommended. It is stocked and available in portable or cabinet models at ABC. This top-of-the-line unit is described as "the most versatile sewing machine for today's fabrics" by the White organization, and is the second in White's series of Flip-Top models with extension flaps to convert the sewing machine from a free arm to a flat bed sewing surface at a mere twist of a knob! And as for buttonholing, the user merely dials in the desired stitch and buttonhole length, presses the foot control, and the sewing machine does the rest automatically! This new model features 26 practical stretch and decorative stitches, including 16 forward and reverse moving patterns and the one-step buttonholer! For full information on this and other great models, for a genuine welcome and appreciation of your inquiries, a visit to the ABC Sewing Center, 3104 34th St., phone 799-0372, is invited and recommended at earliest convenience.

Business & Industrial Review

HOMEFOLKS YOU KNOW, AND CAN TRUST — Shown at Bostick's Auto & Truck Sales is (right) Gary Bostick, owner, his wife, Sharon Bostick, and Herschel Bird, salesman. A "homey" atmosphere prevails as indicated here by the fireplace and lounge area within the Texas Avenue quarters where a large stock of late-model vehicles is maintained.

Bostick's Auto & Truck Sales Built Upon Service To Customer

Bostick's Auto & Truck Sales is different, and this difference has earned for it a large and still-growing family of customers and friends. Located at its present 2302 Texas Ave. quarters for the past six years, Bostick's Auto & Truck Sales has the envied reputation of going all out for its customers, in value, in selection and in a lot of extra considerations that make for a firm to be appreciated and trusted. Check these several factors that are among reasons Bostick's should be considered in your own situation.

Large Selection New Units
Stocking more than 150 units, Bostick's makes available a good selection of new General Motors, Ford and other units, and also can secure most any new American-made car on short notice, all with full factory warranty.

Aside from competitive pricing, Bostick's is glad to "go the extra mile" in finding hard-to-locate units, in securing pickups, vans, suburbans, compacts and all to meet the customer's particular need and preference. Aside from the large stock maintained on the big lot at its Texas Avenue location, Bostick's can special order. A very efficient locator service also is utilized.

Leasing, Also
Even a lease plan is provided. Bostick's is glad to assist with financing and insurance, too. One can readily observe and appreciate the Bostick devotion to value, but a visit there conveys even more fully the firm's concept of treating folks right, as one friend to another. The coffee pot is always on, and the homey atmosphere is underscored by the lobby with its wood-burning fireplace and casual atmosphere.

Home Folks
Bostick's Auto & Truck Sales is home owned and home operated, with Gary Bostick as owner. Gary has over 15 years experience in the auto business in Lubbock. His wife, Sharon, is on the job, together with Herschel Bird, Lorenzo resident, a highly qualified auto salesman with friends throughout the area. Gary and Sharon were reared at Halls, and they are "your kind of folks", inviting and earning your confidence and trade. With inflation imposing its problems on every hand, with the energy shortage, and with the very real necessity of getting the most for the dollar uppermost in operations of most families and businesses, it makes more sense than ever to turn to a firm like Bostick's Auto & Truck Sales where "value" is the key to its every transaction. "May we have the pleasure of your visits and friendship... and your patronage when auto or truck purchasing is in the picture?" This is the sincere invitation from Gary, Sharon and Herschel, home folks you likely already know, at Bostick's Auto & Truck Sales, 2302 Texas Ave. in Lubbock.

Three Lubbock Diet Centers Afford Weight Loss Programs

For a valentine expression that without doubt conveys your love, interest and understanding, it is entirely possible that a gift certificate from a Diet Center in Lubbock might be the most appreciated valentine of them all! "A weight loss program that really works, with assistance by a counselor who cares, most likely holds special appeal as one looks ahead to spring and summer when excess weight might prevent enjoyment of the related activities to the fullest. This is where you can come in giving a gift certificate from the Diet Center for Valentine's Day this Thursday!"

Diet Centers in Lubbock are located in Security Park (3602 Slide Road, phone 799-1441), at 8302 Indiana Ave., phone 793-3438, and at 4311 Boston Ave., phone 793-8300.

In introducing and explaining the Diet Center programs in Lubbock, let us first learn about the counselors heading each of the units. Each of the three counselors became head of her business after personal experience in Diet Center weight loss becoming "sold" on the program through personal trial. What better proof could there be?

Deanie Alewine heads the 8302 Indiana Diet Center. A native West Texan, Deanie is more recently a 10-year Bryan (Tex.) resident where she attended Texas A & M.

Connie Dunlap is owner of the Diet Center at B-10 Security Park, 3602 Slide Road. Connie is a longtime Lubbock resident, and began her Diet Center program under Deanie.

Sheryl Shields, from Idalou, recently opened her Diet Center at 4211 Boston Ave.

There's a Diet Center near you! In citing their personal experiences with Diet Center, each of the three counselors relate a personal and measureable weight loss that has remained stabilized. In fact, they report that each probably has lost over 200 pounds during their lifetime in other programs and on their own, what with fad diets, crash diets, etc., but each prefer the Diet Center program because it has worked for them. Each has had special training at the Dietology Training School in Rexburg, Idaho, before opening centers as franchise owners. Each has graduated from the Rexburg school.

Program Defined
No drugs or shots are involved in the very practical program that features (1) well-balanced diet, (2) individual counseling and (3) daily weigh-ins. A 12-week program most usually is utilized, with 17 to 25 pound loss normal within a six-week period.

Stabilization after weight loss is an important facet of the Diet Center program, it is emphasized.

Diet Centers in Lubbock are open five days a week; no signing of contracts is involved; it is a plan to "live with"... pleasantly.

Some may not realize that Diet Center programs are set up to meet each individual's needs, and that these can be adjusted for folks with special health problems. Counseling is afforded men and children, as well as women. Finally, and in brief, it is explained that the Diet Center program calls for a well-balanced diet, and the clients will not lose the essential fat on the body, but only the extra adipose fat; the dieters will have all the nutrients necessary to maintain good health while losing adipose fat from the body. At a very modest price, one may avail herself or himself of daily counseling during the weight loss period, counseling during stabilization, and further aid during later maintenance for a lifetime of weight control.

"With the aid of one of the Diet Centers in Lubbock, you can feel well and if you persevere, in no time at all you'll begin to look as great as you feel!"

After all, wasn't one of those New Year resolutions to lose excess weight?"

STAFFED TO SERVE — Pictured in an attractive area of the big Cottage Antiques & Gifts center are staffmembers (standing) Annette Turner, Joni Lynch and owner Ina May Stewart, and (seated) Christie Stewart, Mim Probasco and Maurine Hearn.

'The Cottage' Antiques & Gifts Has Great Valentine Solutions

Had you thought of The Cottage Antiques & Gifts, 2247 34th St., as a Valentine type of store?
 Well, it can be... delightfully so. For The Cottage stocks for all seasons and holidays, and Valentine is no exception. There are numerous types of hearts (tin boxes in multiple sizes, brass boxes, reproductions, pewter heart-shaped frames, red and white gingham gift wrap, glass and porcelain hearts, and more!).
 And for antiques that are out of the ordinary, for collectibles, other distinctive gifts, decorator accessories, beveled glass, furniture, primitives, etc., an entire new world is unveiled at The Cottage Antiques & Gifts, 2247 34th St., phone 744-3927.

And Don Crow still has some of those sought-after Target engines, with the 350 Target engine priced at just $995, including installation, intake gasket set and labor for Chevrolet passenger cars and light duty pickups. Cost for heavy duty trucks understandably is slightly more.
 Service advisors are on the job at 7:30 a.m. at Don Crow to aid in servicing for folks en route to their work. Mini Maid service has long been appreciated gesture, and the firm also affords bus service to and from the South Plains Mall at the customers' convenience!
 It all is a part of the "customer satisfaction" image carefully guarded at Don Crow Chevrolet, Inc.
 From the service manager to the service advisors and technicians (including five master technicians) at Don Crow Chevrolet, Inc., all take pride in the ultimate in customer service at a price that can be lived with.
 "And don't forget Don Crow Chevrolet's invitation to compare costs; we are glad to show you the posted hourly rates and allotted Chevrolet factory time for any job, eliminating any confusion. We are aboveboard in all dealings."
 Don Crow believes that it pays you to know all the facts; it pays to know and trust Don Crow Chevrolet!
 "When you consider our honesty in dealing, the dedication of a professional staff with true know-how, our reputation for saving for you in dollars and cents, then why consider anything less than Don Crow Chevrolet for your every auto repair need?
 All service work is guaranteed 90 days or 4,000 miles on all General Motors parts and accessories.

Plus sheet music, furniture that includes everything from shelves and stools to armoires, Welch dressers, Bedmeier desks, dentist cabinet, chests, schoolmaster desk, oak dressers, beds, frames and chairs, and more.
 The Cottage is headquarters for Hope retinisher, tung oil and lemon oil, as an added service.
 There are grapevine wreaths with silk flowers, as one of the unique but so-desirable offerings, and handcarved ducks, beautiful brass, etc.
 Also select from fireplace accessories, brass and oak tenders and fire screens.
 If searching for a unique gift, The Cottage certainly would seem the answer. A really distinctive gift wrap is provided. Layaway is encouraged, as is use of Visa and MasterCard.
 Shopping The Cottage is a delightful, recommended experience!

Remodeling
 Remodeling is now underway at The Cottage, for an even more attractive and functional store, and the owners hope customers will excuse the temporary inconvenience that might be incurred in some areas of the big facility. The Cottage is remaining open during remodeling, and inconveniences will be minimized in every way possible. Store hours are 10 a.m. until 5 p.m., Mondays through Saturdays.
 The "cottage" outside appearance of the store may be misleading, for actually it is found that people are surprised when they come in for the first time, discovering the shop to have 12 rooms bursting with antiques and gifts! And a warehouse area of furniture to be refinished.
Departmentalized
 There is a special depression glass room, a kitchen room, primitive room, Oriental room, year-around Christmas room, and others.
 Ina May Stewart, owner, is a second-generation antique dealer. She has been in business at the present location about six years.
 It would be impossible to itemize the galaxy of items provided, only seeing is believing.
 However, the following is pointed out to hint of the selective and huge stock.
 Just received are delightful new numbers in antique platters, covered vegetable dishes, trays, wooden writing boxes, beveled mirrors, etc.
 There are ByeLo dolls, beautifully dressed. And a recently-added line of stuffed toys (washable) to assure something for every age.
 There are the in-demand Sebastian miniature collectibles.
 And a really good selection of leaded beveled glass doors and windows.
 There are greeting cards (contemrary and reproductions) as well as antique post cards.

 Plus sheet music, furniture that includes everything from shelves and stools to armoires, Welch dressers, Bedmeier desks, dentist cabinet, chests, schoolmaster desk, oak dressers, beds, frames and chairs, and more.

KNOW THEIR CARPET — The customer is sure to benefit from the experience and integrity of the folks at B & R Floor Covering. Pictured are co-owners Gerald Pierce and Eddie Parker with Peggy Meador, sales.

B & R Floor Covering, Long In City, Known For Big Selection

"We believe we have one of the largest, and possibly the largest, selections of carpet inventory and samples in Lubbock," is the word from B & R Floor Covering, 2516 34th St. phone 795-4361.

And right now, from this stock, some very good buys are enabled, including some high-quality nylon shag from a special purchase at recent market, made available at $8.95 per yard installed. (Suggested regular price is $10.95.)

(All prices at B & R Floor Covering include installation and pad, and the firm has its own crews for expert attention.)

Another very good buy at this time are some Bigelow plushes, at $10.95 rather than the $12.95 one could rightfully expect to pay.

Carpet prices are escalating, along with other items, so if in need of carpeting, early purchase can save, it is aptly pointed out by B & R owners Gerald Pierce and Eddie Parker.

"Always low prices" is the rule at B & R.

Check these other advantages:

'Known, Respected Lines'

B & R Floor Covering features Bigelow and World lines of carpeting, while also stocking others, providing carpet from utility grade to the very finest.

Vinyl, Formica, Too

Vinyl flooring and formica cabinet tops also are part of the product and service picture at B & R, with custom jobs welcomed.

(B & R crews go anywhere in the area, with recent jobs noted as far off as Dallas.)

Financing is available.

Free estimates are given in home or business.

B & R is open Mondays through Saturdays.

The firm is locally owned and operated by Pierce and Parker, each marking long experience in the field. Both are area natives; Eddie was reared in Levelland and has been in carpeting since back in '54; and Gerald, reared in Lubbock, marks carpet service since '62.

The firm has been at its present location, with the attractive and spacious facilities, for the past five years.

"In planning Spring remodeling, housecleaning, etc., now would be a very good time to consider new carpeting, and B & R can help; we hope you'll give us the opportunity of presenting for your consideration our wide selection, the proven quality, the evident savings and our service capabilities.

Remember the location, 2516 34th St.

Budget Rent A Car Valet Parking, RV, Boat Storage, Auto Services Told

Even with all the services afforded in the several departments of Budget Rent A Car of Lubbock, 1701 N. Quirt Ave., still more have been added.

A free lube job is given with every oil change, as example.

RV Storage

And now there is fenced-in, security-protected storage for RV units, trailers, boats, etc., with storage by the month.

Fenced-in parking is enabled, with around-the-clock extra security also arranged.

Valet Parking Service

One can park his or her vehicle at Budget Rent A Car, Loop 289 at N. Quirt, at cost of only $1 per day when taking advantage of the free valet service provided right to the airport, with all flights services, early and late.

Many find it advantageous for the folks at Budget Rent A Car to service the vehicle while it is there... washing, an oil and lubrication job, etc.

Doesn't it make sense to leave your auto at Budget Rent A Car before airport departure?

Budget Rent A Car of Lubbock, 1701 N. Quirt Ave., not only operates from all-new facilities said to be the most modern in the area, but it provides likely a much greater scope of services than some may have realized.

You don't have to be in need of rental units to be served at this complete Enco service center where there's even a big used car lot.

As for the rental part of the business, the owner emphasizes, that "we save you money," inviting comparison of the low rates afforded on current model GM and other fine cars of all sizes.

Valet parking is one of the much-appreciated services, with Budget Rent A Car enabling one to leave a personal car there, with a firm representative taking the driver and occupants right to the airport, affording the same service upon return trip! Thus there are no long walks from parking areas; the customer is taken right to the airport doorway.

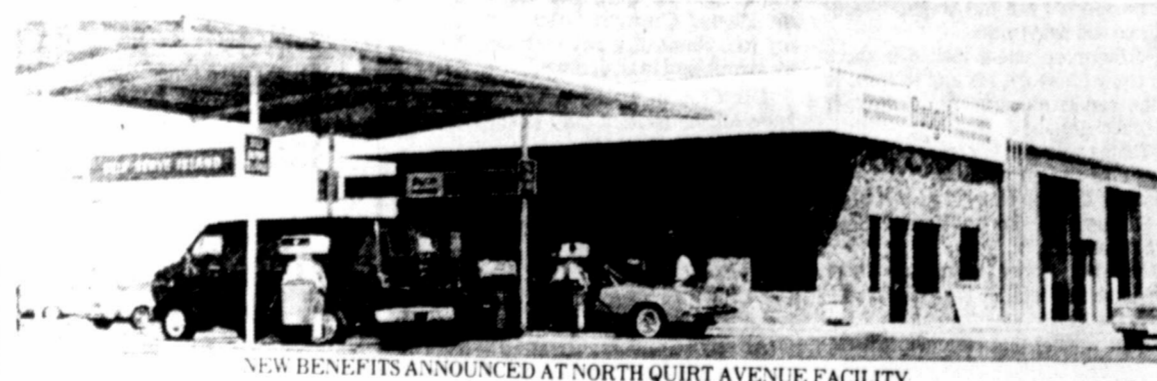

A full-service station is provided, open six days a week.

Rentals are available every day.

Some 70 to 80 cars are kept in the rental fleet at most times, right here in Lubbock.

(There is no drop charge for cars dropped in Amarillo.)

Budget Rent A Car of Lubbock (a budget Rent A Car System licensee) opened in September '78.

5-Point Beauty Salon Posting Specials Throughout February

Month-long Specials during February have been posted at the 5-Point Beauty Salon, 5103 34th St., phone 795-4151!

This means that a special assist for Valentine Day and other season-related occasions has been the thoughtful consideration of this better beauty salon.

The February Specials include:

- Unperms, regular $25, now $19.99.
- White Velvet perms, regular $22.50, for $18.50; and
- With every color, one can receive a $4 conditioner for only $1.

On Mondays and Tuesdays only, senior citizens' haircuts are one-half price, and there's also the advantage of 20 percent off on perms!

The elite staff at 5-Point Beauty Salon includes Judy McKnight, Frances Sylvester, Loveta Pritchard and Vicki Wheeler.

All beauty services are afforded, it is emphasized, including haircuts for both men and women.

Whether pedicures, facials, manicures, brow and lash dyes, wig and wiglet care, razor eyebrow shaping or even for the famous Redken products, including makeup, a trip to 5-Point Beauty Salon surely is in order. It is a friendly place, and the invitation is extended to come on in, enjoy a cup of coffee and receive finest beauty services from folks who likely already are your friends!

Don't delay, call 795-4151 now for an appointment, whatever the beauty service desired, and especially for the February specials.

Gift Certificates
Gift certificates are available throughout the year, and at this time are so convenient as a most practical and appreciated Valentine remembrance.

Established for almost two decades, the shop in southwest Lubbock has gained an enviable following during this time. Loveta Pritchard and Frances Sylvester have been staffmembers for more than a dozen of these years.

Faye Butler has been owner since April of 78, and customer comments regarding the type shop provided have been most favorable.

The salon is open Mondays through Saturdays, and early and late appointments can be arranged.

For traditional beauty services, including the current specials, acquaintance and early patronage is heartily encouraged at the 5-Point Beauty Salon, 5103 34th St., in Lubbock.

'Ethics, Right Price, Good Product' Maintains Auto Corral's Reputation

"With today's economy, the emphasis on energy conservation, and in the need of getting the most for every dollar outlay, selection of an auto and selection of a dealer from whom to purchase becomes of added significance."

"Whether one is primarily interested in a meaningful guarantee, selection from late-model units or even purchase of a new car for the family or as an added vehicle, it might pay to join the crowd that turns to the Auto Corral, 2811 Texas Ave. in Lubbock!"

After all, Jerry D. McLaughlin is marking his 10th anniversary at the Auto Corral, with this decade in one location, with every-increasing business and other factors speaking well for the firm.

Jerry believes the formula for success is service... in treating folks right, adhering to an honorable code of ethics, providing the right product and at the right price.

On occasion of the anniversary, owner Jerry McLaughlin and his wife, Penny, invite old customers to come by, together with new ones.

"There's always a cup of coffee or a Coke waiting for you at The Auto Corral. Its just that kind of place... friendly and appreciative of friends and customers."

As a bit of history, it can be pointed out that Jerry McLaughlin is no newcomer in the business or in Lubbock. He marks 21 years in the auto field here, and is a lifelong Lubbock resident. He is a '57 graduate of Lubbock High School where he lettered in football, playing with the Westerners three years, and he attended Texas Tech for three more years.

"Honesty, integrity and dependability" are characteristics McLaughlin likes to use and prove in describing his business concept.

"Personal service and a meaningful guarantee has resulted in a situation of absolutely no customer relations problems," he adds. "In fact, some of my customers have been repeat buyers, time and again, some trading with me since I first was in business."

The Auto Corral sells both retail and wholesale, specializing in late model used cars, with some new cars also on the lot. Jerry can secure any make new car and welcomes the opportunity of finding one's preference.

McLaughlin is a member of the Lubbock Independent Auto Dealers Association, of the Texas organization of which he is a director, and a member of NADA, also.

The Auto Corral, easy to find at 2811 Texas Ave., is open from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m., Mondays through Fridays, closing at an earlier 3 p.m. on Saturday.

One-stop shopping is enabled for the auto buyer at The Auto Corral, with late model intermediates and pickups dominating the stock.

Hallie's Thrift Shoppe Affords Solution In Apparel Budgeting

Are wardrobe expenditures being sacrificed for other needs of the season? Is your clothing budget less than desired and needed?

"Your answer to either likely will focus attention on a ready and sensible solution... recognition of Hallie's Thrift Shoppe as a great place to trade and save."

By virtue of entering into its 14th year, Hallie's lays claim to being "the only really established store in town for resale of better quality merchandise, the leading store of its type season after season."

Hallie's Thrift Shoppe, 3510 Ave. Q, can appreciably aid the fashion need and the economy need "for you, too" in every season of the year.

It's a reality: One can beat inflation, beat the rising apparel costs, by depending upon Hallie's Thrift Shoppe for the right apparel at lowest prices.

Hallie's Thrift Shoppe is open Tuesdays through Saturdays, closed each Monday.

At Hallie's Thrift Shoppe there is lots of new merchandise plus consignment items that are strictly "first class" that can be a smart solution to the wardrobe budget.

With the increased costs at every hand, it is exciting to find a firm that can greatly reduce some of this cash outlay.

One can dress smartly for every season, and at a cost "that can be lived with," thanks to Hallie's Thrift Shoppe's full selection and unique business concept.

Hallie's, primarily a resale shop for better merchandise, has been at its present 3510 Ave. Q location (with off-street parking) since 1972, and owner-operator Hallie Payne is entering her 14th year in the business.

The exceptional stock, attractively displayed with plenty of room for selection and fitting, involves top quality new and nearly new formal wear, school and street wear, etc.

There are clothes for the entire family (sold on consignment) and the prices are most appealing.

"If you have items suitable for consignment, call Hallie's at 744-6772 for appointment and arrangements."

"Please be prepared, when calling for appointment, to disclose at that time the number of acceptable garments you wish to consign. (By 'acceptable' we mean apparel in perfect condition, in fashion and most usually in season.)"

Among items especially desired at this time are ladies coats.

FINAL WEEK OF CROFT STORM DOOR/WINDOW SALE PRICING

Energy-Saving Products Among Specials Arranged By Bowman

Energy saving gets a boost from Bowman, at 8301 S. University, in a manner sure to please... and save dollars and cents in a customer-consideration announcement.

Final Opportunity
For this week, Croft storm doors and windows, together with related energy-saving items are marked at substantial savings at the big materials supermarket and home and garden center.

Examples of the storm units and their low prices include:
This is the final week in which the Croft windows are marked at just $16.88, with the aluminum storm doors at $38.88! Don't delay, these are very, very good buys.

And for the same period there is 10 per cent savings arranged on weather stripping, caulking, insulation and other related comfort/saving items.

Stark Bros. Trees
It is pointed out, also, that at the Bowman Home and Garden Center, in the same 8301 S. University facility, a new shipment of the famous Stark Bros. fruit trees has arrived.

Bowman officials relate that the firm is the only Stark Bros. representative in Lubbock, and upon securing that line last year the reception was so great that large orders have been placed for this season.

Lawn Food Special
Also it is time to start the fertilization of lawns. Right. And Bowman aids with the 40 lb. bag of Fertiloam Weed & Feed at inviting price of $8.95, with free use of spreader upon purchase.

Everything in the big home and garden center is humming with readiness.

for the spring and summer ahead, with the quite qualified personnel there including two certified nurserymen. So... in building needs, in energy savings, in yard and garden care, one need look no further than Bowman, always stocking a big inventory, at 8301 S. University, phone (806) 745-3333.

BOWMAN IS READY — Weed & Feed Special and other yard needs are stocked heavily by Bowman. New arrival of Stark Bros. fruit trees also has been announced.

Jean Bledsoe Insurance Agency Provides Professional Service

"Helping you establish your insurance priorities" is just one of the qualified and appreciated services at the Bledsoe Insurance Agency, 3305 81st St., in Lubbock.

"A little foresight can go a long way", whether for mapping the best insurance program for today's needs, for a happier retirement, for sensible liability limits, for so many facets of today's complex needs, and Jean Bledsoe and staff have been most successful and appreciated in their dedication to helping the customer.

Aside from the personal contacts and the media advertising of the firm, the Jean Bledsoe Insurance Agency sends out a quarterly newsletter as a continuing service to customers of that agency. Points of current significance, in both serious and lighter vein, are included in this newsletter.

One of the topics emphasized in the most recent newsletter involves the insurance premium priorities alluded to above. Excerpts follow:

"... wouldn't it seem logical to protect ourselves first against those losses which are greatest in potential monetary loss, leaving the more minor coverages until we can afford them? The following are eight losses against which people commonly insure themselves, in order of potential monetary loss:

- (1) Permanent and total disability;
- (2) Death;
- (3) Auto liability;
- (4) Personal liability;
- (5) Your residence;
- (6) Temporary disability (six months or less, including hospital charges);
- (7) Auto collision and property damage; and
- (8) Theft.

"The first four losses represent potential economic ruin. The last four represent temporary economic inconvenience as long as you still have your earning power you can probably recover relatively quickly from the effects of such losses. We often tend to buy insurance in the wrong order of importance; we should measure all insurance coverages against their potential monetary loss.

"We at the Bledsoe Insurance Agency will be glad to help you establish your own insurance priorities; contact us at any time."
"Humbly appreciative of the customer confidence that has made the Bledsoe Insurance Agency what it is today, the staff looks forward to continuing assistance. We hope you will consider the Jean Bledsoe Insurance Agency, 3305 81st St., for your every insurance need. We know we can help."

James Mears Motor Firm Seen Strong On Personal Interest

Here To Serve Lubbock Area People is more than just a motto with James Mears Motors, 1211 19th St. in Lubbock, it is a day-to-day way of doing business.

Hometown people, well known, respected and highly trained, are on the job to assure this quality service before and after the sale. James Mears Motors will be here to take care of its customers tomorrow and in days to follow, too!

Service a Specialty

James Mears is particularly proud of the service department maintained by the firm.

The shop is headed by Bob Mears, service manager, with Joe Dunbar as service advisor, and technicians including Jay Dunn, Frank Ford, Donnie Cole and Ken Dennis.

Ronnie Weems is latest addition to the service staff, bringing a complete knowledge of front end alignment, tire balancing and brake work on imported and domestic automobiles. Weems, a lifelong Lubbock resident, comes from a brake and front end shop in the city and is well known and recognized for his quality workmanship and integrity in every transaction.

The James Mears Motors Service Department is truly a complete and modern shop.

Late Model Used Cars

At present, an exceptionally large selection of completely reconditioned used cars is stocked by Mears. Pat Colby, used car manager, reports that prices are posted on the windows of these units for the convenience of after-hour and night shoppers. All 1977 and later models carry a 100 per cent warranty, he emphasizes.

Mazda Long Popular

In offering the fine Mazda line in Lubbock, James Mears points out that Mazda in 1979 built over one million cars, producing over 10 million in the 50 years they have been in auto manufacturing. Mazda brings this half century of experience in building quality, economy automobiles and trucks and they have 14 assembly plants and over 800 dealers in the U.S.A. alone.

Don Fezell, sales manager for James Mears Mazda, tells that Mazda has a complete line of automobiles in the GLC, 626, RX-7 and B2000 pickup lines. The Mazda B2000 pickup has the highest EPA rating of any pickup in the U.S.A., he emphasizes.

James Mears Motors, Inc., also is the authorized sales, service and parts representative for MGB, Triumph and Jaguar.

Special Counsel, Evaluation Service Continues Available Through Tuesday

"Don't miss this opportunity!"

Today and tomorrow, Monday and Tuesday, Charles Babula, factory-trained representative of the world-renowned Starkey Laboratories, is at Sonotone-Lubbock, 2318 Broadway, for counseling and advice.

Louise Bills, certified hearing aid audiologist and manager of Sonotone-Lubbock, has been most enthusiastic regarding Babula's availability to the Lubbock area on these days. A similar visit only a few months ago met with exceptional response.

Babula has 35 years of experience and is a specialist in analyzing nerve-type (sensori-neural) hearing losses.

"Mr. Babula will counsel with you, giving expert and confidential advice on how to improve your hearing and understanding, also providing a thorough audiometric test and evaluation.

"This service is available on an appointment basis only. So don't delay; call now to Sonotone-Lubbock at 762-5469, for your personal and confidential appointment with Mr. Babula," is the invitation of Louise Bills.

Free Services Outlined

During his visit, Babula will provide the following services free:

- (1) A complete test of your hearing aid with the Foxix electronic digital computer hearing aid analyzer;
- (2) A thorough analysis and evaluation of your hearing and understanding problem with the latest electronic testing equipment; and
- (3) Clean and adjust your hearing aid for maximum performance.

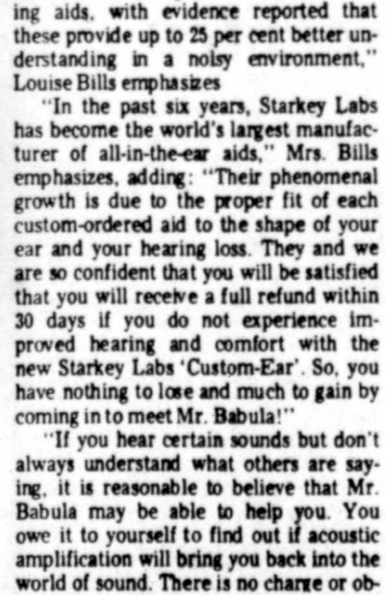

"In addition to the above free services, Babula will discuss with you the advisability of wearing an all-in-the-ear hearing aid. Hundreds of thousands of behind-the-ear and eyeglass hearing aid users are switching to all-in-the-ear hearing aids, with evidence reported that these provide up to 25 per cent better understanding in a noisy environment," Louise Bills emphasizes.

"In the past six years, Starkey Labs has become the world's largest manufacturer of all-in-the-ear aids," Mrs. Bills emphasizes, adding: "Their phenomenal growth is due to the proper fit of each custom-ordered aid to the shape of your ear and your hearing loss. They and we are so confident that you will be satisfied that you will receive a full refund within 30 days if you do not experience improved hearing and comfort with the new Starkey Labs 'Custom-Ear'. So, you have nothing to lose and much to gain by coming in to meet Mr. Babula!"

"If you hear certain sounds but don't always understand what others are saying, it is reasonable to believe that Mr. Babula may be able to help you. You owe it to yourself to find out if acoustic amplification will bring you back into the world of sound. There is no charge or ob-

Business & Industrial Review

IN VALENTINE DEPARTMENT — Woolco's valentine selections are "easy on your heart, easy on your budget." Choose from scented soaps and powders, boxed valentines for all ages, Valentine party favors and candy. Woolco has a wide selection of candy for your sweetheart, including large and small decorated hearts and bag candy. There always are sweets for your sweetie' at Woolco, your favorite store!

MORE VALENTINE IDEAS — Lupe Zuniga, pictured, suggests valentine gifts of lingerie. Stocked is a wide assortment of styles in loungers, bra and bikini sets, gowns and robes. In the Ladies' Wear department are those desired bright colors in dresses, and many styles in polos, blouses and pants.

At Woolco

COSMETICS, OF COURSE — In the Woolco Cosmetic Department there are special low prices marked on colognes and perfumes for your special sweetheart. The cosmetic lines are well-known and wanted, including Wind Song, Chimere, Catchet, Aviance, Babe, Halston, Jovan, Sex Appeal and Musk for men and women, Charlie, Macho, British Sterling, English Leather, Brut, and more, all pointing to the qualified invitation to shop with Woolco and save Valentine's Day or at any time. We want to be your favorite store.

JEWELRY FOR VALENTINE — Staffmember Judy Schuler calls attention to the Woolco Jewelry Department's excellent selection. A special price is posted on personalized jewelry. When one purchases any one piece, there is the choice of a stick pin, necklace or bracelet at no extra charge. Engraving is free and is provided in a matter of minutes. Watches are suggested as great presents, and Woolco is proud of its selection including Seiko, Timex, Bulova, Criterion and Marcel.

Americans Meet With Moslem Militants

By The Associated Press

A group of Americans on a private visit to Iran met for four hours Sunday with Moslem militants occupying the U.S. Embassy in Tehran but did not see the 50 American hostages who spent their 99th day in captivity, Western journalists reported.

The Americans' visit came as Iran prepared for what Tehran Radio called a "grand military parade" Monday to celebrate the first anniversary of the Islamic revolution that ousted Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.

Norman Forer, a Kansas University professor heading the delegation of 49 Americans that was invited to Tehran by the militants, said there was a "good exchange of views" during the embassy meeting, but refused to provide details. Another group member, Randy Goodman of Boston, said the delegation was kept in one room and did not see the hostages. It was not clear if all of the 49 Americans went to the embassy conference.

American Indian activist John Thomas, who is not a member of the U.S. delegation, told reporters he visited for 10 minutes Saturday with U.S. Marine Paul Lewis, one of the hostages, and found him to be in "perfect" condition.

"He looked too good to be a hostage," said Thomas, who arrived in Tehran a week ago and delivered two parcels of mail he brought from the hostages' families. Thomas had visited Iran last month, spending two weeks in Tehran before leaving Jan. 17 to return home with mail from the hostages to their relatives.

He has made several visits to the embassy on this trip. He said he was returning to the United States Monday with additional letters and messages from the hostages, who have been held since the embassy was seized Nov. 4.

Members of the large American delegation have visited Tehran cemetery where revolutionary "martyrs" are buried, attended open-air prayer services at Tehran University, toured housing facilities and listened to militants describe alleged crimes committed by the deposed shah's regime.

The Foreign Ministry issued them four-day visas last Thursday, but Miss Goodman said the visas were extended. She did not say for how long.

Some 30 hostages were visited Friday by Ahmad Khomeini, the son of Iran's Moslem leader, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, and former Greek Catholic Archbishop of Jerusalem, Hilarion Capudji, according to Capudji.

Iranian President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr, who is to preside over Monday's celebration, renewed his criticism of the militants for inviting the Americans to Tehran. The Pars news agency quoted the president, who was sworn into office a week ago, as telling Tehran Radio on Sunday:

"I will not accept such behavior which I consider a government within the legitimate government. In my capacity as president of this government, I call on the students to put an end to this behavior and to unify their opinions and actions with the government's opinion."

Monday's celebration marks the anniversary of the resignation of former Prime Minister Shahpour Bakhtiar, who was appointed to run the country by the shah shortly before the monarch fled Iran in mid-January.

On the day of Bakhtiar's resignation, power passed to a Revolutionary Council and a provisional government. Khomeini's Council of the Islamic Revolution designated Mehdi Bazargan president, but he resigned to protest the seizure of the U.S. Embassy.

Khomeini had been scheduled to preside over Tehran's parade, in which units of the army, police, revolutionary guards and revolutionary committees were to take part, the radio said.

But Khomeini's office said the ayatollah would not attend on the advice of his doctors. The 79-year-old Khomeini is in a Tehran hospital convalescing from a heart attack Jan. 23.

Meanwhile, the joint armed forces command issued a statement in which it renewed allegiance to Khomeini, whom it described as "the age's messenger," and said it would hold the parade under the auspices of Bani-Sadr.

Natural Gas Eruptions Spreading In Oklahoma

ALVA, Okla. (UPI) — The natural gas eruptions in northwestern Oklahoma are spreading and the Alabaster Caverns State Park has been closed as a precautionary measure, officials said.

The natural gas bubbles out of lakes and has caused craters as wide as 30 feet in roads and on pasture land in the Freedom community about 24 miles west of Alva and 15 miles south of the Kansas border.

Officials said they feared the gas would leak into the Alabaster Caverns, about six miles south of Freedom.

A Woods County road about 4.2 miles northwest of Freedom on the Cimarron River collapsed when a second crater opened on it recently, said County Commissioner Vernie Hackney, who ranches in the area.

"Possibly another 300 acres are affected by this north and west of the original blowouts. They are still all going," he said Sunday.

On Jan. 31, he noticed about 15 gas eruptions on a ranch he leases. Now, he says, the eruptions have spread to parts of three ranches and he estimates there are 500 holes.

Roads into the area are blocked, the Woods County sheriff's office said.

"If you drive a car around there or smoke a cigarette around there — those are the main things we don't want happening," said jailer Ben Stambaugh.

The Oklahoma Corporation Commission alleges the problem was caused by a gas well improperly plugged in 1969 by Natol Petroleum Co., since merged with Damson Oil Co., but Damson officials deny it.

A commission hearing on the replugging of the well has been set for Wednesday morning in the Jim Thorpe building in the Capitol complex in Oklahoma City, commission chairman Hamp Baker said.

Inspectors concluded the Damson well and eight others were improperly plugged below the top of the Chester Limestone formation under 5,000 feet, he said.

Baker said officials did not know if the other eight wells were causing any of the problems.

A Damson spokesman said company officials knew of no evidence that the well is causing the eruptions. The well is on the edge of the area where the eruptions began.

Baker said 59 wells within a three-mile radius of the eruptions have been checked.

Officials estimate it would take more than five weeks to replug the Damson.

Clayton Still Running For Fourth Speaker Term

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Speaker Bill Clayton, who says he is the victim of "an apparent political assassination" in an FBI "sting" case, says he's still a candidate for re-election in 1981.

However, at least two other Texas House members immediately cranked up extensive drives to unseat the 51-year-old millionaire West Texas farmer already serving an unprecedented three-term stint as head of the 150-member Texas House.

Clayton acknowledged late Saturday that he was given "a stack of $100 bills" as a political contribution on Nov. 8 but said he had kept the money in a "safe place" and never intended accepting it.

"I have not taken a bribe," he told the news conference in reply to published accounts that alleged he accepted $10,000 from FBI undercover agents to favor a firm wanting to sell the state a new employee health insurance contract.

"I want to assure you I have not been involved in any wrongdoing. I have accepted no bribes in the past or present and I never will."

Clayton, along with his top aide, Rusty Kelley, and Bob Johnson, his appointee to the state employees retirement system, will appear Tuesday before a federal grand jury in Houston.

The Houston Post said Sunday that Houston councilman Jim Westmoreland, another city official and three union officials — including the man Clayton said gave him the stack of bills — have been subpoenaed before that grand jury.

Other high state officials offered Clayton some support.

"I find it extremely hard to believe there is any foundation to these charges," said Gov. Bill Clements, Texas' first Republican governor in 104 years. "I have confidence in Speaker Clayton and do not believe he would participate in such a thing."

Clayton is a Democrat.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, a Democrat, said "it sounds like a perfectly normal thing," when told about the meeting between Clayton and two men who said they represented the Prudential Insurance Co. to discuss the employees' coverage. When asked what he thought about Clayton keeping the money for three months, Hobby replied "I don't know about that."

Clayton told the news conference he would do "whatever is within my power to vindicate myself from this apparent political assassination."

Clayton's attorney, Charles Burton, would not let Clayton answer questions, but Burton said in answer to a question that Clayton planned to continue his campaign to become speaker for a fourth straight time in 1981. Clayton claimed several months ago he had more than enough pledges from House members to be re-elected.

"I have been advised that certain of my political adversaries are already attempting to take advantage of these unfounded accusations, but I am confident that my colleagues in the House will withhold judgment until all the facts are in," he said in his Saturday statement.

Rep. John Bryant, D-Dallas, who has been a Clayton challenger for several months, said Sunday he had gained enough votes in the past 24 hours for a "conclusive" win.

Bryant said last week, before Clayton's news conference, that he had 62 commitments of the 76 needed to elect a speaker.

"Most of the people (House members and prospective members) who were on the fence have jumped off it," he said Saturday night. "They called me, for whatever reason — and indicated they are no longer hesitant and want to be counted as a vote."

Bryant, who has been an outspoken leader of liberals in the House, stressed that he would not use the allegations against Clayton to solicit votes. "I'm not going to be a vulture," he said.

Rep. Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, a conservative and close associate of Clayton, said Sunday he was soliciting "second" pledges from Clayton supporters, in case Clayton drops out of the race.

"You never know when these (second pledges) could turn into gold," said Lewis who was appointed by Clayton to be chairman of the important House Committee on Intergovernmental Affairs.

Lewis said he had talked to Clayton earlier about a possible race in 1983.

Lewis said the state representatives he talked with did not seem upset about the allegations against the speaker.

"The ones I've talked to think it's a setup job," Lewis said. "They're not jumping ship on Clayton at all."

Other House members who have been considered possible candidates for speaker include Reps. Hamp Atkinson, New Boston, Bennie Bock, New Braunfels, Tom Uher, Bay City, and Tim von Dohlen, all Democrats.

Digestive Problems Plague Tito

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (UPI) — President Josip Broz Tito, 87, has developed kidney and digestive troubles, his doctors said Sunday, in the first hint of complications since his left leg was amputated three weeks ago.

A medical bulletin issued by a team of doctors at the clinical center in Ljubljana in northwestern Yugoslavia and carried by the national news agency Tanjug was the first report on Tito since a bulletin Thursday said his "general health condition ... was further improving."

But the latest bulletin said, "In the course of the past days, the recovery of President Josip Broz Tito has been slowed down due to digestive disorders and certain difficulties in connection with the function of kidney.

"Necessary curative measures are being undertaken," the terse bulletin said without giving further details.

Government sources in Belgrade said Tito's condition was not alarming. They noted the medical report used the phrase "slowed down," and they said this was the first snag in Tito's speedy recovery from the Jan. 20 amputation of his left leg.

A senior Western diplomat said he had been told that Tito was to have left the clinic during the weekend. "The bulletin apparently tells why President Tito was still in hospital," he said.

Just three days after the amputation, Tito began to sit up in bed and shortly plugged below the top of the Chester Limestone formation under 5,000 feet, he said.

Baker said officials did not know if the other eight wells were causing any of the problems.

A Damson spokesman said company officials knew of no evidence that the well is causing the eruptions. The well is on the edge of the area where the eruptions began.

Baker said 59 wells within a three-mile radius of the eruptions have been checked.

Officials estimate it would take more than five weeks to replug the Damson.

Bob Dole's Campaign In Limbo

LACONIA, N.H. (AP) — Sen. Bob Dole of Kansas said Sunday that if he does as badly in New Hampshire as he did in Iowa, he will drop out of the Republican presidential sweepstakes.

Dole, the Republican Party's vice presidential nominee four years ago, made the comment in an interview with radio station WEMJ here.

When asked whether he would continue his campaign if he did poorly in New Hampshire's Feb. 26 primary, Dole replied: "I don't think so. That would be the end."

Among the major GOP contenders, Dole finished last in the non-binding Iowa straw vote of Jan. 21, garnering only 1.5 percent of the vote.

"In Iowa we can look back and say we shouldn't have gone there because we really didn't go there till January 4th or 5th," he said. But Dole noted that he has been in New Hampshire more frequently and now is on a 10-day tour of the state.

Before an audience in Laconia on Saturday, Dole, who has maintained that his Senate duties are the biggest obstacle to his candidacy, said it was a mistake for him to campaign in Iowa.

"We had no business being there," he said.

Dole said he hopes to pick up some support from uncommitted Republicans in New Hampshire, and said he feels he's making progress.

"I don't give up easily," said Dole, one of the six GOP White House aspirants who participated in the Jan. 5 candidate debate in Des Moines.

As of Sunday, Republicans in the non-binding Maine caucuses had given 55 delegates to George Bush, 33 to Ronald Reagan, 18 for former Texas Gov. John Connally and eight for Senate GOP leader Howard Baker.

Bush was holding a reported 10 percentage point lead in state caucus returns late Sunday with no announced percentage points for Dole.

Revised Ethics Code Subject Of Debate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A bruising battle is developing in the legal profession over two controversial provisions in a proposed new code of ethics for the nation's lawyers.

One would put a crack in the current wall of secrecy around an attorney's relationship with his or her clients. The other encourages — but does not force — lawyers to provide more free public service each year.

The secrecy proposal sparked immediate and heated debate when it was unveiled at last week's American Bar Association winter meeting in Chicago.

Under the rule, if a client threatens serious bodily harm or death to another person, a lawyer must disclose the information to "appropriate authorities."

If lesser harm is threatened, it permits a lawyer to breach the confidentiality but does not require it.

The provisions are part of newly revised ABA rules that govern lawyer behavior. The code will undergo hearings and changes during the coming year before replacing the current, 10-year-old attorneys' code that has been widely criticized as outdated and impractical.

Although some attorneys say there is an existing duty to disclose information in such instances as threats, many more feel it is the opening wedge in the privileged relationship a lawyer shares with his client.

"The attorney-client privilege is not the attorney's privilege but the client's," said attorney James R. White of Baltimore. "If clients have the spectre of having you fink on them, it would be intolerable."

"It would destroy the sanctity of the relationship between a lawyer and his client," said attorney Robert Heckenkamp of Springfield, Ill.

Shortly before the proposed code was made public, the ABA Panel drafting it dropped a controversial provision that would have required each attorney to contribute 40 hours of legal work "pro bono publico" — for the public good.

Vigorous opposition halted that proposal, and the panel substituted a section encouraging lawyers to perform such unpaid work and to publicly report it.

"Most of us spend more than 40 hours doing pro bono work, but if you try to institutionalize it, we'll probably do less," said Keith Taylor, a Salt Lake City lawyer.

But John E. Shields, president of the Connecticut bar, said, "If you're going to be serious, it as to be mandatory."

He said Connecticut needs more pro bono work because backups in the state's legal system require a person with marital problems to wait two months for free legal advice.

After public hearings, the ethics code will be placed before the ABA's House of Delegates — its policy-making body — for approval. Even if approved, the code would not have teeth until adopted by state bar associations.

Anti-Drinking Drug Shows Side Effects

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A drug taken by thousands of reformed alcoholics to keep them from drinking has proven useful in the treatment of well-motivated patients, a non-profit medical newsletter says.

The Medical Letter, which evaluates drugs and therapeutic practices, warned in an updating report in its Jan. 11 edition, however, that the drug disulfiram can cause some serious side effects.

Disulfiram, known commercially as Antabuse, reacts with alcohol to make the person ill. The severity of the reaction varies with the individual, the dose of disulfiram taken and the amount of alcohol consumed.

The publication said the patient usually feels hot and the face becomes flushed within 5 or 10 minutes. More severe reactions include headaches, nausea, breathing difficulty, chest pain, low blood pressure, confusion and dizziness. It said the most severe reactions can cause heart failure, convulsions and even death.

"Although the effectiveness of disulfiram for treatment of alcoholism has never been established by well-controlled clinical trials, Medical Letter consultants experienced in the treatment of alcoholism are convinced that it is useful in the treatment of selected patients," the newsletter said.

The Medical Letter said it has been estimated that several hundred thousand abstinent patients take the drug every day "to arm themselves against an impulse to take a drink."

It said the most common adverse effect, not including reactions with alcohol, is sedation. It also can cause mild digestive system disturbances, elevated levels of cholesterol in the drug which can be prevented with another drug and nervous system problems.

The Medical Letter said the main problem in the use of the drug is compliance.

It should never be given to an intoxicated patient or to someone who has not been fully advised of its effects.

Sniper Injures Motorist

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — A highway gunman fired on at least one car Saturday, critically injuring one motorist, police said.

The shooting occurred at 8:25 p.m. CST, and the gunshot struck a man driving south on U.S. Highway 101, police said.

A few minutes later, a motorist a mile away on Highway 680 reported his windshield was shot out. But after a preliminary examination, police were unable to confirm that a bullet caused the damage.

Michael A. Percelle, 24, of Santa Cruz, was taken to San Jose Hospital with a gunshot wound to the head, police said.

"He's comatose but he's still with us," said a hospital supervisor who declined to be identified.

Traffic backed up immediately on the freeway and numerous traffic accidents were reported.

Israel Confirms Jewish Right To Settle Arab Hebron Region

HEBRON, Israeli-occupied West Bank (UPI) — In a move certain to spark Arab protests, the government Sunday bowed to pressures from radical Jewish settlers and opened the way for Jews to settle in Arab Hebron for the first time in 50 years.

The Cabinet, however, deferred a decision on when Jews may take up residence in the Arab-populated city of 70,000, about 20 miles south of Jerusalem and a center of anti-Israeli agitation that has been under Israeli rule since 1967.

To press their case for Jewish presence in Hebron, a few hundred rifle-toting settlers from the Jewish suburb of Kiryat Arba gathered for prayers at the ancient Tomb of the Patriarchs and then toured homes in Hebron's old Jewish quarter abandoned 50 years ago during Arab rioting in the city.

Meeting in Jerusalem, the Cabinet decided "in accordance with the basic principles of its policy, approved by the Knesset (parliament), there is no impediment to Jews living in Hebron as in any other part of the Land of Israel," the term for the biblical Israel, that included the modern state as well as the West Bank territories.

"Concerning the place and timing of habitation, the Cabinet will decide," a statement after the regular weekly session said.

The Cabinet also decided to "work for the strengthening of Kiryat Arba," the settlement of about 3,000 Jews that has often been in friction with its Arab neighbors in Hebron.

State-run Israeli Radio said the decision was a compromise offered by Prime Minister Menachem Begin between radicals demanding settlement in Hebron immediately and Defense Minister Ezer Weizman's faction wanting indefinite postponement while affirming no legal impediment to Jewish settlement in the city.

Interior Minister Josef Burg — Israel's chief negotiator to the Palestinian autonomy talks — was among some 200 people at a groundbreaking ceremony Sunday for the new Jewish urban center of Efrat, just off the West Bank road from Jerusalem to Hebron.

Noting the government decision, Burg said Israel was taking steps to enlarge the Jewish presence in Hebron.

The Kiryat Arba settlers, and others from the ultranationalist Gush Emunim movement, held a memorial service in the Abraham Our Father synagogue in Hebron for Jesper Jehoshua Sloma, a 23-year-old seminary student shot dead in the city's marketplace last Thursday.

But Israeli soldiers stopped them from setting a memorial stone at the site of the shooting.

Kiryat Arba leader Moshe Levinger called on Hebron Mayor Fahd Kawasme to come to the suburb and apologize for Sloma's slaying.

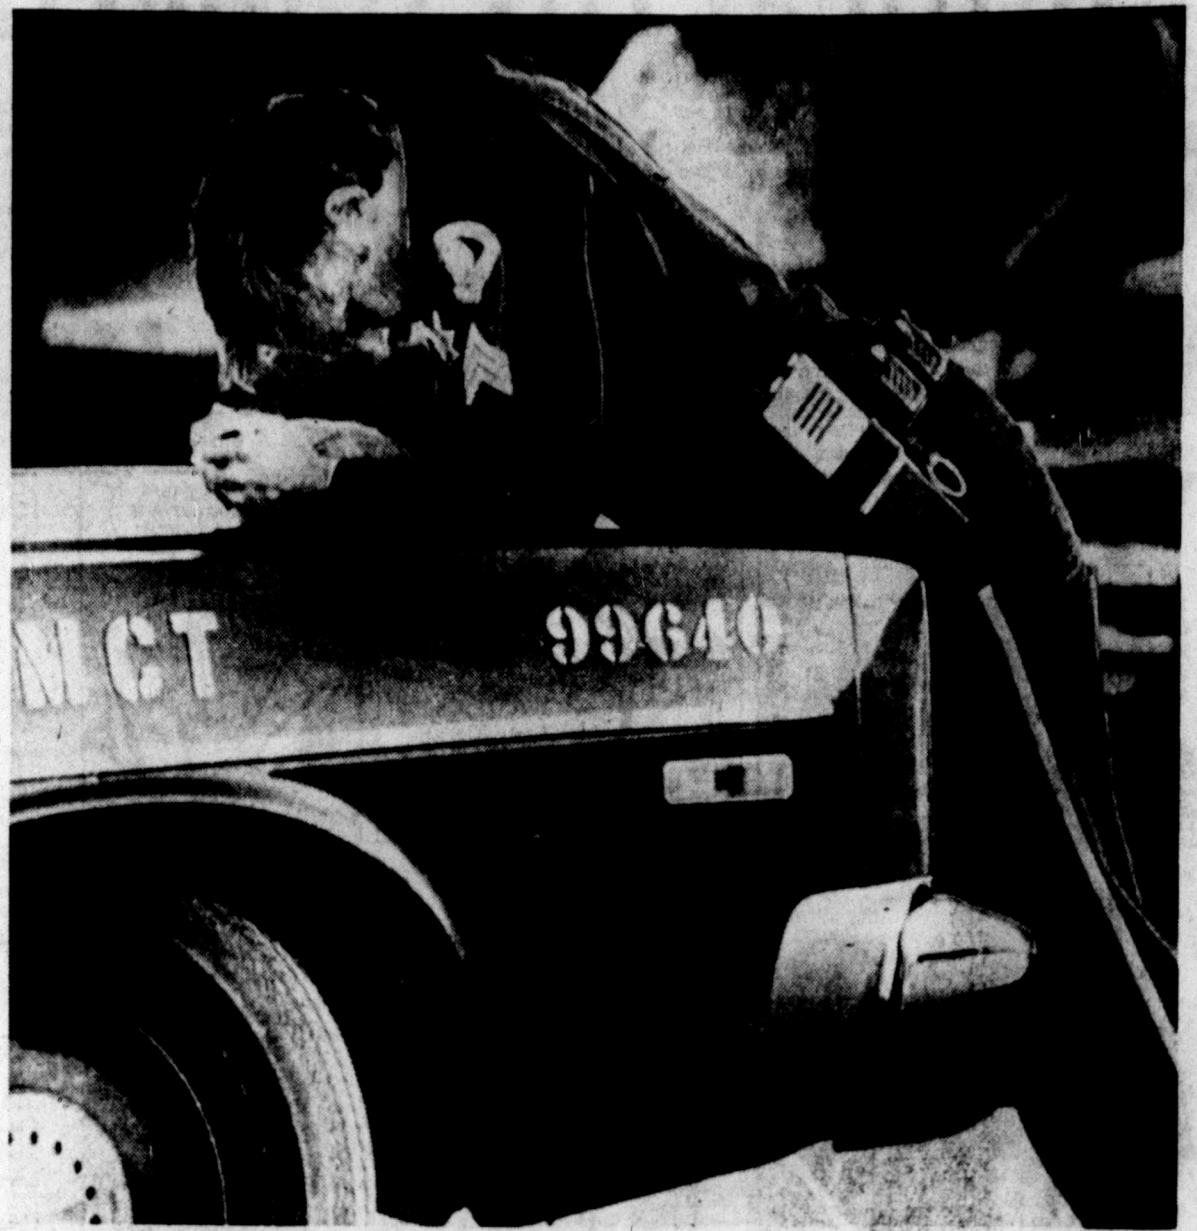

"If he doesn't apologize," Levinger said, "then this is a war."

An 11-day curfew on 20,000 residents in the center of Hebron was lifted late Sunday. Military officials said they imposed the curfew to help house-to-house search efforts to catch Sloma's assailant.

Though more than a dozen Arab suspects have been detained for questioning in the case, no one has yet been charged.

"Hebron is the very root of Jewishness," said Elkayim Haetzni, a Kiryat Arab resident. "This is where our forefathers are buried."

Kawasme has said Jews would be welcome to return to Hebron — if Palestinians who fled their homes in Jerusalem, Lod, Ramle, Jaffa and elsewhere in Israel proper during the 1948 war could have their property back.

gunpoint for at least 15 minutes during an hour-long siege that saw numerous shots sprayed around a residential neighborhood. Nobody was hurt in the incident. (AP Laserphoto)

Echoes Of 1960s Reverberating About Nation In Face Of Draft

By The Associated Press

Anti-draft demonstrators in Lawrence, Kan., substituted "Afghanistan" for "Vietnam" in an old war protest song called, "I Feel Like I'm Fixing to Die Rag."

About 2,500 chanting and singing protesters marched on President Carter's campaign headquarters in Manhattan. A rock smashed one window and three men were arrested, two for burning a Carter poster and a small American flag.

Young women, speaking into the microphones of reporters on several campuses, said they would take a cue from their older brothers and flee to Canada if conscripted for war.

Speakers at a "Draft Teach-in" at the University of Wisconsin attacked the president's "Cold War mentality."

Thus echoes of the 1960s reverberated in the nation's heartland and big cities over the weekend in reaction to Carter's call to register young men and women ages 18 to 20 for the draft.

But there are some big differences in today's debate. Never before has this country considered drafting women. And Afghanistan is not Vietnam.

The New York Times, hardly hawkish during the war in Southeast Asia, said in an editorial Sunday. "President Carter is right to fear that Americans are perceived abroad as flabby, unwilling to bear the burden of their policies."

While questioning the need for revising the draft any time soon, the newspaper said, "The registration of draftable youth can help to challenge that impression."

While supporters of the Equal Rights Amendment have generally agreed women should be included in any draft, ERA opponents are outraged.

Phyllis Schlafly, one of the most vocal women in the anti-ERA camp, told a meeting of the North Carolina Conservative Society in Greensboro, N.C., on Saturday that drafting women would make America the "laughing stock of the world."

It would reduce the combat-readiness of our armed forces to the physical strength of the average woman — about 60 percent of men — and it would severely handicap troops because 15 percent of Army women at any one time are pregnant and another 6 percent are single parents who have their babies in the post nursery.

But former Rep. Bella Abzug got a big ovation from the 2,500 demonstrators in Manhattan on Saturday when she said, "The issue is not whether women should be registered but whether anyone should be registered."

That was the message proffered on the placards of about 60 demonstrators who stomped about in the snow of Lawrence, Kan., on Saturday while listening to live speakers attacking "the tyranny of involuntary servitude."

It was the theme in Boston where about 70 supporters of the Boston Alliance Against Registration turned out as a warmup for an anti-draft rally at Boston University on Thursday and a protest scheduled in Washington, D.C., on March 22.

In Columbia, Mo., the home of the University of Missouri, about a dozen persons who said they were members of the Fellowship of Reconciliation and the War Resisters League, collected about 85 signatures on an anti-draft petition. Some carried signs reading, "Not My Daughter, Not My Son."

Sam Day, managing editor of The Progressive Magazine, told about 100 young men and women at a "Draft Teach-in" at the University of Wisconsin in Madison that since the American's were taken hostage in Iran and the Soviet Union moved into Afghanistan, there has been a "national reorientation" brought about in part by alarms raised by Carter, politicians and the news media.

"A national security button has been pushed," he said. "A national security pill has been pushed on the American people."

With "Afghansitan" substituted for "Vietnam," the group of protesters in Lawrence ended their rally singing: "It's one, two, three, what are we fighting for...don't ask me...I don't give a damn...next stop's Afghanistan."

But some among the hundreds of men and women who gathered in frigid weather outside Philadelphia's City Hall said there is a big difference in the issues today.

"It's a different ball game," said Betty Sweet, 23, of the International League for Peace and Freedom. "We're talking about nuclear war."

Elizabeth McAlister, a former nun and antiwar activist acquitted with her husband Philip Berrigan in 1972 on charges of plotting to kidnap Henry Kissinger, drew cheers from the demonstrators when she said:

"I have an awful lot of trouble with 'Hell No, We Won't Go' as a slogan. It is self-centered. We should be saying, 'We will not contribute further to the oppression of sisters and brothers who are already sufficiently oppressed.'"

Former INS Man Investigated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The FBI is investigating allegations that Mario Noto, former No. 2 man in the Immigration and Naturalization Service, acted improperly to help an organized crime chief fight deportation, federal sources said Sunday.

The investigation was triggered by evidence turned up in an FBI "sting" operation that has implicated several public officials and mobsters in Louisiana, sources said.

Evidence may indicate that Noto helped Carlos Marcello avoid deportation after Noto was contacted by Washington, D.C., public relations executive I. Irving Davidson, sources said. Marcello had been identified by high-ranking Justice Department officials as a national organized crime leader.

In a telephone interview Sunday, Davidson said he contacted Noto at a party and asked for help for Marcello, whom he described as a longtime friend. He said Noto told him Marcello should write a letter to the INS — a very moving letter, I thought. But nothing ever came of it," said Davidson.

Davidson said he is cooperating with the FBI investigation. But he denied promising or giving anything to Noto, although he told the Washington Post he has helped Noto, a lawyer, get clients since Noto left the INS last October amid reports he was being investigated on corruption allegations. Davidson said that help had nothing to do with the Marcello affair.

"I have known Mr. Marcello for about 25 years and I like him very much. I tried to help him by going to the Immigration Service openly," said Davidson.

"I simply asked the INS: 'Why are you people hassling this man forever? Why can't he move without your checking on him. He's not going to go anywhere.'"

Neither Marcello — who is reported to be among those under investigation in an FBI Undercover operation involving insurance contracts in Louisiana, Texas and two other states, nor Noto was available for comment.

Washington attorney Jack Wasserman, who has handled a portion of Marcello's deportation defense, told the New Orleans Times-Picayune allegations against Marcello are unclear.

"It's rather indefinite as to just what he did and it's very hard to answer a charge like that," Wasserman said. "They've tried to tie him up with a lot of things that he had nothing to do with solely because he knows a lot of people."

In the two major sting undercover cases that have surfaced recently, FBI agents have posed as wealthy Arab businessmen trying to buy influence in Congress and as insurance executives attempting to influence labor insurance contracts in Louisiana and Texas.

The second scheme was codenamed "Briblab" for bribery involving labor. In that year-long investigation, sources said, FBI agents posed as Prudential Insurance Co. officials with mob connections and offered kickbacks to politicians to help pave the way for sale of health insurance policies.

Louisiana Gov. Edwin Edwards, Lt. Gov. Jimmy Fitzmorris and Texas house Speaker Bill Clayton have acknowledged receiving federal subpoenas in the "Briblab" investigation. The New York Times quoted law enforcement sources Sunday as saying Edwards had taken no money from agents. It also said sources have declined to say whether Edwards, who leaves office March 10, was a target of the investigation.

Derailment Leads To Evacuation

WALNUT RIDGE, Ark. (AP) — About 220 residents of the small community of O Keane in northeast Arkansas were evacuated from their homes Saturday after the collision of two freight trains triggered an explosion and fire, authorities said.

A tanker car carrying vinyl chloride was burning, and railroad officials feared a tanker loaded with ethylene oxide could explode, according to Lt. Ewell Woodson of the Walnut Ridge Fire Department.

Ethylene oxide is a flammable liquid that emits toxic fumes when it burns, Woodson said.

A northbound Missouri Pacific freight train jumped the tracks, derailed and was struck by the engine of a southbound train, said Trooper Dwight Tosh of the Arkansas State Police.

The accident occurred at about 6:45 p.m. CST near the intersection of Arkansas Highways 90 and 34, about 10 miles northeast of here.

One crewman from a train was injured, authorities said. Ed Crawford was reported in satisfactory condition at a Walnut Ridge hospital, where he was treated for minor burns.

CAREERS

By JOYCE LAIN KENNEDY

Dear Joyce: I am interested in becoming a U.S. park ranger. Can you help me find out about it?

S.R., Montgomery, Ala.

I'd like to hear from readers with background on this one — numbers information seems to be as elusive as the abominable snowman. Despite repeated inquiries to the National Park Service, I never received a satisfying answer on how many permanent staff openings are anticipated this year and in what part of the country hiring prospects seem brightest.

The best I can say is that competition continues to be staggering for this glamorous image job. And the work may not be what you expect.

Because of the current emphasis on urban programs, rangers are encouraged to spend at least a year in city settings. So, you might manage a rock concert for inner city kids at one point in your career, while rescuing overzealous climbers or leading fireside nature talks at others. Advancement leads to management duties.

Undaunted by the dismal prospects for getting hired? Still eager for the $11, 000 to $14,000 beginning salary?

Then complete a four-year college program with subjects applicable to park management, or obtain three years of park or conservation experience. Establish your eligibility by taking the Federal Personnel Administration Competence Examination at the nearest U.S. Office of Personnel Management branch.

Park managers, the state equivalent of park rangers, are concerned with operation, maintenance, public recreation, administrative and personal tasks. William F. Ryan, president of the National Association of State Park Directors, says the best way to break in is to obtain a degree in recreation administration or management, with plenty of internship experience along the way. At the state level, Ryan says 50 applicants compete for each opening.

Before butting your head against a locked gate, consider the back door. Graduates of two-year programs in natural resources or conservation technology are said to be finding jobs, mainly at the state level, as for forestry, wildlife management or soil conservation aides. Promotion opportunities can lead to park manager work.

The National Recreation and Park Association sells career pamphlets for $3 each, you can obtain a free listing from the association's publications office at 1601 N. Kent St., 11th Floor, Arlington, Va. 22209.

READER SERVICE: To receive a 24-page government brochure, "Career Outlines: National Park Service," enclose a gummed, self-addressed mailing label with your request to Joyce Lain Kennedy at this newspaper. Its salary date is out-of-date, but general information on the work of a park ranger is given. As for "Park Ranger," The offer ends April 1, 1980. Allow several weeks for delivery.

Political Ills Imperil Future Olympics

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

LAKE PLACID, N. Y. (AP) — Is the Modern Olympic movement doomed? Will the XIII Winter Games, opening Wednesday in this little Adirondack village be the last for years, perhaps generations?

Such a somber spectre was raised Saturday night when the meeting of the International Olympic Committee meeting was formally opened with a sharp division between the IOC president, Lord Killanin, and U.S. Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, representing the president of the United States, on the basic concept of the quadrennial international sports spectacle.

"If the basic principles of the Olympics are ignored," Vance said in his welcoming address, urging a shift of the 1980 Summer Olympics from Moscow, "the future of the Games themselves will be placed in jeopardy."

"Solutions to the political problems of the world," countered Killanin, are not the responsibility of sporting bodies such as the International Olympic Committee but of the appropriate governmental organizations."

In effect, Vance, speaking for the U. S. government, contends it is impossible to play friendly games with a nation that is beating up on a neighbor — in this case, the USSR's invasion of Afghanistan.

"To hold the Olympics in any nation that is warring on another," he insisted,

"is to lend the Olympic mantle to that nation's actions."

Killanin, acknowledging that the Olympic movement is far short of purity, said totalitarian regimes exist on both the left and right, and added: "I would implore ... we do not use the Olympic Games to divide the world, but to unite it."

Vance sees hypocrisy in such thinking and argues that "struggles of peoples to preserve their peace and independence will be contradicted and diminished" if the Olympics are held in a country involved in aggression.

D SPORTS

Lubbock Avalanche-Journal Monday Morning, February 11, 1980

The American position was greeted politely but coolly by the audience, which was largely Olympic oriented, and even U. S. delegates to the IOC felt Vance was impolite to bring politics into his welcoming speech.

To Vance and to his government, this was not — as he emphasized — sheer politics. It runs deeper than that. It concerns survival — not just for America but for the entire world. The White House has made it clear that further aggression on the part of the USSR conceivably could trigger nuclear atomic war.

The Secretary didn't raise that unthinkable possibility but he stressed in the strongest terms that there was no place for fun and games when civilization may hang in the balance.

Some may interpret this as over-reaction and panic. The U. S. members of the IOC, Doug Floby and Julian K. Roosevelt, did. But the same bias, don't-rock-the-boat attitude was present in 1936 prior to Adolf Hitler's Nazi Olympics. The world learned its lesson, or did it?

The Moscow pullout controversy has driven a wedge between nations and people, even U. S. Olympic athletes. The IOC is weighted heavily toward business as usual — on to Moscow. But Carter is hanging tough. He is hitting back where he thinks it hurts.

"The president is damn mad," a source close to the U. S. Olympic Committee says. "He has laid down the law to the USOC. No Moscow, not even if the Russians suddenly say they're getting out of Afghanistan. He sees the present situation as far more serious than preservation of a sports event."

The IOC undoubtedly will vote to keep the Games in Moscow. You can't insult a strong member. The United States and some of its friends — the number undetermined — probably will elect not to show.

In this stand, Carter has the overwhelming support of Congress and the American people, as shown in Congressional responses and public opinion polls.

Thus the danger to the Olympic movement. If Moscow flops, there probably will be no Los Angeles Games in 1984. Then perhaps there would be an Olympic drought like that which followed the cancellation of the original Games after they became riddled with graft, nationalism and commercialism. But there is hope that everything will work out for the common good.

In his address, Lord Killanin decried the expansion of chauvinism, commercialism and other evils that have crept in and promised that, in meetings this week, the IOC will go to work on restructuring the Games to the benefit of all. Let's hope so.

Uninvited Soviet Athletes Land

NEW YORK (AP) — An Aeroflot flight carrying the Soviet contingent to the Winter Olympics landed at Kennedy Airport on Sunday, ignoring an agreement not to use the airport without making arrangements for handling the Soviet airline's baggage and passengers, an airport spokesman said.

The flight, one of two regularly-scheduled to the United States each week, landed at 3:13 p.m. and was ordered to taxi to a remote security area until the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey, owners of the airport, and the State Department decided how to handle the matter, according to Ed Franzetti, a spokesman for the Port Authority.

Franzetti said the PA had not been told that any organization had agreed to service the airline.

The Port Authority said the flight carried 134 passengers and 11 crew. It said 122 of the passengers were bound for the Winter Olympic Games, which open in Lake Placid on Tuesday.

Last week, a similar unauthorized flight was grounded at Kennedy for 28 hours after the airline ignored recommendations to bypass Kennedy and land at Dulles Airport near Washington, D.C.

Dulles is operated by the federal government; Kennedy is a private facility. On Aeroflot's regular schedule, every week a flight goes to each airport.

Hughes said the officials at Kennedy were under the impression both Soviet flights would land at Dulles this week, an assumption he said was shared by the State Department. About two hours before arrival, Aeroflot notified Kennedy it intended to land in New York.

"Just how they're going to handle it (the plane), I don't know," he said.

The stalemate at the airport has its roots in the Soviet involvement in Afghanistan. Ground crews at the airport, members of the Teamsters Union, in early January refused to service the Aeroflot flights in protest of the Soviet military move. Flights arriving after the boycott were serviced by Aeroflot employees.

Malaysia Backs Games' Boycott

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — The Olympic Council of Malaysia has decided not to participate in the Moscow Summer Games. Council President Hamzah Abu Samah said Sunday.

Hamzah said the Olympic Council was acting on the advice of the Malaysian government to stay away from the Games as a protest against Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan.

His remarks, prepared for delivery to the International Olympic Committee in Lake Placid, N.Y., were released in Malaysia by the government.

Malaysia still will host an Olympic soccer qualifying tournament scheduled to begin March 23 in Kuala Lumpur, he said.

"Our national council reached its decision independently and out of respect for the grave issues of principle," he said.

Cougars' Effort Squares Account

By The Associated Press
The Houston Cougars worked overtime Saturday to pay off a debt to the Texas Aggies, then the Rice Owls almost worked a miracle to spoil the effort.

Ever since the football Aggies upset the Texas Longhorns in the final game of the Southwest Conference football season to send Houston to the Cotton Bowl, the Cougars have owed the Aggies one.

The Cougs paid off Saturday in triple overtime with a 90-84 victory over the Arkansas Razorbacks, putting the Aggies at the head of the SWC basketball class — just barely.

The rapidly improving Rice Owls, who upset Texas Tech earlier in the week, were subdued 55-53 thanks to two clutch free throws by center Rudy Woods before a nervous pro-Texas A&M audience of 7,000 in G. Rolfe White Coliseum where the Ags haven't lost this year.

Not only did Arkansas lose in overtime but the Razorbacks missed their airplane and didn't fly out of Houston until Sunday.

"Texas A&M is getting a break because we missed our flight," said Arkansas coach Eddie Sutton. "It will cost us the one hard practice we had looked forward to before the A&M game (Tuesday night)."

The Aggies are 11-1 and a game ahead of the 10-2 Razorbacks in the race for the regular-season title. The two teams meet Tuesday night in Fayetteville. A&M must still make a perilous road trip to Houston in two weeks.

Arkansas lost to the Aggies in College Station in January.

The first two finishers get a bye all the way to the finals in the SWC Tournament Feb. 28-March 1 in San Antonio.

Texas, Texas Tech and Houston are locked in a battle for third place.

Texas (7-5) was idle over the weekend and hosts Baylor Tuesday night.

Texas Tech (7-6) is idle Tuesday night while Houston (6-6) hosts Texas Christian.

The third-place finisher gets a bye to the quarterfinals in the SWC tourney.

In other games Saturday night, frosh guard Dave Pheiler hit 16 of 18 field goal attempts for 32 points in a 76-57 Southern Methodist victory over Texas Christian and Baylor stunned Texas Tech 79-56 behind Terry Teagle's 24 points.

Aggie coach Shelby Metcalf called Rice "the most improved team in the

Castillo, Blake Highlight Boxing

By NORVAL POLLARD
Executive Sports Editor
Robin Blake and Gilbert Castillo, two area boxers with Olympic aspirations and proven credentials, headline this year's South Plains Regional Golden Gloves boxing tournament.

The tournament begins Thursday and will continue through Saturday. Boxing action begins each night (Thursday, Friday and Saturday) at 7:30. All three sessions of the tournament will be held at the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center.

Blake, from Levelland, has lost only one fight since entering open competition two years ago. The 132-pounder will fight at least two, and possibly three, exhibition matches against opponents undetermined at this time.

Blake, 17 years old and ranked second in the United States at 132-pounds behind 1976 Olympic participant Dave Armstrong, does not have to qualify for the

Chap Cage Teams Play At Trinity

SAN ANTONIO (Special) — The Lubbock Christian College basketball teams, which split in games against Tarleton Saturday in Stephenville, meet Trinity University here tonight in the Texas Intercollegiate Athletic Association.

The LCC men defeated Tarleton 81-80 on a pair of late free throws by Kevin Wharton while the Lady Chaps were drubbed 86-63 by the TSU women.

The men's game with Trinity begins at 8 p.m. tonight while the women tip off at 6 p.m.

The victory evened the Chaparrals' record at 15-15 overall.

state Golden Gloves tournament to be held March 4 through 8 in Fort Worth. That weekend, Blake will be in East Germany with the U.S. National boxing squad for a pair of matches with the East Germans.

Blake automatically advances to the national Golden Gloves tournament (March 26 through 29 in Shreveport, La.) because of his involvement in international competition.

Blake has already fought Russian, Korean, English and Polish boxers in international competition.

Castillo, a 16-year-old sophomore at Lubbock High, has not been able to accept international competition invitations because he has not yet reached the age of 17. Castillo will turn 17 at the end of March.

Castillo has compiled an amazing 180-19 record in 10 years of boxing and is optimistic about being invited to the U.S. Olympic boxing team tryout in Atlanta this summer, then earning a berth on the U.S. Olympic squad. Castillo has captured Golden Gloves regional championships the past nine years.

Tickets for all three sessions of the South Plains Golden Gloves tournament are now on sale at four locations throughout Lubbock. They may be purchased at Oshman's Sporting Goods; Athletic Supply, Inc.; Video Cassettes, Etc.; and the Civic Center ticket office.

Tickets are priced at $5, $4 and $3. Ringside seats are going for $5. Bleacher seats are $4. General admission is $3.

There are a limited number of ringside seats (approximately 500) and they will be sold on a first-come, first-served basis. Tickets will be sold at the Civic Center ticket office up until boxing begins each evening. Doors will open each night at 6:30.

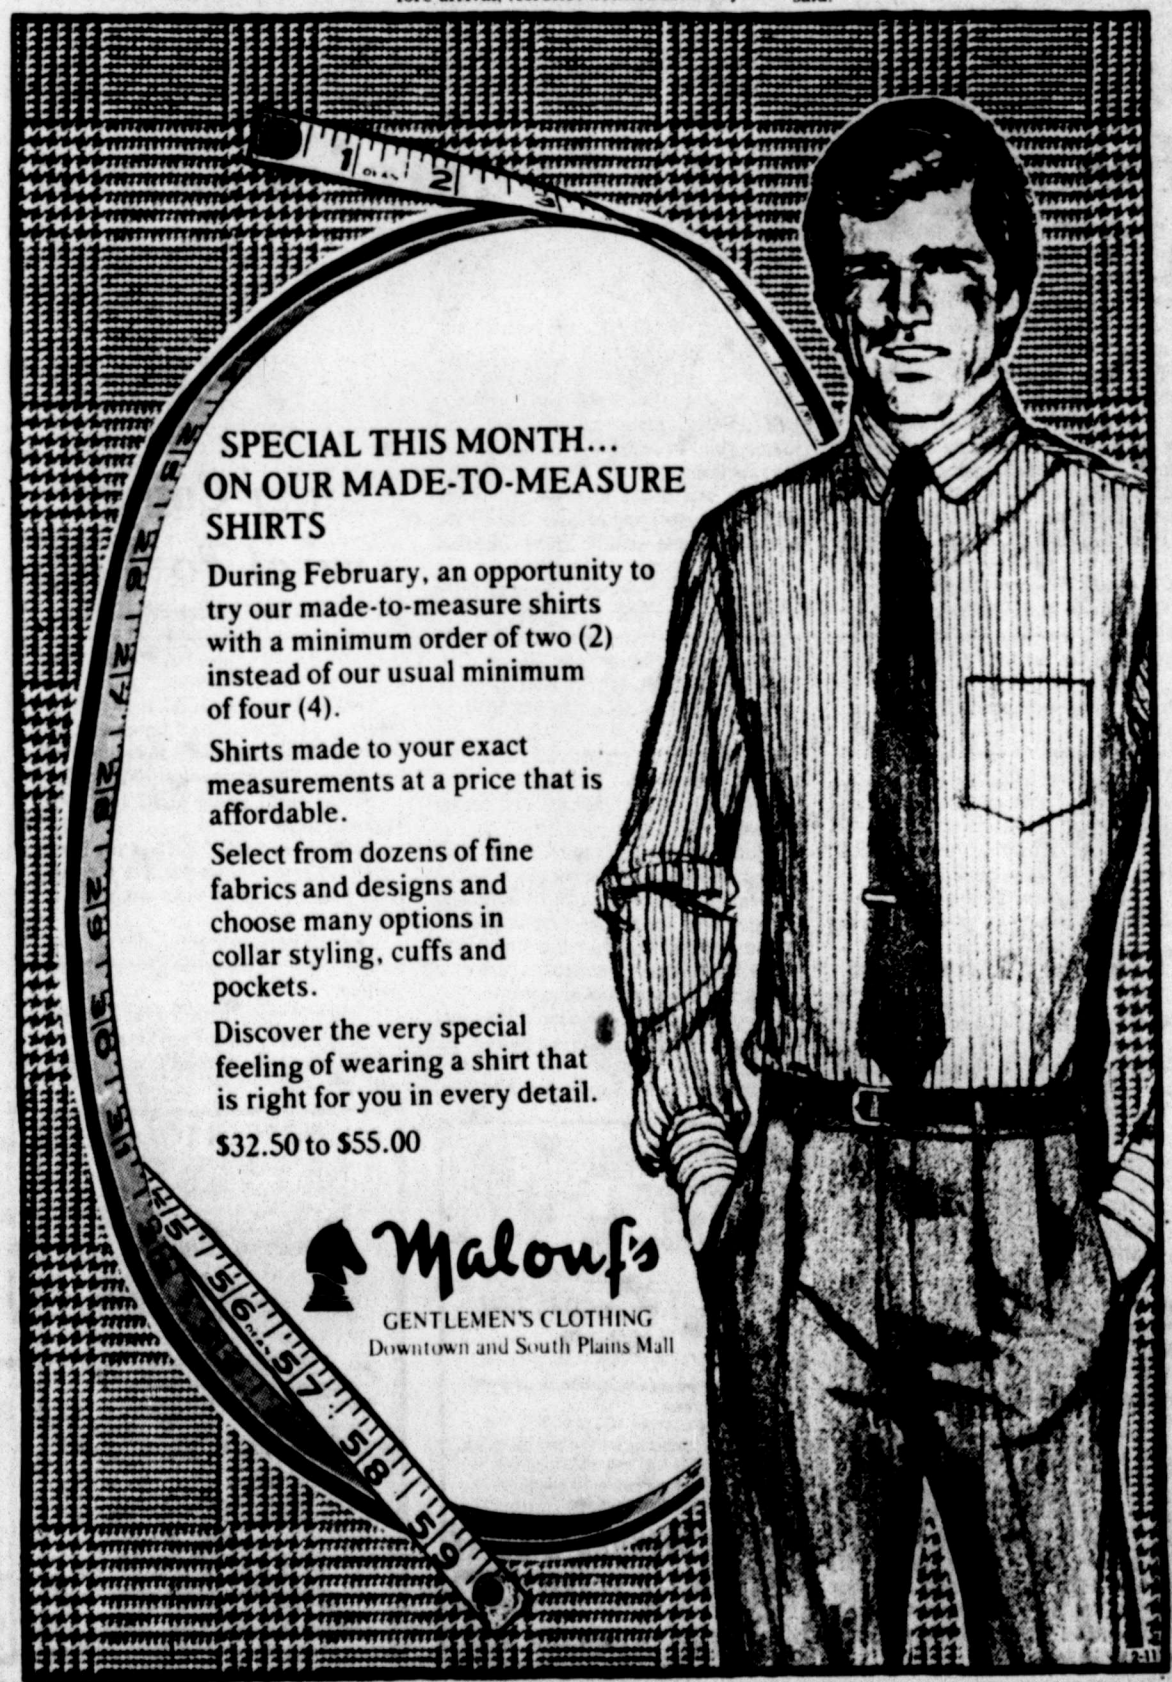

This year's Golden Gloves tournament will feature approximately 120 of the area's top young amateur boxers. The fighters will compete in junior, high school and open divisions.

This will also be the first year that Golden Gloves action must be officiated by Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) sanctioned officials.

PHS Rallies Behind Late-Season Surge

By JIM FERGUSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Nobody gave the Plainview Bulldogs much chance of advancing past even their school song in the District 4-AAAA title race.

And there was plenty of good, sound logic behind that thinking, too. In the conference's first-half action, the Bulldogs had completely belly-flopped. Only a win over Lubbock High kept PHS from staking undisputed claim on the district's mushroom garden.

But now Plainview, that team that finished 1-3 in the early round, is making a run at the second-half title — and a good one at that.

Plainview, 16-11 for the year, heads the five-team pack with a 2-0 record and owns a full-game lead over both Monterey and Hereford in the title chase with a pair of tip offs left. All that stands between the 'Dogs and the throne room are wins over Monterey and Lubbock High. After taking Tuesday night off, PHS jumps back into action Friday night against the Plainsmen and then finishes up the season Tuesday evening with a return match against the Westerners in Plainview.

The Bulldogs opened their final stretch run last week by knocking off Hereford 59-54 and Coronado 71-70. In the victory over CHS, the Bulldogs overcame a 17-point Mustang lead in the third quarter and went on to nip their hosts. Keith Jordan hit 22 points, K. T. Taylor added 19 and Ernest Mosley bucketed 14 more to pace the Plainview scoring attack.

A sudden Plainview flurry which saw the Bulldogs outscore the Mustangs 13-0 during a five-minute span in the third quarter helped PHS overcome the 17-point lead. But during the onslaught, no individual really led the way. It was more a team job. In fact, Mosley was the only Plainviewian that scored more than one bucket; he had a pair.

"They have as much talent, maybe more talent, than anybody in the district," said Lubbock High coach Craig Wells.

But until the second half, the Bulldogs hadn't been able to put two-and-two together, much less a winning season.

The 'Dogs started the first-half by losing to Hereford 52-48. That was followed by a one-point, 69-68, nipping by Coronado. And that was followed by a 64-53 overtime setback to Monterey. They were the bridesmaids but never the bride, it seemed, in the early going.

And it appeared the Bulldogs were in store for much of the same in the second half, too. Right before the new season started, the Bulldogs looked anything but world-beaters in a 75-57 victory over the Westerners.

During PHS' win over Coronado, Wells commented: "That's the way they should have been playing all year. It just took them a little longer to come around."

Hereford apparently holds some kind of heavy Mojo on Monterey. Hereford defeated the Plainsmen back in 1977 to win the title. Since that loss, Monterey had gone on to roll up 23 straight conference wins. But against Hereford, Friday night, that string was broken when Hereford scored a 52-43 upset. The loss dropped HHS and MHS back into a second-place tie with one win and one loss apiece.

Pampa, bidding to win the second-half title in District 3-AAAA, faces a pair of crucial contests this week. The Harvesters, now 2-0 in round two, meet first-half victor Palo Duro on Tuesday night and come back to finish the season Friday against Amarillo, also currently unbeaten. Insiders say, however, that PDHS is still the team to beat for the title.

The Monterey girls clinched a bi-district playoff spot opposite the District 3-AAAA winner — probably Amarillo High — by defeating Hereford 83-52. Ranked second in the state behind Dallas South Oak Cliff, Monterey needs only a win over Coronado Tuesday night to claim outright wins in both halves.

Rush Begins For Playoff Berths

By RUSS PARSONS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

If high school basketball coaches were the calendar-marking types, you can bet the dates Feb. 11-15 would be circled in red under many a foldout.

Those aren't the dates of the big coaches' convention in Houston and they aren't the dates coach and Mrs. Coach head for Hawaii.

That's the week everybody finds out who's going to the post-season parties. They're all invitation-only affairs and you've got to win the district to go. No black ties and no exceptions.

Of the six area boys' and girls' basketball districts in Class AAA, only one is decided.

In boys' District 2-AAA, Andrews has won its first seven loop games, making Tuesday night's contest with Ft. Stockton all but meaningless.

Should the fourth-ranked Mustangs lose to Ft. Stockton, they would tie for the second-half title with Ector, which has already finished its season. Still, Andrews would go to regional play because it won the first half.

Powder the Mustangs is 5-11 Brian Templeton, a 19.5-point per game scorer and 8.7-rebound per game boarder. He is joined by 5-11 sophomore Keith Brooks, a 13.0 scorer and 9.5 rebounder. 5-8 junior Jerry Alaniz is chipping in another 16.1 points a game.

Andrews will meet either Borger or Estacado in the first round of the playoffs, but for the Matadors to earn the berth, they have to win their next four games, including two against Borger.

The two teams tied for the District 1-AAA first-half title and now, two games into the second-half, Borger has a one-game lead.

Estacado will not only have to beat Borger in their head-to-head matchup Tuesday night, but would then have to knock off Levelland on the road and Dunbar. Then they would get to play Borger again in a playoff.

Borger is fueled by the Mutt and Jeff tandem of Brett Smith and Chester Williams.

Smith is averaging 20.6 points and 11.1 rebounds a game while Williams is contributing another 17.1 points a game.

The Matadors, on the other hand, derive their power from a high-fueled fast break and full-court press attack. Leading Estacado is 6-4 Tim Williams (14 points a game), 6-3 John Jones (16.1) and 6-0 Preston Davis (14.6).

A couple of other district teams have outside chances at claiming second-half titles and forcing a playoff. Dumas is 1-1 since the break with Dunbar, Canyon and Levelland remaining and Canyon is 1-1 with Levelland, Dumas and Borger left.

In girls' play in 2-AAA, it seems a playoff is imminent. Ector finished the season 3-1 in the second half after winning the first half. Monahans is currently 3-0 with a game remaining.

Should, as appears certain, Monahans win that game, it would face Ector in a playoff. The Eagles won the teams' first confrontation 47-46. Monahans won the second 49-48. Should Monahans lose, the teams would tie for the second-half title but Ector would represent because of the first-half win.

In 1-AAA, seemingly unbeatable and second-ranked-in-the-state Dumas was beaten. Canyon (21-8 and ranked sixth) topped the Demons and now lead the second half by one game.

If the Eagles hold out against Levelland Tuesday night, a playoff will follow. But should the Lobos pull an upset and Dumas also beat Dunbar, the Demons would automatically represent.

Bean Bags Golf Championship

HONOLULU (AP) — Andy Bean birdied the 17th hole with a 50-foot putt and added another birdie on the closing hole Sunday to finish with a 66 and win the $25,000 Hawaiian Open with a tournament record 266.

That bettered by one stroke the mark Hubie Green set a year ago.

"I wasn't thinking about a record. I was thinking about winning a golf tournament," said the 210-pound Bean. "I figured a 33 or a 32 on the front nine would put me in good shape, and it did."

Bean carded a 32 on his front nine, then came in with 34 over the 7,234-yard, par-72 Waialeale Country Club course.

He had to withstand a challenge from Lee Trevino, who shot his way into contention early in the final round and then put himself out of the running on the 16th hole, when his approach shot landed in a bunker.

"I tried to be cute and hit out easy," said Trevino. The ball stayed in the trap. Trevino took a bogey and even two birdies on the final two holes left him three strokes back at 66-269, the third best score ever in the Hawaiian Open.

"It's a big advantage to be a long hitter like Bean," observed Trevino. "If you make a mistake, you have four par 5s to make it up on."

Bean, playing with two-time U.S. Open champion Trevino in the final threesome, shot birdies on each of the four par 5 holes Sunday.

"If we can play in weather like this, there would always be good scores," Bean said. "I got everything going, had momentum — and the 17th hole didn't hurt anything."

"Lee was about to make his birdie and I was just trying to have a two-putt, but the first one went in. Things like that happen sometimes."

Bean started Sunday's round with birdies on the first three holes to go ahead of third round co-leader George Burns. The long hitter from Haines City, Fla., and the University of Florida never was headed en route to the $58,500 first prize.

Ed Snead came on with a 68 and a 270 total for third place. Trevino collected $35,100 and Snead $22,100.

Mark Lye shot a 67 for a 271 and dead-locked with Burns for fourth place.

Bean birdied the first three holes and also the ninth for a front-nine 32 and a 4-stroke lead moving into the final nine. Burns had dropped five strokes back on a warm, virtually windless afternoon.

A crowd of 15,299 watched the final round of play, helping to set a tourney record of 57,395.

Local pro Lance Suzuki shot a hole-in-one on the 11th. His No. 6 iron on the 204-yard hole bounced onto the green and rolled in for the fifth ace in regulation play at the Hawaiian Open. Suzuki finished with 70-284.

Tom Watson, leading money-winner on the PGA tour the past three years, wound up with a 68-273, while Arnold Palmer carded 70-281, 7 under par.

Raider Cagers Travel To WBC

PLAINVIEW (Special) — The Texas Tech women's basketball team will visit Wayland Baptist College at 6:30 p.m. tonight in Hutcherson Center.

Tech is 19-8 while WBC is 15-9. Both teams lost to the nation's top-rated University of Texas' women's squad in their last games. The Raiders lost 70-58 to Texas Friday night while WBC fell 86-77 Thursday night.

Tech downed WBC 75-72 in the Municipal Coliseum two weeks ago, the first victory ever for the Raider women over WBC.

Raider Trackmen Compete In Meet

OKLAHOMA CITY (Special) — The Texas Tech track team participated in the Oklahoma University Indoor Classic Saturday night.

Edwin Newsome was third in the 600-yard run with a time of 1:11.4. Robert Lepard was third in the 880 at 1:55.2, and Bert Torres was fifth in the mile at 4:15.4. Mike Greg Lautenslager was second in the event but was disqualified because he collided with another competitor during his run of 4:12.0.

Team scores were not compiled. Tech's next meet is SWC Indoor Championships Friday in Fort Worth.

TEXAS HALL PREPARES GRAND PRAIRIE (UPI) — Ground-breaking ceremonies for the Texas Sports Hall of Fame will be conducted at 11 a.m. Tuesday. The building, for which funds have been raised during the past decade, will be built on Interstate Highway 30 between Dallas and Fort Worth near Arlington Stadium.

Pinball, Disco Attract Olympic Athletes

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — You have to pass through a metal detector and be checked out by state police to get into the Olympic Village disco. Once there, however, you find a bevy of mostly shy adolescents.

"It's hard trying to get the dancing going. The real problem is the language barrier," says Beth Spangenberg, a Washington, D.C., nurse who is the official disco hostess.

Clad in a slinky sleeveless dress and armed with a friendly, outgoing personality, Miss Spangenberg manages to get one shy Olympic athlete after another onto the shimmering dance floor.

One problem, though, is that most of the disco staff is women. And although they are having some success getting male competitors to dance, many female competitors sit shyly at tables around the dance floor and never get asked to dance.

The disco is just one element of the entertainment offered at the Olympic Village for the 1,400 athletes here to compete in the XIII Winter Olympic Games. The village was built to be a federal prison after the Games, but walking through the entertainment complex you'd scarcely know it.

Every night, there are movies ranging from such American classics as "Citizen Kane" to the modern-day blockbuster, "Star Wars."

And right next to the disco is a game room, which is crammed at night and seems to have won unofficial honors as the most popular entertainment.

All along the walls are "Dolly Parton," "Harlem Globetrotters," "Future Spa" and other pinball machines. They are free and not one is unused for more than a moment. Athletes, dressed in the uniforms of their countries, huddle over the machines with Olympic concentration.

There are table soccer games and bleeping, beeping video games. In the corner, a New York City artist, Richard Mock, does 20-minute oil portraits of athletes who want one. Lighting the game-room scene are "Coca-Cola" chandeliers.

Even though disco isn't as popular as the game room, its throbbing music and light show are attractions for some.

"I like the music," said Urban Hettich of West Germany as he stood on the sidelines watching the small group of dancers under the disco's revolving silver ball. He is a ski jumper and cross-country skier competing in the Nordic Combined event.

"It's great. But I don't know why they close at 10 p.m. That's too early. We're going to the Fox Grove," a regular disco in Lake Placid, said curly-haired Maurizio Marchetto, an Italian speedskater.

But Arnt Erik Daig, a Norwegian downhill skier who dropped by for a few minutes, said he didn't really have the time for the disco since "I have to get my sleep."

In deference to the desires of most coaches who want to make sure their athletes get all the sleep they need, the disco generally closes at 10 p.m. It serves no alcoholic beverages, only orange juice, lemonade, Coca-Cola, coffee and other soft drinks.

Fancy hors d'oeuvres, including Oysters Rockefeller and stuffed mushrooms, are also served. But ice cream wins hands down as the most requested treat.

Skater Heiden Gears For Games

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Speed skating superstar Eric Heiden, priming for his assault on five gold medals in the Winter Olympics at Lake Placid, N.Y., starting later this week, added an unprecedented fourth World Sprint Championship to his jammed trophy case Sunday.

Heiden, of Madison, Wis., won both men's events in this world class meet Sunday, streaking to the 500-meter championship in 38.61 seconds and then winning at 1,000 meters in 1 minute, 17.98 seconds.

Heiden finished second in the men's 500 to start the two-day meet at State Fair Park Saturday, as unheralded U.S. Olympic teammate Tom Plant, West Allis, Wis., won in a major upset. However, Heiden came back to win the 1,000 meter men's test Saturday. Anyone winning three of the four events here automatically is a champion.

Dan Immerfall of Madison, another member of the powerful U.S. Olympic speed skating team, was second in Sunday's 500 meter race in 39.07 seconds. Gaetan Boucher of Canada was third in 39.16.

Boucher, from Quebec City, stamped himself as a strong Olympic contender by finishing second to Heiden in the 1,000 Sunday in 1:19.7. Plant was third in 1:19.87.

Leah Poulos-Mueller of Dousman, Wis., defending women's World Sprint champion, won her 500 meter race Sunday in 42.25 seconds.

However, East German sensation Karin Enke, who won both the women's 500 and 1,000 Saturday, was second in the 500 Sunday in 42.55 and retained the overall women's lead going into the meet's final event later Sunday, a women's 1,000 meter test.

Froede Roenning of Norway, who had been in second place overall behind Heiden in the men's class after Saturday, fell from contention when he tumbled on the first bend of Sunday's 500-meter event and finished last among the 29 entrants.

Heiden said he feels he is approaching a physical and mental peak for the Olympics and that he believes he is capable of winning all five events he will enter at Lake Placid. "It's within reach, but it will be hard," he said. "I was worried about the 500 and still am. A lot of skaters are within a couple of hundredths of a second of me. Weather conditions will be a big factor in the 500."

"I feel pretty confident about the 1,000," said Heiden, who is best at the intermediate distances. "I'm not familiar with a lot of skaters who specialize at 5,000 and 10,000 meters, but right now I think I've got a good chance to be in the top three there."

Except for some Finnish skaters already in Lake Placid, Heiden will be racing at Lake Placid against mostly the same sprinters who had competed here.

Ali Returns From Olympic Trip

WASHINGTON (AP) — Saying "there's no place like home, especially when home is America," retired heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali returned to the United States Sunday from a five-nation tour of Africa.

On his return to Andrews Air Force Base outside Washington, Ali told reporters he considered his diplomatic venture "75 percent successful."

Ali went to Africa in an effort to generate support for President Carter's call for non-participation in the Summer Olympic Games in Moscow unless the Soviet Union withdraws its troops from Afghanistan.

Ali said everything on his trip worked as scheduled. "It even worked a little better than we thought. It wasn't a failure," Ali said.

Ali denied saying he thought the United States was using him by sending him to Africa. When asked whether he would go on another, similar mission if the president asked, he replied, "quick, quick."

Ali said Kenya, "the best in field and track in Africa ... they're out (of the Olympics)."

He said Liberia would go along with the U.S. move. As for Nigeria, Tanzania and Senegal, Ali said, "we will wait to see the outcome." However, they are not expected to go along with Carter's request.

Asked about how he liked being a presidential envoy, Ali said, "I'm not a diplomat, I'm just a private citizen doing what I think is right."

Ali, who appeared quite tired, said he was pleased to be back in the United States.

"There's no place like home, especially when home is America," he said.

"You don't appreciate this country until you leave it," Ali told reporters.

"Imagine a little black boy from Kentucky. All of a sudden you've got the Soviets talking to him ... it makes you feel like you're big, it makes you feel important."

Coach Protests Soviet Technique

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — The coach of American figure skating champions Tai Babilonia and Randy Gardner Sunday opened the psychological jockeying preceding their showdown with the other Olympic pairs favorites, Irina Rodnina and Aleksandr Zaitsev of the Soviet Union.

John Nicks said he fired off letters three days ago complaining that the long-time Russian champions were guilty of at least four technical violations during their five-minute free-skating performance at the European Championships in Gothenburg, Sweden last month.

Nicks said he sent copies of the letter to Charles DeMore, president of the U.S. Figure Skating Association (USFSA); Paul George, team manager for the U.S. Miss Olympic figure skating team; Claire Ferguson, the team's assistant manager; Miss Babilonia and Gardner, and Miss Babilonia and Gardner's individual skating clubs in California.

If the alleged infractions are repeated here — and the judges consider them illegal — point deductions would be made from the Russian pair. "They shouldn't receive credit for the moves," said Nicks, who was interviewed by The Associated Press during a practice session. "The point is they just shouldn't do them."

According to Nicks, Zaitsev had his hand on Miss Rodnina's leg during three of the eight lifts in their five-minute routine. Nicks said the International Skating Union (ISU) rules clearly state that the man can't place his hand below the hip during a lift.

Nicks also said that on one of the lifts, Zaitsev lifted and spun Miss Rodnina at the same time, which he said was in clear violation of the ISU rule that forbids the man rotating his partner on a lift.

"Whenever there's been a claim of an illegality on the part of American skaters, we've been advised to adjust by the ISU and the USFSA," said Nicks, who has been coaching Miss Babilonia-Gardner for the past 10 years. "I expect our association to take whatever action they think is best. I'm pressing it with them, but I presume other associations saw the violations at the European championships, too."

Nicks said he planned to go to Miss Rodnina and Zaitsev's practice session tonight to see if the alleged infractions have been corrected.

"I'm doing what I think is right," said

Nicks. "The Russians have dominated things for so long, but I wouldn't want them to think they can continue to dominate by taking advantage of the rules."

It appeared that the wily Nicks was looking for an edge for his skaters or an opportunity to distract the Soviets as the two top teams head for a politically charged East-West battle for the pairs title next Friday and Sunday nights. He saw the Russians' performance on television Jan. 26 but waited until three days ago to lodge the protest.

Miss Rodnina had won 10 consecutive world titles and two Olympic gold medals before she and Zaitsev, her husband, took last year off to have a baby boy. (Zaitsev has been her partner for six world titles and the 1976 Olympic gold medal.)

In their absence, Gardner and Miss Babilonia, five-time American champions, won the world crown in Vienna in 1979.

Meanwhile, the Russian pair have come back with new verve. They won the European championships last month with a strong performance. They didn't appear to be penalized for any rule violations.

Nicks smiled when he was asked if he was trying to rattle the Russians. "I didn't come here to go on the defensive," he said.

DeMore said he hadn't received the letter since he had been away from his home. He said that he expected ISU officials to watch the Russians practice.

Ferguson was asked why the alleged violations weren't marked down in the European competition.

IOC Reaffirms Position On Use Of Taiwan's Flag

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — The International Olympic Committee (IOC) Sunday changed its rules on flags to be carried at the opening ceremony of the Olympic Games, and strengthened its disputed policy on Mainland China and Taiwan.

Rule 64 of the Olympic Charter was amended to mean that each delegation must be accompanied by its flag. Previously the rule specified the flag of the delegation's country.

The IOC, as part of a package deal aimed at bringing the athletes of Mainland China into the Games, had ordered Taiwan to drop the flag of the Republic of China which is unacceptable to Peking and use a special Olympic flag instead.

The Taiwanese are in the middle of a lawsuit over it. They argued bitterly that the IOC's decision was a direct breach of Rule 64.

The New York State Supreme Court at Plattsburgh last week upheld a suit filed by a Taiwanese Nordic skier and ruled he could carry what flag he pleased at the opening ceremony. But an appeal court has granted a stay of the judgment and is expected to rule today on an appeal filed by the Lake Placid Olympic Organizing Committee.

The change of rule was a foregone conclusion. Last October, when the executive board of the IOC recommended the change of flag for the Taiwanese, IOC members approved the plan 62-17 in a postal vote.

A simple majority was needed for that decision, but a two-thirds majority was required to change the rules, and it can be done only at a full session of the IOC.

The Taiwanese immediately objected that Rule 4 was being broken. The rule read: "Each delegation dressed in its official uniform must be preceded by a name board bearing the name of the country which it represents and must be accompanied by its flag."

The Taiwanese challenged the IOC's ruling in the Swiss courts, and lost their case. Then they moved through the Plattsburgh court.

The opening ceremony of the XIII Winter Games at Lake Placid is set for Wednesday. If the appeal is rejected, the IOC will have two days left to find a solution and keep athletes from both parts of China in the Games.

Dr. J Confiscates Jabbar's Prescription

By The Associated Press

Julius Erving sank a pair of free throws, then tapped the ball away from Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, a change of possession that led to two more foul shots for the Philadelphia 76ers and a 105-104 victory over the Los Angeles Lakers Sunday in a nationally televised National Basketball Association game.

The Sixers, who had been blown out in their last two starts against Boston and Seattle, were helped by the debut of guard Lionel Hollins, who was acquired last week from the Portland Trailblazers for a 1981 No. 1 draft choice and an unannounced amount of money.

Hollins scored 13 points, including a key three-pointer in the final period that helped the 76ers overcome a nine-point deficit and go on to win.

Philadelphia won despite 38 points by the 7-foot-2-inch Jabbar, including 10 straight baskets in a streak he began in the second period and wound up in the fourth.

Los Angeles led by a point, at 102-101, on a 17-foot jump shot by Mike Cooper with 1:36 left in the game. But Erving, who scored 22 points, was fouled and converted two free throws to send the 76ers ahead 103-102 with 1:20 on the clock.

With 29 seconds left, the Lakers passed the ball in to Jabbar, but Erving leaped high and tapped the ball away from the giant Lakers center, to Philadelphia guard Maurice Cheeks. Cheeks was fouled as he drove for the hoop, and converted both throws to make it 105-102.

The Lakers' final field goal wasn't enough as Philadelphia inbouded the ball and ran out the clock.

Ervin "Magic" Johnson scored 21 for Los Angeles, which led 23-19 after the first period, trailed 50-47 at halftime and was up 79-70 after three quarters. Bobby Jones scored 21, Darryl Dawkins 18 and Cheeks 17 for the 76ers.

Bucks 109, Suns 107

Marques Johnson's turnaround jumper with two seconds to go gave the Milwaukee Bucks a 109-107 victory over the Phoenix Suns, the Bucks' third consecutive victory since obtaining center Bob Lanier in a trade with Detroit Feb. 4.

Brian Winters' fast-break layup tied the game at 107-107 after Quinn Buckner stole the ball. The Suns had led 107-102 with just 41 seconds to go, but Winters hit a three-point basket prior to his game-tying layup.

The game had see-sawed for three quarters, with Phoenix holding a one-point advantage at the half and a five-point lead after three quarters.

Milwaukee came back to tie the game at 93-93 on a pair of free throws by Junior Bridgeman. Winters hit a basket to give the Bucks the lead at 95-93 midway through the period. However, Alvan Adams brought the Suns right back with a jumper and Len Robinson put Phoenix ahead 97-95.

Walter Davis, who led all scorers with 27, gave Phoenix a 105-98 advantage late in the period.

Lanier pumped in four of his 23 points to bring the Bucks back within three, setting the stage for Winters' three-pointer. Celtics 128, Pistons 111

Larry Bird scored 24 points and Nate Archibald 21 as the Boston Celtics got rolling after a slow start and charged to their seventh consecutive victory in a 128-111 romp over the Detroit Pistons.

Pete Maravich, a veteran sharp-shooter making his second appearance with the Celtics, came off the bench to help rally the Celtics with 10 points. He returned in the fourth period to add four more points.

Detroit jumped to a 31-27 first-period lead and was ahead by as much as six points in the second quarter before the Celtics rallied for a 57-57 tie at halftime.

Then, with the score 65-65, Bird triggered a decisive burst by hitting on a shot from the corner at just over four minutes into the second half.

Bird, who had seven assists, had nine points in the quarter. Chris Ford had eight, Archibald six and third-string center Eric Fernsten five, as the Celtics built a 93-75 lead.

The Pistons were led by Kent Benson with 25 points.

Kings 108, Bullets 106

Otis Birdsong scored 32 points, including four in overtime, to pace the Kansas City Kings to a 108-106 victory over the Washington Bullets.

The Bullets had a 98-93 advantage with 42 seconds left in regulation. Phil Ford, who scored 26 points, made a 9-foot jumper with 37 seconds remaining to pull the Kings within three points.

With 25 seconds left, Reggie King deflected a Washington pass that Ford picked up and went in for a layup. He was fouled by Greg Ballard and made a free throw to tie it at 98.

Elvin Hayes, who led the losers with 27 points, missed an 18-foot fadeaway jumper with two seconds remaining in regulation.

In the overtime period, Washington jumped to a 106-102 advantage with 2:07 left. The Kings then reeled off the next five points. Birdsong put Kansas City on top for good with a shot from the left corner with 42 seconds left to make it 107-106.

The loss was the fourth straight for the Bullets while Kansas City's victory kept the Kings in first place in the NBA Midwest Division, 3 1/2 games ahead of Milwaukee.

Kevin Porter came off the bench to score 15 points for Washington, all in the fourth period and overtime.

Super Sonics 122, Nets 107

Dennis Johnson poured in 29 points and backcourt partner Gus Williams added 21 to lead the streaking Seattle Super-Sonics to an easy 122-107 victory over the New Jersey Nets.

The outcome was decided by a 19-1 Seattle spurt mid-way through the third quarter, assuring the Sonics of their fourth straight victory.

Leading 78-71, Williams got the Sonics rolling with a jumper. John Johnson added two foul shots and Dennis Johnson hit a jumper to stretch the lead to 84-71. After Mike Newlin hit a free throw, Seattle ripped off 13 straight points to assume a 97-72 lead.

Four different Sonics contributed to the streak, which saw Nets' coach Kevin Loughery thrown out of the game with his second technical.

Seattle led 103-80 after three quarters and New Jersey could get no closer than 15 points the rest of the way.

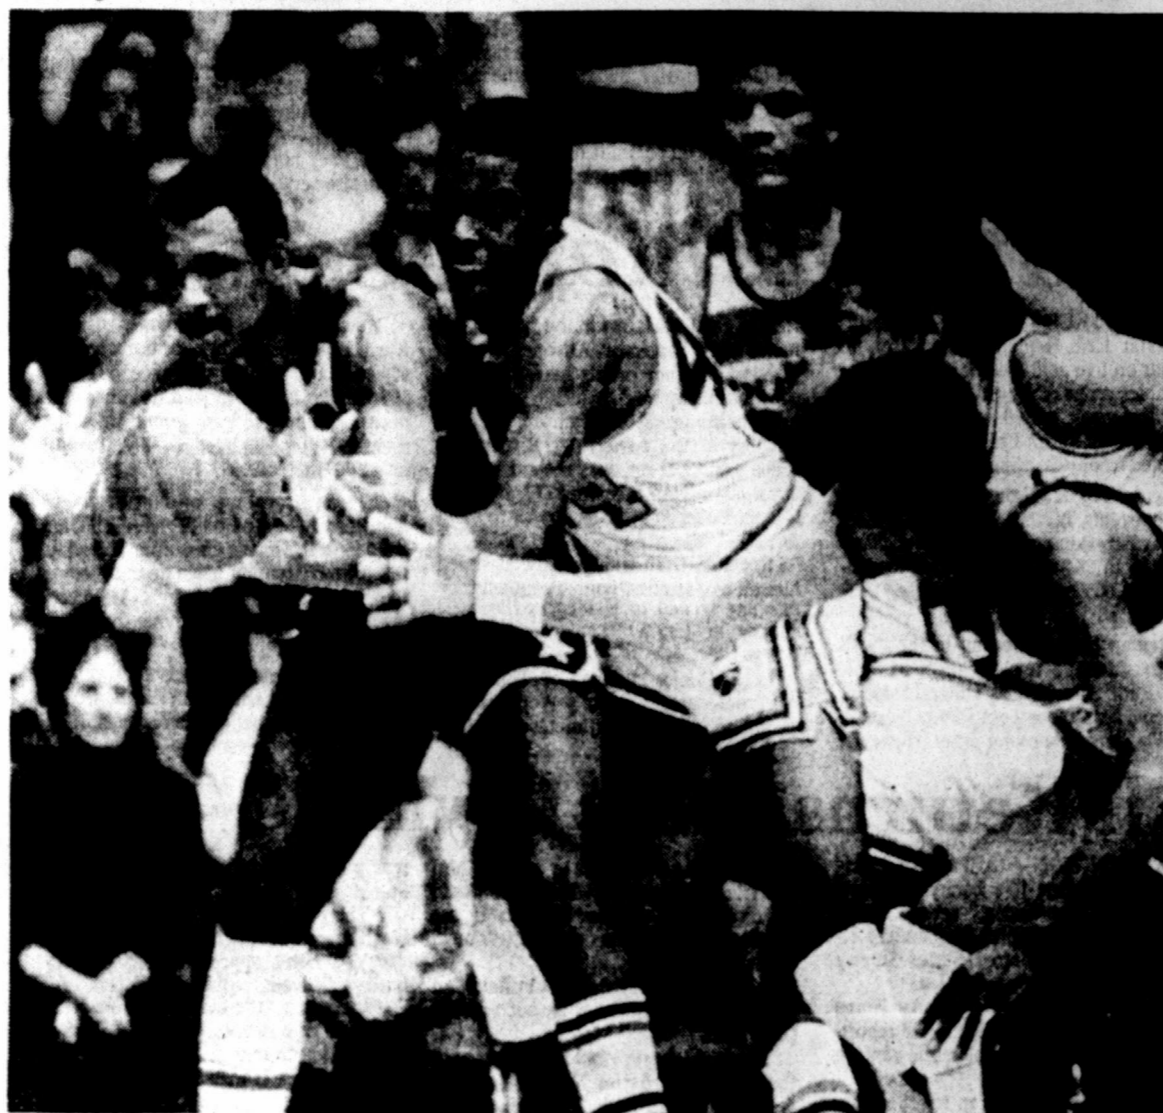

Roger Phegley led the Nets with 26 points and Newlin had 21.

Forward Maurice Lucas, acquired from Portland Friday, entered the game with 3:13 remaining in the first quarter. Twelve seconds later, Lucas hit on his first attempt, a 15-foot baseline jumper. He went on to play 17 minutes, scoring six points with five rebounds.

Hawks 98, Warriors 96

Dan Roundfield sent Atlanta ahead with a slam dunk in the final seconds of the overtime period and blocked a shot at the buzzer as the Hawks beat the Golden State Warriors 98-96.

Atlanta trailed by 22 points late in the first half and by 15 with four minutes remaining in the fourth period but stormed to their sixth straight victory.

Jane Blalock's Strong Start Aids Victory

NORTH MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Veteran Jane Blalock bogeyed three holes and shot just one birdie Sunday, but still managed a 1-shot victory in the $100,000 Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament here.

The 11-year pro from Delray Beach, Fla., shot a 2-over-par 74 Sunday, but finished with a 5-under-par 283 for 72 holes. That was one stroke better than 1979 U.S. Open champion Jerilyn Britz and Debbie Massey, who tied Nancy Lopez Melton for Sunday's best round with a 3-under-par 69.

Blalock relied on the 3-stroke lead she opened Friday with a women's course record 66 to take the $15,000 first prize for the second LPGA event of 1980.

"I figured I could go out and play consistent golf, hit greens and they wouldn't catch me," said Blalock, who bogeyed the fifth, 11th and 18th holes. "They almost did. I was scared all day."

Melton had a disastrous 5-over-par 77 Thursday, but then posted three straight subpar rounds to tie Sandra Spuzich for third at 3-under 285. Sally Little was alone in fourth at 2-under 286.

Mary Dwyer and Bonnie Bryant rounded out the list of subpar finishers as both birdied the 18th to come in at 1-under 287.

Only eight players broke par for 72 holes on the 6,211-yard Turnberry Isle layout.

Massey, Britz and Bryant challenged Blalock's 4-stroke lead going into the final round. At one time or another, each was 5-under and just one shot off the lead. But Britz fell back with bogeys at the 12th and 13th and Massey lost it when she went into the water at 18.

Bryant's challenge fizzled when she went bogey, bogey, double-bogey and bogey starting at 14.

"Other people were capable of winning this tournament," said Massey, who sank a 20-foot putt to salvage a bogey-6 at the difficult 485-yard 18th hole.

"I was up and down all day," said Massey. "On the back, I really started hitting it better. I was playing (18) just like I had all week."

The tournament was sponsored by Elizabeth Arden.

Borg Slams Gerulaitis — Again

BOCA WEST, Fla. (AP) — There were no surprises Sunday in the finals of the $300,000 Grand Slam of Tennis. For the fourth straight year Bjorn Borg is the champion. And for the 16th time in a row Vitas Gerulaitis fell prey to Borg's explosive back-court game.

The 23-year-old Swede continued his mastery over Gerulaitis with a 6-1, 5-7, 6-1 triumph worth $150,000, the biggest prize in tennis.

For Gerulaitis, who pocketed $75,000, the scene is becoming all too familiar.

"It is a little frustrating, but he is the No. 1 player in the world," the 25-year-old New Yorker said.

"If I lost to No. 600 I'd really be ticked off. When you come to the net he passes you, when he needs a big serve he gets it — he just plays the big points well," said Gerulaitis.

Borg, at home on the slow clay surface, blasted 24 ground-stroke winners compared to just six for Gerulaitis.

The loser, who squandered seven points on double faults, seemed hesitant through much of the match, unsure whether to rush the net or rally from the baseline.

"Vitas might prefer a little faster surface," Borg said. "He's a guy who likes to come in a lot. He's aggressive and on this surface you have to be a little more patient."

Borg capitalized on Gerulaitis' short approach shots by blasting countless cross court passing shots.

Gerulaitis' only advantage was in volley winners. He had 18, while the baseline-hugging Borg had just one.

Gerulaitis looked tentative in the first and third sets, unsure whether to rush the net or rally from the baseline. He could not establish a strategy against the steady, hard-hitting Borg, ranked No. 1 in the world.

The key to his downfall may have been two double faults in the second game of the third set. Borg took command by breaking Gerulaitis in the fourth game, which went to deuce four times. Gerulaitis led the game 40-15, but lost the next two points when Borg ripped two cross-court passing shots.

Gerulaitis held serve in the sixth game for his only victory of the third set.

The $300,000 event is the showcase for the winners of the previous year's Grand Slam tournaments. Borg triumphed at Wimbledon and the French Open, John McEnroe won the U.S. Open and Guillermo Vilas captured the Australian Open. Gerulaitis qualified by winning the Italian Open, a qualifying event only when one player wins more than one of the tournaments.

In the consolation match Sunday, McEnroe outlasted Vilas 7-5 in a tie-breaker to score an 8-7 pro set victory. The two left-handers split the winnings, each earning $37,500.

Baker, Allison Roll In 500 Trials

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Buddy Baker won the pole position Sunday for next week's Daytona 500 stock car race with a speed of 194.099 mph, more than 1 mph slower than his top practice run against a stiff wind.

Winning the second starting spot for the Feb. 17 race was Donnie Allison, who rounded the damp 2.5-mile track at Daytona International Speedway at 193.440.

Baker and Allison now are the only drivers assured a starting position for the 500. The rest of the field will be determined in races this week.

Cale Yarborough, who paced weekend practice runs with a top speed of 196.236 mph, posted the third best performance Sunday with 192.963 mph, while the 500's defending champion, Richard Petty, turned the track at 188.809 mph, well below the top finishers.

Sixty-eight drivers were plagued by winds that gusted across the track from the east at speeds up to 20 mph. And the track, famous for its 33-degree banked turns, was moistened by fog and a light mist.

Baker, who ran his Oldsmobile up to an unofficial 195.240 mph in practice, said he was disappointed with his showing Sunday.

"The wind was pretty bad out there," said Baker of Charlotte, N.C. "We've been running super good up until right now."

Only 40 of the 68 racers who qualified for next Sunday's Daytona 500 will earn a starting position. The rest of the field for the 500 will be determined in two 125-mile races on Thursday. The top 14 finishers in each of the two races will fill the No. 3 through No. 30 positions in the second and most prestigious of the NASCAR season.

Baker won the pole for last year's race with a qualifying speed of 196.049 mph, but had to drop out of the 500 when his car broke down in the latest in a series of Daytona mishaps for the former Michigan cab driver.

Official Explains Oiler Touchdown Situation

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A National Football League official says he should have been more emphatic when he signaled no-touchdown on a controversial call in the American Football Conference championship game.

Don Orr of Nashville decided Houston Oiler receiver Mike Renfro did not have possession of the ball when he stumbled out of the end zone during the contest won by the Pittsburgh Steelers on Jan. 6.

Tech Soccer Team Captures Tourney

ABILENE (Special) — The Texas Tech soccer team finished first in the 16-team Abilene Christian University High School indoor tournament Saturday.

Tech, which beat Midwestern 3-0, the University of Texas 5-3, Angelo State 4-2 and ACLU 3-0, was the only unbeaten team in the meet.

Members of the Tech squad are Kevin Stewart, Tim Stanley, Cha Cha Nambur, Jim Mesemer, Andy Tunell, Bob Lust and Sha Nambur.

A controversy was stirred when television replays showed Renfro's feet landed in bounds. His back, however, hid the ball.

From my position on the field, I was the only official who had a view of the ball as Renfro struggled with it. Orr said Saturday in discussing the play for publication for the first time: "I did not believe he had possession of the ball until he was already across the end line."

Under an agreement with the National Football League, officials are not allowed to discuss plays until the end of the season.

I was watching the receiver and the defender to make sure there was no contact prior to catching the ball. Orr said. He took the ball over his shoulder. Then his hands dropped down into a position where his back was between me and the ball. At that moment I got a shot at his feet. They both landed in bounds.

Then he turned slightly toward me and I could see the ball again. He was struggling with it. So, from my point of view, it was ball-foot-ball.

"Where were his feet when he finally got possession of the football? In my judgment, they were out of bounds."

Raider Women Win Mile Race

OKLAHOMA CITY (Special) — The Texas Tech women's track and field team won the mile relay and Veronica Flowers placed third in the 60-yard hurdles in the Oklahoma Indoor Track Classic Saturday night.

Dora Bentancourt, Ella Rich, Falcia Freeman and Cende Mills combined for a 3:54.55 in the mile relay, beating 10 other teams.

Miss Flowers was the only individual Raider athlete in the finals and her 8.28 fell short of Texas University's Karen Holmes, who won the event at 8.06.

Miss Flowers already has qualified for the indoor nationals in her event.

Team points were not kept in the meet.

ACC Flexes Cage Muscle Around Country

By The Associated Press

Atlantic Coast Conference basketball teams are just killing each other this year. And they've been pretty tough on outsiders, too.

Earlier this season, Duke beat Kentucky in the Hall of Fame game in Springfield, Mass. Then North Carolina handed Indiana its first loss of the year.

Saturday night, ninth-ranked Notre Dame became another Top Twenty team victimized by the ACC, dropping a 63-55 decision to North Carolina State.

"It doesn't help us in the conference," said North Carolina State coach Norm Sloan. "But it sure helps our confidence; it helps us psychologically."

Hawkeye Whitney led the Wolfpack offense, scoring 23 points. North Carolina State put the game away with a torrid second half, shooting 75 percent from the floor after intermission.

"Because both teams played with such defensive intensity, perimeter shooting was the most important factor," said Notre Dame coach Digger Phelps. "North Carolina State shot well and we didn't."

Meanwhile, the inexplicable ACC continued in turmoil as Georgia Tech stunned No. 18 Virginia 62-61, and No. 16 Clemson pulled off a 90-81 upset over No. 7 Maryland.

The ACC wasn't the only conference with its share of upsets Saturday. In the Big Ten, Purdue, the nation's 12th-ranked team, was beaten by Iowa 74-59 and Illinois routed 20th-ranked Indiana 89-68.

Duke broke the pattern Sunday, losing to Marquette 80-77 in a nationally televised game from Madison, Wis.

Elsewhere, No. 1 De Paul escaped with a 65-63 victory over Dayton; No. 2 Syracuse walloped St. Bonaventure 105-80; No. 3 Louisville stopped Providence 79-73, fourth-ranked Oregon State trounced Arizona 73-63; fifth-ranked Kentucky turned back Alabama 72-63. No. 6 Louisiana State hammered Georgia 96-77 and No. 8 St. John's whipped Fordham 78-60.

Also, 13th-ranked Ohio State turned back Michigan State 71-59; No. 14 Brigham Young edged Utah 83-82. No. 15 Missouri posted an 88-65 decision over Kansas; No. 17 Weber State defeated Montana State 94-83 and No. 19 Arizona State routed Oregon 88-65.

Brooke Stepp's 21 points, including a pair of free throws with eight seconds remaining, keyed Georgia Tech's conquest of Virginia. Stepp's free throws gave the Yellow Jackets a 62-59 advantage and offset a tip-in with two seconds remaining by Virginia's 7-foot-4 center, Ralph Sampson, who scored a career-high 29 points.

Georgia Tech, a long-time independent playing in the ACC for the first time in its history, had lost its first 11 league games before Saturday.

"It boiled down to execution," said Georgia Tech coach Dwayne Morrison. "We did have lapses, but overall, it was simply a great effort."

Larry Nance scored 24 points to lead Clemson over Maryland, handing the Terps only their second ACC loss of the season. The Tigers took control early, rushing to a 22-13 lead, and the Terrapins never caught up.

The triumph made Bill Foster the winningest coach in Clemson basketball history with 91 victories.

Kenny Arnold scored 20 points and Steve Krafscin added 18 to lead Iowa past Purdue. The Hawkeyes virtually shut off Joe Barry Carroll, holding the Boiler-maker center to seven points — 15 below his average.

"Defensively, we totally took Purdue out of what they wanted to do," said Iowa coach Lute Olson. "It was a good job by (Steve) Waite on Carroll. When we went to the zone, Krafscin made it tough for them to get the ball inside. We thought if we could force Carroll into a sub-par game, we could play well enough to beat them."

Reno Gray scored 25 points, including eight straight in one stretch early in the first half, to lead Illinois' rout of Indiana.

"They must have scored in seven or eight straight possessions in the first half, which put pressure on our offense," said Indiana coach Bobby Knight. "And we weren't playing as strongly defensively as we have been playing."

Clyde Bradshaw forced a Dayton turnover with 27 seconds remaining, then hit a 15-footer with three seconds left to lead DePaul over the Flyers.

"Our plan was to run the clock down to nine seconds and I was supposed to take the last shot," said Bradshaw. "I just threw the ball up, but I wasn't worried. I knew that the game would have gone into overtime — which we would have won, anyway."

Ron Payton came off the bench to score 15 points and Eddie Moss collected a school-record 14 assists to lead Syracuse over St. Bonaventure. Wiley Brown had 24 points to help Louisville defeat Providence.

Steve Johnson scored 28 points to lead Oregon State over Arizona. Kyle Macy registered 20 points as Kentucky came from behind to beat Alabama. DeWayne Stepp's 31 points triggered LSU past Georgia.

STEVENSON BEATS FOE

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Cuban heavyweight Teofilo Stevenson outpointed tenacious Jimmy Clark of Coatesville, Pa. Sunday as the Cuban Olympic team took on American amateurs at the Charlotte Coliseum. The Cubans won six of the 11 matches. A scheduled 12th bout went to the Cubans by default when Jeff McCracken of Sandpoint, Idaho, was unable to take on Jose Gomez in the 165-pound class because of physical problems.

Public Broadcasting Service At Programming Crossroads

NEW YORK (AP) — The Public Broadcasting Service has reached something of a programming crossroads, with consistency the key to progress in the future, a PBS executive says.

"I feel like we're in a kind of crease in the American public's mind," says Ron Devillier, the system's vice president for programming. "They've made a place for us."

"It started in about '69 with 'Sesame Street,' and now we are clearly a channel that you flip to when you're checking everyone out. And that's a milestone."

"Now, to show up consistently with quality programs," Devillier says, "that's what we've got to do. And I think the people in the system recognize that."

Devillier says PBS' first Program Fair, during which station representatives sampled program offerings from several sources, including independent producers, is good cause for optimism.

"The program managers seem generally proud that they are finally opening the doors to independent producers," the PBS Executive says. "They looked at lots of material, and I think we were genuinely shocked at how good some of it was."

"And I think they were pleased that for the first time, they had gotten together and talked about the business and about what kinds of programs ought to be on public television."

"One manager told me, 'It's really nice to have attended a meeting where programming and not politics was the central issue.'"

Devillier and his boss, Chloe Aaron, went into Program Fair in January with some encouraging news for station representatives: With most stations broadcasting programs simultaneously in prime-time last fall, public TV's audience was bigger than ever.

And that information was supported by a survey commissioned by PBS which showed most Americans see public TV programming as generally higher in quality than that offered by the commercial networks.

The message in both the audience survey and the opinion poll, Devillier says, is that the viewers now expect more from public TV.

"And that doesn't mean glossy programs and made-for-TV movies. But you are going to see shows that aren't afraid of having a high-entertainment value."

"The Lathe of Heaven" that we had on last month is an example," he says. "That was very sophisticated science fiction. And in some small way, I think 'Mystery,' which we've just begun, is another part of that idea. These stories are not classics, just terrific tales."

"The Lathe of Heaven," produced by the Broadcast Lab at New York's WNET, was as important to the system as Program Fair may have been to independent producers, the PBS executive says.

"There's a sense of pride in the things the system is producing," he says, "and it's a self-perpetuating thing." Station representatives, for instance, already have indicated support for a 26-week American drama showcase, proposed at Program Fair.

And, says Devillier, there are other developments in the area of programming to watch for. "If I was going to make a checklist," he says, "it would include some kind of co-production relationship between pay-cable and public television. We're both looking for original productions."

Devillier says most of the really new ideas in programming are coming from public TV. "Some really off-beat things that add to the vitality of the medium."

"Watching Television," which we looked at during Program Fair, is really off-the-wall," he says. "We don't have anything that looks at television like that show does."

"And we've got a black production company at work on a show called 'Righteous Apples,' which really gets into some sensitive areas, though by now you'd think we would have none of those left."

It's too early to say whether either of those programs will make the PBS schedule.

And in the end, Devillier says, money still is the system's errand concern.

"You look at this thing and say, 'Where's the money going to come from? What makes you think the dollar's going to go our way?'"

"Well, I'm not sure," he says, "except it looks like we're getting to be a pretty good buy."

Douglas To Continue Talk Show

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mike Douglas, whose television talk show contract was dropped, says he will continue the program with only one change — he'll have complete creative control.

Group W Productions, a division of Westinghouse Broadcasting, said two weeks ago that it would dump Douglas when his contract expires June 30 and replace him with John Davidson.

"We're going to continue doing the same show," Douglas, on the air for the past 18 years, said in a telephone interview. "We're not going to change anything. The only change will be that it'll be my show. I own it. I have complete creative control over the show."

Syndicator Services Inc. of New York will syndicate the talk show beginning July 1 when Douglas completes his contract for Group W.

Douglas' present show airs on 92 U.S. stations, covering 70 per cent of the country, and on 18 Canadian stations. Syndicator expects to increase his coverage to 75 to 80 per cent of the country.

Industry sources reportedly said some stations had pressured Group W to find a younger host because Douglas' audience was growing older.

Douglas contended the ratings show that his audience is the youngest of all the talk shows, including Johnny Carson's "Tonight" show. He said, "Naturally, Westinghouse isn't going to publicize

That Now Because They Want the Emphasis to Be on the Other Show

Asked why he had been dropped by Group W, he replied, "I can't tell you why because nobody has ever told me. It came as a surprise to me because we were never better in the ratings than we are now. We've been No. 1 in New York for 12 years. We're No. 1 in St. Louis."

Fort Worth Museum To House Works By Noted Southwest Photographer

FORT WORTH (UPI) — Thousands of photographs taken by the late Laura Gilpin, noted photographer of the Southwest, during her 78-year career are being catalogued at the Amon Carter Museum, the site she chose to house her work.

A memorial exhibition of 18 of her pictures was on recent display at the museum in the first of an expected series of showings scheduled after her death at age 88 at her home in Santa Fe, N.M., last November.

"Until the last few months, she still was working," said Michael Duty, a museum spokesman. "She died of a flu complication and it hadn't hit her at a bad time. I'm convinced she'd probably still be working today."

Gilpin announced in 1978 that she would give her entire photographic collection to the Amon Carter Museum. She was a longtime friend of the late museum director Mitch Wilder, who died of leukemia in April.

Duty said the museum in the late 1960s exhibited several of her famous studies of the Navaho Indians, taken over 50 years, and in the spring of 1978 displayed a retrospective exhibition.

Duty called the Gilpin collection "one of the most substantial photographic gifts in a long time — the whole career of a very great photographic artist."

Marni Sendwicz, curator of photographs at the museum, has called the gift "one of the most important and complete collections of work by a single photographer to be housed in an American museum."

Duty said the collection was far larger than they had imagined, containing "thousands upon thousands of photographs, including very early prints we didn't know existed," a collection of an early 1900s photographic magazine called Camera Work and her cameras.

Duty said the museum does not have sufficient space to display the entire collection permanently — "We could do an exhibition of platinum portraits alone and it would fill the museum."

When she died, Gilpin was one of the few photographers in the country still using the platinum printing process, a technique she learned at the Clarence White School of Photography in 1916-17. Gilpin printed her pictures on platinum-coated paper, which resulted in delicate "almost velvet-like" pictures that seemed more like painting than a photograph, according to Duty.

She also was known for her early use of color film, employing it soon after its invention in 1907, and the books she produced that "have become classics of their kind."

"One is the 'Enduring Navaho,' which shows her work over a 40- or 50-year period," Duty said. "She could stick with a theme for several years. She was able to work with the Navahoes like no one else did because she had a friend in the early '20s, a nurse who was became a trusted member of the tribe, and because of the friendship, she was allowed to go places white people weren't allowed, and allowed to watch rituals and their daily lives."

Gilpin was one of the few early photographers who worked in the West and stayed there. She left photography school in New York in the 1920s, moved west and finally settled in Santa Fe.

"She was a very high-spirited, very adventurous, very independent woman," Duty said. "I think she never married because she was too devoted to her career. She told me she got her first camera at age 10 but started her real professional career at 18."

"It took her three years to do her book, 'The Rio Grande: River of Destiny,'" Duty says. "She went down the river three times from one end to the Gulf of Mexico. She'd go by car until she couldn't go any farther, then switch to horse or foot and keep going until she ran out of money. Then she'd go back to Santa Fe, work for a while and get enough money to come back."

BIBES DENIED
WASHINGTON (AP) — House Majority Leader Jim Wright says two of the members mentioned in the FBI's bribery investigation have come to him and said they had never taken any money or accepted any bribes. "I don't know any more than you fellows know," the Fort Worth congressman said when asked at a National Press Club gathering Thursday. "I'm not going to speculate."

Ugandan Theater More Liberal Since Overthrow Of Idi Amin

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) — It's 10 a.m. on a Saturday, the lights dim and the curtain rises in Uganda's National Theater before spectators who paid up to a week's wages for a ticket.

An out-of-hours command performance? A charity benefit? No, a routine show in a theater-loving country where curfew and crime curtail evening activities, and inflation reduces a worker's paycheck to pocket money.

On stage a five-scene comedy: A Kampala butcher sells meat at black-market rates to eager buyers. Street vendors offer at triple normal prices the soap, sugar and salt they have hoarded. The audience laughs at the biting comment on Uganda's economic woes, secure in knowing that playwright Christopher Mukibi won't be taken away and shot, and that they, themselves, won't be beaten and robbed by uniformed thugs.

Nine months ago, under Idi Amin, it couldn't have happened. Amin ran one of the most oppressive military dictatorships on a continent where even the more relaxed governments measure out free speech in limited doses.

Now topical theater is back in Uganda, encouraged by a civilian government dedicated to a degree of free speech possibly unprecedented in Africa. More than 110 amateur theater groups operate in this nation of 13 million, nearly all of them with their own playwrights.

In the mess that Amin left, Ugandans lack food and medicine but they have plenty of music and drama.

Most Ugandan theater is in local languages and little of it, residents say, is polished enough to stand beside amateur European or American productions. Even paint and canvas for sets are hard to get. But the tradition runs deep.

In neighboring Tanzania, European and Indian groups dominate the theater world. In Kenya, another east African nation, writers debate the definition of African culture while the national theater in Nairobi puts on such Western imports as "Guys and Dolls."

"Drama is in us, and often you can't separate music and acting," says Eldad Walakira, 35, artistic director of Uganda's National Theater. "Most of the plays being done now are semi-operas."

Angry or witty comment on current conditions is part of the tradition. Even under Amin, Robert Serumaga was able to put on a show with actors lying like corpses in the aisles and blood and knives on stage. The dictator, not a theatergoer, never caught on.

"Many of our writers are still a bit afraid. They are not sure of their new freedoms," Walakira says. "So they are going slowly on political comments. Nobody is mentioning Binasa by name."

The government finances part of the National Theater's annual operating budget of $100,000 but, Walakira says, has no influence over the theater's productions. The 377-seat auditorium in central Kampala is often sold out at tickets ranging from $5.50 to $13.

The prices are stiff in comparison with the national minimum wage of $32 a month. But they are bearable since nearly all Ugandans double or triple their wages these days with a bit of smuggling or black-market money-changing.

The theater has no resident company and schedules shows only on weekends, when people are able to attend daytime performances. The first curtain is at 10 a.m., the second at 3 p.m.

Across the city, actors are hiring halls and dusting off old movie houses. One of the largest, a 1,000-seat cinema on Kampala's main street, is being converted to a performing and visual arts center.

The government allocated the building to Culture Commissioner Francis Ojida, state broadcasting director Apollo Lawoko and poet and teacher Okot p'Bitek after the former owner fled with Amin. Ten years ago, Ojida, Lawoko and Okot put together the "Heartbeat of Africa" dance troupe that toured Britain, Europe and Canada.

The cinema currently is showing Kung Fu movies. But Okot, as director of The Center, has removed from the foyer a collection of tinted portraits of such oldtime stars as Victor Mature and Marilyn Monroe. A series of free lectures on current affairs has begun and Okot plans talent shows, vernacular plays and art exhibitions at prices well below the National Theater tickets.

The Center's proprietors, in a message written for its ceremonial opening, declared they were "dedicated to total resurgence of Uganda's creativity and expression of thought in a free society."

Milton Isingoma, film director of The Center, puts it more simply: "I would die for that freedom."

Indonesian Officials Seeking End To Temporary Marriages

JAKARTA, Indonesia (UPI) — Foreign bachelors enjoying short-term marriage arrangements in remote areas of Indonesia soon may find themselves single again.

The government has decided the practice violates Moslem law and should be officially discouraged or eliminated.

A high-ranking official of the Religious Affairs Ministry said the practice was widespread among foreign advisors working for timber firms in isolated areas of Kalimantan Province on the island of Borneo.

He said temporary marriages between foreign men and local women, usually for the duration of the expatriate's business contract, also exist in other sections of the vast nation of islands.

Foreign bachelors working outside Indonesia's main cities cannot enjoy the live-in relationships generally more acceptable in the West.

To avoid loneliness, some adopt the Moslem faith during their stay and marry the woman they have chosen for their short-term romance. Indonesian civil laws recognize religious marriages and divorces, but those unions are not valid outside the country.

Without elaborating on how the government can control short-term marriages, the religious affairs officials said Islam tolerates "temporary weddings only under emergency conditions," as specified by the prophet Mohammed.

"We cannot consider that the fact an expatriate is working in a remote area of Indonesia creates an emergency situation," he said.

Short-term unions also flourish among foreign women tourists on the holiday island of Bali. A number of female tourists, mainly Australians, have "married" young Balinese men for long holidays on the fabled island's sunny beaches.

The religious affairs official did not say if Bali was included in the crackdown.

Florist Balks At Price Of Roses

DENVER (UPI) — Florist John Hackett feels the price of roses this Valentine's Day is making young love a fiscal impossibility and he wants to do something about it.

Hackett said he was shocked to see growers boost rose prices to $50 and $60 a dozen last week in preparation for the Valentine's Day rush.

"Where is this inflation going to stop? We are pricing young people out of everything else and now we price them out of expressing love in the most tender of ways," Hackett roared.

The charge was up considerably from last year's $30 a dozen, Hackett said, and he expects the price to drop after Valentine's Day—the busiest holiday for florists.

down, but he warned foreign men not to forget their sense of responsibility in leaving behind wives and possibly children, when their work contracts end and they leave Indonesia.

Readers of Jakarta's daily Indonesian Times recently protested an advertisement in the newspaper by an Australian man looking for a "Chinese girl."

Flourist Balks At Price Of Roses

with roses drawing the biggest demand. "I don't have anything against the rose growers the rest of the season," Hackett said. "But they apparently figure that this is one day of the year they can really put it to the people."

Houston Man Wins 1980 Mardi Gras Marathon

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Ron Tabb of Houston, led a procession of nearly 1,500 runners across the world's longest bridge Sunday to win the 1980 Mardi Gras Marathon in a record 2 hours, 11 minutes.

Almost 2,300 runners registered for the run across the Lake Pontchartrain Causeway, but the field was nearly pared in half because of chilly 40-degree weather, thick fog and wind gusts estimated at between 10 to 15 miles an hour.

Tabb's time bettered the 2:11:53 record set a year ago by John Dimick of Battleboro, Vt., but he wasn't the first finisher. That distinction went to Bob Hall of Pittsburgh, Pa., who pushed his wheelchair over the course in 2:08:31.

The No. 2 runner was Rick Callison of Picqua, Ohio, in 2:11:22 and Don Howison of Bowling Green, Ky., was third.

Gayle Olinek of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., had the best women's time for the second year in a row with 2:35:09 — about three minutes better than in 1979.

Thirty-six men who bettered 2:21 in the race qualified for the U.S. Olympic marathon trials that will be held May 25 at Buffalo, N.Y.

Television Stations Jump 100 Percent In Seven Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of television stations employing a full-time news staff of 20 or more people jumped 100 percent over the last seven years, a new study says.

In contrast, radio newsroom staffs have shown little significant growth, according to the Radio-Television News Directors Association.

The association's 1979 survey found that almost a third of TV stations now employ 20 or more people full-time to gather and report the news. The "typical" TV news operation now has at least 13 full-time staffers, the study adds, compared to nine in 1972.

On the radio side, the survey said the typical station last year employed only one full-time reporter and one part-time reporter, noting those results were virtually identical to a 1976 survey.

The study is based on responses from 473 commercial TV stations and 400 radio outlets around the country.

'Popular Town' Lecture Subject

Norbert J. Pointner II, a former member of the Texas Tech University architecture faculty, will return to campus to lecture today, on the restoration of Pullman, Ill., once voted the most perfect town in the world.

The free lecture will take place at 8 p.m. in the Texas Tech Biology Building auditorium. It is sponsored by the Division of Architecture.

Pointner's slide lecture will detail the historic significance of Pullman, conceived in the 1880s by George Pullman, president of the Pullman Palace Car Co., and the preservation program initiated in 1968 to preserve the community.

At the Prague International Hygienic and Pharmaceutical Exposition in 1896, Pullman was voted the most perfect town in the world. It was designated a State of Illinois Historic Landmark in 1969 and in 1976 was placed on the National Register of Historic Places. The town, in which Pointner now lives, was annexed by the city of Chicago in 1889 but it has retained its individuality.

In its original concept the company town resulted from the collaboration of architect Solon S. Beman and landscape architect Nathan F. Barrett. The urban design included industry, parks, shops, recreational and cultural facilities, a church, school, bank, health services and a variety of housing types.

As the town developed, dwellings were predominantly row houses, built of brick produced from clay found on a Pullman-owned site.

The town was both an economic and social experiment, Pointner says and explains that Pullman believed that, by providing a living environment superior to that available to the working class elsewhere, he could avoid strikes, attract the most skilled workers and attain greater productivity because of the better health and spirit of his employees.

The standards of structural strength, lighting, ventilation, convenience to a wide range of public facilities, unique architecture and handsomely landscaped were dramatic departures from the cities of the times and are seldom approached today, Pointner said.

Since the decision was made in favor of historic preservation, about 20 percent of all the historic dwelling units have undergone some form of remodeling in keeping with the original architecture, and the rate of home ownership has increased. Several local industries have constructed new facilities reflecting the architecture of the town.

Pointner taught at Texas Tech from 1965 to 1969. He is vice president of De Leuw, Cather and Co., Chicago, specialists in planning and community development, and he is heading a project in urban design in Newport, R.I.

"I would characterize preservation," he said, "as a movement to preserve values — the historic, economic and architectural values — inherent in old buildings and districts. It is also a movement in response to contemporary needs which can be met by old buildings regardless of their age and style.

Quintuplets 'Doing Fine' In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Allen Moeller said Sunday he thought his wife was joking last October when she told him they were expecting quintuplets. The reality hit home when his four sons and a daughter were born.

The quintuplets were delivered by Caesarean section Saturday night to 27-year-old Patricia Moeller — nine weeks premature, but all doing well at Northwestern Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Moeller took a fertility drug, often the cause of multiple births, for one week. So when doctors determined she was carrying quintuplets, her husband said, "it was no surprise."

"But last night it was still a shock — like a dream turned into reality," Moeller beamed.

The 26-year-old security technician said his wife called last October after an ultra sound examination.

"She said it would be five," Moeller said. "When they started counting, Patty couldn't believe it. She was glad she was laying down."

He added: "I thought she was just goofing around. It was a rainy night and I thought she was just trying to talk me into a ride home."

Moeller said the quints have been named Allen Jr., Mark Patrick, Nicholas John, David Thomas and Elizabeth Rose. The largest at birth was Allen Jr., who weighed 3 pounds, 2 ounces. The smallest was Elizabeth Rose, who weighed 2 pounds, 3 ounces at birth.

All five were in satisfactory condition in a special care nursery, and Mrs. Moeller was also doing fine, said Dr. Robert Bouer.

Moeller said he's not worrying now about how to support the five new babies, his wife, and their 6-year-old daughter, Jennifer, on his $15,000 annual salary.

He stayed at the hospital Saturday night with his wife, he said, and Jennifer is with relatives.

They moved into a larger home on the North Side after learning the quints were due, and Moeller says he has much work to do there. "I haven't even finished fixing up the house and we have to set up a nursery," he said.

"We haven't bought new clothes yet, because we couldn't figure out how many would be boys and how many would be girls."

Officials at Prentice Women's Hospital, part of Northwestern Memorial Hospital, have set up a fund for the babies.

"I don't know how we're going to pay for all this, but I do know I want my wife to stay home now, instead of working," he said.

Moeller said he's happiest that his wife's ordeal is over.

"The first thing she said when it was over, is 'Now I can sleep on my back again!'" he said.

Mrs. Moeller, a petite 5 feet 2 inches, gained 30 pounds during pregnancy, he said. "And, one baby was up under her rib punching and kicking all the time. She couldn't wait until it was over."

Leader Attacks Census Lawsuit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vilma Martinez, president of the Mexican-American Legal Defense and Education Fund, is attacking a lawsuit that would force the census to make a separate count of illegal aliens.

This lawsuit jeopardizes the accuracy of the census, the San Antonio native said in a statement as pre-trial arguments for the lawsuit opened last week.

There is already widespread mistrust of the census among the Hispanic community. Any attempt to delay the census or to use it to identify undocumented aliens will discourage participation among all Hispanics, whether undocumented, resident alien or citizen. The result would be a disastrous undercount of Hispanics," she said.
