Angelo won't run again

Martin Allday announces he'll seek post

By SUSAN TOTH Staff Writer

The Midland mayor's race, still four months away, started to pick up steam today as incumbent Ernest Angelo Jr. announced he would not seek a fifth term and attorney Martin Allday said he would run for the office.

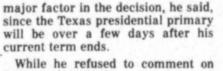

Angelo, 44, said his decision was based primarily on the need for a change.

"There comes a time when it's better for the city and the individual for someone else to serve," he said in a 10 a.m. press conference in City Council Chambers today.

His duties as state chairman for the Ronald Reagan campaign were not a future political plans, Angelo noted 'politics is in my blood.'

He did deny he planned to oppose Kent Hance for the 19th U.S. Congressional District seat.

The early announcement was made to "end any speculation that might exist on the subject," Angelo said. At least one potential mayoral candidate had already approached him about his intentions, he said.

"In sum, I believe next year will be the proper time to step aside and make way for others to provide the leadership that Midland has always enjoyed from its city officials," he said in his prepared statement.

"In May, my successor should find a city government in excellent financial condition with one of the state's lowest levels of municipal taxation."

Allday, 53, in announcing his bid to be that successor, expressed his enthusiasm for running for the top city

Allday, who has been active with several civic organizations including the chamber of commerce, noted he decided Friday to make a bid for the mayor's spot "because I had heard some stories about people who were thinking of running this time and I thought I could do as good a job as they could," he said.

He also noted he had received encouragement from members of his law firm and other Midlanders to make the bid, but said he did not expect an endorsement from Angelo or any of the city council members.

Midland's major need in the next few years, Allday noted, is "diversification of industry.

Iranians split over hostages

By The Associated Press

The Moslem militants holding the U.S. Embassy in Tehran today angrily rejected suggestions by a top Iranian official that some of their 98 hostages, including all women, be freed. They declared that only Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini and the Iranian people can tell them what to do.

In Tunisia, meanwhile, Arab League ministers rejected a Libyan demand for joint Arab diplomatic and economic reprisals against the United States for freezing Iranian assets in American banks.

Iran had appealed to other Moslem nations for diplomatic help in its confrontation with the United States. But only Libya among the 20 Arab League delegations supported such a move. Even Iraq, one of the most anti-American Arab nations, reversed its earlier stand and opposed the Libyan demand.

As the embassy impasse entered its 12th day, CBS correspondent Randy Daniels reported from Tehran that Abolhassan Bani Sadr, Iran's foreign affairs chief, told him in an interview that "all women and blacks would be freed very soon." He did not say exactly when this would take place.

Bani Sadr had told a news conference Wednesday that those who are "innocent," without a "connection with the United States," might be freed by the weekend, Tehran Radio reported. Today, Foreign Ministry spokesman Ibrahim Mokkala told The Associated Press women and blacks "possibly" would be freed "due to the fact that Islam has got a lot of respect for women and due to the fact we consider blacks to be oppressed people."

The State Department says six or seven American women and one black U.S. Marine are among the 62-Americans. It was not clear whether

TV newsmen seized, freed

NEW YORK (AP) - Student militants holding the U.S. Embassy in Tehran seized three members of an NBC-TV news crew at gunpoint today but released them within a few hours, NBC reported.

A network spokesman said the three apparently were detained because they had filmed scenes Wednesday from a nearby rooftop of the militants placing sandbags on the roof of the embassy, in apparent preparation for defending it against any at-

They were freed after the State Department and the British Embassy intervened on their behalf, the spokesman said.

The newsmen, all British citizens, were correspondent Martin Fletcher, cameraman Barry Fox and technician Derek Herincx.

The spokesman said they were seized outside their Tehran hotel, their rooms were searched and then they were taken to the embassy.

Bani Sadr, in referring to "blacks," also may have meant the 36 non-American hostages, most of whom are dark-skinned Pakistani and Indian employees of the embassy.

But Tehran Radio quoted the embassy militants as saying: "No. Something like this will not be considered. Our conditions are known. We do not recognize any statement except our statements as broadcast by Tehran radio and television or statements we issue during embassy press conferences.

"We denounce any negotiations concerning the hostages' release before the United States extradites the deposed shah.

"We remind government officials to pay attention to internal problems connected with the people, instead of negotiating abroad and paying attention to international public opinion.

"Our action stems from the will of the people and the leadership of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini without anyone telling us what to do.'

In another development, militants seized three NBC-TV newsmen at gunpoint and held them for a few hours at the U.S. Embassy before releasing them, NBC reported. The network said the news crew apparently was detained because it had filmed scenes from a nearby rooftop of militants placing sandbags on the embassy roof, in apparent preparation to defend against any attack.

The United States on Wednesday blocked Iran's attempt to arraign it before the U.N. Security Council. "We're going to work actively to prevent a discussion by the Security Council until the hostages are released," State Department spokesman Hodding Carter said. "There is no way this government will negotiate under the gun of its people being held." Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, after meeting with U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim, told reporters: "We have indicated that if the hostage question is resolved, then we're prepared to see the Security Council go forward and deal with the issues that anyone wishes to put before it, including the Iranians.

The Security Council met for about 45 minutes and decided to hold further consultations, but council members said they were "disinclined" to meet Iran's request for a meeting to air its charge that the United States was creating a "climate of war."

U.S. Ambassador Donald F McHenry said the council wanted a response to its demand last Friday for restoration of the U.S. Embassy's diplomatic immunity and the release of those held captive by Iranian students demanding the return of the deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi for

United Way at 93 percent

Volunteers reported $945,044 in pledges have been collected as of 10 a.m. today in the Midland United Way campaign for 1980.

The amount is 92.9 percent of the $1,017,000 goal, campaign chairman W.F. "Bill" Ortloff said. A total for the week was expected to be announced today at an awards luncheon for campaign volunteers and award winning employee groups of Midland firms.

Celebrities lead the Great American Smokeout

By The Associated Press

Led by a host of celebrities ranging from actor Ed Asner to Emily the chimpanzee, cigarette smokers who want to quit puffing joined today's "Great American Smokeout," trying to go for 24 hours without lighting

This is the third annual smokeout. The American Cancer Society, sponsor of the event, said that 14 million people participated in last year's program and predicted: "This year we expect as many or more."

Among those who quit in 1978 was Asner, who is national chairman of the smokeout for the second consecutive time. Other public figures who are serving as honorary officials for this year's campaign include skater JoJo Starbuck, members of the New England Patriots football team, Surgeon General Julius B. Richmond and Emily, a 5-year-old chimp from the Columbus, Ohio, zoo who's been dressed in a T-shirt reading, "Kiss Me, I Don't Smoke." The Department of Health, Education and Welfare estimates that 54 million Americans smoke. It also says, however, that 30 million people have quit smoking since 1964 and says that total U.S. cigarette consumption fell in 1978 for the first time in 10 years.

Dr. Richmond has urged all smokers to participate in the smokeout. "It is my hope that you will then find the will power to join the growing number of Americans who have quit smoking," he said Wednesday.

"Smokers of America are a declining minority," said HEW Secretary Patricia Harris — a former smoker. Organizers of the smokeout scheduled rallies, parades and other special events to focus on cigarettes. Bostonians who quit smoking will be able to line up at two kissing booths for kisses from the Patriots and their cheerleaders as well as from other local celebrities. "It's a very light-hearted approach to helping people quit," said Karen Rouse of the local cancer society.

A similar view came from Sandy Pierce of the King County (Seattle) unit of the American Cancer Society. "We're taking a fun approach," she said "It's a serious problem, but instead of making it all so heavy all the time, it's supposed to be fun." The slogan of the local campaign, Ms. Pierce said, is: "Get the pack off your back."

Some of the events got under way early. A Wednesday kickoff party in Decatur, Ga., featured a giant cigarette which was extinguished by firefighters. The remains were hauled away in a hearso, George Hargrave's hobby is farming cotton.

And last Oct. 4, he harvested a patch from his 150-acre plot he planted last spring and brought to the gin what turned out to be the first bale ginned in Midland County.

For his early stripping, Hargrave on Wednesday in the Midland County Courthouse reaped publicity, a $100 check from the Midland Chamber of Commerce and his share of praise for helping make "cotton king" in Midland County and Texas.

"It's just my hobby," said farmer Hargrave, who is tooling manager for Drilco in Midland. "When I retire from Drilco, that (cotton farming) is what I'm going to do for a living."

The No. 1 bale of the 1979 season is just one of an estimated 30,000 bales to be reaped from 38,000 acres of dryland and irrigation cotton in Midland County, Charles W. Green, the Midland County agricultural agent, said following ceremonies on the first-floor lobby of the courthouse.

"I don't see how we can miss 30,000 (bales) right now," Green said. "We would have to have hail or a windstorm (to cut into production), but if there's a stalk ready, it'll get stripped" and the cotton will be

The county cotton crop may gross up to $9 million this year and would represent two-thirds of the county's agricultural output. The lint is bringing farmers 55 to 58 cents on the pound.

"Agriculture is very important to the Midland economy," said Joe Kloesel, president of the Midland Chamber of Commerce. "This year, particularly, cotton has been coming on so strong that the crop could be valued as much as $9 million.'

Earlier in the ceremony, State Sen. W.E. "Pete" Snelson of Midland presented Hargrave a plaque recognizing the first bale which, at 514 pounds, is somewhat heavier than the standard 480-pound bale of lint.

And Snelson noted a sign, posted on the bale by Green, which gave some statistics on cotton and touted: "Cotton is King in Midland County."

"I'm interested in that sign that 'Cotton is King in Midland County,' said Snelson, "and cotton is king in Texas. In the years ahead, it will continue to occupy the No. 1 standing. It's a substantial one. It's no small endeavor.'

After the ceremony, Hargrave returned to work at the tooling company. Working at his hobby on the farm south of Midland would come later.

Midland County farmer George Hargrave, left, grew the county's first bale of cotton for 1979. Wednesday he stands beside landowner Verna Martin, who is holding a plaque presented to Hargrave by Sen. Pete Snelson. The Chamber of Commerce also presented Hargrave a check for the bale. (Staff Photo)

NEW YORK (AP) - The anti-shah demonstrations outside New York Hospital have stopped. But inside, security is as tight as ever for Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, who is resting in $1,000-a-day quarters while Iranian students demanding his return hold Americans hostage in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

Tanker, freighter collide, burn

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) - A Romanian oil tanker and a Greek coastal freighter collided in the Bosporus early today, setting off thunderous explosions and fire, leaving 50 Romanian crew members missing and dumping nearly 30 million gallons of oil into the sea, officials said.

They said rescuers found one dead crewman and picked up three from the 150,000-ton Romanian tanker Independenta, which carried a crew of Police said the 33-member crew of the 5.298-fon Greek coaster Evria was unhurt. The tanker, loaded with crude oil destined for Romania, collided with the Evria at the mouth of the Bosporus, triggering powerful explosions that shattered windows in a wide area in Istanbul

Witnesses told police the tanker was rocked by three blasts which sent thick smoke into the air. Governor Orhan Erbug said an estimated 95,000 tons of oil, or 28.4 million gallons, poured into the Marmara Sea. Authorities closed the famed Topkapi Palace, the Byzantine-built church St. Sophia and the Blue Mosque, all located on a peninsula facing the Marmara sea where the oil spill spread.

Oelker said U.S. officials asked the Mexican government to have the crew return for questioning. The pilot's translated account of the incident said the plane "recovered" after the drop, Oelker said. He said it was not known whether the drop was uncontrolled or whether it caused tail damage discovered after the plane landed in Miami on a refueling stop. The pilot wrote in his flight log that severe vibrations began in plane's right engine, "making it difficult to control the airplane. (The) vibrations stopped and we were able to recover control completely."

French aviation officials said the pilot declared a "mayday" during the incident Oelker said the flight ran into trouble about 40 minutes after takeoff. After shutting down the engine and declaring "mayday," the pilot asked traffic controllers below for emergency clearance to head for an airport, Oelker said.

A pickup and a tractor-trailer truck carrying calf trimmings collided on the Live Oak Creek Bridge on U.S. Highway 290 about 32 miles west of Ozona about 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, according to Department of Public Safety reports. Both vehicles burned, DPS reports

We have a problem with which you might help.

Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. put in some new cables under our lawn during the late summer. They assured us that they would put it back like it was, but, unfortunately, that has yet to happen. We've called them, the city of Midland and the company that contracted the work, but so far nothing's helped. - Ronald Dudley

ANSWER: Answer Line did not publish your entire letter because of its length and available space. We checked with Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., and, according to Penny Young, staff specialist in public relations, representatives of the company have visited you and inspected the lawn. We hope the situation has been resolved. Ms. Young noted that the telephone company hires contractors for the installation of cables, and the contractors are obligated to restore the property as it had been. If the contractors fail to fulfill this obligation, Ma Bell attempts to get the contractors to follow up and satisfy the customer. If the contractors still renege, SW Bell sees that it is done. Incidentally, we are returning your "before and after" photos of the lawn

As AL replied, the question was forwarded to Doug Vanover, traffic engineering co-ordinator for the city, who has responded with a rather lengthy explanation as designated by the "Texas Manual of Traffic Control Devices for Strees and Highways," which has regulated the placement of traffic control devices since 1971.

We will take excerpts from the manual information as related to the placement of stop signs on streets. However, we are mailing to you the complete response from Mr. Vanover.

The manual states, "Our department policy for determining need under one (Intersection of a less important highway, street or road with a main highway, street or road where application of the normal right of way rule is unduly hazardous) and seven (Other highway, road or street intersections where a combination of high speed, restricted view and serious accident record indicates the need for control by a Stop Sign) are either 1,200 vehicles entering the intersection or three accidents. Mr. Vanover says studies by his department of the intersection of Sentinel and Tarleton Steets "indicate that for the past three years there have been no accidents. Our traffic counts indicate that the total number of vehicles entering this intersection for one day was 263 vehicles. Based on this, we see no need for either a stop sign or yield sign."

First a better bomb; now a better mousetrap

By PATRICIA ROBER- would-be doom. TO

LIVERMORE, Calif. (AP) - Scientists at the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory, the nuclear research facility that gave the world the neutron bomb, now believe they have built a better mousetrap.

The new trap is a bucket of water rigged up with a gang plank or "teeter-totter" which tips over when a mouse moves to the end of it, casting the animal into the water.

In the three weeks engineers at the lab have used it, they have caught hundreds of field mice, often as many as 25 in one night.

Unlike the conventional one-mouse-to-a-trap method, the Livermore contraption does not have to be reset after each catch, and disposal is a simple pitch into the garbage

"We tried the concept and we knew it would work. We just didn't realized how well." said Jim Murchie, one of the inventors.

The breakthrough came after ceaseless trial and error in the scientific tradition, which included clubbing, stomping, cursing and coexisting.

"In the parts room we had so many mice it felt like somebody else owned the place. It smelled bad. You'd be working and they'd be watching you," Murchie

Thanks to the invention, the rodent population has been greatly reduced, he said. But there was no lack of mice at the lab's welding shop Monday when the four tinkerers demonstrated their new devices. The perennial multitudes from recently harvested and burned agricultural fields provided a half dozen subjects.

In one experiment, bait was dangled from a wire fastened to the far side of the water container. As the animal walked a plank just short of the food its weight overcame a weak magnet that held the board firm. It gave way and the mouse fell into the bucket.

Another model used a tube passage to a thin plastic band with an imperceptible slit stretched across the bucket rim. When the mice walked onto the band to get the bait, they fell through the salit and down to their

CHURCH ROCK, N.M. (AP) - White wooden signs warn residents in English, Navajo and Spanish: "All Use of Water from this River is Dis-

It has been more than three months since the collapse of a dam made of uranium tailings sent millions of gallons of low-level radioactive material coursing down the shallow, muddy Rio Puerco.

New evidence of pollution reported Monday - this time in underground waterways - kept the United Nuclear Corp. uranium mill closed until late Tuesday afternoon, and the Navajos wonder when their cattle and sheep can drink the river water again and when they can slaughter the animals to feed their families.

Ernest Becente, president of the Church Rock Navajo Chapter, says the 300 residents of this Indian community on the Arizona border — the people most affected by the tailings spill - "are not scared."

Their chief feeling, he said, is frustration over care of their livestock, the source of their existence.

"We need a clarification," Becente said. "Should we go ahead and use the meat? Should we use the stock water?" Initial tests indicated no lasting contamination, but the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta has yet to issue its final report. And the state says it doesn't know when the water will be safe. The collapse of a section of the United Nuclear dam early on the morning of July 16 spilled 95 million gallons of liquid and 1,100 tons of solid material into the Rio Puerco. State officials originally said some contamination was traced west into Arizona but disappeared at least 100 miles before the Rio Puerco enters the Little Colorado River at the Petrified Forest near Holbrook, Ariz. However, the latest water samples taken from monitor wells around the edge of the tailings disposal site showed high levels of acidity and of dissolved

"We have indications the underground water isn't very good, and it is traveling," Cubia Clayton, deputy director of the Environmental Improvement

Division, said Monday. Clayton had said the mill would be shut down until the problem is corrected, but on Tuesday he issued an order allowing the mill to reopen. He said the state has directed the company to monitor the situation to determine the nature and extent of underground water pollution and to take action to solve the problem.

Although tests on livestock and six Navajos showed no increase in radioactivity, Becente said the Navajos were not told about those results directly.

"They took the sheep and cattle to the laboratory but never got back to the community to show them what was done," he said. "They never did say, 'We've come back. Here's the piece we want to show you. It has nothing on it, or it has a little of

"On the testing of the people, it's the same situation. They said they're all fine. Who's all fine?" Harold Tso, director of the tribe's Environmental Protection Commission, added, "The anxiety is there whether the results are accurate or not. Unfortunately, there's so little data to compare at this

"As long as a problem is there, or could be there, the fear will be there. Only monitoring can assure people that everything is being done

Dr. Marlene Haffner, area director for the Navajo Indian Health Service, said officials will monitor the community for 15 to 20 years, "especially those people who lived in the immediate vicinity of the United Nuclear and the state Environmental Improvement Division are checking the river water regularly, but the EID refused to estimate when it would be ruled safe to drink.

United Nuclear has been supplying water to the area since the spill. Company spokesman Charles Ofelt said tank trucks have hauled more than 800,000

The mill, which reopened Oct. 28 under a temporary 54-day permit, was closed last Friday when State Engineer Steve Reynolds ruled that a sand beach meant to protect the dam from the tailings pond was not wide enough.

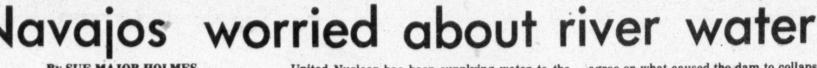

That problem was corrected over the weekend, but the mill was ordered to remain closed because of the contaminated underground water.

Israeli defense minister tries to defuse rising tensions

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — In an apparent attempt to defuse rising tensions in the occupied Arab territories, Defense Minister Ezer Weizman today abolished the senior army post for the area and took responsibility for contacts with Palestinian leaders, Israel Radio reported.

The move came in the wake of an expulsion order against Nablus Mayor Bassam Shakaa after the mayor privately told Maj. Gen. Danni Matt, the top officer in charge of the West Bank, that he understood why Arab terrorists attack Israel.

In a mass protest over the expulsion order, the mayors in 25 towns in the West Bank of the Jordan River and Gaza Strip and all their city councilmen resigned Wednesday.

Weizman was reported unhappy with Matt's conduct. His order abolishing Matt's position appeared to be a way of firing the general, although the radio said the move had been under consideration for some time.

A spokesman for Weizman denied that any personnel changes had taken place but said a realignment had been planned in preparation for the establishment of Palestinian autonomy in the West Bank and Gaza. "It has nothing to do with Matt," the spokesman said.

Matt has been accused in the Israeli press of trapping Shakaa by repeatedly asking the mayor his opinion of last year's terrorist attack on a coastal road, in which 34 Israelis died. An unidentified officer then leaked the conversation between Matta and Shakaa to the news media.

A statement broadcast by Israel Radio said Matt's responsibilities will be assumed by Maj. Gen. Avraham Tamir, a close Weizman aide. Meanwhile, Shakaa was being held in a top security prison near Tel Aviv, pending a Supreme Court hearing on his expulsion. Resigned Nablus councilman Selim Abdul Haak said the expulsion would strengthen the resolve of Palestinians to boycott a plan for Palestinian autonomy now being negotiated by Egypt and Israel. "The Israelis can expel Shakaa bodily but his policies will be stronger and stronger all the time," Haak said in a radio interview.

Israel's West Bank military government refused to accept some of the resignations. Gaza Mayor Rashid al-Shawa was informed his decision to quit was not approved, but Shawa said he was leaving anyway.

Bigger, bolder C. of C.

Most chambers of commerce across the land are becoming bigger and bolder not only in their support of business, but in their views and activities in the area of overall community betterment through social, political and legislative changes.

Advertising orders are accepted on this basis only

JAMES N. ALLISON (1902-1975)

And the Midland Chamber of Commerce, which was organized as such more than a half a century ago, certainly is no exception. It has broadened its overall operation and concepts in recent years as it has reached out to serve the entire community. And the trend in this direction now is being stepped up to meet ever-changing conditions.

But in order to accomplish its expanded program of work, the chamber must have additional revenue through increased membership.

This is why the Midland Chamber of Commerce now is in the midst of a 10-day membership campaign, designed to produce $30,000 annually in new money from additional members.

Considering Midland's tremendous economic and population growth in the last few years, this goal certainly is realistic and attainable.

Six teams of eight persons each, working under the leadership of Chairman Mike Bradford, are engaged in the new member solicitation. Final reports will be made on Nov. 28.

"Our Progress Is Your Future," the chamber's new slogan, is the theme of the membership campaign.

The Midland Chamber of Commerce with its expanded areas of service, merits the all-out support and cooperation of all citizens of the Tall City - individual and corporate.

Through the years, the Midland Chamber has taken the lead in every worthwhile community project, serving as the city's nerve center. It would, of course, be impossible to list all of the chamber's hundreds of achievements during its existence, but needless to say, the Tall City would not have many of the fine facilities and services residents now enjoy were it not for the chamber of commerce and its far-reaching efforts. The Objectives for Midland project of several years ago stemmed from chamber of commerce leadership, just as has the new Objectives program which was launched a few weeks ago.

JAMES N. ALLISON JR. (1931-1978)

Thinking back over the last two or three years, here are a few major projects completed, under way or in final planning or engineering stages, in which the Midland Chamber of Commerce has had a leading role: Midland Regional Airport expansion and improvement program; conventionexhibits center; Midland Memorial Hospital expansion; expanded commercial airline service; public transportation system, leadership training, loop road; housing, parking, conventions, expanded shopping facilities, and many

The chamber also is responsible for creating the highly successful Midland Industrial Foundation and its fine Industrial Park. During the last couple of years, the Midland Chamber has worked closely with Texas Instruments in its industrial expansion program here, and with PPG Industries and Michelin Tire Co., which are scheduled to break ground early next year for new industrial plants.

INSIDE REPORT:

How not to sell SALT demonstrated at NATO assembly

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON - Senate troubles for SALT II persist thanks to President Carter's failure to link the treaty's ratification with survival of the Western alliance, an ill-conceived effort that collapsed at last month's NATO political assembly in Ottawa. Headlines proclaimed that assembled members of the alliance's parliaments had called for early Senate ratification of the arms control treaty (SALT II). But behind the scenes, there were bitter recriminations among U.S. delegates, and attempts by embarrassed Europeans to tone down the unrestrained language drafted for them by the Americans.

Those efforts belied the Carter administration's claim of Western Europe pleading for salvation through SALT. Rather, it was American SALT-sellers in Ottawa unwittingly buttressing the Soviet campaign against nuclear modernization in order to label Senate rejection of the treaty as subversive to NATO's fu-

This NATO gambit bears family resemblance to Carter's successful strategy for the Panama Canal Treaty. Instead of arguing the merits of giving away the canal, the president's men warned that rejection by the Senate would reap havoc throughout the Western Hemisphere and lined up Latin American statesmen to agree. Lloyd Cutler, Carter's chief SALTseller, pursued the same strategy in tying an umbilical cord between SALT II and NATO visiting Washington resented being manipulated into a Senate debate. Members of the British and West German governments (including British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher) publicly declared that, of course, NATO would survive the death of SALT II.

At this point, SALT supporters sought to revive the NATO gambit at the Ottawa meeting of the North Atlantic assembly. With European parliamentarians on hand in Canada, their U.S. congressional counterparts remained in Washington for late votes. They were preceded, however, by a Senate Foreign Relations Committee staffer named John Ritch, renowned on Capitol Hill as a passionate arms controller.

Ritch brought to Ottawa a draft resolution urging "early ratification" of SALT and bearing the names of two pro-SALT senators: Republican Jacob Javits of New York and Democrat Joseph Biden of Delaware. It is widely believed, though denied by the White House, that inspiration came from the administration. Peter Coterier, a Social Democratic

tag and supporter of SALT, was asked to introduce the resolution. After some hesitation, Coterier agreed. His initial caution might have stemmed from its extraordinary language. Besides contending that U.S. failure to ratify would be "seriously disruptive" to NATO, it specified that would be true "particularly with regard to the forthcoming decision on the modernization of NATO's theater nuclear forces." Europeans were amazed at U.S. officials seeming to buttress the Soviet campaign against NATO's nuclear modernization.

With the U.S. delegation still in Washington, the assembly's military committee toned down the American language. The warning against undercutting nuclear force modernization was stricken. So was a clause contending that linkage of "the current situation in Cuba to SALT ratification would unnecessarily jeopardize alliance security interests." The committee also added what the Javits-Biden resolution omitted: "respecting...the sovereign right" of the U.S. to decide on SALT and noting requirements for "credible deterrence, stable nuclear balance and future arms control negotiations.'

When the U.S. delegation finally arrived in Ottawa, anti-SALT senators were outraged to discover the existence of a resolution demanding Senate ratification ready for passage by the assembly. A "caucus" of Americans followed, in which pent-up bipartisan passions were unleased. Two anti-SALT Democrats, Sens. Henry M. Jackson of Washington and Ernest F. Hollings of South Carolina. assailed Biden for not consulting them. Jackson accused Biden of conspiring with White House counsel Cutler, contending "This whole thing" is "a Cutler operation which has backfired." While taking full responsibility himself, Biden apologized for lack of consultation.

Apology or not, Biden and Javits refused to change the resolution so that only an early "decision" - not "ratification" - would be urged. After much rancorous debate, it was finally decided that all U.S. senators would abstain from the voting. Added to the French delegation plus conservatives from Britain and West Germany, that made 38 abstentions against 71 in favor - less than a certain trumpet.

The Ottawa meeting deepened SALT divisions among senators and intensified concern by British, French and German parliamentarians over what the Americans are doing. Thus, the NATO gambit won over no new senators for SALT but raised questions about the president's devotion to the Western Alliance among our puzzled European allies.

Federal Islamic prisoners get new consideration

WASHINGTON (AP) - Federal prisoners who practice Islam, once identified with militant Black Muslim inmates, are getting new consideration from prison officials for their social and religious practices.

The Rev. Richard Houlahan, a Catholic chaplain with the Federal Bureau of Prisons, says he has been working to convince prison officials that Muslims deserve the same religious privileges behind bars as inmates who are Jewish or Christian.

In the past, many followers of the religion were identified with Black Muslims, militants who were viewed by prison officials as a disruptive force. For some prison guards, the name conjured up visions of prison

A survey Houlahan conducted this summer and fall indicates that Islam is on the rise among inmates and that federal prison officials are making things easier for followers of Muhammad.

"I would say membership in Islamic groups seems to be on the increase," Houlahan said. "There is renewed interest in historic Islam. American groups are slowly but surely returning to Islamic roots."

In federal prisons, about 1,500 prisoners out of 25,000, or 6 percent, identify themselves as Islamic, Houlahan said. Islamic programs are organized at 24 of the 38 federal prisons, and most followers of Islam take part, the priest added.

His survey, based on questionnaires filled out by prison chaplains, showed that Muslim ministers, called Imams, make paid visits to conduct services at about half the prisons. They visit the other half on a voluntary basis.

Inmates belong to about a dozen Muslim sects. The most prominent groups are the World Community of Al Islam in the West at 35 institutions, the Moorish Science Temple of America at 21 prisons and the Sunni Muslims in 12 prisons.

A staple of the Muslim religion is the Jumah prayer, a weekly ritual on Friday afternoons.

In late August, Muslims concluded their annual 30-day period of fasting, known as the Ramadan. During the fast, it is forbidden to eat or drink during daylight hours.

Houlahan said almost every federal prison tried to accommodate the Muslims to some degree by making meals available either before sunrise or after sunset. It was necessary to pay overtime to the kitchen staff in only two cases, Houlahan said.

According to Houlahan's survey, 1,388 Muslims took part in Ramadan and 1,160 stuck to the fasting schedule throughout the 30 days.

Dead youth friend of Joe Campos Torres, relatives say

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - Relatives of a 19-year-old gunman killed Tuesday by police after wounding three officers say he was once a close friend of Joe Campos Torres, a Mexican-American who died while in Houston police custody in a celebrated 1977 civil rights case.

The 17-year-old sister of Javier Sanchez also says her brother, who was once taught karate by Campos Torres, had been beaten by Houston police in an incident two years ago.

Meanwhile, SWAT Sgt. Coy Boone, the most seriously wounded of the three officers, underwent surgery Wednesday afternoon to remove bullet fragments from his brain.

He was listed Wednesday night in critical, but stable condition. The other two wounded officers were listed in satisfactory condition.

Boone, 34, was shot point-blank in the head and neck when Sanchez burst out the back door of a small frame house near a high school and unleashed a hail of bullets into a group of SWAT officers conducting a house-to-house search. Another SWAT officer, Patrolman Oscar Gallo, 30, was wounded in the arm before the other SWAT officers killed Sanchez in a flurry of gunfire. The SWAT team was searching for the young gunman who had wounded

Patrolman Michael Young about two hours earlier when Young had stopped two youths on a bicycle for routine questioning. Sanchez had fled into the house and barricaded himself after the shooting, authorities said.

The second youth, a 16-year-old who fled when the shooting began, surrendered Wednesday and was released by authorities. Young, 25, suffered gunshot wounds to a hand and thigh. A third SWAT officer, Patrolman Neal Mitchell, escaped with only a bruise after a

'Valley of the Bears' police chief acquitted

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) -The police chief of Selma, the San Antonio suburb known as "The Valley of the Bears" for its notorious reputation as a speed trap, has been acquitted of drunken driving charges.

A six-person jury deliberated about an hour Wednesday before returning the verdict for Tom Holland, 29, who is also the town's city manager.

The trial was moved here on a change of venue requested by the Holland was arrested last Dec. 7-in Live Oak, another suburb adjacent to Selma and also known as an Interstate 35 speed trap.

He faced a maximum sentence of two years in prison and a $500 fine had he been convicted of the misdemeanor charges.

Defense attorneys Jimmy Parks and State Rep. Matt Garcia, D-San Antonio, contended in final arguments that the arrest was based on bitter jealousy and rivalry between the officers and the two suburbs north of San Antonio.

Former Live Oak police officer Gary Selman and reserve officer James Schriber, the prosecution's key witnesses, testified Tuesday that they arrested Holland after they observed his car weaving from lane to Selman testified that Holland was driving 40 miles per hour in a 20 mph zone and had narrowly missed collision with a van. His breath smelled of alcohol and his eyes were red and "glassy," the two officers said.

"The man was intoxicated and should not have been operating a motor vehicle," said Selman.

Selman also told the jury that he found nine full cans of beer, a bottle half full of bourbon and a half-filled glass of whiskey in Holland's late

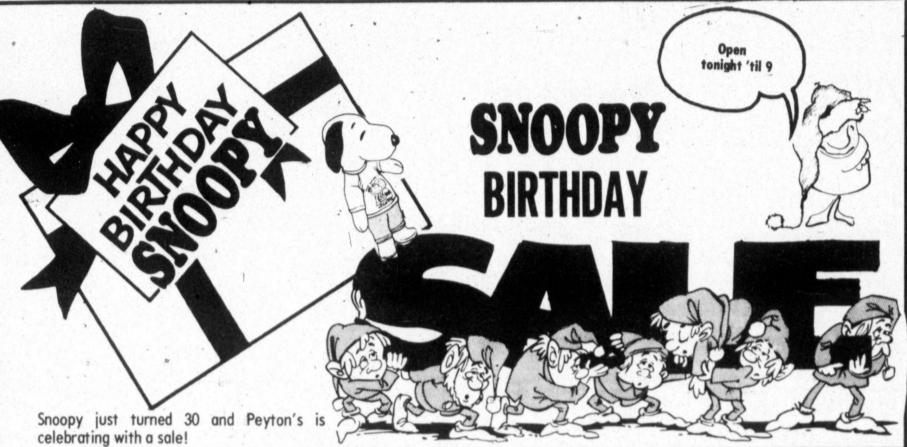

But Holland, testifying in his own defense, said he was in complete control of the car, adding that the arresting officers denied his request for a blood-alcohol test to determine whether he was intoxicated. The police chief claimed that he refused to take a breathalyzer test because such tests "can be manipulated.' Holland testified that he had consumed only four bottles of beer over a three-hour period while playing pool at his home with two friends. Assistant District Attorney Mike Sawyer asked the jury in his closing argument why the defense hadn't raised the jealousy theories while presenting their case.

The Times is back . . . with scoop and missing words

By RICHARD BLYSTONE

LONDON (AP) - How rich life is, now that The Times is back.

What other newspaper could have scooped the world Tuesday with the front-page news that the Vatican's representative in London is getting diplomatic status for the first time since Henry VIII broke with Rome in the 16th century?

After nearly a year, a forum in which letter writer Anthony Given of The Croft, Walkern, near Stevenage, Hertfordshire, can deplore bureaucratic indifference to oak wilt.

Once more, glimpses of that fictitious but typical upper-middle-class clan, the Ashbrooke-Pembleton-Frenches, adorning the personal classifieds.

Reborn, the crossword fan's aching need for a nine-letter word that has some obscure connection with the clue: "Devoted many to one furry friend indeed.

The answer is "dedicated," a synonym for devoted, but other clues referred to are within the "de" at the start and the "ed" at the end (indeed): DI (many) is the Roman numeral for 501 and the letters c-a-t represent the furry friend.

It's been a long, dry 11½ months for Times devotees while the management of the suspended paper wrangled with unions over staffing, pay and technology.

But once again English commuters, no longer forced to converse with their seatmates, may gratefully submerge their noses in the august paper that combines the quirkiness of an eccentric earl with sheer reading excitement.

The hue of The Times' news columns has been distinctly gray for much of its 194 years.

The headline over the obituary of Elvis Presley, "Mr.Presley Dies at 42," has the right tone. A Times reporter once distilled the tone into the parody: "Small Earthquake in Chile; not many killed."

But The Times' 300,000 readers like it that way.

Times columnists sought to reassure readers that nothing important while they were away. Bernard Levin reopened in mid-sentence with the word "moreover," and Philip Howard with "Dicebamus hesterna die," which he explained is a Latin way to say "As I was saying when I was interrupted."

Taking seriously its role as journal of record, as preserver and embodiment of British tradition, The Times printed in its second reborn edition Wednesday a six-page review of "How the world went round while our back was turned.'

This first of several catch-up supplements disappointed some by not including the eagerly awaited weather reports for the last 347 days. The first of three obituary supplements arrives Friday.

Seriousness aside, The Times is once again a sanctuary for the delicate British sense of eccentricity.

A Mrs. Gordon, who confessed to being high on the poet Shelley, headed her advertisement for reconditioned pianos in Wednesday's edition with the welcome-back paean "Oh peal forth, most august institution. Oh resound and clap throughout the molten firmament...."

James, we now learn, racked up a 16th straight year as most popular name among British middle-class parents who announced births of boys in The Times. Victoria moved up from 15th to first among girls. The figures for last year, an annual feature in The Times' letters, were carefully saved up by Margaret and Thomas Brown, 7 Foxthorn Paddock, Badger Hill, York, and printed Tues-

Publication in the letters column is for many Britons the Grail of a lifetime of scribbling. Exchanges on why seagulls make room for others on flagpoles or whether oatmeal should be eaten standing up draw flocks of witty and erudite entries.

Dozens vie for the accolade of reporting the arrival of spring's first cuckoo. Without The Times for legitimization, many wonder if he appeared at all this year.

"Last Monday," said a letter from D.J. Connolly, 67 Gossoms End, Berkhamsted, Herts, in Tuesday's edition, "I believe I heard the sound of the first phoenix of the year. Who said it was extinct?"

What has 18 wheels and student driver sign?

By JULES LOH

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) - What do you do when you see a car with a 'student driver' sign on it? Correct. Give it room. Well, good buddy, what would you do if you were cruising down the highway and came upon an 18-wheeler rambling along with "student driver" in letters two-feet high spread across it?

You give it room, all right, plenty of room. Curious though, you follow it. It leads you to a big lot on the edge of town where a whole gang of similar trucks are backing and hissing and growling their way through mazes of tires laid out on the ground. Welcome to the Memphis Professional Truck Driver Training Facili-

" Chuck Hall said. Hall is a retired army colonel who decided to capitalize on 22 years experience as a motor officer by operating a trucker school, one of only about two

"The course takes four weeks, eight hours a day," he said. "Don't worry.

We don't let them out on the highway until they're well along in their driving skills. Jack Dodds sees to that.' Dodds is chief instructor. He is a patient man with a deep, calming voice. In stature, though, he is not one you would pick out as a truck driver.

In the cab, he pulls the seat forward. He is 5-foot-8, weighs about 150. One who menaces the mailbox every time he backs the family car out of the driveway can only marvel at the way Jack Dodds handles a semi. His precision is surgical. "There aren't many experiences I haven't had with a truck since I began driving," he said. That would be since the day he dropped in at a lumber company in Lewiston, Idaho, just after World War II, looking for work. "Can you drive a truck?" he was asked. "Yes," he lied, and spent the next 30 years on the road, coast to coast. "I don't do any more over-the-road driving," he said. "I'm retired from that. But I can teach how to drive a truck. "These students are totally green so I try to give them the benefit of my experience, too — like the way you feel crossing Whitebird Pass in Montana with ice on the road and 36 tons behind you, or coming down The Grapevine between Bakersfield and Los Angeles, or Jacob's Ladder in the

"One of my students came back to visit after he had been driving a few years and he said, 'Jack, I believe you know every rock on the highway.' I was pleased about that."

Dodds swung up into the cab of a student-driver truck, slid the seat forward, threw the shift into reverse.

"If you're driving in, say, Brooklyn, you don't have much room to maneuver. You only get one shot. The idea is to back up to that loading dock and stick the truck between the black lines. They are eight feet apart, the width of the truck."

The truck rumbled backward in a clean arc and stopped with two hisses of the brakes. The trailer was precisely between the black lines, precisely one inch away from the loading dock.

Dodds swung down. "It's done with the mirrors," he said.

U.S. Customs in New Jersey reportedly being investigated

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) - U.S. Customs Service operations in New Jersey are under investigation for an alleged kickback scheme designed to enable goods to enter the United States duty free, according to published reports.

The New York Daily News, quoting unidentified sources in today's editions, reported many customs inspectors and warehousing personnel are suspected of taking payoffs for looking the other way when merchandise was passing through customs.

According to the reports, U.S. Attorney for New Jersey Robert Del Tufo is questioning customs agents about the scheme. The Customs Service's Management Integrity Unit, an internal undercover police agency, also is looking into alleged abuses in the office. Leonard Grant, customs director for New Jersey, was suspended without pay last week, according to Charles McGee, a spokesman for U.S. Customs "I can confirm, yes, there is an investigation. What is involved in the investigation I don't know. I don't know how much money is involved," McGee "This investigation is confined to New Jersey," he said. "The other areas are

Kennedy (International Airport) and the New York Seaport.' Region II, which encompasses parts of New York, New Jersey and Connecticut, collected over $1.9 billion in duty last year, McGee said. The alleged kickback operation involved more than 50 customs employees, reports said McGee said Grant, who has been with the New Jersey office for about 10 years, was relieved of his $48,000 a year post last week, but he declined to discuss details of the suspension, Grant's office employed about 350 workers,

The Daily News reported learning of the investigation after a man approached a reporter in a Jersey City bar and offered to sell expensive imported Scotch whisky at $60 a case - $5 a bottle.

"How can you sell it so cheap," the reporter asked. "It's swag," the man said.

The reporter learned of Del Tufo's investigation as the conversation continued.

The five-month probe was so secret even Region II Commissioner Fred R. Boyett did not know of its existence until recently, the newspaper reported. McGee said Boyett has made no public comment.

San Antonio Symphony fires young conductor hired 18 months ago

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - The San Antonio Symphony has fired Francois Huybrechts, the young conductor hired 18 months ago, symphony officials have announced. A two-paragraph announcement Wednesday said the reasons for the action are a private matter between Huybrechts, 34, and the executive committee of the Symphony Society. Huybrechts also released a statement, saying the committee had given no reasons for its dismissal action. But Symphony President Hugh K. Foster said Huybrechts was given reasons why his contract was not being renewed by the 26-member Symphony Society executive committee Huybrechts, who plans to honor the remaining nine weeks on his contract, said in his statement that he regretted the committee's decision and added that he is proud of the orchestra's accomplishments under his direction.

Foster confirmed that Huybrechts' musical performance was not in question, noting that a resolution praising his work with the orchestra had been passed unanimously in last week's board meeting.

The committee's dismissal decision was not unanimous, but it "wasn't close," said Foster.

Huybrechts had been selected afte a two-year search for a successor to the late Victor Alessandro, who headed the orchestra for 25 years. Huybrechts, who won the Mitropoulos conducting competition, had served as one of two assistants under Leonard Bernstein at the New York Philharmonic and as an assistant to the late George Szell with the Cleveland Orchestra. After his first season in San Antonio, season ticket sales increased 20 percent to record levels.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Nuclear reactor core meltdowns are more likely than the Nuclear Regulatory Commission admits, warns a task force reviewing the accident at Three Mile Island. The Lessons Learned Task Force, made up of NRC scientists and engineers, recommended Wednesday that the commission begin considering meltdown possibilities in its power plant licensing specifications. In a 50-page report delivered at a special briefing, the advisory body also told the NRC it should require nuclear workers to undergo training for meltdowns in addition to intensified drilling in routine proce-

Meltdowns now are considered such remote possibilities the NRC has no power plant design requirements to deal with them should they occur.

But because the TMI accident "exceeded many of the present design bases" and was a "significant precursor of a core-melt accident," the NRC should alter its licensing requirements, the task force found.

Lamesa, believe it or not, gave rise to that Southern chicken-fried steak and thick Texas toast.

And promoting those 20th century legends is Norma Johnson, who, at 71, still works "up front" in keeping things going at the Pheasant Restaurant.

"There's one thing I know," she said assuredly. "That (Texas toast) originated in Lamesa, Texas."

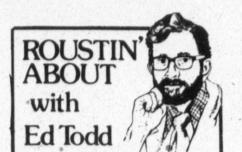

She has known that for a fact since 1949, when she and her late husband, Wesley, bought a cafe from Turner Morriset and carried on a Lamesa cafe tradition of hand slicing to a double thickness two-pound Pullman loaves of home-baked Farmer's bread.

Of course, today she buys that citified pre-sliced bread.

And as for as those tenderized veal cutlets dipped in batter, floured and cooked on the grill (never deep-fried), well, legend says those chicken-fried steaks were introduced to menus in Lamesa in 1914 by misunderstand-

The story goes that back-room cook James D. Perkins created the "world's tastiest dish" on a windy day after the waitress called in orders for "chicken, fried steak."

Well, Perkins couldn't tell a comma from a hyphen by the tone of the waitress. So, instead of cooking orders of chicken and fried steak, he cooked one: chicken-fried steak.

Imaginative.

He rolled a piece of steak in flour and milk and fried it.

Apparently the Lamesa-fried steak has been a hit ever since.

"Yeah," Jim replied, "I would like your job."

Extention of sanctions draws angry reactions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate conservatives say they will try to overturn President Carter's decision to retain U.S. economic sanctions against Zimbabwe Rhodesia pending the outcome of ongoing peace talks in London. Carter's announcement Wednesday drew angry reaction from two Senate Republicans who have supported an end to the sanctions since a biracial government took power in Salisbury last spring.

"I'm horrified," said Sen. S.I. Hayakawa, R-Calif., in a telephone interview. "I don't understand why the administration is trying to encourage communist-led guerrillas against a fledgling democratic government." Carter acted just hours before the sanctions were to have expired at midnight Wednesday under legislation passed earlier by Congress.

That measure included a provision giving Carter authority to keep the sanctions at least temporarily if he concluded that lifting them would be against the national interest.

However, the same legislation also gives Congress the right to override Carter's decision by a simple majority vote of both houses within 30 days, and Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., said he planned to introduce a resolution today to reverse Carter's decision.

"We should go ahead and lift the sanctions," Helms said.

But Rep. Steven Solarz, chairman of the House Foreign Affairs African subcommittee, said he thinks Carter made a "prudent and proper decision." To lift the sanctions now would be "diplomatically counter-product-

In announcing his decision, Carter acknowledged there has been "encouraging progress" at the 10-week-old Rhodesian peace conference in London. But, he said, "A termination of the sanctions at this stage could lead all the parties to harden their positions and would jeopardize the chances for a successful settlement."

Carter's decision came amid reports from London that final settlement may be imminent.

The white-supported government of Prime Minister Abel Muzorewa and the Patriotic Front guerrilla movement have been at odds over terms for a cease-fire and for elections that would lead Zimbabwe Rhodesia to independence.

Under the settlement proposals, Britain would send a governor to Zimbabwe Rhodesia to oversee the transition process.

Carter said the United States would be "prepared to lift sanctions when the British governor assumes authority in Salisbury and a process leading to impartial elections has begun."

Some black leaders had called on Carter to maintain the sanctions until after the transition process. Randall Robinson, head of a black group which tries to influence U.S. African policy, said that to do so beforehand could diminish the prospects for an impartial election.

Robinson was among a group of black leaders briefed by Carter before the formal White House announcement.

your feet under a person's table that's different from anything else," she said with certainty. "Some of the best times you'll have will be talking — not necessarily the food — but the conversation."

Factions at Rhodesia talks accept Britain's interim plan

LONDON (AP) — Opposing parties at the Zimbabwe Rhodesia talks today accepted Britain's plan for a new interim government, paving the way for a peace settlement.

Britain announced the agreement after intense telephone communication throughout the night and further meetings this morning.

The 10-week-old talks arranged by Britain now can move to the final stage of working out a cease-fire in the seven-year-old war between government and nationalist guerrillas in Zimbabwe Rhodesia that has left 20,-

Despite the difficult negotiations ahead, the prospect of an end to years of international ostracism and bloody conflict lay in sight for the breakaway British colony of seven million blacks and 230,000 whites.

The final plan called for a British governor to rule Zimbabwe Rhodesia and supervise new elections before it is granted legal independence.

NICHOLAS FENN, SPOKESMAN for British Foreign Secretary Lord Carrington, told a news conference: "Lord Carrington is delighted. He pays tribute to the statesmanship of both delegations."

Agreement came after Britain amended its original plan for direct rule during new elections and a cease-fire by stating that the Patriotic Front guerrillas will, like Salisbury's government troops, come under the direct authority of the proposed British governor.

Front spokesmen said this satisfied the guerrillas' fundamental objection ohat Britain intended to legalize the government troops by taking them over, leaving the Front's forces as outlaws.

Aides of Zimbabwe Rhodesia's black Prime Minister Abel Muzorewa maintained the change did not materially alter the substance of the British plan, which he and his biracial administraton accepted two weeks ago.

Eddison Zvobgo, militant spokesman for Front co-leader, Robert Mugabe, told reporters: "A new hope now will shine upon our people. Once the governor arrives, there will be no terrorists. We'll be legal forces."

GUERRILLA LEADERS HAD CHARGED that the British proposals would rig new elections in favor of Muzorewa and his five-month-old biracial govern-rig new elections in favor of Muzorewa and his five-month-old biracial government, which is to give up its power in favor of the British governor prior to the elections.

However, British officials and members of the Patriotic Front worked late into Wednesday night and the Front dropped its opposition after modifications were made in the plan. Carrington, the conference chairman, then scheduled a meeting today between leaders of both sides.

During the breakthough meeting, the Front put up a compromise plan presented last weekend to British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher by Zambian President Kenneth Kaunda.

Mrs. Thatcher then modified the British proposals to calm guerrilla fears and make the plans acceptable to the Commonwealth and the warweary African leaders, including Kaunda, whose nation provides bases for the guerrillas. The Commonwealth is the 39-nation association of Britain and its former colonies due to monitor the cease-fire. The final British plan provided for:

— A CEASE-FIRE COMMISSION with military commanders from both sides represented. It is spelled out that both armies will be "equally responsible to the governor" for maintaining the cease-fire.

Guerrillas now fighting inside the country will be housed and fed, apparently from Zimbabwe Rhodesia government funds.
 An election council, headed by a British commissioner with more than 100 British staffers, on which all parties have "equal status." The plan stipulates the council will be divorced from the "existing machinery of government," aiming to overcome guerrilla objections to the governor taking over the white-led civil service.

—Troops from the Commonwealth to play a "stabilizing role in resolving military questions" after elections and before independence. This apparently means the troops could help integrate the warring armies, a move Britain has ruled out before elections.

—An increase in the transition period from Britain's original eight weeks to 11 weeks, compared with six months wanted by the guerrillas.

 A British committment to resettle the estimated 250,000 refugees now in neighboring countries.

Muzorewa became Zimbabwe Rhodesia's first black prime minister in elections in June. But President Carter, black African leaders and the guerrilla leaders criticized the elections as neither fair nor free, and the United States continued its economic sanctions against the country, imposed after white Prime Minister Ian Smith unilaterally declared independence from Britain in 1965 rather than submit to black majority rule.

Pennsylvania State Secretary of Revenue Howard Cohen tosses part of a confiscated seven ton arsenal onto the magnet carrying the firearms to a blast furnace at Bethlehem Steel's Harrisburg plant. The weapons are being melted down and forged into construction reinforcement bars.

STEELTON, Pa. (AP) - An arsenal of crime - submachine guns, pistols and switchblade knives - was melted into construction reinforcement rods in a state program to destroy illegal weapons, and collectors and the National Rifle Association are More than 6,000 guns weighing about seven tons and other items seized by police were trucked to a steel plant Wednesday and dropped into the furious glow of a 3,000-degree electric furnace.

The arsenal included a tiny Derringer, a big Thompson submachine gun, sawed-off shotguns, a few thousand revolvers and automatic pistols, hundreds of knives, zip guns, a crossbow and some drug paraphernalia thrown in for good measure.

The cache's destruction at the Bethlehem Steel Co. plant outside Harrisburg was the state Revenue Department's biggest weapons meltdown since 1971.

Some of the weapons were crude a shotgun-sized pipe bound to a length of wood with strips of a blanket, and operated only with a sharpened piece of steel connected to a spring.

But to the dismay of some gun collectors, the arsenal also included German lugers, P-38s and an original Tommy gun, popular with both G-"A good Thompson might fetch $2,-000 if it's in good condition," he said.

NASA bid for shuttle funds gets Carter OK

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter, giving the manned space shuttle a strong vote of confidence, says he will support a request for several hundred million extra dollars to help correct problems with the

The president expressed his support Wednesday after an hour-long White House meeting with officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, the Defense Department and the Office of Management and Budget.

Carter called the meeting to express his concern about technical, financial and management problems that have delayed the maiden launch of the spaceship, which can be landed and flown again, by more than a year, threatening the craft's national de-

"The president expressed supports in the program and confidence in it and stated his full expression of the national need for the program," Dr. Robert Frosch, the NASA administrator, told reporters afterward.

"He is concerned about the national security uses," Frosch said. "He is also concerned about the general usefulness as a scientific tool and as a tool for commercial utilization of space and as an important piece of U.S. technological progress. Frosch said he told the president he felt the shuttle's technical problems have been normal for a program of its complexity and magnitude.

"I classed them as odds and ends, things that break and must be fixed,' Frosch said. "To fix them takes time, and time is money." He said the principal remaining problems concern testing the main engines.

He said NASA intends to conduct the shuttle's first manned flight in June, but an August or September launch is probably more realistic.

Frosch said the program has been granted insufficient appropriations for several years and that he will ask the president to support a supplemental appropriation for this fiscal year of perhaps $300 million plus more money than is now planned for the next budget.

"I have the impression the president is prepared for our request and is prepared to support it," Frosch said.

Asked if Carter's support would have been as strong if it were not for the defense considerations, the NASA head replied: "There is no question that the national defense requirements add to the urgency.'

Air Force Secretary Hans Mark briefed the White House meeting on defense aspects of the shuttle. About one-fourth of the nearly 500 shuttle launches planned in the next 12 years will be military, including the orbiting of reconnaissance, navigation and communications satellites.

Firefight efforts cause fears of White River contamination fumes for the last 10 days. Efforts to extinguish the fire have been hampered by fears that water hosed into the burning plastic would contaminate the nearby White

Gov. Bill Clinton declared the situation an emergency Wednesday and set aside $25,000 for use by three state agencies in fighting the fire, which is releasing hydrogen chloride gas into the air in western Baxter County.

Firefighters decided late Wednesday night to battle the fire with a mist that should wash the toxic gas from the smoke, said Mel Goodwin of the state Fire Academy. One problem was a lack of water at the landfill. "All we have is water from the ponds and what we carry out there," said Jim Ball, Mountain Home fire chief. The landfill is located about seven miles from Mountain Home in north central Arkansas.

The plastic had been dumped in the landfill over a period of several years, officials say. Officials of the state Pollution Control and Ecology Department have monitored the fire daily by taking air samples of the fumes, which had not reached a level considered to be dangerous by Wednesday. Last week, the department evacuated two houses adjacent to the landfill and advised residents of Gassville, Whiteville, and Cotter to leave their homes if the fumes made them uncomfortable.

The proclamation said the landfill fire appears to be growing worse and the concentrations of the chloride gas

Railroad not in the wrong

MOLINO, Fla. (AP) - Louisville & Nashville Railroad is not to blame for the fiery derailment of a train loaded with propane, an investigator for the National Transportation Safety Board says.

WAREHOUSE & SHOWROOM National Transportation Safety Board says.

Meanwhile, hundreds of persons forced to evacuate the area left their makeshift shelter in a nearby gymasium and returned home.

"As the song says, there's no place like home," said Johnny Weaden, 47, one of about 300 residents of this panhandle town north of Pensacola to be evacuated after the derailment Sunday.

NTSB Investigator Russell Gober said Wednesday that heavy rain and runoff from a pond apparently weakened a section of track. The first two locomotives of the four-locomotive train safely passed over the weakened section, but the third unit derailed, touching off fires in propane tankers and a secondary derailment toward the end of the 109-car train,

Federal officials hired a Texas company to blow holes in the derailed cars, six of which contained liquid propane, and end the threat of a spontaneous

An first explosion Tuesday sent a spectacular fireball shooting into the sky as propane and other volatile chemicals spilled from the cars and caught fire. Somehow, one car survived the blast and continued to spew flames from a broken valve.

Residents were allowed to return after demolition experts set off a second blast in that tanker. Cleanup hopes of opening the tracks again by Sunday.

Word that the danger was past brought cheers from the hundreds of evacuees at the Monsanto Corp. gymnasium in nearby Gonzalez, where a Red Cross spokesman announced, "It's over. You can go home in safety.'

"It was really a marvelous scene," said Vern Moss, a Red Cross volunteer. "There was a lot of hugging, smiling and crying."

Charles Castner, a spokesman for L&N, said the railroad would notify evacuees they could file claims for losses caused by the derailment. He also said the company would consider reimbursing them for food and motel expenses.

School restroom policy causes large protest

NEW LONDON, Ohio (AP) - Last, year, New London High School officials removed the doors on the stalls in the girls' restrooms because of problems with vandalism and smoking. Now the outside doors are gone, too, and the "open door" policy is causing an uproar.

"I have two daughters at the school, and the youngest refuses to go in (the restroom) because there are boys standing around outside and pushing each other in," said Joyce Fallet. "I want people to know it's not just the protection of a few students, but the protection of the morals of our chil-

About 140 parents have banded together in their new cause. They are calling the action an invasion of privacy and are circulating petitions to get the doors back. Some of the 390 pupils are also circulating petitions through the northern Ohio town of about 2,300.

School administrators say the doors were removed last week because of reports of vandalism and smoking. Individual stall doors were removed last year for similar reasons, but now that the outside doors are gone, parents say there is "a pretty clear view" from the hall.

"It's a matter of discrimination. The boys' restrooms still have the doors on and boys smoke as much as girls. We don't want a whole lot, just the darn outside doors," Mrs. Fallet

She said the parents realize the school is trying to protect its property, but they feel there are other methods that should be used.

Mrs. Fallet voiced her opinion at New London's school board meeting Monday and offered to spend a few hours monitoring the restrooms. She said she thinks other mothers would gladly do the same.

Principal Robert Wenner said at the meeting that he would put the doors back on "when and if" the volunteers show up.

"Nowadays, they don't even build restrooms with doors because of the same problems we have had reported," said Superintendent Howard Dulmage. However, he said, having parents monitor the restrooms might solve the problem.

"After evaluating the situation, we (the board) might consider having parents help out. I don't think anyone's modesty has been compromised. We're just trying to protect the school and protect those students from threats of violence, vandalism and smoking," Dulmage said.

But as of Wednesday, no parents had arrived for monitor duty, and the Funeral industry wins in Congressional test

WASHINGTON (AP) - In a key test of how Congress regards federal regulation, the funeral industry is a clear winner and consumer groups

The House voted 223-147 Wednesday night to keep the Federal Trade Commission from issuing its proposed regulation over the funeral industry.

Consumer, labor and senior citizens groups had strongly opposed the amendment by Rep. Marty Russo, D-Ill. The vote indicates that other proposed anti-FTC measures are likely to win approval in the current Congress, which is responding to calls by many businesses that they are over-regulated.

The amendment was attached to a general bill authorizing various FTC programs. The measure may come to a final vote later today. The Senate has not acted on any such amendment.

"The American people want less intervention in their daily lives and less of a federal burden on the backs of small business, which most of the funeral industry is," Russo said.

He also criticized the FTC for anti-industry bias and questioned procedures used by the agency in drawing up the regulation.

Rep. John Rousselot, R-Calif., said, "How we go about burying our dead is not a federal problem." He said state and local governments can regulate any excesses in the industry. The proposed FTC regulation, which is awaiting final action by the commission, would require funeral homes to give out their prices over the telephone when asked. It also would make illegal certain practices deemed to be unfair, such as requiring caskets for cremation. Rep. Norman Dicks, D-Wash., called the House measure "a blatantly special interest amendment.

It's a game of musical chairs

Candidates invade each others' turf

By The Associated Press

While Sen. Edward M. Kennedy sought support for his Democratic presidential bid in Minnesota - home state of Vice President Walter Mondale - Republican candidate Ronald Reagan was trying to make points in Kennedy's New England

To complete the game of musical chairs on the campaign trail Wednesday, many prominent Minnesota Democrats were at the White House for a briefing by President Carter and Mondale. during Kennedy's visit to their state.

The apparent timeliness of the White House invitations was "just a coincidence," said Joan Growe, Minnesota secretary of state and a leading Kennedy supporter.

Reagan zeroed in on the Carter administration's energy policy in his first full day on the campaign trail in the Northeast - a region he told various audiences he was determined not to "write

In Manchester, N.H., Reagan said the region needs more refineries to lessen its dependence on foreign oil. He did not specify where such refineries would obtain crude oil to refine, although he made a general call for more domestic oil explora-

At an earlier rally in Boston, the former California governor also called for faster decontrol of prices on domestic oil than advocated by Carter.

And he said the president's proposed "windfall" tax on oil company revenues should be rejected because the burden of the levy eventually would fall on consumers. The tax would be levied on additional oil industry revenues generated under the decontrol plan already set in motion by Carter.

Kennedy, meanwhile, in a speech at Macalester College in St.

Paul, Minn., said he would urge the Senate to strengthen its version of the "windfall" tax bill to bring it in line with House-passed legislation.

The Massachusetts senator, who returned to Washington to take part in Senate debate today on the proposed tax, already has urged Carter to veto any bill that fails to recover at least half the additional revenue. The Senate Finance Committee proposal would take about 30 percent; the House bill about 60 percent.

Reagan also attacked Carter's foreign policy, saying the administration was not being firm enough with the Soviet Union. And while he backed Carter's response to the current crisis in Iran, he said the administration should have done more to keep the shah in power.

Reagan planned a news conference in New York City today before flying to Philadelphia for a rally.

Kennedy was accompanied on campaign stops in Duluth and the Minneapolis-St. Paul area by Mrs. Growe and Rep. Richard Nolan, D-Minn. Both conceded he would have trouble overcoming Mondale's efforts to hold a majority of Minnesota delegation to the Democratic National Convention in line behind the Carter-

A majority of those gathered outside, however, appeared to be applauding and cheering the senator.

The House committee adopted by a 30-7 vote an amendment by Chairman Henry Reuss, D-Wis., requiring Chrysler to concentrate on making subcompact cars and other energysavers such as rapid transit vehicles in order to get the loan guarantees. The amendment would also permit diversion of some of the $1.5 billion in guarantees to other firms making such equipment in abandoned Chrysler plants.

Lundine's amendment would cut off the guaranteed loans unless Chrysler established an employee stock option plan within six months after the bill became law. Chrysler would be required to issue 10 million shares of common stock, with a value estimated by Lundine at Heart transplantation 'proven,' doctor says

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) - Heart transplants, all but abandoned after initial excitement turned into frustration a decade ago, are now proving they can save patients who otherwise might die within weeks, Results at Stanford University, which has performed more heart transplants than any other group in the world, are so impressive that "we are on a wave of enthusiasm right now for heart transplantation," said Dr. Jack G. Copeland.

Copeland, once on the Stanford transplant team, is now at the University of Arizona where a new heart transplant program has undertaken three operations since March. All three recipients are still alive.

Since 1968, Stanford has performed transplants on 176 patients, 70 of whom are still alive, and Copeland told reporters at an American Heart Association conference Wednesday that the complex and expensive operation is spreading to medical centers

The operation also has been performed this year at Medical College of Virginia and the University of Wisconsin at Madison.

Dr. Edward B. Stinson of the Stanford group said that when patients are carefully selected for age, health and other factors, two out of three will survive at least one year with a new heart. Half of them will live five years or more.

And, he noted, "these are patients who are very ill. Their average survival (without a transplant) is in terms of 6 or 7 weeks.'

The Stanford results are in contrast to the flurry of operations that followed the first tranplant, which made a celebrity of South African surgeon Christiaan Barnard in 1967.

The excitement was shortlived. Many surgeons abandoned the procedure a few years later after finding that the body's defensive immune system attacked the new heart as murderously as any other

Attempts to combat this "rejection" with drugs often left the body so defenseless that those who survived rejection fell victim to an assortment of infections.

House to consider hospital costs

By JANET STAIHAR

WASHINGTON (AP) - It took some strong urging from administration leaders, but President Carter's efforts to place a federal cap on rising hospital costs is going before the House of Representatives for a vote.

The battle starting today on the House floor was expected to be close and neither side was predicting victory. It was uncertain whether the matter would come to a vote today.

Debate was expected to center on whether to keep the threat of federal price controls in the bill or replace that enforcement mechanism with a special study commission that Carter supporters think is worthless.

This is the most important piece of anti-inflation legislation that has been in Congress in recent years," says Stuart Eizenstat, the president's chief domestic adviser.

Carter, in a letter sent to all House members; claims the hospital cost proposal could save more than $40 billion over the next five years. And Vice President Walter Mondale has been telephoning members to drum up support.

Under the bill, slightly less than half of the nation's 6,000 community hospitals would be subject to the controls. The remainder have won exemptions.

The administration bill would establish guidelines for increases in hospital expenditures. Hospitals that fail to stay within those guidelines would be subject to mandatory federal controls on how much they could charge for certain services.

While the administration has been pressing for passage, congressional staffs say lobbying against the measure has been equally intense.

The hospital industry set up its own voluntary program to slow rising costs two years ago and argues that those efforts are now bearing fruit and should be allowed to continue without government interference. However, Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Patricia Harris and presidential inflation fighter Alfred E. Kahn say the voluntary program has been a flop, with hospital costs going up 13.3 percent in the first seven months of this year. The administration bill attempts to keep hospitals from being penalized by general inflation by allowing them to pass through all increases in the prices of goods and services they

The federal guidelines also would take into account population growth of the community, certain capital spending and increased use of the Hospitals in states that have their own hospital cost containment program would be exempt. These now include Connecticut, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, Rhode Island, Washington and Wisconsin. The legislation also provides a possible waiver to Illinois, which is proceeding toward its own program. Also exempted would be children's hospitals and small hospitals with less than 4,000 admissions a year.

The bill would give Congress 60 days to veto mandatory price controls if the Department of Health, Educatign and Welfare decided to trigger them after finding hospitals were not keeping within allowable standards for expenditures. Moreover, either the House or the Senate could vote to halt the mandatory controls in any

Names in the News

NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Meryl Streep had been sure she was going to give birth to a girl. So when her 6-pound, 14-ounce boy made his appearance by Caesarian section, it took a while to come up with a name.

The baby and mother both were doing well after the Tuesday delivery, according to Ray Rebhan of New York Hospital.

Miss Streep, who married artist and sculptor Donald J. Gummer in October 1978, was nominated for an Oscar for her performance in "The Deer Hunter" and won a television Emmy for her performance in the "Holocaust" series.

The baby's name? The couple finally decided on Henry — "after Hank Aaron," said Miss Streep. "No, it's just a good name."

EL ALAMEIN, Egypt (AP) — Manfred Rommel, son of the legendary German field marshal, visited the site where the battle of El Alamein was fought and said it was just as well his father lost.

"It's a sad thing for the German people that today they must admit that it was better to lose in war than to win, especially in the face of several thousand soldiers killed," said the 50-year-old mayor of Stuttgart and son of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel. "But we have to admit it. It would have been terrible if Hitler had won the war.

Rommel was in Cairo on Tuesday to set up a sister city program and was made an honorary citizen.

Erwin Rommel, the "desert fox," was defeated in a battle 37 years ago that turned the tide of World War II in favor the Allies.

NEW YORK (AP) — Aaron Copland, who has been honored with the Pulitzer Prize and the Presidential Medal of Freedom, is the latest recipient of the distinguished achievement award of the Third Street Music School Settlement.

The Brooklyn-born composer, whose music has been performed for the past 54 years, was cited on his 79th birthday Wednesday at a lunch attended by leading figures in music, theater and art.

The school's award has gone in previous years to conductors Sarah Caldwell and Andre Kostelantez, singers Licia Albanese and Dorothy Maynor and clarinetist Benny Goodman.

Copland, also a planist, conductor and teacher, is known mainly for his orchestral suites and ballet scores for "Appalachian Spring," "Billy the Kid" and "Rodeo."

NEW YORK (AP) — Ballerina Cynthia Gregory has taken another jump from American Ballet Theater — her third since 1967.

Miss Gregory told ABT dancers, who have been locked out since Oct. 21 after a breakdown in contract negotiations, she would not return.

"We've formally told them Cynthia will no longer dance with the company," John Hemminger, Miss Gregory's husband and agent, said Wednesday.

"We were able to reach agreement on the artistic side, but Ballet Theater was unable to meet our financial requirements," he said.

Theater was unable to meet our financial requirements," he said.

Miss Gregory, 33, retired from the company in 1975 but rejoined it a year later. In November 1977 she left again, saying the company had not provided her with a suitable partner. She returned two months later.

Efforts at 'deciphering' genetic code earn honor

NEW YORK (AP) — Two scientists who invented a quick way to decipher the genetic "code" of living things have been awarded a prestigious Lasker Foundation basic research

Drs. Walter Gilbert of Harvard and Frederick Sanger of Britain's Medical Research Council share the $15,000 prize for independently developing methods that opened new vistas in genetic research.

"It was as though we were standing in front of a library filled with millions of volumes we were unable to read. Now we can go inside and read to our hearts' content," Gilbert said as the winners were announced Wednesday.

While the cash award with a Lasker prize — $15,000 — is not as high as some other prizes, the award carries prestige in part because 29 past winners have gone on to win Nobel prizes.

Other 1979 Lasker award winners were Dr. Roger Wolcott Sperry of California Institute of Technology, who did pioneering work on the differing function of the two halves of the brain, and Sir John Wilson of Brighton, England, an international worker for the blind.

Gilbert and Sanger both developed fast ways to decode the structure of deoxyribonucleic acid, or DNA, the long spiral molecule whose sequence carries the genetic blueprint for each living thing.

With their methods, scientists can decode in a day what five years ago would have taken several years, the Lasker foundation said.

These methods have enabled scientists to learn the structure of several human genes, including those for insulin, growth hormone and hemoglobin. Other scientists have used them in forcing bacteria to produce insulin, growth hormone and somatostatin.

But this rapid advance has also turned up surprises. For example, Sanger said, it now appears that 90 percent of the coding in human DNA may be "nonsense" codes that do not have any known function.

The gene for insulin, for example, comes in two widely separated parts and no one knows what the intervening DNA sequence does.

And the new methods have toppled a long-held theory that all living things have the same system for translating the DNA code into cell products. Both yeast and human cells contain mitochondria, energy-producing organelles inside the cell, that violate this "universal genetic code," as it is called.

"In Wally Gilbert's 'library' analogy, we may have learned to read off the letters in the books but we still don't know what all the words mean," Sanger said.

Byrne's Kennedy contribution illegal?

CHICAGO (AP) — A preliminary check with the Federal Election Commission "led us to believe" Mayor Jane Byrne may be making an illegal contribution to Sen. Edward Kennedy's campaign, says the head of President Carter's Illinois campaign.

Neither Mrs. Byrne nor any of her aides would commment on the allegations Wednesday. Edward Burke, her brother and campaign treasurer, was not available for comment, nor was Michael Sneed, the mayor's press secretary who is taking a post in the Kennedy campaign.

Robert Torricelli said he believes

Robert Torricelli said he believes Mrs. Byrne's campaign fund, from which the $5,000 contribution would come, is not currently registered with the commission. "It would be extraordinarily unusual for a mayoral campaign fund to be registered with the FEC," Torricelli said.

He added that unless her campaign committee is registered as a political action committee under FEC rules, the $5,000 contribution Mrs. Byrne has announced from the proceeds of an Oct. 15 fundraising dinner — at which Carter spoke — would be illegal.

Meanwhile, Anthony R. Martin-Trigona, a Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate, filed a petition with the FEC charging that Mrs. Byrne "publicly announced an illegal campaign contribution," and requesting that the commission bar her from making the donation and the Kennedy campaign committee from accepting it.

Under FEC regulations, the limit an individual can contribute is $1,000 per election. The top amount that can be contributed by a corporation or union — through a political action committee — is $5,000 per election.

Whether the mayor's campaign committee met federal guidelines could not be determined immediately.

During October, Mrs. Byrne moved from a position of supporting Carter to endorsing Kennedy 11 days after the fund-raiser. She said she had hoped having Carter in Chicago would boost his standing in the state, but that polls taken afterward convinced her Carter's slide could not be reversed.

A spokeswoman for the Federal Election Commission in Washington, Sharon Snyder, said that a local political committee could contribute up to $5,000 to a federal election as a political action committee if it met certain conditions, such as having the committee registered as a political action committee and having contributed to five federal candidates. Ms. Snyder said that unless those conditions are met, the local committee could donate only up to $1,000.

only up to $1,000.

She said such local committees sometimes segregate money expected to be sent to federal campaigns so that it is not mixed with money that is unacceptable under federal rules, such as direct contributions from corporations or labor unions.

Citing 'eccentric' lunch box, court upholds state's failure to hire woman

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Miriam Kiss was legitimately passed over for a state job because of her image, including the fact that she carried a Walt Disney lunch box, a New Jersey court has ruled.

Ms. Kiss claimed she was discriminated against on the basis of sex when she was denied a job as a community planner in 1976 because a man who scored lower on the qualification test was hired instead.

She applied for the job along with two men, one of whom received a veteran's priority for the job. When a man was hired, she complained to a Civil Service Commission hearing officer.

"In his opinion, the petitioner would not be able to project the desired department image to the municipalities," the Appellate Division of Superior Court note Wednesday.

More Americans favoring abortion

HOUSTON (AP) - Americans are beginning to judge abortion as more than a one-dimensional issue and 90 percent now favor it under certain circumstances, according to a poll by the Planned Parenthood Federation

The survey, released Wednesday and prepared for Planned Parenthood by Dr. Michael Rappeport and Patricia Labaw, also said 80 percent of those questioned favored sex educa-

"If we simply asked people do you favor abortion, yes or no, we'd get about the same 60 per cent response in favor that others have received." Rappeport said.

'But you ask them about the 45year-old woman with three children whose contraception did not work or the 16-year-old rape victim and suddenly they favor abortion."

Rappeport said his study showed only 8 percent of the population would be opposed to abortion under any circumstances with the other 2 percent undecided.

The report was presented during the Planned Parenthood annual

"We are pleased that public opinion supports the aims of our organization, which include providing information about contraception, supporting sex education in schools and providing birth control counseling and abortion services," said Ms. Faye Wattleton, president of Planned Parenthood.

Forty-five percent of those interviewed put themselves in a category of not really approving of abortion. They said, however, they did not be-lieve they should tell others what to Study helps reduce risks for pregnant diabetics

By JACK WILLIAMS Copley News Service

SAN DIEGO, Calif. -- Pat Richards was pregnant

"I had lost one baby before, eight years ago, she said. I was afraid of getting pregnant again and, when it happened, it took a long time to adjust. It was a shock. I was really scared."

Richards, a 26-year-old suburban Escondido housewife, is a diabetic.

Diabetic pregnancies are high risk. They are costly. They require additional medical care. "Pregnancy complicated by diabetes is one of the most serious problems we face in reproductive medi-

Richards gave birth to a healthy, 8-pound, 4-ounce daughter, whom she named Renaissance Rhiannon

Whether the diet played a definitive role in Richards' trouble-free pregnancy and the subsequent birth has yet to be determined. But Richards suspects it did.

The research involved in the pregnancy diet study at UCSD is typical of research projects going on across the country in an effort to ease the medical problems for diabetics.

As for Richards, she now is talking of having another child in two years. She hasn't had an injection of insulin since the birth, and she is optimistic that the diabetes may be receding. Her fears are gone

Pichawai Paintings

of RAJASTAH, INDAI

These watercolor paintings, done on both cloth and paper, enjoyed a great popularity from the 16th century onwards. In the 17th and 18th centuries, provincial schools under the partonage of nobles and imperial schools of the courts existed, each school specializing in a different technique and subject matter. Pichawai paintings done in the 20th century are a synthesis of these many schools. The ever shrinking group of artists that do them are direct descendants of the original masters. Their works are truly collectors items, as they and their paintings continue to dwindle in number.

The Pack still shines in 1979

By TRACY BEEBE, ANGELA TOMPKINS AMY DAVENPORT and BECKY WILSON

STYLE: Ducktails, ponytails, bobby socks, penny loafers, T-birds, Elvis and lipstick. It's like a blast from the past. Times haven't changed. Friday is 50s Day to show those Rebels the Pack still shines in '79. Our first victory rally for the Civil War was this afternoon at the stadium. Those cottonpickers don't stand a chance 'cuz our battle plan is already under

Go out tonight and watch the JV scalp the warts from Rebeland. We're backing the JV to beat the

FRIDAY NIGHT our Mighty Bulldogs will be lashin' out for the Rebels "blood, sweat and tears." Fighting it out tooth and nail, the Mighty Purple Pack is going to paw our archrivals. Well, Rebs, we hate to stick you with another loss but we're gonna gum up your attempts anyway. Beat the Rebels!

Shuckin' and jivin' will be every proud Bulldog celebrating our victory and the last after-game dance of the year. This Victory Dance Friday night from 10 p.m. to 1 a.m. will be little different from the last ones. It will cost $1 a person with or without a membership card. In other words, you won't have to stand in line to get in as you won't have to show your card. Let's make this last one the best. Everyone is welcome. Beat the Rebels!

OUR BIG, BAD basketball team will be making its premier showing against Roswell, N.M., tonight in Roswell. They make their second performance Saturday in Del Rio. Go get 'em, Dogs!

Speaking on behalf of the student body, we thank the MHS Band for its most enjoyable halftime performances. They surely will do well in representing Midland High in the district marching competition Saturday at the stadium. Thanks to everyone for supporting the band by buying fruit cakes. Beat the

EVERYONE HAS BEEN anciously awaiting the drama's fall production, "Our Town." There's still time to purchase tickets. General admission is $2, and only $1 for students. Dates are Nov. 29-30 and Dec. 2. "Our Town" boasts such stars as Kyle Raybourn, Dru Perry, Candy Baimbridge and Red Steele, plus many others.

The Youth Center will be closed during the day from Nov. 20 through Nov. 25. It will be open from 8 p.m. to 12:45 a.m. Monday. Normal evening hours will be observed on the days the YC is closed.

100 CLUB and Junior Council: There will be a set-up at 4 p.m. Friday for the Victory Dance after the Rebels are rubbed out. Also Saturday at 2 p.m. we will have set-up and decorating for the 9th grade Junior Assembly.

Since there will be no Chatter on Thanksgiving, I wish to say at this time, "Thanks to all Center members for a great first quarter, and may you all have a wonderful and happy Thanskgiving."

SHOW 'EM YOUR STUFF, Bulldogs! Although fright. We're all behind you, Bulldogs, and we mean what we say. Instead of saying "Hi" in the halls Friday, show your spirit by saying, "Beat the Rebels." We want to see Dixie fall again! Remember, Friday is 50s day; let's see your best, gang. Beat the Rebs!

See ya' at the battlefield. Your Chit-Chatters, Tracy, Angela, Amy and Becky

P.S. Good luck to the girl's basketball team, which is traveling to Dallas to defeat Bishop-Lynch. You can do it, girls. Show your 50s spirit Friday morning. Wear Jeans rolled up, saddle oxfords and ponytails for the rowdy romping of the Rebels. For the game wear Jeans, bibs, jackets, gloves and you must bring those pompons. Please dress warmly. Be on the east side at 7:15 sharp and line up in squads. Let's back the Pack with pride and stick it out to the end. Roll over the Rebelettes (and don't forget your 75 cents).

Wisconsin rose death still medical mystery

MADISON, Wis. (AP) - The death of Mary Ann Koch, who collapsed after sniffing a gift of roses, is being classified by pathologists as one of those things medical science just cannot explain.

"Sometimes people will just die, and there is no explanation for it," Dr. Billy J. Bauman said.

Mrs. Koch, 28, crumbled to the floor beside her office desk Aug. 28 shortly after a florist delivered

The flowers were a gift from her husband, Michael, in honor of their eighth wedding anniver-The roses were immediately suspect, of course.

Philip Little, deputy Dane County coroner, said Mrs. Koch was an asthmatic who may have suffered an allergic reaction to the flowers.

She had been known to have problems with alternaria - a mold spore - and ragweed.

There also were thoughts about a heredity factor. Mrs. Koch's mother-in-law reported that the woman's mother had died at a relatively young age under similarly uncertain circumstances.

But studies of the Koch case, including toxicology examinations and opinions from University of Wisconsin allergy experts, have led pathologists to a dead end.

Bauman and fellow pathologst Dr. Craig Bolles reported Monday that the roses have been shown not to have been responsible for an allergic reac-

Convicts attend Howard classes

BIG SPRING — There's a new type of student on the Howard College campus this fall. But most of them would probably prefer to be somewhere else. These students are prisoners from the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp, located just west of Big Spring at the former Webb Air Force Base.

The prison, opened last summer, is one of the few minimum security facilities of this type in the

There are 189 prisoners serving sentences in the prison, and 30 currently are enrolled and attending classes at Howard College.

Three-fourths of the prisoners enrolled in the education program have had some college experience with a few already holding degrees. Many are working toward a bachelor's degree.

Many of the prisoners are taking only two courses, according to HC President Dr. Charles Hays, ranging from English to computer science, but are considered by students and faculty to be some of the most intelligent people attending HC.

In fact, according to Gary Walls, educational supervisor at the prison, a survey indicated the prisoners' average IQ was about 20 percent higher than the normal person's. Jerry Edwards, assistant prison supervisor, pointed out the men serving in Big Spring have not committed any violent crimes. They are being held for various "white collar" crimes such as tax evasion, or smuggling or drug-related offenses.

To qualify for the minimum security camp, prisoners are carefully screened and have shown no signs of violence in their pasts. In addition, each prisoner has shown a sense of responsibility, Walls The inmates enjoy a great deal of freedom, with many educational and recreational opportunities available. The minimum security system is built on trust. There are no walls, guard towers and very few guns. They are not carefully watched, but each prisoner is aware of the consequences of acting irresponsibly. Any type of trouble results in immediate removal back to walls, guard dogs and guns, prison officials said.

Most of the prisoners have served time else-

The average stay per inmate is 10 months with the majority being released to half-way houses and the rest sent directly back into society.

While held in Big Spring, prisoners are not required to wear uniforms and are not restricted to any buildings at the prison or the college. This helps mainstream them back into society, prison officials

The prison education program, directed by Walls, was put together just days before the semester began at HC.

The prison pays 50 percent of tuition, fees and books. The remaining cost is paid by the in-mates through VA benefits or other financing.

"With the help of the college courses, these individual students can obtain new and better skills and a better opportunity as a citizen upon being released." Hays pointed out.

Howard College "has been great," Edwards noted. " The program is working well with very few problems encountered so far."

With the prison still relatively new, many officials agree the Big Spring camp, with all its programs, is the best in the field. So far, statistics seem to prove it.

One of the philosophies behind the success of the Big Spring camp is the prison administration's belief that the inmates must keep a busy mind and enjoy what they are doing to take away "empty" feelings and the desire to escape. In addition to the recreational and educational programs offered, job opportunities are available to the prisoners. Several prison industries have expressed interest in locating on the prison grounds to use inmates as their work force. The profits go back into the program to cover costs, and inmates receive up to $50 per month in salaries.

Future plans for the prison include enlarging the inmate population up to 500 by next semester with as many as 100 in the educational pro-

For those wanting to continue their education, plans are being made with The University of Texas of the Permian Basin for additional courses.

Early Gift Is Best

By Alfred Sheinwold We must teach children to offer goodies to others before they help themselves. Remember that a bridge player is a child at heart. West won the first trick with the queen of spades and promptly shifted to a trump. Declarer took the ace of trumps and led the ace, king and a low club from dummy. You might say that South played the hand like a child.

West won with the queen of clubs and led another trump. If declarer now led a good club West would ruff and if South didn't try to cash a good club he would eventually lose two spades. Down one either way.

GIVE UP CLUB

After winning the second trick with the ace of hearts declarer should give the opponents their club goody immediately. They can take the ace of spades and lead a second trump, but South draws the rest of the trumps and then runs the clubs. Give the opponents theirs before you take yours.

Sleep one day may tell your doctor more than today's standard physical

By GREGORY GRAZE Dallas Times Herald

DALLAS - When you're sick, you go to the doctor and tell him your problem. He, in turn, might listen to your heart, tap your knee, thump your back and peer into the various orifices of your body and ask how you're feeling.

But in the not-too-distant future, you may literally sleep through a physical examination because, during sleep, the body in some ways 'says" more than when it's awake.

Moreover, according to medical researchers, a specific period of sleep, known as REM (rapid eye movement) sleep - the period associated with dreaming - is the time when the body is really buzzing with activity.

Traditionally, dreams have been thought of in psychological terms, as clues to the secrets of the unconscious mind. Now, the study of dreams has taken on a new and perhaps even more revealing dimension.

SCIENTISTS WORKING with animal and human subjects have been able to show that dreams are linked to distinct bodily changes and the study of these relationships has opened up a new window on how the brain func-

"It used to be thought that wakefulness was the active state and sleep was the inactive state," said Dr. John Herman, assistant profssor of psychiatry at the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School. "There is mounting evidence that REM sleep is indeed a very active period." Some findings:

-Heart rate, breathing rate, and blood pressure all increase and become more variable during REM

-Some hormonal and biochemical secretions reach their peak during REM sleep:

 EYE MOVEMENTS in dreams are related to dream content, just as are shifts in gaze in the awake

-Middle ear muscle activity also corresponds to dream content, such as when a person "hears" a loud noise in a dream;

-Limb movements during REM

sleep correspond to similar hallucinations in dreams.

To Dr. Howard Roffwarg, professor of psychiatry at Southwestern and director of sleep and dream research there, this and other evidence suggest that REM sleep serves to "take the central nervous system through its paces. It forces the brain to use the faculties that it has to apply in waking life, but during a resting state."

DURING REM SLEEP, as the term suggests, the eyes move rapidly in all directions. Through a typical eighthour sleep period, the body drifts in and out of REM sleep in a cyclical fashion, with REM normally occurring every 90 minutes or so. The REM periods become progressively longer during sleep. The total amount of REM sleep in normal adults totals about 1 1-2 to 2 hours in an eight-hour

Working on the assumption that the whole brain, not just the eyes, is lit up with activity during REM sleep, Roffwarg and his colleagues at Southwestern hope to develop a more complete picture of how the brain and mind function together.

To do this, they are working with both human subjects and laboratory animals. With human subjects, the researchers electrically monitor brain waves, eye movements and other indirect indicators of body activity while the subjects are asleep in specially designed rooms. To study animals, monitoring devices are attached directly to the brains of the

"This approach," said Herman, who is co-director of the sleep lab, "knits together what we see happening in the little neurons in the brain of experimental animals with the experiences that humans have in their

THE RESEARCHERS are focusing particularly on perception during the awake state and what occurs during dreaming inorder to understand further the interaction between sleep and the awake state.

In an experiment done a few years ago while they were working in New York City, Roffwarg and his colleagues had their subjects wear red goggles every waking minute for a week. As a result, a reddish hue permeated their dreams, regardless whether the dream was related to recent experience, childhood or fan-

In a far more complex experiment at Southwestern, Roffwarg and Herman developed a system incorporating specially designed minification goggles (something like looking through binoculars the wrong way), radio-telemetry and computers; in an effort to see if restrictions on eye movements in the awake state affect eve movements in REM sleep.

After almost 30 years of research into the phenomenon, however, the critical function of REM sleep, at least in adults, remains a puzzle. When norml adults, for example, are deprived of REM sleep under laboratory conditions, nothing much re-

"APPARENTLY, ADULTS can go quite a while without REM sleep without averse effects," Roffwarg said. "It seems that if REM is blocked some of its functions may be transferred to other sleep stages. The time will come when we will have an easy way to block REM sleep without undesirable side-effects.'

Sometimes, in fact, as in the case of some persons suffering chronic depression, deprivation of REM sleep seems to relieve the symptoms.

There is no doubt, though, that for infants, REM sleep is essential for normal development. In 1966, Roffwarg and two other researchers reported that normal newborns, who sleep as much as 16 hours a day, spend a third of their day, and half of their sleeping time, in the REM state. This high ratio, furthermore, diminshes as the infants mature, the doctors said.

Roffwarg and his colleagues hypothesized that the REM mechanism - the discharge of electrical impulses from neurons (nerve cells in a portion of the brain) - serves as a built-in source of stimulation, furnishing great quantities of useful excitation to the more complex parts of the central nervous system. As an individual develops, the researchers theorized, this need for self-stimulation may become less important but still functional.

"A STIMULATED NERVE cell. especially in a developing human or animal, is a happy nerve cell," Roffwarg said. "When there's no stimulation, the cell shrivels up and stops working normally . . . We think there's a continuing function for REM sleep throughout life.'

Scientists working in the area of sleep and dream research think that this expanded understanding of neurophysiology will pay off in the treatment of a host of mental and physical maladies.

While much about sleep and its relation to the other bodily systems remains unclear, much of what is known is being used at special centers around the country to diagnose and treat sleep disorders, such as insomnia and narcolepsy, the latter being a disorder in which a person falls asleep in the middle of some activity.

These relatively new multi-disciplinary centers provide new hope for millions of Americans who suffer from sleep problems. Historically, Roffwarg said,"doctors have tended to dismiss these complaints as trivial or treat them with inappropriate drugs.

THE NEW TREATMENT programs, Herman said, have shown that sleeping pills are not the simple solution to sleep problems. For many insomniacs, he explained, the basic problem is underlying depression or anxiety which can best be treated by a combination of psychotherapy and tranquilizers or anti-depressant

Techniques developed in sleep research also are being used now to distinguish beteween organic and psychological impotence in men and diagnose hormonal problems in teen-

DOE announces charges against four oil companies

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Department of Energy says four oilcompanies may have committed price-control violations totalling more than $145 million. And three consumer groups - citing industry accounting methods contend oil company profits actually are at least 33 percent higher than

On the possible violations, the DOE's Office of Special Counsel said Wednesday that "none of the actions involve any allegations of willful wrongdoing.

Some of the alleged violations may not have led to overcharges for consumers yet, but could result in overcharges if uncorrected, officials The companies - Gulf Oil, Sun Oil Co., Marathon and Amerada Hess will have opportunities to comment on the allegations and to challenge the department's eventual decisions.

The latest notices raise the total of suspected violations to almost $7 billion, the department said. Most of those alleged violations have been disputed by the oil companies.

Dorothy Brown, spokeswoman for Gulf Oil in Pittsburgh, said the charges constitute "an attempt by the DOE to make old news new," noting the alleged violations stem from "differences of opinion" over interpretation of DOE's complicated price control regulations.

The department issued a proposed remedial order that would require Gulf to recalculate costs recovered through its retail sales of gasoline from August, 1973, through December, 1976. The proposed order said a DOE audit showed Gulf overstated those costs by $710,929 in one month Ms. Brown said the alleged $710,929

remedial order was from a "test

Officials find a way to put energy rhetoric into practice

WASHINGTON (AP) - In a Massachusetts town of 38,000 people, federal officials think they have found a way to put years of rhetoric about energy conservation into practice. By winter's end, the town could see its fuel oil use cut by 50,000 barrels.

Federal officials hope to try the idea across the Devised by the federal volunteer agency ACTION, the project began Oct. 24 in Fitchburg, 47 miles

By mobilizing the community to partially weatherproof its homes, Fitchburg Action to Conserve Energy (FACE) hopes to save 2.1 million gallons of oil and reduce fuel bills by $2 million. Fitchburg's heating oil, at 95 cents a gallon, is among the highest

Today, ACTION Director Sam Brown and Massachusetts Lt. Gov. Thomas P. O'Neill will tour the

THEIR VISIT COMES a day after President Carter ended oil imports from Iran, where some 60 Americans are held hostage. Faced with the loss of 700,000 barrels of Iranian oil, or 4 percent of U.S. consumption, Carter appealed to the nation "to redouble efforts to curtail the use of petroleum

'To cut our energy use by the 4 percent Iran gives us." Brown said in an interview, "takes just the simplest use of existing resources, people and ingenuity, which Fitchburg is proving can be done."

The idea's author, Don Green of ACTION, said, "People all over are aching for a way to help out, but they hear talk about millions of barrels of oil and think cleaning the back of their refrigerators won't help. We thought if we could get one town to work together, we could show that all those small efforts make a difference."

Tamara Stanton, ACTION's Fitchburg coordinator, described FACE: The local antipoverty agency had $175,000 from the Energy Department to pay federal job trainees to do total weatherproofing, but it lacked the workers. ACTION convinced the Energy Department to allow volunteers to do partial weatherproofing.

IT ALSO CONVINCED the Department of Housing and Urban Development to give the city $95,000 for materials for moderate-income families, so a family of four with an income of $14,000 can get free caulking, weather-stripping and insulation. Half the Volunteers fanned out to explain the project from 10 FACE offices, which were also used as schools to train residents in weatherproofing.

FACE leaflets were inserted in newspapers and in gas and electric bills. Last Tuesday, 7,500 leaflets were carried home by school children.

One hundred volunteers, including students, retired people and youths from job training programs, have been enlisted to do the weatherproofing for those unable to do it themselves.

Scoreboards set up around town show how many homes have been weatherproofed and how many barrels of oil have been saved.

SCHOOLS ARE COMPETING to see which student body can enlist the most homes.

FACE hopes to partially weatherproof 7,700 of Fitchburg's 14,000 residences. Already. 750 have

Peking residents given choice in major election

PEKING (AP) - More than 300,000 Peking residents voted today in the first major election in China in 25 years in which voters were given a choice between Communist and non-Communist candi-

The first general election in 1954 was generally regarded as free and contested, but the most recent one, in 1966, gave the voters no choice. The Communist Party put up one candidate for each seat at that time, giving the voter the option only of approving or disapproving.

Today, Communists accounted for about 60 percent of the candidates. Non-Communists included eight overseas Chinese, one a native of Taiwan, and members of minority nationalities, including Mongolians and the Hui. There was also room on the ballot for write-in candidates.

The voting was to fill 350 seats in a Peking district congress. It was the first of several such elections to be held in cities across the country in the next few been done for a saving of 187,500 gallons of oil. Through measures costing between $15 and $30 a home, FACE says it can cut a home heating bill 25 to 30 percent, or about $300. Among them:

-Wrapping a hot water heater in insulation. -Caulking windows and weather-stripping doors.

Dusting refrigerator coils.

-Taping cracks in heating ducts and placing aluminum foil behind radiators to reflect heat into Ms. Stanton said applicants have been doubling

"No other city has ever done this, mobilized its community like this," said Ms. Stanton. "Each town that does it will have to analyze its resources, its people and its needs the way Fitchburg did and adapt this program to its own situation.

"At long last," said Brown, "one community is showing the rest of the country what can be done when people organize themselves around the issue of Khomeini's front man longtime foe of U.S.

PARIS (AP) - Foreign Minister Abolhassan Bani Sadr, the new front man of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's revolutionary regime, is a longtime foe of U.S. influence in Iran. In the small inner circle of Iranian intellectuals that collected around the aged religious leader during his three-month exile in Paris last winter, no one was more shadowy and withdrawn than the diminu-tive, mustachioed Bani Sadr. He was the man with the sleepy voice reporters called for interviews with the ayatollah before the explosion of the revolution in Iran made Khomeini a Bani Sadr had none of the rhetorical flourish of Texas-educated Ibrahim Yazdi, who became deputy prime minister and foreign minister after the overthrow of the shah. Nor was he dashing and elegantly tailored like Sadegh Ghotbzadegh, who took control of the government media after the return to Iran.

Bani Sadr did not like to talk politics. His favorite subject was economics. He had been studying for his' doctorate in economics at the Sorbonne for years and joked that if he completed his dissertation, he would lose his excuse for a French resident's visa.

Bani Sadr was born in western Iran in 1933. Like Yazdi and Ghotbzadegh, his contemporaries, he became a political activitist in the early 1950s, when nationalist Mohammed Mossadegh came to power as prime minister.

The army with backing from the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency overthrew Mossadegh after he nationalized the Iranian oil industry and drove the shah from the country. Bani Sadr took his politics underground but did not abandon the fight against the monarchy. In 1963, he fled to France after being wounded in riots against the shah and spending four

He joined a community of Iranian rebels in France looking for ways to bring down the all-powerful, U.S.-armed shah. The crusade seemed hopeless. He published two books in which he portrayed Iran as a captive of foreigners, its riches pillaged by America, its oil mortgaged for the shah's grandiose development plans while the poor got poorer.

In 1977, he helped organize a committee for human rights in Iran, a grouping of exiled Iranian intellectuals ranging from Marxist to right-wing. Meanwhile, Ayatollah Khomeini was an exile in Iraq, languishing in semi-obscurity, his voice heard at home only on tape-recorded sermons smuggled into Iran. But Bani Sadr, a devout Moslem, was one of the first to see that he was a figure around whom a revolution could be built.

When the revolution triumphed last February, Bani Sadr was one of the chosen few aboard Khomeini's triumphal flight home. While Yazdi and Ghotbzadegh led the ayatollah before the TV lights, Bani Sadr quietly pushed his baggage wagon through

He refused a place in Prime Minister Mehdi Bazargan's cabinet. Instead, he became a member of the Revolutionary Council that wielded the real power, above the facade of the Bazargan govern-

Last weekend, following Bazargan's resignation, Bani Sadr emerged into the limelight as foreign minister and the regime's chief spokesman in its current crisis with the United States. Radio Tehran announced Monday that he would also be responsible for the ministries of finance and economic affairs.

NRC agrees with almost all of commission's suggestions

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Nuclear Regulatory Commission agrees with most of the recommendations made by the President's Commission on the Three Mile Island accident, but balks at proposals concerning its own role. The majority of the NRC commissioners oppose suggestions that the agency be replaced by a single administrator responsible to the president, and that its role be reduced in future emer-

'In the pink means in the clink

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) - "In the pink", means in the clink at the Santa Clara County jail, where two cells have been painted hot pink to test a theory that the color of a person's surroundings affects his behavior.

The new color scheme has had mixed results, said jail commander Lt. Paul Becker. 'When it's used pro it has a reverse effect," he said. "We left some guys in the holding cell for about three hours and they tore some of the paint off the walls.

"We didn't learn about the reverse effect until the second class," said Becker, who says he got the idea while attending a class on the relation of criminal behavior to body chemistry.

The color theory is being taught by Alexander Schauss, a onetime corrections officer who now directs the Institute for Biosocial Research at City College in Tacoma, Wash.

Schauss says that evi dence from other studies shows that the color -Baker-Miller pink - af fects the human endocrine system and regulates hormones so as to reduce strength and aggressive tendencies. He said positive results have been obtained in a similar test in Seattle at the Navy brig. Becker said the use of color will not be limited to pin t. 'We are going to re-

Becker thinks painting the cell, where suspects are held before questioning, may tend to make them more honest under interrogation.

"We're going to paint the third floor brown,' Becker added. "Brown is a very masculine color and we hope it will cut down on homosexual incidents."

"Based on our TMI experience," Hendrie wrote, "we are convinced that the NRC's role in nuclear emergencies is bound to be essential and central, and governmental planning should reflect that assessment." Hendrie's letter said the NRC is acting on most of the presidential panel's other recommendations for improving nuclear safety regulation, however.

NRC Commissioner Victor Gilinsky, in his own letter to Press, criticized other aspects of the report submitted to President Carter last month by the investigating panel, which con-

Comanche Peak emergency procedures to be increased

GLEN ROSE, Texas (AP) - Emergency procedures at the Comanche Peak nuclear power plant will be increased following a six-month review, the Texas Utilities Co. has announced The changes, recommended by a design review committee following the Three Mile Island nuclear accident, will involve upgrading operator training and emergency preparedness and improving safety valves and controls at the $1.7 billion facility.

L.F. Fikar, executive vice president of Texas Utilities Services, Inc.,

and a member of the review committee, said Tuesday that the 28 changes will not increase the cost of building the plant.

The plant's design basically is sound but does not contain some of the safeguards necessary to prevent a nuclear accident similar to Three Mile Island, the 200-page report conthat the utility operating the Three Mile Island plant — Metropolitan Edison — misunderstood early phases of the accident and rapidly lost its credibility as a source of information. Those circumstances resulted in the NRC's taking responsibility for accident recovery and public information.

Fallout report being disputed

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP) - The nation's two radiation monitoring authorities are at odds over whether or not New Zealand is being subjected to a fresh dose of nuclear test fallout.

Tuesday, Dr. Bernard O'Brien, director of nuclear sciences at Lower Hutt, said low-level radioactivity had been detected in rainwater samples. He said there is evidence the radioactivity is fallout from a nuclear blast in the southern hemisphere in the past

But in Wellington on Wednesday, the director of the National Radiation Laboratory, Hugh Atkinson, said tests conducted by his staff had detected no fresh fallout from nuclear fission products.

"There is no evidence of any release of fission products after tests of air samples taken at four stations in New Zealand or from rainwater samples," said Atkinson.

He said his monitoring system was geared to detecting radioactivity which was a health hazard and did not use sensitive equipment which might be used for purely scientific purposes.

"But even then the results must be questionable as they would be right on minimum detection levels,

A U.S. satellite recently detected what some experts felt may have been a nuclear test in the hemisphere. There was speculation that South Africa, thought to be capable of producing atomic bombs, might have tested a device, but the South African government denied testing any nuclear

French printmakers featured

AUSTIN - Print shows, focusing on the works of three great French printmakers, are currently featured in the Michener Gallery of The Unviersity of Texas

The shows are "The French Landscape Print, 1850-1870," and "The Etchings of Felix Buhot." Both exhibitions will remain on view through Dec. 22.

The landscape show displays the works of Camille Corot (1796-1875) and Chrles Daubigny (1817-1878), both of whom are known to modern students of art history as landscape painters and as teachers of the later Impressionists.

The Buhot show consists of 18 prints, including sketches of his birthplace, Valognes, and landscapes, book illus-trations and views of

Olivia Newton-John makes own decisions

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - Olivia Newton-John waited more than two years before attempting another film after the immense success of "Grease.

Two years once seemed an enormous gap in a movie career, but the industry has changed. Instead of being guided by the studios, stars now make their own career decisions, often with the aid of agents, managers and assorted hangers-on and performing as a teen-ager in Australia and then ascended through Engand's music world.

"I had a number of offers for films after 'Grease' straight acting roles as well as musicals," she recalls. "Time was going on, and I was tempted. But I never had the instinctive feeling that I had for in six-hour miniseries

"I had a feeling 'Grease' would be successful, though I never realized it would be such a big hit. I had seen the show seven years before in London, and I liked the idea that in thhe movie script the girl got to change in the end. I had also seen John Travolta on television, and had a feeling he would be a star - this was before 'Saturday Night Fever' had been released.

"Why was 'Grease' so successful? It was a period that many people remember fondly. Even those who weren't around then found it to be a very romantic period.

"It was a big hit in Australia, where they especially liked it because I played an Australian. People in Melbourne, my home town, were upset because I said in the movie that I was from Sydney. I tried to explain that more people in the world had heard of Sydney than Melbourne.

Olivia said she had an "instinctive feeling" for her current film, "Xanadu," which has been described as a contemporary fantasy with the feeling of a 1940s musical. Recently, she was working with co-star Michael Beck in the garish old Los Angeles Theater in the heart of downtown. Or at least she was getting ready to work, as a hairdresser added a

The Midland-Odessa Symphony, which opened its 1979-80 season in mid-October with a pair of concerts featuring famed pianists Ferrante and Teicher, has more recently presented special youth concerts in the two cities; the concerts reached some 5,000 young people in the area, Dr. Hohstadt said.

Handel's Organ Concerto, Opus 4, No. 4. In addition, the concerts will present the Thouvenel String Quartet in a work by contemporary American composer Morton Gould. Movie modest but satisfying

By The Associated Press

HEAD OVER HEELS is a modest but satisfying film concerning a young man possessed by love. John Heard plays the Salt Lake City civil servant who is obsessed by an ambivalent beauty (Mary Beth Hurt) who can't decide between him and her solid, dull husband. Nothing remarkable happens, but writer-director Joan Micklin Silver has created scenes and dialogue that ring of truth. The leads are superbly cast; both Heard and Hurt are compelling performers who seem destined for solid careers. Gloria Grahame registers strongly as Heard's suicidal mother. The rating

Cambodia will accept food airlift

WASHINGTON (AP) - Cambodia is willing to accept a massive airlift if necessary to distribute 30,000 tons of food a month to starving people there, congresswomen report.

They said Wednesday that Cambodia Foreign Minister Hun Sen told them at a meeting Monday in Phnom Penh he does not believe a massive airlift will be needed, but will accept it if necessary. Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y., co-leader of the visiting U.S. delegation, said Cambodia repeated its rejection of a U.S. proposal to speed up delivery of the food with truck convoys from Thailand, but agreed instead to allow more air shipments into Phnom Penh.

She said the foreign minister agreed to "increasing airlifts to Phnom Penh to develop the possibility of an air bridge.' In another development Wednesday, President Carter signed legislation providing more than $400 million for Indochinese refugee programs over two years. That included $30 million for food and medical supplies for Cambodia.

"This is an item that is clearly and urgently needed," said Henry Owen, a member of the National Security Council staff.

Speaking of a Cambodian airlift, Rep. Margaret Heckler, R-Mass., said the foreign minister agreed to allow use of 19 regional accounts if Phnom Penh cannot handle the thousands of tons of food and medicine the international famine relief effort hopes to supply.

"If aid is more than can be carried by water, rail and road, it would be possible to use the airlift, but it is not necessary to use the airlift at this time. We are always prepared to use the airlift," the foreign minister was quoted as saying.

Janine Mann, a House staff aide. quoted Hun Sen as saying he believes distribution of the 30,000 tons of food and medicine can be handled by increasing facilities at the port of Kompong Som and Phnom Penh, repairing roads and bridges in the country and repairing the railroad between Kompong Som and Phnom Penh.

The congresswomen also said the foreign minister promised all food would be distributed within two or three days and would not pile up. Rep. Holtzman said, "Of course there's no guarantee" that Cambodia will or can keep its promises. "But we have got to press. She said international relief agencies and the United States should immediately increase food shipments to Phnom Penh. A spokesman for UNICEF, one of the major agencies delivering the food to Cambodia, said Cambodia's commitment clears the way for increased air shipments already planned to begin next week.

The spokesman, Anthony Hewett, said Australia, Holland and France plan to deliver about 100 tons a day with five daily flights, compared to present delivery of 15 tons a day.

U.S. officials estimate that delivery routes permitted until now by Cambodia fall about 7,000 tons short of handling the international effort's 30,-000 tons a month.

Matthew Nimetz, U.S. coordinator for refugee affairs, has testified that that about 23,000 tons a month at most can be delivered through the port of Kompong Som and up the Mekong River to Phnom Penh.

Abortion battle still brewing

WASHINGTON (AP) - An emergency bill to finance the operations of four major government departments awaits a Senate decision on whether to renew battle with the House over abortion funding.

Senate officials indicated a decision on the bill, needed to provide funds for the four departments after Tuesday, could come today.

The Senate Appropriations Committee set the stage Wednesday for yet another battle with the House by approving a version of the emergency funding bill that contains no mention of abortion.

The House-passed version of the emergency funding bill sets strict requirements on the use of federal funds to pay for abortions for poor women.

This is the second time in just over a month the House and Senate have argued over emergency funding bills. The key sticking point in both cases was language on abortion funding.

Before it was resolved, the earlier impasse affected seven Cabinet departments and resulted in an estimated 1.5 million federal employees temporarily going on half pay.

Although only four departments are threatened this time, two of them -Defense and Health, Education and Welfare - are the giants of the government. And the other two, Labor and Transportation, both administer grants and programs that affect hundreds of thousands of people.

The new emergency funding legislation is needed because the earlier temporary funding legislation expires Tuesday and Congress still has not completed action on regular appropriations bills to fund the four departments.

Unless some new action is taken by then, the departments again would be left without funds. The House wants to limit federal funding for abortions to cases where the life of the mother is directly threatened.

Estimated 450 million starving, specialists say

ROME (AP) - An estimated 450 million people — and probably nearly 500 million - suffer from severe malnutrition, according to U.N. food spe-

"They are so severely undernourished that they are grossly underweight, practically skin and bones, and most of the time they just lie around for lack of stamina," says Dr. Uwe Kracht, an economist and nutrition expert with the U.N. World Food Council

More than 500 million others don't get enough to eat to go about their daily activities, he continued.

"They always feel weak, are underweight and have to rest often, and don't feel any urge to do anything creative," he said.

U.N. reports locate most of these people in India, Indonesia, Bangladesh. Pakistan, Cambodia and the Philippines; Ethiopia, Somalia and sub-Saharan Africa, and nine Latin American countries. There are more in Vietnam, China and North Korea, but the communist governments of those countries refuse to provide information or to be included in U.N. estimates.

The numbers are increasing steadily and no long-term relief appears in sight, according to a recent study by the U.N. Food and Agriculture Orga-

"It is my sad duty to report that on the basis of most criteria, the situation has deteriorated further in the last two years - it is in fact grim," said Director-General Edouard Saouma in a speech opening the 146-nation

FAO conference this week. 'Even if we make the most enormous efforts to increase food and agricultural production," some 250 million still will be starving by the year 2000, says a major report prepared for the agency.

"Giving the people who are severely undernourished enough to eat would take only 40 to 60 million tons of wheat a year if the food actually reached those in need," says a World Food Council report. That is less than 3 to 5 percent of present world grain consumption or 10 to 15 percent of the cereals fed to livestock in developed

The biggest problem is distribution, says FAO economist Nicos Alexandratos, "food not going to the people who need it

Another FAO official, who asked not to be identified, had a different diagnosis: "Many countries cannot buy food for their people because they are poor, really poor, but the people in many other countries starve because their countries got their priorities mixed up. If country X decides to spend money to build a nuclear explosive device and highways instead of feeding its people, it's that country's responsibility.

Pope John Paul II in an address to the FAO meeting on Monday called for a new global strategy against hunger aimed at meeting "real human needs, those which are truly fundamental, and not the artificial needs, partly provoked and steadily increased by publicity and the play of the market.

FAO defines hunger as failure to receive adequate calories resulting in 'diminished ability to work, cope with infection and other environmental stresses, enjoy the normal satisfactions of life, and raise and educate healthy children."

"They sustain their lives with one meal a day, consisting of some boiled rice, sorghum or corn pancakes depending on where they are, for an average of 1,700 to 1,900 calories," says Kracht. The minimum daily requirement is 2,300 to 2,500 calories, and the average in advanced countries is 3,000. FAO figures show the number of severely malnourished has increased rapidly in the past decade, from 360 million in 1969-71 to 410 million in 1972-74, 420 million in 1974-76 and close to 450 million now. About 30 percent of the people in Africa, some 80 million, are among those suffering severe malnutrition. Most of them are in the Sahel region just below the Sahara Desert and in Ethiopia anb Somalia. Nearly 50 million more are in Latin America, representing 15 percent of the population, mostly in Brazil, Colombia, Bolivia, the Dominican Republic, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Mexico and Peru.

Bolivia attempting to stabilize economy

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) - Bolivia's new military government arrested four colonels loyal to the ousted president and took measures to try to deal with the nation's faltering economy.

The arrested colonels had remained loyal to former President Walter Guevara, who was deposed in a Nov. 1 coup by Col. Alberto Natusch. Military sources said another colonel and three army generals went into hiding to avoid arrest.

The government on Wednesday ordered all banks and money exchanges to suspend the sale of dollars, then ordered all banks to close today and Friday, according to private banking sources who attended a meeting between central bank officials and representatives of private banks.

The sources said the government appeared ready to establish a two-tier exchange rate for the Bolivian peso. now fixed at 20 per dollar, in an effort to limit imports.

Under such a plan, Bolivians needing dollars to import machinery, wheat, refined oil products and other items deemed essential to the economy by the government would be able to pay 20 pesos for each dollar.

People getting dollars to pay for imported items considered non-essential -like private vehicles, household goods and luxury items - would have to pay as much as 28 pesos for each dollar, sources said. That, theoretically, would discourage people from buying these goods goods from abroad, thereby reducing imports and cutting an annual trade deficit of Private economists said the peso has long been overvalued and is actually worth about 35 to the dollar.

Bolivia needs about $300 million by Jan. 1 to service its foreign loans. Venezuela, which had helped keep Bolivia's central bank solvent with short-term loans to pay other loans coming due, later suspended all aid to . Bolivia.

After the coup, the United States suspended about $250 million dollars in aid.

Next year, according to private economists, the central bank will need about $450 million, about half of its anticipated export earnings, to service foreign loans. The economists said the central bank has no international reserves.

Devils block McCamey's path

By RICHARD VINCENT Sports Writer

It's time to separate the men from the boys in area schoolboy football. Several critical contests are set for Friday night - and there's one Saturday night, too that will determine which teams advance to bi-district action. In District 6-A, Rankin and McCamey tangle in McCamey. All the 3-0 Badgers need to clinch the crown is a win over the Red Devils. If the Devils win, however, the district becomes a three-way tie between Rankin, McCamey and Marfa, which closed its season last week with a 3-0 victory over the Devils that left the Shorthorns 3-1.

Meanwhile, in District 7-AA, Kermit can make it three district championships in a row with a victory Friday night at home against Crane.

But, if the Golden Cranes, 1-1, rise up and dump the Yellow Jackets, 2-0, and if Ozona, 0-2, upsets Sonora, 1-1, the Cranes would be playoff

Another possibility in 7-AA is if Crane defeats Kermit, and Sonora handles Ozona, there'd be a three-way deadlock between the Golden Birds, the Yellowjackets and Sonora.

Things nearly are as complicated in District 9-A where Junction and Mason are tied at 3-1 for the district title. Junction, a winner over Mason and a loser to Reagan County, Friday night is at Menard, 0-4, while Mason, a winner over Reagan County, entertains Wall, 2-2.

In the other clash, Reagan County, 2-2, visits Eldorado, 2-2.

If Junction and Mason each win Friday, the Eagles would move to the playoffs because of their victory over the Punchers.

The District 2-AAA champion will be determined Saturday night at Odessa's W. T. Barrett Stadium when the Ector Eagles, 3-0, collide with Monahans, 2-1. The Loboes stumbled last week in their loss to Andrews, but can still take the whole ball of wax with a tri umph over the Eagles.

The other 2-AAA contest is Friday as Andrews, 1-2, and defending district champion Fort Stockton, 0-3, square off at the Mustang Bowl in Andrews. Both teams were tabbed as preseason district favorites but there'll be nothing but pride Champions have already been crowned in two area districts — 3-AAA and 5-A.

San Angelo Lake View, 3-0, and headed for the playoffs, tangles with Lamesa in one 3-AAA affair while Brownfield and Snyder fight it out in the other engagement. Seagraves, 6-0, and the District 5-A titlist for the seventh straight: year, tunes up for the playoffs with a battle with Ropes Friday. The rest of the 5-A slate shows Forsan at Stanton, Shallowater at Anton and Plains at O'Donnell.

Traditionals cap 5-4A season

With Abilene Cooper tucking away the District 5-4A title, only the traditional rivalries remain in league play this Friday and for series where anything is supposed to happen, it seldom

In the three intra-city rivalries, Midland Lee, Abilene Cooper and Odessa Permian have dominated their rivalry. The only underdog to win in recent years is Midland High, which last beat Midland Lee in 1973 in a wild 46-27 scoring spree.

In fact, the Tall City rivalry is the most closely contested of these season-ending rivalries. Although the Bulldogs have won only one of the last nine, the Purple Pack battled the Rebels to a 7-7 tie in 1974 and a 14-14 deadlock in 1975.

The overall series stands at 8-8-2 with Midland winning the first six games played between the schools.

On the other hand, Permian and Cooper have monopolized their series with Odessa and Abilene, respectively. Cooper holds a a 14-3-1 edge over the Eagles and have reeled off 12 victories in a row. The last Abilene win came in 1966, 19-14. This year it looks like more of the same for the Warbirds with Abilene ranked No. 1 in the state as the Class AAAA playoffs

Odessa trails Permian, 3-17, in its series and hasn't won since a 13-0 victory in 1964, and it took a district champion to turn the trick. The Bronchos have been coming on strong in recent weeks and just might snap the 15-game Permian winning streak.

Big Spring hasn't beaten San Angelo since a 20-9 victory in 1970 and trails the series 22-4. However, there have been some interesting scores during the Bobcats' string of eight straight. In 1971, San Angelo outscored Big Spring, 55-21, and then followed with a 35-14 win, but those were just warmups for 1973 when the Bobcats outcomputered the Steers, 64-43, which must be some sort of record for 5

Midland and Midland Lee bring two game losing streaks into Friday's Memorial Stadium encounter. The Rebels have lost to Permian, 10-0, and Abilene, 10-7, and the Bulldogs to Odessa, 35-0, and Cooper, 35-0, on successive weekends.

Midland needs a win to finish over .500. The Pack is 5-4. Lee is 6-3 and can climb into third place in the final 5-4A standings with a win, if Cooper beats Abilene as expected.

Permian has second nailed down with a 5-1 record.

Juan Alaniz leads 1978 Triple Crown winner to stud at Spendthrift Misty-eyed groom leads Affirmed into retirement

By CHARLES WOLFE

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) - Juan Alaniz was misty-eyed as he handed the reins of Affirmed to a Spendthrift Farm handler. For the first time since the big colt took the track at Belmont 21/2 years ago, Alaniz was no longer his groom.

"I no feel too good," said Alaniz, his voice quivering. "I gonna miss him, He nice horse. He do great.'

Affirmed, winner of the 1978 Triple Crown and thoroughbred racing's first $2 million winner, was retired Wednesday in ceremonies at Spendthrift Farm.

There were no tears, however, from Brownell Combs II. The man who syndicated Affirmed for $14.4 million was grinning from ear to ear.

"This is the end of one career and the beginning of another," said Combs. "He's had a great racing career. Now we're looking forward to him having a great stud career."

Affirmed swept to 22 victories in 29 career starts while winning $2,393,-818. This year, he also became the first thoroughbred to surpass $1 million in a single year.

But Affirmed may be best remembered for his stirring duels with archrival Alydar.

Together, they dominated the 1978 Triple Crown races - the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness Stakes and Belmont Stakes. Affirmed eked out a victory in each under the reins of jockey Steve Cauthen, who was enjoying a phenomenal season. Affirmed won three Eclipse championships and finished his career with six straight victories as a 4-year-old. His finale was Belmont Park's Jockey Club Gold Cup. Affirmed surged home ahead of Spectacular Bid, winner of this year's Kentucky Derby and Preakness, and Coastal, the Belmont winner.

Bud Delp, Spectacular Bid's trainer, clamored for one more showdown with Affirmed, but Combs said the challenge was not seriously consid-"We were never concerned about

Spectacular Bid," he said. "We were as relaxed after the Gold Cup in New York as if we were going to a church picnic. "The value of this horse is between 25 and 30 million dollars now and it would have been a real disaster to have him hurt himself on turf," Combs said. "He had nothing left to prove ... and (trainer) Laz Barrera decided just to go ahead and retire him."

Combs said Affirmed would first be bred to a Spendthrift mare, Whydidju, adding the colt will begin his fertility test next month.

Affirmed's retirement was something of a milestone for Combs, who became the only thoroughbred breeder with two Triple Crown winners in his stable.

Alice proves triple trouble for Corpus Miller

The Alice Coyotes spelled triple trouble for Corpus Christi Miller last week and their names were Ernie Balboa, Jay Garcia and Chris Soza. All three runners took turns pounding through and around the Miller defense and when the game was over Alice had won 44-7 and each runner had gained over 100 yards rushing.

Balboa gained 154 yards on 17 carries and scered two touchowns, Soza had 103 yards on 12 carries and three touchdowns and Garcia had 105 yards on 10 carries as the trio earned mention in The Associated Press Schoolboy Football Honor Roll.

Flour Bluff running back Steve Raines rushed a respectable 121 yards on 22 carries and scored all four Hornet touchdowns in an emotion-charged 26-20 victory over Calallen. The significance of Raines' performance is that it clinched the Hornets' first winning season since 1970.

Balboa's performance gave him 1,-010 yards this season and an average gain of seven yards per carry. He gained 283 yards in the season open-

Coach Bill Ryan started his first season at Flour Bluff last September with a losing tradition that included a string of 42 consecutive district losses and a 1-48-1 record over the past five years. The victory over Calallen boosted the Hornets' record to 5-3-1.

"He's our heavy duty running back," Ryan said of Raines, who has 645 yards rushing for the season. "He got off to a slow start this season because of an injury but he sure finished fast. "He's just got medium speed but he's really quick." Ryan said between 3,000 and 3,500 fans attended the game in Flour Bluff's 2,500-seat stadium.

"We could feel it building to this after we won our first game," Ryan said. "We started getting calls from alumni from all around this area. We knew there would be a lot of people there and we're glad we didn't disappoint them."

Runge Coach Frank Carter was not disappointed either in the performance of his tailback, Vernon Janssen in a 34-7 victory over Smiley. Janssen rushed 177 yards on 23 carries and scored three touchdowns on offense and as a linebacker contributed 10 tackles, intercepted one pass and returned a kickoff 40 yards to set up a touchdown he scored. "He's just quick," Carter said. "He slides from side to side and ducks under people. He's hard to bring Janssen's touchdowns went for 20, 20 and 21 yards.

Prosper's Marvin Williams rushed over 200 yards for the second consecutive week with 242 yards on 31 carries and three touchdowns in a 28-12 victory over Era.

Hardin Jefferson's Kenneth Green gained 244 yards on 36 carries and had touchdown runs of 15, 2, and 7 yards in a 58-7 victory over East Chambers.

COM swimmers seek berths on North squad

The City of Midland Swim Team will be in El Paso this weekend for qualifying trials for the North-South dual meet in Dallas Dec. 2.

The Tall City swimmers will be bidding for as many berths as possible on the North squad to be picked in the Sun City Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Unlike most swimming meets in which large numbers of swimmers compete in each event in each age group, the North-South dual meet matches in which only the top three swimmers in each event and at each age level in the North swim against a similar select team from

The North-South division is arbitrary with the South composed of Houston and Gulf Coast cities while the Dallas area and West Texas comprise the North.

Any swimmer who makes the qualifying time to earn a place on either team has achieved a great deal and 22 COM swimmers under Coach John Jordan will be seeking spots on the North squad this weekend. Swimmers are Michaela Hasek, Tracy Delany, Laura Morse, Alan Reed, and Al Reid, 10-under; Leslie Dunbar, Caroline Reed, Beth Murak, Andrew Jordan, Karl Schmidt, Grady Gilliland, 11-12; Lori Thompson, Susie Simpson, Pat Rhaney, 13-14; Andrea Freeman, Carrie Mayes, Emily Murrah, Robin Tranke, Jon Tranke, John Kimberly, Mark Solari and Paul

Triemel, 15-18. The COM squad departs from Mabee Memorial Swim Cepter at 8:30 a.m. Friday.

Now it's the Cowboys and Indians Let's see, now, everybody is upset because Dallas lost to Philadelphia, but isn't that the same team that beat Pittsburgh earlier in the season? And isn't Pittsburgh the same team that lost to lowly Cincin-With Washington looming at RFK Stadium Sunday, it's no time to be discounting defeats, but it does tighten up the NFC East race and put a little pressure on the Cowboys, which is really what they need to prepare properly for postseason play.

If you look at the NFC race, you'll notice that the East is the only division capable of giving the Cowboys any competition. The winner of the East may windup playing teams barely over .500 for the right to go to the Super Bowl.

On the other hand, Pittsburgh, generally conceded as the best team in the NFL, will have to survive a war not only very playoff weekend, but just to survive in the AFC Central.

Besides, defensive back Cliff Harris contends the Cowboys don't play their best until their backs are to the wall, admitting, "We've been stagnant the last two weeks in practice. Maybe we needed something like this (Monday's 31-21 loss to Philadelphia), to wake us up. It's not something that has happened over night. It has been growing ever since the Pittsburgh game.

"We see Philadelphia fumble the ball away and throw the interception in the past and we don't think it's going to happen to us, but tonight it did."

OF COURSE, quarterback Roger Staubach never takes defeat lightly and Monday was no exception. Although the specialty teams' penchant for boo-boos robbed the Cowboys of momentum and tactical advantage, Roger was still searching his soul after the game. He blamed himself for scrambling instead of passing late in the

But as far as Staubach is concerned, like Harris, he feels it's more than a one game thing. "We put ourselves in a hole and we aren't scoring like we had been earlier, those 30 point games. We get inside the 20 and can't score and our running game has not been consistent.'

As is his custom , linebacker Thomas Henderson was reluctant to be controversial and therefore minced his words as he observed, "I heard a lot of talking from the sidelines, guys looking for someone to blame for our troubles. We need to quit sitting back with our hands in our pockets, collecting our money. The rookies. We can't depend on them. They don't know what the hell they're doing.'

HENDERSON raved on, "It's time for some vets to step up now. We just assume everything is going to be OK, and a lot of the vets stand on the sidelines and look for someone to blame. We played pretty badly on the specialty teams tonight and we've got some older guys standing on the side-line who could be contributing on the

When Henderson was asked to be more specific, he said "If you lose on specialty teams, as we did, you lose together. The final result is that we all lose.

It's no secret that Henderson likes to play on the specialty teams. He feels the other team becomes conscious of his presence and if he can't get the job done, it may open the door for someone else.

Coach Tom Landry sees the need for the Cowboys' to put the entire package together. Since the 30-6 win over the Rams, the Cowboys have excelled, usually on defense, but have floundered in other areas. The result has been a series of close calls and finally the Eagles' loss. With Washington looming Sunday and Houston, showing more weapons than it had all year in the 31-17 win over Oakland last week, following on Thanksgiving Day, while some may be wringing their hands in distress, for others the season is just reaching the interesting stage.

Brigade, Pups clash in JV finale tonight

The Midland Lee Stonewall Brigade and Midland High Bullpups wind up the 1979 football se ason in junior varsity play at 7 p.m. today in Memorial Sta-

Lee won 35-6 in the first meeting of the two Tall City rivals back in September and it takes a se ason record of 7-2 comapred to Midland's 5-3 reading. Lee haslost to Abilene Cooper's unbeaten JVs to the tune of 10-3 and to Odessa Permian, 14-0. Permian is 7-1 on the year with its only loss to Cooper. Midland lost to Permian, 18-0 and to Odessa, 21-12 along with last Saturday's 42-14 loss to Cooper in Abilene. In that game it was 28-14 at halftime in favor of the Cougars who came back to score twice in the second half. While Lee and MHS square off, Permian takes on Odessa High which is 7-2 in W.T. Barrett Stadium. Cooper and Abilene also battled and San Angelo is at Big Spring to wind up the current campaign.

White not so impressive

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Southern Cal's Charles White is the nation's leading rusher this season and the second most productive runner in college football history, but at least three people aren't tremendously impressed - Bertha and Jessie Leggett and Charles White.

"My grandparents, Bertha and Jessie, really aren't concerned with what I'm doing now in football," said Trojan tailback White, who lived with the Leggetts most of his youth.

'They figure football is just a way for guys to have fun on Saturday afternoon, and they're more concerned about what I'll do when I finish playing. White, like his grandparents, seems generally unimpressed by his running with the football. He has gained 1,650 yards on 258 carries this season — an average of 6.34 yards per carry - to move him to second on the all-time collegiate rushing list with 5,404. Tony Dorsett gained 6,082 yards during his college career at Pittsburgh.

"I guess I'm my own worst, or best, critic," said White, a taut-muscled six-foot, 185-pound senior. "I look at the game films, and I always see where I could have done better.'

White says he hopes his future holds, among other things, a victory for the third-ranked Trojans over UCLA on Nov. 24, a Rose Bowl victory on Jan. 1, and a pro football career. Some observers don't think White will go high in the National Football League draft, however, since he is small for a pro running back.

However, Southern Cal Coach John facilities in Midland.

Robinson has said that pro scouts observing the Trojans have had to re-examine their initial thoughts about White. Whatever the case, White isn't taking anything for grant-

"I'm looking forward to playing in the pros," said White, "but I know making it will be new challenge for me. It's a whole new everything, it's starting all over. You can be a great college football player and it doesn't mean a thing after you finish."

"Just in case, I'm making sure that I get my degree.

White said the 1979 season has had only one major disappointment for him - the "loss." The "loss" he referred to was actually a 21-21 tie, the only blemish on the Trojans' 9-0-1

New coach Stephenson inherits talent at Midland

Pack girls to open season on road

By TERRY WILLIAMSON Sports Writer

Don Humphrey resigned the position as Midland High's head basketball coach last summer, but he was kind enough to leave new cage master Jack Stephenson with 6-foot-9 Herbert Johnson from the defending District 5-4A champions.

And that's a pretty good place for Stephenson to start. Because of Johnson, Midland High is again expected to make a strong run at the championship once again, even though most think that Abilene Cooper is the team to beat.

The Bulldogs begin the 1979-80 season Saturday when they travel for a 7 p.m. encounter with Del Rio. The junior varsities will play at 5 p.m. The team, however, will have a scrimmage in Jal, N. M., today against Roswell Goddard at 4:30 p.m. CST. The Bulldogs first game at Chaparral Center is Tuesday at 8 p.m. against Fort Stockton.

Stephenson is ready to face some competition. "I don't really know if we are ready to play, but we have scrimmaged ourselves for so long that we need to play someone and find out about ourselves.

GONE FROM Midland High are Charles Johnson, Roy Lee Jefferson. Milton Sanders, Walter Bryson and Tim Spirling, all mainstays along with Herbert in their perfect 14-0 district run. That kind of talent will be hard to replace, but Stephenson is not without some help. Coach Eddie Shirley's JVs were 24-2 last year and that is where most of the help will come.

The only other squadman returning from last year's team is 6-2 forward

Darrin Matlock, who did not get a great deal of playing time last year. Perry Bolger, a 5-8 guard, is up from the JV and his scoring touch should help. He led the district in scoring in the junior varsity ranks with a 20point plus average. Horace Brown, a 6-5 postman, is another up from the JV and should make the Bulldogs potent in the rebounding department with him and Johnson playing the double post.

With the knee injury to Michael Feldt in football, Stephenson will be taking a long hard look at 6-3 Steve Miller, 6-5 Justin Morett and 6-2 Steve Henry for the other forward position.

Others on the varsity are 6-1 Calvin Jackson, 6-0 Lewis Chew, 6-1 Gerard Alcala, 5-6 Booker Mackey and 5-9 Mike Velasco, all up from the JV. Pat Hickey will join the squad this weekend from football and senior Russel Wickman is another squadman without any experience.

"I have really been impressed with these kids," Stephenson said. "We've ... been working three hours a day awfully hard, and they have been willing to work without a whimper.'

ON THE girls front, Midland High coach Jane Young is expecting another banner season with a veteran team back from last year's 27-12 title with Midland Lee. MHS lost to Lee in a district playoff, so they hope to make a bid for their first trip to the state playoffs this year. "I think our team will be better than last year, but the district is going to be a lot tougher too. I don't expect anyone to dominate the district," Young said.

Young has three returning starters to start with and several others with a lot of experience. LaShell Schrock, a 5-11 postman; Sandra Rock, a 5-8 wing; and all-district postman Magaret Christian, the team's leading scorer last year at 5-8, are all back.

Jana Trolinder, a 5-7 point and wing, and 5-6 Liz Armstrong both return with a lot of experience. The girls should also get some help from Sara Smith, a transfer student who was a two-time all-district performer at Fort Stockton. Barber may play Sunday

HOUSTON (AP) -Conflicting doctors' reports on the injured knee of Houston Oiler Mike Barber kept him out of last week's game against Cakland, but a third opinion has convinced Coach Bum Phillips the tight end is healthy enough to play.

Barber returned to practice Wednesday, a by after Dr. Jack Hughston of Columbus, Ga., pronounced the knee fit. Barber's personal phy-

Rebel cage teams await first games

In fact, the Midland Lee Rebels girls and boys cagers open the 1979-80 season this weekend with both on the road.

Coach Paul Stueckler's Rebels open boys play in Lubbock Saturday against the always-tough Lubbock Monterey Plainsmen while Coach Shirley Stephenson's girls crew picks on Dallas South Oak Cliff and Dallas Bishop Lynch on Friday and Satur-

Coach Stephenson's girls are defending District 5-4A champions and have four returning letter winners back for this year's campaign.

Back to head this year's team are Leshia Watkins, Gale Wilson, Tanna Parrish and Judy Taylor. Watkins and Wilson are all-district performers off of last year's team which lost to Plainview in the regional playoffs at McMurry College in Abilene.

Watkins, a 5-foot-10 senior has been all-district for two straight years while Wilson, another 5-10 junior, was all-loop last year as a sophomore. The other two letter winners include Par-

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) - After an 81/2-hour hearing, Pacific 10 Executive Director Wiles Hallock says the eligibility of eight Arizona State University football players will be decided before Saturday's game with West Virginia.

on the ASU campus.

"It is my hope, and it is reasonable to expect, a decision relative to the eligibility of the players will be made prior to Saturday's game."

The players — linebacker Ben Apuna, defensive lineman Tony Baker, linebacker Louis Camptell, offensive linemen Brad Igou and Kani Kauahi, running backs Arthur "Turtle" Lane and Alvin Moore and wingback Ron Washington - may have received improper credit last summer. "We should have another good team, but then the rest of the teams in the district will be improved, " said Stephenson Wednesday. "If we stay away from key injuries and continue to improve, we will have another good year, " added Stephenson.

Coach Stephenson has been pleased with the hard work that her team has put in prior to Friday's season opener in Dallas. "We are pretty quick and have really worked hard." Stephenson still does not have a set starting lineup and plans th two platoon as juch as possible, especially in the early going.

The rest of the squad includes Diane Strickling, a 5-8 senior; Sandy Alvarado, 5-4 senior; Wathenia Henry, 5-7 junior; Gayla Carter, 5-6 junior; Kay Rome, 5=7 senior; Jackie Ratliff, 5-5 senior and Ora Bell, a

The varsity girls then return to action Friday and Saturday against Ysleta and Bel Air at Midland High and Lee, respectively.

WHILE STEPHENSON has four experienced players back, Stueckler is still rebuilding around two-year letter winner Norris Lane along with one-year lettermen David Keys, Tim Fisher and Danny Rabb. As far as duplicating last year's record, well, let Jordan explain.

Orange Bowl may undergo new renovation

MIAMI (AP) - Considering its age, the Orange Bowl is in excellent condition, a Chicago engineering firm concluded in a report made public Wednesday that recommended it be renovated at a cost of $2.7 million.

The report said that for $400,000 a year, city officials should be able to maintain the 75,414-seat stadium parts of which date to 1937 - for another 30 to 40 years "with complete structural safety" after renovation.

"The Orange Bowl stadium was found to be in excellent condition, considering the age of the structure and the environment to which it has been exposed," said a draft of the report by Wiss, Janney, Elstner and

Associates. "In our opinion, upgrading (the stadium) to insure structural integrity may be accomplished at relatively low cost in contrast to demolition and construction of a new facility," said the report, which cited varying degrees of deterioration throughout the

The stadium's major tenant, however, wants a new stadium. Joe Robbie, owner of the National Football League's Miami Dolphins, said last month his team won't play in the Orange Bowl after his contract expires in 1986, even with major stadium improvements. Robbie, who has demanded a promise from city officials by January that they will build a new stadium, could not be reached for comment Wednes-

A good bet not to go empty-handed is long-enduring Alabama. If the nation's No.1 team doesn't land automatically in the Sugar, it should have its choice of the Orange or Cotton.

Ideally, the bowl matchups should have national championship ramifications. On current status, the gridiron "druthers" would send No.1 Alabama against No.3 Nebraska in the Orange Bowl, No.2 Ohio State against No.4 Southern California in the Rose, with No.5 Florida State and No.6 Texas in the Cotton.

Sugar Bowl directors have to be pulling for Auburn to beat Georgia to eliminate the four-time beaten Bulldogs. Undefeated Brigham Young, with multitalented Marc Wilson, is a tremendous wild card for a major

Doug, Jane agree, gals can't compete with men

MIAMI (AP) - Jane Blalock and Doug Sanders say they agree on one thing: women golfers can't compete equally with men.

"I'll never wave a banner and say that women are equal to men," said Blalock, a 10-year veteran of the Ladies Professional Golf Association. "It's just not the truth. I'd just like to reach the point where we're viewed as fellow competitors, not just a bunch of dumb broads.

"I'd like to reach the point where we have mutual admiration for each

Blalock, of Highland Beach, Fla., and Sanders are preparing for the $100,000 Johnny Miller Invitational Dec. 10-11 at Bonaventure, Fla., in which 35 LPGA players will compete against 35 PGA players.

Sanders, noted for his flamboyance on and off the men's tour, says he's ready to accept women, but not as equals on the golf course.

"I have all the respect in the world for women," he told The Miami Her-

Davis Mountain run gets AAU certification

The Davis Mountain Marathon, scheduled for Dec. 15, has been certified by the Amateur Athletic Union, according to a spokesman for the

The spokesman said that Jerry Cook had been approved by the AAU to be the official in charge of the event. The spokesman said that the certification of the event meant that runners could use the mountain race as a spring board to such races as the Boston and New York marathons.

ald in an interview from Houston. "They've got those cute little bodies and those cute little voices. But there's no question that men are superior on the golf course. I think both realize that.

"Realistically, there's no way a woman can win," said LPGA player Marlene Floyd. "They say they're going to move the tee markers up so the men and women drive to the same point in the fairway. But if a man's 150 yards away, he'll use an eight-iron and a woman will need a five-iron." The pros say the tournament will give them a chance to get alongside some more appealing company. "It'll be fun playing next to all those good-looking men," Blalock said, al-though adding, "I don't get off too much on the men versus women idea. I feel their superior strength is unquestioned."

"Anytime I can get a chance to play next to all those pretty ladies - well, shoot, I just love that," Sanders said. "But seriously, it's about time we had something different to create more interest in golf. Golf needs a boot in the butt, and this sounds just right."

Perhaps the biggest concern among the players has been the placement of the tee markers. A committee of men and women pros will play the course and decide on the markers' location. "It's like sex and religion," Sanders said. "There's no one answer. There isn't one format that would make things even." Blalock said she's sure there will be many complaints. "Whenever there's money involved there is," she said. "But they've got to take certain aspects into consideration if they want a good, competitive

Goltz signs with LA; Alzado raps Browns' play

Free agent pitcher Dave Goltz agreed to a six-year contract with the Los Angeles Dodgers, club Vice President Al Campanis said. "Our scouting reports showed that Dave was the best pitcher available." The 30-year-old-Goltz, who has fashioned six consecutive years of winning in double figures with the Minnesota Twins, was the first player ever to be drafted by the maximum 13 teams in the first round of the draft. Goltz, who has averaged 14.5 victories a year in the last six seasons, has 96 major league wins to his credit - including a 20game year in 1977. Last year, he compiled a 14-13 record with a 4.18 earned run average and completed 12 of his 35 starts...

The on-again, off-again trade of third baseman Eric Soderholm from the Texas Rangers to New York was on again after some hasty reshuffling. Commissioner Bowle Kuhn blocked the trade after the Rangers released the names of the three minor leaguers they were to receive for Soderholm. Then, Kuhn's office approved the revised transaction, which, according to the Yankees, eventually could be identical to the deal that was blocked Abdullah Muhammad never played in the NFL, but after facing Ed "Too Tail" Jones in the ring he knows what running backs were up against in the former all-pro lineman. Every time the 6-foot-3, 214-pound Los Angeles boxer bored in on Jones Tuesday night, the 6-9, 248pound ex-Dallas Cowboy wrapped his massive arms around Muhammad and stopped him for no gain. Jones' honorary cornermen, Phoenix Suns forward Truck Robinson and former Arizona State football coach Frank Kush assessed the boxer's performance with guarded optimism. "Well, he was a little better than last said Robinson. "But he needs a lot of work, there's no question about that. He's looping his punches a lot. As big and as strong as he is, I don't think he has to rear back

Kush said, "Well, I don't know a real lot about boxing but, I'll tell you this, he's awful courageous to get up in that ring. I'd say he has a future as a professional."...

All-Pro defensive end Lyle Alzado says there's too much talent on the Cleveland Browns' defense to be giving up more than 300 yards a game. "I'm going crazy with frustration. This is a solid organization, we've got a great head coach, good personnel, and we should be more than 7-4." The Browns slipped to third in the AFC Central after dropping a 29-24 game to Seattle on Sunday. "We should be right up there challenging Pittsburgh. Not that we have the kind of team Pittsburgh does, not yet anyway. But we should be up there fighting them."

Texas' 21-13 victory over Houston was a highly emotional game in which "both squads really laid it on the line," Coach Fred Akers said. "It was a clawing, fighting, scratching kind of game — it wasn't always pretty but it was intense."

(AP) - A postseason bowl package that would send Arkansas to either the Cotton Bowl or the Sugar Bowl on Jan. 1 hinges on an Arkansas victory Saturday, The Associated Press has learned.

The Razorbacks will make a Jan. 1 bowl trip if they defeat Texas A&M. The arrangement sends the University of Texas to the Sugar Bowl if the Razorbacks play in the Cotton Bowl, according to sources.

Meanwhile, Houston Athletic Director Cedric Dempsey is upset because the Cougars could go 10-1 and be out in the cold.

"When you put all the different options down there are three teams and there should be three bowls," Dempsey said.

Dempsey said the Cougars have had some preiminary conversations with Baylor, but may have to try and strike a deal with a team outside the Southwest Conference so the Cougars 'don't get boxed out."

"We really haven't come up with who might be the best school to work with," he said.

The Sugar Bowl arrangement is in the works because the bowl bids can go out at 6 p.m. on Saturday and no bowl is going to wait until then to make plans.

Bob Hope takes his act to college campuses for TV show

By FRED ROTHENBERG

AP Sports Writer Milton Berle may have been the first comedian to utilize television. but nobody has taken advantage of the small screen better than Bob Hope, who will be taking his act on the road again. This time, the road leads to six college campuses during the frenetic football season for a TV special on NBC this Monday night.

The scene may change but the format and style remain the same for the 76-year-old Hope, who has taken his one-liners to China, the London Palladium, the Ohio Jubilee and his own birthday party for some of his TV shows in the past year.

"I had been asked to appear at Florida, Alabama and Indiana State and we needed a show for Nov. 19, Hope said of the haphazard way TV sometimes fills its time. So Hope lined up appearances at Harvard, Colgate in Hamilton, N.Y. and the University of Southern California. A snip-snip here and a laugh track there, and NBC has a two-hour show called "Bob Hope on Campus" as a ratings competitor to ABC's "Monday Night

Hope's humor, never mistaken for high brow, was tailored for the college audience, with an emphasis on sports, and then laundered some more for

At Southern Cal, he said: -"I'm happy to be here at Charlie

White U," referring to the Trojans' standout tailback, Charles White. -"When Charlie White was introduced to me, he said: 'Hello Mr. Heisman." -"Coach (John) Robinson is very popular, but he can't bring his wife to meet Mrs. Robinson.' -"I got football in my blood. When I was born, the doctor dropped me. I'm-a recovered fumble.

IF THIS is your brand of humor, then you qualify as part of mainstream Americana that has made Hope a TV fixture for the past 30 years. Since October of 1978, Hope has done eight TV specials and only two dropped below the magic 30 share figure, which is TV's dividing line between a hit and an also-ran. Hope's best share of the TV sets in use was a 42 for his salute to the 1978 World Series.

"Sports is a great subject for humor. Athletes are always in the public eye," said Hope in a telephone interview, in which serious conversation was often blocked by a comedy

-"Sports people make so much money. (Pause). Reggie Jackson has so much money, he has a guy run for Hope, an avid golfer who holds membership in about 10 golf clubs, has his own tournament, the Bob Hope Desert Classic, which annually comes the week before the Super Bowl. Last year, the tourney was the highest rated televised golf event.

"The public likes celebrities," Hope

The pro-am format certainly helps, but so does the fact that it comes in the heart of winter and on an off-week

Hope has played golf with five of the last six presidents. Only Jimmy Carter hasn't toured the links with Hope, who says he plays with a 16 handicap, "although it was six most of my life."

'Playing golf with Presidents is fun if you don't mind a bunch of guys following you, talking into their wristwatches," he said.

HOPE SAID he told two jokes to Dwight Eisenhower to make the President laugh after he had suffered the heart attack that eventually killed

-"A funeral procession passed on the road outside the course and one of the golfers stood erect and placed his

-"Two golfers were arguing over who was worse, so they matched cards. One guy said 'On the opening hole I had an X,' and the other guy said: 'Then you're 1-up.'"

Golf is not Hope's only sporting interest. Since 1946, he has owned a share of the Cleveland Indians. In the late 1950s, Hope owned 11 percent of the Los Angeles Rams. He sold his interest after an ownership battle between Dan Reeves and Ed Pauley. Asked if he wished he were still a partner, Hope answered: "You wanna make me cry."

What really upsets Hope are suggestions that he wouldn't have been able to do his college campus show 10 years ago during the Vietnam War. Throughout his career, he has made jokes from both sides of the political fence and has entertained American troops since 1941. But his hawkish position on Vietnam made him unpopular on many campuses.

"I never supported war. I supported the kids," he now says.

And he hotly disputes reports that he was booed in 1969 after being introduced at a Notre Dame football

Japan observes far-reaching energy conservation goals

Copley News Service

TOKYO — President Carter recently prodded Japan to use less oil and energy in general. If he and the appropriate members of Congress came here they might learn that this nation now importing 99 percent of its oil needs is moving ahead on all fronts much more rapidly than the United States is.

Here are a few of the things Japan s doing:

Expanding an already mammoth and efficient public transportation system.
 Continuing conversion of taxis to use of propane rather than gasoline as fuel. Already, most taxis burn propane.

3. Setting far more rigid air-conditioning and heating controls on public and private buildings — a low of 82 degrees in the summer and a high of 66 degrees in the winter.

4. Designating two months, February and October as energy conservation months — when even stricter regulations will be in effect. The United States designates October as such a month on a voluntary basis.

5. Accelerating research and get

 Accelerating research and getting into production on alternate systems of energy — solar, geothermal, use of coal, both gasification and liquefaction from coal.

The reduction of reliance on imported oil is the principal aim of the Japanese. With this general goal in mind, the plan recently put into motion is designed to reduce dependence on oil for energy from 75 to 50 percent by 1990. To do this, the nuclear share of the total energy package will be increased from 2 to 11 percent, coal from 12 to 16 percent, liquid natural gas from 3 to 9 percent, coal liquefaction and solar from 0 to 5 percent, hydro will remain static at 5 percent, and other sources will be raised from 3 to 4 percent.

"This is quite a goal," Osamu Alzawa of the Agency of National Resources and Energy, said in an interview, "but we are determined to make it. Considering the oil situation, and we import 80 percent of our crude from the Mideast, we must make the goal."

The fact that Japan is the world's second-leading consumer of imported oil (after the United States) explains in itself why the 1990 goal must be reached.

Aizawa admits that in Japan, as in the United States, it will be difficult to reduce reliance on automobiles. "However, we may close the gas stations on Sundays and holidays, and that will help. Also, we are finding that the Japanese people are complying to an 80 percent degree with the voluntary fuel saving schemes. The difficulty will be in achieving these goals and keeping our economy on a steady growth course."

To do this, Japan has what it calls the "Sunshine Project," the umbrella agency under which alternative sources of energy are being sought. With only one month (June) of steady rain, Japan is rich in sunshine and solar energy is being pushed — to the point that a million solar-powered homes plus big apartment houses are in the construction or planning phase.

Population shifts encourage race

Kennedy succumbs to call of electoral votes

By JAMES CARY Copley News Service

WASHINGTON — Sen. Edward Kennedy was pressured toward running for president in 1980 rather than 1984 by the surge of population and electoral votes into the conservative Sunbelt states, a top election forecaster believes.

Ben Wattenberg, co-editor of Public Opinion magazine, also thinks the

For Kennedy to win sufficient electoral votes then he would have to succeed in a number of traditionally conservative areas that are not considered supportive of his liberal views. Hence the decision to run now.

upcoming battle between Kennedy and President Carter for the Democratic nomination will become "harsh and poisonous."

One possible outcome of this challenge of a seated president of Kennedy's own party could be that moderate Democrats would be left without a candidate of their own middle-of-the-road ideology.

This presents a potential for centrist Democrats to cross over and vote Republican in sufficient numbers in the general election to elect a Republican president.

Concern over foreign policy and the growing image of America as weak and indecisive would be a prime cause.

All this was projected this week by a panel of experts from the American Enterprise Institute, a non-profit organization that explores and studies public policy issues.

Participating with Wattenberg were Howard Penniman, AEI's director of political and social processes. Rudolph Penner, AEI director of tax policy.

political and social processes, Rudolph Penner, AEI director of tax policy studies, and David Gergen, managing editor of Public Opinion magazine.

Wattenberg, co-author of the book "The Real Majority," said Kennedy's decision to run this time permits him to escape the major shift in electoral votes that will take place after the 1980 census.

And it is electoral votes — not popular votes — that elect the president.

Since 1952 the northeast and north central states, sometimes called the Frost Belt, had 286 electoral votes and southern and western states, the conservative Supplet had 245. By 1972 the Supplet was leading 271 to 267. Westernberg

Belt, had 286 electoral votes and southern and western states, the conservative Sunbelt, had 245. By 1972 the Sunbelt was leading 271 to 267. Wattenberg projects that by 1984 the Sunbelt will have a 26 vote advantage — 282 to 256. This will be based on the 1980 census which will cause the House of Representatives to be reapportioned in 1982, in time for the 1984 election. For Kennedy to win sufficient electoral votes then he would have to succeed in a number of traditionally conservative areas that are not considered supportive of his liberal views. Hence the decision to run now.

Gov. Edmund G. (Jerry) Brown Jr. of California was pictured as on the fringes of this main contest and not likely to break into the inner Democratic circle where the large voting blocs are unless either Carter or Kennedy stumbles badly.

The major issues in the general election will be different, depending on which of the three Democrats is victorious at the nominating convention.

Penniman said for Carter they will be Iran, the SALT II strategic arms limitation treaty, and the economy. For Kennedy they would include Channal limitation treaty, and the economy. For Kennedy they would include Chappaquiddick (an island where a girl drowned in a car accident with Kennedy at the wheel), and his Senate voting record.

Penniman said he could not come up with a clear image of what issues would emerge as important in the Brown campaign. But he did mention the emerge as important in the Brown campaign. But he did mention the governor's proposals for mandating a balanced federal budget as fading.

Brown also will not have the strong support of his state in the upcoming primaries that he did in 1976, Penniman said. Brown upset Carter in a number of late key state primaries.

Wattenberg said he viewed foreign policy — particularly the image of weakness the United States is projecting — as "a looming giant" of an issue, although not as important right now as the economy. Still it is the test by which voters tend to measure the toughness of a candidate.

He cited Iran as a plus right now for Kennedy. It has shifted the focus from Kennedy and Chappaquiddick, where the public view was centered after Kennedy announced his candidacy, back to Carter and the questions critics have raised about his leadership.

Penner saw tough sailing ahead in the economy with all the political rhetoric in favor of a balanced budget, tight money and austerity tending to disappear if and when the anticipated recession deepens.

With that will go Carter's last chance to fulfill his 1976 campaign pledge to balance the federal budget before the end of his first term.

Penner noted, however, that inflation is causing taxes to increase about $12 billion annually. Consequently federal spending is rising at only a 1 percent pace annually compared to 3 percent earlier in the decade. One result is a projected 1980 federal deficit no higher than that expected this fiscal year, about $29 billion.

There is a major shift in sentiment favoring higher defense spending now, with less funding for social programs, Penner said. A Harris poll was cited showing a huge increase in public support for a stronger defense from 10 percent to 76 percent in recent years.

Wattenberg said that in his view for President Carter to be renominated he would have to picture Kennedy as a left-winger and make it stick, although Carter has embraced most of the same liberal positions Kennedy has.

Texas must turn face toward 'urban' problems

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas is "distinctly" an urban state and could soon face more of the problems faced by the big northern cities people are fleeing to move here, a geography professor says.

Dr. Robert Holz of the University of Texas this week told a special House Committee on Urban Needs that the state's big cities are still "reasonably safe, comfortable places to live."

"I don't think Texas cities have the big-city problems of those cities in the Northeast," he said.

However, he warned continued growth could cause problems.
"If there isn't some control on how things develop, it seems to me there'll be a problem with a declining quality of life...which is why the people moved here in the first place," Holz said.

He said the state will continue to grow in population through the 1980s.

Statistics show that 82 percent of the state's 13 million people live in urban areas — defined as areas with more than 2,500 persons.

The numbers show the state has had an urban majority since 1950.

Holz said mass transit systems would be needed in the cities as gasoline supplies dwindle. He also predicted a possible "urban implosion" — a "collapse towards the center" of cities as people move back to downtown regions to save gasoline.

He said some experts are predicting possible conflict between the poor people who now live near downtown areas and rich suburbanites who want to move closer to where they work."

Dr. Thomas Plaut of the UT Bureau of Business Research told the committee that the population increase has slowed since 1975, but he also said the increase would probably continue through the next decade.

"I would not be surprised if the growth rate of the smaller urban areas and non-urban areas overtakes that of the largest urban areas," he

Working women apparently no more apt to suffer heart disease than working men

Dear Dr. Solomon: In one of your columns, you noted that the changing role of women in our society has resulted in new health problems. For example, increased smoking among women is causing more lung cancer. What about heart disease? Do women become more prone to heart attacks when they take jobs outside the home? — Lee.

Dear Lee: This is an interesting question, and one which many people in the medical profession wondered about. However, recent studies seem to show that working women are no more susceptible to heart disease than women who are housewives.

Dr. Suzanne G. Haynes and her colleagues at the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute recently reviewed their findings from an eight-year study of 1,656 persons. Of these, 465 were working women, 466 were housewives and 725 were men. Women generally have a greater natural immunity to heart disease than men, and their assumption of full-time jobs outside the home does not appear to affect this.

Data compiled during the study showed that working women and housewives reported identical symptoms of emotional turmoil, tension, anxiety and anger, while men had fewer of these symptoms. In addition, working women said they experienced greater daily stress and marital dissatisfaction than did either the housewives or men.

Nevertheless, there was no evidence of a signigicantly higher rate of coronary heart disease among the working women as compared with housewives under 65 years of age. Among the working women, those who had never married had the lowest incidence of coronary heart disease.

He explains that the risk to life from failure to treat high blood pressure - including stroke, heart dieease and kidney failure - far exceeds the potential risk of cancer.

It is best never to act precipitously on limited information. Your best course of action would be to discuss the test findings on resirpine with your physician; it may be possible for him to prescribe some alternate form of therapy. Let the medical decision be made by your doctor.

Should they call him 'sticky foot?'

By JAMES GERSTENZANG

Midland High School senior Janie Marie Pine has been named outstanding girl for November by the American Association of University Women here. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde

Pine, she is vice president of the Medical Explorers, president of the French Club and the French National Honor Society, secretary of the National Honor Society, a volunteer for Partners in Reading and teaches English to Cambodian refugees.

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter's wrestling match with a line of gummy tape may earn him a new nickname - "sticky foot."

The president won, but the tape put up a good It happened last week, when the president was ushering Irish Prime Minister Jack Lynch to a waiting limousine. White House aides had placed a microphone at the edge of the driveway, holding its wires down with the tape, in case Carter and Lynch wanted to comment

But just before the men left the White House, an aide removed the microphone, placing it alongside a When Carter and Lynch approached the car, the president sought the microphone and moved it back And he got one of his heavy, black shoes caught on the tape. First he gave his foot a little shake. Then a twist. A grin appeared on his face. Finally, after some more maneuvering, his foot was freed and he and the prime minister got on with their farewells.

PRESIDENTS ALWAYS ride around in shiny cars that look like they just rolled out of the showroom, The president drove to the State Department the other day in a gray Lincoln that, upon close observance, bore several signs of mistreatment. The left rear door showed three touched-up spots the gray touch-up paint didn't quite match the original finish - and one nick that hadn't yet been There was a foot-long scratch on the lower panel of the door, and signs that gasoline had spilled out from the filler pipe at the pump The car is part of the Secret Service fleet kept at a garage several blocks from the White House when not being used by the president. A call there turned up no one who would answer the question: "Who put the dent in the Lincoln?" Because there are no records of Carter or his car having been involved in a traffic accident, one Secret Service agent surmised that "someone must have backed into it in the garage.'

NOT ALL SECRET SERVICE agents aspire to protecting the president. One young agent, currently assigned to the president's detail, has asked for a transfer to protect former President Richard M.

The agent explained that, as a bachelor, he's had it with spending most of his weekends closeted at Camp David, Md., the presidential mountain retreat Carter seems to love. He's ready to move to New York City, his hometown, where Nixon recently bought an apartment.

NOW IS THE TIME TO FIGHT FOR LOVE.

THE "SPECIAL" AMENDMENTS. On Monday, Oct. 22, the U.S. House of Representatives, by voice vote, passed H.R. 2440, a routine airport assistance bill, but with a special amendment, Section 3, which bans interstate passenger flights from Love Field. There was no public notice or hearing on adoption of this amendment, which is now tied up in a House-Senate conference committee. On Tuesday, Oct. 30, the House Public Works Committee approved H.R. 5481, entitled the "International Air Transportation Competition Act of 1979." This bill also contains a special amendment banning interstate passenger flights from Love Field. Again, there was no public notice or hearing on the amendment.

WHY THE "SPECIAL" TREATMENT? It's the latest in a series of attempts to circumvent the Airline Deregulation Act of 1978 and the Civil Aeronautics Board and to keep Southwest Airlines from providing Midland/Odessa with convenient, low-cost service through Love Field to New Orleans and other shorthaul inferstate destinations. It received special treatment precisely so that you, as concerned individuals, would not have an opportunity to speak. If you thought the federal government got out of one industry's economic "hair" with the Airline Deregulation Act—watch out, it's back!

WE'VE EARNED THE RIGHT. Southwest Airlines has been to the U.S. Supreme Court twice on its right to serve Love Field. Its service has been approved by the Federal Aviation Administration and authorized by the Civil Aeronautics Board, as well as numerous courts and the Texas Aeronautics Commission. Should Eastern Airlines' shuttle air service be performed between Washington's Dulles Airport and New York's Kennedy instead of National, in downtown Washington, and La Guardia, close-in to New York? Of course not—throughout the nation, where multiple airports exist, the shorthaul air carrier serves the close-in or downtown airport—why should getting to your airplane take longer than your flight?

WHAT HAVE AIRLINE PASSENGERS GOT TO LOSE? PLENTY. Literally millions of dollars per year and the convenience of air service through Love Field to and from destinations such as New Orleans, Oklahoma City, Tulsa, and other out-of-state points, east, west, and north. Remember, we are the airline that brought you the $22.00 "Pleasure Class" fare to Dallas and the $45.00 "Pleasure Class" fare to New Orleans! Wouldn't you like to fly to other interstate destinations at similar low fares?

what does midland/odessa have to lose? Lots. We are the #1 air carrier in Midland/Odessa in terms of passengers carried. This means that we bring you more people—and their business—and more convenience than any other airline serving Midland/Odessa. If we cannot carry shorthaul interstate passengers through Love Field to Midland/Odessa, then, without the traffic support provided by those passengers, we cannot expand our air service to Midland/Odessa either as rapidly or as widely as we had planned. The issue is whether Midland/Odessa wants more low fares to more destinations—or less than it would otherwise have?

IS IT TOO LATE FOR YOU TO SPEAK OUT? NO. Ultimately the Senate must decide whether this anti-Love Field amendment should remain in the bills or not. We know our U.S. Senators to be fairminded men and we feel that they will respond to the needs and wishes of Texas citizens.

IF YOU ARE A SOUTHWEST AIRLINES PASSENGER OR A CITIZEN CONCERNED WITH FAIR PLAY AND GENUINE FREE ENTERPRISE, HERE'S YOUR CHANCE TO FIGHT FOR LOVE—AND MONEY. SIGN THE COUPON, SEND IT TO US, AND WE'LL SEND IT TO WASHINGTON. REMEMBER, IF YOU REALLY BELIEVE IN FREE ENTERPRISE—THERE CAN'T BE ANY STRINGS ATTACHED!

The Honorable John Tower, United States Senate The Honorable Lloyd Bentsen, United States Senate

Sirs: I want to keep and expand our convenient, efficient, low-cost service between Midland/Odessa and out-of-state cities through Love Field. I am unalterably opposed to Section 3 of H.R. 2440, and any like governmental interference, as an infringement on my right to a free choice and an unfair restriction on free airline competition.
