Midland police detectives recovered $10,592.85 in firearms and ammunition taken in a supermarket break-in early Monday morning and arrested three of four teen-agers allegedly involved in the theft. One remained at large as of early this afternoon.

Forty-two weapons — including a semi-automatic AR-15 rifle, a $879.95 pigeon-grade 12-gauge shotgun, rifles, magnum pistols and hunting knives — were taken in the burglary of Furr's Supermarket in the Town & Country Shopping Center here.

Police said three of the teen-agers, ages 14, 15 and 16 and all waiters at the nearby Sambo's Restaurant, allegedly broke the store's plate glass window with a chunk of asphalt pavement, gathered up the firearms, knives and ammunition and carted them off in shopping carts.

Police said the youths had a key to the glass display case containing the 35 handguns and bent the rack to gain access to the rifles.

"These are not your run-of-the-mill guns," said Detective Roy Harrison. "About 80 percent of these guns are top quality."

Taken along with the weapons were 22 boxes of ammunition and scores of loose rounds. Some of the firearms were loaded when the teen-agers were arrested, according to the police.

Two teen-agers were arrested at the restaurant. One, a 15-year-old boy, was carrying a loaded .22-caliber pistol, police said. Four handguns were in the saddlebags of a motorcycle owned by the 18-year-old man, who worked at the restaurant. The motorcycle was parked just outside the restaurant.

Working the case with Harrison were Detective John Anastasio and Detective Sgt. Mike Roberts.

The arrests came 11 hours after police learned of the burglary Monday morning.

"We're fairly pleased with the way things went," commented Roberts, who said the detectives were anxious to recover the firearms before they could be sold to "anybody who might" fire them.

Police indicated the youths apparently had planned to keep some of the firearms and sell the rest.

"You could get a lot of 'dope' for something like this" in Mexico or South America, speculated Harrison. He said the AR-15, which is equivalent to the military's M-16 rifle of Vietnam vintage, would bring as much as $1,000 in Mexico.

"You can make a fortune with them (guns and munitions) over in Mexico," he said. The black market sale could go as high as $100,000 for $10,000 in firearms, he figured.

Iran says it'll try rest of hostages

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini declared today the remaining 49 American hostages in the occupied U.S. Embassy here will be tried as spies if the United States does not return the ousted shah to Iran.

"The hostages will remain in the nest of spies and after that (President) Carter will understand what a mistake he has made," said a statement by Khomeini broadcast by Tehran Radio.

Hundreds of thousands of Iranians prepared to march in the capital and other major cities to mark the turn of the 15th Islamic century on Wednesday. The marches are expected into the biggest anti-American demonstrations since the start of the occupation of the embassy Nov. 4.

Khomeini's statement appeared to be tougher than his earlier declaration the hostages "should be ... tried and punished."

Hours earlier, the militants released 10 more Americans who were flown to Europe. Before they left Tehran, one of them said the remaining hostages were "in greater danger than we were."

"Trials, are they not threats?" said Joan Walsh, of Ogden, Utah, when asked to explain the danger.

The 10 joined three others in a U.S. Air Force hospital in West Germany, and State Department officials in Washington said all of the 13 might be home before Thanksgiving.

The six black men and four women released today were flown to Frankfurt, West Germany via Paris and driven to a U.S. Air Force hospital in nearby Wiesbaden for medical examinations and questioning by U.S. officials.

They had an emotional reunion with two black Marines and another woman hostage freed Monday and also being treated at the Air Force Hospital in Wiesbaden, West Germany.

The 13 were freed on orders from Khomeini, who told the militants to release any blacks or women among the 62 American hostages who "were not spies." He said blacks were oppressed in the United States and that Moslems treated women kindly.

State Department officials said they did not know why the militants kept two other women and one black man in custody.

U.S. Ambassador to France Arthur A. Hartman said the six men and four women freed today "looked in good shape, considering what they have been through." Hartman met them Orly Airport in Paris, where the hostages boarded an Air Force hospital plane that carried them to Frankfurt. French security officials said an Iran Air jet carrying the 10 from Tehran landed at Orly with one engine smoking.

Also on at Orly was Ann McKeown, a former secretary to the U.S. ambassador in Tehran, who left shortly before the siege began. Ms. McKeown, fighting back tears, saw old friends among the released hostages and said they looked remarkably well. The three freed Monday were reported in good mental and physical condition.

The militants, saying they are acting on Khomeini's demand, are demanding the United States hand over deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi to face revolutionary justice.

They are planning a massive march through the streets of the capital on Wednesday to wind up in the streets surrounding the U.S. Embassy, Tehran radio said.

The Carter administration renewed its demand for the release of all the hostages and said if Khomeini carried out his threat to put some of them on trial as spies, it would be a "further flagrant violation" of international law as well as a violation of "elementary human rights."

Before Khomeini's statement, Foreign Press Director Abolghassan Sadeqh told The Associated Press it had not been decided whether any of the hostages would be tried. But "if there is going to be a trial," he continued, "it will be carried out by the country's legal courts, either the special revolutionary tribunals (which have sentenced more than 600 persons to death by firing squad) or the ordinary courts. There will be no trial by the students in the embassy compound."

"Even if some of the Americans are tried and found guilty and sentenced to death for spying," he added, "the Imam (Khomeini) is empowered under Islamic law to pardon them."

The Iranian government allowed The Associated Press to reopen its Tehran bureau, ordered closed on Sept. 4. The Iranian charge d'affaires in Washington granted a visa to Alexander Higgins, who becomes the permanent chief of bureau. Other AP correspondents have already arrived in Iran.

Iranian Foreign Minister Abolghassan Bani Sadr in a CBS interview Monday said the remaining hostages could not be released for two months — until after a new Iranian government is installed — unless the United States surrendered the ailing shah to stand trial for the death of at least 60,000 political opponents Khomeini's supporters claim were killed during his 37-year reign.

U.S. officials in Washington identified the two women and black man still in the embassy as Elizabeth Ann Swift, a political officer, Katherine Koob and Charles Jones, both communications officers.

Three hostages in three states are also freed

By The Associated Press

A unemployed woman seeking a job, a young man trying to make up with his girl friend and a handicapped man who authorities say was looking for attention took hostages at gunpoint and then freed them unharmed in separate incidents in Tennessee, Alabama and Kentucky.

Louis Posey was charged with armed and aggravated assault shortly before midnight Monday. Earlier in the day he had taken over a Knoxville, Tenn., business college classroom for the second time in two months. Posey, who briefly held a school official hostage, surrendered to police and was jailed in lieu of $100,000 bond.

"He's having problems; he feels the world is closing in on him," said Capt. Doug Norman, one of two police officers who spent 11 hours attempting to coax Posey out of committing suicide.

Posey, who said he dreamed of being a motorcycle daredevil, was on a 10-day pass from Lakeshore Mental Health Institute, where he was committed after a similar standoff at Knoxville Business College.

Zambia mobilizes army to meet 'full-scale-war'

LUSAKA, Zambia (AP) — President Kenneth Kaunda today mobilized his armed forces to meet what he said was a "full-scale war situation" from Zimbabwe Rhodesia.

Kaunda's announcement to diplomats, officials and newsmen followed a series of raids by Zimbabwe Rhodesian troops against Patriotic Front guerrilla camps in Zambia and, lately, against landlocked Zambia's road and rail lifelines to the sea.

Kaunda also accused South Africa of conspiring with Zimbabwe Rhodesia in "wanton attacks" against Zambia since October. He said the raids had resulted in the destruction of 12 bridges and the loss of nine Zambian lives.

"I call upon the people and residents of Zambia to realize that we are in a full-scale war, and to assist in vigilance all over the country," he said.

But Kaunda stopped short of declaring war on his southern neighbor.

A spokesman for Zimbabwe Rhodesia's military headquarters in Salisbury, meanwhile, said, "So far there are no indications of any unusual activity."

The moves announced by Kaunda included the cancellation of all military leaves, mobilization of all male high school graduates and the recall of retired military officers.

Kaunda said his country was confronted by a "formidable enemy who is supported by Western powers." He said Zambia reserved the right "to call upon any friendly country to come to its aid."

The Zambian president called for material and other assistance "both to himself and to the Patriotic Front to fight this just war to its logical conclusion." He also called on the West "to come out in the open to condemn these attacks."

"The losses we have suffered must be compensated for. This has to be done by Britain," Kaunda said in reference to Britain's status as the legal colonial power in Zimbabwe Rhodesia.

Kaunda made his announcement at Mulungushi Hall, where three months ago at a Commonwealth heads of government summit, Britain won support for a new Zimbabwe Rhodesian peace conference involving the Front and the Salisbury regime of Bishop Abel Muzorewa.

The peace talks, now in their 11th week in London, are now focusing on the crucial question of arranging a cease-fire before new elections are organized by Britain.

Shades of Yesteryear: Cattle stampede

ABILENE (AP) — The Triangle Cattle Co. ordered about 20 cowboys on horseback to criss-cross the brushy prairies north of town today in search of cattle lost in a wild, pre-dawn stampede.

About 700 head of cattle, possibly spooked by wild dogs, thundered through fences and galloped along a busy highway where passing vehicles struck some of them Monday.

Two persons — a truck driver and a passenger on a bus — suffered minor injuries.

At least 11 cattle were killed on the highway.

State troopers, animal control officers and sheriff's deputies helped cowboys round up cattle until about 10 p.m. Monday. Triangle manager Walter Wilemon said between 300 and 350 head were rounded up and the rest remained at large today.

"We're sending about 20 cowboys back through the brush and pastures, but it'll take a week to gather them all up — if we're lucky," he said.

"We figure a bunch of wild dogs stampeded them," Wilemon said. "They get to chasing the cattle and having a lot of fun. The cattle resent it. It terrifies them and they'll stampede. They broke down all the fences."

He said he has hired a rifleman to stand guard over the cattle all night from now on in hopes of keeping the wild dogs away.

The escaped animals spread out along a 10-mile stretch of Interstate 20 north of this West Texas city after the stampede. Some were herded successfully into trailers by officers using squad cars instead of horses.

Bob Warren, maintenance supervisor for the state highway department, said his crews carried 11 dead cattle to the dump Monday. He estimated they weighed 300 to 500 pounds each.

A group of six cattle was struck and killed by an 18-wheel truck driven by Lester Bassham of Winter Haven, Fla., who was tossed out of his vehicle by the impact.

"A bunch of cattle came right across the road at 4:40 a.m. I swerved to miss them and almost turned over," said Bassham, who was treated for a back injury.

A Trailways bus en route from Midland to Dallas, driven by Bob Lovett of Dallas, struck and killed five cattle. A passenger, Tennie Mae Williams of Dallas, was treated for an eye injury. Lovett and 11 other passengers escaped injury.

Jim Nugent tells 'em

Texas Railroad Commissioner Jim Nugent of Kerrville isn't one to mince words. He never has been.

Addressing a Rotary Club meeting at Longview last week, the commissioner told the Ayatollah Khomeini what he could do with his Iranian oil.

The Longview Morning Journal quoted Nugent as saying, "It's a shame we've gotten ourselves into a position where we aren't energy self-sufficient enough to kick Khomeini's (expletive deleted) up between his eyes."

"We have the ability to be self-sufficient in this country," he added, "but both the state and federal government need to do everything they reasonably can to excite the risk-takers to drill more wells and to harness more production and to hold what reserves we've got in production."

He warned of dependence on imports from such nations as Nigeria, Iran and others — countries, he said, which are "openly antagonistic" toward the United States.

Many of us have been hearing and saying these very same things for a long time now, but Jim Nugent's forceful manner of delivery just might get through to someone who apparently haven't gotten the message.

Nugent went on to say that he believes "Americans are ready for some deprivation of energy if it means they can have the feeling of independence and their own self-direction."

He said that while the United States is involved in a struggle over imported oil, Texas is in a regional struggle for the available energy in this country.

The commissioner also urged increased drilling and production, pointing out that the U.S. "must find new fields the size of Alaska's North Slope every two years just to hold our production at the same level we have it today."

He then commented on the recent surge of drilling activity, stating that the American public generally speaking is unaware that "efforts to find and develop oil and gas fields have in effect doubled in the last five to eight years."

"There are twice as many rigs in the field today as in 1971," Nugent said. "In 1971, 27,000 wells were drilled nationwide; this year, the number will push 50,000; and spending for exploration and development will be more than four times as great."

He went on to say that fewer stripper wells were abandoned last year than in any year since 1947. He said these low producers brought in 391 million barrels of oil last year, "or enough to offset $8.6 billion worth of imports."

"We can put it into our economy, our jobs and our tax base, or we can send it to Algeria and Libya, add it to our trade deficit and let them use it for their purposes," Nugent concluded.

Howdy, George Bush

Former Midlander George Bush, a candidate for the Republican nomination for President of the United States, returns to his old stomping ground here this afternoon, and, as always, he will be greeted by a host of friends, supporters and admirers.

He is visiting in the Tall City on a fast-moving campaign swing across West Texas. He was scheduled to visit Wichita Falls and Lubbock earlier in the day.

A press conference was to be held at 3:45 p.m. at Midland Regional Airport. It will be followed by an evening fund-raising reception in the Robert Holt residence here.

The West Texas swing is Bush's first appearance in Texas since coming out victorious in straw balloting in Iowa, Maine and Rhode Island.

Bush has held a number of important posts in government, ranging from congressman to ambassador to the United Nations to special envoy to China, as well as having served as national chairman of the Republican party several years ago. His long-time friends here remember him also as a top civic, business and cultural leader and Sunday School teacher during his residence in Midland. Many feel that he yet is a Midlander at heart.

All Midlanders join in welcoming George Bush back home to Midland, Texas, on this particular occasion, and in making it clear that the welcome mat always is out to him and his family.

NICK THIMMESCH

Understanding the nature of Congress is all important

(Editor's Note: Nick Thimmesch is on a fact-finding tour to Israel. His guest columnist today is Republican presidential hopeful Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee.)

By SEN. HOWARD BAKER

It is news to no one that there is in America today a rising tide of dissatisfaction with the way the United States government operates, with the amount of money it taxes and spends, with the power it wields over the daily lives of the American people and with the meager results of its massive endeavors.

The public's dissatisfaction seems to transcend all partisan lines. It may, in fact, explain why partisan allegiance is declining in America and, more ominously, why so many Americans have abandoned the political process altogether.

As fewer and fewer Americans bother to cast their ballots on Election Day, more and more are casting a vote of "no confidence" in their own system of government.

The Congress is a prime target of public disaffection and often the object of the public's scorn.

Our procedures strike many people — many legislators included — as archaic, fractious and dilatory.

Each year seems to find the Congress at a farther remove from the deliberative, policy-making body which the framers of the Constitution envisioned, and nearer instead to an august assemblage of elected bureaucrats.

In recent years, there has been ample discussion — and tragic proof — of the ill effects of an Imperial Presidency. But scarce attention has been paid to the evolution of a Mandarin Congress, a self-perpetuating ruling class with no interest but government and no real home but Washington, D.C.

We have made ourselves full-time employees of the federal government, leaving scarcely any time to go home at all.

We have made ourselves wards of the state, completely beholden to the public treasury for our livelihood, with salaries most people consider too high.

Every year, legislation is introduced to increase the size of our staffs, to mandate federal financing of our election campaigns or protect our incumbency by some other means.

My colleagues in the Senate have heard me speak more than once about the need for a Congress of "citizen legislators." But I become more certain every year that a thorough restructuring of our work in Congress and a drastic reduction in the time we spend in Washington are the only sure defenses we have against the day when we cut ourselves off completely from the very people we are elected to represent.

I propose that the Senate redefine its role, get back to legislating rather than regulating, concentrate on making federal policy, on the design of government programs and on the strict oversight of the executive branch through our standing committees.

I propose that annual salaries of members of Congress be abolished, that they be paid on a per diem basis, that other sources of income not be limited but be fully disclosed and reported.

I propose that the States, according to their own means and desires, assume at least a portion of the housing, staff and other necessary expenses of congressional service, as they do for governors.

I propose that senators and representatives come to Washington in January and stay until May to work on authorizing legislation, go home for three or four months, sample constituent opinions and suggestions on the work done, come back for a short time in the fall to make minor adjustments and then appropriate at least two years' funding for these programs.

I then propose that members of Congress go back home, to their families, their professions, to engage themselves fully in the economic and social and religious and political life of their communities and their states, so that when they return — if they return — it can truly be said they are representative of their several states.

As for the executive branch, serious consideration should be given to the re-establishment of an Office of the President in the Capitol building itself.

At the least, the Vice President's principal office should be in the Capitol — not the White House — and the Vice President should be the President's chief "congressional relations" adviser.

It is a fact often overlooked, and a duty mostly ignored in the history of the Vice Presidency, that the Constitution makes the Vice President the only officer in the federal government with one foot in the executive branch and one in the legislative. That could be — and should be — much more than a symbolic position.

Productive relations between the Congress and the White House need not be as elusive as they have been in the recent past.

The Congress will respond favorably to strong presidential leadership if the President will avoid usurping legislative prerogatives and if the Congress is consulted — rather than informed — on major policy decisions.

Understanding the nature of Congress — its immense value as well as its obvious shortcomings — is the first step toward good presidential relations with the national legislature.

Bipartisan consultation, for example, on a regular and personal basis can easily lead to bipartisan cooperation. That is a simple lesson, but one that too many Presidents never learn.

American people pay for Jimmy Carter's mistakes

By CHARLEY REESE
Sun Belt Syndicate

ORLANDO, Fla. — Jimmy Carter may be remembered as the architect of the destruction of the United States. Two years ago, I called him, the worst president in American history. It's one of those cases when you wish you weren't right.

But look at his record: Despite an overwhelming rejection by the American people in 1972 of the policies of Sen. George McGovern, Carter riddled his administration with McGovern supporters including radicals like Sam Brown who supported the Hanoi regime.

He pardoned the draft dodgers, thus simultaneously insulting the memory of some 57,000 Americans who died in the war, demoralizing the Armed Forces, and guaranteeing that in a future conflict, draft dodging and deserting will probably assume epidemic proportions.

He betrayed the families of Americans missing in action. He had promised to keep Vietnam out of the United Nations until there was a full accounting. He broke that promise. He is now having them declared dead by administrative action despite numerous accounts by Vietnamese refugees of Americans still alive in Vietnam.

He adopted a phony and hypocritical human rights program which his leftist State Department appointees have used to undermine anti-communist governments while embracing governments totally hostile to the United States.

He has destroyed American credibility among the world's nations with his cowardly failure to support American allies and to respond to Soviet aggression. It's no wonder the Iranian rabble felt safe in seizing the American embassy for the second time. Carter's response was to send Ramsey Clark, one of the most pitifully weak public figures in recent history. Clark also parroted communist propaganda during the Vietnam War.

He has delivered the Panama Canal to a leftist dictator, setting the stage for a strategic disaster.

He has gutted American military power, cancelling the B-1 bomber, refusing to produce and deploy the neutron warhead, cut the Navy to pre-Pearl Harbor size, delayed development of new weapons, underfunded conventional forces, and then capped it all by negotiating an arms treaty which will freeze American inferiority.

He has totally failed to develop a Latin American policy with the result that not only Cuba, but also Jamaica, Guyana, Grenada, Panama and Nicaragua all have anti-American leftist regimes. Those governments which are not leftist and anti-American are rightist and anti-American thanks to Carter's policy of kicking friends and kissing enemies.

Carter has undercut his own Middle East peace efforts by pressuring Israel, flirting with the PLO, arming the rejectionist states, and, most of all, by allowing the shah to be toppled. For better or worse, the shah was perceived as our chief ally.

He has betrayed the Chinese of Taiwan in a needless surrender to Red Chinese demands. Published statements of Red Chinese leaders clearly show they view the United States as an enemy to be dealt with after being used.

How one immorality leads to another is illustrated by the sad spectacle of the United States defending in the United Nations the regime of that maniac Pol Pot, who committed genocide against his own people.

Domestically, Carter has surrounded himself with second-raters who don't even have decent manners much less any competency. He has filled his administration with environmental extremists, he has consistently attacked the principles of free enterprise, and he has enlarged the bureaucracy.

American prestige is zero. The consequences are visible. Iranian mobs run wild in our embassy, ambassadors are murdered, OPEC rapes our economy, the Russians go where they please, and what few remaining allies we have edge nervously away from us.

The American people pay for Carter's mistakes. They pay in higher taxes. They pay in cruel inflation. They pay in fear, well-founded for the first time, of foreign attack. They pay in lost liberty, and one day, if Carter is not turned out, and the country turned around, will pay in defeat and loss of independence.

Age seems to be Ronald Reagan's Chappaguddick, so we'll soon see Roger Mudd posing the following questions: "Governor, on that fateful night eight years ago when you turned 60, exactly how many Geritols did you have?"

"Mr. Reagan, you say you are 68, but frankly you appear to be somewhat younger. Are you too going to say you never lied to us?"

"President Carter says he never panicked in a crisis. How do we know you'll never age in one?"

"Mr. Reagan, this is prime time television and I want to be discreet. You played many romantic roles in the movies opposite a number of desirable women. Tell me, do you ever think about that stuff any more?"

Seniors find classes chase off boredom

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — A 67-year-old student says going to college has swept away boredom and inspired him.

"It's a difference between having a life of life and a life of death," Eli A. Elson told a reporter. "I have something to look forward to — being in class Monday morning."

"What's the biggest problem seniors face? Boredom," he said. "You get to the point you've lost all activities. You lose interest in living."

Elson is among 40 senior citizens auditing or taking classes at the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga as part of the continuing education program. Among other things, he takes American philosophy, primitive religion, classics of Christian tradition and psychology of religion.

The balding, animated Elson operated a fish market for years until he suffered a heart attack at 62, which he said ended his working days and incapacitated him for six months.

Elson said he heard about the university program and joined five years ago. He has audited courses year-round since.

Kitty Kirby, the university's director of adult education services, said the program allowed persons 60 and older to audit courses for free. They must pay the going $26 per credit hour if they take the courses for credit. But those over 65 are charged $7.50 per credit hour, just enough to cover bookkeeping costs.

She said the legislature had paved the way by passing legislation that, beginning in 1974, permitted state colleges and universities to allow senior citizens to attend classes as space permitted.

Elson said he had been apprehensive about how professors and younger students would receive him, but said he had been well treated.

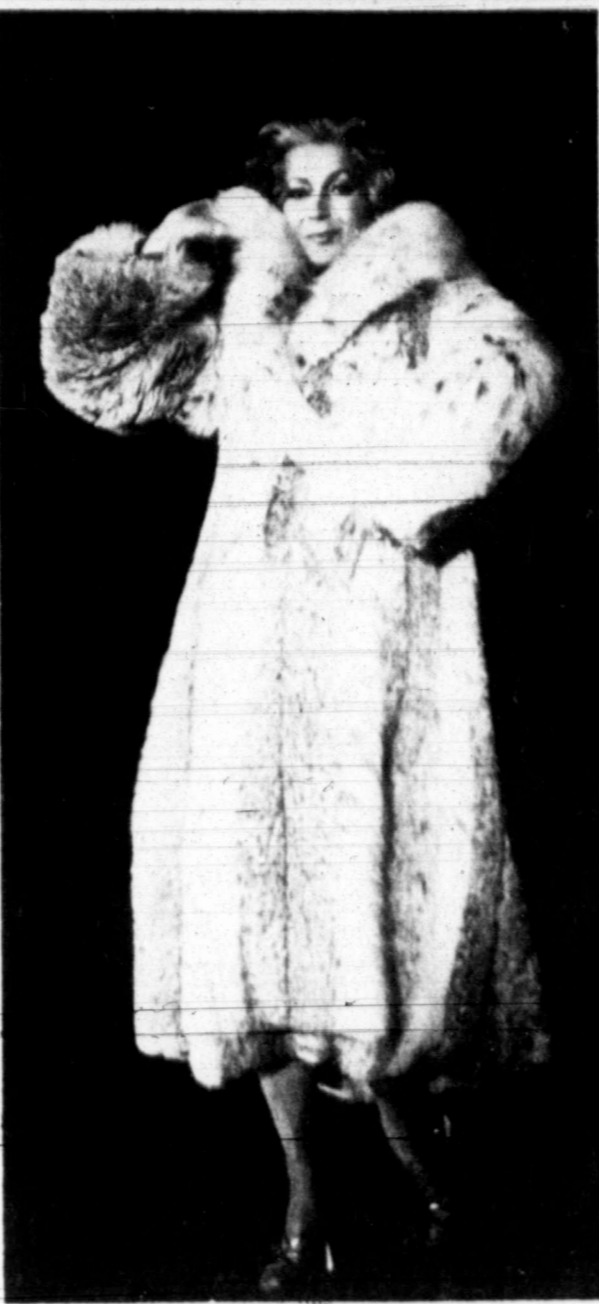

Mary K. Whelchel, 64, said she had also been well received. She moved to Chattanooga from New York in 1978 and was looking for something to fill her spare hours. She started this fall, auditing advanced dramatics, creative writing and oral interpretation.

"I guess I'm just like a first-grader at school. I'm really excited about it," she said. "I just can't believe older people can go for free. I intend to keep on until I'm 90."

Miss Whelchel said she had taken some night courses in New York. Elson said the Depression had cost him his chance at college — he put two sons through instead and both are now doctors.

They said they were auditing courses just for interest, although some others are pursuing degrees.

Elson said his sons urged him to earn a degree, but he said, "I have fun. And that's what, at this stage of life, I want to have, the pleasure of learning."

DEAR ABBY

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a successful, prominent professional man who frequently works under severe pressure. Once or twice a year he would erupt into a violent rage, and it seemed therapeutic (for him) to "punch me out."

For years I suffered in silence, hiding and making up excuses for not appearing in public until my cuts and bruises healed. I was too ashamed to let anyone know the truth, so I kept quiet.

I felt that I must have done something terribly wrong to deserve this kind of treatment. Meanwhile, by my silence I was protecting my husband, whom I continued to love in spite of his occasional animal behavior.

I began to ask myself why I took so much abuse and let him get away with it. Then, suddenly, a solution came to mind!

That evening I calmly told my husband that if he ever beat me again, I would hire a professional photographer to photograph me after the battle. Then I would place these 8-by-10 photos in strategic places all over town — identifying myself in living color as his beloved battered wife!

My husband was shocked at this idea; he knew I really meant it.

Needless to say, it worked. It's been four years since he has laid less than a loving hand on me, and our marriage is more solid than ever.

Share this with your readers, Abby. — PEARL THE PINUP

DEAR PEARL: Thanks for a helpful letter. It's been said, "One picture is worth 10,000 words." A picture of this kind should be worth at least $10,000.

DEAR ABBY: I've read your column for years, and was very disappointed to learn that you are so closed-minded about snakes.

Obviously, your fear stems from prejudice and ignorance. If you ever got to know snakes, you would learn to love them. Most people would kill a snake on sight just because it is a snake! How cruel. Snakes are gentle and harmless by nature, and avoid confrontation. They strike only when threatened, and don't deserve to be run over by cars, or decapitated and hacked to pieces by garden tools.

Snakes perform a valuable service by eating rodents and pests that threaten crops and the ecology. Snakes make wonderful pets for retired people and apartment dwellers. They're odorless, clean and quiet, and don't need to be groomed or walked. — C. J.

DEAR C. J.: Another plus: You won't have to worry about anybody stealing them.

THE CONTINENTAL SHORTCUT.

FOUR WAYS CONTINENTAL CUTS THE TIME TO NEW YORK.

- Continental has found the fastest way into New York. With service to Newark Airport, Newark's fifteen minutes less flying time than if you head into JFK. It's also in a different traffic pattern. You'll avoid those stackups that happen so often over JFK.
- You save time on the ground, too. Newark serves about 15,000,000 fewer passengers a year than JFK. So you still have a good chance of getting your baggage in a reasonable amount of time, without the frustrating delays.
- Because Newark is modern and well laid out, people are able to come and go without the huge jams you get at most international airports. You can get through the terminal without the shoving, crowding and delays that cut into your time.
- You can get into Manhattan about 45 minutes faster from Newark than from JFK. That's according to the Official Airline Guide.

not us. So you spend far less time caught in time-consuming traffic.

Finally, Continental saves wear and tear on your soul. We've grown up giving warm, friendly service. We take the extra steps that make flying something more than an airborne bus ride. Call your travel agent, company travel department, or Continental at 563-2100.

Senate asked to substitute tax bill backed by President

WASHINGTON (AP) — After rejecting two attempts to further weaken the "windfall-profits" tax, the Senate is being urged to substitute a version, favored by President Carter, that would double the cost to the oil industry.

Sen. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., is sponsoring an amendment to junk the Senate Finance Committee's $138 billion tax bill, impose the $277 billion levy passed by the House and earmark half the money for Social Security tax cuts and to help Americans offset higher energy costs.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said Bumpers' amendment is needed to overcome "a dramatic shift in (Carter's) priorities" that would have left lower-income Americans to bear the brunt of the president's energy policies.

A vote on the Bumpers proposal may be delayed until next week when the Senate returns from a Thanksgiving holiday recess.

For the second time in as many tries, the Senate defeated an attempt Monday to cut the Finance Committee tax. The 58-32 vote rejected an amendment by Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., to cut the tax rate on "old" oil — basically oil from fields discovered before 1973 — from 75 percent to 60 percent and reduce the total estimated revenue from the tax by $1.6 billion. An amendment for a larger reduction was defeated Friday.

Meanwhile, the Senate voted 81-4 Monday to repeal a major change in the inheritance tax. The repeal language, which Carter opposes, was attached to the oil tax bill, which he supports, in an attempt to avoid a veto.

More than half the members of the House have endorsed repeal of a provision passed in 1976 known as "carryover basis." Repeal would save some $4.3 billion from 1980 through 1990, mainly for heirs of the wealthiest 6 percent or 7 percent of the 2 million Americans who die each year.

Under the old law, a person who sells inherited property pays income taxes on the increase in value from the time the property was inherited until it is sold. Under the 1976 provision, after a $60,000 exemption, taxes would have been paid on the increase in value from the time the original owner acquired it until it was sold by the heir.

Bumpers, arguing for a tougher tax on the oil industry, said he supports more incentives for greater oil production.

But he contended that removing price controls from U.S. crude oil, as Carter is doing, without imposing a stiff tax will take hundreds of billions of dollars out of consumers' pockets and turn it over to the oil industry.

But Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, said the "windfall" tax will "substitute the U.S. government for the OPEC (Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries) cartel in ripping off the American consumer."

The tax is just another government scheme to get money, he said.

The "windfall-profits" tax is part of Carter's plan to increase domestic oil production and reduce reliance on foreign oil. He has begun phasing out federal price controls on U.S. crude oil. That means the price of crude oil — and of virtually anything made from oil — will go up, increasing oil industry pre-tax revenues from 1980 through 1990 by about $1 trillion.

The tax, which has no direct relation to profits, would take a portion of that money to help the poor pay soaring energy costs, improve the nation's transportation system and spur development of non-oil fuels.

The House passed a tax, similar to what Carter proposed, that would cost the oil industry $277 billion from 1980 through 1990.

MGF reports note closing

MGF Oil Corp. today announced the closing Nov. 13 of $15 million of convertible subordinated notes which have been privately placed with three financial institutions.

R. O. "Jack" Major, president of the company, said the notes bear interest at 10 1/2 percent per year, are convertible into MGF Oil Corp. common stock at $19.25 per share, are due Dec. 1, 1991, and provide for interest only for seven years with the principal to be retired in five equal annual installments commencing Dec. 1, 1987.

The conversion price of $19.25 per share was set in September and represented a conversion premium of approximately 35 percent.

The proceeds from the issue were used to reduce bank debt. Major said the interest savings to MGF, based on current prime interest rate levels, will be approximately $950,000 per year.

Texas joins in action against state of Montana

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — Texas, which claims to have led the nation in energy production for 50 years, has suggested that a new roustabout in the field, energy-rich Montana, is not being a good neighbor in an energy-hungry nation.

The allegation underlies written "friend of the court" arguments submitted by Texas with the Montana Supreme Court. Texas has joined a lawsuit against Montana by several midwestern and southern coal-using electric utilities who claim Montana's tax on coal production is unconstitutional.

A state district court in Helena ruled against the utilities earlier this year, and they have appealed to the Montana Supreme Court.

Stuart Fryer, assistant attorney general for Texas, argues that Montana's tax violates the "supremacy clause" of the U.S. Constitution because, he claims, it frustrates national energy policy to increase the use of coal.

The supremacy clause states that federal laws take precedence over state laws when the two are in conflict.

To say that this switch in energy sources has affected Texas is "a gross understatement," Fryer said, citing a federal study showing Texas will bear half of the total national cost of oil-to-coal conversions.

He said Texas is now in an "ironic, but difficult position" of selling less oil and gas to places outside its own borders because of federal allocation demands, while at the same time it is forced, by federal demand, to buy more coal from the outside.

"Texas' position in the federal scheme as well as the enormous impact made upon Texas by the federal decision to move coal to the forefront of energy policy compel the state of Texas ... to submit its views on the Montana coal severance tax," Fryer said.

He argues that the district court in Helena, in dismissing the utilities' complaint, erroneously looked for some expression of congressional intent to prohibit coal severance taxes.

Fryer said such a "head-on conflict" is not required.

"Pre-emption will occur where the state enactment impairs or frustrates the purpose of Congress," he said.

Texas oil yield to drop below billion plateau

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Chairman John Poerner of the Texas Railroad Commission said today his fears have come true in that Texas will produce less than one billion barrels of crude oil this year for the first time in 15 years.

The commission routinely set the statewide oil allowable for December at 100 percent.

The allowable, or production factor, is geared to market demand.

The commission, Texas' oil and gas regulatory agency, has maintained a 100 percent allowable each month except three since April 1972.

Major buyers of Texas crude oil told the commission they wanted to obtain 2,672,973 barrels a day in December, a decrease of 11,967 barrels a day from November.

Poerner also noted crude and petroleum products imports into the United States totaled 7,972,000 barrels per day for the four-week average ending Nov. 2.

In setting the statewide allowable, the commission made certain exceptions such as limiting production in the East Texas Field once again to 86 percent.

Here are the December nominations by major purchasers of Texas crude oil, in barrels per day, with any changes from November in parentheses:

- Amoco 267,500 (down 5,000)

Blunt gives his version of spying for Soviet Union

LONDON (AP) — Anthony Blunt said today he became a spy for the Soviet Union in the 1930s because of the West's uncertain attitude toward Nazi Germany and he wanted to fight fascism. He said when his politics changed, he kept quiet to protect his friends.

In a statement released by his attorney, Blunt, who has been in hiding five days, also said British diplomat Guy Burgess, also a spy, recruited him to help the Soviet Union, not vice versa, as has been reported. Blunt planned a news conference later.

The public unmasking of Blunt, who confessed to British security services in 1964 in return for immunity from prosecution, touched off the worst scandal in Britain since diplomats Burgess and Donald Maclean fled to the Soviet Union in 1951. Kim Philby, the leader of the group, followed them in 1963.

Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher told Parliament last week Blunt was the fourth man in the spy ring, touching off a flap among former government leaders asking to know why they were never informed. The government called a special hearing on the matter in Parliament Wednesday.

In his statement, which was cleared with the government, the former art adviser to Queen Elizabeth II claimed he acted out of "political conscience." But later, after becoming disillusioned with the Soviet government, he kept silent out of loyalty to friends, he said.

Mrs. Thatcher's told Parliament last Thursday that Blunt, in 1951, "used his old contact with the Russian intelligence service to assist in the arrangements for the defection" of Burgess and Maclean. But Blunt said he had been "in contact" with the Soviets on Burgess' behalf.

"In the mid-1930s," said the statement, "it seemed to me and to many of my contemporaries that the Communist Party and Russia constituted the only firm bulwark against fascism, since the Western democracies were taking an uncertain and compromising attitude towards Germany."

"I was persuaded by Guy Burgess that I could best serve the cause of anti-fascism by joining him in his work for the Russians," the statement continued. "This was a case of political conscience against loyalty to country: I chose conscience."

"When later I realized the true facts about Russia, I was prevented from taking any action by personal loyalty: I could not denounce my friends," the statement went on.

Blunt said after 1945, when he left his job with wartime counter-intelligence and resumed work as an art historian, "I ceased to pass information to the Russians, but in 1951 I was in contact with them on behalf of Burgess. I was myself pressed to go to Russia. I refused," the statement said.

On the controversy over his knighthood and royal art advisory post, which he was allowed to keep even after his confession, Blunt stated he never sought either honor, was pressed to take the art position and first learned of his knighthood in the newspaper.

Jet crash kills two in Colorado

CASTLE ROCK, Colo. (AP) — A small cargo jet plane crashed and burned on Colorado's eastern plains during a snowstorm, killing the pilot and a passenger but the co-pilot survived, authorities said.

Identities of the victims, a man and a woman, and the survivor were withheld until relatives were notified. The co-pilot was reported in critical condition early today at Swedish Hospital's clinic here, authorities said.

The Federal Aviation Administration said the plane was a twin-jet Cessna 500 Citation and was believed owned by International Air Service at Arapahoe County Airport.

Gary Mucho, investigator for the National Transportation Safety Board, said the plane's last stop was Albuquerque, N.M., and that it was on a landing approach to Arapahoe Airport when it crashed Monday night.

Witnesses said it was snowing hard when the plane crashed in a field about 2.5 miles east of Castle Rock. He said the bodies and the survivor were found outside the burning wreckage.

CARUTHERSVILLE, Mo. (AP) — Two bodies were found Monday by crews searching the rubble of the Chaffin Motor Hotel for two women and a girl believed killed by the fire which destroyed the hotel.

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Ohio State, which completed a perfect regular season by defeating Michigan 18-15 on Saturday, continued to chip away at No. 1-ranked Alabama's lead today in The Associated Press college football poll.

The Crimson Tide, 30-0 winners over Miami, Fla., received 32 first-place votes and 1,238 points. Last week, Alabama led Ohio State 34-14 in first-place votes and 1,262-1,218 in points.

The top six teams — Alabama, Ohio State, Nebraska, Southern California, Florida State and Texas — held onto their positions but Arkansas slipped past Oklahoma into the seventh spot while the Sooners dropped to eighth, a reversal of last week's ratings.

LA Rams stay tied for 1st place

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The six-time division champion Los Angeles Rams are 6-6 and tied for the National Football Conference West lead with New Orleans, but Rams' Coach Ray Malavasi is still counting his blessings.

"With all the injuries we've had, I just feel fortunate to be in the position we are in right now," Malavasi said after Monday night's 20-14 Ram victory over NFC West foe Atlanta. "I feel we can win the division, just like I felt at the beginning of the season."

The loss dropped the Falcons to 4-8, putting them two games off the lead with just four contests remaining. However, in what is the NFL's weakest division this season, there are no foregone conclusions.

Atlanta Coach Leeman Bennett refused to concede anything, saying, "As far as the race is concerned, we're still out of it."

ONE OF many Los Angeles' reserves pressed into a starting role, quarterback Vince Ferragamo, guided the Rams to the important victory over the Falcons. Making his first NFL start, the third-year pro out of Nebraska passed for two first-half touchdowns and set up the clinching score — an 11-yard run by Cullen Bryant — in the final quarter.

"I hope to do better next week," said Ferragamo, the apparent Rams' starter the rest of the season since Pat Haden is out with a broken finger. "I wasn't as worried about my first start as I was about coming off an injury."

Ferragamo himself had been sidelined for the past month, recuperating from a broken hand suffered in a game against Dallas.

"I thought I played well at times," he said after completing nine of 22 passes for 171 yards against the Falcons. "I knew that having been out four weeks, I was going to be a little rusty ... and I was."

Ferragamo hit Preston Dennard with a 29-yard touchdown pass early in the first quarter, connected with Billy Waddy on a 40-yard scoring play in the waning moments of the first half, then set up Bryant's tally with a 18-yard toss to tight end Terry Nelson midway through the final period.

AS IT turned out, the Rams needed all three scores. Atlanta quarterback June Jones III, starting in place of the injured Steve Bartkowski, put the Falcons back in the game with two second-half touchdowns passes.

Bulldogs are more than 6-9 Johnson

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Sports Writer

If anyone was wondering if the Midland High cagers were going to have anyone to go with 6-foot-9 junior Herbert Johnson, they found out at the Chaparral Center Monday night as the Bulldogs coasted to a 95-72 marathon victory over the AAA Fort Stockton Panthers.

Johnson, the only returning starter back from the defending District 5-4A champions, pumped in 14 first quarter points before being saddled with three fouls. In the third period, he was called for a technical foul and first year head coach Jack Stephenson put him on the shelf for a while. It served one good purpose in that six Bulldogs ended up in double figures to show that this year's edition of the Purple Pack will be much more than a one-man crew.

Horace Brown, a 6-5 post up from the JV, ripped the nets for 20 points while guard Perry Bolger, the leading scorer on last year's 26-4 JV unit, hit for 17 more and made enough steals, blocked passes and assists to stamp this youngster as a Pete Rose type of hustler.

In addition to those two, Darrin Matlock sunk 12 points while Justin Morett and Steve Henry each hit 10 markers.

In short there was enough to go around for just about everyone with the 95-point explosion as 10 Bulldogs got in on the scoring act.

"I didn't notice that we had six kids in double figures, but that is very good," Stephenson stated after the game. "I thought the kids played well against a pretty good team. We saw a lot of people and some of these kids are going to be good basketball players when they get a little more experience. This team is going to get a good test when we play Amarillo High Friday in the first round of the Tall City tournament. They are picked to win their district up there."

Pokes in trouble but...

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

To most people, the Dallas Cowboys conjure up visions of a whirring machine — cold steel, nuts and bolts, flashing lights, operating with the unerring precision of a computer.

"Don't believe it," said the Cowboys' star quarterback Roger Staubach. "We're flesh and bones like everybody else. We make mistakes. We pay for it every week and hurt."

"Right now, we're in trouble. We can't look back on what we've done in the past. We've got to get it together. No computer is going to save us. We have to do it physically."

After a 7-1 start in the National Football League, the Cowboys have fallen into a late season slump. They have lost three of their last four games — and thwarted a fourth by a last gasp miracle finish against the New York Giants. Now they face the disquieting specter of possibly failing to make the playoffs for the first time in 13 years.

Five times they have made it to the Super Bowl, winning twice. The Pittsburgh Steelers beat them in Super Bowl XIII.

ONCE BELIEVED headed for a runaway victory in the NFC Eastern Division, the Cowboys now find themselves tied with Philadelphia and Washington at 8-4, their confidence shaken and a rocky road ahead.

"We have come to realize that success most times is based on the final moments of the season," Staubach said, prior to starting workouts for Thursday's game against Houston. "We are not satisfied. Our fans are not satisfied. They expect us to go to the Super Bowl and win it."

"Maybe we still can." The Cowboys are a team renowned for their superb organization — from President Tex Schramm and the chief of player development, Gil Brandt, down to the only coach the team has ever had, the impeccable and professorial Tom Landry.

"TOM DOESN'T feed us a lot of fire and brimstone, I know most people think of him as a cold, methodical disciplinarian," the veteran quarterback said. "He is one of the fiercest competitors I have ever known. It just doesn't show."

Normally the Cowboys are not an emotional, demonstrative team, Staubach said, but it would be folly to interpret that as lack of fire and spirit.

Statistics show the Cowboys have lost 17 fumbles while recovering only seven from the opposition, thrown 10 interceptions while picking off 11. It's untypical of the two-time Super Bowl champs. This is Staubach's 11th year in the NFL after a brilliant college career at Navy and five years in the service. At 37, he is not even flirting with retirement.

"I don't feel old," he said. "I plan to play as long as my arm and legs hold out. I have a thigh bruise now — not serious. Sometimes after I've been bumped and banged around a lot, I wake up and start questioning myself. By Tuesday, I'm raring to go again."

not like Hollywood's

DALLAS (AP) — Thomas Henderson finally got too "Hollywood" for his own good. He mugged for the national television cameras once too often — on a day the Dallas Cowboys were fighting for their lives.

His sideline antics coupled with a lack of enthusiasm on the field during Washington's 34-20 rout of the Cowboys Sunday was too much for some teammates, and definitely irked the Dallas coaching staff.

Dallas Coach Tom Landry called strongside linebacker Henderson into his office Monday and told him he was being placed on waivers. Henderson said he would just retire from professional football. Landry said clean out your locker.

"Thomas had no intensity...and his sideline escapades didn't help," said mild-mannered line-backer coach Jerry Tubbs, who was watching when Henderson held up a forefinger to say the Cowboys were No. 1, then pointed to a bandana tucked in his belt.

"I saw it on the television monitor and I mentioned it to him," said Tubbs. "He (Henderson) wasn't too happy about it."

Safety Cliff Harris was asked if Henderson's lack of concern bothered him: "Yeah, it made me mad."

On the field, Henderson made one tackle. "He didn't hustle," said Tubbs. "I think it was the way he played that was the straw that broke his back as far as Coach Landry was concerned. He wasn't performing...then he went on TV."

HENDERSON said he was ill with the flu and had a pulled hamstring. Landry refused to give the details of what amounted to Henderson's firing.

However, Landry said he was aware of Henderson's mugging the camera. He also said Henderson had a bad game. "This is just an accumulation of things...he would try hard...then he would slip back...then he would start again," said Landry. "Maybe Sunday was the last straw. It was not a good performing day for him."

Henderson has three years left on a contract with Dallas but could play for another team tomorrow if he wants. Landry said he would help Henderson go anywhere he wanted to go.

Henderson said, "I love the Dallas fans and I love the Cowboys. I don't want to play for a lower echelon team."

Asked if the retirement was irrevocable, Henderson said, "No, but I don't want to be passed around the leagues."

LANDRY SAID Henderson would never be invited back to the Cowboys. "This is it," he said.

Henderson said he was put under a number of restrictions by Landry this year after his spectacular outbursts during the 1978 season, climaxed by the Super Bowl in which he held the center stage for the press.

So, the player who once called the Los Angeles Rams "chokers" and backed it up, is out of football.

But most of the Cowboys will tell you they saw the storm coming.

American aid totals more than $3 million

By MALCOLM N. CARTER

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans have sent more than $3 million overseas in cash, food, medical supplies and other goods to aid starving Cambodians, an Associated Press survey of voluntary relief agencies shows.

This supplements the mostly volunteer services of scores of medical personnel, and public and private contributions from the rest of the world, including the U.S. government.

Carter administration officials say that about $27 million of the $69 million pledged by the United States already has been spent for famine relief in Cambodia and Thailand.

Matthew Nimetz, acting U.S. coordinator for refugees, has said that "two and a half million people face starvation in the next few months unless food reaches them."

The biggest problem for all the relief efforts has been getting material from this country to the refugee camps in Thailand and Cambodia. The Cambodian government has rejected appeals for a truck route from Thailand through its country.

But the head of the State Department's refugee program told Congress on Monday that the Cambodian government has "shown some new signs of willingness to cooperate" in easing the famine.

Although there was no indication a truck route would be opened, John A. Baker, director of the Office of Refugee Programs, told a Senate subcommittee he is encouraged by the Phnom Penh government's recent decisions to permit more flights of food to land and to permit food and medical supplies to be transported up the Mekong River into the interior of the country.

Most private donations have been in the form of money given to international groups that arranged abroad the purchase and delivery of supplies.

So far Cambodia, sent the first privately sponsored plane load of supplies directly from this country to Thailand on Saturday.

It consisted of more than 7,000 cartons of baby food donated by the Gerber food company and shipped from New York free by Pan American World Airways.

The Rev. Theodore Hesburgh, chairman of the Overseas Development Council and president of Notre Dame University, said in a telephone interview from his office in South Bend, Ind., that he was pleased by progress being made by the relief agencies.

"The good will is there," he said. "The problem is mobilizing it."

Hesburgh, who originally coordinated the private relief efforts, added, "I never saw so much get accomplished in so short a time.... I think hanging over it all is that spectre of the holocaust."

"At this point in history, the voluntary agencies are at a high point that they probably have not experienced before in terms of working together and making an effective response due to the magnitude of the need," said the Rev. Paul McCleary, president of the board of the American Council on Voluntary Agencies and director of Church World Services.

Despite CARE's success Saturday, the American Friends Service Committee says it has 200,000 pounds of vitamins, medicines and medical supplies stockpiled in a Los Angeles warehouse awaiting clearance for a direct flight.

The organization, which has raised $350,000 in little more than a month, had $100,000 worth of rice on a barge that was chartered by Oxfam of the United Kingdom and was received in Cambodia a week ago.

Oxfam-America says it has funneled roughly $750,000 from U.S. contributors to its sister organization in England.

Church World Service, a Protestant organization, says it has donated $200,000 from Americans to the World Council of Churches for Cambodians, given $25,000 worth of mosquito netting shipped through UNICEF from Europe and chartered a barge to carry $500,000 worth of rice, cornmeal, sugar and dried fish into Cambodia in a week or two.

World Vision, a non-denominational Christian organization, expects to have spent $505,000 on its relief program by the end of the week. It has distributed 30 tons of rice, other food, fish and mosquito nets, fishing equipment, pots, kerosene lanterns and stoves and medicine.

Catholic Relief Services, which began its refugee operation in the area in June, has already used $250,000 raised from the U.S. public. It also has donated $25,000 toward a boatload of trucks, agricultural tools, school materials and rice due in Cambodia soon. In addition, the agency has pledged at least $50,000 to help supply a second shipment.

Other agencies that have been especially active include the Red Cross, the International Rescue Committee, Lutheran World Relief, Save the Children, UNICEF, World Relief Corp., Baptist World Alliance and the American Refugee Committee.

Besides supplies, many of the agencies sponsor medical personnel. The American Refugee Committee has 20 doctors and nurses in Thailand with applications from another 800 medical volunteers.

Californians resume gasoline rationing plan

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Californians greeted the resumption of odd-even gasoline distribution with relative indifference — there were no long lines at gas pumps and many motorists and station owners ignored the plan.

The mandatory odd-even system took effect Monday in 14 California counties and the city of San Francisco, areas which had voluntarily implemented the system earlier this year.

The plan limits motorists with odd-numbered plates to getting gasoline on odd days of the month and those with even-numbered plates to filling up on even-numbered days. On the 31st, everyone can buy gasoline.

The system will go into effect throughout the rest of the state, except for some remote areas, on Dec. 3.

On the first day of the born-again plan, business at gas stations in Los Angeles and San Francisco was reported normal, and in the San Diego area it was even slower than usual.

At Shaw Shell, owner Oscar Shaw said there had been about as many cars with even-numbered plates as with the proper, odd-numbered plates. Monday was Nov. 19.

"I just ask them to leave. They're pleading ignorance, but the fact is they just don't want to believe it's back," Shaw said.

But Neil Rosenblatt, manager of an Arco self-service station in Granada Hills, said he would do nothing to enforce the regulations.

"I'll just let the general public do what they've been doing," he said. "I don't have the manpower to enforce the rule and I won't hire help to do so."

Many station owners shared Rosenblatt's opinion, saying it was the responsibility of the motorist to comply with the plan. And most agreed that law enforcement officials appear unlikely to crack down on those who violate it.

"If there are problems, we will go out and deal with them, but we are not going to seek them out," Los Angeles County Sheriff Peter Pitchess said. He added that his officers had more serious crimes to worry about.

The new mandatory system differs from the previous voluntary system in several ways. Most notably, if a driver can prove he lives more than 100 miles away, he can fill up anytime, regardless of the date.

Besides Los Angeles and San Diego, other counties back on the odd-even plan are Ventura, Riverside, San Bernardino, Santa Clara, Santa Cruz, Marin, Sonoma, Monterey, San Mateo, Contra Costa and Alameda.

77-year-old producer in satisfactory condition

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Darryl Zanuck, a major figure at 20th Century-Fox for almost 40 years and one of the last great movie moguls, is in satisfactory condition at a Palm Springs hospital after a bout with pneumonia, his doctors say.

The 77-year-old screenwriter, director, and producer is credited with launching the careers of such movie greats as Tyrone Powers, James Cagney and Edward G. Robinson.

Zanuck's doctor said he entered Desert Hospital in Palm Springs Oct. 28 with a case of pneumonia but is "showing signs of improvement."

Zanuck's wife, Virginia, said he had "suffered a slight heart problem" but was now "up and walking" and "doing fine."

Zanuck began his career in the 1920s writing scripts for the Rin Tin Tin series, and produced the first successful feature length "talking" picture in 1928.

Among his best-known productions are "Grapes of Wrath," "Gentlemen's Agreement," "How Green Was My Valley," "All About Eve" and "Viva Zapata."

In 1971, Zanuck was ousted as chairman of the board and chief executive officer of 20th Century-Fox Pictures, the studio he helped found in 1933.

He was forced to leave shortly after he fired his son, Richard Zanuck, as president of the studio.
