Firemen Ask Help In Pay Hike Fight

Lubbock firefighters will take their case for a 15 percent pay raise and collective bargaining rights to the people tonight with the start of a petition drive for an election on the two issues.

At a news conference this morning, firefighters association president Luther Dean said more than 200 firefighters, friends and relatives will begin circulating petitions in an attempt to gather about 5,000 signatures.

The two petitions ask that an ordinance be submitted to Lubbock voters of firefighters by 15 percent for the 1979 fiscal year and that voters be permitted to decide whether the state collective bargaining law should be adopted for Lubbock firefighters.

Dean said the City Council "has been granting only token raises to the fire employees" the past two years and the 7 percent raise approved for all city employees next year will cause firefighters to fall farther behind their colleagues in other Texas cities in salary.

Because the cost of training a new firefighter is about $10,000, Dean said the Lubbock Fire Department "must be able to retain as many career people as

However, to accomplish that the department "must offer an equitable salary so that we can compete with private industry for desirable new personnel,

Gold Soars In Europe

LONDON (AP) - Gold soared more than $11 to a record $341.50 an ounce in Zurich today amid signs of heavy Arab buying. The dollar dropped, depressed by gold's burgeoning value.

The massive overnight leap was one of the biggest single jumps in gold's year-old climb. The closing figure in Zurich Wednesday was $329.875 an ounce - the previous high. In London, gold opened at $337.625, up $9.75 from Wednesday's close, and then moved up to $340.85 in early trad-

The British pound strengthened and was pegged in morning trading at cation of the victims, it was reported.

The couple, Frank and Betty Mathers of Scottsbluff, Neb., died when their single-engine Cessna lost power and crashed on a country road east of Garden City, in the southwestern section of

A spokesman for the Federal Aviation Administration in Kansas City said the pilot reported smoke in the cabin shortly before the plane crashed into a building housing a natural gas meter and burst into flames.

A spokesman for the Garden City Flight Services said the pilot radioed that he was in trouble shortly before the crash and that "the engine had quit."

'He realized he wouldn't be able to glide this far (to the airport)," said Gene Anderson. "He was attempting to land on a road in the area.

Kay Komlofske was driving two miles down the road when the plane crashed.

"It must have just come down when I saw it," she said, "because the black smoke was just billowing.

Witnesses said the Cessna 210 struck the small structure, continued a short distance, caught fire and crashed. Both victims were burned beyound recogni-

Troopers said there was no danger of the natural gas pipelines exploding. Inspectors from the National Transportation Safety Board have been called in to aid in the investigation.

Acknowledging some will criticize the proposed 15 percent pay raise as 'excessive." Dean said "even this raise will not bring the firefighter even with inflation which has decimated his pay check in the past.

'Inadequate pay hikes in past years have made this 15 percent almost mandatory to combat inflation and maintain our standard of fire protection.

Figures compiled by the firefighters association indicate the 15 percent pay raise would cost the city a total of about

However, the city already has allocated funds for a 7 percent pay raise and the additional 8 percent would cost more than $332,000, the equivalent of 2.35 cents on the city tax rate.

On a $35,000 house, that would mean an annual tax increase of less than $5 a year, the firefighters said.

That tax increase would be much less, they say, if the council reallocated some $240,000 used to establish a capital improvements fund and to upgrade park maintenance in the coming year.

Dean said a great inequity exists in what firefighters are paid per hour and what police officers in Lubbock receive.

Although their base salaries are the same by rank, Dean said the firefighters' 56-hour work week puts his hourly wage at $4.94 compared to $6.94 for a police

Firefighters sought and received "equal pay" with police officers several years ago. Dean said, but the two groups really don't draw equal pay. The collective bargaining rights for firefighters could be approved with the adoption by voters of the Texas Fire and Police Employees Relation Act on a local option basis.

The act specifically prohibits strikes, See FIREMEN Page 14

Retired Officers Criticize SALT

WASHINGTON (AP) - More than 1,500 retired generals and admirals urged rejection of the SALT II treaty in a letter delivered today to the Senate by a former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of

Adm. Thomas H. Moorer told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that he sought the views of retired military officers because "active duty military leaders are not permitted to flatly oppose SALT II."

The letter charged that the strategic arms limitation treaty gives the Soviet Union a heavy advantage and that the United States would not be able to detect possible Soviet cheating.

'As military professionals, and with all due respect for our more circumscribed colleagues still bound by their active service, we strongly urge you to reject SALT II as injurious to the security interests of the United States and its allies." said the letter signed by 1,678 retired officers.

It was presented as the committee resumed its hearings on the pact after a day's delay for closed-door briefings on the presence of 2,000 to 3,000 Soviet troops in Cuba. Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, the committee's chairman, served notice Wednesday that "there is no likelihood whatever the Senate would ratify the SALT treaty as long as Russian combat troops remain stationed in Cuba. Sen. Jacob Javits of New York, ranking committee Republican, declined to join in Church's statement, saying, "At this particular moment, predictions would be very hazardous. Moorer's letter was signed by such well-known treaty foes as Adm. Elmo Zumwalt, who with Moorer was a member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff in the early 1970s; Maj. Gen. John Singlaub, who was relieved of his South Korean command after criticizing the administration's troop withdrawal policy; Lt. Gen. Daniel Graham, former head of the Defense Intelligence Agency: and Maj. Gen. George Keegan, former chief of Air Force intelligence. Moorer was testifying as a leader of the pro-defense Coalition for Peace through Strength. Active duty military officers are gen-erally expected to support administration policies, but are free to express their personal views when asked in congressional appearances.

The current members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff earlier this summer characterized the treaty as a "modest but useful step" in arms limitation, but said none of us is totally at ease with all the Eugene Rostow, of the Committee on the Present Danger and another SALT critic, testified that the treaty would hinder U.S. efforts to maintain military equality with the Soviet Union.

In announcing the resumption of hearings, Church left no doubt he would try to use the treaty as a lever to force removal of the Soviet troops in Cuba.

He said resumption of the hearings does not commit the committee to any given action on the treaty, nor does it commit the committee to any particular timetable.

Meanwhile in Havana, Cuba, the official government news agency said U.S. statements about the presence of Soviet combat troops there were a "maneuver" aimed at discrediting Cuba during the current meeting of non-aligned nations.

But Prensa Latina, in the first official reaction to the reports, stopped short of denying the troops' presence. The statement echoed an earlier unofficial comment by a government spokesman

Gale winds and driving rains from tenacious Tropical Storm David tore into the urban Northeast today, sending hundreds fleeing their homes, knocking out power and closing highways and Tornadoes spawned in David's sys-tem touched down in scattered areas from Virginia to New Jersey. Rivers were rising toward flood stage and "major flooding" was expected on the Monocacy River at Frederick, Md.

Heavy rain and winds gusting to 53 mph buffeted New York City, creating rush-hour traffic snarls.

Schools were closed throughout most of New Jersey, where about 100,000 homes and businesses were without power, and classes were also cancelled in much of New York and southeastern Connecticut.

Four more deaths were attributed to the storm, bringing the number of U.S. casulaties to 14. David, one of the worst Caribbean storms of the century, has caused more than 900 deaths since it was spawned in the Atlantic last week.

At mid-morning, David was centered at latitude 42.0 north and longitude 76.0 west, near Binghamton, N.Y., about 120 miles northwest of New York City, It was moving at a brisk 30 mph, with sustained winds of 45 mph along the coast and out over the Atlantic.

Mayor Gives Warning To Motorists

By NANCY ALLEN

Avalanche-Journal Staff Mayor Dirk West, crediting his Selective Traffic Enforcement Program with an August free of traffic fatalities, this morning warned Lubbock drivers that there will be no letup in the campaign.

The coming of autumn means what West says is "probably many thousands more cars on city streets," each of which spells danger in his book.

At a news conference this morning, he reiterated his often-repeated pledge to continue the crackdown on traffic law

"We will not tolerate the idiot who speeds, drives recklessly or drives and and STEP officers will ticket offenders and courts will impose "the maximun penalty allowed" for traffic violators.

"Our programs are working, they are saving lives," said West. Traffic fatalities for the first eight months of 1979 ran to 16, with no deaths recorded during August, he reported. Last year during the same period 28 traffic deaths occurred on Lubbock streets.

That's good," commented West, but there's no reason why it shouldn't be better.

The mayor added STEP officers will continue to patrol all the Lubbock nightclubs on a rotating basis, "so you never know where they'll turn up. They're looking for the driver who's stupid enough to drive after drinking," he said.

West concluded by saying people who have complaints regarding the strict enforcement of traffic laws in Lubbock can look elsewhere for a sympathetic ear If you have a complaint about radar or if you get a ticket, don't waste your time calling me. All you have to do is obey

Holly Tribute Set Friday

By WILLIAM D. KERNS A-J Entertainment Editor

Shortly after midnight on Feb. 3, 1959, a single-engine, four-seat charter plane left Mason City, Iowa, en route to Fargo, North Dakota. It never arrived.

About 15 minutes after takeoff, the light plane crashed in a snow-covered cornfield just north of Clear Lake, Iowa. All four men aboard - pilot Roger Peterson and rock stars Buddy Holly, Ritchie Valens and J.P. "Big Bopper" Richardson - were killed.

Now, over 20 years later, Buddy Holly's fans are still paying tribute. The Lubbock-born rock and roller will be ho-

Alaskan State Employees MayDropSocial Security

state employees - who have grumbled for years about Social Security's bite vs. its benefits in this high-cost state - will find out next week if they are getting out of the federal program.

If they do, they will be the first stateemployed workers in the 50 states to do so, although state and local governments have through the years threatened to withdraw - and more and more local governments appear to be doing so.

State workers had until last Tuesday to return mailed ballots on the issue. The ballots will be counted next Monday, and if a majority of those who returned them voted to opt out, the entire force of 14,451 state employees will be out of the program on Jan. 1.

This year, 98 government bodies of various types have told the federal government they intend to withdraw from the Social Security program, Social Security Administration officials say.

That means 43,400 government workers in 16 states will drop from the program unless they change their minds by

At least 147 governmental bodies around the country employing 63,035 workers have given notice they will withdraw in 1981. Since only 20,000 workers were removed from coverage in 1978, there seems to be a trend toward withdrawal, at least by small government employers.

In Alaska, the 20 city workers in Haines withdrew from the system in March. Under notice that they will withdraw unless they change their minds are 17,036 workers in eight Alaskan communities - including the workers of North Pole - Social Security officials

The Alaska Legislature earlier this year approved a measure calling the state employees' election. A state-run program would replace Social Security if the vote is to drop the federal program.

The election comes at a time when Congress is considering mandatory coverage for all public employees, including federal workers who rebelled against the

Congressional Budget Office warning that inflation and recession could seriously affect the soundness of the program, financed by contributions by employers and workers.

Alice M. Rivlin, director of the budget office, has suggested that part of Medicare, financed by Social Security, could be financed out of general tax revenues. And, Social Security Commissioner Stanford G. Ross has said "painful adjustments" are needed in how Social Security is supported and what it pays if it is to remain solvent.

Six states - Colorado, Louisiana, Maine, Massachusetts, Nevada and Ohio - are now without Social Security coverage for state workers. State workers had been precluded from coverage from 1939, when the program went into effect, until 1954, when voluntary coverage was extended to public workers.

The number of public employees choosing to get into the federal program grew rapidly; today about 70 percent of the country's 12 million state and local employees now are covered by Social Security, according to the Assembly of Governmental Employees

The decision facing Alaska's workers irreversible - once a government withdraws from Social Security coverage of its workers, it cannot rejoin. So the decision by the state employees who vote will bind their non-voting colleagues and future state employees.

On the other hand, if a study due to be completed soon recommends mandatory, universal coverage of public employees, and Congress acts on it, employees could find themselves forced back into the system that now pays monthly benefits to 35 million Ameri-

Alaska workers have complained for years about Social Security benefits and the higher cost of living here. The U.S. government recognizes the higher prices in its 25 percent cost of living differential to workers transfered to the state. Alaska pays its state workers more than other states, which means higher payroll deductions to support Social Security,

Yet, when they retire, they get the same benefits a worker in Mississippi gets - but with decreased purchasing

"You get 5 percent less and pay 25 percent more is what it amounts to," says Pat Murphy, executive director of the Alaska Public Employees Associa-

The workers' decision is not an easy one. Their union leadership has decided against making a recommendation, though it pushed for three years for the opt-out vote. And the state is being careful to remain neutral.

Also, while the state has outlined in concept a proposed program to replace some Social Security benefits, officials have said that "no specific terms and benefits can prudently be promised.

Paul Arnoldt, director of the State Division of Retirements and Benefits who would oversee the state program. has described it as a "cafeteria-style" plan allowing workers to choose from a five-course "menu" based on an individual's circumstances. But unlike Social Security, a worker's selection of one or two benefits, say retirement and disability could preclude other benefits such as survivors' and death benefits.

Some workers could get a break on federal income taxes with the state plan.

liamsport, Pa., and Cedar Rapids, Iowa? Charlie Chan Restaurants thinks it can, and the company based in Youngstown, Ohio, company is beginning to develop a track record to prove its point.

The three-year-old franchise chain has nine stores in operation, is about to open a tenth, and plans to have a total of 19 by early November and 45 by the end of next year. They'll all be situated in major shopping malls because, in the words of Richard D'Onofrio, the chain's 35year-old founder and president, "That's where the action is." D'Onofrio, who became familiar with the fast-food business while working for General Foods, got the idea for a chain of Chinese-food outlets from observing the thriving business - and disorganized operations - of a take-out Chinese restaurant in Chicago. Doing some research, he learned that sales of Chinese foods were booming in supermarkets across the country and that there was no fast-food chain specializing in such foods. He also was convinced that shop-

food outlet. But although it was a demonstrated fact that malls attract huge numbers of shoppers, there was no certainty that Chinese food would prove a hit with the palates of Middle America, which is where D'Onofrio aimed to develop his

However, after licensing the name Charlie Chan to give the restaurants a recognizable identity, he opened his first outlet in the Randall Park Mall on the outskirts of Cleveland, and it proved an immediate success. D'Onofrio says the store consistently ranks first, second or third among the two-dozen-or-so food outlets in the huge shopping center. That unit was followed by others in Dayton, Sandusky, Florence, Detroit and St. Clairesville, Ohio, near the West Virginia border. "You'd be surprised how popular Chinese food is with West Virginians," D'Onofrio told-us. The restaurants stress simplicity - in their menu, as well as in their decor and operations. Unlike the wide variety of dishes - and various columns - offered by the typical Chinese restaurant, the Charlie Chan outlets serve only egg rolls, chicken Chan (fried chicken breasts on a skewer), shrimp Chan, fried rice, Chan fries (cottage-fried potatoes), fortune

We've Americanized popular items of Chinese food for an American market," D'Ohofrio explains, adding that, "We have finger-type foods. The majority of our business is take-out or eating on the move."

In seeking to line up prospective franchisees, D'Onofrio and his long-time friend and new associate, Daniel Shapiro, who helped build the Tiffany chain of franchised bakeries from 20 to 250 stores, stress the simplicity of the Char-lie Chan operation. They note that no food preparation is involved, since all the products arrive frozen and just have to be dropped into the fryer according to stipulated instructions.

"Unlike other fast-food outlets, which are major manufacturing opera-tions and require a knowledge of the food industry, ours doesn't need sophis-ticated management," D'Onofrio says. 'All you need to do is follow our instructions and manage your labor properly. We are perhaps the simplest operation in the country.' D'Onofrio, whose younger brother Robert is executive vice president of the company, likes to stress the quality of the Charlie Chan food. "It's all flash-frozen," he explained. "Everything is done on timers. You can't overcook or undercook. There's no need to make up quantities in advance and let it sit. We can cook to order in three minutes if we have to. We know that we had better serve our customers quality products and fresh products. If not, they won't come back.

All the Charlie Chan food is prepared by Beatrice Foods and sent to the resfaurants in weekly shipments to simplify inventory management. "We tried others at first," D'Onofrio said. "But they couldn't keep up with our demand for egg rolls. We sold a million egg rolls last year and we expect to sell close to three million this year. We sold so many, Beatrice even presented us with a plaque.'

Even the demand for fortune cookies outstripped the supply, he noted. "We used to buy them from a bakery in New York's Chinatown. But they couldn't keep up. Now we get them from and Menachem Begin of Israel tried again this week to hammer out details of a peace plan for the Middle East but the job has been made more difficult because of American bungling.

United Nations Ambassador Andrew Young undermined the Carter peace initiative-perhaps with Carter's tacit approval—by meeting clandestinely with a representative of the terrorist Palestine Liberation Organization.

President Sadat and Prime Minister Begin, the only Mideast leaders trying to reach a mutually agreeable resolution of tensions in the area, both are considered as enemies by the PLO.

BUT YOUNG GAVE anti-American sentiment a dramatic boost, including a tirade in Havana this week by Fidel Castro in a meeting of 100 nations, when he insisted that the PLO must have a hand in any Mideast settlement

The PLO, created in 1964 for the avowed purpose of destroying Israel with murderous attacks on civilians, insists on statehood for Palestinians. Sadat believes the Palestinians should, instead, aim for self-rule as an attainable first step. That is a fine but impor-

It adds: "The PLO is not, and does not represent, a country, let alone one-fifth of mankind. A far more apt analogy would be between the PLO and the Baader-Meinhoff gang, or the Symbionese Liberation Army, or the Japanese Red Army-all terrorist groups which the U.S. is not inclined to talk

"THE STRATEGY worked out by Egypt, Israel and the United States at Camp David last year," the Report says, "was designed to encourage the emergence of moderate Palestinian leaders from the West Bank and Gaza, leaders who would join the talks on Palestinian autonomy.

"No such leaders have emerged so far because the PLO has assassinated those it feared might join the autonomy talks and threatened to assassinate more. If the U.S. appeared to legitimize the PLO by talking to its officials, it would further discourage the emergence of an independent Palestinian leadership."

LUBBOCK FIREMEN probably will have no trouble in getting enough signers if they petition for collective bargaining rights in their pay dispute with the City Council

They will, after all, have the support of four groups of people; (1) those who agree with them, (2) those who disagree but think an election's always good, (3) those who can't say no to any petition and (4) those who welcome the chance to

The fourth group, in fact, may be among the most enthusiastic signers of the petition. Their reasoning will be that defeat of the union proposal in a public referendum is the only way

Similarly, the firefighters' petition for a 15 per-

By community standards, Lubbock firemen have enjoyed good pay and excellent public relations over the years. They have served well and been treated well in return.

That's just ahead of Orange, that international playground for the net set, but far down the list from Beautiful Blissful Beaumont. We had an estimated 328,900 "person visits" here last year. Amarillo had 1,449,500. One difference, of course, is that Amarillo has an Interstate highway and we have a heckuva time even getting on the map in our own tele-

Good promotion of Lubbock by the embryonic tourist and convention bureau should bring about at least a doubling of the tourist truffic within two years.

Ghost Of Another '29 Haunting Wall Street

(Second of nine columns)

WASHINGTON-While it seems beyond reason to expect "another 1929" crash in stock prices and there is as yet no basis for anticipating worldwide depression of the crippling magnitude of the 1930s, there are some disturbing similarities between then and now, the 50th anniversary of that historic economic holocaust.

(1) Once again, gambling in stocks, particularly lower-priced unknowns, has reached a feverish

What is going on in 1979 in no way approaches the gambling orgy of 1929, when the cartoonists had a joyous time showing bootblacks passing hot tips to bankers decked out in white tie and tails, cocktail waitresses being wooed not for their physical charms but for whatever stock tips they had been given by favorite customers, elevator operators proudly displaying the $100 tips they had received for their "advice" to eager residents of swank Park Ave. buildings.

BUT THE GET-rich-quick gambling in so-called casino stocks in 1979 by the greedy and ignorant cannot be shrugged off.

Nor can the wild speculation in stock options by speculators who may know the risks involved but who still aren't prepared to lose every penny they put up (as so many do and will).

Nor can the out-and-out gambling in futuresalthough this gambling presumably is by much more sophisticated speculators.

(2) ONCE AGAIN, THE upside-down relationship between the returns on stocks and bonds that existed in 1929 is the rule-with bonds returning annual incomes far higher than stocks.

In 1929, a buyer of stocks on average could obtain an annual return of 3.47 percent against an average annual return of 4.86 percent on highgrade corporation bonds.

If an annual income was a main incentive, the odds clearly favored selling stocks and buying bonds—for the average yield was 1.39 percent higher in bonds than in stocks.

But starting in the decade of the 1960s and continuing ever since, bond yields have topped stock yields. In late summer of 1979, stocks returned on average 5.44 percent against 9.07 percent on bonds, a differential in favor of bonds of a strikingly big 3.63 percent.

THE IMPLICATIONS OF this spread to owners of stocks are chilling even on the surface of

(3) Once again, money is extraordinarily expensive although with credit for mortgages and installment loans so comparatively simple to get, it scarcely could be described as "tight."

In fact, money, at this point in 1979, is much more costly for many types of loans than in 1929

-another scary factor. In 1929, the commercial rate (equivalent to what we describe as the prime rate now) was 7 percent. At 1979's most recent reporting date, the prime rate—charged by banks to their most creditworthy, No. 1 borrowers-was at a lofty 12.25

In 1929, the call rate—the rate brokers charged their customers for loans-averaged 14 percent.

THE CALL RATE in 1979 is recently ranging between 11% and 11% percent, steep by any yardstick. (Keep your eyes on the prime and call rates, they might change.)

In 1929, borrowings to buy stock (margin debt), as measured by brokers' loans, hit $8.5 billion. And there were no federal controls over margin lending, no controls at all on this type of lending except the modest curbs imposed by the New York Stock Exchange.

These suggested a 25 percent minimum margin for NYSE member firms but outside of the members, banks could advance credit for purchases of securities with only prudence and "good business principles" to guide them.

TODAY, IN 1979, borrowings by brokers from all sources (banks, corporations, etc.) mostly so they can make loans in turn to individuals to buy stocks are up to $11.6 billion.

Because of the parallels on this 50th anniversary, I have been digging for months beneath Wall Street's surface, to probe the similarities and analyze the distinctions.

My unshakable conclusion: the distinctions far outweigh the similarities. "Another 1929" is at most a remote possibility. Tomorrow: Distinction No. 1: How We Buy

Rhetoric Is Hot; Record Not

WASHINGTON-One of the time-honored traditions here among politicians is to vote one way and talk another. When playing this game, no one rides taller in the straddle than Senate GOP Leader Howard Baker of Tennessee.

ohn D. Lofton:

Now a presidential candidate, Sen. Baker is stumping the country making good, old-fash-ioned, red-faced, sleeves-rolled-up, arm-waving speeches defending the virtues of the free enter-

Out in Kansas the other day, in a talk to the National Association of Counties, Baker drew a thunderous ovation when he declared, "Political leadership, to be truly imaginative, must distindo well. And it must recognize, above all, that government cannot and should not do everything." etween what government can and cannot ent will ever be... The federal government grew too big. too powerful and too far in debt because too many people in power in Washington believed that lo-cal officials would not, or could not govern. That is the worst political mistake we ever made in this country, and it's time we set things right."

To begin doing this, suggested Baker, "The policy of our government should be to decontrol the out of the fuel allocation business, to stop wrapping every oil well in government red tape-and n to dismantle the Department of Energy.

In a news release to his constituents a few months before his Kansas stem-winder, Baker said: "The time has come to stop the growth of government, to move away from the traditional policy of creating a new bureaucracy for every new government initiative."

Stop the growth of government? Abolish the Energy Department? Let the tree market work? No new bureaucracies? All great ideas—but Sen. Baker's voting record doesn't match his rhetoric.

IN MAY 1977, when the Senate was voting on a proposal to establish a $10 billion, 20,000-employee Department of Energy. Baker cast his vote in favor of this bureaucratic monstrouity. Noting that the idea of a DOE was "largely orional and procedural," Baker, even before the debate began, declared, "I commend the administration, President Carter and (James) Schlesinger for making the proposal at this time. I suspect they will find broad general support for it from me and my colleagues on this side of the

In March of this year, in sponsoring a Joint Resolution calling for a strong national energy policy, Baker pointed out: "Since 1976, the Reublican leadership has called for an end to the regulatory controls that have been strangling our domestic energy production capability, giving us the worst of both worlds-high prices and a bureaucratic nightmare."

Ernie says our money has really lost its value in Europe. It seems a tourist threw three U.S. coins price of oil and gas as quickly as possible, to get in the fountain—and got a summons for littering.

ANOTHER REPUBLICAN who excels at playing both ends against the middle is Rep. Edward Derwinski of Illinois, On July 25, Derwinski spoke in the House in favor of granting Most-Favored-Nation trading status to the communist country of Romania

Calling attention to the "independence" Romania has shown, the former head of the Republican Party's National Heritage Groups Council, pointed out:

"Romania has conducted its foreign relations in a manner which indicates independence not shown by other members of the Warsaw Pact. Romania has not joined in military maneuvers conducted by the Warsaw Pact nations, nor permitted them to take place in Romania. In addition, Soviet troops are not stationed within their

Now comes Aug. 2, a little over a week after Derwinski's ringing defense of granting so-called MFN to Romania.

IN THIS DAY'S Congressional Record, denouncing "Soviet Russian imperialism and its long record of conquest of nations," the Illinois Republican inserts a series of proclamations marking Captive Nations Day.

Among the countries listed as being enslaved by Soviet communism is, you guessed it, Romania. In saying one thing, but doing another, Sen. Baker and Rep. Derwinski are, unfortunately all too typical, two more reasons why attention should be paid, not so much to what our elected representatives tell us, but rather how they ac-

Q: My doctor refuses to perform an abortion on me. I really don't want the baby and feel I would be under mental strain if I carry it till birth. I'm about four months pregnant. Can I force the doctor to perform the abortion?

A: Your doctor is not legally required to perform an abortion on you. However, as a general rule, the law does not prohibit a doctor from performing an abortion on you, provided it is medically safe to do so. Therefore, you might headle to get a different doctor to reform the abortion. be able to get a different doctor to perform the abortion.

Q: Some time ago a friend of mine wrote a number of poems. It was suggested that she put them together in a book and publish them. Will she need to have them copywritten to protect them from being stolen? Also, what is the difference between a copyright and a patent?

A: As the author of unpublished literature, your friend has the sole right to publish them. If she wishes to maintain rights to her poems after publication, she should obtain a copyright.

A copyright is the sole right to sell or publish literature, music or works of art. A patent represents the sole right to an invention in the nature of a techniical device. Copyrights and patents are very similar.

Q: Recently, I had to fire one of my employees. Now he has refused to surrender his company car until he is paid his profit-sharing check. It will take several months to obtain his profit-sharing check from the bank. How can I get my company property back?

A: Assuming your former employee has not contractual right to keep the automobile, you can repossess it yourself, or through an agent, if the car can be picked up without a breach of the peace. Failing that, you can file a law-suit, and obtain a writ of sequestration, which will authorize the sheriff or constable to seize the car.

Faulty Chute Blamed In Skydiver's Death

POTTSTOWN, Pa. (AP) - A 28-yearold parachutist from Illinois was killed when his chute failed to open and he fell 10,000 feet during a skydiving meet at Pottstown-Limerick Airport, state police

Carl Nelson of the Chicago suburb of Lisle was jumping this week with 20 other skydivers, including his brother, Rodger, during an annual event of the United Parachute Club of New Hanover, police said.

Nelson's main chute never opened and his emergency chute only partially opened, troopers said. The National Transportation Safety Board in Allentown was investigating. The club cancelled plans after the accident to try to break a record of 61 jumpers holding hands in a free-fall. The record was set last year at the same event.

Unemployment Near FOR YOUR WANT ADS CALL 762-8821 For Coupon Broker

NEW YORK (UPI) - Earl Bunker's telephones are ringing off the hook with business earning him several hundred dollars a day so it seems a little strange when he says, "I'm going to be unem-ployed Dec. 15."

But Bunker knew when he opened his Worcester, Mass., office that he would have only six months to make his money in what has become one of the most remarkable mini-industries in reeent times - dealing in half-fare discount coupons offered by United and American airlines.

The two carriers doled out about 4 million coupons to passengers at the start of the summer and since July 1. have been redeeming the scrip for half off regular round-trip coach and first class fares. The coupons become worthless after Dec. 15.

For now though, the business is "trucking right along" and "seems like it's getting better than ever," says Bunker, who graduated two years ago from Massachusetts Institute of Technology with a degree in computers but was jobless when the airline coupons came

Bunker opened Merco Inc., began advertising and figures he has become one of the biggest individual dealers with a turnover so far of about 4,000 coupons. Belying any fly-bynight image, Bunker uses the bank-wire network to transfer funds and does business as a merchant with Master Charge and Visa charge

Taking a page from the equity markets, he even has an option contract for the future coupons purchases. The options - for which Runker paid $2 each to what he says is a big stock brokerage firm - give him the right to buy 200 coupons at $45 each during September.

'I think the price is going to go up (over $45)," said Bunker, who last week was offering $35 for coupons and selling at $43. The broker selling the options 'doesn't think it will go up that much.

Bunker tries to make $10 on each coupon and also has side businesses. such as swapping United's coupons for American's and sending away to get replacements for damaged coupons, also charging $10 for these services.

The airlines have nothing to do with the after-market for their coupons but allowed it to spring up when they set no restrictions on transferring the scrip.

We don't care so long as somebody who wasn't going to take a trip now does with a coupon or somebody who was going to fly with somebody else now flies with us," said John R. Zeeman, United vice president for passenger mar-

United says 250,000 of the 2.2 million coupons it handed out were used in July and the pace was up in August, putting United's two-month total at an estimated 600,000. Coupon users so far have been mostly vacationers but Zeeman and others expect businessmen with caches of coupons will redeem them in the fall.

Most coupon travelers are taking trips of 1,000 to 3,000 miles, compared with United's average trip length of 800 longer the trip, the more dollars saved," Zeeman said.

Coupons obviously have dented airline revenues but more important to United - originator of the promotion coupons have restored its passenger traffic to levels anticipated before a crippling 58-day machinists strike last

'Overall, it's been positive," Zeeman said, although he predicts coupons in the

Fan Requests Better View

BALTIMORE (UPI) - A paraplegic fan of the Baltimore Orioles goes on trial today for refusing to sit in a section of Memorial Stadium specifically set aside for handicapped spectators.

Thomas Turner claims that from section 29, the area reserved for the handicapped, his view of the batter and pitcher is blocked.

The 22-year-old Army veteran was arrested and charged this week with violating Park Board rules by blocking an aisle during the Orioles-Twins game and disobeying orders to move. He was lifted in his wheelchair and taken to a nearby precinct station.

Turner, who was injured during a serious automobile accident, said he prefers sitting in section 9 rather than section 29 where he can't see the pitcher or the batter.

"And if I'm in section 29 - and I checked out that section - and someone hits something, everyone stands up. All I get is a good view of their —," he said.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Forget about he killer rabbit, the banzai bunny, the orrible hare. There are other beasts urking around President Carter's lains, Ga., hangouts that are ferocious: attlesnakes and dogs.

Just hours before Carter arrived ome last Thursday night for the Labor Day weekend, Secret Service agents uarding his ranch-style home on Woodland Drive killed a rattlesnake on the back porch.

It was one of several that have been cilled in the area over the summer, and at least one Plains native who was conulted about the proximity of the snakes o Carter's home thought there was nohing strange about it.

In fact, rattlesnake roundups in late summer are not unusual in the area.

A summer trip back home with Carter resembles, for many of those who accompany him, a return to summer camp. ## Space Agency Trims Shuttle Orbital Flight Test Program

By AL ROSSITER JR.
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The space agency has trimmed its space shuttle orbital flight test program from six to four flights to reduce delays in subsequent operational missions.

The effort to develop the big winged rocket transport has been plagued by numerous problems for the past few years and is now more than a year behind schedule. The problems are so serious President Carter has asked for a briefing

The mission, once set for last March, was first stalled by troubles with the powerful new-design hydrogen-oxygen engines that will power the Columbia into orbit. But more recently it has been delayed by the installation of vital insulation tiles on the ship's aluminum skin.

The original schedule called for the sixth test flight in March 1980, with the

The most recent timetable presented last week to organizations that will use the ship, eliminates the last two test

London Researcher Believes Planet Earth 'Alive'

By ROBERT MUSEL LONDON (UPI) - If mankind insists on antagonizing it, the planet Earth will be the most dangerous and determined opponent ever to face the human race.

Dr. Kit Pedler, a distinguished researcher, believes this statement to be true. He is one of a number of scientists who follow the hypothesis of Dr. James Lovelock that the Earth is not a neutral and impassive stage for a myriad of living things, but a "living" entity with the equivalent of senses, intelligence and emory and the capacity to act.

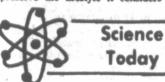

Attack the thin green rind of life that envelops it and the Earth, fully capable of recognizing and repairing damage done to itself, will strike back.

- Gaia was the earth-mother goddess of the ancient Greeks - that the Earth is a life form committed to perpetuate itself, to be "the most important single scientific work of recent time.'

Lovelock and his followers have published a number of works on the theory. Pedler's contribution is a book, "The Quest for Gaia," which contends that if humans insist on living by processes that damage the Earth and its essential environment, we may be seeing the last few generations of our race.

It is, he says, not too late to learn to live comfortably together as man and Earth did before the industrial era without going back to Stone Age techniques.

tant" that Gaia cannot tolerate. Mankind is producing so much waste heat to preserve the lifestyle it considers essential that there is bound to be an irreconcilable conflict.

There can be only one winner, Pedler

Pedler concedes it is difficult at first to grasp the idea of an intelligent Earth. The Lovelock hypothesis holds that both planet are combined to form the main anatomical framework of the Earth "organism." It argues that life took hold here not just because physical conditions were suitable, but by itself actively modifying the non-living environment.

Thus the relationship between all the living and non-living parts of the Earth organism are a complex of self-stabiliz-ing systems with the inbuilt goal of keeping planetary conditions at an opti-

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D. foods that are relatively low in fat. DEAR DR. LAMB - I read your column regularly and need some assistance, I was recently diagnosed as having low blood sugar and the doctor suggested that I eat protein

DEAR READER - I wonder how many of my readers have ever questioned the popular concept that a high-protein diet causes you to lose weight when people like you tend to gain weight when they eat proteins.

The truth is that proteins are just carbohydrates and fats with ammonia attached to them. The ammonia part of the amino acids in the protein is simply stripped off and the excess protein becomes fat and carbohydrate. The extra ammonia is converted to urea and eliminated in your ur-

There are plenty of high-protein

The problem is that many people choose foods that they have been told are high in protein but that also contain lots of fat and therefore lots of calories. A good example is whole milk; about half its calories really come from fat

Meat is an excellent source of protein but you must use lean meats if you want to avoid a lot of fat calories. A good example would be lean round steak with all the visible fat re-

Chicken breasts or turkey breasts are good sources of protein without fat, particularly if you remove the skin.

The purpose of the high-protein meals and snacks is that they are emptied more slowly from the stomach than are carbohydrates, particularly the concentrated carbohydrates such as sugar. They are absorbed a little slower. As a result, they don't tend to raise your blood sugar and cause you to have rebound low blood sugar reactions.

You can accomplish the same results by being sure your diet contains more bulk. This should come from the bulky vegetables such a leafy salads or raw vegetables. You can even use raw apples since they're fibrous, slowly digested and won't raise your blood sugar very much.

To give you a better understanding of what low blood sugar really is and what you should be doing about a diet, I'm sending you The Health Letter Number 3-9, Low Blood Sugar: hypoglycemia. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents in check or coin with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

In the final analysis, you will gain weight if you consume too many calories, whether these calories come from fats, sweets, protein or alcohol. If you eat quite a few calories at meals and snack between meals, you can expect to get too many calories.

In your case, I suggest that you review the foods you've been eating to be sure they are truly protein foods with limited fat content

Crisis Service Notes Increase

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) - Inflation and the current economic doldrums are boosting the number of telephone calls received by an Indiana crisis and suicide intervention service. The service, part of the Marion County Mental Health Association, sald it needs more volunteer counselors to meet the extra calls triggered by difficulty in coping with growing inflation, energy problems and recession. The number of telephone calls through July was 5,106, nearly 35 percent ahead of the 3,786 in first seven months of 1978, said Betty LeClare, who chairs the service Mental health officials also said the number of calls received in the last five months of the year normally is more than that received during the early part of the year.

"Calls relating to inflation and unemployment have been on the upswing and have contributed to the 35 percent increase in calls," Miss LeClare said.

A bureaucratic delay has continued the stalemate between the city and schools over the question of who pays for school crossing guards, but the city is still pressing for a resolution to the problem.

The feud over who should pay the salaries dates back to the 1960s, but was renewed last year when the city removed the cost item from its budget and requested the schools to assume payment of almost $54,000 in salaries for the School officials, on the advice of attorney Charles Cobb, however, contendschool officials, on the advice of attorney Charles Coob, nowever, contended the schools cannot legally pick up the tab. Cobb said that only the city can spend money on "general police powers."

School officials decided to request an opinion on the matter from the attorney general via the Texas Education Agency, but in the ensuing year, the request has hit several bureaucratic snags and no opinion has been delivered. In order to reach the attorney general's office, such requests are handed over to a TEA attorney who then recommends to the state commissioner of education whether an attorney general's opinion should be sought.

According to TEA staff attorney Jay Brim, the Lubbock request was turned over to general counsel William Bednar for review. Bednar resigned, however, and the matter was turned over to senior staff attorney David Ryan, but he has made no decision in that matter.

Brim said Ryan will review the request and make a recommendation to new commissioner Alton Bowen (former commissioner M.L. Brockette also recently resigned.) But he said there has been a delay because the matter is not a "pressing" one. "It ranks behind litigation and this is not considered liti-

Meanwhile, Mayor Dirk West has written school trustees two letters in the past month asking for payment of the crossing guard salaries.

West said in the latest letter mailed Tuesday that the $53,768 owed for last year and projected for this year "is only a portion of what it costs to operate this program. This money comes out of our police department budget, and does not include the man hours of our police in running this program. It does not include the enormous cost of the blinking signal lights and their maintenance, and it certainly does not reflect the value of hiring people, monitoring the program, hearing the multitude of complaints, and working those complaints out."

He continued, "We are not trying to shift this program over to you to administrate, we just want you to pay for this program, or to be accurate, pay for a portion of this program."

School board president Monte Hasie had not received West's latest letter by early this morning, but said after hearing the content that, according school attorneys, "the streets are under the jurisdiction of the city. The law is we can't do it (pay for the guards). Some of the crossings are not even at cent to the schools."

Hasle said "the taxpayers are going to have to pay for it" no matter stat taxing entity absorbs the cost. Certainly we'll take care of it, if the city won But we would put ourselves in jeopardy if we did something we can't legal do."

West suggested in his letter that the schools list cost of the guards in their budget under a department that would make the expense legal.

"How about "School Security?" asked West. "You can legally pay for this. How about "School Sefety?" That's a legal expense."

Cobb said that the suggestion "is something that I'm going to have to check into." He said his "offhand" opinion, however, is that "since the city controls the public streets and alleys, the same reasoning would apply as in my original opinion."

Superintendent Ed Irons today wrote another letter to TEA requesting an attorney general opinion, and Hasie said he will write West telling him that "Mr. Irons made an inquiry with the attorney general."

West said today, "I don't want to start a fuss with those folks. But if they think I'm going away they're sadly mistaken."

Both sides have said repeatedly that their primary concern is the safety of the school children and that no matter what happens, the crossing guard pro-

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Congressional Budget Office and private industry today both recommended that Congress move more slowly than President Carter would like in developing a domestic synthetic fuels industry.

stock analyst testified today that the Bell telephone system's earnings potential has dropped to the point that he advises clients to sell their stock in American Telephone and Telegraph.

Brad Peery testified at a Texas Public Utility Commission hearing on Southwestern Bell Telephone's request for rate increases totaling $145.2 million over a 12-month period. Southwestern Bell is a subsidiary of AT&T.

Peery said investors perceive a likely growth in AT&T dividends of 5.5 percent a year, "but I believe the market is wrong." He predicted a long-term average gain of 4.7 percent in AT&T dividends after discounting for inflation.

"That is my forecast of what investors would get as a result of investing in AT&T, which leads me to believe investors should sell the stock," Peery said.

One of the reasons Bell gives for seeking the rate increase is to enhance its ability to sell its securities to investors when it needs additional capital.

In previous testimony, a Southwestern Bell official said the company's financial position would be in jeopardy if the commission fails to grant the requested increase. R. McRae Gesehwind of St. Louis, Mo., testified Wednesday before commission examiner Phil Ricketts. The commission expects to make a decision in early November. Most of Bell's request - $105 million

Three to five years later the program could be expanded, building on the lessons of the first phase, he said in testimony before a Senate Budget Commit-

His recommendation was seconded by Roderick Hills, speaking on behalf of an industry research group, the Committee for Economic Development.

Hills called for construction of about 10 synthetic fuel plants with a total production capacity equivalent to about 500,000 barrels of oil.

Private industry could develop financing for the plants, Hills said, adding, "In my judgement, a massive program to do far more than what we are proposing would be counterproductive.

In contrast, the president is proposing a program designed to produce the equivalent of nearly two million barrels of oil a day by 1990. W. Bowman Cutter, an associate director of the Office of Management and Budget, outlined the case for the administration's proposals as part of an overall effort to reduce U.S. dependence on oil imports.

But in his prepared statement, Cutter did not directly address the contentions that Carter's program is too big.

The recommendations from the CBO and private industry echoed the advice offered Wednesday by private consult-

"A thoughtful, half-million-barrel-aday program" at the end of seven or eight years would be superior to a crash program that "probably wouldn't create all that much more," said Bruce A. At the same time, the Senate Finance Committee decided to resume work on the "windfall profits" tax that Carter. has proposed to pay for his costly program to reduce U.S. dependence on oil imports.

The tax is aimed at taking away some of the billions of dollars of extra revenues that will flow to oil producers as a result of Carter's decision to gradually phase out federal price controls on crude oil produced in the United States. The decontrol will allow U.S. oil prices to rise sharply.

No quick decisions on the tax were expected, however, since the committte is to debate the proposal until the end of the month.

Sadat, Begin Stress Friendship

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) - Egyptian President Anwar Sadat ended a summit with Prime Minister Menachem Begin today, saying his three-day visit left him pleased with the ever-growing friendship between our two people."

Sadat said he and Begin held constructive talks during their meetings in Haifa, Israel's northern port city. He said both were aware of the "vital necessity to make progress on the Palestinian question soon. Begin, speaking before Sadat boarded plane at Ben-Gurion Airport, said he and the Egyptian president had forged a close, intimate friendship ... which, in our times, is a treasure to be guarded and cherished.

The two leaders thus ascribed a friendly tone to Sadat's third visit to the Jewish state, which the Egyptian president capped with a visit to a modern food-processing plant in Haifa before flying to the airport by helicopter. He had arrived in Haifa Tuesday aboard his presidential yacht, but decided to fly back to Egypt

At a final question and answer session with Israeli editors in Haifa, Sadat suggested that the "sweet waters" of the Nile could be sent to irrigate Israel's Negev desert.

The Egyptian president disclosed that he planned to pipe Nile water under the Suez Canal by 1980 to irrigate the Sinai Peninsula.

"Sinai will not be isolated anymore," he told the editors. "...So why not send some of this sweet water to the Negev?" The summit, scheduled for only 49 hours and including only about three hours of face-to-face talks between the two leaders, maintained the momentum of the peace process and produced agreements on three issues related to Israel's withdrawal from Sinai.

However, no progress was reported on the key problem of autonomy for Palestinians living under Israeli occupation, and the two leaders were still split on the emotional issue of Jerusalem's

Sadat told the editors he trusted the process of negotiation to resolve differences. But he said it was "essential" that the Palestinians end their boycott of the autonomy talks, and join Israel and Egypt - and perhaps Jordan - in negotiations on a permanent solution of the Palestinian issue.

Sadat indicated he believed other Arab nations soon would see the value of joining the peace process. While Egypt makes progress steadily toward peaceful relations with the Jewish state, Iraq and Syria are caught in domestic turmoil, and Algeria is in trouble over the Western Sahara, he said.

"In the middle of this you find Egypt an island of peace, and island of love, an island of democracy," Sadat said.

In their talks Sadat and Begin reached agreement "in principle" on the questions of Israel's buying Sinai oil from Egypt, early return of Biblical Mount Sinai to Egypt and a temporary Israeli-Egyptian force to supervise Israel's withdrawal from the Sinai Penin-

Announcing the agreements at a joint news conference, Sadat said he and Begin would meet again in Egypt at a date to be set later.

He expressed optimism that the autonomy talks would achieve results despite the current slow pace and the lack of agreement on the future of Jerusa-

"We need more time, more careful study for the whole thing." Sadat said.

Egypt contends Jerusalem's 100,000 Arabs should be part of the autonomous Palestinian area, with voting rights to elect a self-governing council. Israel, which annexed predominantly-Arab East Jerusalem after capturing it in the 1967 war, says the city will not be divided

Although the two leaders discussed autonomy for the 1.2 million Palestinians in the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip, Sadat said: "We don't work on details. Our ministers are working on the details of elections and so on, but we discussed principles rather than details.

There still is a chance of averting an election on the pay increase and collective bargaining rights, he said.

If city officials offered the equivalent of a 12 percent raise for firefighters in the coming year, Dean said he'd put it to a vote of the association membership to accept or reject the offer.

However, city officials have made no overture in that direction yet, so the firefighters will meet this evening to kickoff the petition drive.

Dean predicted two-thirds of the Lubbock firefighters would be present at the gathering, with the other one-third on duty and said he plans to invite the mayor, city council members and city manger to attend.

morning. "It's like, well, Buddy Holly still pops up all over. Waylon Jennings was on the Today Show this morning, and all they talked about was Buddy Holly. It seems like you can't pick up a copy of Rolling Stone or Billboard without finding at least a subtle reference to Buddy Holly. There's still a lot of interest in him

Indeed, the promoter had gone even further at an earlier press conference, stating, "Lubbock's a little short on tourist attractions right now. And I don't know whether you'll like to hear this or not, but Buddy Holly is known a lot better than Lubbock, Texas."

But the city is trying to honor its native son. Proceeds from the concert, which finds Jennings and The Crickets performing without a salary, are destined for the Buddy Holly Memorial Fund. This fund will in turn be used to construct a West Texas Walk Of Fame in the Civic Center area, honoring musicians from the West Texas area who made a distinct mark on the entertainment industry.

The Walk Of Fame will be dominated by an 8-foot-6 bronze statue of Buddy Holly, to be sculpted by noted artist Grant Speed and unveiled at the September 7, 1980 concert.

Promoters are already in contact with Paul McCartney, hoping he'll be able to come to Lubbock to headline the 1980 show. (McCartney is also a Buddy Holly fan; he plays each year in London during Buddy Holly Week and has purchased the rights to Holly's songs.)

Friday's concert will find not only Holly's (and Jennings') fans in attendance, but also Mr. and Mrs. L.O. Holley (Buddy's parents), Maria Elena Holley-Diaz (Buddy's widow), sculptor Grant Speed, former Cricket Niki Sullivan and record producer Snuff Garrett.

The concert takes place on Sept. 7 because that is the birthday of the late rock and roller. And promoters also hope it marks a new era of local recognifor Holly. And, perhaps, new recog-

As David made its way north, some 800 to 1,000 people were evacuated from their homes in Maryland early today, most of them in Baltimore, where police were rescuing persons stranded in their cars or trapped in their homes as floodwaters rose. On one city street, floodwaters caused by 3 inches to 7 inches of rain piled cars on top of each other.

One man was killed when a tornado hit his trailer home in suburban Philadelphia, police said.

Baltimore police said the body of an unidentified woman, about 25 years old, washed ashore this morning.

Two people were killed Wednesday in Virginia, where Gov. John Dalton declared a state of emergency after 10 tornadoes caused havy damage.

Officials said one person died in a traffic accident caused by rain-slick roads near Wytheville, Va., while another was killed when a tornado hit a house in Fairfax County. Fourteen persons were injured and at least 350 were evacuated as floodwaters rose and tornadoes formed over the northern part of the Newport News officials said tornadoes caused an estimated $2 million in damage to that city.

High water and winds brought some rail and air service in the Washington, D.C., area to a halt. Virtually all Amtrak service between Baltimore and Washington was closed by water up to three feet deep in some areas, said spokesman Brian Duff.

Maryland officials said five storms that appeared to be tornadoes smashed into the counties around Baltimore, slightly injuring two people, and an apparent tornado was blamed for one injury in neighboring Delaware. One man was treated for cuts and bruises when a twister touched down at a truck stop in Pedricktown, N.J. "I was in my truck and in a few seconds I was thrown over," said driver killed two students from France who tried to swim when the storm passed. The storm's passage over South Carolina was blamed for a traffic accident that killed one person Tuesday and a heart attack that claimed the life of another. ages are in the millions of dollars. Beaches were severely eroded from Georgia to North Carolina, where 1,174 residents of Brunswick County were forced to evacuate as David approached, and fishing piers took a beating from the high winds. More than half the 1,000foot pier in Long Beach, N.C., was missing after the storm.

Senate Protects Private Schools

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate the storm churned up high seas that today voted to kill for a year Internal Revenue Service guidelines under which private schools that discriminate against blacks and other minorities would be denied tax exempt status.

The 47 to 43 vote stiffens a Senate decision Wednesday to cut off the use of federal funds sought by the IRS to end tax breaks for private schools that screen out minority students.

"The IRS must get off the backs of these schools," said Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., who succeeded in a campaign to scuttle the proposed IRS rules.

The guidelines would have set criterfor determining which of the nation's 18,000 schools were established to escape court-ordered desegregation.

FORT WORTH (AP) — Jurors got their first look today at the state's most damaging piece of physical evidence — a synchronized audio-video tape — in the murder conspiracy case against millionaire Cullen Decis

Prosecutors played the film in the darkened courtroom, which was filled with spectators. Davis' chief accuser, David McCrory, watched the film of Davis and him discussing the "murder" of Judge Joe Eidson.

"I got Judge Eidson dead for you," McCrory said on tape.

"Good," Davis replied. "I'll get the rest of them dead for you. You want a bunch of people dead, right?" McCrory continued.

"All right," Davis said. McCrory's testimony and the tapes form the crux of the state's case against Davis, accused of soliciting the murder

At that time, the 61-year-old jurist was presiding over Davis' turbulent divorce from Priscilla Davis.

The 45-year-old defendant maintains he was framed in a plot put together by Priscilla, McCrory and former Fort Worth karale instructor Pat Burleson.

The videotape, made by FBI agents hidden in a nearby surveillance van, shows McCrory and Davis looking at a .22-caliber pistol and silencer in the trunk of Davis' Cadillac. McCrory has testified that Davis asked him in an earlier meeting to get the gun. McCrory also said Davis gave him

Japanese Planning To Conduct Antarctic Oil Study

TOKYO (AP) — Japan's agency of natural resources and energy said Wednesday it will conduct a three-year scientific study into the possibilities of oil on the Antarctic continental shelf.

An official of the agency said that preliminary geological studies of potentially oil rich coastal regions will begin in early 1981 along the Bellingshausen Sea near South America.

He said the studies, to be conducted from the 1,800-ton geological survey ship Hakureimaru, will move to the Weddell Sea the next year and to the Ross Sea near New Zealand in 1983.

The agency is asking for a budget of about 500 million yen, or $2.3 million a year for the studies, which will each involve about one month of field work.

Suspect To Talk In Cocaine

Avalanche-Journal Staff

A plea bargaining agreement an-nounced Wednesday between an alleged cocaine-trafficking conspirator and federal prosecutors may lead to additional drug-related indictments by a federal grand jury tentatively scheduled to meet sometime this month in Amarillo.

What was to be a pre-trial hearing on wiretapping procedures used during a federal investigation of drug trafficking evolved Wednesday into a second arraignment for Randy Tom Leavitt.

Leavitt, a Texas Tech University law school student from Austin, was one of 14 persons indicted June 7 on a charge of conspiring to bring cocaine from Ruidoso, N.M., to Lubbock for distribution. He also was charged in that indictment with two counts of facilitating that conspiracy and one count of possession of cocaine for distribution. However, Wednesday afternoon Leavitt pleaded guilty to a single count of possession of marijuana on Jan. 10 and was sentenced by U.S. District Judge Halbert O. Woodward to a sixmonth probated sentence and assessed a $1,000 fine.

In return for the guilty plea, all charges relating to Leavitt's involvement in the alleged cocaine-distribution conspiracy were dismissed by Woodward.

Assistant U.S. Attorney David Bass, however, opened the door to possible future drug-related indictments when he announced that, as part of the plea bargain, Leavitt will provide a trial jury or a federal grand jury with "whatever per-sonal knowledge he has of the drug situ-

Although Bass announced Aug 6 that five of the defendants named in three other federal cocaine-related indictments had reached agreements and would not be tried, Leavitt's arrangement is the first to be made public.

The federal prosecutor said the decision to hold Leavitt's arraignment on the new charge Wednesday was made "par-tially to convenience his attorney (Herman Gotcher) who is from out of town, from Austin."

Bass added that he hoped all plea bargaining arrangements will be completed by Monday's trial date and that he will announce the details of all deals, "some of (which) will result in state court convictions," when the terms of the agreements are finalized and "exe-Woodward sentenced the third-year law student after first advising him that he could compel government prosecutors to take the charge of marijuana possession to the grand jury and the grand jurors "could determine there's not enough evidence to indict you."

Leavitt, however, waived his right of indictment by the grand jury and stood solemnly as Bass read the charge accusing Leavitt of "knowingly and intentionally" being in possession of marijuana early this year while at a 44th Street res-

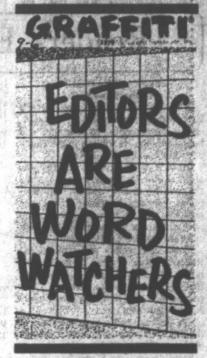

After the hearing, Bass said federal officials had been aware of the marijuana possession when evidence was presented this spring to the grand jury, but Leavitt was not indicted on the charge then because "at that particular juncture it was a matter of not mixing apples and oranges.

Woodward accepted Leavitt's guilty plea and the attorneys' plea bargaining proposal, noting that he had read all of the grand jury transcripts concerning Leavitt's involvment in the alleged cocaine conspiracy and believed the plea bargain was a fair arrangement.

DEAR ABBY: I must comment on a letter signed GRACE. When she complained to a friend that she couldn't find a dress she wanted to buy, she was told not to worry because at her age (70) nobody cared what she wore anyway.

I cannot let that go unchallenged. My mother-in-law is 91 and I wish you could see how she dresses! She wears goodlooking beautifully made clothes that are becoming to her. She begins her day by grooming herself in the morning and putting on pretty lingerie. She says just because nobody sees it is no reason for her not to wear what she likes. She puts on a fresh, lovely dress every day whether she's at home alone or planning to go somewhere. She lives alone and keeps a large house in excellent order, too.

Whenever I see an older woman who is beautifully dressed I never fail to tell her how nice she looks whether I know her or not. It is always so much appre-ELLEN IN PA ren's clothing market.

Designer jeans have back pockets with such famous signatures as Charlotte Ford, Geoffrey Beene and Gloria Vanderbilt for Murjani.

"About 10 years ago you had playwear. I don't think anyone had heard of jogging shorts. It was an unstyled, limited market, strictly utilitarian.

The active sportswear that has replaced playwear is "very colorful and attractive," Van Olinda said.

"The jogging shorts look is really a year-round thing (not just for school). In the spring you see regular shorts as playwear," she added.

Numeral shirts for the team uniform look are especially popular for boys.

Jeans have been popular for at least decade, but the prewashed, raggedly look of the early 1970s has peaked, Van Olinda said. It has been replaced by the signature look that can be done by anyone, not just famous designers.

Prime time TV has an enormous impact (on children's wear) but it has to have a hook, a gimmick," she said.

Disney and Peanuts characters have almost become classics. Mork from Ork sweatshirts and T-shirts are being made by Allison Manufacturing Co. of New York City with designs based on the popular TV show. Several children's wear manufacturers have also been licensed to use Muppets characters.

About 10 years ago, there was only a little licensing of cartoon characters and superheroes. Now it's all over, Van Olinda said, including spin-offs from macho comic book characters such as Spiderman, Batman and Superman.

These styles are popular with boys up to about 10 years old, she said. As one maize solids, a print or two, or a little manufacturer put it, before boys become interested in girls.

Textures are important, she said, for both boys and girls: Brushed knits, chenilles, velours, fleeces or a loopy

Van Olinda estimated only 35 percent or less of children's clothing is sold by department stores and about 10 percent by specialty shops and the remainder by discount stores and catalog chains that also operate retail stores.

She said there's more fashion in children's wear now than there was in "Girls wore dresses, pink, blue or Boys wore polo shirts and corduroy

While sportswear is a very strong trend, children today are also interested in dressing up.

"In the pre-wash-and-wear period you couldn't sell a suit," she said. "Now vested threepiece polyester suits for boys sell small but steadily."

The dressy look for girls this fall will include lots of shirtwaist styles and some period, old-fashioned floral de-

Cut Out Pictures For Stick Puppets

My readers like Formulas for Fun. Okay! Here's the formula for stick puppets:

Cut pictures out of magazines - good-sized pictures of people, animals and objects that you'd like to have as props and scenery (cars, airplanes, houses, machinery and trees are all very useful). Keep these in separate boxes until you have a good collection of pic-tures of both grown-ups and child-

Cut each figure out and paste it on top of a piece of sturdier paper (the cardboard from a big cereal box or even a used postcard).

Then cut the entire figure out of the cardboard. Tape or glue a big pencil or a ruler or a stick strip of heavy cardboard to the back of your cut-out figure. When you have one puppet for each character in the story you want to tell, the child can kneel behind an armchair so that the people who are watching can see the puppets but can't see the puppeteer.

Have the child hold the puppet up in the air so that the bottom of the puppet "walks" or "sits" right on top of the chair so that very little of the stick shows. Let the stick puppet actors "ride" in stick puppet boats or cars (also pasted to rulers or rods).

Another excellent basic form of stick puppet can be instantly created with old stuffed toys and rulers (or small rods or sticks of wood). Make a little hole in the bottom of the stuffed animal, insert the stick and sew the hole closed around the stick. These dimensional stick puppets can be worked from behind chairs and

New Orleans Sponsors 'Industry Mission'

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) - There's a vantages New Orleans and the River Renatural business rivalry between New Orleans and Houston - a rivalry born of having the same basic industries, port facilities and even, in one case, the same skyscraper.

So it's somewhat unusual for the local Chamber of Commerce to sponsor an 'industry mission" to Houston - designed to lure businesses from the Houston area to New Orleans and its suburbs.

'We don't like to think of it as a raid," said Linda Hayden, spokeswoman for the Chamber of Commerce. "And I would tend to think nobody in Houston would think it's even possible for New Orleans to 'raid' them.

However, business leaders in New Orleans also think it's a good idea to take advantage of the fact that there are many firms (in the Houston area) that are ready to expand. Also, there are many companies in New Orleans who do a lot of business with companies in Houston and the opportunity is there to solidify and perhaps increase the trading

About 50 business officials from the "River Region" — the New Orleans chamber's area that includes the upriver parishes of St. John the Baptist, St. James, St. Charles - will fly to Houston Sept. 26 for three days of meetings, negotiations and business lunches with Houston business leaders.

The chamber says more than $3.1 billion in new plant investments in petroleum refineries and chemical plants have been completed, announced or started in its seven-parish region since Jan. 1, meaning an increase of 2,200 permanent

No immediate results are expected from the trip, but the chamber's Economic Development Council hopes that during the next few years the contacts made will lead Houston-based industries to expand into southeast Louisiana, increase their business ties with the area or perhaps even move entirely.

'We will be talking to several firms in Houston for one of two reasons," Mrs. Hayden said. "No. 1 is there are many firms in Houston who have grown quite a bit in the past 10-15 years. We would like to present them with the ad-Falling Chips Cause

Goldschmidt To Investigate FA

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter's nominee to be secretary of transportation appears headed for easy Senate confirmation, and if he gets the job, he says he will investigate the air safety policies of the Federal Aviation

Among his priorities as secretary, he said, would be a closer relationship between the departments of Transportation and Energy, full support of rail and truck deregulation and a push for energy independence through an expanded public transportation program and more efficient use of the automobile.

Goldschmidt testified at hearings held by the Senate Commerce Commit-

Sen. Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., committee chairman, noted that aviation safety has been an issue of heightened public interest and concern and asked Goldschmidt if he had any specific recommendations.

The FAA has come under criticism in the wake of two major air crashes in a year: the collision of a jetliner and a mall plane over San Diego, which killed 144 persons, and the crash of a DC-10-wide-body jet in Chicago. In the DC-10-crash, 273 persons perished — the worst U.S. air disaster.

Goldschmidt, 39, is an expert on mass transportation and is credited with revamping Portland's transit system, including development of a downtown mall for buses only.

However, Volcker noted that when the current inflation rate of about 13 percent a year is taken into account, interest rates - now at about 12 percent for major industrial borrowers - are actually negative.

Cuban Foreign Minister Isidoro Malmierca, chairman of Wednesday night's closed door meeting, presented a paper proposing that Cambodia's seat be left vacant because there was no consensus among the non-aligned nations over who should represent the Southeast Asian nation, said the sources, who declined to be identified.

Cuba has been a vocal supporter of Heng Samrin, who was installed as Cambodia's premier last January by the Vietnamese-led invasion force that toppled the government of Premier Pol Pot.

The Cuban proposal was challenged by 16 delegates who suggested Cambodia's seat should be taken by the Pol Pot representative until the conference decides whether or not to suspend the Pol Pot regime, the sources said.

At that point, they said, Malmierca abruptly adjourned the meeting, declaring that there was a consensus in support of the Cuban proposal despite the opposition of the 16 delegates and others who were not given an opportunity to

The Yugoslavian delegate and others banged the conference table in protest when Malmierca cut off debate, the sources said.

Singapore's delegate claimed Cuba was guilty of an "intolerable act" and said it was a demonstration that it cannot be trusted to preside over the nonaligned movement for the next three years, a position Cuba takes as host of the triennial meeting.

After the meeting, Malmierca announced that the Cuban paper would be sent to the non-aligned heads of govern-ment for their consideration.

Heng Samrin, the Cambodian premier installed by Vietnam, and Khieu Sampan, minister of state under the Pol Pot regime, are both in Havana to attend the summit, but neither has been seated.

In other conference developments, Black nationalist guerrilla leader Robert Mugabe told newsmen Wednesday he would not trust Britain to supervise elections as part of a proposed new settlement in Zimbabwe Rhodesia.

Mugabe said Britain, the colonial ruler of Rhodesia, cannot be trusted to run an impartial election because of Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's initial support for the black-led government of Prime Minister Abel Muzorewa that came to power in April.

Mugabe and his fellow guerrilla leader Joshua Nkomo are to meet with Muzorewa in London next month to try to draw up a new constitution for black majority rule in Zimbabwe Rhodesia. Mugabe told reporters he would favor a one-party system written into that con-

British, Irish To Exchange Data On IR

LONDON (AP) - Increased British-Irish exchanges of information on IRA activity are predicted as a result of a meeting between Prime Ministers Margaret Thatcher of Britain and Jack ynch of Ireland following the funeral of Earl Mountbatten.

Mrs. Thatcher and Lynch announced after a five-hour meeting Wednesday they had "agreed on their determination to stamp out terrorism" and that "recent events require that the present extensive cooperation between the authorities of the two countries must now be substantially improved."

They declined to say how this would be accomplished, but informed sources said there probably would be greater exchange of intelligence between security forces on guerrilla activities of the Irish Republican Army, which blew up Mountbatten's fishing boat in Donegal Bay Aug. 27, killing him and three other persons, and later the same day killed 18 British soldiers in a double bombing in Northern Ireland..

Lynch said "a number of suggestions" were made that will be "actively followed up" in the next three weeks. But he added that "the best way to get results is to keep these matters confidential," and he said he didn't think there would be any "dramatic announce-

The Irish government chief, wary of a backlash in the voting booths at home, already had turned down British demands for the right of "hot pursuit" of guerrillas who flee from Northern Ireland into the republic and for the extradition of IRA men wanted in Northern Ireland

"There's no way on earth that Lynch can be seen to hand over what some people see as Irish patriots, the so-called successors of men who fought for Irish independence, to the former colonial power," an Irish source said.

Lynch had hoped to get Mrs. Thatcher to launch a new political initiative in Northern Ireland to get the Protestant majority to share power with the Catholic minority in a coalition government. Their joint statement said she agreed political moves would be "made at the appropriate time Britain's position is that political ef-

Executives Get Tips On Interviews

By LeROY POPE NEW YORK (UPI) - Like it or not. hundreds of thousands of business executives are having to learn how to handle themselves in a television interview. It may just be an opportunity to discuss a novel product or some important development in his company or industry or the executive may have to face the camera and a barrage of questions resulting from a crisis like Three Mile Island, the DC-10 disaster or a business scandal. Whichever, it's happening to businessmen all over, both on the national and local levels.

Being interviewed on television is a lot different from being interviewed for

Appearance, voice and personal pois are important. So is quick thinking. Television interviews often go to the public instantaneously. Even with a taped interview, the first impression is likely to Schorr and Howard Co., New York corporate communications firm, has devoted a lot of study to TV interviews and Edward F. Howard, chairman, has some do's and don'ts on the subject.

Howard's advice includes about as many don'ts as do's, and one of the do's includes a negative:

-Do wear a soft-colored conservative costume but don't wear a white shirt or blouse. White is treacherous before the camera, Howard said. It can make your shirt looked soiled and create a distorting reflected glare on your face. Bold colors, patterns or flashy jewelry are distracting.

-Be well prepared so you will appear confident and won't have to hesitate too long in answering a question,

-Bring along a chart or some other visual device you can point to that will show up on the TV screen.

-Talk to the interviewer awhile before the program starts and find out how much expertise he or she has about the subject of the broadcast.

"I think we all ought to be on the same team, the same side. And that's the side of the country," Wright was

It probably is not surprising that Wright, who has spent the last quarter century in the House, equates Congress with government and government with the country. In this, the majority leader is like many politicians and others in the dramatic arts who tend to believe the world is not out of bed until they have pulled on their pants.

But apart from that illusion, the congressman also seems to have a somewhat skewed idea of what news people mean when they talk about an "adversary relationship" with government. Wright's view seems akin to a belief that a lawyer who defends someone accused of murder is in favor of killing people. Some news people may be wary, even hostile, toward government. Certainly a lot of them are deeply suspicious of politicians. But so are many oth-

There is no rule of journalism that requires reporters to be "enemies of government." But just as news people need not be hostile to government, they also should beware of falling in love with it, becoming "part of the same.

The adversary relationship does obligate those who report on government to remember they are not part of government, even if they do sit in the best seats to observe the House and Senate and work in the White House right along with the president.

They occupy those places as the eves and ears of the people whose lives are being affected by government and its doings. That is the reason the First Amendment guarantee of press freedom was put into the Constitution; to provide an independent check on those who

That is what the adversary relationship is all about, and it very clearly is something that is on "the side of the country.'

through to 1890.

Miss LaTourrette (she married Major Collins, assistant surgeon at the post hospital) also wrote: "Fort Union, N.M., up to the time of its abandonment in 1890, was one of the most important posts on the frontier. The arsenal was large and for many years supplied am-munition throughout the territory." Where the chimneys now stand as testimony to officers' row, she noted, "The quarters are built of adobe -- most comfortable both in winter and summer owing to the very thick walls and spa cions rooms."

As the largest military post guarding the southwest frontier, Fort Union played a key role in the settling of the Southwest. Today's visitor will fully appreciate the size and the importance of the frontier fort by first spending some time in the Fort Union National Monument Visitor Center. Interesting sight and sound displays picture the fort and describe the daily activities and important battles. Incidentally, a private earned $13 a day - once a month.

Be sure to ask for and read the free monument brochure. A soft drink dispenser and nearby picnic tables may be used as you study the brochure's map. The map will note the ruins of the guardhouse, stables, bakery, blacksmith, laundresses' facilities (Suds Row), hospital and the commander's house.

Standing almost intact is the fort's prison. The prison, separate from the guardhouse was for civilians and soldiers alike that were charged with being murderers or deserters. The cellblock (it also held renegade Indians) is almost intact with its doors creaking in the wind. Portions of the adobe building that en-controlled, and the railroad pushed westward to replace the Santa Fe Trail. Most of the soldiers were more than happy to leave when the orders arrived to abandon the frontier post. On February of the sant of th ary 21, 1891, the troops marched out of the fort to board a train for Fort Win-gate near Gallup; they cheerfully struck up a chorus of the song: "There's a Land that's Fairer than This."

It was the same land about which Miss LaTourrette had written in Fort Union Memories: "The climate is most bracing and healthful, so conductive to health and comfort."

But the site that had served as one of the most important forts on the frontier was no longer needed. A dust devil danced across the empty parade ground as the sound of a train's whistle was heard in the distance. An early settler said he also heard the echo of a bugle. Fort Union had served its purpose.

Stock Market Crash Recalled

By CHET CURRIER
NEW YORK (AP) — Few people

knew it at the time, but 50 years ago this week Wall Street and the United States stood at a landmark point.

In the first week of Septemer 1929, a runaway bull market in stocks reached its climax. Les than two months away was the crash that was to usher in the Great Depression.

"On Sept 3, by common consent, the great bull market of the 1920s came to an end," the economist John Kenneth Galbraith wrote in his book "The Great

"Economics, as always, vouchsafes us few dramatic turning points. Its events are invariably fuzzy or even indeterminate. On some days that followed—a few only—some averages were actually higher.

"However, never again did the market manifest its old confidence. The later peaks were not peaks but brief interruptions of a downward trend."

In the stock market Sept. 3, the day after Labor Day, General Electric reached 396 1/4, three times where it stood a year and a half before; Radio hit 101, having quintupled in 18 months, and U.S. Steel was 261 3/4, double its early-1928 level.

"Remember that on that day few people imagined that the peak had actually been reached," said Frederick cars and loll at ease on the sands of Palm Beach."

Two days later, on Sept. 5, there was a small forerunner of the disaster to come when the market declined sharply in what became known as the "Babson break."

Roger Babson, an economist known as something of a maverick and a perpetual prophet of gloom, declared that day in a luncheon speech to a business conference that "sooner or later a crash is coming." His forecast, however similar to ones he had made before, touched off a wave of selling.

By the next day, Friday, Sept. 6, the market had steadied. But Wall Street was still ruffled by what had happened, and Babson was roundly criticized.

"The methods by which he reached his conclusions were a problem," Galbraith noted. "They involved a hocus-pocus of lines and areas on a chart. Intuition, and possibly even mysticism, played a part.

"Those who employed rational, objective and scientific methods were naturally uneasy about Babson, although their methods failed to foretell the crash. In these matters, as often in our culture, it is far, far better to be wrong in a respectable way than to be right for the wrong reasons."

Annuities

Provide Tax Break

By CHET CURRIER

NEW YORK (AP) — The perennial quest for a tax break has focused increased attention lately on an investment known as the deferred annuity.

The basic principle of an annuity has been around a long time, of course. An individual, most often one who is about to retire, pays an institution such as an insurance company a given amount.

The institution then provides the individual with an annual income for a specified period or, commonly, for the rest of his life.

The "deferred" annuity differs from this basic setup in that the individual puts up the money well in advance of the year he wants to start collecting on it. In the interim the money is invested for him.

And that's where the tax break comes in. In that interim period, the government permits the money to compound tax-free.

"Not only does your original purchase earn interest and your interest earn interest, but the amount you would normally have to pay in income taxes remains in your annuity to earn more interest as well," the brokerage firm of Merrill Lynch Pierce Fenner & Smith said in the latest issue of its publication "Investments for a Changing Economy."

That may not look like much of an advantage at first glance. But, because of the way compounding works, it can make an amazing difference.

Consider the comparison worked out by John D. Wright, a financial planner at the firm of Prescott, Ball & Turben, of the different results available on a $10,000 investment for an individual in the 50 percent tax bracket.

The money invested in a conventional bank certificate of deposit yielding 8.8 percent will grow to $23,660 in 20 years. The same money in a deferred annuity yielding the same amount would reach $54,023 over the same period of time.

Even if the investor in this example were to take all $54,023 out of the annuity at the end of 20 years, incurring a $22,011 tax liability, he would still be left with $8,351 more than the one who opted for the certificate of deposit. That's a difference of 35 percent.

A taxpayer in the 40 percent tax bracket, in this example, would wind up with 30 percent more, Wright calculated, and one in the 30 percent bracket would come out 23 percent ahead.

These annuities are considered extremely safe because the insurance companies that sell them are required by state regulators to set aside reserves to back them. The system has been operating more than 100 years, and stockbrokers and insurance representatives who sell these annuities say there has never been a single default on a valid obligation.

The money put into this type of annuity is normally invested by the insurance company in long-term bonds. And there arises a problem — inflation. Even an annuity yielding 8 or 9 percent will lose ground to inflation every time the inflation rate gets above that level, as it is right now.

An alternative is the so-called variable annuity, in which the funds are typically invested in stocks. This option allows the investor some hope of beating inflation; it also exposes him to the risks of losses when stock prices decline.

That number will include all 45 acive bishops of the nine million-member church and many who are retired, the Albuquerque bishop said today.

The council session, one of two held each year, is scheduled for Nov. 13-16 at the Albuquerue Convention Center.

Among the bishops Carleton said he expects is Bishop Frank Dodge of Zim-babwe Rhodesia, recently assigned to that African country to replace Bishop Abel Muzorewa, who was granted a leave of absence last month after being elected prime minister earlier this year.

Carleton said most sessions of the council would be open to the public, except for two at which the bishops will write an address to be given at the church's General Conference in Indian-

On abortion, he said, "Our church does not sanction abortion in general, but there are ethical, moral and health reasons why a woman would want to decide whether or not she will have an abortion. We support her right to make

New Battle Begins On Energy Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — House and Senate energy conferees, among the scrappiest and most long-winded com-batants in Washington, are staging a return bout.

The main event: an attempt to produce a compromise standby gasoline-ra-tioning and energy conservation bills Work gets underway within the next few days.

Participants are largely the same two groups that fumed, argued and battled their way to a compromise energy bill in That effort began in 1977 and it was nearly a full year before the work was finished and a compromise produced. So when congressional leaders pre dict a short conference, as they have been doing, few on Capitol Hill seem to be taking them seriously. House-Senate energy conferees deadlocked and brawled so much in their last encounter it took the intervention of President Carter to cool tempers and keep the talks from collapsing entirely. Squaring off for the new battle are the same leaders of the Senate and Henry M. Jackson of the Senate Energy Committee and Harley O. Staggers of the House Commerce Committee. Jackson, a Washington Democrat, declared from the outset that he thought the House-passed rationing bill was "rid-dled with loopholes" and "completely" unacceptable" to either him or the Sen-

Staggers, a West Virginia Democrat, also approaches the negotiations with his position clear. "I'm against all forms of gasoline rationing. It only leads to corruption," he recently told a reporter. 31

Another leading House Democrat on the panel said he would give his assessment of the situation if his name wasn't used. "I'm fed up with the whole thing," he said. Even after agreement is reached on bious results. Not only did the conferees not produce a compromise bill as a result of i staying in town during the Christmas recess, but an unfortunate well-wisher dressed as Santa Claus mistakenly i walked into the room where the confer-greater than expected." he said. "Mortality due to breast cancer was nearly 11-fold more than expected."

The pathologist said an analysis of a variety of factors failed to reveal a basis for predicting which patients had the greatest or least likelihood of the original cancer spreading.

In a related report, Dr. Charles E. Land, of the National Cancer Institute in Bethesda, Md., reported that it is likely the breast is the organ most sensitive to radiation carcinogenesis in post-pubertal women.

He said the patterns after exposure of both radiation-induced and naturally occurring breast cancer are similar -'suggesting a strong influence of factors other than radiation on radiation-induced breast cancer."

What about risks from exposures before puberty and after menopause? Dr. Paul Peter Rosen, attending 'Uncertainties remain about risks' pathologist at Memorial Sloan-Kettering from such exposures, he said.

While that study was being prepared, he said, he opposed allowing the test solely to determine the sex of the fetus.

the sole right to decide whether she Mother Wants Son Kept On Life Support Device

PUEBLO, Colo. (UPI) - From her room at the Colorado State Hospital, the mother of a 17-month-old boy hospitalized with brain damage has asked the Colorado Supreme Court to prevent her son's life-saving device from being unplugged.

The woman, Rosalie Lovato, 20, was taken into custody for investigation of child abuse two weeks ago and now is in protective custody at the state hospital.

Tuesday, District Judge Donald Abra ruled the boy, who began showing signs of severe brain damage Aug. 23, could be removed from a respirator, but he gave the mother's attorneys 10 days to appeal to the state Supreme Court. Mrs. Lovato's lawyer, Carl W. Gellenthien, said he met with his client Wednesday and she asked him to stop doctors from taking her child off the life-saving device. "It's the mother's opinion that she wants every medical and legal test and

remedy possible before the life support system is pulled. I will have an appeal or an original writ into the Supreme Court by Monday or next Tuesday," he said. Gellenthien said a court-appointed guardian for the child, attorney Mickey Smith, also wanted to appeal. The boy, Jerry Trujillo, has been kept alive by a

AUSTIN (AP) - A county sheriff has no duty to place a person in the county jail when the person was arrested for violating only a municipal ordinance, the attorney general said Wednesday.

of prisoners who are defendants in corporation court cases is the responsibility of the city and the county commission ers court has no legal authority to pay a claim for feeding such prisoners.

There are other state laws, the opinion said, that allow cities and counties to make interlocal government agreements that could include the use of county jails for city prisoners.

Texas oilmen convicted of conspiring to smuggle and distribute 960 pounds of Mexican marijuana are scheduled to be sentenced by a federal judge here Sept.

Jurors deliberated about four hours Tuesday night before convicting John R. Dorr of Pecos and his associate, John Grant Passmore on three drug counts pending sentencing.

Prosecutors said Dorr was motivated by "pure, simple greed." But defense attorneys insisted he was framed by the prosecution's key witness, former Fort Worth police officer turned informant Terry Wayne Fagan.

Prosecutors said Dorr and Passmore conspired with Fagan and six others to smuggle the marijuana into the United States from Mexico. Fagan became a federal informant after he was arrested in Roswell, N.M., with a plane loaded with the illegal weed. Defense attorneys attacked his credibility, claiming he implicated the defendants to save himself. Prosecutors also introduced testimo-with the board Saturday in Austin. Amber, who walks with the aid of braces, was born with spinal bifida, a condition in which the nervous system is not completely enclosed. The defect resulted in a neurogenic bladder that requires catheterizations every three hours

I think the real issue is a question of whether a school district should be required to maintain the health of a child and risk it," said Dr. John Townley, superintendent of schools.

"The parents would like the school district to provide personnel to make her urinate. Our position is that the school district shouldn't have to treat her unless it is for educational purposes. And we're shy of being held legally responsible for malpractice from medical treatment.

Enoch said his appeal is based on laws that dictate "if you determine a child to be in need of special education. there may come a time when you'll have to provide a related service. The issue is what's the extent of the school was ordered to provide catheterization for a disabled student and schools in nearby Dallas provided them without legal confrontations.

In earlier proceedings, the Irving school district said it would not provide catheterizations but a hearing officer overruled the decision. The state commissioner of education upheld that ruling and the State Board of Education is the district's final appeal stop in the ed-

Texas Education Agency attorney David Ryan said the board will rule Saturday on the case, the first of its kind before the board.

Gold prices are soaring again, and while experts won't speculate how long the boom will last, they do say the force that eventually will topple it could be one of the factors that is pushing prices up—the troubled U.S. economy.

Since the beginning of the year, the price of an ounce of gold has risen almost $100 - $40 of that in a four-week rush that began Aug. 6. On Tuesday, gold closed in Zurich at a record $325.625 a troy ounce, up $2.75 from Monday's level.

Little more than a decade ago, in 1967, gold sold for about $35 an ounce. It has been rising steadily for the past sev-eral years, and stood at $225.20 in London at the beginning of this year.

Americans feel the rising price of gold most directly when they purchase gold jewelry or go to the dentist for a gold filling. But gold also is used in a wide variety of industrial applications, such as in electronic switches, and increases in prices in those areas will eventually make their way to the consumer level.

Analysts said Tuesday that political and economic uncertainty were the factors behind the yellow metal's surge. Gold traditionally is considered a safe haven for investors when the currencies they invest in - especially the dollar are being buffeted.

"One could think of the gold price as being a barometer, an index, of world-wide anxieties about politics and the economy," said Jeffrey Nichols, an analyst at Argus Research Corp. "There's a

The anxiety centers around worries about recession in the United States and inflation in the United States and abroad, caused to a large measure by this year's steep rise in oil prices.

Gold prices are also being bolstered by massive purchases of the metal by nations with large amounts of money to invest. These include members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, who have lots of cash because of rising oil prices.

"I think they're buying gold for the simple desire to make money," said James Sinclair, a New York investment advisor. "Making money is their hob-

But the advantages gold gains from U.S. economic woes could be shortlived, according to Nichols. As the nation, he said. When inflation begins to moderate, interest in the dollar will build again, and investors will start switching their holdings from gold into the U.S. currency. Nichols said the slowing of the inflationary spiral "will be perceived as good — but bad for the gold market." As to when that will happen and gold prices will begin to fall, though, Nichols is loathe to guess. "I've been saying for six months that it was about over and I've been wrong every time," he said.

According to Sinclair, picking a possible ceiling on gold prices is made more difficult because the market has lately been ignoring traditional psychological barriers, such as the $300-an-ounce level.

"One hundred was irrelevant, $200 was irrelevant, you now see $300 was irrelevant and now $400 is probably irrelevant," he said.

The fall in gold prices could be as fast as the rise, Nichols said.

For the past couple of seasons, the Bulldogs, known for their fast season starts, have owned the Westerners lock, stock and kicking tee. In 1977, the ver-dict was 42-14 and last year the count was 14-6, both in favor of BHS.

"It's really hard for me to evaluate the competition (Borger) for this week," Salinas, a Cooper High grad, commented. "I really haven't been here long enough to even know my own (players) as well as I'd like to.

"But I do know that a lot of things that we do, they do," added Salinas.

"We've got a lot of things going our way right now," said Salinas. "Our senior class has really come in and taken hold of things. . . they're real leaders. That's something that's hard to coach."

Heading up the group of leaders are quarterback Larry Walker, a starter in seven games last year as a junior; defen-sive end Rudy Barrera and running backs Thomas Romero, Tino Chapa and Gilbert Cuevas.

The Bulldogs, under second-year coach Butch Henderson, finished last season with a 5-5 won-loss mark, including the big win over LHS. Henderson welcomed back three offensive and five defensive starters off that unit when fall drills began a little over three weeks

Tech scared the Trojans during last season's opener in the Los Angeles Coliseum. The Red Raiders took a 9-0 halftime lead before falling 17-9. USC head coach John Robinson expects another close football game with the Raiders.

"This will be a very close game and a severe challenge for us," remarked Robinson. "Texas Tech will be one of the surprise teams in college football this season. At the end of the year 1 wouldn't be surprised if they're ranked in the top 15.

White is relatively small for a tailback (6-0, 185 pounds) but is the latest in a long line of great USC running backs. That list includes Mike Garrett, O.J. Simpson. Anthony Davis and Ricky Bell. 'Charlie's the best football player in America," said Robinson. "And he's the most durable player I've ever coached. I think he could play a doubleheader." McDonald, a left-hander, hasn't really received the amount of ink due him. In 1978 he passed 203 times for and completed 135 of his strikes for 1,915 yards and a 57 percent completion mark. He had seven passes picked off.

McDonald's statistics were even more impressive for the final seven games of 1978. The 6-2, 180-pounder completed 62 percent of his passes for

White and McDonald are without a doubt an explosive pair of football players. But the USC offensive line could be the team's strongest point. Four of five starters from the '78 offensive front, including preseason all-America picks Anthony Munoz at weak-side tackle and Brad Budde at strong-side guard.

Munoz (6-7, 280) is a strong candidate for the Outland Trophy and a sure No. 1 draft pick next spring. He has outstanding quickness (4.9 in the 40) and is a very strong football player.

Junior Keith Van Horne (6-7, 255) will man the strong-side tackle slot. Van Horne started all 13 games for USC last season, as did returning center Chris Foote, a 6-4, 250-pound senior. Budde (6-5, 255) is on his way to be-

For the past couple of weeks, Jack Quarles has eaten more green beans than the Green Giant and more pie than Sara Lee.

On the plus side for the Ponies are the "defense, pretty good depth and some good competition at almost every position. Plus our passing game is going to be a lot stronger than last year. We've got some kids that can really catch the

And more important, the Ponies have someone that can throw it in quarterback Alan Harp.

"He should be one of the best around," Quarles commented about Harp. "He's in the same mold as (Texas Tech quarterback) Ron Reeves. He's a tough runner and a good thrower. And the field. Quarles knows inexperience even more important, he's a leader.

someone people rally behind." The 180-pounder will also double up as a defensive back.

"I wish I had 11 of them just like him." said Quarles.

Joining Harp in the backfield are either Dane Boyles or Lance Washam at fullback, halfback Kelly Haynes and either Noel Medrano, Donald Ewing or Ricky Melvin at tailback. "There's a heck of a battle going on in almost every position in the backfield," commented Quarles. "It's really making people work awfully hard."

Abel Castro, John Lord and Mike Ahlenius are all battling for the starting offensive ends jobs. And like the other positions, Quarles says, "it's a tossup there, too,'

Holding down the tackle jobs are the Lacy brothers, Chris and David, while Chris Rohrer is the starting center. Joe Quarles enters his second year as the head man at CHS. And according to him, this season is quite a bit different that the last one. "There was an unknown part about last year. We came in here and didn't know the kids real well Now that's changed. Now we know who we've got and what they can do."

Lofty District, State Rankings Concern Kelley, Young Matadors

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff Estacado coach Louis Kelley says that his Matadors are woefully young and inexperienced this year - but he's not getting any sympathy from the other Distict 1-AAA coaches.

The reason for the lack of sympathy is that the Matadors are picked by Texas Football magazine to do even better in 1979 than they did in '78. And the Matadors did plenty last year, advancing all the way to the AAA semifinals before bowing out to Gainesville.

"I just can't figure why folks are picking us so high," deadpans Kelley. Heck, we lost most of our players from

But there's one player the Matadors didn't lose, in fact he's only a junior this year. That's Kelvin White, a 175-pound halfback with lightning-quick moves who led the city in rushing last year with 1,-058 yards during the regular season.

Barring injury, White should have two great years ahead of him in the EHS backfield. And the Matadors have some other very capable people in that backfield. Jerry Gray (160 junior) will handle the quarterbacking duties and George Irvin will be at the other halfback posi-

Alvin Davis and Stacy Burrell should both see some playing time at the fullback position. Davis had been tabbed to start in the Matadors opener against Plainview Friday night but was slowed by a groin injury earlier in the week. And even with the Matadors lack of experience, Kelley admits that Estacado could be tough to beat by the time district play rolls around.

'We were able to move the football well in both of our (preseason) scrimmages," said Kelley Wednesday. "So I hope we'll come around by the time district starts."

The Matadors have only three returning offensive starters and five defensive men back, but Kelley is expecting a bunch from those players. Three of the EHS starters: James Rose, Preston Davis and Stacy Burrell will go both ways for the Mats.

Those three players are the key to our team," says Kelley. "They give us a lot of ability and a lot of leadership.'

Rose will play tight end on offense and on the line with the defensive unit while Burrell will play in the offensive backfield and at a linebacker spot. Davis is a wingback-cornerback.

"Preston is one of our leaders," says Kelley. "I've coached seven of those yet. He's got the speed and the size to be a good college player.'

Overall the Matadors aren't as big as they were a year ago, although they still have some size. Center Leonard Chatham is a 220-pound junior and tackle Tim Malone weighs in a 210 pounds.

"We're not as big this year," admits Kelley, "but we're quicker than we were a year ago."

Apparently someone thinks the the Matadors are plenty quick - the Texas Sports Writers Association picked the squad to go all the way to the state finals in '79. But a quick glance at the record book shows that the preseason favorite in 1-AAA doesn't always pan out.

Last year Dumas was picked to take the loop crown. In fact, the Demons were the No. 1-ranked AAA team in the state before the season started.

But the Demons fell and fell hard. winding up 4-6 on the year and 2-3 in district. Back in '77. Estacado was also an early district favorite. But the Mats wound up 6-4 and finished second in dis-

It's not so difficult to understand why Kelley is leery of that high ranking.

Lightning flashed in the distance. Jets flew through the fog overhead with booming regularity. Raindrops fell intermittently and a near-capacity National Tennis Center crowd roared with each shot. And lurking just a few miles aways was a tropical storm.

It was Roscoe Tanner's rockets, those serves that can travel at better than 150 mph. It was Bjorn Borg's Swedish thunderbolts, at times traveling faster than Tanner's cannonballs.

And it was so much more, for this was the new Tanner, the model that covers the court like a rain squall, volleys with precision and constantly applies

And it was the old Borg, the unflappable No. 1 seed and four-time Wimbledon champion in quest of the tennis Grand Slam, digging deep, deeper into his impressive arsenal. At the end, when Borg's backhand service return was wide, the fifth-seeded Tanner clenched his fists skyward. Hurricane Roscoe had struck Flushing Meadow. Tanner, who lost a thrilling five-set final to Borg at Wimbledon, won perhaps the biggest match of his carer Wednesay in the U.S. Open. His 6-2, 4-6, 6-2, 7-6 quarterfinal victory was accomplished with the aid of 11 aces, 7 service winners and Tanner's unfaltering confid-

I served well when I was in trouble and that's what it came down to. That and being lucky."

Tanner appeared anything but lucky when, serving at 5-3 in the fourth set and after slamming his 11th ace of the match to save a break point, one of his serves hit the net and the net collapsed. A seven-minute delay followed while a new net was put in place.

That gives you too much time to sit and think," Tanner said. "All I thought was, 'two more aces,'

Before play resumed, Borg and Tanner were allowed a short warmup. They exchanged friendly pit-pats to loosen up, then went back to war.

Tanner immediately hit a service winner for his first match point. After a long rally, Borg hit a short lob and Tanner extended heavenward for the overhead smash that would win the match.

When I saw it, I felt very lucky," he admitted. "After I hit it, I felt very un-

Asked what was different about this match and the Wimbledon final, Tanner cracked, "The ending. "Wimbledon has been a factor in my play overall everywhere," added Tanner, who next meets the winner of tonight's Vitas Gerulaitis-Johan Kriek quarterfinal. "You realize you can play in that category - with the chmpions." Jimmy Connors still is thinking about defending his title here after an easy 6-2, 6-1, 6-1 victory over a tired Pat DuPre. DuPre, who felt he had been done an injustice by having to play again Wednesday after suffering severe leg cramps following a five-set victory over Harold Solomon Tuesday, clearly was fatigued. He held service just three times in 11

Connors' semifinal opponent will be the winner of today's John McEnroe-Eddie Dibbs match.

Two women reached the semifinals Wednesday, top seed Chris Evert Lloyd and No. 9 Billie Jean King. They'll play in a semifinal after Mrs. Lloyd topped No. 5 Evonne Goolagong Cawley of Australia 7-5, 6-2, and Mrs. King defeated longtime rival Virginia Wade of Britain, the No. 4 seed, 6-3, 7-6.

Broncos, LA Vie; Preston Leads Way

DENVER (AP) — Dave Preston isn't one to flaunt his ability as a football

"Honestly, I'm too slow and I'm too short," says the Denver Bronco running back. "I'm not big enough to run inside, or fast enough to run outside, I'm no Earl Campbell — I won't break six or seven tackles on a play. I'm not strong enough to block the blitzing linebacker. And I won't win any footraces either. All those things that make the ideal running back, I'm not.'

With Rob Lytle still not 100 percent because of a knee injury and Otis Armstrong ailing with a bruised sternum, the 5-foot-11, 198-pound Preston is the Broncos' only healthy halfback as they entertain the Los Angeles Rams tonight (7:30 p.m. CDT) in a nationally televised game - the first of three special Thursday night games this season.

I'm very surprised to be starting this early in the year, since my goal was just to make the team again," said Preston, who was the third-to-last player drafted in 1977 and who "got caught in the numbers game" at New England before signing with Denver as a free agent in 1978.

National Football League computers, which measure an athlete's vital statistics and rate him accordingly, probably wouldn't even acknowledge Pres-'But the computer doesn't read the amount of heart, intelligence, will to win or guts a person has," Preston says. "Those intangibles are what makes the difference between a guy who can play and one who can't. I've had to adapt, to make the most of my ability. Preston has adapted so well that he's earned a starting spot at running back for the Broncos, and after one game he's the team's leading rusher with 70 yards on 10 carries. An I-back in college at Bowling Green, Preston had little experience in blocking or catching the bell. But he has labored on both aspects of the game, and last year he led Denver's running backs in receptions with 24 catches for 199 yards. In a 10-0 victory over Cincinnati last Sunday, Preston caught a 6vard pass from Norris Weese for the game's only touchdown.

Los Angeles comes into tonight's game smarting from a 24-17 loss to Oakand last week. The Rams suffered two blocked punts, a fumbled punt return and three interceptions in an uncharacteristic performance.

Los Angeles quarterback Pat Haden completed 21 of 41 passes for 229 yards and a touchdown against the Raiders. Lawrence McCutcheon, showing signs of recovery from an injury-plagued 1978 season, rushed for 65 yards on

Pacers Face Questions After Signing Miss Meyers

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — In theory, there's nothing wrong with a woman trying to play in the National Basketball Association But in the harsh, down-toearth reality of the sport, there wouldn't seem to be a ghost of a chance for success on basketball talent alone.

The Indiana Pacers, principally at the urging of new owner Sam Nassi, are willing to test the theory. But what's hard to believe is their contention that they re dead serious.

In a much-publicized news conference in Los Angeles on Wednesday, Nas-Ann Meyers They insisted she will get no preferential treatment, and she will have to earn a spot on the Pacer roster.

"I'm serious about it." the 5-foot-9, 140-pound Meyers told the reporters in Los Angeles. "Many think that it is a gimmick, but I think I've been given a chance of a lifetime. This is a challenge. I know it is unusual, but I've had dreams all my life."

Ann Meyers, regarded perhaps as highly in California as hometown legend Oscar Robertson is in Indianapolis, is a fine basketball player. There's no question about that. A sister of Milwaukee Bucks' forward Dave Meyers, she was a four-time all-America at UCLA, played, sincere.

on the 1976 U.S. Olympic team and averaged 17.4 points for her college career. There is no NBA policy against a woman player, said Commissioner Larry If her signing is to be taken seriously. the key question is whether she can help a club that has vet to break even in three NBA seasons. The Pacers claim they want to give her the chance. On basketball talent alone, however, she would have to survive a brual physicl pounding and beat out at least five other rookies, free agents or veterans in training camp beginning next Monday. If it's a publicity stunt. Nassi must figure the novelty of a woman player will help fill seats whether she plays regularly or spends the season on the bench. But can the Pacers, whose roster si and coach Bobby Leonard announced has been shuffled from top to bottom in the signing of former UCLA all-America - recent years, afford to keep an unused and unusable player?

After three years of near-bankruptcy, Nassi's purchase put the Pacers on solid financial footing, but their attendance, down from 12,000 to about 9,000 last year, could use a boost.

She will undoubtedly stay with the team through the exhibition season. And she will probably draw added crowds just to see her take pregame warmups, even if she doesn't play.

Leonard's first reaction when approached by Nassi with the prospect was in total opposition.

Eventually, Leonard said, he believed both Nassi and Miss Meyers were his lopsided view. The triumph allowed him to escape the dubious dstinction of tying the American League record for most consecutive losses over two seasons. He had 18 before he beat the Brewers.

He had already tied the record for the worst season start by a major league pitcher with 14.

"They're all behind me now," said a euphoric Keough, celebrating the occasion with champagne.

Keough allowed but five hits during his impressive performance. The only run off the right-hander was unearned in the first inning. Keough, whose last victory came on September of last year, had the 1,772 Oakland Coliseum fans chanting "Keough," as he mowed down the Brewers, one of baseball's best-hitting teams.

Paper Reports Carlen To Lose AD Position

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) - Jim Carlen's contract as athletic director at the University of South Carolina won't be renewed when it expires in three years, but he might remain as football coach, The Columbia State (newspaper) said to-

Carlen, reached by telephone at a home, declined to comment on the report, saying, "It's a board matter."

The newspaer said the school's trustees made the decision this week.

James B. Holderman, president of the upiversity, also would not comment. He said any statement on the matter should come from the board.

The State said Holderman has been authorized to offer Gamecock basketball coach Frank McGuire a vice presidency for public relations when the upcoming season ends. McGuire, 65, is going into his 16th season at South Carolina. The story said his salary of $54,600 would continue.

University and athletic officials could not be immediately reached for comment. McGuire had called an 11 a.m. news conference today but for what a spokesman said was a routine announce-

The Greenville News today quoted sources as saying that the 1979-80 basketball season would be McGuire's last as basketball coach even if he declined the other position offered to him.

Carlen, at South Carolina for four years after coming from Texas Tech, has supervision over all athletics except basketball. McGuire is his own boss with the title of associate AD.

The trustees and Holderman have been considering seeking re-affiliation with an athletic conference in recent weeks. The president rejected an invitation from the Metro 7 last month because it didn't have a football program.

He said South Carolina was interested in a "full and comprehensive" athletic program in a conference.

The school has been independent since leaving the Atlantic Coast Conference in 1971.

The State said the school has had preliminary discussions with athletic conferences, which advised its officials to end the division of authority in athletic director's duties.

The newspaper said some trustes were allo disturbed by what they consider an over-reaction by Carlen to a bumper sticker calling for a winning season in football.

Carlen has sought the persons with the stickers on their cars and held lengthy and persistent conversations with them. The trustees consider the conduct unbecomis.g, The State said.

State-Ranked Teams Collide In HS Opener

By United Press International Ron Poe says seven offensive and four defensive players will return to McKinney this season from the team that finished 9-1 a year ago, but the coach isn't sure the size, speed and experience they will bring will be enough to make the Lions No. 1 in Class AAA.

He will have a good chance to see why Friday night when McKinney travels to No. 10-ranked Paris of AAAA to open the 1979 season.

We have some skilled people back in key positions, and we hope to finish the No. 1 club in the state," Poe told UPI this week. "But, right now I'm just not so sure. "I have mixed emotions. It's good for the kids and the fans. It gets them excited and ready to play. But, it also gets everyone else ready to play, too. Everyone shoots a little bit harder at you when you're rated the best." Poe said excitement is high in McKinney this year, and as a result there would be a good following for the team to Paris Friday night.

"We're have a turnout, no question about that," he said. "And, everyone who shows up will certainly get their money's worth

But Poe quickly admits he'd rather play at McKinney

"We just play better at home," he said. "We seem to have trouble anywhere we go.

Randolph Gets Loop Honors

Just Tuesday, Lubbock Christian College coach Jerry Don Sanders announced that linebacker Pat Randolph was selected as the Athlete of the Week.

And almost at the same time as Sanders was talking, the young Chaparral was in the process of picking up more honors. Wednesday, it was announced that Randolph had been named the Texas Intercolliate Athletic Association's Player of the Week

Randolph's efforts came as the Chaparrals lost a 35-6 verdict to McMurry in their first football game ever. The linebacker, a 180pound freshman, made 11 tackles and knocked down two passes in the contest.

Randolph will be in action this week when the Chaparrals play another TIAA team, Sul Ross State, at Alpine.

San Francisco, which was supposed to be in the thick of things in the West, lost its seventh in a row, 6-5 to Cincinnati, and Bob Lurie, owner of the Giants, decided enough was enough, fir-ing Altobelli and giving Dave Bristol his fourth shot at major league managing.

Homers by George Foster and Ray Knight and Dan Driessen's decisive RBIdouble in the seventh inning helped Fred Norman of the Reds beat San Francsico for his 100th major league

Lurie then made his decision and gave Altobelli his walking papers. In 1978 Altobelli was the NL Manager of the Year - but the Giants, 80-60 and just four games out of first place a year ago at this time, are 61-79 and 181/2

The job was handed to third base coach Dave Bristol, who has managed for nine seasons in the majors with Cincinnati (1966-69), Milwaukee (1970-72) and Atlanta (1976-77).

"I've been thinking about this the last few days," Lurie said, "and I decided that the way things were going they weren't going to get any better and I thought that a change should be made at this time. . The Giants have been beset with poor pitching and injuries; only two players — first baseman Mike Ivie and third baseman Darrell Evans - who started opening day were healthy enough to start Wednesday. Lately the team had been troubled with dissension. Pitcher Vida Blue, 10-13 with a 5.18 earned run average, made threats against writers for being critical of the team's performance. And John Montefusco, a disappointing 3-7 on the mound, threatened to quit the team after being fined for drinking on the team

Astros 4, Padres 3 San Diego's John D'Acquisto threw four straight bad pitches to Enos Cabell with the bases loaded in the 10th inning. forcing Houston pitcher Joe Sambito home with the Astros' winning run that kept them one-half game ahead of the Reds in the West

Eases Parseghian Out Of Notre Dame Games

Associated Press Sports Writer

OK, students. Time for our weekly television guiz: Who will be doing college football this year?

(c) Chris Schenkel, (d) Woody Hayes.

If you answered the first two, you deserve a varsity let-

ABC, the network with the roving eye for top-rated cheerleaders, will be doing the NCAA's glamour games for the 14th straight season. ABC gets first crack at the major college games and will be doing 13 national broadcasts and 45 regional telecasts live on Saturday.

ESPN (the Entertainment and Sports Programming Network) has a hand in the college game for the first time. ESPN will get ABC's leftovers and will be doing those games at odd hours throughout the rest of the weekend. ESPN, a distributor of sports events for cable TV, plans to have 24 hours of sports by Jan. 1, 1980, reaching a potential audience of five million homes. This weekend, for example, ESPN plans taped broadcasts of four college games, including Chuck Fairbanks and Colorado against Oregon at 12:30 a.m. CDT and 6:30 p.m. Sunday.

Schenkel, a fixture on ABC's college football telecasts since 1966, has been dropped from the squad. He will be sharing the College Football Scoreboard assignment with Dave Diles, and he's not at all happy about the demotion. But the move was inevitable.

Schenkel is from the "gee-whiz" school of journalism, and the broadcasting game seemed to have passed him by. While today's best announcers can honestly critique a bad

AP Sports Analysis

performance, Schenkel was much more at home calling every player a credit to his school, family and country and commenting on the caliber of ABC's "honey" (cheerleader)

Woody Hayes, longtime coach at Ohio State, won't be on the college scene either. The irascible Hayes was fired last Dec. 29 for punching Clemson player Charlie Bauman, who had had the audacity to intercept an Ohio State pass late in the Gator Bowl game.

That infamous interception and punch in Jacksonville, Fla., caused numerous problems for ABC's main play-byplay announcer, Keith Jackson. He was bombarded with charges of covering up the incident because he never mentioned it on the air.

Jackson, who says he never did get along with Hayes, explained that the crowd of players, coaches and hangers-on cluttering the Ohio State sideline obscured his view of the monitor replay, either.

The replay camera on the ball was turnd off as soon as Bauman went out of bounds. And even though the punch was clearly seen live by the viewers at home, the play couldn't be shown again because ABC traditionally blacks out the local area, so there was no network feed back to Jacksonville. With only one minute left in the game, there wasn't enough time to get the replay from the "history tape" from the main studio in New York, leaving ABC and

"My responsibility is to my profession first and then to the public," said Jackson. "I can't report what I can't see." Jackson was angry that ABC didn't spend the $4,600 to bring the main feed back into Jacksonville, despite the local

Jackson helpless and embarrassed.

"The reason it won't happen again is simple," Jackson said. "We'll never get into a situation where we're not protected on the live feed.

Jackson will have his live feed Saturday in Atlanta when Alabama meets Georgia Tech on national TV in ABC's season opener. Former Notre Dame coach Ara Parseghian will handle the commentary.

Jackson will handle ABC's top games, while Parseghian will alternate with Arkansas athletic director Frank Brovles. Parseghian, who turned cheerleader in his first and only attempt at analysis of a Notre Dame game, will not work any Fighting Irish games. Broyles won't work Arkansus games but can do Southwest Conference contests:

The rest of the ABC lineup includes Al Michaels, who he close to signing a contract with NBC for next year, working with either Broyles or Parseghian in the second game; No team Jim Lampley and Lee Grosscup and No. 4 Verne Lundquist and Steve Davis.

ABC's four-year, $118-million contract with the NCAmin's broken down into two 2-year periods. No team can have more than five regular season apperances in either two-year period Last season, the first year of the contract, ABC went wild and put most of the major schools on three times Among the top schools, only Oklahoma, Arkansas, Michigan, Ohio State and Purdue have three appearances left.

The problem: Does ABC, for example, show Texas' traditional thrillers with Oklahoma and Arkansas in midseason leave one Longhorn appearance open, in case Texas' matechup with Texas A&M on Dec. 1 is for the SWC title?

For the first time ever, ABC got a waiver from the NCAA. and didn't have to pick its September schedule in advance. as was previously required. For most weeks, ABC's lineup won't be announced until the Monday before. This eliminates clinkers and also allows for unsung teams rising in the rankings to have a shot at ABC's booty."

Teams on national TV split $533,000 and teams on region: al TV share $401,000. And isn't that what big-time college football is getting to be all about?

Miami Beach Police Aid 'Lost' Retirees

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Police him who he was and where he lived. call them "the lost people" - befuddled and perplexed elderly retirees on Miami Beach who wander away from their rooms, forget how to get back and end up walking the streets until someone can

You can drive along Washington Avenue and see them sitting on park benches," said Elayne Wolfenson of the police department's Community Services Division. "They stand out like sore thumbs "They look - well, how does a lost child look? They have a look in their faces like a lost child. It happens many times that when you reach out to them, they start to cry. A typical situation in this once-haughty-but-now-fading resort city involved an

85-year-old man standing alone in front of a supermarket, obviously with no idea of why he was there or where he should "You mean you know me?" he asked police officers who offered to take him back to his hotel room. His room was just three blocks away Police knew the old man immediately. It was the seventh time this year he'd been brought into the Miami Beach police station, looking for someone to tell

Miss Wolfenson said a lost person. nearly always a local resident, is found wandering on South Beach at least once a day. Last month, police helped about 60 people - not including the "steady players" who repeatedly get lost - find their homes. The north end of Miami Beach remains an exclusive, upper-class section with rows of towering ment buildings and $100,000-plus homes. A severe decline in tourism in recent years - the lifeblood of the city's economy - however, has taken its toll

The south end of the city, although slated for a major redevelopment project, is at the other end of the scale populated mostly by elderly retirees who came to spend their waning years in the sun and fellowship of others like them.

Many suffer from various degrees of

"A lot of times the behavior is caused by a stroke or by other diseases caused by hardening of the arteries," Miss Wolfenson said. "It is a chronic physical illness that gets progressively

Most "lost people" are led home a few hours after being spotted.

Mother Soldier, Baby Battle Army Red Tape

FORT ORD, Calif. (UPI) - Mary lynn Grover joined the people who joined the Army - but the baby that joined along with her caused a nightmare of beauraucracy and red tape she has yet to escape.

The 19-year-old Santa Ana, Calif. woman enlisted in the Army two years ago, when she was a junior in a Chicago high school. Now she's being held at Fort Ord for going AWOL. T've never been so alone in my life.

I don't know what's going to happen to me or when I can get out," said Miss Grover, who is being held in the stockade and not allowed off base, although she is not under lock and key

She was arrested in Los Angeles on Aug. 26 when she went to visit a friend in jail. Because she had no identification with her, police checked her on their computer and found out she was AWOL.

She was taken in handcuffs to Fort

Ord, where she was assigned to the post's personnel control facility for work as a typist. Her mother is taking care of her 15-month-old daughter in Santa Ana. "I just can't believe this is happening to me, but I've pinched myself and it hurts so I must be awake," the despondlease so she can return to college in San-Miss Grover said her tale of woe began after she signed up under the Army's delayed enlistment plan in 1977. In December of that year, after she had enlisted, she found out she was pregent woman said as she waited for her re-

She also learned there were regulations against single mothers serving in the Army, so she didn't report for active duty at Fort Jackson, S.C. as ordered. She told the enlistment office in Chicago she was moving to California with her mother, and they told her it was alright as long as she reported to the recruiting office when she arrived, which "This is one of those off-the-wall cases," said Sgt. Thomas McCurdy, who is handling Miss Grover's case at Fort Ord. We usually handle the clear-cut, hardcore AWOLs here.

"This is different — it's a complete misunderstanding.

Model I Level | 4K TRS-80 System as shown* Was $599 in 1979 Catalog

Model I Level II TRS-80 System* Was $988 in 1979 Catalog

*Level refers to version of BASIC language: Level I is a beginner's language, while Level II is very advanced. Level and memory can be expanded. All systems include 232-page users manual and game cassette.

Two years ago, Radio Shack introduced the TRS-80: The wired, tested, UL listed and ready-to-run microcomputer that more people have bought than any other single computer in history. TRS-80 is like a big computer, but it stores less data and runs at a lower speed. It has proven ideal for uses in school, business, lab and home, where a large computer is impractical.

Thousands with no computer experience -- just like you - have discovered computers with a Level I system. Many are using our dozens of ready-to-run cassette programs, while others have learned to program TRS-80 themselves. Level I's manual makes programming easy and fun to learn. Then you can convert to the powerful Level II language for more advanced capabilities.

Your system will include everything pictured everything you need - plus the manual. And it's waiting now, less expensive than ever, at your nearest Radio Shack store or participating dealer.

EDITOR'S NOTE: At night in the heart of beam-Manhattan, personal tragedy fakes many forms. I medics riding a city ambulance see several of m in a single hight's work. UPI Sports, Editor-ton Richman briefly left the sports beat to account on ambulance on a recent night. This is report.)

By MILTON RICHMAN

NEW YORK (UPI) - The blood was ill coming from the man's head, runng down the back of his summer shirt, hich had been pale green when he first at it on to go to work in the morning, ut now was dark red.

He cradled his head with both hands, ying to stop the steady flow of blood. nd with his eyes half closed, he looked if he was about to pass out any sec-

This was the way Mike Cottrell and enny Ryan found him sitting on the ottom of a stairway in the back of one those seedy porno palaces in the heart Times Square.

Earlier the same evening, Cottrell nd Ryan, working together and riding ogether in New York City ambulance 99 as Emergency Medical Service nit 113, had been summoned to a hangng and a drowning. When they finished ose two assignments, they had to nake their way through crosstown rush our traffic responding to a call for medcal assistance at a potential shootout in he subway where a fellow with a shotun was threatening to blow everybody

Cottrell, 31, and Ryan, 25, had been sked to do this, and more, within a hree-hour span working out of the Bellevue Hospital garage, and now with ore than two hours still to go on their hift, they got the call over the radio in heir ambulance for this mugging on 42nd Street.

Waiting for them at the entrance was he manager of the movie house and the narquee above the theater read: "Three Big Sex Features. Rated X. New Show every Wednesday." The two ambulance orpsmen paid no attention to the lurid ids of pictures to come on both sides of he lobby. Instead, they moved quickly brough it into the theater itself with the nanager showing them the way.

When they got to the victim he ooked up at them pleadingly and he eemed as he never was so happy to see nybody in his life.

Two city police officers. Charles homa and Arthur Molhentin, already vere on hand even though Cottrell and Ryan had responded within four minutes of receiving the call. The cops said the victim had been mugged in the men's room of the theater. He had been grabbed from behind, choked and struck on the head with some hard object. His wallet and credit cards were taken. So was all the cash he had - $2.

Cottrell, a big, congenial Brooklynite with a wife and two kids he's trying to support on a back-breaking job he loves that pays $10,500 a year to start and $11. 800 at the top, immediately began bandaging the moviegoer's head.

I don't want my wife to know where was when this happened," the victim

They all assured him they'd keep his

Ryan, whose wife, Patricia, also works for EMS and who is finishing his esters in Criminal Justice at John Jav ollege, asked the man his name and he

"Do you have any medical problems?

Hypertension," was the answer. 'Do you take any medication?

"I used to, but I stopped a year ago." Cottrell went to get a special folding hair with wheels out of the ambulance, or "bus," as the corpsmen call it, and after he and Ryan got the victim on it. they took him out of the movie house and into the ambulance.

'Don't forget my brief case," the man said, anxiously, more worried about that than about his condition.

Inside the ambulance, the man was put on a cot and Ryan talked to him. rying to keep him from losing consiousness, while Cottrell drove to Belle-

Don't go to sleep on me now. Ton-Ryan said, holding one hand lightly on the man's stomach to make sure he was still breathing. "Don't go to sleep

Ryan took the victim's blood pressure and on his report, he noted it was 144-110

"How high is it?" was the mumbled

"It's a little elevated," Ryan answered

"How much? A hundred plus.

Ryan kept talking, hoping to keep the man from blacking out. "How long were you in the movie?

'An hour," was the answer. 'This is Times Square," Ryan reminded him. "It's a jungle...you have to be careful in those theaters. Especially when you go in there by yourself.

The man's eyes were beginning to close again.

"You know," he said, slowly. "I have a feeling I'm not gonna make it. You're gonna make u, Ryan told him sharply. "You got a good rap on the skull. That doesn't mean you're gonna

He tapped the man's shoulder 'C'mon, Tony," he said. "No sleeping allowed in here. I want you to talk to

The man tried to comply

You know, I met a guy in the movie who saved my life," he said. "He was a Spanish-speaking fellow, and after I got hit, he helped me up the stairs. He was a really good fellow. I told him I had no money, and you know what he did? He gave me a dollar."

The ambulance had reached Belle

"See, we're here." Ryan announced. Nobody dies on this ambulance. Nobody. Not while I'm around."

New York's budget slashes have cut deeply into EMS, the city-run ambulance system, which answered 466,927 red light and when he had to cross over calls last year. There have been charges that city ambulances average 14 minutes to answer calls, but that certainly wasn't the case when I rode an entire 8-hour shift, from 4 p.m. to midnight, with Cottrell and Ryan recently during what they described as an "average" Friday. Covering an extremely busy, congested area of almost three square miles from the East River to the Hudson River, from 23rd Street to 59th Street, the longest they took to answer any call was 8 minutes and the shortest time was 4

Cottrell picked his way through traffthe way Franco Harris of the Pittsburgh Steelers threads his way through an enemy line. And he did it with only minimum use of his siren, employing it primarily when he had to go through a the double yellow line and go against traffic to make better time.

When you call 911 in New York City, you get the police, and if medical assistance is in any way dictated, the police immediately call Emergency Medical Service. That's when fellows like Cottrell and Ryan move into action:

EMS has been in existence only eight years. It offers basic life support compared with the city's Paramedic Unit, which is somewhat more sophisticated and deals more with patient assessment, drug therapy, electro-cardiogram inter-pretation and defibrillation technique.

"Our chief function is to administer first aid to the sick and injured with no regard to cost whatsoever," explained Lt. Joseph Davis, who was in charge of the 4-to-12 shift the night I rode with

"We pick people up for nothing," Davis added. "When we see a person in cardiac arrest, we don't ask him how much money he has. Our first duty is to administer first aid and get the person to the hospital as soon as possible. If it isn't an emergency, we'll take a person to whichever hospital he wants to go within a 10-minute limit."

Many of the people EMS is called on to help are indigent. But one chilly night. last January the service also answered a call for a billionaire, former Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller who died of a heart attack that night.

On the evening I rode with Cottrell and Ryan, they answered seven calls besides transferring two patients from Bellevue to New York University hospital without getting any time out to eat.

they wish to go to the bathroom, they must request permission to do so

The second call Cottrell and Ryan received that night was for a man reported to be unconscious. He turned out to be much more than that - he was dead. He had hanged himself behind a partition in a Broadway office and his body had been dangling from a rope for a week before it was discovered. The odor was so bad, the police had to put on gas masks. Cottrell went in without one.

A passing motorist, noticing the huge crowd which had collected at the scene, stopped his car momentarily, leaned out the window and in typical New York City fashion, inquired of one of the bystanders:

"Another bank job?" Following that call came another one rd street and Cottrell and Ryan d ered it to the morgue.

"I remember this fellow," Byan said, consulting his log book while atting alongside the body in the back of the ambulance, "He's 70 years old, comes from Germany and has no one here. He found out he had terminal cancer and fried to jump off the roof last week, but we got to him before he did. This time he made it, though, poor fellow."

Ryan and Cottrell both could make more money working for private ambulance services. They don't wish to give up ance services. They don't wish to give up their present jobs, however,

"Why do I do this?" said the sensitive, soft-spoken Ryan, who hopes to be-come a cop some day. "Somebody has to help these people.

Automaker Pays Fine

WASHINGTON (AP) - Government safety officials said today General Motors paid a $250,000 penalty last month because the gasoline tanks in 1977 Chevettes failed to comply with a federal safety standard.

Although hundreds of similar penalties have been imposed in the past 10 years, the fine was the largest ever levied for non-compliance with a safety standard, officials of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration said.

The agency said the size of the fine took into account GM's long dispute with NHTSA over whether its gas tanks actually violated the government standard. NHTSA said the violation was "marginal."

GM recalled 187,000 1976 Chevettes and 133,000 1977 models last November. The recall was announced by GM as a voluntary

No announcement of the penalty was made when GM paid the fine in mid-August.

Assistant agency counsel Taylor Vinson said that seven or eight years ago, NHTSA stopped publicizing instances in which automakers were penalized for failing to meet safety standards. The safety standard concerned how much fuel can leak after a car strikes a barrier while moving at 30 mph. The standard permits leakage of one ounce per minute in the first five minutes. In the seventh and most conclusive government test on 1977 Chevettes, 33.77 ounces of gasoline leaked in five minutes after the rear suspension component tore the fuel tank, Vinson said.

"It was really a marginal kind of non-compliance," said chief counsel Frank Berndt. GM conducted its own tests and found gasoline leakage was within acceptable limits, he said, but those results conflicted with NHTSA find-

Committee Approves Bank Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House Banking Committee today overwhelmingly approved a bill to legalize interestpaying checking accounts nationwide. By 35-4, the panel sent the bill to the full House where a vote is possible as early as next week. The bill is designed to overturn a U.S. appeals court decision last April outlawing automatic savings-to-checking transfer accounts and credit union shared draft accounts as of next Jan. 1. The legislation, sponsored by Rep. Fernand J. St Germain, D-R.I., would permit automatic transfers and shared drafts to continue after the court-imposed deadline. It would also allow financial institutions to offer so-called NOW accounts nationwide as of Sept. 30, 1980. Currently, NOW - for "negotiable order of withdrawal" - accounts are permitted by law only in New England and New York. Those accounts were not affected by the court ruling.

NOW accounts, automatic transfers and shared drafts allow consumers to receive interest on deposits until the money is needed to pay for checks.

The automatic tranfers and shared drafts were authorized by federal regulatory agencies after Congress refused to extend NOW accounts nationwide.

The appeals courf ruled that the regulatory agencies overstepped their authority in permitting such accounts, but gave Congress until Jan. 1 to decide the St Germain described NOW accounts as "a tried and proven concept that has been enthusiastically embraced by consumers and financial institutions in (New England and New York)." Supporters of NOW accounts claim that, if permitted nationwide, they could earn depositors billions of dollars in extra interest on their money. The chief critic of the NOW account bill was Rep. Frank Annunzio, D-Ill., chairman of the House Banking consumer subcommittee, who claimed that the accounts "will do nothing to help small depositors and in actuality will hurt them. Annunzio argued that banks will require large minimum deposits for NOW accounts, limiting their benefits to wealthy depositors. Meanwhile, he claimed that other bank charges will be raised to pay for the extra interest payments on the NOW accounts.

An amendment proposed by Annunzio to prohibit minimum deposits above $100 was rejected 22-9. St Germain argued that such a restriction would have effectively destroyed the bill.

Treasury Plans Tightening Of Currency Rules

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Treasury Department today proposed tollighten regulations governing currency transactions after reporting that billions in cash flowed "in unusual patterns" into some Florida banks.

During 1978, currency deposits in the Miami and Jacksonville offices of the Federal Reserve system exceded payouts by more than $3.2 billion, the Treasury said.

During the same period, the entire Federal Reserve had a net payout nationally of more than $10 million.

The department's proposed regulations, issued under the Bank Secrecy Act, would require banks to follow and report to the government within 15 days cash dealings of more than $10,000 with foreign banks, securities brokers and other financial institutions.

It is also asking bank supervisory agencies to review their examination

By requiring banks to report large transactions with such parties, the Treasury hopes to identify those dealing in significant amounts of currency. Along with the Federal Reserve.

Treasury says it will step up its monitoring of unusual currency activities in all Federal Reserve offices.

Figures compiled in Treasury's report "clearly indicate that unusually large volumes of currency are flowing into Florida from other states, and perhaps, from other countries," the depart

David Kennedy Robber Of $30

NEW YORK (AP) - David Kenne dy, 24-year-old son of the late Robert F Kennedy, was robbed of $30 in Harlem Wednesday night, a police source said today.

Police said Kennedy told them he was driving on 116th Street near Eighth Avenue at about 6:15 p.m. when two men signaled him to stop. Kennedy pulled over, got out of the car and walked toward the men, who then pushed him "by using physical force" into the lobby of the hotel at 300 W. 116th St., police said.

They said a third man joined the pair in the lobby and as the three were robbing Kennedy, an unidentified person called the 911 emergency number and notified police. Police arrested Sam Askins of Brook-because Kennedy was unable to positively identify Askins as his assailant. However, Askins was wanted on two warrants, for grand larceny and criminal possession of stolen property.

NEW YORK (AP) - A show busiess wonder named Liza Minnelli, a verable Fourth of July celebration of skyckets, sparklers, heart-tugging words nd gentle breezes, opened for 11 perormances - all already sold out - on uesday night.

When the audience wasn't jumping and clapping in response to the extement generated by the tireless Miss finnelli, it was saying a quiet "wow."

The Carnegie Hall billing is "Liza

dramatic set silhouetted across the back of the stage. It's fire escapes and landings or maybe a giant crossword puzzle. Miss Minnelli walks on and starts to sing into a microphone. A clarinetist enters and tootles a phrase. Then there are 12 musicians climbing onto the set and the music becomes a mellow "How Long Has This Been Going On?".

Miss Minnelli has self-assurance, eyesnapping vivacity, a trim figure and a remarkable voice. She places each note exactly where it should be. She phrases suinnelli in Concert." It starts with a perbly, can fill her voice with rich emotion. She can fling herself so intensely into a song, be it "Cabaret" or "Shine On Harvest Moon," that people who resist jumping to their feet can't stop a rapid heart beat and goosebumps.

One can see the show business forces at work here and Miss Minnelli taking full advantage of them. Everything the changes of pace, changes of costumes, effective use of instrumentalists, the choreography — has been finely tuned so there's not a dull second. But there is no sense of routine or rote because Miss Minnelli pours in so much here-and-now energy.

She has two engaging supporting men who are never overused. She and Roger Minami, whose duet. "Arthur in the Afternoon," was a highlight of her Broadway show, "The Act," reprised that show-stopper. Obba Babatunde had a solo song and the three of them had some snappy dance numbers.

Miss Minnelli was touching in "The Man I Love" but in general she stayed away from vulnerable songs, perhaps because of an identification her mother. Judy Garland, had with them. She stuck more with razzle dazzle, like the exultant 'City Lights." She ended the first of her two 55-minute sets with a medley of New York songs, finishing with an allstops-out "New York, New York."

Miss Minnelli has been touring much of this year and still has a few cities to visit, such as Boston in October,

St. John said the Alliance had been negotiating the contract, which expired July 31, with the producers since March. A total of 30 Alliance locals and six smaller related unions were involved in Union leaders went into the contract negotiations armed with an 89 percent strike authorization vote from the rank and file to back their demands. If the strike had materialized, it would have been the first industrywide walkout since 1946.

Alliance represents virtually all film crew members, from camera and sound technicians to drivers, engineers, carpenters, electricians, publicists, make-up and costume artists and film editors. A strike would have stopped production on

Firefighters Uncover Moonshine Whiskey

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Firefighters answering a routine alarm in north Philadelphia found more than 700 gallons of "corn mash" whiskey in its fermenting stage — but no moonshiners.

After putting out a fire on the first floor of a house this week, firefighters went upstairs and found fourteen 55-gallon drums of whiskey bubbling from the heat below, fire officials said.

In the next room were six bushel bags of corn and two empty bags of sugar, both used to distill whiskey, they

Showgirls Still Perform At Havana's Famed Tropicana Cabaret

is at Havana's famed Tropicana cabaret no longer dance around bare-breasted as they did before the revolution, but they still swing some most un-Marxist bumps and grinds.

Just keep an eye on the statuesque mulatto girl wearing a white bikini and playing suggestively with a drum, or on the coy striptease performed by twin girls and twin boys to make sure they have the right partner.

Notice the purple bikinis peeking through traditional Cuban linen dresses slit all the way down the front, or the sequined bras that barely contain the cho-

It's not Las Vegas, but for $8 - including a rather basic dinner - and a country that has been rigidly Marxist for 18 years under President Fidel Castro, it's quite a show.

Once the gayest partying spot for Havana's desultory rich and American tourists, the Tropicana now is jammed nightly with middle-class Cubans and foreign tourists, few of them Americans.

The show now is run by Cubatour, the government tourism agency, and consists of a two-hour review of Cuban dance and music - no politics - from the slave chants in the colonial era to

Although the show has lost some of the naughtiness and brilliance of prerevolutionary days, its bizarre jungle setting still flourishes in the heart of the once-luxurious Miramar district.

Tucked between two mansions, the entrance driveway winds around thick stands of tropical trees and bushes overgrown with miles of climbing ivy and falling vines, eerily lit with dozens of blue, green and red spotlights.

In the center of the driveway is a fountain that, reflecting the Bacchanalian spirit of bygone days, is ringed with six lifesized statues of naked women whose shapely curves jump out of the darkness in front of lit-up streams of wa-

The setting is even more exotic inside where tables for about 1,000 persons fan around the main stage in the middle of the jungle clearing.

While headline singers and dancers perform on the main stage, the chorus girls strut around a runway that rises over a ginko tree, winds behind a royal palm, drops in front of a line of frangipangi trees, rises again through a series of waterfalls and then returns to ground level around a giant avocado tree. Parts of the runway not in use are kept in absolute darkness, so there is a stunning surprise when a spotlight finds a shimmering chorus girl on a tree 70 feet off the ground.

A dozen Carmen Mirandas with 2foot hats that look like giant creampuffs appear suddenly in the waterfalls, then disappear just as quickly with a flick of the spotlight switch.

A girl in an abbreviated slave costurne is spotlighted behind the frangipangi tree, then vanishes behind a curtain of steam shot up from her feet.

Girls dressed in glittering yellow bikinis and giant fans appear at the palm, avocado and ginko trees.

The show, which opens with a greet-ing in Spanish, Russian, English and French - in that order - ends with all the performers singing the island's theme song, "Cuba, How Beautiful Is Cuba.

Diners who want to make a night of it can stay on after the show and dance to a four-piece bands that plays typical Cuban tunes as well as more modern

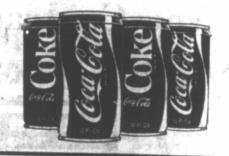

The more adventurous can move over to the next-door Salon Mambi, an outdoor dance hall patronized by poorer people that has a reputation for week-disco music.
