Hijacker Releases Hostages

BONN, West Germany (AP) - A man disturbed about nuclear energy, poor children and militarism hijacked a West German jetliner in flight today, landed here and demanded to speak with Chancellor Helmut Schmidt, After reading a manifesto to authorities by radio he released the more than 100 pas-

The fate of the eight crew members of the Lufthansa plane was not immediately known.

The Boeing 727, carrying 120 passengers including the hijacker, had been on a flight from Paris and Frankfurt to the Bonn-Cologne Airport when it was commandeered this morning on the final leg.

The hijacker was not identified and it was not known whether he was armed. although the pilot reported being threatened. Authorities at first thought there were two hijackers, both men and one apparently speaking with a southern German accent.

Ham radio operators who listened in on communications between the cockpit and the tower at Bonn-Cologne Airport, five miles outside the capital, said the man read a 20-minute statement before releasing the passengers, about seven hours after the jetliner landed.

They said he demanded that the West German government hold a referendum on the use of nuclear energy, introduce better living conditions for children and abolish the armed forces.

Freed passengers told reporters the man faked illness on the flight and asked to be seated up front. He then got up and went into the cockpit, dropping out of sight of the passengers, they said.

Forecasters warned it could become the most vicious hurricane to hit the area since Camille caused widespread death and destruction a decade ago.

The hurricane was expected to sweep ashore tonight somewhere in the area from Pensacola, Fla., to Gulfport, Miss. By noon, winds of 35 to 40 mph were buffeting some coastal areas, including Pensacola.

"The area of major concern is from Gulfport to Pensacola, but gales could very well hit anywhere in the area of hurricane warnings," said forecaster Joe

Vance Aided By Kissinger

WASHINGTON (AP) - Former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said today he believes the Carter administation can be successful in its diplomatic effort to resolve the issue of Soviet troops in Cuba.

"I support the administration in demanding an end to the Soviet combat brigade in Cuba," Kissinger said. "I think the administration can be successful and I support the efforts of Secretary (of State Cyrus) Vance in that matter."

Senate consideration of the SALT II treaty is virtually at a standstill pending the outcome of ongoing administration talks with the Soviet Union on the situa-

3,000 combat troops was revealed last week by U.S. intellig said the brigade had been there for some time.

"No policy-making official in the previous administration was ever told" about the presence of such a brigade, Kissinger said. "We never faced, as a policy issue, that question."

Kissinger noted that former President Richard M. Nixon, whose administration he served, was particularly sensitive to the ramifications of the Soviet presence in Cuba. He added he did not believe it was "helpful" to squabble about possible shortcomings of previous U.S. surveillance.

Sun Termed Answer To Fuel Crisis

By JEFF McCASLIN

Avalanche-Journal Staff
Tapping an endless supply of energy from the sun in a world that is increasingly dependent on finite fousil fuels is the next most economical alternative to energy conservation.

So says David Smith, a builder of so-lar homes and professor of architecture at the University of Texas, who was one of three experts conducting a workshop here on building designs utilizing solar power. The workshop is being held to day and Thursday at the Memorial Civic

The two-day workshops, which are ng conducted by the Texas Solar Energy Society in nine Texas cities from June to November, are designed to acquaint local contractors, engineers and architects with techniques and building designs using energy from the sun in residential and commercial structures.

"The United States has only six per cent of the world's population, yet it uses 35 to 40 percent of the world's natural energy resources," Smith said in support of the need to continue research and development of solar power.

"Americans have increased their consumption (of natural energy resources) by 30 percent, while other industrialized nations such as West Germany and Japan have increased theirs by only 10 percent, "Smith said.

Smith, who recently won a design award for a passive solar home he built in Bovina, said the advanced technological achievements arising from the engineering feats of putting a man on the moon are a major influence in present designs of solar-powered homes.

Smith spoke on passive solar systems in structural design, which use an element of the building (such as the wall or floor) to store heat generated by the sun.

The passive solar system is one of two basic ways to use the sun's energy. The other is called an active system, which uses fluid to transfer heat collected from the sun to a storage tank in another part of the structure.

Smith said the basic design features of structures using passive or active systems are different, but that the principles are the same.

Smith also discussed climate factors See BUILDER Page 18

Poor To Get Help

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) - President Carter announced today in energyconscious New England an expanded proposal to provide $2.4 billion a year to help the poor, aged, blind and disabled to meet rising energy costs.

The president received an attentive hearing at a health care forum sponsored by senior citizens groups. His audience applauded his pledge there would be ample stocks of home heating oil this winter, a source of particular concern to New Englanders, because production is exceeding last year's levels by $30,000 barrels a day.

Carter also made a passing and jesting reference to his own political problems. He said that as much as he admires retired Americans, "I'm not yet tempted to join your ranks anytime

the Carter blueprint, federal energy aid for the poor and other disadvantaged Americans would total $1.6 billion this winter and $2.4 billion per year

In a statement, the president said:

'This proposal will address a critical need - alleviating the impact of higher energy prices on those who are suffering most from higher energy prices. Our energy policy must be compassionate. Without a substantial program such as this one our most needy households, including many of the elderly on meager fixed incomes, will face almost impossible pressures on household budgets .

When the president announced in April that he would gradually decontrol domestic oil prices, he called for $800 million of aid to low-income families. He said he was raising the ante because of June's 40 percent rise in crude oil prices. In addition, he added a $400 million proposal to allow the states to "help low-income households faced with health-threatening energy emergencies."

To finance the assistance plan, Congress would have to enact Carter's proposed "windfall profits" tax on oil-industry revenues, which is by no means

The plan would provide special energy allowances to households with an income below 125 percent of the federal poverty level. The poverty level currently is calculated at $7,160 for a family of four and such a family would be eligible for aid if its income was under $8,950.

Payments would vary from state to state, depending on local heating needs.

A White House fact sheet said allowances for individuals living alone probably would average about $100 a year and be double that for families. About 3.6 million individuals and 3.7 million families would get federal payments.

Carter said that while the "windfall profits" tax "will be necessary to fund this program, I am asking the Congress to move immediately to make general revenues available for the $400 million emergency program this winter." He said the money would be repaid from receipts once the tax was enacted.

From Hartford, Carter was bound for Steubenville, Ohio.

It includes "Rum Runner," "Weather Side," "The Quaker," as well as "The Kass" and "Loden Coat," which have never been exhibited.

The collection was purchased for $4.5 million earlier this year by Holly and Arthur Magill of Greenville from movie magnate Joseph E. Levine. The Magills have loaned it to the museum here indefinitely.

"The thing that needs to be emphasized is that in one collection we have 26 paintings by perhaps America's greatest artist, and they are all fine examples of his work," said museum director Jack A. Morris Jr.

from wellhead to gas pump: No shortage of controls.

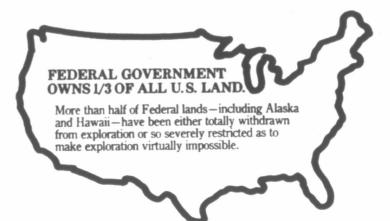

Some government controls are necessary; however, excessive controls in every phase of an oil company's activities limit efforts to develop more energy.

Controls on distribution.

Government product allocation programs are based on past consumption. Current increases or decreases in population in an area aren't adequately considered. Also, gasoline price controls actually encourage consumption.

Controls on exploration.

There are still billions of barrels of crude oil to be discovered in America. However, millions of acres have already been closed to exploration...and the U.S. Government is moving to withdraw even more land.

Controls on production.

Crude oil price controls have discouraged increased production from existing fields because costs cannot be recovered. "Phased price decontrol" will help but it's only a start.

Controls on refining.

Inflexible price controls and environmental regulations are discouraging the building or expansion of refineries simply because the enormous costs can't be recovered.

Fewer regulations—not more—are needed to help solve America's energy problem. Meanwhile, all of us must do an even better job of conserving energy.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL: Chaos Made To 'Order'

AFTER WEEKS of parliamentary maneuvering, India has acquired a new government that seems assured of surviving until the end of the month, but not much beyond.

New Prime Minister Singh has patched together a coalition cabinet that is notable less for who is rather than for who isn't represented, e.g., Indira Gandhi.

By agreement, Mrs. Gandhi isn't receiving any posts in return for her support. But it is upon the promised 73 votes of her faction of the many-splintered Congress Party that Singh must base his shaky parliamenta-

An odder couple in the context of Indian politics would be difficult to come by.

SINGH WAS jailed by Mrs. Gandhi during her rule by emergency powers. He was a key figure in putting together the Janata coalition that toppled her government in 1977.

It was Singh's defection from Janata—an improbable five-party coalition ranging from militant Hindu right to moderate socialist left-that precipitated the fall of that government and opened the way for Mrs. Gandhi's return to power, if, for the present, only in the wings.

There may be, however, some reason in the present apparent political madness.

Yes, it could happen that way, but I am persuaded by the entirety of Stein's American Enterprise article to believe that the Iron Lady is the breed of Winston Churchill and will never lose.

If the United Kingdom resembles the doomed Titanic, one has to expect an Act of God to revise history and save the ship. But Joan's "voices" and Mrs. Thatcher's idealism both seem to spring from a divine source.

As Stein sees it, she has largely convinced the British electorate to turn against Big Brother not only because Big Brother is inefficient, but also because the reliance itself is bad.

"THE THATCHERITES," says Stein, "are seriously concerned to restore the work ethic, initiative, personal responsibility and freedom, not only because they think it is the way to make the GNP grow faster, but also because they think it is the right way to live

Keeping Weight Off

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D. DÉAR DR. LAMB - I am a 20year-old woman and I successfully lost more than 100 pounds in a little over a year. I carried most of the weight in my stomach area and was left with excessively stretched skin and stretch marks. I read in your column where you once advised a person to wait a year after her weight loss before she had surgery to take up the excess skin. I've waited a year and haven't noticed any remarkable improvement. I've exercised through the entire weight loss and for several years before, which has helped tre-

Unfortunately, I'm left with an apron on my upper and lower abdomen. I've seen a plastic surgeon about it and he felt it would never go back in place. I have mixed feelings about the operation and would appreciate your suggestions.

I understand the operation entails a "bikini cut" and about 150 stitches or staples. The doctor said he would have to remove some fat cells that were still there and make a new opening for my navel.

Will the surgery aid in keeping the weight off and will the stretch marks be removed through the surgery? I'm sure there are other people who have lost a lot of weight who are faced with this same problem. Thank God I'm thin at last.

DEAR READER — First, ongratulations. That's a major achievement. The fact that you've been able to keep it off suggests that you have improved your lifestyle so that you can avoid obesity in the future if you really want to.

I do advise people to wait a year after a weight loss before they undergo surgery. That is not because I think the skin is really going to shrink that much or regain its elasticity.

One of the biggest reasons is that I know that many people who lose weight regain it almost as fast. That's because they really didn't change their lifestyle. It would be a mistake to lose all that weight and have surgery and then gain back all your fat. You can pretty well separate out the person who is going to stick to a lifestyle to avoid obesity and the person who won't by seeing what happens to him for a year after he has completed his weight loss,

You've done the right thing in seeing a plastic surgeon to gain information. Different doctors have different approaches to the problem and, of course, it depends a lot on just how much of a problem really exists. You'll have to ask your surgeon about whether the stretch marks will be removed because it depends on where they are and what type of surgery he decided to do.

You'll need to follow a sensible diet plan to avoid regaining your weight. I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet which you can use as a guide. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents in check or coin with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Big Spender Makes Hefty Promises

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — A number of real estate agents, homeowners and just plain folks discovered recently that it's easy-come, easy-go when you're dealing with free-spending strangers.

A portly, ill-dressed man breezed into town claiming he had $8 million to spend. He consulted real estate agents and agreed to buy four houses for a total price of $1 million.

Along the way, he told 31 people he would give them brand new sports cars worth $12,300 each for helping him spend his money.

No one got a thing.

It all started when the unidentified man agreed to buy Norman R. Brewster's home in an exclusive Orlando suburb for $315,000 — which was $5,000 more than Brewster's asking price.

"He was overweight, very poorly dressed and had a distinct deodorant breakdown," Brewster said. "I didn't really think he'd come through, but then his money was supposed to come in a soon so why not wait a few days?"

The man had a similar story at three other houses he decided to buy, and then he and a real estate agent zipped over to Chelsea Title & Guaranty Co. There, he told 10 employees he'd give each of them new Toyota sports cars if they expedited the house sales.

The Chelsea employees politely declined the offer because of business eth-

The free-promising stranger was evidently busy throughout the area because the owner of Citrus County Toyota in Sanford said the dealership wrote up deals for 31 cars and expected to sell him 50 — at a total price of $615,000.

But a couple days later, the happy new car owners were getting a rude

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seven weeks after the federal thermostat control program began, only 14 states have agreed to help monitor temperatures, the Energy Desertment says

gy Department says.

Two states Michigan and Tennessee have said they won't participate in the federal program and the Energy Department has yet to learn what the other 34 states plan to do, spokesman Odom Fanning said recently.

The government has authorized $6.7 million to finance state efforts, but many local officials complain that isn't enough money, Fanning said.

"We are checking with the states to see what their decisions are. We're prepared to run the program without their help," he said.

The Energy Department, after a long delay, started last week to dispatch inspection teams to monitor buildings thermostats in 10 cities. Of 165 inspections, 20 buildings failed to meet the conservation standards, Fanning said.

Federal regulations require that thermostats in public buildings read no lower than 78 degrees during the air conditioning season and no higher than 65 degrees in the heating months.

Some buildings are covered by exemptions. But operators who violate the rules can be fined up to $5,600.

Administration officials have vowed to levy fines, but Fanning said none of the 20 violators has been punished. "Inspectors pointed out the problem and told violators they will return," said Fanning.

Federal inspections have occurred in Washington; Boston; New York; Philadelphia; Atlanta; Chicago; Kansas City, Mo.; Denver; Dallas; San Francisco; and Seattle.

"At this stage, we are looking to consult building operators, rather than punish them," said Fanning. Buildings monitored include high

Buildings monitored include high schools, restaurants, retail merchandisers, supermarkets, hospitals, offices, hotels and motels, and warehouses.

We have gone in without notice, asked to see their certificates attesting that they are meeting temperature standards, and then we measure the temperature, "Fanning said.

Since the program began Aug. 15, the Energy Department has received 699 complaints that building temperatures are cooler than 78 degrees, said Fanning But in recent weeks, the volume of complaints has slackened, he added.

The temperature control program has gotten off to a slow start. Originally, building operators were given until Aug. 15 to post forms certifiying they meet the conservation standards.

But few forms had been mailed by that date. Fanning said that as of this week, about 20 percent of building operators nationwide still had not received the fogms, which also list exemptions under the rules.

The program, which expires in mid-April unless renewed by Congress, is

PublicSeeks Mystics On Quakes

"There is a great degree of faith in science, but the public is not going to put all its eggs in one basket," said Ralph Turner, a leading expert on public attitudes toward earthquakes.

"The public is still going to look to seers and other sources as well as to science" for advanced warning of quakes. Turner outlined recently the results of a Los Angeles County opinion survey and follow-up interviews. He spoke at a United States-Mexico symposium on Technological Institute of Tijuana. Turner said nearly half the 1,450 people interviewed beginning in 1977 beple interviewed beginning in 1977 believed scientists could already predict earthquakes with some accuracy "and I doubt that many scientists would endorse that view. So if anything, the faithin science was greater than was justified."

But at the same time, he said, the most common earthquake prediction or announcement that was cited in the survey, which ended this year came from non-scientific sources. And only a third of those interviewed took any of the announcements seriously.

Turner's conclusion: "Much of what people hear (about quake prediction) is non-scientific, though frequently mistaken for scientific, and the people don't take most vf it very seriously."

He also cited strong suggestions in follow-up interviews that a long-feared backlash to a false alarm might be less serious than believed.

The survey began after a huge area of land along the southern San Andreas Fault in California was found to have swollen into a bubble called the Palmdale Bulge. The highly publicized bulge did not result in any earthquake predictions. But scientists said that similar uplifts had sometimes preceded earthquakes.

The first interviews found that 43 percent of those questioned felt a damaging earthquake was likely or certain to hit Los Angeles within a year. No such earthquake occurred.

Two years later, Turner said, "there was a substantial drop in the number of people who expected a serious earthquake within a year."

But at the same time, he said, most other attitudes had not changed significantly.

Strauss holds talks with Israeli politicians today and returns to Washington with Strauss Tuesday, said continued negotiations with Egypt and the United States are the only way to unravel the question of Palestinian autonomy called for in the peace agreement.

There is now a clear determination by all those who take part in the negotiations that the Camp David agreements should be faithfully carried out," Begin told reporters after the meeting.

Strauss later met at the U.S. Consulate with Mayor Elias Freij of the West Bank town of Bethlehem, who told an Israeli radio interviewer earlier in the day he believed a confederation with Jordan would be the most acceptable way for West Bank Arabs to attain political autonomy.

But Freij, in a telephone interview. said he had told Strauss he opposed U.S.-Egyptian-Israeli autonomy talks because they would "achieve nothing" for Palestinians on the West Bank and Gaza

He said Strauss had agreed with his opposition to Israeli settlement policy on the West Bank, and raids against Palestinian bases in southern Lebanon

Strauss said his talk with Freij had touched on confederation, but refused to give details. He said in a press briefing that he and Begin discussed the autono my negotiations, the conflict in Lebanon, and the Israeli-Egyptian summit meeting last week in Haifa. Autonomy talks resume Sept. 25, in Alexandria, Egypt. Strauss said Israel has indicated it will make the talks its 'primary concern' for the next three or four months.

There is a "fair chance" the struc ture of home rule for some 1.2 million West Bank and Gaza Arabs will be in place by May, when the talks are scheduled to end, the U.S. envoy said.

In other developments Tuesday, Israeli and Egyptian officials in Washington separately asked for more U.S. aid. Israeli Ambassador Ephraim Evron presented a request for a $3.45 billion aid pack age for 1981, nearly double the $1.85 billion earmarked for Israel for fiscal 1980 which begins October 1.

The guidelines are inconsistent, Mrs. Jordan said, and for that reason she feels the SPAG area probably never will receive designation as an Economic Development District.

Mrs. Jordan said the only advantage the district would have for this area is that counties that would otherwise not qualify for EDA grants could now qualify because they are within the development district boundaries. Such would be the case with Lubbock, she said, as Lub-

Mrs. Jordan had introduced an amendment to the fiscal year 1980 work budget for SPAG at the assembly meeting which would provide planning money for counties to apply for EDA funding on an individual basis, rather than through the district. The Criminal Justice Advisory Committee of SPAG in the spring did not recommend the program, or any others from the city of Lubbock, for state Criminal Justice Division funding, sparking heated controversy between the committee and Lubbock city officials.

The board's action Tuesday will lend support to the program, however, should additional criminal justice funding become available after 13 projects already approved by the advisory committee are covered.

In other action, the board once again gave unfavorable comment to federal funding for an Interstate Migrant Head Start program.

The Texas Migrant Council Inc. is asking for $4,293,207 in federal money for continuance funding of the child development program. Board members voted against supporting the grant application, saying the project was given unfavorable comment last year because of duplication of services in regard to other Head Start programs.

dia's Farmers Try Superstition, Prayer To End Latest Drought

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) - India's drought-weary farmers are trying all the tricks in their bag to bring rains.

Recent reports from remote districts of eastern Uttar Pradesh state told of nude women replacing the bullocks under the yoke to plow parched fields in the dead of the night. The superstition goes back to the days of the epic Ramayana and is considered the last gimick to placate Lord Indra, the Hindu god of

In another affected district, thousands of gallons of milk were reported poured over the statue of Lord Shiva while famished children writhed in the dust outside the temple.

Mass prayers, ritual dances and animal sacrifices have been reported from Rajasthan, Bihar, Madhya Pradesh and the mountain districts of Uttar Pradesh, all performed to humor a god gone sour and dry.

The latest ritual reported from Raipur in Madhya Pradesh state mentions a ceremonial wedding of two toads performed by drought-affected villagers.

News reports said the amphibians were wed according to Hindu marriage rites and later released in a tank for

According to local priests, such a wedding brings the blessings of toads and results in rain.

Drought is deadly serious business. In Rajasthan, smallest of the drought-hit states, 10 million people are reported affected. In eastern Orissa, 10 of its 13 districts are said to be reeling under the drought. In southern Andhra state, a $25 million government "food-for-work" program has farm laborers digging difches or building roads in exchange for grain.

Previously council members tentatively approved a $28.4 million general fund budget which would leave city taxes at the current $1.12 per $100 valuation

The council made few changes in the budget proposed by City Manager Larry Cunningham, but it did reduce cost-ofliving raises for city employees from 9 percent to 7 percent and increase funds available for park maintenance in the coming year.

Little discussion is expected on the budget during the public hearing since Lubbock firefighters decided against ap-pearing en masse to protest the 7 percent pay increase.

Members of the firefighters association local now are circulating petitions for a 15 percent pay hike and collective bargaining rights and say that drive is 'going real good."

Under a proposed revenue sharing budget for the coming year, parks projects would be funded to the tune of nearly $519,000.

Included in that amount would be the replacement of irrigation systems in five city parks, the development of two undeveloped South Lubbock parks (Jan Jennings and N.B. McCullough), surfacing tennis, volleyball and basketball courts in five parks and drilling wells in Higginbotham and Maxey Parks to provide water for irrigation.

FuelSmuggling Investigated

while his wife was taking a bath.

EL PASO (AP) — State comptroller's officers say they expect to make four more arrests in a crackdown on fuel smuggling from Mexico to Texas.

Comptroller Bob Bullock's office also has issued a statement saying several fuel bootlegging operations were under investigation. The difference in diesel fuel prices in Juarez and El Paso would make a fuel smuggling operation profitable, said comptroller's enforcement officer Humberto Flores. He said fuel could be obtained in Mexico for 17 to 20 cents a gallon and sold in Texas and New Mexico for 48 to 50 cents a gallon.

Flores said all the fuel could be sold in El Paso because of the "enormous demand" here.

The suspect, a neighbor of the victim, was taken to the county fail.

In other activity, Terry Jensen, 25, of 1210 18th St., rear apartment, told police he was pistol whipped by a man, who apparently thought he left a club with the wrong person.

Jensen said he was pulled over by the suspect, a tall black man, between 18 and 25, about 1:45 a.m. today. The pistol-wielding man reportedly asked Jensen why he had left a club at 19th Street and Avenue R with his friend, and then struck the victim twice in the head with the butt of the weapon.

After the assault, the suspect got into a car and traveled south on Avenue P. Jensen, according to reports, refused medical treatment for minor head inju-ice said he was spotted acting strangely in a car parked in the 1700-block of 18th

The man reportedly was ducking under the sterring wheel of the vehicle when an officer walked up and noticed the ignition had been torn from the dashboard. Police said the suspect had what was thought to be a marijuana cigarette in his pocket. The officer also asked whom the car belonged to and, according to reports, the man said the owner was a friend of his, but could not give his name or address.

In another report, a policeman stopped a motorist at Fourth Street and Avenue H about 11:45 p.m. Tuesday and asked who owned the vehicle, and the driver's reply was he did not know because it's stolen.

After the officer learned the car had been reported stolen earlier in the day from a car lot, the 17-year-old Lubbock man was taken to the county jail.

Police arrested five men, ranging in age from 18 to 22, for allegedly taking a joy ride" in a stolen vehicle about 7:50 p.m. Tuesday

Reports show that when the suspects were stopped in the 1400-block of Vanda Avenue, only the driver could produce a driver's license.

Bobby Lee Russell of 2111-A Seventh St. told police he lost an $1,100 television console set when his house was burglarized between 6:30 a.m. and 11:45 p.m.

A Texas Tech student was arrested Tuesday after he was caught following an 80-year-old woman in a Lubbock K-Mart store, and using a mirror to look up the woman's skirt.

The 19-year-old man, who was booked into the county jail for disorder-ly conduct, told police he had been fol-lowing women and using the mirror in Lubbock stores for the past year.

The suspect was apprehended about 2:45 p.m. by Jerry Jolly, security manager for K-Mart, 3201 Ave Q.

Jolly told police he had been watching the suspect in the store for the pasttwo weeks. Jolly said he believed the young man was shoplifting, but he never caught him in the act.

Jolly said he stopped the suspect after he saw him following an elderly woman down a store aisle. Jolly said the young man was holding a small mirror below the hem of the woman's dress.

The Slim Gourmet

Are coffee breaks making you fat? Coffee is virtually calorie-free, but your coffee habit can contribute to weight gain in several ways ... some obvious, some not so obvious.

Obviously, the coffee break is a calorie culprit if coffee is synonymous with coffee cake ... or a donut, buttered roll, piece of cake, slice of pie, a few cookies or me other "small" snack. If one such snáck a day adds an extra 250 calories over your needs, the end-of-year total is up to 91,250 additional calories, or the theoretical equivalent of 26 added

Fortunately, that can work the other way. Eliminating the 250-calories coffee break snack can lead to an approxiate weight loss of 26 pounds in a year with no other changes, because it takes about 3,500 calories to make up a pound of weight gained of lost.

'So, if you're a "coffee-and" person, it can pay you to re-examine your coffeedrinking ritual. Is the "and" part really necessary? What is our real motivation in taking coffee breaks? For most people a coffee break is simply a reason to pause, a way to punctuate the overlong morning or afternoon, a chance to visit with neighbors or co-workers. Or is it a battery recharge that comes from a change of pace, the caffeine, or both? None of these payoffs has anything do with the "and" part of coffee. You can just as easily pause, rest, recharge and chat over coffee without spending extra 250 calories on unneeded food!

But snack habits are hard to break. If food is so strongly linked to your coffee ritual that you can't quit it cold turkey, you might elect to minimize the caloric devastation of "coffee and." You could, for example, substitute a 100-calorie apple for your usual slice of apple pie, or a 100-calorie slice of toast for the buttered roll. Or, you could save part of your breakfast or lunch to serve as a coffee break snack later on. Or, you could switch from coffee to tea, and thereby shatter the "coffee-and" link. (who ever heard of tea and a donut?) Even without the snacking habit, the coffee break can add to weight gain in less obvious ways. If you take your coffee with cream and sugar, it's easy to overlook - or underestimate - the calorie costs of "just

Would you believe that a heavy habit - six cups of coffee a day - can conceivably add up to more than 1,000

No? I once had a co-worker who estimated that coffee cost her 50 calories a cupful: 32 calories for two teaspoons sugar and 20 calories for two tablespoons of milk. Then she joined a behavior modification program that required her to log the calories of everything she ate and drank. After measuring the ingredients in her typical cup of coffee she found that her two heaping teaspoons of sugar REALLY measured one level tablespoonful plus half of another .in fact, 75 calories worth of sugar. Her coffee "cup" was actually a ounce mug and what she had estimated to be two tablespoons milk actually turned out to be a quarter-cupful of sythetic non-dairy coffee lightener made with saturated fat and corn syrup solids ... 100 calories' worth! So each cup of coffee cost her 175 calories, six times daily, or a calorie bottom line of 1,050 calories. For just

Since coffee-drinking was such an important ritual, she decided to keep the coffee breaks but minimize the calories gradually making substitutions: no-calorie sweetener instead of sugar, skim milk instead of the synthetic cream. Gradually she lessened the amounts until she was drinking it black. Without making any other changes in her daily eating habits she slimmed down three dress sizes in less than a year.

Would you believe that even black coffee can be a weight-gain culprit for some people? Some people can't handle

High Blood Pressure Affects Small Children

EMMAUS, Pa. (Special) - High blood pressure is not limited to adults. At a young age — one to three months — infants with a tendency toward hypertension already show signs of blood pressure higher than normal. These findings by Dr. R. Curtis Ellison, director of Children's Hosptial heart disease prevention program in Boston, are based on new research into the problem.

"Until recently, medical science hasn't really known the average blood pressure range for children," said Ellison. "However, present findings indicate the average blood pressure for a child five years old is 100/60. This rises throughout the school years and reaches 120/80 by the time a child graduates

High school students are needed to work in both patient care and support services at Health Sciences Center Hos-

Orientation for the HSCH Junior Volunteer Program will be conducted from 10 a.m. - 4 p.m. Saturday in Classroom 1A/B at the teaching hospital.

Featured on the program during the morning session will be Patsy Whipple, president of the HSCH Auxiliary, and Jeanne Boone, president of the Junior Volunteers. Other speakers will be Jacque Hastings, director of Volunteer Services, and Joy Watson, Junior Volunteer chairman for the auxiliary.

Following a luncheon provided by the auxiliary, the students will hear a program on "Body Mechanics" by chief physical therapist Libby Gardner. The orientation program will conclude with a tour of the hospital from high school. These figures represent the upper limits and ideally they should be lower."

Determining which children might develop high blood pressure is an important step in Ellison's preventive program. He believes family history provides a good predictor of future blood pressure problems. Children whose parents and grandparents have high blood pressure are likely to inherit the tendency and become victims of hypertensive

Pay attention to the bidding - or the lack of it. On occasion, you will need no other clue to the winning line.

There was nothing noteworthy about the auction, except that, by our standards, North's leap to four spades was rather aggressive. We would have been content with a raise to three spades. However, South might have passed a jump raise in which case this column would never have appeared in print.

West led the five of hearts. East won the king and shifted to the queen of diamonds. Declarer won in dummy and drew trumps in three rounds, ending in his hand. The contract now hinged on declarer being able to hold his club losers to one.

The normal play to accomplish that would have been to lead a club to dummy's ten, hoping to find West with the jack. Before pursuing that line, declarer carefully reviewed the sequence of plays to this point-and the opponents' silence in the auction.

East's play to the first trick marked him with the ace-king of hearts. His shift to the queen of diamonds at trick two also marked him with the queen-jack in the suit. Therefore, West had to have the ace of clubs. If East had that card he would have

There was also evidence to suggest that West held six hearts. If East had five hearts to the ace-king, he would have overcalled at the one-level when given the chance. Since West had shown up with three spades and had not led a minor suit, which he might have done with a singleton, it appeared that his distribution was 3-6-2-2.

Doctors' Salaries Caught In Tug-Of-War At HSCH

Avalanche-Journal Staff Salaries for resident physicians at Health Sciences Center Hospital are caught in a financial tug-of-war - the spital says they can't balance their etering budget if they pay for the residents, but the medical school says it doesn't have the funds to pay them ei-

County hospital district officials voted Tuesday to submit a budget to the county clerk today which leaves out more than $700,000 in salaries for resident physicians. The hospital has been struggling to make ends meet, and has hired a management firm which has recommended cutting the residents appropriation from the 1980 budget.

The budget to be filed with the county today is apparently a balanced one but only if the residents' salaries are eliminated

Hospital district officials and medical school staff were scheduled to begin renegotiation of several shared services contracts today, and the residents' salary is expected to dominate that discussion. Commissioner Alton Brazell said that if nothing else, the hospital could use the residents' salaries as leverage to get the medical school to pay a larger part of shared services, such as utilities.

My understanding is we'll go through all that tomorrow," medical school spokesman Dr. Richard Lockwood said after Tuesday's meeting. We've got a problem."

Lockwood said he was given no warning prior to the meeting that the hospital did not intend to pay residents' salaries.

However, Lockwood also said he was not particularly concerned about the residents situation, adding that he knew at the time of the meeting they (board members and medical school staff) would have the opportunity to go over

Maybe then I'll be concerned, Lockwood said.

Although hospital district officials apparently are passing the bill for residents' salaries in 1980 to the medical school, Lockwood noted that the medical school is included under the overall budget for Texas Tech, approved by the governor in June, and that budget locks up all medical school funds for the next two years.

"Our appropriation is fixed," Lockwood stressed.

The county commissioners met with the LCHD board, voting to accept the the budget. The commissioners scheduled a public hearing on the budget for fense motion for federal Drug Enforce-Convicted Heroin Addict

The hospital and medical school will negotiate on residents' salaries and shared services before the hearing, and the commissioners have the authority to approve or reject any portion of the budget submitted by the LCHD. The board will also have the authority to make line-item budget changes, even after adoption by the commissioners, at the start of the fiscal year.

Both the board members and commissioners agreed that the LCHD budget would be subject to more than the usual amount of changes before the process is finished. The budget was something of a "rush job." prepared by Brookwood personnel little more than a month after they assumed management of the struggling hospital.

I think the hospital is going to be in a better position to negotiate shared services this time," commissioner Brazell said. He cited the experience of the hospital in day-to-day operations as the reason for the anticipated improvement. It took almost three years of continued negotiations for hospital and medical school officials to agree on present shared services contracts, many of which expired in July and August.

"For the first time you know what your hospital is capable of and you have a handle on it," hospital administrator Robert Berryman told the board and commissioners at the close of the budget work session.

In planning the budget, Brookwood personnel made two separate staff reduction plans, the first cut not being enough to balance the budget. Overall, the budget includes a net reduction of $1,790,108, reducing the full-time employees to 4.4 per patient bed.

Most of those staff reductions will come about as a result of not filling positions which are already vacant. Other reductions come as a result of the elimination of three departments - the morgue, transportation and nurse recruitment — from the hospital budget.

Brookwood personnel plan to negotiate with the medical school to take over the operation of the morgue.

A five percent salary increase for remaining employees is included in the budget, as well as a two percent merit increase for some. Following the guidelines set up in the preliminary budget, hospital district officials assume a 60 percent collection rate available to the hospital on the hospital's patient bills. This estimate produces, in addition to tax receipts, total cash of $18,980,630 as being cash needs, leaving a small amount in

Crory Admits Lying To Defense Lawyer

Defense Rests Case

In Bus Crash Trial

FORT WORTH (AP) - Prosecution witness David McCrory says he lied to a . defense attorney last August to curb demands by Cullen Davis that he hire an assassin to commit mass murder.

McCrory's testimony tends to blunt the impact of a "dynamite" tape recording of the meeting which the millionaire defendant's laywers contend plunges to the heart of the defense theory

During a long, angry exchange Tuesday afternoon, lead defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes questioned McCrory repeatedly about threats the witness said Davis made.

"What I had in mind was telling (defense attorney) Steve Sumner things he would take back to Cullen and he would really believe I could help in the divorce trial." McCrory said of the Aug. 7, 1978, meeting.

"I was scared. 'You were scared?" Haynes asked, raising an eyebrow.

'There'd been a man threatening to kill me and my family," McCrory snapped back. "Certainly I was scared,

Shortly after the exchange, McCrory angrily crushed a styrofoam drinking cup and threw it to the floor.

The 41-year-old witness has told jurors Davis threatened him beginning in May of 1978 if McCrory did not carry out the defendant's orders to hire a killer. Davis is standing trial on charges he tried to buy the murder of his divorce judge, Joe Eidson.

Tuesday, jurors heard a recording of the Aug. 7 meeting during which Sumner asked McCrory what he knew that might aid Davis' multi-million dollar divorce from Priscilla Davis.

McCrory testified he lied to Sumner about certain things on the tape to boost his position with Davis.

I was between a rock and a hard place, so I told Steve Sumner everything thought he would go back to Cullen with and Cullen would not be angry with

"Why did you tell Steve Sumner a lie?" Haynes asked. "I thought it might give me a little breathing room and not put quite as much pressure on me," McCrory said. "I decided I could bolster my own position a little bit."

Why did you tell Steve Sumner that (Priscilla Davis' divorce attorney) Jerry Loftin wanted you?" Haynes continued.

That would mean that I would be subject to be put on the witness stand in Judge Eidson's court," McCrory said. That would mean I wouldn't have anything else to do with spying on Judge Eidson's house and trying to hire somebody to kill someone.

Defense attorneys heralded admission of the tape before jurors a major coup for their client. But Judge Gordon Gray, by sustaining numerous prosecution objections, restricted defense exploration of several matters discussed in

Among the items restricted by Gray were the Davis divorce trial, two conflcting and damaging statements by McCrory relating to a 1976 murder trial and purported threats by the Tarrant County district attorney's office involving one of the 1976 statements.

Gray also halted queries into the relationship between former Fort Worth karate instructor Pat Burleson and Pris-

Find Sparks Gold Rush In Australia

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI) - A tourist's discovery of a $7,000 gold nugget has spurred a mini-gold rush in the town of Cue in the western Australian desert.

The rush, which began three months ago when amateur prospectors first hit pay dirt around Cue, 400 miles northeast of Perth, steadily gained momentum as news of fresh finds spread.

One tourist recently found a 22-ounce nugget estimated to be worth $7,000.

The town's mining registrar said it was the largest gold nugget he has ever seen.

Eager gold-seekers have more than doubled the town's population of 330. Prospectors, the majority of them amateurs, camped out in tents, trailers and sleeping bags. In the past two weeks, more than 50 people, most of them tourists, have found gold around the town. The prospectors are using metal detectors and most of the finds have been from 18 inches to 2 feet underground.

'Until now Cue saw little prospecting, but we always have known the gold was out there," the mining registrar

Cue's postmaster, Ric Kornous, was interviewed in the process of weighing nuggets found by two tourists.

One chap has 14 nuggets worth about $2,000 and the other has 13 nuggets worth about $1,500," he said. Kornous said the tourists were in town for two days before finding the gold while digging within 6 feet of each

Cue is a tiny township with one licensed hotel, one school and one trailer park. Its residents haven't hit it rich.

The kids and I have tried with a metal detector, but we haven't had any luck yet," Kornous said. The area was known as a potential gold area as far back as the turn of the century, he added.

Some Germans actually operated a mine outside the town until the outbreak of World War I. But there is nothing there now. The tunnels are crumbled and filled with water and no one has been prepared to spend the money required to reopen it.

Kornous said most of the prospectors are people on vacation who hope to make money while having fun.

There are a few professionals and they are mostly camped out in the bush and don't come into town very often.

Kornous says the professionals average around $700 a week

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) - The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service opened a center Tuesday to coordinate activities related to the Mexican oil spill and to receive public reports of oiled birds.

The center will keep a watch on the millions of waterfowl, including a half million redhead ducks who winter on Laguna Madre, that will arrive on the Texas gulf coast this fall, a spokesman

The office also will develop plans to protect the endangered whooping crane and brown pelican.

Bird cleaning stations will be reopened at Port Aransas and Port Isabel if oil threatens any more birds.

CARTER WAREHOUSE The Senate killed, 61 for and 29 against, an amend-ment requiring the Federal Election Commission (FEC) to investigate loans made by the National Bank of Georgia in 1975 and 1976 to the Carter family peanut warehouse in Plains, Ga. The bank was then run by Bert Lance, and there have been suggestions that the loans fueled Jimmy Carter's presidential

Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., a supporter of killing the amendment, said: "My understanding is that the FEC has concluded the audit of the Carter campaign. They have also concluded and published their finding on the audit of (Gerald) Rafshoon and his dealings. So I do not see why it is necessary" to pass this amendment.

Sen. Gordon Humphrey, R.-N.H., an opponent of killing the amendment, which he had sponsored, said: "Since these allegations (about the warehouse loans) have been made, there have been a massive silence in Washington. Nobody is asking: 'What did Jimmy Carter know and when did he know it?' Yet, if these allegations, are true, Jimmy Carter violated federal election laws."

Senators voting "nay" wanted an ad-ditional FEC probe into any connection between the bank loans and the Carter presidential campaign. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D, voted "yea."

Sen. Pete Domenici, R, Harrison

Schmitt, R, and John Tower, R, voted "nay." UNPAID STUDENT LOANS The Senate voted, 52 for and 38 against, to block a plan for collecting some of the $2 billion now owed the government in defaulted student loans. The vote came during consideration of HR 4393 (see vote above).

Under the plan, the Internal Revenue Service would withhold income tax refunds requested by individuals who failed to repay government loans for their education. The recovery program was to have been experimental, employing 30 IRS workers and costing $1 mil-Sen. Harrison Schmitt, R-N.M., a PRIVATE SCHOOLS By a vote of 31 for and 54 against, the Senate refused to support a proposed Internal Revenue Service regulation aimed at private schools which discriminate on the basis of race. The vote came during debate on HR 4393 (see votes above).

In part, the regulation apparently quashed by this vote would have made it easier for the IRS to deny tax-exempt status to church-related schools which discriminate.

Senators voting "yea" supported the IRS regulation for denying tax-exempt status to certain church-related schools. Domenici, Schmitt, Bentsen and Tower voted "nay."

PANAMA The House adopted, 247 for and 128 against, an amendment to eliminate most foreign aid scheduled for Panama in fiscal 1980. Congressmen To Battle On Salary Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) - Members of the House of Representatives are girding for the second battle of 1979 in a war over how much money they will pay themselves during the next fiscal year. The starting point is the current salary of $57,500 a year. The possibilities for change range from no raise at all to a 12.9 percent in-

The stage for a showdown within the next three weeks was set Tuesday when a House Appropriations subcommittee unanimously agreed to resurrect legislation that would grant a 7 percent cost-ofliving pay boost.

The action of the legislative appropriations subcommittee ran counter to predictions from House leaders that congressional pay would be frozen for 1980.

That public assessment came after the House rejected the original proposal for a 7 percent pay raise last June and returned the bill appropriating money for 1980 congressional operating expenses to the subcommittee for further ac-Instead of revamping that bill to impose a pay freeze as House leaders predicted, the subcommittee voted to keep intact the original recommendation for a 7 percent raise. The measure now goes to the House Appropriations Committee for further action. It is expected to be voted on by the full House before the new federal budget year begins Oct. 1. In a related development, Sen. Orrin

Hatch, R-Utah, introduced a bill in the Senate Tuesday to freeze congressional salaries at $57,500. A spokesman for Hatch said the bill would allow a cost-of-living increase for top federal employees but would prohibit any increase in congressional salaries. The spokesman asked not to be named. Both opponents and supporters of a pay raise agree that unless some action taken by Oct. 1, members of the House and the Senate could receive a

Such an increase would be the result of a congressional decision several years back to include members of the House and Senate in any cost-of-living pay increase given federal workers.

The 12.9 percent figure is calculated by adding a 5.5 percent "automatic" pay raise passed up by Congress this year plus the 7 percent raise President Carter has ordered for all federal workers for 1980 - plus 0.4 percent interest on the 1979 raise Congress declined to take.

A full 12.9 percent increase seems unlikely, however.

Harry Guardino Plays Likeable Policeman In CBS Program

firm handling the rerun sales. That

By JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK (UPI) - If you can imagine picking up "Columbo," dusting him off and dropping him into the police department of a desert resort community, you might wind up with something like "Bender.

"Bender" will be seen on CBS tonight at 9 p.m. (CDT) starring Harry Guardino as a former high-ranking New York City police officer who has become chief of police of Tamarisk Wells, Calif. A community no doubt inspired by the popular conception of Palm Springs.

Like Peter Falk's Columbo, Bender has a rumpled charm, a dogged pursuit of villains, portraying a police official as agreeably human - not a romantic hero or comic book avenger of evil.

The town consists of rich newcomers and stubborn descendants of pioneer Westerners. Bender fits into neither group. He's a dude in the West, a big city man in a small town, a working stiff to rich men and an outsider to old-tim-

This episode — meant as the pilot for a series - erupts when a grizzled old rancher (you can always tell a good guy by his grizzle) tries to fight the landgrabbing tactics of a slick (therefore bad guy) newcomer, Ben Piazza, who predictably turns out to be a front man for the mob

Things turn rough when Piazza petulantly calls in a hitman who dresses like a banker and, judging by his fumbles, should have given up assassination and taken up plumbing.

The plot of "Bender" is not overloaded with surprise twists, but the character has a charm that could make the show a winner as a winter replacement possibility.

Guardino makes Bender believable and likeable as he tries to stay away from sweets, forget the tragedy of his wife's death, and reconcile himself to exchanging the asphalt jungle (where he spoke the language) for the palm-fringed desert where the air is clean but the natives are hostile.

Like Dennis Weaver's "Stone," which definitely will be slotted into ABC's winter schedule, "Bender" could wind up on a future CBS lineup.

"Bender" was produced by O'Connor-Becker Productions, the O'Connor in question being Carroll, of Archie Bunker fame. Speaking of Archie and "All in the Family." the show has passed the $87 million mark in syndication sales.

That makes the show the biggest money-making comedy series in television history, according to Viacom, the doesn't mean it holds the record for most syndication - "I Love Lucy" and several other programs would win on that score, Crazy Leo is real people. George Schlatter, who makes NBC's "Real People," appreciates people like Leo. They can be much more interesting than actors uttering tired lines.

In fact, the major weakness of Schlatter's show is the segment done by TV people - the part when Sarah Purcell and John Barbour and the others sit around and yuk it up. Not to belittle the talents of those entertainers, but the best part of the show is indisputably the real people

Tonight's show features a reunion of 500 descendants of one Lars Nielsen, the majority of whom strongly disagree with the TV program choices of those other Nielsens (the A.C. variety).

Real people do weird things, like sticking so much gum on an alley wall that it becomes a tourist attraction. So, "Real People" visits Gum Alley in San Luis Obispo, Calif., where folks have been sticking chewed gum on the wall for 10 years. Real people are disgusting, amusing,

British May Consider Army Issue

LONDON (AP) - The guerrilla alliance's insistence that the Zimbabwe Rhodesia peace conference deal with the issue of a new national army for the war-torn nation appeared to have won consideration from Britain today during the third day of talks.

Britain's major priority at the conference, which opened Monday, has been a new constitution for the country.

During a two-hour session this morning, Patriotic Front guerrilla leaders Robert Mugabe and Joshua Nkomo put forward a new conference agenda, placing right at the top debate on the composition of a new army and police force.

British Foreign Secretary Lord Carrington, conference chairman, was scheduled later today to present a compromise agenda devised during an hourlong coffee break in the morning session, Carrington's spokesman said.

A spokesman for the Patriotic Front made clear after the morning session, however, that the guerrilla movement was not insisting on having everything

The opposing delegation, headed by Zimbabwe Rhodesia's first black prime minister, Bishop Abel Muzorewa, has said it will accept whatever Carrington rules about the agenda.

Patriotic Front spokesman Eddison Zvobgo told reporters the guerrilla chiefs are prepared to discuss the constitution first if Britain insists upon that. But he told reporters there is no way the guerrillas will allow the conference to adjourn or end without a "comprehensive" agreement on who will actually be in charge during a transition period to British-granted independence.

Shortly before today's session began, former Rhodesian Prime Minister Garfield Todd urged guerrilla leaders to compromise now or face ostracism. Todd, prime minister from 1953 to 1958, ran afoul of the last white-minority government of Ian Smith because he supported the black nationalists. Todd told reporters the world had supported the Patriotic Front because they fought for a "just cause."

"But if Britain gives them the oppor tunity to get a clean constitution, with no reason for fighting, and they fail to pick it up, I think they will have few friends," Todd said.

A high-ranking conference source this morning said the talks would be in trouble if the guerrilla leaders didn't shelve their demand for the removal of Muzorewa's government and agree to tackle constitutional issues first.

The adversaries in the seven-year-old war in Southern Africa made their first conference statements Tuesday. Nkomo and Mugabe insisted priority in the discussions must be given to their demands for a transitional government controlled by them to replace Muzorewa's elected bi-racial government and a new Zimbabwe Rhodesian army dominated by their guerrillas.

Muzorewa ignored the opposing black leaders and their demand for the ouster of his regime. Instead he demanded that Britain spell out its conditions for recognition of his government and the constitution he and other moderate black leaders worked out earlier this year with the white minority led by former Prime Minister Smith.

Lending Rate Hits Record

NEW YORK (AP) - Chase Manhattan Bank said today it will raise its prime lending rate from 12% percent to a record 13 percent Thursday, less than a week after Chase increased the rate by half a percentage point. A bank spokesman for the na-

AUSTIN - The Texas Supreme Court agreed Wednesday with an Amarillo appeals court judgment that Associated Developers of Lubbock was totally liable for personal injuries suffered by one of its tenants. In its judgment, the Amarillo Court of Civil Appeals awarded Kerry L. Jackson $26,063 for injuries incurred when he fell on a steel spiral stairway at Briercroft Office Park operated by Associated Developers. The Supreme Court upheld that rul-

Earlier, a Lubbock jury found both parties partially liable for the accident. It awarded Jackson $16,941 believing that Associated Developers was 65 percent liable for the incident.

NCAA Feels Title IX Request To Be Ignored

The NCAA's expert on Title IX says he feels the Civil Rights Commission's newest recommendation on equalization of men's and women's athletic programs - which has college athletic officials on edge - probably will be ignored by the federal government.

On Tuesday, the Civil Rights Commission reversed an earlier position by suggesting that colleges and universities immediately be required to equalize per capita expenditures for men and women in all sports, including football.

The commission, however, has no legislative or enforcement powers. The Department of Health, Education and Welfare is charged with enforcing Title IX, the 1972 ammendment to the Higher Education Act that prohibits sex discrimination in federally funded educational programs.

Tom Hansen, NCAA assistant executive director, said he thought HEW had become disenchanted with the equal-percapita concept and "will have already done its own thinking on these matters" when it comes time to make a decision later this year.

"CRC was pressed by a number of women's groups to change this," he said. "I guess I continue to think that HEW will not accept the CRC recommendations."

Originally, football would have been given special consideration under Title IX interpretation because of the expense involved. It was felt that since no woman's sport was comparable in expense to football, football would be excluded from equal per capita spending figures.

Paul Dietzel, athletic director at LSU, said the only way to equalize spending for men's and women's programs completely would be to cut the men back to two or three sports while leaving the women with 10 or more.

"That would put us out of business." Dietzel said of the commission's recommendation. "Let's say that Tulane, for instance, has a $3 million athletic budget. They would immediately have to have a $5 million budget to provide the same costs $800 to equip a football player. How much does it cost to put a female swimmer in a tank suit? We would have to spend it ($800) to cover football if it were included. I question the sensibility of that formula."

Vince Dooley, head football coach and athletic director at Georgia, said his school's stand all along has been "the fed-eral government should let the institutions plot their own many schools, and this income had helped pay for increased budgets for women's sports.

"One of the mistakes HEW has made is that it has refused to acknowledge that the source of income is a factor in all this and has always said it doesn't matter where you get the money, you have to spend it equally," Hansen said. "It doesn't work that way.

The Office for Civil Rights, the agency within HEW with responsibility of enforcing Title IX, had no immediate comment on the commission's action came while it was meeting in Houston before the energing of a two-day hearing as realize.

As approved, the new position withdraws the special consideration for football and calls "for equal per capits expenditures for financially measurable factors for all sports without delay." Measurable factors would include items such as scholarships, recruiting costs and "all other readily measurable benefits and opportunities."

The Battle Up Abore

HAVE YOU EVER wondered what those conversations between the coaches in the press box and the man on the sidelines sound like?

Maybe that's because the picture on the field is one of utter serenity to those in the stands. One of the coaches stands with his arms folded, headset in place and nods at the word coming down from above.

I always imagined that the conversations were very business-like, almost military, with maybe a touch of CB lingo tossed in to spice things up. In my mind, they always went something like this: "Break one-nine for that man in the sky. Come in there, good buddy." "We're reading you loud and clear up here in the P-Box, coach. Come on back and talk at us," would come the answer from the sky pilots. "It's a little windy down here, what's it like up there?" Just fine pardnuh, we've got plenty of sandwiches and the coffee mood and hot. Of course the air-conditioning doesn't work too well. And, by the way, you've only got nine men on the field for that kickoff return.'

"Oh, just nine, you say (spoken calmly)? We appreciate the info good buddy and we'll jump right on it.'

THEN, IN MY mind, the game would progress leisurely with the men in the sky tossing out only occasional bits of advice. You know, things like, "Coach you might want to send in a new right guard - the one on the field hasn't movedin three plays. From here it looks like a broken leg for sure."

In other words, I figured the men in the press box were a luxury. Just like everybody else in those seats at the top of the stadium, they weren't really necessary to the game.

After all, the last time I played organized ball we didn't need any help from the press box. Of course I was 10 years old, there wasn't any press box for the coaches to sit in and we went 0-10 that year. Nonetheless, we did it without press-box assistance.

So I just figured that big-time operations used the press box men to make it look good. Once, during an exhibition NFL game on television, I saw a coach order pizza over the headset. There's no denying the usefulness of a deal like that, but I figured that was about the extent of it.

Friday night in Plainview I learned that I was all wrong. The press box coaches aren't just useful, they're a matter of life and death. And they are not calm by any stretch of the imagination.

TAKE AN ORDINARY man who normally keeps his children clothed and his dog fed, put him in the press box and watch what happens. After one close encounter (of the noisey kind) I have a good idea - they go stark, raving mad. .

By The Associated Press Carl Yastrzemski will get his 3,000th major league hit today. . . or Thursday. . or the day after. . . but he will get it,

"I never thought one hit would be so hard to get," the Boston slugger said Tuesday night after failing for the second straight game to become the first player in American League history to have 3,000 hits and 400 home runs.

But Reggie Jackson of the New York Yankees isn't worried.

You know as well as I do he's going

Yastrzemski went hitless in three official at-bats against former teammate Luis Tiant and relievers Ron Davis and Rich Gossage as the Yankees defeated the Boston Red Sox 8-3. He walked his first base on balls since Aug. 13, 45 games ago - popped to second baseman Willie Randolph in shallow center field, flied to right and fouled to catcher Jerry Narron.

"You know as well as I do he's going to get his 3,000th hit as sure as the sun's side," Yaz said. "I'm not being given a going to come up," Jackson said. "As chance to think of anything else. I've

No man's land, the combat zone - that's what it was. And if the battle on the field was fierce, the one upstairs was titanic.

The doors on either side of my room fairly shook throughout the game. If either coaching staff had quieted down for just a moment, they could have heard exactly what the other had in mind. But that was hardly a problem. "Oh my gosh." would scream the defensive coaches, "(insert name of anyone on the team) has lined up out of position again. He's supposed to be on the strong

"Coach, coach, your cornerback's out of position," they would scream to the man on the field. But it didn't really matter - not if you were listening to the coaches of the

"What are they doing down there?" would come the shriek. "Coach why aren't we running outside. Their cornerback is out of position. But it didn't matter, the ballcarrier would go straight up the middle for no gain and the cornerback stayed out of trouble. Still the coaches would scream and rant madly. And down on the field, the man on the receiving end of all the abuse would calmly nod his head. Either he had turned off the sound or he had cotton in his ears. But when the men upstairs spotted something, eventually the message would get down to the field and with the ensuing big play — the press box coaches would go wild.

"I told you that's all we needed to do. Now if we can just get some air conditioning up here . . . "

BUT THE BEST behavior was reserved for touchdowns. That called for pandemonium from both sets of coaches. For the team that scored, the men would bang loudly on the windows. They didn't need a telephone to get the message

For the team that had just been scored upon, the coaches would bang on each other. It was all very civilized. Finally, in the fourth quarter, the Estacado offense began to roll. The Matador coaches went positively crazy when their squad

But Plainview blocked the point-after attempt and that gave the Bulldog boss-es plenty to bang the walls about. Then Plainview began to drive down the field as time began to run out.

The coaches on either side of me were screaming instructions now - moving offensive and defensive players like so many chess pieces. The Bulldogs rolled to the Estacado 25 before the drive finally fizzled. That was the game. For a moment - just a moment - there was an eerie silence. Then the door on the right of my little cubicle burst open and the Estacado coaches stormed through. They opened the door on the left where the Plainview staff held its headquarters.

"Good game, good game, good game," the victors and the vanquished congratulated each other briefly. Then the Estacado staff opened a door to the outside world and tore down the stairs. They could have even jumped off the stadium — they were that happy.

The Plainview group followed shortly: I'm almost sure they did make the Suddenly it was all over. Cautiously I peered into the deserted trenches. Both were identical. Empty coffee cups littered the room and the smell of battle and stale cigarettes hung in the air.

Awed, I wondered how we ever managed to play without someone calling the shots from above. Driving back to Lubbock, my CB came to life, I answered the

There were many outstanding individual efforts defensively for the Raiders against the Trojans. And it's difficult to determine which performance deserves the most attention

Senior cornerback Willie Stephens was one of the defenders who stuck out Saturday, and for his efforts against the Trojans, Stephens has been named the A-J Tech Player of the Week.

Stephens, a senior from Abilene, recorded four unassisted tackles and helped out on another stop. He also came up with Tech's only turnover the the contest, a fumble recovery, and broke up three passes.

"Willie is playing very consistent football," said Tech defensive coordinator Sam Robertson. "He has provided excellent leadership as a senior and Saturday night did an overall great job."

Other top defensive players for Tech Saturday were senior linebacker Johnny Quinney, who led the Raiders with eight unassisted and four assisted tackles; and senior kicker Bill Adams, who made sure the Trojans did not return any kickoffs by booting his only two out of the

The A-J Tech Offensive Player of the Week award goes to junior flanker Edwin Newsome, a 5-11, 160-pounder from Houston.

Newsome caught two passes for 67 yards. His 48-yard reception midway through the third quarter set up Tech's lone touchdown of the contest.

Senior guard Larry Martin had an excellent overall game against USC and was named blocker of the week by the Tech coaching staff. Junior guard George Smitherman recorded the big hit of the week. Sophomore punter Maury Buford was the offensive special teams player of the week for his excellent punting performance.

Buford, who led the nation in punting last season as a freshman with a 44.1 yard average, began defense of his crown in fine fashion Saturday. Buford kept the Red Raiders out of trouble all night long with his booming punts. For the record, Buford punted seven times for an average of 48.9 yards. Buford's punts traveled 59, 34, 55, 38, 43, 58 and 55 yards

SPORTOGRAPHY LCC Hopes For Saturday

By DON HENRY
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

If all goes according to schedule, Lubbock Christian College will host the University of Satillo, Mexico, in a Saturday afternoon football.

But, then again. . . Difficulties with language and com-munication have left LCC in doubt about the contest, which will be held - if played - at Coronado High School field.

Tuesday, at the weekly press conference-Chaparral Club meeting, LCC coach Jerry Don Sanders joked about it, applying the weather-forecasting formula to it. "As of 10 o'clock this morning," said Sanders, "there is an 85 percent chance the game will be played."

LCC officials have been working through the Mexican Consulate here, and Sanders indicated that Consulate officials had assured him that Satillo - or some other Mexican college team would be here for the 2 p.m. contest.

The Chaparrals are coming off a 47-0 drubbing at the hands of Sul Ross, and Sanders indicated there will be tactical as well as personnel changes for this week's game — or the Sept. 22 game with Tarleton if the Mexican aggregation "We're going back to more basic plays and try to execute better," said the LCC coach. Coronado ran its volleybalf record to 2-1 Tuesday night by defeating Dunbar 15-5, 15-4 at the DHS gym.

Laura Richards was the high server for the Ponies with 12 points, while Beckie Lovett collected 71 per cent of her hits. Cynthia Hardaway paced Dunbar with six hits.

The loss evens Dunbar's season mark at 1-1.

On Monday night, Coronado lost to Amarillo High 15-10, 13-15, 15-11. In junior varsity play, Coronado defeated Dunbar 11-15, 15-13, 15-9. The Ponies also defeated Amarillo 25-6, 15-6, DALLAS (AP) - It was the first fall scrimmage at SMU, and curious lettermen players showed up with all eyes on Eric Demetric Dickerson.

Dickerson's buildup rivaled any ever saddled on a mere schoolboy running back out of a Class AAA school.

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff Stanton was kind of overlooked all during the preseason. Being in the same district with Seagraves is enough to obscure most teams. But any hopes coach Steve Park had of sneaking up on anvbody went down the tubes Friday night.

His Class A Buffaloes whipped mighty Tahoka, a coaches' favorite in District 5-AA last Friday night.

Stanton out-offensed the Bulldogs 278 to 209, not a great difference, but the Buffaloes kept the Bulldogs from scoring in the first half while keeping the offensive pressure on.

Is a tie really like kissing your sister? Coach Ronnie Reeger, whose Petersburg Buffaloes ended up 6-6 with Class AA Abernathy, doesn't think so.

Kennedy-Carter Confrontation Could Be Hard-Fought Battle

WASHINGTON (AP) - His supporters are bubbling with optimism, but Sen. Edward M. Kennedy says he's not so sure he'd be a shoo-in for the 1980 Democratic presidential nomination.

There will be no easy victory if he decides to challenge President Carter in the primaries, Kennedy said Tuesday.

I think it would be a hard-fought battle, both the nomination and the election," he told reporters at a Kennedy Center charity benefit

Kennedy acknowledged that in recent weeks, "there have been a number of my colleagues in the Congress and Senate who have asked me to give consideration" to running.

Neither Kennedy nor Carter has declared himself a candidate. Speculation about a Kennedy candidacy has been rampant since the Massachusetts senator announced recently that his family had no objections to his entering the race. In a television interview today, Democratic National Chairman John C. White, a Carter supporter, said a Carter-Kennedy nomination battle "would be one of the classic struggles of our political history

"If you put the two most powerful figures in American in a contest against each other, the potential for a bloody, mangling nomination process is there. We have done it before in the Democratic Party ..

White said on the CBS Wednesday Morning" program. "It is 50 separate guerrilla battles in 50 separate locations over a period of about four months. It is a long, tedious process in which each battle affects the next battle. I would suspect that in a situation like this that the polls are mean-

The party chief answered "sure" when asked whether Carter could beat

"Sen. Kennedy obviously will win some (primaries.) The president will win some. And how they work against each other will determine the outcome of it. I think it would be a mighty struggle.

"But there's no way — no way — you can count the president out of this nomination process. He's done it ... If I know the president, he's a fighter. He's not going to give up without a fight. And it's gonna be a tough, hard fight. Certainly Sen. Kennedy's a fighter. He's not going to give up without a tough, hard fight.

But House Speaker Thomas P O Neill contended that Democratic presidential squabbles make the party

President Urged To End Grain Millers Strike

Agricultural directors of 11 Midwestern states have urged President Carter to take new steps to end a nine-week strike of grain millers at Duluth, Minn., and Superior, Wis., declaring "irreparable harm" already has been done.

The strike has stopped all grain shipments from the ports since July 6 and billions of bushels of grain and soybeans are about to be harvested in the Midwest. But the agricultural directors said Tuesday the storage bins already are bulging and two strikes have pinched off important segments of the farm-to-market transportation network.

In Minnesota, Agriculture Commissioner Mark Seetin said the strike was costing farmers $25 million a week. In North Dakota, Agriculture Commissioner Myron Just said it has cost the state's economy $1 million to $4 million a day. And in South Dakota, state Marketing Director Angus Anson said farmers have lost about 44 cents a bushel of grain, or an estimated $280 million. A more recent walkout, the two-week strike against the Rock Island Line, a major Midwest hauler, has caused wheat prices to drop in Nebraska, cut off Kansas wheat fields' main artery to market, and given Iowa corn and soybean harvesters headaches over where they will store this year's abundance of grain and Federal mediators met Tuesday with Rock Island and union negotiators in Washington.

Annual Field Day Hosted By Agricultural Station

By KATHLEEN HARRIS

Avalanche-Journal Farm Writer Perched on tractor-drawn flat bed trailers, about 1,300 farmers and agribusinessmen toured research plots on cotton, sorghum, soybeans, sunflowers and weeds Tuesday at the 70th annual Texas Agricultural Experiment Station Field

Day north of Lubbock. Several grain sorghum breeding plots showed experimental hybrids, and varieties resistant to greenbugs, head smut, charcoal rot and grain mold. The dryland sorghum plot featured experimental drought tolerant varieties and converted exotic sorghums. Dr. Darrell T. Rosenow, grain sorghum scientist, pointed out a breeding block that contains random mating populations isolated by corn and breeding material containing resistance to lodging, disease and grain weathering, with an emphasis on limited irrigation.

A hybrid cotton demonstration was a popular stop on the tour. Dr. Levon L. Ray, cotton breeder, told the group a sizable amount of commercial seed should be available within five years.

Using wild cottons from Mexico, several cotton strains were developed to be evaluated for drought, insect and disease resistance. Another cotton study demonstrated the effect on plant stand and cotton yield from delays in emergence caused by soil crusting.

Regional and special cotton seed fungicide treatments also are being studied for their effects on stand establishment, according to Dr. E. B. Minton, cotton pathologist.

Verticillium wilt of cotton is the target of several TAES tests. Scientists are trying to determine if verticillium wilt can be controlled biologically with bacteria and fungal isolates from cotton plants and if an experimental fungicide will delay disease development.

Weed control was discussed by Dr. John Abernathy, weed physiologist. Farmers were able to examine application equipment. Using nematodes for biologival control of white weed is a new idea currently being researched, according to Dr. Calvin Orr, nematologist.

Innoculating white weeds with the nematodes," Orr said, "could provide an inexpensive method of control and possible kill out a stand in three or four

Dr. Charles W. Wendt, soil physicist, presented research information about water use efficiency. He said scientists are researching ways to increase the efficiency of water absorbed, 90 percent of which is lost in transpiration.

Studies on sunflowers, soybeans, soil fertility, orchards and vienyards, peas and cotton gins also were viewed.

Contradictions Seen In News About Economy

By JOHN CUNNIFF NEW YORK (AP) — With the U.S. nt's public debt now amo ing to $813,140,000,000, it might seem odd that it should be asked to bail out Chrysler Corp., which may lose only $600 million this year.

That, however, is the unusual way in which things add up these days. If recent events seem illogical don't blame yourself and search more deeply for the hidden explanation. It may not be there.

Those numbers, for example, are feal. The government will run a $30 billion deficit this year. It pays more than $4 billion a month just to maintain its debt—not to reduce it, but merely to pay the charges.

But reality may not count. This year's budget deficit, one of the biggest ever, is said by President Carter to be tight. And Washington last week guaran-teed a loan of more than $100 million to a private company.

The private concern, Wheeling-Pittsburgh Steel Co., plans some of the money for a new rail facility. Bethelehem Steel, meanwhile, says so much railmaking capacity already exists that its workers are idle.

Puzzles, seeming contradictions, riddles and enigmas pervade the news.

The president claims to have made the control of inflation his top economic priority. But in Davenport, Iowa, he interrupted his recent riverboat cruise to ask people to consider paying more, not less, for goods.

The appeal was part of a pitch for

New System To Forecast Flu Found

ATLANTA (UPI) - Federal health officials say they have found a system of forecasting flu epidemics that could allow active medical intervention before an outbreak strikes.

The National Center for Disease Control reported this week the system may forecast flu epidemics two or more weeks before they occur with the aim of plunting such outbreaks and possibly

Saving lives,
The system, described in detail to a group of flu experts at the CDC, is based on statistical analysis of pneumonia-influenza during the past 17 years. The CDC said the system was tested alongside the old system during this winter's flu season and officials think it may replace the one that has been in use for the past 20 years.

Dr. Keewhan Choi of the CDC's bureau of epidemiology said the system "would be able to detect outbreaks two weeks before pneumonia and influenza deaths reach the epidemic level." Choi said it was hoped that future statistical research would improve on the two-week warning period.

The Dr. Philip Brachman, director of the emiology bureau, said two weeks advance warning of an impending influenza outbreak would allow time for medical intervention to save lives through anti-viral drugs.

With immediate intervention, influenza vaccines, which take about two weeks to build up a person's immunity, also possibly could be used.

The present system of reporting influenza activity is based on pneumoniainfluenza mortality statistics, but indieate epidemic levels of influenza two weeks after the event. Dr. Alexander Langmuir of Chilmark, Mass., former director of the CDC's bureau of epidemiology but now retired, challenged the accuracy of the proposed new system. Langmuir, who played a leading role in developing the CDC's present flu-reporting method, said that in the 20 years it had been used It had never been inaccurate in showing the level of flu activity and in pinpoint-

"I wish you all the luck in the world," Langmuir told Choi. "If you can do that (forecast epidemics two weeks in advance), you have made the greatest contribution in 20 years.

ing the occurrence of an epidemic.

Choi said that under his system, an influenza epidemic would be indicated if the number of flu deaths across the nation in any given week was greater than 620. He said 800 flu deaths in a week would mean a major epidemic was on

UH President Resigns Post

HOUSTON (AP) - Dr. Philip G. Moffman has abruptly resigned as presi dent of the University of Houston, a position he has held 18 years.

The unexpected resignation was an lounced Monday after the board of regents decided not to approve his recommendation on appointment of an acting chancellor of the University's downtown

American-made goods. Buy American, he said, and you'll help reduce the imbalance in U.S. international payments. And, he might have added, give a boost

The term "windfall profits" has been used again and again in regard to the potential profits to oil companies from the market imbalance in supplies of energy. Unearned and undeserved, said the pres-

If that is so, what then should we call. the untold billions of tax dollars that will accrue to the federal government not because of higher real incomes - personal income has been declining - but because inflation simply boosted incomes into higher, more costly tax brackets?

The confusion involves the private sector also.

A securities firm advertises, for example, that you can put inflation to work for you by investing in a debt security that might pay nearly 10 percent. Yes, but inflation is 13 percent. Please explain.

A bank promotes the notion of regular saving as the way to build financial success. Why you can even become a millionaire, it suggests, and it tells you how compound interest can make you

Well, it's true: compounding is like magic. At 7 percent interest, your money doubles in about 10 years. But inflation is like magic too, and at 13 percent

In the stock market, which hates confusion and uncertainty, you can find today a mishmash of notions such as hasn't existed in years. There is very little consistency; the variance in views is kaleidescopic

Far out on a limb are some well-regarded savants who insist that stocks are overpiced and headed for a tumble. On the other side of the tree, just as far out, you can find a covey of analysts who maintain the Dow Jones industrial average will double within three years.

If you feel that these and other bits of economic news fail to fit together into a logical pattern, do not make the mistake of attributing it to some failing of your understanding. It isn't you; it's the world.
