Eight Join SPAG's Board

By DEBBI STALTER

Avalanche-Journal Staff All four Lubbock minority representatives were approved to serve on the South Plains Association of Governments board of directors this morning. even though Lubbock County is no longer a part of the council of governments.

Four other minority representatives from areas outside of Lubbock also were added to the board.

One of the Lubbock representatives, Bert McWilliams, was named to take over as fourth vice president of the organization. The position had been left vacant by Lubbock County Commissioners voted recently to withdraw from

On a recommendation from the SPAG executive committee, board members unanimously voted to let the four minority representatives serve from the City of Lubbock, nullifying the question of whether the two county representatives would qualify for membership on the board.

Those representatives include McWilliams, Bidal Aguero, Joan Ervin and Blas Mojica. McWilliams, a counselor for the Lubbock County Mental Health-Mental Retardation Center, won out for the fourth vice president position in a 13-9 vote over Crosbyton Mayor Pro Tem A.F. Ogle

Also approved for membership on the board were the four other minority representatives from areas surrounding

They include Silbano Garcia of Morton, representing Bailey, Lamb, Cochran and Yoakum counties; Onofre Hinojosa of Plainview, representing Hale County; Dario Rendon of Anton, representing Hockley and Terry counties; and Benjamin Vera of Crosbyton, representing Crosby, Dickens, Lynn, Motley, King

The eight minority membership positions were added to the board in September in order to qualify this area for Economic Development Administration

Of that number, two minorities were to be elected to the SFAG executive committee. With McWilliams' election as fourth vice president, a second committee member was needed, and the minority group elected Vera to that seat.

The minorities' membership on the board is effective immediately. Mojica and others addressed the preme Court today refused to hear a Texas Death Row inmate's challenge to the state's policy of using lethal injections to execute condemned prisoners.

Court Blocks Challenge To Death Law

The justices left intact state court decisions upholding the legal validity of the execution method.

David Lee Powell, sentenced to death in the May 18, 1978, murder of an Austin policeman, contended Texas authorities did not provide constitutionally required prior notice and hearings before they adopted the lethal-injections method in 1977.

Prior to the change, the prescribed method for imposing the death penalty was the electric chair.

Texas' death penalty law as applied to murderers was upheld as constitutional by the Supreme Court in 1976. But although more than 100 persons reside on the state's Death Row, no one has been executed since the 1976 ruling.

Powell, now 28, was convicted of using a high-powered rifle to kill Austin Police Officer Ralph Ablanedo, 26, after he was stopped for a minor traffic viola-

The justices, voting 6 to 3, refused to review the 1978 criminal conviction of Gregory K. Letin stemming from a fatal traffic accident in Point Pleasant, Justices Byron R. White, William J. Brennan Jr. and Potter Stewart voted to hear Lewin's arguments, but the votes of four justices are needed for review.

Today's action only affects New Jersey, and does not affect states in which courts require police to give Miranda

Cold Front Routs Heat On Plains

A-J News Services

A fast-moving cold front swept deep into Texas today, after dumping snow on Wyoming and western Nebraska, and the mass of Canadian air was expected to chase an unseasonable heat wave clear out of the state by nightfall.

The powerful norther - though not cold enough to be blue or turn anyone that color - slammed into Lubbock at 4 a.m. today.

With the city still steaming from a record high temperature of 98 degrees Monday, the norther hit with 50-mph winds and shoved temperatures into 40s here and over the South Plains.

Northeasterly winds of 20 to 30 mph and gusting even harder were expected to subside to 15 to 25 mph this afternoon and become easterly at 5 to 10 mph to-

Witnesses Link Selman To Beating Of Kirkland

Avalanche-Journal Staff Two Lubbock men this morning told a 237th District Court jury they heard Sammy Richard Selman say he had beaten an old man the afternoon of May 23 and then left him in a ditch along the Clovis Highway. Jim Jensen was the first witness to testify this morning as the 30-year-old Selman's trial for the murder of Jeral Ray Kirkland entered its second day. Jensen said that on the afternoon of May 23. Selman came to Jensen's Harvard Avenue automobile repair shop and

Jensen said he just overheard the May 23 conversation, but two days later Selman came to Jensen's house shortly after midnight and told Jensen he had beaten Kirkland

The witness, whose testimony was frequently interrupted by objections from defense attorney George Thompson, also said Selman was an extremely strong man.

Jensen told the nine-woman, threeman panel he had seen Selman, of 6118

29 at Health Sciences Center Hospital,

apparently from trauma suffered as the result of a blow to the head. An inquest jury in June ruled the death a homicide, and Selman was indicted for murder in connection with the death. On cross-examination, Thompson pointed out discrepancies in Jensen's testimony this morning and in statements he made to a Texas Ranger and the inquest jury. In those earlier statements, Jensen admitted he said that Selman told him he had not meant to hurt Kirkland and that Kirkland had provoked the fight. However, in response to questions by prosecutor Travis Ware. Jensen said. "I kind of soft-pedaled at the inquest. I was afraid to tell the whole truth. "Who were you afraid of?" Ware

"I'm afraid of Sam Selman.

Also this morning, Larry Blackburn, who was at Jensen's 1315 Harvard Ave. auto shop May 23, said Selman came into the business that afternoon and was very excited and nervous.

"I asked (Selman) what was wrong, and he said he had been in a fight with an old man named Jeral and left him in the road." Blackburn said.

Blackburn said Selman told him he had left the man in a ditch along the Clovis Highway. Blackburn said he drove almost to Shallowater trying to locate the apparent beating victim. However. Blackburn said, he found nothing.

Monday, Kirkland's widow told the jury she returned home from work the evening of May 23 and found her husband disoriented, unsteady on his feet and exceptionally quiet.

But because one of her sons was in Methodist Hospital's intensive care unit with a crushed chest suffered in an oil rig accident, Wanda Kirkland said, she See WITNESSES Page 16

ALPINE (UPI) - Residents of four sparsely populated counties are donating cattle, horses, goats, sheep and even burros to make sure their community hospital continues operating in this remote stretch of West Texas, without additional taxes or government help.

The animals will be auctioned off along with freezers, stereos and other merchandise contributed by area merchants at a big all-day frolic Oct. 13, which will feature a cattle drive, parade, intercollegiate rodeo, barbecue and a dance giving residents a chance to kick up their heels while helping save Big Bend Memorial Hospital Officials of Jeff Davis. Brewster, Terrell and Presidio counties, fearing the hospital might succumb to inflation as other small clinics have recently, discussed forming a hospital district to ensure adequate funding, but scrapped the idea of additional taxes in favor of a community fund-raising effort. 'You read regularly about small hospitals just flat going under," said Bob Dillard of the Alpine Avalanche weekly newspaper. "The whole idea (of the community fund drive) is that it's an opportunity to do something for ourselves rather than add another tax or bring in a management firm. We're not asking a penny from the federal government or anybody else." Dillard said every rancher in the area was donating at least one animal, while virtually every store in the county seats of Fort Davis, Marfa, Sanderson and Alpine was contributing merchandise.

Accused Sniper's Body Found Hanging In Cell

> ties said today Cullinane's body was found at 6:30 a.m. by a trusty delivering breakfast, said Ray Roberts, legal counsel for the San Francisco Sheriff's Department. The trusty summoned a medical attendant, who cut the body down

> Roberts said a log is used to record the times when inmates are checked, but that it was "unclear" when Cullinane was last seen alive.

Cullinane used a strip of bed sheet or mattress cover to hang himself, tying one end around his neck and the other around the highest bars of his cell, Rob-

Deputy Coroner Everett Bigbee said an autopsy would be held later today. A shaken deputy, who declined to give his name, said Cullinane was checked periodically but was not under constant watch. He said Cullinane apparently hanged himself between 4:30 a.m. and 5 a.m. Cullinane was being held in isolation in a maximum security cell at the Hall of Justice a few blocks from the sniping scene. He was being held in lieu of $500,-000 bail after being booked for investigation of kidnapping, robbery, assault on a peace officer, assault with a deadly weapon and false imprisonment.

The San Francisco Sheriff's Department is responsible for security at city jails. Sheriff Eugene Brown and his department have been criticized in recent weeks for a series of escapes and for complaints about conditions at the jail.

Cullinane, 22, was arrested late Saturday after he fell asleep in a 16th floor office on Market Street where he had held a 55-year-old secretary hostage and fired random shots from a shattered window with a .30 caliber carbine. His hostage, Chiyo Tashiro, was not harmed and only one person on the street suffered minor wounds from the Police negotiators, who had talked with Cullinane throughout the siege, described him as mentally disturbed. He made a variety of demands, including "an end to oppression" and a $1 million food program for needy child-

Police credited a woman officer for having a calming influence over the sniper who, they said, was having hallucinations. Officer Maureen D'Amico, 28, who was participating for the first time as a member of the city's specially trained crisis negotiating team, played a major role in talks with the sniper. Dr. Chris Hatcher, a psychologist at the University of California's Langley Porter Neuropsychiatric Institute who was directing the negotiations with the gunman, said it was probably the first time the peaceful outcome of such an incident can be credited to a woman.

The first shots were fired late Friday afternoon onto crowded Market Street.

Richard Leakey Awaiting Operation

LONDON (AP) — Fossil-hunting paleontologist Richard Leakey, suffering from kidney failure, is in London await-ing a kidney transplant operation in late December.

Leakey, whose discoveries helped establish East Africa's Rift Valley as the cradle of mankind about 2 million to 4 million years ago, said he is receiving dialysis treatment at a London hos-pital.

Leakey, 34, a Kenyan national, is director of the National Museums of Kenya and has a home in Kenya.

His father was anthropologist Louis Leakey who died in 1972 and whose widow, Mary Leakey, is still active at sites in Tanzania.

Richard's younger brother, Philip, 30, said last week in Nairobi that he plans to donate a kidney to his brother. Philip plans to travel to London after the Nov. 8 Kenyan parliamentary elections in which he is a candidate.

Ballerina Says Mother Unhappy

NEW YORK (AP) - Bolshoi Ballet ballerina Valentina Kozlova, who defected to the United States last month with her dancer husband Leonid Kozlov, says things are "going badly" for her mother in Moscow.

Mrs. Kozlova said Monday she had spoken to her mother on the telephone, and that, "She says things are going very badly for her, but she didn't tell us specifically what.

Kozlov, who appeared with his wife at a news conference, said, "They (the Russian government) could give her problems in living. We hope that they'll stop, but it'll go on for a long time." He has a mother and sister in Moscow.

The Kozlovs, who said they first thought of defecting in 1973, the year they were married, said that surveillance increased on Bolshoi Ballet dancers after Alexander Godunov defected in New York.

The couple repeated their earlier statement that they defected for artistic freedom. Their first American appearances since defecting will be in New Orleans on Friday and Saturday.

Ramses II Goes On Display

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) - Pharaoh Ramses II, star of the mummy collection in Cairo's Egyptian museum, had a coming out party.

Trumpets sounded a salute for the dead on Monday as President Anwar Sadat pulled a blue-and-gold velvet covering from the showcase holding the preserved body of one of Egypt's most famous kings.

The ceremony at the museum marked the first public display of the royal mummy since it was flown to France three years ago for treatment of fungus and parasites that were gradually destroying it.

For seven months, 80 scholars ranging from nuclear scientists to cosmetic experts treated it for fungus, bacteria and parasites. After its return, it was kept hidden from public view for more than two years because of orange spots that mysteriously appeared on the glass of the new showcase. Museum officials determined the spots appeared when gamma rays were used to mould the glass to the case. They say the 'mummy is in perfect condition.'

More than a half-million tourists a year visit the museum and its special room on the second floor, where about 30 mummies, most of which were unearthed in upper Egypt late in the 19th century, are on display.

Recipes for these and other dishes for such pets as turtles, skunks, guppies and ducks are contained in "Critters' Kitchen," a cookbook written by Michelle Reynolds, 13, of

Michelle, who lives on a farm with her parents, dogs, cats, rabbits, chickens, geese, ducks and horses, said the idea for her book started one rainy day when she was 9 years old. "I love animals and know that eating is the most important part of the day for them," Michelle says in the preface to the book. "I wouldn't want to be fed the same thing every day, would you?"

The 32 recipes in the book, released by Atheneum publishing company, were checked by a veterinarian for wholesomeness. Michelle's mother helped her with library research on food suitable for various animals. Michelle did the hand lettering and the illustrations.

Some of the recipes are not for the sqeamish. Mole Bowl, for example, contains beefsteak, fish, worms and flies, and a dish for skunks calls for six grasshoppers.

"This is not an enjoyable thing to make," Michelle wrote of a dish for turtles. It features five live worms and two slugs, among other things.

Man Robs Hairstyling Salon, Later Weds Victim In Prison

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Julie Black was working in a hairstyling salon when she first set eyes on Eddie Lasco. the man she eventually married. She was impressed by his manners and thoughtfulness.

"I was sweeping hair up off the floor when Eddie came in," the 20-year-old bride recalled later. "I asked if I could help him, and he said I sure could. He was waving towards the cash register - with a gun.

He let the store owner keep all checks and count the cash before handing it over, she said.

"It's been nice doing business with you." he told them as he departed.

A week after the March 6 robbery. Julie and her boss spotted Lasco, who is about 24, at a discotheque. That led to Lasco's arrest, and Julie testified against him at a preliminary hearing.
"He looked so normal," she recalled in a recent interview. "There was no evil or sinister look in his eye. I referred to him in court as 'Mr. Lasco' because even though he had done these things, I thought he should still be treated like a person. And when I left the courtroom,

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:

NTIA Is On The 'Move' THE NATION'S transportation system is in serious disrepair, with policies and programs ill-equipped to meet the future demands of a more mobile America. This is the conclusion of a three-year study by the National Transportation Policy Study Commission, headed by U.S. Rep. Bud Shuster, R-Pa.

The report sees the federal government's transportation bureaucracy as one of the main impediments to the development of future national transportation policy.

It recommends that the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Federal Maritime Commission and the Civil Aeronautics Board be abolished.

INSTEAD OF the 1,000 separate transportation policies administered by more than 60 federal agencies, it suggests establishing a single federal transportation commission and a restructuring of the Transportation Department to consolidate all transportation programs now run out of other Cabinet-level departments. Shuster says he hopes congressional hear-ings will be held next year on his planned National Transportation Improvement Act, which will incorporate commission findings.

There is a hitch. The report notes that a future transport policy must be predicated on immediate adoption of a national energy

It says our current "lackluster energy policy, impeding production of oil, coal and other forms of energy, is endangering transportation's ability to keep up with demand."

THE REPORT is based on several assumptions about the nation's future energy

It assumes that nuclear power will provide 17 percent of our energy by the year 2000, and up to 20 percent of domestic crude oil will come from synthetic fuels.

It also assumes a tripling of domestic coal production. However, it predicts that for the next two decades, the nation will be 97 percent dependent on petroleum for energy.

The report raps overregulation. It recommends that the federal government minimize its regulatory role over the transporta-

The staff of scholars who produced the above statement in a 550-page study of energy resources were not grinding an axe for the commercial nuclear industry.

All the power industries-oil, gas, coal, electricity-have been subjected to demagogic assault by the Carter administration.

The induced propaganda in favor of Energy nationalization has been given the stimulation needle by superstition among the ignorant and by malice among the anti-Americans.

THERE EXISTS A psychotic linkage between commercial nuclear plants and nuclear weapons. And there are apprehensions that international proliferation will put nuclear explosives into the hands of terrorists.

The fanning of such imagined flames has done immense harm to the reputation of the peaceful nuke, and done much to reduce America's position as a major industrial power.

But this erudite study of all available fuels makes the point that, despite sensational journalism in print and on the TV screen, conventional nuclear power plants "do not offer particularly attractive targets for saboteurs and terrorists."

This does not mean that due precautions should be skimped, but it means that there is no sane

OF MUCH MORE potential disaster is the falloff of nuclear capacity. The Energy Department estimates that by 2000 A.D. nuclear generation of electricity ought to be large enough to cancel the expense of 1978 oil imports, and to exceed 1978 coal production.

But this blessing obviously will not take place without a reversal of public opinion in favor of nuclear energy. New orders for conventional light water reactors have been dropping so fast that some business observers do not believe the manufacture of reactors will survive as an industry.

There are two conspicuous reasons for this national misfortune which will make electricity much more expensive. One reason is economic, and one political

But some officials for the county hospital district are asking for even further reductions to trim operating costs at the teaching hospital, despite Brookwood Management Services' promise to balance the budget next year at current staffing levels.

Board member Dub Rushing asked day's hospital district board meeting reflect that his motion to "furlough" 100 more employees died for lack of a second. But Rushing's proposal sparked a heated discussion between Brookwood representatives and several board members over the level of staffing needed to run the facility.

"It would bring about disastrous results," administrator Robert Berryman said of Rushing's proposal. Dr. William Holmes, chairman of the department of internal medicine at the medical school, the hospital already is suffering from a nurse shortage.

Rushing said he was "still disturbed by the unfavorable ratio of employees to patients." But Holmes said a recent meeting of the executive committee of medical school staff revealed staff members are concerned that the number of personnel left in the hospital is approaching the problem level in terms of

But as of the last week in September, the hospital already was far below the approved staffing level, leading medical school staff members to question wheth-

Rushing said that he was not suggesting further cuts in the nursing staff, but that perhaps Brookwood representatives had not pursued cuts in some departments as forcefully as they had in oth-

"I take great exception to the allega-tion that Brookwood is defending departments here," Brookwood's finance director Tom Kearney told Rushing. Brookwood consultants do not come in and defend the operation of a particular department.

'We continue to monitor staffing.' Kearney added.

Kearney defended the current level of staffing in terms of the operation of the hospital's emergency room and outpatient clinic, which require more personnel than general, acute care hospitals which do not provide such services.

Board chairman Jack Strong said he didn't necessarily support Rushing's proposal to "furlough" 100 employees across the board, but said that he did agree with Rushing in that Brookwood had promised major layoffs to cut back

A major casualty of the employee exodus at Health Sciences Center Hospital has been the nursing staff - and those nurses who are left are working double

In a meeting of the Lubbock County Hospital District Board of Managers on Monday, representatives from both Brookwood Management Services and the Texas Tech medical school expressed concern over the growing nursing shortage. They warned that the situation could get critical if the present rate of attrition continues without a major effort to hire more nurses.

Hospital administrators have authorized the filling of some available nursing positions, which is noteworthy in light of the continued efforts to trim down the payroll in other departments. But the general consensus among medical school staff members is that there has been enough of a departure already to begin affecting patient care.

'We're skating on the same kind of thin ice as we were when the hospital opened," hospital chief of staff Dr. Bill have to rely on American nurses for the Holmes said after Monday's meeting. If work force supply. they can't take care of patients, he said, the teaching program doesn't matter.

The medical school is losing some faculty members as a result of the turmoil within the hospital, he said, but the medical school faculty and staff are also very concerned about patient care. 'Our concern is that we get back into the recruiting phase," Holmes said. "This could get us into some really seri-"People are being shaken up and

Actor To Give One-Man Show

Actor-writer Rob Inglis will present a one-man show, "Shakespeare in Persons," for Lubbock Christian College's Freshman English Symposium at 7 p.m. Monday in Moody Auditorium.

The symposium is sponsored by the LCC English Department and the Center for Business and Economic Development, and the public is invited to attend free of charge

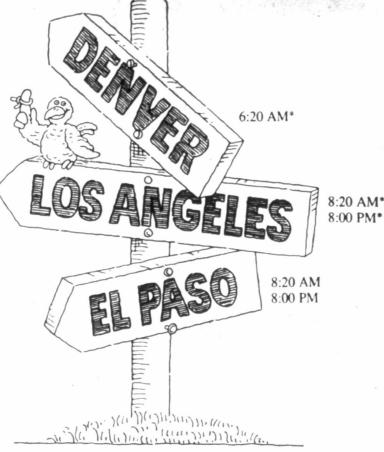

The show links Shakespeare's life with the social and theatrical backgrounds of the times, from his birth to his death drawing on the sonnets, plays and the narrative poems "Venus and Adonis" and the "Rape of Lucrece" to illustrate a chronological development.

Inglis, who has written numerous plays for British and Canadian television including "Voyage of the Endeavor" and "The Hands," also has appeared in stage productions of Shakespeare and other

"Shakespeare in Persons" will touch on such items as the formulative influences that gave the playwright awareness, sensitivity, ambition and skill.

Castro's U.N. Visit Security Nightmare

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Cuban President Fidel Castro will address the U.N. General Assembly this week on his first U.S. visit in 19 years — a guaranteed security headache for authorities.

Coming about a week after Pope John Paul II, Castro will make his U.N. appearance either Wednesday or Thursday, a highly placed U.N. source said.
"It will be one of the toughest security problems in the history of the organization," the source said Monday.

The details of the visit, the second spectacular in the current 34th General Assembly, are being worked out between the United Nations and a Cuban advance party, sources said.

A State Department spokesman in Washington said there was "a firm decision" that there will be no private talks with Castro, even on the sensitive issue of Soviet troops in Cuba.

Security at the headquarters of the world organization was tightened to the day, but the problems then were of a different nature.

Authorities wanted to restrain the over enthusiastic and be on the lookout for any fanatics who might have thought of harming the pontiff.

In Castro's case, there is concern about hostile crowds of Cuban emigrants and their supporters, with the problem of barring any of them from entering the building. Several thousand anti-Castro demonstrators massed outside the U.N. building last Friday.

building last Friday.

Castro will address the General Assembly both as president of his island nation and as chairman of the non-aligned nations.

Dictator's NY Trip Recalled

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fresh from his revolutionary victory over dictator Fulgencio Batista, Fidel Castro was in a defiant mood the last time he visited New York 19 years ago amid the rapid deterioration of U.S. Cuban relations.

He used the international podium of the United Nations to take his sharpest pokes at "Yankee imperialism," mocking the "gringos" by moving closer to an alliance with the Soviet Union.

Castro emerged from his Cubana Airlines jet two hours late on Sept. 18, 1960, in his now-familiar battle-green fatigues, his combat shirt open at the collar.

Under a drizzle, about 2,000 people cheered the rebel, carrying signs that read "Venceremos (We shall win)."

Ironically, others carried banners that read, "Hands Off The Congo" — port his revolution to the shores of Africa.

With a slight smile fixed beneath his beard, Castro clasped his hands above years before Castro himself would ex-

his head.

Accompanied by an entourage of 50 aides and bodyguards, Castro took up residence at the Shelburne Hotel in Manhattan.

Manhattan.

The management of the swank hotel, uncomfortable about hosting the rebels in the first place, refused to fly a Cuban flag to welcome the revolutionary delegation and demanded a $10,000 cash deposit as a guarantee against damages.

Castro was irate and complained of a "climate of inhospitality." He claimed his entourage could only come up with $2,000.

He threatened to camp out with his cadre on the lawns of the United Nations or in Central Park.

"We are mountain people. We are used to sleeping in the open air," he said.

Hopeful of finding support in New York's black community, the Cubans moved into 40 rooms at the Hotel Theresa in Harlem, where Joe Louis had customarily celebrated his boxing victories.

Cuban activists passed out revolutionary leaflets calling for racial equality to curious Harlem pedestrians while pockets of pro-Castro and anti-Castro demonstrators exchanged shouts and obscene gestures on nearby streets.

Though police vacations were suspended to offer full security to Castro and Nikita Khrushchev, also in New York to address a U.N. General Assembly session, violence could not be avoided.

A 9-year-old Venezuelan girl was shot to death by a stray bullet in a gun battle between Castro foes and supporters in Manhattan; El Prado Restaurant.

At least three people were injured and four more arrested in several other frays during the 10-day Castro visit.

This hand is from the Sum mer National Bridge Championships held at the Hilton Hotel in Las Vegas. Declarer was Ron Gerard, of Hastingson-Hudson, N.Y. He won the opening trump lead in his hand, crossed to the ace of hearts and ruffed a heart. After cashing the ace and king of clubs, discarding two spades from dummy, he ruff ed a club on the table. A heart ruff was followed by the ruff of declarer's last club in dummy, which brought about the following position:

Declarer led a heart from the table and ruffed, setting up the long heart there. Next, he entered dummy with a trump to the king, leaving West with the last trump. But that was a situation West did not enjoy for long.

Declarer needed only one more trick, and that appeared quickly. He led dummy's good heart, discarding a spade from his hand. Since that would have been the fulfilling trick, West was compelled to ruff. But now West had to concede a trick to declarer's king of spades. so the contract rolled home.

"Relocation" considers the legal, moral and social factors involved in moving a company from one location to another. In "Trebedies Island," the students become executives who compete to provide services to the residents of the island, and "Where Do You Draw The Line" focuses on ethics in the business world

"We at Southwestern Bell feel that we have a responsibility to the schools and colleges to help students understand communications and the business world," Mrs. King said. "Through these programs, we hope to help students better understand our company and the jobs involved, and in return, we hope to learn more about the needs of the educational community.

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: Apparently most needlepointers are too busy to defend themselves, so I must come to the rescue with my first letter to Dear Abby!

I'm referring to a letter criticizing women who needlepoint or knit while attending meetings, visiting with friends or whatever. You were right when you said it's "therapy for some who need to occupy their hands, and it beats smoking" (although I'm sorry to say that some needleworkers smoke).

However, I wish you had pointed out that doing something with one's hands, whether it be needlepoint, knitting, crocheting or embroidery, does not reduce one's ability to listen or converse.

At a recent gathering of the girls, someone asked me what I was knitting. "A dishrag," I replied.

"Humph," she grunted, "what a waste of time!" I just looked up and said, "When I get through I'm going to have a dishrag. What are you going to have?" (She graciously admitted that I had a point.)

I'm enclosing the dishrag as a gift for you, Abby. Please use it and see if you don't agree that needlework is not only therapeutic, but useful as well.

DEAR PAULA: Thanks for the dishrag. It wiped me out!

DEAR ABBY: I have read your column for years, but this is my first Dear Abby letter. At the bottom of your column you say, "If you need help with your problems, write to ABBY, and could I ever use help with mine!

By GEORGE GARDINER LONDON (WNS) - She is no ordinary woman

Beneath her cool, quiet and essentially feminine personality she is dynamite! And the consequences of her election as Prime Minister will be felt far beyond the shores of Britain.

In 1975 she confounded every political pundit in London by vanquishing Edward Heath, only recently prime minister and one of the toughest men in British politics, for the leadership of the Conservative Party. Since then she has succeeded in changing the whole political argument in Britain, challenging the old assumptions that salvation lies in promoting equality, redistributing wealth and providing extensive social

But the influences that have brought Britain low are at work elsewhere in the West. They offer temptation within every democracy. In seeking to turn the tide of Britain, Maggie Thatcher also seeks to represent something to the whole Western world - what she calls the "New Renaissance" of individual and family responsibility against demands by overbearing government, of liberty under the law, and of a free society's confidence in itself.

The only other notable women to lead their countries in recent times have been Indira Gandhi in India, Sirimavo Bandaranaike of Sri Lanka, and Israel's Golda Meir. But at the age of 53 Maggie Thatcher has a degree of femininity that they seldom showed, and this is of political importance. When she was challenging Edward Heath for the party leadership, those of us helping her argued that being led by a woman would make no difference. We were wrong. It has made a difference to her party, and it will make a difference to Britain too.

As British prime minister she will also make an impact on the conduct of Western diplomacy. On human rights, the defense of the West, and the future development of Western Europe, she has determined views. The Kremlin leaders have branded her "The Iron Lady." For us, a better title would be 'Woman of the West.'

She had been in Parliament only two years when Harold Macmillan made her a junior minister, and in 1970 Edward Heath put her in his Cabinet. But that was as far as many thought a woman should go in politics. To aspire to lead the party was a very different matter. So when she threw down her challenge she had to face arguments that "the party will never follow a woman," that "many men will never vote for a woman leader," that "women don't like being led by a woman "

A half-stated antifeminist resentment ran through much of the British Labor Party's attack on her. When former Prime Minister James Callaghan accused her of being "shrill," he was trying to conjure up in the voters' minds the picture of a nagging wife. One Labor M.P., in another speech in Parliament, actually commended the slogan "Ditch the Bitch." Another proclaimed in print that being led by a "menopausal woman" would present a real danger to Britain!

Maggie Thatcher does not see herself as any part of the Women's Lib movement and takes a jaundiced view of it. On Feb. 11, 1975, the day she was elected Conservative leader, a journalist opened up the subject, only to get Mag-gie's sharp response: "What's Women's Lib ever done for me?"

She once told me, "People often ask me whether at some point in the past I saw myself as a member of Parliament, or minister, or even party leader. The answer is always 'no.' In politics you just seize your chances as they come and make the most of them."

The root of this approach lies in her upbringing. Though her shopkeeper father had two daughters, she was obviously his favorite. Local worthies would gather in his shop to discuss everything from small-town politics to the expansion of Nazi Germany, and as she grew older she was encouraged to join in. Soon her father became mayor of his town, and took her to the local court, the town council and other public functions. Looking back, it is as if old Alfred Roberts was deliberately schooling his younger daughter for public life.

Soon after graduating from Oxford University where she studied chemistry, Maggie became the youngest woman candidate, and in 1952 was asked by a Sunday newspaper to write an article on what the accession of Queen Elizabeth II to the throne might mean to women

In this article, written 23 years before she won the supreme prize in her party,

Maggie Thatcher set out views which at the time were well ahead of public opin-

"I hope we shall see more and more women combining marriage and a career," she wrote. "Having a family should not stop a woman's rising to the top. Why not a woman Chancellor (finance minister), or Foreign Secretary?" she asked, only just avoiding the words

This article turned out to be a virtual blueprint for her own career. At the age of 26 she married Denis Thatcher, a businessman; at 27 she began studying law; at 28 she had twins - about four months later passed her bar examination finals to practice law. She then combined motherhood with work in tax law. Not until her children were at school did she re-enter politics, and get elected to Parliament at 34. From the start of their marriage she and Denis Thatcher respected each other's separate careers. Politics was her job, earning the money was mine," he recalls.

Early pictures show her as being rather plump; today she is slim and elegant. Originally raven-haired, she has since exercised a woman's prerogative and become blonde. Her face is fineboned, her skin pale, and frequently men feel protective toward her when no protection whatsoever is needed.

Though Maggie Thatcher is a very feminine person, especially when compared with some other women in politics, she makes no effort to trade on it. Nevertheless, it is an important element in her relationship with those working with her. She combines three traits in her approach to people and issues: caution, passion, and reliance upon instinct.

Her initial caution is well-known to everyone who has worked with her. She will never rush into a political situation until she has sorted out all its elements, and anyone suggesting a course of action can expect close and sustained interrogation. A certain streak of pessimism runs through her: I have seen her set off for many Parliamentary encounters convinced that something will go wrong. Her favorite maxim is, "In politics, the unexpected usually happens.'

Her compassion is not the kind worn on a sleeve but consists rather of a keen understanding of how people feel in situations of hardship or strain.

Two years ago an M.P. she had known for years was charged with stealing two books from a store. As soon as she heard of this, Maggie Thatcher rang him up and asked what he was doing that day. The man replied that he could not face his colleagues. "Nonsense," she said, "you must come and see me." She then rearranged her program completely so that she could be seen walking with him through all the corridors of Parliament, and talking to him in the members' tea room. After many months the M.P. was acquitted. Immediately she tracked him down in a House of Commons bar with his wife, flung her arms around him and gave him a kiss.

Though she has devoted more thought to philosophical questions than most politicians, Maggie relies heavily on her instinct. "My instinct says to do this," she will say, "but let's see what the others think and try to analyze the facts." After some time has been spent on this she will often turn round and 'What did I was right in the first place!""

Examples abound where the male politicians around her have counseled one course of action, while she has played her instinct against their advice and been proved correct. A classic example was her rejection early in 1976 of strong advice not to question the movement toward detente between the Soviet Union and the West. Another was her public commitment to tighten control voer the entry of Asian immigrants into Britain, well in advance of any collective decision by her colleagues.

The way all three qualities come together is shown by the way she has handled the thorny question of trade-union power. The previous Conservative government was destroyed by a miners' strike and, for long after, the party was accused of hankering 'confrontation." Upon her election as a leader, Maggie Thatcher cautiously drew back, seeking "ways around an obstacle instead of through it," as she put it.

As the Labor Government conceded more power to the unions, she defined the issue of principle that this power should remain with Parliament. Then, as the power was abused and turned on a defenseless public in the wave of strikes this past winter, her compassion flashed through when she answered a radio interviewer: "If some unions are confronting the sick, confronting the old, confronting children - then by God, I'll confront them!

Meanwhile, her instinct told her that the public was ready to back selected steps to correct the imbalance of union power, notably by establishing secret ballots of workers to decide strike action instead of shows of hands at factory-gate meetings. So, on her own initiative, she proposed them

Of course, women are not unique in relying upon instinct. But I have never seen a man in politics employ it with as much daring or as unerringly as Maggie

When Maggie Thatcher set out to make her first major international speech as leader of the Conservative Party, her husband Denis recalls, she was in a somewhat nervous state. Her audience was the Institute of Socio-Economic Studies in New York, and she knew this would be the acid test of whether she was to make any impact on informed opinion outside Britain. She was also suffering from a bad cold. But the classic way for any woman to gain confidence is to wear a new dress - and

She appeared that day as a small, fine-boned and surprisingly vulnerablelooking figure. The dress she had chosen, transparent at the back and above the bust, emphasized this, and the combined effect was that which she often unintentionally gives - of being somehow fragile.

But there was nothing soft or hesitant about the speech she proceeded to

She began by attacking the progressive consensus" that had prevailed in Britain for 30 years, and went on to spell out how the pursuit of equality, through distribution, had proved a mirage. Even worse, it had gravely weakened Britain's overall economic

"More desirable and more practicable than the pursuit of equality is the pursuit of equality of opportunity." she said. "And opportunity means nothing unless it includes the right to be une qual. You have a saying in the Middle West: 'Don't cut down the tall poppies, let them rather grow tall.' I say: 'Let our children grow tall - and some grow taller than others, if they have it in them to do so.

Margaret Hilda Roberts, now Thatcher, is one who was allowed and encouraged to grow "taller." She was born on Oct. 13, 1925, in a small room over a shop on a busy street corner in the English town of Grantham. From the street below rose the noise of traffic on the Great North Road, linking London and the South with Scotland. From a little further away came the clanking from the railway shunting yards, interrupted regularly by the noise of an express train thundering through.

Never has the lead itical party begun life in surroundings more humble. Yet the family into which she was born was sturdily independent and hard-working, living strictly according to the tenets of Non-conformist Christianity. To understand Margaret Thatcher and her political ethic it is essentially to dig back to these roots and see how the strong values held by her father and family did so much to shape the woman who is now Britain's prime

Her father, Alfred Roberts, was the son of a shoemaker who had fallen on hard times, and in the early 1900s he moved to Grantham to manage a grocery store. Her mother, Berice, was the daughter of a railway worker and, like many young women of her time without financial resources, she had trained as a dressmaker. Alfred Roberts had bad evesight, so was not drafted to fight in the 1914-18 war. It was then that the a shop of their own.

Above this shop the family lived.

There was a lean-to kitchen, the lavatory was outside in the yard, and there was no garden in which the girls could play.

Hard work was taken for granted in the Roberts household and as Margaret (the familiar "Maggie" came in later life) and her older sister Muriel grew up they had to help. Maggie can still recall vividly the scene inside that shop, with its polished brass and mahogany fittings. Sugar, flour, dried fruit and many other commodities were in those days delivered.

Sugar, flour, dried fruit and many other commodities were in those days delivered in bulk, and had to be weighed into bags by the girls and their mother.

The shop stayed open long hours, and the two parents never took a holiday together. Beatrice took her daughters each year to the nearest seaside town — for just one week. The business prospered, but the family was always very careful. but the family was always very careful with money. Great emphasis was placed on thrift. Pocket money was espected to be saved, as was any money received on

Her mother made all the girls' clothes and did the cooking. There were two baking days each week — Thursday afternoon and very early Sunday morn-ing. When the young Margaret sat down to her Sunday breakfast the house was full of the smells of home-baked bread and cakes. She also remembers how it was a regular part of her mother's rou-tine to bake a few extra loaves and cakes for those they knew who were sick of had fallen on hard times, and how she would deliver them.

"It was all done very quietly," she told me. "We were always encouraged to think in terms of practical help, and to think very little of people who thought that their duty to the less well-off started and finished by getting up and protesting in the market place. That was ducking it passing off your responwas ducking it, passing off your respon-sibilities to someone else. The crucial thing was what you were prepared to do yourself out of your own slender

This is the first thing to understand about Maggie Thatcher - the values of the successful private shopkeeper were an essential part of the environment in which she grew up. Hard work was the lot of all, and accepted without question. Here he the roots of her faith in personal responsibility in society, and her ideal do for indidivuals what they can do as well for themselves. They are shared by millions throughout the Free World who have striven independently to provide for themselves and for their familie

The second thing to understand is the great influence of Alfred Roberts himself, involving his daughter in discus-sions, recommending books to her, in-volving her in public life and stretching

And the third is the strict Non-conformist Christian conscience of the Roberts household. Looking back, Maggie Thatcher reflects that she was brought up "in a rather Puritan way." All were active members of Grantham's Methodist Church; prayers were said before and after every meal; no newspapers were allowed into the house on Sundays.

Sunday, of course, was a very special day. The girls went to Sunday School twice, and the whole family attended morning and Roberts was a lay preacher, and much in demand. On Sunday evenings the visit-ing preacher would generally return with other church people to the Roberts household for supper and further religious discussion. But their church was also rich in social and cultural activities - dances, dramatics, and above all, music. Margaret played the piano from the age of 5 and joined in its festivals. "The high points were the oratorios once or twice a year," she recalls. "The music was magnificent.

Though she has since moved away from strict Non-conformity, the values she acquired from that bustling Methodist Church in Grantham are with her still. Religion means a lot to her. Never has a British political leader relied so little on the trappings of office. Maggie Thatcher is sustained, within herself, by something far more real.

Cowboy Apparel Hits Eastern Markets

NEW YORK (UPI) - While cowboy dress has long been a fixture in the southwest, even in sophisticated Big D and Houston, it is now appearing in greater numbers in eastern cities, even

The true western life-style doesn't go with it, of course - just the fashion but stores like Bloomingdales and Saks of Fifth Avenue now have departments full of western wear for the well-heeled urban cowboy. New York Yankees baseball manager Billy Martin even has his own outlets selling the clothes (he once managed the Texas Rangers.)

Nor is the craze confined to New York. Take the cowboy hat, next to the boot the symbol of the real cowpoke.

'Sales have more than doubled all over the country," reports Sol Bernstein, president of Miller Bros. Hats, who added that "some chains didn't have them until this year" and others are now just beginning to stock them.

Norman Karr of the Men's Fashion Association thinks blue jeans have a lot to do with the increasing appearance of western wear in non-western settings.

'The jean is well established as American. The jean has led the way and is now being put into its proper perspective - a total western look," says Karr who notes that the sales for denims are up, up, up of his state want Congress to pass a bill preserving much of Alaska's acreage from development. Stevens has fought for more than a year to soften provisions of the bill, which most Alaska government and industry leaders consider an unwelcome intrusion by the federal government into state matters.

Alaskans Seeking Land Use Bill WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, said today that residents at Energy and Natural Resources Committee.

But he said the issue must be settled soon to end questions of future land use that are scaring off investors.

Settlement of the matter would restore investors' confidence in future landuse patterns "and lead to a stable economy," he said.

Nearly one-third of the nation's largest state would be protected from much mining, logging and commercial development under legislation before the Sen-

Sen. Mike Gravel, Stevens' Democratic colleague from Alaska, said he still considers the measure "a bad bill." But he sat in with the panel as it resmed work on the bill today, indicating a willingness to talk about his objections rather than ignore debate as he did last year.

The bill was kept from the Senate floor in the last days of the 1978 session when Gravel blocked it by a parliamentary maneuver.

Elsewhere on Capitol Hill today, the House Appropriations Committee was taking up an emergency financing bill needed to keep government paychecks flowing, but it also carries hotly contested amendments on abortion and a pay raise for Congress itself.

The House and Senate have not been Among agencies affected by the stalemate are the departments of Defense: Health, Education and Welfare; Housing and Urban Development; Agriculture: Transportation and Labor. Paychecks many government workers are scheduled to go out later this week and early next week.

The stalemate also has given representatives, senators, top bureaucrats and federal judges an automatic 12.9 percent pay raise as of Oct. 1, an increase desired by neither the House nor Senate.

A number of environmental groups have banded together as the Alaska Coalition to fight for the version passed by the House. They contend it is one last chance to save a truly significant American wilderness before developers move in and blight the state with big mines, lumber operations, housing developments and fast-food franchises.

Opponents of the legislation say most of its backers are outsiders who want to make decisions Alaskans should be making, do-gooders who have little idea of the accessibility, possible industrial value or even the beauty of the land they want to save.

With no Alaska lands legislation emerging in the last two years, Carter and Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus have acted on their own to order varying protection for most of the land involved. More than half is protected for only three years, and Andrus has suggested he'll extend it to 20 years if no bill is

Both sides agree it will be tough for any major Alaska lands bill to make it through the Senate this year, particularly with other more widely publicized issues vying for attention.

Elsewhere on Capitol Hill this week: -The Senate Energy Committee is almost certain to approve a $20 billion proposal for developing synthetic fuel over the next 15 years. Carter had asked for much more money for the program but has said he will accept the scaleddown version.

-The Senate Finance Committee hopes to complete work on a "windfall profits" tax on extra income oil companies theoretically will be gaining because of Carter's decontrol of domestic oil prices. The tax is to finance a trust fund for energy projects, including synthetic fuel development.

The sources said Kirkland, the AFL-CIO's No. 2 official and the leading contender for the presidency, faces opposition from J.C. Turner, 62, president of the 400,000-member International Union of Operating Engineers.

The sources, who declined to be named, said Turner told them he plans to seek the powerful labor post even though his colleagues give him little chance of defeating Kirkland, Meany's own choice as his successor.

The AFL-CIO president is elected by delegates who cast votes based on membership. With 4.1 million members, the building trades unions control nearly one-third of the votes.

Last August, before Meany announced his retirement, Turner insisted he was not a candidate for AFL-CIO president. Ward indicated he would accept a broad-based draft but did not want to challenge Kirkland "if it's the consensus of the council that Lane Kirk-

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market dropped sharply in heavy trading today, faced with spiraling

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, off 13.57 on Monday, lost another 11.09 to 872.95 by noon today

The mid-day tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues showed more than 1,400 declining while less than 100 advanced.

Several major banks across the country announced this morning that they were raising their prime lending rates from 131/2 to 141/2

The unusual increase of a full percentage point, which followed new credit-tightening moves by the Federal Reserve over the weekend, came as something of a shock to Wall Street. Analysts said interest rates had been expected to rise, but not so rapidly.

Brokers said the fast-breaking levelopments appeared to have increased fears among investors that the Fed's tough anti-inflation tactics might lead to a deeper recession than had been expected earlier

They aso noted concrn that the price of gold, after falling Monday, rebounded strongly today. The Fed's actions were aimed in part at discouraging heavy speculation in gold, which many investors regard as a haven from economic trouble

All 15 of the most active NYSE issues at mid-day showed losses, including American Telephone & Telegraph, off 1/2 at 541/2: International Business Machines, down 1/4 at 671/4, and Boeing, off 1/8 at

The NYSE's composite common-stock index dropped 90 to 61.68. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index fell 4.54 to 227.87.

Volume on the Big Board reached 23.71 million shares by ontime, up from 13.03 million at the same point Monday.

NM Police Seek Pair :: In Shooting

CARRIZOZO, N.M. (AP) - Police using automobiles, helicopters, horses and on foot were scouring mountainous south-central New Mexico today in a massive manhunt for two men sought in the shooting death of a Lincoln County deputy sheriff.

Deputy Thomas C. Bedford, 27, was shot and killed Monday when he stopped two hitchhikers who met the description of men being sought in connection with burglaries, the sheriff's office said.

"We have a massive manhunt going...," said sheriff's department spokesman Judy Hobbs late Monday night. "We've made no contact with the subjects as of yet.

'We have approximately 60 persons involved in the search now. We have officers from all over the state in here. We'll have right at 100 in the morning."

Miss Hobbs said Lincoln County officers had been on the lookout for two men in connection with at least five burglaries in Lincoln County and other in Torrance County.

Lending Rate Sets Record

NEW YORK (AP) - Chase Manhattan Bank, the nation's third-largest, today raised the prime lending rate it charges its most credit-worthy corporate customers a full percentage point to a record 141/2 percent, a reaction to the government's credit-tightening moves announced over the week-

Other banks were expected quickly to follow Chase's action. The prime-lending rate has been rising steadily in past weeks, setting records with each increase. Only a month ago the rate was 121/2 percent.

The prime does not directly affect consumer loan rates, which are limited by law in many states, but is regarded to be an important indicator of trends in interest rates in general. Banks use the prime as the basis for setting interest rates on almost all business loans

Chase Manhattan Bank President Willard Butcher said Tuesday that during a period of tight' credit banks might change their prime rates very frequently, possibly twice in the same day. Butcher made his remark in New Orleans, where he was attending the annual convention of the American Bankers Association

Chamber Seeks Ambassador

The Lubbock Chamber of Commerce is now accepting applications from young persons wishing to serve as the city's ambassador to Spain next summer-

Bill Armstrong, chairman of the chamber's International Relations Committee, said the ambassador will spend time in the homes of people in Spain and bring back insights and observations on the lifestyle of those people.

The committee has set Feb. 1 as a target date for screening applicants. Any youth interested in the program should contact the Chamber of Commerce.

The last community ambassador from Lubbock was Anne Leon, who went to Germany in 1971. Others who have served as ambassadors include Alan Henry, who went to Argentina in 1962; David Hester, who visited Sweden in 1954; Dr. Karl Dockray, who went to Turkey in 1955 and Bill Cox, who went to Colombia in 1965.

Maps To Highlight Genealogical Meet

Historical maps and their use in genealogical research will be the theme of the South Plains Genealogical Society's program at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Municipal Garden & Arts Center at 4215 University Ave.

Eugenia Butler Toland, Lubbock genealogist and former SPGS president. will be featured speaker, said Dr. John M. Anderson, president. Mrs. Toland will illustrate her discussion with early American maps showing immigrant routes, pioneer settlements and boundary changes.

A "map swap" is scheduled beginning at 6:30 p.m. Persons with copies of maps or various historical American regions are invited to bring these to trade for other maps.

The public is welcome to attend, Anderson said.

DR. LAMB

Weight Problem

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D. DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm a 40year-old woman and I'm 5 foot 7 and weigh 225 pounds. Naturally, I'm concerned about my weight. I'd like to know if I walked a mile a day for 365 days, would I lose 36 pounds if I did not change my eating habits?

DEAR READER - Not likely, unless you also decrease your calorie intake. At your weight you will use about 85 calories more every time you walk one mile that you would have sitting still. If you multiply 85 calories by 365 days of the year and divide the year's calorie loss by 3,500, you'll find that's about nine. There are 3,500 calories in a pound of body fat so that amount of exercise would help you lose about nine pounds of body fat. A person who weighed less would lose less body fat by just walking one mile a day.

I'm sending you The Health Let-ter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents in check or coin with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. You can use this plan to help control your diet at the same time you're exercising.

Both exercise and a proper calorie control are important in eliminating excess body fat. In your case if you didn't use diet at all, you'd have to walk four miles a day to lose 36 pounds of body fat in a year's time, assuming that your present weight is stable and that you don't change your eating habits.

On the other hand, people who insist on losing fat simply by diet and don't exercise run the risk of losing some of their muscle weight rather than just body fat. That's not very

DEAR READER - You're going to continue to find this variation for two basic reasons. First, there are different medicines and these are of varying strength and duration of action. Second, one person may need more estrogen than another. That's because even though a woman may have gone through the menopause, her body is still producing some estrogen. In fact, some women produce enough so that they don't need any supplemental estrogen at all.

If a woman is having trouble with her breasts as you described, the doctor often decreases the dosage. That may have been a wise thing for you to do but I would have been happier if you had discussed it with your doc

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - Willie Nelson, an "outlaw" with an ace up his sleeve, joined Kenny Rogers and his hit 'The Gambler" as blue-chip winners at the nationally televised Country Music Association awards show

Nelson won the prestigious entertainer of the year award Monday night, while Rogers raked in three honors at the 13th annual awards show at the Grand Ole Opry House.

Rogers, host of the show, won top male vocalist, album of the year for The Gambler" and duo of the year with Dottie West.

But Nelson, called an "outlaw" for his commitment to recording music as he prefers rather than the way the country music establishment dictates, pulled his ace and outpolled Rogers and three others for the top award.

"I was in shock," the bearded, ponytailed Nelson said after the show. "I expected Kenny to make a clean sweep. It was a good year for everybody.

Joining Rogers as a triple winner was the Charlie Daniels Band, which won single of the year for "The Devil Went Down to Georgia," instrumental group of the year and instrumentalist of the year for Daniels, a vibrant fiddler.

Barbara Mandrell was voted female vocalist of the year and veteran singer Hank Snow and the late talent agent Hubert Long were elected to the Country Music Hall of Fame

The Statler Brothers won vocal group of the year for the seventh time in the past eight years. "The Gambler," by Don Schlitz, won the song of the year

New Rape Law To Be Tested In California

LOS ANGELES (AP) — California's rape by instrumentality" law will be tested in a case involving musician, composer and record producer Jack Nitzsche, accused of the gun-barrel rape of actress Carrie Snodgress, prosecutors

A preliminary hearing was scheduled for today before Los Angeles Municipal Court Judge George Trammel. The law, which went into effect Jan.

carries a five-year prison sentence. It was an outgrowth of the so-called "Born Innocent" case of a 9-year-old San Francisco girl who was raped with a bottle five years ago after a similar sexual assault had been portrayed in the television movie

Deputy District Attorney Marissa Batt said Monday that the five-count criminal complaint against Nitzsche, 42, is one of the first three cases filed in Los Angeles County under the new statute. None has gone to trial Mrs. Batt said Miss Snodgress contends she and her 7-year-old son were asleep in their bedrooms at about 2 a.m. June 29 when Nitzsche entered their home through an unlocked door

Nitzsche allegedly began pistol-whipping the 33-year-old actress and dragged her around the bedroom by the hair,

Mrs. Batt said. 'She said he hit her behind the right ear and across the face with the gun, Mrs. Batt said. "She suffered a fractured cheek bone, a number of bruises and abrasions and a cut on her thumb that required about 18 stitches. After allegedly threatening Miss Snodgress' son, Nitzsche forced her into a bathroom and allegedly committed rape by instrumentality, using the barrel of a revolver, the criminal complaint

Snow, who has done charity work choked back tears during her acceptance during the past two years to fight child speech, said later, "To know that everyabuse, is best known for his 1950 hit one likes what I do was the best feeling "I'm Movin' On" which was No. 1 on in the whole world.

Bungee Jumpers' Leap Off Golden Gate Bridge

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - A British quintet dubbed the "Bungee Jumpers" leaped off the Golden Gate Bridge then snapped back to safety thanks to thick rubber bands that stoppd them short of San Francisco Bay. Why the five - four men decked out in formal morning and top hats and a voman - yo-yoed from the rust-colored bridge was about as clear as the fog that often wraps itself around the span's towers. A sixth comrade didn't get a chance to jump the 220 feet because he got tangled in his harness.

Three of the jumpers, who were picked up by the Coast Guard, were eventually cited by the California Highway Patrol for trespassing on the bridge

Two more escaped in a private boat, authorities said. But the high-spirited band apparently intend to let the citations bounce and plan to return to England today. When the jumpers quit bobbing at the end of their elastic, or bungee cords, they let themselves down on ropes.

ular suspension bridge startled hundreds of commuters heading to work from Marin County.

The leapers offered the Coast Guard a variety of reasons for the hijinks that didn't seem to hold water - to honor Columbus on his day, to raise money for charity were two. The stunt was well-planned since photographers from a London newspaper flew to San Francisco, they said, specifically to record the leaps. The cameramen said the group were members of an elite club which has done one previous jump off the Clifton Suspension Bridge at Bristol, in England's West Country. The jumpers were identified as David

Kirke, 34, the leader; Janie Wilmot, 26; Peter Carew, 26; Simon Keelling and Alan Weston. Christopher Hiatt Baker, 25, got tangled and did not jump

SPAG board President Medlin Carpenter also had comments on the minorities' inclusion on the board, saying, "I think this move will not only benefit SPAG, but all the communities in this area. The integrity and class of the people elected is beyond reproach."

Carpenter had fought for minority membership to get the EDA funds for the 15-county SPAG region.

Carpenter pointed out that close to $100 million in project funding goes through SPAG for review each year before being sent to federal agencies, and told the minority members their input on the projects will be of aid to the community

Carpenter also read a letter from Lubbock County Judge Rod Shaw explaining the county commissioners' withdrawal from SPAG, although the letter received no comment from board

Shaw's letter reiterated the commis sioners' view that the requirement to include minority members on the board constituted unwarranted federal intervention in local affairs.

He indicated the guerrillas would

One provided for all white settlers to become citizens of the new country automatically. The other guaranteed financial compensation for property seized by a new black government from white

The guerrilla leaders also revived their demand, made at the start of the talks, that the constitutional negotiations be shelved while they, the British and Prime Minister Abel Muzorewa negotiate the establishment of a new transitional government to replace Muzorewa's biracial government of Zimbabwe Rhodesia until new elections were held.

A British spokesman said his government would consider carefully the Patriotic Front's proposals. But Carrington told Nkomo and Mugabe it would be 'misleading to suggest there is any realistic prospect of agreement" on any constitution that differed materially from the draft Britain put forth last Wednes-

He also rejected the guerrilla leaders' demand to change the course of the talks, saying: "We should not be prepared to open discussion on pre-independence areas until there is an agreement on the constitution.

Muzorewa, who accepted the British draft last week, sat silently through the meeting. But he said in a written statement he had done everything "and more" that Britain demanded, and he called on the British government to immediately lift the economic and diplomatic sanctions which it and other nations imposed after then-Prime Minister Ian Smith declared Rhodesia independent 14 years ago in an attempt to preserve white control.

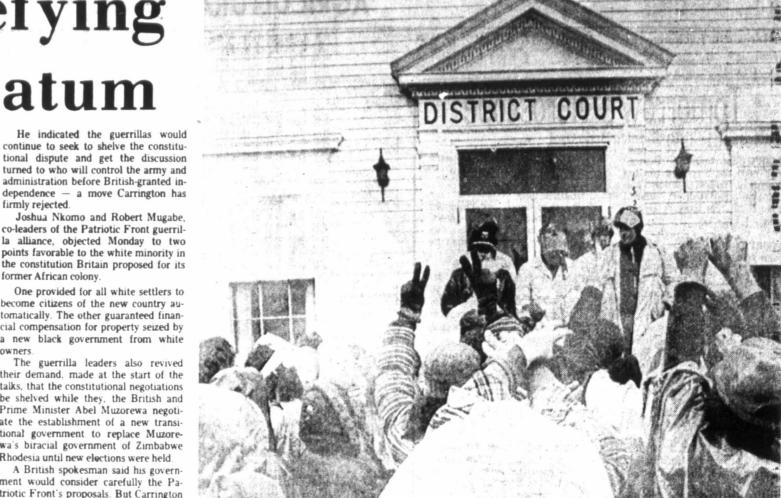

The British draft constitution removed the veto over constitutional change given the white minority in the constitution Smith, Muzorewa and other moderate black leaders agreed on early this year. It also cancelled provisions giving the whites control of the army. police, civil service and courts for five to Nkomo and Mugabe made two major concessions. They agreed to retention of the parliamentary system of government, with a prime minister chosen by the majority in Parliament, instead of the powerful elected president they wanted. And they agreed that the whites would have 20 per cent of the 124 seats in the proposed new Parliament even though they constitute only 3 per cent of the population.

stitution provides for a Parliament of 100 seats, and 28 of them are guaranteed to the whites.

Smith, the leader of the 230,000 white settlers, objected that the British draft gave too much to the 6.7 million blacks and flew back to Zimbabwe Rhodesia to reassure our white people.

He predicted the white members of Parliament would use their veto to kill the British draft because it would remove their control of the security forces, the government administration and the judiciary. But political observers in Salisbury predicted the whites would have to accept whatever was decided in London or leave the country.

most influential opponents of the strategic arms limitation treaty made a final plea to Congress today to make substantial changes in the pact or refuse to

Paul Nitze, a former secretary of the Navy, and retired Army Lt. Gen. Edward L. Rowny, formerly the chief representative at the arms control talks for the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee they believe the SALT II pact is fatally flawed and should be amended.

Nitze urged the Senate to send the treaty back to President Carter for renegotiation with the Soviet Union, even though that might take several years.

You can't get a good agreement unless you're prepared to live without one," he said. The Soviets "quite likely would not enter into negotiations right

In sending the treaty back, Nitze said, the Senate should set guidelines for a good treaty. In addition, it should be prepared to back programs and funding requests that insure the United States does not fall behind the Soviet Union militarily, he added.

He said a narrow rejection of the treaty, such as by one vote, "might have a weakening effect" on the NATO alliance. However, he said, if the treaty were sent back on a strong vote - by more than 50 senators - the action would be viewed as "a breath of fresh

Meanwhile, a Senate Foreign Relations Committee staff report said failure of the Senate to ratify SALT II might well damage the internal unity and military strength of the NATO alliance and would be a serious setback to plans to modernize allied theater nuclear forces in Europe

It quoted senior European political figures as saying the failure of SALT would create a serious prejudice about the ability of the United States to conduct its own affairs and lead others.

Buzzing Forces U.N. Evacuation

NEW YORK (AP) - Thousands of people fled the United Nations today while a man, angry at a publishing firm, buzzed the company's nearby offices in a single-engine plane, police said.

Officers said the large headquarters building of Harcourt Brace Jovanovich publishing company also had been ordered evacuated as the man continued his circling shortly before 1 p.m. more than 3 hours after he reached New York's East Side

Rudolph Stagduhar, a U.N. informa tion officer, said: "Security has advised us that a lunatic is flying around here and threatening to crash into the U.N. building, and for that reason we are ordering an evacuation.'

However, Nora McCormick, a clerk at the police department's aviation unit, said the pilot was not threatening to crash the plane and was "very pleasant" in his conversations on the raio. She said he began buzzing the publishing company office about 9:30 a m

Bells sounded throughout the 48-storv Secretariat building about 11 a.m. and security officers ordered the several thousand employees to leave, as the red and white Cessna 172 made large sweeping circles north of the U.N. complex. At noontime, the circling took him several blocks north to the Queensborough Bridge.

The General Assembly hall, where a session was scheduled for 10:30 a.m., also was ordered evacuated. The session had not been called to order.

Pat Calise, speaking for the Federal Aviation Administration, said the small plane took off from Morristown Municipal Airport at midmorning. She said he had only a few hours of fuel left by

The pilot, tentatively identified as Robert Baudin, was in voice contact with two police helicopters hovering nearby, as well as with the radio tower at LaGuardia Airport. Both tried to talk him into landing his plane, Mrs. Calise

Meanwhile, a spokesman at the New York Post said the newspaper had received a tape cassette from the pilot.

The spokesman did not say what was on that cassette, but said that police were in the newspaper's offices listening to the tape and questioning the paper

First Avenue outside the U.N. complex was closed to traffic, and hundreds of U.N. personnel milled around in the street, looking up. Fire trucks and rescue vehicles were on the scene

The man apparently began his exploit because he was angry with his publishing firm, Harcourt Brace Jovanovich, at Third Avenue and 48th Street near the United Nations.

The book firm, which published Baudin's book, "Confessions of a Promiscuous Counterfeiter," in April 1979, said it knew of no problems connected with the book or its author, according to a publishing house spokesman, who did not wish to be identifed.

The plane frightened passersby in the area, who thought that the pilot might have been protesting the planned visitto the United Nations later this week of Cuban President Fidel Castro.

day, 140th District Judge William Shaver ordered that notice to city property owners and taxpayers, who are "sub-class" against three LPOA members, will be made through advertisements to be pubbeginning Oct. 15 and continuing through Oct. 29.

Additional notice, the judge stated,

The city filed suit against 10 LPOA members in July after association members presented three tax-limitation measures to the city council. City Attorney John Ross is asking Shaver to issue a declaratory judgment on whether the city legally can call the election requested by the LPOA concerning Lubbock's property tax rate.

At a Sept. 9 hearing, however, city officials agreed to drop the names of seven original defendants and Shaver declared the city's law suit a class action, open to all Lubbock property owners. After the official notice has been given through the newspaper and water bills, Shaver

New Season

IT WAS DARK and then some when the last Chaparrals left the field. And there were no lights around the practive field, either Monday was no-pads day, but it didn't keep the late-afternoon workout from running past sunset. When the season gets long, so do the workouts. And the season is getting longer for Lubbock Christian College.

But, now, in one sense, it's taking on a new outlook — a new season — in the eyes of coach Jerry Don Sanders.

The Chaparrals, learning how it is to be new and green and young, have won but once in six games this inaugural season. They fell 35-8 to Trinity in San Antonio last Saturday night with an effort that didn't displease Sanders.

But, now, with three games remaining (starting with Sul Ross here Saturday afternoon). Sanders will look to the future — the 1980 future.

I plan to play just about everyone we can the next two games (Saturday and the Oct. 20 homecoming game with Panhandle, Okla ), but we're going to approach all three of them with the attitude of (coaches in) the NFL exhibitions. We're going to play the people we think will be able to help us the most in the future — next year," said Sanders.

'I think we'll use three quarterbacks, probably using (starter Kent) Allison for a half and the others the rest of the time. But, we have to think about the future, the next few years and the ones who will be playing a lot then.

LAST SATURDAY, THE Chaparrals had their second straight good effort, in Sanders' opinion, even if they did drop another game. The Chaparrals, forced into passing situations, went to a shotgun formation, and it produced some results.

I thought we did pretty well. It gave us more time to throw, and I thought we blocked well for it. I was surprised that Trinity didn't rush us any better (against the shotgun). I know it's designed strictly as a passing formation, but we have a few running plays off of it.

We'll continue to use it some," Sanders added. The Chaparral coach commented he was pleased with the way the offense is

We ran more offensive plays (70-63) than the other team, and that's the first time that's happend to us, except in the game against Mexico.

"OUTSIDE OF FOUR big plays, we played about as well defensively as we've done. We let down a couple of times, and they burned us on that punt return. (Joby Sawyer returned a punt 58 yards for a score in the opening minutes of the second half half when LCC trailed but 14-8.)

"I thought (defensive tackle) Guyle Roberson played his best game. He was stopping some plays on the line of scrimmage, and he partially blocked a pass. But, he and Neil Sayles and Mark Harmon played well on defense. "We played Jimmye James both ways, and he caught two key passes

MONDAY, THE CHAPARRAL coaches could joke about it, but Saturday, it was a point of frustration. The Chaparrals scored in the middle of the second quarter, took the lead in only the second game this year, but Trinity marched right back to score twice before the half.

But, there weren't many smiles about Trinity's last, rub-a-little-salt-inthe-wound touchdown. The Tigers, leading 28-8, twice called timeout in the final minute to score with just 17 seconds on the clock.

Sanders had very little to say about it later, only that looked as if Trinity didn't have too many reserves in the game at the time.

This week, however, the Chaparrals will be playing a team which clipped them 47-0 earlier in the year at Alpine.

"We know what they did then: we just have to try to be prepared for it."

manager Earl Weaver is concerned about losing the use of his designated hitter as the Orioles' prepared to open the 1979 World Series tonight (7:30 p.m.) against the Pittsburgh Pirates.

'It certainly is going to make a difference," said Weaver, boss of the American League champions.

Manager Chuck Tanner of the National League champion Pirates made it clear he would rather play without the DH, an American League institution disdained by the National League.

'We haven't had to do without it since the 1971 World Series," lamented Weaver. "Lee May (the Orioles DH in the regular season) was a big part of our offense. What effect it has will depend on the other eight guys in our starting lineup," Weaver said.

Tanner, who managed in the American League and is familiar with the DH's affect on the game, estimated it was worth half-a-run a game.

"But I'd rather manage without it," said the Pirates' field boss. "It's a different ball game. Pitchers stay in longer. You don't need the long reliever. And why shouldn't a good hitting pitcher bat? Why should he be penalized?

The DH is used every other year in the Series, and last year, when the New York Yankees beat the Los Angles Dodgers, Reggie Jackson had nine hits in 23 at-bats with two home runs and eight RBI. The Dodgers' main DH was Lee Lacy, who went 2-for-14.

May hit 19 home runs and had 69 RBI this season as the Orioles DH. Obviously, the Baltimore offense has to sufpitcher in the first of the best-of-seven game Series, had eight hits, scored eight runs, drove in six, including four with a grand-slam home run. He hit just .145.

But the only contact Orioles' starter Mike Flanagan has had with the bat is seeing it in somebody else's hands. Flanagan, however, was 23-9 with a 2.65 ERA and is the big favorite to win the Cy Young Award as the AL's outstanding pitcher. He was baseball's winningest pitcher this year.

Kison was 13-4 with a 3.14 ERA, and was outstanding in the Pirates' September drive to the NL Eastern Division title, winning his last five. He's also 4-0 in why not stick with it? And Texas Tech coach Rex Dockery appled that principle Monday when he announced that Greg Tyler would remain at fullback for the Raiders when they face the University of Arkansas Saturday afternoon in Jones Stadium.

"We've tried to stress the importance of the kicking game to our team all along," said Dockery. "But after a game like this one, they can really see how im-

"Arkansas embarrassed us last season," he added. "I don't think any of our players who were up there last year have forgotten how badly we got beat."

Tech is 2-2-1 for the season while Arkansas is 4-0 after a narrow 16-13 win over TCU last Saturday. The Raiders own a 1-1 SWC slate; the Hogs are 1-0.

Texas - OU: Game Of Year?

By United Press International The buildup for the Texas-Oklahoma showdown began Monday with Sooners coach Barry Switzer suggesting the contest might be the game of the year in college football.

Baylor coach Grant Teaff, meanwhile, said he had ordered in some glue and bailing wire to piece his team to-gether following a physical, 13-10 loss to Houston and SMU coach Ron Meyer said it was possible defensive tackle-shot putter Michael Carter might rejoin the team late this season if orthoscope surgery on his left knee is successful.

There was a moment of hope in that game when tailback Ron Collins broke into the open for an apparent touchdown run. But after 60 yards a De-Tour defensive back caught Collins and tackled him on the 10-yard line.

disappointed with what happened, but I'm not upset. We play the best we can all the time. It's frustrating when you play your best but still can't score. You wonder what you have to do if your best isn't good enough.

Swayer, who has played on the varsity for four seasons. "We all worked so hard and I'm disappointed because of that. I go out every week thinking we can win. I won't ever be a quitter. All the kids on the team still have a winning attitude and I'm happy for that.'

Part of the problem for the little school of less than 200 students is apathy,

'The school is not the central point around a town," Babladelis said.'

Ironically, more fans have begun showing up for Black Bear games since word got around about the infamous record. Often, there are bigger youngs-

The Orioles are expected to John Lowenstein in left field. Al Bumbry in center and Ken Singleton in right, with Eddie Murray at first, Billy Smith and Mark Belanger the second base-shortstop combination, and Doug DeCinces at

baseman Willie Stargell, third baseman

Bill Madlock, catcher Steve Nicosia, second baseman Phil Garner and Kison. Stargell, captain of the Pirates and a leading candidate for the NL Most Valuable Player award, played on the 1971 Pirates in their Series triumph over the Orioles. He refused, however, to compare the teams.

"I don't like to compare." Stargell began. "In '71, we had some brute strength. We knew we could spot a club five or six runs and still come back. But now speed is an asset. . We've got the speed and the defense we never had the reputation for. We have an abundance of pitching.

Ken Singleton, the Orioles' top hitter at .295 with 35 home runs and 111 RBI, discounted the Pirates' "togetherness' philosophy as an important factor.

Oakland Defense Stifles Dolphins In 13-3 Verdict

Raiders' defense had a right to feel over-

But Ted Hendricks was only kidding when he described his thoughts on the interception which played such a big part in Monday night's 13-3 victory over the Miami Dolphins.

That's my first interception for a touchdown," said the linebacker who has intercepted 23 passes over 11 NFL "I don't like to see us get touchdowns on defense. It means we have to go right back onto the field again," he added. "I was thinking of stepping out of bounds at about the five-yard line.

The tall linebacker ran 23 yards into the end zone, however, for the Raiders'

35 net yards in the first half, was down 13-0 and a few offensive errors were yet

Delvin Williams plunged half a yard for a touchdown late in the third period, but the third-down play was nullified by a motion penalty, linebacker Phil Villapiano knocked down a pass and the Dolphins settled for Uwe von Schamann's field goal and their only points in the nationally televised game.

The Raiders, 27-3 winners over Denver last week, evened their season record at 3-3 and dropped the Dolphins to 4-2. Oakland is back in the AFC West race, while Miami is tied with New England for the AFC East lead.

"We made little mistakes, but they took on great magnitude," said Larry many of the yards in the drive from Miami's 25-yard line to inside the Oakland

"Our special teams made errors again, serious errors. We have to get untracked and do the things that win football games," said coach Don Shula,

A week earlier, in Miami's first loss of the season, a blocked punt gave the New York Jets a touchdown. In the Monday night loss, Tony Nathan fumbled the ball away as he returned the second-half kickoff and the Raiders scored four plays later on Ken Stabler's 14-yard touchdown pass to tight end Raymond Chester.

Jim Breech missed the extra point attempt, kicking wide to the right, and the Raiders' offense gained only 56 yards over the final 26 minutes of the game. but Hendricks' interception sent them into the 13-point lead which proved more than enough.

It was a poor decision, a poor play, said Shula, describing the pass Bob Griese aimed toward tight end Bruce Hardy on the right side.

"It was just a bad pass," said Griese, who also was sacked six times on the rough night.

Reggie Kinlaw, a rookie lineman who sees spot duty for Oakland, made three sacks and aided on another. His last sack came on a fourth-and-two play at the Raiders' 12-yard line early in the final

"It was my decision to go for it, get a touchdown on the board and get something going," said Shula. But for the second straight game, no touchdowns were put on the board against the Oakland defense.

"That's quite a feat," said coach Tom Flores. "Miami moves the ball against everybody.

Williams and Csonka gave the Dolphins 169 yards rushing. The 32-year-old Csonka totaled 83 yards, giving him a six-game total of 350, more than his season total with the New York Giants last "He looks like the old Larry Csonka returned to the Dolphins as a free agent after being released by New York. There are bruised shoulders all over this locker room because of Csonka, to me," Flores said of the fullback who

Mentioned Briefly

BASEBALL
CHICAGO (AP) — Tony LaRussa, who prioted the Chicago White Sox for the final 54 games of the 1979 season, has signed to manage the club in 1980, a team spokesman said. The J5-year-old LaRussa is the youngest manager in the majors. He replaced Don Kessinger, who resigned as White Sox player-manager on Aug. 2, and guided the team to a 27-27 finish. Earlier in the year, he managed lows of the American Association and compiled a 54-48 record.

Biker Finishes Trip To Lubbock

Charles Sheldon's two-wheeled odyssey that began Sept. 4 in Tacoma, Wash. came to a successful end Monday night when he wheeled into a restaurant in Shallowater.

Sheldon was so eager to complete his 2.100-mile bicycle trek from Tacoma that he pedaled 157 miles Thursday, his longest stint on the bicycle during the

"I had to ride about 30 minutes in the dark," Sheldon said this morning. L.V. Risinger came out to get me, but missed and went to Anton. "I'm relieved to get here," Sheldon said. Sheldon kept a diary of his exploits and forwarded it to The Avalanche-Journal for publication in the evening editions.

Sheldon's odometer on the front wheel of the Schwinn bicycle read 1.784 miles. "I guess I hitchhiked about 300

"When I reflect back on the trip, there were so many nice people. The truckers were great. If there was just some way I could get back and thank them for the way they treated me. "I didn't have any hassles on the road. They're just a great group of guys.

Three times I had trouble with dogs, but I turned my palm toward them and yelled and they stopped almost every time. A Doberman chased me, but a car came between me and him and I got

"I never thought I wouldn't make it, but the trip didn't become a commitment until the Moab, Utah, incident when it got so hot.

"I think at my age, I couldn't have been in much better condition. My breathing wasn't a problem until I got to the higher altitudes year-old retired Air Force officer said. "I don't know when that will end. My feet are burning, as if they were asleep.

"At the beginning, I had a lot of problems with my neck, but as I went along I had less trouble and did neck exercises while riding.

"When I left I weighed 184 pounds. Now 172 - I haven't weighed that much in a long time."

Sheldon experienced difficulties with the shifting mechanism on the bicycle early in the trip, but after a mechanic in Utah worked on the Schwinn everything went along just find.

"I met a couple going to California on bicycles from Baltimore and they were having trouble with flats using the same tires I had," Sheldon said. "I just had one flat, and that was when a young man was adjusting my spokes.

When Sheldon arrived at Risinger's home near Wolfforth, he was greeted with a large poster from a group of students at Estacado High School congratulating him on his accomplishment. "The kids didn't get to come," he said, "but I plan to go to their class next week to thank them for their interest."

For someone planning a cross-country bicycle trip, Sheldon had this advice: "If they want to try it, I'd say do it.

"You have to have good dependable equipment and have lots of faith in the man who sets up the equipment. You can't be worried about the equipment all the time or you won't be able to en-

Sept. 25 Loaded and departed Hyland Schwinn after they worked on the bicycle at 12:30 p.m.

Orem and Provo traffic was heavy but there was plenty of room for bicycles. The cities planned it that way like Eugene, Oregon. Stopped to take pictures of places my grandson Tommy Cameron lived in Provo and Springville - he requested it

Good ride to Thistle and now to hitch over Soldier Pass, elevation 7,477 feet Mini-pickup and everything fits - including leaving my hat in the cab. Pretty canyon — aspens are losing their foliage Rugged area on the down-down side no foliage! Steep grade - better than 5 percent.

Into Price, a booming town - coalelectric plants going up and industry is coming in.

The low gear has worked today. 74 MILES.

Sept. 26 On to Green River. Good road shoulders and a touring grade.

Peacock's Chevrolet dealership. Tom and I had been in high school at San Antonio. Malone is going to give Peacock my message of "get off your duff and let's get with it." Malone was very interesting and we visited for 45 minutes.

As soon as he left, the wind started to blow or I hadn't noticed it. Had a headwind and a long, long uphill grade. But not too long to romanticize over the "Hole-In-The-Wall Gang" and Robert Redford and Paul Newman.

This is rugged land and no wonder they couldn't be found. Canyon after canyon. This is a long hard grind to Green River of only 66 miles but not a camping spot beyond.

Stopped at 2:30 p.m. No low gear for this stretch - can't understand it. KOA for the night. Thunder and lightning with a small shower about 4 p.m. Don't see this very often in western Washington. I had some real nice folks from Indiana as neighbors for the night. Owner of KOA going to Lake Powell this evening to fish for crappie, bass, trout and pike and enjoy the scenery. That must be on our list to see in the future, 66

Sept 27 On to Moab and Arches National Park.

A voung motorcyclist stopped for a visit. He had done quite a bit of bicycling and was a very interesting fella to talk with. He'd had some great experiences. Ah. sweet youth! Made some adjustments on the low chainwheel and it's working. However, the grades to Moab are gentle until just before town and the low gear is very dear here. Arches Park requires a heavy climb to the campgrounds. It's very hot and there is no breeze. Beautiful red rugged sandstone of every possible shape. The Colorado River makes Moab a town. Mia Vida restaurant and lounge had been home to a fellow from John Tarleton Agricultural College - he really hit it big in uranium, then took a real slide. While he was up in finances, he hired Miss Westbrook, our English teacher, for administrative purposes. Steen - I believe that is his name.

Into Moab at 1:15 p.m. Winter gear at post office - ugh! I left about eightpounds in Provo and must be picking up about 10 pounds here.

It's hot. The "Grabber" on my handlebar is coming off in my hands. No low to the KOA and a climb of 500 feet. I've had it — three Coors.

I talked with the bicycle mechanic in Orem - adjustment is different from those in the past. I'll make it in the morning. Good neighbors from Salem. Ore., Leon and Elsie Crain; biker Mark Franke from Winston-Salem, N.C., who's going to Albuquerque. 57 MILES

Sept. 28 Monticello - they say this is going to be a tuffy.

It is. En route to La Sol Junction I must have climbed 8 of 17 miles -steep. Passed "Hole-In-The-Wall" - house carved into sandstone cliff. Kept going to La Sol Junction and ate my first cheeseburger in years at La Sol.

I'm hitching now - the heat has ride for 10 and spend 11/2 waiting in "no where." There was a warning at La Sol about water having a high nitrite count and I'm short.

done me in. Thirty miles to Monticello -

Beautiful view. From here you really can't image what came through to carve all of this. Ore, uranium, mines all over the far back country. Quite a few ore trucks. Litle white Jeep with Cecil and Vicki Roach of Monticello, formerly of Texas (he waves at everybody coming at him, just like all Texans do), are my hosts for the next 20 miles. KOA is six miles out and they deliver me there. Cecil met old-time chum Dewey Dovel, manager of Gregg County Airport, there. Small world.

Homestead at KOA at 3:30 p.m. It's desolate and more than 7,000 feet high. There is some dry farming. This county, San Juan, is the richest in revenue and only one good place to eat - Hunt's across from KOA. The food's excellent, real mashed potatoes — not instant. 18 MILES on bicycle.

Sept. 29

Cold and clear. Hot shower knob at the KOA has an electric current going through. The manager's sorry - wrong switch. Something is still wrong here electricity going through the shower control knob!

This is touring atmosphere - gentle rolling hills spotted with pinon trees and more cultivation. This is the pinto bean capital. I stopped to mail a letter, but the post office is for sale!

Arrived in Cortez, Colo., with the thought of hitching over the 8,000 foot area. Thumbed from in front of a service station with some semi-antique cars. One Buick ready for delivery to Houston a real beauty — canary yellow.

Caught a ride to Durango. Beautiful colors again. Stopped for short delivery in Sackett, home of the prolific western novelist Louis L'Amour.

Durango seems to be getting ready to really roar this Saturday night.

Arrived at KOA East at dark, and I had to rush camp, chow and laundry. Black cat crawled into sleeping bag and was purring real loud until I turned over - by kitty. 67 MILES on bicycle.

Sept. 30 On to Pagosa Srpings and probably the roughest day's ride regarding hills. Pagosa Springs is one of the most beautiful areas I've ever seen - especially on this trip. En route is the community of Chromo - a real setting of grandeur. Two young fellows - neighbor campers for the night - are on vacation from Alaska's North Slope. It's really good to be with their type - clean and interesting. 59 MILES on bicycle.

Oct. 1 Well, I thought the route to Pagosa Springs was rough. The road to Chama was something else! Whew! Beautiful area though, but not much special to note. Arrived at Chama at 4:30 p.m. and visited with girls at tourist information center. They believe the Tierra Amarilla to be the most scenic route. However, a pass of more than 9,500 feet is there. Forget the Toltec Train. Good traveling and no traffic to the KOA at the base of the summit.

A cowboy told me a brand inspector was coming and he would probably offer me a ride. He does, and I accept.

What a wild ride down. I must have been doing more than 40 mph. But, one more long hill - an hour's walk - and another wild downhill. Taos is within 30 miles now and it's a gentle down grade. I made it in one hour, 40 minutes, 135

Lubbock Man Held For Assault After Resisting Police Arrest

A Lubbock man, found this morning the paint on seven new cars parked at ment and jewelry, when burglars en-Brownfield Highway and Quaker Avenue, was checked into the county jail for allegedly assaulting a policeman and suspicion of public intoxication.

The 19-vear-old man was found with his head resting on the curb and the rest of his body stretched out on the pavement, police said. After the man was awakened, he reportedly tried to walk away from officers, but was apprehended and placed in the patrol car.

Officer Gilliam Moody said that when he tried to take the man into the jail lobby, the suspect again tried to run off and then kicked him. Moody, in his report, stated he grabbed the man's handcuffs and hair and escorted him into the lobby.

Reports also allege the man threatened to kill the arresting officer and a citizen inside the lobby, and resisted booking procedures.

In other activity, a 17-year-old Lubbock woman suffered multiple cuts about 8 p.m. Monday when she reportedly was confronted by an angered woman at a club on East 37th Street near Quirt Avenue.

Cynthia Gail Watson of 3216 E. Seventh St., who was treated and released at Methodist Hospital, told police her assailant apparently became angry when she accidentally bumped into her at the nightspot.

She said the woman later approached her with an unknown object and began slashing her, resulting in deep cuts to the stomach and legs. Reports indicate the victim ran out of the club to escape her attacker.

A nurse at the hospital told police the woman's injuries appeared to have been caused by the end of a clothes hanger rather than by a knife.
