NEW YORK (AP) - Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi underwent exploratory surgery today, New York Hospital officials said, and there was speculation the operation involved cancer for which the shah reportedly has been under treatment for years.

The shah was taken to the recovery room shortly before noon, hospital spokesman Eamon Brennan said, quot-

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) - Six furless squirrels have some heartwarming news: They probably won't freeze to death this winter.

The Lighter Side Of Today's News

Barbara Spier, who fed the squirrels in her yard for the last two years, said that about 10 days ago she discovered someone else had been putting peanuts into the feeder.

A short time later, she and a neighbor noticed the squirrels had lost all their fur except that on the tails. A veterinarian determined the peanuts were laced with a poison.

With the approach of winter, Miss Spier began worrying about her furless friends and made arrangements to trap them and send them off to a nature center for the winter.

Troubled Wayne County To Lay Off Employees

DETROIT (AP) — Penniless Wayne County, third most populous in the na-tion, will lay off most of its employees in two weeks and pay the rest with promissory notes as it struggles to get out from under a $19.5 million debt.

County commissioners Tuesday approved the plan to furlough most of the 5,300 full-time employees. The exact number to be sent home has not been determined.

Commissioner Alex Pilch said he expected workers to remain until the county Labor Department decides who will be cut. But American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees spokesman Eugene S. Guido siad he had no ideawhether workers would remain on the job. Postal Service Rule To Allow Private Delivery Of Letters

Service is relaxing slightly its legal monopoly on the delivery of letters to allow private companies to deliver some "extremely urgent" letters. In a notice that was expected to be published in today's Federal Register, the mail agency amended its regulations in an effort to help businesses who want letters delivered faster than the Postal Service can do it.

The new rule, to take effect Nov. 26, says private delivery will be allowed when the letters' "value or usefulness would be greatly diminished if not delivered" quicker than normal mail.

The Postal Service traditionally guards jealously its monopoly, occasionally forcing out small enterprises that promise to deliver letters across town at rates cheaper than the U.S. Mail.

The private express statutes, which granted the monopoly during the 19th century, were designed to put out of business carriers who tried to undercut the government mail service. One of these private delivery networks was the Pony Express, now a part of American

Members of Congress occasionally introduce bills that would allow private companies to compete with the Postal Service. The new action by the mail agency, white was taken with the approval of Rep. Charles Wilson, D-Calif., chairman of a House Post Office subcommittee, may be designed to lessen criticism of the monopoly while granting only very limited exemptions. Charles D. Hawley, Postal Service assistant general counsel, said the rule "is an accommodation between an apparent need for a kind of service we are not providing and the need to maintain the general structure of the private express statutes with this limited exemption.

As an example of the type of private delivery that will be allowed under the new rule, the Postal Service cited renew rule, the Postal Service cited regional grocery store chains that send bulletins to its stores telling what foods are available for what prices. Each store must send orders back to the central office in time for supplies to be shipped.

That sort of message delivery has not been allowed if the grocery chain paid a private company to do it.

The rule allows letters to be sent by private delivery companies within 50 miles if those dispatched by noon are delivered within six hours and those sent after noon arrive by 10 the next morning.

Private companies can take letters more than 50 miles provided the deliv-ery comes within 12 hours or by noon

Wasted Education

GOV. BILL CLEMENTS may have over-stated the case, but there's no doubt that higher education in Texas is more expensive than it needs be.

"If I had to name one state agency that was a greater waste than any other, it would be our institutions of higher education," the governor

He ticked off "an explosion of graduate de-grees, excess faculties, too small classes" and inefficient management as examples of alleged

College and university presidents have been wondering for most of this decade when the honeymoon they've enjoyed with legislative appro-priations would come to an end.

Boards of regents have been more certainly convinced than the presidents have been that there are economies which could be effected.

Faculty members, with their own pocketbooks affected, consistently contend that they are underpaid but generally suspect there is unnecessary extravagance in the administration.

"WE FEEL THERE can be improvements made and evolve a better system of management in our colleges," Clements said as he convened his newly appointed Higher Education Management Effectiveness Council.

"Our administration cost per student has risen much higher than our teaching cost per student. Basically that is wrong and I want to cut the administrative costs down," he added. Clements' meat-ax approach to line-item vetoes

Holmes Alexander:

this year's appropriations bill-including the deletion of funds for a School of Nursing at Texas Tech—betrayed his lack of knowledge about what is and isn't important in higher education.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

However, his appointment of the HEMEC, involving the presidents of several universities, could get him headed in the right direction if the group is objective in its studies and recommenda-

CERTAINLY, medical education is one area in which costs are beyond the comprehension of most taxpayers.

Professional salaries have to be high, however, if highly qualified medical professors are to be retained. Their high pay rubs off on non-teaching personnel, though, and other expenses run so high that the net effect is an impression that cost is of no concern in medical education.

Yet, there are areas such as the educational costs borne by teaching hospitals that the state should pick up but doesn't.

Reallocation of medical school resources to get more for the tax dollar would appear to be one area which at least ought to be investigated.

MY OWN LONG-HELD belief is that salaries for administrators, and for many former administrators who have returned to teaching, are signifi-cantly higher than jobs of comparable responsibility pay in the private sector.

It's doubtful that the governor's administratordominated "management effectiveness council" will recommend either lower salaries or significantly fewer administrators, however. Numerous professors are paid more than they are worth, too. There also are duplications of degree programs and deadwood courses that need to be weeded out of every university curriculum. Faculty tenure policies in departments with declining enrollments result in too many professors in relation to the number of students in one field of study while another hurts for funds needed to upgrade a program that is vitally needed.

On the other hand, not all duplication of advanced degree programs is bad, as some critics contend. If school B has a legitimate demand for a specialized program already offered by school A, it might be productive rather than counterproductive to inspire a little competition.

HIGHER EDUCATION is a very complex subject, which accounts for both the real and suspected extravagance it is to the taxpayers and for the difficulty in making meaningful reforms.

All too often, the Legislature, in its well-intentioned zeal to effect fiscal controls, denies university administrators the very funding flexibility they need to do an efficient job

Rather than hamstringing boards of regents and administrators, the Legislature and the governor might be more cost-effective if they'd just put a lid on overall appropriations and let the adr trators scramble to fund the programs of highest

FTC Sends Red Fox Fur Flying

WASHINGTON-"There's no fox fur in those ed Fox pants!"
That was the accusation seriously posed by the ederal Trade Commission (FTC) to the manu-cturer of Red Fox overalls—foolishness which easily qualified for the FTC Ripley's "Believe It Georgia farmers had been buying Red Fox veralls made by the Charles W. Hinson Garment anufacturing Co. in Lawrenceville, Ga., since 34. The overalls bore two labels: one a picture the Red Fox trademark with the motto "You can't beat Red Fox." The other label said "Sanforized 100 percent cotton."

Diviously, claimed the FTC, the Georgia company is guilty of false and deceptive advertising because all those farmers believed they were sying overalls made of genuine red fox fur

IN ORDER TO protect Tennessee farmers form such misleading advertising, a Knonville exchant actually was ordered by the FTC to relove all Red Fox pants from his shelves.

Cloaked in the rhetoric of "adding new voices to the FTC rule-making process," the Public Participation Program has dispensed over $1 million so far to so-called "experts" to create papers or provide testimony to back up conclusions predetermined by the FTC.

THE UNCONSCIONABLE ASPECT of the hole program is that the American people are involuntarily paying taxes out of their hard earned income so that a federal agency can create its own professional constituency.

The FTC spent more than $160,000 during the last half of 1978 hiring experts on children's advertising to support their preconceived notions before agencies and Congress, and has purchased "experts" with tax dollars to conduct studies in ny other fields. Many of these programs are nothing more than ic prostitution. For example, Miller (at the AEI) was paid $3,000 "to produce a verified statement rebutting the statement of Dr. Jesse J. Friedman regarding costs and benefits of immunizing freight classification systems from the anti-trust laws."

DR. MILLER'S REBUTTAL was included in a tition by the FTC Bureau of Economics and Bureau of Competition to the ICC. The petition was an attempt to deregulate the trucking industry by circumventing congressional authority.

The ICC was requested to institute a rule-making proceeding to establish a "zone of reasonableness" within which rates would be tted to fluctuate without ICC approval. Two U.S. senators expressed disgust with the ablic participation program during a Senate

Long, D-La., chairman of the tax writing Senate Finance Committee, urged that public participation funding be ended Both Danforth and Long said they were upset by the fact that, according to Danforth's figures, only 10 percent of FTC participation funds in 1976 and 1977 had been used to solicit information from small businessmen ACCORDING TO Danforth, 49 percent of the money had been used by Washington-based groups and 41 percent went to consumer groups who represent a very small segment of the population. "These groups are so unpopular we have to fund them," Danforth said.

Sen. Long said he didn't know why the taxpay ers should pay these groups to testify publicly "when the spirit doesn't move them to do it Significantly, Alfred Dougherty, Director of the Bureau of Economics, testified before the Senate Judiciary Antitrust subcommittee, calling for deregulation of the trucking industry as a way of DR. DOUGHERTY'S sentiments are shared by

Even more disturbing, as long as government agencies have untold sums of tax dollars as an arsenal with which to combat private citizen's honest opinions, the public cannot hope to receive fair treatment during the rule-making procedure.

Carter To Issue Pledge For Famine Relief Effort

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter will pledge a U.S. contribution of $30 million to the international famine relief effort for Cambodia, it was reported today in Congress.

Rep. Clement J. Zablocki, D-Wis., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, cited Carter's plans as his panel approved by voice vote a bill that would authorize $30 million in spending for Cambodian relief.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who is considering a challenge to Carter for the 1980 Democratic presidential nomination, also planned what his office called a major statement on Cambodia.

Baker Jr. and George Bush expect to be the principal beneficiaries of Gerald R. Ford's decision to step almost all the way out of the race for the 1980 Republican presidential nomination.

Which of them benefits most will be a measure of how Republican political professionals evaluate their two campaigns, particularly their chances of defeating former California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

"There are times when I wonder myself who is driving, officer!"

by Brad Anderson Pope's Peace Plea Shakes Up IRA

Pope John Paul II's anti-violence address during his Irish visit dealt a severe blow to the outlawed Irish Republican Army. Time will tell if it was a fatal one.

That was the opinion of a large num-ber of priests, social workers and ordi-nary folk who live in little back-to-back

In his Sept. 29 address in the neigh-boring Irish Republic, John Paul called on men of violence to lay down their arms. Many of those listening to him had crossed the border from strife-torn Northern Ireland only 30 miles away. Speculation the IRA might heed the leader of the world's 750 million Roman Catholics seemed to end with a communique from the IRA refusing a ceasefire and threatening a stepped-up campaign

But that is by no means a true reflection of the situation. The pope's words

Before their communique was issued there was a hot struggle within the IRA leadership, according to IRA sources. Mny argued that to ignore the pope's words would be a disaster among the Roman Catholic minority from which it draws a degree of support.

Others maintained that a ceasefire now would spell the end of the movement. The "hawks" won at least a temporary victory. But the position on the ground was very different. Priests at various Catholic churches reported a huge turnout at non-obligatory services on weekdays.

"Many youngsters who had been away from the sacraments for as long as 10 years returned," said one priest.

The story was echoed by social workers. Youngsters turned up at clubs for community action - "youngsters who were throwing rocks a few months ago."

"I'm not saying people should not use acetaminophen," said Weintraub, "but just be careful with it."

THANKS TO LISA LONGENBACH, EMMAUS, PA. LONGENBACH'S LAW: SHARING IS A TWO-WAY STREET.

Doctor Warns Against Overuse Of Common Pain Relievers

ATLANTA (UPI) - A physician has sounded a warning against public overuse of a host of common pain killers and killers. fever reducers, citing possible irreversible damage to the liver.

Dr. Howard Weintraub, who has seen patients with such liver damage and knows of some fatal cases, said the pain killers and fever reducers contain the chemical acetaminophen. He listed 171 over-the-counter drugs either made of acetaminophen alone or combined with other ingredients.

Weintraub said an overdose of acetaminophen can block the functions of the liver in its job of expelling the chemical from the body, with the damage being directly proportional to the overdose of acetaminophen.

Some of the more common brandname pain killers and fever reducers containing acetaminophen are Tylenol, Bromo-Quinine, Bromo-Seltzer, Datril, Excedrin, FeverTabs, Neo-Synephrine, Ornex, Pertussin Plus, Rentuss, Sinus Tab, Super-Anahist, Teragen, and Van-

Weintraub was in Atlanta to attend the recent annual convention of the American Academy of Family Physicians. He set up an exhibit at the convention, he said, "to increase the awareness of health professionals to the toxicity potential of acetaminophen because treatment is now available but, to be effective, must be instituted within 16 hours following over-ingestion.

His interest in the physical damage the chemical can do, he said, was "just as a physician who has encountered it.

Americans spend an estimated $720 to the liver can be avoided or minimillion annually on nonprescription pain

Weintraub said acetaminophen was toxic only when taken in large doses. But he said this could readily occur when people seek relief from a hangover or when they unknowingly take combi-nation of drugs containing acetaminophen for relief of pain or fever.

He said that although the reported incidence of toxicity due to acetaminophen overdose is low, about 50 percent of the doctors he had talked with at the family physicians convention had seen at least one case. He suggested that cases of liver poisoning caused by the chemical are occurring but are going unidenti-

Weintraub cited research by others indicating that heavy drinkers should not take large doses of acetaminophen to relieve hangovers because alcohol "strongly potentiates (strengthens) acetaminophen in its ability to produce severe, even fatal, liver failure."

Drugs containing acetaminophen are popular for treatment of hangovers because they do not upset the stomach as aspirin sometimes does.

The Food and Drug Administration issued a finding two years ago saying there was no basis for claims by the manufacturers of Tylenol and other drugs containing acetaminophen that their products were safer than aspirin. A panel of experts also urged the FDA to require the labeling of acetaminophen products with a warning that an overdose could cause liver damage. Early symptoms of an acetaminophen overdose include nausea, vomiting, malaise, sweating and an appearance of paleness. Jaundice usually becomes apparent by the third or fourth day and liver tenderness and enlargement are noted. In some cases, liver failure occurs at this time, Weintraub said.

He said that if treatment is started within 16 hours of the overdose, damge

Broker Says Credit 'Quality' Could Possibly Deteriorate

Woman Reports Assault By Former Boyfriend

mer boyfriend kicked her door open about 5:45 a.m. today and beat her when she refused to go out with him.

The woman, who reportedly was not seriously hurt in the assault, said the man began kicking her on the leg and struck her several times in the face when she refused to go have a drink

She added that the intruder fled when she told him she had called police. The suspect was described as a short 35-year-old man, who the woman said she dated several months ago.

Police also were investigating the reported theft of $1,100 cash and an undetermined amount of money orders from the Town and Country Food Store at 511 Fourth St. between 11:30 p.m. Tuesday and 1:30 a.m. today.

Store attendant Lonnie Alvin Mirll named as a suspect a 25-year-old man, who reportedly left the business about 10 minutes before the cash and money orders were discovered missing from the

The suspect was described as 6-foot-1, and weighing about 165 pounds.

A Lubbock woman said her 5-yearold boy was assaulted and his bicycle thrown into an empty swimming pool by two older boys about 7 p.m. Tuesday at an apartment complex.

Reports indicate the youngster was struck several times in the stomach and hurt in the attack

A witness to the assault told police the two juvenile suspects liked to hang around younger children and cause trouble. No arrests had been made early to-

Two Lubbock men, ages 36 and 34, were arrested about 12:40 a.m. today after they were caught taking a battery from a car parked in the 500-block of East 34th Street.

Police apprehended the suspects moments after the reported theft and took them to the county jail.

C.W. Dennis of 910-A 41st St. said he and his wife left home about 8:30 p.m. Tuesday and returned about 30 minutes later to discover they had fallen victim to house burglars.

Dennis reported the loss of a television, calculator, jewelry, bar set, $280 in cash, change and bank checks. He said his house had been entered earlier in the night and ransacked, but that he did not call police then because he discovered nothing missing.

Four persons said their cars were parked in the 4000-block of Avenue Q between 8 p.m. and 11:30 p.m. Tuesday when the vehicles were vandalized or burglarized.

W.J. Klattenhoff of Slaton said he suffered a $150 loss when the front window of his car was shattered. Mary Lee Galby of 3812 57th St. also reported her car window broken, resulting in $150 in Leisa Odom of 3713 67th St. said $40 in eight-track tapes were stolen from her car, and Woodrow Cagle of 4721 44th St. said he suffered a $60 loss when a window was broken out of his vehicle.

A 52-year-old Lubbock woman told police that her son kicked her in the face because he did not know how to play a card game.

The woman said she and her son were playing a card game called "Skip-Bo" about 12:30 p.m. Tuesday when her son became angry because he did not know how to play the game.

Police reports indicate that the woman's son threw down his playing cards and cursed his mother. She reportedly told her son that if he was going to act in such a manner that he should leave and not return. The woman told police her son then got up from the table and kicked her in the face.

Dexter Perry, 17, of 2627 Parkway Drive was charged Monday with robbery in connection with an incident in the 1700-block of E. Second Street Thursday night. Jimmy Lee White told police he was walking along E. Second Street and two men who were behind him approached him and asked for his money. When White refused to hand over his cash, he said, one of the men pulled a knife and then both men began beating him before he was able to escape.

Stafford To Face Additional Murder Charges

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) - Roger Dale Stafford, formally sentenced to death Tuesday for the slayings of six restaurant workers, faces arraignment Thursday on three additional first-degree murder charges.

Defense attorney J. Malone Brewer said he expected Stafford to be taken today to Purcell, Okla., where the convicted killer faced arraignment on three first-degree murder counts in connection with the slaying of the Melvin Lorenz family of San Antonio.

The bodies of Tech. Sgt. Lorenz, his wife, Tech. Sgt. Linda Lorenz, and his son by a previous marriage, Richard, 12, were found near Interstate 35 south of

Fire Marshal Sounds Warning On Heaters

Avalanche-Journal Staff

Nothing is more inviting than a warm, cozy home in the winter. But Fire Marshal Robert Stokes said the source of that warmth - home heaters - also can be deadly.

Although no one died last year in a Lubbock fire caused by a heater, Stokes said there were 60 such blazes which caused damage in excess of several thousand dollars.

However, Stokes has some advice on how to avoid damage and possibly injury from such a fire in your home

Most commonly in such fires, the pilot light in a wall or floor furnace is not extinguished in the spring and the onset of cold weather causes the heater to come on unexpectedly.

Often furniture has been moved in front of or on top of the furnaces, Stokes said, and the heater ignites the furni-

On all gas heaters, Stokes recommended turning off the pilot lights in the spring. Before lighting the pilot again in the fall, Stokes said the bearings in the motor of a central heating unit should be properly oiled.

Next, he said the air filter should be cleaned before lighting the pilot and checked for cleanliness once every 30

It costs more to run a heater with a dirty filter, he said, and the possibility of a burned out motor is increased. "Every year there are about eight or 10 burned up motors because of stopped up filters," Stokes said

He suggested vacuuming the lint and dust from around the heater also.

Some odor emanating from the heater can be expected in the first days of operation, Stokes said, but it should

If the odor continues, he said a repairman should be called to check the heater. If someone suspects carbon monoxide is being released by the heater,

Man To Admit Transporting Stolen Grain WICHITA FALLS (AP) - Former

Iowa Park grain dealer Robert Johnson was to have pleaded guilty in federal court here today on two counts of interstate transportation of stolen grain, according to his defense lawyer. Lawyer Gene Douglass said Johnson

Johnson, 43, was arrested in Idaho earlier this year. Authorities had searched for Johnson since companions said he fell overboard from a boat in the Gulf of Mexico Jan. 3, 1977.

Federal and state authorities discovered after his disappearance that about 100,000 bushels of wheat were missing from elevators owned by Johnson at Iowa Park and Wichita Falls.

H.C. Johnson, his brother, was convicted of issuing false warehouse receipts and was sentenced to 15 years in prison. He has since been paroled.

Fast-Buck Artists Turn To Oil Lease Advice S

By PHILIP GREER And MYRON KANDEL Psssss! Wanna hunt for oil? On your or claim? Cheap?

That pitch, or variations on it, is eing heard more often lately — usually late-night telephone calls from a esman promising "expert" advice on w to stake a claim and strike it rich.

For the most part, the pitch is balo-ey, but people are being duped into ending off thousands of dollars to bogus dvisory services.

Like most scams of this sort, the ales talk is based on a kernel of fact and a ton of misrepresentations, exag-gerations and outright lies. And the pions are pulled in by a combination of ear and greed

The fact is that you really can get an official government lease to hunt for oil on federal lands. Most of them are in the western part of the country, where most of the government-owned land is. That isn't anything new, though. The lienses have been available for decades.

Each month, the various offices of the Interior Department's Bureau of Land Management posts lots available for leasing. Virtually all of them have been leased to somebody before. Since 1960, the bureau has been raffling off the leases, because 20 years ago the demand became so great the competitors often fought for them - with fists right in the BLM offices.

Applications for the raffle can be gotten from any BLM regional office.

Economy Aiding Industry

NEW YORK (UPI) - Only 5 percent of the meat consumed in the United States today is sold frozen, but the ratio will be reversed by the end of the century with fresh meat becoming a comparative rarity, according to one frozen food service executive.

Maurice Schwartz, who heads Natpac, Inc., a frozen food home service company, says freezing is logical and the supermarkets and other retail outlets will come to it gradually while the consumer will come to accept them.

Schwartz said freezing will help slow rising costs of meat by permitting handling in bigger volume.

Meanwhile, the home service food industry, which has shown a very slow growth over the last 25 years - it got off to a scandal-ridden start - is doing somewhat better now, Schwartz said.

It still feeds only about three million Americans and its sales are only $300 million for 400 companies, just 100 of them full line. But a dozen years ago, he said, 1,000 companies were feeding only one million people.

There were even more companies in the industry in its early years, many of them small local outfits who sold freezers at inflated prices

The meat delivered often contained a lot of poor quality cuts and useless bone and fat. The assortment of other frozen foods wasn't very good.

The food service companies discount ed the notes for the freezers at banks or finance companies and when customers were dissatisfied they had no recourse. Many customers got the idea the companies were not interested in selling food, only in selling freezers at high prices to Nowadays, Schwartz said, 75 percent of all home freezers sold in the United States are not bought from food service companies but from appliance dealers.

Natpac, with sales of about $35 million a year in eight states from Virginia through New England, is rather typical of the full service home frozen food companies, only bigger, Schwartz said. It has been around 28 years, almost since the start of the industry. It was founded by Schwartz, who grew up in his father's butcher shop in Brooklyn, then went to City College and New York University. He obtained his capital by advertising in the New York Times for partners and backers.

"We are one business inflation is helping a little," Schwartz said. "Even the current recession is helping us by making people more willing to economize and plan ahead and buy in bulk, particularly frozen meats.

The industry also has been helped by the proliferation of quality frozen foods other than meats. This makes its home delivery plans more attractive to housewives, Schwartz said. As a convenience inducement, he said Natpac also will deliver to the home groceries that don't go in the freezer, even such things as paper

The increasing number of working wives with limited time for shopping also has helped the business, Schwartz

Dade County Issues 'Mosquito Alert'

MIAMI (AP) - Health officials have issued a "precautionary mosquito alert" for Dade County after an apparent case of St. Louis encephalitis, a type of brain inflammation, was reported.

"All persons should take precautions to avoid mosquito bites," Dr. Richard A. Morgan, county health director, said Monday. He suggested use of mosquito repellent and long-sleeved garments.

The victim recovered in a week. Dade County, which borders the Everglades and has a constant mosquito problem, maintains a "chicken surveillance program" to keep a lookout for en-cephalitis, Morgan said. The chickens are tested each month for signs of the

Bianchi's Parents Sell Home

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) - Taking only their clothes and a few possessions, the parents of confessed "Hillside Stran-gler" Kenneth Bianchi have left their home here to escape the notoriety of their son's crimes, according to a Roch-

Frances Piccione, Bianchi's mother, and Bianchi's stepfather, Samuel A. Pic-cione, sold their home and left Rochester last week, the newspaper reported.

Bianchi, 28, last Friday admitted slaying two girls in Bellingham, Wash., and was sentenced to two life prison terms. In Los Angeles this week, he con-fessed to five of the "Hillside Strangler" slayings and two other charges and received six life terms.

His cousin, Angelo Buono, is charged in 10 of the Southern California slayings and is in custody pending arraignment next month.

The Times-Union report quoted unidentified friends of Bianchi's parents as saying the couple left Rochester last week to start a new life.

After Bianchi's January arrest in Bellingham, neighbors complained report-ers were constantly "camping out on their front doorstep," the paper said re-

"Everybody was asking questions about her son, saying tactless things that hurt her deeply," one woman told a re-

The Times-Union also reported being told by "several close friends" that the family almost went into debt trying to help Bianchi's defense effort.

While Bianchi's mother never spoke to reporters, she was interviewed by court-appointed psychiatrists.

Bianchi's attorney told the court Fri-day that Bianchi had inherited deep psychological problems from his mother, who took him from doctor to doctor when he was a child.

Friends of Bianchi's mother told the newspaper she is bewildered by things that have been said about her.

"She's gone through hell. You ouldn't find a friendlier, more compassionate woman. She was a tribute to our eighborhood," one said.

Adopted in infancy by Frances and Nicholas Bianchi, Kenneth was 14 when Nicholas Bianchi died. Mrs. Bianchi married Piccione in 1971, the paper said.

"He was a person who was for him-self. He didn't care who he hurt. He was strictly 100 percent for himself.

"At first I was very much against the execution," he said. Washington Mayor Criticized For Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) - Marion S. Barry Jr., the rock-ribbed anti-poverty activist turned mayor of the nation's capital, has walked flush into the harsh budget realities of governing a big city.

To the dismay of many supporters, Barry's 1981 budget plan calls for cuts in city services to the poor neighborhoods that constituted his first political base.

His proposal would cut garbage pickups, close three health clinics, reduce school spending and begin a $25 charge for abortions now offered free to poor women. These moves have disappointed some city council members and many Washington residents who expected Barry to expand rather than cut such serv-

Councilwoman Willie J. Hardy accuses Barry of "thumbing his nose at the people who elected him to office."

The mayor says the District of Columbia - its budget subject to congressional veto - is suffering from inflation and simply cannot afford to do more without a tax increase that the public

Criticism like Mrs. Hardy's puts the mayor in an unusual position. For more than a decade before his election, Barry was a firebrand whose relentless antipoverty efforts made local politicians pristle. But in his first nine months in office, he has learned a classic political fact: It is easier for an activist to demand more services than for a mayor to pay for them.

"I'm still angry about social injustice. Now I have the awesome responsibility of trying to make some of the things happen that I was agitating for," says the 43-year-old mayor. "We've taken from those who have and given to those who don't have; but those who have are fast running out.

Barry's $1.5 billion fiscal 1981 budget plan, which the council is now reviewing, represents an 8.1 percent increase in spending over 1980; thus, it lags far behind inflation, which is now running at 13 percent. Even so, Barry's request for a $300 million payment from the federal government may be optimistic. The annual federal payment - to compensate the city for property tax revenues lost due to the large federal presence - is now $238 million.

Thus, squeezed by inflation and Congress, Barry moved to cut services; his plan to reduce garbage collections in some of the city's poorest sections quickly drew fire from neighborhood

Corn Yields Predicted To Decline

WASHINGTON (AP) - Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland says the super corn yields of 1979 are not likely to be repeated next year and that the 1980 harvest probably will be down a bit, despite emoval of government acreage restric tions.

Bergland also said this week that the government's grain reserve program is being opened up to eligible farmers so they can store wheat, corn and other grains until prices rise.

Responding to reporters' questions, Bergland said removal of acreage setaside requirements for 1980 feed grains will have "not very much" effect on the nation's soil erosion rate.

Some conservationists have expressed fears that a return to all-out crop production would hasten the loss of valuable soil from water and wind ero-

Based on current projections, next year's corn crop is "most likely" to be about 7.13 billion bushels, down 3.5 percent from this fall's record harvest of 7.39 billion bushels.

But the projections also showed the actual 1980 corn crop could range between 6.56 billion and 7.7 billion bushels, depending on the weather next year.

Farmers are expected to boost corn plantings next spring for the 1980 harvest as a result of the administration's decision not to require farmers to setaside part of their land from crop production in return for federal price sup-

They were required to idle part of their land in 1978 and 1979 in return for price supports and other benefits.

The government's grain reserve program is now open to farmers who participated in this year's acreage set-aside program for their 1979 crops of wheat, corn and other feed grains, with the exception of barley.

The reserve also is open to eligible farmers who still have 1978-crop grain under federal price support loans, Berg-

Barley is not included at this time because its market price is high enough to make it ineligible under the reserve's price formula.

Bergland announced Aug. 1 that wheat farmers would have no acreage set-aside requirement for their 1980 har-

Under the reserve program, farmers can store their grain for up to three years or until market prices rise enough to trigger the grain's release.

Bergland said that for the last two years "for every ton of corn we produced, we have about two tons of soil erosion, a rate which cannot be sus-

But he said the federal acreage restrictions or set-aside programs - which traditionally has served as a major vehicle for keeping fragile land out of production - are "not an effective barrier" to erosion.

the mayor could talk about reducing gar bage service in areas that already lack essential services," Council Hardy said. Barry later said cutbacks would be extended to most of the city. The proposal to end free Medicaid ortions would affect about 5,000 poor Councilwoman Hilda Mason, who spent 19 years as a teacher and aide in city schools, was most upset with Barry's plan to cut public school spending by $10 million, declaring, "D.C. schools have never been properly funded in the first place.

Barry noted a 12 percent decline in enrollments is expected next year. Yet, that annually unveils low scholastic achievement scores are working with Mrs. Mason to fight the school

Austerity efforts, while certain to win favor with congressional overseers, are controversial in the city itself. One example is Barry's effort to eliminate 1,397 positions from the city payroll, a 4 per-cent reduction. This pleased congres-sional critics of the city workforce but was unpopular in black neighborhoods of high unemployment.

Some items in the budget, such as money for the city's elderly programs and its Latino affairs office, do show marked increases, and there are small

Statistics released today by the FBI which are about a year behind showed only a 2 percent hike in reported crimes from 1977 to 1978. More than 11 million crimes were reported to law enforcement agencies last year.

The FBI's figures show 5,109 offenses were reported for each 100,000 persons living in the country. However, in Lub-bock 22,969 incidents were reported for a population of 175,250 in 1978.

The difference in the FBI figures and Lubbock's statistics may be misleading because the FBI takes in the country's total population, rather than concentrating on just the heavily populated urban areas, local law enforcement officials

The rise locally and nationally in violent crimes - murder, rape, robbery and assault - were almost identical, with Lubbock reporting a 4.7 percent increase to the FBI's figure of 5 percent.

Lubbock also jumped ahead of the national average in the rise of reported property crimes from 1977 to 1978. City police reported a 6.9 percent hike, compared to a nationwide increase of only 2

Upper Midwest Buried By October Snowstorm

A-J News Services

An October snowstorm buried parts of the upper Midwest in up to a foot of snow today and cooler weather dislodged a lingering Indian summer in the Northeast.

Gale force winds pushed Canadian air into New York state, dropping temperatures into the 30s after an unseasonal heat wave. Weather conditions in the Southwest remained relatively mild, however, with the National Weather Service forecasters promising more cool nights and warm days until the arrival of a new cold front later this week.

It was a different story in the Great Lakes region, as the NWS issued a heavy snow warning and travelers advisories for Michigan's Upper Peninsula, predicting another 4 inches would fall over-

The Michigan storm packed winds of up to 75 mph on Lake Superior, according to the National Weather Service. High winds toppled trees onto power lines, knocking out electricity and forcing a school to close in the Houghton County community of Toivola.

In the Baraga County community of Herman, Ted Walitalo, an employee of the state Department of Natural Resources, reported 14 inches of snow on the ground. Roads were slippery, but Rain fell on lower Michigan.

Up to a half foot of snow stacked up in parts of Minnesota and Wisconsin, closing schools and slowing travel to a crawl. Rochester, Minn., broke a 49year-old record with 5.4 inches during a 24-hour period in the month of October.

"We'll be skiing pretty soon," chuckled one Hurley, Wis., resident. Hurley and nearby Pence each reported about

South of the snowline, blustery winds, falling temperatures and gloomy skies created a winterlike scene from the eastern Plains through the Great Lakes region and into the Appalachians. Showers and occasional thunderstorms dotted the area.

Cooler weather moved into the Northeast, which basked in unseasonably mild temperatures for the past several days. The mercury climbed into the mid to upper 70s throughout the region again Tuesday, down slightly from the record-breaking readings in the upper 80s on Monday.

More seasonable weather - neither the warm extremes of last week nor the chilly air of recent days - will return to the South Plains today and Thursday.

Fair skies are predicted for today and Thursday, and temperatures will be in the high 70s both days and in the high

Highs will vary from the 70s in the north to mid-80s in the south and lows from the 40s to the low 50s in the extreme southern part of the region.

Lubbock had an unusually rainy year going into October, measuring 18.85 inches at Lubbock International Airport and significantly more than that in some parts of the city, but has had only a trace of rain so far this month.

The Hub City had 12.16 inches at this point in 1978.

Also prominent in successful reports were a number of Lubbock public schools. Although no organized student campaigns are held, some students chose to give to the campaign and were singled out at today's meeting. Special recognition were given to O.L. Slaton Junior High School students and to Evans Junior High students. The latter raised $785.07 selling paper links to form chains for room decorations, the links sold for one cent each.

compared with the same period in 1978. Lubbock's statistics are slightly below national trends for the period.

Crimes reported in the city from January 1 to September 30 of this year showed only an 8 percent increase over the same time frame last year.

However, in violent crimes reported, the figure rose 14.5 percent locally from the previous year.

The total number of reported property crimes - burglary, theft and auto theft - for the first nine months of this year in Lubbock was 9,242, compared to a 9,803 tally for the same period in 1978.

The city has recorded 25 homicides for the nine-month period. Two murders have occurred in the city this month.

In the first nine months of last year 24 persons had been murdered, according to reports.

There have been 37 reports of attempted rape and 66 complaints of rape in the city for the third-quarter period of 1979, compared to numbers of 30 and 56 for the same period last year

City police have investigated 179 reports of robbery during the period this year, which is down from the 206 tally during the same duration in 1978. Business robberies totaled 28, with 31 such reports registered last year.

Assaults reported during the period in 1979 totaled 952, with complainants saying they were injured by a firearm. knife, other weapon or during a fist

A total of 784 Lubbockites reportedly were assaulted during the same period

The FBI said the number of reported crimes had decreased in 1977 but turned back to an upward trend in the middle of last year.

The bureau's report is based on statistics supplied by more than 15,000 state, county and local police agencies.

The national figures showed that the murder rate rose by 2 percent over 1977. but decreased by 6 percent from 1974. Men were the victims in three of four murders. In one of every five murder cases the victim was related to the as-

Other findings: -Rape was up 7 percent in 1978 and an estimated 60 of every 100,000 females were victims of forcible rape. More than half of the people arrested for forcible rape were under age 25.

-Car thefts rose by 2 percent from 1977 and one of every 145 registered vehicles was stolen last year. Seventy percent of those arrested for car theft were under age 21 and 51 percent were under -The FBI said police arrested suspects in 21 percent of the crimes, including 46 percent of the violent crimes and 18 percent of the property crimes

Senators Reject SALT Revisions

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate Foreign Relations Committee today rejected attempts by Senate Republican leader Howard H. Baker to add two amendments to the SALT II treaty that supporters of the pact said would kill the agreement.

The vote was 9-6 against each propos-

One would have called on the Soviet Union to destroy its 308 large SS-18 intercontinental ballistic missiles. The other provided for the termination of the SALT II treaty on Dec. 31, 1981 unless an agreement has been reached to get rid of all those missiles by 1985.

Why propose a killer amendment of this kind?" said Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, the committee chairman. "If either of these amendments were to be adopted by the committee we might just as well shut up shop."

By an 8-7 vote Tuesday, the panel also rejected a Baker amendment to allow the United States to have as many of the large intercontinental missiles as the Soviet Union, a step opposed by the Carter administration as militarily unneccessar-

Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, switched sides today and joined the majority in voting against both Baker amendments. Before the vote, White House counsel Lloyd Cutler said U.S. military planners have never sought heavy missiles for the United States, relying instead on U.S. weapons that have been more reliable Cutler said adoption of the Baker amendments would mean 'no SALT II.

The consequences of not having a SALT II, Sen. Baker, would be to increase whatever danger there may be from these weapons which are restrained by the treaty," the White House official said.

"It seems to me, sir, it would be a very, very heavy responsibility for anyone voting for your amendment to ignore the military judgment and to substitute your own," he added.

"This nation is in grave peril, in my judgment, because you did a bad job in negotiating this treaty, because you left in place these monstrous systems," replied Baker, who plans to declare his candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination on Nov. 1.

Last week, the Foreign Relations Committee voted 9-6 to turn down another Baker amendment to count the Soviet Backfire bomber as a strategic weapon under treaty limitations.

"We almost won," Baker said after the Tuesday vote. "I would think there is a substantial chance we can pass some sort of amendment on the Senate floor.'

"The closeness of the vote by a committee generally considered more liberal regarding SALT than the full Senate is an indication of the widespread concern over the unacceptable provisions in the treaty," said Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah., a leading SALT II opponent.

"It is time for the White House to recognize that the Senate is unlikely to approve the treaty unless there are serious changes, not just cosmetic reservations or understandings," he said.

House Votes For Controls

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The House reversinG an earlier action, voted today to continue federal price controls on gasoline and to allocate its use

The House voted Oct. 12 to remove the price control and allocation powers as it considered legislation to fund the Department of Energy and its related

But that amendment by Rep. James Courter, R-N.J., passed only 191-188 and Democratic leaders have been working to reverse the vote. They also noted the first vote came on a Friday afternoon when 56 members were absent.

Under current law, the Energy Department may set maximum gasoline price increases and in a time of shortage may decide how much gasoline goes to each state or city.

Although former Energy Secretary James Schlesinger once called for an end to gasoline controls, President Carter opposed the Courter amendment on the grounds it would cause gasoline prices to skyrocket.

Carter also opposes the bill itself, partly because it would continue to fund the Clinch River nuclear breeder reactor

Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., chairman of an energy subcommittee, warned that the price of gasoline would quickly go to $1.50 a gallon or more if controls were removed.

Discovery Of PCB In Turkeys Stuns Oregon Growers PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) - Oregon turkeys destined for the Thanksgiving dinners of Utah schoolchildren and tables elsewhere in the West may be contaminated with the chemical PCB, health officials say, and growers are worried their industry may be irreparably damaged. More than 25,000 Oregon-bred birds are being held off the market as the U.S. Department of Agriculture tests samples for traces of the suspected carcinogen that was banned earlier this year.

Hundreds of thousands of hens and millions of eggs have been destroyed in the West and Midwest since the chemical, used as a coolant in electrical equipment, was discovered this summer in a processed animal feed produced

"I think the turkey industry of Oregon is done," said Larry Enniga, general manager of the Oregon Turkey Growers Association. "We've spent 52 years building an organization based on integrity, honesty and quality. In this last five days that has all gone down the drain.' Oregon turkey growers ship more than 1.3 million birds a year - 15,000 a day as Thanksgiving nears. But now many birds are being returned by consumers, Enniga says. John Gould, deputy director of compliance for the USDA, said Tuesday that government labs have been swamped with calls from consumers worried about possible PCB contamination in poultry and dairy products.

Some 1,400 fresh hens from a suspected flock went to Oregon and San Francisco groceries last month and probably have been eaten, he said, adding there did not appear to be an "imminent health hazard" based on the levels of Dr. L.J. Raforth of the USDA office in San Francisco said he has been telling consumers not to worry about eating one contaminated turkey. But I would not want to eat one of those birds every day for three or four weeks," he said. "PCB will build up in the body." Meanwhile, Gould said frozen turkeys processed by the Oregon growers association under the Norbest label had been shipped to Seattle, Spokane, Wash., Salt Lake City, Phoenix, Ariz., and Sioux Falls, S.D., before the contamination was discovered. In June, a transformer at the Pierce Packing Co. of Billings, Mont., leaked

PCB, polychlorinated biphenyl, into tallow used in poultry feed. Contaminated feed has been traced to 17 states, Canada and Japan, authorities say. Federal officials learned Sept. 24 that tallow from the Montana plant also was sent to a Seattle company which shipped it to two Oregon turkey farmers and an Oregon feed distributor. Gould said testing of birds from the two farms began this month, and the USDA ordered the rest of those flocks held off the market because contamination had been found in the samples.

In Utah, officials said none of the Norbest shipment they received has been sold to grocers. But in Salt Lake City schools, the birds already had been cooked for Thanksgiving dinners, Archie Hurst, a spokesman for the state Department of Agriculture, said 1,000 turkeys distributed to schools are being rounded up for PCB testing.

Farm Irrigation Creates Environmental

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Agricultural rigation poses intractable problems for armers and agricultural policymakers.

On one hand, irrigation provides a stable supply of food even in times of drought. On the other hand, irrigation is drawing down groundwater levels, creatmental concerns.

This year the Agriculture Department held hearings on irrigation. Now the department has published a study which shows a rapid increase in irrigated acreage and greater use of irrigation sprinklers through 1977, despite increasng costs of energy.

In an update of a 1974 study, the report noted that land irrigated with the aid of energy-using pumps increased from 35 million to 40.3 million acres between 1974 and 1977 - mostly in the Great Plains.

In 1974, irrigated farms produced about 27 percent of total U.S. farm product sales. The study said irrigated land produced at least as much in 1977.

The 1974 study also showed that pumping irrigated water used about 23 percent of on-farm energy for agricultural production. Gordon Sloggett, the agricultural economist who did the latest study, said the cost of energy for pump irrigation rose from $570 million in 1974 to more than $1 billion in 1977. The 83 percent increase in expenditures for pumping reflected not only increased energy use, but also much high-Average energy prices almost doubled from 1973 to 1977. Natural gas prices increased the most, but natural gas was still the lowest cost energy for pumping water, the study noted. The study did not estimate even higher costs of energy as a result of recent oil price increases or the level at which energy might become too expensive for Through 1977, the conclusion was:

Few farmers stopped irrigating despite rising energy costs; in fact, irrigation

Part of the reason appears to be that small increases in crop prices could help farmers recoup their costs.

For example, the study said, the energy cost of diesel fuel for Oklahoma gravity-flow irrigated corn increased from less than 8 percent to about 15 percent of production costs. But it took a price increase of 12 cents a bushel in 130-bushel-per-acre corn to overcome the increased cost.

For center pivot irrigation, a corn price increase of 21 cents a bushel covered increased costs.

Diesel fuel use gained in popularity. Acreage irrigated by diesel fuel increased 74 percent to 6.8 million acres in Electricity was the most common energy source, used on 18.3 million acres, but its use increased only 17 percent. Acreage on which natural gas was used rose 8 percent to 11.5 million acres. Gasoline and LPG gas use declined.

Although natural gas usually is the least expensive fuel for pumping irrigation water, it is unavailable in many areas, Sloggett said. Electricity is generally the next best alternative but electric utilities at capacity were not anxious to add to peak loads with more irrigation customers.

Despite fallis water was the major source of irrigation water. Eighty-five percent of growth from 1974 to 1977 came from groundwater sources. Of the total, 30.5 million acres were irrigated with groundwater. Eight mil-

Higher Suicide Rate Found On Reservation

DUCK VALLEY INDIAN RESER-VATION, Idaho (UPI) - Indians at the Duck Valley reservation on the Nevada-Idaho border have a suicide rate 14 times higher than the national average, a study shows.

Professor Alan Berman of American University in Washington, D.C., reporting on his study recently, said, "the bottom line comes down to this: There is not a lot there to live for.

Berman also found that alcoholism among Shoshone and Paiute Indians on the reservation is rampant.

He said the annual suicide rate at Duck Valley was equivalent to 150 per 100,000 persons between 1969 and 1978, compared with 12 suicides annually per 100,000 persons nationwide

The suicide average for Nevada's other Indian reservations is 52 deaths annually per 100,000 population, he said. Berman said Duck Valley's population of about 1,000 and its remote location make its "deprivation and helplessness" more pervasive.

He said family attitudes and interfamily feuds cause Indians to repudiate their culture or success. These problems prevent leaders from rising up to effectively solve the reservation's problems,

Mrs. Carter Battles Mental Health Bias

WASHINGTON (AP) - Rosalynn Carter is going to bat with big busine for "a silent constituency of valuable citizens" who hide the fact they have been treated for mental health problems out of fear it will cost them good jobs.

It is "unwarranted and unfair" for employers to discriminate against people who have had mental health problems, Mrs. Carter told representatives of 160 of America's largest corporations this week in a speech to the Washington Business Group on Health. Bill Gold-beck, executive director of the organization, said his group endorses Mrs. Cart-er's statements "100 percent" and has found that at least half all visits to doctors are for problems that have a mental derivation.

lion acres were irrigated with surface water and 1.8 million acres with both.

A major dilemma for irrigators is that they control neither crop nor energy prices and they cannot be sure that crop prices will cover projected increases in energy costs.

Sloggett said they face alternatives of increasing efficiency by using less water and energy, they can grow crops that use less water, use a less expensive energy source or stop irrigating.

Sloggett said pumping less water or reducing engine operating times with more timely applications of water can be costly. He conceded that "fuel cost savings must offset the cost of the improvement for pump irrigators to make the change."

Shuttle Safety Concern Arises

By AL ROSSITER JR.
WASHINGTON (UPI) — William A. nders says he would worry more about flying the space shuttle rocket plane on its initial flight into orbit than he did when he flew aboard Apollo 8 on man's first journey to the moon.

Anders, who since has headed the Nuclear Regulatory Commission and ador to Norway, stressed in a letter to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration that he would fly the shuttle once its prob-

Anders, one of three consultants named to look into the shuttle program at the request of President Carter, recommended to NASA administrator Robert A. Frosch that the shuttle safety situation be brought to the attention of Cart-

"It is new. It is complex and certain components are untestable," Frosch said, referring to some systems that can only be tested on a flight.

But Frosch assured congressmen that, "It will not fly before it is ready to

The shuttle is a revolutionary winged spacecraft that is designed to take off vertically like standard rockets, yet land at an airport for use again in two weeks.

The first shuttle, the Columbia, will be flown on the initial test flight into orbit sometime next year by veteran astronaut John W. Young and test pilot Robert L. Crippen.

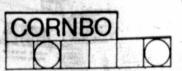

The shuttle will be equipped with ejection seats for the first four test flights, but they cannot be used in a launch pad emergency. The Apollo had a launch escape system to pull the capsule away from an exploding rocket.

The shuttle's three main engines can be shut down on the launch pad if there is a problem before liftoff, but the shuttle also will use two solid propellant boosters. Once they ignite, the astronauts are committed to flight.

The shuttle's return from space also will be far more complex than the re-entry and parachute landing of an Apollo in an ocean. The shuttle pilots, using an advanced computerized navigation and control system, must fly from orbit 100 miles high to a gliding landing on a 15,-000-foot long runway.

The shuttle carries no engines for atmospheric flight on its return, so the initial approach to the landing strip must

Kidney Disease

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB - My husband just found out that he has nephritis. The doctor diagnosed his illness as nephrotic syndrome. He took a kidney biopsy and the report proved this to be true. He has had a lot of swelling. Can you tell us something about this kidney disease?

DEAR READER - The disease really means inflamation of the nephrons in the kidney. Nephrons are the little filtering units that make up the kidneys. Hence the term nephri-

I am sending you The Health Letter number 12-12, Your Kidneys and How They Work. It will give you a diagram of the architecture of the kidneys and what a nephron is. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, selfaddressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspa per, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Stan, New York, NY 10019.

The little nephron in the kidney that's inflamed allows a lot of the albumin protein in the blood to leak out into the urine. This massive loss of albumin ultimately is the cause for the swelling that your husband is ex-

One of the reasons that all of us don't have a lot more swelling normally is because of proteins inside the bloodstream. These, particularly albumin, literally suck the fluid back out of the tissues spaces into the bloodstream. When you lose too much albumin, this doesn't occur and so when fluid leaves the little capillaries to bathe the cells in the tissues, it's not drawn back into the circulation. Sometimes the swelling in a nephrotic patient is enormous.

Water retention is also affected by sodium salt retention. That's why many of these patients are put on a low salt diet. There are medicines that are helpful.Sometimes steriod hormones are used at least for a short period of time. In the course of time the nephrotic stage disappears and at that time the degree of remaining kidney damage can be better evaluated.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I have poor circulation in my legs and feet. My feet feel numb. My doctor says I have a good pulse beat to my legs. I also have a numb feeling in my lips and when it gets cold my fingers turn white because I have Raynaud's disease. I do smoke but I take plenty of vitamins. I would appreciate your

DEAR READER - Please stop smoking immediately. You may have spasm in your arteries which decreas es your blood flow to your legs a times or you may not have enough good circulation in the small arteries despite fairly good pulses in the large arteries that your doctor feels.

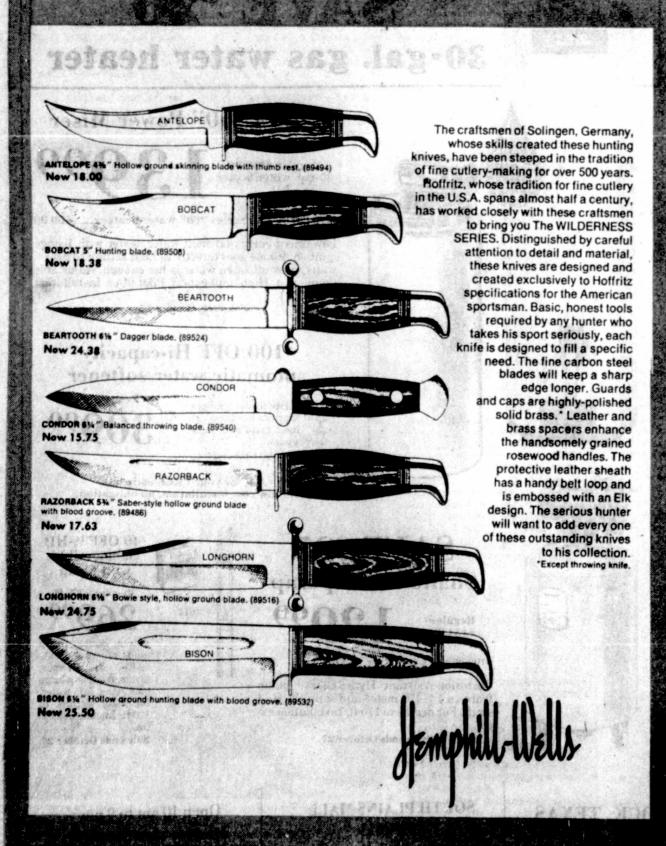

If you continue to have numbre in your legs, you might want to see a neurologist because sometimes the numb feeling is related to nerve problems rather than circulatory problems. These, in turn, can be related to basic back problems such as a degenerating disc. I notice that you are a dentist and many times dentists who have to stand long periods of time are prone to such disorders.

The Raynaud's disease, as you undoubtedly know, is associated with severe spasms of the arteries. Cold weather can trigger these and this can cause numbness of the lips and face. Sometimes Raynaud's disease is caused by underlying disorders but one factor which can contribute to it is smoking cigarettes.

The five-month effort of the Overton South Neighborhood Association to have the central Lubbock area declared a Design-Historic district is expected to reach some form of conclusion Thursday when the City Council acts on the association's However, a decision on the district and on the 11 recommended landmark structures inside the neighborhood should be anything but simple.

During Urban Design Commission and Planning and Zoning Commission hearings on the proposed district, opposition to the eastern boundary surfaced from some Avenue Q businesses, primarily American State Bank.

The businessmen have said they fear the eastern boundary, now recommended to follow Avenue R roughly between Broadway and 19th Street, would limit

Opposition to the association's district application came most recently from Lubbock school trustees who voted to ask that Lubbock High School and Thompson Junior High not be designated landmarks and that the schools be removed from any design-historic district.

Two other proposed landmarks, owned by the First Baptist Church, also have generated controversy. The church purchased the two 13th Street houses, intending to use the lots for parking.

However, the Zoning Board of Adjustment refused to grant the approval for the parking lots and the Urban Design Commission halted demolition on the two houses until a decision on their landmark status is reached.

Efforts by the association to purchase the houses have been unsuccess-

Amid the controversy over the district and its landmarks, the council began discussing an amendment to the Urban Design Ordinance to essentially make the landmark designation voluntary on the part of property owners.

Those involved in historic preservation in Lubbock said such a change would nullify the year-old ordinance.

The council will discuss what form that amendment should take at Thursday's meeting.

At 10 a.m. council members will hear public comment on a Human Relations Commission recommendation that Quirt Avenue be renamed in honor of Martin Luther King Jr.

However, a 1949 city ordinance which establishes the procedure for naming streets east of Avenue A would have to be amended to change the street name and council members have said they fear setting a precedent of naming a street after a person.

Because of those factors, council members also want suggestions on alternate ways to honor the slain civil rights leader, like naming a city park after

King.
That idea has been rejected by the Human Relations Commission.

Also, council members are expected to approve on final reading an ordinance changing 15th and 16th Streets between University Avenue and Avenue Q from one-way to two-way.

That change was recommended in a traffic study the council received in July, but Tuesday a group of downtown businessmen said they will oppose the

The council will consider allocating $32,000 in Community Development contingency funds for a traffic signal at 23rd Street and Avenue A, recently approved by the highway department.

Citizens Traffic Commission member Harold Chatman requested council action on the signal and the council voted to seek the light even if it does not meet highway department accident and traffic

Avalanche-Journal Staff A group of Lubbock businessmen will oppose an ordinance returning two Overton South area streets to two-way thoroughfares when the ordinance is considered for final approval Thursday by the City Council.

Members of Downtown Lubbock, Inc., voted in a hurriedly called session Tuesday afternoon to oppose changing 15th and 16th Streets between University Avenue and Avenue Q from one-way to two-way, saying it would hinder traffic flow from southwest Lubbock to down-

Returning the one-way streets to twoway was recommended in a traffic engineering survey submitted to the city four months ago. The report said current traffic flow does not warrant the oneway designation.

The proposed change also is endorsed by the Overton South Neighborhood Association, which says making the streets

Determination laudable trait, if there is some possibility of achieving a desired goal. But determination should not be confused with stubbornness that induces someone to pursue a hopeless cause, such as attempting to get a ruff even though it is evident that the enemy is not going to permit

The bidding was reasonable enough. North's raise to two spades is preferable to showing the clubs. On hands not good enough for two bids, it is more important to raise partner's major suit, for if he is not strong enough to bid again, you won't miss a game. South, looking at at least six winners, made a try in the suit in which he needed help. South might have passed three no trump-that contract was cold - but we can't fault him for taking out to four spades.

West led the three of trumps, and declarer captured East's nine with the ten. In the hope of ruffing a diamond in dummy, declarer immediately led a low card in that suit. West won with the eight and continued another trump, and declarer led another diamond. West made a good play by winning with the queen instead of trying for a cheap trick. He fired back his last trump, taking the last trump off dummy. This held declarer to nine tricks and he cursed the evil fate that would not allow trumps to split.

He should have cursed his own obstinacy in trying for a diamond ruff which, it was plain to see, the defenders had no intention of allowing him to score. After winning the first trick, declarer should cash the ace of clubs and then lead a low diamond. West will win and continue a trump, and declarer should insert the table's seven.

If East happens to follow, the trumps have broken and declarer can always ruff a diamond. If not, then the seven wins the trick and declarer is in dummy to cash the king of clubs and ruff a club high. When that suit breaks 4-3, a long club can be established for a second diamond discard and the tenth trick. The queen of trumps and the ace of hearts are the entries.

It is a shock and a heartache when a wife finds out that her husband has had an affair with another woman, but I cannot comprehend how any woman could accept a MAN as her competition. She would have to be "meshugga" (crazy) and with children in the house yet! How can any normal woman let a man who has been with another man touch her? To me, it is unthinkable.

By ERMA BOMBECK Remember mothers-in-law?

They used to be the most talkedabout women in the world. By reputation, if she was the bride's mother she was the one who ran the whole wedding. If she was the groom's mother, she wore beige and kept her mouth shut.

She used to exist in great numbers. You couldn't go to a party without tripping over couple of mothers-inlaw. MIL jokes were on everyone's lips. ("The good news is my motherin-law drove off a cliff. The bad news is she was driving my car.") One thing you could count on everyone had one.

That is, until a few years ago, when the trend went to cohabital living, meaningful relationships and live-in dates. As fewer and fewer young people got married, mothers-in-law became an endangered species.

We were sitting around having coffee the other morning when Mayva said, 'I'm going to become a mother-in-law in Sara asked her to repeat what she

"I am not," she said defiantly. "My son is getting married and I'm going to be the first lady on my block to become a mother-in-law. Incidentally, what does a mother-in-law do? You don't know?" we asked.

Wedding Rites Remain Same

NEW YORK (Special) - Marriage is on the rise and the preferred wedding is as sentimental as old lace, orange blossoms and white satin.

"The traditional wedding has become a constant in a changing world," says Barbara Doebele of a leading greeting card company. "Couples who seek a eeling of permanence, find it in the traditional wedding.

What today's bride chooses to wear to her wedding is influenced by age, budget, personal style and her previous marital status, but bridal salons around the country report that more than half their clientele choose the expected attire, Doebele says. "Most women see themselves on the special day as the quintessential bride in Alencon lace, beading, a train and a veil," she says.

When it comes to second marriages, tradition still prevails. Women choose grey or mauve the second time around, says Doebele

Long gone are the bizarre costumes, bare feet and idiosyncratic vows of yesterday. Professor Philip E. Converse of the University of Michigan mentions yet an-

While the likelihood of misinterpreting pre-election polls is relatively small, President Carter recently complained about the interpretation of the numbers in the polls on his popularity.

The Gallup people ask a two-part question, whether the public approves or disapproves of the way the president is handling his job.

When the Washington Post asked its own sample of 1,519 adults both the Harris and Gallup questions in a test last year, however, it found that 45 percent of those who rated President Carter only fair" also said they approved of his handling of the job.

"An awful lot of differences in the polls can be attributed to differences in questions like that," observes Sheldon Gawiser, former polling manager for NBC News and now senior survey director of the National Opinion Research

Says political pollster Robert Teeter: 'It is a social science, which means it is probably a little less precise than a physical science. We can't measure things with a scale or a ruler.

Teeter adds, "There's no reason not to trust a well-done poll.

Normally, however, the only clue to the soundness of a poll is sampling error. But this just recognizes that pollsters can't count on exactly matching the group interviewed with the whole popu-

Pollsters acknowledge that sampling error may be far less important than question wording. Yet it is the exact wording that pollsters often fail to provide or that the media leave out of poll In the case of the SALT question — which embraces concern about communism, national security and pacifism, among other things - what the pollster asked was crucial.

Two of the major polls last spring showed about the same opposition to the treaty. But then another four had exactly opposite results.

According to Converse's analysis, the main difference was whether the poll measured support for an arms limitation treaty in principle or for the actual treaty before the Senate.

He says that the contrasting results seem to mirror the sentiment of those U.S. senators who say they favor a limit on the arms race - but not this SALT Last April, the AP-NBC poll asked.

Do you favor or oppose a new agreement between the United States and Russia which would limit nuclear weapons?" Sixty-eight percent said they

A Harris question for ABC News subsequently asked, "Would you favor or oppose the U.S. and Russia coming to a new SALT arms agreement?" The percentage in favor was 72 percent.

In June, a CBS-New York Times poll came to a similar result on a question of support in principle for an agreement to limit nuclear weapons. Asked whether "you favor or oppose the United States and Russia coming to an agreement to limit nuclear weapons," 77 percent replied that they favored it.

Responses were strikingly different in the same poll to a later question that specifically referred to the upcoming debate on the "U.S. treaty with the Soviet Union which limits strategic nuclear weapons - called SALT." Only 27 percent of the whole sample said they thought the Senate should vote for it.

The AP-NBC poll also sought to filter out the uninformed public but did so by asking respondents whether they had heard or read enough about the proposed treaty to have an opinion. It found that 36 percent of the sample put themselves in this category and that 26 percent of this group said they favored it.

Roper came up with a number in the same range, 33 percent in favor. His question was especially specific. Note that it includes a reference to controver-

"The U.S. and Russian negotiators have about reached agreement on a SALT treaty. The treaty, which would last until 1985, limits each country to a maximum of 2,250 long-range nuclear missiles and bombers. As you know, there's a good deal of controversy about this proposed treaty. Do you think the U.S. Senate should vote for this new SALT treaty or against it?"

If the sample is told that an issue is SESULTS VARY — Poll percentages concerning support for the SALT Treaty are flown based on six different pollings. The wide variation doesn't mean the polls are wrong. Key to the big swing on SALT was the way the question was asked. (AP Las-

So it's a short step to accept that what these people are thinking also ac-curately reflects what the public at large is thinking. This is not mere speculation, for social scientists have tested the theory in practice.

Population is one of the major con-trols that pollsters use. They try to make sure that each county and town has a probability of being selected proportionate to its population

From lists provided by the Census Bureau, they simply pick counties at random. Towns and blocks are selected the same way

In the case of the ping pong balls, for example, no one says that there can't be whole clusters of red balls and blue ones together. Each handful might have landed in such clusters, and your conclusions might have been cockeyed as a result.

That can happen in the nation with polling. By mere chance, the pollster might have gotten a disproportionate number of, say, elderly people or people of a certain opinion — and that would throw off the results, since no single group can reflect the opinion of all.

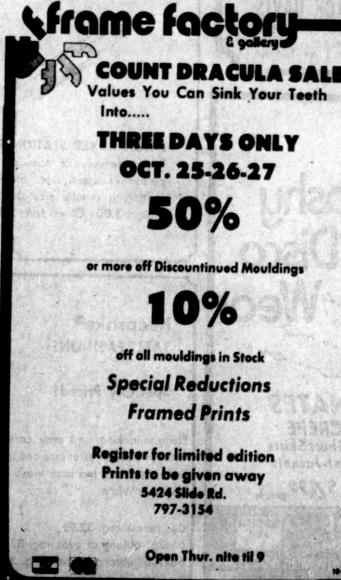

Pollsters say they usually can recognize these quirky results by experience.

"The sampling that's done in good ling is the most reliable thing there is," pollster Louis Harris says.

What the public may not understand, however, is that reporting the results by subgroups such as blacks, men or wornen naturally means that a smaller sample is being considered out of the total and that the margin of error is significantly increased.

When Gallup posed the question in June, it asked this question of those respondents who could volunteer an advantage or disadvantage of the treaty: "Everything considered, would you like to see the U.S. Senate ratify (vote in favor of) this proposed treaty, or not?"

On this basis, Gallup said 34 percent of Americans favored it.

ABC News also took its own poll in June, but it differs from the others in at least two respects. With 839 interviews, the sample was 345 smaller than the next-biggest. Also, it spoke of "the SALT Agreement" as if the treaty were a certainty and asked, at the same time, about "such a treaty."

The question read: "As you may know, the SALT (Stragetic Arms Limitation Treaty) Agreement is an agreement between the United States and the Soviet Union for both to limit their ability to fight a nuclear war. Would you say you favor or oppose such a treaty?" Sixtynine percent favored it.

Converse says he believes the 69 percent result reflected responses to the second part of the question, which tapped support in principle for a treaty, not support for the treaty before the

-With the Christmas catalogue season upon us, why is it that the best customer sometimes get the worst price?

The situation comes about this way: Existing customers are mailed the latest issues of catalogues from which they

Why is it that when people hear "profits" the mental image produced so often is of a few greedy tycoons lining their pockets?

Is it a holdover from days when ty-coons sometimes did such things? Or are modern managers, some of whom ex-ceed $1 million a year in salary and bonuses, considered gougers? Or is the number of shareholders and others dependent on companies considered smaller than it really is?

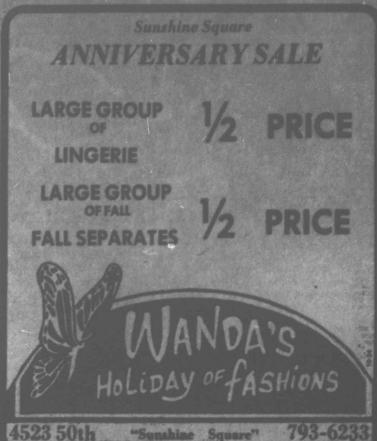

Choosing one company, Texaco, as an example — because it is big and it is in oil, an industry whose profits are being attacked — you can count millions of people dependent in some way on its profits.

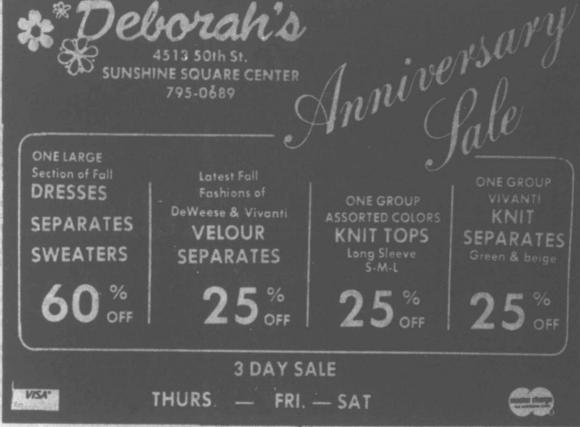

There are, first of all, about 430,000 shareholders. Assuming that each represents three or four others in a family, the total of shareholder dependencies jumps to near 1.5 million.

Q: Some time ago a friend of mine wrote a number of poems. It was suggested that she put them together in a book and publish them. Will she need to have them copyrighted to protect them from being stolen? Also, what is the difference between a copyright and a patent?

A: A copyright is available to protect an idea or manner of expression once it is set down in words or in visuals. A patent on the other hand protects a process or a machine. The new copyright act has been in effect since January of 1978. It provides that an author's work or works are automatically covered as soon as they are fixed in a tangible manner such as in a book. Specific registration and notice forms can be obtained from the Copyright Office of the Library of Congress in Q: I am serving time in a Texas prison. Shortly after I arrived here, I was served a summons for speeding and failure to appear. I have written an explanation to both the issuing judge and the D.P.S. What can I do?

A: You cannot be tried for any criminal offense in your absence. Speeding and failure to appear are considered criminal because you can be fined if found guilty unless you are present or you are represented by an attorney in your absence. You should consult the attorney at the Texas Dept. of Corrections to determine your rights under the "Speedy Trial Act.

Q: When I was 18 I was arrested, charged and indicted for attempted burglary. Five months later I appeared before a judge in a Criminal District Court. My case was dismissed. Can my arrest record be cleared from police

A: All records and files relating to an arrest can be expunged if three conditons are met: first, if no indictment or information was presented against you; second, if you were released and the charge dismissed; and third, if you had not been convicted of a felony in the five years preceding your arrest.

Most likely you are not qualified for expunction of your record, because from your question, it appears you were indicted for the offense, even though the charge was later dropped. Q: I made out a will several years ago in my own handwriting. I have been told if the will is not made out by an attorney that the state will take everything I have. I want to leave my estate to my grandchildren. Is my handwritten will legal in Texas? A: A handwritten will may be recognized in Texas if it is entirely in your writing and correctly signed. It will not serve to settle your estate easily, however, since you may not have provided for independent administration and be-

A: No. Creditors of your sons's estate can satisfy his debts only from the assets of his estate. Creditors have a prior claim against estate assets, so your son's heirs may not receive any property if the liabilities exceed assets. Nevertheless, the creditors cannot seek satisfaction from you personally.

As with that other annual ritual, Christmas shopping, the experts advise that this process is usually best accomplished as early as possible, before the December rush.

The firm recommends that you start by totaling up the net gains or losses from any investments you have sold so far this year. These should be divided into two groups - short-term (held for one year or less) and long-term (more than a year between purchase and sale).

In the short-term category, a net gain is taxable as ordinary income, while a net loss can be deducted directly from ordinary income up to $3,000.

Anything beyond $3,000 cannot be deducted, but can be carried forward as a deduction up to the $3,000 annual limit for subsequent years.

Long-term gains and losses are taxed differently. Only 40 percent of a net long-term gain is subject to tax, and only half a net long-term loss may be deducted from taxable income.

The same $3,000 limit and carry-forward rules that cover short-term losses also apply to long-term losses. If you have both short-and long-term losses, the $3,000 limit applies to the sum of the two deductions, rather than to each sep-

A loss can be taken for 1979 tax purposes any time through Dec. 31, the last business day of the year. But for most taxpayers who want to take a gain for 1979 purposes, Dec. 21 is the deadline. That allows the customary five business days for you to receive the proceeds of

DRESDEN, East Germany (AP) -Despite a massive reconstruction campaign, architectural treasures of this city of art and culture will still be in ruins nearly 50 years after the World War II air raid that destroyed it.

The baroque Zwinger galleries, which house collections of paintings and porcelain, have been restored, as has part of the 16th-century residence of the Saxon

But the Taschenberg palace, the old Opera house, the Frauenkirche church and other buildings which helped make Dresden an architectural showpiece still lie in ruins, destroyed in an Anglo-American air raid on the night of February 13,

City fathers say it will take until the 1990s before all the famous buildings have been restored

"It is planned that all the buildings will be restored," said Wolfgang Zimutha, city council member in charge of tourism. "But it's a question of economics. We simply don't have all the means. Perhaps our children or our children's children will have the means to do it."

In the meantime, the Communist government spares no effort to remind visitors the city was blown to bits by the British and the Americans, allegedly to keep its treasures from falling into the hands of the advancing Soviet Army.

The bombs leveled 15 square kilometers, engulfed the city in huge fire storms and killed some 35,000 people, many of them women and children. American author Kurt Vonnegut, a prisoner of war in Dresden, wrote of the raid in his novel "Slaughterhouse Five."

"They only confirmed that brutality and destruction, hostility to art and culture was and is an essential trait of imperialism," a tourist booklet, Inferno Dresden, says of the raid.

The Soviets, however, are lauded for saving the art collections and returning them to the city in the mid-1950s after reconstruction was under way. Zimutha said it had taken until 1951 - six years after the war - just to clear the rubble. Most of the reconstruction took place between 1958 and 1964, with housing taking top priority.

Since the war, Dresden has again become a cultural center, with over 5 million tourists coming each year to wander through its galleries, stroll the shaded walks along the Elbe River, or attend symphony and opera performances in the glass and cement Palace of Socialist

OPEN DAILY 9-9

But the city - East Germany's third largest with over 500,000 inhabitants has emerged as a curious architectural blend of German traditional and Soviet modern

It reflects the mood of a country which seeks to portray itself as something new and unique - "the first socialist German state" - while pointing with pride to the same set of classical German authors, musicians and philosophers revered by the West Germans.

"In rebuilding the Zwinger, the experts used sandstone which appears to age quickly and after 10 years looks as old as the original," said Zimutha. "Experts have been brought from Switzerland and Austria to advise on reconstruction.'

But much of the city was rebuilt along standard, Soviet-style models indistinguishable except for the language on the signs from parts of Warsaw, Moscow or other Eastern European cities.

dditional Funds Needed For Urban Renewal Plan

An additional $1 million would be needed to complete all housing rehabili-tation work planned for 1980-81 in Lub-bock, the Urban Renewal Board learned

Short of receiving the additional $1 million, the board voted to ask that the $1.8 million be reallocated among seven Lubbock neighborhoods.

Under the recommended shifting of funds, housing activities in Arnett Benson would receive nearly $653,000, rather than the suggested $600,000.

However, that money would allow Urban Renewal to work on one block less than originally planned.

In the Phyllis Wheatley area, where all houses must be removed and residents relocated, the board recommended reducing the funding level from $400,-000 to $328,000. Again, the work would fall one block short of planned activities, but the Urban Renewal staff said it could clear the area between the alleys between Zenith and Aspen Avenues and between Yucca and Walnut Avenues.

Funding would be increased from $125,000 to nearly $157,000 for activities in Meadowbrook Villa and that amount

AUSTIN (AP) - Department of Public Safety officials recommend that two state troopers under political fire in Atascosa County remain at their posts.

County officials had called for the transfer of the two troopers, saying the entire six-man DPS unit would kicked out of county-owned property if the two officers did not leave.

The DPS refused and moved out in-

"It is our belief that the best course of action is to leave the troopers stationed in Atascosa at this time and not require either to transfer to another location," Col. He said an internal affairs division investigation of county complaints "did not reveal any violation of statutes or of departmental policies of a serious nature that would justify our taking disciplinary action against the troopers.

"However, every allegation will be reviewed with the troopers so they may take precautions to avoid any future re-

Retired Ag Official Says Job Fun

COLLEGE STATION (UPI) - During her years as a home economics specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extession Service, Frances Reasonover drove 385,000 miles to deliver the newest food and nutritition information to county extension workers, who in turned shared it with homemakers

The career lived by Miss Reasonover, 62 and recently retired from the extension service, is a story of dedication and hard work, of believing in the value of the work

Her nutrition career began in 1947 as county home demonstration agent in Henderson County in east Texas.

"Back then we had family demon strators to teach others," she said. "We called them farm-home demonstrators.

"One of my first challenges was a re quest on how to can horse meat! I told them you do that just like you can beef. It was probably an old horse and they probably canned it for the dog.

In 1950, she joined the extension service and began developing the educa-tional programs that would keep her busy for the next 29 years as she set up methods to teach nutritition, food-buy ing, meal planning, food safety, food preservation and weight control.

She also concentrated on teaching "method demonstrations" to county extension agents who then conducted physical demonstrations on such things as how to prepare foods in presentations to homemakers, 4-H Club members and others.

She also helped develop "series-type" lessons for mailing to families and wrote support materials for the various subjects taught through the Extension

"A big challenge was writing so that people can understand," she said.

Miss Reasonover authored more than 145 publications and co-authored many more. One of her "best-sellers" was entitled "Christmastime at Home" which drew 285,000 requests but was "retired" from print when Miss Reasonover re-

"It was a real hit. People who had never heard of the Extension Service called and wanted copies," said Dorothy Holland, Extension Service publication

Miss Reasonover also helped spear-head the development of several special projects concerning nutrition.

'Limited-income families' problems with nutrition were among the greatest challenges," she said. "All along, we've tried to pinpoint the problems and ad-dress our educational programs to solving them. "We designed programs that teach how to provide families with nutritionally balanced diets in spite of meager funds and resources," she said.

Upon her retirement, Miss Reasonover said of her career:

"It was fun. The Extension Service is great. I think it's amazing - the great knowledge of the composite of people that make up the Texas Agricultural Extension Service."

Statewide Election

Nearing

AUSTIN (AP) - It's a well kept "a Texans will decide if they want to make three more changes in the state's much-amended 1876 constitution. Most of the votes cast that day proba-bly will come from Houston, which also will be electing a mayor, city council

There should be a sizeable turnout in Dallas, where voters are interested in a $54 million bond issue of seven proposi-

A small turnout is expected in Austin, where county officials are trying to get approval of $5 million in bonds to provide more office space.

But elsewhere there has been little said about the election just two weeks away. Absentee voting began last week.
The proposed constitutional changes

1. Call for changes in the terms of no-

2. Provide for legislative review of rule-making by state agencies.

3. Authorize $10 million in state bonds for the purchase of farm and ranch land, similar to the Veterans Land

More has been said about Proposition No. 3 than the others.

Rep. Luther Jones, D-El Paso, spear-headed formation of a support group, then piloted his own plane over the state seeking backers. Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown and Land Com-missioner Bob Armstrong added their

If approved by voters, the proposi-tion would authorize the commissioner of agriculture to create a Farm and Ranch Loan Security Fund and issue up to $10 million in general obligation

Under the program, the state would guarantee 90 percent of the amount due on family farm and ranch loans. The loans would be made by private lenders, but the state could help some farmers pay back their loans, charging 6 percent interest for the aid.

An applicant must have lived in Texas at least five years, must have had ex-perience and education in the farm or ranch business, and have a total net worth of less than $100,000 in his immediate family, excluding his residence.

Jones wants to keep more family farmers in business. If family farmers are pushed off the land, he says, corporations and foreign investors can be expected to buy the land. He has stressed to city dwellers that the good life in the city is not possible without a healthy agricultural base.

"If food prices went out of sight you'd have rioting in the streets," Jones

There has been no organized statewide opposition to Proposition 3.

Those against it generally argue that the state should not be in the businss of guaranteeing loans for anyone, eyen farmers, who are no worse off than other small business owners.

The amendment that would provide for legislative review of rules and regula-House and Senate in 1979 with little oppostion. However, since then the Texas League of Women Voters has spoken out against it.

League President Diana Clark said Proposition No. 2 is a "dangerous violation of the constitutional separation of powers of the executive and legislative branches of government ... Such a change might allow a small group of legislators to block administrative action because of opposition to a governor or his appointees on state boards, regardless of the merits of the rule in question. Backers of Proposition No. 2 say more and more state legislatures have decided rules of government are too important to be left entirely to bureaucrats who answer only indirectly, if at all, to the people. Thirty-four states now have some sort of legislative review of agency

Supporters point out that the Texas Air Control Board and the Public Utilities Commission write rules that affect millions of Texans. The Department of Human Resources makes rules for aid to dependent children, Medicaid, and food stamps, plus child care institutions. The Texas Railroad Commission governsstrip mining and gas utilities.

Proposition No. 1 would allow notaries public to be named for the entire state rather than for a particular county. Now, when notaries move from one county to another they lose their official positions.

The proposal also would let the secretary of state appoint them for four-year, not two-year terms. Supporters say the changes would add employees to the secretary of state's office but save some trouble for county

Identity Of Moscow Patient Kept Secret

LINTHICUM, Md. (AP) - The operation was a success but the patient's identity may never be revealed, say doctors from Johns Hopkins University Hospital who went to Moscow to perform eye surgery.

Dr. Ronald Michels and two colleagues, Dr. Walter Stark and Dr. Thomas Rice, returned to Baltimore Sunday. Michels would not say who the patient was, but did deny rumors that it was Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev. The doctors, who went to Moscow on Oct. 13, would not confirm reports that the patient was Mikhail A. Suslov, 76, the leading ideologist of the Soviet Communist Party.

Educator Receives Writer's Tribute

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

RIDGEFIELD, Conn. (AP) - Walter Hendricks died the other day at age

The obits said he was a writer, publisher and educator, who had founded, personally dreamed up, scrounged the money for and helped build with his own hands three Vermont liberal arts colleges: Marihoron, Windham and Mark Hopkins, which surely is accomplishment enough for any lifetime.

Just a few weeks ago, before the weather turned cold, I was sitting out on the deck with a neighbor who is professor of philosophy at Pratt Institute. The conversation turned to the most remarkable people we had met in our lifetimes.

Walter Hendricks torned both over lists. We had not him at the conversation turned to the most remarkable people we had met in our lifetimes.

we had met in our lifetimes.

Walter Hendricks topped both our lists. We had met him at the same time, in the summer of 1945, at Biarritz, France, where the U.S. military had assembled a bunch of college professors to set up an overnight university for GIs who didn't have enough service in to be mustered out.

Hendricks, a tall, spare Midwesterner of Norwegian parentage, had arrived from the Chicago Institute of Technology to set up the English Department. I was 19 years old and a private, not even a PFC, who had arrived to enroll as a student after a two-day trip in a box car from the Ruhr Valley, where our rifle company was guarding a recently surrendered German division. Philip, a lieutenant in Army intelligence, had been assigned to teach literature under Hendricks at Riarritz. dricks at Biarritz.

Right off, I found myself back in a boxcar again, heading for Namur, Belgium. Classe were due to start in two days, but no textbooks had arrived. Hendricks learned that a quartermaster depot up in Namur had a warehouse full of Armed Services paperbacks, which might include enough classics to get things going. He got on the phone and somehow cut through the Army red tape to have the whole shipment consigned to him. Orders were cut to have me bring back the books.

Walter plainly was a man who could get things done. Something about the impromptu academic life of Biarritz, the lust for learning that so many GIs exhibited after months of murderous war, touched him deeply. Day-dreaming in the midst of his Chaucer classes, he talked about turning his 600-acre Vermont farm into a small college, where students and faculty would live together as a community of scholars.

Two years later, still roaming around Europe, I received a letter from Walter Hendricks. He had opened his log hut for business, and there was room at the other end of the bench. Would I come join him at Mariboro College? I would be the only senior.

When I got there, the dream was hardly out of the planning stage, which Walter, not being concerned with material things, didn't exactly spell out to the parents. Some students were living in tents. Luke Dalrymple, the $2-an-hour handyman who actually built the college, was nailing the roof on the hayloft of a 100-year-old barn that was to become my third-floor dormitory.

Teaching, as well as administrating, supervising construction and scurrying after funds. Walter frequently interrupted Chaucer's "Pardoner's Tale" to dash outside an unfinished classroom to help unload a truckload of lumber or give a push to the electrician's truck, bogged down to the axies in Vermont mod

The student work program, which Walter dreamed up, turned the whole student body into a community of carpenters as well as scholars. Meanwhile the indelatigable Flora Hendricks cut up Army blankets for curtains, taught poetry, baked apple pies and raised a family of three boys and a girl.

Sometime after the blizzard that snowed in our first winter weekend, Hendricks loaned out the big barn, which had become the dining room, to planist Rudolph Serkin and his father-in-law, violinist Adolph Busch, for a series of country concerts that became the now Jamous Marlboro Music Festival.

Walter coaxed his friend and fellow Vermont farmer, Robert Frust, to deliver a poem at Marlboro's first graduation, which also was attended by me, the lone graduate; Ellsworth Bunker, a trustee and neighbor who later became U.S. ambassador to Saigon, and Vermont Gov. Ernest Gibson. That house later became Mark Hopkins College, which is one of those threads of coincidence that an acquaintance with Walter Hendricks weaves into your life pattern.

Now the country's smallest accredited liberal arts college, with 203 sta dents and 35 faculty members, Marlboro has survived some tough times.

Marlboro opened with 56 students and seven teachers, but one year enrolly ment dropped all the way back to 29 and the mortgage was saved by sugaring off the maple trees on a campus.

Walter eventually lost Mariboro, reportedly in a battle with the trustees over expanding the enrollment beyond his dreams of a small tightly-knit com-

A year later, he had begun Windham College in Putney, only instead of a country carpenter for an architect, this time he got his neighbor Ellsworth Bunker to induce Edward Durrell Stone to design a campus for him. Bunker was then ambassador to India, where Stone had just built that striking embassy in New Delhi

When Windham got too big, he began Mark Hopkins, an experimental college named after his educational mento. Walter was over 75 then, which didn't keep him off the scaffolds when the contractors arrived to renovate the old in the year-and-a-half before he died, he sent me, to edit and proofre chapters of a book he was writing about his lifelong friendship with Robert Frost. I had expected a leisurely literary discourse and instead received a riveting, searing document of how as a young student at Amherst he had been wrongly accused of trifling with the poet's daughter.

Even at age 87, the pain of Frost's not having apologized, after learning the truth, was still with him. But so was his spirit of forgiveness, and his drive to get the book done, so he could start another one. And, oh, yes, make some more improvements in the woodshed overlooking the Connecticut River that had become his work den.

Paper Claims Funds Misused In Project

WASHINGTON (AP) - The legacies of Pride, Inc., set up in 1967 to create jobs and self-esteem for this city's disadvantaged blacks, are varied.

One of its founders, former civil rights militant Marion Barry, was elected mayor nine months ago.

But The Washington Post charges that Barry's former wife, Mary Treadwell, enriched herself in a Pride project.

The newspaper, after a year-long investigation, contends in a series of articles that at least $600,000 was skimmed off income from slum properties owned by an allegedly non-profit Pride enterprise, P.I. Properties, Inc.

Tenants were told there was no money for repairs and had to cope with rats, uncollected garbage, broken windows and frequent disconnections of heat and electricity, the newspaper said.

The newspaper alleged P.I. Properties, under Mrs. Treadwell's direction, kept two sets of books, one secret and one for auditors from the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The Post said its findings in no way implicate Barry, 43, former national chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee.

Barry and Mrs. Treadwell lived together during three of the years in which alleged irregularities occurred. Barry was not directly involved in the P.I. Properties management and the couple was divorced in 1974.

Barry's office said this week:

'As a co-founder of Pride, the mayor is quite naturally concerned about the current serious allegations involving the organization. It is his understanding that the matter is under grand jury investigation and therefore he feels it inappropriate for him to further comment at this time.

Barry ordered an immediate review

While aides said no new contracts had been negotiated since Barry became mayor, the city has granted the organization some federal money from the Comprehensive Employment and Training

One source of the Post stories, former P.I. Properties bookkeeper Zellene Laney, told the FBI last week her life. had been threatened after it became known she was talking to reporters.

Post reporters Lewis M. Simons and Ron Shaffer say they examined hundreds of pages of records supporting Miss Laney's charges that $600,000 was diverted, misappropriated or stolen.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars were taken through false invoices, fake loans, padded payrolls, direct theft or diversion of funds to other Pride enterprises for services that were not perormed, the Post reported.

Mrs. Treadwell, who denies she took money to which she was not entitled, drives a $20,000 Jaguar sports car, formerly rented a $900-a-month Watergate apartment and sometimes gives gold jewelry to prominent local figures, the newspaper reported.

The Post said P.I. Properties made only four monthly mortgage payments on the property over three years, paid only part of its tax bill, ignored utility bills and cut maintenance and security.

"Nothing was ever correct that was sent to HUD," the newspaper quoted Miss Laney as saying. "They never got a true picture. I don't think they were really interested."

HUD's inspector general began investigating the matter in February, a HUD spokesman said. The results were turned over to the U.S. attorney's office and the investigation is continuing, he added.

sports car drivers, barreling down highway at full throttle, are really mannered everyday folk when not aind the wheels of their saucy vehi-

The notion was badly battered rently when several thousand MG ownangrily demonstrated in London inst plans to end production of the nous little automobile.

Weekend demonstrations are a tradin in Britain. Usually expatriate Asians Africans complain about developents in the homeland. But a mass rch on behalf of a sports car, even that enraptured motorists the world er, was as much a first as the MG en is appeared in an Oxford show om od Aug. 11, 1923.

Owners from Clark Gable to Prince ilip - worrying Buckingham Palace he careened around London with the ture Queen of England at his side -

In these fuel-hungry days, there may ver be again be so devoted a union of otor car and motorist even though the never was the easiest car to drive.

The marchers in the London demonation clumping awkwardly along like mounted cowboys, planned to drive a ple of thousand MGs to the offices of itish Leyland with 12,500 signatures a petition urging reconsideration of firm's decision to end production of car flext year.

Police made them park and walk final indignity - behind a dozen to-MGs of varying periods.

Instead of massed MG horns blaring iance there was only a brave but ak chorus of honks that sounded like taps. And despite homemade ers and chants of "Save the MG," knew British Leyland had bigforcies on its mind. The company is peralely in need of financing, and have to fire thousands of employ-

The MG, alas, can't help. Its epitaph ay be "It made people happy but idn't make money.

Unless there is a reprieve, the MG ory will end in September 1980.

It began soon after 1920 with a deigner named Cecil Kimber who worked for Morris Garages (hence the MG). His idea for a sporty runabout almost died at birth.

Kimber's boss, William Morris, later Lord Nuffield, was an automobile magnate more interested in sales than individuality and not happy about a handmade car that did not use parts interchangeable with his mass-produced vehi-

Against his opposition, the wonder is that the MG survived at all. But dedicated craftsmen at the little MG plant at Abingdon turned out a classic series of cars for the young and the young at heart including the first car of its class to break 100 miles an hour in 1931.

American servicemen in Europe after the war started the MG rage in the United States which became and remains its best overseas market. They shipped the car home in vast quantities. This, said F. Wilson McComb, historian of the MG, even though "it made not the slightest concession to the requirements of other countries, had no heater, no bumpers, could not be bought with lefthand drive, scarcely anyone knew how to service or even maintain it, and comparatively few really knew how to MG found it could sell 10 abroad for everyone sold domestically. McComb claims the MG "transformed American motor racing from a little known professional sport to an activity within everybody's reach, introduced the pleasures of sports car ownership to a land that had never known them before and blazed the trail for a multitude of imported cars.

Owners of the Stutz Bearcat will doubtless dispute some of that. A special automobile always has its problems, but the MG did not run into real trouble until the Ralph Nader-inspired Safety Act of 1966. To meet its demands the MG had to make concessions.

"You don't just design a motor car any more, you just throw up all the regulations and draw a line around them, complained designer Roy Brocklebank.

Worse came in 1968 when the MG was merged with Leyland.

British Leyland, as it became known, needed profits, not prestige. It decided to retire the famous octagon symbol of the MG and concentrate on the Triumph sports car, a car anyone could drive.

That year British Leyland stopped all MG exports except to the United States where the MGB model had achieved great popularity since its introduction in

The MG's demise was announced this September, ironically just after Golden Jubilee celebrations of the MG Car Company. "We lose 900 sterling ($1,980) on every MGB we sell in the United States," said a spokesman for Leyland. "It's uneconomical and we need the facilities at Abingdon. It's as simple as that.

Hightower Wants Truth About Bread

WASHINGTON (AP) - Rep. Jack Hightower, D-Tex., thinks that 40-cent loaf of bread you buy should tell you that it only contains about four cents worth of wheat.

He is introducing legislation that would require the bread wrapper to list the cost of farm products used.

The bill got nowhere when it was as-

Foreign Commerce Committee.

But Hightower introduced it again last week, and the bill was assigned to the Agriculture Committee, giving it a better chance to at least get a hearing.

A one-pound loaf cost an average of 41.2 cents in June and contained about 41/2 cents worth of wheat, he said.

and the rising strength of the pound hurts, too. If we were to charge an economic price, we would simply price the MG out of its market.

'Sales have been static. We sold 12,- compared to 12,817 last year. On the other hand we are selling Triumphs at the rate of 35,000 a year.'

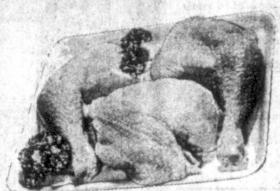

Those who consider the MGB a way of life are not giving up easily. The MG and other countries, offered to raise $1 million a year to keep production going.

Americans and Car Leyland but were told the decision to time, although the name would be preserved in the hope of a future renaiss-

"We're not going to take this lying down," said Martin Bentley, an executive of the 11,000 strong MG Car Own"They're kidding themselves if the think Jaguars and Triumphs can tak the place of the MG," he said.

Carter Gets Early Contributions

WASHINGTON (AP) - Cecil D. Andrus, secretary of the interior, didn't

He's already given a campaign contribution. And Jimmy Carter hasn't even gone through the formality of saying he'll run.

Press secretary Jody Powell; U.S. Marshal Earle McLauglin of Burlington, Vt.; James Earl Carter III, son of the president; Anne Wexler, an assistant to the president, and her husband, Joseph D. Duffey, chairman of the National Endowment for the Humanities, didn't wait either.

Each gave $250 to the Carter campaign.
In politics, early money is the best. It provides the wherewithall for a campaign to break quickly from the starting gate; it is the money that raises more money.

Of course, most of the $2.4 million raised so far by the Carter-Mondale Presidential Committee came from people outside government. And there is nothing in the law to prevent people who owe their jobs to Jimmy Carter from contributing to his campaign.

As yet, there's no accounting for how much money supporters of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy have raised or spent.

Draft Kennedy committees in the 50 states haven't all filed reports. Since they are draft committees and not a candidate's campaign committee, the law makes a distinction.

Draft committees may get up to $5,000 from an individual. Campaign committees may take no more than $1,000 per contributor before the primaries and another $1,000 in a general election campaign. Kennedy will be subject to the same limits when he becomes a candidate.

the same limits when he becomes a candidate.

Among reported contributors to some Draft Kennedy committees are Norman Lear, the television producer, $3,000; Mark Siegel, who once worked in

Warner Brothers, $4,000; and his wife, Joyce, $5,000; Carter Burden, former New York City councilman, $1,250; movie producer Margo Winkler, $5,000; former Massachusetts Gov. Endicott Peabody, $1,000; Charles G. Bluhdorn, chairman of Gulf & Western, $5,000; and former New York Post publisher Movie producer Joseph E. Levine hedged his bet by giving $1,500 to a Draft Kennedy committee and $1,000 to Carter.

Not all of Carter's supporters are big names. Contributions arrived from the executive director of the President's Commission on Personnel Inter-change; a member of the Joint Federal-State Land Use Commission in Anchorage, Alaska; the director of the Office of Foreign Disaster Assistance; and a member of the Federal Mine Safety and Health Review Commission.

The father and mother of Peace Corps Director Richard Celeste each gave Georgians W.B. Schwartz Jr. and Mrs. Anne C. Chambers, Carter's ambassadors to the Bahamas and Belgium respectively, sent in $1,000 each and so did their spouses. Milton Wolf, ambassador to Austria, gave $1,000. John C. West, ambassador to Saudi Arabia, gave $1,000 and his wife gave $500.

Among Carter's contributors from business are seven partners of Salomon Brothers, a Wall Street firm; three top executives of the Coca Cola Co.; Henry Ford II; Armand Hammer, president of Occidental Petroleum and his wife, Frances: Benjamin Swig, owner of San Francisco's Fairmont Hotel; and the chairmen or presidents of Delta Airlines; the Penn-Central Corp.; General Mills; Honeywell, Inc.; Merrill Lynch & Co.; Columbia Pictures; MCA Corp.; Caesar's World; and Orion Pictures.

Two ex-senators, Ralph Yarborough of Texas and Albert Gore of Tennes-see, sent checks. And so did the mother of Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz. Ivan Allen Jr., former mayor of Atlanta, and his wife gave $1,000 each.

Carter confidant Charles Kirbo gave $750 and his wife, $500. Frank Spinks, a Georgia public service commissioner, gave $1,000. Martin Luther King Jr.'s widow, Coretta, gave $500 and so did his father.

Former New Mexico Gov. Jerry Apodaca and his wife gave $250 each. Govs. Jay Rockefeller IV of West Virginia, Richard Riley of South Carolina and Hugh J. Gallen of New Hampshire chipped in. Riley and Gallen gave $250 each and Rockefeller gave $500.

Bush Calls Running Mate Report 'Pure Hogwash'

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) - Former CIA Director George Bush says reports that he was willing to drop his Republican presidential candidacy to become former president Gerald Ford's running mate are "pure hogwash.

At the opening of his New Hampshire headquarters Tuesday, Bush was asked about the unconfirmed reports that he had agreed to be Ford's running mate until Ford recently announced he would not make another run

"That's pure, ridiculous hogwash," Bush told about 50 supporters.

He said he was never approached for the job and wouldn't have accepted it if it had been offered.

But the former GOP national chairman said he would benefit the most by Ford's announcement that he would not be a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination. Bush cited a number of former Ford supporters who were backing his New Hampshire effort, including Rep. James Cleveland, R-N.H., Ford's 1976 state

Bush said there were a lot of undecided Republicans who were waiting for Ford to make a formal statement.

Final Rationing Plan Could Take Time

WASHINGTON (AP) - Despite predictions from congressmen that gasoline rationing could be needed at any time, an Energy Department analyst says it could take a couple of years to whip a workable plan into shape.

Under a compromise given final congressional approval Tuesday, the president can order rationing any time there is a shortage of 20 percent in gasoline or diesel fuel supplies in the United States.

The House and Senate will get a crack at rejecting whatever detailed ra-tioning plan the Carter administration concocts before the standby plan goes on the shelf' for possible future use.

Moreover, either house would have the option of blocking actual implementation of rationing at the time the president tried to put it into effect.

Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., a principal author of the compromise bill approved 301-112 by the House Tuesday, said conditions requiring gasoline rationing "could occur at any time." And Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash, chairman of the Senate Energy Committee, said the fragile U.S. oil supply line from the Middle East could be cut off at any time. "Without contingency planning, the country would be brought to its knees," Jackson said.

It is that contingent planning which Energy Department analyst Andy Fang says will take time. There is no standby plan at the moment because the Energy Department could not prepare one until Congress spelled out what it would insist on having in it. And Fang said it could be two years or more before a rationing plan is ready for practical operation.

"Gasoline rationing is not here tomorrow," he said in an interview

Fang, a program analyst in the Office of Regulations and Energy Planning, said it may take several weeks to draft a plan, which then would be opened up for public comment.

That process could mean it will be months before a final plan is sent to Congress for what could be a time-consuming review.

Fang said planners believe that, practically speaking, it would take 18 to 24 months from the time a plan gets the congressional go-ahead to have it ready

The time would be consumed, he cedural rules, drafting and printing forms and printing rationing coupons in addition to those already in storage.

Although theoretically starting from scratch, it seems unlikely the Energy Department would be inclined to depart too drastically from some strong suggestions made by the conference committee that came up with the final bill. They include: -Allowances for the past pattern of gasoline consumption by states, which could allot more fuel to states with large driving distances between cities, or those heavily dependent on tourism.

-Possible issuance of ration coupons per licensed driver rather than, for instance, per registered vehicle.

-Gasoline rations assigned according to the needs of the users.

Clutching copies of hospital and doctor bills, 400 elderly activists swarmed over Capitol Hill on Tuesday to complain for themselves and to put in a word for their children who are also bent over by explosive health care costs. Their stories included:

-Evelyn Donner Day of Mequon, Wis. who brandished a bill of $25,155,50 for 39 days in the hospital for heart sur-

-Dorothy Ryan of Youngstown, Ohio, who said the family of a friend who diedof a stroke was charged thousands of dollars for "hospital incidentals." She held aloft the total bill that came to $24,000.

-House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, who told the group about one of his employees, who complained of dizzy spells and went to a local hospital. Four hours later he was told he had high blood pressure, and presented a bill for $1,150.

-Rachael Doll of York, Pa., who said her husband's medical bills following a heart attack were covered by insurance, but added, "a lot of people don't have the insurance. What they want is congressional pas-

It won't be an easy fight though. Those wanting controls on hospital revenues are up against medical groups that have poured hundreds of thousands of dollars into the so-far successful drive to stave them off.

Both sides agree that hospital costs are rising. They part ways on how to stop them.

The Carter administration is touting its bill to set guidelines for increases in hospital expenses and impose mandatory revenue controls on hospitals that fail to keep within them. Under the proposal, federal controls could be triggered early next year. That bill, which is expected to go to the House floor in the next two weeks, would bar hospitals from buying excessive amounts of expensive equipment But the hospital industry argues that such restrictions would impair the quality of care it can give to patients.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House Ways and Means Committee is prepar-ing to take a second look at a bill that would restrict the use of tax-exempt bonds to finance single-family home mortgages.
The controversial legislation was sent

The bill would set nationwide income and housing price limits for homebuyers seeking the subsidized mortgages, which often are obtainable at interest rates 2 percent below conventional mortgages.

However, Ullman and the Carter administration oppose the reduced-rate mortgages, contending they sometimes go to homebuyers who earn up to $40,-000 a year and who are buying homes costing up to $150,000.

They also note that by 1984, the bond programs could cost the U.S. Treasury $12 billion a year in lost tax revenue.

The Ways and Means bill would prevent the bond programs from being used by wealthy Americans to buy expensive homes. It also would limit the total of subsidized mortgages to 5 percent of the conventional mortgages issued in a state.

However, Rep. W. Henson Moore, R. La., has proposed a substitute that would eliminate the murigage bond programs entirely and instead grant tax credits on savings accounts.

Moore's substitute would allow a tox credit of $100 for single persons and $200 for married couples on interest from savings accounts. A credit is deducted directly from the tax owed by a taxpay-

In response to the Federal Reserve's new strategy for clamping down on credit, interest rates have taken dramatic jumps, soaring past record highs that dated back to the era of the Civil War.

The plans of many would-be home buyers and sellers have been jolted by surging mortgage rates of 14 percent or more in some places.

Stock and bond prices have tumbled, depressing the paper values of securities owned by both speculative and conservative investors.

In such a volatile climate, timing becomes a cardinal investment virtue. The important thing, it seems, is not what you buy or sell, but when you buy or sell if. Skill in timing, however, requires a rare talent — the ability to foresee the future clearly when even the present is clouded by confusion. Not many of the professionals have this kind of ESP, as is clearly demonstrated by the present-situation.

With many top-quality bonds yielding upwards of 10 percent and tax-free municipals returning in the neighborhood of 7% percent, some analysts are proclaiming that a golden opportunity has arrived for long-term investors.

arrived for long-term investors.

Others are insisting that interest rates are likely to keep rising, and bond prices to keep falling, for several more months at least.

There is no perfect answer to this problem, of course. But there is a strategy for getting around it that some small investors have been using for years.

The approach, known as "dollar-cost averaging," is designed to make the short-and intermediate-term fluctuations of the various markets work in the investor's favor, rather than whipsawing him

It has its limitations and its potential pitfalls, but it has survived as an investment principle for a long time while many other, supposedly more sophisticated strategies have wound up on the scrap heap.

Dollar-cost averaging can be used with stocks, mutual funds or any investment for which there is a continuous market.

It involves investing identical amounts of money at regular intervals — say, monthly or quarterly — in a long-term investment program. Its "secret" lies in the fact that it enables the investor to buy more shares at lower prices than he does at higher prices.

Assume, for example, that you put $100 a month into a mutual fund for 10 months. During that time, the fund's asset value stood at $1 a share for the first month, 50 cents for the next four, $1.50 a share for the next four, and $1 again for the last month.

After 10 months, the fund stands exactly where it was when you started buying it. Its average price during the period, likewise, was $1.

But in the months when the cost was $1.50, your $100 bought only 66.67 shares each time. When the cost was 50 cents, on the other hand, your $100 brought 200 shares each time.

Your $1,000 invested over 10 months thus bought 1,266.67 shares, worth $1,-266.67, for a $266.67 profit on an investment that would have produced no profit at all on an initial lump-sum investment

Sounds like magic? Well, not quite. It won't help avoid a loss on an investment that goes down and stays down. And in cases of securities that climb stendily in price, it will produce less spectacular gains than properly timed one-shot investments can.

vestments can.

Many complicated strategies have been developed using dollar-cost averaging. Like the basic strategy itself, all require a long-term commitment from investors who use them.

To make them work, you must have money regularly available to keep them going, and be mentally prepared to keep feeding it in through unsettled periods like the present

Meaning Of Florida Straw Vote Assessed

By ARNOLD SAWISLAK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Florida Democratic convention next month will hold a mock election in which, according to those who are supposed to know, President Carter will win.

The vote will have no part in the selection of Florida's 1980 national convention delegates. The delegates will be chosen next March in a presidential primary; the significance of the straw vote at the St. Petersburg party convention Nov. 18 must be assessed on its own merits.

And just what does the Florida straw vote mean?

Because it was touted as the first head-to-head confrontation between Carter and Sen. Edward Kennedy, some said it was an important measure of rank and file sentiment for the president and his expected hallenger.

Because it is a "beauty contest" with no delegates at stake, others say the Florida ballot is not even as useful as a properly conducted public opinion sur-

As usual, the truth probably is somewhere in the middle.

In the first place, the vote at the convention certainly has less meaning than was the process of electing county delegates. The counties are sending 879 delegates, and the Kennedy and Carter camps battled in most of the 67 counties to get their people into the delegations.

The elected county delegates will be joined at the state convention by 839 others who will be appointed by state Democratic officials or get automatic delegate status by holding public or party office. Inasmuch as the state Democratic establishment in Florida is overwhelmingly loyal to Carter, the president seems sure to have the edge in the final balloting.

So the county voting was the real test, and the two camps spent about half a million dollars in the most basic kind of political organizing.

The Florida pro-Kennedy group, noting that the Carter campaign got a pretty good psychological lift when it defeated George Wallace in the state's 1975 straw vote, decided to turn the tables this year. It hoped to sweep the county caucuses and then declare to the lorld that Kennedy had whipped Carter in his own back yard.

But they made so much noise about it that the Carter people became alarmed and laid on their own campaign. Their intention was to beat or fight Kennedy to a standstill and raise their own hurrah about the president's political strength.

Even though the county results were

Even though the county results were mixed, both sides tried to claim big victories.

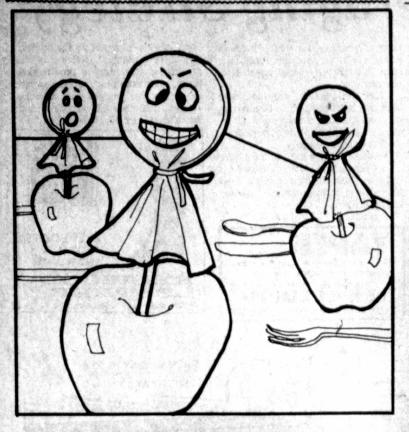

The Carter people said the president was the big winner because he came in late and demonstrated that the vaunted Kennedy appeal to Democrats was not all that unbeatable. And the Kennedy supporters said the senator had shown for all to see that the incumbent president was fatally vulnerable.

There is lot of nonsense in these claims from both sides. The battle for the Florida county delegates was a good test of campaign organizations, but everyone knew it was a dry run.

It didn't give either Kennedy or Carter the Democratic nomination.

Texaco Testing Gas Discovery

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Industry and government officials say it's too early to tell if Texaco and Tenneco have discovered the first commercial gas field off the coast of the eastern United Texaeo said this week that its leased semi-submersible rig Ocean Victory struck hatural gas about 105 miles east of Atlantic City. Technicans made the discovery during the first test near the bottom of the 15,699-foot hole.

The latest strike is only 1.5 miles south-southwest of a "significant" natural gas discovery reported by Texaco in August 1978. It is also only 1.1 miles northwest of a discovery by Tenneco of gas and oil in the same well in May and Texaco spokesman James F. Robertson refused to say whether Texaco and Tenneco geologists believe they have tapped the same gas reservoir.

Authors Warn Of Deadly Marriage Game

MONTCLAIR, N.J. (AP) - Nearly every married couple plays a game called 'Gotcha!", say Dorothy and Bob Greenwald, who have just written a book on how to stay happily married. It is played when one person is angry and, rather than talk about it, holds a secret grudge, waits for an opening - and pounces, the authors of "Learning to Live With the Love of Your Life" explain. "

As an example, they say, "Take Al and Jenny. Al is angry at Jenny because she went back to work and he finds it inconvenient not to have a housekeeper anymore. But is he going to tell her that? Never. He waits to play Gotcha!"

When Jenny tells friends that she is going to a spa to lose some weight, Al laughs. "It's just a waste of good money. Every year I send her down to the Fat Farm. She takes off 10 pounds - and then she eats it right back again."

Al is following Basic Rule No. 1 of Gotchal, the Greenwalds point out. It is: Lull your enemy with a false sense of security, then blast him - or her.

Jenny's reaction, they add, is: Two can play at this game, and so she follows Basic Rule No. 2: Never let a wound go unavenged. She waits until Al makes a mistake at the poker table that night.

"How could you call 'Low'?" she chides. Couldn't you see you were beaten on the table? And you're the one who's always telling everybody else how they should play. 'Gotcha! is a deadly game," the authors warn.

The Greenwalds have been married since 1963 and live in Montclair with their daughter, Liza, 13, and son, Mark, 9. "Gotcha can change the quality of a marriage environment from loving and caring to sniping and open warfare.

"It is a trap, but it can be avoided," they advise, "if we remember that the person we marry is a friend - and give him or her the same break we'd give any friend.

"Friendship," they add, "is one of the greatest rewards of marriage.

Study Views Growth Of U.S. Airlines

WASHINGTON (AP) - The nation's scheduled airlines - if they are to accommodate traffic growth with the most productive technology available - will have to invest $90 billion in new aircraft between 1979 and 1990, according to a study by the Air Transport Association.

The study says the industry's major capital-investment needs consist of $80 billion for passenger aircraft to be delivered in the 1980s, $7 billion for freighter aircraft and $3 billion for passenger aircraft to be delivered in 1979. gas supervisor for the U.S. Geological Survey, said it is too early to tell whether the firms have discovered the first commercial gas field off the eastern United States.

'There's a lot of economic analysis to be done," Goff said. "There will probably have to be a lot of additional holes drilled before they can determine whether they can set a platform out there and begin production.

But another Interior Department official, who asked not to be identified, said "we may be getting close" to the first commercial field.

With a little further testing, we might find that there's at least one commercial gas field in the mid-Atlantic," the official said.

Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corp., a major Northeast supplier, has said proven gas reserves of at least 2.5 trillion cubic feet would be needed to bring the gas ashore profitably.

There have been 16 dry holes reported in the Baltimore Canyon Troughgeological formation since exploratory drilling began 19 months ago. Seven oil companies have given up on the area, at least temporarily.

Texaco said the natural gas flowed at a rate of 5.5 million cubic feet a day, less than the 7.5 million cubic feet reported in the first Texaco well and also much less than the 12 million cubic feet reported in the Tenneco strike.

Texaco also said the well yielded hydrocarbon condensate, a natural oil-like byproduct of deep natural gas finds, at a rate of 18.2 barrels a day.

The three gas strikes were made more than 13,000 feet below the seabed. Texaco said it would test for gas and oil at higher levels in the hole.

Texaco said it would then move the Ocean Victory a few miles to the north in a further attempt to determine the size of the reservoir.

Texaco is the only firm still drilling off the mid-Atlantic. Murphy Oil Co. of Arkansas plans to begin its first exploratory well in mid-December about 30 miles southwest of the latest find.

The latest Texaco attempt, its third in the area, was a "confirmation well" to determine the extent of the gas reservoir. A second confirmation well about 1.5 west of the first strike was reported dry on March 12 "without encountering oil or gas in producible quantities," the company said. The Texaco well was actually drilled just within the boundary of the ninesquare-mile lease tract owned by the Tenneco group. The Texaco and the Tenneco groups split the estimated $19 million cost of the latest well.

Texaco holds 31.5 percent of its tract, which also includes Getty Oil Co., Sun Oil Co., Allied Chemical Corp., Transco Companies Inc. and Freeport Minerals Co. The Tenneco group also includes a subsidiary of R.J. Reynolds Industries

The U.S. Geological Survey recently estimated there may be about 4.1 trillion cubic feet of recoverable natural gas and 600 million barrels of recoverable oil off New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and Virginia. The latest estimates, which have been revised downward several times in recent years, would mean that the area could supply all of the nation's gas needs for only about two months and all its oil needs for only about 30 days. In January, a consortium of 11 oil companies led by Chevron discovered a 'significant" quantity of natural gas below 15,744 in a well about 30 miles southwest of the Texaco-Tenneco strikes. The well was being drilled to gather geological information for the participating companies and not to find gas or oil. The government, however, said the strike showed "a potentially good reservoir of sandstones and organic-rich source rocks."

As is practice with such wells, the hole was capped and abandoned without significant testing for reserves.

U.S. senators flew to Phnom Penh today in a bid to win approval of their plan to deliver food to the starving Cambodians by truck convoys from Thailand.

Sens. James Sasser, D-Tenn., John Danforth, R-Mo., and Max Baucus, D-Mont., and two State Department officers accompanying them were the first American officials to visit the Cambodian capital since the communist victory

Water Filter Problem Perplexes Technicians

MIDDLETOWN, Pa. (AP) - Technicians at the damaged Three Mile Island nuclear generating complex don't know why a system designed to filter radioactive water is not functioning properly, but they think the problem is caused by a bubble in a 200-foot-long pipe.

Nearly seven months ago, another bubble fouled emergency cooling procedures for the nuclear plant leading to what is believed to have been the worst accident ever at a commercial nuclear power plant in the U.S.

That famous bubble was made of hydrogen. Plant officials say the current one, if it in fact exists, is merely air and is troublesome but not particularly dan-

Robert Arnold, chief of recovery operations at the plant, said Tuesday that there are four or five possible reasons why a new $5 million water purification system, called Epicor II, won't work.

"The most likely two (posssibilities) are that there is some pluggage in the line or there is an air leak in the line disrupts the vacuum system," he

Arnold explained that if air gets into the two-inch pipe carrying water from a storage tank to the treatment system, pumps would just make the air bubble expand instead of pulling water through

He said other possibilities are that pumps are not working properly, that a valve in the new system is installed backwards, or that the 200-foot section of plumbing is too much for the pumps to handle

The filtering system was started and then shut down on Monday after decontaminating only 100 gallons of water, Arnold said.

The system was designed to treat 400,000 gallons of water at a rate of up to 15,000 gallons a day, passing it through organic resin filters to remove radioactive cesium and strontium.

The Epicor II system is now linked to 19,600-gallon main storage tank in the plant's auxiliary building. Technicians want to draw water from this tank because they can pump other water into it using the existing plumbing system. The decontamination of the 400,000 gallons of water is the first major step in planned $400 million, four-year effort to clean up the plant and its damaged

Another system to be constructed next year will treat 600,000 gallons of more severely contaminated water

The five council members who had resisted the most recent fluoridation order conceded defeat Tuesday after District Judge Harold Schultz fined each of them $250 per day until they adopt a fluoride ordinance. Two other council members who had voted to authorize fluoridation were not cited in the contempt proceeding.

"We are middle-class people on middle-class incomes and we can't afford to fight," said council member Mary Koep. But if we had the money we could. Money can buy justice. That's all there is to it.

Schultz said the council's defiance 'can only be characterized as a masquerade of their attempt to circumvent a valid state statute and numerous court

"If we lose our freedom of choice of what goes into our water we will lose a lot of our other freedoms, too," argued

Brainerd's fluoridation fight began in 1969, when the state Health Department issued regulations calling for the water treatment to aid in preventing tooth decay. In 1970, a state law requiring fluoridation took effect.

Brainerd went to court. But in 1974, judge ordered the city to enforce the law. The issue went to the Minnesota Supreme Court, U.S. District Court and. finally, the U.S. Supreme Court, which ruled against the city in 1976. The city sought to reopen the case on grounds it had evidence linking fluoride to cancer. That effort and attempts to win a state exemption from the fluoridation requirement failed, and the Minnesota Supreme Court appointed Schultz to preside over the fluoride battle.

The judge ordered the five council members to appear in court today to advise him what steps they had taken toward compliance. If the council refused to act by Thursday, Schultz said, he may order imprisonment of council members. He said any fines would be forgiven if the council acts by noon Thursday.

We talked about an appeal and we felt we'd lose on that and we talked about noncompliance but we don't have that kind of money," said council President Mary Michaelis. "He (Schultz) has his foot on our necks and we have nothing left to do.

City Water Superintendent Elmer Lalli said fluoridation equipment was purchased five years ago and operation could start in one to four months.

Congressmen Oppose Bill Aimed At Preservation

New Deal Schedules Halloween Carnival

NEW DEAL (Special) - The annual Halloween Carnival spon-sored by the New Deal Band Boosters will shudder into action,

Saturday on the school campus. Featured will be a headless horseman, monsters, a spook house, kiddie nooks for youngsters who want to be scared only a little and a wide range of concession stands featuring foods and beverages appropriate to the season.

Barbara Panter, band boosters. president, said the ghouls will prowl beginning at 7 p.m., with 10. p.m. the cutoff hour for ghosting.

WEATHER FORECAST - Showers are expected in the forecast period until Thursday morning, for the Pacific Coast and most Rocky Mountain states. Warm weather is forecast for the West but cooler weather is expected for the East. (AP Laserpho-

Clements Says Demos Behind SEDCO Suit

HOUSTON (AP) - The Justice Department, claiming SEDCO Inc. used an unseaworthy rig and cused the massive Gulf of Mexico oil spill, has filed a multi-million dollar claim against the company founded by Texas Gov. Bill Clem-

Clements, whose interest in SEDCO has been placed in a blind trust, said Tuesday in Austin that the claim was purely politically motivated.

The Dallas company is operated by Clements' son Gill.

The Republican governor said the federal government under President Carter's administration was "twirping the same song" as top Democrats inside Texas who have filed suits or called for SEDCO to offer compensation.

The Justice Department filed its claim in U.S. District Court in Houston, asking $6 million for cleanup costs and an undetermined but "substantial" amount for damages.

SEDCO owned the oil rig used to drill the Ixtoc I oil well in the Bay of Campeche when it blew out June 3.

The thousands of barrels of oil discharged daily mounted to become the world's largest oil spill, some of it arriving months later to soil Texas beaches and threaten ecologically sensitive wa-

"The artery happened to rupture dur-ing the altercation. There weren't enough injuries to blame this on the al-tercation," Bexar County Medical Examiner Dr. Ruben Santos said Tuesday. 'The aneurism (ballooning of the artery wall) could have ruptured while he was asleep or playing baseball."

Barnett, said Santos, suffered only 'minor' bruises on his cheek, behind an ear and on his hip.

These injuries are minor enough that if the boy hadn't had this defect in his artery, he would have walked away from this," said Santos.

The rupture could have been triggered by the attack, Santos said, adding There is no proof the altercation caused it.'

Police Lt. Walter Hall said the medical examiner's ruling means investigators would treat the case as an assault, not as a murder. Assistant District Attorney Charles Conaway said the investigation could result in involuntary manslaughter charges.

The alleged assailants, some of whom are juveniles, had not been arrested Tuesday afternoon.

Mart Gains In Quiet Session

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market gained in quiet trading to-

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose 3.24 points to 810.07, after falling 2.30 points Tuesday.

Gainers led losers by a 6-5 margin among issues listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Federal Reserve intervened in the money market Tuesday, calming frantic trading that saw short-term interest rates soar. The prospect of lower and steadier interest rates may have attracted investors to the stock market, analysts said.

IBM topped the active list, down 1/8 at 62%, with 241,600 shares changing hands. Also among the active issues were Texaco, up % at 29; Kaiser Steel, down 2 at 38; Bausch and Lomb, up 1/8 at 27%, and Howard Johnson, up 11/8 at 201/4. Exxon, which reported a steep rise in thirdquarter profits Monday, was down 1/s at 55%.

The NYSE's composite index rose 0.11 to 56.81. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index rose 0.86 to 196.62.

School Bars 70 White Students

BOSTON (AP) - About 70 white students were denied admission to Hyde Park High School today after police were tipped they planned to attack buses carrying black pupils, school officials

Bus routes were changed and there was no violence, authorities said.

Mary Ellen Smith, a school department spokeswoman, said the 70 students had gathered before school at nearby Ross Field and had been drinking. They were turned away at the school by the headmaster.

"He believed they represented a clear danger to the rest of the students," she said.

Boston schools have been disrupted by walkouts and racial violence for nearly three weeks. Police said their theory that adults are behind the continuing trouble had been bolstered by films that reveal the same older faces in different student crowds.

"There is no question there are adults there," said Michael Donovan, assistant to the police commissioner. "But it's difficult to determine whether or not adults have taken advantage of the situation or whether or not they're agitating."

An audience of detectives and police officials viewed approximately 15 minutes of television news films of last week's student walkouts and protests at several area high schools.

The investigators are trying to determine if the seemingly spontaneous and sometimes violent walkouts were organized by adults. A few adult faces were recognized by police in the films, Donovan said Tuesday. "Some of the same faces do keep cropping up."

Boston schools have been operating under a court-ordered busing plan since 1974, and for the first two years, walkouts and racial violence were commonplace. It eventually subsided, however, and until a recent series of racial incidents that started with the Sept. 18 stoning of a school bus, officials were hoping the calm would continue.

San Francisco Teachers Vote For New Pact

By The Associated Press

More than 1,000 Galena, Ill., students were home from school today as teachers walked picket lines, but 5,600 San Francisco teachers were going back to classrooms after a six-week strike.

The San Francisco teachers voted Tuesday to accept a two-year contract providing for rehiring of 715 laid-off teachers and for pay raises of 15.5 per-

"It was a long, hard fight and I'm glad it's over," said Robert F. Alioto, the city's superintendent of schools. Because the strike settlement was funded out of salary savings from the there were no pro

Classes had been postponed or delayed since Sept. 12, the day school was to begin for most of the city's 58,742 pupils. Members of the San Francisco Federation of Teachers had voted a day earlier to strike for higher wages and rehiring of 1,200 teachers laid off in Proposition 13-inspired cutbacks. Mayor Dianne Feinstein said the settlement was "well within the range the independent auditors who inspected the district's books said was realistic at the outset." Teachers now make from $10,-130 to $21,700 a year. It also gives paraprofessionals a 50 cents an hour raise this year, an 8 percent wage increase next year and a fivestep salary schedule, said Dr. Eugene Hopp, a school board member. Paraprofessionals now earn from $3.78 to $4.63 an hour, according to union figures. Teachers in Galena, Ill., struck Tuesday over wages, said teacher spokesman Dave Jansen. School officials said they had offered

7 percent raises and the teachers want 16 percent increases. However, teachers said the school board offer was for 41/2 percent raises and teachers, are seeking 14 percent raises. Contract talks broke off Monday night, and Superintendent Kenneth Schablowski said classes would not be held while the teachers were out. Meanwhile, 1,100 support personnel in the Detroit public schools are to vote Thursday on a proposed two-year contract that could end a 21/2-week strike by the district's bus drivers, food handlers and security guards. Teacher strikes continued Tuesday in the Armada and Vassar school district.

War Veterans Set Breakfast

The Hub of the Plains No. 1489 organization of World War I veterans will meet for a pancake breakfast Saturday from 8:30 to 11 a.m. in the Adult Center, 26th Street and Avenue P. Both the women's auxiliary and the men's barracks division will gather for the breakfast to discuss the 1979-80 membership drive.

Mary Forrest of the veterans group said recruitment is especially aimed at the auxiliary which has 84 members. She said that sisters, daughters and granddaughters of veterans now are eligible to join the group.

Members also will discuss plans for the World War I fall district meeting in Big Spring on Nov. 5. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Gill are district officers.

Supak, the extension agronomist, said.

Quiet cash market conditions and a decline in cash corn prices encouraged a drop in futures prices. Although rains have slowed the com and soybean har-vests, both record crops are believed to be in generally good condition.

Harvest-time pressures dominated the session as locals sold soybeans and corn steadily throughout the day, an analyst said. Light commercial and exporter buying in wheat had little effect. Heavy commission house selling in soybeans encouraged local selling.

Rains in winter wheat-growing areas seemed likely to ease the dry conditions that have slowed plantings and threatened germination in some regions.

Cotton Expert Warns Improper with harvest-aid chemicals," Supak said. Materials such as sodium chlorate (Shed-a-leaf) and organic phosphates (Def, Folex) are defoliants, the agronomist said. These chemicals are normally used to prepare cotton for picker harvesting; generally, the defoliants do not provide adequate defoliation and plant Dessicants, on the other hand, kill plant tissue and cause rapid loss of moisture from foliage, stems, and unopened (mature) bolls. Desiccated plants can usually be stripper harvested within five to 10 days after treatment.

drying for stripper harvest, he noted.

Proper application is essential for good results regardless of the chemical used, Supak said. Coverage is highly important. On cotton less than two feet tall, use three cone-type nozzles per row, he advised. Use five nozzles per row if cotton is taller than two feet.

Before application check the weather reports. If a cold front is moving in, hold off application until the weather settles or some prolonged warm period can follow application. Poor results usually occur if harvest-aid chemicals are applied during or just ahead of a cool, wet spell.

Normally, desiccated plants will be ready for stripping eight to 10 days after chemical application. Before starting the stripper, check the crop, Supak urged. Leaves and stems should break and crumble easily.

"Remember, high lint grades and seed quality come from cotton that is harvested when it is dry. Cotton should be harvested at approximately 8 percent Every producer is well aware of the high costs in producing a crop from start to finish, the agronomist said. "So when we get a crop to this point, let's don't cut our profits short by starting too early with an application of harvest-aid chemicals or apply these chemicals when they are not necessary.

Supak said a good rule of thumb is; If the crop is not ready for a freeze, it is not ready for harvest-aid chemicals. 'After all, Mother Nature's method of killing cotton is still the cheapest

VANDALISM - Plano High School officials view a larged burned area on the artificial turf of the school' football field. Vandals, attempting to burn RHS - the initials of rival Richardson High School - into the artificial surface, caused an estimated $50,000 damage when the fire got out of control. Richardson had defeated Plano 3-0 last Friday night. Police officials are investigating the incident. (AP Laserphoto)

DAD CAME UP FOR Dad's Day last weekend and I think he liked what he saw. The Red Raiders took an easy 30-7 victory over the Rice Owls, the sun shone brightly at Jones Stadium - and the game was over quickly enough. That gave him time to visit with his five Texas Tech offspring.

Yeah, the Tech Dad's Association gave him a plaque for having the most living Raiders enrolled at the same time - they should've given him a blank check. Still, he was mighty proud.

But he couldn't have been any prouder than the father of Ron Reeves. Not just because Rocket Ron had a good day quarterbacking the Raiders — he's had plenty of those — but because he played with a painful hip-pointer. "Give Ron Reeves credit," said Rice coach Ray Alborn after the game. "He was hurt and we knew it, but he sucked it up and went out there and did a good job for them when he had to."

BUT ATHLETES PLAY with pain all the time. Certainly Reeves must have suffered another kind of anguish - of the mental variety. Let's face it: The former Monterey standout hasn't enjoyed the kind of year he did as a freshman in '78.

He's been the subject of criticism on the Tech campus. In no uncertain terms, the armchair quarterbacks let their feelings be known: He's just too slow. I'd be lying if I didn't say I'd wondered (often out loud) what was wrong with him. But Saturday Reeves showed his style of a year ago, completing eight of 12 passes, two for touch-

And after the game, Ron was his same old self - soft-spoken and unassuming just as he was the week before after he'd completed only eight of 20 attempts as Tech lost a 20-6 decision to Arkansas. But he wasn't totally pleased with his performance against the Owls.

"I JUST DIDN'T feel like I was at full speed," he explained. "There were a couple of times when I felt like I was about to break one (long run), but at the last minute somebody would catch me."

But coach Rex Dockery said he thought the performance was Reeves' finest of See CHUCK McDONALD Page 2

HOUSTON (AP) - University of Houston coach Bill Yeoman has not altook his Cougar football team on the road.

He's been pelted with everything from salt shakers to Coke bottles from Los Angeles to Athens, Ga. and from Austin to East Lansing, Mich. Now comes the Fayetteville, Ark., treatment.

"They've called the hogs in Houston before so we know about that," said Yeoman, whose sixth-ranked Cougars play fourth-ranked Arkansas Saturday in a nationally televised game between the Southwest Conference's leaders. "As long as the hog-callers remain in the stands everything will be okay."

The Cougars will be subjected to a packed stadium filled with intensely loyal Razorback fans, more than likely dressed in red, wearing those distinctive red hats in the shape of a hog's head and "S0000000, screaming sooooieeeee." Houston's hopes of remaining unbeaten to its best start in history, may depend on Yeoman's casual approach to the hazards of playing on the road.

"Coaches often out-coach themselves because they worry about playing on the road," said Yeoman, who has had a losing road record only twice in the past 14 years. "I don't really say anything. I just don't worry about it

"If you are apprehensive, so is your team. If you are edgy, it will show up in your voice or in your actions."

Southwestern University Honors MHS Mentor

GEORGETOWN (Special) — Bobby Moegle, highly successful head base-ball coach at Monterey High School, was honored with a "citation of merit" by the Southwestern University Alumni Association during homecoming activities here Sunday.

Moegle was presented the award by R.F.B "Skip" Morse during a homecoming luncheon.

Moegle, a 1954 graduate of Southwestern University, was honored for "a-chievements in the field of athletics."

As an undergraduate at SU, Moegle lettered in both basketball and baseball. Following a brief career with the St. Louis Cardinal farm system, Moegle took over as the Monterey head coach.

During the past 20 years, Moegle's teams have won 18 district champion-ships, 14 bidistrict crowns, ten regional titles and two state championships. He has guided seven MHS teams to the state tournament.

During the 1978 season, Moegle became the winningest coach in Texas high school baseball history recording his 520th win. Moegle surpassed Houston Reagan's Le Roy Ashmore, who had 519 victories.

Arizona State Starts Probe Of Athletics

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) - The Arizona Stae University athletic department has begun investigating iself, following the dismissal of football coach Frank Kush and disclosures of loans to players.

"Things have been moving so quickly that we feel a complete investigation is necessary," athletic director Fred Miller said Tuesday. "If we have violations, let's get them in the open and go on from there."

Pat Kuehner, assistant athletic director named to head the probe, said, "I'll be looking into anything that comes to our knowledge."

That includes charges by players and assistant coaches that Kush pressured them to cover up an alleged assault on Kevin Rutledge,, a former punter. Rutledge has sued Kush and the school for $1.1 million, contending that he was punched and hounded off the team after botching a kick in an Oct. 28, 1978, loss at the University of Washington.

Kush has denied belting the player or attempting to cover it up, blaming his troubles instead on alleged interference by Rick Lynch, a dragstrip promoter who has admitted hiring Sun Devil players for cash and loaning them money.

Any irregularities will be forwarded to John Schwada, Arizona State University president, and the Pacific-10 Conference infractions committee, Miller said.

"This is assuming we find something, of course," he added.

In a related development, Rutledge filed another $1.1 million lawsuit against Kush and others. The complaint, in Maricopa County Superior Court, is almost word-for-word identical to the original one filed last month in U.S. District

Rutledge's attorney was not available for comment but a Phoenix newspaper, close to the case as saying the Superior Court action was taken because of defense claims that the federal court lacks jurisdiction to try the case.

A defense motion to dismiss the federal court suit on those grounds now is ending before U.S. District Judge William P. Copple.

PGA Okays Major Change In Golf Tour For

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (AP) - A pilot plan that could, eventually, lead to a drastic change in the pro golf tour was approved for the 1980 season at a meeting of the PGA Tour Policy Board Tuesday night.

The plan is the first step in what could lead to a split of the tour into two levels of competition, a major and minor

The board approved establishment of four qualifying tour events in the summer of 1980. Two of these tournaments will be held on the same dates as the Colonial National Invitation in Fort Worth, May 15-18, and the Memorial in Dublin, Ohio,

The exact dates of the other two tournaments have not been set, but PGA tour Commissioner Deane Bernan indicated they would be either immediately before or immediately for each of the four new Qualifying Tour tournaments, with the PGA tour "a major underwriter," Beman said. Winners of each of the four qualifying tournaments, and the first five money-winners from those tournaments will months, Beman said.

The establishment of the four Qualifying Tour events is in response to a study the board conducted on the feasibility of splitting the PGA tour into two levels of competition - a major tour of some 30-35 tournaments for the top 100 or so players, and the Qualifying Tour with a maximum of 30 tournaments for all other players.

Should the Qualifying Tour become a reality, provisions would be made for the leading players from that tour to move to the major circuit, with a certain number of players from the major tour dropping back to the Qualifying Tour on "The next step is to sell it," he said, "and there's a possibility it won't sell."

The board also directed Bernan to "proceed with all haste" in the establishment by next season of a brief PGA Seniors Tour for players 50 years of age or older. Approximately six tournaments will be scheduled, Bernan said, with the cornerstone to be a PGA Tour Seniors Championship.

Levelland Fullback Leads AAA Stars

By CHUCK McDONALD Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

After some rough and rocky traveling, the Levelland Lobos may just turn out to be the surprise team in District 1-AAA in 1979

Until last week, it just didn't look like the Lobos were capable of putting many points on the board. But all that changed last Friday night against the Dunbar Panthers.

And if last week's 42-6 drubbing of Dunbar is any indication, fullback Lupe Reyes will play a big part in the Lobos' sucess down the stretch run of the season. Levelland piled up 394 yards of total offense against the Panthers and 129 of that came from Reyes.

Reyes, a 5-10 senior, carried the ball 19 times for 129 yards and three Lobo touchdowns. And he didn't waste any time in making his presence felt. The first Reves score came from 14 yards out only 39 seconds into in the game.

Then, the speedy senior put the game out of reach by scoring on a pair of 2yard bursts in a five-minute span in the second period. Coupled with a heroic defensive stand which stopped the Panthers on a fourth-and-goal from the 1, the Lobos were on their way

Reyes' heroics came just at the right time for Levelland.

"In the last two games (against Caprock and Snyder) we'd had 54 points scored on us and we'd only scored six,' said Lobo coach Bert Gravitt after the contest. "We'd followed our game plan all year except tonight we just did it bet-

And the contribution from Reyes did plenty to help the Lobo game plan. For his work, the senior has been selected the Avalanche-Journal area AAA Player Of The Week.

But there were plenty of other heroes last week as district action for South Plains AAA teams got under way:

· Dunbar's Fabian Garcia was the Panthers' lone bright spot in their lossto Levelland, picking up 124 yards on only 16 carries and also scoring Dunbar's only touchdown.

· Estacado's Kelvin White showed flashes of last year's brilliance as he gained 121 yards on 21 totes and scored on a 22-yard TD run. White was on the verge of flirting with a 200-yard night but a 56-yard touchdown gallop was nullified by a holding penalty.

Worthey, a 170-pounder, picked up 133 yards rushing and scored both touchdowns in the Chaparrals' 41-14 loss to Panhandle (Okla.) State last Saturday. "Pat did a super job," remarked Sanders Tuesday. "Pat has a lot of Godgiven talent, and he's using it.

"But for another thing, against Panhandle he had some blocking, and that helped. He is just now getting into good physical condition, and he knows this.

'For as that matters, our entire team is just now get thing in shape (with just one more game on the 1979 schedule). Our guys know they're not in as good

"This was a factor, but now, they know how strong some of these teams can be

Sanders promised that his team would be stronger and better physically conditioned by next fall when it is eligible to compete for the league champion-

All except wide receiver Joe Green will be returning from this year's team. Another Chaparral, defensive lineman Darren Neal, is a senior scholastically, but he could return for another year of play, Sanders indicated.

Sanders, in talking about the loss to Panhandle, said the Chaparrals played the best half of the season to open the game when they rallied for the 14-13 half time advantage.

"But we were playing on emotion and enthusiasm, and after the half, we ran out of emotion and enthusiasm.

With a national television audience tuned in Thursday night, the San Diego Chargers' star can become the first NFL quarterback to pass for more than 300 yards in four straight games.

To do it, he'll have to beat the Oakland Raiders at their own game - the

'We always have a score to settle with them," said Fouts, referring to the Raiders' 20-5-2 dominance in the series since 1966. Last Sunday, Fouts' latest bombardment left the Los Angeles Rams a bit

sheepish in a 40-16 trouncing. In the process, he joined six others who broke the 300-yard passing barrier in three straight games. They were Denver's Frank Tripucka in 1960, Baltimore's John Unitas in 1963. Houston's George Blanda in 1964, Oakland's Cotton Davidson in 1964, Washington's Sonny Jurgenson in 1967 and San Diego's John Hadl in 1967.

'If it happens, I'll be happy, but a victory would be more satisfying," said Fouts, who has the 6-2 Chargers off to their best start in 11 years.

Back in the 1960s, during a five-year span, three Charger quarterbacks — Jack Kemp, Tobin Rote and Hadl — led the old American Football League in passing. Now, after 15 years, Fouts, the son of a former NFL broadcaster, is challenging.

He credits part of the success to his early exposure to high-powered passing

At Oregon, he benefitted from the offensive genius of Robinson, who is now guiding Southern Cal to another banner

"He was our offensive coordinator and he has one of the best offensive minds I've seen," said Fouts. "He taught me so much about the passing game and how to read defenses.

"At that time, we did a lot of sophisticated things that many colleges didn't do," he added. Which explains why he established 19 offensive records for the

After going to San Diego as the Chargers' third round draft choice in 1973, Fouts' climb began under Walsh in 1976, whose offensive wizardry put the Cincinnati Bengals in the playoffs three times during the 1970s.

When Walsh moved to Stanford, Perkins - now head coach of the New York Giants - took over the Chargers' pet project. Fouts responded with a career-high completion rate of 63.3 percent, one of the best in the league.

Last year, Fouts finished third in the NFL's quarterback ratings, leading the league in passing yards with 3,375 yards. Currently, under Gibbs' new offensive system and Coryell's "Mad Bomber" philosophy, he is completing 64 per-cent of his passes, well ahead of the club record of .594 set in 1963 by Tobin Rote.

Since reaching peak form, Fouts has marshaled the Chargers to a 13-2 record

At the halfway mark of the season. he has 1,940 passing yards, which, if equaled in the second half, would easily eclipse Hadl's club record of 3,473 set in

His string of 300-yard games began, ironically, in a 7-0 loss to Denver, triggering heavy criticism of Fouts. He silenced his critics with a 305-yard performance against Seattle, setting club records for most completions (28) and highest single game efficiency by completing 80 percent of his passes. In the last four games, he pleted 98 of 146 passes for 1,200 yards and seven touchdowns.

With a strong second half, he could break Joe Namath's record for six 300yard games in a season, set in 1967.

Frey Selected KC Manager

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) - Jim Frey, a 16-year veteran of the Baltimore Oriole organization, was named manager of the Kansas City Royals today.

The Royals announced the hiring of the 48-year-old Frey at a news conference at Royals Stadium. Frey replaces Whitey Herzog, whose contract was not renewed after 41/2 seasons at the helm of the American League club.

A native of Cleveland, Ohio, Frey has been hitting instructor for the Orioles since 1970, working with such Oriole batting stars as Frank Robinson, Brooks son, Ken Singleton, Lee May and Gary Roenicke.

In 1975 he took on the added duties of first base coach for Manager Earl Weaver's club, one of the most successful franchises in the American League the past decade

"Jim has worked closely with Earl all these years and I would expect he has a lot of the same ideas," John Blake, a spokesman for the Orioles said Tuesday.

Frey joined Baltimore in 1963 after a 14-year minor league career as an outfielder. He managed the Orioles' rookie team in Bluefield, W. Va., for two years and worked as a Baltimore scout until

Although he compiled a lifetime bat-ting average of .302 as an outfielder, Frey never made it to the big leagues, instead knocking around with 12 different minor league clubs. Twice, with Tulsa of the Texas League in 1957 and Rochester of the International League in 1960, he won batting titles.

Reds' Morgan Looks Toward West Coast

CINCINNATI (AP) - Joe Morgan, coming off his two worst years in the major leagues entered the free-agent draft because he wants to finish his career on the West Coast.

The Cincinnati Reds, with whom the year-old second baseman won two Most Valuable Player Awards, already have the players to replace him.

"I'm not going to throw any brickbats at Joe Morgan," said Reds president Dick Wagner at the major league general managers meeting in Scottsdale,

"He has had some years here that defied gravity," including being the only player ever to hit 200 home runs and steal 600 bases in a career.

"There is an old adage in baseball that sometimes you can help yourself by subtraction," said Wagner.

Morgan was unavailable at his home in Oakland, Calif., but his agent, Tom Reich, said Morgan's decision was primarily for his family

"Joe feels at this stage of his career, after going through a couple of tough years, he'd like to finish up on the West Coast. One, he wants to be closer to home. Two, he feels a change of scenery might help," said Reich, also at Scotts-

'Money is not the principal issue. If you know anything about Joe Morgan, you know the overriding factor with him is his pride. He wants to go out like Lou Brock. He wants to go out on a high

Reich confirmed that Morgan had considered retirement but feels he can play a few more years if his legs hold

Wagner declined to say whether the Reds would enter the bidding to sign Morgan. He has several candidates for

"You have to give Junior Kennedy the first nod. He's in a position much the same as Ray Knight a year ago," Wagner said. He said Kennedy has worked very hard "and hasn't said much. Second base is his best position.

"We also have Ron Oester, who has been working at second under Woody Woodward in the Instructional League camp in Tampa, Fla. We've made arrangements for him to play second base in Venezuela after the first of the month

Straw Poll Fad Gains In U.S.

By WALTER R. MEARS WASHINGTON (AP) - By the time the exhibition contests end and the championship season begins, the candi-dates for president in 1980 may be bur-

The just-for-show straw poll is be-coming a fad in presidential campaign-ing. Florida's pre-season competition be-tween President Carter and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy turned out to be a good gimmick for grabbing attention, and may have produced some fringe benefits as well. The California Democratic Party may have a straw poll of its own Jan. 20. The straw pollsters have been out in Iowa, measuring Republican Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., says Florida and other states that stage early contests in the campaign for the Democratic nomination are getting special at-tention from the White House on federal projects and spending.

Administration officials have denied repeatedly that the campaign battleground states are getting more than their share of attention in the distribution of federal dollars and appointments.

But Proxmire said this week that the Democratic caucuses in Florida prompt-ed "a gush of federal spending" there, and carried a message to all the other

"If you're smart, you'll set up a series of early caucuses and straw polls and the earliest possible primary. That way you can steal all kinds of federal goodies from the rest of the country.

Proxmire's Wisconsin is not into the straw poll business, but will hold its presidential primary election April 1. A

Mobs Threaten To Lynch Men

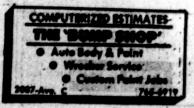

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (UPI) -A judge has ordered a small army of police to restrain angry mobs threatening to lynch two men charged with the ritual voodoo slaying of a 2-year-old boy.

Waldir de Souza Lima and Maria da
Conceicao Pontes, employees of Moacir
Valente, a wealthy farm owner, are accused of helping Valente and Renato Ferreira, another employee, sacrifice the boy so they could offer his blood to spirits to ensure the success of a new cement business.

The suspects have told police as many as five other child victims of black magic rites may be buried at Valente's farm in Cantagalo city.

Last week, a mob of 2,000 people invaded the jail in Cantaglo where Valente and Ferreira were held and lynched the

To prevent another lynching, Judge Custodio Augusto de Rezende asked this week that 300 policemen armed with automatic weapons and tear gas be mobilized to protect the two suspects.

Wisconsin one of the key early tests of presidential campaign strength.

Not any more. At least eight states will have registered their primary verdicts before Wisconsin gets to vote. And that doesn't even count the caucuses, real and straw, that will have been held by April Fool's Day.

Ironically, as the Democratic Party has tried to compress its presidential primary schedule into a 13-week season, the process has been prolonged by other sorts of skirmishes.

The Democrats adopted rules intended to abbreviate the campaign for presidential nomination, by having all the delegates chosen between the second Tuesday in March and the second Tuesday in June. But the reformers left loopholes for early season contests in 1980.

So the first installment of the delegate selection process comes in Iowa on and the first primary in New Hampshire on Feb. 26. In the 1984 campaign, the Democrats may actually forbid the selection of nominating delegates before the second Tuesday in March. But the party can't do anything about pre-season competition that doesn't involve the selection of delegates. So states that want to weigh in early could go ahead with primaries or conventions on the Florida model, with delegates to be picked later. Incidentally, President Carter was one of the advocates of the party rule that was supposed to compress the campaign period. That was before his remination came under challenge. Carter did as much as anyone to lengthen the whole process with his successful, marathon campaign for the 1976 nomination. He began his climb out of the Democratic field by leading a straw vote at an Iowa fundraising dinner in

He has not forgotten what a straw vote can do, so the Carter campaign put on a big push in Florida, and wound up outdistancing Kennedy in what the president called a significant test.

Significance is in the eye of the beholder. If the eye is that of a candidate who expects to win, he sees the contest whatever it may be - as an important one.

Since candidates and their managers always are looking for a place to prove themselves, and since most everyone likes a contest with a winner and a loser, there are likely to be more trial heats in the weeks ahead - and a lot more in

They are not without risk. If the straw votes keep coming earlier and earlier, a confusing process could become downright baffling by the presidential campaign of 1988 or 1992. Unless there is a truce, the straw votes of one presidential campaign may get confused with the real votes of the one before it.

Misunderstanding of OSHA rules and general ignorance of how exposure to noise really affects people results prompts firms to try to cut the noise level all over the plant "just to be sure," said A. Stuart Heggie, president of Donley, Miller & Nowikas, Inc., acoustical consultants, of East Hanover, N.J.

"Such an approach can be devilishly expensive and might not work too well, either," Heggie said.

Because so little is known about the effects of industrial noise on hearing, he said, "the really zealous company continues to put good money after bad, while the more cautious company tends to delay taking any action.'

The latter companies open themselves to the possibility of liability losses while the unknowing worker, exposed to dangerous noise levels, continues to lose his hearing.

Heggie said planned noise reduction can eliminate potentially dangerous noise exposure and need not be expensive to be effective. "More often than not the easy way out is more expensive than the proper way," he said.

The first thing to understand, he said, is that OSHA rules deal with exposure to noise rather than the volume of noise generated at any given time. According to the OSHA act, maximum safe exposure to a sound level of 115 dBA is a quarter hour a day, while eight hours is the maximum for exposure to 90 dBA.

Thus it would seem trying to cut noise in the whole plant to 85 to 90 dBA would be the most expedient approach, Heggie said.

However, he said, it is an approach that undoubtedly wastes money for

StudyBegun On Female Work Force

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) - Rosie the Riveter, the World War II factory worker, was sometimes characterized as America's sweetheart with a blowtorch in one hand and a powder-puff in the

She reluctantly left home to do her duty in weapons factories then happily returned to the kitchen when the real breadwinners returned from the war.

Looking back at Rosie, the personification of thousands of working women during the war years, it appears that much of what was said about the 1940s female work force was propaganda and wishful thinking, says a California college teacher.

That's "the distortion of Rosie," says Sherna Gluck, an instructor at Cal State Long Beach. Her study, "Rosie the Riveter Revisited," is an oral-history project for the Oral Resource Center at the college. Miss Gluck's project will emphasize the Los Angeles area because of the higher percentage of women work-

Currently in its initial stages, Miss Gluck's research indicates that most of the war workers wanted to continue in their jobs, and that the women took pride in being able to operate heavy equipment and machinery.

Women have been calling me saying, 'That was the highlight of my life," Miss Gluck said

Some of the industrial firms that employed women provided child care, banking and even shopping services to help keep the women on the job

Supported with a Rockefeller Foundation grant and promise of matching funds from the National Endowment for the Humanities, Miss Gluck is embarking on what she believes is the first major research into the social and economic implications of the female work force of World War II.

Various labor reports have different figures for the number of women working, but Miss Gluck said there was a national pre-war total of more than 13.8 million women working. The number peaked in 1944 with over 18.4 million then fell to 16.9 million by 1946.

The fiction of Rosie was that they were all housewives who would be glad to go back home." Miss Gluck said. Factories tried to recruit women on the basis of patriotism, but they were working for economic reasons.

More than half, she said, had been domestics, waitresses and hairdressers. They were black and Hispanic, and they had been working for low pay all their lives, she said. We're wondering what happened to all that energy. Their lives changed, they started to have different expectations about themselves, and then - what happened when they had to go back into the lower-paying jobs?" Miss Gluck asked.

cally feasible, it is wrong to assume such reduction would solve the problem.

Imagine trying to talk over a vacuum cleaner that emits a noise level of 85 dBA, continually over an eight-hour period," he said

Each company's noise problems are a lttle different and must be attacked individually, Heggie said. "The most important thing may be to monitor workers' movements throughout the day to determine just how much high noise they are exposed to and where."

Once the areas of dangerous levels are pinpointed, noise reduction must be attacked in varying ways, Heggie said. Erecting sound absorbing barriers over machinery or around it is quite effective. machinery or around it is quite effective, but may interefere with assembly or other manufacturing operations. Re-trofitting machinery to make it generate

But it's a fallacy, Heggie said, to direct the purchasing agent to buy only equipment with a low noise level. "That can run the equipment bill up by mil-lions of dollars."

In the 10 years since the first OSHA guidelines on noise pollution were put in effect, Heggie said, the major part of his firm's business has shifted from archi-

Just like Carson-watching, I offered. In China, at least, you didn't have to deal with Beverly Hills entertainment lawyers, whose secretaries never run out of lines such as, "Sorry, Mr. Tort is oiling his skates." Yes, a tricky business, Carson-watching. And in recent weeks, imprudent Carson dot-connectors might have been misled by some burn dots.

You may remember that a month ago, Carson and NBC submitted their little misunderstanding to a referee, re-tired Judge Parks Stillwell of the Los Angeles Superior Court.

In a legal procedure called a "general reference," Carson and NBC asked Judge Stillwell to decide whether Carson's contract with NBC has already expired, as Carson claims, or if Carson is bound to NBC until the spring of 1981, as the network claims.

This action was seen by Carsonwatchers as a bad sign. If Carson's going to court, it was reasoned, he must be serious about leaving NBC.

tired of doing the same old late-night thing, and here was NBC giving him a chance to prove his worth in prime time. His little assurance at the end of the show might have meant something, a gesture, perhaps.

Then network President Fred Silverman, pleased with the success of Carson's special, was quoted as saying: I'm looking forward to our working things out with Johnny, and to his remaining a member of the NBC family for a long, long time."

Yes, rapprochement was definitely the picture that was emerging. And then last week, there was word of a development that seemed to confirm the normalization of relations between Carson

Just Shake it and Let it Fall Into Place. The Precision Haircut.

Because your head is unique, the way your hair grows is equally unique. Really quite different from every one else's.

Precision haircutting is a technique for cutting the hair in harmony with the way it grows. Your hair eventually grows out but it doesn't lose its shape with a precision haircut. Consequently your haircut will look as good after five days as it does after five minutes. And because the hair falls naturally into place you won't have to keep fussing with it. Usually a shake of the head does it.

At Command Performance we shampoo, precision-cut and blow dry your hair for fourteen dollars, whether you're a gal or a guy. And no appointments are ever necessary.

We also offer permanent waves, coloring, frosting and conditioning. But we really shine with precision. And so will you.

Both were principal dancers with the Bolshoi, but their names were listed in smaller type than some of the principal dancers in the Bolshoi Ballet's 1979 tour

Their first duet was the adagio from "These Fascinating Sounds," first done at the Bolshoi Theater in May 1978. This very modern piece made technique hard to judge. The pace was slow, with much twining of Miss Kozlova around Kozlov. Sometimes he would kneel and lift her over his shoulder, in an effortless-looking lift, typically Russian.

They danced the familiar "La Bayadere Variations" duet with music by Minkus and choreography by Petpa, first seen in St. Petersburg in 1877. The very small stage - narrow and shallow was daunting. Instead of Kozlov being able to do his leaps in a big circle, two leaps or sometimes even one would take him all the way across the stage. He'd turn around and leap back in the opposite direction. He carried that off like a trouper and looked impressive.

Miss Kozlova had trouble with the ece; she seemed to be fighting it. Though program notes say she danced the lead in "La Bayadere" with the Bolshoi, she executed it here as though new to it. Sometimes her leg movements were fuzzy, as if she couldn't keep up with the music and started toward one leg position but went on to the next before getting all the way to the previous.

The couple did an encore, the grand pas de deux from "Don Quixote." Here, Miss Kozlova seemed more confident. Some of her solo variations were marvelous. In others, sometimes her timing was slightly off and her balance not always what it should be. Miss Kozlova looked like a ballerina who needs to do a lot of hard work on the weaker points of her technique.

Kozlov, who has an ideal thin build, doesn't look strong but he lifted his wife easily and he partnered her well. When she would spin as he held her hand, they would hold for an additional moment. When she balanced on her own after that, she always balanced beautifully.

Kozlov looked splendid in his jumps and double beats in air. His jumps for distance weren't exceptionally high, but the small stage may have had something to do with it.

By JAY SHARBUTT NEW YORK (AP) - The Village ate is a fine joint. There, you can drink until your knees buckle, or go upstairs to see the young cast of "Scrambled Feet" theerfully kid the theater and inmates

Now, you can go downstairs for old-time black vaudeville and two-beat New Orleans jazz in "One Mo' Time." It owed this week at this club down in Freenwich Village, the noted beatnik rerement community.

Created and directed by Vernel Bageris, "One Mo' Time" relives the black part of vaudeville history, backstage and up front, via a four-member troupe playing amone-nighter in New Orleans in

It opens with the white theater owner (John Stell), a man of funny bombast and flim-flam, noisily telling the patrons to refrain from smoking, drinking and leaving footprints on the seat up front.

It closes with a rousing, foot-stomping version of "A Hot Time in the Old Town that so moved the patrons at the preview I saw they demanded and got Between the forward and finale lurks an exuberant, if flawed, show, laced with intramural insult humor, first-rate singing and 21 tunes of antiquity, from 'Kitchen Man' to "Tiger Rag.

The show is brisk, but it suffers from rampant to-and-fromitis. The players forever are popping to center stage from their on-stage dressing room for a skit or song, then reversing the process.

It gives the show sort of a cuckooclock motion, which is a pity since it distracts from the skilled dancing, particularly that of Bagneris, and the fine renditions of all the yesteryear classics.

The troupers and the old-time atmosphere are nicely aided by a five-piece band whose members wear tuxedos and wing collars. The band's greatest asset is famed New Orleans trumpeter Jabbo Smith.

At #71, he looks like somebody's grandfather and plays like nobody's business. Vocally, he comes close to stealing the show when he does one of his own tunes, "Love," in a soft, husky voice that sounds like Louis Armstrong with the volume turned way down.

But equally good singing is heard elsewhere, solo and ensemble, from the troupe's leader, Big Bertha (Sylvia Williams) the troupe manager (Bagneris), Ma Reed (Thais Clark) and Thelma (Topsy Chapman).

Their pipes are in top shape, particularly those of Miss Clark when she goes to work on the slow, bluesy, moving introduction to an up-tempo oldie called "Black Bottom." It's mighty good.

HY GARDNER HAS THE ANSWER:

Glad You Asked That!

Dean's "Blind Ambition" was aired, many cuss words had to be edited out? — G. Hogan, Milwaukee.

A: Not many, but some deletions were made in the dubbing of Nixon's tapes in the Oval Office scene. As Gene Mater (director of CBS Network Program Practices), explained: "Some cuss words were left in . . . but the words 'Christ' and 'God' were deleted three times . . . Mater further reminded an AP reporter that deleting words or phrases uttered on TV or in movies is frequently done so as not to offend viewers.
