

U.S. Training Of Khomeini Forces Draws Fire

By KIM COBB

Despite President Carter's decision to stop the shipment of spare military parts to Iran, Iranians continue to receive military training in Lubbock — but Texas lawmakers support a halt to that practice as well.

Approximately 275 Iranians, including three at Lubbock's Reese Air Force Base, are receiving training in the U.S. Navy and Air Force. Those receiving training at Reese arrived only last month and are being funded by the revolutionary government of the Ayatollah Khomeini.

U.S. Rep. Kent Hance seemed surprised at their continued presence here, in light of the current strained relations between the U.S. and Iran due to a student takeover of the American Embassy in Tehran.

Hance said he had assumed military trainees finished or quit their training in the U.S. when the deposed Shah of Iran's government collapsed in January. He said he would contact the U.S. Department of Defense for details and justification for their continued presence here.

"It certainly doesn't make good sense to train those individuals to fly our fighter planes, then allow them to go home and oppose us on all fronts," Hance told the Avalanche-Journal.

He speculated there may have been some diplomatic justification for their training here before the student takeover of the embassy, in terms of maintaining relations between the U.S. and Iran. But Hance added that the holding of American hostages in Tehran has overridden the initial attempts at maintaining relations with the Middle East country.

U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, who favors severing relationships with Iran, said today, "I can certainly see no reason to continue providing training to members of the Iranian armed forces. We should put a swift stop to that."

The other senator from Texas, John Tower, said halting the training of military personnel would be a logical extension of the ban on shipment of military spare parts to Iran. He indicated he would support a move to stop that training.

President Carter last Thursday stopped a load of military spare parts destined for Iran before the shipment was flown out of McGuire Air Force Base in New Jersey. He called for the halt of any other similar shipments earmarked for the politically turbulent country.

Spokesmen for the Defense Department told The Avalanche-Journal that it appears the students enrolled in military instructional programs here will continue with their training. One spokesman said Carter is reviewing all relations with Iran, but that he knew of no decision to terminate the training.

A Reese AFB spokesman said the Iranian student pilots are following a

DA Seeks New Data System

By BOB CAMPBELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The Criminal District Attorney's office today asked members of Lubbock County Commissioner Court for a special data processing system to handle its burgeoning paperwork.

Hal Hensley, office administrator for Criminal District Attorney John P. Montford, said the $70,000 system is needed because of a "glut of paper" in the office and because of the difficulty of pinpointing problem areas in office workings under the current manual system.

Hensley said the system he wants — manufactured by Justice Information Management of Austin — would cost $69,900 for outright purchase and about $95,000 on a five-year lease-purchase arrangement.

He said there would be no additional costs because maintenance and software would be part of the package.

County auditor Dale Gallimore and Hensley agreed to do further analysis of the system and various options regarding its cost and meet again with the commissioners at a later date.

The commissioners adjourned at noon, and additional business to be dealt with today includes the appointment of members to the new county tax assessment board.

Board members will serve under a new state-mandated system requiring county-wide property reappraisal. They will take office Jan. 1 to begin the first stages of the transition.

Iranian Students Told To Report

By The Associated Press
Attorney General Benjamin R. Civiletti today formally ordered all Iranian students in the United States to report to immigration authorities within 30 days or face possible deportation.

On instructions from President Carter, Civiletti issued an order requiring Iranian students to show that they are enrolled as full-time students in the United States, as required by their visas.

Carter ordered the Justice Department to begin deportation proceedings against any students who are violating the terms of their visas.

(Other Iranian Stories
On Page 5, Sec. A)

There are approximately 50,000 Iranian students in the country.

Some administration officials said it may be difficult to actually deport any Iranians promptly and that the new policy is intended in part to placate U.S. citizens.

But U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service officials in Washington said they will make the prompt deportation of Iranian students who are not meeting terms of their visas their "No. 1 priority."

"There seems to be a misconception that it's going to take six months or a year," INS spokesman Vern Jarvis said. "I don't think there's going to be any lengthy delay, just because some former Nazis and members of the Mafia have been able to avoid it for years."

Federal authorities in Chicago have taken three persons believed to be Iranians into custody, awaiting exclusion or deportation hearings, officials of the INS said today.

Two of those held arrived aboard a flight that landed in Chicago Monday night.

In his order today, Civiletti said failure to report or providing false information would subject Iranian students to deportation proceedings.

Student visas require foreigners to attend school full-time and take a full course load. Students are forbidden to hold jobs.

Civiletti's order requires the students to report to the nearest office of the Immigration and Naturalization Service or to an INS representative on their college campus before Dec. 14. They are required to produce passports and forms that record their arrival in the United States.

In addition, they must show evidence from the school that they are enrolled and that they have paid tuition or have been granted a waiver of payment of the school fees.

The Justice Department order also informs the Iranian students that they must obey all laws and that they can be deported for committing crimes of violence or crimes that carry more than a one-year prison term.

Then-Attorney General Griffin B. Bell earlier this year ordered a review of the immigration files of Iranian students following violent demonstrations against the shah, who was then still in power in Iran.

That decision resulted in deportation proceedings against some 4,400 Iranian students, but those cases were suspended by the Justice Department after the shah was deposed for fear that deportation could threaten the safety of Iranian students who might be forced to return to their homeland.

Meanwhile, Iranian leaders today of

Plane Yields No Narcotics

By JACK DOUGLAS
Avalanche-Journal Staff

There was no evidence this morning that a plane which crashed in New Mexico, killing a Lubbock man, was carrying drugs, according to an agent heading the state's investigation of the mishap.

"There are no narcotics in that plane," said John Sena of the New Mexico State Police, "just suitcases and clothing, so far."

Sena added, however, that state and federal investigation will continue today into the crash which killed the pilot, David Alan Jones, 33, of 5427 Ave. B in Lubbock, and the lone passenger, Michael O. Keefe, 31, of Bremerton, Wash.

Authorities believe the Cessna 310 crashed Oct. 30 about 20 miles southwest of Tucuman, N.M., during a heavy snowstorm. Using information from a radar trace, Civil Air Patrol searchers located the scattered debris of the twin-engine plane about 10 a.m. Monday (CST).

Initial search efforts for the plane, which departed Bremerton Oct. 29, had been hampered by the pilot's failure to file a flight plan. The plane had stopped in Grand Junction, Colo., for refueling and repair work.

Dick Baker, chief of the Denver field office for the National Transportation Safety Board, said it is not uncommon for a pilot not to file a flight plan. "It's not mandatory," he said.

Sena said the aircraft apparently crashed during a blinding snowstorm when visibility was almost zero. He said the plane apparently was flying too low, struck a treetop and slammed into a clump of trees, then skidded about 50 yards up the side of a hill.

The wings were sheared from the fuselage and "everything on the plane just scattered in a multitude of directions," Sena said.

The victims' bodies were airlifted from the crash site about 6 p.m. (CST) Monday and taken to Albuquerque.

Man Aided By Alert A-J Carrier

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

For 14-year-old Blake Smith, being an Avalanche-Journal carrier involves more than just delivering newspapers.

It means taking an interest in customers on his route.

Early Monday morning Blake demonstrated that concern and may have saved an 89-year-old subscriber from serious harm.

Blake's father, Jere, said the carrier went out on his morning route about 5:30 Monday. When he returned, Smith said Blake expressed concern about William L. Renfro, who lives alone at 3506 41st St.

The Hutchinson Junior High School ninth grader told his father Renfro's door was open and something was holding it ajar.

Smith decided to check on Renfro. He found both the front door and the storm door open. Renfro's bathrobe was lying the doorway, half in and half out, Smith said.

After there was no response to his calls for Renfro, Smith said he decided to go home and contact police.

However, as he was driving away, Smith said he noticed the elderly man's walker beside the house.

Leaving his car running in the street, Smith ran over to find Renfro lying between his house and a neighboring house.

"When I got closer I could hear moaning," Smith said, but added Renfro was able to talk to him.

With the assistance of some of Renfro's neighbors, Smith said he got the six-foot tall man inside his house and attempted to make him comfortable.

High Court To Act On Petition Rights

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today agreed to review a ruling that California shopping centers cannot prohibit petitioning on their premises.

The justices said they will study a California Supreme Court decision that the state constitution's free-speech provision guarantees such access to even privately owned shopping centers.

At issue in an appeal by the owner of a San Jose shopping center is whether a state constitution's free-speech protections can supersede property rights guaranteed by the U.S. Constitution.

In other action today, the high court: —Dismissed an Oregon man's challenge to the 55 mph speed limit.

—Ruled 5 to 4 that individual investors may sue their advisers for restitution, but not for damages caused by fraud or stock manipulation.

—Refused to shield Indiana from possible lawsuits by women who were denied state unemployment benefits because of impermissible sex discrimination.

—Agreed to decide, in a case involving a Kentucky corporation, whether the federal government may fine employers who violate child labor laws.

—Refused to review the murder conviction and life sentence of a Mississippi man, and left intact the death sentence of a confessed South Carolina murderer under a state capital punishment law yet untested in the federal courts.

The California shopping center controversy dates back to the Saturday afternoon of Nov. 17, 1975, when a group of high school students showed up at the Pruneyard Shopping Center in suburban San Jose to solicit support for their opposition to a United Nations resolution against "Zionism."

Terrorists Shoot Israeli Envoy

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Terrorists fired submachine guns and hurled hand grenades at the car carrying Israel's ambassador in downtown Lisbon today, slightly wounding the envoy and killing his bodyguard and wounding three others, police said.

No group immediately claimed responsibility. The PLO said it had nothing to do with it.

Police said Ambassador Ephraim Eldar escaped with a bullet wound in the arm as at least two men opened fire on his car as it arrived at the Israeli Embassy. Eldar's Portuguese bodyguard died instantly from an exploding grenade, police said.

The attack came at 9:54 a.m. at the embassy on a tree-lined wide street near Lisbon's Gulbenkian Museum. The ambassador's briefcase was found near the side of his car a few feet from a pool of blood.

Police said witnesses reported one of the gunmen was a blond wearing a raincoat, and that he still carried his submachine gun as he led the others fleeing the scene. The gunmen's bullets also hit a Portuguese guard at the embassy door, the ambassador's driver and a woman passerby.

The 55-year-old ambassador survived the attack by remaining in his car, police said. A woman who lives near the embassy said she saw Eldar leaving his car clutching his right arm, and that he was taken away in an ambulance.

Police quickly sealed Portugal's borders with Spain and set up airport and maritime checkpoints.

Prime Minister Maria de Lourdes Pintasilgo, reported stunned and saddened by the attack, ordered an all-out search for the attackers.

The attack was the first by terrorists in Portugal since the 1974 revolution and came 10 days after an Arab solidarity conference in Lisbon where the main theme was Middle East peace and the featured speaker was Palestine Liberation Organization chief Yasser Arafat.

In Madrid, a spokesman for the PLO said his organization "had nothing to do with the attack."

Texan May Blow Up Blazing Railroad Cars

MOLINO, Fla. (AP) — A Texas explosives expert has been hired to see whether a fire in six railroad tank cars can be stopped by blasting holes in the cars.

Louisville & Nashville Railroad officials have brought in Wayne Rutledge of Jet Research Inc. of Arlington to inspect the burning tank cars. His decision on whether to blow up the cars will determine how soon about 500 persons evacuated from the area can return home.

If Rutledge accepts the job, Civil Defense spokesman Tommy Tait said the explosion could come late today.

The liquid propane leaking and hissing from three damaged tank cars has fed a continuous blaze since early Sunday, when 22 cars of a 109-car L&N train derailed.

Nine cars in the pileup carried hazardous materials, including liquid propane, acetone, alcohol solvent and styrene monomer.

Defense Department officials Monday rejected as too dangerous the idea of having Army demolition experts blow up the burning cars in the Florida wreck by land or air.

L&N spokesman Peter Gill said Rutledge's strategy was to blow holes in the tankers to allow "rapid burning." He added, "There's still a potential for a blowout."

Florida Gov. Bob Graham ordered the evacuation Monday night of about 500 persons within a 2 1/2 mile radius of the derailment.

Most residents had already evacuated voluntarily, but Sheriff's Sgt. Derwood Willis said the order was needed because "a lot of people had eased back into the evacuation area."

Many evacuees stayed with relatives or friends. However, about 100 evacuees housed in an emergency shelter have been relocated three times since evacuations began early Sunday.

The derailment was the fourth such incident involving an L&N train in the Molino area in 4 1/2 years. The worst accident came on Jan. 4, 1976 when 28 people were hospitalized after 13 derailed cars spewed anhydrous ammonia into the air.

Meanwhile in Holland, Mich., about 1,500 people evacuated early Monday after the derailment of four cars in a Chessie System freight train returned to their homes, said Ottawa County Sheriff's Deputy Michele Kolean. One of the cars, carrying highly toxic hydrogen fluoride, overturned and some of the gas leaked from an escape valve.

Workers used a special crane Monday to lift a derailed chemical tank car back onto the track, said Glenn Timmer, Ottawa County emergency services director.

Hydrogen fluoride is a corrosive chemical used in the aluminum industry and for synthesis of organic chemicals.

Although not flammable or explosive, the liquid turns into a highly toxic vapor when released into the air. Exposure can cause skin ulcers and breathing problems which can be fatal, officials said.

Near Toronto, more than 220,000 Canadians spent their second night away from home because of a chemical train derailment and fire, but the government said they should be able to begin returning today.

Kennedy Says Iowa Win Crucial For President

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Portraying himself as the underdog in the fight for Iowa's support, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy says President Carter has a big head start in the state and "can't afford to lose."

Campaigning in union halls and farm communities, Kennedy is striving to galvanize his supporters in preparation for the Iowa Democratic Party caucuses Jan. 21.

"The president of the United States can't afford to lose the Iowa caucuses," Kennedy told enthusiastic audiences at United Auto Workers union halls in Newton and Des Moines.

"The Carter-Mondale committee has on the ground here an effective organization," Kennedy told the UAW. Earlier, he told reporters his own campaign is "just getting started" in Iowa.

The Iowa caucuses gave Carter's candidacy a big boost early in 1976 when he finished ahead of other Democratic presidential hopefuls, although no one received a majority.

Carter's 1976 victory was aided by support from the UAW and particularly Chuck Gifford, a leader of the union's political arm in Iowa.

But Gifford was at Kennedy's side Monday night, telling the UAW audience that "the people in this room can help

Jan. 21, 1980, in the Democratic precinct caucuses. Be there. Be there for Senator Kennedy."

Then Gifford said, "Many in this room have been waiting a long, long time, I guess since 1968, for this event."

It was in June 1968 that Robert F. Kennedy was assassinated while campaigning for president.

Kennedy was aided in his Iowa campaigning by several family members, including his mother, Rose, 89; his sister, Eunice Shriver; and his son, Edward M. Jr.

The coordinator of Kennedy's Iowa campaign is his nephew Joseph, son of the late Robert Kennedy.

Kennedy continued to criticize President Carter's leadership, saying, "We can no longer afford in this nation at this time a passive president."

He also emphasized farm issues, particularly the emergency credit program of the Farmers Home Administration, and called on the Carter administration "to announce its support for extension and expansion of this program and other steps essential to guarantee adequate credit for planting next year's crops."

Diploma Withheld From Teen Klansman

ABSECON, N.J. (AP) — Aaron Morrison may not get his high school diploma because his principal doesn't like the teen-ager's extra-curricular activities.

The 17-year-old is a member of the Ku Klux Klan.

Officials at Holy Spirit High School say Morrison's diploma, which should have been issued after Morrison completed summer school, is being withheld because he will not renounce his membership in the white supremacist organization.

But Jerry Kay, an attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union, said Morrison is being penalized for exercising his "freedom of association, freedom of political belief and freedom of speech."

Kay said he would sue the high school if Morrison does not get his diploma. But an attorney representing the school and the Roman Catholic Diocese of Camden says Morrison's rights have not been violated. And Msgr. Glendon E. Robertson, diocesan secretary of education, says the church will stand behind the school's decision.

Morrison organized a Klan rally in August on the front lawn of his family's split-level home in Barnegat. During the rally, 19 Klansmen faced about 100 anti-Klan demonstrators amid rock-throwing, name-calling and scattered bursts of violence.

"It's not fair," said Morrison, who is now working in Louisiana on the senatorial and presidential campaign of David Duke, a leader of one of the Klan's many factions.

"I don't think a school should dictate or impose its beliefs on students. They don't have an in-depth understanding of my beliefs," he said.

The Rev. Thomas E. Ploude, principal of the Atlantic County high school, described Morrison as an "above average student." He said the school will send a copy of Morrison's transcript to any college, but will not issue him a diploma.

Students Hospitalized After Eating School Lunch

HUGO, Okla. (AP) — "Our teacher said, 'Anybody who feels sick can just run to the bathroom,' and everybody got up and started running."

The unidentified student was describing a wave of illness that hit her school Monday when students and faculty began "falling like flies," vomiting and complaining of cramps and diarrhea after a school lunch of beef tacos, okra and peach cobbler.

Doctors said none of the some 270 victims was likely to die, but some might "wish they were dead."

Officials at Franklin Junior High School said the victims contracted what appeared to be food poisoning following the school cafeteria lunch.

"People just started falling down and bumping into each other," said seventh grader Vince Johnson.

Schools were closed today as four other cafeterias in the school system were checked for possible contamination.

None of the victims was reported in critical condition. About 102 students and faculty members were admitted to hospitals in Hugo, Antlers, Idabel, and Paris. Another 168 were treated and released.

The 76-bed Choctaw County Memorial Hospital was filled to capacity, and broom closets, lounges and offices were converted into emergency bed space. Mattresses were lined up on hallway floors and intravenous bottles were hung with coathangers from TV sets and door frames.

Frantic parents checking on the welfare of their children caused a traffic jam for a four-block radius around the hospital.

Youngman's Bar Mitzvah Planned

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — It's no joke: comedian Henny Youngman will finally be bar mitzvahed — 60 years late.

Youngman, 73, "king of the one-liners," will have his bar mitzvah Jan. 12 during an engagement at Resorts International Hotel Casino.

Rabbi Seymour Rosen of Temple Emeth Shalom in nearby Margate agreed to officiate at the sacred Jewish rite of adulthood after Youngman told The Press of Atlantic City that he had never been bar mitzvahed.

Youngman, who was born in England and now lives in New York, said his bar mitzvah was called off 60 years ago when his cousin died.

Rockefeller Aide Gets New Job

NEW YORK (AP) — Megan Marshack, the staff aide who was with Nelson A. Rockefeller when he died last January, has been hired to handle publicity for Broadway producer Alexander H. Cohen.

Miss Marshack also will work as an assistant to Cohen's wife, Hildy Parks, who produces the Tony awards show with her husband each year.

Roy Somlyo, Cohen's general manager, said Miss Marshack would not handle press relations for any shows because she is not a member of the Association of Theatrical Press Agents and Managers. He said she would handle primarily in-house publicity.

Somlyo said Miss Marshack was hired because, "she's extremely experienced as a writer."

Since Rockefeller's death, she has done some free-lance writing, but this is believed to be her first full-time job.

She and the Cohens live in the same building in Manhattan, but Somlyo said they were only nodding acquaintances when Miss Marshack applied for a job six weeks ago.

Kennedy On Wrong Track

NEWTON, Iowa (AP) — At a campaign gathering in Iowa, Sen. Edward Kennedy asked aloud what President

Carter was doing to help move the state's grain harvest, in view of the financial failure of the Milwaukee Road and the Wabash.

But the crowd of mostly union folks who work for Maytag, the washing-machine giant, was puzzled.

The Wabash isn't carrying anybody's harvest. Or anything else, for that matter. The Wabash doesn't exist, except maybe for the popular country tune, "Wabash Cannon Ball."

The Wabash had tracks in Iowa years ago, but it merged with what is now the Norfolk and Western Railroad. The N & W still has a scattering of rail rights of way in the state, but it is not a major grain carrier.

No doubt, the senator meant to call attention to problems of the Rock Island Railroad which, along with the Milwaukee, is bankrupt.

A number of heads turned and the word "Wabash?" formed on many lips, but the friendly crowd overlooked the gaffe.

It's just one of those bugs you always find when campaigns get started, one man said.

Grain Futures

CHICAGO (AP) — Grain and soybean futures rose Monday after a government crop report predicted crops about the same size as traders expected.
Corn and soybean futures both drew strength from a reaction to an Agriculture Department crop report issued Friday. While the report predicted a 7.59-billion-bushel corn crop, 7 percent bigger than last year, and a 2.236-billion-bushel soybean crop, 20 percent bigger than last year, traders said the numbers were about as expected in the market.
The result was a relaxation of the bearish atmosphere that preceded the report's release. Little commercial harvest-time selling emerged to depress prices.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:

Reform Out Of Bounds

ONE MIGHT THINK if minor tinkering with the hideously complex federal regulatory mess has been fairly successful, then a major overhaul would be even better. But one would be wrong.

There can be too much of a good thing, and one of the most talked-about regulatory reform proposals now floating about easily could do more harm than the red-tape mess it supposedly would untangle.

The American Bar Association is pushing a plan that would allow the President to meddle in the regulation-making process.

All too often, says the ABA, the government's left hand doesn't know what its right hand is doing. Even within agencies, regulatory goals overlap, confuse or conflict.

THROUGH ITS commission on law and the economy, the ABA suggests authorizing the President to intervene just enough to set priorities and reconcile conflicts.

The President, the ABA points out, is the only government official blessed with a panoramic view of what all the agencies and commissions are doing. Unlike the appointed bureaucrats who run those agencies and commissions, the President is directly accountable to the American people.

Given the impact federal regulations have on the lives of ordinary citizens, why shouldn't the nation's highest elected official have the last word on them?

The answer is far from obvious. Tens of thousands of federal workers scattered throughout more than 660 agencies crank out some 7,000 regulations each year.

No President could possibly review more than a tiny handful of these himself, which means the bulk would wind up being screened by members of his staff.

PRESIDENTS TEND to be generalists, i.e. ill-equipped to deal with some of the technical calculations that figure in the development of many regulations.

Moreover, a President already has broad executive power to influence the shape of regulations. While independents like the FTC and the ICC are not subject to his dictates, he can influence them in appointing their members and setting their budgets.

It may be necessary to strengthen the President's hand even more, as the ABA proposes. But there is no point in taking such action until the procedural and administrative reforms the President has already initiated are given a chance to work first.

John D. Lofton: Drinan Takes Fifth On Cambodia

WASHINGTON—Once again, it's Cambodia. How many men, women and children have the communist Khmer Rouge slaughtered? One million? Two million? Three million? Now we are told that another two or three million Cambodians face starvation.

Would it have been possible to prevent this genocidal bloodbath? Maybe, maybe not. But President Gerald Ford tried.

In February 1975, Ford requested $222 million in military aid to allow the pro-U.S. Lon Nol government of Cambodia to defend the Cambodian people against the onslaught of the Khmer Rouge communists. In his message to Congress, the President declared:

"Is the United States, which so far has consistently stood by its friends through the most difficult times, now to condemn, in effect, a small Asian nation totally dependent upon us?"

THE ANSWER TO this question, from the liberals and the doves, was, incredibly, yes!

On March 12, 1975, the House Democratic Caucus dealt Ford's aid request what the Congressional Quarterly called a "death blow" by voting 189 to 49 against it.

On March 13, the House Foreign Affairs Committee voted 18 to 13 to adjourn without taking final action on Ford's aid package.

In the Senate, on March 15, the Democratic Caucus voted 38 to 5 against giving Cambodia any more U.S. military aid.

On April 17, the Khmer Rouge communists captured the capital of Cambodia and the mass murder began.

Understandably, those who must share the blame for the genocide in Cambodia are reluctant to discuss their own culpability. A case in point is

Rep. Robert Drinan, D-Mass., who recently inserted into the Congressional Record a newspaper article detailing the Cambodian holocaust.

I found this insertion ironic, since Drinan was one of those who voted against further U.S. military aid to Cambodia in 1975.

IN FACT, IN January of this same year, he filed a law suit seeking a preliminary injunction to restrain President Ford from furnishing any support to the anti-communist Cambodian government.

In an interview, when I ask Drinan about his vote against U.S. military aid to Cambodia, he feigns amnesia, saying he can't remember his vote.

At the end of our conversation, however, when I ask again if he really can't recall his vote, Drinan admits: "I can recall it very well." When I ask why he had said he could not recall his vote, he replies that he said this because he didn't know "where I was coming from."

When I ask Drinan, who is an ordained Catholic priest, if he sees any connection between a communist victory in Cambodia and the vote to cut off U.S. military assistance to the anti-communist forces, he says: "No, there's nothing to this argument."

FOUR YEARS AGO, the so-called anti-war people argued that it was the U.S. presence in Southeast Asia which was causing a bloodbath, that if the U.S. would just leave there would be peace.

Nothing, it was said, could be worse than the Minority group: Those whom President Carter hasn't asked for advice since July 1.

ONE MAN'S OPINION Kenneth May Political Windfall

LET'S SEE NOW. If we're to believe the politicians and other demagogues, the oil business is so obscenely profitable that Congress has got to pass a law to keep the stupid oil companies from investing their windfall profits in other, less-profitable lines of business.

Chickens Come Home To Roost: On the eve of New Year 1978, President Carter was in Iran to toast the shah as a great friend, then spent the rest of the year abandoning him to his political opponent, the Ayatollah Khomeini.

In the fall of 1979, Chicago Mayor Jane Byrne toasted the President as the man she would support for renomination if the election "were today," then spent the rest of the fall abandoning him to his political opponent, the senator from Massachusetts.

Look at it this way, if Kennedy becomes President maybe he'll invite the ayatollah for a ride in the moonlight.

When it comes to national defense, says My Neighbor Twice Removed, "what this country needs is less SALT and more pepper."

IF A BILL now before Congress becomes law, employees will work only 35 hours a week, get paid double-time for any hours over that amount and can't be made to work overtime except in "emergencies."

Paul Scott:

White Collar Unit Unbuttoned

WASHINGTON—The Justice Department under directions from the White House is changing its priorities in fighting crime.

So-called white collar crimes and business and government corruption are to be given a higher priority at the federal level while bank robberies and other "street" crimes are to be left to local authorities.

The primary objective is to give the Carter administration a new image of being a crusader against those that cheat the public and the poor and to quiet the growing criticism from far-left supporters that not enough is being done to combat these types of crime.

Justice is establishing economic crime enforcement units in 27 of the nation's largest cities over the next two years. The units will be supervised from Washington by a new Economic Crime Enforcement Office in the department's criminal division.

THE MISSION OF the new program is to use federal prosecutors and investigators and auditors from a host of other government agencies to prevent, detect, investigate, and prosecute economic crime.

White collar crimes to be targeted by the new units include price-fixing, embezzlement, consumer fraud, stock theft, counterfeiting of securities, bribery, tax evasion and sophisticated frauds against various government programs run by federal agencies or with federal funds.

Mere monitoring and investigations are needed in these areas, according to department aides, because of the tremendous growth of federal grant and aid programs.

Justice plans to assign at least 150 attorneys to the economic crime units during the coming two years. Of the 27 new crime units, the first seven are to be opened before year's end in the following cities:

PORTLAND, ORE., Los Angeles, Denver, Cleveland, New Haven, Conn., Columbia, S.C., and Birmingham, Ala.

In each of these cities, U.S. attorneys are being asked to assign at least three experienced government lawyers full-time to the economic crime unit. In addition, the Justice Department will provide a specialist to each unit to handle crime intelligence information, to help train personnel, and to assist in drafting of indictments and handling grand juries.

Hundreds of FBI agents, now assigned to other investigative work, are to be reassigned to the new crime enforcement units.

As part of the program, Justice will publish an economic crime enforcement bulletin describing new jobs and reduce unemployment. More sensible people say it would push prices higher because people wouldn't want less pay for fewer hours and ultimately the law would result in fewer jobs because it would force employers to reduce costs through hiring cutbacks.

FOREST PETERSON is a transplanted Texan who for the last 13 months has been laboring in the canyons of New York City.

Now he has a couple of ideas about lassoing some new industrial business for Lubbock. Peterson, formerly of Houston, hopes to make a little money out of it, of course, which is a good idea. Despite what the demagogues in Washington say, profit is still a nice word.

Peterson is project director for what his company, Howard P. Hoffman Associates, Inc., a subsidary of Lehman Brothers Kuhn Loeb, Inc., calls the Westex Industrial Complex.

Most folks hereabouts call it the former Kimbell grocery warehouse on 2nd Place between Avenues A and H. Now owned by Winn-Dixie, the complex is being divided into seven units of from 19,500 to 63,200 square feet each.

Peterson, who has worked closely with the Chamber of Commerce on the project, said at a reception here that his firm has a number of industrial clients who do not now have plants in Lubbock but who he has reason to believe might move into the newly available space.

So far, there's nothing spectacular in sight at this particular location but the national firm's interest in Lubbock and its industrial contacts are encouraging.

IT'S JUST ONE example of the fact that Lubbock is on the threshold of a new surge in growth, thanks to factors of economy, labor, climate, location and constant plugging away by the Chamber of Commerce.

Local real estate developers also are instrumental in bringing to Lubbock the kinds of business and industry which provide new job opportunities and fit into Lubbock's growth pattern.

If you do much traveling, you know that Lubbock beats 9 out of 10 of the places you'd hope your company would choose for a new facility if it were going to move you.

It's a great place to live and work and it's beginning even to be a nice place to visit. Just ask Forest Peterson.

new types of white-collar crimes, all significant cases investigated and prosecuted by the new units, and investigative techniques.

The idea of the bulletin has been pushed by Rep. John Conyers, Jr., D-Mich., chairman of the House Judiciary subcommittee on crime, and a consistent advocate of socialism.

Since taking over his chairmanship, Rep. Conyers has prodded the Justice Department to emphasize the investigation and prosecution of white-collar crimes and to cut back on those involving internal security.

Government insiders say the new white-collar crime program is linked closely to the President's strategy of making big business the "whipping boy" for his 1980 campaign for re-election.

These sources reveal that large corporations are to be singled out for intensive government investigation as part of White House strategy to try to shift the blame for inflation to the private sector and away from the government.

Sylvia Porter:

Options Are To Blame For Fuel Tank Drain

WASHINGTON—With Detroit now rolling out its 1980 models—many down-sized versions hundreds of pounds lighter and hundreds of cubic inches smaller than a few years ago—must you forfeit your six-passenger, "standard-size" roominess to get reasonable fuel economy in this era of gasoline at $1.00-plus per gallon?

No. In fact, you can have a big, new car for almost the same price, and the fuel efficiency of a small one if you are willing to sacrifice some degree of comfort, convenience, appearance and performance.

For "optional extras"—such as bigger engines, four-door bodies, automatic transmissions, air conditioners and a host of other items—can add more than one-third to the purchase price of a car and cut its fuel economy by 25 percent at the same time.

AS AN ILLUSTRATION, consider the full-size (118-inch wheelbase six-passenger) Chrysler. The "New Yorker" can be loaded with a 360 cubic-inch V8 engine, high performance, loaded-hauling axle ratio, automatic transmission, air conditioning and other niceties such as white-wall tires, FM radio and power-everything.

So loaded, it lists at close to $13,000, zips from 40 to 60 miles an hour in 7.2 seconds, but ekes out a bare 15 miles per gallon.

But the full-size (118-inch wheelbase, six-passenger) Chrysler "Newport" series, with a small, six-cylinder (225 cubic inch) engine and minus air conditioning and other luxuries, retails for about half the New Yorker price, or roughly $6,500.

And it should get 19-20 mpg. For the six-person family, willing to be over-warm or really cold at times and to spend 2.3 seconds more for that 40-60 acceleration, a Newport-type decision could be a solution which would keep you off the used car lots.

YOU MAY NOT want to go either to loaded or stripped extremes.

The popular, mid-sized (108-inch wheelbase, five-passenger) Chevrolet Malibu dramatizes many of the specifics of option costs in dollars and miles per gallon.

The basic two-door Malibu, with a six-cylinder 3.8 liter engine and manual transmission lists for $5,133 (plus delivery and sales tax) and can get 23-24 mpg according to General Motors.

The simple convenience of two more doors adds $113 (plus tax) to your tab.

AN AUTOMATIC TRANSMISSION adds another $358 (again, plus tax, interest and insurance) to your buying price and takes away one to two mpg in fuel economy.

Estimates of fuel economy are free-floating figures in both Detroit and Washington, with actual efficiency varying widely.

Move up another notch to what GM calls its 4.4 liter V8 engine and your price jumps another $180, your fuel efficiency drops another mile to about 20 mpg.

* AIR CONDITIONING, a must for 80 percent of new car buyers, costs a fat $601-plus additional and cuts your mpg down to around 18.

* Finally, toss in power steering for $174 and you are down to the 17.5-17.9 mpg range, and up to the $6,674 price level, a full 30 percent over the base price.

Your maintenance charges will be higher, too. And you can add options, on and on. A station wagon, for instance, will "cost" you as much as a mile a gallon in fuel efficiency.

* A "spoiler" to keep the wagon's rear window clear can mean another mpg, as can a roof rack, even with nothing on it.

The range of extras on GM's new "X-body" compacts is even greater. A stripped two-door Citation coupe with four-cylinder engine and four-speed manual shift lists at $4,123 and gets 33-34 mpg.

A loaded, four-door Citation hatchback (six-cylinder power-plant, automatic, air conditioning, power, the works) may go for well over $6,000. This Citation's fuel consumption: down to 26-27 mpg.

SO IF YOUR family needs a big car, it can be a large, economy-size model. But be warned: If you buy one of these "undressed" models, prepare to keep it a minimum of six or seven years, until it is well depreciated (which you should be doing anyway).

If you trade in after two-three years, you could lose more in re-sale value than you gain in purchase price.

Politicians Praise Carter For Iranian Oil Cutoff

WASHINGTON (AP) — Major rivals in both political parties say President Carter made the right decision in suspending U.S. purchase of Iranian oil.

While there was uncertainty about the likely impact — some raised the prospect of long lines at gasoline pumps — political and congressional leaders generally praised the cutoff as a necessary and timely reaction to the seizure of at least 60 Americans as hostages in Iran.

Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., urged Americans to drive two fewer miles each day to make up for the decline in Iranian imports. "But in practice what will happen is that conscientious Americans will voluntarily make the cut while the first types will not," he said.

The result, he added, will be "endless lines" at gasoline stations. "If we are to avoid kidding ourselves, prompt and effective rationing, either by coupons or by a gasoline tax ... is necessary," Reuss said at a news conference in Milwaukee.

Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd said Carter's action "preempts any further opportunity" for Iran to use oil as an economic weapon in its "dangerous game of international blackmail."

"And I believe the American people will be willing to sacrifice for the principles we cherish," Byrd said.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Energy Committee, said halting purchases of Iranian oil should not cause a renewal of gasoline lines, but warned of a psychological effect. "I suspect the number of cars going to the pumps to top off their cars will increase," he said.

Despite any misgivings about its impact on U.S. motorists, Jackson, a frequent critic of Carter policies, said, "I commend the president for the action he has taken."

Carter's decision also drew support from former President Gerald R. Ford and several Republicans and Democrats attempting to wrest White House control from him.

Ford said in Los Angeles he was "totally supportive" of Carter's move and termed it a "definitive action" toward freeing the U.S. hostages.

Republican presidential candidate John Connally said, "This removes oil as a bargaining chip in delicate hostage negotiations, and I fully support President Carter's action."

Another GOP candidate, Senate Minority Leader Howard Baker said simply: "He's dead right." But Baker said the current Iranian crisis is another sign the United States has "lost its clout" overseas.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, campaigning in Iowa for the 1980 Democratic nomination said, "I'd basically follow the president's lead on this particular step." He told audiences Carter's action demonstrates "we put a higher value on the safety and security of those hostages than on fuel oil."

Texas Solons Back President's Action

President Carter's move to cut off U.S. oil imports from Iran received strong support Monday from Texas lawmakers, including Sen. Lloyd Bentsen and U.S. Rep. Kent Hance.

"I am in total agreement with the president on the oil cutoff," said Bentsen, while Hance termed the decision "a good move."

"It was inevitable that the Iranians would have ultimately done this anyway, but we beat them to the punch for a change," Bentsen said.

"I am also pleased that the president has moved to stop sales of military spare parts to Iran and to deport Iranian students who take part in illegal demonstrations in this country," the Texas senator said.

But both lawmakers warned that the oil import halt will require stricter conservation of energy by Americans.

Hance said the cutoff, which will remove 750,000 barrels of oil from American imports each day, could be balanced "if every American drives two miles less per day."

While the Lubbock congressman stressed that freeing the American hostages in Iran is a "number one priority," he also said, "I don't think waiting in line to get gasoline is too much to ask to get people to stand up and to economically, politically and militarily draw the line."

Hance disagreed with those who suggest sending military troops to Iran to free the hostages. He said such a move was unfeasible because U.S. would not have "the element of surprise."

He also is against taking Iranian students in the United States hostage, saying, "The person leading their government is not a sound person. Just because they're breaking international law doesn't mean we should."

Patience May Save Hostages

NEW YORK (AP) — Bluster and threats will not save the lives of the American hostages in Tehran, but patience might, say Frank Bolz and Frederick Hacker, two men who should know.

Bolz, a New York City police captain and trainer of the city's hostage negotiation team, has helped end more than 150 hostage situations in the past seven years. Not one has resulted in a casualty.

Hacker, a Los Angeles behavioral scientist, wrote the 1977 book "Crusaders, Criminals and Crazy: Terror and Terrorism in Our Time."

Both counsel patience and negotiation. They say the alternatives, though more satisfying to the public, could lead to horror.

Hacker classifies terrorists in the three categories of his title: the Iranian terrorists, he says, are "crusaders ... although of course many crusaders have crazy streaks."

They are also willing martyrs, Hacker said, which "makes them of course, even more dangerous. There are shades of Jim Jones appearing on the horizon. People that are willing to sacrifice their own lives are usually very willing to sacrifice other people's lives."

He said to deal with crusaders, negotiators must have some understanding of the terrorists' "motivations and their way of thinking and their religious and other convictions."

The Palestine Liberation Organization's involvement, he said, was a "step in the right direction," even if it has not been successful so far.

"I think they would have a better chance than a papal representative ... There's no sense in sending somebody whom we think is great if they think he's a bum," Hacker said.

He added that though Ramsey Clark, President Carter's special envoy to the situation, is a fine man, a better choice might be Andrew Young, former U.S. ambassador to the United Nations and a well-known sympathizer with Third World problems.

Bargaining — including such options as use of the World Court at the Hague to try the shah — is the only option, Hacker said. Time and patience will be necessary, he warned.

"I think one is compelled to negotiate patiently, no matter how much that might go against the grain," he said.

Bolz, who has helped train representatives of 1,500 police departments in dealing with hostage situations, agrees that "outbursts" of anger by Americans must be avoided.

"Time is what we're going to have to use to bring about their release. We may have to be prepared to wait," he said.

HSCH Narrows Search For Administrator

By KIM COBB
Avalanche-Journal Staff

County hospital district officials are considering several applications for administrator of Health Sciences Center Hospital, and they may have narrowed the applicants down to a pair of front runners.

Lubbock County Hospital District board members are seeking an executive director for the teaching hospital to replace Brookwood Management Services, the Birmingham, Ala., group which ran the hospital from August through October.

LCHD board members decided not to hire Brookwood for an additional two years at a recent board meeting, making the search for an executive director a top priority. Dub Rushing, board vice chairman, talked briefly about the progress of the search after Monday's regular weekly board meeting.

"We have some applications that really thrill us," Rushing admitted. He declined to release names of applicants, saying to do so would jeopardize their present jobs.

"We will be more cautious in hiring an executive director than in the past," Rushing said. Board members don't feel they can afford another change in management too soon, he said.

"There are two that look particularly good," Rushing said of the applicants. The board members went into closed executive session Monday afternoon to discuss the applicants.

But Rushing stressed that the group expects several more applications and will not make a hasty decision. He said that interim administrator Charles Roberts has done a great deal for morale at the hospital and can run the operation successfully until permanent help is found.

Rushing said that Brookwood's stay at the hospital had made the search for a new executive director easier. Though the board did not approve of all of Brookwood's methods, he said, the firm's personnel cleared up enough of the hospital's problems to make the executive director's position attractive to more qualified people.

"That makes the job not insurmountable," Rushing said. "It's no cinch," he admitted, but said that the problems still facing the hospital — mainly financial — have been simplified.

During the business meeting, board member Don McInturff asked for a report on the payment of hospital vendors — those people owed money for services supplied to the hospital. It was recently necessary to cash a $200,000 certificate of deposit to cover a backlog of bills, many of which dated back to August.

Oscar Will, the hospital's chief accountant, reported to the board that hospital employees had mailed out payment checks Brookwood personnel had been holding. Those accounts, amounting to $560,000 are more than 60 days old, Will said.

Rushing repeated to the board information which had been alluded to in previous meetings — that Brookwood representatives had been understating their accounts payable figures. Interim administrator Roberts also explained after the meeting that many of the purchase orders never made it into the hospital's computers and therefore did not show up on the computerized print-out of accounts payable.

In other business, the board voted to hire Shared Management Services to provide data processing services for the hospital. The data processing system is the heart of the hospital's billing system.

Shared Management Services personnel will be taking over the services now provided by Health Management Services, which is going out of the health care industry. The contract with SMS lacks only the approval of the hospital district's legal counsel before going into effect.

It is estimated that the transition from one system to the other will take place in January.

City Council Split On Quirt Avenue Issue

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Although Lubbock City Council members say they favor some memorial to Martin Luther King Jr., the council is split on whether Quirt Avenue should be renamed in honor of the slain civil rights leader.

However, the Human Relations Commission told the council Monday the street name change is the only commemoration of King which is acceptable to the minority community.

Following the meeting with the HRC, council members were asked how they would vote on the renaming of Quirt Avenue if the vote were held then.

Two council members said they would vote to change the street name, while the same number said they would vote against the renaming. Councilman

Alan Henry, called away from the meeting because of the death of a business associate, refused comment.

Because the name of Quirt Avenue is offensive to blacks and Mexican-Americans, Councilman Bill McAlister said he favors changing the name. However, he would change the name to something like Airport Drive or Skyline Drive.

McAlister said he fears setting a precedent by naming a street after a person and questioned how the council could refuse any future requests to rename streets after persons.

However, McAlister said he would like to name Canyon Lakes 6 after King as an alternative to renaming Quirt Avenue.

Councilman Bud Aderton also said he would cast a "no" vote because "I don't think it's the right thing to do."

"I'm a devotee of the idea if it's not broke, don't fix it," he said. "I'm not against change — just change if it doesn't accomplish anything."

Aderton said he would go along with naming a park after King, though, since parks traditionally have been named after individuals.

However, Mayor Dirk West said he would vote to change the street name. "I don't think it's that big a deal," he said.

Although West expressed concern about setting a precedent for naming other streets, he said that problem should be solved in the way the ordinance is written.

Councilwoman Carolyn Jordan agreed with West and said she would vote for renaming Quirt Avenue because "it has become very symbolic."

With the council split 2-2 on the issue, it appears Henry will cast the deciding vote when the street name change appears on the council agenda Nov. 29.

If the council expected the HRC to agree to an alternative method of honoring King, it was disappointed by Monday's meeting.

Commission members said they were representing blacks and Mexican-Americans in Lubbock who want Quirt Avenue's name changed to memorialize King.

HRC member Bill Crouch said "I see no real reason not to change the name. It seems like such a small thing to ask."

He added minority members view the renaming of a street as more permanent than naming a building or park after King.

"We're not asking you to change the name because the HRC asked for it," Gilbert Flores told the council.

"The proposal was brought up by the citizens of East Lubbock. If we don't do this, I don't feel we're serving the community like we should," he said.

When Mrs. Jordan said the council was "making sure the naming of the street is the best possible way (to honor King) and to examine any alternatives," Flores replied, "We've been settling for something else for a long time."

Flores said the renaming of Quirt Avenue had become an issue of whether the council "represents all the people of Lubbock or just the Anglo community."

Crouch said it was a question of whether the HRC "can come to you with a reasonable proposal and have it granted, or if we've got to have council members elected by districts and get a minority on there so we'll have someone to talk to."

HRC Chairman Theron Cole admitted the commission "could have come up with something less controversial," but said something other than the street name change "wouldn't have as much impact or effect."

Lubbock Police To Distribute Trading Cards To Youngsters

By LISA PAIKOWSKI
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Lubbock police officers today began providing football trading cards along with law and order in an effort to bring local youngsters and policemen together.

Through a new program in Lubbock sponsored by the Kiwanis Clubs and the Police Department, youngsters can begin collecting trading cards of their favorite Dallas Cowboys simply by contacting any uniformed policeman on his beat.

On the back of each of the 14 cards in the set is a definition of a football term and a related reminder of civic laws that should be obeyed.

Floyd Kernes, lieutenant governor of the District 7 Kiwanis Clubs, said at a news conference Monday that the "Kids-Cops-Cowboys" program is designed "to let youngsters have the opportunity to meet one on one with uniformed policemen."

Kiwanis members said the project is aimed at improving community relations with the police department and particularly, at preventing youngsters' fear of law officers.

The program is modeled on similar efforts in Portland, Ore., and the Dallas-Fort Worth area. Kernes said more than four million cards have been distributed in the Dallas-Fort Worth metropol.

The project is a part of the Kiwanis "Right Stand — Hand in Hand With You" program that emphasizes "one adult in contact with one child," said Kernes.

Kiwanis Clubs are funding the trading card program through their various fund-raising efforts throughout the year. Approximately 70,000 cards are currently available for distribution at a cost to the Kiwanis Clubs of one cent per card.

Police Chief J. T. Alley said police officers will not hand the cards out, but that youngsters must ask the officer for a card. He added that the trading cards will not be handed out at the police station.

Alley said he is optimistic about the success of the program and said it will benefit officers as well as city youths.

Alley said parents' use of threats to call the police to correct the behavior of unruly children is a "widespread" practice and that he hopes the trading card program will show youngsters that "the police are out there principally to help people."

James Swan of the Hub City Kiwanis Club and a former Lubbock policeman said, "In most cases children are afraid to approach a police officer," but that the Kiwanis project will "benefit in getting them to contact a uniformed officer."

Remodeling Tips Add Beauty To Bathroom

NEW YORK (MSN) — Must a room give up function to gain beauty? The modern bathroom doesn't have to.

The National Home Improvement Council notes that remodeling or adding bathrooms is a favorite home improvement project, second only to kitchen remodeling in popularity.

In most cases, the desire for luxurious decor is as much a motivation as the need for more space and improved facilities. How to get both glamor and utility?

Consider these possibilities:
— Compartmentalization: handsome wall dividers of opaque glass, prefinished panels, or louver doors that separate wash-up and toilet areas so two people can use the room at the same time.

— Undercounter vanities and wall-hung cabinets that provide roomy storage and come in attractive styles and hard-wear finishes.

— Equipment that combines: fashionable color and decor with practical features. Examples are double-lavatories, wall-hung toilets that are easy to clean around, and tubs and showers with built-in grab bars and non-slip surfaces.

— Wall and floor coverings that look luxurious, can withstand wear and water, and are easy to clean. Among them are mural wallpaper, marbled paneling and deep-pile carpeting.

— Accessories that offer such conveniences as swing-away faucets, magnifying make-up mirrors, and health features — everything from ceiling sun lamps and massage shower heads to compact saunas.

Ideas on bathroom remodeling and information on equipment and "exotica" are available at building supply centers and from remodeling contractors.

Certain chores — such as laying carpet tiles and hanging wallpaper — are good do-it-yourself projects.

But major equipment installation and work that involves plumbing and wiring are best left to a qualified contractor, says NHIC.

Dear Abby,

DEAR ABBY: The letter signed AMERICA FIRST, in which the writer was opposed to our taking in the boat people, sickened me. I was further sickened to read that your mail was running 200 to 1 in favor of turning away the refugees!

I would like to think that the writers of those letters are in the minority, otherwise I fear for the future of our country.

Your answer to AMERICA FIRST must have touched the heart and soul of every decent human being who read it. It was the finest letter you ever wrote. Our founding fathers would have been proud of you.

Keep up the good work, Abby. You may be speaking for the silent majority.
AN AMERICAN IN TUCSON

DEAR AMERICAN: I know that I was! My mail usually confirms the theory that many more people will take up the pen to oppose something than to support it.

However, since printing a sampling of the discouraging response, I have received a blizzard of mail from readers — easily 10,000 to 1 — in favor of providing refuge to the boat people. And they're still coming in. Thank you, readers. You are beautiful!

DEAR ABBY: I am 17 years old and it's like I am walking around in a fog. I just found out that my "mother" is really my aunt, and my "aunt" is my real mother.

My mother wasn't married at the time, so she gave me to her married sister to raise. Later, my real mother got married and had children. That means my brothers and sisters are really my cousins, and the kids I always thought were my cousins are really my half-sisters and brothers. I feel terrible to think almost everybody in the family has known this all along and I had to find it out from a stranger.

There is nothing I can do about it because I feel toward the aunt who raised me just like any kid would feel toward his own mother. And I don't honestly feel anything extra special for my real mother who I thought was just another aunt.

I guess what I want to say is this: Please tell people if they have a secret like this in their family, it's best to tell the kids before they hear it from strangers.

HURT AND IN A FOG

DEAR HURT: Excellent advice!

DEAR ABBY: In reply to LARRY'S GAL, you wisely pointed out that gambling can become an addiction as serious as liquor and tobacco.

That caused me to recall the words of Dr. George S. Stevenson, a medical consultant to the National Association for Mental Health:

"Many people come to adult life suffering from a feeling of inadequacy

Clinic Sponsors Disease Workshop

Coping with the physical and emotional aspects of Parkinson's disease is the thrust of workshops sponsored by the Tarbox Clinic for Parkinson's Disease at Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center.

The second in a series of monthly workshops will be held on Thursday from 10:30-11:30 a.m. at the Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center, located on 4th Street near Indiana Avenue. Patients and their friends can register in Room 4A100 at 10 a.m. There will be no charge for participation.

Parkinson's disease is a neurological disorder that affects people in middle and later life.

From early symptoms such as a trembling hand, changes in posture, a slow and shuffling walk, the patient's physical condition worsens over a period of 15 to 20 years, leading to complete invalidism. Cause of the disease is unknown.

During the Thursday workshop, Libby Gardner, physical therapist at the Health Sciences Center Hospital, will demonstrate exercises to help promote greater physical mobility and flexibility. According to Gardner, if patients receive education early, they can better maintain coordination of their joints. Muscle strengthening activities can often help reduce debilitation and help patients maintain their physical independence.

The first Tarbox workshop was attended by 43 people from West Texas and Eastern New Mexico.

Gardner stressed that one should always consult a physician before beginning an exercise program. She instructed the patients in standing and walking with their feet positioned wide apart to improve balance. She demonstrated exercises that strengthen muscles in the back and help patients breathe more efficiently. She also recommended the use of leather-soled shoes for good, firm support.

"Something as basic as posture can make a world of difference to the Parkinson's disease patient," said Gardner. "With better posture, the patient feels healthier. His whole self-image can improve noticeably within a matter of weeks."

Parkinson's disease involves the patient's family to a large degree, according to Paul G. Meyer, M.D., medical director of the Tarbox Clinic. As the disease progresses, a patient becomes more physically and emotionally dependent on others. He soon loses manual dexterity. He needs help in performing the simplest of functions, such as dressing himself — and he needs constant reassurance and moral support.

The Tarbox workshops promote more than patient education. All participants are encouraged to bring friends and family members to the classes. When patients are unable to attend, a friend or relative will often come in their place and take class notes for the patients.

Future workshops will feature a wide variety of speakers from the HSC staff. Topics will include coping with stress, change in body image, effective use of eating utensils, and emotional aspects of the disease.

MAPLE PEAR SAUCE

1 tbsp. cornstarch
2 tbsps. light brown sugar, packed
1/2 cup water
1/2 cup maple syrup, preferably grade B
1 tbsp. lemon juice
2 tbsps. butter
2 Bartlett pears (pared, cored and sliced)

In a 1-quart saucepan stir together cornstarch and sugar, gradually stir in water, keeping smooth. Add maple syrup. Stirring constantly, cook over moderate heat until thickened and boiling. Off heat, stir in lemon juice and butter. Stir in pears; they will give delicious fresh flavor.

about themselves, and a feeling of uncertainty about life in general. Unable to meet the demands of life, they may develop neurotic symptoms, take to alcohol or narcotics, or turn to compulsive gambling, which permits them to avoid reality — one turn of a card, one spin of the wheel can make everything come out all right — they hope."

Singles Should Evaluate Safety

NEW YORK (Special) — The single girl living away from home for the first time should carefully evaluate security when choosing a place to live. Obviously, says Pinkerton's, the nation's oldest and largest private security firm, the neighborhood is a first consideration. Spend a little time walking or driving around the immediate area. Stop in a store or two, make a small purchase, and inquire about the local incidence of crime. Better yet, stop in at the local precinct and ask questions.

Consider the building in the same way. A rental agent is not likely to tell you negative things about the level of crime in the building. Nor are the doorman or other staff personnel. Check with tenants if you can. A superintendent, building manager, or owner living on the premises is a good sign; all will have a more immediate concern for safety in the building. Here are questions to which you need answers: — Is there a doorman, and does he challenge all visitors?

— Is there an intercom in good working order? In some cities, this is mandated by law.

— Is there a wide-angle peephole in the door so you can see who is on the other side?

— Are entry doors heavyweight and metal?

— Is there at least one heavy dead-lock — and can you add your own pick-proof cylinder or additional locks?

— If there is no doorman, is there a good, heavy-duty lock on the front door?

— Is there a buzzer and intercom system? (Even if there is, careless tenants sometimes open to any ring.)

— Is lighting of the front and entrance halls adequate?

— If there is a garage on the premises, ask about security there. Is the garage attended?

— If not, is there a closed-circuit TV camera monitored by the doorman?

Ask about the other tenants. Couples with small children as well as elderly people are likely to be more demanding about security measures. And they represent activity in the building during the normal working hours when young singles are away at their offices. Be leery of a small building entirely populated with young singles; it might be great for your social life, but highly dangerous when everyone is away simultaneously on holiday or summer treks, and more vulnerable every day from 9 to 5.

Personal security is a matter of continuous awareness and vigilance, and of taking steps to reduce risk. If you go out alone late at night, call a radio cab and meet it at the front door. If returning in the wee hours of the morning, take a cab to the door, tip the driver liberally, and have him watch until you are safely inside a locked front door. In fact, returning to your building at any time, day or night, look around you before pulling out your keys or fumbling with the mailbox. This is especially true if you are encumbered with packages. Thieves watch and will follow a gal laden down with packages, pouncing at that critical, defenseless moment when she is unlocking an inner door. An open front vestibule provides good "cover."

Don't take any unnecessary chances. A young lady was recently stripped of her valuables and most of her clothing while walking on the Central Park side of Fifth Avenue during the evening "rush hour," just minutes after dark. Had she walked on the side lined with apartment buildings and doormen, it probably would not have happened. Avoid poorly-lit or deserted areas, even in the best of neighborhoods.

And, once inside your building, don't relax your vigilance. Stairways, service closets, elevators — all can be hiding places for muggers. If you spot a menacing individual in one of these places, move in the opposite direction as fast as you can. If escape is not feasible but there is help — such as a doorman or guard — somewhere within earshot, make as much noise as you can. And if there is no escape or nearby help, hand over valuables quietly and don't resist physically. Valuables can be replaced; your life can't be.

One positive thing you can do is get involved in the building's security. If there is a tenants' committee, participate. Get to know your neighbors. Try to encourage a system of looking out for each other's safety. If there is no formal tenants' group, invite your neighbors in for a coffee hour, and hold a security session. Talk over whatever problems you can mutually identify. If feasible, set up a small fund for security measures — such as buying a bolt for the roof door, a metal strip for the front door to prevent the lock being forced with a knife or credit card — in short, any of those "little things" that together can make a big, big difference.

Mutual awareness and concern, says Pinkerton's, can be the basis for upgrading security for everyone.

Marriage Rates Stay High

NEW YORK (Special) — There's good news for romantics — weddings are up and the divorce rate continues to level off.

More couples are choosing the permanence of a relationship that begins with ring bearers, the "Wedding March" and white, says Sally Hopkins, researcher for a leading greeting card company. "The marriage rate for 1978 reached its highest point since 1974 and a spiraling divorce rate ceased," says Hopkins.

"More people are seeking personal happiness within the bonds of marriage. Roughly three-fourths of those who divorce eventually remarry, endorsing it as a more desirable state."

Explorers Participate In Event

By LYNN HOHERTZ
Family News Staff

The United States Army at Fort Hood, and the South Central Region High Adventure Exploring Committee recently staged its 1979 Explorer Bivouac for some 1,200 Explorers.

Army highlights for the weekend event included live fire-power demonstrations, M-16 firing, field kitchen meals, transport by various military vehicles, survival and medical training, military equipment displays, buffalo barbecue (with rattlesnake hor d'oeuvres,) giant tug of war and competition by crews in High Adventure activities.

Competition between each Exploring crew included backpacking, rappelling, cross-country skiing, archery, orienteering, skeet shooting, an obstacle course and outdoor cooking.

South Plains High Adventure Exploring Posts did exceptionally well — receiving five places in the top ten crews.

Post 402, sponsored by First United Methodist Church, placed first. Its crew members included Beth Lowder, Karla Thornton, Cindy Davis, Maureen McKenna, Chris Mann, Jeff Chambers, Mark Middleton, Brad Reed, Steve Whipple, Ken Campbell, Brad Enloe, David Martin, Carol Craig, Pam Redmond, Mary Crass and Tracey Harris. A.B. Enloe and Pat Enloe were adult advisors. Post 402 also placed fourth.

Post 543, sponsored by Agape United Methodist Church, ranked sixth in the events. Members of the crew were Mark Morris, Roy Carnes, Jim Wilmington, Ike Carey, Kathy Preisinger, Kathy Freeman, Kim Balmer, Karen Haynes, Jeff Wilde, Matt Brown, Bill Cash, Sheridan Bastros, Susan Noble, Kevin Bales and Doug James. Advisors included Darrid Bomber, Roy B. Carnes Jr., Char- lotte Carnes, Willen Schuette and Bobby Fresh. The post also received ninth place.

Post 405 held 10th place. Its crew consisted of Barry Kirkpatrick, Rex Adams, Teri Thomas, Don Cash, Jeff Johnson and Randi Murphey. Todd Dickin- son served as advisor.

Other posts to attend the Bivouac included Lubbock Post 806: Mike McAfee, Scott Wilkes, Kevin Holt and Clay Zorns. Advisors were Hank Zorns and Karen Battle.

Also participating in the event as Post 721, Tahoka: Lisa Perkins, Starrlyn Knox, Sarah Marez, Denise Ehlers, John Curry, Dennis Grocke, Lee Holden, Otis Pendleton, Ellen Hutsell, Dustie Cook, Jhoni Caswell, Rajeania House, Bryan Simpson, Ralph Huffaker, Roddy Williams, Jim Cawman. DOE Reports Drop In Oil Output For June

NEW YORK (AP) — Oil industry executives and government officials say they're not sure why production of oil from American wells dropped in June, a time when many Americans were waiting in gas lines.

The decline, similar to another one earlier this year, showed up in newly released Energy Department statistics. Oil industry officials also were unable to explain the other production drop, which occurred last winter. A government investigation found that production decline was an important part of last summer's oil shortage.

Some oil executives pointed out that domestic production has been dropping gradually for years, but the decrease from May to June was much larger than normal.

"There shouldn't be that much of a fluctuation," said Melvin Mesnard, statistics director for the Independent Petroleum Association of America, a producers' group not affiliated with major oil companies. "I wish I had an explanation for it, but I don't."

"I don't have any explanation for why it happened," said James Diehl, acting director of the DOE's statistics division.

June is the most recent month for which the DOE has accurate production figures. The figures are based on reports from state energy agencies and data from government surveys, rather than oil company estimates. Energy Department officials say the chances are small there could have been a statistical error in the figures.

The DOE figures showed that crude oil production from domestic wells in May was 8.585 million barrels a day. It fell 2 percent in June to 8.409 million barrels daily. A barrel contains 42 gallons.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — A group of oil companies led by Texaco has announced its fourth and largest natural gas discovery in the Baltimore Canyon trough at a well 105 miles off the New Jersey coast.

Texaco's leased semi-submersible rig Ocean Victory discovered the gas in the same 15,699-foot hole where it reported a significant gas strike on Oct. 22, officials said Monday.

The gas flowed at a rate of 14.2 million cubic feet a day, the highest rate of the four gas strikes, according to Texaco spokesman Edgar Williams.

He said the latest discovery was "from an interval below 13,000 feet." He would not say how much hydrocarbon condensate, an oil-like byproduct of deep natural gas finds, was brought to the surface.

The latest strike is only 1.5 miles from government surveys, rather than oil company estimates.

About 100,000 barrels of the 176,000 barrel-a-day decline were due to repair work on the Alaskan pipeline, which sprang a leak June 10 and was restored to service two days later.

But the rest of the drop — 76,000 barrels a day, about 1 percent of U.S. production — could not be explained by oil industry officials.

Some questioned the origin of the statistics, citing an older set of figures, released a month earlier by DOE and based on estimates by the oil industry's lobbying group, the American Petroleum Institute.

The new statistics are a revision of the earlier figures and were circulated by the DOE to oil companies earlier this month.

Large Natural Gas Discovery Cited

south-southwest of a "significant" natural gas discovery reported by Texaco in August 1978. It is also only 1.1 miles northwest of a discovery of gas and oil in the same Tennesse well in May and June.

Together, the four gas strikes flow at a rate of 39.2 million cubic feet a day.

There also have been 16 dry holes reported in nearly 20 months of exploratory drilling off the mid-Atlantic coast.

Texaco officials have refused to say whether Texaco and Tenneco geologists believe they have tapped the same gas reservoir. However, other industry and government geologists have said privately it appears the gas strikes are not from a common reservoir.

Brown Restores Odd-Even Days

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. is putting California back on mandatory odd-even gasoline rationing in support of President Carter's embargo of oil imports from Iran.

Brown, who announced his presidential candidacy last week, said Monday he backs Carter's action and won't try to second-guess the president while some 60 Americans remain hostage at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran. "The best and only short-term defense against capricious actions by oil-exporting nations is conservation," he said.

"In view of the president's decision, which I support, to discontinue imports from Iran, it is important for all Americans to redouble oil conservation efforts," Brown said.

Plane Pursued By Four UFOs

VALENCIA, Spain (UPI) — A pilot of a commercial jetliner carrying 109 passengers made an emergency landing to escape pursuit from four unidentified flying objects described as bright red spheres larger than stars.

Transportation Ministry officials said this week the incident began when the Spanish plane was flying over the Mediterranean island of Ibiza last week en route to Tenerife in the Canary Islands.

The director of Valencia Airport said the crew of the Caravelle described the four flying objects as bright red balls, three times larger than stars and shooting sparks.

The crew said after the objects "pursued" them for some four hours, they decided to abort their flight.

The crew members said the objects peeled off of sight about 30 miles from Valencia, on Spain's eastern Mediterranean coast.

Transport Minister Salvador Sanchez Teran traveled to Valencia and ordered an investigation.

Elmer A. Sperry, inventor of gyroscopic flight instruments, was born in 1860.

Carter Gains Support On Taiwan Treaty Move

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department said today that President Carter has the power to terminate unilaterally a U.S.-Taiwan defense treaty because the treaty became invalid when the United States broke relations with Nationalist China.

Department attorney John M. Harmon told the U.S. Court of Appeals that "the change in international circumstances" — namely U.S. diplomatic recognition of mainland China — made the treaty "inoperable" as of last Jan. 1.

On that day, the United States established formal ties with the People's Republic of China and ended diplomatic relations with the Taiwan government.

In a potential landmark case that could play the Constitution's silence on these terminating treaties, lawyers for Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., denied that the treaties became invalid last Jan. 1.

Paul Kamenar, attorney for Goldwater, said the treaty remains in force because "the Taiwan government remains in control of its sovereign territory."

But, said Kamenar, even if future presidents find other treaties are invalid — for instance, in the event case of hostilities between the United States and a treaty country — the president still cannot ignore Congress in ending the treaty.

"Treaty termination is a shared power," Goldwater's lawyer said.

Carter announced last Dec. 15 that the United States and China would establish diplomatic relations. He said he also was ending the 25-year-old treaty that would have brought U.S. troops to Taiwan's defense in case of attack. Goldwater, R-Ariz., backed by 23 other members of Congress, argued before the U.S. District Court here that Carter could not ignore the legislative branch.

On June 6, District Judge Oliver Gasch said the court could not rule until Congress expressed its sentiment in the matter. Hours later, the Senate approved language that its approval is required to end a treaty.

On Oct. 17, Gasch ruled that a treaty termination "must receive the approval of two-thirds of the United States Senate or a majority of both houses of Congress."

Families Evicted To Make Way For Dam

LOUDON, Tenn. (AP) — Federal marshals today evicted the two remaining farm families who had refused to leave their land to make way for the Tennessee Valley Authority's Tellico Dam.

TVA filed writs of assistance asking the marshals to enforce court orders in 1971 and 1974 that turned over farms formerly owned by Nellie McCall and Beryl Moser.

But, Mrs. McCall, a 75-year-old widow, already had packed her belongings when the marshals, accompanied by her attorney, arrived at her home shortly before 9 a.m.

Crying, she clutched the arm of her daughter and said she did not know where she would move as she began walking away from the 91-acre farm her husband had purchased in 1939.

Moser, a 46-year-old mailman, also offered no resistance when three carloads of marshals arrived at his home an hour later.

"They don't leave you much alternative," he said on his front porch after agreeing to leave. "I could have gone to jail but I would have lost my job and everything else."

"It looks like this is about the end of it, but the fight was worth it," he said. "I still feel the same way about it I did 10 years ago: to hell with the TVA."

About 340 families have had to abandon their land because of the dam project.

A clerk at the federal courthouse in Knoxville said deputy marshals picked up the orders immediately after they were filed at 8:30 a.m. TVA had given the holdouts a deadline of Friday last week to leave voluntarily.

Suspect Plans Fight Against Extradition

Joseph Michael DePauw, charged with murder in Lubbock, will go before a U.S. Magistrate in San Jose, Calif., where federal charges of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution against the suspect will be dropped, according to an FBI agent.

Joe Chiaramonte, supervisor in charge of the FBI office in San Jose, said that after the federal charges are dropped, an extradition will be held for DePauw, 28, accused of the Oct. 5 murder of Oland Kenneth Anderson, 63, owner of Neon Specialty Co. at 2402

Ave. J, whose bludgeoned body was found inside his business.

Chiaramonte said this morning he understood DePauw would fight his removal from California to face murder charges in Lubbock, which were filed three days after the victim was found.

"The last I talked to him, he said he wants to fight extradition," the agent said.

If the suspect does fight extradition, the Texas governor's office must show cause for DePauw to be turned over to Texas authorities. "That takes about a week," Chiaramonte said.

If DePauw waives his right of extradition, it will be up to Lubbock authorities on when they want to go to California and pick up the murder suspect.

DePauw surrendered to an FBI agent Sunday at the suspect's brother's San Jose residence, ending a month-long search for the man.

Minnesota Authorities Release Iranian Kidnapping Suspects

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Four Iranian hostages jailed since Friday for allegedly plotting to kidnap Minnesota Gov. Aronow were released today by Ramsey County authorities.

The release came shortly before a deadline for filing charges against the four Mankato State University students, said Ramsey County Attorney Tom Foley.

Foley told reporters here that there had been good cause to arrest the Iranians but not sufficient evidence to formally charge them. "This is still an active investigation," he said.

The students, Hormoz Asadi, 32, Hady Heidary, 35, Feraidonoon Ghodossi, 29, and Mohammad Noori, 34, were arrested during a reception for foreign students at the governor's mansion.

Two were arrested inside the mansion and the other two in a car near the mansion.

Foley said there had been no pressure from the federal government in the case and said it was his decision as prosecutor to release the students.

He said he believes law enforcement agencies acted properly and without overreaction when the arrests were made last Friday. "Our information was accurate," Foley said.

Prior to the release of the students, authorities said they were contemplating charging the four Iranians with conspiracy to kidnap and commit assault and possession of a handgun without a permit.

Police said they recovered two shotguns and a handgun from the car. Foley said the guns were not loaded, but there was ammunition found in the vehicle.

A fifth student arrested with the Iranians, Antoun Stambouli, a 25-year-old Sudanese, was released Saturday because of insufficient evidence.

Courthouse Gets New Numbers

Lubbock County Courthouse has instituted a new telephone system with changed phone numbers, effective today.

The new main number for the courthouse is 741-8000, and courthouse information is 741-8011.

"Prior to installation of the new phone system, calls went through a PBX operator and had to be connected to the individual departments," County Auditor Dale Gallimore said. "Callers will now be able to call directly to all departments in the courthouse."

Some of the more frequently called offices, with their new numbers, are:

County judge 741-8008, county clerk 741-8034, criminal district attorney 741-8043, district clerk 741-8064, tax assessor-collector/motor vehicle department 741-8028, tax assessor-collector/property tax department 741-8026, jury pool 741-8060, sheriff 741-8091, adult probation 741-8081, juvenile probation 741-8088.

The membership for the U.S. House of Representatives has been fixed at 435 since 1912.

United Way Uncertain Of Accomplishing Goal

The United Way campaign comes to an end Wednesday, 12 days later than originally scheduled, with an additional report meeting at Memorial Civic Center at noon.

Whether the drive will keep alive Lubbock's string of successive victories or whether the 100 percent mark will be missed for the first time will remain in doubt until the final minutes of the report, according to chairman Joe Price.

"Since the Nov. 2 report, when we were 5 percent short of the goal," Price said, "the campaign cabinet and team captains have been in constant touch attempting to close out the drive. Our volunteers are certainly not lacking in zeal. They know the job has to be done."

The total raised at the fourth report, originally planned as the "victory" report, was about $1.7 million, about $100,000 short of the goal. Since then, according to Price, additional contributions have brought the amount to about $1.73, leaving the drive $66,000 short.

Campaign funds are budgeted and allocated this year to 34 community service agencies. Failing to make the goal, according to Price, would result in the 26-member budget division's going through a rebudgeting process which would result in a loss of services from the agencies.

"This has never happened," Price said, "and it would be difficult to rebudget since the volunteer budget division was quite stringent in the spring budgeting period."

The noon luncheon report meeting is

Death Toll Unknown In Hospital Blast

PARMA, Italy (AP) — An explosion in the heart ward of the city hospital, possibly involving oxygen tanks, killed at least four persons today. Officials said 20 to 25 others, mostly patients, were believed buried under the debris and also might be dead.

"We fear at least 20 are dead, possibly more," a spokesman for Parma's Main Hospital said. Parma is northwest of Bologna.

Media representatives testified this morning in a change of venue hearing in 140th District Court about news coverage given the June 16 deaths of Lubbock school principals William Bravenec and Tommy Herring.

Newsman were called by attorneys for Ramaldo Belasco Jr., who is charged with involuntary manslaughter in connection with the deaths. The two principals were killed when the car in which they were riding was in collision with another car at Boston Avenue and 22nd Street.

Belasco's attorneys, Mark Hall and John O'Shea, are seeking a change of venue for the 17-year-old defendant's trial, contending excessive publicity concerning the deaths will prevent him from receiving a fair trial in Lubbock County.

Most of this morning's witnesses testified the early morning collision received no more coverage than similar news events.

However, Sharon Hibner of KLBK-TV, channel 13, said her station did broadcast a commentary the day after the collision calling the accident "the irresponsible act of one individual that altered the lives of two families."

Miss Hibner, a producer of the news at the station, said the commentary was broadcast at the suggestion of channel 13's general manager. She said she could not remember a similar commentary concerning an alleged criminal act during her three and a half years with the station.

But she told assistant criminal district attorney Travis Ware such commentaries in themselves are not unusual.

Also testifying this morning were Avalanche-Journal circulation manager Robert McVay and A-J reporter Esther Longoria, KLBK-TV news director Steve Burgess and Dick Benedict, news director for KCBD TV, channel 11.

Ohio Hearse Firm To Close Doors

PIQUA, Ohio (AP) — Proper burials may never be quite the same. Old-fashioned economics is forcing one of the world's largest hearse manufacturers to close its doors.

The last deluxe hearse that made famous the Miller-Meteor division of Wayne Corp. rolls off the company's custom assembly line this fall. About 250 workers in this small, western Ohio farming community will be without jobs.

"People are living longer, but that had nothing to do with us going out of business," said Dudley Starr of Wayne Corp. He said funeral directors just would not tolerate the switch to smaller, lighter hearses brought on by government mileage requirements and the price of Mideast oil.

"Ohio buried everybody," said Starr, who noted that Miller-Meteor, the Superior Coach Co., of Lima, and the Sears and Scoville Co., of Cincinnati, are virtually the only firms in the hearse-building business. He said sales for the three manufacturers declined from a peak of 2,800 in 1968 to 900 last year.

"They liked the big, long ones," Starr said. "For many years, cars got longer and longer, and funeral directors just loved them."

But now, he said, funeral directors are choosing to make the hearses they own last longer or to rent a hearse from a rental agency.

The company and its two competitors also make Cadillac ambulances. But Starr said government regulations encouraged other companies to make ambulances on truck or van chassis. Miller-Meteor and two other Ohio firms found themselves faced with 80 competitors.

Miller-Meteor employees build the hearses from heavy, Cadillac chassis.

They add the custom-built top and variety of gadgets.

Roller Skating Accidents Rise

NEW YORK (UPI) — Injuries from roller skating have increased dramatically since the sport has become a national fad, the Insurance Information Institute reports.

In the first seven months of 1979, an estimated 74,000 people were treated at hospital emergency rooms for injuries from roller skating, the III said.

In 1978, there were 93,000 roller skating injuries, the III said. Less than five years ago, it said, there was an average of 55,000 roller skating injuries a year.

The Institute, in a report based on statistics from the U.S. Consumer Products Safety Commission, said one-third of the injuries are fractures, usually of the wrist, knee or elbow.

Most of those injured are children or teen-agers, although one-fourth are over 25 years of age, the Institute said.

Carter Slates Food Airlift To Refugees

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, acting on recommendations from his wife, today approved an immediate airlift of special food for children and other supplies to Indochinese refugee camps in Thailand.

Rosalynn Carter announced the president's approval today when she detailed her recommendations for helping thousands of sick and starving refugees she saw during her inspection tour of camps in Thailand last week.

The airlift will contain vegetable oils and other food to meet the nutritional needs of the refugees, many of whom suffer from malnutrition.

"There will be at least one shipment immediately and if we need more we will do it," said Richard Holbrooke, assistant secretary of state for Far East and Asian affairs. He accompanied Mrs. Carter on her journey and helped prepare her report to the president.

Mrs. Carter told a White House meeting of representatives of relief agencies that her husband also has approved her recommendation to send $2 million immediately to purchase rice for the refugees and $4 million for care and maintenance of the camps.

Holbrooke said all of the money comes out of an existing $69 million pledge the president made to help the refugees, but it will be expedited.

He said that during the trip, American officials were told that the money was sitting in Washington doing the refugees no good.

In her report, the first lady also suggested an airlift of equipment like fork lifts and cranes to Cambodia to help distribute food and medical supplies. Carter has not yet approved that because the Cambodian government will not agree.

The airlift to Thailand also will include mobile equipment to provide water for refugee camps and equipment to improve communication between camps and relief agencies in Bangkok. Mrs. Carter said.

"We cannot lose time," she told the White House gathering. "The situation is urgent."

Mrs. Carter's other recommendations included:

- Appointing quickly a new U.S. coordinator for refugee affairs. Ambassador Dick Clark, who held the position, resigned recently to work for Edward M. Kennedy's presidential campaign.

- Choosing sites now for the influx of an estimated 100,000 to 250,000 additional Cambodian refugees expected in Thailand soon.

- Increasing the number of American volunteers participating in the relief effort. She said the Peace Corps should be asked to volunteer their personnel to the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees.

- Sending unilateral truck deliveries from Thailand to western Cambodia "as a last resort."

Policemen Shot At San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO (UPI) — Three policemen were shot today in a gunfight with two men barricaded in a house near Wheatley High School.

The first officer was shot after he attempted to stop two men traveling on a 10-speed bicycle, according to police radio broadcasts. The first officer was wounded in the leg and shoulder and was rushed to a hospital.

Two other officers were wounded shortly before noon as they surrounded the house where the two suspects sought refuge. It was not known how seriously they were injured.

Emergency Medical Service technicians were preparing to don bulletproof vests in an effort to reach the two wounded officers.

Texans Get Tough With Iranians

By The Associated Press

Anti-Iranian demonstrations spread to two college campuses in Texas Monday, where Iranian flags were set afire and the nation's leader was burned in effigy. There were no arrests.

Hundreds of Texas A&I University students surrounded about 50 Iranians and forced them to take refuge in a dormitory during a protest on the Kingsville campus.

Campus security guards quickly formed a protective line to prevent a confrontation between the two groups, university officials said.

The demonstrators, who burned an Iranian flag and sang "America," demanded the 200 Iranian students attending the college be deported. They remained outside the dormitory for about 30 minutes, then dispersed.

In Beaumont, an engineering professor at Lamar University asked several Iranian students to leave his classes shortly before about 500 protesters burned the Ayatollah Khomeini in effigy.

Anti-Iranian demonstrators marched through downtown Houston for the fourth time in five days.

Bud Leonard, Lamar's vice president for university relations, said a "scuffle" between American and Iranian students occurred late Monday morning in front of the campus police office.

However, he said, the confrontation consisted mostly of "pushing." There were no arrests and no injuries reported.

Campus police escorted several Iranian students to safety from shouting matches with groups of sign-carrying protesters who called on the United States "to quit bleating like sheep and start roaring like lions."

Dr. F. C. Jelen, a Lamar chemical engineering professor said he asked four Iranians to leave two of his morning classes.

"Classes exist to teach, and the students cannot learn when such feelings of animosity exist," Jelen said.

"I asked them — I did not force them — I asked them to leave, and they did. An American student sitting next to an Iranian student is just not going to put his full efforts into his studies," he said.

The protest was organized by Lloyd Ewart, 28, an ex-Marine, who said he was asked by school administrators early Monday to cancel the demonstration.

A 25-year-old Iranian student, shoved about by the Lamar crowd, said he "could not blame" the students for their anger, but he could "not believe the American hostages would be harmed."

In Houston, a small plane circled the 40-story Dresser Tower that houses the Iranian consulate and dumped leaflets during another demonstration.

Signed "The John Wayne Society — Every American Citizen is a Member," the leaflets urged that Americans stop buying where Iranians work, that Iranians be fired and denied housing and that restaurants and merchants refuse to serve them.

"If in doubt, ask for identification. Only Iranians will refuse," the leaflets read. "Starve the Iranians out of Our Country."

The leaflets also called for daily noon rallies at the consulate, where several hundred persons began the Houston demonstrations Thursday by heading their protest march with huge American flags and photographs of Wayne, the late actor the protesters described as a symbol of American patriotism.

A small protest scheduled in downtown Dallas fizzled in the brisk cold and light rain. Organizers had scheduled a noon rally at Thanksgiving Square. However, directors said they would not allow the four protesters onto the private park.

The four organizers moved to a park on the west end of town, but picked up no supporters.

Petitions sponsored by a group known as The American Committee and asking that the United States sever all ties with Iran and use military force if any hostages are harmed have been sent to several Texas congressmen.

John Sandefur, 29, spokesman for the committee, said petitions with 1,300 signatures were sent U.S. Sens. John Tower and Lloyd Bentsen and to Ali Aga, the Iranian ambassador in Washington.

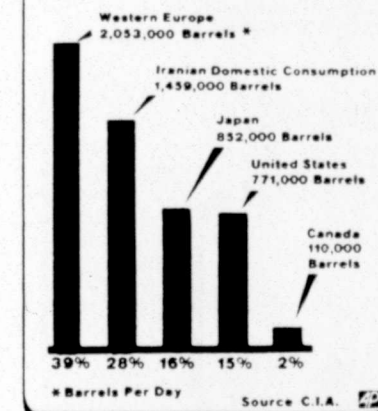

Sandefur, a steel salesman, said the "loosely organized, apolitical" committee was formed in response to the seizure of the embassy and the taking of 60 American hostages.

Earlier Monday, Bentsen said he was in total agreement with President Carter's decision to stop purchasing Iranian oil.

"It was inevitable that the Iranians would have ultimately done this anyway, but we beat them to the punch for a change," Bentsen said in a statement released by his Washington office.

Bentsen said the president's decision obviously meant more intense energy conservation efforts would have to begin.

Militants In Tehran Bar Compromise With U.S.

ferred new proposals for ending the 10-day-old Tehran embassy impasse, stopping short of insisting on the shah's immediate extradition. But the Moslem militants holding 98 hostages at the U.S. Embassy rejected any compromise, Tehran Radio reported.

The officials said the hostages might be freed if the United States acknowledges that Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi is a criminal, allows an international investigation of the deposed monarch and hands over his U.S. property, it was reported from the Iranian capital.

The State Department said this appeared to represent a softening of the Iranian position.

But a Tehran Radio broadcast said later that spokesmen for the student militants rejected "any conciliatory proposal" regarding the shah.

The students said their movement was based on ideological principles and they cannot compromise, according to the broadcast, monitored in London.

Iranian Foreign Minister Abolhasan Bani Sadr today reiterated the key demand of the students — that the United States surrender the shah to Iran for trial, the Kuwait news agency reported from Tehran. He is currently hospitalized in New York for cancer treatment.

But Bani Sadr added, "The United States should, at least acknowledge the shah is guilty," the report said.

Another member of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's Revolutionary Council, Sadeq Gotbzadeh, set out more detailed conditions, said Iran was not retreating from its demand for the shah's extradition, but added that the Iranians were ready "to end the occupation of the U.S. Embassy before the extradition of the shah for humanitarian reasons and the interests of the hostages," the Kuwait agency reported.

"We will get the shah sooner or later," he was quoted as saying.

He said the hostages "may be freed if the United States acknowledges that the shah is guilty" and agrees to an international inquiry "to investigate his crimes," the Kuwait agency reported.

The Yugoslav news agency Tanjug reported that Gotbzadeh said the United States must also agree to return all of the shah's U.S. property to the Iranian government.

Gotbzadeh, who is director of Iranian radio and television, said he was speaking only in his own name and not for the Council. But Bani Sadr's statements might represent the official position, since he has emerged as the leading spokesman for the Iranian regime over the past week.

Supreme revolutionary leader Khomeini has been in seclusion at his headquarters in Qum, 100 miles south of Tehran.

State Department spokesman Jack Tuohy said U.S. officials were examining the reports. "If true, this would appear to be a softening of their position... Any movement is welcome as long as it's upward," he said.

The Kuwait agency said Bani Sadr accused Washington of creating a "war climate" and called for a meeting of the U.N. Security Council.

Khomeini's revolutionary regime responded Monday to President Carter's ban on U.S. imports of Iranian oil with the announcement that the Revolutionary Council already had decided to cut off exports to the United States. Radio Tehran reported early today that workers at the Kharg Island terminal in the Persian Gulf stopped loading a tanker, the 125,582-ton Northern Lion, that was taking on oil for the United States.

It appeared unlikely, however, that the new proposals reported today were in reaction to Carter's ban. Radio Tehran reported Monday before the president's announcement that the Revolutionary Council was going to discuss "a proposal concerning the American Embassy."

The Security Council appealed to Iran last Friday for the immediate release of the hostages held prisoner by Iranian students in the American Embassy since Nov. 4.

Iran's charge d'affaires at the United Nations, Jamal Shemiran, met with Waldheim in New York Monday and said his government had no reply to the council appeal yet. But he told reporters the issue will not be resolved until the United States hands over the shah.

Solons Rap Military Training Of Iranians

normal training schedule, but that they have been instructed by the Khomeini government to grant no interviews and allow no photographs.

Although the Iranian situation has sparked several incidents involving Iranians in this country, Lubbock has seen no real protest activity since Crown Prince Reza Pahlavi's residence in Lubbock for his own military training at Reese.

Jackie Behrens, director of International Programs at Texas Tech University, said, "I think we're sitting in a pretty good position in Lubbock and at Texas Tech." She said Iranian students are "mixed in their feelings" about the takeover of the embassy in Tehran, but that most just want to finish their education here.

The Iranians are following a regular class schedule, she said. There have been no reports of incidents on the campus over the situation, though Mrs. Behrens thinks it likely the visiting students have been the object of derogatory comments by their classmates.

The weekend retreat of the crown prince, located in a fashionable section of West Lubbock, remains on the market — though at a greatly reduced price than originally listed. The home and furniture once listed for $650,000 has been reduced to $350,000 — and the owners will accept $265,000 for the house alone.

Lubbock real estate agent Stephen Von Phul told the Avalanche-Journal he is no longer handling the sale of the home for the present owner, the government of the Ayatollah Khomeini. An Iranian student at Lubbock Christian College lives in the home, working strictly as a caretaker, Von Phul said.

The real estate agent indicated there might be some trouble over the title of the property in the event of a sale since there has been a call from many political figures to freeze Iranian assets in this country.

COUPON COUNTERS — More than 600 workers handle coupons at this redemption center in Juarez, Mexico, across the border from El Paso. Frank Sullivan, president of the operation, says U.S. manufacturers will circulate about 122 billion coupons next year. Sullivan's company receives the coupons from independent grocers and acts as a clearing house, counting and logging the clippings. Without such a clearing agent, grocers would have to deal separately with all manufacturers. Sullivan's office receives so many coupons, the post office has issued it a zip code. (AP Laserphoto)

Business Helps Grocery Stores Change Coupons Into Money

EL PASO (AP) — Grocery coupons may be just a piece of paper to most consumers, but to Frank Sullivan, they're money in the bank.

Sullivan, 51, is president of Coupon Redemption, Inc., a clearing house operation with offices here and a plant just across the border in Juarez, Mexico.

The company employs 600 persons at the Juarez plant to process more than 2 million coupons daily, Sullivan said. Each clipping is counted by hand.

"The grocers accumulate coupons until they have enough to make it worthwhile to redeem them. That's when they ship them to us," Sullivan said.

From the El Paso office, the coupons are transported to Mexico where they are separated, logged, counted, re-logged, re-counted and shipped off to the manufacturer who issued them.

"We make our money off the handling fee," Sullivan explained. "The manufacturers pay the face value of the coupons plus a 5-cent handling fee on each coupon."

The company pays grocers face value on the coupons plus a portion of the handling fee within 30 days of receipt.

"If they want the money immediately, then they just get the face value and we keep the whole handling fee," Sullivan said.

So why not bypass Sullivan and ship the coupons directly to the manufacturer?

Oil Spill Fire Still Untapped

GALVESTON (AP) — Coast Guard pollution fighting specialists continued efforts to contain an oil spill from the crippled Burmah Agate today after fire destroyed some of their containment equipment Monday.

Coast Guard officials said about 200 feet of expensive rubber booms caught fire from burning oil that seeped off the ship.

Coast Guard Chief Petty Officer Richard Griggs said there were no new explosions on the tanker Monday but firefighters reported the intensity of the fire increased.

The Burmah Agate and a freighter, the Mimosa, collided in the pre-dawn hours Nov. 1 near the entrance to the Galveston Ship Channel about six miles offshore. Sixteen bodies have been recovered and 16 others still were missing.

"At the grocery store level, it's next to impossible for the store to sort out these coupons from different manufacturers and invoice them," he said. There are about 1,800 manufacturers who will circulate 122 billion coupons next year, he added.

Sullivan said the average coupon value is 22 cents.

State Raises Banks' Interest Rates

AUSTIN (AP) — The State Depository Board — expressing concern over the possible effect on smaller banks — has reluctantly raised the interest rate banks must pay on state savings accounts.

"That was a rough one," State Treasurer Warren Harding said of the board's decision Monday to hike the annual rate from 10.5 percent to 11.5 percent.

With a balance of approximately $2 billion in time deposits, the interest rate increase should earn the state an additional $20 million a year.

More than 1,300 banks keep state deposits.

The new rate went into effect today for all new time accounts and redosits. Other time accounts will be charged 10.5 percent interest until the accounts mature.

Chief Clerk Morris Stevens of the State Treasurer's Office said 43 banks had not reapplied to keep state funds. Six told the treasurer's office they definitely did not want state money.

Two — the First State Banks of Chilton and Rising Star — said they were not reapplying because of higher interest rates. The board raised the interest rate from 9 percent to 10.5 percent on Oct. 11. The two banks hold a combined total of $286,391 in state time accounts.

The board set a Nov. 30 deadline for banks to reapply for state funds.

Board data showed "prime rates" — the rate large banks charge their best business borrowers — was fluctuating between 15.25 percent and 15.5 percent as of Friday.

State Banking Commissioner Robert Stewart, a board member, said of the new 11.5 percent rate — "When you start talking about rates like that, it scares you to death."

However, he said, "The state is entitled to get all it can."

Asked if he was "overly concerned" about banks dropping out of the deposit program, Stevens said, "I'm always concerned about any recommendation this office makes ... but the basis is not to punish anyone ... we're not showing favoritism."

Stewart said, "We want to avoid the concentration of (state) funds in major metropolitan areas."

Harding, also a board member, said,

"We don't want to do anything to hurt any of the banks, especially small communities with just one bank."

The board voted 3-0 to raise the interest rate subject to "prompt action" by the board if other rates should decline.

John Connally, a former treasury secretary and Texas governor, did not wish to comment on Reagan's candidacy although he acknowledges that the Califor-

Farmers Suffer Severe Losses After Blizzard

DALHART (UPI) — The farmers and ranchers in Dallam County and surrounding areas have been through a "terrible period" equal only in cattle and crop losses to the devastating "blizzard of '57," an official says.

Robert Devin, county extension agent-agriculture, said a freak Oct. 30 snowstorm accompanied by 70 mph winds that raked the Texas and Oklahoma panhandles for 12 hours immediately killed 6,000 cattle in Dallam County.

Another 3,000 head, he said, have since died. The 9,000 cattle lost in the northwestern Panhandle county has inflicted a conservative $3.6 million loss, he said, in what apparently was the most damaging winter storm in years.

"This storm has been related (by farmers and ranchers) in a lot of ways to the blizzard of '57," he added.

Range cattle caught in the storm "started moving and quit eating. The duration of that storm meant they walked a great distance and were stressed more than cattle in a feedlot. They were bunched up and had feed unavailable to them," Devin added.

Reagan Set To Formally Declare Presidential Bid

NEW YORK (AP) — Former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, in his third bid for the presidency, is taking his place in front of a crowded field of candidates seeking the 1980 Republican nomination. Reagan, scheduled to formally declare his candidacy at 6:30 p.m. CST today, enters the race with a front-runner's status that even his major rivals acknowledge.

His announcement brings to 10 the number of Republicans seeking the nation's highest office. Three men, including President Carter, are running for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Although Reagan has done virtually no campaigning thus far, his declaration of candidacy has long been planned by his strategists. And every poll lists him as the favorite of his party's voters.

How do the other GOP candidates feel about Reagan's candidacy?

"If I didn't think I could catch him, I wouldn't be running around the country," said Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee, who is the minority leader of the Senate.

"The way I'll catch him is to convince the Republican Party that I have the best chance to be elected. Nomination is not the name of the game, but getting elected is," Baker said.

George Bush of Texas, who was CIA director in the Nixon administration, said Reagan's formal entry into the race affects his own race "not a whit. My strategy has been predicated on his entering the race some day."

"I'm going to do exactly what I have been doing for the last year, continuing to travel, continue to work and continuing to beat him in straw polls — as I have four times in Iowa and in Maine last week," said Bush, who also has served as a special envoy to China, ambassador to the United Nations and chairman of the Republican National Committee.

John Connally, a former treasury secretary and Texas governor, did not wish to comment on Reagan's candidacy although he acknowledges that the Californian enters the race as the early favorite for the nomination, a Connally aide said. Reagan's 30-minute speech announcing his candidacy, which was videotaped here Monday, will be aired in its entirety on local television stations in most parts of the nation.

A condensed five-minute version will be shown nationwide on CBS at 9 p.m. CST.

The Reagan campaign paid a total of $400,000 to produce and promote the speech and to buy the needed air time, according to Charles Black, Reagan's national political director.

Reagan, who for most of the decade has been the nominal leader of the right wing of the Republican Party, will give his full speech to a $500-a-plate fundraising dinner at the New York Hilton Hotel. Aides said they expected about 700 Republicans to attend.

Ohio Officials Probe Boarding House Fire

PIONEER, Ohio (AP) — Investigators expect to pinpoint by the end of the week the cause of a boarding house fire that killed 14 women, including the owner of the home.

A team from the state fire marshal's office continued to probe the wreckage Monday, and Pioneer Fire Chief Paul Loomis said they were expected to finish work at the site today.

The information gathered by investigators will be reviewed by experts from the state agency, which will then issue a ruling on the cause of Sunday's blaze at the Coats Boarding House, he said.

Initially, authorities said the fire began when a 4-year-old child accidentally set fire to a couch in a ground-floor apartment. But later, Pioneer Police Chief David Norris and Loomis said a faulty heating or electrical system might have caused the fire.

Investigators on Monday questioned the boy and his mother, Julie Camper, who was present at the time the fire began.

The two-story structure, originally built as a one-family home in the late 1800s, had been remodeled into about 10 apartments, said Norris, son-in-law of the owners. He said 28 people were in the house when the fire broke out, most of them aged or retarded residents of the boarding house.

Multiple gas heaters were used in the building, Loomis said.

It was called the Coats Nursing Home until 1973, but its owners decided to convert it into a boarding house, partly because newly enacted state laws governing nursing homes would have required them to install a costly sprinkler and fire alarm system.

Mayor R. Bruce Kidston said sprinklers could have kept the fire from spreading as rapidly as it did, saving the lives of the victims.

The village has no local fire ordinances, said Loomis, adding that he did not think they would be feasible in a small village like Pioneer because of the cost and manpower needed to enforce them.

In 1976, Reagan came within 60 votes of winning the Republican nomination from then-President Gerald R. Ford. Eight years earlier, he had made a minor bid for the nomination.

Reduction In Net Income Forecast For Farmers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite anticipated increases in gross farm receipts next year, farmers can expect a reduction in their net income in 1980.

In contrast, the Agriculture Department reports that net farm income in 1979 is expected to reach $30 to $32 billion, the second highest in history and a gain of more than 10 percent from 1978.

The relatively favorable net farm income picture for this year stems from sharply higher livestock prices in the first half of the year and a record large 1979 grain crop, with grain prices supported by a strong grain export demand.

Although total production expenses will jump about 16 percent this year to a total of around $114 billion, cash receipts from crop and livestock marketings will total a record high $129 billion, also a gain of 16 percent over 1978.

The outlook for 1980 net farm income is not so favorable.

Cash receipts from livestock and crop sales may reach new records in 1980, possibly growing 2 to 3 percent over this year, but total production expenses are expected to more than offset gains in gross income. As a result, net farm income next year could decline to around the mid $20 billion level, the Agriculture Department forecasts.

The department cautions net farm income is extremely sensitive to small changes in average prices. For example, at current levels, a 1 percent increase in prices received by farmers translates directly to a $1.3 billion increase in cash receipts and net income.

As in 1979, fuel expenses will continue to be a big increase item in 1980, perhaps gaining by another third or more. Expenditures for fertilizer, especially anhydrous and urea, and higher interest costs will be major factors raising total production costs.

But gains in farm input costs probably will be much less in 1980 than this year. Only modest increases are expected in prices of pesticides, seed and hired labor.

Factors underlying farm income are fairly well established through early 1980, but much uncertainty still remains for the last half of the year. By mid-year, grain prices will begin to be influenced by new crop prospects and livestock producers will respond accordingly. Also, crop prices depend heavily on export demand, weather conditions and the severity of economic conditions abroad.

Farm real estate values also will be affected by the decline in net income. Although farmland values rose at a rate of 16 percent this year, next year's escalation will be much slower, perhaps about 4 percent.

Declines in net farm income next year will not be shared equally by all farmers. Pork producers' incomes will be substantially reduced next year and returns to cattle feeders and broiler producers may be tight at best, the Agriculture Department says.

Prices for soybean producers will be down and growers of citrus and vegetables face potential price declines. The 1980 outlook for feed grain, wheat, dairymen and feeder cattle producers, however, looks favorable.

Even considering supply and price prospects for the various commodities, the current financial condition of individual farmers will be an important factor in terms of their ability to endure annual income fluctuations. Individual farmers with recently purchased farmland will tend to have a higher ratio of debts to assets. While 1979 will be an excellent year for farmers, with a record flow of funds using only about 15 percent debt financing, next year over 21 percent of farmers' funds are expected to come from lenders at higher interest rates.

The tightening of the money supply instituted by the Federal Reserve in October to fight inflation has created a situation where farmers now face the highest interest rates of this century.

The Almanac TODAY IN HISTORY

Scottish author Robert Louis Stevenson was born Nov. 13, 1850.

On this date in history:

In 1927, the Holland Tunnel under the Hudson River between New York City and New Jersey was opened. It had been under construction seven years.

In 1933, the first recorded "sit-down" strike in the United States was staged by workers at the Hormel Packing Company in Austin, Minn.

In 1973, the U.S. Senate approved a bill authorizing construction of an oil pipeline from Alaska.

In 1974, Yasser Arafat, head of the Palestine Liberation Organization, told the U.N. General Assembly the goal of the PLO was a state of Palestine in which Moslems, Christians and Jews would live together in peace.

A thought for the day: Robert Louis Stevenson said, "There is no duty we so much underrate as the duty of being happy."

Raider Runner Looks To NCAA Championships

By CHUCK McDONALD
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

For Greg Lautenslager, Texas Tech's cross-country specialist, the hard part is behind him now. In front of him is the NCAA championships — and a chance for an all-American ranking.

Lautenslager qualified for the prestigious NCAA meet last Saturday in meet at Georgetown where he finished fifth in the District 6 gathering by completing the 10,000-meter (about 300 yards more than six miles) course in 30:16 — a personal best.

It was the second straight year that the Tech senior has qualified for nationals, and Lautenslager said that the qualifying race is actually more difficult than the championship itself.

"I was really worried before the race Saturday," said Lautenslager. "All I could think about was what if I didn't make it. I mean, the nationals are what I've been working for all year."

"After I came so close last year, I feel like I've got a shot at making All-American this year."

The NCAA championships will be run Monday in Bethlehem, Pa., and the top 25 finishers are awarded the coveted all-American status. But more runners than that can qualify for honors because the top 25 Americans are awarded the designation in addition to the top foreign entries. For instance, last year the first 36 finishers were given the award out of a field of 250. Lautenslager finished 48th running in a steady snowstorm in Champaign, Ill.

But to fully understand the magnitude of a runner reaching the NCAA championships, consider this: Last Saturday there were more than 2,000 runners across the country attempting to qualify for the national meet.

Next week in Bethlehem the field will be narrowed to 250. And if you think Tech track coach Corky Oglesby isn't just a little bit proud of his star pupil, well, think again.

"I think Greg has the potential to be an All-American," said Oglesby Monday. "He's just run super this fall and if everything comes into place there's no telling how well he can do."

Lautenslager is forced to agree with his coach. "Last year I was so excited just to get to nationals," he said. "But now I've been there before; I want to be up there with the leaders at the finish line."

And the best way to be among the leaders at the end of the race, says the Tech runner, is to be out in front at the start of the race.

"It's like no other race you'll ever run," he explained. "There's about 250 runners all boxed in together at the start — and if you don't just shoot out in front at the start, you'll spend the first mile or so just dodging around people. You've got to run the first 200 yards at full speed just to get away from everybody."

But things don't get any easier after the first couple hundred yards — no sir. The runners will have 10,000 meters (six miles, 385 yards) of rolling ground and hills to cover.

"I've heard that the course in Bethlehem is pretty tough," said Lautenslager, "but I really think that's an advantage to me because, by now, I've run so many tough courses that I think I can handle them better than some younger freshmen or sophomores."

"When I come to a hill, I just think 'I've got to charge this thing and pick up some time,'" he said, smiling. "Sometimes a younger runner will really get shook up about a hill."

"A lot of running is just a matter of experience and I think I've got plenty of that by now."

But whatever happens Monday, Lautenslager is prepared for it. "You can never tell what's going to happen," he said. "Some guys may choke, or someone may just run out of their head — maybe I'll just run out of my head."

"The nationals are just so much different from a regular race — it's gonna be crazy."

Hofer Takes O.J.'s Spot In 49er Lineup

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The benching of a superstar — a former superstar, to be more exact — has occurred without a fuss because of O.J. Simpson's class and the play of Paul Hofer.

"Paul is the starter and had a great game. The coach told me not to worry about it, and I understand," said Simpson after sitting out an entire game and watching Hofer rush for 147 yards in the San Francisco 49ers' latest loss.

This season, Simpson's 11th in pro football, will be his last, and the 49ers, with a 1-10 record, must think of the future.

Hofer, a running back in his fourth National Football League season, also caught three passes for 30 yards Sunday at New Orleans, turning in his second straight outstanding performance as the 49ers lost 31-20 to the Saints.

Simpson started a week earlier against the Oakland Raiders, carried three times for eight yards, then left the game. Hofer ran 12 times for 102 yards and caught seven passes for 64 yards.

Simpson, at age 32 and with several knee injuries behind him, makes no claim that he is the running back he once was, the one who set an NFL season record with 2,003 yards rushing in 1973 for the Buffalo Bills. He doesn't argue with coach Bill Walsh's decision to go with Hofer.

"I would like to play more, but I do understand what the coach is doing and he's doing the right thing," said Simpson. "He's got to think about next year and I'm not going to be here."

"Fortunately, I don't have an ego problem."

Walsh said he decided early Sunday, after New Orleans raced to a big lead, not to use Simpson, the NFL's No. 2 all-time rusher with a total of 11,159 yards and No. 1 all-time money-maker with his current salary of about $800,000.

"There wasn't any sense in putting him through the punishment and pounding on that artificial turf. But he's a great asset to this team and there will be a game or two or three yet where he will help us," said Walsh.

Simpson, a native San Franciscan, has been treated kindly by the 49ers' fans although he has rushed for only 976 yards — 593 in 10 games last season and 383 this year — since joining the team.

But Hofer, because of performances as a part-time player in past seasons, ranked as one of the most popular of the 49ers' players even before moving ahead of Simpson midway in the season.

"I just can't believe it's happening to me. I came in as a special teams player," Hofer said of his development into a starter playing ahead of Simpson.

Walsh likes to think of it as the 49ers finding a new star rather than saying goodbye to an old one.

"Paul Hofer hits the hole as quickly as any back I've seen in a while, he has excellent balance and will give you everything he's got down to his last breath," said Walsh.

Sugar Quiet On Selection

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A Sugar Bowl executive says it is too early to speculate on an opponent for the Southeastern Conference representative in the Jan. 1 college football classic.

Mickey Holmes, executive director, responded to reports that either Arkansas or Texas would play in the Sugar Bowl under an arrangement that was to be presented Monday to bowl sponsors.

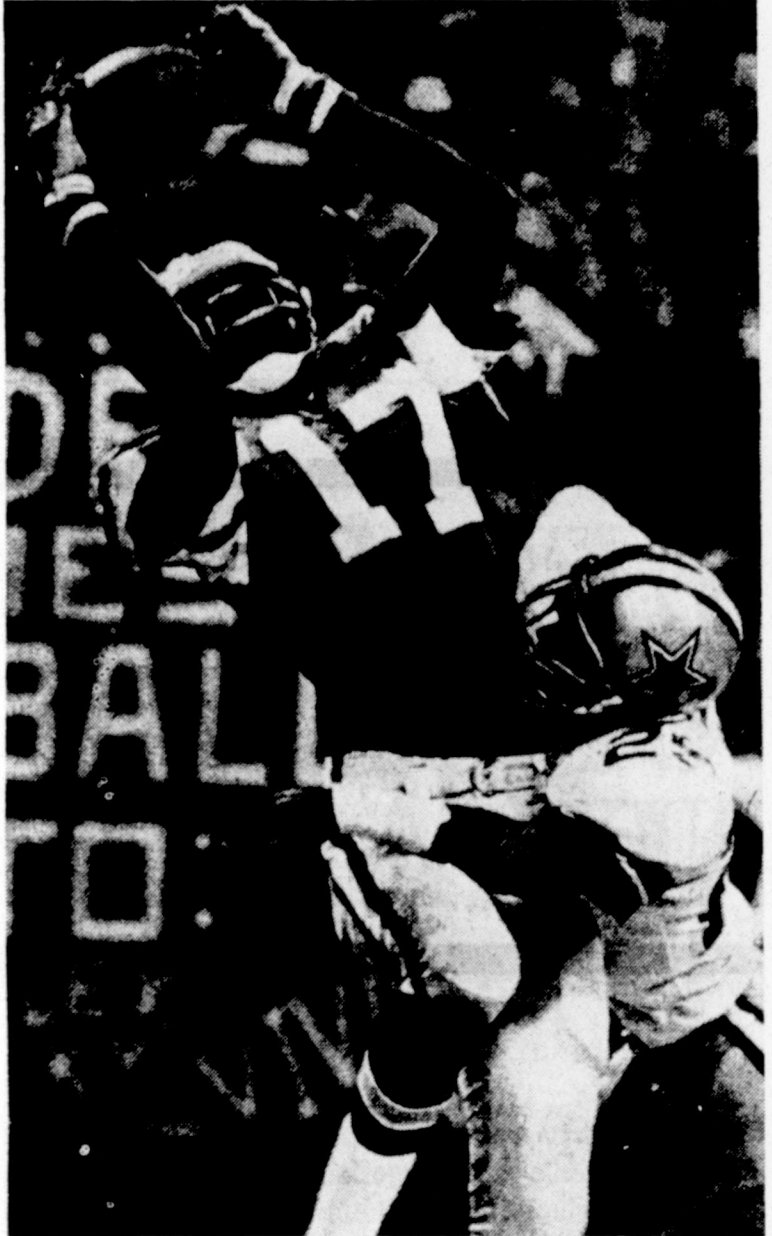

The SEC will fill one of the berths with either Alabama or Georgia when bowl invitations start going out at 6 p.m. Saturday.

"Sure, that's one of our options," Holmes said Monday of the possibility that either Texas or Arkansas might get a Sugar bid.

He said there would be more meetings, one of them today, "and that is one of our options. But there are others, too. There still exists quite a series of ifs."

Although No. 1 Alabama has the SEC championship locked up, unranked Georgia — with four nonconference losses — could be the SEC Sugar representative since the Crimson Tide went to the New Orleans bowl last year. If Georgia beats Auburn this Saturday, it would give send a four-time loser to the Sugar Bowl for the first time ever.

Last Jan. 1, Alabama bested Penn State in the Sugar Bowl and went on to be named national champion.

Monterey, Coronado Win In Cross-Country

The Monterey boys and Coronado girls' varsity cross-country teams dominated the District 4-AAAA meet here Saturday.

Monterey's boys had four of the first six finishers, including first-place winner David Howard. In the scoring of lowest point total wins, MHS had 27 points. Coronado was second with 33, and Lubbock fifth with 120. Hereford was third with 91 points, and Plainview had 110 for fourth.

The Coronado girls won their varsity event taking five of the first eight places, although Mindee Mayfield of Monterey finished first individually in a district-record time of 12:34 over two miles. MHS finished second in the team scores with 31 points, behind Coronado's 25.

Hereford was third with 82 and Plainview fourth with 107. LHS did not field a team.

Dumas won the District 1-AAA boys' meet, with Dunbar third and Estacado fifth. The highest finish among Lubbock entries was Dunbar's Lewis Soto, who was fourth.

Bernice Navariz, of Dunbar, set a 1-AAA district record in winning the girls'

Erleben Returns To NO Hospital

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — All-purpose kicker Russell Erleben, the 11th-player chosen in this year's National Football League college draft, was hospitalized Monday with blood vessel problems in his left leg.

"I've got something like infected blood vessels," he said. "Whatever it is, it has some kind of long medical name I don't remember."

It was the latest setback in a series of ailments and injuries that began in training camp with a sore back. He was fit for the final exhibition game and opened the season against Atlanta.

A three-way tie resulted in the eighth grade zone volleyball playoffs Monday at O.L. Slaton Junior High School. Slaton, Hutchinson and Matthews tied and will play off Wednesday for the zone title. Hutchinson beat Slaton 11-15, 15-10, 17-15 and Matthews 15-1, 15-4 in Monday's action.

Zone Playoffs Headline Schoolboy Schedule

By United Press International
Although many district high school championships, and thus post-season playoff berths, remain up for grabs this week in the final games of the regular season, several zone playoffs in Classes AAA and B are on tap as the month-long run to determine Texas state champions begin.

Three zone battles in Class AAA Friday find Beaumont Hebert playing Crosby in Crosby for the District 9-AAA title, Brownwood and Waco Connally meeting in Stephenville 11-AAA crown, and Kerrville playing San Antonio Madison in San Antonio.

But the zone playoffs are just a part of the overall post-season berth decision to be decided this week. Eight of the remaining districts are still undecided going into the final week of play.

Lubbock Estacado and Canyon play for District 1-AAA, Odessa Ector and Monahans meet for 2-AAA, Fort Worth Northside and Azle are still fighting for the 5-AAA crown, Paris and Mount Pleasant meet for the 7-AAA championship, Jacksonville plays Carthage for the 8-AAA berth, Huntsville must defeat Navasota for the 10-AAA title, Wharton and Bay City vie for 14-AAA honors and Gregory-Portland must defeat Corpus Christi West Oso for 15AAA honors.

That leaves only five districts in Class AAA already decided — San Angelo Lake View in 3, Burkburnett in 4, McKinney in 6, Austin Westlake in 12 and Falurrias in 16.

Also moving into zone playoffs will be at least six Class B Zones. Valley meets Lazbuddie Thursday in Plainview for 2-B; Sterling City plays Klondike Saturday in Colorado City for 3-B; Dell City faces Grandfalls-Royalty Friday in Wink for 4-B; Robert Lee meets Gorman Friday in Abilene for 6-B; defending state champion Union Hill plays Carlisle Friday for 10-B; and Salado meets Axtell Saturday in McGregor for 13-B.

Several of the remaining 10 Class B districts are also undecided.

The other classifications also have many encounters this week to decide both championships and playoff berths.

In Class AAAA, Amarillo meets Pampa for the title in 3; Monterey must win over Hereford to wrap up 4; Arlington Heights and Fort Worth Eastern Hills meet for 7; Irving and Eules Trinity are in the running in 9; Dallas Roosevelt, Dallas Carter and Dallas Madison are tied atop 12; Plano must win Friday to capture 13; Lufkin faces a must win in 14; Temple and Bryan square off in 15; and it's a must win game for Houston Spring Klein in 16.

In the other half of Class AAAA, Houston Memorial advances only if it wins in 17; Houston Kashmere meets Houston Washington in 19; Port Neches-Groves and West Orange play for 22; Texas City must win for 24; Lamar Consolidated and Brazoswood play for 25; San Antonio Converse and SA East Central meet for 29; SA Jay and SA Holmes play for 30; SA Wheatley and SA Edison vie for 31; and SA Churchill must defeat

Asked about Texas' bowl chances, Akers told his weekly news conference Monday. "We've seen several bowl representatives, but right now the only bowl bid we're concerned with is the Cotton Bowl."

Eighth-ranked Texas upset No. 5 Houston, 21-13, Saturday to scramble the Cotton Bowl picture. UT, Houston and Arkansas each has one loss with games yet to play, and Texas has the toughest schedule — facing TCU and Baylor at home and Texas A&M on the road.

A three-way tie would boost Arkansas into the Cotton Bowl as Texas and Houston have played in the post-season game since Arkansas.

Texas would go to the Cotton Bowl only if Arkansas should lose to Texas A&M or SMU and Texas should win its three remaining games.

"Nothing is less important now than the Houston win. That's over and gone with," said Akers.

Nevertheless, he said, "That was probably the most complete ball game we've played."

He said the upcoming game with TCU, 2-6-1 for the season, "will require our full attention. They're acting like they want to win."

Asked if Texas coaches had spotted anything in Houston game films that enabled the Longhorns to block two punts, Akers said, "Nothing concrete."

On the block by tackle Kenneth Sims, Akers said coaches had not called for a rush, but Sims just made a "great effort." Asked about two missed field goal attempts by John Goodson, who had kicked 15 of 22 prior to the game, Akers disclosed Goodson had hurt a foot when a diving SMU player hit him on an extra point Oct. 28. He said Goodson was having trouble "planting" his left foot to kick.

Texas coaches selected sophomore quarterback Donnie Little as Texas' outstanding offensive player of the Houston game and senior cornerback Derrick Hatchett, who intercepted two passes, as the best defender.

Akers said linebacker Mark Martignoni, who had earned his first starting role this season against Houston, dislocated a shoulder and will miss Texas' three final regular season games.

Akers praised TCU as "probably the most improved team in the league. They've come on strong their last four games and have earned the respect of every team they played." TCU tied Texas Tech 3-3 Saturday, one week after Texas had edged Tech 14-6.

OSU Moves Closer To Nation's Top Spot

By The Associated Press
Ohio State's freshman football coach, Earl Bruce, won't admit he is eyeing No. 1, but the national title loomed closer for the Buckeyes today.

Bruce and his Buckeyes have moved from third to a close second behind Alabama in The Associated Press college football poll, with Nebraska dropping to third from the runner-up spot.

"I can't say I ever thought about being number one," said Bruce, whose Buckeyes clobbered Iowa 34-7 last Saturday and face a tough Big Ten Conference test next weekend against Michigan. "I have thought about being 10-0. I never thought about being 0-10."

"I am going to have to let those things (rankings and bowls) concern themselves after we play our 11th game."

In balloting by a national panel of sports writers and broadcasters announced Monday, the 10-0 Buckeyes received 14 first-place votes for 1,218 points. Alabama, which eked out a 3-0 victory over Louisiana State Saturday night, had 34 top votes and 1,262 points.

Nebraska, which beat Kansas State 21-12 Saturday to remain unbeaten in nine games, attracted five first-place votes for 1,209 points. The Cornhuskers were followed in the poll by Southern California, 9-0-1, with 12 first-place votes and 1,164 points, and Florida State, 9-0, with 983 points. Florida State had been seventh the previous week.

The remaining first-place ballot was split three ways among No. 6 Texas, No. 8 Arkansas and No. 9 Houston. Texas, 7-1, had 981 points, Oklahoma was seventh with 960, Arkansas had 859 and Houston 788. Brigham Young, 9-0, rounded out the Top Ten with 705 points.

Texas was eighth, Oklahoma sixth, Arkansas ninth, Houston fifth and Brigham Young 11th last week. Michigan fell out of the Top Ten after its loss to Purdue.

The Second Ten this time was No. 11 Pittsburgh, No. 12 Purdue, 13th-ranked Michigan, No. 14 Clemson, 15th-ranked Auburn, No. 16 Washington, No. 17 Wake Forest, 18th-ranked Temple, No. 19 Tennessee, and Baylor and Tulane, tied for 20th.

Last week, it was Brigham Young, Pitt, Notre Dame, Purdue, Washington, Auburn, Baylor, Clemson, South Carolina and Wake Forest. Temple and Tulane

Lady Raiders

Rattle SPC

LEVELLAND (Special) — Pam Stone scored 14 points and Nodia Vaughn 13 as the Texas Tech women's basketball team rolled to an 80-50 win over South Plains College Monday night.

The win raised the Raiders' record to 2-1 on the year. South Plains, 1-2, was led by Lou Ann Davis and Sharon Brown, who scored 14 and 13 points, respectively.

Tech shot 53 percent from the field, hitting 31 shots in 57 attempts. The leading rebounder for Tech was Gwen McCray with seven.

Chaparrals Take First Road Win

GILMER (Special) — Kevin Wharton hit 23 points and Bruce Carver and Keith Gardner added 22 and 20, respectively, as hot-shooting Lubbock Christian College won its first basketball road opener since 1971 with a 95-74 victory over Jarvis Christian Monday night.

The win was the Chaparrals' second in three games this season. They will play again tonight, facing Paul Quinn College here. LCC nipped Paul Quinn by a point in Lubbock last week.

Wharton hit 10 of 12 field goals and Gardner nine of 11 as the Chaps continued their hot shooting from the floor. Carver netted nine of 16 and the Chaps connected on 40 of 68 field goals to keep a season shooting average of about 60 percent.

Jarvis Christian held a 32-30 lead with 3:26 remaining in the first half, but LCC scored the next 13 points without allowing a reply to take a 43-32 halftime lead. Jim Steensma had 5 points in the surge, and Wharton added 4.

Wharton, in addition to leading the scorers, grabbed nine rebounds and blocked five shots. Gardner pulled down another 14 boards as LCC held a 37-26 rebounding advantage.

Three-Pointer Wins For Pacers

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Coach Bob Leonard said Indiana didn't deserve to win, but thanks to a three-point play Leonard had the 500th victory of his career, all with the Pacers.

A three-pointer by Pacer Joe Hassett tied the score at 99 and forced the game into overtime as Indiana beat Utah 113-105 in the only National Basketball Association contest Monday night.

"I don't care what everyone else thinks. It (the three-point play) is one of the greatest plays and it simply gives the fans more," Leonard said.

"We were looking for it (a three-pointer) there at the end, when Hassett came in," Leonard said. "He won a game earlier this year for us with one."

Mentioned Briefly

TENNIS — STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Defending champion John McEnroe fought off a brisk challenge from Gene Mayer and won the men's singles title in the $210,000 Stockholm Open Tennis Championships 6-7, 6-3, 6-3. The top-seeded McEnroe became the first player ever to win two straight titles in this tournament. McEnroe's 10th single title of the year — including the Masters, the WCT Finals and the U.S. Open — earned him $25,000. Mayer, whose brother Sandy won here two years ago, got $12,500.

TAIPEI (AP) — Third-seeded Bill Scanlon scored a 6-2, 7-5 victory over New Zealand's Chris Gunn in the opening round of the $75,000 Taipei Open Tennis Tournament. In other matches, eighth-seeded John Sadri defeated Australian John Marks 6-1, 7-6. Sweden's Stefan Simonsson downed Australian Alvin Gardner 7-6, 6-1, sixth-seeded Tim Wilkinson ousted Mike Machette 7-6, 6-1 and seventh-seeded Kim Warwick of Australia defeated Wolfgang Popf of West Germany 6-3, 6-4.

TOKOROZAWA (AP) — Willie Wilson of the Kansas City Royals singled home the winning run in the bottom of the ninth inning, giving the American League All-Stars a 6-5 come-from-behind victory over the National League. It was the AL's second victory against one defeat and one tie in a nine-game Japan tour.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Nancy Lopez and Tom Watson won the 1979 Golf Writers Association of America Player of the Year awards. The winners were a repeat of last year's selections and it was the first consecutive year that Watson has received the honor.

BOWLING — DEERFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Ed Resler finished with a first-round total of 1,875 pins to grab the lead in the $100,000 Memorial World Open, a Professional Bowlers Association tournament.

American Cancer Society

Celebrities Join Smokeout Drive

NEW YORK (UPI) — Lee Trevino and Red Adair will be doing it in Texas. Gov. Pierre S. DuPont will be doing it in Delaware. And Willie McCovey will be doing it in California.

Cigarette puffers, famous and not so famous, will take part in the third annual Great American Smokeout Thursday in an effort to go 24 hours without lighting up, the American Cancer Society said today.

Among the millions participating in the annual Smokeout will be hundreds of prominent Americans, the society said.

Robert E. Smith (Buffalo Bob of Howdy Doody fame) will head festivities in Florida. In Pennsylvania, it will be skater JoJo Starbuck Bradshaw, and in Alabama, it will be U.S. Sen. Howell Heflin.

The annual no-smoking day has turned into something of a celebration in every state except the one in which it began.

In Minnesota, where the American Cancer Society's local units first came up with the idea for the smoking moratorium, a traditional no-smoking D-Day will be observed in January.

Last year, an estimated 14 million smokers tried to give up the habit on smokeout day.

Some 3.6 million went without cigarettes for 24 hours, the Cancer Society said. A survey 10 days later showed 2.4 million still abstaining.

The pledge smokers are urged to take goes like this:

"I, (name), do solemnly swear to give up smoking for the Great American Smokeout, November 15. I promise not to smoke for 24 hours (and maybe longer), or to help a friend to quit."

Actor Edward Asner, who is national Smokeout chairman for the second consecutive year, said today, "It provides a happy excuse for smokers to put down their cigarettes and win applause from their friends."

"There's safety and strength in numbers and with good natured encouragement and understanding the smokers reinforce each other when trying to quit."

Asner speaks from experience. Last year, as national chairman setting an example for the nation, he broke a lifelong, two-pack-a-day cigarette habit.

Alumni Group Elects Officers

The Texas Tech Ex-Students Association this weekend elevated its president-elect, Arthur Busch of Dallas, to the presidency and elected other new officers and members of the executive board.

J. L. Guley of Tyler was elected president-elect and vice president. Dr. Kenneth Talkington of Arlington was named representative to the Texas Tech Athletic Council.

Elected to the executive board were Shirley Cary of Dallas and Little Rock, Ark.; Johnny Sims of Lubbock, Larry Byrd of Dallas and Mrs. Tommie Hatch of Lubbock.

Tom Craddock of Midland is the outgoing president.

ACS To Sponsor 'Stop Smoking' Clinic

In conjunction with the American Cancer Society's "Great American Smokeout" set for Thursday, the ACS will provide a "stop smoking" clinic for persons wishing to continue to kick the habit. The clinic will begin Nov. 20 from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. and will continue for the next two consecutive Tuesdays.

According to the instructor for the course, Ellen Rubenstein, herself an ex-smoker, the sessions are based on a group therapy approach and not on "scare tactics."

"We use films, literature, self-help tests, experts speak and we have lots of group encouragement. But we don't use scare tactics. We do not show unpleasant pictures or objects in our classes. We don't intend to scare smokers into quitting. We want them to make the choice not to smoke through group encouragement," she said.

Mrs. Rubenstein said the classes are divided into two phases. The first step used, she said, is to try to get the smoker to understand why he smokes and what he can do to replace the smoking habit. Also during this period, she said a nutritionist explains that smokers need not gain weight and how they may prevent weight loss.

In addition, a physician addresses the physical aspects of smoking. For example, she said, "He will explain why you feel better when you quit smoking and that it's a fact that, if there has not been permanent damage to the lungs, when you quit smoking, the lungs will immediately begin to rid themselves of all pollutants from cigarettes."

Finally at the end of this stage, the smokers are encouraged to try to quit for a 48-hour period. Mrs. Rubenstein emphasized that this is a trial period and smokers are encouraged to come back.

In the second phase of the course, the smokers evaluate what they have learned and analyze their particular problems with quitting in a group therapy atmosphere. Also, in phase two, the participants are permitted to review what they've learned and ask questions and find answers to questions posed in the beginning of the course.

Some groups, Mrs. Rubenstein, said, ultimately form an "I.Q." (I Quit) club and meet regularly as reinforcement for kicking the habit.

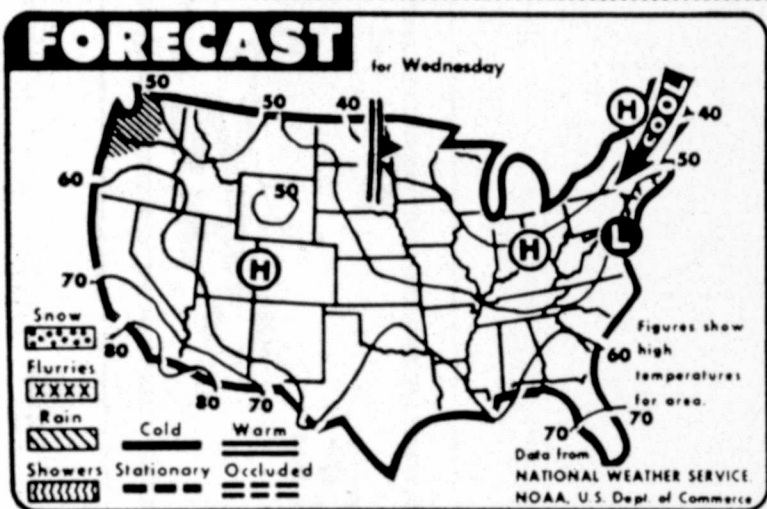

For further information on registration for the course, call the American Cancer Society office at 762-0825.

The American Cancer Society will offer a "stop smoking short course" from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Nov. 15 in the cafeteria of the Health Sciences Center Hospital here.

The course will provide smokers with information and literature on how to quit the cigarette habit.

The ACS is sponsoring the course as part of the "Great American Smokeout" that same day.

For further information, call the ACS office at 762-0825.

Reagan Supporters To Plan Strategy

Lubbock county backers of presidential hopeful Ronald Reagan will meet today to begin the organization of the Reagan for President Committee of the 19th Congressional District.

The county chairman for Lubbock will be announced at the 8:30 p.m. meeting in the University Center Ballroom at Texas Tech.

City School Trustees To Vote In Election

Lubbock public school trustees are scheduled to cast their votes Wednesday for the five-member board of directors which will govern the Lubbock County tax appraisal district.

The candidates nominated by the various taxing entities in the county are Mabry Brock and Lynn Stafford, nominated by the Lubbock Independent School District; Ray Diekemper and Joe Horkey, nominated by the City of Lubbock; Paul E. Crasnoe, nominated by the New Deal

Readings Hit Seasonal Low Across Area

A-J News Services

Temperatures sank to their lowest levels of the season in Lubbock and over much of the area this morning.

The mercury dipped to 25 degrees here about dawn today, but north and west portions of the South Plains were even colder.

It was 21 degrees at the Muleshoe Wildlife Refuge and at Plains, while Muleshoe and Levelland both recorded 22-degree temperatures.

Morton had a 23-degree reading and it was 24 at Abernathy, Floydada, Littlefield and Seminole.

Sharing Lubbock's 25-degree reading were Brownfield, Crosbyton, Lockettville, Olton and Plainview.

All 29 reporting stations on the South Plains had temperatures of freezing or below this morning, with Big Spring's and Matador's marks of 32 being the highest.

Warmer weather is due today and Wednesday, forecasters say. A high in the upper 50s was predicted for this afternoon, compared to a 49-degree maximum on Monday.

A high of near 60 is expected Wednesday as the warming trend continues.

Tonight's low should be in the lower 30s.

Winds today were expected to be westerly at 10 to 15 mph today, becoming light and variable tonight.

Skies were clear or partly cloudy over much of the nation today, but rain and fog shrouded the skies along the Atlantic Coast from Florida through much of Virginia, and in portions of the Pacific Northwest, where travelers advisories were issued.

Showers were also reported in parts of the Midwest.

Snow drifted down on parts of Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota and North Dakota.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 9 at Alamosa, Colo., to 80 at Key West, Fla.

Tech Slates Forum On Iranian Crisis

Because of the national and local interest in the situation in Iran, the Texas Tech Ideas and Issues Committee will host a University Forum at 7:30 p.m. today in the University Center Ballroom.

Dr. Metin Tamkoc, professor of political science, and Dr. Raffi M. Turian, chairman of chemical engineering, will present background on the Iranian issue. Possible solutions to the problem and "what if" situations will be discussed with the audience.

The public is invited to the forum.

SEX CHANGE

The slipper-shelled snail, C. Fornicata, starts life as a male then gradually turns female as it grows up.

Independent School District; Donald Martin, nominated by the Shallowater Independent School District and Bill Nelson, nominated by the Freshhip Independent School District and the city of Wolforth.

Each voting unit in the district must cast its ballots by Thursday.

Each taxing authority is allowed a number of votes based on the amount of taxes it levies annually. Thus the Lubbock school district will be entitled to 43.8 percent of the votes and in combination with the City of Lubbock will be able to elect four of the five directors.

The elected directors are scheduled to take office Jan. 1.

The appraisal district, mandated by S.B. 621 during the last legislative session, is aimed at consolidating the numerous taxing entities of each county into one district in order to achieve uniform taxation and assessment.

In other business, the board is expected to consider a request for four additional school bus aides to ride the special education bus routes.

Superintendent Ed Irons said the district now employs 10 aides for 19 bus routes, compared to 15 aides employed last year for 15 routes.

Irons said four of the routes are for special education students who need the "constant supervision" that the extra aides would provide.

He said the aides could be employed at a cost of about $12,800.

Board members will also hear a request by the League of Women Voters that Lubbock governmental bodies establish written guidelines outlining the procedure for filling vacancies in office and publish the qualifications for candidates.

The board will meet at the Administration Building, 1628 19th St.

Disaster Loan Meetings Set

Six meetings have been scheduled for High Plains farmers and businessmen to provide information on the Small Business Administration disaster loan program.

The first meeting will take place at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the Forrest Park Community Center in Lamesa.

Two meetings in Levelland, one at 8 a.m. and the other at 8 p.m., will be held at the Levelland State Bank on Monday. Another Monday meeting will be held at 7 p.m. at the Yoakum County Courthouse in Plains.

Farmers in the Crosbyton area can attend a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Pioneer Memorial Building while Littlefield has scheduled a meeting for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Lamb County Ag Center.

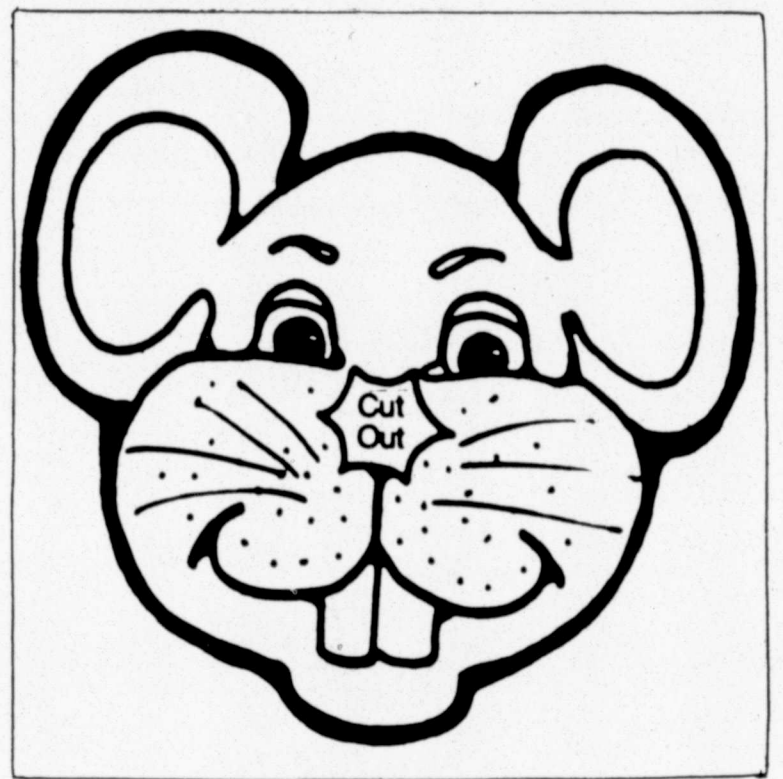

Farmers and other businessmen who have experienced financial losses caused by disastrous weather may attend the meetings to find out about the low-interest, long-term loans. Applications will be distributed.

Lubbock Chamber Schedules Breakfast

The Chamber of Commerce Breakfast Club will meet at 7 a.m. Thursday at the KoKo Palace.

The theme for the November breakfast, sponsored by Holden-Dodson Nursery, will be "The Holiday Season." The Chamber of Commerce will not sponsor a December breakfast.

Entertainment will include a musical presentation by a group from South Plains College.

KIDS-ONLY CLUB

Poke-A-Nose Puppet Fun, Easy To Make

By SHARI LEWIS

Here's a Poke-A-Nose puppet. Cut out the tiny center of this mouse's face (where his nose would be) and stick a bit of the tip of your middle finger through the opening.

Now this mouse is really just a sample of this simple form of puppet. You can draw and cut out your own bigger and better ones, using the cardboard from the sides of cereal, soap and snack food boxes. You can find good pictures of people and animals in magazines, too. Look for full-face, front views of the characters.

When you wedge your middle finger into the hole, bend your two surrounding fingers (your pointer and ring fingers) and let them be the puppet's hands. Just lift your tail middle finger (the one with the face on it) so that it's a bit above the other two. If you don't, your Poke-A-Nose puppet's hands will keep bumping into his face, and he won't like that a bit!

YESTERDAY'S BRAIN TWISTER: How many squares can you find in this figure?

Answer: There were a total of 35. Here's how I got that: The large outer square, 1; the large inner square, 4; the squares the size of square A, 17; the squares the size of squares B, C, D, and E, 9; the squares the size of squares B, F, G, and H, 4.

TODAY'S BRAIN TWISTER: Can you arrange eight 4s so that they total 176? (Look for the answer in tomorrow's Kids-Only Club column.)
