

Militant Students Defy U.N. Plea On Hostages

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Finance Minister Abol Hassan Bani-Sadr today appealed for the release of 50 American hostages and official Tehran radio said a U.N. Security Council resolution demanding their freedom paved the way for further negotiations.

But militant students holding the hostages for the 32nd day rejected the U.N. resolution, threatened to try them for spying and urged the entire Moslem world to arise and kick out "this great devil," the United States.

While the militants appeared to dig in on their demands over the release of the (Other Iranian Stories On Page 15, Sec. C) hostages, Bani-Sadr told a news conference he stood against a spy trial and urged the release of the hostages.

Bani-Sadr, who was replaced recently as Iran's foreign minister, said a solution could still be found to the crisis if U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim convened an international commission to look into the crimes of the shah.

Earlier he had lectured the militants, saying they could not try people who "are official representatives of a foreign state when you have captured them on their own territory. They can only be expelled."

Outside the embassy, hundreds of Iranians demonstrated, waving placards such as "guns and warships do not scare us."

The students holding the embassy issued a communique saying: "Today all the Moslem world, in particular you (the people of Saudi Arabia) should rise and block the way for the U.S., this great devil," the students said in their 60th communique.

The militants said rising against American was a "Godly duty," accused the United States of plundering Arab oil wealth and killing Moslems and said the people of Islam should not be afraid of dying and becoming martyrs.

Interior Minister Ayatollah Kashemi Rafsanjani also denounced the U.N. resolution as "worthless," but the country's official radio issued conflicting commentaries, both criticizing and praising the resolution.

In a morning commentary, the radio called the resolution "unacceptable." But a later commentary said it left the way open "for continuing efforts" to bring a peaceful end to the crisis, now in its 32nd day.

The later commentary said the Security Council resolution was "not compulsory" and in no way condemned Iran but "indirectly warned the United States about military threats or actions."

With contradictory statements totally confusing the situation in Tehran, Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh, who said Tuesday the hostages would definitely stand trial, traveled to the city of Qom for talks with Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini to decide Iran's official reaction to the latest U.N. moves.

A spokesman for the students holding the hostages appeared to contradict a statement by Ghotbzadeh that the students themselves would judge the hostages.

"The U.N. Security Council is under the orders of the American government and the CIA and therefore, this decision is not important for us," a militant spokesman said of the 15-0 vote at the council meeting Tuesday, which Iran boycotted.

"All the world has seen that the U.N. is owned by the U.S.A. And we reject this decision."

The spokesman added, "Our demands to the U.N. that the shah be returned have been ignored. If and when the shah is returned, the hostages will be freed.

"But if the shah is not returned and goes to any other country from the United States, the hostages will immediately be put on trial and face Islamic revolutionary justice," he added. The charge of spying carries a maximum penalty of death.

"The trial will be an open one," the spokesman said.

"We have all the documents proving these people are spies, but they must be tried by fully qualified members of a revisionary justice," he added. The charge of

Shah, Wife Enjoy Stay Despite Controversy

A-J News Services

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The exiled Shah of Iran and his wife are enjoying the sunny Texas weather and U.S. Air Force hospitality despite a growing controversy over proposed protest marches.

The city manager, suddenly forced into an unaccustomed international role with the shah's presence here at Lackland Air Force Base, has forbidden Iranian students and Ku Klux Klansmen from staging demonstrations that might inflame the hostage crisis.

Tom Huebner and other city officials said Tuesday they feared violent clashes if the students had staged an anti-shah march Friday and the Klansmen had confronted them with a march of their own.

As the legal controversy swirled, the recuperating Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, 60, took advantage of sunny, autumn Texas weather to stroll the Lackland golf course and watch his wife play tennis, according to sources close to the shah.

The shah had more than 60 armed security guards in tow when he strolled on the golf course, said the source, who requested anonymity. Tight security has been imposed since the deposed monarch was moved to Lackland Sunday morning for recuperation.

An informal Iranian student group at San Antonio College is upset by the sudden transfer of the exiled monarch to the nearby base. Klan officials say they are tired of the student protests.

Huebner said he conferred with the president's National Security Council and other state, federal and military authorities before deciding Tuesday night to refuse the parade requests.

He threatened arrests if any illegal demonstrations are staged and said any foreign demonstrators arrested would be reported to immigration officials.

"Our greatest concern has been for the well-being of the hostages in Iran," said Huebner. "We have a great respect for the U.S. Constitution, but the regard for public safety in San Antonio and the impact on the hostages in Iran had to be taken into account."

Solons Save Tax Break

WASHINGTON (AP) — On the heels of back-to-back votes adding as much as $27.5 billion to the "windfall-profits" tax, the Senate refused today to tax away part of the oil industry's cherished oil-depletion allowance.

On a 57-37 vote, the Senate tabled, or killed, an amendment by Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., that would have cost independent oil producers another $14.6 billion in the 1980s.

Senators had agreed Tuesday to increase the so-called "windfall tax" to about $157 billion over the next decade, still considerably below the $277 billion passed by the House and favored by President Carter.

In light of those votes, oil-state senators called Leahy's amendment a display of "congressional greed to tax and tax and tax" the oil industry without regard to how higher taxes might affect oil production.

The amendment sought to deny the oil industry the depletion allowance on any price increases that are subject to the new windfall tax.

The depletion allowance is available on many minerals, but is especially lucrative for the oil industry. It allows an oil producer not affiliated with a major oil company to deduct 22 cents from his federal income taxes for each $1 earned from the oil business.

"This $14.6 billion subsidy would come at a time when it is needed least, at the expense of taxpayers, and with no assurance of increased oil production," Leahy said.

Mother Asks Help From Goodfellows

Chief of Goodfellows, Don't forget my kids."

Sickness, the mother wrote, made it impossible for her children to look forward to any Christmas.

"My husband had an appendectomy and he almost died, so he is not working right now."

To be sure Chief Goodfellow knew everything was right with her request, she enclosed the doctor's name and address for him to check.

Anyone knowing of a child for Chief Goodfellow's Christmas list may fill out the coupon on Page 8, Sec. A, and mail it to: Chief Goodfellow, P.O. Box 491, Lubbock, Texas 79408.

Contributions may be mailed there, too.

Chinook Winds Batter Colorado, Wyoming

A-J News Service
Chinook winds gusting to 100 mph tore into parts of Colorado and Wyoming, whisked 27 cars of a Union Pacific train from their tracks, scattered large trucks and roofs and blacked out cities.

Gusty winds kicked up dust in West Texas today, as a Canadian cold front moved out of the northern Great Plains and into the Southwest. Gusts to 30 mph were recorded in the Texas Panhandle late this morning, and the National Weather Service warned of winds up to 70 mph at Guadalupe Pass in far West Texas.

No injuries were reported from the Chinooks, the warm, dry winds that blow down from the eastern slopes of the Rocky Mountains.

The eastbound Union Pacific train derailed about 2:30 p.m. Tuesday when the winds gusting to 100 mph blew 27 empty, covered hopper cars from the tracks on Sherman Hill about 28 miles west of Cheyenne, Wyo., railroad spokesman Dick Lohr said.

A Colorado Highway Patrol spokesman said four semi-tractor trailers were blown off the highway near Wheatland and a motor home, a pickup truck and other vehicles flipped over on highways near Cheyenne.

Power was suspended around Sheridan, Wyo., and Boulder, Colo., after transmission lines were toppled. A Sheridan County sheriff's dispatcher said shingles were blown from the tops of numerous houses and her office received a few reports of roofs being blown off homes.

Boulder, situated at the mouth of a mountain canyon, appeared to be the hardest hit, with gusts of 100 mph, according to police spokeswoman Deedee Langer. In Northglenn, gusts to 50 mph were reported, a National Weather Service spokesman said.

Miss Langer said police were swamped by reports of property damage caused by the winds. She said numerous burglar alarms were triggered by wind gusts, and south Boulder experienced a power outage.

"Officers are wearing their helmets to protect their heads from objects flying all over. Headlights on police cars are getting shot out when they come in contact with the objects (stirred up by the winds)," Miss Langer said.

The warm winds boosted temperatures in the foothills of the Rockies into the 60s late Tuesday night, far above seasonal readings. In contrast, the mercury plunged near zero in the central mountains.

The Canadian cold front was expected to bring little change to South Plains weather, forecasters said.

It should be slightly cooler Thursday, with highs in the lower 60s, compared to a predicted high of near 70 today.

The extended forecast calls for mild weather under partly cloudy skies over West Texas Friday through Sunday, with a warming trend for northern sections due Sunday.

Temperatures were mild over the entire region this morning, with lows mainly in the 40s. Lubbock's low was 46 after a Tuesday afternoon high of 68.

Only rain in the state today was in the lower Rio Grande Valley, but that ended before daybreak.

In New Mexico, a chance of snow showers was predicted through tonight.

Kennedy Demands Debate Over Shah

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy today defended his criticisms of the Shah of Iran and called for a public debate on whether the deposed monarch should receive permanent asylum in the United States.

Kennedy refused to say whether he believes Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi should be denied asylum should he ask for it. He noted the shah had indicated he intends to leave the United States, and added: "I don't think we should interfere."

Earlier this week, Kennedy took note of suggestions by some political figures that the shah be granted permanent asylum. "I reject that view," he said in Reno, Nev., where he campaigned for the 1980 Democratic presidential nomination.

The Massachusetts senator set off a storm of criticism earlier in the week when he denounced the exiled shah as having headed "one of the most repressive regimes" in history and stolen "umpteen billions" of dollars from Iran.

Kennedy's remarks drew sharp criticism from Carter administration officials and campaign aides, who expressed concern the comments might jeopardize the safety of the 50 Americans held hostage in Tehran.

Kennedy was asked today whether he believes his remarks were a mistake.

"The answer is no," he replied.

But Kennedy also noted the shah was admitted to the United States for emergency cancer treatment "without public discussion or public debate." He said the shah was transferred last weekend to an Air Force base in Texas, also without public debate.

Referring to the question of asylum for the shah, Kennedy said, "I want to make sure that that particular action is going to be the subject of public discussion and public debate."

Kennedy made his remarks at a news conference at which he picked up the endorsement of Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y., for his campaign. Mrs. Chisholm said she would serve Kennedy as a senior adviser.

Earlier, at a Baptist Church in the heart of the capital's inner city, Kennedy told a black audience that "I come here because I share your vision for yourselves."

Evoking the memory of his two slain brothers, he said the vision of equality "is not new for me or for my family."

"Over the years, I have talked and marched with many of you," he said. "I will walk with you and talk with you, not just this year, but in all the years ahead."

Carolyn Jordan In House Race

By SYLVIA TEAGUE

Avalanche-Journal Staff
Carolyn Jordan, Lubbock's first and only city councilwoman, announced today she is shifting her sights from city to state government as a candidate for the Texas House of Representatives.

Mrs. Jordan, an eight-year veteran of the City Council, will run as a Democrat for the District 75-A seat now held by Republican Nolan "Buzz" Robnett.

The 43-year-old attorney said citizens of the West Lubbock district deserve to have a "strong voice" in the legislature and should be kept informed of state government activities.

"The citizens of the district need a strong voice — a voice that will represent their interests in Austin," she said.

"My established record proves that I take the time to listen to the public and research issues; then I willingly take a stand and work to make good ideas become reality."

"It's time the citizens were represented by a hard-working, experienced public servant," she said. "My eight years of service on the Lubbock City Council demonstrate I am a hard worker; I am dedicated to working for the people."

Mrs. Jordan pledged, if elected, to use newsletters and questionnaires "to exchange ideas with the public on all major issues."

"One newsletter has been sent to our district the whole time my opponent has been in office," she said, adding that letter was mailed in the past month.

"I will be seen and heard from all year, every year, not just at election time," she said.

Citizens should have the assistance of their state representative's office "in dealing with the maze of state agencies, their rules and regulations," she said.

"Any staff I have will be working for the public and will share my personal interest in the people of this community and their problems," Mrs. Jordan said.

"The people of West Texas must be recognized for their vital and important

Area Solon's Votes Recorded On Major Issues

ROLL CALL REPORT SERVICE
WASHINGTON (AP) — Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes Nov. 26 through Nov. 28.

HOUSE
CURBING THE FTC By a vote of 321 for and 63 against, the House passed a bill to curtail the authority of the Federal Trade Commission. The bill (HR 2313) was sent to the Senate. It contains a "legislative veto" provision which, if it becomes law, will enable either house of Congress to prevent by majority vote any FTC action against an entire industry. The FTC was created in 1914 to combat unfair and deceptive business practices.

 Rep. Elliott Levitas, D-Ga., a supporter, said: "We are seeing an end to government by bureaucratic fiat. The outrage of the American public against unacceptable government has been heard and heeded."

 Rep. Bob Eckhardt, D-Tex., an opponent, said the bill would begin "the plucking of...the only agency that we can call a consumer agency in the entire U.S. government."

Members voting "yea" favored the bill limiting FTC powers.
 Reps. Samuel Hall, D-I, Charles Wilson, D-2, James Collins, R-3, Ray Roberts, D-4, Jim Mattox, D-5, Bill Archer, R-7, Jack Brooks, D-9, Jake Pickle, D-10, J. Marvin Leath, D-11, James Wright, D-12, Jack Hightower, D-13, Joe Wyatt, D-14, Kika de la Garza, D-15, Richard White, D-16, Charles Stenholm, D-17, Kent Hance, D-19, Tom Loeffler, R-21, Ron Paul, R-22, Abraham Kazen, D-23, Manuel Lujan, R-1 (N.M.), and Harold Runnels, D-2 (N.M.), voted "yea."
 Reps. Bob Eckhardt, D-8, Mickey Leland, D-18, and Henry Gonzalez, D-20, voted "nay."

of both houses goes to the president for his possible veto.
 Members voting "yea" wanted Congress to be able to cancel certain EPA regulations.
 Hall, Wilson, Collins, Roberts, Mattox, Gramm, Archer, Pickle, Leath, Wright, Hightower, Wyatt, White, Stenholm, Hance, Loeffler, Paul, Kazen, Frost and Lujan voted "yea."
 Eckhardt, Brooks, de la Garza, Leland and Gonzalez voted "nay."
 Runnels did not vote.

Liza Minnelli, Manager Wed
NEW YORK (AP) — Entertainer Liza Minnelli and her theatrical manager, Mark Gero, are off on their honeymoon following a brief ceremony at St. Bartholomew's Episcopal Church in Manhattan.
 They were married Tuesday in a private ceremony attended by a small group of friends that included the actress-singer's father, film director Vincente Minnelli and Elizabeth Taylor, who stood in during the ceremony for the late Judy Garland, Miss Minnelli's mother.
 It was Gero's first marriage and the third for Miss Minnelli.
 Gero, 28, and Miss Minnelli, 33, slipped into the Park Avenue church through a side entrance to avoid a small group of fans outside.
 The actress' father, who flew in from Los Angeles, would not disclose the couple's honeymoon plans, but said "they are going away for a couple of months." He said they would live in New York.

hospitalized again with what a hospital spokesman described as "mild chest discomfort."
 The 36-year-old Ashe "definitely has not had another heart attack," Memorial Hospital spokesman Charles Butler said after the 1975 Wimbledon champion was admitted Tuesday. Butler said he expected Ashe to be released today.
 Ashe, who has a home in Miami, was brought to the emergency room by a friend after consulting with his New York cardiologist by telephone, said Dr. David Chinoy.
 Ashe, whose condition was listed as satisfactory, said later Tuesday, "I did not have a heart attack and I am in no pain. It was a problem of inactivity, a change in routine. I feel fine."
 He suffered a mild heart attack July 31 while conducting a tennis clinic in New York and has not played competitively since.

Actress To Marry Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Michael Learned, in town to film scenes for the CBS-TV movie "Nurse," is getting married to longtime boyfriend and writer Will Parker.
 Miss Learned, of "The Waltons" television series, and Parker had intended to marry in Los Angeles, but opted for the Big Apple on Dec. 18 after filming is over.
 "Nurse," based on the novel, is scheduled for airing early next year.

Singing Bus Driver Returns
PETERSBURG, Va. (AP) — Connecticut's former singing bus driver-turned-college student says Petersburg made him an offer he couldn't refuse — to ride city buses and sing to the passengers.
 "A lady who works here in one of the dorms learned I was the singing bus driver and she wanted me to contact the bus company," said Benford Stellmacher.
 So, as a publicity effort, starting today Stellmacher will dress in a Petersburg area transit driver's uniform and board buses to lead riders in Christmas carols "to bring the Christmas spirit back to transportation."
 Stellmacher, 26, from Hartford, Conn., left his job with the Connecticut Transit earlier this year after five years. He enrolled this fall at Virginia State University, studying urban planning and — what else — transportation.

Carter's Nephew 'Pauper'
VACAVILLE, Calif. (AP) — President Carter's 33-year-old nephew, convict William Carter Spann, is a pauper and hopes to sell interviews after he is paroled on Christmas Eve, says Spann's wife.
 Spann, who has dubbed himself "the bad peanut," is the son of the president's sister, Gloria. He will be freed from the Vacaville Medical Facility after serving three years of an 10-years-to-life sentence for armed robbery.
 "Willie and I don't have a penny," said Jan Frey Spann, an insurance broker who married Spann behind bars in April.
 Mrs. Spann said some articles written about her and Spann "make it seem like we're loaded. He doesn't have a profession or a job, and he hasn't gotten a cent from the family."

Comedian Sues Tabloid
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Comedian Phil Silvers has filed a libel suit seeking $10 million from the weekly tabloid, The National Enquirer, because it described him as a "has-been."
 It is the third multimillion-dollar lawsuit filed in Los Angeles Superior Court by Hollywood celebrities against the tabloid in the last two weeks.
 On Monday, comedian Paul Lynde filed a libel suit protesting statements made about him. Actress Shirley Jones and her husband, Marty Ingels, filed suit last week objecting to remarks about their marriage.
 In his suit Tuesday, Silvers claimed the description of him as a "has-been" in a story and a photo caption in an edition last October has hurt both his reputation and his feelings.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Tennis player Arthur Ashe, who suffered a heart attack earlier this year, has been CONGRESSIONAL VETO The House adopted, 278 for and 121 against, an amendment permitting Congress by concurrent resolution to veto any regulation issued by the Environmental Protection Agency under the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act. Such regulations usually concern unsafe pesticides and often are criticized by agribusiness and other sectors of the farming community.

 Concurrent resolutions do not require a president's signature to take effect. The amendment was attached to HR 3546, passed and sent to the Senate.
 Rep. Robert Lagomarsino, R-Calif., a supporter, said that in the EPA "we are dealing with one of the regulatory agencies that epitomizes regulation and bureaucratic interference..."
 Rep. Bob Eckhardt, D-Tex., an opponent, said that "precisely what (the amendment) is attempting to do (is) to avoid the presentation provision of the Constitution" which, he said, mandates that any action requiring the concurrence

SENATE
WINDFALL EXEMPTION The Senate voted 53 for and 41 against to exempt most oil pumped by companies involved only in the production aspect of the oil industry from the proposed "windfall"

RAILROAD MONEY By a vote of 54 for and 41 against, the Senate tabled and thus killed an amendment to apply $10 billion of the windfall-profits tax to the revitalization of the nation's passenger and freight railroad systems. The amendment was proposed to the oil taxation bill (HR 3919; see previous vote). The $10 billion was to have come from the $128 billion the windfall-profits tax on oil revenues is expected to raise between 1980 and 1990. Already, in an energy-conservation move, the Senate has agreed that up to $15 billion of the tax will go to mass-transit programs.
 Sen. Russell Long, D-La., a supporter of killing the amendment, said: "It may very well be that the best way to rehabilitate the railroads would be with a loan guarantee program rather than" by earmarking appropriations as proposed in this amendment.
 Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., an opponent of tabling, said: "We have developed major air and water thoroughfares. We put men on the moon. We have demonstrated a technical capability that is the envy of the world. But...it is a conservative statement to say that we have got a third-rate rail system."
 Senators voting "nay" favored earmarking part of the windfall-profits tax yield for rail development.
 Bentsen, Tower, Domenici and Schmitt voted "yea."

Carter Will Not Campaign During Iranian Crisis
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's re-election campaign is off and running, but without the candidate, who says the crisis in Iran made it difficult for him even to announce much less campaign.
 "I must remain here, near the White House, because of the situation in Iran," Carter said.
 First lady Rosalynn Carter, Vice President Walter Mondale and a corps of surrogates were hitting the campaign trail today after Carter's somber East Room announcement of candidacy Tuesday, followed by an equally subdued and brief televised address to the nation.
 "My campaign travels must be, for a time, postponed," Carter told his television audience. "While the crisis continues, I must be present to define and to lead our response to an ever-changing situation of the greatest sensitivity and importance."
 Carter even passed up a fund-raising gala at a Washington hotel only a few blocks from the White House, sending wife Rosalynn and Mondale in his place.
 Pleading that the Iranian situation prevented a more elaborate launching of his campaign, Carter devoted a large portion of both announcement speeches to the "somber time of crisis" created by the holding of American hostages at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

Man Held In Assassination Plot
CHICAGO (AP) — A man who authorities said has a history of mental illness has been charged with plotting to assassinate Vice President Walter Mondale and is being held on $100,000 bond.
 Authorities said Timothy Daniels, 25, a Michigan parolee was arrested Monday and charged with threatening the life of the vice president. Mondale is scheduled to be in the Chicago area Thursday for a campaign fund-raiser in northwest suburban Rosemont.
 Daniels, believed to be from the Detroit area, was arrested in a downtown bus station, Secret Service agent Richard Ward said Tuesday.
 Ward said Daniels was carrying a revolver and 25 rounds of ammunition when he was apprehended. He allegedly told agents he was waiting for five other men who planned to meet at the station Monday, but Ward said authorities have been unable to substantiate that claim.
 Officials said the arrest was made on the basis of information from the FBI's Chicago bureau. The FBI reported it received an anonymous telephone call from a man who said he had been approached by Daniels and asked to join a group of men who were plotting to kill the vice president, said Anthony J. Curiel, assistant U.S. attorney.
 U.S. District Judge Stanley J. Roszkowski ordered a psychiatric exam for Daniels, who was being held in the Metropolitan Correctional Center. Ward said Daniels has a history of mental illness.

WALT DISNEY'S Madam Mim's Christmas Grudge

Virginia Farmer, Wife Work To Maintain Self-Sufficiency

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (UPI) — Atop a weathered barn a giant windmill whirrs, generating electricity for the home of retired mechanic Lewis Love and his wife, Helen.

Below, Love is busy in his workshop, designing a new contraption — a home-made distillery to produce industrial alcohol for his two tractors, a combine and home heat.

Inside the white farmhouse, Mrs. Love cans garden vegetables and talks about their chosen way of life — one aimed at self-sufficiency.

“We want to be able to get along on our own as much as possible,” said Mrs. Love, a native of New York City. “Some of my white-gloved friends from New York, they can’t believe it.”

Just seven years ago, the Loves lived in a traditional suburban house in Virginia City with such modern day comforts as frozen foods and push button appliances.

age prepared for retirement, the Loves bought the 41-acre farm and embraced a more rugged life, one that includes the windmill, 33 chickens, four goats and a pair of water wells.

They have erected a windmill, completed last fall although currently undergoing revisions, dug a water well to augment one already on the farm and received the first state permit to build a still for industrial alcohol.

“We get along fine,” beamed Love, 66, a short but powerfully built dynamo who hopes to complete the still, designed to produce up to 120 gallons of fuel a month, by spring.

High School Students Oppose Draft, Favor Volunteer Army

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK
NEW YORK (UPI) — Sixty-three percent of high school students taking part in a poll announced this week oppose a military draft and about the same percentage favors the present all-volunteer army.

And how many would volunteer for military service? Only about one out of four, according to the poll of top high school juniors and seniors.

Other poll results:
—For president of the United States, the students voted (last summer) for Ted Kennedy, first; Ronald Reagan, second; undecided, third; Gerald Ford, fourth; Jimmy Carter, fifth; Jerry Brown, sixth.

—55 percent do not feel President Carter is doing a good job as president.
—Almost two-thirds favor using nuclear power as an energy source but 77 percent reject the idea of nuclear weapons.

—And two-thirds think stabilizing the economy and battling inflation should be the nation's number one priority.

The report is based on a sampling of opinions and attitudes of 23,200 among 335,000 juniors and seniors listed in “Who's Who Among American High School Students.”

The young people are recommended for listing in the book by their high school principals or guidance counselors and national youth organizations. Criteria include leadership, achievement in academics, school activities, community service or athletics and recognition by the publishing company for high performance in national scholarship or award contests.

The students were polled last summer on a variety of topics, including sex and marriage, alcohol and drugs, home and health, religion, politics and national affairs. The question on presidential preferences went like this:

“If the following persons were running in the 1980 presidential election, who would you vote for?”

Choices included “no answer” — selected by 13.6 percent.
Kennedy was preferred by 31.3 percent; Reagan 15.9 percent; Ford 13.1 percent; Carter 9.9 percent; Brown 8.6 percent; Howard Baker 4.1 percent; John Connally, 2.9 percent; Phillip Crane 0.7 percent.

The poll, the 10th annual one, also showed the students firm on the side of traditional values, holding strong opinions about the state of America, and where they will be in 10 years.

Other highlights from the report:
—Sex and Marriage: Tradition figures strongly in their moral code. Seventy-eight percent of the current “Who's Who” youths said they have not had sexual intercourse and 86 percent would not have a child without being married. Eighty-five percent opt for a traditional marriage, the one with a license. The big shift among high school leaders in the decade: 47 percent of the 1971 leaders favored living together before marriage; today, only 8 percent would cohabit.

—Abortion: Legalized abortion got the nod from 69 percent in 1970. But in the current survey, the majority — 51 percent — mixed abortion.

—Alcohol and Drugs: Today's high school leaders are no exception to those of 10 years ago who eschewed booze and other drugs. Only 8 percent of those polled said they used marijuana. Prior to that time, the largest group of pot smokers among the high school leaders was 27 percent, in 1972 survey.

—Legalized marijuana: If the weed were made lawful, 11 percent would use it.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:

ACLU Rides To 'Rescue'

ON HIS WAY to pick up some hamburger for dinner last week, Mohammed Hemmati-pour stepped off a Washington curb into the path of a patrol car. A mistake, certainly, but not his big one.

His big mistake wasn't jaywalking, but being in possession of a student visa that had expired in September. As a result, he immediately became the front-running candidate to be the first deportee under the dragnet thrown out by the government in response to the occupation of the American embassy in Tehran.

An 18-year-old Lubbock engineering student was arrested by the Border Patrol here later last week and held on $5,000 bond after he failed to appear for a deportation hearing in Dallas on Thursday.

NEITHER WILL be sent home against his will if the American Civil Liberties Union has its way. It is challenging the inquiry into the status of Iranian students in the U.S. on behalf of all 50,000-plus of them.

The ACLU says it has no argument with the government's authority to scrutinize foreign students and/or deport any whose papers are not in order—only with its singling out the Iranians in this instance.

In so doing, argues the ACLU, the government is being selective and discriminatory.

It is the sort of distinction that to the ACLU is elemental justice but which to the public appears as obstructionist nitpicking.

The ACLU has chosen, once again, to ride to the rescue on an issue so emotionally charged that it risks becoming the focus of the wrath itself.

Considering the consequences of the last such display of public wrath against the ACLU, it's a wonder the activist group is in any shape to take on the controversial case of the Iranians.

THE ACLU'S long court defense of the right of American Nazis to march in the predominantly Jewish community of Skokie, Ill., was one of the most bruising battles in the history of the organization.

While it won its points in court, the ACLU lost almost half its members and much of its financial support.

It now reports that it has recovered much, if far from all, of the lost ground. But even if it had not, the Iranian students represent a headline-grabbing issue that the ACLU probably couldn't resist interjecting itself into even if it meant selling the office furniture to pursue it.

So the ACLU is wading into the fray, again taking a position contrary to majority opinion and obviously indifferent to the wrath it doubtless will draw upon itself or the true merits of the case.

James J. Kilpatrick:

An Unforgettable Inexperience

WASHINGTON—William F. Buckley Jr., my brother pundit and political mentor, has taken me to task for dashing to suggest that Ronald Reagan has a problem more serious than the governor's approaching 69th birthday. To wit, the problem of his inexperience in Washington.

I advanced this heretical observation in a column a month or so ago, based in part upon the misfortunes of President Carter for the same reason.

Says Buckley: "Now it is true that President Carter has given not-knowing-anything-about-Washington a bad name. But because Carter is a poor President, it does not follow that he is a poor President because he didn't know anything about Washington."

My beloved mentor goes on to philosophize that nobody, really, can be adequately prepared for the burdens of the White House. It is immaterial that Reagan might not know whether a majority whip outranks a minority leader.

AFTER ALL, WHAT did Dwight Eisenhower know about Washington before he became President? And didn't we all like Ike?

OK. Let me return to the theme I was toying with a month ago, and let me repeat a disclaimer. It is entirely possible that I give too much importance to prior Washington experience.

Potomac fever can have that effect. But on further reflection, I am minded to stick to my guns.

As the campaign rolls along, Reagan's most formidable task will be to convince the voters that he has both the wisdom and the knowledge to deal effectively with the Washington machinery.

The former California governor has the charm; he has the charisma; he has the serenity that comes with age; his conservative principles are my conservative principles.

But the country has indeed had the experience of Carter's inexperience. The gentleman from Georgia arrived in our town in January of 1977, as innocuous as a Clinton County rube on a Cincinnati midway.

IN HIS NAIVETE, Carter assumed that being President of the U.S. was just like being governor of Georgia, only more so. It took him three painful years to learn the hard way that Washington isn't an overgrown Atlanta. The differences are not of degree, but of kind.

If Carter had ever served in the House or the Senate, or in the Cabinet, he would not have approached Congress as he did in the spring of 1977. He would not have served up a five-course menu of energy bills and said, Eat this!

If Carter had known then what he knows now, he would not have launched his administration without first making peace with such baronial fellows as Russell Long of Louisiana.

HISTORY IS MADE by human beings who react to other human beings. Knowing how to move men, to attract them to one's cause, to win and hold their support, is among the first arts of politics.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Walk, Bus, Walk

AS THE SUN SANK slowly in the west, I was standing on the corner at Broadway and Ave. K wondering if this were the sort of thing I'd be doing regularly before long.

For the first time in more than 25 years, I was about to ride Citibus.

With the Iranians, Libyans, Palestinians and most of the Islamic world up in arms against us, we may all be without gasoline and looking for an alternative to walking before another Christmas season arrives.

With that in mind, and with my car in the shop, it had occurred to me to test what City Hall has been selling for a couple of years now: Public transportation.

I checked around the office. Nobody had a Citibus schedule. The selling hasn't been too successful.

Sylvia Teague suggested that if I'd call City Hall and ask for the Citibus office, they'd tell me where to go.

HAVING HAD SOME experience with City Hall telling me where to go, I followed her advice with misgivings.

But after the usual delay in getting through the switchboard, a very pleasant female person's voice said hello.

She told me that the bus which would get me closest to my home would leave from the northwest corner of Broadway and Ave. K at 15 minutes after and before each hour, with the last one at 5:45 p.m.

She made one mistake; it's the northeast corner, but I didn't quibble. It was five minutes to five and I decided not to wait for the last bus of the day.

Holmes Alexander:

ACU Chief Takes Axe To Taxes

WASHINGTON—Jimmy Carter and Richard Nixon won't be opponents on the 1980 ballots, but they'll be locked in a battle of attrition that could be politically decisive.

The idea jumped at me out of an interview with Rep. Bob Bauman, R-Md., who keeps winning the most widespread District of his borderline state by getting the conservative votes of both parties.

At 42 headed into a fifth election for his seat, Bauman sees the Republican party still staggering from the Nixon disaster and the Democratic party embarrassed by Carter's disastrous flop as President and party leader.

"The Republicans made a comeback in House seats after Goldwater lost in '64 but it hasn't happened that way since Nixon's resignation. The Democrats who got here in '74 because of Watergate were very fast to learn the value of incumbency."

HE MEANT THAT the newly-seated Democrats have mostly kept themselves in office by voting federal goodies to their Districts.

But in other and more important ways, Carter's awful performance in running the government and in foreign affairs could sink his entire party in the 1980 elections.

Though Carter has the big advantage that goes with a sitting President, a good many Democrats will shun him. Thus, in a negative way, next year's contest for House and Senate seats is one of Nixon vs. Carter.

Bauman's gadfly parliamentarian tactics against Democratic raids on the Treasury have made him a fledgling legend in the House, and he was recently elected chairman of the American Conservative Union (ACU).

This sort of heady personal success often breeds expansive optimism, but Bauman rides with a tight rein on his hopes.

HE WOULD LIKE to believe that other Republican candidates can mount the nationwide conservative trend, but he has seen too much Me-Tooism in the party leadership.

He would enjoy reading likenesses of 1952 into 1980—an Eisenhower walloping a Stevenson and carrying both House and Senate on his coattails.

But it is not a plausible dream. There is no Ike-sized Republican in sight. The front-running Ronald Reagan doesn't wear five stars.

Adlai Stevenson publicly prayed to have "the cup" taken from his lips, but Carter and Ted Kennedy have watering mouths for the office. A Republican victory not a Republican sweep is about all that Bauman dares to hope.

By five after five, I had walked the four blocks to the bus stop in order to be first in line and be sure of a seat.

It was the "rush hour," of course.

THERE WAS A Citibus already standing at the corner. It wasn't the one the City Hall informant had suggested I take, but it was leaving 10 minutes earlier so I figured why not.

Yes, the driver said, he would get me as close to the other side of my home as the second bus would get me to the first side, if that makes any sense.

Either way, I would have a six-block walk ahead of me at the end of the ride.

Forty cents, the sign said. Forty cents I put into the hopper and looked around for a seat.

One wasn't difficult to find. There were only four other riders on the bus. Rush hour, you know.

THERE WAS ONE familiar face. Judge Frank R. Murray said he takes the bus periodically and doesn't mind at all.

One of the advantages to riding Citibus, I quickly discovered, is the opportunity for a relaxed visit with an old friend you haven't seen for a while.

The next night, by coincidence, Hubert Burgess was to recall riding the bus with me 30 years ago. He brought up the subject without knowing of my latest ride.

Today's Citibus—it wasn't called that 30 years ago—provides a comfortable trip. It also doesn't make many stops, except at all the stoplights like the rest of us, of course.

There were no riders getting on or off until we got to the Texas Tech campus, where three more passengers got on.

They looked like faculty/staff types; no student would be caught dead on campus without his car.

Murray got off less than two blocks from his home and I settled back to enjoy the rest of the ride. Except for the walk at both ends of the line, I noted, I can get home from the office as fast on Citibus as in my car.

THE EXPERIENCE confirmed my earlier thoughts:

If I lived on a Citibus route and it ran on time and frequently enough, it wouldn't be a bad way at all to get to work.

The price certainly beats the cost of owning and operating a second car exclusively for travel to and from the office. And the exercise is good for you.

Walking 10 blocks each morning and afternoon and waiting for the bus, when the weather is unpleasant, is something I won't do so long as there's gasoline to be had for less than $5 a gallon.

Those of us who occasionally need our cars during the day aren't going to ride Citibus regularly.

Citibus is an underused but needed service which should be kept operating against the day of gasoline rationing.

As a conservation measure, during a time of national emergency, it would be no great sacrifice for any of us to take the bus to work one or two days a week even if we have to walk 10 blocks to and from it.

That'd cut our gasoline consumption by 10 to 20 percent.

Much closer to the realm of the possible, in Bauman's judgment, is a coalition leadership in the House. This could happen as conservatism gains enough strength to force bargaining for votes to elect a speaker and to endorse committee chairmen.

Bauman says coalition has happened in the New Mexico and New Hampshire legislatures, but the U.S. House of Representatives is a different kettle of fish.

Bob Bauman grew up on the Maryland Eastern Shore in upper middle-class circumstances, and learned to resent being taxed to smithereens by rich liberals who bought their way into power on the people's money.

As a Georgetown University student, he organized a protest against repeal of loyalty oath on student loans.

A natural leader, he does what comes naturally in assaulting the giveaway politics which has reduced us in solvency at home and sovereignty before the world.

Sylvia Porter: You Need Not Be Poor To Get Financial Aid

(First Of Four Columns) WASHINGTON—Even if you're earning as much as $30,000 a year—far above the average—you almost surely are struggling to hold your standard of living and you're increasingly worried about ever financing a quality education for your teen-agers still in high school.

But there is money to help you pay those college bills!

You don't have to be poor to get it! Financial aid totaling $12.3 billion a year is now available in grants, loans and jobs from the federal government, schools and private groups to middle- as well as low-income families.

At some schools, as many as 80 percent of the enrolled students are receiving some form of financial aid.

MANY FAMILIES IN the $30,000 a year bracket, and a few with incomes of $50,000 or even more might receive aid, says the College Scholarship Service.

"Basic Grants" (Basic Educational Opportunity Grants or BEOG) are awarded if you need a lot of assistance. If you don't qualify for BEOG, but still need extra money, the college might give you a "supplemental" grant, loan and/or job.

Through the new Middle Income Student Assistance Act, Congress has just broadened eligibility for these programs.

You can now earn $25,000 a year—sometimes more—and still qualify for a Basic Grant.

Lower-income families can expect Basic Grants up to $1,800.

ANY FAMILY, REGARDLESS of income, is eligible for low-interest loans through the Guaranteed Student Loan Program.

WARNING: Enough middle-income families have benefited from financial aid to make it worth the time it takes for you to apply—and don't rule out a school your child wants because you think the price is too high!

Aid programs were established so that you and your child could choose a college for education—not just the price tag.

If your child is not a high school senior, use the Early Financial Planning Service of the CSS to get a rough estimate of your eligibility for aid. For a free application, send a self-addressed, large stamped envelope to Financial Aid Planning, Box 1175, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. The service costs $3.50 when you send in the completed application. This is not for seniors.

IF YOU'RE THE parent of a high school senior, hurry! Get a free copy of "Meeting College Costs" from the school's guidance counselor, follow the instructions, worksheets, etc. to do your own eligibility estimate. It will tell you what aid to expect and how to apply.

Egyptian Farmers Losing Battle

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — President Anwar Sadat has made increased food production his top peacetime goal, but so far farmers are losing their battle to keep up with demand — especially because of Egypt's baby boom.

Western agricultural experts predict that in the next five years Egypt will become increasingly dependent on the United States and other Western nations for food such as wheat, flour, corn, lentils and edible oils.

Egyptian farmers are now meeting about 55 percent of the consumer demand for food but with a million new mouths a year to feed this is expected to drop to 45 percent by 1985.

"There is no point in the foreseeable future where Egypt could reasonably expect to be self-reliant in food production," U.S. Agriculture Secretary Robert Bergland told reporters on a visit here last month.

The United States sold Egypt 1.4 million tons of wheat worth $400 million last year, providing low-interest long-term credit under the U.S. aid program.

Sources say the U.S. government has made informal pledges to Sadat to meet increased demand despite rising prices — which is not expected to be a problem since Egypt's needs accounted for less than 2 percent of the $32 billion in U.S. food exports.

Food imports cost Egypt's struggling economy $2 billion a year, a sevenfold increase since 1970, and are twice the level of agricultural exports, according to a recent U.S. study.

With such an imbalance, Agriculture Minister Mahmoud Dawoud said in a recent interview that Egypt had abandoned self-sufficiency as a realistic goal and is concentrating on eliminating the widening gap between imports and exports.

He said he was converting one entire province along the Mediterranean with 106,000 acres of farmland to the production of vegetables for export and was seeking funds to develop the seaside city of Damietta into a port.

Exports of highly perishable foods like vegetables has been thwarted in the past by the lack of adequate ports and transportation. An estimated one-quarter of such foods brought into Cairo on donkey carts spoil before reaching markets.

The government has also committed itself to reclaiming six million acres from the sandy wastes that make up 96 percent of Egypt in the next five years — an area equal to existing farmland. But such land is expensive to develop — about $2,000 an acre — and takes 5 to 10 years to become productive. Two U.S. firms — Pepsi and Coca-Cola — have invested heavily in reclaiming land for citrus and vegetables near the Suez Canal but they are the only American firms to take such risks.

Egypt is unlikely to reach its goal without large infusions of private Western capital, but officials say businessmen remain hesitant because of tight government controls in the agricultural field.

Dawoud said he believes the equivalent of one million acres can be added by improving soil, planting two and three crops in one field and by experimenting with quick-growing varieties of cotton and other cash crops.

Cotton was king in Egypt for more than a century, but acreage devoted to cotton has been cut nearly in half since 1960 and it has lost its pre-eminence in recent years to oil, which earned $850 million in hard currency this year compared to about $400 million for cotton.

Despite high-yield crops in the last two years, there is a long term decline in cotton production while domestic demand has increased to the point where only one of every three bales is exported.

Dawoud said rice exports were also declining.

You and the Law

Presented by the State Bar of Texas

Q: Can you tell me how to go about giving my daughter my power of attorney? I am 74 years old and, although I'm still able to make decisions, I want to be prepared in case something should happen to me.

A: Now, while you are capable of doing so, you should execute a power of attorney giving your daughter all those powers and authority you wish her to have. Your lawyer can include a provision which will make the power of attorney continue in effect should your ability to make decisions become impaired. This type of power is known as a durable power because it is written to survive disability.

Q: If my husband dies without a will, what share of our home is our child entitled to if I need to sell the house?

A: If a married couple's home was purchased during their marriage and is their community property, the husband's half interest would automatically pass to his child if he died without a will. If the child is a minor, a guardianship must be created for the child before the home can be sold. If over 18, the child can join with the widow in the sale. The expense of a guardianship for a minor can be prevented by having a will prepared leaving the property to the widow.

Q: Can I specify in my will that my executor serve without a bond?

A: Yes, under Texas law you may specify that this costly requirement be waived. This is one example of how a properly drawn will helps save unnecessary expenses in the handling of your estate. If your will is not properly drawn, you may lose this right. For example, if your named executor will not or cannot serve, you need to properly provide for a substitute executor and specify that the person shall serve without bond.

Q: A teenager in our neighborhood was stopped by the police for driving while intoxicated, but no DWI charges were filed against him. Does the DWI law extend to someone under the age of 17?

A: Under Texas law, a person under the age of 17 cannot be held criminally liable for driving while intoxicated. This means that a juvenile stopped by the police and suspected of driving while under the influence of alcohol or drugs cannot be arrested as an adult and, therefore, does not face the possibility of having his licenses suspended. The police, however, may turn the young person over to juvenile court as a child in need of supervision.

Q: A former employer refuses to give me my W-2 form until I pay him a small amount of money, less than $15, I still owe the company for some equipment I bought. I plan to pay, but is it legal for him to keep my W-2 form until then?

A: An employer in violation of the law for not furnishing a Form W-2 may be subjected to both civil and criminal penalties. He may apply for an extension to the IRS for good cause. Under normal requirements, however, an employer is required to furnish each employee a Form W-2 on or before January 31 of the year after he was employed or on or before the 30th day after the last salary.

Send your questions to "You and the Law," State Bar of Texas, P.O. Box 12487, Austin, Tex. 78711. Answers may appear in columns in hypothetical terms; personal answers not possible.

Linguistics Expert Raps Descriptions In Menus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — A linguistics specialist says most restaurant menus are liberally sprinkled with descriptions that are irrelevant, misleading or — occasionally — downright lies.

Take, for example, the word "fresh," which Ann D. Zwicky, a former Ohio State University lecturer, found was by far the most common adjective in a study of about 200 restaurant menus.

"There were descriptions like 'fresh frozen.' Sometimes you think they are using 'fresh' to mean something really minimal like 'not rotten,'" she says.

Then there's "homemade," which when you read it on a restaurant menu, almost certainly can't mean the dish was made in somebody's home.

Miss Zwicky, who with her husband and friends collected menus in varying price ranges from diverse regions of the United States and Canada, says many times French or French-sounding words are used. She says the "French" descriptions were most widely used on menus in places where few customers were likely to understand the language.

"There's a long association for English-speaking people with French as a language for food, a language for fashion and high culture," she says.

What's more, Miss Zwicky says, much "French" on menus isn't used accurately.

"Many words on a menu which we accept as French aren't French at all. 'A la mode,' for example, is a French phrase which means 'in the manner of.'"

Stock Market Needs Change In Investment Habits

By JOHN CUNIFF
NEW YORK (AP) — Barring some unspeakable cataclysm, the stock market is likely to recover, but in order for it to happen just about all important investor categories must change their habits.

Those habits have taken them far afield and into other investments during the past decade, leaving the popular stock market averages no higher than they were at the beginning of the decade.

During that time the country's gross national product, or output of goods and services, doubled in size, at least when counted in current (inflated) dollars, the same dollars which measure stock prices.

The money went elsewhere: into debt securities, money market mutual funds, pension fund reserves, real estate, gold and silver and various collectibles, including art. A good deal of it was simply spent.

The percentage of household financial assets invested in equities fell from 38.8 percent in 1972 to just 23.9 percent this year. Individuals became disillusioned, lost their faith in the future, avoided risk.

Something of the sort might have happened with private pension funds, too. In 1972 they had nearly 74 percent of their financial assets in equities; this year the percentage dropped to just over 54.

Figures compiled by Merrill Lynch show the same pattern with state and local retirement funds. In 1972 they were 27.5 percent invested in stocks, compared with 22.2 percent this year.

Life insurance companies showed the same pattern, falling from an 11.6 percent investment position in 1972 to 9.7 percent this year. Other insurers, including the liability companies, fell from 32 to 15.5.

Even the mutual funds, which thrived on stocks for two decades after World War II, began to change their pattern. Their 1972 figure was 84.4 percent; this year they are down to 73.2.

DR. LAMB

Prostate Problem

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm writing to say my husband thinks he has prostate trouble. He's never mentioned this to his doctor. I found out by accident that he has made an electrical instrument. He puts this into his rectum and gives himself a shock. He says they treat prostates this way. Someone told him they gave him electric shock to help him. I don't doubt this but shouldn't this be done by someone who knows what he is doing? I worry that he will injure himself in some way.

DEAR READER — Ouch. That's not the way to treat prostate trouble and it's also dangerous. I think you'd better tell your husband to stop this shocking treatment and get an evaluation by his doctor first to find out if he does have prostate trouble and second, if he does, to get some proper treatment.

Meanwhile, I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-6, Prostate Gland. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. It will give your husband a better understanding of his problem and what can be done about it.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read an article on unnecessary procedures and decided to ask you about the validity of the routine episiotomy. Why can't the perineal tissue be left intact allowing for the possibility of tearing but also for allowing for the chance that it remains intact? I can't help but feel that an incision into healthy muscle and nerve tissue is really not beneficial unless the baby's life is somehow in danger.

DEAR READER — It's a good question but I can assure you that it's a necessary procedure in many cases. For those unfamiliar with the term, an episiotomy is a simple incision that's made at the outlet of the birth canal during birth. It's most commonly used in a woman giving birth to her first baby.

Because the tissues have not been stretched before and often are fairly tight, the head of the baby is too large for the opening. All the obstetrician does is make an incision just large enough to allow the baby's head to emerge.

If the tissues are tight and such an incision is not made, the tissues will be torn. The tear can get completely out of control and will quickly rip through the tissues. This can extend into the muscles around the rectum and the woman may be left with real difficulties in controlling her bowels afterward.

It's really an example of intelligent prevention of complications. The small incision is made in an area where it's not likely to interfere with the normal function of the muscles in that part of the body. The uncontrolled tear can occur anywhere and cause a number of difficulties.

The use or need for such preventive measures in the operating room should be left to the good judgment of the obstetrician. During the birth the mother is hardly in any position to provide much intelligent judgment as to whether one should cut or not cut.

NO RUNNERS FOR ELECTION
MORRISON, Tenn. (AP) — A small group of dedicated voters went to the polls in Morrison — even though no one was running for anything. The 49 voters in the town of 547 used blank ballots to re-elect Mayor Harris Jacobs Jr. and five aldermen. Jacobs, first elected mayor in 1969, is used to winning like that. "At one time, the town attorney ruled the election was a useless ceremony and an unnecessary expense," Jacobs said. But the state Election Commission ruled two years ago that Morrison has to have an election even if no one runs.

More States Considering Death By Injection

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — At the Oklahoma State Penitentiary in McAlester, some inmates refer to it sardonically as "the ultimate high."

Actually, medical experts say, a prisoner will feel no sensation other than a little drowsiness, when he is put to death by lethal drug injection — the country's newest form of capital punishment.

Eighty-two murderers, rapists and kidnapers have died in the penitentiary's electric chair since 1915. One man was hanged.

In contrast to electrocution, death by injection will be almost instantaneous. The convict will simply fall asleep.

The law prescribes that death will occur through a continuous intravenous injection of "an ultrashort-acting barbiturate in combination with a chemical paralytic agent."

The official cause of death will be coronary arrest.

Oklahoma and Texas enacted death-by-drug legislation in 1977. Similar laws have been passed since in Idaho and New Mexico and are being considered in several other states.

In the last 30 months, juries in Oklahoma have decreed that 27 persons should die through drug injection; 125 persons face that fate in Texas, along with one each in Idaho and New Mexico.

Among those lodged on Death Row at McAlester is Roger Dale Stafford, convicted of killing six Oklahoma City steak-house employees in a meat locker during a robbery attempt in 1978. Stafford also is charged in the murder of three members of a Texas family near Purcell, Okla.

The first drug-injection execution is probably years away because of expected legal appeals.

In Oklahoma, the scene at the prison called "Big Mac" will be strikingly different from executions of the past.

Instead of a "last-mile" walk from Death Row through the basement to the electric chair — over which still hangs a metal sign saying, "Crime Does Not Pay," fashioned in the prison license tag factory — the condemned prisoner will be taken to the third floor of the administration building. About 30 people will witness the execution.

The doomed convict will be carried to the third floor strapped to a stretcher, his head propped up so witnesses, including six journalists and five persons chosen by the prisoner, can watch him throughout the procedure.

The executioner will be one of three volunteer medical technicians, dressed in white rather than in black hoods. None will be identified.

They will stand silently behind a partition, through which a tube will be passed and connected to the condemned man's arm or leg. All three will inject dark fluid into the tube. None will know which of them is injecting the lethal substance.

The procedure will contrast with previous incidents when Oklahoma executioners were well known, especially Rich

Owens, who built Big Mac's electric chair in 1915 and pulled the fatal switch 65 times.

Owens received a $100 bonus for each electrocution.

Med School Focuses On Rural Areas

TEMPLE (AP) — There's a group of 32 students who walk the hospital corridors of Scott and White Hospital with a confidence they don't always feel.

They are the doctors-to-be who make up the charter class of Texas A&M University College of Medicine.

The students spent their first two years in pre-med studies on the College Station campus, memorizing the Latin and Greek names for the various bones, muscles and organs while trying to learn symptoms, syndromes and symbols that will from now on be part of their lives.

But since July they have been where the action is, getting down to the nitty gritty of practicing medicine at Scott and White and the Olin Teague Veteran's Center.

They are "snatching" babies in the delivery room and closing up incisions in surgery, all under the watchful eyes and close supervision of staff physicians and residents at the two facilities.

Aggies have been known for years as among the world's best doctors — but in the animal world, with A&M's College of Veterinary Medicine being among the top such schools in the country.

A&M's medical program is an accelerated one in which students are allowed to apply for admission to the college of medicine at their sophomore year off pre-medical work.

"It was born out of the need to produce more physicians faster to help meet the doctor shortage that seemed to exist," said Dr. Kermit Knudsen, associate dean of the college and a practicing physician on the Scott and White staff.

Now, Knudsen said, it appears the shortage is more of a problem of maldistribution of doctors, who prefer to practice in big cities and of specialization.

With this in mind, the school chose to accept many students from non-urban areas, since research has shown that these are more likely to return to small towns and be content to practice there.

Dr. Robert Stone, dean of the A&M medical school, said an unofficial survey in recent weeks showed that most of the college's 96 students want to set up practices in the country. He estimates that 60 percent will steer clear of the big cities upon graduation.

Stone said this is not to imply that A&M med students are not getting the sophisticated training the larger big-city medical schools offer.

A&M is developing an elaborate closed-circuit TV system, which, when operational in nine months, will enable students to view hospital operations from as far as away as 90 miles.

Barber Provides Cheap Haircut, Delivery Service

CONTINENTAL, Ohio (AP) — Art Okuley may be offering the best bargain in town these days.

For $1, Okuley not only will give you a haircut but free dry-cleaning delivery service to the cleaners in nearby Delphos. That combination of service has drawn customers from all over northwestern Ohio to Okuley's barber shop.

Okuley, 89, has been in the barber business since he began working for his brother-in-law in 1906, holding firm for seven decades to the old-fashioned barber traditions he began picking up at the turn of the century.

In a time when disco decor is the rage at hairstyle salons, Okuley's carved oak barber chairs and antique display case stocked with cigars are reminiscent of a Norman Rockwell painting.

The style serves Okuley well. The diminutive barber thrives on his work and still puts in 11-hour days.

That routine, however, falls short of the 16-hour workday Okuley had during his first 25 years of business. Okuley's barber shop, in the early days, was opened to midnight on Saturdays.

"The people used to get so crowded out here Saturday nights, the sidewalks weren't big enough to hold 'em," he said.

A haircut Okuley fondly recalls is the one he gave his 93-year-old grandmother. She had broken her arms and couldn't comb her tresses — they were a 1 1/2 feet long.

But his grandmother is not the relative Okuley remembers best. It was Annie Oakley, whom Okuley claims as a second cousin even though their names are spelled differently.

"Annie used to come to our family reunions and give shooting exhibitions for all the relatives. Six or eight of the men would sit on top of one of those old wooden gates — the kind they use on farms to keep the animals penned in — and hold glass marbles between their fingers. Annie would shoot those marbles right out of their fingers from 150 feet away."

After 73 years as a barber, Okuley said he still has no plans to retire. "I plan on working," he said, "as long as I feel good."

PREDICTIONS DOUBTED
WASHINGTON (AP) — Predictions that many of the world's mineral resources will soon be exhausted are exaggerated, according to a study released by the Center for Strategic and International Studies at Georgetown University here. Entitled "Strategic Mineral Dependence: The Stockpile Dilemma," the report says such forecasts fail to take into account factors "such as the impact of price in stimulating new discoveries and in making economic what have hitherto been too costly reserves ..."

Catalogue Helps Increase Adoptions In New York

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Abused, neglected or handicapped, they put on their very best smiles for the adoption catalogue. Those engaging grins may explain why New York's hard-to-place children are being placed in permanent homes more frequently these days.

"Christy is very anxious to know someone wants her, and would be very willing to make a commitment to a new family," says the caption next to a picture of a 13-year-old with an exuberant smile.

These children, who number about 900, are generally over six years old. About half are physically handicapped or emotionally disturbed, and some 70 percent are black or Hispanic.

In the three years before the photo book was started, the state had managed to place only 20 such children using a computer to match prospective parents and available children.

But the book has helped reverse the odds against the children. Since it came into use three years ago, the state has placed 1,008 of the 2,100 children who have peered out of the book's pages.

Other helpful factors have been increased adoption subsidies and more aggressive recruitment of adoptive parents in black neighborhoods, officials say.

"Through the book, parents feel they can make some element of the selection themselves, rather than having a social worker matching them up. That's a very important element — just the fact that they can see what's there," says Hanna Grossman, state director of adoption services.

On one page of the current book are pictures of Valerie, 6, and her 4-year-old brother, John, who "are very attached to each other and to be placed together."

Valerie, says the description, "is likely to remember some of the earlier traumatic life experiences she and her brother John have had, but with the love and affection of caring parents she will do well."

"Because of difficult experiences in his early years, John still gets scared by loud noises and sirens and needs to be comforted by explanation and affection," says the book.

For additional information about the children, prospective parents are told how to contact the welfare agency responsible for them. Copies of the book, updated monthly, are at all local social services offices and at private adoption agencies.

State officials confess to a bias toward the most favorable information about their charges.

Steelmakers See Trouble Ahead

PITTSBURGH (AP) — U.S. Steel Corp.'s decision to close 16 plants is the latest gloomy development in 20 years of retrenchment by American steelmakers — cash-starved producers of a basic ingredient of the economy that is increasingly supplied by foreign competitors.

What's worse, some experts warn, other heavy industries, such as energy and transportation, also face a similar capital crunch.

In announcing the shutdowns, which will cost 13,000 jobs, U.S. Steel Chairman David Roderick repeated a familiar litany of woes — and blamed nearly all of them on Washington.

Industry critics, both in and outside of government, dismiss many of these complaints, saying steelmakers are merely jockeying for preferential treatment.

But Roderick and his counterparts at other steel companies contend the industry has been strangled by excessive pollution requirements, weakened by ever-increasing imports and financially bled by inadequate prices and outdated tax laws.

"(Our) announcement reflects the lack of government action in these areas. While U.S. Steel is just one company in one industry, there is every reason to expect that other sectors of the economy will be affected if these problem areas are not addressed," he said.

Clearly, Big Steel feels its basic problem is the inability to generate enough cash to finance the plant modernization needed to compete with foreign mills, most of which are government-aided.

The industry estimates that it will need more than $7 billion a year in capital expenditures between now and 1985 to meet the historical 2 percent annual increase in steel demand.

That's double the cash flow — profits and ability to depreciate old equipment for tax purposes — that has been available to steelmakers in recent years, Roderick said.

At the same time, the domestic industry's capacity has steadily dwindled. The American Iron and Steel Institute estimated capacity will shrink about 3 million tons to 159 million tons in 1979. U.S. Steel's closings will remove at least 1 million tons more next year.

"It's not only steel that's in trouble. Our infrastructure is falling apart. We need a strong industrial base to solve our energy problem, our transportation problems and to maintain our standard of living," said veteran steel analyst Eugene Frank of M. Waddell & Towne.

According to the 1979 Economic Report of the President, investment in the United States as a percentage of Gross Domestic Product — the value of all goods and services produced in the United States for domestic consumption — was 13.3 percent from 1966-1976, the lowest rate of all major industrial nations.

The federal government is aware of the industry's problems, but in steelmakers' eyes it has been painfully slow in lending a hand.

Treasury Undersecretary Anthony Solomon, who wrote a report on the steel industry for President Carter in 1977, said the government was "concerned" over the closings. But he said he did not think the industry is in as bad a shape as it portrays itself.

"Certainly in the last year there have been major improvements. The profit situation has improved substantially over the past year and this year we were able to use the Trigger Price Mechanism to prevent injuries by steel dumping," he said in telephone interview from Washington.

In the first nine months of 1979, the industry earned $1.6 billion on sales of $43.7 billion. During the same period in 1978, net income was $945 million on revenues of $34.7 billion, AISI said. In 1978, the industry's rate of return on net worth was 9.6 percent, compared to 16 percent for all manufacturing, said Citibank of New York.

Imports are a sore point with steelmakers and the Trigger Price Mechanism, which sets minimum acceptable prices for imported steel, has been condemned by some steel companies.

A record 21.2 million tons of foreign steel entered U.S. ports last year, 18.1 percent of domestic supply.

Importers Not Taking Blame For Shutdowns

NEW YORK (AP) — Although U.S. Steel Corp. says competition from imports is one of the reasons it is closing several plants and laying off 13,000 workers, a group representing steel importers says it is not to blame.

"Anybody taking a bath is going to blame it on imports," Kurt Orban, chairman of the American Institute for Imported Steel, said this week during a news conference.

He said the drastic cuts announced last week by American's largest steelmaker had been expected by experts in the field because the facilities are obsolete and not efficient for producing steel.

Orban said the government's "trigger price mechanism" for pricing imported steel has given domestic steel producers "all the price protection that any reasonable person can ask."

The trigger price mechanisms are designed to prevent the dumping of low-cost foreign steel on U.S. markets by setting a minimum price at which steel can be imported.

U.S. Steel President David Roderick said last week that trigger prices were a facade that had not eliminated dumped steel.

Scientists Predict Great Quake

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Two Columbia University scientists, using a new formula they developed, say a great earthquake will hit a barren stretch of the Alaska coast within six years.

"We stress, however, that... this forecast should be treated with caution and reviewed as new data become available," Omar Perez of Columbia's Lamont-Doherty Geological Observatory told a meeting of the American Geophysical Union here Tuesday.

But in an earlier interview, he said he was very confident of his data concerning what's called the "Yakataga seismic gap," a sparsely populated area about 100 miles southeast of Valdez. He said if everything works as expected, the big quake could come anytime between now and the end of 1985.

Co-worker Yash Aggarwal said the exact time of a coming earthquake cannot be predicted by the method, "but we can tell where an earthquake is likely in the next few years, and then you can pay more attention to short term" changes that might narrow the danger.

The seismologists base the forecast on a characteristic sequence of seismic events they identified in 13 of 14 previous large quakes they studied. The sequence involves a period of quiet along an earthquake fault, a concentrated burst of tremors, then another period of quiet before the big one hits.

This is the first time they've tried to use their data on a future quake and, Perez concedes, "We don't know what the rate of false alarms is with this..."

The sparsely populated Alaskan area, last shaken by a major quake in 1899, has been identified as a high-risk region that's likely to experience a quake of about 8 on the Richter scale.

The famous San Francisco Earthquake of 1906 has been estimated at about 8.3 on the scale, which measures ground motion as recorded on seismographs.

Perez and Aggarwal estimated the earthquake would have a Richter magnitude between 8.1 and 8.5, based on past behavior of the region and the area likely to be involved when the 90-mile gap breaks loose.

The concept of seismic gaps has recently become a hot topic among earth scientists. A gap basically is a stretch of an active fault that has been unusually free of quakes. Strains and stresses build dangerously in such locked sections until they are finally released, usually as an earthquake.

Aggarwal and Perez said such quakes seem usually to be preceded by several years of little or no seismic activity. The quiet is broken by a burst of small quakes concentrated near the epicenter of the coming jolt, near the ends of the gap or both. Then comes another period of quiet before the main tremor.

Carter To Testify In Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal grand jury investigating a case of alleged White House influence-buying involving fugitive financier Robert L. Vesco has agreed to accept videotape testimony from President Carter, government sources said today.

The sources, who asked not to be identified, said several members of the grand jury objected to the proposed arrangement for questioning Carter on the ground they would be unable to submit follow-up questions to the president.

The minority of the grand jurors contended the president should not be afforded special treatment and that if security was a problem special precautions could be taken, the sources said.

The grand jury is investigating allegations there was an attempt shortly after Carter took office in January 1977 to quash extradition proceedings against Vesco, who fled the country after his indictment on stock fraud charges. He is believed to be living in the Bahamas.

Under the arrangement for questioning Carter, the president will be interviewed by government lawyers without grand jurors present, sources said. They said negotiations between the White House and the U.S. attorney's office are incomplete and that no date has been set for the videotape interview.

The questions for the president are likely to center on a Feb. 15, 1977, meeting between Carter and an aide, Richard M. Harden.

W. Spencer Lee IV, a Georgia lawyer who allegedly acted as an intermediary in Vesco's behalf, met with Harden in February 1977.

Lee and Harden have said that Harden talked the lawyer out of pursuing the matter.

But Harden said he went to Carter after the meeting with Lee, and the president then sent a note to Attorney General Griffin B. Bell which said, "Please see Spencer Lee from Albany (Ga.) when he requests an appointment."

The Justice Department said the memo was treated as though Lee was a potential job-seeker and Lee never appeared for an appointment.

The influence-buying allegation was made by R. L. Herring, an Albany, Ga., businessman who was convicted last year on unrelated federal fraud and racketeering charges. He said he hired Lee for $10,000 to plead Vesco's case with the Carter administration.

If Carter provides videotaped answers for the grand jury, it is believed to be the first time a president has answered grand jury questions in this manner.

Carter has provided testimony at least twice before in criminal investigations.

Paul J. Curran, the special counsel who investigated the Carter family's peanut business in Georgia, took a four-hour sworn deposition in the White House on Sept. 5. Curran concluded there was no evidence of any criminal wrongdoing in the case.

U.S. Closes Embassy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is closing its embassy in Libya until Col. Moammar Khadafi's government accepts responsibility for a mob that ransacked it last Sunday, the State Department said today.

With the announcement came a warning that relations will be cut if Libya rejects U.S. demands. "We do expect a satisfactory answer promptly," department spokesman Hodding Carter said.

Besides paying for damages caused by Sunday's attack, Libya is being asked to guarantee the safety of American diplomats if relations are retained.

The heart of the U.S. complaint is that the Khadafi government ignored requests for more protection at the embassy. Only one policeman was posted at the front door when a mob of 2,000, some of them Libyan militiamen, ransacked and set fire to the four-story building.

All of the Americans escaped from the building unharmed.

"We are asking the Libyan government to acknowledge clearly its share of responsibility for what happened to our embassy last Sunday and to give restitution for the damages," Carter said. Undersecretary of State David Newsom called in Ali Hudari, who heads the Libyan embassy here, to inform him of the action.

Ten U.S. diplomats are based in Tripoli. Carter said "a handful" would be kept there to handle consular affairs.

Israeli Officials Cancel Order To Deport Mayor

NABLUS, Occupied West Bank (AP) — Israel canceled a deportation order against the militant Palestinian mayor of Nablus today and allowed him to return home in triumph.

The decision marked a turnabout for Israel, which was strongly criticized by the United States and the United Nations for moving to expel the 48-year-old mayor, Bassam Shakaa.

Shakaa, who had been jailed since Nov. 11, was greeted by thousands of celebrating Nablus residents and pelted with rose petals when he returned home.

"In fire and blood we redeemed you, Bassam," the crowds shouted. Shakaa then went to his home.

"I am very, very happy," Shakaa told friends and relatives who rushed to his home to hug and kiss him. He said he was back at work as mayor "today, from now."

Israel's military governor, Brig. Gen. Binyamin Ben-Eliezer, in announcing the surprise decision, said Shakaa was freed on condition that "his functions will be limited to municipal matters."

"I sincerely hope that this decision of mine will contribute to a deepening of the understanding between us in the spirit of the process of peace in which we are now involved," the general said.

Ben-Eliezer said he had just talked with Shakaa. "I made it clear that he must limit his functions as mayor to municipal matters charged to him under the law, and that he must act within the framework of the law," he said.

The general said the mayor had declared he was against "acts of murder of innocent people" and that he opposed acts of violence. It was Shakaa's alleged support for the Palestinian terrorists who killed 34 Israelis in an attack on a bus near Tel Aviv in March 1978 that sparked the public controversy and his proposed deportation.

The 29 mayors of towns and cities on the West Bank and in the Gaza Strip resigned to protest the Shakaa case, which also spurred a series of Arab demonstrations against the Israeli occupation. The mayors had said they would withdraw their resignations if Shakaa was freed and allowed to return to office.

The Shakaa case stemmed from a routine meeting between the mayor and an Israeli general. Israeli newspapers reported that during the meeting the mayor expressed support for the Palestinian terrorists who took part in the bus attack on the Tel Aviv coastal road.

As the case developed, it became clear Shakaa's remarks had been misinterpreted, but by then Prime Minister Menachem Begin's government had decided to expel him to an Arab country.

Although Israel never released any official charges to back up the deportation order, press reports quoted government sources as alleging that Shakaa organized resistance to Israel in the West Bank and had been associated with terrorist activities.

Ben-Eliezer said the security grounds for the expulsion order were well founded, but a military appeals board had decided to re-evaluate the case.

The general said he had consulted with his superiors and "I decided to cancel the expulsion order. ... For the good of the city of Nablus and the good of the Shakaa family."

Carolyn Jordan Will Seek Seat In Texas House Held By GOP

(Continued From Page One) role in this state and its economy," she said. To achieve that recognition, she said "it is absolutely essential that all representatives from this area work together as a team in order to be heard above the roar of voices from Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth, and the other heavily represented areas of the state."

Mrs. Jordan said her record as a council member demonstrates she is a fiscal conservative who has supported "efficient and economic governmental services."

"My primary goal in the legislature will be to keep the same kind of realistic lid on taxes and spending," she said.

In addition, she cited water, energy and state support for Texas Tech University as other areas of concern and promised to issue policy statements on all issues during the campaign "so the public will know exactly where I stand."

Mrs. Jordan said she had been urged to run for the House of Representatives and to run for mayor, but decided the legislature "was closer to my interests."

In representing the city before the legislature on various issues, she said she "felt frustrated by the situation" and that was another factor in her decision to run for state office.

A Los Angeles, Calif., native, Mrs. Jordan was elected to the council in 1972, and reelected in 1976.

She has been a representative of the City Council to the South Plains Association of Governments since 1972 and served as that organization's president for two terms.

She served as vice president of the Texas Association of Regional Councils during 1975 and 1976 and has been a member of numerous Texas Municipal League Committees.

Mrs. Jordan is a member of the steering committee which organized the South Plains Health Systems Agency and has served on the board of directors since 1975.

She attended college at Stanford University, where she received a bachelor of science degree in mathematics in 1957 and a master of arts degree in education in 1959.

In 1977, Mrs. Jordan received her doctor of jurisprudence from the Texas Tech University School of Law. After working as an attorney with Walters and Associates, she opened her own office in October 1978.

16 Youths Die At Club Fire In Argentina

ROSARIO, Argentina (UPI) — Fire swept a nightclub shortly before dawn today, killing 16 young people who suffocated in smoke-filled restrooms where they sought refuge from the flames. At least 10 others were injured.

Most of the dead were trapped because the club's windows were shuttered, police sources said, cutting off all escape routes except the main entrance.

The fire broke out at 5:20 a.m. (2:20 a.m. CST) in the Rilke II nightclub in downtown Rosario, Argentina's second largest city 195 miles northwest of Buenos Aires.

The club was filled with mostly young people, some of them dancing, when the front of the establishment burst into flames, police said. The cause of the fire was not immediately determined.

Police said firemen found the bodies of 16 people — five women and 11 men — in or near the club's restrooms. At least 10 other people were hospitalized with injuries including severe burns.

Police said a dozen people fled through the club's only exit door before smoke and flames cut off that escape path, trapping 25 other screaming people.

One policeman wielding an ax hacked through the shutter covering one window, cutting open an escape route for nine young people.

"They panicked, running to the bathrooms at the back of the club for shelter," a police spokesman said. "That's where most of them died."

The nightclub, in the middle of downtown Rosario, a city of 500,000, is located in a gallery of stores.

Police said seven bodies were found in the women's restroom and five were found in the men's toilet. Other bodies were found just outside the restroom and police said those had apparently made desperate attempts to escape from the restrooms.

It took several companies of firefighters 2½ hours to control the fire so they could enter to find the dead.

STILL SNIPING AT UNCLE SAM — An Iranian view of the hostage crisis is shown in the poster on the wall of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran. The former shah, pistol in belt, hides behind an infirm and decrepit Uncle Sam, while at right, a stern and upright Ayatollah Khomeini sneers that "the United States cannot do a thing!" The poster is just a small part of the anti-American propaganda flooding Iran during the confrontation over the embassy seizure. (AP Laserphoto)

Annexation Gets Panel Approval

By SYLVIA TEAGUE, Avalanche-Journal Staff

The Planning and Zoning Commission this morning recommended annexation of about 370 acres northeast of Lubbock, including the Children's Home of Lubbock campus.

Children's Home officials requested the annexation primarily because of salt water contamination of the facility's groundwater.

Floyd Stumbo, superintendent of the home, said he would like to begin receiving city water and sewer service, as well as police and fire protection.

However, he said the water supply was the "critical thing" which prompted the annexation request.

Complying with an informally adopted annexation policy, the commission agreed to include property on both sides of the Idalou Highway in the annexation area.

The area would include property 600 feet north of the Idalou Highway, south to Erskine Street and west to Wood Avenue.

The annexation, if approved by the City Council and the U.S. Justice Department, would extend the present city limits slightly more than a mile east on the Idalou Highway.

By including property on both sides of the thoroughfare, not just on the south side where the Children's Home is located, Planning Director Jim Bertram said the city could begin implementing a policy of protecting approaches into Lubbock.

The cost to extend water and sewer lines to the annexed area will be about $165,000, with another $5,000 needed to provide trash dumpsters.

Unless the City Council agrees to share that cost, the Children's Home will have to foot the bill.

The annual operations and maintenance costs, which will be borne by the city, are estimated at $750, compared to estimated annual revenues from property taxes of $10,000.

"This will probably be one of those annexations well within the plus side of the ledger from the beginning," Bertram said, providing the Children's Home bears the capital costs.

Commission Chairman Jim Ratliff said the annexation request is a "text-book case of what we've been saying is going to happen."

"The water goes bad in outlying areas, and they come to us. It's exactly what we'll be looking at all over the area," he said.

The commission has been requiring those developing land outside the city to include estimates of the groundwater life in an attempt to prevent such occurrences.

U.N. Action Defied By Militants

olutionary court" — a system that has already tried hundreds of Iranians and executed nearly 700 of them since February.

In Washington, a top White House aide disputed claims the hostages were well-treated, saying, "The American hostages have been threatened with execution if they fail to cooperate," and added, "They have been threatened at gunpoint and told they would be shot."

Diplomatic sources said the militants continued intransigent stand would greatly complicate any fresh attempts from moderate Iranians and the United Nations to secure freedom for the hostages.

Bani-Sadr, who was acting foreign minister for 19 days, visited the students at the embassy earlier this week and lectured them they had "no legal right to put the hostages on trial."

Khomeini this week received an overwhelming mandate to become Iran's absolute ruler for life, and diplomatic sources said this development offered the best prospect for the eventual safe release of the Americans.

Ghotbzadeh issued the latest in a series of confusing and contradictory statements on the fate of the Americans in a newspaper interview released Tuesday, but repeated by official radio today.

"The hostages will definitely be put on trial and the judges will be the Moslem students themselves," the foreign minister declared hours before the Security Council vote.

One of the militants occupying the embassy also said that all of the 50 Americans will be tried for spying, not just some of them.

At the embassy itself, a spokesman for the militants admitted that several of the Americans believed by them to be spies had been extensively questioned. But he angrily denied reports that the hostages had been "softened up" through interrogation techniques in preparation for their trials.

Iran refused to attend the Security Council meeting, saying the council would merely rubber-stamp any American-inspired resolutions, which would undoubtedly be anti-Iran.

Ghotbzadeh insisted Iran had done all it could to defuse the crisis and the next move was up to President Carter. The foreign minister also said Iran had urged the Soviet Union not to interfere in the confrontation even if the United States launched military strikes against Iran.

Car Dealers Report Worst Slump In Five Years

DETROIT (AP) — Auto dealers may be in the giving mood as the holidays approach, but Americans still aren't buying.

Despite rebates and other dealer incentives, sales by the nation's five major automakers dropped 21.3 percent in November from a year ago to the lowest levels in five years, automakers said Tuesday.

New deliveries totaled 606,204, compared with 769,855 a year ago. The daily selling rate of 24,248 was the third-lowest of the decade, eclipsed only by the 20,220 in 1974 and 18,131 in 1970.

For the final 10 days of November, sales plunged 23.9 percent from the same period a year ago to 213,910.

General Motors Corp. sales for November were 369,625, down 21.8 percent; Ford Motor Co. was off 24.3 percent to 150,611; Chrysler Corp. fell 32.6 percent to 53,733.

While the Big Three carmakers showed steep declines for the month and the latest period, American Motors Corp.

and Volkswagen of America each posted gains.

AMC was up 36.7 percent for the month to 17,482. And Volkswagen, which a year ago did not have its new Pennsylvania plant producing at full capacity, delivered 14,753 Rabbits in November, a 150.4 percent jump.

GM's response Tuesday to its poor sales report was to announce the indefinite layoff of more than 11,000 workers, bringing to 45,560 the number of GM workers facing indefinite furloughs. Industrywide, the figure tops 110,000.

Industry analysts said the car market mirrored the nation's economy by "going sideways."

"There has been little change in market conditions in the past two months," said Gordon B. Mackenzie, Ford sales vice president. "Many potential buyers apparently are deferring vehicle purchases because of temporary economic and world conditions."

Faced with bloated inventories of some 1980 cars and a stockpile of unsold 1979 models, GM and Ford have been offering dealers incentives which may be passed along to buyers. Chrysler, meanwhile, is giving $300 rebates direct to buyers of most models.

But analysts say the efforts only have been able to maintain sales volume and not really lift it. At Chrysler, sales figures show rebates have failed to increase the financially struggling carmaker's share of the market. The 8.7 percent share for November compares with 10.7 a year ago and 11.4 overall this year.

For the late November period, GM sales dropped 25.4 percent to 131,366; Ford fell 27.6 percent to 51,176; Chrysler plunged 37.1 percent to 17,638; AMC was up 114.3 percent to an estimated 7,482; and VW was up 127 percent to 6,248.

So far this year, the five companies have delivered 7,774,567 cars, down 10.6 percent from a year ago. GM is off 9 percent; Ford is down 16.7 percent; Chrysler is off 17.3 percent; AMC has declined 9.3 percent; and VW is up 866 percent.

Thousands Of GM Workers Face Indefinite Layoffs

DETROIT (AP) — More than 11,000 General Motors Corp. workers at seven plants will be laid off indefinitely beginning Jan. 2, the company says.

The nation's No. 1 automaker trimmed production in line with the slumping car market which has dropped 20 percent in the last 12 months. F. James McDonald, executive vice president in charge of North American car and truck operations said Tuesday.

"The production changes are being made to bring 1980 model mix in balance with current market demand," McDonald said.

The move, primarily elimination of second shifts at plants assembling slower-selling light trucks and full-and intermediate-size cars, will bring to 45,560 the number of employees idled indefinitely at GM.

Industrywide, the figure will be 111,760 with Ford Motor Co. reporting 33,500 indefinite layoffs. Chrysler Corp. at 31,500, and American Motors Corp. with 1,200.

Temporary layoffs this week affect 40,790 workers at Ford, Chrysler and AMC. Of those, 31,390 began one-week layoffs Monday so Ford and Chrysler could trim bulging inventories of unsold cars.

GM, which shut seven plants last week, has no workers on temporary layoff this week, spokesman Bruce MacDonald said.

The latest round of GM layoffs will affect the following:

- GM Assembly Division at Arlington. A second shift will be eliminated, idling 2,000 assemblers of Chevrolet Malibu, Monte Carlo, Oldsmobile Cutlass and Cutlass Supreme.
- GMAD at Baltimore. A second shift will be dropped, eliminating 2,150 assemblers of Chevrolet Malibu, Monte Carlo and Pontiac LeMans. Light truck production will be trimmed from 26 per hour to 24.

- GMAD at St. Louis, Mo. Chevrolet Caprice and Impala production will be dropped, idling 2,000.
- GMAD at Van Nuys, Calif. A second shift of Chevrolet Camaro and Pontiac Firebird production will be eliminated, idling 1,650.
- GMC Truck and Coach at Pontiac, Mich. Chevrolet and GMC van production will be halted, laying off 1,500.
- Buick Motor Division in Flint, Mich. A second full-size car shift will be dropped, idling 700. A companion Fisher Body plant will lose 1,150.

— GMAD at Janesville, Wis. Light truck production will fall from 25 per hour to 20, laying off 280.

Former Mennonite Acquitted, Promises To Fight Shunning

CARLISLE, Pa. (AP) — Farmer Robert Bear, acquitted of abducting his wife, says he will continue his crusade against Reform Mennonites who cast him out of the strict religious sect and made his family sever all ties with him.

"I would say it's a victory of sorts. But I'm still not free, my wife is not free, nor are my children free," Bear said after a Cumberland County jury found him innocent Tuesday of charges of simple assault and false imprisonment.

"I'm losing wars and not winning many battles," he added, his chiseled features showing obvious relief after he wept openly while defending himself in court.

Bear, 50, who was excommunicated seven years ago for criticizing church leaders, insisted he is not giving up hope of winning back his wife, Gale, 41, and six children because giving up is "what causes suicide."

"I consider you very fortunate, Mr.

Bear," said Judge Harold Sheely after he read the verdict, which was returned after just over an hour of deliberations.

"Had I been hearing this case without a jury, I would have found you guilty of false imprisonment."

Though unsure of his next step, Bear did not rule out abducting his wife again. "I'll need to think about that," he said, adding that he expected to be found guilty.

Bear said he still loves his wife and meant her no harm. "I just pity her more. She and our children are much more victim than I am," he told reporters.

Acting as his own attorney and his only defense witness, Bear admitted snatching his wife at a farmers market in August and intentionally holding her in his truck for about 30 minutes.

But he defended his actions by saying that he wanted to expose the greater evil of shunning — a 400-year-old sanction that bans all members of the ultra-conservative church, including his wife and family, from having any business or social contact with him.

Because of the ban, Bear said the only way he can talk to his wife is in a courtroom. Mrs. Bear was not present in the courtroom Tuesday, but on Monday, the first day of the trial, she testified that she had been sexually assaulted once by her husband and feared him.

Bear's only emotional response to the verdict was shaking hands with Taylor Andrews, a public defender appointed by the court as standby counsel.

But he used a handkerchief and his meaty, farmer's hand to wipe away tears during his testimony and closing arguments.

"No matter what you do, you can't free me. Only death can free me," he sobbed to the jury. "What I tried to remedy was far greater than what I had caused. What I tried to do was reunite the family."

Bear had been married for 14 years before his excommunication in 1972. His wife left with the children in 1973.

Group's Buffalo Concert Encounters No Problems

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The British rock group The Who, shaken by the deaths of 11 fans, received a standing ovation from a sellout crowd here after dedicating their concert to those who died in Cincinnati.

"We lost a lot of family yesterday," singer Roger Daltrey said at the concert Tuesday night. "This show's for them."

With that, The Who went on to give a two-hour performance before 17,300 fans. There were no reports of problems.

"Amid tight security, doors to the auditorium were opened an hour earlier than scheduled and admittance to Memorial Auditorium was by ticket for reserved seats."

The Cincinnati concertgoers were killed Monday night when a crowd stormed Riverfront Coliseum in a rush for the best of the unserved seats at a concert by the group.

While aware of what happened in Cincinnati, ticket holders here had no fears that a similar tragedy would occur.

"This is a reserved seat concert," said John Riva, 17, of Thorold, Ontario. "It's not general admission. If it were general admission, anyone could go through. This way, it doesn't matter if you're the first guy or the last guy. You still get your seat, right?"

As he spoke, plainclothes and uniformed police and security guards shepherded the crowd into the auditorium.

Men with megaphones urged the concertgoers to have their tickets out early to avoid bottlenecks at the doors. Twelve turnstiles were operating at two large entrances.

About 240 security guards — twice the usual number — were on hand, at an extra cost of $8,000, said Edward Tice, vice president of Harvey & Corky, the promoters.

"The Who is paying for the extra security. They volunteered it," he added.

After showing a promotional film of their new movie "Quadrophenia," the group appeared before the packed house.

Calf Roper Vies For First In Rodeo Contest

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Calf roper Roy Cooper pulled into first place Tuesday in his bid for a national title at the National Finals Rodeo, but Texas cowboy Dan Webb remains close behind.

Cooper, a Durant, Okla., cowboy, scored 25 points with his tie for a second-place finish in Tuesday's fourth go-round of the 10 go-round national championships, taking the lead from Dave Brock of Pueblo, Colo.

Although Bridgeport wrangler Webb has an identical 65 points, better average times for bringing down a calf gave Cooper the lead.

In the All-Around Cowboy title, five-time national champion Tom Ferguson gained on rival Paul Tierney of Rapid City, S.D., with a victory in steer wrestling. Tuesday's win gives Miami, Okla., cowboy Ferguson 130 points compared to Tierney's 90.

In other competition, Joe Marvel of Lee, Nev., pulled further ahead with a second-place in saddle bronc riding. Marvel, who has been in the top four for three of four nights, now has 100 points compared to closest competitor Clint Johnson of Spearfish, S.D., with 80.

Lynn McKenzie of Shreveport, La., may be riding away with the 1979 Women's Barrel Racing title. She scored her second win Tuesday, giving her 135 points, compared to perennial rival Carol Goostree of Verden, Okla., who holds second place with 70. Goostree's stead knocked over a barrel Tuesday, disqualifying her time.

State Court Rules On Dracula Film

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Heirs of the late actor Bela Lugosi have no exclusive right to exploit his portrayal of Dracula for commercial purposes, the California Supreme Court has ruled. In its 4-3 ruling Monday, the court reversed a Los Angeles Superior Court decision which had awarded more than $72,000 from Universal Pictures to the actor's widow, Hope.

Carters Survive Family Woes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Like the cast of some television soap opera, the Carter family of Plains, Ga., has survived its share of melodrama during the White House run of "Jimmy Carter, Jimmy Carter."

A son's marital troubles, a brother's bout with the bottle, a nephew's prison sentence, one sister's skirmishes with the law, the other's efforts to "save" an accused pornographer — all are real-life plots from the past three years.

Little has been left to the imagination as the Carters have had their linen aired in public, perhaps more than any other presidential family.

Today, as Carter announces the start of his quest for re-election, the spotlight will shine even more brightly on his family, many of whom will be campaigning on his behalf.

Since 1976, when Jimmy Carter emerged from the pack to win the Democratic presidential nomination, the spotlight has rarely slipped off his family. Since his inauguration, Carter has experienced the death of a revered uncle, the birth of two grandchildren, a daughter-in-law's miscarriage, and the weddings of two nieces.

That's only the beginning. There is the eccentric, outspoken matriarch, Miss Lillian, who said last week that if she had $1 million to spare, she would hire someone to kill Iran's Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

Mrs. Carter, 81, also raised eyebrows recently with her suggestive reaction to the presidential candidacy of Sen. Edward Kennedy, whose two older brothers were slain by assassins. "I hope nothing happens to him," she told Democratic Party picnickers in Nashua, N.H., early in September.

She comes off as a villain in "Cousin Beedie and Cousin Hot," a book about family feuds written by Hugh Carter Sr., the president's cousin. The gossipy book says Mrs. Carter opposed her son's marriage to Rosalynn Smith.

Hugh's son and namesake is a presidential assistant who earned the nickname "Cousin Cheap" when he removed television sets from White House offices and canceled magazine subscriptions to save money.

The president's brother, Billy, lent his name to a beer, capitalized on his redneck reputation by out-earning the president in public appearances, and finally checked into Long Beach Naval Hospital for alcoholism treatments.

Earlier, Billy had outraged many by playing host to a group of prominent Libyans who had feted him in Tripoli.

He was reported to have said that American Jews offended by his Libyan friendship "can kiss my ass." That remark caused a White House official to publicly disassociate the president from the slur.

The president's sisters are just as independent. Gloria Carter Spann rides a motorcycle. She and Billy do not speak. She stayed out of the limelight until last February when she was arrested for refusing to quit playing a harmonica in an all-night diner in Americus, Ga.

Mrs. Spann's son, William, is in prison in California for armed robbery.

Ruth Carter Stapleton, the evangelist sister who was with Jimmy Carter when he experienced a religious rebirth, won notoriety with her efforts to bring religion to Hustler magazine publisher Larry Flynt.

As for the president's immediate family:

— Son Jack, 32, and his wife, Judy, had their second child, Sarah Rosemary, last year, about one year after Judy — an outspoken advocate of the proposed Equal Rights Amendment — had a miscarriage. Jack, who owns a grain elevator in Calhoun, Ga., had considered running for Congress next year, but decided against it.

— Son Chip, 29, and his wife Caron became parents shortly after the 1977 inauguration, naming their son James Earl Carter IV. The couple separated a year ago, a painful episode for the Carter family.

Solon Tags Foreign Ship Pilots 'Idiots'

GALVESTON (AP) — State Sen. Babe Schwartz says "absolute confused idiots" are operating foreign-flag ships in the Gulf of Mexico.

As evidence, Schwartz offers three collisions involving four foreign ships and two oil platforms in less than a month. He thinks the Texas Legislature should require port pilots to board the foreign vessels at the outer extremity of Texas waters, 10 miles offshore.

The tanker Burmah Agate still is burning 4½ miles off Galveston after a Nov. 1 collision with the freighter Mimosa left 32 men dead. Both vessels are of Liberian registry.

Last week, the Greek freighter Skymnos collided with an unmanned oil platform 13 miles offshore. There were no injuries. Less than 24 hours later, one crewman was killed when the Algerian freighter Babor struck another unmanned platform about 85 miles offshore.

All three collisions were outside the 3-mile U.S. territorial waters. All three were beyond the monitoring devices of the Coast Guard's Vessel Traffic System that keeps check on all movements along the busy Galveston-Houston Ship Channels.

And all four ships were without port pilots who climb aboard or leave all ships entering or departing U.S. waters off Galveston.

Schwartz said last week in Austin he will ask Gov. Bill Clements to allow a special session of the legislature to consider a bill that would extend port pilot duties from the 3-mile limit to 10 miles.

He repeated his proposal Monday while discussing the Burmah Agate collision and oil spill with the Space Center Rotary Club.

"I think this accident convinced everyone there are absolute confused idiots manning foreign-flag vessels in the Gulf of Mexico, he said. "We need to protect the Texas coastline."

Port pilots hold Merchant Marine licenses for piloting specific routes.

"They are professionals for bringing ships in and out of port," said Lt. Cmdr. Robert Storch of the Coast Guard's marine inspection office in Houston.

"They act as advisors to the master of the vessel as to the navigational characteristics of the channel. They are in constant contact with the Vessel Traffic System and can get information on traffic behind them or ahead of them."

From a legal point of view, Storch said, the master only takes advice from the pilots and is ultimately responsible for anything that happens.

"But from a practical point of view, in many instances the master will allow the pilot to be in control of giving the orders to the people on the bridge," Storch said. "This eliminates the middle man and possible confusion."

Candidate's Wife Seeks Funds Here

By TRAVIS BROWN
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Presidential hopefuls, including John Connally, are campaigning at full steam, despite vows made by most candidates not to comment on President Carter's handling of the Iranian crisis, says Connally's wife, Nellie.

Mrs. Connally was in Lubbock Tuesday to raise funds for her husband's bid for the presidency.

While here, she refused to say anything about the holding of 50 American hostages by terrorists in the American embassy in Iran.

"None of us want to say anything that might jeopardize the safety of the hostages," she said.

Mrs. Connally said she believes the race for the Republican presidential nomination is between her husband and former California governor Ronald Reagan.

She discounted the candidacy of Texas George Bush, Bush, former CIA director and ambassador to China, made a surprisingly strong showing recently in a straw vote among Republicans in Florida.

"Bush ran third there, and I think he will remain third," Mrs. Connally said.

Mrs. Connally said she and her husband have encountered no mist "st by any of the public toward Connally because of his indictment and acquittal on bribery charges while he was Secretary of the Treasury under Richard Nixon. She said the only persons who bring up the issue are members of the media.

Accompanying Mrs. Connally to Lubbock on the fund-raising jaunt was former Texas Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes. Barnes is working for Connally's campaign, said Jane Ann Stunett, chairman of the local Connally for President organization.

Mrs. Connally admitted that she is opposed to her husband's running for president.

"I wanted him to stay home with me," she said. "I didn't want to see him age the way I've seen so many men in public office do."

Mrs. Connally said a president "must be a caring, dedicated person who wants to leave for his children and their children all the good things we have inherited."

Bonds To Finance Classrooms At Frenship Win Approval

Storms Threaten Efforts To Cap Runaway Oil Well

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Workers besieged by stormy weather in the Bay of Campeche are battling to preserve the progress they have made in reducing the flow of crude from a runaway offshore oil well.

"The flow has been greatly reduced, but the weather is terrible. We are trying to maintain the gains we have made," a spokesman for the state petroleum monopoly Pemex said Tuesday.

The spokesman, who asked not to be identified, would not predict when the runaway well would be under control.

The well, which blew out June 3, has spilled about 2.5 million barrels of crude into Campeche Bay, 50 miles off the shrimping port of Ciudad del Carmen.

Crude oil originally gushed from the well at the rate of 30,000 barrels daily.

However, oil workers have been injecting salt water and a gelatinous substance into a relief well completed three weeks ago in an effort to reduce pressure on Ixtoc 1 so it can be capped with cement.

Some Pemex experts say they believe the flow has been reduced to as little as 3,000 barrels a day. Officials say they are not sure how much oil continues to spill into the ocean, but that it has been reduced to at least 10,000 barrels daily.

The spokesman said the 310-ton steel cone placed over the runaway well last month to capture much of the contaminating oil is not functioning at full capacity.

The cone is supposed to collect crude oil, gas and sea water and feed it into triangular surface platforms equipped with separators to burn off the gas. But strong ocean currents have prevented workers from connecting one of the ducts between the cone and one of the platforms, he said.

The cone is supposed to control 85 percent of the gas and oil.

termed the turnout "fairly heavy."

The bond election is the first phase of a master plan for a new high school, including band and athletic facilities.

The plan calls for the purchase of 54 acres as the site for the classrooms, a cafeteria, library and service areas.

The 28 classrooms will be occupied initially by fourth, fifth and sixth grade students to alleviate crowded elementary classrooms.

When the remaining two phases are completed, the 28 classrooms will become part of the high school complex, and existing high school classrooms will be used for elementary classes.

To pay the bond debt, taxes in the Frenship school district will have to be increased about one-third, school officials estimate. Such an increase would cost the owner of a $35,000 home about $100 per year.

The Frenship school district has experienced rapid growth in enrollment, primarily because the district includes portions of fast-growing western extremities of Lubbock.

To handle the rapid student increase, the district has had to utilize the gymnasium, second-hand barracks and even hallways as classrooms.

The district is the second-largest in Lubbock County with 2,534 students.

Texas Schools Called Unfair

TYLER (UPI) — The director of bilingual education in the Dallas Independent School District, innovator of a new bilingual program, has accused the state of failing to provide equal education for non-English speaking public school students.

Angel Gonzales of Dallas testified Tuesday in the second day of hearings on a federal suit to require Texas to provide adequate bilingual education.

Gonzales was the fourth witness brought by two intervenors in the case — the American GI Forum and the League of United Latin American Citizens. LULAC was represented by the Mexican American Legal Defense and Educational Fund.

"The TEA (Texas Education Agency) needs to commit itself to providing education to all students as stated in their goals," Gonzales testified.

He said the state Board of Education, the Education Commission and the TEA had failed to provide equal education for non-English speaking students by failing to supply trained staff, materials, evaluations and research to support sufficient bilingual programs.

Gonzales also criticized what he called inadequate textbooks, stating there was a gap in materials.

"There is nothing for fourth, fifth or sixth graders in textbooks and the reading materials are of poor quality," he said.

Describing the new system in the Dallas schools, Gonzales said he was proud of the program and of the school board for taking a stand.

He said Dallas' non-English speaking students are bused to a central location and taught in their first language with English as a second language. The students, when reaching a 40 percentile, are tested to leave the special program.

"The third grade is not a magic word," said Gonzales in his argument that the state should provide bilingual education in grades kindergarten-12.

"If a child is blind, we don't wait until there are 20 blind children in the same grade level to provide education," he said. "We must do the same for a child who has a learning disability — lack of English."

James Vasquez, superintendent of the Edgewood Independent School District in San Antonio, reiterated Gonzales' criticism of the support given present bilingual programs.

"Ten thousand of 18,000 students enrolled in my district are included in a bilingual program," he said. "The money provided by the state is insufficient, the teachers are not qualified and the materials are inadequate."

Many Facets Of Ballet Explored By Numerous Children's Books

By BARBARA ELLEMAN
American Library Assn.

Ballet has captured the American imagination. And, not surprisingly, it also has captured the children's book market.

Ballerina Lilliana Cosi uses photos and text in "The Young Ballet Dancer" to explain the five basic positions, the first exercises at the barre, and differences in training for boys and girls. Moving from exercise room to stage, she discusses make-up, costumes and pre-curtain routines before capsulizing a number of famous ballets. Cosi succeeds beautifully in showing the technical perfection and artistic inspiration necessary to transform precise, demanding ballet movements into fluid flawless dance.

Camilla Jessel's "Life at the Royal Ballet School" is an in-depth look at the life of students who attend White Lodge, home of the Lower School of Britain's Royal Ballet. The grueling work, physical stamina, artistic acuity and self-discipline required are painfully obvious as pupils experience the tension of auditions, the stress of competition and the continual struggle for technical growth. Information about specific steps and body positions is interspersed with more than 300 photos of professionals dancing in actual performances.

Those who enjoy watching from the house side of the proscenium arch will enjoy Joan Lawson's "Ballet Stories," synopses of 14 famous ballets, brought to life in black-and-white and some color photos. Favorites such as "The Nutcracker," "Giselle," "The Sleeping Beauty," "Swan Lake," "The Firebird," "Cinderella," and "Romeo and Juliet" will allow young (and older) theatergoers to more fully appreciate the dance on stage.

Perplexities faced by children who want to be dancers is the theme of three new novels. In Marcia Simon's "A Special Gift," Peter decides that dance lessons are okay, but he's not sure he wants to audition for the upcoming "Nutcracker." Not only will it interfere with basketball, but he fears reprisals when classmates find out. Along with his sister Elizabeth, Peter is swept into the excitement of tryouts and lands a part.

Rehearsals conflict with basketball games. When Peter tries to do both, he twists his ankle, and misses the first week's performances. Word leaks out about his dancing, and ugly name calling further dampens his spirits. But watching from the wings on opening night, Peter finally accepts his own love of ballet as "a special gift."

Susan Farrar brings an international note to her "Samantha on Stage," as Lizinka, a Russian diplomat's daughter, out-performs Samantha "Sam" Scott who has always been tops in her class. Sam understandably feels threatened, but her good nature wins out. She and Lizinka become friends and learn from each other — Sam to discipline herself and Lizinka to loosen up and enjoy her art.

In James Landis' "The Sisters Impossible," Lily, a clumsy, outgoing nine-year-old, reluctantly attends the ballet school where her graceful, haughty sister Sandra, 14, is the star. After one lesson, Lily is drawn into the rudiments of dance, quickly becoming an enthusiastic beginner. Daily visits make Lily appreciate her sister's talent but she also watches Sandra fall apart before an audition. Lily's ingenious aid to Sandra results in new comradeship between the sisters and more confidence for Lily herself.

In her two picture books for younger readers, Barbara Bottner captures the ups and downs of dancing. Casey, in "Dumb Old Casey is a Fat Tree," has always wanted to be a dancer, but her plump figure and clumsy leaps stand in her way. Determined to land the part of the evil prince, she faithfully practices her jetes and pirouettes and even forgoes chocolate bars and jelly apples. When the only part she gets is "The Tree," Casey contemplates quitting until her teacher comments on her perfect stage run and names her "Head Tree."

In Bottner's near-wordless "Myra," an imaginative young girl turns her teacher's instructions into exaggerated imitations of animals. "Leap...swim...fly...kick" instructs Mrs. Page, but while other class members simply follow along, Myra is the leaping frog, the flapping fish, the flying bird or the kicking mule. Disgusted with her antics, the others complain and Mrs. Page admonishes, "No more funny business. O.K. Myra?" Myra agrees, until the teacher's "Let's all sway" inspires her to become a tree bending in the breeze.

Rachel Isadora, a former dancer, combines baseball and dancing in her appealing picture book "Max." On the way to his Saturday baseball game, Max lingers at his sister's dancing school class. In spite of himself, he becomes interested and soon is stretching at the barre, attempting splits and joining in a pas de chat. When game time approaches, his leaps carry him all the way to the ball park, ready to face the pitcher. Strike one — strike two — home run! Max has a new way to warm up for baseball and a dancing class has a new member.

The run-of-the-mill player should develop a sense of comfort from the performance of experts in tournament bridge. Under the stress of competition, even the best players will often miss a relatively simple line of play. Here is a typical case.

Seven spades was a popular contract, although at some tables North-South were content to play in a small slam. However, the grand slam was made at only one table! There, the bidding proceeded naturally as shown. When North could jump to six spades, South bid the grand slam with complete confidence.

At most tables, declarer won the opening heart lead and drew trumps in two rounds, ending in dummy. So delighted were they with the even trump split that they hurried to set up diamonds by cashing the ace-king. The 5-1 diamond split meant that declarer needed three trumps to set up the suit, but there were only two in dummy.

The successful declarer improved his chances considerably by a very simple tactic. After ending in dummy with the second trump, he ruffed a club in his hand before cashing the high diamonds. Now, when East failed to follow to the second diamond, declarer could fall back on an alternate line — establishing dummy's fifth club.

He crossed to dummy with a diamond ruff, cashed the ace and king of clubs, discarding a card from each red suit in his hand, and then ruffed a club. When that suit divided evenly, the slam was home. Declarer ruffed a diamond in dummy, then discarded his last diamond on the established club.

Isn't it amazing how many capable declarers could have a blind spot in such a relatively straightforward contract?

Dear Abby,

DEAR ABBY: In response to AC-TRESS, who criticized those in the audience for rushing out of the theater the minute the performance is over instead of sticking around for all the curtain calls:

I go to the ticket window, lay down my hard-earned money hoping to get my money's worth in entertainment. I sit through the performance, then down comes the curtain. End of show. Then I get up and leave.

Why should I either remain in my seat or stand up and keep applauding those egomaniacs and shouting "Bravo!" like a nincompoop? I paid THEM to perform for ME. I should be applauded for buying the ticket. Without me, and others like me, they would be in the unemployment line because those ego-loaded showoffs would rather starve to death than do menial work.

Why should entertainers be treated like gods? Have you ever heard of three curtain calls for a neurosurgeon?

JOE S. IN SALEM, N.Y.

DEAR JOE: No. But it could be "curtains" for the patient of a neurosurgeon who turns in a poor performance!

DEAR ABBY: About six months ago my husband started acting nervous and preoccupied. He also started working late at his office and on weekends — something he rarely did.

We've been married 16 years, have a nice family, and have often said that ours was one of the few really "good" marriages we knew of.

A week ago, I received a phone call in the middle of the afternoon from a woman who refused to identify herself, but said she thought I should know that my husband was having an affair with a young woman who works in his office. Then she mentioned the woman's name. I recalled my husband telling me that he had employed a young, unmarried woman by that name about a year ago. I fell apart.

When my husband came home, I told him about the call and knew from his reaction it was true. I cried. He cried, too, and then confessed that he had had an affair with her, but broke it off two weeks ago, telling her it was a regrettable mistake, and he would get her a job elsewhere. He said she seemed to accept his decision. Then he asked me to listen in on the telephone extension while he called someone. I did. I recognized the voice at once as the woman who had phoned me! She called, hoping I would throw my husband out and give her a clear field!

I've forgiven my husband, but I'm still hurting some. I'm glad I didn't act foolishly in haste. Perhaps some other wife will be wiser for my experience.

If you print this, please don't use my name.

GETTING OVER IT

DEAR ABBY: Your advice to LONG-ING FOR MOTHERHOOD was the worst! She wanted a baby but had no husband or boyfriend, so she was considering asking a fellow to do her a favor and father her child. You told her "scrap the idea!" Why?

If a woman wants a baby, why should she have to marry a man she may not love just to have one? If she's longing for motherhood, married or not, that's the time to do something about it.

Today a woman has the right to have an abortion if she wants one, so why shouldn't she have the right to have a baby if that's what she wants?

FREEDOM FOR ALL

DEAR FREEDOM: I'm all for a woman's right to have a baby if she wants one. But I could not in good conscience go along with her idea of "asking a fellow to do her a favor" to achieve motherhood.

If you need help in writing letters of sympathy, congratulations or thank-you letters, get Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for all Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK

A lot of parents go through the phase where their children go to college and two weeks later want to have their parents tested for irregular flow of oxygen to the brain. Adults don't know anything.

Oh, I can take the humiliation of kids asking, "Do you understand what I mean by the term 'bottom line'?"

I can handle the condescending way they spell in front of me. I can even endure their impatience when they ask me something and when I don't hear it they shout, "Never mind!"

What I can't stand is their sanctimonious superiority. They all go through it. We no sooner got one child raised who didn't know how we managed to feed ourselves without a working knowledge of statistics than we had to live through an economics expert.

God has now chosen to send us a son who is majoring in "cinema."

Forget the home movies. We stopped showing those two years ago when we asked him to splice together some of our shots of South America. We own the shortest home movie ever recorded in the Guinness Book of Records. As he said, "There was only ten feet of film that had any quality to it whatsoever. I cannot believe you left home without a tripod."

What really gets to me is that I can't enjoy a movie anymore without his Ron-icizing it.

Mom: "The Seduction of Joe Tynan and I loved it."

Son: "Just missed making a statement."

Mom: "...up to a point. Of course the one I really liked was 'Apocalypse Now' which was breathtakingly..."

Son: Coppola had a concept but it didn't work."

Mom: "...dull. You're absolutely right. Of course 'Luna' was a shakeup for me, really gross..."

Son: "Beautiful film. Sensitive and real."

Mom: "...ed a million according to the critics and worth every penny of it."

Son: "What about 'Life of Brian'?"

Mom: "I haven't seen it, but the Clawsons saw it and walked out of the theatre."

Son: "Most brilliant piece of satire to come across the screen since Chaplin."

Mom: "...laughing. My gosh, they couldn't stop."

Son: "I'd be interested in comparing your notes on '10.' Or did you relate at all to the metaphor?"

With luck, maybe I'll outgrow him.

Expert Examines Marriage

COLLEGE STATION (Special) — Happy families create happy-marriages, says Dorothy Taylor, a family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

In other words, the quality of early family life affects the lives of young people anticipating marriage, she explains.

Young people are usually conditioned early in life in ways that will make them "good" or "poor" risks in marriage.

Ten circumstances affecting this "conditioning" for marital happiness include:

- 1) happiness of parents
- 2) childhood happiness of marriage partner
- 3) lack of conflict with mother
- 4) firm, not harsh, family rules
- 5) closeness to mother
- 6) closeness to father
- 7) lack of conflict with father
- 8) frankness about sex
- 9) mild, infrequent childhood punishment
- 10) positive attitude toward sex in marriage

The most significant factors about marital happiness are directly related to the happiness and success of a parent's marriage and the relationship of parents and the adult child, the specialist continues.

Traits that affect marriageability in a negative sense are parent-child friction, broken homes and conflict in intact families.

In a sense, people are conditioned for marital success and happiness by their own family background.

However, with a rational approach to marriage, people can and do break cycles of unhappiness that may have run in families, Miss Taylor explains.

Those reared in happy homes have an advantage — they are able to pattern after an example of marriage success.

School Program Holds Meeting

About thirty-five groups participating in the Expanded Nutrition Program will meet Friday from 4-6 p.m. in the Mae Simmons Community Center for a "Show-and-Tell Day," program director, Shelley Phillip, has announced.

The groups will represent classes which meet in all parts of the city to learn about foods and nutrition under the guidance of specially trained volunteer leaders. The Expanded Nutrition Program is an arm of the Texas A&M University Extension Service.

Parents are invited to Friday's program which will include games and refreshments.

Shelley Phillip has been serving as the director of ENP for two months. Formerly she was assistant manager of Texas Tech University food services. She is a Tech graduate.

Serving as program assistants in the ENP are Carolyn Gilbert, Maria Valdez, Jean Burton and Annie Taylor.

Factions Agree On Cease-Fire

LONDON (AP) — British and Patriotic Front guerrilla leaders today agreed on compromise terms for a cease-fire in Zimbabwe Rhodesia, opening the way for a settlement in the 7-year-old guerrilla war, a spokesman for Commonwealth Secretary-General Shridath Ramphal said.

He told The Associated Press of the accord after Front leaders Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe met with British Foreign Secretary Lord Carrington for an hour.

Britain hopes to immediately send a

Troops Retake Cotton Mill After Seizure

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — Government troops firing tear gas broke up the occupation of a key cotton mill by thousands of disaffected workers but hundreds of armed farmers demanding higher wages have seized a large dairy farm.

The Defense Ministry Tuesday announced the end of the takeover at the Tres Rios cotton complex and warned against further seizures by workers and peasants demanding salary increases.

No injuries were reported at the cotton mill, although authorities said gunshot fire was heard.

"Everyone has a right to peacefully demand salaries that they consider just, but we must remember that the authorities have the right to preserve the public order and other people's rights," a government spokesman said.

Authorities said troops firing tear gas drove off the 3,000 workers who occupied Tres Rios, 48 miles east of San Salvador, since Sunday.

In retaliation for the takeover, which paralyzed the cotton harvest, cotton growers ordered a halt to all harvesting and processing.

In another development, South African envoy Deon Votscheek arrived in El Salvador Tuesday to negotiate the release of Ambassador Archibald Dunn, who was kidnapped by leftist guerrillas last Wednesday in downtown San Salvador.

Late Monday, 500 peasants armed with machetes, pistols and submachine guns seized the large La Sabana Dairy Farm, 54 miles east of the capital, to demand higher wages, authorities said.

The country's moderate civilian-military junta has ordered minimum wage hikes but the two takeovers and threats by coffee workers to seize processing plants were the latest signs the country's wealthy, landowning class has refused to comply.

Irish Leader Plans Retirement

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Irish Prime Minister Jack Lynch announced today he is retiring from politics at the end of this year.

Lynch, 62, who has been leader of the ruling Fianna Fail Party since 1966, told party colleagues he will continue as government chief until the new year, and will then make way for a successor.

Lynch's announcement was not a surprise to Irish political observers. He had earlier made clear he did not intend to lead his party into the general election that must be held within the next two years, and said he would give his successor time to "settle in" before then.

governor to Salisbury to run the country during a transitional period for elections, to be monitored by a Commonwealth force.

The current Salisbury government, led by black Prime Minister Abel Muzorewa, has accepted Britain's proposals for a new constitution during the 13-week-old talks here, but has not ruled on the cease-fire proposals.

The major elements of the compromise, as reported by the officials, were: —The size of the Commonwealth military observation force, which Britain had limited to 1,000 men, would be raised to at least 1,200. There would be a provision for reinforcements.

—All assembly points for Patriotic Front guerrillas, and all bases used by the Salisbury government's forces, would be surrounded by military monitors in order to reduce dangers of a surprise attack.

—All five Zimbabwe Rhodesian airfields would be surrounded by Commonwealth troops, who also would be called upon to control all ammunition stocks.

—There would be an explicit provision stipulating all "external forces" must leave the country. This is intended to cover the withdrawal of hundreds of South African airmen and troops known to be in Zimbabwe Rhodesia even though the Pretoria government has denied their presence.

Late last week Carrington presented a British plan he portrayed as the final British position on cease-fire arrangements, and he called on Nkomo and Mugabe to take it or leave it.

The Front leaders stood firm on their own proposals, but then Ramphal stepped in to try to narrow the differences.

Ramphal said the peace conference was in the final stages which "demand extreme sensitivity."

"A spirit of understanding and minimal accommodation on all sides will make agreement possible. That is what the final stage of the conference is all about — fine-tuning agreement between all the parties — an inordinately necessary process in this case, for only with such agreement is a lasting settlement possible," he said.

Britain is making what many believe is the last attempt to bring peace to its breakaway colony, which has been embroiled in guerrilla war for seven years. In that time, more than 20,000 persons have been killed.

Former Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith, a white, broke with Britain in 1965 to head off black rule, but by 1978 when Smith moved toward black rule, the guerrilla war effort had crippled the Rhodesian economy, hampered by international sanctions imposed after the break from Britain.

Two men are considered the most likely contenders for Lynch's job — Finance Minister and deputy party leader George Colley and Health Minister Charles Haughey. Colley is thought to be the man Lynch would prefer as successor, but Haughey is widely considered to be more popular within the party.

Soviet Tank Division Leaves German City

BERLIN (AP) — A Soviet tank division stationed in the historic East German town of Wittenberg began returning home today as part of the partial troop withdrawal announced by Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev.

East German television transmitted a live report from the city made famous by association with Protestant reformer Martin Luther, showing Red Army tanks aboard railway flatcars and thousands of East German civilians watching.

A row of Soviet troops in military overcoats and fur hats stood near the flatcars and smiled and waved at the crowd, which pushed forward near the rail line in this city 45 miles south of Berlin.

Western reporters and cameramen invited to the ceremony by East Germany's foreign ministry stood nearby.

The East German commentator described the tanks from the 6th Guards Tank Division as "middle-sized, T-series, modern." He said the train carrying them was "a train of hope and good will."

U.S. Officials in Washington said Tuesday the division was one of the weakest and most poorly equipped of the some 20 Soviet divisions stationed in East Germany.

Brezhnev announced Oct. 6 in East Berlin plans to withdraw 20,000 troops and 1,000 tanks from East Germany over the next 12 months as a gesture of good will.

The withdrawal began one week before NATO was scheduled to decide in Brussels on deploying new U.S.-built, medium range nuclear missiles in Western Europe.

Moscow apparently hoped to contrast its gesture of peace with NATO's "war plans" and increase pressure on Western politicians to forsake the missiles.

Wittenberg was the site Tuesday of a "friendship meeting" between members of the Soviet garrison and East German officers and functionaries.

During the festivities, Gen. Iygeni Ivanovski, the Soviet commander in East Germany, said the Kremlin was preparing to withdraw its troops as a major step toward military detente in Europe.

He thanked the East German leadership for "your permanent concern for the Soviet soldiers and your help for the Soviet forces" in the country.

Werner Felfe, the senior East German official at the ceremony, paid tribute to Soviet support and warned of NATO's "dangerous plans" to station medium-range nuclear missiles in Western Europe.

He said such a move would upset the military balance in Europe.

AMERIC

Republican Committee Polling Voting Public

By TOM RAUM
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republican Congressional Committee is conducting a program designed to take care of millions of neglected Americans: those never polled by Gallup or Harris.

The committee, whose mission is electing more Republicans to the House and Senate, has been mailing a "1980 presidential survey" to GOP voters and inviting them to express their preference for candidates and return the ballot by mail — along with a minimum $5 contri-

The survey form also contains a check-box for contributions of "$100, $50 or $15."

In a "Dear Friend" letter accompanying the straw ballot, committee chairman Rep. Guy Vander Jagt, R-Mich., asks: "Have you ever been asked your preference for presidential candidates by professional pollsters George Gallup or Lou Harris? Probably not since they usually poll less than 2,000 people."

"That's why the National Republican Congressional Committee is launching this project to reach millions of Americans across the country to give them a chance to vote for their presidential choice well in advance of the convention."

Thym Smith, a committee spokesman, said, "Our goal is to send one to every Republican in the country."

He conceded the survey was an unorthodox way of raising funds for GOP candidates for Congress. But he defended it as "an attempt to get away from the fat-cat image and generate more involvement in the party."

He claimed the first $5 of the contribution mostly pays for mailing, processing and tabulating the ballots.

Response hasn't been exactly overwhelming, perhaps suggesting many Republicans are still holding out for Harris or Gallup.

Of the 10 million forms mailed since June, "between 300,000 and 400,000" have been filled out and returned, "some with money and some without," Smith said.

Of those with money, the average contribution has been about $11, he said.

Which candidate has the edge? The committee isn't saying — at least not until early 1980 when the tabulation is completed and the results released, Smith said.

In the "nice try" department: House ethics committee chairman Charles Bennett, D-Fla., was pressing a motion in his committee the other day that other members just weren't buying.

In fact, Rep. Harold C. Hollenbeck, R-N.J., said he found Bennett's proposal meaningless.

"Well, if it's meaningless, why don't we adopt it?" Bennett said.

The tactic didn't work.

In a steamy exchange on the Senate floor, Rep. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, debated parliamentary procedure with Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., an acknowledged grand master of the rule book.

Iranian Crisis Brings Forth Truce Between White House, Congress

By STEVE GERSTEL
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Every afternoon of late, the chauffeur-driven black Cadillac wheels Secretary of State Cyrus Vance from the State Department to Capitol Hill.

The mission is important: To brief Senate and House leaders and the Capitol's foreign affairs experts on the situation in Iran.

After nearly three years of an almost total non-cooperation between the White emerged from the meetings.

An exception was the unanimous passage in the Senate and House of a resolution calling for release of the hostages, and the unity of Americans in demanding the freeing of the 50 persons.

Commentary

House and Congress, these two branches of the government have finally adopted a temporary truce.

But it took a situation as desperate as the holding of 50 American hostages in Iran to bring it about.

Even then, the scenario developed slowly.

During the first several days after the hostages were seized, the White House did not share its counsel with Congress. There was some briefing, but nothing that would be considered a give-and-take.

After some bitter complaining by congressional leaders, the decision was reached to bring them actively into the crisis situation.

As a result, Vance has made the pilgrimage to Capitol Hill daily and it has become so much part of his routine that it is now listed on his schedule of public activities.

The first stop is the "hideway" office of House Speaker Thomas O'Neill on the second floor of the Capitol. The time usually is around 4 p.m.

Gathered in O'Neill's office are House Democratic Leader Jim Wright of Texas and House Republican Leader John Rhodes of Arizona, their top deputies and the chairman and ranking Republican on the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Vance briefs the House leaders about developments in the past 24 hours, takes questions, even accepts suggestions.

From O'Neill's lair, Vance moves to the office of Senate Democratic Leader Robert Byrd.

Senate Republican leader Howard Baker has been absent most of the time — off campaigning for the Republican presidential nomination.

But his deputy, Ted Stevens of Alaska, has attended faithfully and presumably keeps Baker informed.

Senate Foreign Relations Committee Chairman Frank Church, D-Idaho, and senior Republican member Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., are also invited.

Court Rules Jurors Pressured By Judge

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The jurors were slow to decide whether the defendant had robbed a grocery store, until the judge said they'd have to buy their own lunch. Then they promptly found him guilty.

But when an appeals court got the case, it quickly reversed the conviction, saying the judge had "improperly pressured the jury to reach a verdict" by deciding the court would not pay for lunch.

Jurors in the 1978 case had spent 3½ days debating whether Juan M. Guerrero had robbed a Los Angeles grocery store of about $40.

Andean Group Shows Strength

LIMA, Peru (AP)—Unprecedented political unity among the Andean Group common market countries contributed recently to keeping democracy alive in Bolivia, one of their members.

It was the second major demonstration this year of the Andean Group's new political clout.

Bolivia's three-month-old democratic government, the first after more than a decade of military domination, was overthrown on Nov. 1 by a military coup led by Col. Alberto Natusch Busch.

Bolivia's four common market partners, Ecuador, Colombia, Peru and Venezuela, condemned the Natusch regime and on Nov. 12 agreed to delay recognition of the government until conditions existed for a return to democracy.

Natusch resigned 16 days after he took power and the Bolivian Congress elected Lidia Gueiler as interim president.

"The attitude of the Andean countries toward the Bolivian situation not only was effective and without precedent, but also without doubt determined the fall of Natusch," the Peruvian magazine Caratassid in a recent issue.

The foreign ministers of the Andean Group expressed their "emotional greetings" to Mrs. Gueiler's government and said the Bolivian people had demonstrated "courage and maturity in defense of the cause of democratic institutionalization."

Mrs. Gueiler, Bolivia's first woman president, was appointed to serve until a new government scheduled to be elected on May 4 takes office on Aug. 6, 1980.

Bolivian Foreign Minister Julio Garret said the refusal of the Andean Group to recognize the Natusch regime was a positive influence and a "valuable contribution of support to the majority will of the Bolivian people."

Bolivians had interpreted the Andean Group's stand "as a vigorous reaffirmation of democracy, valid not only for Bolivia but also for all the countries of the Southern Hemisphere," Garret said in a note sent Nov. 27 to regional foreign ministers.

The foreign ministers can be expected to continue their surveillance of Bolivia's shaky return to democracy because they realize that anything is possible between now and the elections.

The country has had nearly 200 changes of government in 154 years of independence. In the last 17 months, there have been two national elections, three military coups and six presidents.

The Gueiler government had been in office a week when a group of powerful military officers rebelled over her appointments to the military high command.

Mrs. Gueiler prevented another military coup by agreeing to withdraw her nominees.

The Andean Group was strictly limited to regional economic integration until this year.

It was created 10 years ago to encourage trade among the five countries, which cover 1.8 million square miles of western South America. The area, about half the size of the United States, has a combined population of 65 million.

KIDS-ONLY CLUB

Instructions Given For Party Table

By SHARI LEWIS

Plan to trim your Christmas party table in red and white. Cut a deep fringe along the edge of a package of crepe paper while it's still folded. The fringe should be about 3 inches deep on each side. Cover the table with a white cloth. Open the package of crepe paper, and place your fringe strip so that it reaches from end to end and hangs down on the side. Cut off the strip on each side so that it is the same length as the cloth itself.

And you might serve "Snowballs" (balls of vanilla ice cream sprinkled with shredded coconut) and make your own No-Cook Candy.

Here's how: Just chop one cup each of walnuts and seedless raisins. Mix them together with 2 tablespoons of honey and blend well. Butter your hands and roll the mixture into little balls. Then roll each ball in ground nuts. (That part is easy — on waxed paper, just spread 1/2 cup of ground nuts and roll the little goopy ball about in it.)

YESTERDAY'S BRAIN TWISTER: When does a nut sound like a sneeze?

ICC Approves Merger Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Grand Trunk Western Railroad and the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton Railroad have received permission to merge from the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The ICC rejected a competing proposal from the Norfolk and Western and Baltimore and Ohio Railroads to take over DTI, saying that the joint proposal was anti-competitive and not in the public interest.

Grand Trunk now has six months to reach a contract with The Pennsylvania Co., owner of DTI stock, and the agreement must be reviewed by the ICC. Grand Trunk must also provide DTI employees with protection guaranteed in Grand Trunk labor contracts, the ICC said.

DTI operates over about 600 miles of track and provides service mainly between Detroit and Cincinnati. Grand Trunk is affiliated with the Canadian National Railway and operates over about 900 miles in Michigan, Indiana and Illinois.

The commission also approved Grand Trunk's proposal to purchase the one-half outstanding interest in the Detroit, Toledo and Shore Line, Railroad.

India Leads World In Child Labor

LONDON (AP) — India has the largest child labor force in the world, with 16.5 million children working long hours in dangerous conditions for little pay, the Anti-Slavery Society said recently.

And India's girls suffer even more grievously than boys, living shorter lives than males whereas life expectancy at birth is normally higher for girls than for boys, according to the report.

It said that children aged 5 to 14 toil in mining, brickmaking, construction and the particularly hazardous work of match manufacturing, often in conditions imperiling their health, and for as little as six U.S. cents a day or even less.

"Childhood is a term which does not apply to many Indian children today," the report observed. "They go from swaddling clothes straight into working gear."

The Anti-Slavery Society, which has consultative status with the United Nations Economic and Social Council, was founded 140 years ago. It defines its task as "working against all forms of economic bondage, including the exploitation of children and adults amounting to slavery."

Last month it described as an underestimate official governmental figures that showed 52 million children working throughout the world.

Suspect Shoots Into Residence, Wounds Youth

Lubbock police today were looking for a man who allegedly shot three times into a residence, wounding a 10-year-old boy and barely missing his mother.

The boy was treated and released at Methodist Hospital after being shot in the foot shortly before 8 p.m. Tuesday at his mother's 208 Hub Homes residence.

The victim's brother, Larry Dupree, 17, of 1913-A 17th St., told police he got into a fight with a 19-year-old black male near his mother's apartment.

After the suspect pulled a pistol, Dupree ran inside his family's apartment, according to reports. The armed man allegedly fired three times into the residence, wounding the boy, who was standing behind his mother, Martha Dupree, 50.

The investigating officer, in his report, said Mrs. Dupree suffered a temporary loss of hearing after bullets passed by her head. The older brother was not injured.

The teen-age suspect was described as of medium build and was last seen wearing a gray shirt and black pants. He reportedly sported a mustache and long sideburns.

In other activity, a 16-year-old Lubbock boy said he was robbed of $20 cash about 6:30 p.m. Monday in the 2200-block of Quirt Avenue after a young bandit, wielding a .22-caliber pistol, confronted him and demanded, "Give me your money."

The youth said the armed juvenile, accompanied by an older man, drove up in a yellow Grand Prix while he walked south on Quirt Avenue. The younger suspect reportedly jumped out of the car and took the victim's money while holding him at bay with the weapon.

The bandit and his companion were last seen traveling south on Quirt Avenue. The boy said the 14-year-old suspect attends his school. The driver of the car was described as a black man about 27 years old.

A 23-year-old woman told Lubbock County sheriff's deputies she was assaulted by a Mexican-American man about 7 p.m. Tuesday after her car ran out of gasoline on FM 1585, between the Tahoka Highway and South Quirt Avenue.

The woman said her assailant, accompanied by three other Mexican-American males, drove up behind her stalled car in a black pickup truck.

Reports indicate one of the men got out of the truck and asked the woman what was wrong. When she said her car was out of gas, the man allegedly grabbed her and said, "Come on baby, we'll get some gas."

The victim said she slapped the suspect, prompting him to strike her in the head and knock her down. The four men drove east on FM 1585 after the woman began screaming, according to reports.

The woman hitched a ride to Town and Country Air Park, 118th Street and South Quirt Avenue, and passed out in a bathroom, deputies were told. She was taken to Methodist Hospital where she was listed today in satisfactory condition.

The victim's assailant was described as a 6-foot-tall man, between 26 and 28, and weighing about 220 pounds. He reportedly had an afro style haircut, mustache and a pot belly.

Charles David Cummins, a 19-year-old Texas Tech student, told police he was assaulted by a one-armed man about 1 p.m. Tuesday in the lobby of Bromley Hall at 1001 University Ave.

Cummins, who was not seriously injured in the attack, said he had recently been a witness in a case the university had against the assailant.

The suspect allegedly struck Cummins in the face with his "good arm." The victim said he was then scratched by the man's "mechanical arm."

Reports state the suspect also hit Cummins in the back with his artificial limb before leaving the student apartment complex.

The man was described as black, between 18 and 25, tall and thin. He was last seen wearing a red hat, white shirt and blue pants.

Joe Bautocauart, age unknown, of 3905 21st St., was treated and released at Methodist Hospital after reportedly being beaten in front of a club at Fourth Street and Avenue Q about 2 a.m. today.

Police were told the victim and two other persons were involved in a fight with several club employees. No one else was injured in the altercation, reports indicate.

Police said a 17-year-old man had gathered no more than a 27-cent check when he was caught about 12:30 a.m. today burglarizing a car in the 3300-block of Avenue B.

The suspect told the owner of the vehicle, Robert Fristoe of Idalou, he was in the car to make out. However, reports state a check made out for 27 cents was missing from inside the car, and that it was found inside the teen-ager's coat pocket.

Authorities today were looking for the thief who reportedly stole just over $1,200 cash from a safe at Community Hospital of Lubbock, 5301 University Ave.

The cash was discovered missing when a hospital employee took a money bag to the bank about 4:45 p.m. Tuesday.

Society Posts $100 Reward In Poisonings

The Lubbock Humane Society posted a $100 reward Tuesday for information leading to the arrest and conviction of those responsible for the rash of dog poisonings plaguing the rural neighborhood east of Lubbock.

In the past two weeks, some 15 dogs have been poisoned with paraquat, a liquid herbicide generally used to defoliate crops. Several local veterinarians and representatives of the humane society feel the poisonings have been deliberate.

Last week, E.F. Harvey, who lost two dogs to the poison, posted a reward of $100 for information on the alleged crimes.

Paraquat has been used across the rural area east of Lubbock this fall, but Rick Smith, a local representative of the Chevron Co. which makes the herbicide, said the poisonings occurred more than a month after most cotton farmers quit using it this fall.

The Lubbock Humane Society also is offering funds for treatment of animals who may have ingested paraquat. For more information, call 792-4436.

Court Affirms McManus' Death Sentence

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals, in a split decision, affirmed today the death sentence given Vernon McManus in the murder-for-hire deaths of a Houston couple.

Three of the nine judges dissented, saying the sentence should be set aside and a new trial held.

McManus was convicted in 1977 of capital murder in the death of Paul Cantrell and assessed the death sentence.

On July 25, 1976, the bodies of Cantrell and his wife, Mary, were found in their Houston home by their daughter, Paula Cantrell Derese. They were on the floor of their den. Both had been strangled and their throats cut.

In a written statement and at the trial, the daughter implicated herself and McManus, former assistant football coach at Lamar University.

According to court records, Mrs. Derese testified she had pleaded guilty to murder in her parents' death and encouraged commission of the crime. She said she admitted her part in the crime because she found she could not have taken her parents money and lived like she wanted.

She testified at McManus' trial he told her the killings were done by himself and two men. They used a pipe to hit the victims over the head and then cut their throats, she said.

She said McManus told her she would have to pay him one-third of the Cantrell estate.

McManus filed an appeal alleging 15 errors in the trial.

"We hold that the evidence is sufficient to show that appellant committed murder 'for remuneration or the promise of remuneration' as alleged in the indictment," the court majority held.

Judge Sam Houston Clinton dissented, saying he thought the verdict should be reversed and a new trial held. He said the indictment for "the alleged offense is not set forth in plain and intelligible words."

Clinton was joined in the dissent by Judge Truman Roberts.

Judge W.T. Phillips also dissented, saying the judgment should be set aside. He also said the indictment was inadequate.

Detroit Station Cancels Game Show

DETROIT (AP) — A Detroit television station has canceled the syndicated game show "Three's a Crowd" following protests that the show is sexist and demeaning to women.

A WDIV-TV spokesman said Tuesday that the show, which pits a wife against a secretary to see who knows the husband-better, will air for the final time Dec. 21.

(The program is televised in the Lubbock area at 6:30 p.m. weeknights by KCBD-TV, Channel 11).

Glenna Davis of Northville, Mich., began the protests from her kitchen, mailing petitions and making telephone calls urging offended viewers to contact the station. She charged the show encourages sexual harassment on the job and insults wives and secretaries.

Local chapters of the the National Secretaries Association, the PTA, the National Organization for Women and the Homemakers Equal Rights Association subsequently joined the protest.

The station said it expected the sexual content of the show to be toned down beginning with January programs, but "since the station could not judge the effect of these changes or when they would be forthcoming, and in spite of the fact that the program is very popular in the Detroit area, we have decided to cancel."

The show is produced by Chuck Barris, creator of "The Newlywed Game," and "The Dating Game." The NBC affiliate said "The Joker's Wild" — which it described as a "traditional game show" — will air in place of "Three's a Crowd."

Police were joined in the dissent by Judge Truman Roberts.

Judge W.T. Phillips also dissented, saying the judgment should be set aside. He also said the indictment was inadequate.

Judges Rule Machine Worker Can Sue Former Employer

AUSTIN (AP) — A Dallas machine worker who accused his former boss of malicious prosecution and giving away tools that belonged to him should get his full day in court, the Texas Supreme Court ruled today.

R.S. Germany sued Frank G. Love Envelopes, Inc., for $509,000, but the trial court granted a summary judgment — without a complete trial — in favor of Love.

However, the Texarkana Court of Civil Appeals reversed the trial court judgment and remanded the case for trial. The Supreme Court upheld the appeals court ruling.

The appeals court said several blank checks were stolen from Love's business in November 1969, and on Nov. 26 someone passed several checks with Love's forged signature on them.

Love identified one of his employees from a photograph as having passed forged checks. While he was at the police station, court records show, he was shown another photograph. Love testified he thought it might be Germany, and he asked to show the photograph to other employees.

Love said he learned the picture was of yet another employee and advised the police. Nevertheless, records show, police arrested Germany in Love's office. Love allegedly gave Germany's tool belt and tools to others.

Germany was in jail for three months before his family was able to make bond for $3,000. Germany left the state temporarily but was later arrested and served 3½ months in jail in late 1974.

An assistant district attorney testified he called Love in February 1975. He said Love told him Germany was not the person in the second picture. Love signed a paper to this effect, and Germany was released.

In his defense, Love said he had never signed a complaint against Germany and did not appear before the grand jury considering the case.

Germany's sued for more than $450,000 in damages for his imprisonment and for loss of earnings.

Police were joined in the dissent by Judge Truman Roberts.

Judge W.T. Phillips also dissented, saying the judgment should be set aside. He also said the indictment was inadequate.

Official Refuses To Let Gideon's Present Bibles

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — The schools superintendent says a group of Gideons will not be allowed to distribute Bibles in the public school system, saying it would open the "floodgates" to all religions.

The Gideons wanted to hand out free Bibles to children in grades 5 through 12, something they were allowed to do in the Concord school system in 1974.

But Superintendent of Schools Calvin Cleveland said Tuesday if the Gideons were allowed to distribute the Bibles again, the School Board would have to allow all religions to do the same thing.

"That would open up the floodgates in terms of any and all religions," Cleveland said.

Moreover, he said the board would be "an agent of the distribution that is tantamount to endorsing the literature. It would be the King James version of the New Testament which does not reflect all religions."

At a Concord School Board meeting Monday, James Blanchard, a school teacher and a member of the Gideons, said the Bible is a good guide for life.

"It's the book that's used in swearing in the president, in swearing in Supreme Court justices, in marriages and funerals," he said.

Gideons International is a Protestant organization, founded in 1899 by a group of traveling salesmen.

Seismologist Says Tides May Cause Earthquakes

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Tides, which pull on the earth just as they tug on the oceans, seem to set off some volcanic eruptions and can probably trigger earthquakes as well, a University of Michigan seismologist says.

"A volcanic eruption or an earthquake occurs when you reach a level of stress that's greater than the system can endure," Frederick J. Mauk said during a meeting of the American Geophysical Union.

"...The tides are very likely to be the additional little, tiny bit of stress that's needed to trip the whole system," he said.

The periodic "earth tides" are, in effect, the proverbial straw that breaks the camel's back.

Whether for volcanoes or earthquakes, the tidal theory wouldn't work for long-term predictions. Tides, which are caused by the sun and moon, could never cause such disasters by themselves.

But if other factors indicate that stresses were building to the breaking point, then studying tidal forces might pinpoint the most dangerous periods, Mauk said.

He told the conference his data show tidal forces seem to spark some volcanoes and strongly affect the small earthquakes often associated with them. But, he added, no such relationship is found in other eruptions.

In a later interview, he said earthquakes have not been studied by themselves, although he expects the theory to apply in many cases.

The relationship does not seem to hold when other stresses, such as molten rock rising within a volcano, build up rapidly and reach the breaking point before the tides have time to act, Mauk said.

Ocean tides rise and fall each day according to the mixing forces of gravity from the moon and sun. When both bodies are lined up directly with the Earth, the gravity of moon and sun combine to produce maximum tides.

Pioneer Space Probe Increases Earth's Knowledge Of Saturn

By ROBERT STRAND
MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (UPI) — When Pioneer 11 approached Saturn and its spectacular rings last September, scientists could put all they knew for sure about the planet on a single piece of paper.

miles on each side, were found to consist of bits of flying ice. One of them was so dense it was almost opaque. Usually, Earth telescopes show only three, and new rings, called "F" and "G," were discovered, as was a moon, 250 miles in diameter, the planet's eleventh.

Now knowledge of Saturn has been increased a thousand-fold, and Earth-bound computers are still laboring to digest the massive amount of data Pioneer gathered.

The automated spacecraft dove through the rings, sped by Saturn at a distance of 13,000 miles and now continues to radio observations as it sails on a course taking it out of the solar system.

In its Saturn adventure, Pioneer discovered a new moon, two new rings and the structure of the planet, its radiation belts and magnetic field.

And it learned that the moon Titan almost certainly is too cold to harbor the conditions for Earth-type life to exist.

Titan, which is larger than both the planet Mercury and Earth's moon, was found to be 324 Fahrenheit degrees below zero at its cloud tops. Such a low temperature means the moon lacks an internal heat source to warm its surface.

It is possible that a greenhouse effect might sufficiently warm the inner atmosphere, but scientists consider this most unlikely.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The government has been sued for $5 million by a former soldier who claimed he was used as a human guinea pig at an atomic blast in Nevada.

In his suit filed Monday, Ellis Gaspard, 51, said he was a member of an Army company sent to Camp Desert Rock to test the effects of atmospheric atomic detonation on humans. He said he did not know he was being used as a human subject in a dangerous experiment.

Gaspard claims that he contracted a tumor and leukemia as a result of the blast's radiation.

HY GARDNER HAS THE ANSWER:

Glad You Asked That!

Q: Didn't one-time movie beauty Gene Tierney once date a famous man with the unforgettable initials "J.F.K."? — Danny R., Las Vegas.

A: Yes, Miss Tierney did date John F. Kennedy — but that was before he met, fell in love with and married Jacqueline. Back in '41, the brunette star eloped to Las Vegas with popular Couiteur Oleg Cassini.

Q: Has there ever been an editor, doctor, actor or anybody other than a lawyer in the U.S. Supreme Court? — Roy Barrett, New York.

A: "There has never been a justice who was not trained in the law," reported a former Supreme Court clerk.

Q: Who portrayed Eleanor Roosevelt in the film "Sunrise at Campobello"? And what actor played President Franklin Roosevelt? — S. Ortiz, Tampa.

A: Ralph Bellamy won a Best Actor award for his role as F.D.R. And the actress who played Eleanor was Mary Fickett — who later co-hosted the TV series "Calendar" with Harry Reasoner.

Q: How old is Billy Graham? I need this information to win a wager that I seem to remember him preaching in St. Louis back in 1921. How about it? — R.M., St. Louis.

A: You haven't a prayer of winning. The evangelist you may have seen and heard had to be another Billy — Billy Sunday. In the year you mention, Billy Graham would have been only three years old.

Q: After a Washington newspaper's music critic wrote a sour review about Margaret Truman's local performance, her father penned a now famous letter to him. What was it Truman who wrote? — Mrs. F. Fagan, Columbus.

A: "Dear Mr. Hume," the president exploded, "someday I hope to meet you. When that happens you'll need a new nose. a lot of beefsteak for black eyes, and perhaps a supporter below. Pegler, a guttersnipe, is a gentleman alongside you!"

Q: Was memorable blonde actress Jayne Mansfield a natural blonde? — Lettie D., Richmond, Va.

A: No, although the late "Blonde Bombshell" (who was beheaded in a ghastly auto crash) was a natural person in every other way. One of the nicest people we ever knew, the color of her hair changed with her moods.

NOTICE TO TELEPHONE CUSTOMERS

We are planning changes that will increase some rates to six countries and introduce a lower international dial rate to ten countries.

The American Telephone & Telegraph Company (AT&T) has filed a new schedule of overseas rates with the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) which accomplishes the introduction of international dialing to 10 additional countries. This brings the total of internationally dialable countries to 74. The scheduled changes include rate decreases for 10 countries and selective rate increases to 6 of those countries for calls billed on the United States mainland, to bring the overseas rate structure more closely in line with the domestic structure. In addition, it will now be possible to dial Aruba, which already has rates at the International Dial rate level. These changes are scheduled to become effective on February 17, 1980.

Increases in day and Sunday three-minute rates for five countries.

American Samoa and Bolivia The Sunday three-minute Operator Station and Person rates will be increased from $6.50 and $9.00 to $8.00 and $12.00.

Indonesia The Sunday Person rate will be eliminated, and the day three-minute Person rate will be increased from $12.00 to $13.50.

Liberia The Sunday three-minute Operator Station rate will be increased from $6.75 to $9.00. The three-minute Person rate will be increased from $12.00 to $13.50 for the day rate period and from $9.00 to $13.50 for the Sunday rate period.

Paraguay The Sunday three-minute Person rate will be increased from $9.00 to $12.00.

Increases and decreases in the three-minute and additional minute rates to one country.

Panama The day three-minute Operator Station rates applicable to Rate Zones 1 and 2 will be decreased from $4.80 and $5.40 to $4.00 and $5.00. The day three-minute Operator Station rate for Rate Zone 3 remains unchanged. The rates for the evening rate period and the night, Saturday and Sunday rate periods will be increased as follows: for Rate Zone 1—from $3.60 and $2.70 to $4.00; for Rate Zone 2—from $4.05 and $3.00 to $5.00; and for Rate Zone 3—from $4.50 and $3.30 to $6.00. The additional minute rate for night, Saturday and Sunday Operator Station calls for Rate Zone 2 will be increased from $.85 to $1.00 and from $.95 to $1.20 for Rate Zone 3.

Collect Calls

Operator Station collect calls to the French Antilles and Guyana will be eliminated. Person collect calls will continue. These changes are in conformity with the prevailing overseas practice. All collect calls to Bolivia will be eliminated, because Bolivia has suspended collect calls to the United States.

International Dial rate

With the introduction of International Dial rates on February 17, 1980, customers can save approximately 10 to 44 percent as compared to the current lowest three-minute day call. The following table compares the lowest existing rates and the new International Dial rates.

	Operator Station		International Dial
	Initial Period	Additional Minute	Initial Period	Additional Minute
American Samoa	$6.00	$2.35	$6.00	$2.00
Bolivia	8.00	2.35	6.75	2.25
French Antilles	5.00	1.50	3.60	1.20
Rate Zone 1	6.00	1.80	4.35	1.45
Rate Zone 2	6.00	2.35	5.85	1.95
Rate Zone 3
Guyana	8.00	1.80	5.40	1.80
Rate Zone 1	6.00	2.35	6.75	2.25
Rate Zone 2
Rate Zone 3	9.00	2.60	6.75	2.25
Liberia	9.00	2.60	6.75	2.25
New Caledonia	9.00	2.60	7.35	2.45
Panama	4.80	1.40	3.00	1.00
Rate Zone 1	5.40	1.55	3.75	1.25
Rate Zone 2	6.00	1.75	4.50	1.50
Rate Zone 3	9.00	2.60	6.75	2.25
Romania Person
Indonesia	12.00	3.40	7.35	2.45
Paraguay	12.00	3.40	6.75	2.25

It is important to note that customers calling from areas not presently equipped for International Dial will benefit from the lower dial rates even though the call would have to be completed by the operator. However, if the customer requests special operator assistance or special billing, the Operator Station rate would apply.

Bush's Son Helping In Campaign

WEST HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Neil Bush, son of Republican presidential hopeful George Bush, is working hard to make his father's name familiar once again in Connecticut.

Bush, 24, came Tuesday to Connecticut, where his grandfather, Prescott Bush of Greenwich, was a U.S. Senator for eleven years from 1952-1963.

Bush took the campaign for his father to the college campus where he faced a number of diverse questions by students.

When a University of Hartford campaign organizer told Bush many students were more familiar with a similarly named brand of beer than his father's surname, the candidate's son chuckled.

"Name recognition is definitely improving," said Bush, who recently received his master's degree in business and looks more like a graduate student than a polished campaigner. "People are much more open-minded."

He told about 50 students his father was the one presidential candidate who could remove cynicism from government and "get the country moving again."

"The breadth of his experience is untouchable," the younger Bush said of his father, a millionaire businessman and former CIA director, U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations, envoy to China and congressman from Texas.

"If you're going to jump on a bandwagon, you might as well jump on a winning bandwagon," he told members of the university's political science and marketing clubs.

He said his father favored registration, and supported a draft only if it was necessary.

The elder Bush feels the private sector should be responsible for developing alternate energy sources and federal spending must be limited to fight inflation, his son said.

He stressed his father sold all his business interests in 1966, and said if any Republican candidate was backed by big oil it was John Connally, not George Bush.

The Bush campaign has focused on the early primary states, and the candidate's son said he has been going "door to door" in New Hampshire.

He said his father "is coming on strong," and a good showing in New Hampshire would "lay the groundwork for an upset somewhere else."

Bush said Connecticut, holding its first presidential primary March 25, was also an important state following the earliest primaries and caucuses.

Infant Placed With Couple

LONGVIEW (UPI) — An infant abandoned in a nativity scene at a church has been placed with anonymous foster parents where he will remain while efforts are made to find his parents, a welfare worker said.

Barbara Cavin of the Department of Welfare said Tuesday the child, called "Timothy Christmas," was placed with the foster parents in Gregg County on Monday.

"We're working in conjunction with the city police on (finding the parents), but there are no leads," she said. "If no one comes forward to say that they are the parent, and they would have to have proof, then we will have to wait a period of six months before he can be put up for adoption."

Regents Slate Evaluation Of Presidential Finalists

Evaluation of finalists in the running for president of Texas Tech University will be the topic behind closed doors Sunday when Tech regents meet in executive session at a special called meeting of the board.

An official Tech news release announcing the meeting stated, "The only agenda item is an executive session and there will be no announcements following the session, according to Robert L. Pfluger, board chairman."

But regent Clint Formby, chairman of the presidential search committee, admitted, "The total purpose of the meet-

LIKE YESTERDAY — Christmas often caught the early-day cowboy out on the range with only a chuckwagon and a bedroll to call home. Wendell Bell will portray a cowboy at the Ranching Heritage Center's Candlelight Christmas tour today and Thursday, 6 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. In case of inclement weather, the tour will be canceled. Candlelight Tour Set At Center

By GERRY BURTON
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The lonesome sound of the harmonica drifting through the dusk, by a campfire or in a bunkhouse, was part of the cowboy scene.

Sometimes the "French harp" turned raunchy, roaring out with gay dance tunes and lively airs. But, mostly, it sent a wistful sound into the twilight, heralding the end of the long cowboy day.

It will be part of the cowboy past waiting for visitors to the Candlelight Christmas tour of the Ranching Heritage Center where cowboy life is preserved in a 12-acre outdoor museum.

Other views of ranch times will greet visitors today and Thursday along a path lined with luminarias on a twilight chosen for the time of the full moon. Tours begin at 6 p.m., end at 8:30 p.m., with admission $2 per family.

Museum volunteers and staff members will be going about their Christmas tasks as their counterparts might have done long ago.

It will be Christmas past along the route ranching took from infancy on the Texas Coastal Plain in the 1830s to maturity on the Texas High Plains at the turn of the century.

A barn dance, with all the enthusiasm of a pioneer ranch party that lasted all Christmas week, will be in full swing, moving to the bow of a longtime museum volunteer, fiddler Cecil Caldwell.

By the chuckwagon, cowboys will be around the campfire with the harmonica — and maybe a guitar, for the wagon is near the bunkhouse — in the part it played for the cowboys from Christmases long ago on the prairie.

Wendell Bell took up the harmonica for the same reason the oldtime cowboy did. It's portable, can go in a pocket and come out anytime to play anywhere.

At home in Gatesville, he played the piano. Going off to college he had to have something musical. He transferred his leaning toward the classical to the pocket harp.

With a deep interest in folk music, he turned to the cowboy tunes with ease.

It will be the cowboy sound the research associate in civil engineering history at Texas Tech will be sending into the dusk from his spot by the campfire as just a faceless cowboy in firelight, a part of the past coming to life at a ranch museum.

Area Man Not Held Liable In Murder

HOBBS, N.M. (AP) — Abilene police say capital murder charges against one of three men arrested in Hobbs will be dropped.

The trio was charged Monday in the beating death — apparently with a rock — of an air traffic controller from Potosi.

Abilene Police Lt. Jack Dieken said charges against Mark Wicker, 21, of Lovington, N.M., or Plains, would be dropped. "There is no evidence to associate him with the crime," Dieken said.

Dieken said Wicker apparently was hitchhiking outside Hobbs when he was picked up by the others, and had not been in Abilene at the time of Tobey's death. He said capital murder charges will stand against two Abilene men, William Battee Jr., also known as Willie Green, 18, and Clifton Charles Russell, 18. Their bond has been set at $100,000 each.

They are charged in the slaying of 41-year-old Hubert Otha Tobey, whose body was found early Monday in a remote part of Abilene. Police believe robbery was the motive.

The trio was arrested after police received complaints about three intoxicated men in a 1974 Lincoln Continental with Texas plates. A check of the car showed it was registered to Tobey.

AT LAST, OUR RABBITS ARE MULTIPLYING LIKE RABBITS.

It seems that all the world loves our Rabbits—so much so, that we at Montgomery Motors weren't able to keep up with demand—til now!

We've boosted our Rabbit production, and new 1980 Rabbits are arriving daily.

Test drive a 1980 Rabbit, and you will be owning one a lot sooner than you think.

CREAM PUFFS. STILL FRESH.

Hadnot Gains Another Second-Team A-A Berth

A-J News Services
For the second straight day, Texas Tech fullback James Hadnot has reaped national honors, as he was named today to the second All-America football team picked by The Associated Press.

Tuesday, Hadnot was named to the United Press International's all-America second team.

The honors for Hadnot followed all-Southwest Conference and SWC Offensive Player of the year ratings given him last week. Hadnot finished the 1979 season as Tech's all-time rushing leader, the ninth best ball-carrier in SWC history, the busiest back — from number of carries — in a season in the conference and had the best back-to-back rushing campaigns in the conference's annals.

Teammate Ted Watts was named honorable mention all-America in the secondary.

A backfield that accounted for 8,677 yards and includes running backs Charles White and Billy Sims, the last two Heisman Trophy winners, highlights AP's 1979 All-America college football team.

White, the latest in a long line of great Southern California tailbacks, led the nation in rushing and all-purpose rushing and wound up the regular season as the second leading ground-gainer in college football history. He was one of seven players named to the The AP team for the second year in a row.

Joining White, the 1979 Heisman winner, on the all-America team for the second year in a row are Sims, the Oklahoma flash who won the 1978 Heisman and was runnerup to White this year, and center Jim Ritcher of North Carolina State, winner of the 1979 Outland Trophy as the nation's best interior lineman.

Other repeaters from the 1978 all-America team are defensive end Hugh Green of Pittsburgh and defensive backs Kenny Easley of UCLA and Johnnie Johnson of Texas. Oklahoma linebacker George Cumby, a first-team pick in 1977 who didn't make it last year, also became a two-time all-America.

Joining White and Sims in the star-studded backfield are Marc Wilson, Brigham Young's record-setting quarterback, and George Rogers of South Carolina, the nation's No. 2 rusher behind White.

White, who missed one game and half of another with a shoulder injury, carried 293 times for 1,803 yards — his per-game average of 180.3 set a Pacific-10 Conference record — and scored 18 touchdowns.

Rogers rushed for 1,548 yards on 286 carries for a 140.7-yard average while Sims was fourth with 1,506 yards on 224 carries and led the nation in scoring with 22 touchdowns.

Wilson, one of a handful of collegians to pass for 7,000 yards in a career, completed 250 of 427 attempts for 3,720 yards and 29 touchdowns. He lost 140 yards rushing but still was the national total offense leader with 3,580 yards.

Junior Miller of Nebraska is the tight end while Ken Margerum of Stanford is the wide receiver. The interior line consists of Ritcher, tackles Jim Bunch of Ala-

Tech Officials Await Full Title IX Ruling

By JIM FERGUSON

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
Both Dick Tamburo and Jeannine McHaney would like to reserve comment on Tuesday's government ruling concerning Title IX until after they've had a chance to study the guidelines inside-and-out.

"It surprised me when I saw the story in the paper," commented Tamburo, director of men's athletics at Texas Tech. "I'd been told they wouldn't be out until March or April. So I hate to comment on them until I've had a chance to look over the interpretations."

Miss McHaney, Tech women's athletic director, agreed: "It's hard to say thing until after I've sat down with the guidelines and looked them over."

But still Miss McHaney's first impression "is good. I feel we've made some gains in the guidelines this time."

The government ordered all colleges and universities receiving federal aid to immediately make athletic scholarship funds available to women and men in proportion to their participation in the school's sports programs.

But aside from scholarships, the new policy says schools will not have to spend

Eric Gale No Hoorays For 'Hollywood'

FOR TWO HOURS of the classic film "Mean Streets," we see Harvey Keitel, as Charlie, squirm along a narrow path of self-destructive wish-fulfillment.

Charlie feverishly huris himself toward the point of no return; his behavior becomes an open invitation to disaster.

Robert DeNiro's Johnny-Boy, the catalyst for Charlie's downfall, sees through Charlie's last-minute complaints of distress, and remarks, not without scorn, "You got what you wanted."

It's a long way from the "Mean Streets" of New York's Little Italy to the gaudy pavement of Dallas — or is it?

Two weeks have passed since Dallas linebacker Thomas Henderson was stripped of his shoulder pads and left to "fend" for himself in a show business world that will fit him far better than a Cowboy jersey.

Henderson, you see, got what he wanted when Coach Tom Landry subtracted him from the Cowboy roster Nov. 19. His self-fulfilling prophecy had suddenly been realized.

Since then, he has expressed no remorse, not so much as a second thought, about the jeopardy in which he has placed his football career. He has given no indication of regret about leaving behind his teammates whose stretch run is definitely in need of skilled defensive play.

HENDERSON HAS ACHIEVED his purpose. He has successfully engineered a heavily publicized retirement — albeit premature — from the sport (and job) he had learned to take for granted.

Hold all those speeches about Landry being a man of intolerance, authoritarian beyond redemption. Mr. 1984 Landry is as much businessman as football coach, to be sure, but for anyone to call Thomas Henderson "non-conformist" is to slander individuality.

His relationship with Landry and the Cowboys had not so much reached a breaking point as it did a logical conclusion. Henderson was cheating his employers, no longer giving them their money's worth, and kept expecting to be forgiven.

He has admitted to "around ten" warnings from Landry, at different points this season, pertaining to various indiscretions. He ignored them, of course, not because his personality could not bear restrictions, but because he could not stand to have his media campaign interrupted. After all, there was "Hollywood 56 Enterprises" (see the Yellow Pages) to think about.

His is a showmanship not born of spontaneity, but calculated newsmaking. No doubt Henderson has spent hours fashioning clever, quotable material to pass along to the press. He was not a personality caught off guard; he is a personality that becomes "off-guard" only in the presence of a reporter or camera or microphone.

HOW MANY TIMES have you heard Henderson described as "refreshing"? My word, what is there so refreshing about a man who evolves a public image sheerly for purposes of commercialization?

When Henderson appeared on "The Tomorrow Show" two nights after his "retirement," he displayed none of the symptoms of the innocent bystander who has just had the boom lowered by Big Brother. He did not appear stunned, embittered, angry or antagonistic. Being dumped by the Cowboys had cost him nothing.

It was disgusting to hear host Tom Snyder, often skeptical and sometimes lacer-

Vermeil Calls 'Pokes' 'Best Team In NFC'

DALLAS (AP) — There won't be any spicy quotes from the opposition on locker room walls at Philadelphia or Dallas this week as the teams prepare to do battle Saturday for the National Football Conference Eastern Division top spot.

meil tell it, his charges are okay, but they're not in the Cowboys' class. "I don't think we're that good a football team. I still think they're (Dallas) the best team in the NFC."

can still win the division by beating the Eagles and Washington. The rarified atmosphere at the top of the heap is new stuff to Philadelphia, but Dallas has been there many times before.

Owners Take Second Looks At Free Agency
TORONTO (AP) — After doing out big bucks to free agents since the inception of the re-entry draft, major league baseball clubs are showing signs of taking a second look at the cash flow.

Landry on the Eagles: "They (the Eagles) do everything well." "One thing the Cowboys don't do well is to jump into the air in jubilation after a touchdown."

Quick, penetrating guard Scott Williams tallied 28 points to match Whitfield for scoring honors and lead the Mustangs. He was followed by Dwayne Neff's 14 points.

Whitfield Scores 28 As DHS Trips Ponies

By RUSS PARSONS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
Like fine wine, the Dunbar Panthers just keep getting better with age. Through the first couple weeks of the season they were a cheap, sour hip-pocket half-pint of port, shooting under 30 percent and impressing no one.

(at 4:16), and 16 (at 1:36). "If we are rebounding and playing good defense we are moving around a lot," said McWilliams. "And if we are moving around we'll get a lot of easy baskets."

and it's been downhill from there." The Dunbar junior varsity also won 61-57.

What provided the step up from paper bag to checked table cloths? "Effort," said DHS coach Joe McWilliams, summing it up nicely. "We got a great deal of intensity, something we've lacked in our previous games."

Lubbock Edges Caprock 52-49
AMARILLO (Special) — Kirk Cole scored 14 points and Raul Romero added 13 points as Lubbock High ran its season record to 5-2 Tuesday night with a 52-49 win over Caprock.

Bovina Drops CTK Teams
BOVINA (Special) — The Christ the King boys basketball team lost to Bovina 65-58 her Tuesday night. The CTK girls also fell, 61-35.

The key period in the game was the second quarter. The Panthers entered it trailing 18-14 and exited it leading 35-31. Trailing 20-14 after Cody Love hit the first points of the period, DHS threw in back-to-back buckets by Whitfield and then a steal and layup by Daryl Harris to tie the game at 6:03.

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Wake Forest University has not and will not give its permission for North Carolina State University officials to talk to Deacon coach John Mackovic about taking the head football coaching job in Raleigh.

Morton Smashes LCHS Win Streak
MORTON (Special) — Morton defeated Lubbock Christian High School 73-70 to end the Eagles' eight-game unbeaten streak.

The Dodgers, who earlier raided the bank vault to sign pitchers Dave Goltz and Don Stanhouse as free agents, picked up Johnstone for a song in comparison to what they would have had to pay Morgan, who earned about $350,000 while playing out his option with Cincinnati this year.

Tascosa Nudges Monterey 45-44
AMARILLO (Special) — The Amarillo Tascosa High School basketballers edged Monterey's boys team 45-44 here Tuesday.

The Rebels led by 3 points entering the final minute of a close game until Trav Carty hit a driving layup with four seconds to go to trim the lead to one.

Monterey Girls Win
The Monterey girls team got 20 points from Tammie Ethridge and another 14 from Chris Ethridge to blitz Amarillo Tascosa 92-37. The win raises the Plainsmen's record to 7-0. Six players scored in double figures for MHS to figure in the rout.

Western Hills Baptist Academy's boys team defeated O'Donnell 66-53 as Jeff Shadden fired in 29 points for the Eagles.

Vikings' Marshall To Retire
BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Citing "a time when common sense comes before pride," Minnesota Vikings defensive end Jim Marshall has announced he will retire when the National Football League season ends.

"As time and years go by, we'll appreciate him more than ever." Marshall said Grant was the only person who could have made him reconsider his decision to quit.

"He's going out on top like Francis (Tarkenton) did," Grant said. "He's not going out on the injured reserve or as a backup player. He's going out as a starting, full-time player, playing as well as he always has."

Chaparrals Break Oklahoma Jinx

By DON HENRY

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
After finally shaking off that Oklahoma jinx, the Chaparrals can get down to the business of improving on their won-lost record.

The Lubbock Christian Collegians had lost seven games (against three losses) going into Tuesday night's home battle with Oklahoma Science & Arts, and five of those had been to teams from schools north of the Red River.

Not a time this season had the Chaparrals been able to overcome an Oklahoma team.

But, Marshall Smith helped coach Larry Hays dispose of that nagging jinx. Smith managed the ball-handling and team-directing duties well enough to lead the Chaparrals to a solid 84-71 win over USAO Tuesday.

Now, the Chaparrals have but today to prepare for Howard Payne College, which comes into LCC field house Thursday (7:30 p.m.) for a game. Then, on Sunday, it's back to that Oklahoma feud, as the Chaparrals host Panhandle State.

Earlier this week, Hays remarked that his Chaparrals had not been able to control the tempo of games.

Tuesday night, with Smith leading the way — and the team from Chickasha, Okla., playing into their hands — the Chaparrals got the tempo and also got a chance to rest some usually tuckered-out troops.

While awaiting the second-semester return of a trio of currently ineligible players, Hays had to lean heavily on only seven or eight Chaparrals. And playing a running game, this has been not only a concern but a major problem.

Part of the problem comes with fouls on the Chaparrals' frontliners. But, Smith has a special problem, which also needs attention. The sophomore has asthma, and Hays remarked that "We have to give him two or three minutes rest each half.

"If he gets that much rest, he can make it. And we were able to give him some rest tonight (Tuesday)."

The LCC offense appeared to sag at times when Smith was catching his breath, but most of the time, the run-and-shoot Chaparrals had control.

The victory came just 24 hours after the Chaparrals had dropped a verdict to East Central Oklahoma, and what a difference a day makes.

"We stayed in our zone and they didn't attack it," remarked Hays after Tuesday night's victory. "And with us in the zone and them not attacking it, we were able to keep our guys inside out of foul trouble."

"And we had a chance to rest Smith." Smith scored but a dozen points — three teammates topped that total — but he controlled the flow of the offense and handed out a dozen assists, thus figuring directly in 36 of the Chaparrals' points.

Guard Bruce Carver ripped in 20 points, center Kevin Wharton had 16, and forward Keith Gardner netted 14, as the Chaparrals improved their record to 4-7.

The loss dropped USAO to 7-3, and the other two losses came to Cameron, Okla., the No. 1 NAIA team in the nation.

And the visiting Drovers started as if they were going to win No. 8 Reggie Forbes led the visitors to a lead and although the Chaparrals were able to stay close, they couldn't climb up on top for until the final four minutes of the first half.

But, Gardner hit a layup off a fast break with 3:54 left in the half to tie at 25, and Smith fed Wharton underneath for a bucket. He was fouled, hit the free shot, and Carver got loose underneath to make it 30-25 Chaps.

But, the final 35 seconds of the first half could have made the difference. Leading 34-32, Gardner scored both halves of a one-and-one with 33 seconds left in the half.

Pressing on defense, the Chaps got the ball back and Smith got a tip-in on a fast break with 15 seconds.

At midcourt, LCC stole the ball, and Smith fed Carver for a driving layup with only a second left on the clock for a 40-32 halftime-advantage.

Starting the second half, the Chaparrals scored on a free shot by Bill McGee, and Smith scored from the lane for a 43-32 cushion.

Trailing 47-36, the visitors reeled off 8 unanswered points, the last on a follow by Daniel Stokley.

But the Chaps went on a streak of their own, hitting 7 points, for a 56-44 buffer.

The Chaparrals shot 55.6 percent from the field, to a 41.4 effort by the Drovers.

Thiel, New Deal Await Seagraves

By RUSS PARSONS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
Standing 5 feet, 7 inches tall and weighing all of 150 pounds, New Deal's Billy Thiel is a Lilliputian on Brodding-nag, a midget among the Lions' "Monsters of the Midway."

His teammates are one of the biggest Class A football teams this side of Gulliver's Travels. The New Deal offensive line averages 205 pounds, the offensive backfield 185 and the defensive line 215.

Yet Thiel makes his presence known. On offense he is the fourth running back in a machine that averages over 300 yards a game, and on defense he is a starting cornerback on a unit that allows an average of only 111 yards a game.

More specifically, his defensive backfield has allowed only 300 yards passing all season and picked off 18 aeriars.

His larger teammates showed their respect for him before the start of the season by making him one of the team's five captains.

He takes that responsibility very seriously — no mere coin-caller he.
"When the boys have a problem, you talk to them. We have to kind of keep them in line sometimes and we have to help get them up for games," he said of his duties.

"This year the boys have been real easy to keep in line. They've been real easy to captain. Our team has come a lot closer together than I ever thought they would.

"Anytime something happens, we're all together. We're one big team, not just a bunch of individuals. That's out on the field, too. We're one big team, not just a bunch of individuals trying to outdo each other."
That spirit has paid off as New Deal, after losing 37-14 to Class AA power Idalou in the first game, rolled through the rest of its schedule and has won both playoff games easily.
"I'm kind of surprised at the team," Thiel said. "We have really scored a lot of points this year. We've whipped everybody real good. Everybody's played real tough."
Of the playoff fever that has captured this small town just north of Lubbock on Highway 87, the small back said, "As we keep going higher and higher, the games get more exciting and we play tougher teams."
"This year means a lot to me because I've got four other brothers who've been on one Lion team or another and, besides, this is my last year."
The Lions and Seagraves collide at 7:30 p.m. Friday at Lowrey Field.

Three-Pointers Lift Celts To Win Over Cleveland

By The Associated Press
Red Auerbach was one of the more outspoken opponents of the three-point field goal rule when it was proposed last summer, but the president of the Boston Celtics may be having second thoughts.

A trio of three-pointers, two by M.L. Carr and one by Chris Ford, helped the Celtics edged the Detroit Pistons 118-114 in overtime Tuesday night in the National Basketball Association.

Detroit led by 15 points at halftime and maintained that margin going into the final period but could not hang on down the stretch. Carr hit from three-point range with 31 seconds left to bring the Celtics close, then connected again from deep in the left corner at the buzzer to tie the score at 104.

"When the last play started, I saw there were eight seconds left on the clock," Carr said. "I just hurried to the three-point line and hit it. How sweet it was."

The Celtics fell behind again in the five-minute overtime until guard Chris Ford connected on a three-point field goal with 18 seconds left, putting Boston ahead to stay 116-114.

"We were horrible for the first 36 minutes," said Ford. "Then we played great in the last quarter and in overtime. We won't be able to live like that."

"I was out of my mind at halftime," said Celtics coach Bill Fitch. "I was speechless. We ran plays that I've never seen before."

Carr led the Celtics with 22 points, while Detroit's John Long took game honors with 32.

In other NBA games, the Cleveland Cavaliers edged the San Diego Clippers 115-112, the New York Knicks topped the Phoenix Suns 118-114 and the Los Angeles Lakers defeated the San Antonio Spurs 127-121.

Boston's victory raised its record to 19-5, tops in the NBA.

Bob McAdoo added 29 points for the Pistons and Bob Lanier hit for 23 to replace Dave Bing as Detroit's all-time leading scorer with 15,238 points in his NBA career.

The loss spoiled a big day for Richie Aduabo, who was told before the game that he would be coaching the Pistons for the rest of the season. Aduabo has been interim head coach since Dick Vitale was fired last month.

"This is the most heart-breaking defeat I've ever experienced," Aduabo said. "It's tough to accept. They made three-point goals in a row to beat us and that's about a 20 percent shot."

Cavs 115, Clippers 112
Mike Mitchell scored half of his 24 points in the fourth quarter, including a jumper with 1:27 to play that put the Cavaliers ahead to stay. Cleveland, playing at home, was 19-for-24 from the foul line compared to 3-for-7 for the Clippers.

"We didn't get to the foul line at all," complained San Diego coach Gene Shue. "That's what lost it for us."

Did he blame the referees?
"You know I'm not going to say that," he responded. "I've been around for 80 years."

Knicks 118, Suns 114
Bill Cartwright, New York's 7-foot-1 rookie center, capitalized on the absence of Phoenix pivotman Alvan Adams due to a bruised foot and scored a career-high 36 points and grabbed 13 rebounds as the Knicks beat the Suns. Guard Michael Ray Richardson added 28 points, also a career high, and had 12 assists, nine rebounds and three steals.

Neither team ever led by more than seven points and the lead changed hands 20 times before Richardson put the Knicks ahead to stay 107-105 with a 12-foot jumper with 3:15 to play.

Veteran guard Earl Monroe, who came off New York's injured list Tuesday, shot 1-for-8 for two points in his season debut.

Paul Westphal led the Suns with 35 points, shooting 16-for-25.

Lakers 127, Spurs 121
Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 29 points and Norm Nixon had 27 as Los Angeles beat San Antonio. The Lakers led most of the way but needed three free throws by Nixon and two by Abdul-Jabbar in the final 27 seconds to turn back a Spurs rally.

San Antonio's two-time scoring champion, George Gervin, sat out the game because of a bad back. Larry Kenon opped the Spurs with 36 points and 17 rebounds.

U.S. Fem Gymnasts Stand Fourth

FORT WORTH (AP) — Despite problems, protests and possible politics, the American gymnasts stumbled through the compulsorys, but rode into fourth place in women's team competition on the glittering performance of the team's "Grand Old Lady."

The Americans placed unusually low Tuesday in the prescribed beam and vault routines with 9.40s and 9.50s, to fall behind the Soviet Union, Romania and East Germany at the 1979 World Gyro-nastics Championships.

"I expected them to do better," said coach Linda Oulivhill, "but they did the best they could. We expected our scores to be lower when we saw the draw of the judges."

Officials later revealed that Eastern European bloc judges comprised four of the five watching the beam and vault exercises.

Kathy Johnson, the oldest member of the six-woman team, stole the limelight from Romanian superstars Nadia Coaneci and Emilia Eberle to lock in a 9.90 for her powerful and elegant performance in the floor exercise.

Russia's Nelli Kim, however, forced the blond-haired beauty to share the No. 1 spot in the event.

In the uneven bars, defending champion Marcia Frederick, 16, of Milford, Conn., earned a 9.90, but fell five-tenths of a point behind Miss Coaneci and newcomer Yanhong Ma of China.

Believing her score needed to be higher, the U.S. delegation filed a formal protest with the judges, but the five-member panel refused to change the score.

IN STEP — As if synchronized, Johnny High of the Phoenix Suns and Ray Williams of the New York Knicks put their best feet forward during Tuesday night's NBA game at New York. High is trying — on the run — to retain possession of a loose ball as he is being guarded by Williams. (AP Laserphoto)

Longhorns Win Ivy Encounter

BOSTON (AP) — Texas survived and won, but Harvard's basketball team didn't come away empty-handed.

"I told my guys I don't like moral victories," said Harvard coach Frank McLaughlin. But the sawed-off Crimson team, lacking a starter over 6-foot-5, salvaged its pride Tuesday night and found out it can play.

"We're not very good and they're not very good. We're both struggling," declared Texas coach Abe Lemons.

The Longhorns — perhaps tired from their long trek East — wore down the speedy Ivy Leaguers for an 85-73 victory in the first major sports meeting between the two schools.

Freshman guard George Turner scored 25 points and senior swingman Ron Baxter added 19.

"I don't know who we're going to beat if we don't play better," lamented Lemons.

Knicks' Earl Returns From Injured Status

NEW YORK (AP) — Early in the second period, the spindly legged guard peeled off his warmup pants, walked to the scorers' table and knelt to await his chance to enter the game.

The fans were not about to wait. "Earl! Earl! Earl!" they screamed as soon as he got up off the bench. The cheers grew louder as more among the 11,042 fans at Madison Square Garden saw that Earl Monroe was about to make his season debut for the New York Knicks.

And when the whistle finally blew and Monroe was waved into the game, they stood and cheered.

It was a moving moment for one of this city's sports heroes.

"I feel loved, and it's a reciprocal thing," the 35-year-old Monroe said in the Knicks' lockerroom following the 118-114 victory over the Phoenix Suns.

"The people here in New York accept me as family, not just for being a player. People in the street see me and say, 'Come back, Earl, we need you.' It's a nice feeling."

Monroe, one of the NBA's all-time greats with a 19.5 scoring average over 12 seasons, spent the first 25 games of the current campaign on the injured list with groin and hamstring trouble. A roster spot finally opened up Tuesday when the Knicks sent guard Jim Clearmons to Washington for "future considerations," and the man nicknamed "the Pearl" was activated.

Monroe, the last Knick to be introduced before the game, received a warm, standing ovation that lasted into the opening bars of the national anthem. He came off the bench twice, playing five minutes in the first half and six minutes in the second. He looked rusty, scoring just two points, missing seven of eight shots and occasionally losing his man on defense.

But the fans didn't care. They cheered every time he touched the ball and oohed and aaahhed as his shots hung on the rim.

Monroe conceded he is not yet in game condition. "My stamina was not so good," he said. "At times I felt winded. I've only played three or four days with the team. I'm just happy we won the game when I came back. My objective is to help us make the playoffs — anything else is a bonus."

Even though Monroe contributed little to the Knicks' victory, his locker was the focus of attention after the game.

"Earl deserves all the press around him," said Knicks forward Joe C. Meriweather. "He's still one of the best. Everybody loves him. He's a real nice guy, one of my favorites."

Michael Ray Richardson, the second-year guard who inherited Monroe's place in the Knicks' starting lineup, says he's sure Monroe will help in the future.

"Earl can come off the bench, shoot and score 30 points," said Richardson. "He's got to help us."

Monroe agrees that he can help the young, rebuilding Knicks.

"I've always said sports has no age barriers," he said. "I'm just one of the guys."

Raider Women Trip SWTS

SAN MARCOS (Special) — Texas Tech, led by Nodia Vaughn's 22 points, rang up its fifth straight win Tuesday night by defeating Southwest Texas State University 93-45. The Raiders will now travel to Austin tonight to meet the seventh-ranked University of Texas Longhorns.

Tech fell behind 8-0 at the start of the game but quickly rebounded and grabbed a 42-21 lead. The win ran Tech's record to 7-2 for the year, SWTS is 4-5. Trisha King led SWTS with 13 points.

Graham Heads Wrestling Card

Superstar Billy Graham will make his second Lubbock appearance at the Fair Park Coliseum tonight when he goes against huge (450 pounds) Haystack Calhoun in the main event at the Fair Park Coliseum.

As an added attraction for the Graham appearance, children will be admitted free. Last week Graham defeated J.J. Dillon in his first Lubbock appearance. He is a former holder of the World Wrestling Association heavyweight title.

In a battle for the Western States Tag Team championship Gary Young and Gino Caruso will defend their title against Killer Tim Brooks and Gypsy Joe.

In another tag team bout Ricky Romero and Riki Dozan will tangle with the Super Destroyer and J.J. Dillon. The nights other match features Larry Lane against Karl Krupp.

Hardaway Looks Forward To Return Home

By CHUCK McDONALD
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
Billy Don Hardaway is coming home. Hardaway, who was an all-state center at Dunbar High School two years ago, will lead the Mean Green of North Texas State into the Municipal Coliseum tonight to meet Texas Tech.

"It's a very emotional game for me," he said Tuesday, "because when I left Lubbock, a lot of people said I should've gone to Tech."
"Tech did try to recruit me," added Hardaway, "but they didn't go all out. I did get a phone call from Coach (Gerald) Myers and he asked me to spend a weekend at the school."
But, says Hardaway, he already knew plenty about Texas Tech. He was ready to try something new.
"At the time, I did a lot of hanging out at Tech," he said. "I think it's a real ly nice school but I'd been at home all my life."

"I wanted to get away and see how I could cope."
Apparently Hardaway is coping pretty well for the Mean Green. Last year as a freshman he started 11 games and played in all 27 for North Texas. He averaged 5.7 points an outing and another 5.3 rebounds. Hardaway's biggest scoring output came against Oral Roberts when he pumped in 16 points.
This year, Hardaway's earned a starting forward berth for the Eagles. NTSU dropped its season opener 83-77 against Saint Marys and came back to take a narrow 66-65 win over Southwestern State Monday night.

Against Southwestern, Hardaway had a big night, pulling down 12 rebounds and blocking three shots. The 6-7 sophomore also connected on six of 11 from the floor for 12 points.
But Coach Bill Blakely has not been overwhelmed with the play of the Eagles in their first two games. In fact, he's downright discouraged.
"I don't mind saying I've been very disappointed," said Blakely, "especially with our veteran players. We just haven't had the right chemistry on the floor. We haven't had the right combination."
And so, Blakely is planning to shake things up a bit on the Mean Green roster.
"Right now I only know three people that will start for sure," he said. "We'll just have to wait and see on the rest."
Sure starters will be Hardaway and 6-2 guard Chris Reynard — a sophomore transfer student. Reynard has led the team in scoring in the Eagles' first two games with a 12 point average. Hardaway has averaged eight an outing.
The other starter will be 6-9 Al Williams, who's been scoring 10.5 per game. Oddly enough, Williams does most of the ballhandling work for the Eagles but he can also play forward.
Four other players should see plenty of playing time for the visitors. That's sophomore Mike Guon and freshmen Kenneth Lyons, Tony Macalik and Pat Hicks.

returning scorer after he averaged 13.1 last year.
"Right now I don't know what Robinson's status will be," Blakely said. "He got hurt last night (Monday) and he's hobbling around right now. He's got a pretty bad thigh bruise."
But the biggest problem for the Eagles in their first two games has been free throw shooting — or rather a lack of it. In two games, the Mean Green has connected on only 21 of 46 free throw attempts.
"Right now, we couldn't throw one in the ocean," says Blakely.
North Texas is trying to rebound off of last year's 11-16 mark after having three very successful years prior to that. In Blakely's first year, '75-76, the Mean Green posted a 22-4 mark. The next year they were 21-6 and in '77-78 they were 22-6.
Blakely says there is a direct correlation between last year's losing record and the number of Southwest Conference foes his Eagles will face this year. Besides Tech, North Texas will meet TCU, Texas A&M and Texas this year.
"In my first three years here we just couldn't get any Southwest Conference schools to play us," he said. "We had a bad season and people don't mind playing us now."
But Blakely has plenty of respect for the Red Raiders.
"Tech is an exceptionally fine ball club," said the NT coach. "They play well together and they're well-disciplined — I've got the utmost respect for Texas Tech."

And so does Billy Don Hardaway.
"I'll be up for the game," said Hardaway. "I'm really excited about coming home. I've played against them (Tech players) in the summer so I know their personnel pretty well."
The Raiders will go with their same lineup of Ralph Brewster, Jeff Taylor, David Little, Kent Williams and either Ben Hill or Leslie Nichols.
Hill didn't play against South Dakota State because of a sprained ankle Monday but he was able to practice again on Tuesday.
"North Texas is a big team," said Myers. "I know they'll be ready to play. They'd like to do well in this game."
Blakely could only agree on that point.
"It's a real good game for us," he said. "It's good for us to get the exposure of playing a SWC school."
"It's tough when you're an independent because you never know where you stand," he added. "But a game like this gives us more incentive."

Tennessee Puts Crusher On Redmen's New Season

By The Associated Press
St. John's, with victories over defending national champion Michigan State and Oral Roberts, took its No. 9 ranking to Tennessee and ran smack into Howard Wood.
"Tennessee is as good as they say, and tonight they were super," St. John's coach Lou Carnesecca said after the Volunteers crushed his Redmen 97-80 Tuesday night in the only college basketball contest involving a member of The Associated Press' Top Ten.
"They completely dominated the boards, the ball and the game."
Wood, a 6-foot-7 reserve center, came off the bench to score a game-high 25 points, including 18 in the second half.
The Vols jumped out to a 14-4 lead before St. John's got its first field goal, finally narrowing the gap to 47-38 at the half. Early in the second period, St. John's closed to within seven points three times before Wood led a 14-point Tennessee rally.

"We made a little run at them, but after that they were completely in charge," Carnesecca said.
"Having St. John's come in here with their national rankings and then our winning it makes it really something," DeVoe said. "They are still a Top Ten team although they didn't look it tonight."

Gary Carter added 22 points and Reggie Johnson 20 for Tennessee. St. John's was paced by Reggie Carter's 21 points and Curtis Redding with 15.
No. 16 Marquette, the only other member of the AP's Top Twenty to see action Tuesday, squeezed by Fresno State 57-54. Artie Green scored 21 points, including three clutch jump shots in the final 4½ minutes, to pace the Warriors.

Tamburo Waits For Guidelines

proportionate amounts of money on women athletes as on men.
The rules pertain to both public and private institutions and those which do not comply with the scholarship rule could lose federal financial assistance.
"I think we can live with that," said Miss McHaney.
This time, Tamburo agreed: "Just on those comments alone, it seems more feasible for a university to be able to finance the programs than if the per-capita clause did not exist."
In spelling out the long-awaited policy regarding Title IX of the 1972 Education Amendments that bar sex discrimination in schools, HEW Secretary Patricia Harris announced the government will conduct a nationwide evaluation of programs at schools receiving federal assistance to determine compliance with the law.
Mrs. Harris said the guidelines mean, for example, that if 70 percent of a school's athletes are male they are entitled to 70 percent of the scholarship dollars their school makes available. But 30 percent would go to females.
That new policy will force many schools to make more female scholarship money available. It means sports such as men's football, which traditionally uses up the bulk of athletic scholarships, may have to trim back their shares to athletes to accommodate the new shares for women.
"I hope that doesn't mean they'll take away from the men's programs," said Miss McHaney. "I think they're just getting by, too. I think that would be a very unsound thing to do. I think they'll just have to find the money from somewhere else."
As for athletic benefits and opportunities other than scholarships, the new policy said items such as equipment and supplies, games, travel expenses, locker rooms and medical training need not be identical, but must be "equal or equal in effect."
"HEW does not require identical benefits, opportunities, or treatment," the policy statement said. "but the effect of any differences must be negligible."
It has been seven years since Title IX was passed by Congress.

Snowshoeing Growing As NM Sport

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — The sight of thousands of skiers jockeying for a run down the Sandia Mountain trails may be the best advertisement going for Marty Stribling's tour service.
The 33-year-old U.S. Forest Service employee takes people away from the crowds into a totally different winter world — one that is slow-paced, peaceful and educational. She guides snowshoe hikers through the Sandias each winter season.
"The appeal is they can get off into the woods, they can experience solitude," Miss Stribling said. "The pace is slower than downhill skiing. You have more time to enjoy the environment and see what's happening with wildlife."
Snowshoeing begins soon in the 10,300-foot-high Sandias when the heavy snowfall arrives, although Miss Stribling's guided tours do not start until January.
About 400 people sign up annually for the tours, which attract snowshoe enthusiasts in their teens to 70s from such states as New York, California, Washington, South Carolina and Illinois, as well as from a broad area of New Mexico.
Unlike skiing, no large expenditure is necessary to outfit for snowshoeing and the incidence of injury is small, said Miss Stribling, a skier herself. Body conditioning, a requisite before hitting the slopes, also is not as essential for the snowshoer, she added.
"It's very simple to do," she said. "A number of people like it because the shoes don't slip out from under them."
The shoes range from 36 inches in length for bear paws to 58 inches for trail shoes. They range in price from $40 to $125, Miss Stribling said.
Many newcomers to the sport are "amazed at how much they feel like tennis shoes and how much weight the shoes will support," she said. The heavier the person, the larger the shoes he or she requires.
Along the mile and a half trail, Miss Stribling talks about the natural history of the area, winter ecology and winter safety.
"We usually see rabbit tracks or deer mice, and occasionally a Cooper's hawk," Miss Stribling said. Steller's jays, ravens and chickaree squirrels also are common sightings.
"People find out winter isn't as harsh as they thought," she said. "They find out they can enjoy it on their own terms."

Margerum caught 41 passes — he missed one game — for 733 yards and 10 touchdowns while Miller, an outstanding blocker, caught 21 passes for a whopping 409 yards and seven touchdowns in Nebraska's ground-oriented attack.
The rest of the defensive unit is composed of end Jacob Green of Texas A&M, tackles Steve McMichael of Texas and Jim Stuckey of Clemson, middle guard Ron Simmons of Florida State, linebackers Ron Simpkins of Michigan and Mike Singletary of Baylor and back Mark Haynes of Colorado.
The elite squad consists of 16 seniors and six juniors — Hugh Green, Easley, Margerum, Rogers, Simmons and Singletary.
The AP All-America team will be featured on the Bob Hope Merry All Star Christmas Special on NBC-TV, Thursday, Dec. 13, from 8-9 p.m., CST.

'Mork' Fails To Unseat 'Archie' From Top Spot

By PETER J. BOYER
Associated Press Writer

"Mork and Minda" did what we expected of it on Sundays — establishing an audience for us in that time period." — Tony Thornopoulos, president of ABC Entertainment.

Arnold Goldblatt's translation: "Uh-oh, we goofed."

My good pal Arnold, poolcleaner and screenwriter, is a handy fellow when it comes to interpreting networkese. Arnold has spent most of his adult life studying the entertainment subculture, and he knows its language and customs quite well.

Were it not for Arnold, I might have misinterpreted the above statement by Thornopoulos to mean that "Mork and Minda" did what ABC expected it to do on Sundays.

Actually, ABC had hoped to use "Mork" to destroy CBS's Sunday nights, one of the few corners of prime time that was not under ABC domination last season. Perhaps feeling a self-assured sense of destiny after spending two decades at the bottom of the network pile, ABC took several programming risks before this TV season. The move that drew the most attention was the transfer of "Mork" from Thursday to Sunday.

"Mork" was television's hottest new show last season, the brightest of a string of new hits ABC developed last year. Its talented young star, Robin Williams, was proclaimed knight of the realm and sent to do battle with one Archie Bunker, an old guy whose house was in disorder.

Archie's old show, "All in the Family," had sort of dissolved under the effects of cast attrition and old age, and Archie (Carroll O'Connor) braced for the joust with young Mork while grappling with new co-stars and, essentially, a new show: "Archie Bunker's Place."

Yet, Archie won. After weeks of disappointing "Mork" ratings, ABC announced last week that "Mork and Minda" was returning to Thursdays to heal. The retreat capped a season of backpeddling and second-guessing at ABC, a season that has been, for the most part, rather distressing.

Other risks have been reconsidered. "Laverne and Shirley," moved from its successful Tuesday night slot at the beginning of the season, was moved again and will be moved once more at midseason. "Fantasy Island," which lagged when moved to Friday nights, recuperating in its old Saturday night slot. "The Ropers," moved from Tuesday where it enjoyed a successful run, has contracted a terminal low rating in its Saturday night slot and is due for change or cancellation.

Yes, a busy and disrupting season for ABC, and there are major changes yet to come, when the network adds half a dozen new shows at midseason.

Star Of Bethlehem Still Intrigues Scientists

By RITA C. BOBWSKI
Smithsonian News Service

Nearly 2,000 years ago, the three wise men saw a light in the heavens, signaling to them an event of the utmost importance. In the words of the Book of Matthew: "There came wise men from the east to Jerusalem, saying, where is he that is born King of the Jews? For we have seen his star in the east, and are come to worship him."

The brief mention of the Star of Bethlehem has intrigued scientists, historians and theologians for hundreds of years because, other than descriptions in the New Testament, there are no other known accounts documenting this apparently short-term celestial phenomenon.

Much speculation exists over whether there really was such a star, according to Von Del Chamberlain, an astronomer at the Smithsonian Institution's National Air and Space Museum. In an annual public lecture, Chamberlain traces the various theories advanced to explain the Star of Bethlehem.

"Most of us assume that the Christmas star was an extraordinary sight to behold," he says. "It may not have been so spectacular. Actually, it may have been an event which only professional star gazers — such as the Magi — would even have noticed. And, perhaps what the wise men saw was not really a single star at all."

One theory holds that the Christmas star was a comet. Early records kept by the Chinese mention a comet without a tail visible in the spring of 4 B.C., a date which fits the most recent estimates of the year in which Jesus was born. (Scholars now believe that Jesus was born between 8 and 4 B.C. Since our present calendar system was not instituted until the 6th century A.D., more than 500 years after his birth, errors in calculation are possible.)

But comets move slowly from night to night through the starry sky. Moreover, comets were believed by the ancients to be omens of impending doom, not harbingers of glad tidings.

Another theory has it that the star might have been an usually bright meteor, called a fireball. As fireballs flash through the atmosphere, they burn with an intense but fleeting light. But ancient records and modern knowledge indicate that fireballs are fairly commonplace occurrences lasting only a few seconds.

A third and more tenable explanation is that the Star of Bethlehem was a "nova," which means literally "new star." Actually, novae are not new but old stars that have reached the end of their evolution and have become unstable. These exploding stars abruptly rise to great brilliance, then lose their luminance slowly over a period of weeks.

"This theory has potential," Chamberlain says. "A nova could be bright enough and last long enough to lead the wise men on a long journey to Bethlehem."

"In addition," he continues, "a nova would certainly be the most dramatic explanation. What could be more exciting than to have a 'new star' appear on the night that Christ was born?"

One recent study of ancient Chinese and Korean records indicates that a nova may have appeared in 5 B.C., but there is no definitive account that such an event took place.

The theory most widely accepted by astronomers today was put forth in the 1600s by German astronomer Johannes Kepler. Kepler suggested that the Christmas star was really a "conjunction" of planets.

A conjunction occurs when two or more planets appear to pass by each other in the sky. Using ancient sky records, astronomers have verified that the planets Jupiter and Saturn appeared in conjunction not once but three times between 7 and 6 B.C.—a relatively rare phenomenon.

A conjunction would explain the lack of other records, since it most likely would have gone unnoticed except by those, like the Magi, who were trained to watch the sky.

A conjunction takes on even more significance when viewed from an astrological standpoint. The ancient astrologers would have considered conjunctions to be highly symbolic events. To them, conjunctions of Jupiter and Saturn held special significance—Jupiter, symbolic of the king of the gods, and Saturn, said to be the protector of the peoples of the eastern Mediterranean.

In 6 B.C., the planet Mars joined Jupiter and Saturn following the third conjunction, according to the records. All three planets appeared in the constellation of Pisces (the Fishes).

While the triple conjunction is the most widely accepted theory, it is unlikely that we will ever know for certain what produced the Christmas "star."

Just Shake it and Let it Fall Into Place. The Precision Haircut.

Because your head is unique, the way your hair grows is equally unique. Really quite different from every one else's.

Precision haircutting is a technique for cutting the hair in harmony with the way it grows. Your hair eventually grows out but it doesn't lose its shape with a precision haircut. Consequently your haircut will look as good after five days as it does after five minutes. And because the hair falls naturally into place you won't have to keep fussing with it. Usually a shake of the head does it.

At Command Performance we shampoo, precision-cut and blow dry your hair for fourteen dollars, whether you're a gal or a guy. And no appointments are ever necessary.

We also offer permanent waves, coloring, frosting and conditioning. But we really shine with precision. And so will you.

Death Penalty Foes Criticize Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Opponents of capital punishment are charging that Sen. Edward M. Kennedy made a political deal with death penalty supporters to secure passage of a bill overhauling the federal criminal code.

A spokesman for Kennedy denies it. The issue came up Tuesday after the Senate Judiciary Committee, of which Kennedy is the chairman, approved the criminal code and then adopted a separate measure instituting capital punishment for murder, treason, espionage and fatal airplane hijackings.

Although Kennedy voted against the death penalty measure, opponents of capital punishment said they were surprised that the issue was taken up at all. "This really is going to cause the American Civil Liberties Union to mount a major campaign against the criminal code," said John Shattuck, director of the Washington office of the ACLU.

David Landau, an assistant to Shattuck, said, "It was just a political deal that was cut by Sen. Kennedy to get the criminal code bill out of committee."

Ken Feinberg, Kennedy's chief assistant dealing with the criminal code, denied that there was any agreement to vote on the death penalty measure Tuesday in return for approval of the code bill.

Feinberg said Kennedy was simply honoring a public agreement made two years ago that there would be a committee vote on the death penalty issue before the code went to the floor. In return for that agreement, death penalty advocates agreed not to demand that capital punishment be part of the code itself. Shattuck said the ACLU objects to many provisions of the proposed criminal code, including federal obscenity measures it says are too sweeping and proposed laws against obstructing government activities.

But he said the ACLU's main objection was the "last-minute" consideration of the death penalty bill "without any hearings and without any notice that it was coming up."

"The ACLU is now prepared to urge senators to vote against the criminal code and the death penalty bill," Shattuck said. "We will also oppose further action on the criminal code bill in the House of Representatives."

Although there are already federal laws calling for capital punishment, they do not comply with constitutional standards laid down in recent years by the Supreme Court.

The Senate panel approved the criminal code by a vote of 13-1 and the death penalty by a vote of 7-4.

Before approving the code, the committee agreed to retain, at least for the present, provisions that sharply reduce the penalties for possession of small amounts of marijuana.

Sen. Charles Mathias Jr., R-Md., had sought to eliminate these provisions, arguing that new evidence indicated marijuana is dangerous to health.

Kennedy argued that the Mathias proposal would have little effect because federal authorities generally do not prosecute people for possession of marijuana even under existing laws.

As a compromise, the committee agreed to double the proposed penalties for trafficking in marijuana, making the maximum sentence 10 years, but to leave the reduced penalties for possession intact, at least until after hearings are held early next year.

Action On Apartments Delayed

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Participants at a public hearing last week convinced a Planning and Zoning Commission subcommittee to abandon for now a suggested phase-out of garage apartments, but some action on the apartments is still forthcoming.

Meeting Tuesday, three of the five subcommittee members agreed the apartments have a net detrimental effect on neighborhoods zoned for single family residences and duplexes.

With that agreement, the subcommittee decided some system of enforcement should begin against those apartments not in apartment zones. That enforcement should begin with the most detrimental apartments and progress toward the least detrimental, the three decided.

The subcommittee also agreed all garage apartments should be registered with the city and the present zoning ordinance provision which permits servants quarters under certain conditions should be modified.

City Planning Director Jim Bertram said his staff would begin working on a method of classifying the apartments on their detrimental effect, but enforcement efforts in that direction would be limited until a registration program is implemented.

"Somehow we've got to find a way of classifying the existing units as to their degree of detriment and filter the obvious ones

State Court To Hear Issue Of Blocked Intersections

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court today agreed to decide whether a city can be held financially responsible for accidents occurring at intersections where brush, trees and weeds block a driver's view of side street traffic.

It set a Feb. 13 hearing in a case filed against Midland by the parents of a youth who received brain and spinal cord injuries in a June 10, 1976, collision.

A Midland jury found that Calvin Keith Jezek, 16 at the time of the accident, was entitled to $975,000 from the city for his injuries. But the trial judge entered judgment for the city.

The El Paso Court of Civil Appeals agreed with the trial judge and said Midland was not liable for clearing away brush and weeds that obscure the view at intersections.

Jezek was injured in a collision with a pickup truck at Turner Road and G Y Lee Road. The truck, approaching from Jezek's left, slammed into Jezek's 1971 Ford Pinto at about 60 miles per hour.

The court of civil appeals cited a 1952 Texas Supreme Court decision that while cities must maintain their streets in safe condition, this does not include keeping a clear side-to-side view at intersections.

"The rule is sound," the appeals court said. "It said the street itself was safe and it is only when you have another car involved that there is any danger."

Attorneys for Jezek said in their appeal to the Supreme Court, "A blind intersection must, after all, be recognized as a far greater hazard to even the most cautious street user than the pothole in the street surface."

They said a safe street means a street that is safe when normal traffic is present.

"Rather than maintain the streets in question, the city chose to simply sit back and watch accidents occur. It would be a safe statement to say that for the price of (Jezek's) medical bills alone, the city of Midland could remedy each view-obstructed intersection within its city limits for many years," the appeal says.

Union Plan Faces Heavy Opposition

WASHINGTON (AP) — Local leaders of the United Auto Workers, seeking aid for the Chrysler Corp. without a wage freeze, are getting encouragement from the Carter administration but little support in Congress.

Members of the UAW's Chrysler Council, made up of officers of union locals at Chrysler plants, lobbied House and Senate members Tuesday, urging aid for Chrysler and opposing the wage freeze approved by the Senate Banking Committee.

The Senate bill calls for $1.25 billion in federal loan guarantees to Chrysler, to be matched by $2.75 billion obtained independently of the guarantees through a three-year wage freeze and other means.

UAW president Douglas Fraser said after a meeting of the Chrysler Council Tuesday that the council would not approve the proposed wage freeze.

An estimated 300 council members attended the meeting and visited congressional offices. Most of them left town late Tuesday. A demonstration that had been announced for today was apparently canceled.

The administration bill, which has been approved with little change by the House Banking Committee, calls for $1.5 billion in guaranteed loans with an equal amount obtained from outside sources, but does not provide for a wage freeze.

There are indications the issue could reach the floors of both houses as early as next week.

Meanwhile, Tuesday, there were these reactions to the Senate committee's wage-freeze provision:

— From a spokesman for the Treasury Department, Everard Munsey: "In our judgment the Senate bill goes too far, is too inflexible and the wage freeze is unnecessarily severe. That being so, we intend to try to improve the bill."

— From Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, whose state has substantial Chrysler employment: "I understand full well and sympathize with what they are saying, but I think we have to be pragmatic and realistic and I think it is very important that we get a bill passed."

— From Mitchell Tyson, administrative assistant to Sen. Paul Tsongas, D-Mass., a co-author of the wage-freeze plan: "I tried to explain to them what the situation is in the Senate. The things they are asking for are just not realistic, given the situation as we see it."

A spokesman for Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., said Weicker was standing pat on his announced intention to filibuster any legislation providing financial aid to the nation's third largest automobile manufacturer.

"If Weicker holds fast," Tyson said, "the question is whether we can get the 60 votes needed to halt a filibuster."

He said there would be a better chance with the bill drafted by Tsongas and Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., than with the administration measure backed by Sen. Donald W. Riegle, D-Mich.

Jaworski's Kin Dies In Crash

AUSTIN (UPI) — The grandson of former Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski died in a motorcycle-auto accident Tuesday.

David Elliot Draper, 23, was a passenger on a motorcycle that crashed into the side of a turning car on North Lamar Boulevard at West 38th Street about 6:40 p.m.

Draper hit the front windshield of the car, bounced over it and fell to the street, police said.

The motorcycle's driver, Gregory Bill McNeil, was treated for cuts and bruises at Brackenridge Hospital and released a few hours after the accident.

The Almanac TODAY IN HISTORY

By United Press International
Today is Wednesday, Dec. 5, the 339th day of 1979 with 26 to follow.
The moon is moving from its full phase to its last quarter.
The morning stars are Mars, Jupiter, Saturn and Mercury.
The evening star is Venus.
Those born on this date are under the sign of Sagittarius.
American movie maker Walt Disney was born Dec. 5, 1901. Eighth U.S. President Martin Van Buren was born on this date in 1782.
On this date in history:
In 1776, the first scholastic fraternity in America — Phi Beta Kappa — was organized at William & Mary College in Virginia.

In 1848, President James Polk confirmed the discovery of gold in California, leading to the famed "Gold Rush" of 1848 and '49.
In 1933, liquor prohibition was abolished when Utah became the 30th state to ratify the 21st Amendment to the Constitution.
In 1955, one of the first civil rights movements began as blacks started a boycott of city buses in Montgomery, Ala., demanding seating on an equal basis with whites.
A thought for the day: American poet Paul Engle said, "Wisdom is knowing when you can't be wise."

Broadway Drama 'Bent' Labeled Worst Of 1979

By JAY SHARBUTT
NEW YORK (AP)—Really bad dramas don't come along all that often on Broadway. But "Bent," starring rising young actor Richard Gere, may easily qualify as the worst of 1979.

It opened Sunday. It seeks to dramatize the fact that homosexuals, like Jews, were persecuted unmercifully in Nazi Germany, many winding up marked for death in Hitler's concentration camps.

But even with a few scenes of genuine shock and horror, it proves a badly done, unbelievable tale of homosexual love marked by dialogue that is mundane, grotesque or just awful, depending on the moment.

Gere plays a young, dissolute hustler who lives in a seedy Berlin apartment with his lover (David Marshall Grant), a dancer. The play opens with Gere suffering from a severe hangover.

Seems that not only did he whoop it up the previous night, he brought home a sturdy, blonde-haired chap — whom he called his "little storm trooper" — and spent the night with him.

As the visitor (James Remar) emerges from the bedroom stark naked, dons a bathrobe and tries to resume events of the night before, there's a pounding at the door. SS storm troopers are out there.

They're taking part in Hitler's infamous "night of the long knives," purging homosexuals in the military and the friends of same. The visitor tries to flee, is shot and his throat is slit.

Gere and Grant escape. In time, though, they're caught, after Gere, refusing to leave his lover, turns down offers of aid for a solo escape from his elderly homosexual uncle (George Hall).

They're put on a train headed to a concentration camp. A drunk SS captain, who apparently didn't get word of their sexual preference, suspects Grant is a homosexual. He and his thugs savagely beat him.

He forces Gere to do likewise, resulting in Grant's death. And, after striking a sick bargain with the officer to be identified as a Jew, not a homosexual, he arrives at the concentration camp.

There, he meets an inmate (David Dukes) who tried to help him on the train. Duke wears a pink triangular badge identifying him as a homosexual. He sardonically explains he's in the camp because he signed a petition that would "make queers legal."

In short order, Gere admits he is posing as a Jew. He grows fond of his fellow inmate, lands him a job on the same rockpile with him and before long they are in love.

The two never get together physically. But they start fantasizing love-making in extremely graphic terms while standing at rigid attention during three-minute "rest periods" in their 12-hour day.

Sample dialogue: "I'm touching you, I'm kissing your eyes, your lips, mouth, inside your mouth...your chest." It gets worse, and remember, they're supposed inside a Nazi concentration camp.

The curtain takes a long time to drop, staying up amid recurring vows and denials of love and lame jokes about sex. The proceedings finally end on a predictably tragic note for both lovers.

For the record, the play is by Martin Sherman. The direction, which gives the play a slow, often stultifying pace, is by Robert Allan Ackerman.

The lovely fact is, it does.

You know one thing about a movie that features an old lady, kids and baseball — it will create sentiment. "Aunt Mary," a Hallmark Hall of Fame special on CBS, certainly does that. But the film has character, and a fine instinct for the human heartstring.

It works.

It helps to know that this is a real story.

Floor Artist Reviving Lost Craft

CHICAGO (AP)—The Sistine Chapel has its ceiling by Michaelangelo, and a suburban Northbrook mansion has its $100,000 floor by Michael Anthony.

Anthony, 25, is reviving the lost art of hand-crafted, inlaid wood floors. He signs all his floors, just like an artist signs his paintings. And he considers himself as great an artist in his field as those who gain fame on canvas.

"My biggest job was in an authentic period French home being built by a very rich man for $5 million," says Anthony. "The floor of one room, measuring 25-by-35-feet, was hand-scraped and all molding hand-carved. The pattern was a red oak wood and imported French tile combination. It took me six months to make, match and install the floor."

"The wood was hand-shaved, bringing out the full force of the grain, and never will need refinishing. It was a $100,000 job."

Anthony, whose father and grandfather were die-makers, studied dental technology at Southern Illinois University and spent a year and a half as an apprentice in a dental laboratory.

"It was very detailed work with my hands, like flooring," he says. "In school I carved plaster models of teeth."

Anthony was a whiz in school and had completed his studies and his apprenticeship by the time he was 20. Then he says he met an old Norwegian woodworker and spent a year with him learning the trade.

"I started out carving wooden statues of Christ — six or eight feet tall — for churches. I sold a half-dozen of them," says Anthony. "And I carved 37 altars. But parquet floors became my love. I even have two cats named Par and Quay."

Anthony now has his own plant with 14 workers turning out a dozen of his unique designs for custom floors.

"I consider my floors a work of art because each component piece is shaped by hand and crafted using Old World techniques," he says. "I have a love affair with wood and it makes me shudder even to see a log burning in a fireplace. I'm working with a thing that took a hundred years to get. Wood breathes and contracts, and no treatment can make it do it. It's like a living thing and should be treated as such."

Anthony recently completed a 10-by-12-foot kitchen floor of white oak cut into a French country pattern. Each piece was hand-beveled, spaced one-fourth inch apart for grout made by Anthony. The wood is held together by a "tongue and groove," with some ceramic tile inlaid with pictures of various vegetables. The cost was $12,000.

"Most people have no idea of the engineering and design that go into a parquet floor," he says. "For instance, if you are off just a 32nd of an inch you could be off six inches or more at the end of an average size floor."

"My most complicated job was a parquet floor measuring 17-by-28-feet. Rosewood and African Paddock (red wood) were used," he says. "The floor was made from 29,000 matched pieces. Can you imagine trying to organize it all? This was one of my first jobs and the price was $41 a square foot. The price now would be nearly doubled."

Anthony says the most expensive wood he works with is ebony from Africa.

"In these times of inflation it is difficult to keep up with the cost," he says. "I made an ebony gun cabinet on a special order for a customer. I ordered the ebony in February and went to New York to pick it up in May. The price had risen from $5 to $8 a foot in that time. It's now $17 a foot."

NUCLEAR TEST PROTESTED
NAGASAKI, Japan — Nagasaki, the second city hit by an atomic bomb at the end of World War II, protested on Monday the United States' latest underground nuclear test in Nevada.

Nagasaki Mayor Hitoshi Motojima and the speaker of the Municipal Assembly, Fujiyoshi Miyazaki, protested Thursday's test in a letter to U.S. Ambassador Mike Mansfield.

CBS's 'Aunt Mary' Tugs At Heartstrings

By PETER J. BOYER
LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Aunt Mary," tonight's movie on CBS, presents the viewer with a challenge, right up front: "This is a true story," the prologue says. "It is about a woman named Mary Dobkin, a bunch of kids and baseball."

It might as well say, "All right, TV viewers, you who've been pelted by sham and cheap sex and shallow plays for your emotions, here's a movie that will make you cry."

ry, that real life can be at least as moving as Hollywood.

Jean Stapleton is perfect as Mary Dobkin, a creature of bad luck and Baltimore's slums who's suffered all of her life from sundry ailments that left her crippled. She suffers also from a divine affliction, the love of baseball.

She loves kids, too, another divine affliction, and decides to form a baseball team for them. This despite warnings from her jaundiced neighbor, Harry Strasberg (Martin Balsam), who warns that "the little hoodlums will rob you blind ... you nail something down and they'll steal the nails ... they need an animal trainer, not a coach."

Of course, Harry is right, to a degree; otherwise, this wouldn't qualify as a story about human indomibility and the rightness of humankind. But Mary does form a team, and even the most hellish

The baseball stuff pretty much parallels the progression of "Bad News Bears," and at times, the tear-jerking seems just a bit heavy-handed; but it's easy to forgive that because Miss Stapleton so thoroughly possesses the character, and the character is so thoroughly lovable. You will be easily won.
