TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) - Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini today gave permission for neutral foreign observers to visit the 50 U.S. hostages to disprove charges they are constantly being threatened with execution and kept in "inhuman'

Jody Powell said that any such visit to the hostages must accomplish humanitarian objectives and be responsive to international opinion.)

Khomeini also ordered immediate esablishment of an international panel to condemn American espionage "crimes" in Iran.

Militants holding the captives for the 40th day, who had scorned similar moves by government officials, said they would obey Khomeini, allow the visits and cooperate with the commission.

Ranking foreign ambassadors, who will probably make up the observer team, began consultations among themselves. No neutral visitor has seen the captives for three weeks.

Khomeini announced his moves after Washington ordered all but 35 of Iran's 218 accredited diplomats to leave the United States. Iranian officials and U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim held urgent telephone talks on the U.S. order, government sources said.

Diplomatic sources said the urgency of Khomeini's actions to counter "American propaganda" indicated that Washington's efforts to isolate Iran diplomatically and economically from the rest of the world were beginning to have an impact in Tehran.

Some diplomatic sources in Tehran said the upcoming commission hearings might break the deadlock over the hostages, with the commission declaring them guilty and Iran then expelling them rather than taking the much more serious step of putting the captives on trial before revolutionary courts with the ter Sadegh Ghotbzadeh.

briz, scene of recent fighting between followers of moderate Ayatollah Kazem Shariat-Madari and revolutionary government forces, some 100,000 demonstrators wearing white Moslem death shrouds paraded today in defiance of the government in the largest demonstration in the city's recent history.

Khomeini's order to let neutral observers to visit the American hostages and to set up an international commission was given to Iranian Foreign Minis-

The moves came four days before a scheduled meeting of Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries in Caracas, where hard-liners were expected to push for much bigger price increases.

Oil analysts estimated that the $6-abarrel hike would add between 3 and 5 cents a gallon to the retail price of gasoline, home heating oil and diesel fuel in the United States.

Plains and much of the state this morning, although temperatures in most areas were too high for a repeat of Wednesday's ice storm.

Most highways in the state were clear this morning, but a travelers advisory was posted for the Panhandle, where light freezing rain was falling.

Roads in an area from the northern South Plains across the southwestern Panhandle were expected to become hazardous, especially bridges and less-traveled roads.

Forecasters expected the rain to be short-lived, with decreasing cloudiness tonight and a slow warming trend through Monday.

Avalanche-Journal Staff The City Council awarded the bid for construction of a Southwest Lubbock library this morning after shifting projects from one funding source to another to cover the cost of building the facility.

By SYLVIA TEAGUE

The council accepted the low bid of $512,373 from Ed Lampe to build the library, to be located on Quaker Avenue south of Loop 289.

However, Lampe's bid was more than $25,000 over the amount allocated for the library construction. The bid was later reduced by $6,000 after a change in specifications made by the council. The council also decided not to use $75,000 in federal Community Development funds to finance a community room at the library because of federal government restrictions which would be placed on who could use the room.

Federal guidelines would require the city to document that the meeting room was used primarily by low-and moderateincome senior citizens if the CD funds

To replace the Community Development funds and cover the cost overrun, the council voted to shift nearly $57,500 in projects from revenue-sharing to CD

Additionally, $36,000 in revenue-sharing interest earnings would be used for the library project.

The cost of building the library was reduced some $6,000 when the council decided to change some construction specifications, including the thickness of concrete to be used in a driveway/drainage channel and a reduction in the width of that drive and the elimination of some display and special effects lighting in the new facility.

The total cost of the library construction, including architect's and engineering fees, is expected to be $544,000.

The Lubbock County commissioners voted earlier this week to pay about $40,-000 toward the cost of constructing the meeting room, providing the city found some other funding source besides Community Development funds. However, the council rejected the county's offer.

Councilwoman Carolyn Jordan suggested that library board chairman Charles Burford try to convince the commissioners to use the $40,000 for books and equipment for the new library.

by the umbrella needed to ward off the raindrops. Forecasters

City Manager Larry Cunningham said the pay increase would cost the city nearly $285,000 and the only way to generate the additional money, since the tax rate has been set for the year, would be to add $1 to the monthly garbage fee.

To grant an equal raise to all city employees would cost more than $1 million - an amount Cunningham said would be impossible to raise.

At Cunningham's suggestion, the council decided to place a resolution on the next council agenda which would indicate the council's opposition to collective bargaining rights for the firefighters or other public employees.

Auto Batteries Can Explode

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (Special) -For most people, a dead battery just means inconvenience. But for too many unfortunate victims, a dead battery will bring injury and pain this winter.

"Battery explosions cause severe injuries to thousands of Americans each year, and there is no reason for it," says Harvey Gordon, maintenance supervisor at R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.'s Truck and Storage Department which services a fleet of over 550 vehicles.

If a person follows safe and proper procedures for jump-starting a dead battery, the danger is minimized.

Batteries produce explosive gases; hydrogen and oxygen gases are produced during normal battery operation. This gas mixture can explode if flames or sparks are brought near the battery. When charging or using a battery in an

Do not stand directly over the battery. Do not allow tools such as a wrench to come in contact with both the negative and positive poles of the battery at the same time.

Do not lean on the battery. Do not allow medals or necklaces to hang loosely over a battery.

About all you can do to slow the process is keep the battery cells filled with water. Replace any frayed cables and keep the terinals clean.

Many newer cars utilize what has come to be known as the "freedom" battery, one that needs no water. "Don't be fooled though," warns Gordon. "These are still dangerous because they are completely sealed except for a small vent hole in the side from which gas can

Education Agency Aids Teach

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

United Press International Writer Attacks on education, violence in the classroom, killing paperwork and inadequate teacher salaries fuel the teacherburnout syndrome - academia's newest ailment.

Willard H. McGuire, president of the National Education Association, makes that case in "Today's Education," journal of the 1.8 million member teachers'

"Burnout" has reached epidemic proportions in some school districts, claims another current journal report. That one describes a federally funded teacher center that deals with burnout and stress.

The Northwest Staff Development Center serves 4,000 teachers and administrators in seven school districts in northwest Wayne County, Michigan. "A number of causes have produced teacher stress and burnout in the northwest Wayne County area," Dennis Sparks, director of the center, said.

They include changing student and community attitudes toward education, collective bargaining issues, repeated layoffs of professional staff, poor relationships within the schools, and lack of

Too frequently these issues have resulted in lowered morale and in apathy toward professional development and school improvement.

McGuire said the NEA is stepping up its programs to assist teachers and to bring about community understanding of stress-related problems.

The NEA Human Relations Committee has been charged with investigating the problems of discipline and of violence toward educators and will report its findings ... to the 1980 Representative Assembly for action," he said.

Burnout, said McGuire, is a major new malady

"It already has stricken thousands of sensitive, thoughtful and dedicated teachers - teachers who are abandoning the profession," he said.

'Additional thousands may join their peers for they fear for their physical and mental health

He focused on classroom violence and vandalism, making these points

NEA's 1979 nationwide Teacher Opinion Poll showed an estimated 110,-000 teachers - 1 out of every 20 - were physically attacked by students on school property during the previous school year. That is a 57 percent increase over the estimated 70,000 teachers attacked during the 1977-78 school year.

Of teachers attacked, an estimated 11,500 required medical attention for physical injuries and 9,000 required attention for emotional trauma.

Ten percent of all respondents thought it likely they would be physically attacked sometime in the near future. Teachers in the Northeast, in city systems, and in large school systems expressed this fear more than teachers gen-

About one-fourth of respondents reported their personal property was stolen during 1978-79, and the same proportion said they had personal property damaged at school.

Violence and vandalism are just two the many problems teachers face,' McGuires said

No wonder fear, insecurity and anxiety are replacing the joy of teaching. The ultimate result is teacher dropouts. Too many teachers are feeling burned out and ignored.

They want to teach. They want their classrooms to crackle with exciteme But they face too many students who won't do their homework, and too many parents who say they can't control their children's home study habits and too many school boards who cut supplies and equipment from the budget and too many supervisors who say 'live with it when teachers try to get help for a dis ruptive child.

Soviets Also Feel Pinch

INFLATION SHOWS no signs of loosening future. Western analysts have long been preits hammerlock on the American economy. The energy pinch promises to be tighter. There is some argument as to whether we're actually in a recession, but no argument as to whether the economy is booming.

But things could be worse. As a matter of fact, in the Soviet Union, they are.

Moscow made public this week a remarkably straightforward annual reading of the state of its economy which is just this side of Economic growth for 1979 is in the mediocre region of 3.6 percent, the lowest since World War II and far short of the 5.7 percent target set a year ago.

THERE ARE admitted shortages in consumer goods from toothpaste to needles and thread. And a poor agricultural year means tight meat and grain supplies, despite large imports of the latter from the United States.

Western experts point out that even in the report's frankness it understates the seriousness of the situation since it ignores the effects of inflation, which is not supposed to exist in a socialist economy but definitely dicting that Soviet oil production is heading into a decline and that the country will become an energy importer.

Prospects are that the Soviets can look for no significant improvement in the immediate

The continuing problem of low productivity will be compounded by something close to zero growth in the labor force. Because of falling birth rates, it is expected to increase by only a few hundreds or thousands per year during the 1980s.

THERE IS NO suggestion in this that the Soviet system is threatened with collapse. But it does demonstrate that a socialist economy is not immune to the ailments that plague other models.

In fact, what some economists find particularly intriguing is the evidence that stagflation, the combination of sluggish economic growth and inflation with which the West has been struggling, is not limited to market

The poor performance has brought critical fire from political leaders-down on key economic planners and managers reminiscent of the Khrushchev era.

But one line is being omitted-and wisely under the circumstances-from the Khrushchev script. No one any longer is promising that an economic overtaking of the West is

WASHINGTON-Abraham Lincoln is said to have told a story about semantics and reality. If you call a sheep's tail a leg, he asked, how many legs would a sheep have?

Five, somebody answered. Nope, said Lincoln. The sheep would still have only four legs, because calling a tail a leg doesn't make it a leg.

Well, the head of the U.S. Postal Service called a tail a leg the other day.

In a talk in Los Angeles, Postmaster General William Bolger announced that in fiscal year 1979 —for the first time in 33 years—the Postal Service is in the black with a surplus of $469,863,000.

THIS SURPLUS FOLLOWS multimillion-dollar losses in every year since 1946, including losses of more than $1 billion each in 1967, 1968, 1969 and 1970, before the old Post Office Department was transformed into a semi-independent postal service business at the start of the decade. Bragging about the Postal Service's recent performance, Bolger said that "any fair-minded observer must agree that it is a noteworthy accomplishment. He noted that the service's improved financial status was due to a higher volume of mail and increased productivity.

He said that productivity gains had been made possible by the modernization of facilities and an increase from 25 percent to almost 75 percent in the amount of mail processed mechanically, coupled with new rates designed to attract large-volume mail users.

Terrific. All of this deserves applause, and Bolger got it from his audience.

Seagraves said: "YOU COULD MAKE the story about this subsidy, but the fact is that Congress made the subsiservices, and that means we can't choose the facilities that we would otherwise close. "If this wasn't so, then we'd have taken steps to dy for operating very small post offices and rural offset the deficit.

Seagraves' explanation is interesting but, nevertheless, the fact remains that Postmaster General Bolger's claim of a postal surplus, without mentioning the federal subsidy, was, to put it charitably, disingenuous.

Bolger called a tail a leg. But, as Lincoln noted. calling a tail a leg doesn't make it a leg.

OFFICIAL GOVERNMENT figures ranking the 50 states on the basis of individual or family income invariably fail to take living costs into account, thus ignoring the relative spending power of dollars earned.

But the First National Bank of Chicago has undertaken an ambitious project using Census Bureau and Bureau of Labor Statistics figures as part of an elaborate formula to measure wealth as accurately as possible.

On the basis of those computations, Wyoming emerges as the richest state, with an adjusted annual median family income of $23,061, followed by Alaska, Maryland, Texas, Nevada, California, Colorado, Michigan, Minnesota, Washington, Florida, Oregon and Illinois-all above the $20,-000 level

At the bottom of the list is Maine, with $14,921. But the real surprise is the state ranked 49th-New York, where the dollar doesn't buy much.

To be re-named the Lindsey Center for the Performing Arts, the facility at Main and Ave. J is ideal for community theater stage productions.

It will be good to have nightime crowds again converging on downtown Lubbock. The LCPA, in fact, could be the catalyst for other renovations in the central business district.

On the shelf, for example, are plans to transform Avenue J into a pedestrian mall with flowing water and the whole bit. An even more elaborate rejuvenation project, given the proper impetus, would be successful

I remain convinced, too, that a downtown development project creating a district for restaurants and shops preserving our Mexican-American heritage and catering to townspeople and conventiongoers is long overdue.

It would be an ideal way to promote minorityowned businesses and create jobs.

WHAT COULD BE better than dinner in an outstanding restaurant followed by an evening of live theater in downtown Lubbock?

There are any number of possibilities, in fact, for making better use of the Memorial Civic Center and other facilities to cause the downtown area to "come alive" at night as well as in the day-

The Theatre Centre project could be a milepost in that rejuvenation. Already, parking lots have replaced many of the vacant buildings and the neighborhood has been upgraded with office towers and remodeling projects.

salary boosts? Texas colleges and universities are facing that question as student headcounts drop on many

Not surprisingly, faculty members don't want their jobs eliminated just because there aren't enough students to go around.

The chairman of the Board of Regents of West Texas State University in Canyon, Charles H. Schmidt, echoed their sentiments the other day.

HE TOLD LT. GOV. Bill Hobby's Special Committee on Higher Education Financing that state funding formulas should be revised to "enable existing institutions to maintain the state's investment in faculty, staff and facilities."

WTSU's enrollment has declined from 7,935 in 1969 to 6,469 in 1979. Under funding formulas now used, state-supported colleges and universities get appropriations based on enrollments.

Critics of higher education believe costs should be brought under control by trimming faculties rather than by changing the funding formulas so that there's plenty of tax money to pay the same number of professors to teach fewer students.

WASHINGTON-Roughly half the top executives in government in Washington are lawyers, engineers or scientists. Few have had much (if any) training as managers or executives, although they are heads of vast bureaucracies and supervise huge budgets.

This lack of managerial skills-fiscal, organizational and personal-is one explanation given by experts for the federal government's chronic inefficiency and overspending.

It is also why government, following the lead of business, is turning to consultants in the relatively new field of Organizational Development (OD).

'Many executives have had to pick up management skills catch-as-catch-can after they are in supergrade jobs," said Alan Campbell, director of the Office of Personnel Management (formerly the U.S. Civil Service) a short while back.

Francis Coster, head of TVA's solar program, said the modular homes will range from 800 to 1,300 square feet, most will have three bedrooms and a pricetag of $27,000, including the land.

For the first time, we're getting the solar technology into the price range the average person can afford," TVA Chairman S. David Freeman said. "We're putting up the seed money to create a new kind of housing that, if it works, will save the homeowner $8,000 in energy bills over the life of the house.

The homes must use passive solar approaches - those not requiring mechanical devices. Their location, shape and mum benefit from the sun. The houses will include solar collectors for hot water, and may feature greenhouses

Firms' Profit Figures Prove Mind-Boggling

By JAMES A. WHITE

NEW YORK (UPI) - Obscured in the furor over record oil profits and little understood because it had never been done before, Exxon Corp. inserted a unique disclosure in its latest report of financial results.

Exxon published what it called an 'estimate of its net income after adjustment of the company's accounts for changes in the value of the dollar through inflation in prices as reflected in the consumer price index." The description was followed by numbers a shade higher than the company's regular net income. What was Exxon trying to show through the new inflation-adjusted information it will be providing from now on?

"We can't tell people what the numbers mean because we aren't going to know, either," says Ulyesse J. LeGrange, controller for the world's largest oil company. "We're overwhelming people with too much information," he says.

The comment is typical of corporations now caught in a dilemma: while grappling to correct their financial results for distortions caused by inflation, companies say they are trying to avoid swamping the public with data even more incomprehensible than the current

Perhaps more to the point, companies also are concerned how shareholders will react to inflation-adjusted data, which in most cases will show lower net profits from operations than produced under traditional accounting methods. As in Exxon's case, however, there also can be offsetting gains on inflation adjustments of outstanding debt.

Executives believe traditional accounting results in "phantom profits" generated not by business activity but by inflation. These "profits" are taxed and, when combined with other inflation effects, companies say they are left with too little for reinvestment in maintenance or expansion

The question is how to modify traditional accounting. Finding no clear solution, accountants reluctantly settled on two methods to be phased in beginning with year-end 1979 financial data.

Billed as an experiment but one which all shareholders will see, the rules have sent companies scrambling to their computers. Some firms anticipated the move and are ready; others are working

Exxon says it has long supported inflation disclosures and so it voluntarily published in October data not required

Fourth In A Series

until its next annual report. Exxon and others complain, however, that two sets of inflation adjustments, which can produce half a dozen profit numbers apart from the usual ones, will be mind-bog-

'I'd call this too much too late," says LeGrange, who favors one inflation adjustment method only. "You just don't play around with public information going to shareholders," he says. Comptroller Herbert C. Knortz of Inagrees. "It would appear to be better to have one improvement than two confusions," he says. Critics charge companies agrue both ways on inflation accounting: supporting it to bolster tax cuts but not wanting to show stockholders that much of their higher profit stems only from inflation. "I have to say that business can't have its cake and eat it." says Charles L. Schultze, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers.

Veteran Met Stars In Vietnam

KINGS PARK, N.Y. (Special) - Kevin O'Hare is one Vietnam War veteran who wouldn't mind reliving his tour of

'Really, it was one of the best experiences of my life," says O'Hare who spent 1967-1968 with the U.S. Army's Special Services (25th Infantry Division) in Vietnam. His assignment: to coordinate concerts and variety shows that were given to the troops by big-name American entertainers.

"I was fortunate enough the know many of the biggest names in show business - Bob Hope, Jonathan Winter, James Garner, Joey Heatherton, you name it," remembers O'Hare, now an Area Sales Representative on Long Island for R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. Each one would come for about a week and I was in charge of arranging their itineraries, scheduling the shows at the bases, the whole thing

O'Hare wasn't just picked at random for this enticing position. He came with show business qualifications as an assistant producer at WNEW-TV, Channel 5, in New York City.

"I used to work on a lot of children's shows like Wonderama, 'Just for Fun,' and the 'Murry the K,' specials," explains O'Hare. "When I was drafted, I was in the infantry at first. But I contracted blood poisoning after a couple of weeks and went to a hospital in Cu Chi. That's when they found out about my background and asked me to serve in Special Services

The Army put O'Hare in charge of all the USO shows. O'Hare says that his two months on the front lines helped him understand how much the soldiers would appreciate live entertainment.

'At that time, moral among the soldiers was really low - anything that might remind them of home was valuable," O'Hare adds. "Too often, the men who were doing the actual fighting had been neglected when entertainers came over to Saigon or the big air bases. was important that we take the performers as close to the front lines as we

business reguarly, O'Hare stays involved in his spare time, helping to arrange charity concerts near his home here. The 35-year-old father of two also owns a golden oldies' record collection of over 12,000 records O'Hare joined the Sales Division of

R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. in 1968, six months after he returned from Vietnam. He says his experiences in show business have helped him become a better salesman too.

Alaskan Oil Tracts Lure Huge Bids

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — Despite a court challenge, controversial bidding methods and the unknowns of drilling in ice-choked waters, the oil industry has offered nearly $582 million in immediate cash for rights to explore submerged lands in the American arctic.

This week's sale of oil and gas leases on 514,000 acres was the first in which a state and the federal government jointly asked for bids on offshore leases.

Government geologists estimate the Beaufort lease area off Alaska's north coast could contain 750 million barrels of crude oil and 1.6 trillion cubic feet of nat-

The top single bid in the sale was $143 million from an equal partnership of Atlantic Richfield Co., Union Oil Co. of California and Exxon Co. U.S.A. Lease winners will be announced within 60 days, although no drilling is expected for several years.

If the courts allow the sale to stand and the apparent high bids are awarded, Alaska will get $567,391,497 in immediate cash, and the federal treasury $14,566,-

Another $477,161,587 was offered for tracts claimed by both the federal and state governments, an issue now before the U.S. Supreme Court. The top bid involved one of the disputed leases. The bid money will be held in escrow until the high court determines ownership of

A federal judge in Washington has scheduled a hearing Jan. 3 on a request by the North Slope Borough to invalidate the federal portion of the sale and by the village of Kaktovik and environmental groups to block the sale entirely.

The borough had asked that tracts seaward of a string of barrier islands some 10 miles offshore be removed from the sale because of severe ice conditions and the possibility that drilling would threaten marine mammals they use for

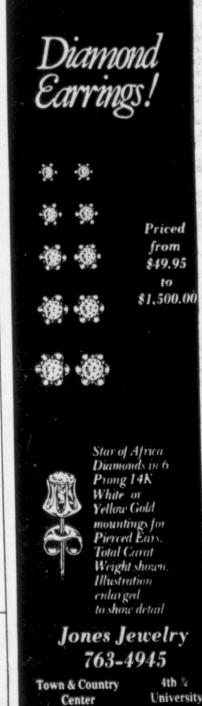

Alaska used this sale to inaugurate a new leasing method called "net profit" on the most promising tracts where no one knows precisely how much oil is

Under this method, the state not only asked for a fixed amount of immediate cash and - like the federal government - a share of production, but also a share of the producer's profits after costs and

There were no offers on eight tracts bid under that system, but on the remaining 18 tracts, the offers averaged 571/2 percent of their net profits, ranging from 2.75 percent to 93.2 percent.

"Chevron USA Inc. was not competitive on net profits bidding because basically you have to generate enough capital to explore, and if you bid away your profits you don't have anything to put back said J.H. Silcox, general manager of exploration for Chevron.

He also suggested that companies bid ding high net profits did not have much geological data and no previous arctic slope drilling experience.

Tips Given On Driving In Winter

AUSTIN (Special) - What happened to those mild winters Texans have been accustomed to?

Because of the severe winter weather causing icy roads and bridges. Texas motorists sent traffic accident figures spiralling last winter. Texas Safety Association Vice President for Traffic, James R. Halverson, noted that "Cold temperatures combined with precipitation create dangerous road conditions unfamiliar to the Texas driver.

Halverson urges motorists to follow a few winter safe driving guidelines:

Test your battery - it loses power at low temperatures.

Have your brakes checked - they must be equalized because equal pull on all sides is vital in skid avoidance.

Check your tires - they should have deep tread. In severe conditions, chains on rear wheels increase traction and stopping ability.

Keep your windshield clean - defrosters prevent fog and ice from blinding you. Also a snow brush and scraper, and anti-freeze solution in the washer are

Check your exhaust system for leaks carbon monoxide kills.

Keep front, rear and both side windows clear. Use windshield washers and clean tail and headlights, because headlight efficiency can be cut in half by grime. Keep your headlights on low beam in fog, sleet or heavy snow.

Never jam on the brakes on a slippery surface - you will lock your wheels and go into a skid. Keep the wheels rolling by pumping and releasing the brakes in short rapid jabs. Anticipate stops and slow down gradually, especially when approaching intersections because of the polishing effect stopping and starting traffic has on snow and ice.

When stuck in snow or ice turn your wheels from side to side a few times to push snow out of the way. Start in drive, or second gear with a manual transmission, and lightly touch the gas.

A heavy foot on the accelerator will only spin your wheel. Keep your wheels straight ahead and ease forward gently. Course rock salt or carpeting used under the rear wheels increases traction.

Change directions gradually - no sudden movements. Anticipate turns, slow down well ahead of them and make them smoothly.

If you go into a skid, take your foot off the gas and turn your wheels in the same direction the rear of your car is skidding. You will be able to feel the car come out of the skid - then straighten your wheels. Never hit the brakes when the rear end starts to slide.

Ice is twice as slippery at 30 degrees as it is at 0 degrees. Watch the temperature, and watch out for icy patches in shady areas and on bridges. If you hit one, hold the wheel steady and drive

Herbicides' Effects To Be Investigated

WASHINGTON (AP) - Three government agencies are being told to study possible relationships between Agent Orange and certain other herbicides and long-term health problems.

Agent Orange is a toxic defoliant used during the Vietnam conflict. Stuart Eizenstat, the president's chief domestic policy assistant, ordered the study this week in a memorandum to the Veterans Administration, the Pentagon and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. "There is currently an inadequate scientific basis for determining whether exposure to the herbicides could have caused long-term health effects,' the White House statement said.

Networks Offer Spot For Carter Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) - Two television networks - ABC and NBC - now are offering to sell President Carter's reelection committee 30 minutes of time next month for a campaign special.

The re-election committee had sought the time this month to coincide with the president's Dec. 4 re-election announcement, but was turned down by all three major commercial networks. The networks said December was too early to start selling large blocks of TV time for campaign material. The Federal Communications Commission ruled that the networks had acted unreasonably, but the networks won a temporary stay from the U.S. Court of Appeals. The court case is still pending.

Silver Mine Stock Sold To Arabs

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — Day-to-day operations at the Sunshine Mining Co. facility in Kellogg, Idaho, should not change despite the purchase of $21.83 million of common Sunshine stock by a group of Middle East investors, says one of the former stockholders.

The Sunshine Mine is the nation's largest silver mine.

The stock, 1,029,800 shares or about 19 percent of Sunshine Mining Co.'s outstanding security, was owned by Sunshine Holdings Co., an affiliate of Sunshine Mining.

The affiliate, owned by David J. Wagnon, Michael Boswell and David Crandall, was formed to buy the outstanding Sunshine stock formerly held by Hunt International.

Wagnon said this week in a telephone interview that the stock was bought from Hunt for $18.77 a share.

Arab Investors Group, a Luxembourg corporation owned by private individuals in the Middle East and based in Paris, bought the stock for $21.25 a share.

Arab Investors was also given an option by SunshineMining to acquire an additional 500,000 shares of common Sunshine stock at the $21.25 mark prior to Jan. 31, 1980, mining company officials

"There will be a number of effects (as a result of the sale), but they will all be positive. The company is far stronger financially at this point," said Wagnon, who is also Sunshine Mining's executive vice president and chief operations officer.

Sunshine Mining owns the major part of the Sunshine Mine, located near Kellogg in northern Idaho.

Wagnon said no discussions were conducted on whether the investors planned an eventual takeover of the company.

"They (Arab Investors) were looking for a place to invest their money," Wag-"Because of the tremendous balance sheet strength this affords, I think it will create jobs down the road," the Dallasite added while visiting the Kellogg facility. "We were committed to expanding our operation before this sale. This sale was not, from our point of view, a surprise. We had planned in June to replace this block of Sunshine. We are just doing now what we said we would do last June," Wagnon said. Negotiations for the sale lasted about 60 days, Wagnon said, after Arab Investors contacted the affiliate company.

"There obviously are some profits in the transaction, but the way Sunshine Holdings was structured, all of the profits represented by this transaction will flow directly through to Sunshine (Mining Co.)," Wagnon explained.

First Lady Shows Wit In Talks

By FRANK CORMIER
WASHINGTON (AP) — Rosalynn Carter may not be the soul of drollery but, as her husband's recent stand-in on the campaign trail, she has shown flashes of humor amid earnest appeals for the president's re-election.

Mrs. Carter gets effusive introductions everywhere, so much so that an uninformed visitor from other shores might conclude she was the embattled candi-

An introduction last week in Atlanta pictured Mrs. Carter as the only individual who can give the president realistic straight talk across the White House din-

"Jimmy and I have had to give up reality at the dinner table," the first lady deadpanned, "because sometimes you have to swallow.

Getting Donations

Another presidential surrogate, "Miss Lillian" Carter, reports she's been getting unsolicited donations since remarking, on the stump, that if she had a million dollars she'd put out a contract on the life of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

But no one seems to know how much money has been forthcoming or what the president's mother is doing with it - except that a White House spokesperson said it's safe to assume all money is being

Inquiries were referred to Judy Harrison of the Carter-Mondale campaign committee. Mrs. Harrison, who accompanies the president's mother around the hustings, could not be reached at the pair's mid-week stopping place, Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas.

Moviegoers

When the president took his mother to a movie in the White House theater last week, the film coincidentally concerned a religiously oriented ruler who met an abrupt end:

Mary Queen of Scots.

Creates Stir

The president's mother created a small stir at a state dinner last month that honored Jack Lynch, then prime minister of Ireland.

Seeking the Irish leader's attention, the Carter matriarch showed little tolerance for Lynch's title as she beckoned to him with the words, "Prime! Prime!"

Uninvited Guest

Seth King, a Washington reporter for the New York Times, has infrequent occasion to visit the White House on business, which worked to his advantage this

King joined a group of reporters and photographers who recorded the start of a Cabinet Room meeting between Carter and members of a presidential commission on world hunger.

But when other members of the press retired on a signal from a Carter press aide, the distinguished-looking a leather-upholstered chair near the Cabinet table and proceeded to monitor Carter's private discussion with Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland and other advisers.

Bergland was the only participant who recognized King as an interloper, but he kept his mouth shut.

The reporter explained, "That's what they taught me in journalism school." In other words, stick around until you get thrown out.

King sat through the entire meeting.

Friends With Shah

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's now-celebrated sharp criticism of the ousted Shah of Iran reminded some White House reporters of the apparent warmth between President John F. Kennedy and the shah in the early 1960s.

Presidential confidant David Powers, who now runs the John F. Kennedy Library in Boston, confided to reporters during a White House visit by the Iranian, "He's our kind of shah.

Growth Seen For Casinos

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) - Revenues from Atlantic City casinos could reach $3 billion annually within 10 years, according to a Wall Street analyst

Victor Raskin, an analyst with the brokerage house of Dean Witter Reynolds, predicted Atlantic City revenues would reach at least $1.5 billion annually within a decade and could go as high as

He told delegates at an International Entertainment Association seminar here that the gaming industry has been growing 15 percent a year.

'We expect the market to double and more than likely even triple," he said. Raskin said because of Atlantic City's success, gaming is now looked on as a growth industry. In its first year of operation, Resorts International reported a gross win of more than $220 million. making it one of the most lucrative casinos in the world, he said. Earlier in the seminar, a Nevada casind regulator warned that any state that legalizes gambling without strict controls risked infiltration by organized crime.

W. Clark Santini, a hearing examiner with the Nevada Gaming Control Board, said it was impossible to keep organized crime out of casino operations, but added each state must work to keep the industry clean.

He said Nevada had fined several casino operators a total of $2 million this r, and lifted the licenses of three casi-

Experts Doubt Texans Will Reduce

AUSTIN (UPI) - Texans don't want to drive a maximum 55 mph, and persuading 40 percent of them to do it anyway - before a federal deadline - will be almost impossible, experts say.

Joe E. Milner, chief of the Texas Department of Public Safety's traffic law enforcement division, told a National Highway Safety Advisory Committee Task Force Wednesday Texas barely met the September 1979 federal requirement that demanded 30 percent of the state's motorists not exceed 55 mph, and will have a hard time meeting the September 1980 deadline for 40 percent compliance.

Texas stands to lose $8 million in highway construction money if it does not comply.

"There is a lack of public support and respect for the law and a lack of adequate numbers of highway patrol troopers to enforce it," Milner said. "We've got about 1,400 troopers. It'd probably take double that to insure 100 percent compliance with the 55 mph limit.

Texas A&M researcher Charles J. Keese, also a transportation professor at the Texas Transportation Institute, said, "There is little hope that the speed curve can be reversed and highway speeds reduced as rapidly as the federal government specifies.

"To do so will require both a massive enforcement effort requiring significant increases in enforcement personnel and equipment, along with a major change of attitude on the part of the motorists.'

Milner and Keese questioned the fairness of federal threats to cut highway construction allocations to states that do not meet compliance deadlines.

"The federal statute has no flexibility in it," Milner said. "It doesn't allow for a tolerance. It's not practical to enforce speed limits without a tolerance.

Parental Rights Ended By Judge

LONGVIEW (AP) - An unidentified woman has lost all parental rights to a baby she abandoned near a manger scene at the First Baptist Church here.

State District Judge William Martin announced he has terminated "all parental relationships affecting the child known as Timothy Christmas. The action cleared the way for adoptions proceedings to begin.

In making the ruling late Tuesday, the judge issued a gag order preventing everyone involved in the case from discussing it except as is necessary in the adoption proceedings.

The basis is that any further publiciwould not be in the best interests of the child." Martin said.

The judge appointed the Department of Human Resources as managing conservator for the infant. The identity of the mother was shielded by the court.

The discovery of the child 10 days ago near the manger scene at the First Baptist Church drew nationwide publicity.

The point needs to be made that this is not the way to dispose of unwanted children, the judge said.

"This can be done without the fanfare, and confidences can be protected in the best interest of the child by relinquishing the child to the Department of Human Resources," said Martin.

Mormon Leader Hospitalized

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) - The 4.3 million members of the Mormon Church are awaiting a medical OK on their prophet Spencer W. Kimball.

The 84-year-old Kimball, leader of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, underwent tests Wednesday at LDS Hospital to determine his rate of recovery from skull surgery last month, according to church spokesman Jerry

Rock Concert Will Benefit Refugees

UNITED NATIONS (AP) - Some of the biggest names in rock 'n' roll - including Wings and The Who - will perform in four post-Christmas London concerts to raise money for the Cambodian refugees, U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim says.

On Dec. 26, the group Queen will perform, followed by Ian Dury and the Blockheads, Matumbi and a mystery act on Dec. 27. The next day The Specials and The Who are on stage, followed Dec. 29 by Billy Connally, Elvis Costello and the Attractions, Rockpile and Paul McCartney and Wings.

A spokesman for Waldheim said the concerts resulted from conversations the secretary-general had with McCartney about the suffering millions of Cambodians are being put through.

Borrowers Warned Interest To Go Higher

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) - Henry Kaufman and his associates are circulating the most dismal Christmas message that borrowers could expect, a reminder that interest rates are going into still higher or-

Lenders will contest this interpretation, and quite logically. For them, high interest rates mean good money. But lenders are growing less common; borrowers are the majority today, and they are devastated.

Devastated because Henry Kaufman, general partner in Salomon Brothers, the securities firm, is considered a seer about interest rates. His accuracy might not be perfect, but his reputation seems almost to be. That reputation compels major market forces to heed his message, even though it directly contradicts the downward trend of rates and the considered analyses of dozens of other interest rate forecasters. The consensus forecast in the past few weeks has been for a gradual decline through 1980, and many thought the process had already begun. The prime lending rate, 15% percent in November, is now down to 151/4.

Kaufman isn't swayed. He asks that you consider the possibility of 16 percent or 17 percent prime, which in theory and probably in myth is the best rate that big city banks give to their best customers.

A quick file search confirms that Kaufman understands his subject. A year or so ago, for example, he forecast a 13 percent prime, an unprecedented level and, some thought, an unbelievable fore-

His new forecast has other economists aghast once again. Postwar highs will be established "for almost all interest rates somewhat before midyear," he and associates, James McKeon and David Foster, announced.

They explained that "the combination of economic contraction and accelerating inflation will not, at least at first, reduce upward pressures on interest rates."

Under such circumstances, they continued, "credit demands do not quickly abate; rather the need to finance inventories, receivables and even consumption rises. Firms such as Salomon Brothers and economists such as Kaufman tend to aim their remarks at big borrowers and lenders, at government officials and corporation chairmen, because they make up its market. But what happens in these markets often is affected by what consumers

Kaufman and his associates believe the consumer will be one of the keys to understanding the 1980 economy.

If a predicted rise in unemployment lags behind the economic slowdown, consumption will remain strong well into the year, they say. That suggests consumers will be a big force behind prices and loan

As if this news isn't enough, some of the other estimates made by Kaufman are equally disturbing:

-Economic activity will begin to shrink in the first half of 1980 and continue throughout the year, and probably in-to 1981. The year to year decline in gross national product is expected to be 1.5

-Inflation will get worse, rising to 10 percent or more as measured by the gross national product. Kaufman and company didn't provide a consumer price index translation, but it would mean about 14 percent for the year, compared with about 13.2 percent in 1979.

-The slowdown in economic activity will produce a deterioration in federal, state and local government budgets.

It isn't a merry message, but isn't Christmas as much a search for truth as for merriment?

House Initiates Debate On Chrysler Aid Pact

opened debate on federal aid to the Chrysler Corp. today, with Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. predicting that defeat of the measure might lead to a national recession.

Chrysler says it is losing money at the rate of $1 billion a year and faces bankruptcy early in 1980 if it does not get the $1.5 billion in federal loan guarantees that it is seeking.

Chrysler and Carter administration officials have said a Chrysler failure could lead to layoff of more than 500,000 emloyees of the automaking firm and its dealers and suppliers.

'The layoff of a half million people could very well kick off the recession that many economists have been talking about and that we are closing the year without having," O'Neill said. O'Neill, D-Mass., said he did not agree with contentions by critics of the pill that Chrysler could survive without the aid or that its employees would be absorbed by other firms.

The measure easily cleared its first hurdle on the floor today as the House voted 391-5 to approve the procedures prescribed by the rules panel. Chrysler, the nation's third-largest automaker, wants $1.5 billion in federally guaranteed bank loans. The automaker says it expects to lose more than $1 billion during 1979. The administration asked Congress to approve $1.5 billion in loan guarantees and require Chrysler to come up with a like amount on its own.

The House Banking Committee approved a modification of that measure. But the proposal ran into trouble in the Senate Banking Committee, which substituted a plan that would provide

Officials Study Jury Reform (EDITOR'S NOTE — Twelve good men and true. That Constitutional basis has been the foundation of the trial-by-jury system since the country's birth. But, new questions sirve as more and more complex technological or financial cases face modern jurers. Should these cases be heard by a jury at all? Need the jury be 12 citizens? Here's a look at the debate over jury reform for special cases.)

month, the trial went on.

From morning until night, five days a week, Janet Melson listened hard, struggling at times to stay awake, groping often to understand obscure economic

After seven months, the exercise came to a disappointing end. Mrs. Melson and her fellow jurors split 50-50 and produced no verdict in the antitrust suit brought by Transamerica Computer Corp. against International Business Machines Corp. The case was submitted to the judge who ruled for IBM.

A hung jury. Was it a waste of time and money? An unreasonable disruption of the jurors' lives? Chief Justice Warren E. Burger probably would say yes. Mrs. Melson says no.

Although we didn't reach a decision, think our feedback to the judge and the lawyers did help the case along," Mrs. Melson says. "And it wasn't an imposition. I had just retired as a children's librarian, so I had the time and I found it intellectually stimulating.

The chief justice, however, says jury duty in such cases "borders on cruelty. In addition, he says, "The factual issues are likely to be of enormous complexity ... problems which often only a sophisticated businessman, an economist, or another expert could grasp. There is a limit to the capacity of any us - jurors or even a judge - to understand and remember complicated transactions described in a long trial." Burger's comments, in a speech last August to a conference of state judges and court administrators, set off a wave of discussion about the value of the trial jury in 20th century America. Since the nation's birth, trial by a jury of one's peers has been a fundamental right guaranteed by the Constitution. The history of the jury can be traced to the Middle Ages, and the American form has roots deep in English common law.

But there were no IBMs in colonial days. No complex technology, no antitrust laws, and no multimillion-dollar lawsuits seemingly demanding the genius of an Albert Einstein ences of a technological explosion, and we may have a real dilemma on our hands," says Michael Saks, a social scientist at the National Center for State

With prodding from Burger, federat and state authorities are exploring dozens of ways of bringing more speed and efficiency to the courts. But some experts fear that fairness may be sacrificed along the way.

What the reformers are saying is that they're willing to trade away certain rights to bring certain efficiencies," complians one jury researcher who requested anonymity.

Those calling for efficiency suggest these trial jury reforms:

-Doing away with jury trials in complex civil cases, instead presenting the case only to the judge or to a panel of -Reducing the size of the jury from the traditional 12 to as few as six in civil cases and minor criminal cases. -Allowing a majority of the jury to decide a case, rather than requiring un-

Others argue that less drastic measures would enhance efficiency with less risk of eroding the traditional rights and protections of a jury trial. They suggest: -Calling many more citizens for much shorter terms of jury duty, thus spreading the burden more equitably and encouraging college-trained, professional people to serve. -A series of simple reforms to help urors better understand complex cases. For instance, allowing jurors to take notes, or videotaping testimony for later the constitutional rights to jury trial. What does that encompass?" says Leo Levin, director of the federal center. Operationally, we have to look at the imposition on the jurors in a month-tomonth trial. Do you get a skewed jury of only retired and unemployed people, or do you get a real cross-section?"

At Burger's urging, organizations of federal and state judges have commissioned the Federal Judicial Center and the National Center for State Courts to study trial juries.

Saks said the state court researchers will follow about 100 complex civil trials. in about 20 cities.

"After the trial is over, we plan to submit questionnaires dealing with factual and legal issues to the judge and the jury. In this way, we can compare the judge's accuracy with the jury's accuracy," he explained.

Saks said there is some evidence that judges do no better than juries at grasping highly technical material.

A case in point is an opinion written by U.S. Circuit Judge David Bazelon in a suit involving automobile pollution. Bazelon, widely respected as a brilliant and pioneering judge, nevertheless admitted "I do not know enough about dynamometer extrapolations, deterioration factor adjustments and the like to decide whether or not the government's approach was statistically valid."

The same frustration troubled Mrs. Melson and other jurors in the Transamerica-IBM trial in federal court in San Francisco. "Who was I to say who was right - this engineer with this many degrees, or that economist with that many degrees?" she says.

long jury trials is exaggerated because so few cases fall into that class. Of 200,000 trials annually, only about 30 in the federal system and an estimated 200 in the state courts last longer than a month.

Although recent reform efforts have focused on civil cases, the search for effi-ciency has touched the criminal trial jury, too.

The most popular reform has been to reduce jury size from the traditional 12 to 10 or nine or six. After reviewing several appeals challenging the constitutionality of a jury smaller than 12, the Supreme Court finally set six as the minimum ac-

The court also has said that verdicts of six-member juries must be unanimous; but when the jury is larger, a less than unanimous verdict will pass constitutional muster.

Everyone knows the hidden agenda for these reformers is let's save money. If we can whittle a little from the jury, we save a little money, we save a little time. But the savings are small, and the cost in terms of fairness may be large,' complained the jury expert who requested anonymity.

What research has been done on sixmember juries has produced conflicting results. Some studies say smaller juries are more likely to convict; some say they're more likely to acquit.

Defense attorneys generally favor larger juries.

The prosecution fares markedly betgrees?" she says.

43-Year-Old County Resident Shot To Death At Nightspot

By JACK DOUGLAS Avalanche-Journal Staff

A 43-year-old Lubbock County man was shot to death shortly before midnight Wednesday at a club on North Avenue Q Drive, and police said they captured the suspected killer minutes after the shooting.

Wenceslao Carrillo of Route 2, Box 113B, Lubbock, suffered wounds to the chest and arm when he was gunned down inside The Sportsman Club at 803 North Ave. Q Drive about five minutes before Carrillo, an apparent victim of an argument at the nightspot, was pronounced dead on arrival about 1 a.m. today at Health Sciences Center Hospital.

Justice of the Peace L.J. Blalack ruled the death the city's 30th homicide of the year and ordered an autopsy, which was to be performed today.

Carrillo's murder by the Lubbock Criminal District Attorney's Office.

A bond of $50,000 for the 54-year-old man was recommended by the district attorney, and the suspect remained in the county jail at noon today.

Witnesses told police Carrillo and Garcia walked into the club together and sat down at a table. The two men began arguing and the club owner's wife asked them to quiet down, according to police.

Minutes later, the men got into a fist fight and Carrillo picked up a chair and was about to throw it at Garcia, police were told at the scene. Garcia displayed a pistol and shot Carrillo once, witnesses

After Carrillo had dropped to the floor, Garcia allegedly fired another shot into him. Club patrons said the gunman then turned around, fired a shot into the ceiling and yelled, "I'm from San Antonio. Anybody else want some more?

After making his challenge, the pistoltoting man ran out the east door of the club Lubbock policemen Kenneth Chappell and Cpl. Dovle Robertson spotted the suspect on foot near the club in the 900-block of North Avenue J and ordered

Police said the man pulled a .38-caliber pistol from his pants pocket, threw it on the ground and raised his arms. The suspect was taken back to the club, where witnesses reportedly identified him as the man who shot Carrillo.

Preliminary reports indicate Carrillo suffered bullet wounds in the upper left portion of the chest and in the right arm. Police found the victim lying on his back in the southwest corner of the club.

tentative plans to try to show the governor a slide show of the Lubbock area during the luncheon. Board president B.C. "Peck" McMinn appointed Granberry and Fuller as co-chairmen of a committee to work out details of the luncheon. In other matters, the board discussed plans to visit Austin Jan. 28-30 to encourage various state trade and professional ssociations located in Austin to consider Lubbock as a convention site. There are about 375 organizations located in Austin, chamber manager John Logan said.

The board also made plans to host a subcommittee from the U.S. House of Representatives at a breakfast Dec. 29. U.S. Rep. Kent Hance invited the cotton subcommittee of the House Agricultural Committee to come to Lubbock and hold a hearing, receiving input and testimony from the local cotton industry. Logan

Art Carnrick, manager of the laboratories, said a blender and glass developing chamber stolen in the burglary contained a high concentration of aflatoxin a potent carcinogenic. Carnrick said that contact with the poison, which could be made even if the research apparatus had been washed with soap and water, could result in death.

Authorities had feared the items may have been used, resulting in consumption of the substance. However, Bill Morgan, police information officer, said it did not appear the two items had been used.

Youth Killed In Gun Game

MANILA, Philippines, (UPI) - A boy apparently inspired by the movie "The Deer Hunter" played Russian roulette until his luck ran out and he shot himself in the throat, police said today.

Jaime Salazar, 18, died early Wednesday three hours after his friends rushed him to a hospital, said Lt. Mariano Santillan, assistant investigation chief of the suburban Pasay City police.

He said the boy was apparently "influenced" by the Hollywood film whose leading characters played Russian roulette during the Vietnam War.

Police said Salazare was in a Pasay home chatting with two friends when he drew out a .22 caliber revolver, put one bullet in the chamber, rolled it and pulled the trigger against his throat. It

Japan Swayed By U.S. Pressure

TOKYO, Japan (UPI) — Japan decided today to study measures to control its purchase of high-priced Iranian oil on the spot market and denied U.S. criticism that Japanese banks have given Iran advice on how to ease the American freeze on Iranian assets.

Government sources said today's decision to study Japan's attitude towards Iran came during a meeting between Prime Minister Masayoshi Ohira and Foreign Minister Saburo Okita.

The sources said the two leaders agreed to study ways for Japan to bring other economic pressure on Iran to bring about the release of the hostages.

The decision to examine its policy towards the purchase of Iranian oil came one day after Japan for the first time criticized the seizure of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

In making the criticism of the embassy takeover. Okita told a news conference Wednesday night that the American hostages "should be released immediate-

"The Japanese government cannot support by all means such a deed as conducted by the Iranian students at the American Embassy in Tehran, not only from a humanitarian viewpoint but also because it runs counter to an international law ensuring the safety of foreign diplomats," Okita said.

The sudden change in Japan's stand on the Iranian crisis followed U.S. criticism that Tokyo was not cooperating with American economic sanctions designed to press Iran to release the hos-

Secretary of State Cyrus Vance met with Okita in Paris Monday and criticized what he called "an insensitive act" by Japanese companies buying at premium prices the Iranian oil boycotted by the United States.

Okita said Japan attaches great im-

States, but added that Iran is also essential for Tokyo to keep its economy working. Iran supplies the Japanese with about eight percent of their total oil

Major Japanese trading and oil companies were accused of buying about 20 million barrels of Iranian oil since the U.S. boycott last month, about half of that at high prices up to $40 per barrel.

Okita said Japanese industry is suffering from a sharp supply cut by major international suppliers. He said delivery to Japan decreased from 1.4 million barrels per day last year to 400,000 barrels today.

Western Allies Lash

eign ministers of the 15 Western allies today denounced Iran's seizure of 50 American hostages and demanded their immediate release. The ministers, here for the annual meeting of the NATO Council of Ministers, issued the statement in their national capacities and not in the name of the North Atlantic Treaty alliance. Sources the NATO banner because Iran is outside of the alliance's area of responsibility.

"Any taking of hostages, for any motive whatsoever, is totally unacceptable and must be firmly opposed by the international community as a whole," the ministers said in a statement, adding, that they "have no desire to intervene in Iran's internal affairs.

Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and Defense Secretary Harold Brown lobbied the NATO allies seeking a declaration of support for America's condemnation of the hostages situation in Iran.

The result was the cautiously-worded statement, describing developments as a grave situation.

It blamed the Iranians, saying the situation was created by the occupation of the U.S. Embassy and the seizure of American hostages "in flagrant violation of international law and human rights.'

They "urgently called upon the Iranian authorities immediately to release unharmed all the U.S. Embassy staff members in Tehran and to allow them to return to their country.

'They (the ministers) reaffirmed (that) their countries' fully respect the independence of other states and recognized the right of all peoples to chart their own political, economic and social cause," the statement added.

On Wednesday, NATO foreign and defense ministers approved an American plan to deploy hundreds of U.S.-made nuclear missiles in Western Europe beginning in 1983 to counter the threat of sophisticated Soviet SS-20 missiles aimed at the Western European heartland from

The ministers coupled their decision to modernize the alliance's nuclear strike capability with a proposal for new arms control talks with the Soviets.

Under the plan, 108 Pershing II rocket launchers will be based in West Germany to replace the Pershing I launchers already there. In addition, 112 mediumrange Tomahawk cruise missiles will be stationed in West Germany, 160 in Britain and 96 in Italy. The plan calls for Belgium and Holland to take 48 each, but they must first defuse domestic opposition to the missiles.

The weapons plan was designed to counter Soviet missile deployment in the East, including more than 100 SS-20s, each armed with three nuclear warheads

The decision reportedly sparked sharp argument among the NATO allies, with Holland arguing for arms control talks before the missiles are deployed and Belgium, Denmark and Norway backing that stand.

Holland said it would make a decision in two years on whether to accept the missiles, and Belgium said it would decide in six months. In an apparent compromise bid.

Vance, the current chairman of the NA-TO council of ministers, said the United States was ready to begin new arms reduction talks with the Russians right away. As a show of good faith, he told a news conference the United States will withdraw 1,000 obsolete nuclear weapons from the estimated 7,000 weapons it has stockpiled in Western Europe and will pull out one nuclear warhead for each new one deployed there

The Soviets have been conducting a strident propaganda campaign to head off the deployment of new missiles in the West. Last week they began withdrawing 20,000 of their 450,000 troops in Eastern Europe in an apparent bid to influence a decision on the missiles by the allies. who have 300,000 troops in Europe.

promised that neutral observers would shortly be able to visit the hostages.

The government and militants said the hostages were being treated well, but the hostages have not been visited by an independent observer in three weeks.

Earlier, Iranian officials and Waldheim held urgent telephone talks to disruss Washington's order that nearly all the country's diplomats must leave the United States, government sources said

There was no immediate reaction from Tehran to the American moves Wednesday to oust all but 35 of the 218 accredited Iranian diplomats, but the urces said Foreign Ministry had been in direct touch with Waldheim on the matter.

Diplomatic sources said the U.S. action was likely to anger the militants holding the American hostages, but would otherwise have little effect in influencing the policies of Khomeini.

Waldheim has previously spoken with Iranian officials during the crisis, especially when preparing for the U.N. Security Council session that called for the immediate release of the hostages. Iran oycotted the meeting.

The militants warned Western European nations they would only harm hemselves if they joined an "American plot" to try to bring Iran to its knees with an economic boycott.

Lubbock's rain this morning boosted the precipitation total for the year just over the 20-inch mark, about 2 inches above the yearly average, and rain was still falling at noon.

Forecasters near noon today placed the chance of rain at 80 percent this afternoon and 30 percent tonight.

The agricultural benefits from the moisture are expected to far outweigh the slight damage likely to the small percentage of the area's cotton crop still remaining in the fields.

Today's rain also brought back milder temperatures to the Lubbock area. Today's high is expected to be in the upper 30s in contrast to Wednesday's maximum reading of 34.

This morning's low of 34 just matched Wednesday's high.

Even warmer weather is forecast for Friday. The high should be in the lower 50s after an early morning low in the middle 20s.

The extended forecast calls for a slowing warming trend through Monday, with highs in the 60s and lows in the 20s and today refused for a second time to choke off a filibuster by oil-state senators and expedite passage of a "windfall-profits" tax on the oil industry. The effort to invoke debate-limiting cloture was favored by a majority of senators, 56-40, but fell four votes short of the 60 necessary. The first attempt at ending the talkathon failed Wednesday. 53-46. Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd planned a third attempt on Friday.

If cloture were imposed, the Senate would have to take a final vote on the tax bill following no more than 100 additional hours of debate

The filibuster kept the Senate in session for 171/2 hours, ending at 3:35 a.m. today. However, senators apparently were no closer to breaking the impasse than when the session began.

At issue is a $30.8-billion "minimum tax" amendment by Byrd that would increase the total tax in the Senate bill to about $185 billion in the 1980s. The House bill would generate $277 billion. With the scheduled Christmas recess

The Red Cross declared the southwest coast near the border with Ecuador a disaster area. President Julio Cesar Turbay ordered the army to join in the rescue and relief work, and the local police called out auxiliary forces to assist in searching the ruins.

Emergency crews worked to return power and telephone service.

Seismologists said the quake early Wednesday measured from 7.8 to 8.1 on the Richter scale. It lasted from 2:59 a.m. to 3:04 a.m., sent 10-foot high tidal waves crashing into the coast and was followed by 10 aftershocks during the next hour.

The scientists said the quake's epicenter was about 20 miles off the coast.

Charco, a fishing town of 4,000 people 165 miles north of the border, was hit hardest. Police said at least 62 persons were killed there and more than 350 were injured as their huts, built on stilts alongside a lake, were brought down. Many of the huts fell into the lake.

"Everything is knocked down," said the Rev. Jose Pablo. "The few houses that are left standing are seriously dam-

Rhodesian War Goes On Despite Soames' Arrival

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) - At least two Rhodesian troops and an un-specified number of guerrillas and civilians have been killed since Rhodesia's first British governor in 14 years arrived in Salisbury, security sources reported

Meanwhile, guerrilla leader Joshua Nkomo told reporters in London there will be no cease-fire until he is assured his men will not be vulnerable to government attack in the camps they are sup-posed to report to under the Britishsponsored truce plan.

The new British governor, Lord Soames, said he understood he had to walk a fine line in his new job. "I'm just settling in and meeting people. I don't want to rush in where angels fear to

He made the comments to reporters Wednesday night after his first TV address to the nation. "This will not be an easy period for any of us," Soames said in the broadcast.

The black nationalist guerrillas, who have waged a war against the Salisbury government since 1972, has insisted Soames was wrong to come to Salisbury before a cease-fire took place. But Soames said he hoped the British-sponsored peace talks between the guerrillas and the outgoing government of Prime Minister Abel Muzorewa, now in its fourth month in London, will bring a cease-fire soon.

He urged Rhodesia's 6.8 million blacks and 230,000 whites to support him.

"In emerging from a long and bitter war there will be many difficulties. But together we must overcome them, looking to the future rather than the past," he said.

Soames said his task was "to hold the government of the country in trust while the political leaders put their case to you and seek your votes." After elections and legal independence, he said, "My task will then be complete and I shall return politicians, businessmen and other key black and white figures. His security chiefs will meet with their local counterparts to discuss implementation of a cease-fire and supervision of new elections. A 1,200-strong Commonwealth military force will be on hand to monitor the

Sol Linowitz, ending his first Middle East shuttle today, said "some real progress" had been made on the Palestinian autonomy talks and that he was heartened by the attitudes of Egypt and Israel.

Linowitz paid a farewell call on Prime Minister Menachem Begin before heading home after the five-day trip. At Ben Gurion airport, he acknowledged he had presented some new ideas to the two sides but refused to comment on them.

The U.S. envoy attended a three-way meeting in Cairo Wednesday with Josef Burg, the Israeli delegate, and Mustafa Khalil, the Egyptian chief delegate. The talks were held in lieu of the full plenary session which has been twice postponed at Egypt's request.

Summing up his talks with Linowitz and Burg, Khalil commended the U.S. envoy for bringing up "new ideas" to spur the talks.

The presence of Mr. Linowitz really contributed very much to extending new ideas, fresh ideas, to me and I think he did the same with Dr. Burg," Khalil told

He refused to disclose the nature of the "new ideas" but said they dealt with substance, not procedure.

Jerusalem reports said the new ideas centered on the powers and responsibilities of the projected self-rule council, which will run the affairs of 1.1 million Arabs inhabiting the West Bank and Ga-

The negotiations, which are targeted to end next May, have bogged down over this issue. Israel insists the powers of the council should be limited while Egypt is demanding a broader mandate.

At the Cairo meeting, the three men decided to set the full autonomy discussions for next Wednesday in the Cairo suburb of Giza. Linowitz will not attend the ministerial-level meetings.

It was Linowitz's maiden shuttle as President Carter's special Middle East envoy, taking over from Ambassador

"For me it was a most rewarding experience to be with these two men and to participate as I was able to achieve a very satisfactory result to a meeting that will bear fruit in the future," Linowitz said on arrival back in Israel.

Vickery Feed Store Remains Unchanged

DALLAS (AP) - Some things never

In the midst of North Dallas' singles bars and apartments lies an oasis of an earlier, simpler life.

Inside the Vickery Feed Store, the bustle of busy Greenville Avenue melts away to country-western music on a ra-

"A lot of people come in who thought this was a restaurant," Yeatman said. that brings people in quite a bit."

The Vickery Feed Store now stands as the last stubborn survivor of the community of Vickery, most of which gave way to sprawling Dallas and its "restaurant row" at Greenville and Park Lane.

When the store was founded in 1947, Richardson was a farming community and Vickery was right on the way for those who worked in the city.

Now Richardson is a thriving suburb, and all that's left of Vickery is the feed, store owned by Del Armstrong. Armstrong retired in 1974 and leased the store to Shelton Feed Co. of McKinney.

Yeatman, 22, said he has added to the inventory somewhat since he took over as manager two years ago. City dwellers can find dog food, collars, leads and dishes; a multitude of fertilizers and insecticides, bird feed and cat litter.

"We don't sell near as much feed as we used to," Yeatman said. "Now we sell a lot of dog food and insecticide.

'And we sell a lot of grass seed, mostly for these new homes over here on

'We have several different types of dog food, and it's usually less expensive than you can get in a grocery store. You know that you can buy a large quantity, and my helper and myself could advise you better than someone in a store.'

The store offers feed for horses, hogs, cattle, rabbits and birds. Horse owners also can find tetanus vaccine and even a couple of hand-tooled

And even those who own no animals can find a cup of coffee and a taste of relaxed, old-style Texas hospitality.

Although Wayland's enrollment has increased the past 10 years, the Plainview institution already has established a retention program to study why students leave the college and how to encourage higher enrollment.

Ex-School Officials Face Fraud Charges

Dallas Independent School District employees face federal criminal charges ranging from conspiracy and mail fraud to obstruction of justice in an investigation of the district's business practices.

The two were named in a 24-count, 30-page federal indictment Wednesday by a federal grand jury.

The indictment named former maintenance supervisor Richard A. Winger and former employee Aubrey Gene Hester and accused them of scheming to defraud the school district of almost $58,000 in bogus bills submitted by Air and Energy Control Co., an Irving air conditioning

The firm's owner, Leland Burnell Hall, also was indicted.

The final count of the indictment also charged that Winger tried to sidetrack an FBI investigation into the matter.

The indictment was returned in Fort Worth, sources said, because it was the only federal panel in north Texas that was in session at the time.

Capitol Bean Soup Remains Favorite Through Years

Family News Staff When Dorothy Rylander worked in Washington, D.C. for former congressman George Mahon, "The Congressional Club Cook Book" was relatively small. But the 1976 version produced by Congressional Club members was a whopping 714 pages.

Membership of the Congressional Club, established in 1908, at first consisted only of Congressional wives. However, over the years, the eligibility for membership was broadened to include women members of Congress, wives of Supreme Court Justices and wives of members of the President's Cabinet. Associate membership was opened to the daughters and daughters-in-law of club members. Lifetime honorary membership is conferred upon the wife of the Vice President and the wife of the Speaker of the House. Seven First Ladies (as of 1976) have come from the club's membership.

So from all these illustrious women, plus a section for "men only," what results is an informative and entirely charming cook book.

The "jewel" of the entire cook book could well be the recipe for the famed "Capitol Bean Soup." The following is an excerpt from the equally notable collection of recipes

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for printing the letter from the 16-year-old girl who had recently undergone a hysterectomy as a result of gonorrhea. So many people believe gonorrhea is a minor infection that's easily detected and quickly cured.

Like the girl who wrote to you. I wasn't a "sleep-around" type either. I had only one boyfriend, but even though he KNEW he was infected, and had seen his doctor for treatment, he didn't mention it to me. My doctor misdiagnosed my symptoms, and even though I was 24, was naive and uninformed, which resulted in my having a hysterectomy, too. I'm still single, but I plan some day to adopt because I want a family.

Please keep warning your readers of the consequences (and symptoms) of VD. This letter is sincere, but please forgive me for not signing my name.

Chocolate Fudge Recipes Collected From Across South Plains

Family News Staff

When Reader's Swap was inundated recently with chocolate fudge recipes from cooks across the length and breadth of the South Plains, we decided to publish every one. So for chocolate fudge devotees everywhere, here are more kinds than perhaps you ever dreamed possible!

Mrs. Marvin Smith, Paducah, said she'd made the following at least for 30 years and always gets compliments.

CHOCOLATE FUDGE

3 cups granulated sugar 1/3 cup cocoa

1-1/2 cup milk

1/4 cup white corn syrup Dash salt 1 stick oleomargarine or butter

2 tsps. vanilla 1 dup chopped pecans

Combine sugar, cocoa and salt. Add milk slowly, stirring to dissolve dry ingredients. Stir in corn syrup. Bring to a rolling boil, cook, stirring often until mixture reaches the "soft-ball" stage (234 degrees). Stir in butter. Beat until slightly cooled, add vanilla and pecans. Beat until mixture begins to thicken and loses some of its gloss. Pour onto large buttered platter. Cut into squares when

Mary Waters, Petersburg, sent the following:

BLUE RIBBON FUDGE

1/2 cup cocoa 3 cups granulated cane sugar

1/4 tsp. cream of tartar

3 tbsps. white corn syrup 1-1/2 cups undiluted condensed milk

5 tblsps. oleomargarine 1-1/2 tsps. vanilla

1 cup coarsely chopped pecans

Use a large straight-sided, heavy saucepan. Mix sugar, cocoa and cream of tartar together; add condensed milk and corn syrup. Place on burner on medium heat and stir constantly until sugar is dissolved. Then take a spatula or a knife wrapped with a cloth and "swab down" sides of pan to remove any stray sugar crystals. You can reduce heat and stir occasionally or cook at high heat and stir constantly - makes no difference in the finished product. The heavy pan lessens the danger of burning or scorching. Cook until a small amount of the boiling mixture (dropped from a teaspoon) forms a soft ball when dropped into a small bowl of cold water. Remove from heat; add oleomargarine, vanilla and nuts. Allow to cool until lukewarm. Beat until mixture thickens and changes color. Pour onto a buttered platter and cut into squares. (note: Mrs. Waters says she has entered this fudge three times in the Panhandle South Plains Fair in the 1940s and won a blue ribbon each time. The recipe is original and over 40 years of age. OLD-FASHIONED COCOA FUDGE

2,3 cups cocoa 3 cups sugar

1/8 tsp. salt 1-1/2 cups milk

1/4 cup butter or oleomargarine 1 tsp. vanilla

Combine: cocoa, sugar and salt in a large (3-qt.) saucepan. Add milk gradually mix thoroughly; bring to a boil on high heat, stirring continuously. Reduce heat to medium and continue to boil the mixture without stirring until it reaches a temperature of 232 degrees or until a small amount of mixture forms a soft ball when dropped into cold water. Be sure that the bulb of the thermometer is not resting on bottom of saucepan. Remove saucepan from heat; add butter and vanilla to mixture. Do not stir. Allow fudge to cool at room temperature until it reaches 110 degrees. Beat by hand or with mixer until the fudge thickens and loses some of its gloss. Quickly pour and spread Judge in lightly buttered 8 x 8 x 2inch pan. Cool. Cut in squares.

Fudge," Helen Dunn of Slaton, said,

"Here is a delicious old-fashioned fudge recipe. It does take some time to prepare but is well worth the effort.'

> CHOCOLATE FUDGE 2-1/2 squares unsweetened chocolate

2-1/2 cups sugar 1/4 tsp. salt

1 cup milk or light cream 2 tbsps. white corn syrup 2-1/2 tbsps. butter or oleomargarine

1 tsp. vanilla Break the chocolate into small pieces and place in large heavy saucepan with sugar, salt, milk and white corn syrup. Place over low heat and stir until the mixture begins to boil. Cook to 236 degrees (soft-ball), stirring frequently to prevent scorching. Remove from heat, add butter, wipe pouring edge of pan and pour into a large clean bowl. Cool to 110 degrees without stirring. Add vanilla. Beat until the fudge loses its gloss. Pour into prepared square baking dish. If you desire a fudge that will be very smooth and keep for weeks in a tight container, knead it on a clean hard surface until it is a cheese-like mass.

Birda Joiner, Lubbock, graciously sent several recipes. Here is just one:

FIVE MINUTE FUDGE 3 6-oz. packages of chocolate chips 1 stick of oleomargarine 1 tbsp. vanilla

4 cups sugar 1 tall can condensed milk 2 cups pecans

Combine first three ingredients and place on back of stove. Combine milk and sugar in large sauce pan and bring to a boil; boil five minutes, stirring constantly (easy to scorch). Pour over first mixture, mixing well until chips are all melted. Add pecans. Pour into a large, well buttered pan and place in ice bowl to set. This takes a longer time to become firm than other fudge. Keeps well in freezer, makes about five pounds. (Note: Copied from "Lubbock Christian College Cookbook," published 1961.)

Ms. Bobby Josey, Post, sent several "super" recipes. Here is just one:

GREATEST PECAN OR WALNUT PRALINES

3 cups sugar 1 cup white corn syrup

1/2 cup water 3 cups pecans or walnuts

Mix together and bring to rolling boil; cook seven minutes. Then add:

1 stick oleomargarine Dash salt

Bridge is a curious game. Usually, it pays to be aggressive in the auction but cautious in the play. Consider

No one can claim that North was reticent. With the announced double fit, South wisely elected to bid one more rather than defend. The result of the hand might have been different, however, had East jumped to four spades at his first turn, which would have been our choice.

West led the king of spades, ruffed on the table. If you are one of those players who believe that everything is going to break well, you probably started to draw trumps, hoping that you would score five heart tricks, a ruff and six diamond tricks, making an overtrick. But when East shows out on the second heart, you will end up going several down.

Fortunately, South was one of those declarers who always wears a belt and suspenders. He realized that only a bad trump break could endanger his contract. However, he soon spotted a simple way to overcome a 4-1

which defender held the long

trumps. At trick two declarer led a trump from dummy and finessed the ten! Had this won, declarer would simply have drawn trumps and claimed 12 tricks. But even though the finesse lost, the contract was safe.

There was still a trump in dummy to control the spade suit, and since West was straddled with the lead, the king of clubs was safe from attack. No matter what the defenders returned, declarer would be able to win, enter his hand with a diamond, if necessary, and draw trumps, thus insuring 11 tricks.

For those readers who might argue that the trump finesse could lose the contract if diamonds were 4-0. consider the mathematics. A 4-1 division occurs more than 28 percent of the time, while a 4-0 division is less than a 10 percent possibility. Wouldn't you rather place your money on an almost 3-1 favorite?

OLD-TIME WALNUT FUDGE

2 cups granulated sugar 3/4 cup milk

1/3 cup butter

1 tsp. vanilla 1 tbsp. light corn syrup

2 1-oz. squares unsweetened chocolate 1 cup nuts

Combine sugar, milk, butter and corn syrup in 2-qt. saucepan. Heat, stirring, until sugar dissolves. Bring to boil, cover and cook slowly three or four minutes, so steam will wash down any sugar crystals that form on sides of pan. Uncover, place candy thermometer in mixture and boil to about 225 degrees (without a candy thermometer, boil until bubbles appear to have thick walls). Add chocolate coarsely cut, and continue cooking to 234 degrees, or until a little of mixture dropped into cold water forms a soft ball. Remove from heat, add vanilla and let stand until almost cold. Beat until mixture begins to lose its gloss. Quickly stir in walnuts, and turn into buttered 8-inch square pan. Let stand until set, then cut into squares. Makes about 1-3/4 lbs.

Candles Appropriate For Holiday Decor

NEW YORK (Special) - "Bayberry candles, burned to the socket, bring luck to the home and gold to the pocket.

Such was the legend in colonial New England where the bayberry plant grew in rocky soil, close to the sea. There, the early settlers rendered wax from the bayberry fruit to make candles. The supply was never large, so the pleasantly-scented candles were set aside for a special occasion - celebration of the vuletide.

Today, candles are a graceful and lovely addition to any holiday decor. Many candles are bought for year-round use, but the most popular Christmastime cándles are tapers, spirals and novelty designs, in the traditional colors of red, white and green.

Bayberry scented candles, snowballs and pillars are widely used for holiday decorations in the home. Despite the growing popularity of candles throughout the year, they are distinctly appropriate for the Christmas holiday season. Their shapes provide the focal point for artistic centerpieces: their light complements the glow of a burning vule log: their scent blends with the spicy fragrance from a fresh evergreen.

They may not have known it, but when the colonial New Englanders saved the wax of the bayberry fruit, they started a candlight tradition that has lasted

At long last - a baked fish recipe, at least for fillets! Thanks to Mrs. Jean Skinner of Smyer

BAKED FISH FILLETS

1 lb. fish fillets 1 cup milk

I tbsp. salt

Fine bread crumbs (dry) 1 tbsp. oil or butter (melted)

Cut fillets into serving pieces. Combine milk and salt. Dip fish into milk then into crumbs, being sure fish is completely covered with crumbs. Place in greased baking dish, sprinkle with oil or melted butter and brown very quickly in very hot oven (500 degrees) for approximately 20 minutes. (NOTE: DO NOT ADD WATER.) Serve with almond butter sauce, lemon butter or just plain melted butter.

For Angie Collins, Mrs. Skinner also enclosed the following "very old" recipe.

SIRUP CUSTARD PIE

Yes, this is the way the recipe spelled "Sirup".) 1 cup corn sirup

1 2 cup sugar

4 tbsps. butter 3 eggs

1 tsp. vanilla

1 unbaked 8-inch pie shell Cook sirup, sugar and butter together until thickened. Beat eggs until light, pour sirup mixture over them, adding vanilla and blend well. Pour into unbaked pie shell. In all, the department said this week, the Soviets probably will import nearly 5 percent more grain this year than had been thought previously.

The department's Foreign Agricultural Service said grain imports by the Soviet Union from all foreign sources now are expected to be 34 million metric tons in 1979-80. A month ago, the agency put Soviet grain imports from all foreign sources at 32.5 million metric tons.

The huge imports are needed to help maintain record inventories of cattle, hogs and other livestock instead of slaughtering surplus animals to conserve feed, officials said.

By far, most of the grain is coming from the United States. For example, the Soviets have been given permission to buy up to 25 million metric tons of U.S. wheat and corn in the year that will end next Sept. 30. They bought about 15.7 million last year.

The new import estimate raises further the likelihood that the Soviet Union will buy the entire 25 million metric tons the United States has said it could.

As it stands now, the Soviets have bought more than 14.1 million metric tons, including more than 9.7 million of rn and 4.4 million of wheat, for deliv-

Total U.S. grain exports to all countries, including the Soviet Union, are projected at 112.9 million metric tons in Leonid Brezhnev, the Soviet Union's president, last month announced the 1979 harvest at 179 million metric tons, about 25 percent smaller than last year's record output of 237.2 million. It also fell far short of Moscow's goal for 1979 of 226.8 million metric tons.

The Agriculture Department earlier this fall estimated the Soviet harvest would drop sharply to around 175 million

In its latest analysis, USDA — which traditionally accepts Moscow's official harvest figures - estimated this year's harvest included 86 million metric tons of wheat, 84 million of coarse grains such as corn and barley, and 9 million of other grains, including rice and beans.

Big Orange Crop Hits Markets

WASHINGTON (UPI) - This season's orange crop should hit a record 259 million boxes. a 23 percent increase over last year's crop, the Agriculture Department estimated this week.

The estimate was up by 1 percent over the citrus harvest forecast issued two months ago.

The agency estimate of Florida's orange crop, 200 million boxes and 22 percent above last year's harvest, remained unchanged.

The Crop Reporting Board, based on Dec. 1 conditions, estimated early and mid-season varieties in Florida would total 115 million boxes, up 26 percent.

The board forecast Valencia production at 85 million boxes, up 16 percent. The board said, "Fruit size is smaller than desired, but quality is good."

Yield of frozen concentrated orange juice from Florida oranges was estimated at 1.28 gallons per box, compared to 1 34 gallons last season.

The California's orange crop estimate was put at 51 million boxes, up 4 percent from two months ago and 37 percent more than last season. California Navel oranges were expected to fill 28 million boxes, up 8 percent from October and up 35 percent from last year.

The estimate for a 23-million box Valencia crop in California was unchanged from October but 40 percent above last Grapefruit production nationwide was estimated at 67.4 million boxes, up 1 percent from last year.

The lemon crop was estimated at 19.8 million boxes, the same as a November estimate and 2 percent more than last

Victory Sweet For Candidate

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Little more than a year after she announced the death of her predecessor to a stunned city, 46-year-old Dianne Feinstein has won the post she always wanted - mayor of San Francisco.

"It was indeed a hard-fought contest and now that the contest has drawn to a close, all that matters now is that we serve the city," she told a roaring crowd in her victory speech Tuesday night. Shewill be sworn in as the city's first woman mayor on Jan. 8.

It was a sweet victory for Mrs. Feinstein, the daughter of a medicalprofessor and widow of a prominent doctor, who twice before had tried to become mayor. She trailed Joseph Alioto in 1971 and then failed to get into a runoff in 1975 against George Moscone and others.

It appeared unlikely she would mount another campaign until Dan White walked into City Hall on Nov. 27, 1978. and shot Moscone and Milk. Mrs. Feinstein, as president of the Board of Supervisors, became acting mayor.

A week later, with city flags still at half-staff, she was appointed by her former colleagues to fill the final 13 months of Moscone's term. Quentin Kopp, the man she defeated Tuesday, was the only supervisor to vote against her.

Arizona Congressman Will Seek Re-Election

Rhodes, R-Ariz., said this week he would run for re-election, but almost certainly would not run again for House Republican leader

Rhodes, 63, said that if the Republican Party gains a majority in Congress in 1980 - which would require a pickup of 59 seats in the 435-member House - he would run for speaker and would not expect to have opposition.

But in the more likely event that the GOP remains a minority, Rhodes said he would not run for the minority leader spot "unless it becomes apparent there will be a blood-letting that would harm

Poet Criticizes Missile Plan

MOSCOW (UPI) - Soviet poet Yevgeny Yevtushenko used a poetry reading to rail against the NATO plan to deploy a new generation of nuclear missiles in Western Europe

Before 12,000 enthusiastic spectators at a three-hour one-man poetry reading in Lenin Stadium, the poet added his voice to the official Soviet line in a poem written the day before and entitled "My Last Belief.

What's this?" the poem says. "Not enough winged missiles here, it seems. Well, let's have another 600.

But the majority of Britons gloomily predict race riots, nuclear plant accidents and an economic depression ahead, but most believe a nuclear war involving Britain is "unlikely.

In general, the surveys indicate, people are remarkably optimistic about Britain's future, and its cherished institutions seem to be holding up.

Perhaps the British are whstling in the dark, or perhaps not," said Paul Barker, editor of New Society, a social science journal that commissioned one of

The other, a survey by the government's Central Statistical Office, examined how British living standards have changed in the past three decades.

It found that citizens are better fed, reared and housed than they were 30 years ago. But they take more tranquilizers, get divorced more often and drink more alcohol in their leisure hours.

'George Orwell's much-feared 1984 is little over four years away. But if our respondents' forecasts are even half right, his prediction of a sullen, overworked nation, with nuclear war forever raging, could hardly be more wrong," said Bar-

You could say that our survey re-

cheers for the 1980s.'

Surprisingly, Barker's representative sampling in the New Society poll showed little concern that the world may come to a standstill over a major oil crisis. On some other topics, most Britons think that in the 1980s: -Women will never be equal to men in jobs or pay -Doctors won't find a cancer cure. -More people will be hooked on drugs or alcohol. -Unemployment will only get worse.

Between 70 percent and 80 percent of those polled thought noise, pollution, violence and lawlessness in Britain have not thought likely to happen. But young people were more pessimistic on this than their elders. The New Society survey was a national sample of 1,071 people in Britain aged 18 or over, taken Sept. 13-17. Britain's population is 55.6 million.

Its first question was a simple one: "On the whole, do you think Britain now is a reasonably good place to live in?" Seventy-nine percent answered yes.

People are quite prepared to let the thunderclouds break over our heads," Barker said in an interview with The Associated Press. "There's a feeling the country will somehow muddle through."

But asked how things in Britain and the world have changed over the past 10 years, 55 percent answered "for the

It was clear from the poll that the public believes in the durability of Britain's democratic traditions. The survey found that today's Britons were as confident as those polled in the 1950s that the politicians and bureaucrats would try to

But 58 percent felt immigrants will not be accepted as entirely equal members of British society in years to come.

On government itself, those surveyed said Britain is no worse or better governed than other European nations and that the quality of its leaders will stay "about the same" in the 1980s.

Both surveys found that the British have more leisure time than ever before and are using it for "do-it-yourself" hob-

The government poll found that 19 out of 20 homes have a television set, compared to 1 in 20 in 1951 when the country was emerging from wartime austerity, rationing and shortages.

And the average couple's dinner is likely to come from the freezer, or takeout fast foods like hamburgers. In the 1950s, it was fish and chips or jellied eels.

But Barker's survey found an emphasis on the self - what some American writers have dubbed the "me generation" in the United States. There was a marked feeling that society in general has gone downhill. For example, those polled said Britons are less willing than ever before to work hard at their jobs or be honest. But the majority were still confident that their own lives have improved and will continue to improve in the 1980s. Perhaps the most telling question was in Barker's poll: "There are thosewho

Lubbock Woman Reports Assault en and raped about 3:45 a.m. today by a man who had offered her a ride after her car broke down on the Idalou Highway. The 19-year-old victim was found covered with blood and lying on her kitchen floor. She told police she had been attacked on a dirt road near North Quirt Avenue and Municipal Drive.

Police said this morning they were looking for a 31-year-old Lubbock black male in connection with the incident.

The woman, whose clothes were covered with mud, said the man had stopped and offered her a ride home. But when she got into his car, he allegedly drove to the dirt road, parked and asked to have sex with the woman.

When the woman refused, the man allegedly threatened to run over her and began striking her in the face. The attacker apparently was not carrying a weapon.

The victim's mother took her to Health Sciences Center Hospital for

It is estimated that the crew, Fabricator Productions, spent $2 million in the city in two months of shooting.

And Spokane residents had a good time, too. More than 4,000 people turned day for four days. But the film-makers out for interviews when the crew did its casting for 2,000 extras. Another 4,000 showed up at Riverfront Park, the former site of the Expo '74 world's fair, the the film crew did the work — and MGM day the film crew asked for volunteers to take part in a large concert crowd scene. "The people of Spokane were marvelous, absolutely stupendous," says Bob Rooney, the film's news director. They've become our friends. You'd think they had a financial interest in the movie. And, in a way, they do, because the better we look, the better Spokane oppularity with movie-makers, increase looks." There hasn't been a full length motion picture filmed in Spokane since 1914, says Jack O'Brien of the Washington state Department of Commerce and Economic Development. "At that time, there was a company here making silent films, but the three-reelers lasted only 45

"I don't think Spokane is ever going to be a film capital. But I do think we have a future as a location for filming movies." O'Brien says. "The impact of 'Why Would I Lie?' on the industry itself will have a major effect on our future.

"When Fabricator Productions first came here in the middle of May, they made statements about things they were going to do. I took most of them with a grain of salt," O'Brien says. But he introduced producer Pancho Kohner, whose most recent release is "Love and Bullets, Charlie." and director Larry Peerce, who directed "Two Minute Warning" and 'Goodbye Columbus' to Spokane.

'They followed through on everything they said they were going to do,' including set construction, O'Brien says.

'And there are the fringe benefits the morale impact on the community. When a community is selected as a movie setting, it makes everybody feel good,"

Spokane Mayor Ron Bair is enthusiastic about the impact the film has had on

'We will actively seek as many motion pictures as we can because the industry hires local people, buys local food and uses local products.

We are really an ideal site for the making of a motion picture. We have clean air and clean streets, a low crime rate and practically no vandalism. They (film-makers) can't find this in too many other parts of the United States.

House Panel Votes Aid To Nicaragua

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House Foreign Affairs Committee says it will approve $75 million in aid to Nicaragua as long as no Soviet or Cuban combat troops move into that country.

A measure approved this week would authorize the $75 million for Nicaragua plus $5 million for Honduras and possibly Guatemala. Administration witnesses testified the aid to Nicaragua was important because it might contribute to a coalition government developing rather than pro-Cuban Marxist rule. The committee added an amendment that would require President Carter to cut off the aid "if he determines that Soviet, Cuban or other foreign combat troops" are in Nicaragua and threaten either U.S. or Latin Ameri-

Judge Gives Probated Sentence To Ex-Officer

County Court-at-Law Judge J. Q. Warnick Wednesday gave a one year probated sentence to a former Lubbock County juvenile probation officer convicted Nov. 16 of taking a 15-year-old girl to a massage parlor.

Roy King, 25, could have received up to a year in jail for the Class A misdemeanor offense

King was tried on four Class A misdemeanor charges of official misconduct and acquitted on three of them, including charges that he solicited the female probationer's services as a prostitute with part of her earnings to be given to him, tried to engage her in nude dancing and offered to discharge her from her informal probation if she would allow herself to be photographed nude.

Hispanic Groups Oppose Nomination Of Renfrew

groups dissatisfied with the Justice Department's leadership have mobilized to oppose another nomination, this time that of Charles Renfrew as deputy attornev general.

They opposed Attorney General Benjamin R. Civiletti's nomination in July.

'The highest officials of the Department of Justice must ... share the commitment to the civil rights of all minorities," Vilma Martinez of the Mexican-American Legal Defense and Education Fund said Wednesday.

'It is no longer enough - it never should have been enough — for our highest Justice officials to be honest and intelligent men who neither know nor care very much about 12 million minority citizens or their needs," she said at the Senate Judiciary Committee's confirmation

The opposition stems from a 1977 law review article written by Renfrew, a federal judge in California. He concluded that a national preferential admissions program for graduate schools should be imited to blacks and native Americans.

Renfrew, questioned by Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., denied the claim that e was insensitive to minorities and said the article was misunderstood.

Icy Roadway Blamed For Traffic Deaths

was responsible for a Wednesday nighttraffic accident in which two Lubbock men were killed and three others slightly

Manuel Ortiz, 30, of 114 N. Ave. N was pronounced dead at the scene of the twocar accident in the 100 block of Avenue Q North Drive by Justice of the Peace Wayne LeCroy

Pete Sanchez, 20, of 713 30th St. died at 7:15 p.m., about an hour after the accident occurred, in West Texas Hospital from massive internal injuries.

The two men's deaths bring the city's 1979 fatality toll to 22.

Police reports indicate that Ortiz was traveling north on Avenue Q and apparently lost control of his 1979 Datsun 280-X when the vehicle hit a patch of ice at the top of the overpass. The lime green sportscar apparently skidded across the edian into the southbound lane and into the path of a car driven by Sanchez.

Police said Ortiz's vehicle was in the process of completing a 180-degree turn when it was struck by Sanchez's car.

Police speculate Ortiz was ejected from his car when the vehicle's hatchback door opened. Officers believe Ortiz was dead when his body struck the icy

Ortiz's body was dragged about 60 feet from his vehicle by a pickup truck driver told officers he attempted to straddle what he thought was a pile of trash in the roadway.

Solon Battling Equal Time Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin, D-Calif., chairman of the House communications subcommittee, says he is introducing a bill that would repeal portions of the equal time law governing television coverage of presidential campaigns.

Speaking at a National Press Club breakfast, Van Deerlin said it was time to give television news departments "the freedom to offer full campaign cover-

"The selection of a president is the most important political act of the American people," he said. "But we've created an obstacle course of legal hurdles for the broadcast journalist - a vital link between the people and the candidates."

Van Deerlin also announces he and four other members of his subcommittee have reached a compromise legislation that would rewrite portions of the Communications Act of 1934.

In the interest of focusing on the "most urgent issues," he said, the new measure will deal almost entirely with regulation of common carriers such as the Bell telephone system. He said the bill would "establish competition as the goal of deregulation."

Senate Buys Time With Bank Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate has approved a stop-gap bill to give Congress time to work out a compromise allowing the payment of interest on checking accounts.

The temporary bill, passed by voice vote this week, also would override state usury laws that are making it difficult to obtain business, farm and home mortgage loans. The measure now goes to the

But despite support for the temporary measure, senators are not backing away from their call for major reform of the banking laws - a move that would repeal federal ceilings on interest paid on

The stop-gap bill, sponsored by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, would delay until next March 31 a federal court decision barring payment of interest on checking accounts outside New York and

In addition, it would pre-empt any state law that restricts interest charged on home mortgages and on business and farm loans over $25,000. However, any state could, by affirmative action, keep its current restriction. The stop-gap bill is necessary because the House and Senate have sharply different views on how banking laws and practices should be changed in light of the court decision restricting interestbearing checking accounts to New York and New England. The court ruled that banking regulatory agencies had no authority to allow credit-union share drafts and the automatic transfer of funds from savings to checking accounts outside those states. Congress was given until the end of the year to authorize the accounts for other overturn the court decision. The Senate bill, passed by a 76-9 vote on Nov. 1, would go much further, resulting in perhaps the biggest overhaul of banking laws since the Great Depression.

The House-passed bill would simply

In addition to phasing out federal limits on interest paid on savings and overriding state usury laws, the bill would broaden the powers of savings and loan associations and make it possible for regulators to remove the present rule requiring a minimum $10,000 for high-yield money-market savings certificates.

Leaders of the House Banking Committee say that panel will not support such changes until they hold hearings on them. They promise such hearings will be held in February.

'IRAN' Tags Unpopular

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (AP) - When a couple ordered auto license plates in 1950 bearing "IRAN," a combination of their first names, little did they suspect what was in store 29 years later.

Irving and Annette, who don't want their last name publicized, said their daughter Diane recently left the "IRAN" car in a parking garage at Norwalk Hospital.

When she returned, the following note was under the windshield wiper:

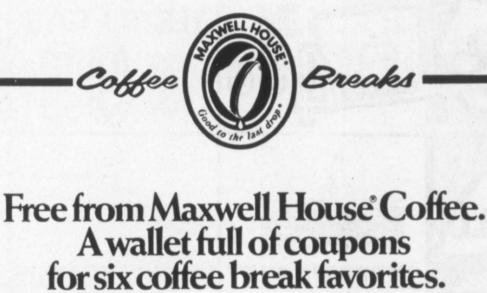

"The only reason I don't set fire to your car is that I'm not sure if you're an Iranian, go home if you are." Combined with the obscene gestures the daughter had suffered in recent months, that was the last straw. Annette, a stationery store manager who had renewed the IRAN registration in September, said, "That it! Those license plates are coming off." The car sits in the garage while the couple awaits new plates.

'It's too bad that you can't keep valuable, harmless vanity license plates on your car in America," said Annette.

Commodity Pacts Still Important

administration is committed to achieving stability in world commodity prices and supplies with international commodity agreements, despite a past poor track record by such agreements.

Agreements dealing with several commodities have been negotiated many times in the past few decades. Those agreements often have failed.

Coffee and tin agreements are obviously flawed and negotiations for an international wheat agreement collapsed last winter.

In an appearance before the House Ways and Means Subcommittee on Trade, Julius Katz, an assistant secretary of state who is retiring this week, said this week he is less convinced of the value of commodity agreements after having worked with them for a decade.

But he was quick to compare the agreements to domestic agricultural policies, which he said usually fall short of intended consequences when they are implemented.

Katz, other officials and members of Congress are continuing to push for commodity agreements.

Katz appeared before the subcommittee to testify in favor of a bill to implement the international sugar agreement, which was overwhelmingly ratified recently by the Senate.

The subcommittee approved the implementing bill and sent it to the full committee.

The agreement is intended to stabilize world sugar prices and supplies with stockpiling of sugar when prices are low for release when prices are high.

It is designed to keep world prices of raw sugar between a range of 11 cents and 21 cents a pound. World prices have risen rapidly recently to a level of about 15 cents, up from 8.5 cents.

Subcommittee chairman Charles Vanik, D-Ohio, said he believed the agreement would help consumers by rolling back recent sugar price increases.

In a philosophical discussion of commodity agreements, Vanik asked Katz to describe an ideal commodity agreement.

Katz replied that the sugar agreement was better than most because it guarantees protection for consumers with its stockpiling provisions. He said a coffee agreement was flawed because it had no provisions for stocks and a tin agreement provided for insufficient stocks.

The international sugar agreement, the cornerstone of the administration's sugar policy, was reached two years ago. U.S. ratification was held hostage in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee as Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, fought for higher domestic sugar prices.

Without U.S. participation, the agreement is not fully operative. But there have been complaints about its implementation already, some of which were aired at the subcommittee hearing.

Nicholas Kominus, president of the U.S. Cane Sugar Refiners' Association, said his organization has supported the

WASHINGTON (AP) - The 1979 burley tobacco crop is now estimated at about 479 million pounds, down 23 percent from the 626 million harvested last

The Agriculture Department said this week that the new estimate, based on average yields were put at 1,953 pounds an acre — a drop of 446 pounds from 1978 and the lowest since 1961.

"Growers are expressing surprise and disappointment as their crops are crops are weighed in at the warehouses," the Crop Reporting Board said. "Damage from excess moisture and blue mold has exceeded all expectations.

ty and increased costs are two reasons a farmers fertilize their fields early this

"The possibility of shorter fertilizer supplies and much higher costs next spring should provide some incentive for farmers to put out fertilizer early for next spring's crops," says Dr. Charles

Fertilizer inventories have declined, Welch says, as a function of increased crop acreage, export demands and reduced production. All of those factors, coupled with an uncertain transportation outlook, have made it difficult for some local fertilizer dealers to anticipate what their inventory levels will be at planting

Because of increased production costs, fertilizer materials like anhydrous ammonia and ammonium phosphate will carry larger price tags next spring, says Welch. In fact, the costs may double over the previous year, he says.

The estimate by the Crop Reporting Board, based on a Dec. 1 survey, forecast the average yield at 534 pounds per acre this year, up from 421 pounds per acre last year when the crop was just 10.85 million bales.

Texas and Oklahoma production of upland cotton was forecast at 6.12 million bales, down 2 percent from last month and up 48 percent from last year.

The upland crop forecast for California, Arizona and New Mexico was 4.69 million bales, up less than 1 percent from November's estimate, but 51 percent above last year. The crop in the Delta states was esti-

Center says the chance is available but drivers aren't taking it.

The product is re-refined motor oil for cars and trucks. Admittedly, the center agrees, the used oil that has been re-refined has a shaky reputation from the past. But the future looks good.

Testing and experiments have been conducted for several years here and the center believes "the time may soon come when re-refined oil can supply a substantial percentage of U.S. lubricating oil

Dr. Dennis W. Brinkman, supervisory research chemist, says that in 1960 about 150 re-refiners were in business in the United States with an annual production capacity of 300 million gallons. Today there are only about 20 such businesses with an estimated production capacity of 50 million gallons. Some re-refined oils in past decades have been low-grade, which helped create public reluctance to trust any recycled oil. There also were pollution problems resulting from sludge from re-refin-

Air Bags Required For Full-Size Cars

DETROIT (AP) - Automatic seatbelts will be standard equipment on most full-size 1982 General Motors cars, with the controversial air bag available as an extra-cost option, the automaker says.

Buyers of full-size models with threepassenger front seats will be required to buy the bags, GM spokesman Don Postma said Monday.

Current government regulations require passive restraints in full-size 1982 models, extending to all models by 1984.

The bags will add about $600 to the cost of producing a car, and the automatic belts, which go around a passenger when he gets inside the car, will add about $100, according to GM. The cost to the buyer of a 1982 model is not yet

MECHANICAL DEFECTS

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Transportation Department says 40 percent of the trucks and buses inspected by federal agents during the 12 months ending Sept. 30 were ordered off the road because of serious mechanical defects

ing plants and chemicals used in the processes, unfavorable tax laws and labeling requirements forcing merchandisers to identify it as "made from previously used oil.

Brinkman says that technology now exists to produce re-refined motor oils that can work as well or better than virgin oil and at somewhat lower prices. Modern processes produce little or no pollution, he said.

For those who find it hard to believe that re-refined oil can actually work better than some virgin oil, Brinkman explains that the unstable materials in new oils react with engine parts and become contaminants. The contaminants are removed as sludge during the re-refining

"Several processes have been developed in recent years ... and most, if not all, are capable of producing re-refined oils that meet or exceed SE standards, the highest grade of motor oil, after reformulation with additives," he said.

Iowa State University completed a long-term fleet test last year using three types: a commercial brand of re-refined oil, an experimental re-refined oil made at the center here and a commercial brand of new oil.

'Of the 46 vehicles involved, 12 representative engines were dismantled and examined following the accumulation of thousands of miles on each vehicle," the center reported. "Overall, the two re-refined oils performed as least as well as the virgin oil.

Other fleet tests have been made in Texas and California with similar results, the center said. The pollution problem is ironic, Brinkman says. "Waste oil, which once contributed to pollution, is now considered capable of reducing it. In addition to eliminating the acid sludge, the new process can help reduce pollution by diverting used oil to a re-refinery instead of its being dumped or otherwise used in an environmentally unsafe manner."

For instance, economy-minded drivers for years have changed their own oil. Usually they pour the old oil down a sewer, along fence lines to kill weeds or on a road. Whatever they did, a substantial portion of the old oil eventually would wend its way into streams, rivers or Brinkman says a recent study showed about 30 percent of the pollution in the Atlantic Ocean can be traced back to used lubricating oil through additives used in today's products.

New regulations going into effect at the end of this year will prohibit used oil being dumped or used for road oiling.

Brinkman believes changed public attitudes toward recycling may help boost the idea of re-refined oils. He says it is unlikely, however, that the general public will soon begin using large amounts of "The public still does not trust re-re-fined oil," he said. "Major oil companies don't sell it, so the brand names are not recognizable to most people. Also, the consumer does not know whether the product is a good one.'

Bulk users such as government and industry may become major users, however, he said. In Illinois, the state is now. buying re-refined oil for state vehicles and other states are considering similar actions. The Resources Conservation Recovery Act of 1976 requires federal agencies to buy re-refined motor oil when it is available and of a similar quality to vir-

Fitness, Heart Rate

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I'd like some information about heart rate. I'm a female, age 50. At night after I have been in bed my heartbeat is only 55. During the day when I'm doing housework, it varies between 60 and 70. I'm a farmer's wife and I've always worked hard and long hours. Can your heart beat too slow? I sometimes have light pain in my chest. In summer's extreme heat when working outside I sometimes become weak and break out in a cold sweat. I need to lose about five pounds.

DEAR READER - First, about the heart rate. A person who is physically fit, as you may well be from doing a lot of work on the farm, and who has no medical problems or bad habits often has a relatively slow

I-often cite the example of Dr. Roger Bannister, the British neurologist. When he was a young man and not in peak physical condition, his resting heart rate was in the middle to break the four-minute mile, his resting heart rate was only 38 beats per minute. I repeat this history because it emphasizes the point that vigorous athletes in optimal health often have relatively slow resting heart rates. It can be a sign of a high level of physical fitness.

Certainly a heart rate of 55 per minute at rest lying down in a person who is physically active all the time is quite within the range of normal.

Now it is true that there are a few heart conditions that can cause a very slow heart rate. One of these is called heart block and it's more apt to occur in older people, although it can occur in younger people with certain disorders of the heart. I doubt you have that because your heart rate during the day is entirely normal.

Your other symptoms may have nothing to do with your heart but would require an evaluation by your physician and a more complete story to access what they mean. You may be suffering from heat problems rathreasons. I would suggest you have a medical check-up, but I'm not very much concerned about your heart give you more information about how the heart rate can vary, I'm sending you The Health Letter number 9-8, Your Heart Rate: What It Means. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

In a person who does not have any illnesses the pulse rate is a good simple indicator of a person's level of fit-ness and lifestyle. Many people would have much slower resting heart rates if they didn't smoke or use coffee or other beverages that contain caffeine. Both of these bad habits lead to a faster heart rate

Individuals who are in poor physical condition also tend to have a fairly sharp increase in heart rate when they stand up as opposed to when lying WASHINGTON (UPI) - Dr. Irving Selikoff, the health detective who first blew the whistle on asbestos as a cancerauser, says the nation's doctors should practice "preventive surveillance" to urb preventable cancer deaths.

He said the term means keeping track of persons exposed to cancer-causing gents either at work or as a result of ifestyle, watching for the early signs and treating any illness of a cancer-suscepti-

Carter Excludes NOW From Women's Meeting

Carter is meeting with representatives of 16 women's organizations but the National Organization for Women, newly on record as opposing Carter's re-election, was not invited.

Kraft Says Popularity Misleading

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter's campaign manager says the president's sudden surge in public opinion polls because of his handling of the Iranian crisis will be hard to translate into votes and could even backfire.

Tim Kraft, chief strategist at the Carter-Mondale campaign committee, said in an interview he expects "tremendous relief and appreciation" if Carter manages to free the 50 Americans being held hostage at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

Carter's handling of the Iran situation obviously has raised his standing with the general public, as reflected in the public opinion polls. The latest major poll, by George Gallup, shows Carter leading Democratic presidential rival Sen. Edward M. Kennedy by 48 percent to 40 percent among Democrats.

But Kraft says Carter's sudden rise in the polls from record lows only a month ago does not necessarily "translate into hard Democratic votes in different primary states on a very continuing basis.

"I think just as soon as you have saved their (hostages) lives, gotten the people back, that the floodgate of recriminations and political criticisms wil unload on why the shah was admitted, why is our intelligence about those countries so abysmal," Kraft said.

He also said that despite the ratings boost the Iran situation has handed Carter, it could turn into an albatross if the crisis is not resolved soon.

"It's a walking-on-eggs situation," Kraft said. "It could blow up in our face at any time, given precipitous action on the other side and a tense and harrowing situation becoming a violent one.'

Kraft noted that most people, including other government and political leaders, have stood by the president so far. But it may not last much longer.

"There hasn't been a lot of partisan sniping or backbiting about the president," he said. "But I think that situation will prevail for (only) so long before peobecome impatient or aggressive of frustrated or whatever and start taking shots at the administration. "Then the next step beyond that is news organizations and civic leaders and the general public becoming absolutely frustrated with having to watch the 'Iranian Student Show' every night," Kraft said. "So, all those things portend some pretty ominous times ahead Kraft also said rising poll figures are not making up for Carter's loss of time on the campaign trail.

Image Shapers Preparing For Iowa Debate

By United Press International The arguments raged and the issues were crucial. Should lecterns or chairs be used? What kind of microphones, and where should they be placed?

The image-shapers were at work in Des Moines, Iowa, laboring over technical details of a high-stakes appearance Jan. 7 by the three Democratic presidential candidates for president.

President Carter's camp hopes Sen. Edward Kennedy will falter under pressure of an impromptu question-and-answer format, while Kennedy's advisers hope he can use the event to appear more dynamic than the president and overcome some image problems. But some observers believe California Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. may play the spoiler, undercutting any political gains either of the others could have scored in a one-on-one debate.

His supporters didn't argue much over details of the format - which could be important to shaping perceptions of a national TV audience. They were just glad to be there. Brown had been cut out of the original plans, and managed an invitation only after embarking on an Iowa campaign to prove his credentials.

Brown, who as the only candidate totally opposed to nuclear power was scheduled to "invade" the Three Mile Island area today, campaigned Wednesday at the University of Wisconsin in Madison, and was warned by his followers the issue of a balanced budget could hurt him and his image of being an opportunist doesn't help either.

But Brown insisted the country should have a balanced budget - which means no tax cuts and no new federal programs - and said, "This political opportunism is a baloney issue.

Brown said the goals of his campaign are simple: "Protect the earth, serve the people and explore the universe.

By Act of Congress, Dec. 15 has been observed as Bill of Rights Day since 1791.

"I certainly hope we have not invited Eleanor Smeal," Powell huffed Wednes-

Miss Weddington acknowledged she had told Mrs. Smeal in advance that "it would be awkward for her to be included" if NOW voted to oppose Carter.

NOW opposes Carter because he has not worked hard enough to secure ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment and because his position on abortion is not strong enough, Mrs. Smeal said.

Rosalynn Carter, the president's strongest defender, predictably disagreed. "I know Jimmy can get the ERA ratified better than any of the other candidates." she said Wednesday.

Mrs. Carter told The Associated Press she was disappoined by NOW's action. "I think they just made a mistake. Jimmy is going to be president. He has a good rewe have made in a broad sense.

There has been a lack of understanding about what Carter has done the last three years," she said.

The women were to be briefed for two hours by Carter's senior staff members, followed by a half-hour meeting with Carter.

Mrs. Smeal said while it may appear to some that Carter has worked for ratification of the ERA, "it is much more show than reality."

'We've had it with showcase meetings," she said. "We want a serious meeting. The ERA is the issue of the greatest concern to the greatest number of us. It deserves more than a half-hour

There could have been a ratifica-Mrs. Smeal asserted.

So far, 35 of the 38 states needed to ratify the amendment before it becomes part of the U.S. Constitution have done so, but five subsequently attempted to rescind that action. The legal question of whether a ratification vote can be rescinded has not been settled.

The grous invited to the White House meeting included the Girl Scouts, National Women's Political Caucus, the American Association of University Women, Business and Professiona Women, and Mexican-American Wom-

The five commissioners did not re-

In a related matter, Harold Denton, NRC director of reactor regulation, told* the commissioners almost all of the utilities operating the nation's 70 commercial reactors have agreed to comply with the short-range NRC changes ordered a few % months after the TMI accident. The 15 deadline for many of the changes is the end of 1979, with others required by Jan.

A limited desegregation involving 33 schools and the cross-town busing of 8.-000 students began in September. In February, about 20,000 junior high school students are to be desegregated, but school district desegregation chief Margaret Fleming has advised the school board that the strike may force a delay.

But debate on the proposal, which more than doubled the dues, was heated.

Delegates Approve Dues Increase

Many of the delegates, especially those from southern West Virginia where thousands of miners are jobless or working only part-time, said they wouldn't be able to face their suffering colleagues if they approved a large percent dues increase. Backers of the proposal argued the union was in serious financial trouble and had to have the money in order to regain its position of power and prestige.

Before the issue came to the floor, UMW Secretary-Treasurer Willard Esselstyn told the delegates the union's liquid assets had dwindled from $46 million to $2 million during the past nine years. He said the money had been used to finance the programs of the international union and for loans and gifts to the districts.

Church, who took over the UMWs presidency less than a month ago from Arnold Miller, made a personal plea for passage of the increase.

Then, he added: "You decide what you want to do. But, you'll have to live with it, come hell or high water."

The roll call procedure took three hours and forced U.S. Labor Secretary Ray Marshall to cancel his scheduled address to the convention. Instead. Marshall held a news conference at which he said, among other things, that President Carter had an excellent record on pushing coal development.

But, he added: "I didn't plan to ask the convention to endorse the presi-

Grain Futures

CHICAGO (AP) - Corn and soybean futures fell Wednesday on the Chicago Board of Trade, rebounding from the gains of the previous day.

Stepped-up cash sales of corn and a generally bearish mood in the soybean pit led to a reversal of Tuesday's rally, analysts said. Cash prices for sovbean oil were reported declining amid light commercial demand. The refusal of U.S. workers to launch a freighter loaded with 20,000 tons of soybean oil bound for Iran helped depress cash prices.

A slowing of the rally in precious metals prices also eased some of the inflationary pressures of Tuesday, analysts

At the close, soybeans were 43/4 to 63/4 cents lower. January $6.651/2; wheat was 2 cents lower to 3 cents higher, December $4.32; corn was 1 to 11/4 cents lower. December $2.701/2; and oats were 3/4 to 112 cents higher, December $1.44.

The High Plains Agriculture Marketing Service graded 44,000 samples Tuesday. That brought the season's total to 1,145,000 samples.
U. S. textile mills last week had sales of goods booked into second quarter months. Mills continued to operate on mostly six day work schedules. A few constructions were selling very briskly with commitments eight to 12 months ahead.
Soot shortages of wide drills increased. Foreign mitments eight to 12 months ahead.

Spot shortages of wide drills increased. Foreign demand for American textiles continued good. Most mills have raw cotton bought into the early part of next year but continued to make occasional purchases for fill-in needs. Cotton shipments to mills were trickling in from Texas and beginning to move better from most other localities. Unusually long shipment delays this fall often placed a strain on already low mill stocks. With record costs of maintaining inventories, keeping, but not exceeding, an adequate supply of cotton on hand remains a dominating busi-

JASON AND THE GIANT - Young Jason Ybarra and his German Shepherd got a close look at the world's largest rocket engine, the Saturn F-1, built by Rockwell International Corp. for the Apollo lunar landing program. The engine is on display at the company's Rocketdyne Divison in Canoga Park, Calif. Rockwell is now developing the world's most sophisticated rocket engine, the reusable Space Shuttle main engine, which will help launch the Shuttle Orbiter on its maiden flight in 1980.

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — There are include eliminating the source of toxins, more than 50,000 sites in Michigan that could contaminate groundwater and it will cost at least $46 million to clean them up, state environmental experts disclosed this week.

Of the 50,000 sites, 268 are currently causing contamination and 381 others are suspected of causing contamination, Department of Natural Resources Director Howard Tanner told about a dozen legislators at a briefing.

Tanner released a county-by-county list of the sites, the product of a twomonth survey by a 60-person task force. The problem is most acute in the heavily industrialized southern Lower Peninsula, Tanner said, particularly in Pontiac and Muskegon areas.

It will take at least $46.1 million to clean up the pollution, costs that do not softening their environmental damage or restoring the environment, Tanner said. More than a third of the waste is oil or gasoline, while 17 percent of it is solid waste, Tanner said. But Tanner assured the legislators,

"There are no Love Canals." Some legislators have criticized the Department of Natural Resources for being soft on polluters. "We have regulated too late as a nation and as a state," Taner said. 'The state woke up to these problems not more than five years ago." The agency's enforcement specialist, Jack Bails, said this week the report would yield few surprises, "except to someone who finds out there is a dump a quarter mile from his house.

Treasury Boosts Bond Interest

WASHINGTON (AP) - Bowing to double-digit inflation, the Treasury Department this week boosted the interest it will pay on many U.S. savings bonds from 6.5 percent to 7 percent.

The increase will apply to the new Series EE savings bonds, that go on sale Jan. 1, if they are held to maturity, which is 11 years.

Holders of old Series E bonds and "Freedom Share" notes also can obtain the bonus 0.5 percent interest if they hold them for 11 years beyond 1980's next interest payment, the department

Bonds and notes cashed in earlier will not receive the bonus.

Nor will Series H and HH Savings Bonds pay the extra interest, the Treasury said.

The new Series EE bonds will be called Energy Savings Bonds to focus attention on the energy crisis and the need to invest heavily in alternatives to imported oil, including synthetic fuels. It is aimed at eliciting the same patriotic response that accompanied Defense and War bonds.

The interest rate boost is the second since June 1, when it rose from 6 per-

However, the new level remains far below rates paid on money market certificates or the Treasury's own bills and notes, which may mature far sooner than savings bonds.

For example, 13-week and 26-week Treasury bills as of this week pay more than 11.7 percent interest.

Moreover, the interest earned on U.S. savings bonds falls below the current inflation rate, which exceeds 13 percent a year, robbing investors of much, if not all, of their yield.

The Treasury Department is limited by law from paying more than 7 percent interest on the savings bonds.

Savings bonds do boast certain tax ad-

Owners of savings bonds pay no state or local taxes on their interest. And instead of paying federal taxes each year on interest earned, they may defer pay-

Carter has nominated Robert H. Harris of Fairview, W:Va., to the Council on Environmental Quality. Harris, 38, has been associate director of the toxic chemicals program at the Environmental Defense Fund since 1973. If confirmed by the Senate, he would replace Charles Warren, who has resigned.

ment until the bonds are cashed in. For long-term savers, these tax advantages can be compounded. A couple at peak earning power, for example, might defer taxes until they retire, when they might be in a considerably lower tax

In addition, people can have their savings automatically deducted from their payrolls and applied to the bonds, a technique the Treasury Department acclaims as painless.

The interest boost is designed, in part, to stimulate sales which are about 10 percent below their 1978 rate, the Treasury Department reports.

So far this year, sales of series E and H bonds have totaled $6.515 billion, while redemptions have come to more than $11.3 billion, Treasury Department offi-

The new Series EE bond will be available in denominations ranging from $50 to $10,000. They will sell for 50 percent of their face value. You will have to pay $25 for the cheapest bond.

The old Series E bond sells in denominations from $25 to $10,000 and can be cashed in at full value after only five

Sign Up For Independence

When young people sign up for newspaper route work, they are really signing up for independence. The kind of independence that goes with earning your own money, running your own business and dealing with people on a one-to-one basis.

Our carriers are young business men and women. They provide a vital service, handle their own finances and reap a handsome profit from their efforts. What better training to prepare them for the future?

If you are interested in stepping into the business world and declaring your own independence, contact our carrier manager right now. He'll give you all of the important facts about carrier work. Then, if you are still interested, he'll provide the pen and show you where to sign . . . even if your name is John Hancock.

Former SAVAK Adviser Claims CIA Trained Agents For Shah

VAK, the shah's secret police, trained its agents in the United States and gave them guidelines on "physical and psychological" methods of interrogation, a former official of Former SAVAK adviser Hassan Sana made the allegations during a day-long tour Wednesday by foreign reporters of the police agency's former prisons. The Ministry of National Guidance conducted the tour to publicize the revolutionary regime's charges that the United States was a partner in the torture and murder of thousands of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi's opponents. It wasn't just cooperation with the CIA and Mossad (the Israeli secret service, it was joint activities," said Sana, who told reporters he had advised the SAVAK commander on security and economic affairs for 11 years. "The CIA devised our entire system. He said the Americans did not give SAVAK agents direct training in torture methods. But he said they provided general guidelines on interrogation techniques, such as attaching electrodes to sensitive parts of the body, and taught agents how to carry out surveillance of dissidents SAVAK also worked to a lesser degree with the intelligence services of Britain, West German, France, Pakistan, Iraq and Egypt, Sana said. He said Britain and West Germany provided information on Iranian students abroad. In exchange, he said, the British received information about various Arab countries and the West Germans got information about the West German Baader-Meinhof terrorist

The tour included emotional accounts by people who aid they had survived SAVAK torture and statements by former officials of the shah's regime who denounced the exiled monarch and said they welcomed the revolution.

'I think he has committed many, many crimes," said former Health Minister Sheikholesam Zadeh, now serving a life sentence. "I will be very happy in any court to say whatever I (can) against him.

Former prisoners of SAVAK said conditions in the prisons improved markedly in 1977 after President Carter began pressuring the shah to end violations of human rights.

Zadeh said he initiated a study of torture practices in 1977 and torture was halted "within a month" after he presented the findings to the shah's prime minister. Zadeh said he was the only member of the shah's regime tried by a revolutionary court and allowed to live.

The first stop on the tour was the central "committee" prison, a yellow-brick compound which a guide said was built by the Nazis during World War II and was laid out in the shape of a swastika. The Guidance Ministry's foreign press chief, Abdolghassem Sadegh, said it was here that political prisoners were taken immediately after their arrest. Reza Deghati, a former inmate, said he was hanged by his wrists for 21 minutes from a balcony in the prison courtyard "until I thought my arms were going to be pulled out." Deghati said the jailers used "apollo helmets" to amplify prisoner's own screams and send them reverberating unbearably in his ears. He claimed the helmet, which went over the victim's mouth and ears, was designed by an Iranian when he was in the United States.

He also said prisoners were bound to wire mesh cots and the cots were heated with blow torches.

Cells at the central prison were empty and the only evidence of the alleged torture was a single mesh cot. Sadegh said the torture equipment was removed before a 1977 inspection by the International Red Cross.

The tour ended at Evin Prison, once SAVAK's headquarters in Tehran and now a prison for the revolutionary re-

On a wall were photographs of revolutionary "martyrs" and photocopies of a dozen death certificates signed by SA-VAK doctors. In each case, torture was listed as the cause of death. Above most of the certificates someone had written that the victim's name was "unknown."

Judge's Decision Stops Deportation Hearings

Avalanche-Journal Staff

Deportation proceedings several Iranian students in Lubbock have been stopped in accordance with a federal judge's ruling Tuesday that the nationwide "roundup" of Iranians is unconsti-

There also is a good chance many of these students will not face further prosecution if the ruling stands against an upcoming appeal by the U.S. government, an Immigration and Naturalization Service official in Dallas said.

U.S. District Judge Joyce Green said that the roundup of Iranian students violates the fundamental principles of American fairness." President Carter had ordered the INS on Nov. 10 to start examining the visas of approximately 50,-000 Iranian students in the U.S.

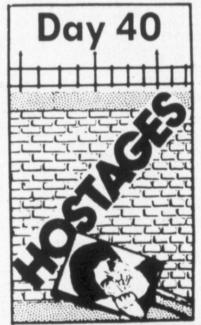

The action was begun by the administration because of fears that demonstrations by Iranians in the U.S. could spark counter-demonstrations by Americans, possibly jeopardizing the 50 hostages being held in Tehran.

The judge's opinion blocks further deportations and stops any additional Iranian students from being required to report to local Immigration and Naturalization Service offices.

All processes along this line have ceased." Dallas INS district director Bill Chambers said Wednesday afternoon. Three individual Iranians and one Iranian family living in Lubbock were facing deportation in Dallas before Tuesday's ruling was issued.

If INS officials encounter a student who is in violation of his or her visa, the agency can handle the situation as usual, Chambers said. But the authorities cannot use information already gathered if that information will lead to deportation or punishment.

Since many Iranian students have

- which can no longer be used as a basis for deportation since the information was obtained during the "roundup" many Iranians will not face any more prosecution, regardless of their visa sta-

Chambers explained that the ruling handed down in Washington is applicable nationwide because it was a class action suit. The administration reportedly plans to appeal the decision, but Chambers wouldn't speculate as to how the decision might go.

Lubbock resident Mehdi Mohamed Sabahi, 25, was scheduled for a hearing before an administrative judge of the INS in Dallas Dec. 10. His hearing was rescheduled Tuesday before the ruling was issued. Sabahi has a student visa but is not currently enrolled.

Nader Jahromi Sabet, 18, was arrested in Lubbock for failing to appear for his Dallas hearing Nov. 27. He was trans-ferred to two different locations before his brother posted the $5,000 bond to free him. Sabet is charged with entering the U.S. in 1976 on a visitors visa and remaining as a student

Said-Reza Mousavi-Jam, 26, was scheduled for a Dallas hearing Dec. 20. INS officials believe he is attending a school other than the one identified in his immigration papers.

An Iranian family — Seyed Abbas Azi-ma, 34, his wife Faterneh, 29, and two children — were facing deportation at a Jan. 22 hearing in Dallas. Azima is charged with accepting employment upon completion of his studies at Texas Tech rather than returning to Iran.

The hearings for all the Iranian students in Lubbock have been cancelled pending an appeal of Tuesday's ruling.

Businesses Refusing Checks By Iranians

By United Press International These are not the best of times for

Iranian students in the United States especially for those who want to cash

All across the country, bank tellers and merchants are refusing to honor the students' checks, in some cases leaving them without money for tuition or living

It is partly the result of U.S. policy -President Carter ordered a freeze on Iranian assets last month because of the holding of American hostages at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

And it is partly vengeance.

I have five or six bills at my apartment that I have not paid yet," said one Iranian student at North Carolina State University who has been unable to cash a $2,000 check he received from his parents in Iran

What's worse, he says, he might not be able to meet a visa requirement that students must prove they receive adequate funds to support themselves without working

'If I don't get the money, I cannot pay my tuition for next semester," he said. "Then I will be deported."

'The students are put in a real bind," said Ted Good, a University of California at Berkeley foreign student adviser. "Immigration is checking up on their status as students but if they have no money, they can't register ... We're hoping the government will soon see how illogical

"It is a real hideous situation," said Bea Von Allmen, director of International Sevices at the University of Southern said Mohammad Zaiani, head of the scholarship section of the Iranian consulate in Chicago.

But Jane Mitchell, spokeswoman for Wachovia Banks and Trust Co. in Raleigh, N.C., said the banks were simply trying to protect themselves. "We have no way of knowing from day to day what will happen to their banks over there," she said. "They might be nationalized at any time.

"I understand the merchants' problem with taking checks from Iranians, said Safan Moghadm, a student at the University of Oklahoma.

"Some (students) are going back (to Iran) and writing bad checks here, just saying to hell with Americans. But I like this country and I want to stay here. It's not right to judge each individual by what's going on over there."

Moghadm said a local jeweler refused to cash his check, telling him, "We can't take checks from Iranians." Ironically, Moghadm's wife, Angela, works at the jeweler's bank and is in charge of procssing the merchant's account.

The Treasury Department has authorized Bank Melli of Iran to bring in $20 million to cover Iranian students' checks. But a Bank Melli spokeswoman in New York says banks, especially in the Southern states, are refusing to cash the checks because of "strong emotional feeling."

Gerald Ford Invited To White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Carter invited former President Gerald Ford to the White House today, apparently to discuss the Iranian hostage cri-

From the very beginning, I have said this is probably the most serious international crisis since the end of World War II, and I think that it is absolutely essential we have unity in support of the president," Ford said.

Until now, Ford said during an interview Wednesday in New York, "President Carter has not called me about the Iranian situation. The White House has not called or asked for my suggestions."

But Ford said he will keep asking Americans to rally around the White House during the crisis. Ford, when asked about White House displeasure with former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's actions, said, "I still believe Henry Kissinger was the finest secretary of state in this century, if not in the history of the United States.

Asked about the race for his Republican Party's presidential nomination, Ford said, "No one has it locked up. It's a race down to the wire."

Ford stuck by earlier public statements that he is not seeking the GOP nomination. But he would accept his party's call if it comes. Ford said chances of that are "very remote."

Ford also said the race between Carter and Sen. Edward Kennedy for the Democratic presidential nomination "is a horse race. With Kennedy's popularity dropping significantly and Carter's rising significantly, it looks like a head-to-head race with lots of fireworks."

Charge Altered Against Man

DENVER (AP) - A 20-year-old Iranian student accused of killing a Denver teen-ager had no time to deliberate before he pointed a high-powered rifle at the victim and two other fleeing youths, a Denver judge has ruled.

For that reason, Denver County Judge George Manerbino on Wednesday dismissed a first-degree murder charge against Afshin Shariati, charged in the Nov. 11 slaying of Paul Moritzky, 15, of Shariati, however, still must stand trial for second-degree murder, Manerbino ruled. A bond hearing was scheduled for today.

Evidence during Shariati's preliminary hearing showed that Moritzky was shot about 20 seconds after he and two others youths broke windows in Sharia-

The act of deliberation is required for a first-degree murder charge. A seconddegree murder charge requires that the defendant "knowingly" killed the victim.

LITTLE PLEDGE - With many Iranians voicing anti-American sentiments, at least one young Iranian felt differently as he took the American oath of allegiance, becoming an American citizen. Four-year-old Carl Hassan Owens, shown with his mother, and his 5-year-old sister, Melissa Afsaneh Owens, became Americans during naturalization ceremonies in U.S. District Court in Amarillo Wednesday. Despite Carl's enthusiastic pledging, however, his new parents, Dr. and Mrs. James Owens of Canyon, actually took the oath of allegiance for the two children. (AP Laserphoto)

Students' Wives Air Concern Over Security For Husbands

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) - American wives of Iranian students across the state say they are seriously concerned for their husbands' safety and for their financial security, which has been threatened by President Carter's freeze on Ira-

Groups Plan To Protest U.S. Outrage At Iran

AUSTIN (UPI) - Predicting World vention in Iran," Hummel said. War III if the United States intervenes militarily in Iran, representatives of a coalition of groups claiming 6,000 members have announced plans for a Dec. 29 rally in San Antonio to protest anti-Iranian action in the U.S.

"It is a crime for any person in America to be deprived of his or her rights, and it would be a far greater crime for the American government to succeed in inciting the American people into a Mideast war, a war which in all likelihood would begin World War III." a spokesman for the group told a Capitol news conference Wednesday.

Jeff Hummel, chairman of UT students for a Libertarian Society, and Christi Birdfeather, head of the Young Socialist Alliance Austin chapter, said 16 groups have joined their Coalition Against Racism and Intervention in the Middle East (CRIME).

By the way, whatever happened to The Associates?

After six epilodes, "The Associates" was unceremoniously lifted from ABC's schedule, the shiniest flop of the year. The show wasn't canceled, just removed for awhile to lick its wounds.

ABC, in an effort to demonstrate its abiding faith in the show, immediately announced that "The Associates" would be back in March, taking over the lateprime time Thursday slot currently occupied by "Soap" when that show moves to

It was a nice gesture by ABC, a prudent move, but one that probably shouldn't have been necessary at all. 'The Associates," like "Mork and Mindy" and other ABC winners, was a victim of programming overconfidence. ABC's executives, apparently energized by three years of utter domination in the ratings, made daring moves that seemed reckless to anyone who didn't believe in ABC's invincibility.

The network tinkered with a successful schedule. It moved "Mork and Mindy" from its cushy Thursday night slot to Sunday night and, assuming that "Mork" would steamroll CBS's Archie Bunker, ABC planted "The Associates" behind

ABC, presumably, knew this, too. But the network believed that "Mork" - the hottest new show of last season - had appeal that could reach across the board. The network knew that star Robin Williams' "Nanu, nanu" gag would grab the kids, but hoped that the show's off-thewall humor would grab young adults and that its weekly messages would appease

It didn't work. "Archie" outperformed "Mork," chasing Williams & Co. back to Thursday night. And "The Associates," which was bucking the odds anyway, never inherited the massive carryover audience from "Mork" that ABC

NEW YORK (AP) - Stock prices were mixed in cautious trading today in advance of next week's pricing meeting of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, off by about 2.5 points in the early going, recovered by midday to post a .51 gain at 836.18.

In the broad tally of trading, losing issues outnumbered gainers by a 7-5 margin on the New York Stock Exchange. The NYSE composite was up .01 to 61.59.

Analysts have said that uncertainty about the level of oil price increases at next week's OPEC meeting may be acting as a restraint on stock trading. Mobil Oil said today it was notified by Saudi Arabia, OPEC's largest producer, that it increased its prices from $18 to $24 a barrel, retroactive to Nov.

Gold and precious metals stocks were generally higher as the price of gold bullion reached highs of around $460 an ounce. Copper, aluminum and other non-precious metal producers also were generally higher. Auto, oil and chemical stocks were narrowly mixed.

Among actively traded issues, Arlen Realty rose % to 4; Pitney-Bowes fell 3/8 to 307/8 and American Cynamid rose 11/8 to 325/8.

Columbia Pictures also was a big gainer on the most-active | NYSE list. It rose 21/2 to 36.

Gold Hits New High In Europe

LONDON (AP) - Gold soared to new highs this morning in London and Zurich as the foreign exchange markets buzzed with news of oil price increases. The dollar rose in Japan but declined against most European currencies.

Gold was quoted at $457.50 an ounce in London, an all-time high, and $457 in

The metal closed Wednesday in London at $446.625 and in Zurich at $446.50 after hitting $451 during earlier trading in the Swiss center. That was the previous record high.

The dollar ended a moderate Tokyo session at 238.95 yen, up from 237.35 at Wednesday's close. Dealers said the Bank of Japan sold about $30 million to support the yen.

Dealers attributed the dollar's strength to growing concern about the price and supply of crude oil to Japan. "It's the continuation of yesterday's trend," one dealer said. "As the OPEC meeting nears, people here are getting jittery about the oil situation." He said there is growing speculation that the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries may raise its official crude price

Also contributing to the yen's weak-ness were reports that three of Japan's trading houses and oil distributors broke off negotiations with Iran for imports of direct-sale crude next year. Because Japan is almost totally dependent on imported oil, such a development would jeopardize the nation's oil supplies.

The dollar opened at 238.00 ven. its low for the day, and peaked at 239.50 yen in the afternoon, prompting intervention by the Bank of Japan. Trading was nervous and moderate.

That would mean an inflationary surge around the world, generally depressing the value of dollars in which oil is bought and sold.

An announcement today in Abu Dhabi, United Arab Emirates, said Saudi Arabia, Qatar and the United Arab Emirates have decided to increase their oil prices by $6 a barrel as of January.

United Arab Emirates Oil Minister Manah Said Oteiba, who is also chairman of OPEC, made the announcement to the official United Arab Emirates news agency before departing for Caracas.

His brief statement seemed aimed at setting a guideline for the other members of the 13-nation cartel in shaping their 1980 pricing policies. The current OPEC ceiling price for crude is $23.50 a barrel, set at OPEC's June meeting in

Police Resume Search For Escaped Felons

SANTA FE. N.M. (UPI) - State police today resumed the search for four remaining escapees from the New Mexico Penitentiary. At least one of the suspects was believed to be hiding in a sparsely populated area south of the city. A woman who lives near a trailer park told police she surprised a man believed to be one of the escapees. The man, who had apparently been hiding in a barn on the woman's property, beat the woman, then fled into the nearby rolling hills. State Police Capt. Charles Anaya said the description given by the woman would indicate the man could have been

William Norush, 29, who was serving a prison term for burglary. Also still at large are Harmon Ellis, 44, serving sentences for escape, armed robbery and possession of marijuana; Richard Chapman, 26, serving a life sentence for murder and William Smith, 26, also on a life sentence for murder. Despite an extensive search of the area south of the city, including the Downs at Santa Fe racetrack, police found no trace of the escapee. Officers were using bloodhounds in an effort to track down the prisoners.

Eleven inmates broke out of the penitentiary on Sunday, and since then, seven have been recaptured. The latest to be apprehended was convicted murderer Jesse Trujillo. He was captured without incident by two city policemen near the downtown section of Santa Fe on Tues-

Gov. Bruce King also announced he had ordered Attorney General Jeff Bingaman to investigate the escape and the conditions which preceded it.

The announcement by the governor came just hours after Sen. Aubrey Dunn. D-Otero, raised the possibility that the escape of the 11 inmates and earlier breakouts from other penal institutions around the state could have resulted from a conspiracy to embarrass state officials

Assassination Information Bureau Shutting Down Operations

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Assassi- of the House Select Committee on Assasnation Information Bureau is going out of business

The non-profit investigative body, which since 1972 concentrated on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy in Dallas and also took on the Martin Luther King Jr. killing in Memphis, Tenn., is closing down.

Bureau spokesman Carl Oglesby said there was no reason to continue operating the bureau following the conclusion sinations of probable conspiracy in both the Kennedy and King crimes.

The House Committee, after an investigation that lasted 21/2 years and cost $5.4 million, concluded early this year Lee Harvey Oswald fired three shots at Kennedy Nov. 22, 1963, two of which resulted in the president's death.

But the committee also indicated a possible conspiracy in Kennedy's death, saying acoustical evidence pointed to a "still under way."

second gunman firing from the so-called grassy knoll of Dealey Plaza in Dallas at the same time as Oswald.

As for King, the panel found that escaped convict James Earl Ray fired one shot at the civil rights leader April 4, 1968, which proved fatal. There was "a likelihood" of a conspiracy, the panel said.

The House committee asked the Justice Department and FBI to review its findings, a process both agencies say is

Clandestine America, the bureau's occasional newsletter, in its final edition reviewed some of the bureau's work and carried the text of a radio interview this summer in which the former chief counsel of the House committee said it was his personal belief that organized crime was responsible for Kennedy's murder. Robert Blakey, the former chief counsel, was quoted as saying:

'In light of the web of circumstantial evidence involving Oswald's activities in tions to organized crime figures in New Orleans, and Jack Ruby's activities in Dallas, it is my judgment, not the committee's, my judgment, that the mob did pointed" if Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti and FBI Director William Webster let the cases die.

"They are both men of high integrity and great ability," he said. "I don't think they will let it die ... There is no statute of limitation on murder.

Bob Katz, a contributing editor of Clandestine America, said he was saddened the conspiracy findings of Blakey's committee had so little impact.

Techsans Host Struggling Cardinals

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff Not that long ago, Texas Tech basketball coach Gerald Myers scanned the Raiders' schedule and casually remarked, "Lamar may just be the best team in Texas this year.

At the time the Cardinals had just stunned highly regarded Texas A&M in the Great Alaskan Shootout tournament and looked even better than last year's team that went 23-9 and defeated Detroit 95-87 in the NCAA Mideast Regionals.

Tech will host that Lamar team tonight at 7:30 p.m. in Lubbock Coliseum.

But since that victory over A&M, Lamar has struggled to a 3-3 season mark 'best in Texas' stuff at all.

"I don't know if we're the best team

Cardinals are tough. Myers said Wednesday that they are "the best team we've faced vet.' And considering that the Raiders are 4-1 on the year, that's a pretty fair state-

"They're strong inside and they can also hurt you with their outside game," and coach Billy Tubbs isn't buying that said Myers. "So they've got good bal-

The key to Lamar's inside game is big

B.B. Davis. Davis scored 20 points a game last year and led the squad in rebounding. But he's got plenty of help inside. Clarence Kea averaged 17.7 points an outing and was the team's second leading rebounder.

The outside threat is Mike Oliver. The 6-1 junior led Lamar in scoring with a 22point average. Oliver is not afraid to put the ball up either - he shot 30 times in Lamar's loss to Pan Am.

But Oliver can get hot. He scored over 30 points five different times last year and is already Lamar's all-time leading

"Davis, Kea and Oliver are three outstanding players, " said Myers respectfully. "It's going to be tough for us to match up with them. They're just so physical inside."

admitted, "I'd say we could take 'em. Unfortuantely we have to play basket-

"Heck we were stronger than Pan Am," he added. "But we never could catch up to them long enough to beat up

"I know that Tech is a good shooting team," said the Lamar coach in a rare moment of seriousness, "they're well coached, have good quickness and good jumping ability. What else do you need?"

Lamar's Davis broke his wrist just prior to the start of fall practice and missed the Cardinals' first three games including the win over A&M. He made his first start against Pan Am and although he'll start tonight, Tubbs says that he's only "60-70 percent."

Davis will be at the post, with 6-7 Kea and 6-4 Cestrakiah Lewis on the wings. At the guards will be Oliver and 5-10 Al-

Brooks, a junior college transfer, is the only regular that didn't start on last year's Lamar team. But Tubbs says that his squad isn't yet on par with last year's

'We've got some kinks that we need to work out," he said. "We've been having some problems at point guard and Davis wasn't even able to practice for seven weeks - that hurt us.'

And maybe, says Tubbs, the Cardinals' success last year could be affecting the team.

"Our guys are getting too conservative," he said. "Heck, I haven't had anybody break curfew yet. They're taking it too serious.

"I'm thinking about giving them a 3 o'clock curfew," he added. "I'm not going to let anybody back into the hotel until 3 in the morning.

But the brand of basketball the Cardinals play is anything but conservative. According to Myers they like to run up and down the floor - and they can do it

"Their basic defense is a full-court press and half-court zone. They like to run and they get the rebound out of that zone and are able to get the fast break

Tubbs wasn't so sure about the Lamar

'We play a two-two-one," he said. 'That's two guys playing a man, two guys playing a zone and one guy standing around wondering what's going on."

Both coaches acknowledge that tonight's game is a big one.

"We just like playing quality basket-ball teams," said Tubbs. "You can't get any better unless you play people just as good or better than you are.

And getting back to that "best team in Texas" jazz, Tubbs says that if anyone's taking a vote - he'll vote for the

"You know Tech just may have the best team in Texas this year," he said. "One of my assistants scouted one of their early games and came back and told me we'd better cancel out.

AT TIMES, IT has been quite lonely for Larry Hays, as he watched the action from the LCC end of the court. On the opposite end would be a dozen or so basketballers, wearing shiny, freshly laundered uniforms, and eager for the command to check in at the scorer's ta-

But Hays? Why, he and his assistant, John Copeland, and trainer Ben Haralson almost outnumbered the subs. That's the way it's been while going through the first semester, what with grades and fallen arches and newcomers. Depth, the LCC coach will admit, is not one of his Chaparrals' strong points. Now, that is all expected to change within a month, but right now. . . eight is enough. Has to be, because that's all Hays can find. Hays, who doubles as the school's baseball coach, just now, for the first time this season, has enough able and eligible basketeers should he want to play his dia mond starters. No. 9 showed up Tuesday, Larry Holt finally escapinga leg cast which protected a severely sprained ankle.

Thus, when the Chaparrals take on Wayland Baptist here tonight, the reserves will outnumber the advisory cadre.

WITH THE REGULAR quintet of Kevin Wharton, Keith Gardner, Bill McGee, Bruce Carver and Marshall Smith on the floor, Hays has had only insiders Mike Buckner and Jim Steensma and guard Ricky Murdock for backup work. And, with the Chaparrals going to a run-and-shoot offense, that means a bunch of tuckered

The Chaparrals — and Hays — got caught in an academic pinch for the first semester. Then, Holt, a 6-3 forward from Portales, sprained the ankle before sea-

Even Holt's return is a help. 'I'm not sure what kind of condition Larry will be in," commented Hays. "He is a good prospect, but if he's not in shape, we'll just have to see what he will be

But, gradually, the situation and depth chart should change.

BECAUSE OF NAIA transfer rules, Ricky Norris had to be enrolled at LCC for 16 weeks before regaining eligibility. The former Lubbock High athlete played as a freshman at LCC, then transferred to York (Neb.) Junior College last season.

When he returned, he had to sit out the 16 weeks, and he will be "legal" for the Dallas Baptist Tournament which begins Dec. 27. Also eligible then will be 6-3 Rick Blethroade, a sophomore without college or high school experience. Norris will help us immediately, offensively," said Hays.

Then, just in time for the conference season which - begins Jan. 12 at Austin College - another guard, 5-10 freshman Keith Money - will become eligible. Money's case is he is short of hours and has to pass a three-hour mini-course prior to that date to gain playing status.

But, with the addition of these players, the Chaparrals' chances will be better, whether they can break the starting lineup or help off the bench. "It'll help our pressure defense for sure," Hays commented. "You can't pressure a team for 40 minutes with eight people. Hays didn't mention the offense, but it goes the same with a running-shooting offense, just as with a pressure defense. It takes people, and although the Chapar-rals live and die with the running attack, their offense has, at times, sagged because of the lack of fresh race horses in the game's latter stages. With more guards, such as Norris and Money, Hays can rest his regular forces more. If Holt is able to contribute and get back in shape within a reasonable length of time, he can join the reserves in backing up Wharton and Gardner. Or, Hays would go back to a three-man front line, as he employed early in the season, especially when he faces a taller lineup, such as Wayland Baptist tonight. By the time the conference season rolls around, maybe Hays won't feel so lone-

Steelers' Harris Named To AFC Pro Bowl Unit

NEW YORK (AP) - Franco Harris, Pittsburgh's perennial 1,000-yard rusher, was among 10 Steelers named today to the American Conference All-Star team for this season's National Football League Pro Bowl.

The Steelers' total represents exactly one-fourth of the 40-man AFC squad that will play the National Conference All-Stars on Jan. 27 in Honolulu, Hawaii.

The defending Super Bowl champions, playoff participants for a recordtying eighth straight time this season, will be represented by two other starters on offense - wide receiver John Stallworth and center Mike Webster.

Also, five Steelers will start on defense: end L.C. Greenwood, tackle Joe Greene, outside linebacker Jack Ham, middle linebacker Jack Lambert and safety Donnie Shell. Harris, who has gone over the 1,000-yard mark this season for the sixth straight time and seventh of his eight years in the NFL, will play in his eighth straight Pro Bowl. He is the only AFC player to be picked every year during that period.

San Diego quarterback Dan Fouts. the AFC's No. 1 passer, is one of six Chargers on the AFC team. Fouts will start along with wide receiver John Jefferson and tackle Russ Washington.

The Houston Oilers also had six players picked, including two starters on offense, AFC rushing leader Earl Campbell and tackle Leon Gray. Campbell and Pittsburgh's Webster were the AFC's only unanimous choices.

falo guard Joe DeLamiellure and New England guard John Hannah round out the offensive unit.

The five Steelers starting on defense will be joined by two members of the Houston defense, outside linebacker Robert Brazile and safety Mike Reinfeldt, New England cornerback Mike Haynes, Denver cornerback Louis Wright and a pair of Pro Bowl newcomers, Miami tackle Bob Baumhower and San Diego end Fred Dean.

Kansas City's Bob Grupp is the punter, Houston's Toni Fritsch the kicker and Denver's Rick Upchurch the kick re-

St. Louis' Anderson Named Top Rookie

NEW YORK (UPI) - Ottis Anderson of St. Louis, the running sensation who broke Earl Campbell's year-old rookie rushing record this season, heads United Press International's 1979 NFL All-Rookie team announced today.

Anderson, the former Miami (Fla.) star who was the first running back selected in the NFL draft in May, enters the final game of the season Sunday leading the NFL in rushing, holding a 3-yard advantage over Campbell, Houston's star runner.

The All-Rookie team is selected by UPI after a survey of selected NFL coaches and scouts and pro football writers.

Joining Anderson in the rookie backfield are quarterback Phil Simms of the New York Giants and running back Williams Andrews of Atlanta. The wide receivers are Jerry Butler, one of three Buffalo players picked, and Earnest Gray, also of the Giants. Cincinnati's Dan Ross is the tight end.

"I'll stay as long as my enthusiasm and health hold up," Meyer said. "I figure perhaps two or three more years."

DePaul's victory was sealed by Mark Aguirre's two free throws with no time left in overtime. There were ceremonies for the DePaul coach to go along with this historic triumph.

"The only thing I remember about my 400th and 500th victories was that they came against Marshall and Niagara," said Meyer. "We just had cake after the 500th. It was in the locker room when I came in after the victory. I guess they were pretty sure we were going to win

The 11th-ranked Blue Demons were one of only three ranked teams in action Wednesday niht, as No 5 Kentucky defeated Kansas 57-56 and No. 19 Missouri stopped Butler 64-60.

Sam Bowie scored 17 points and veteran Kyle Macy added 10 to lead Kentucky's victory over Kansas in a battle between the two winningest teams in college basketball history. The Wildcats twice appeared ready to pull away and led early in the second half by 10 points,

But Kansas, led by Darnell Valentine and Ricky Ross, chipped away at the lead and tied at 47 with 5:53 left on a basket by Chester Giles. Bowie, a 7-foot-1 center, got the Wildcats back on top with a stuff shot, but a jumper by Ross with 3:37 left made it 51-51.

Another Bowie dunk and two Bowie free throws helped put the Wildcats ahead 57-52, before a Valentine jumper and a layup by Giles with 19 seconds left trimmed the margin to one. Kentucky managed to run out the clock for its 11th victory in 12 games against the Jayhawks.

When we got seven points ahead, we went down and had four straight turnovers," said Kentucky coach Joe Hall, obviously upset with his young team. "We played with no confidence, no emotion. After we led 14-7, we folded up our tents and didn't play the rest of the night. Had they shot better, they would have handled us with ease.'

Steve Stipanovich scored 12 points, including four free throws in the final two minutes, to lead Missouri over Butler. A three-point play by Lynn Mitchem gave Butler a 58-55 lead, but Missouri tied it and then held the ball until Stipanovich was fouled with 1:49 remaining. Butler did an extremely fine job tonight," said Missouri coach Norm Stew-

Bobbie Austin's 15 points helped Cincinnati defeat Miami (Ohio) 75-73; Reggie Johnson's shot at the buzzer insured a 61-58 victory for Tennessee over Auburn and Rynn Wright's 18 points triggered Texas A&M over East Texas State 85-42.

The Aggies got off to a slow start due to a stiff defense by the Lions and 11 Aggie turnovers. East Texas kept within six points through the first half before clsing Texas A&'s lead t 27-24 at intermission.

But the Aggies came out shooting fu-riously the second half, outscoring East-Texas 24-4 in the first 10 minutes, run ning their edge to 47-31 before bench the starting unit. A&M outscored East Texas State 58-18 in the second half.

Rudy Woods scored 12 points and freshman Claude Riley 11 in support of Wright, while Mike Williams scored 13 for East Texas, now 4-1. Texas A&M raised its record to 5-2.

Vet Coach Looks Toward NCAA Crown

By The Associated Press Not many coaches in the history of college basketball have won more games than Ray Meyer. It's possible, though, that he would trade them all for one big one, in the NCA

After gaining his 600th career victory Wednesday night with a 57-55 overtime decision over Northern Illinois, the distinguished Meyer is of course aware of the historic plateau, but seemingly more concerned with winning his first national title. not an unlikelihood this year.

"In a way the 600 victories mean something, I guess," says Meyer. But actually, any victory is important that gets me nearer the NCAA playoffs. We'll need 20 this year, probably, and that's the main number I'm concerned with.

Part of Meyer's mountainous victory total was built with the fine George Mikan clubs of the 1940s and his most recent powerhouses of the 1970s, including last year's Final

After losing to Indiana State in the NCAA semifinals last year, Meyer's goal was well established for this year. "I made it to the Final Four," he said at the time, "and now I'd like to make it to the Final

"Last year we were very quick but we had no rebounding," says Meyer. "We were a relatively small team. A lot of our offense was created by the defense with steals. This year, we're bigger and slower. But we can shoot well from the outside. You won't see many zones played against us this year.

The Demons lost two starters from last year's team, but Meyer recruited two fine frontcourt players from the Chicago area to replace them - 6-9 Terry Cummings and 6-8 Teddy Grubbs. Those freshman are starting this year, along with one of the nation's "Top Ten players" in Mark Aguirre.

Temple QB Anxious For Garden State Duel

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) -Brian Broomell has heard an awful lot about quarterback Rich Campbell, his opposite number in Saturday's Temple-California Garden State Bowl at Giants Stadium, and he is anxious to see him in

"I'd like to see how good he is," said Broomell, no slouch himself in leading Temple to a 9-2 record and the 20th spot in The Associated Press poll. But it's Campbell, the latest in a long line of outstanding California quarterbacks, who's attracting most of the attention.

'He seems to be real accurate, a real thrower," Broomell said. "I think a few points will be on the board.'

Broomell, second in the nation in total passing, threw for 2,103 yards and 22 touchdowns this year, compared to Campbell's 2,614 yards and 13 touchdowns. Broomell, however, has re-

White Receives Heisman, Looks To Pro Career

NEW YORK (AP) - In the end, it worked out perfectly for Charles White. He got one Heisman Trophy and Billy Sims got one.

"I went to Washington not too long ago for a banquet and Billy met me at the airport," White disclosed Wednesday night after formally accepting the 1979 Heisman Trophy at an $85-a-plate dinner that attracted 1,700 paying customers. "The first thing he did was embrace me and I felt close to him. It half worked out for both of us.

Sims, Oklahoma's star running back, won the 1978 Heisman but failed to repeat, finishing a distant second this year to White, who led the nation with 1,803 rushing yards and finished second to Tony Dorsett on the all-time NCAA rushing chart with 5,598 regular-season yards.

White's college career will come to an end on New Year's Day when Southern Cal meets Ohio State in the Rose Bowl. Sims' career will end that evening against Florida State in the Orange Bowl. We both know it's time to go big-

Toward that goal, White said he will begin working for CBS-TV in Los Angeles early next year "behind the scenes."

Mizzou Looked To Title IX In Bowl Cutback

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) - Title IX played a role in a decision not to send the entire University of Missouri football team to the Hall of Fame Bowl, says Chancellor Barbara Uehling The federal rule requires a balance in scholarship funding for men's and women's athletics, and Miss Uehling said the requirement was a consideration when the budget for the bowl trip was drafted.

We have a number of considerations in the athletic budget, not the least of which is Title IX." Miss Uehling said Wednesday at her regular monthly news conference.

"Under those guidelines, we'll have to find extra funds for scholarships for women. Given that need, and the needs in other sports. I felt it inappropriate that this bowl would go over budget. I still feel that way.

The effort to hold down spending for the trip to the Dec. 29 game with South Carolina meant the school's marching band and about 25 members of the football squad would stay home. There was dissatisfaction among band and team members, and some talk of a boycott of the game by the football team.

Al Anderson, a public information official at the university, said the school is $61,000 short of meeting the requirements of Title IX for athletic scholar-"If we spent $10,000 more to send people to the bowl, that wouldn't wash

very well when the money could have been spent for equity," Anderson said. She (Miss Uehling) wants to make that a high priority. Part of the $138,000 cost of the trip will go for sending a contingent of school administrators and members of the board of curators to the game. Miss Uehling defended that action, saying academia and athletics have to stay in touch with one another and that it is a common practice to invite administrators to bowl games.

She said that although she was satisfied with the university's handling of the controversial situation, she regretted the negative publicity that had resulted.

Reluctantly, he answered questions about his childhood as one of 10 children in a broken San Fernando, Calif., home. When his parents were divorced, his mother and the children moved in with 'My father just cut out," White said with a disgusted wave of his hand. "My mother was on welfare and we depended a lot on my grandmother. I was the father. It was somewhere to go and lay down and wake up and know you had somewhere to eat and sleep and be warm. We weren't worried about having all the necessities people think they have to have. The Heisman Trophy, of course, is a luxury, not a necessity. "If everything goes right, it will definitely help me and my family and the things I want to do to help other people. White said. "Just because you make a lot of money shouldn't put you in another class and not want to help people." Finally, White allowed himself one small needle at Sims' expense.

Someone shoved a magazine in front of him showing White and Sims playing tug-of-war with the Heisman. As he autographed it. White smiled and said softly Sorry, Billy,

Stennett Set For SF Lineup

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Rennie Stennett; a new member of the San Francisco Giants, says that with the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates he found it embarrassing to sit on the bench.

With the Giants, he's expected to be the regular second baseman next season. In a trade that proved somewhat embarrassing to the National League club, the Giants sent second baseman Bill Madlock to the Pirates last June.

Now I'll get the opportunity to play. and I know the people here are happy to have me," Stennett said Wednesday after the Giants announced the signing of the infielder and two other free agents, catcher Milt May and outfielder Jim Wohlford, to five-year contracts. Stennett, formerly the Pirates' starting-second baseman, started only 17 games after the All-Star break this year.

Madlock ended up at third base with Pittsburgh, which moved Phil Garner to second. The Giants said they believed 25year-old Joe Strain, promoted from the minor leagues after the June trade, was ready to handle the second base job, but he hit only 241 in 67 games.

The Giants slipped back steadily after the traded, finishing fourth in the NL West, and the Pirates came on to win the NE East title.

It was very tough for me. It was embarrassing to sit on the bench during the World Series," Stennett said Wednesday. 'It really hurt. But I feel great right

He broke an ankle in 1977, when he was enjoying his best big league season, hitting .336 in early August. The last two seasons, his batting marks were .243 and

"I'm 100 percent now," he said Wednesday. "I know I can help the Giants. I'm a winner.

May played most of last season with the Chicago White Sox and batted .254 in 71 games. Wohlford, in 63 games with Milwaukee, hit .263.

Illinois Talks To White

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) - University of Illinois officials seeking a new head football coach were expected to complete interviews today by talking with Mike White, assistant coach of the San Francisco 49ers.

John P. Hummel, chairman of the Athletic Association board of directors, said he hoped the board could announce its decision today. The board has interviewed four others for the post, vacant since the firing of Gary Moeller last month. They are John Mackovic of Wake Forest, Frank Maloney of Syracuse, and Dick Jamieson of Indiana State. Larry Smith of Tulane was interviewed but since then has received a four-year extension on his contract.

But there is nothing Small scale about ABC's presentation plans for February.

ABC will have 109 cameras covering the nine Winter Olympic disciplines. With temperatures that can reach 40 to 50 below, ABC had to solve some serious logistical problems.

"All the equipment had to be winterized." said Joe De Bonis, general manager of ABC's studio and field operations. "That meant we had to put insulated blankets on the cameras and collapsible tents over the camera platforms. We built heaters into the lenses, otherwise they'd freeze.

won't be turned off until the Games are over, unless they have to be moved, becasuse we are afraid of condensation."

De Bonis says he'll have 25 cameras on Whiteface Mountain, site of the men's and women's Alpine skiing. Each skiing event has a different course, so every day the cameras will be picked up and dropped into postion by helicopters.

The cameras on the ski jumps will stay put, but rest assured that the cameramau De Bonis assigns to the top of the 90-meter event - 300 feet above the ground - will rush inside when the

We had two volunteers for the top ski jump position," De Bonis said. "We know how cold it can get up there, so available. For that position I needed my best long lens man because he'll be doing beauty shots of Lake Placid besides the ski jumping. And he had to be strong physically and unafraid of heights."

ABC did the World Cup ski races here last March and tested its camera positions on the mountain, but the camera cable used then had to be completely pulled out for fear the bears, porcupines and raccoons would munch through them. ABC now has 50 miles of cable, all above ground, on Whiteface Mountain.

Another problem ABC faces is that, as host broadcaster, it must supply the world feed, too.

'We've never had this international pressure before," said Chuck Howard, ABC Sports. "If we don't deliver to the world broadcasters our pride will be hurt. But it could also hurt our international relationships for our Wide World of Sports show. The world feed consists of pictures of every competitor and every competition, but no American announcers. ABC will supplement its international coverage with special cameras and its own an-

For better or worse, Howard Cosell will be sitting this Olympics out. "He never been involved before and I can't imagine him in ski pants," said Arledge, We made the decision and Howard agreed with us," said Spence. But for those counting on Lake Place being a respite from Cosell, Chuck How ard's words are ominious. "Remembe Lake Placid is a one-hour plane ride away," he said. "If we want to stir things

Free Kick Time

By MICKEY HERSKOWITZ

Q. I was watching the Washington-New York Giants game and Washington tried a free kick in the last minute of the game. Could you explain the rules for a free kick and does the team have to be outside a special range?

-Steven Pap Hobbs, N. M.

A. If a member of the receiving team signals for a fair catch, either on a punt or a kickoff, his team may elect to try a free place kick from the spot of the catch. The option is usually taken just before halftime. No center snap is required, and no rush is allowed — the other team must line up 10 yards away.

The last time we remember this being accomplished was by Paul Hornung for Green Bay in the early 1960s. In Washington's case, kicker Mark Moseley attempted a 74-yard field goal. Oddly, Moseley has been lobbying for a long time for a shot at breaking Tom Dempsey's 63-yard record. But 74 was just too

Q. Didn't Earl Weaver of the Baltimore Orioles set a record for most games played under protest? How many did he win? Why are managers allowed on the field when in all other sports coaches are not allowed on the field?

-Ed Snyder Greenwood, Del.

A. If Weaver broke a record, it was his own. The Little Genius played six games under protest last season, which is about his average, according to Oriole publicity people. He even protested one game on both sides of the same question, but it would take 500 words to explain that. He won none, of course. Conferences on the mound allow fans to hop out for a beer and a hot dog. The manager is usually asking the pitcher and catcher where is a good spot to go after

Q. What statistics are used to rate NFL quarterbacks? On the basis of ratings, who were the top three performers in 1978 and how are they doing this

-John McBride, Cherokee Village, Ark.

A. Quarterbacks are rated on four categories: Percentage of completions, average gain per pass attempt, percentage of interceptions and percentage of

The top three in 1978 were Roger Staubach 84.9, Terry Bradshaw 84.8 and Dan Fouts 83.2. Through 14 games this season Staubach was leading the league with 92.5, Bradshaw has 79.7 and Fouts an 82.2.

Q. Who will be doing the Super Bowl telecast next time?

-Jake Randle, Anderson, Ind.

A. No doubt Pat Summerall and Tom Brookshier will be the central figures for CBS, whose turn it is. But look for special work by John Madden and George Allen. Madden is regarded in network circles as the rookie of the year amongcommentators. Which is nice for the ex-Oakland coach's ulcer.

Q. Help! You fellows have passed out some pretty good betting tips in the past. How about something ourrent on the NFL season? -Ken Landau, Jackson, Miss.

A. Sorry, pal, but we'll have to leave you on your own — except to note one obvious factor: That Dallas and Pittsburh are overpriced every week due to their Super Bowl reputations.

It has been the screwiest pro football season in memory. Even a savant such as Gerald Strine, who bets paper money on the games in his column, is down $440 for the year, and Strine doesn't even figure in the vigorish.

Q. Who was responsible for getting rid of Charley McClendon as LSU football coach? The narrow defeats the team suffered to USC and Alabama, with a lot less material, indicate the Tigers were well coached.

-Ken Levin, Little Rock, Ark

A. Billy Cannon, the 1959 Heisman Trophy winner at LSU and now a dentist in Baton Rouge, is generally accorded the palm for ending McClendon's tenure. He sought an audience with the school's Board of Supervisors two years ag oonvinced them that McClendon could not recruit and his offensive was too conservative. They listened and acted.

Q. The California Angels never got into the bidding to keep their ace pitcher Nolan Ryan. Can you tell me if Ryan's absence next season won't hurt the An-

-Larry Freund, Ames lowa.

A. Angels' manager Jim Fregosi admits that, "Nolan Ryan was valuable as a drawing card a few seasons ago, before we had anything else. But now that California has won its division, the fans follow us, not Ryan.

However, you can bet Ryan will fill Houston's Astrodome a number of times

Counter Suit Under Study In Komlo Case

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) - Detroit Lions' quarterback Jeff Komlo may have grounds for a lawsuit against the man who claims he was injured by Komlo in a barroom altercation, his attorney says.

Brian Smith, Komlo's attorney, said he is "very disturbed" by statements to the local media by Charlie Fatheringham, who said he suffered cuts on the back of his head when struck by a ricocheting beer mug Komlo threw at teammate Keith Dorney.

Fatheringham, of Oakland County, has vowed through his attorney to sue for damages, saying he is "quite sure" Komlo and Dorney "were drunk" at the time of the incident.

Komlo and Dorney, a rookie offensive lineman, got into a dispute in a Rochester bar Nov. 29 after Dorney made a joke about Komlo's quarterbacking abilities while they watched a Thursday night game between the Miami Dolphins and the New England Patriots.

Komlo, the rookie quarterback out of the University of Delaware, hurled a beer mug that hit Dorney in the face, giving him a black eye. Fatheringham claims the mug then ricocheted off Dorney and hit him in the back of the head

Smith said his investigation of the incident "flies in the face" of the story Fatheringham told in a taped interview with a local radio station.

"I have to listen to that tape and decide where we go from here," Smith

'The guy (Fatheringham's attorney) called me last week and told me it was minor." Smith continued. "The next thing I know it's in papers all over the country. I think it's just a low blow."

Smith said he has not been notified of any suit having been filed against either Komlo or Dorney, nor has he received any evidence proving Fatheringham was injured by the beer mug. "If Jeff Komlo has any responsibility.

he will stand up to it," Smith said. "But when you start throwing mud around, you had better be prepared to defend going to lose," Trabert admits. "I'm not going to tell them that, so I say 5-0. But L do think that will be the final score.

Trabert and the rest of the American team have good reason for such optimism. Unlike some past years when the U.S. squad was a patchwork affair, the four players facing Italy on Friday, Saturday and Sunday are among the best in the world and heavily favored to keep the Cup won last year against Great Britain.

John McEnroe, the kid with the terrible temper, is arguably the best player in the country at the moment, and second in the world after Bjorn Borg. Singles teammate Vitas Gerulaitis, he of the flowing blond locks, is one of the best after Borg, McEnroe and Jimmy Con-

Stan Smith and Bob Lutz have been one of the best doubles teams for years and have won 11 matches in Davis Cup play since 1968, with only one loss, that to Australia earlier this year.

The Americans will face an Italian team of Corrado Barazzutti, Adriano Panatta and Paolo Bertolucci. Barazzutti and Panatta will play singles while Panatta and Bertolucci will pair for doubles.

"You don't get to the finals of the Davis Cup if you are not good," Trabert cautions those who take the Italians lightly. "And these guys have been there three times in the last four years.

On paper we are stronger but you never know what will happen. How else do you explain an Atlanta beating San Diego in football or the Mets winning the World Series or the United States Josing to Ecuador. Colombia or Mexico in past Davis Cups."

McEnroe, who began Davis Cup competition last year, has won eight straight Cup matches, taking 22 straight sets along the way. He also has never lost to either Barazzutti and Panatta in regular tournament play.

BOBSLED TESTS

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) - A third day of testing the bobsled run at Mt. Van Hoevenberg, site of luge and bobsled competition for the 1980 Winter Olympics, was planned today as temperatures plunged into the 20s after a day of warm

We're not going to lose," McEnroe says. "It doesn't matter what the pairings are. I really enjoy playing Davis Cup when I was little it was what I always wanted to do. And if I didn't play, they'd bring up that whole brat thing. McEnroe was on last year's winning American team but Gerulaitis has never

"I think that Vitas' voice will be a couple octaves higher on Friday." Trabert jokes. "He's the kind who'll give it the old casual air and then put both legs into the same side of his shorts.

'It's tough to stay calm when they say, 'Now serving for the United States.'

Extinct Volcano Lures Tourists

By TED J. SIMON

A-J Travel Editor Regretably, it is named a mountain. This writer has nothing against majestic peaks, but in New Mexico where one sees plenty of mountains, the name of another mountain may dissuade some people from visiting a very interesting geological feature.

Capulin Mountain, in the northeastern corner of New Mexico between Clayton and Raton, is crowned by the cone of an extinct volcano. The steep cone of ash and cinder is a picturesque formation that rises more than 1,000 feet above the surrounding land

The volcano was active about 10,000 years ago, which means it was spewing lava about the time that Folsom man was fashioning the famed projectile points for his hunting spears. That time period also means that Capulin is a "new" for-

What makes Capulin Mountain National Monument such an interesting place to visit is that it is much more than another landmark just to be viewed from a distance. Capulin is a unique site to be explored outside and inside. That's right, you can actually go down into the cuplike interior via a trail that leads to the crater's floor.

First of all, to fully appreciate your visit to Capulin, you should stop at the visitor center situated between the main road and the almost perfectly shaped cone. At the visitor center you can obtain a free brochure that describes the geological history of the volcano and the surrounding countryside that also experienced great volcanic activity

A very interesting audio-visual program-in the center will show the awsome power of volcanoes and the effects of lava flows. Books, pamphlets, color slides and other materials relating to volacances are for sale inside the center. Park personnel are available to answer questions pertaining to Capulin, and the flora and fauna of the immediate area.

Wildflower enthusiasts will be surprised by the variety of species to be found along the crater's sides and rim. However, because the sides of the immense cone are quite steep, it's best to give full attention to your driving until you reach the large parking lot atop the western rim of the crater. The paved road that begins at the visitor center takes you all the way around the cone of the valcano before reaching the top.

Near the parking lot is a foot trail that leads to the bottom of the crater. Also by the parking lot is a small shelter that contains booklets (25 cents each) that will describe features to be found along the

The walk around the crater's rim is a must-do activity for all that are physicalv capable of the mile-long excursion. Is a moderate climb for a few vards at the beginning of the trail, but then the footpath is fairly level the rest of the way until you reach the end of the trail and walk down to the starting point.

Most people shouldn't have any trouble with the trail, just keep in mind that you have ascended quickly to an altitude to which you may not be accustomed. The altitude and brisk winds may also make the temperatures several degrees than those which are experienced at the base of the mountain. Be sure to have sturdy shoes with non-slip soles for the rim walk. Needless to say, the walk should not be attempted if there are thunder-storms in the area.

Numbered posts along the rim trail will correspond to the booklet to inform you of the many interesting plants on the rim itself, and of the distant points of interest on the plain below

A walk around the crater's rim will show how prevailing southwesterly winds whirling around and inside the crater have caused some trees to bend in order to survive, and how vegetation zones can quickly change in a within a very short distance.

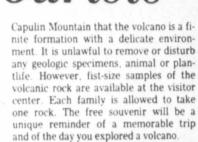

From the rim, looking away from the crater, a visitor enjoys a panoramic scene that takes in portions of Colorado, Oklahoma, Texas, and of course New Mexico. At one point, you'll see what look like abandoned farm lands - and you'll be correct in your assumption. There are former crop lands that were abandoned during the drought years of the early 1930s. In another direction, if you look closely, you can make out the ruts of a wagon trail that branched off of the famous Santa Fe Trail.

The remarkable cone also was a landmark for Comanche and Kiowa, and the great cattle drives along the Goodnight Trail. History, nature, geology - it's all at Capulin Mountain.

Capulin Mountain National Monument is administered by the National Park Service, U.S. Department of the Interior. The park is open year around; however, the road to the summit may be closed occasionally because of snow. The monument area is open to visitors from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Labor Day through Memorial Day; closing time is 6 p.m. during the summer months.

A picnic area (with fresh water and restrooms) is near the visitor center, but no camping is allowed within the monument area. Food and overnight accommodations are available at Clayton and Raton on US 87. Specific information pertaining to the monument area is available by writing: Superinterdent, National Park Service, Capulin, NM 88414.

Please keep in mind when visiting

volcanoes in the continental United States. The extinct crater is just north of the town of Capulin, off U.S. 87,

PLANT LIFE - An abundance of vegetation covers the ash, cinder and other rock debris that formed the volcanic cone of Capulin Mountain. A portion of the mountain is grassland and part is forest. # SEC Launches Probe Of Money Market Funds

By PHILIP GREER And MYRON KANDEL

The explosive growth of money market funds - and something less than a full explanation of the risks involved in them - has touched off an investigation by the Securities and Exchange Commis-

"We don't think there's anything wrong going on there," a commission staffer told us, "but we do think a lot of people are putting their money into them who haven't been told how they work and what can happen.

What can happen is that the return on the funds - touted now at around 12 percent and even more - can swing sharply up and down, so that investors who cash them in at the wrong time have to settle for a lot less than they expected.

In fact, that's just what happened to several funds in October, after the Federal Reserve pushed interest rates up sharply. The $1.8 billion Reserve Fund, the one that started the whole idea, got down to a 4.43 per cent yield on Oct. 12. The Scudder Managed Reserve Fund was only 4.32 percent around the

'If an investor just leaves the money in the fund, those changes won't affect him, the SEC man said. "But the funds make a big point that you can put money in and take it out the next tday. A lot of people and businesses do that - and some of them end up getting stuck because they have to withdraw money on the wrong day. The funds do say there are risks involved - this isn't a bank account - but I don't think they explain it enough

The reason for the sharp swings which could become upward moves if the current decline in interest rates picks up steam - is in the way the funds value their shares. Although they don't have the same purpose as mutual funds, they have to put the same kind of daily value on them that the mutuals do.

The funds invest their money primariin short-term notes issued by banks and corporations. When interest rates go up, the market value of that paper goes down. So even though the notes are paid off in full when they mature, there has to be a charge against the fund somewhere.

For money funds, though, maintaining the asset value per share is the most important thing. As William Donoghue, publisher of Donoghue's Money Market Report, explains it, "The important things to these funds are safety, liquidity and yield, in that order. They have to make sure that the customer's principal is safe, no matter what."

In order to maintain that value - to make sure that $1,000 invested will always be worth that $1,000 - the funds have to "borrow" some value from other places, namely the return they get on their investments. So, when interest rates go up the yield on the funds goes down, at least for a short time.

Shellfish Endanger loggers

WASHINGTON (Special) - If you think there's something fishy about jogging, you could be right, says the Health Insurance Institute.

Physicians in Colorado report that one jogger, after eating shellfish, experienced a serious allergic reaction while running. "In 30 workouts of 10 to 15 kilometers each in one month, the runner had no allergic reaction...until he ran after eating shellfish," said Dr. Alan L. Schockett at the University of Colorado Medical Center.

In one instance, the jogger ate boiled shrimp five hours before running and, in another, ate smoked oysters 20 hours prior to running. In each case, he experienced an anaphylactic reaction - hives and inability to breathe, said the doctor. Dr. Schockett and his colleagues could find no previous report of such a "late reaction to shellfish precipitated only by strenuous exercise.

What caused it? "We're not sure," Schockett told the Institute. However, exercise-induced allergic reaction may be more common than we think." And they may not be limited to jogging. Other strenuous exercise, such as swimming, might cause the same effect, he said. Such reactions can be treated-with adrenalin.

While not advising people to give up either exercise or shellfish Dr. Schockett said. "Here is yet another factor to consider as Americans increasingly take up running for sport and exercise.

Justice Department Cites Price Fixing

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Justice Department says eight distributors of corn derivative products conspired to fix prices over the past five years in violation of a 1951 Federal Trade Commission cease and desist order.

The government filed a complaint in U.S. District Court in San Francisco recently. The companies, which distribute such products as corn syrup, dextrin, corn sugar and corn oil, are: CPC Interonal, Inc. of Englewood Cliffs, N.J.; A.E. Stealey Manufacturing Co. of Decatur, Ill.; Standard Brands Inc. of New York City; Penick and Ford Ltd. o Cedar Raids, Iowa; American Maize Products of New York City; Anheuser Busch Inc. of St. Louis; the Hubinger Co. of Keokuk, Iowa, and National Starch and Chemical Corp. of Bridgewater, N.J.

The 16,410,030 shares traded at the New York Stock Exchange on Black Tuesday, Oct. 29, 1929, set a volume record that lasted until April 1, 1968.

Seattle Woman, 90, Plays In Orchestra

SEATTLE (UPI) - When the Seattle Philharmonic launched into a recent performance of Tchaikovsky, Doris Walter kept up with the best of them. And why not? She's been playing her violin for 86

Every time it hurt I just said, 'I'm going to do twice as much and by the grace of the dear Lord, it won't happen again.' And after a while

About the only thing in Meany Hall during the Philharmonic's performance Sunday night that was older than Doris was her violin -an Amati - which she reckons to be over a hundred.

It was a gift to her at graduation from Mount Holyoke in South Hadley, Mass. After college, she studied under Jacques Hoffman, concert master for Arthur Fiedler, and later taught music along with German and French.

But even with all that under her belt, Doris was nervous about making the Seattle Philharmonic when she first came to the Pacific Northwest in 1965.

"I was really worried," Doris says. "You play better that way. Then a friend of mine whspered to me as I left, 'I was listening through a crack in the door. They'll take you."

Through the years Doris has seen wars come and go, depressions, recessions, the arrival of the automobile and airplane.

Knowledge Of Chinese Handy

Associated Press Writer

PEKING - So many people are going to China these days, the place is getting to be like the Catskills.

It's only a matter of time before the Hotel of the Nationalities begins booking big name acts into the ballroom, instead of deputy chairmen quoting production statistics, and hires tumblers to yock it up with the guests in the dining room between the nine-color dimsum dish and the sea slugs with sticky rice. Already a number of Mandarin phrase books are on the market, dedicated to teaching the tourist "clear and concise Chinese" in a matter of a few hours or between the first martini and the in-flight movie on the way over. Mastering a few words in Mandarin is not a bad idea before scrutinizing the inscrutable East.

Certainly the first-time visitor to Old Cathay should have in his instant Oriental vocabulary the words bi-jyou, bing and ping. Don't leave home without Bi-jyou is beer, and Chinese beer is quite refreshing, if a trifle gaseous, after a long morning savoring the delights and statistics of the Evergreen Commune Bing, as in Crosby, is ice, a necessary ingredient for concocting martinis with thoroughly adequate Chinese vodka. Ping, as in Ping-Pong, is hot water. Getting bing and ping confused can only delay the cocktail hour, as one of our press group, Andy Andersen of the Omaha World-Herald, found out one thirsty night in Kunming. His imprecise diction caused relays of room boys to go shuttling down the hall with tall thermos bottles of boiled water instead of ice buckets. Wo chi gou le" is a handy expression to unload on your hosts in self-de-tense during those endless Chinese banquets, which no tourist can escape.

It means, "I have had enough," and can also be used when your guide asks if this morning you would prefer to see a textile factory, an agricultural commune, the revolutionary museum or an experimental sheep castration station. One could also answer, a trifle petulantly: "Ching ni mintyan dzaucheng bu vau ivausving women. This, spelled phonetically like all the expressions employed here, has nothing to do with jealous women but means, "We would like not to be disturbed until noon tomorrow." In modern, up-and-doing China it is a rather useless expression, since the room boys will be pounding on the door at 8 a.m. no matter what you tell the telephone operator or hang on the doorknob short of an antipersonnel mine

One of the Mandarin phrase books I have at hand has an even more useless expression: "Hau fan-gwar dzai nali?" - "Where is there a good Chinese restaurant?" It is followed, interestingly enough, on the next page by the phrase: "yisheng wode dudz bu shufu" - "I feel sick in the stomach, doctor.

The people in the People's Republic are smiling and friendly, but not much on small talk. For openers, you might try "Ling bwo bwo you jyou jin shan de dzau pyan" - "My uncle has a picture of San Francisco," but I never quite figured out where the conversation should go from there.

Perhaps "kwo chyu de sz miao syandzai dou bian chen bwowugwan" Buddhist temples are now museums" - might change the subject nicely but at the expense of being trotted off to another museum, where no rock is left unturned or unexplained for the tourist's edification.

So beware of come-on phrases like: "jintyan chyu tsangwan sywesyau ma?" "Visit a school today?" and instead politely answer, "wo syuyau che tung yau": "I need some aspirins." The guide's reaction, of course, will be "women de gung gung — chiche dzai wu fen jung nay lai": "our bus will be here in five minutes." There is no short shrifting the culture in the People's Republic.

"Jer ching cha feichang hau" - "the green tea is excellent" is a charming acknowledgement of the covered mugs of steaming tea that greet the traveler at every pause in the day's program, but one wishes the guide book also had included the question: "How do you get the leaves to sink to the bottom?

One of the phrase books I have collected offers "chi-ywe lyoushr syingchiwu dzai jyan" - "see you Friday, July the 6th," without indicating whether this nails down an actual rendezvous or if it is to be used as one of those all purpose sarcasms like "over my dead body" or "In a pig's eye."

Anyhow, it reminded me that when my brother moved to Massapequa, out on Long Island, a new Chinese laundry opened in the shopping center. The proprietor, lately arrived on the docks in a barrel of soybeans, knew only one word of English! "Thursday." If you turned in your wet-wash on Wednesday night, you got terrific service.

After traveling twice to China, I still find that the most useful phrase of all is the one that I have employed to good advantage in many languages in many

San Antonio Minister Heads Baptist Panel

FORT WORTH (AP) - A San Antonio minister, hailed as "one of the more effective and powerful Christian workers of this generation," has been named president of the Southern Baptist Radio and Television Commission.

Dr. Jimmy Allen, pastor of the First Baptist Church in San Antonio, said he expects to assume his new duties Jan. 15.

Fred Isaacs of Cosby, Tenn., chairman of the commission's trustees and head of the search committee, announced the appointment this week following a meeting of the full board.

Roll Call Votes Of Area Legislators Reported

members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes Nov. 29 through Dec. 5:

NUCLEAR POWER - By a vote of 135 for and 254 against, the House rejected a proposed six-month freeze on Nuclear Regulatory Commission construction permits for nuclear power plants. The amendment was offered to a bill (HR 2608) that was headed for final passage and conference with the Senate. The vote was only symbolic inasmuch as the commission said earlier it would issue no nuclear plant construction permits or operating licenses for at least six months.

Rep. Edward Markey, 'D-Mass, sponsor of the amendment, said it would " send a message to the industry and the commission that Congress will no longer tolerate any corner-cutting in the area of nuclear safety.'

Rep. Matthew Rinaldo, R-N.J., an opponent, said defeat of the amendment would "signal to our foreign oil suppliers that we are resolved to move forward to become more energy self-sufficient."

Members voting "yea" favor a mora-Reps. Bob Eckhardt, D-8, and Henry Gonzalez, D-20, voted "yea."

Rep. Harold Runnels, D-2 (N.M.), did

TOO OLD TO FLY? - The House voted, 240 for and 165 against, to retain 60 years as the top age for the nation's commercial pilots, who are regulated by the Federal Aviation Administration. The vote also authorized a one-year study by the National Institutes of Health to determine if the age should be raised. It thus blocked an attempt to immediately hike the age to 611/2 and then proceed with the institute study. The vote came during debate on HR 3948, passed and sent to the Senate.

Rep. James Howard, D-N.J., a supporter, said: "Let us change or not ots based on solid medical evidence, not emotion

Rep. Glenn Anderson, D-Calif., an opponent, called the 60-year limit "discriminatory" and said that "statistics clearly show that the more experienced, older pilots are involved in many fewer accidents than the least-experienced ones.

Members voting "yea" wanted to keep 60 years as the top age for commercial pilots, at least until the institute study is completed. Hall, Wilson, Mattox, Gramm, Archer, Wright, Hightower, Wyatt, de la Garza, White, Hance, Gonzalez, Paul, Kazen and Lujan voted "yea. Collins, Roberts, Eckhardt, Pickle, Leath, Stenholm, Leland, Loeffler and Runnels voted "nay.

Brooks and Frost did not vote. VISTA — By a vote of 214 for and 152 against, the House extended the life of VISTA (the so-called domestic Peace Corps) and certain other programs of the Action agency for another two years. The vote adopted the House-Senate conference report on S 239, thus readying the measure for President Carter's signa-

Opposition centered on the fact that ed. 58 for and 35 against, to increase the the House-Senate conference committee had removed most of the restrictions the House had earlier voted to put on VISTA operations. Stripped away at the Senate's insistence, for example, were provisions enabling Congress to veto VISTA regulations and local officials to keep VISTA projects out of their areas. Rep. Paul Simon, R-Ill., a suporter. said the compromise version worked out by House and Senate conferees "really improves the bill Rep. Ken Kramer, R-Colo., an opponent, said the conference report "guts" most of the tough House language and fails "to insure the integrity of the programs designed to assist the least advantaged among our citizenry.

Members voting "nay" wanted to restrict VISTA operations.

Mattox, Eckhardt, Brooks, Pickle, Wright, Wyatt, de la Garza, White, Leland, Gonzalez, Kazen and Frost voted Hall, Collins, Roberts, Gramm, Archer, Leath, Hightower, Stenholm, Hance, Loeffler, Paul and Lujan voted "nay. Wilson and Runnels did not vote.

SENATE WINDFALL TAX - The Senate votproposed tax rate on windfall oil company profits resulting from removal of price controls on already-discovered oil. The amendment, offered to an oil tax bill (HR 3919) headed for approval and conference with the House, would raise the rate from 60 to 75 per cent on U.S. oil discovered since 1973.

Sen. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., a supporter, said a higher tax would not discourage oil production. Higher profits, he said, "cannot provide an incentive to find something that has already been found Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., an opponent, said that with the nation dependent on foreign oil "it seems the height of folly to cripple the incentive to increase production

Senators voting "yea" favored a higher windfall-profits tax rate on oil discovered since 1973

Sens. Lloyd Bentsen, D, John Tower, R. Pete Domenici, R (N.M.), and Harrison Schmitt, R (N.M.), voted "nay.

HUGE TAX CUT - By a vote of 49 for and 44 against, the Senate turned away a Republican amendment to impose a massive tax cut by means of putting a cap on federal revenues. By limiting revenue to a percentage of the Gross National Product (20.5 per cent of GNP in 1981), the Republican proposal would have cut federal tax collections by $39 billion in 1981 and more in following years. The amendment was offered to the windfall-profits tax bill (see previous vote).

Sen. Patrick Movnihan, D-N.Y., a suporter of shelving the tax-cut proposal, said it would produce a permanent budget deficit because it would not cut federal spending at the same time it cut federal revenue-raising. He noted that its backers were also advocates of "sustained increases in military spending

Sen. Pete Domenici, R-N.M., an opponent of shelving the GOP amendment, said that the government's "insatiable desire" for taxes will "destroy the very system that produces the benefits and fruits of growth, of earnings, of vitality that is the American people's present entitlement and the dream for generations to come.

Senators voting "yea" opposed the GOP amendment. Bentson voted "yea."

Tower, Domenici and Schmitt voted

NEW YORK (AP) - You catch every word here. No mumbo-jumbo, no loud shouts, no "Sold American." The auctioneer instead firmly taps his gavel at the end of the bidding and intones with a discreet nod: "It's yours, sir."

'Sir' is an excellent choice. A man who just paid $975,000 for a diamond ring would certainly qualify as a "sir." So too a "sir," the man who bought a magnificent painting by Frederic Edwin Church for a record-shattering $2.5 million. And a "sir" as well, the man who bid $240,000 for an old envelope bearing three strikes of a rare postal cancellation

The auctioneer is John L. Marion, the house is Sotheby Parke Bernet, America's largest auction house, and the parent company is Sotheby Parke Bernet Group Ltd. of London, the largest and oldest in the world.

The auctions are among the best free shows in town and nearly all are open to the public. A few are ticketed but generally you can just walk in off Madison Avenue, smile at the armed guard and take the elevator to the third floor.

But the world of Sotheby Parke Bernet is many things besides the hawking of fine arts. It also peddles real estate, runs a thrift shop of sorts a few blocks away, appraises goods, advises investors, puts out catalogs that are collected by the Library of Congress, courts the nouveau riche, looks for valuables in closets and convents, and once sold livestock.

But, first, to the auction. Or as John Marion would say: "Good morning, ladies and gentlemen. Welcome to the competition ....

Marion, a somewhat ruddy-complexioned man of 46 with a thick head of reddish-brown hair, works the large room from a pulpit-like podium. He sometimes stands, shifting with his gaze, punctuating the air with four closed fingers to indicate the direction of a new bid.

On big auctions, extra rooms are used with a closed circuit television hookup. The main salesroom is usually festooned with paintings, maybe for that auction and maybe for a later one. A revolving stand on the stage presents the goods, except in the case of jewelry, where slides are used. Over Marion's head is a new electronic gizmo, translating each bid into Swiss and French francs, English pounds, yens, lire and marks.

Marion, as well as being considered the best of the 18 auctioneers, is president of the American branch, as was his father before him. A good auctioneer, it is said, can add 15 percent to over-all

There's a little of the headmaster prompting his charges in Marion as he works, the doting Latin teacher who peers out over his glasses and doesn't mind that his prize students toy with him just a bit. As the Church painting temporarily stalled at $190,000, Marion looked over at the Sotheby's employee relaying a bid for a client by telephone. "Say $2 million," he cajoles. She, or rather the bidder, complied. In the same sale, a less famous painting, estimated at about $20,-000, seemed to stall at $11,000.

Silence in the room.

'Fair warning then at $11,000, says Marion, hand poised to hammer it down. The bids then cascade - $12,000, $13,000, $14,000, $15,000, $16,000, $17,000, $18,000 $19 000 faster than you can count

"Poker players here today," observes the friendly headmaster.

Spotters help Marion, but he alone knows the signal bidders - people authorizing him to go up another $50,000 as long as their glasses are still on. The signs can be anything: a pencil behind the ear and I'm still in, handkerchief in my pocket, hands in pockets, etc.

Marion makes novices put their signal in writing and sign it. In any case, it is not a system designed to soothe anauctionee's nerves.

The diamond dealer who bought the 69.4-carat Cartier diamond that Elizabeth Taylor eventually came to wear used such a signal. He told Marion he was still bidding as long as his arms were folded.

"When it got to $1 million his arms were still folded and he was looking around and not paying any attention. It was going up in $50,000 jumps. I wondered if he was asleep. I wondered if he remembered," recounts Marion.

When it got to $1,050,000, the competition stopped. That, it was revealed later, was Richard Burton's agent and Burton had only - if one can use such a word here - authorized him to go to $1 million. Marion hammered it down and hoped he had sold it. As he did, the dealer smiled and unfolded his arms. Marion smiled, too.

Even when no one is playing games, it's not easy to spot the bidding. A man might just wave a finger at Marion and when he's overbid, Marion will look back. Then a nod means I'm still in it. The auctioneer decides the starting

'earn" or "go for." They "fetch." And while we're at it, don't try and give the place more class than it's got. It is not Parke Ber-NAY. It is Ber-NET.

So much for that 66 percent that nobody cares about and back to things like the long-lost Church masterpiece. Even this crowd, people accustomed to wandering by a Picasso on a back shelf, or a centuries old piece of porcelain or the ever-changing museum that is the third floor, were excited. There was an office pool - $2 to guess exactly what it would

Frederic Edwin Church is not exactly a household word, or as senior vice president Tom Norton put it: "Church might get a few paragraphs in the total history of art." But this nine-by-six-foot oil, "Icebergs," besides being absolutely breathtaking, had the romantic history of being lost for over 100 years when it turned up at a home for delinquent boys in Manchester, England. "Icebergs" selling price of $2.5 million made it the third most expensive painting ever sold at auction and the highest price ever for an American painting. John Marion poured champagne aft-Well he might. In the 3 minutes and 45 seconds it took to auction it off, Sotheby's earned half-a-million dollars. The house collects 10 percent from the buyer and the seller.

William Stahl, head of the American furniture and decorative arts department, won $300 in the pool.

The sale of the Church was exciting but it was far from the only game in

On the fourth floor, a dealer in Oriental porcelains was screaming that he wanted his money back and the company said nothing doing. He headed for the company lawyer to announce his plans to

"This is cracked," he told the expert. You can see the crack when you hold it up to the light. You must have seen it and you did not list it in the catalog. The catalog said only that it was chipped.

The dealer is up against Sotheby Parke Bernet's First Commandment: 'As Is." The sign is on the walls. It's in every catalog. That's why potential bidders are allowed to handle the most expensive items. It is not a world of caveat emptor, however. The company will take something back within five years if it is not what Sotheby Parke Bernet said it was. Trouble with that is the company is very, very cautious, and all exceptions are explained in the catalog.

The Church painting, for instance, with all the history, was only listed as 'ascribed" to Church. Prove it's not a Church and Sotheby's can plead they never said it was.

Still, they make mistakes. Not many. We have to eat 50 to 100 items a year," says Robert Wooley, senior vice president in charge of decorative arts.

Dealers and the public mingle in most exhibitions, but the jewelry dealers the real tire kickers of examining the merchandise - get their very own day.

When the big rings were auctioned off, the big spender got up to leave. He had gotten what he came for - a ring that cost just $25,000 less than that magical price tag — $1 million.

On a grander search, Sotheby Parke Bernet has been runing "Heirloom Discovery Days" since 1976. It's partly a fund-raiser for a co-sponsoring institution, such as a museum, but it's also good publicity and occasionally turns up a real

The experts fly to a city and for $5 a crack, they will give a quick evaluation. Not every one is eager to sell.

"Some people just want to know if they should commit suicide if the cat knocks it off the mantle or just kick the cat," says Wooley, the man whose department receives most of the treasures.
