hive months later, the same girl who in June barely had enough energy to walk was running down the halls of the hospital The reason for the change of health was that Patricia LaFaurie, now 13, reeived a kidney transplanted from her mother Myrna The transplant operation was performed Nov. 1 at Health Sciences Center Hospital by Dr. Richard Lawton

Her disease was urologic in nature Lawton said. She was born with an obstruction of the drainage of both kid-

Patricia had undergone two months of treatment in Barranquilla, Colombia After doctors there could not help, they consulted a registry of dialysis centers in the U.S. Mrs. Labaurie decided to come to Texas because her sister, Tuly, and Tuly's husband, Jack Hefley, live in Lubbook. They came here with a letter of recommendation to a doctor in Amarillo The Colombian doctors didn't think Patricia would survive very long, even on dialysis. Lawton said

In the U.S., people are on dialyis to rehabilitate them. It is possible to live that way, but it isn't good for a child they don't grow are hard to handle and ion t thrive while on dialysis. the sur-

The Labauries arrived in Lubbock lune 20 and visited Dr Lawton for the first time June 24 Lawton said they knew after initial tests Patricia had a terminal kidney disease

The Texas Health Commission and Medicare program both approved dialysis treatment for Patricia and Lawton ucts, but those things you need to have In the United States, everyone treated by dialysis or transplants is covered by Medicare, regardless of the patient's age. Lawton said Dialysis is considered outpatient care and Medicare pays 80 per-ent with the Texas Health Commission paying the remaining 20 percent, he said. Dialysis is a mechanical process for removing impurities from the blood and evening out things in the body when the kidneys can no longer perform this function. Lawton said

In the dialysis treatment, an instrument called a shunt is implanted in the arm. There are two plastic tubes in the shunt, one going to an artery and the other in a vein. The shunt is attached to a kidney machine where the blood is drawn in and cleansed

Dialysis patients usually spend from tour to six hours on the machine three times a week

Lawton said Dr. Glenn Stanbaugh and social worker Rudy Rangel played important roles in getting the Medicare approval Rangel also acted as interpreter in an operation to implant the shunt

Neither Mrs LaFaurie nor Patricia speaks any English. Through her sister, Mrs Helley, who acted as interpreter, Mrs LaFaurie said, "Patricia was very atraid when she first came here. She was sleeping most of the time and crying a

Mrs Hefley said she and her husband saw a TV program about kidney transplants, so they visited Dr. Lawton, who explained exactly what was involved.

Once she (Mrs. LaFaurie) knew it could save the child's life, her response was immediate - without hesitation, she wanted to give her kidney," she said.

Mrs LaFaurie was afraid of the operation because she had never had surgery before. Mrs. Hefley said, but she never hesitated about giving up a kidney. Patri-

Nov. 1, the operation took place. Dr. Odis Avant did the donor operation, removing the kidney and preparing it for transplantation by washing it out with a special solution and cooling it to 4 degrees Centigrade. Most transplanted kidneys are placed near the groin area, Lawton said, and this operation was no exception. He made the incision and isolated the veins and arteries that would be attached to

Murder-for-hire plot results in two arrests murder-for-hire plot was revealed here Monday, which resulted in the local arrest of a 41-year-old Chicago man and the apprehension of his wite by Illinois State Police

Vaso V. Mraovic was arrested Monday after he allegedly plotted to have Arthur Boldt, owner of the McDonald Restaurant franchise in Lubbock, killed The suspect's wife, Ann Riffner Mraovic, also was taken into custody about 2 30 pm Monday at her Chicago home.

The couple allegedly had hired a "hit man" to kill Boldt. A dispute between Boldt and the Mraovics over a will left by the restauranteur's late wife was the apparent motive for the planned killing, investigators said

Mraovic was arraigned on a capital murder solicitation charge before Justice She would have died within a week if of the Peace Charles Smith, who set the man's bond at $250,000 Mrs. Mraovic reportedly plans to fight extradition to Lubbock to face the same charge. The alleged "hit man" notified authorities of the plan last week, investigators

Authorities also rounded up suspects this week in connection with two separate violent crimes in the city — the Nov 21 killing of a 22-year-old Lubbock man and the holdup Friday of the Town and Country convenience store at 2025 Clovis

A 15-year-old Lubbock boy, who police said was caught on camera wielding a sawed-off shotgun and robbing the convenience store about 10 pm Friday, turned himself in to police Monday after-

A "Crime Eye" camera operating at the 24-hour business recorded the heist, which netted an undetermined amount of money Police said viewing the film of the holdup helped them identify the young suspect, who was handed over to juvenile authorities after his surrender.

In other activity, a 52-year-old Amanilo man and his two sons, also of Amarillo, were transferred Tuesday to the Lubbock County Jail after being charged with the Nov 21 murder of Raymond Padilla, 22, of 2910 Ave. H. Apt. 1.

Charged with the city's 29th murder were Frank G. Vellesca and his two sons. Marcus, 23, and Adam, 19. Justice of the Peace Charles Smith set bonds for each of the suspects at $100,000.

Acting on information recieved by city police during their investigation of the beating death, Amarillo authorities arrested the three men Saturday.

The arrests ended more than a weeklong search for suspects in the murder. Padilla was found about 7:30 a.m. Nov. 21 unconscious and severely beaten about the head in the 2700-block of Texas Avenue. A passerby spotted the victim lying next to a trash dumpster just off the street and called police.

Padilla died at Health Sciences Center Hospital two days later after undergoing surgery Police said he never regained consciousness.

Police centered their investigation around a tip that a man Padilla had been in a fight with last month was seen leaving a club just behind the victim just hours before the Lubbockite was discovered unconscious. A tip Lubbock police received Tuesday from an anonymous caller led to the arrest of an 18-year-old Abernathy man and a 23-year-old Fresno, Calif, man for alleged possession of cocaine, LSD, methamphetamine and marijuana and unlawtully carrying a weapon.

The caller told police the two men were eating at a restaurant in the 600block of Avenue Q. Police also were told that when the suspects left the restaurant they would travel north to the Amarillo Highway and drugs could be found in

Officers followed the men to North Avenue Q and U.S. 87, where they were apprehended

Reports indicate a 22-caliber revolver and 25 rounds of ammunition were confiscated from the vehicle, along with a quantity of suspected narcotics. While the search continued, one of the suspects reportedly was seen stuffing a glass vial between the seat of a patrol car Upon inspection, an officer said he found several keys and two vials containing a white powdery substance

Preliminary tests revealed the substances found in the suspects' vehicle included methamphetamine, commonly known as "speed," cocaine, 30 paper-like containers of LSD and more than four ounces of marijuana, police said.

ARMED WITH both the logic and the language of the Constitution, a persuasive case was prepared by attorneys for the nonprofit legal foundation, one of the country's new breed of conservative public interest law firms," according to Edwin Feulner, president of The Heritage Foundation.

U.S. District Court Judge Oliver Gasch ruled last month in favor of Sen. Goldwater and his colleagues.

In his decision, Judge Gasch said that one thing was clear: that in order to alter the basic law of the land, a President needs the approval of a majority of Congress.

Instead, Mr. Carter opted to act as a majority of one

"The important point is that treaty termination generally is a shared power, which cannot be exercised by the President acting alone," the judge wrote. "Neither the Executive nor Legislative branch has exclusive power to terminate treaties.'

AT LEAST under the circumstances of this case—involving a significant mutual defense treaty with a faithful ally who has not violated the terms of the agreement-any decision of the U.S. to terminate that treaty must be made with the advice and consent of the Senate or the approval of both Houses of Congress, said the judge.

"That decision," Judge Gasch wrote, "cannot be made by the President alone. His decision came none too soon, since the treaty was set to terminate on Dec. 31.

The worst of time brings on the best to Americans. And our best, I might add. is very good

The Iranian crisis is not the worst experience this country has even suffered through, but it has been a terrible ordeal

If anyone thinks that the people of this country are spoiled and soft and uwilling to sacrifice. I would urge them to take note of two out of many revealing incidents that have occurred during this

In one case the Texas Wheat Produ-

The Texas wheat farmers then went as to tell the President that "Inasmuch as Texas and U.S. wheat has continue to be sold to Iran as a balance of payment medium to offset oil imports, this is to let you know that Texas wheat producers in interest of a show of strength of national unity would support you in a decision to now stop wheat sales to Iran and in face to urge you to do so if you should determine that it is in the interest of national security

A second incident which shows the fiber of the American people involves a letter I received a few weeks ago from a constituent in Plainview. Attach to it was

Principles of nutrition rank as high priority

By Connie Chapman Update staff writer

Mrs. Burnett is not now professionally employed in her field, but sees the application of many of the principles of good nutrition as a high priority for homemakers like herself.

The microwave oven helps her accomplish this priority. She said, "I use my microwave every day and for almost

However, Mrs. Burnett sees this new addition to cooking tools as yet another option to the conventional oven and range top. "For many meals, I use all three surfaces," she said.

The microwave especially speeds up breakfast preparation "unless, of course, we are going to do something specially on the griddle," she said.

The shorter cooking time required by the microwave process retains the nutritive value of foods and thus has an advantage over processes requiring longer cooking times during which nutrients can be cooked away, she said

Mrs Burnett has some suggestions for homemakers looking at microwave ovens as a possible Christmas purchase She said the average cook probably can make the best use of the "middle-of-theline model.

She believes some of the more sophisticated features may not be practical for the average family Mrs Burnett also advises those shopping for a microwave to look carefully for sales and get the right model for their own needs at the best

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The national Christmas tree is a living tree.

It is planted in a park across the street from the White House.

Soon it will be decorated again. The president will throw the switch to turn on the lights, just as presidents have done for many years.

The Mini Page went to last year's lighting.

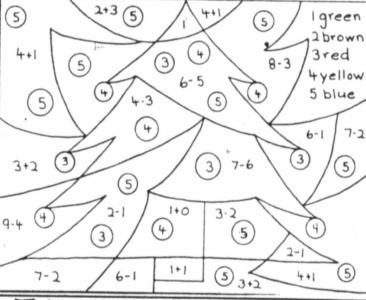

Over 10,000 people waited outside for the big moment. Millions watched on TV.

This year the tree will be lit on December 13.

The lighting is a part of the Pageant for Peace, a two-week holiday celebration Meet Tim Conway, the funny man of TV and movies held in the park.

South American girl the new kidney. When the kidney was brought in, he completed the surgery.

The recipient operation took about three hours, Lawton said. In a previous operation, he had removed both of Patricia's kidneys. It isn't always necessary to remove the useless kidneys in a transplant case, Lawton said, but it was in this case because Patricia's kidneys were infected.

In the first month after the transplant, there have been no signs of Patricia's body rejecting the new kidney, Lawton said. He wants the LaFauries to stay in the Lubbock area for six months to a year, so he can observe Patricia. "The main thing we are concerned about is rejection and the control of the immunity-suppressing drugs," he said.

Kidney transplant saves

Though Patricia was in the hospital for three weeks, Mrs. LaFaurie was released after eight days. "In the beginning, there was a pain on the side where my kidney was removed," Mrs. LaFaurie said. "I couldn't feel my leg at first. Now I feel back to normal, like nothing happened."

"I'm very happy," she said. "I know my kidney is still functioning in my daughter and it is giving her back her She added that anyone who gets the opportunity to donate a kidney should do it

"Going through an operation to give someone else life gives the person a sense of esteem and pride," Lawton said. "It is something few people can do."

The LaFauries plan to go back to Colombia at Christmas for a visit. Patricia has been worried about her father, who was in a car accident and was in a wheelchair when they left, Mrs. Hefley said.

Asked about her feelings about Lubbock, Mrs. LaFaurie said, "I want to express my thanks to all people in Lubbock and in the hospital and dialysis center for being so nice and helpful."

Mail early to avoid rush

Christmas is rapidly approaching and those who have not yet mailed their cards and packages should do so now to avoid a last minute Christmas mail rush.

Third class packages should be mailed as soon as possible and first class packages and Christmas cards should be mailed by Dec. 17 to reach points across the country.

Local mail does not need to be sent quite as early, but by doing so, postal customers can aid the post office in avoiding a last minute avalanche.

The Postal Service is asking customers to use pressure-sensitive tape or packing tape reinforced with nylon to seal packages. Masking tape and cellophane tape are not strong enough and are no longer recommended.

Smudge-proof ink should be used to write addresses, and zip codes should be used both for the address and return address. Brown wrapping paper and twine cord are not necessary. The wrapping paper can rip off and twine can get caught in processing machinery.

The mailing party should put a slip of paper with the recipient's name and address and his return address inside the box. If the address is then obliterated or accidently torn off, the package still can

Lubbock man to direct institute fund drive

The impact of private fund support in the fight against cancer will be the message that John E. Birdwell, II of Lubbock will carry to Texans as a regional director of The University of Texas M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute's new Annual Fund committee.

The Annual Fund campaign is a project of M. D. Anderson's Board of Visitors, a group of nearly 100 concerned citizens interested in promoting quality cancer patient care, research, education and prevention.

Members of the Board of Visitors have actively assisted in furthering the goals of M. D. Anderson Hospital since

The Annual Fund campaign will em-

"Donations may be used to develop new, more effective cancer therapy through clinical research or underwrite laboratory research that will enable scientists to better understand cancer.

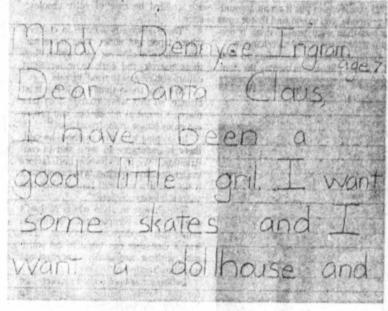

"These funds also help provide educational opportunities for a wide range of health-care professionals or to launch new programs in cancer prevention," he

"Contributions from the community have made the crucial difference between adequacy and excellence in the services M. D. Anderson has been able to provide more than 145.000 persons with cancer," said Anderson president Dr. Charles A. LeMaistre.

The Annual Fund campaign, under the leadership of Harlan Crow of Dallas, is a project of a group of associate members of the Board of Visitors.

Birdwell has been an associate member of the Board since 1976.

Background information: There are many stories about how the first Christmas tree was trimmed. One is that the famous German preacher, Martin Luther, started the custom. He was walking home one starry Christmas Eve night. He cut down a tree, took it home and trimmed it with candles. The candles stood for stars. The national Christmas tree is on what is called the "Ellipse" in Washington, D.C. The word "ellipse" means oval. So the tree is planted in an oval park in front of the White House.

Ask the children to pretend they are designing a special Christmas tree ornament that would represent their state on the national Christmas tree. Ask them to draw a picture of the ornament and write why they designed it the way they did.

Also, ask the children to pretend that they are going to Washington for the lighting. Ask them to find Washington on a map. Ask them to plan the way they would travel to this city.

The White House Christmas tree is decorated with Victorian Christmas ornaments: The Victorian period in history was named after the great English queen. Victoria. It includes most of the 1800s

Cut the step-by-step story of the national Christmas tree apart and ask the children to put the steps back together in the proper order.

Malouf's Gentlemen's Clothing has image as quality store

Update staff writer

John Malouf was looking for a job when he enrolled at Texas Tech University in 1943, and his inclination toward selling resulted in a position at a men's clothing store in downtown Lubbock.

That initial experience in the apparel field provided the context for a retail career which has spanned three decades in

Malouf's Gentlemen's Clothing opened for business in August 1949, on the ground floor of a building which had to be shared with the Masonic Lodge until that organization completed its new

Within five years, the firm had moved to the tightly-leased Broadway section of downtown Lubbock, where momentum began to build for the clothing business.

By 1959, in view of Lubbock's southwest growth, Malouf's opened a second store in Monterey Shopping Center. Later. the South Plains Mall provided quarters for the branch store, and the flagship store moved to its present location at 1207 13th St Malouf's image as a quality men's clothing store is perhaps singular in Lubbock. With no distractions arising from other departments, the specialty store has built a reputation which draws clientele from as far away as the Midland-Odessa oil centers, the farming-ranching sectors of Dimmitt and Hereford, plus rie and Paducah on the east.

Such an image was apparently built over a period of time through a growing emphasis on quality goods. 'We didn't just get into the top end of the merchandising field overnight," Malouf notes

"Gradually, over the years, we were able to move into it. In many cases it was not a matter of taking a customer from someone else, it was done by starting with the customers we already had, and improving their taste level and improving their understanding of better merchandise, and how they would benefit Malouf said, "I have always felt that better merchandise - with good quality construction - was always the most economical purchase for people to make, so adhered strongly to that philosophy, and fortunately a lot of customers feel the same way. We have been able to build a good, loyal clientele.

Really, that kind of merchandise classic merchandise, well constructed, designed without extreme features - is the most enduring thing to buy, and does give the best value.

If you were to put it on an accounting principle, you would find that it costs you less than what people think is economical, or lower priced merchandise."

Additional values, according to Malouf, include pleasure in owning the item.

a better fit and better appearance. 'Those values cost nothing, because you are getting your dollar's worth just from the usage alone

Most of the merchandise handled by Malouf's is from American manufacturers. The exception is provided by those items which are made better in other countries.

"We buy most of our sweaters from Scotland and England, because they have a superior way of making them, which we just don't have here.

Our clothing, that is, suits, sports coats and tailored items, are mostly bought in the U.S. because over the past 30 years, they have developed better techniques than the Europeans. At one time the better suits came from Europe. But today the technology in this country and the management skills they have, has evolved into a better product in the tailored field," Malouf said.

Piece goods for the products still come from overseas, according to Malouf. Woolens and silks come from England, Scotland, France and Italy, he add-

In Malouf's buying plans, changes in styles are accommodated, but extremes are avoided because of early obsolesc-

There always is a cycle in clothing where lapels get wider, then more narrow, where neck wear gets wider, then more narrow and back to wider. Shirt collars also change in size," he said.

We buy those things with the least change, so that when change does take place, it is not as noticeable, and people can enjoy longer usage from them."

In keeping with that method, he said. there is endurance in style and in construction. "We try to involve both factors in our decision making. What good does it do you if a suit will last another five years if it looks obsolete?

The change in style which Malouf's adopts, tend to complement a wardrobe. rather than produce obsolescence. "This way a customer can build to his wardrobe without necessarily canceling out what he already has.

Lubbock has been a good marketplace for the clothing business, according to Malouf's. The building downtown has approximately 7,000 square feet of floor space, of which approximately 50 percent is used for offices and storage. The store at South Plains Mall contains about 5,600 square feet of space, with the majority of that devoted to sales area.

While sales volumes at the mall are significant, in keeping with traffic levels there, the downtown store has also grown in sales each year.

"We have never failed to make some volume gain in the downtown store. We feel that it is a good setting for a quality store that sells better merchandise." Malouf said.

The firm doesn't limit itself to delux categories of clothing. "We have a tremendous selection in the medium price field. We don't go into the lower medium, because we don't feel that the values are there

A wide range of gift items is also stocked by Malouf's, to complement the specialty. "I enjoy selling gift type items. and I probably offer more gifts than most men's stores do," Malouf said.

The gifts range from crystal wine glasses with a masculine theme, to specially crafted pocket knives.

Malouf's has never abandoned its hat inventory, even in recent years when the hat industry seemed in decline because of little public demand.

Now, Malouf reports that hats are enjoying a revival, and that current sales are three times the volume logged in the Referring to the slack years for the hat business, Malouf said, "We continued to merchandise them as strongly as we could, and now we have the benefit from it because we have the reputation of being a total store. 'They (manufacturers) have a lot of good looking hats. They became more innovative when hard times hit them, and they have good looking hat ideas - not attractive and complementary to the clothing you wear.' Malouf's has a shoe department and only protective when you wear them, but stocks hosiery items as well. Malouf, in summing up the company's business philosophy, said, "We believe in value, and we don't think that value is necessarily the lowest price. Unfortunately, not everyone agrees with that philosophy, so we don't get all the customers. But those that do accept our viewpoint and purchase from us, usually remain loyal customers and give us the feedback that that is the best way to buy to buy quality. And if it seems a little more at the time, accept the fact that it is worth more.

Malouf said, "We don't go looking for bargains because they usually aren't bargains, and those customers that look for bargains usually are disappointed and waste more money than they save. It's better to buy something that has a known value, that has a reputation for being accepted by a lot of customers with good judgement.

He added, "We realize not everyone has an unlimited budget, and we do try to offer things within the reach of most of the customers.

He believes that a store or business is built by recommendation from customers. "If you have a great many people out recommending you, then you have a better chance to get more customers. Our customers do recommend us because they get above average satisfaction, with their purchase.

Malouf, who is assisted by his sons Matthew and Scott, does a very strong job of "editing" at the market. "We don't buy what the manufacturer tells us to - we buy what we think is best. And we don't purchase something because it's popular somewhere else, or because they tell us that other customers are buying it we like to be our own judge, because while they are sincere, it is difficult for them to be objective. "As a result, we screen out many items that would have been a disappointment to our customers or just of average satisfaction. We try to select in a way so that everything is above average satisfaction to the customer, and in most cases we do achieve that. We get very few complaints on the wear and the fit, and general aesthetics of the merchandise we

Malouf believes in giving service and doing everything possible to please the

In addition to the quality construction and tasteful styles featured by the stores, sales personnel are adept at counseling a customer on a particular item, according

"While we give customers what they want, we do try to discuss with them why we believe that they should consider our counseling on certain merchandise. We don't impose these views on them, but we do try to help them when our experience gives us the advantage in making a judgement on certain things.

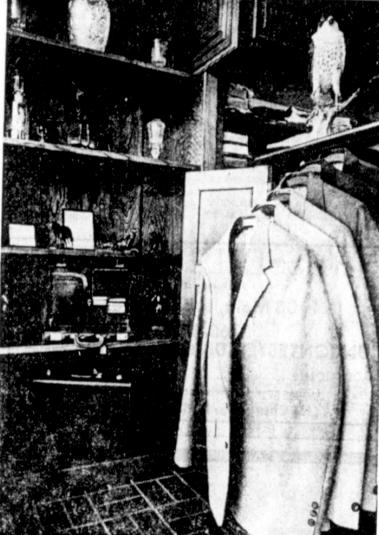

We also believe that unsaid things can be misleading, and we don't leave things unsaid that we think ought to be volunteered. So many times today, people don't really know what they are getting, and it is better to volunteer information and educate them before they make a decision, than leave it unsaid and let them make a mistake." Malouf personnel are instructed to exercise the same kind of care and interest llest sale as on the largest

New law to prevent looting of sites

Texas archaeologists are saying a new law signed in November by President Carter will serve as a "preventative" against future looting of historic sites.

However, "the level of conciousness (to protect archaeological sites) in this area is very high, said Eileen Johnson, director of the Lubbock Lake site archaeological dig.

Since the site came on to the National Register, problems with looting have decreased even more," said Miss Johnson. She added, however, that the law affords needed protection to vulnerable

The law is directed toward "big time treasure hunters," said George Kagley, a state archaeologist at Austin.

They will lease a piece of land and then dig it up (looking for artifacts), but they're mindless to the scientific value," he explained

Miss Johnson said that looting problems at the Lubbock Lake Site, where artifacts dating back 12,000 years have been uncovered, are not common.

People enjoy going out and looking for projectile points and pottery, and as long as they keep records and share it with the local (archaeological) authorities, its quite all right," she said. "But tal remains from their original context. The law also states that trading or transporting illegally excavated material

Dear Dr. Pettey: I've never had any eye or vision trouble, but I've just discovered something I have never heard anyone else mention before. I've been finelettering some large bright red and green display cardboard. After a few minutes work on the red cards (with white ink), I can stare off across the room at an offwhite wall and see GREEN the size and shape of the RED cardboard. The same thing happens when I work on the GREEN cards - looking at the wall I see RED. Could there be something wrong with my eyes?

You are the first one to write me on this interesting subject. Thanks.

Unusual presents still available for less than $5

By Ruthanne Brockway and Esther Longoria

Update staff writers If you have $5 or less in your pocket, it still is possible to buy a special, unique gift for someone on your Christmas list. Although gifts in this price range are not overly abundant, with a little imagination and a willingness to visit shops off the beaten track, there are many gifts to be found that will please the givee and not ruin the budget of the giver.

Here are a few suggestions: -A different brew: Help a coffee lover on your list start off the day with an aromatic cup of imported coffee. Select a half-pound of French roast coffee beans ($3.85) at The Soap Bar, 2610 Salem Ave. in Cactus Alley. The beans will be ground right in the shop for you, then just put the beans in a pretty jar or wrap them up in bright paper.

-Clean up your act: You may wish everyone used Dial, but how about giving something a little more exotic? The Soap Bar carries a wide choice of imported soaps wrapped in tissue and nestled in illustrated boxes. The selection ranges from delicately scented English lilac to Spanish herbal soaps and exotic French perfumed bars. The store also has soaps for children in the shape of french fries, cars and storybook characters. Soaps range from $2.50 for a French soap in its own plastic case to $3.85 for a set of matchbox cars soaps. In addition, the shop offers a tiny mustache comb for $1.75 and a set of goose quill toothpicks (for the man who has everything) for

-Storytime: For the child on your list, there's Tell a Story rag doll ($3.99) from Shoppe Thirteen, 6602 Slide Road. that's really two gifts in one. The bedtime story unfolds on the doll's skirt, and when you flip up the doll's skirt, another character in the story is revealed on the reverse side. The shop also has a bucket of 40 marbles for $1.95 and giant coloring books for $2.95

-You ought to write a book: For that budding writer, Shoppe Thirteen also carries a variety of paperback and hardback blank books perfect for writing down a poem or your thoughts for the day. The hardback is $3.50 and the paperback is $1.75.

-Puzzled about a gift?: How about a puzzle. David Stationary at South Plains Mall has a wide selection of mind games and puzzles ranging from $2 to $3.50 each. For a boring bathroom, the store carries rolls of toilet paper with the people's almanac or crossword puzzles printed on them. The rolls are $3.29 each. The store also has Gonzinta boxes - four tiny boxes in a colorful bigger box. — that are good for carrying pills, earrings, etc., priced at $4.39 each.

-A basket case: Baskets in all shapes and sizes, great for wall decorations. plant holders or storage containers, can be found at the Tree House, 6227 Slide Road, and at The Other Place in the South Plains Mall. Prices start at $1.50. You might even want to buy a small basket as a creative container for a small

-I remember when: Nostalgia buffs will croon if you present them with an album of Bing Crosby singing "White Christmas." Find it at U.V. Blake Record Center, 2401 34th St., for $3.98 and there is free gift wrapping available.

Rocky III: One Of A Kind is the name of the shop where things are made from rocks. Drop by 2108 53rd St. to find agate stocking stuffers. Rayford Tanner suggests Onyx eggs or Onyx vases for $2.50 each.

-Relics to relish: Handmade and natural items are the speciality at the West Texas Museum Association gift shop at The Museum of Texas Tech University. Shop manager Cynthia Brooks has lots of under-$5 items, including hand-knitted finger puppets for 95 cents each, miniature dolls for 20 cents each, handmade spinning tops for 60 cents each and a stars and planets locater map for 96 cents. Miscellaneous goodies to fill up the children's stockings include sea horses, shark teeth and dinosaur bones. The special bonus of many items at the museum shop is that they are educational for the children as well as fun (and inex-

-Conned goods: Seal a surprise into a can and the person who receives the gift will have to use a can opener to open it. (It certainly prevents over-anxious kids and adults from opening up the package before Christmas - you can't re-seal it.) Take anything that will fit into a No. 2 size can to Security National Bank, 34th Street and Slide Road at Brownfield Highway. The bank will seal your gift into a festively decorated can for only $1. mas surprise. At Hales Pet Boutique at Security Park Center, 3502 Slide Road, the Christmas season price for a parakeet is $4.88 each. Unfortunately, a bird in hand isn't worth much without a cage. Maybe another family member might spring for that?)

-Pass the popcorn: For a popcorn connoisseur (or perhaps someone who likes to go to a lot of movies), popcorn by the pound is the speciality at Popcorn Palace, 1313 University Ave. Plain is-$1.50 a pound, caramel is $2.50 a pound and cheese popcorn is $3 a pound. And when you're tired of eating popcorn, string it for a traditional holiday decora-

at Shoppe Thirteen, 6602 Slide Rd.

-Draft dodger: That's the catchy name for a practical gift available at Coach House Cards and Gifts and other stores at the South Plains Mall. It's a long stuffed animal to place along the windowsill or at the base of a door to keep out the cold winter draft. Available in green, yellow or red calico material, the snake decorated Draft Dodger is $4.50 and the dachshund dog decorated Draft Dodger is $5. -An apple a day: Let your Christmas sweetheart know he or she is the apple of your eye. Apples are about 39 cents pound. It's inexpensive to personally deliver an apple a day for a week or however long you choose. And it really is the thought that counts, at Christmas, or any day of the year.

A puppet made in Mexico sells for $5 at The Museum

-Sock it to me: If you can't think of anything to seal in the can listed above. why not Pet Sox? Sears at the South Plains Mall has knee-hi sox for $2.19 or a box of three sets of booties for $5. The sox fit girls and women and come with a certificate of ownership showing they are indeed Pedigreed Pet Sox.

Little girls not only ones still interested in dolls

profile

Update staff writer

Little girls dressed in ruffly pink with ribbons tied in their hair are not the only ones interested in dolls these days - not by a long shot

"Little girls collect their own dolls, the ones they play with," says Jean Aaron, co-owner of a Cactus Alley doll shop. Women collect the ones people can't play with," or what can be called treasures.

Mrs. Aaron should know. An avid doll collector herself, she recently has taken to hand crafting reproductions of antique dolls. Mrs. Aaron joined forces with another Lubbock doll maker-collector, Carolyn Dockray, to open Yesterday's Dolls Today this week

Antique dolls and handmade reproductions charmingly sit in period buggies or in chairs around a doll-sized table taking afternoon tea, as Mrs. Aaron describes her nearly life-long affection for the toys she calls "babies.

"I suppose it's basically because I was ill for several years as a child and didn't have any contact with other children,' she reflected. "My dolls were my companions, my playmates.'

She remembered a night when she was six years old and sobbing hysterically on the front lawn as her family's house I went up to the fireman screaming,

He walked into the flames and brought her out, and then I hushed. "I guess you could say there was a strong interest there," Mrs. Aaron said my baby, my baby,' crying for my doll.

Her special love for dolls began as a fondness she shared with her mother and has never flagged - as many a young woman's does - when she married and had children of her own.

'Of course I always kept some away where the children couldn't get to them," she said of the dolls she continued to collect throughout her marriage.

Making the dolls herself was just an extension of dressing and later repairing them, said Mrs. Aaron. "You find out that things have to be made and somebody has to make them, then ask yourself, 'Why not me,"' she recalled.

Now, her family shares in process. A nine-year-old daughter, Anna Ruth, makes kewpie dolls; while Mrs. Aaron's husband Duane helps to pour the molds for the dolls' heads, arms and legs. "He'll eventually be making the molds," she

As she speaks, Mrs. Aaron takes a pocket knife and begins to carefully scrape down the molding marks on the unfired greenware hand of a doll.

To me, it becomes a doll just as soon as I lift it out of the mold and it begins to dry. I can see then what it will be," said the woman who estimates she has made 'about two dozen" porcelain dolls since she took up the craft in August. "That's when I'll start talking to them," she says without a trace of self-sconsiousness. "I'll say 'Well, you've just got to be brown-eyed', or 'Let's get your hair fixed, it's just not quite right.

"Each doll becomes an individual with its own personality," Mrs. Aaron continues, her partner nodding in agreement. "They're like paintings, each one is just a little different. Not surprisingly, Mrs. Aaron said her interested in dolls, Mrs. Aaron insisted. "John Wayne had a doll collection." she noted, "and Barry Goldwater collects Indian dolls.

Asked to explain the appeal of a doll collection for a grandmother, Mrs. Aaron waxes sentimental. Remembering the dolls of her own childhood, she says, "I suppose they're like anything else you have a deep feeling for. Even men can remember a favorite teddy bear or doll sometime in their life.

"Dolls are a reminder of your childhood and the child in you," adds Mrs.

At the notion a person should ever simply outgrow his or her fascination for dolls, she exclaims, "Never! You're never too old for dolls!"

In view of the Lubbock County Hospital District's ever-increasing financial woes, Update asked the hypothetical question: Would local voters approve of a bond election to keep the hospital district in operation?

Tommy Adams

Emotions on the matter were mixed among those interviewed. The main question seemed to be whether the project should be allowed to go down the drain versus whether Lubbock County is totally responsible for the district's financial support

Tommy Adams said he would disapprove of such an election, saying the local people have had to fund Health Sciences Center Hospital so far, even though they were told in the beginning that the funding was to come from state or federal monies.

"We've been lied to once, what would make us think we wouldn't be lied to again?" he said.

Adams referred to a recent Avalanche-Journal story which pointed out that other hospital districts in the state are suffering the same problem and commented that if all these districts are in trouble, the problem is only going to get

Jim Berry, who said that because he rents rather than owns property he might not be as concerned as others about increased taxes, said he felt it would be a shame to let the hospital's operations go now after all the time and money that has been invested into the project so far.

Tanya Jamison also approved of a bond election, saying she would not mind if taxes were increased to keep the hospital and medical school open.

If the hospital district going broke meant dissolving the medical school, Alma Wallace said she felt the county people would come to its aid and probably approve of a bond issue.

Red Raiders head for Colorado

Update sports staff

After opening the season in the friendly confines of the Municipal Coliseum, the Texas Tech basketball team will head out onto the road for a two-game series in Colorado.

The Raiders opened with an impressive 78-64 victory over arch-rival West Texas State and then crushed South Dakota State 111-75 Monday night.

Saturday, the Raiders will be in Fort Collins, Colo., to face Colorado State and then Monday the Raiders will go just outside Fort Collins to face the Air Force Academy.

Saturday's game will tipoff at 8:35 p.m. Lubbock time and Monday's is scheduled for 8:45 p.m. Both games can be heard on KFYO as Jack Dale will bring the play by play action back to the

The key to the Raider offense in the early going this year has been the play of sophomores Jeff Taylor and David Little. Those two combined for 46 points in Tech's win over WTSU and added another 38 in the Raiders rout over SDS.

Ralph Brewster has provided the bulk of the Raiders' rebounds.

But Tech coach Gerald Myers realizes that his Raiders have a tough road ahead. "It's going to be a rough road trip," said Myer's. "Colorado State is always tough at home - and we've had our problems with the Air Force team. "But it'll be a good trip for us," he added."It's good to have a trip like this early in the year. It'll help us develop a little unity on the team.

The Rams of Colorado State are coming off an 11-16 season that saw them finish sixth in the Western Athletic Conference (WAC). But the Rams do have several outstanding starters coming back from last year's team.

Senior Barry Young led the team in scoring last year hitting at a 17.5 clip. Sophomore guard Eddie Hughs also averaged 15.4 points an outing last year for CSU. Jim Williamson, a 6-9 senior, will

The Raiders faced the Rams last year in the Coliseum and came away with a 79-67 victory. The last time Tech faced the Academy was in 1977 when the Raiders took a narrow 70-63 win.

The Air Force Academy Falcons are coming off a 12-13 season. The team is built around 6-6 forward Tim Harris. Harris, a senior, averaged 17.2 points a game last year.

All five starters will return from last year's Air Force squad.

The Raiders will likely start Ralph Brewster at the post, Ben Hill and David Little in the wings and Jeff Taylor and Kent Williams at the guard positions. Leslie Nichols, Thad Sanders, Dwight Williams and Larry Washington are also likely to see plenty of action. When the Raiders return to Lubbock, they'll have little time to rest before jumping into the heart of their schedule

Thursday the Raiders will host Lamar University in the Coliseum.

Tech coach Gerald Myers said earlier this week that Lamar just may be the best team in Texas this year. The Cardinals nipped highly regarded Texas A&M 61-60 in the Great Alaskan Tournament to stake a claim to that Texas Title.

The Cardinals return all five starters from last years team that posted a 23-9 record and stunned Detroit in the first round of the NCAA playoffs.

Mike Oliver and BB Davis each averaged more than 20 points a game for Lamar last year.

In football action, only one Lubbock school still remains alive in the playoff picture. The Estacado Matadors will be in Abilene Saturday to face McKinney at 2:30 p.m. in Shotwell Stadium in the Class AAA semifinal contest.

Monterey was defeated by El Paso Coronado 24-8 last Saturday in the Class AAAA regional match.

The last time a Lubbock school captured a state championship in football was in 1968 when the Estacado Matadors managed the feat.

bowling results

Janet Jones, a 19-year-old graduate of Dunbar High, Saturday was named the 1979 "Miss Lubbock Junior Bowler" by the Lubbock Women's Bowling Club. The award is given annually by the Women's Club and carries with it a scholarship to the school of her choice.

Miss Jones began bowling in the junior program in 1970, and has won numerous city and league awards. Among her best efforts are a first place win in the junior girls state, a high game of 224 and a high series of 553.

The Lubbock county junor bowling association began a two week run of its 16th annual championship tournament. This week-end will see a new city champion crowned. Leading at the half way on screen

Backstage I — "Rocky II." It is very easy for critics to slam this movie, since it resembles more closely a remake than a sequel to the Academy Award winning film which brought Sylvester Stallone stardom. But I must admit that this second picture about Rocky Balboa is also extremely entertaining. For all its flaws — and believe me, flaws abound — Stallone has managed to make us care about his dumb fighter again. Even better, he allows us more than a superficial glance at his opponent Apollo Creed, played well by Carl Weathers. In short, I'm all for "Rocky II." It has humor, warmth and a few surprises. But to call it better than its predecessor is nothing short of outright foolishness.

Backstage II - "All About Gloria Lenord." X-rated material.

Cinematheque — Each Wednesday evening, the Cinematheque Film Society presents classic films on the Texas Tech University campus. Tickets may be purchased by both the general public and Tech students. This week's offering (the last of the fall series) is a Bette Davis double feature of "Dark Victory" (1939) and "All About Eve" (1950). The former is a tearjerker directed by Edmund Goulding and co-starring George Brent and Humphrey Bogart; Miss Davis plays a young heiress who discovers she has only months to live. Joseph Mankiewicz directed "All About Eve." winner of seven Academy Awards and starring Miss Davis as a cynical theater star being challenged by a treacherous newcomer, played by Anne Baxter. The double feature will begin at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday in the University Center theater, with the admission price set at $1.50.

Cinema West — "Yanks." A wonderful love story from director John Schlesinger, who fondly recalls his own memories of 1943's war-torn England and the relationships which developed between lonely British women and just-as-lonely American GIs. This is a picture of sentiment and tenderness, of understanding and need — the sort of picture "Hanover Street" aspired, but failed, to be earlier this year. The performances, especially from Richard Gere and Lisa Eichhorn as young lovers and Tony Melody and Rachel Roberts as the girl's parents, are all first rate. The photography is lush, and the director is able to make his statements about culture clash and prejudice without interfering with his romantic entanglements. Extremely entertaining.

Fine Arts Drive-In - "Mary, Mary" and "Cry For Cindy." X-rated material.

Fox 1 — "The Fish That Saved Pittsburgh." Someone has been hiding the fact that this is just a soundtrack in search of a movie. No less than a dozen disco and R&B tunes permeate the film's flimsy plotline, which sees a young black kid-(James Bond III) and an astrologist (Stockard Channing) help turn a professional basketball team called the Pittsburgh Pisces (thus the "fish" of the title) into champions. The story is really as dumb as the title, but no doubt could have proved entertaining enough for the Saturday matinee crowd in search of fluff had it not been for the constant musical intrusions. Julius Erving and Globetrotter Meadowlark Lemon are two of the team members. The picture even loses its recommendation for the young crowd because the filmmakers have included a couple unnecessary four-letter words — most likely to assure a PG rating.

Fox II — "The Amityville Horror." James Brolin and Margot Kidder star in this film adaptation of Jay Anson's best selling (whether It's fiction or not is debatable) novel about George and Kathy Lutz's 28-day stay in their not-so-normal house in New York. While the film is definitely spooky and, yes, entertaining enough, it succeeds more as an old fashioned "haunted house movie" than as a stylized horror film like "The Exorcist" or "The Omen." Brolin and Miss Kidder are both fine as the Lutz couple (Brolin's make-up is particularly effective), but Rod Steiger does not fare so well as the hysterical priest. The producers also seemed wary of treating the book as non-fiction, since a great deal of extra spooky stuff has been added, as the credits state, "to heighten dramatic effect."

Fox III — "10." Dudley Moore, last seen as the resident comic pervert in "Foul Play," proves with this new comedy-romance that he really does know how to earn consistent laughs. He carries the film, at least until producer-director Blake Edwards gets carried away. Moore takes a rather cliched role, that of a dissatisfied male losing a battle with middle-aged reality, and turns it into a star vehicle. But that does not disguise the fact that "10" suffers from a screenwriter who does not know how to condense and a director who has yet to learn the value of editing. The picture had possibilities, but it goes on much too long with much too little. Call it a major disappointment, though the younger set may be looking for posters of the luscious Bo-Derek as soon as they walk out of the theater.

Fox IV — "...And Justice For All." Al Pacino gives his usual brilliant. Oscar-worthy performance as a lawyer who cares in Norman Jewison's incredible new comic satire which aims many a poisoned barb at America's current judicial system. It is a film almost impossible to describe, in that it changes tones and emotions without the slightest warning, the effect being a viewer who occasionally is unsure whether to laugh or choke back tears. John Forsythe is cast against type and comes off as a wonderfully despicable judge, and a slew of young actors offer terrific support. Jewison and his crew are to be commended because, laughing or crying, there's no way we can deny being entertained. And hopefully, there will be at least a few who continue to think about the film even as they leave the theater.

Golden Horseshoe Drive-In, Front Screen — "Charley & The Hooker" and "The Best." Your guess is as good as mine. Rated R and not screened at press time.

Golden Horseshoe Drive-In, Back Screen — "Walk Of The Dead" and "The Demon." No. George Romero had nothing to do with the former picture, though he might want his lawyer to take a close-look at it. The advance press material makes it look like an obvious exploitation of Romero's "Night Of The Living Dead" and "Dawn Of The Dead." No information was available on "The Demon." Both pictures, rated R, were not screened at press time.

Home Box Office — This pay television station offers movies and specials usually not available on Lubbock's big screens. Premieres are held on HBO several times each week, and then repeated throughout the month. Tonight will see HBO premiere "The Wiz," Sidney Lumet's adapatation of the Broadway hit which proved to be one of the most disappointing films of 1978. Only Michael Jackson's admirable performance as the Scarecrow rang true. Saturday's premiere is "Inglorious Bastards," a war picture starring Bo Svenson and Fred Williamson; perhaps more important is the following feature saturday, though: Peter Weir's "The Last Wave." The Australian film stars Richard Chamberlain and has never before been available in Lubbock. Sunday's premiere is "The Brink's Job," a comedy starring Peter Falk which never lives up to the promise of director William Friedkin (who gave us "The French Connection," "The Exorcist" and the much underrated "Sorcerer"). Tuesday's highlight is the very rough "Looking For Mister Goodbar," which probably played as big a part as Annie Hall in winning Diane Keaton that Oscar in 1978. And an entertaining recap of the prior week's NFL action is offered each Thursday with the Len Dawson and Nick Buaniconti-hosted "Inside The NFL."

Other HBO offerings in December include "An Unmarried Woman," "The Lion In Winter," "A Little Romance," "The Fifth Musketeer," "Warlords Of Atlantis," "Battlestar Galactica," "Good Guys Wear Black," "Winter Kills" and "The Bell Jar." The latter film, an adaptation of Sylvia Plath's novel, stars Marilyn Hassett and has never before been screened in Lubbock. January attractions on HBO will include "The Boys From Brazil" and "Beyond The Poseidon Adventure."

Monn I — "Fiddler On The Roof." A multiple Academy Award winning musical starring Topol as Tevye, the much maligned Russian Jew with four daughters, "Fiddler On The Roof" captures all the excitement and color of the Broadway show. Now dusted off and enjoying a national re-release, it may very well be the most delightful family entertainment in town. Take note, though: While being interviewed regarding his new film "...And Justice For All," director Norman Jewison told The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal that he has cut his hit musical in length from three hours and five minutes down to two hours and 25 minutes. I hate to see any film edited, but will reserve comment until I get a chance to viw the new release.

Monn II — "The Life Of Brian." Another controversial, screwball comedy from Britain's comedy troupe known as Monty Python, who earlier spoofed the Arthurian legend by giving us "Monty Python & The Holy Grail." The subject of the new film, which has been condemned by the Catholic Church and the subject of protests in major metropolican areas, is a man mistaken for the messiah — giving birth to quite a bit of harsh satire regarding organized religion and Biblical interpretations. In interviews, the ordinary man, that they never intended to make a sacreligious film and that they feel "God must have a sense of humor, too." Which is not entirely fair to those protesting the movie. For while it is entertaining overall, with spurts of sheer hilarity, only a small part of the satire succeeds and tastelessness abounds. Though I am against censorship and do not want to see the public denied their right to see the film, I can fully understand why Christians might be offended by the subject matter.

An added note: No matter what one's religious affiliations, if he is offended by raw language and full frontal nudity, he should avoid "The Life Of Brian."

Mann III — "Heaven Can Wait." One of the classiest comedies of the decade. Warren Beatty plays a Los Angeles Ram quarterback priming for the big game against the Cowboys; but when it appears he'll be killed in a traffic accident, a Heavenly escort (Buck Henry) takes him Upstairs before the crash. Oops. It turns out Beatty would have lived and, since his old body was cremated, Heaven has to find him a new body on Earth. That makes for hilarious consquences, all of which are aided by wonderful supporting performances from Dyan Cannon, Charles Grodin, Jack Warden and Julie Christie. It's a G movie in PG's clothing, so feel free to take the kids.

Monn IV — "Arabian Adventure." I had high hopes of having my buckle swashed, of having my memories of Sabu and Errol Flynn and duels and genies and magic carpets brought lovingly back to the foreground. Unfortunately, "Arabian Adventure" never manages to grasp the heart and soul of those earlier epics. Oh, we get the evil genies and the brave princes and the lovely princesses and the dark powers (Christopher Lee perhaps typecast), but it's too often either poorly filmed or tongue-in-cheek. The color processing is terrible and, while some of the effects are credible, everything in long shot looks like stiff models. There are also a lot of terrible performances involved. Nevertheless, for those too young to remember "The Thief Of Bagdad," this may provide a pleasant afternoon's entertainment.

Showplace 1 — "Apocalypse Now." In a word: overpowering. After watching "Apocalypse Now" the first time. I felt as though I was nothing more than a piece of paper the film had wadded up and thrown over in a corner. Indeed, much more of the film is accessible during the second viewing. Critiquing a film like this is difficult, mainly because there is no source of comparison. There is no way to judge whether the film lives up to expectations, because there's no way anyone could have expected this sort of dominating, intense, intelligent exploration of not only war, but also the fine line separating the good from the heart of darkness within us all. The photography is brilliant, the scope limitless, the acting by all involved superb. The plotline follows a captain Benjamin Willard (Martin Sheen), assigned to travel by Navy patrol boat into Cambodia and assassinate the renegade Lt. Col Walter E. Kurtz (Marlon Brando), who has gone off the deep end and set up his own pagan army. But in learning about Kurtz, Willard comes to grips with himself — and so do we. This is a mesmerizing film, one which deserves to be seen time and time again. Look for multiple Academy Awards next spring.

Showplace II — "Jesus" Filmed entirely in the Holy Land, using local actors (with the exception of British theater veteran Brian Deacon in the title role), this motion picture stresses visual authenticity over dramatic input or ability. The result is a film which comes across with all the impact of a slow-moving documentary. No matter that the picture is an ambitious project, the fact remains the pacing is inefficient, the sense of conflict nonexistent, the acting poor and "Jesus," the film, simply not designed for the average entertainment-seeking moviegoer.

Showplace III — "Star Trek. The Motion Picture." Possibly the most anxiously awaited film of the year, this is the feature length movie born of the popularity of a 1960s sci-fi television show. The entire television cast, including William Shatner as Kirk and Leonard Nimoy as Spock, appears in the movie. A word to the wise: purchase your tickets early and expect lines. Not screened at press time.

Showplace IV — "Sleeping Beauty." Nationally re-released, this Disney classic deserves to draw both the older crowd and the new generation which has never before had an opportunity to see it. Undeniably one of Disney's more violent animated efforts — the confrontations have left many small children with nightmares — it remains awash with color and wonderful fantasy. I have to recommend it.

Showplace V — "The Prize Fighter." A new comedy from New World Pictures starring Tim Conway and Don Knotts. Not screened at press time.

Showplace VI — "Starting Over." A sophisticated comedy from director Alan Pakula, this film stars Burt Reynolds as a man who suddenly finds himself divorced by wife Candice Bergen and smitten by our favorite unmarried woman, Jill Clayburgh While the film is not the moving treatise on divorce we expect (but have yet to receive from any film other than the excellent new picture called "Kramer vs. Kramer"), there's no denying the charm and enjoyable nature of this picture. All of the performances are capable, if not Oscar caliber, and Miss Bergen's courage at purposely playing a singer with a horrendous voice is applaudable. Burt Reynolds, long recognized by this critic for his unheralded acting talent and sense of comic timing, does nothing really new here — but the fact that he's now doing it for a director as respected as Pakula cannot help but spark his carreer. In short, a good time — not necessarily cerebral or even two-dimensional, but a fun two hours at the movies, all the same.

South Plains Cinema I, Mall — "Where Does It Hurt?" Though the picture certainly won't be called memorable by anyone, Peter Sellers does provide a few laughs in this early '70s release about a hospital administrator trying to save a buck and seduce a nurse anywhere he can. Strictly filler material.

South Plains Cinema II, Mail — "Luna." The opening film at last month's New York Film Festival, "Luna" is a new drama from Bernardo Bertolucci and has managed to creep into town without any advance notice. Earning mixed reviews, the film has earned a controversial stature due to the (some say overpublicized) incestual scenes between Jill Clayburgh and the young actor portraying her son. Bertolucci gave us the excellent "Last Tango In Paris" several years ago, and thus is no stranger to controversy. One would hope the folks who protested television's "Flesh And Blood" will steer clear. Not screened at press time.

South Plains Cinema III, Mall — "The Legacy." One of the very worst, the most asinine, boring, idiotic, humorless wastes of film I've ever seen. The plot deals with American designer Katherine Ross and her boyfriend, played by Sam Elliott, drawn to a house in England where a dying Satan worshiper is about to bequeath his legacy of power. One by one, the assembled start dying strange deaths and we're supposed to wonder who's responsible. Ha. It takes about 30 minutes to figure out the entire picture, then sit twiddling your thumbs while the director tries to grab our attention by providing a lot of gratuitous gore. It's not at all frightening. Predictable trash rarely is

South Plains Cinema IV, Mall — "Walk Of The Dead." See Golden Horseshoe Drive-In, Back Screen for comments.

Village — "Hot Stuff" and "The Villain." Dom DeLuise, an underrated actor who should have received more recognition for his hilarious supporting performance in "The End," tries his hand both in front of and behind the cameras with "Hot Stuff." The crime caper is his first directing effort and, while it's certainly not going to win awards, it remains an enjoyable (i.e., cute) lightweight diversion. Sure, there are many hackneyed scenes in this caper, which finds DeLuise, Jerry Reed and Suzanne Pleshette as three undercover cops who set up a fake fencing operation, trying to trick the Bad Guys into showing up with the stolen goods, the hot stuff. But there is a likeable energy there, too. In short, this movie certainly isn't memorable — but then, it isn't really boring either. Pure escapism: nothing more, nothing less.

As for "The Villain," if you like Roadrunner cartoons — no, if you LOVE Roadrunner

As for "The Villain," if you like Roadrunner cartoons — no, if you LOVE Roadrunner cartoons — then you might find this horribly repetitive comedy mildly amusing. It is, after all, a cartoon in human form. But somehow, it just doesn't work as well. Kirk Douglas is the Wile E. Coyote character, and the muscular and non-talented Arnold Schwarzenegger is your basic Roadrunner prototype. Ann-Margret disgraces herself with a sexist bit, Paul Lynde gives us his old schuck as an Indian chief. Foster Brooks is his usual not-so-sober self and Ruth Buzzi gets to scream a little. Mel Tillis comes off well as a telegraph agent (perhaps because the part is so brief), but the only star of merit in this film is the horse, perhaps the funniest since the one Lee Marvin rode in "Cat Ballou."

Winchester — Closed. Construction is not yet underway, but management plans to twin the theater into a Winchester I and II.

Movie Bargains — The first matinee at the Cinema West can be seen for $1.50 Monday through Friday. A reduced admission price of $1.50 is in effect until 2 p.m. every day at the South Plains Cinema Fourplex. Showplace Six has the same bargain rate of $1.50 for its 2 p.m. matinees Monday through Friday, with the exception of "Star Trek: The Motion Picture." Also, Showplace Six offers a "Football Widow's Night" every Monday, at which time unescorted women can see a featured attraction for the price of a child's ticket; again, "Star Trek: The Motion Picture" is the exception, commanding regular ticket prices. The Golden Horseshoe Drive-In, in affiliation with KLLL Radio, has a bargain rate of $1 per person on Mondays.

Midnight Shows — The cult favorite "The Rocky Horror Picture Show" will be screened at midnight today and Saturday at the Backstage Twin. Tickets, priced at $3, go on sale at 11 p.m. and the doors open at 11:30 p.m. Also, Showplace Six will offer midnight screenings of five attractions — "Starting Over." "The Prize Fighter." "Apocatypse Now." "Star Trek: The Motion Picture" and "Jesus" — tonight and Saturday at regular admission prices.

Coming Attractions — The following is an update on the films currently booked in Lubbock. CINEMA WEST: December 21, "Roller Boogie." FOX FOURPLEX: December 14, "The Jerk" and "1941;" and December 21, "The Rose." looking ahead

December 8, Muddy Waters — The legendary Muddy Waters, who packed the Cotton Club last year, will be back on the same stage singing the blues. The Millionaires will open the show, being labeled a gala grand re-opening for new owners C B. Stubble-field and Joe Ely. Tickets are priced at $6,50 in advance and $7.50 at the door, and are on sale at Al's Music Machine, B&B Records, Flipside Records, Stubb's Barbeque and the Lubbock Music Center.

December 13-15, Jay Boy Adams — West Texas artist Jay Boy Adams, with two LPs out on the Atlantic label, will be back in concert at Fat Dawg's. The cover charge is $2 on Dec. 13, and $3.50 on Dec. 14 and 15.

December 14, Mistress and Big D Stuff — Rock band Mistress, now recording on the RSO label, will play Dec. 14 only at Rox, with Big D Stuff opening the show. Tickets are priced at $4 in advance and $5 at the door. Big D Stuff will play a solo act the following night, with the cover reduced to $3.

December 20-22, Lewis & The Legends — Popular Lewis Cawdry will have his boys playing the blues again at Fat Dawg's. The cover charge is $1 on Dec. 20, and $2 on Dec. 21 and 22.

December 27-29, 31, The Planets — This popular Albuquerque band, certainly more professional than a lot of bands playing concert halls and just as certainly deserving of a recording contract, will be back at Rox for four big shows. The cover charge is $2.50 on Dec. 27, and $3 on Dec. 28 and 29. The New Year's Eve cover is $6, but the management will also be supplying free champagne that night.

December 30, Kenny Rogers — No doubt one of country music's most popular entertainers. Rogers will offer a reserved-seat, in-the-round concert at the Lubbock Coliseum. Tickets are now on sale at all three Flipside Records locations, priced at $10 and $12, and are reportedly "selling extremely quickly." A sellout is predicted.

December 31, Jay Boy Adams — Local favorite Jay Boy Adams will be supplying the New Year's Eve musical countdown at the Silver Dollar Restaurant. The cover charge is set at $2.50.

Some people call Christmas "the most wonderful time of the year." With the carols, lights, shopping, good spirits, parties and celebration of the nativity, those Christmas fans make a good point.

However, Christmas is a time when many people get distracted by the trappings and celebration and are not as safety conscious as at other times of the year. Time should be taken to examine houses and decorations for unsafe situations.

Christmas trees are grown as crops today, carefully pruned and shaped for many years and cut in the fall for shipment to their eventual destinations. As soon as a Christmas tree is taken inside to the dry air, it begins to lose moisture. In only a matter of days, the once beautiful tree can become a dangerous fire haz-

Lubbock Fire Marshall Robert Stokes said,"We have had several fires in Lubbock started by Christmas trees burning. Hardly a year goes by that we don't have Christmas tree fires." Stokes added that people think a fire will not happen to them, but it does happen every year.

Keeping a tree from drying out as long as possible is very important. The first thing to do is make sure the tree is fresh when purchased. To determine if a tree has been recently cut, grab some of the needles and gently pull. If the needles come off easily, the tree is dry. If the needles stay on, the tree has been freshly

The consumer should cut off the bottom two inches of the trunk immediately after purchasing the tree. New cells of the tree are then exposed and able to absorb water more effectively. The tree should be put in a sturdy tree stand with at least two inches of water at all times. A fresh tree will absorb lots of water, so check the water amount daily.

The Christmas tree will get dry eventually. Keep the tree away from all heat sources, such as radiators, fireplaces or heaters. These heat sources will dry out a tree faster.

Some people suggest adding an aspirin or sugar to the water that feeds the tree. A commercial product called "Prolong" will add to the life of the tree.

Another important thing to think about is the placement of the tree so as to avoid anything that may cause sparks or a fire hazard. Fireplaces should definitely be avoided, as should candles. The tree should be kept as far as possible from electrical outlets.

"People don't realize how rapidly trees burn - how much fire and heat they produce," Stokes said. "A sevenfoot Christmas tree can be completely consumed in approximately 30 seconds.

Stokes said flocking a Christmas tree may cause the tree not to ignite as readily but people should not get the idea the flocked tree is flame-proof, because it certainly is not Artificial trees should have a testing label from Underwriters Laboratories or another major testing laboratory. Stokes said. Some of the materials used in artificial trees are designated as safe in that they will melt instead of burn.

Others are highly combustible and some produce poison gases when burning, he said. If there is any question trees. These trees can be decorated and enjoyed in the home, then planted outside after Christmas.

Crockett said the live tree should not be indoors for over 10 days because of the warm, dry air in the home. The tree's roots must be kept moist at all times, so plastic should be laid under the container or burlap-covered soil bag covering the

After the holidays, the tree can be planted in the yard, but the consumer should be careful to choose a spot that the tree will fit at maturity, Crockett said.

The live trees and soil makes a heavy load to cart in and out of the house, so plan on having a couple of strong people handy to help move the tree. Further instructions can be obtained from the garden center selling the live trees.

Christmas lights should also be carefully checked to make sure there are no frayed wires, damaged sockets or loose connections. Inside lights should never be used outside and all outside lights should be securely fastened to prevent wind damage.

Electric lights should never be used on a metallic tree because of the possibility of electrical shock. Instead, a colored spotlight should be used above or beside a metal tree.

Tree trimmings should be chosen with care. If there are small children in about which types of artificial trees are safe, the fire marshall's office should be contacted.

Author James Crockett said many garden centers sell "live" Christmas small children. When Christmas is over, caution should be used in disposing of wrapping paper and Christmas trees. Consumers should not leave the tree behind their back fence because vandals could light it. Stokes recommends the trees be chopped or sawed into two-to three-foot lengths and put into a dumpster.

"A person could spend five minutes cutting up a tree, throw it away and have no problem," he said.

Stokes said a Christmas tree can be burned in the fireplace if properly prepared. The small branches are very flammable and should be used only for kindling, he said.

The trunk can be cut into sections and burned, but this will produce creosote, a sticky resin which will stick to the inside of the chimney. The fire should be kept burning longer to make sure the creosote is burned out, he said, because a buildup of the substance could be dangerous.

Stokes asks Lubbock residents not to burn discarded wrapping paper in the fireplace.

"Heated air rises rapidly," he said "Once a fire is burning, putting paper in the fire will cause burning pieces of paper to rise through the chimney to land on the roof or dry grass."

Starting a fire with paper is no prob-Iem because the air is not yet heated, he
