sures with them. We are shown our imits when that last breath is breathed. Doctors, friends and loved ones have gone the human power. Death has stung. The grave will win he victory. You know the words, 'O, Death, where is thy sting? O, Grave, thy victory?" The soul never dies, it lives forever. We know nothing and shall not know of Death's way until our time for it comes, but we do know He conquered Death, Hell and the Grave for us. That's enough; it has been conquered.

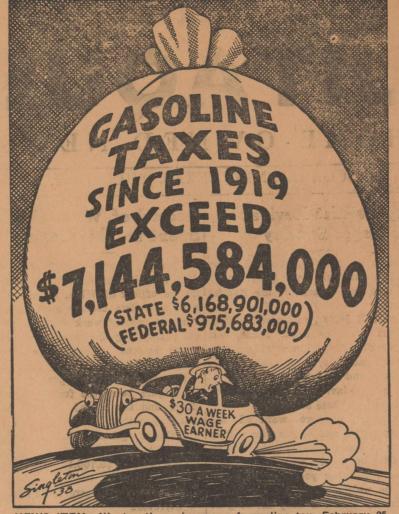

Our Lord in his preaching in the Gospel of Luke-16-19-31, tells the story of hell to His desciples. I believe He meant it for me, too. It is so horrible! Makes me want to warn people and try to do His will.

That's why we should read our Bibles more. We forget; we humans do forget but some day He will say to us too "Son, Remember." In this story he told of a rich man who was clothed in purple and fine linens. Purple was the royal color, you know. He also had plenty every day. The other character of the story was a beggar. Some one laid him at the rich man's gate. I wonder why He was a sick beggar, too. Full of sores. He was hungry and asked only the crumbs from the rich man's able. It mentions how the dogs licked his sores. Who is a better friend than an old dog? No matter how you treat him; if you are his master, he will always come back. Death came to both of these men. The Angels carried the beggar to Abraham's bosom. We know how Abraham loved God and served him while living. The rich man was buried, but his soul went on to hell. SUDDEN SERVICE ON QUITAQUE POST ADS

Some folks think that advertising n the Quitaque Post doesn't get the desired results. Here's a little proof that Post advertising pays: Clyde Monk advertised a place for sale, the ad to run twice. Less than 24 hour service on a property sale proposition is a fair batting average for any publication, and where we supply the medium it makes us feel just a little bit like orr efforts to please the people with a local newspaper is meeting with a modicum of success.
