QUITAQUE MASONS OVERTURN AUTOMOBILE

Charles Gowin's car, loaded with six men, was turned over on the road south of Silverton last Thursday night but no one was hurt.

Gowin, accompanied by L. A. Broxson, Roy Smith, Travis and Glynn Morrison, and Ewell Hamilton, had attended a meeting of the Floydada Masonic lodge and were enroute home when a pile of caliche jumped up in front of them.

The car was traveling about 45 miles an hour when it overturned with all wheels in the air. The men unscrambled themselves, crawled out through the door and lifted the car back on its running gear. They discovered that a radius rod had been bent and the only way that they could straighten it was to turn the car back over. This was done, the rod straightened, the car uprighted again and the men "sailed" for home.

They all reported a very lovely time.

house. Mrs. Jack Holcomb awakened about 5 o'clock Tuesday morning with a headache and started to the bathroom for some medicine. She stumbled around in a daze and called her daughter to go next door for a neighbor, but Jarlene fell on the neighbor's porch and failed to make it.

The elder Mrs. Holcomb attempted to arise from the bed and fell to the floor, and then Buddy was awakened to help her back on the bed. Buddy was so overcome by the fumes that he fell and rammed his head through the sheetrock wall.

Mrs. Jack Holcomb finally made it to a neighbor's home next door and got assistance who got Dr. Garner on the scene as quickly as possible and after some time he had the ailing folks back to normal. A short while longer in the gas-filled house, and the entire family would have succumbed. Dr. Garner stated that they were all in pretty bad shape when he arrived at the Holcomb home.

Dr. Garner issues a warning to all to be sure that there are no gas leaks in the lines or connections to sleep with a window open at least a little, and he advises that turning off the gas before retiring is the surest protection. Gas is a very dangerous and treacherous thing if not guarded carefully.

The speaker at a public dinner had talked for an hour, and seemed good for as long again.

"Can nothing be done to shut this man up?" a guest said to the woman next to him.

The woman sighed. "I'm afraid not," she said. "I've been trying to do it for 15 years."
