LOCAL CANCER CRUSADE STARTS HERE NEXT TUESDAY, APRIL 17

The American Cancer Crusade opens its annual Crusade here on Tuesday, April 17 on a hopeful note.

"By the end of the year, about 1,100,000 Americans will be able to say they have been cured of cancer," said Bill Griffin, who will head the local drive. "This is nearly seven times as many people as were cured of the disease in 1937."

"That's the bright side of the cancer problem," said Mr. Griffin. "On the other hand, there are thousands who die of cancer needlessly. About 87,000 men, women and children will probably die in 1962, who might have been saved by earlier and better treatment. A much greater effort must be made to urge people to see their doctors in time."

To emphasize this point, Mr. Griffin announced that the familiar slogan of the American Cancer Society, "Fight Cancer With a Checkup and a Check", will have a companion slogan in 1962 - "To Cure More, Give More."

"To cure more," Mr. Griffin said, "more funds are needed to give people life-saving facts about cancer and to keep physicians informed of latest methods of diagnosing cancer."

"To cure more, more funds are needed to support scientists in their search for cures and, let's hope, preventives for all types of cancer, including leukemia."

"To cure more, more money is needed for broadening the Society's service program to ease the burden of cancer patients and their families."

Pointing out that the public support of the Society's attack against cancer has grown from $800,000 in 1944 to more than $36,000,000 in 1961, Mr. Griffin urged all residents of Quitaque to give generously to the Crusade to make it the best in history.

The progress made in cancer control depends on the amount of money invested in the program to date," said Mr. Griffin. "Your contribution is one of the greatest investments in the world - to eliminate a disease which at present rates will strike 45 million Americans now living. Let us give more, to cure more."

Mr. Griffin has announced that Jimmy Davidson will act as chairman for the business district. Others who will serve as leaders in the house-to-house drive are Mrs. Bill Griffin, Mrs. Lela Overstreet, Mrs. Lela Mae Hutchison, Mrs. Mary Pittman, Mrs. Myrtle Gillespie, Mrs. Eula Morris, Mrs. Bud Bailey, Mrs. Paul Bailey, and Mrs. James May.

Funeral services were held Sunday, April 8, at 2:00 P.M. in First Baptist Church, Archer City, for Lee King. Mr. King was an uncle of Clyde Saul. Mr. King was 90 years of age. He had been out in the yard pulling weeds. He came in the house and dropped dead a few minutes later.

First place trophy buckles are sterling silver with gold figure and gold rope, engraved with appropriate wording to fit the contest. Trophy buckles are also 2nd. place prizes. Third place prizes are tooled spurs. Stop by and see our trophies in the C. A. Hawkins Insurance Agency's window.

Sumner, New Mexico, McLean, Tulia, Esteline, Earth, Muleshoe, Olton, Floydada, and other area towns. TWENTY-FIVE YEARS OF CANCER PROGRESS

Today, millions more Americans have annual checkups than they did 25 years ago. Millions more know Cancer's Seven Danger Signals. Early detection and prompt treatment of cancer is the keynote of the American Cancer Society's public education program.

In 25 years, the death rate from uterine cancer has dropped 50 per cent. Dr. George N. Papanicolaou developed the "Pap" smear, a technique for detecting uterine cancer in its earliest, most curable stage. This has helped save thousands of lives.

Research has led to improved treatment by surgery and radiation, and to new life-prolonging drugs. Today, over 1,000,000 Americans are cured of cancer. Only 150,000 had been cured 25 years ago.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO ONLY ONE CANCER PATIENT IN SEVEN WAS SAVED. TODAY IT IS ONE IN THREE. IT IS POSSIBLE TO SAVE ONE IN TWO, SAYS THE AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY.

THE CASE AGAINST HORSE RACE GAMBLING

Dallas, April 11—If pari-mutuel horse race gambling had been legal in Texas in 1960, the State's 'tax take' in that year would have been approximately four-tenths of one percent of the year's expenditure of $1,900,000,000. E. B. Germany, president of Lone Star Steel Company, told a group of Texas business leaders this week in discussing the upcoming referendum advocating legalization of pari-mutuel betting to be voted on in the May 5 Texas primaries. Germany is co-chairman with Dr. W. R. White, Chancellor of Baylor University of the statewide committee of business, civic and church leaders opposing the pari-mutuel bill.

Sponsor of the horse race betting amendment is self-styled "retired gambler" Representative V. F. "Red" Berry of San Antonio. The amendment calls for local option horse race tracks in Dallas, Tarrant, Harris, Galveston, Bexar, Midland, Hidalgo, Cameron and Webb counties.

"There isn't a single valid social or economic argument that can be advanced in defense of horse race gambling," Germany said. "One of the strongest and most-often 'benefits' quoted by the proponents or pari-mutuel betting is the tax contribution from race tracks of the State. Let's look at the facts.

"In 1960, the last year for which complete figures are available, $2,420,000,000.00 was bet through pari-mutuel windows at race tracks in the U. S. States with legalized race track gambling collected an average of $8,097,000.00 per state. In that year 1960, total expenditures for the State of Texas were more than $1,900,000,000.00 If Texas had had pari-mutuel betting in 1960, the 'great tax take' from the tracks would have been just about four-tenths of one percent of the overall expenditure."

Germany pointed out that this was only a part of the story. He quoted Senator Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin as saying on the subject, "The idea that legalized gambling will be a revenue-raiser is an illusion. For every dollar raised from such sources, it is estimated that five dollars is spent in higher police costs, higher court costs, higher penitentiary costs and higher relief costs."

Augmenting Germany's remarks, Dr. White reminded that the "tax take" and other such distorted claims would be attacked on television by Baylor University's debating team on April 14 at 11:30 A. M. on NBC. On this nationwide TV program, the Baylor debaters will carry the negative side against North Texas State College's debate team on the subject "Resolved; Gambling Should be Legalized in All States."

"Completely aside from the moral issues so immediately apparent in gambling, the facts and figures developed by our debating team have been gathered mainly from bank examiners, divorcee court judges, retail credit associations, relief officers and local merchants," Dr. White said. "In every instance, the economic and human chaos in communities where gambling has prevailed refutes the rosy, 'do good' picture of pari-mutuel benefits expounded by the easy money boys.

"Gambling is the biggest single cause in embezzlement cases. It is the direct cause of many broken marriages, neglected children, poverty and in inevitable rise in the rate of suicides."

JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES EXTEND INVITATION TO PUBLIC

One date in 1962 the Founder of Christianity has instructed all his faithful followers to observe. This is the anniversary of his death, on the fourteenth day of the first month of the Bible's sacred calendar known as Nisan. This year that day begins at sundown of Tuesday, April 17.

On that night Jesus commanded his followers to hold the sacred evening meal or supper that he then set up, to remind them each year of how he laid down his earthly body and shed his blood for us. (Luke 22:19) In obedience to this we have arranged to hold a fitting celebration beginning at 8:00 P. M., Tuesday, April 17, 1962, at Kingdom Hall, 3 blocks north of bank, Quitaque, Texas.

We heartily invite you, yes urge you, with all your friends, to be present with us on this blessed occasion for expressing our faith and appreciation toward Jehovah God's provision through Jesus Christ for our everlasting salvation. Quitaque Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses. — V. D. Tiffin.

IN MEMORY OF GENE Chandler

There is a ship on the ocean,
Did you read the sign?
It is conducted by our Saviour;
It is the old ship of Zion.
It is away out on the ocean,
And the waves are rolling high,
Though there is no danger—
Our Lord is nearby.
It will sail from earth to glory,
It is His own design;
So you need never worry—
It will be there on time.
All who would ride to glory
Their tickets now should sign;
Take heart and be ready,
Lest they be left behind.
It has anchored there through ages,
Though its beauty shines;
It is the handiwork of Jesus
And is tested by time.
Behold the Rock of Ages,
The Shepherd Divine,
Our Bleeding Redeemer —
Sweet Shepherd of mine.
Now, all who love Jesus
Should now fall into line,
And prepare and be ready
To leave anytime.

DEPT. OF HEALTH REPORTS INCREASE IN HEPATITIS RATE

Austin — A rising tide of hepatitis, sometimes called "yellow jaundice", engulfed 3,155 Texans last year, a 38 percent increase in cases compared to the 1960 rate.

Cases of both serum and infectious hepatitis are included in those figures.

Infectious hepatitis has been rising throughout the Nation for the past two years. In Texas, cases reported during 1961 exceeded any other 12-month period since the State Department of Health began keeping records on the affliction in 1952.

The reason for the present surge is not known. Public health physicians say the disease seems to attack relatively large numbers of people — mostly youngsters and young adults — in regular cycles. The elusive hepatitis virus attacks only humans. No other animal is known to be susceptible.

Infectious hepatitis — the virus of which is present in both blood and body wastes of patients — is usually spread by close contact with patients or carriers, and perhaps in contaminated food or water. Serum hepatitis produces almost identical symptoms but the virus is found only in the patient's blood.

Most cases of infectious hepatitis occur among children and young adults, but people of all ages are susceptible. Fortunately, the disease is rarely fatal. Doctors report that the death rate seldom exceeds two percent even in epidemics.

Victims usually begin feeling sick three or four weeks after exposure. They usually lose their appetite, feel fatigued and weary. They might be severely nauseated, and will feel achy and sore. A sensation of heaviness may be felt in the stomach.

One of the most prominent symptoms is a yellow discoloration — known as jaundice — of the skin and whites of the eyes. But some persons never show such discoloration, and children sometimes contract the disease without showing any of the typical symptoms.

Having one bout with infectious hepatitis usually, but not always, insures against the second one.

In any suspected case, a physician should be called at once. Bed rest and adequate diet are necessary to an uncomplicated recovery.

The most efficient tools for preventing infectious hepatitis are good personal hygiene, handwashing before eating or preparing food, and a high level of community sanitation. Contacts of known cases should see their family physician as promptly as possible after exposure to see if injections of immune serum globulin are advisable for passive protection.

An old Kentuckian was being interviewed for the local paper. "How have you grown so wise?" the reporter asked.

"Because I've got good judgment," the old man replied. "Good judgment comes from experience, and experience—well, that comes from poor judgment."

BEN RAMSEY NOTES THAT TEXAS BUYERS PAY LESS FOR PETROLEUM PRODUCTS

Lower prices paid by Texas consumers for petroleum products point up that our state is traditionally and consistently ahead of others in safeguarding the rights of its people, Railroad Commissioner Ben Ramsey said in Austin last week.

Ramsey, appointed to the Railroad Commission last September, is a candidate for the unexpired term of the late Commissioner Olin Culberson.

"The primary function of the Railroad Commission," Ramsey said, "is to protect the interest of the public. Success in this responsibility under conservation laws and court decisions is clearly reflected in the lower prices Texans pay for petroleum products. A good example," he said, "is that the average price of regular gasoline, excluding taxes, in Texas is five cents per gallon lower than the average nationwide price for the same product. This adds up to a sizable annual saving to the Texas consumer."

Ramsey noted that a survey of 32 cities in 26 states by the Oil and Gas Journal showed that as of March 20, the average price for the 32 cities was 19.2 cents per gallon as compared with the average price per gallon of gasoline in Texas of 14.2 cents.

Texas receives some $412,000,000 a year in taxes from the industries which the Railroad Commission regulates, Ramsey said, and therefore, the Commission "must fairly and judiciously administer the laws and court decisions affecting these industries — transportation and petroleum — so as to provide economical and efficient service to consumer and industry." Ramsey, the first Texan to be honored by the voters with six consecutive elective terms as lieutenant governor, said the job as Railroad Commissioner is one of the most important in state government. "It is a great responsibility and challenge," he said, "I feel my experience in law and government qualify me for the position."

MEMO SIGNING IS MILESTONE IN SCREWORM ERADICATION PRO.

The Southwest Animal Health Research Foundation, the Texas Animal Health Commission and the United States Department of Agriculture have signed a memorandum of understanding setting forth procedures which are expected to bring about eradication of the screwworm in the Southwest through cooperation of all segments of the livestock industry.

The memorandum was signed by C. G. Scroggs, SAHRF president, M. C. Puckett, TAHC chairman, and Dr. John Wilbur, veterinary in charge of USDA activities in Texas.

Signing of the memorandum marked a milestone in a program which promises to save Southwest stockmen millions of dollars a year. The screwworm program here is patterned after a similar program which was used to eliminate screwworms in the Southeast in the late 50's. The systematic release of sterilized screwworm flies results in genetic suicide.

Sterilized flies being raised at Kerrville are being released at this time, and construction of a much larger screwworm fly "factory" is underway at the abandoned Moore Air Force Base in the Rio Grande Valley. Funds for building this factory came from money contributed by sportsmen and livestock producers. The "factory" is expected to cost approximately $600,000.

The Southwest Animal Health Research Foundation's drive to raise three million dollars through voluntary contributions will continue until the goal has been reached, according to Scroggs.

The SAHRF president said cooperation of the various groups participating in the screwworm eradication program was making history in agricultural circles. "The all-out efforts of thousands of people are involved in the outstanding progress which has been made, and their continued support promises to bring about an end of one of the Southwest livestock industry's most costly and troublesome pests," Scroggs said.

VEGETABLE, OTHER PLANTS NEED TO BE FERTILIZED

Row vegetable crops with a relatively long growing season should receive a side - dressing of two pounds of fertilizer for lawns and gardens for each 100 feet of row after the plants are well up and again before they reach maturity. Always water thoroughly after each feeding.

Seeds for annuals should be planted at the proper depth in a well-prepared seedbed for best results. Very small seeds should be sown on the surface of the soil while large seeds need to be planted in rows and covered from two to four times their diameter. A thin line of lawn and garden fertilizer should be spread about three inches to the side of the seeds, which are then covered and tamped lightly into the soil.

As seedlings appear, they should be thinned to half the height of the mature plant. When buds appear, another two to three pounds of plant food will be needed for each 100 square feet of space.

Perennials should be fed with lawn and garden fertilizer early in the spring before growth appears, and again at the first sign of growth above the ground. Rates for these applications should correspond to those used for annuals.

GREENBUGS CAN BE CONTROLLED WITH INSECTICIDAL SPRAYS

College Station, - - - The greenbug, as small grain producers know is one of the most damaging insects of these crops. Losses from reduced yields of grain and forage have frequently exceeded several million dollars in a single season.

This insect can be controlled by modern insecticidal sprays, but often these are impractical or are not effective because of weather conditions. The most economical and practical means of controlling the greenbug appears to be the development of resistant varieties.

Studies on greenbug resistance in barley, oats and wheat were initiated in 1951, by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. A recent publication of the Experiment Station contains the results of eight years of these studies.

Greenbug resistance of significance was first found in several varieties of barley. It was transferred to desirable domestic varieties by crossing, and several of the hybrids are presently undergoing yield trials.

Several greenbug - resistant wheats have been found and these have been crossed with domestic varieties. These resistant varieties are spring - type wheat and of poor qualities; therefore, much more breeding work will be necessary before acceptable greenbug - resistant varieties will be available to hard red winter wheat growers.

Resistant oat varieties have also been found, and this resistance is being transferred to domestic varieties. However, this breeding program has not been in progress long enough to indicate the successful development of adapted resistant oat varieties. For a complete discussion of the findings of the tests, write the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Texas, and request a copy of B - 982, "Greenbug - resistance Studies With Small Grains."

Prepared by American Foundation for Animal Health

American farmers, individually and collectively, hold the balance of power in this nation's current all-out effort to eradicate hog cholera, a disease causing an estimated $50 million loss annually.

The starting place, and the great need now, is vaccination. The immediate goal is to have at least 75 per cent of the herds in each area vaccinated against the disease. This will help build solid walls of protection and help prevent fresh outbreaks of hog cholera from spreading to disastrous proportions.

Cholera is causing heavy losses again. The only safe pig is the one that's vaccinated in advance.

The present all-out effort to eradicate cholera is being sponsored by government agencies, livestock groups, veterinary groups and affiliated organizations and was sparked by a new wave of this fast-killing disease. Not enough herds have been vaccinated in recent years, and cholera has now been making a strong comeback. Since there is no cure for this disease, the only safe hog is one that has been immunized in advance of an outbreak.

Proper vaccination is the key to solid immunity. Vaccination should be done by a veterinarian, after he has checked the herd and made sure the animals are in proper condition to develop immunity, and after he has chosen the right type of vaccine to fit the circumstances and local conditions.

Farmers should be familiar with the symptoms of hog cholera, so if suspicious signs appear an immediate diagnosis can be obtained and perhaps an area-wide outbreak prevented.

Among the recommended steps in the present drive against the nation's No. 1 hog killer are: 1. Have all pigs vaccinated. 2. Don't bring in replacement pigs that have not been vaccinated.

3. Isolate replacement pigs for 10 to 30 days. 4. Avoid all contact with cholera-infected herds and keep visitors out of hog lots. 5. Do not feed raw garbage or buy replacement stock from garbage fed herds. 6. If signs of hog cholera appear; call a veterinarian at once.

Wade Martin returned home Wednesday from Quana Memorial Hospital and reported to be doing fine.

Miss Donna Baldwin and her father, Wallace Baldwin of Plainview, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Baldwin, Fanny and Danelle of Abilene; Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Barrett, Jana and Bo of Bovina; Mr. and Mrs. J. H. George, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Martin of Flomot and Mrs. Allie Hart of Matador were guests in the home of Mrs. Carrie George and Zollie Sunday to help Mrs. Carrie George observe her birthday.

R. M. Martin, whose birthday was Monday, was visited by some of their children Sunday in honor of the occasion. Sickness prevented some of the children's visiting at the Martin home. A number of friends also dropped by for a visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin.

Mrs. Ronald Stovell, Teresa and Larry arrived Saturday afternoon from Bridgeport to take their "Daddy" home Sunday night. The Stovalls were guests of the Jack Terrills over Sunday and attended the revival services.

MERCURY CAPSULE TO BE ON EXHIBIT AT TEXAS TECH

A giant Mercury capsule will be exhibited for Texas Tech students and the public at the 30th Annual Texas Tech Science and Engineering Show April 13 and 14. The capsule is similar to that in which Lt. Col. John Glenn recently made three orbits around the earth.

Viewers will be permitted to climb inside the capsule and investigate its interior. An engineer from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) will be stationed at the level of the escape hatch in order to answer questions from people inside the capsule.

The capsule - which is 26 feet tall, 6 feet in diameter and weighs 750 pounds - will be erected in the foyer of the West Texas Museum unless technical difficulties arise, according to Kenny Abraham, junior industrial engineering major and general manager of the show. Congressman George Mahon and the Air Force co-operated in arranging the display of the capsule at the Engineering Show.
A Minuteman missile will also be displayed behind the Museum along with various weapons supplied by the Air Force, Abraham said. The minuteman is a solid-fuel giant rated second to the Atlas.

Numerous other exhibits will be at the Engineering and Science Bldgs. The latest scientific and engineering developments of the following departments will be shown: electrical, chemical, industrial, petroleum, textile, civil, air science, military science, allied arts and architecture, physics, geology, and agricultural engineering.

Students of high schools and colleges over a wide area have received invitations to attend the show, which will be from 2 to 10 P.M. April 13 and from 10 A.M. to 10 P.M. April 14. There is no admission charge.

Guided tours can be arranged for interested organizations and parties if those in charge of the show are notified in advance of the show's opening.

BEAUTIFUL LAWNS DON'T "JUST HAPPEN"

Beautiful lawns don't "just happen." They must be prepared properly, seeded correctly and fed regularly if best results are to be achieved.

(Almost all soils lack adequate amounts of plant foods required for vigorous plant growth. To get grass started well and keep it growing, it is necessary to add soil by feeding before and after the lawn has been established.)

When the lawn area has been cleared, an initial feeding of plant food high in phosphate, such as 5-10-5, should be broadcast over the plot at the rate of two to three pounds for each 100 square feet of space. Then the soil should be spaded and pulverized to a depth of from eight to ten inches. An additional two pounds of fertilizer for lawns and gardens should be applied after this at the same rate and raked into the top two inches of the soil.

Wet down the entire area and let it stand for 24 hours, allowing the plant food to blend thoroughly with the soil. When the soil has settled, rake the area and roll with a lightweight roller. Follow with another raking to fill in the low spots. Next, broadcast the area with grass of a reliable seed dealer regarding the rate of application. After the seed is broadcast, roll the area lightly and water thoroughly to a depth of several inches. Use a fine spray of water to avoid washing away the seed. Daily watering during seed germination encourages maximum growth of the young grass shoots. Continued watering thereafter helps the fertilizer to develop a deep root system on the grass.

There is still time to destroy crab grass seeds as they germinate on lawns that have not started active spring growth. Use of a 10-6-4 fertilizer for turf, which also contains Dacthal, a pre-emergence crab grass control chemical, provides lawn fertilization and complete control in one operation.

The best protection against lawn weeds is a healthy, thick turf. However, when a lawn is new, there probably will be weeds present. The most common of these weeds are of the broadleaf variety, such as dandelions, plantains, buckhorns, nettles, ragweed, pepper grass and others. Chemical weed killers containing 2,4-D and 2,4,5-T give selective control of these broadleaf weeds without harming common lawn grasses. Best results are obtained if the substance is applied while grass is wet according to the directions printed on the bag.

Most lawn insect pests are soil insects which burrow under-ground and eat the roots of lawn grass, causing it to turn brown and ultimately die out. Because you seldom use them, it's a good idea to treat your lawn with soil insecticide each year as a matter of routine. One treatment with a good lawn insect killer containing chlordane has been designed to kill most of the destructive lawn insects, such as ants, army worms, Japanese Beetle grubs, wireworms and many others.

Several applications each year, however, may be necessary for the control of surface insects, such as sod and web worms. The substance should be spread evenly over the entire lawn area, according to instructions printed on the bag, and followed by a thorough watering.

Vegetable or flower seeds or plants should be started in a good seedbed of well-pulverized soil. This seedbed can be prepared by first spading or plowing the plot to a depth of eight to ten inches. The entire area should then be broadcast with from three to four pounds of lawn and garden fertilizer for each 100 square feet of space. The fertilizer should be worked well into the soil and followed with a thorough watering. As soon as the soil can be worked easily, the bed is made ready for planting by the application of another two or three pounds of fertilizer applied at the same rate and mixed well into the surface soil.

Vegetables grow best in a loose, rich, friable soil. (If this soil condition is not present, it can be obtained by mixing peat moss, compost or other organic matter into the soil to a depth of at least six inches).

In a well-prepared seedbed, stake the plot and stretch cord to mark off rows, spacing them at least 12 inches apart. A furrow for the seed row should be dug in the soil one-half inch deep for small seeds and deeper for larger seeds. Make another furrow about two inches deeper and two to three inches to the side and parallel to the seed row.

Sow a stream of fertilizer for lawns and gardens into this furrow at the rate of two pounds for each 100 feet of row. Put in the seeds and cover both furrows by raking the soil lightly into place over them. Tamp in the seeds with a board or the back of a spade and water the area thoroughly.

Young Homemakers Plan To Organize Chapter Here

The Young Homemakers of this community are invited to organize a local chapter of "Young Homemakers of Texas". The first meeting will be at the same time as the Young Farmers on April 24 at 7:30 o'clock in the Homemaking department of the High School.

All young homemakers under 35 can be active members and those over 35 can be associate members. The meetings after organization can be bi-monthly or monthly at your convenience.

The suggested program could include:

- (1) educational activities; i.e., shortcuts in sewing; demonstrations of meal preparation.
- (2) Cooperative and community service activities; i.e., help with community improvement projects.
- (3) Leadership activities; i.e., learn by doing.
- (4) Recreation activities; i.e., family picnics.
- (5) Inspiration; i.e., exchange of

KEEP YOURSELF IN TRIM

With a Regular Visit to

ideas on children problems and self-improvement.

(6) Consumer education projects; i.e., display and discuss household goods.

These are a few of the possible programs. The program personalities could be the members or individuals from your buying area.

Baby sitters will be provided for the meetings.

If you would like to have a young Homemaker organization in Quitaque, will you call No. 2756 or 3536 or see Helen Berryhill.

Lockney has a chapter, so you might ask your friends who are members.

AGRICULTURAL SHORT NOTES

Culling unprofitable dairy cows is always good business. Now is an especially good time, points out Texas extension dairy specialists, because the market for cull cows is favorable and the surplus milk production is just ahead.

New research facilities to be used for developing better methods of boll weevil control were dedicated at Mississippi State University on March 22. The laboratory will be the center for a concerted effort against the cotton pest by U. S.

Department of Agriculture and co-operating state experiment stations.

With warmer weather ahead, hatching egg producers are advised by Bill Doran, Poultry Science Department, Texas A&M College, to give more attention to the care of their product if high hatchability rates are to be maintained.

Bacterial blight in recent years has cost Texas cotton growers up to $37 million annually by reducing yields and lowering grades. It occurs throughout the world wherever cotton is grown. A new publication, MP-534, "Bacterial Blight of Cotton," is now available from the offices of county agents or by mail from the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Texas. It is a joint publication by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and Agricultural Extension
