Auto Stolen Here

The 1955 model Plymouth sedan belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Powell was stolen from them sometime during the night last Friday or during the early morning hours Saturday.

Johnny, who is West Texas Utilities manager here, reported that he got in the company pickup and went to town as usual, not noticing the car was gone from the side house where it was usually parked, and it was not until about middle of the morning when he thought to go and have the tank of the car filled with gasoline for the weekend that he missed it.

Mrs. Powell reported that she had watched the late movie on TV and did not go to bed until about 12:30 and didn't hear any noise outside, so it is presumed that the car was taken sometime after midnight Friday.

Officers all over the area were alerted to be on the lookout for the auto but as of early Thursday morning the car had not been found. Johnny stated that the insurance company who carried his insurance was also investigating and on the lookout for the stolen car.

Soaking Rains Fall Over Area

The official rain gauge at the City Hall caught 1.74 inches of rain during the rain that fell here Monday night and Tuesday to bring September's total rainfall to 2.84, according to keeper of the records, James Brunson.

This week's rainfall will be most beneficial to the wheat and barley crops that are newly sowed, and also was needed by some of the feed crops that have not reached full maturity.

Ordinarily a rain at this time of the year is not too welcome here as most farmers are getting in full swing at getting out their cotton crops. However, due to the lateness of most crops here in this section this year, the rain was welcomed by most farmers.

The valley is green again, and looks much like May or early June rather than the last days of September. Prospects for the most part at the present look very good. If the frost holds off long enough a very good crop will be harvested in this section.

HUNTERS WARNED NOT TO HUNT ON RAILROAD RIGHT-OF-WAY

With the approach of the hunting season, a reminder that railroads must prohibit trespassing on their property in the interest of safety is issued by R. W. Brewer, chief special agent for the Fort Worth and Denver Railway Company.

Pointing out that hunting and fishing licenses do not convey the privilege of trespassing, Mr. Brewer said the ban is strictly enforced by all railroads in order to protect sportsmen and the public generally, and to prevent damage to railroad facilities from careless use of firearms.

Firing at game near telegraph, telephone and signal installations frequently results in gun shot damage to these facilities and could precipitate a major disaster on a busy rail system, since interruptions of signals and communications jeopardize the safety of train crews and passengers, Mr. Brewer stated.

He also warned that trespassers run the risk of being trapped on trestles, or caught between rails and ties in the path of high-speed trains.

For these reasons, he noted, it is important that the growing number of hunters and fishermen be cautioned that they are expected to observe the "no trespassing" signs along the railroads' right-of-way.

SAVINGS BOND REPORT FOR MONTH OF AUGUST

August E and H Savings Bonds sales in Briscoe County totaled $4,667,000 according to Mr. Perry Whittemore, Chairman of the county Savings Bonds Committee.

Sales for the first eight months of 1962 were $92,601.00 which represents 115.8% of the county's 1962 goal.

"Savings Bonds are an investment in the future. For 21 years the Treasury Department sold bonds as a doorway to opportunity, a new home, college education, retirement, or some other dream of the future. But today the future itself is threatened. With the dawn of the missile age, the world is suddenly aware that one more war could be the last. The hope of the age is for peace - for some guarantee that there will be a future to look forward to. We must have PEACE POWER - the strength to keep the peace; the knowledge to make it lasting. Savings Bonds, in building economic stability, help strengthen America's peace power," Mr. Whittemore concluded.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Edgar of Big Spring spent Friday night here with his mother, Mrs. I. L. Edgar. Mrs. Edgar returned to Big Spring with the Bill Edgars for a visit.

ADDITIONAL RURAL HOUSING LOANS MADE AVAILABLE

An additional $152 million has been made available for rural housing loans, Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman announced today.

Today's action makes a total of $182 million available through the Farmers Home Administration for this type of credit during fiscal 1963. The funds come from the $430 million authorized by the Housing Act of 1961, to be expended within a four-year period. Approximately $95 million was obligated during fiscal 1962.

"These funds will help 20,000 rural families who do not now have adequate housing to obtain credit to finance a new home or improve the home they already own," Secretary Freeman said.

"The rural housing program is also a driving force in rural areas development. The construction carried on with the funds provides work for local carpenters, masons, plumbers and electricians and steps up the sales of building supply dealers and other merchants in small rural communities. The wages received by the workmen and the profits retained by the businessmen are in turn circulated through local trade channels, invested in local enterprises. The effect of the housing dollar is multiplied many times before its force is diminished.

"In addition the housing loans are helping to stabilize and strengthen rural communities by creating attractive modern living facilities, the type of house construction that makes communities desirable places in which to live.

"Here again the impact of the program multiplies. For the new homes built with Farmers Home Administration loans provide guide lines to the community in the economical construction of homes. In many areas the construction of these homes has stimulated the investment of private capital in similar types of construction.

"The program has also been highly successful so far as repayments are concerned," the Secretary said. More than $417,000,000 has been advanced in rural housing loans since 1949. Principal and interest payments total $147,000,000. Only $86,000, or two one-hundredths of one percent have been written off as uncollectable.

Rural housing loans may be used to construct, modernize or repair homes and farm buildings. They are available to farmers and residents of rural communities who cannot obtain credit from other sources.

Under the Rural Housing Program the Farmers Home Administration has made in Texas over 2,700 loans for over $20,440,000. There have been no losses on these loans. As of December 31, 1961, These borrowers had paid over $5,966,000 on principal and $2,879,000 on interest, which leaves only about $14,474,000 owed on principal. 665 of these borrowers have already paid their loans in full ahead of their maturities.

CONGRESSMAN WALTER ROGERS'S WASHINGTON REPORT

A visit to the White House, our Nation's official home, is a treat for anyone at any time, but since the effects of the restoration have begun to show results, the thrill is even more gratifying.

During the 12 years I have had the honor to represent you in Congress, Mrs. Rogers and I have had many occasions to tour the most famous house in the U. S. But never before have we been able to fully appreciate the miraculous changes that have reinstated the historic flavor of the White House decorum with the recovery of so many old and beautiful treasures — coveted possessions of collectors and private citizens who have either loaned or given outright these priceless antiques associated with past Presidents which symbolize the dignity of the President's House. It is no wonder that over 1,260,000 people have visited the White House so far this year.

Early in 1961, Mrs. John F. Kennedy established the Fine Arts Commission under the chairmanship of multi-millionaire chemical heir Henry F. duPont. Instead of asking Congress for increased appropriations in her determination to restore the President's home as nearly as possible to its original decor, she sought her financial backing through private donations and asked Congress only for a law making the White House a museum under the vigilance of the Smithsonian Institution. The First Lady has the reputation of being a knowledgeable bargain hunter in the art and antique field and it is said that she is a master of the "soft sell." I suspect that many women were born with this "virtue," but my good wife disagrees.

Nevertheless, the Fine Arts Commission has 240 acquisitions to its credit, one of which is the famous 4 horsemen Remington bronze statue entitled, "Coming Through the Rye," a contribution of the Amon Carter Foundation. The Commission was prudently reinforced with an 19 member Advisory Committee including such noted historians as Julian Boyd, editor of the Jefferson papers, and Lynn Butterfield, editor of the Adams papers, plus directors and curators of leading U. S. museums and galleries.

Despite this formidable array of talent with which Mrs. Kennedy surrounded herself, the authenticity of the Baltimore desk on view in the Green Room which she so proudly displayed as "our first piece of unsolicited fine furniture" in the televised tour of the White House last February is in dispute and will be replaced by the famous Burgess desk, a well-known, well-documented piece of early 19th Century Maryland furniture.

The Green Room, the Red Room, the Blue Room, and so on — each is a splendor in itself and beckons the respecter of history, beauty and tradition. The East Room, now restored to its original gold and white decoration, serves as a great reception room on state occasions, but it is said that Mrs. Abigail Adams, the first First Lady to inhabit the newly constructed White House in 1800, used this room for drying clothes.

All the rooms are handsomely appointed and other beauties are to be added in the years to come. I was most impressed with the re-storage of the Diplomatic Reception Room. In 1960, during the Eisenhower Administration, the National Society of Interior Designers furnished the room with excellent examples of American craftsmanship. A rug in the Aubusson manner was woven, incorporating the seals of the 50 States. The sofa, chairs and tables of New York and New England origin are in the appropriate classical or Federal style. The light cream-colored carpet and furniture upholstered in shades of yellow create a color scheme of superb gold and white, also popular in the early years of the Republic.

But in 1961 Mrs. Kennedy discovered, peeped to the walls of a Thurmont, Maryland, home, a picturesque wallpaper called "Scenic America" printed in 1834. Can you imagine the tedious job of removing paper of this vintage and value, piece by piece, with only a canvas backing for protection? However, today it graces the walls of this oval shaped room which are ideally suited to the panoramic sweep of the scenic views based on engravings of the 1820's which are five views of American wonders particularly admired by Europeans, i.e., Niagara Falls, Natural Bridge of Virginia, Boston Harbor, West Point, and New York Bay.

The White House is open to the public every Tuesday through Saturday until noon. It is a "must" on the agenda of everyone visiting Washington and if you give me sufficient notice I can arrange for you to see some of the rooms not generally open to the public. If a personal tour of the White House is not possible, second best is a copy of the book just published by the White House Historical Association, which is the first of a series of historical guides done in color and well worth the $1.00 charge.

"UNDISCOVERED" DIABETICS MAY NUMBER TWO MILLION

Various educated guesses as to the number of "undiscovered" diabetics in the United States place the figure somewhere between one and two million. Undoubtedly a fair proportion of them are Texans.

Diabetes is a general systemic disease in which the body loses its ability to burn and store sugar normally. All starches in foods are converted in the stomach and intestines into sugar. As sugar they are absorbed into the blood and pass through the liver and into general circulation to all parts of the body.

Normally the gland called the pancreas produces a secretion called insulin which is also poured into the blood. In the presence of insulin, the sugar of the blood is burned, especially by muscular activity. Any excess of sugar in the presence of a normal amount of insulin is temporarily stored, mostly in the liver, and released as needed into the blood.

This is the normal pattern. But in a person suffering with diabetes the pancreas fails to produce sufficient insulin. And when starches are eaten and absorbed as sugar, the body is unable to control the sugar normally by storing it in the liver to burn it efficiently in muscle exercise. Result: the sugar content of the blood increases to abnormal levels.

Because the diabetic is unable to burn the sugar efficiently for energy, he becomes weak and tired. His body needs nourishment and he therefore develops great hunger. But because he cannot utilize the starches, he uses up his own tissues and continues to lose weight.

When the blood sugar gets too high, the kidneys, in an effort to lower it, removes some of the sugar by excreting it in urine. This, in turn, makes the body dry and creates a thirst.

Proof of the hereditary nature of diabetes is the fact that surveys of diabetic children show that 60 percent of their families have other members with diabetes.

Overeating and lack of muscular exercise are conditions which tend to promote obesity which in turn creates a tendency toward diabetes. It has been shown that 20 fat persons develop the disease for every thin one who does. The obvious moral is do not overeat, do not remain overweight, and get plenty of muscular exercise.

You can judge your own tendency in the light of what has been said: Are you overweight? Do you over eat? Is there diabetes in your family? Also, do you have any of the symptoms: great hunger, loss of strength, loss of weight, persistent thirst, or excessive urination? If so, you're a likely candidate for a urinalysis or blood sugar test by your family physician.

NEWS from the High Plains
Research Foundation

Heavy hail on May 16th this year reduced the wheat yields below the previous high records at the High Plains Research Foundation.

The report on small grain research was prepared by Delbert Langford, Associate Agronomist of the Foundation, and S. N. (Nick) Vilm, Chief Chemist for Producers Grain Corporation Laboratory of Amarillo.

Fourteen varieties were included in the wheat yield tests. Warrior, Tascosa, and Bison had the highest yield. These varieties also scored highest in baking quality. The yield differences were not true to form because of the hail. This disaster in some cases nullified and in other cases exaggerated the yield differences.

The tests show that the wheats to grow, under irrigation, are the strong gluten varieties. They not only produce the best yields but also the most desirable flour for baking, Mr. Langford and Mr. Vilm report.

The yield and quality results both show the need for phosphate as well as nitrogen in securing best wheat production. Larger yields and higher quality were obtained with combinations of nitrogen and phosphate than with nitrogen alone.

The difference in quality between dryland and irrigated wheat is shown in the report by test weight, protein, and sedimentation value and in most cases by the baking score. The difference, however, is exaggerated by the sedimentation test in favor of the dryland wheat. Actual baking tests the strong gluten varieties such as Tascosa maintained good baking quality even under high rates of irrigation.

Results show that sedimentation is not adequate basis for determining the baking quality of wheat.

The fourteen varieties of wheat evaluated at the High Plains Research Foundation in the 1961-1962 season were Warrior, Tascosa, Bison, Rodco, Kaw, Ottawa, Comanche, Kharkof, Crockett, Wohlford (English Soft), Superior Triumph, Early Triumph, Improved Triumph, and Early Black Hull.

Clyde A. Bray Dies

The Staff and Board of Trustees of the High Plains Research Foundation are saddened over the death of Clyde A. Bray, Muleshoe, of a heart attack on September 17. His efforts in 1956 were primarily responsible for the acceptance of the idea for a private enterprise agricultural research program for the area. Mr. Bray was an active member on the Board of Trustees of the Foundation.

Prison Rodeo To Offer Good Program

HUNTSVILLE — The annual Texas Prison Rodeo is more than just an entertainment feature for the 12,000 inmates of the Texas Department of Corrections.

While they look forward to each Sunday in October with a great deal of anticipation, they have another good reason for boosting the world's wildest rodeo.

They know that net proceeds from ticket sales go into their own fund which makes it possible for the prison to maintain an accelerated rehabilitation program.

This includes spiritual, educational, recreational and medical services not furnished by the State. These services are designed to help inmates prepare themselves for the future — the day when they may be either paroled or discharged from prison.

This year's rodeo, the 31st an-

Cotton Harvest Moving Slow

Cotton harvest continues to move spasmodically, according to Charles E. Cox, of the Altus Classing Office. 2500 samples were classed during the week, but receipts were halted at mid-week because of rains.

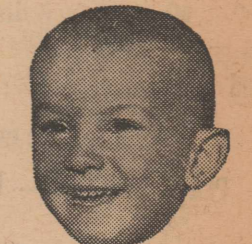

Grade averages dropped during the week, with some spotted grades showing up an estimated 41% was called in white grades, 51% light spotted, and 8% spotted. An average of 29% was called Middling Light Spotted.

Staple lengths ranged from 7/8 to 1-1/8, with 65% averaging 1 inch and longer. The predominant staple was 1 inch, showing 32%. Estimates were based on a 10% cross section for the season to date.

Micronaire readings made little improvement. About 18% of the cotton was called Wasty, 31% "miked" 2.9 and lower; 27% between 3.0 and 3.4; 24% between 3.5 and 3.9; and 18% 4.0 and above.

Cox reported that the Seasonal
