The "Separation of Powers" Doctrine

Our U.S. Constitution separates the power of government among its three great branches—the legislative, the executive, and the judicial. Behind the very sound "separation of powers" doctrine is the theory that by keeping the three branches independent of one another, and by keeping their authority in balance, a concentration of tyrannous power is made impossible.

Man has yet to devise a better system of government than that by which we are governed. A keystone of our system is this "separation of powers." And, despite some stir recently over a "Fund for the Republic" pamphlet entitled "The Elite and the Electorate," there is not the slightest consideration being given in the Congress to changing the Constitutional balance of power. The pamphlet is NOT a government publication. The "Fund for the Republic" has NO connection with government. The pamphlet argues that some authority now vested in the Congress should be transferred to the President in order that the United States might act more swiftly to meet sudden challenges at home and abroad. I'm strongly opposed to any such change—to any move to reduce the power of the Congress, the people's most direct voice in their government. I'm certain the great majority of Congressmen and Senators shares my conviction, as does the great majority of the American people.

From time to time in our history, one branch or another has been dominant in the exercise of power granted under the Constitution's broad outlines. In some periods, the Congress has acted most forcefully. Occasionally the U. S. Supreme Court has acted so strongly as to be accused (and I have raised the point) of exercising powers properly resting with the legislative branch, the Congress. We have had strong-willed Presidents who wielded their powers so vigorously that they were accused in their day of being near-dictators.

Of all our Presidents, Abraham Lincoln (who we all now revere but who was a bitterly controversial President in his own time) cornered more power for the executive than any other. Consider these actions of Lincoln: Under the war power he proclaimed the slaves of those in rebellion emancipated. He devised and put into execution his own plan of reconstruction. He increased the Army and Navy beyond the limit set by statute. The privilege of the writ of habeas corpus was suspended wholesale and martial law declared. Public money in the sum of millions was spent without Congressional appropriation. Lincoln knew his Constitution. He did none of these things innocently. He knew how far he could go in taking for his office the powers of a divided, weak Congress.

Thus through history, one branch or another of our government, has been in a position somewhat more powerful than the other branches. Today, in my view, Congress must be extremely wary about extending any further delegations of authority to departments in the executive branch. Because Congress has sometimes not been specific enough in its delegations of statutory authority to executive departments, it too generous in the powers it has passed along the departments, constituting the government bureaucracy) have assumed larger responsibilities than legislators envisioned. Occasionally the Congress seeks to return to itself grants of authority. As an example, I have introduced a bill to bar the Federal Communications Commission from collecting license fees, a step FCC said it was preparing to take. I submitted the bill to require that no fees be charged without the express Congressional consent.

Generally it can be shown that the "separation of powers" doctrine has been respected, that fluctuations in the exercise of power have through history been contained within the broad confines established by our Founding Fathers in the Constitution.

A sweeping drastic change in the balance of legislative, executive, and judicial powers could not be made without the adoption of a Constitutional amendment. So fundamental to the entire Constitutional framework is the separation doctrine that in my firm view, no major change could be made short of the outright repeal of the Constitution—and such a step is beyond any possibility. Even an amendment is difficult to obtain. Only 31 amendments have become part of the Constitution since the original ten, the Bill of Rights, were adopted. To amend the Constitution, resolutions so providing must be approved by the judiciary committees and then by majorities in at least three-fourths of the 50 state legislatures. Right now, resolutions calling for amendments on 25 different points of the Constitution are pending before the House Judiciary Committee. It is extremely unlikely that any of the proposals will emerge for House floor consideration this year. The road is long and hard for any Constitutional change. Altering the Constitution is a serious step not to be undertaken without great and prolonged deliberation—and not without a clear call from the merican people saying that the change is needed.

VISITORS HERE FROM CALIFORNIA

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hildebrand, Debbie and Susie, and Mrs. Pearl McBride of Shafter, Calif., arrived Monday for a visit with Mrs. McBride's cousin, Mrs. Ray Persons and other relatives and friends. Mrs. Hildebrand is the former Helen McBride.

Recreation Program Set

Quitaque's Summer Recreation Program is all set to get underway as final plans were completed in a meeting of the directors last Monday afternoon.

Coach Gene King has agreed to accept the post of Director of the program and will oversee the entire setup and will work out a schedule for the various activities.

Present plans call for four activities to be available to the town's youngsters: tennis, baseball, basketball and swimming. Silverton has agreed to let their pool be used for this phase of the program.

Coach King has called for a meeting of all the youngsters and parents who can attend, at the school auditorium Monday afternoon, June 17 at 3 o'clock. At this time the youngsters will receive detailed information as to how the program will be run also they will register for the activities in which they want to participate. Each activity will have an instructor to coach them in each sport. Coach King will coach in basketball, Supt. Johnny Mason will instruct the swimming classes, O. R. Stark will coach the tennis players and the baseball players will have their coaches, although the director of this activity has not been announced as yet. Helpers in each activity will be needed to aid these coaches, of course.

Actual activity will begin on Monday, June 24 in all of the sports, with the exception of swimming. Mr. Mason has announced that he could not start the swimming classes until the following Monday, July 1.

Fees have been set for participation in the summer program that the directors feel can be afforded by the parents of the children in town and at the same time believed will go a long way toward raising sufficient funds to finance the program. The charges will be $1.00 per activity the child takes part in. For instance, if a boy or girl wants to take part in four activities, the fee will be $4—for the entire summer—not just a week. That is all the cost there will be, except in the swimming classes each person will pay his own way into the pool, whatever that will be. The directors feel that this price will not be beyond the means of any family in Quitaque. The age limit will be children of school age and above.

Coach King believes that it is too late to schedule very many games for the baseball teams but he hopes that enough interest is shown that he will have three teams and will be able to play intercity games in addition to whatever games he will be able to schedule out of town.

Final details of the program will be worked out and Coach King will know more of what to expect after Monday's meeting. All parents are urged to attend the meeting who possibly can and find out the complete plans and to enroll their youngsters. If boys and girls are going to be away Monday, they are requested to let Mr. King know the activities they want to take part in.

MRS. A. L. MORRIS HAS SURGERY LAST WEEK AT QUANAH

Mrs. Eula Morris underwent major surgery last Thursday morning at Quannah Memorial Hospital. At the latest report, she is recovering very well. Her sister, Mrs. D. L. Boswell and three children, Lane, Cary and Renee of Denver, Colo., and her brother, Preston Taylor and his family of Grant, Okla., and her husband A. L. were at her bedside when she went into surgery. Mrs. Boswell and children are visiting her mother, Mrs. J. A. Taylor this week. The Preston Taylors spent the weekend at the home of his mother, Mr. and Mrs. Webb Taylor visited Mrs. Morris at the hospital, Sunday, and Mrs. Boswell visited her Monday evening. Both report that she is improving.

Mrs. H. B. Finney, Mrs. Elmore Pointer and Mrs. Pierce White were in Amarillo on business Monday.

This looks like a great thing for our town—a supervised program of activities to occupy the boys and girls who will have leisure time on their hands this summer, and at the same time will have someone to teach them how to become more proficient at their favorite sports.

A great deal of interest has been shown in the swimming part of the program. Supt. Mason, who will be in charge of that phase of the program, is a qualified swimming instructor and will teach beginners and advanced swimmers.

All in all, it looks like a great deal of fun is ahead for the kids of Quitaque. One thing should be stressed—the program is not just for boys, but is for boys and girls and the more who take part, the more fun it will be for all.

MRS. POPE ELECTED FLOMOT PRINCIPAL

The Flomot Board of Education elected Mrs. Lessie Pope Grade School Principal in recognition of her many years of service to the Flomot School System. According to Supt. Barman, her duties will change little because she has been carrying the duties without the title.

When the two carloads of kids arrived at the park, however, the two girls and one of the mothers had arrived ahead of them.

There are two camp opportunities being offered on a district basis this year. The junior camp, for those who have finished the fifth or sixth grade, is July 1-5. The junior high camp is set for July 15-19. Both will be held at Ceta Canyon.

Choir rehearsals have been resumed, meeting on Wednesday at 7:00 P. M. as the usual time.

WANT TO LIVE LONGER?

Eternal life does not merely refer to the length of life. It also has to do with the quality of life. Man was made not only for heaven, but also for living this life on earth in a unique way which Jesus called the abundant life.

What
 difference

Grandma may talk about the good old days, but a whole team of horses couldn't drag her back to an old fashioned kitchen. When you compare the two pictures, you observe an important fact. All the marvelously improved conveniences you see are made possible by electricity — every single one. Yes, electricity makes the difference, and what a difference it makes! It eliminates drudgery and creates more leisure time by performing countless tasks in the home at the flip of a switch. It turns factory wheels, lights the darkness, and does all these things effortlessly and economically. That is one of two reasons why the use of electricity is increasing here in the Center of the Southwest. The other is that more people, more businesses, more industries are coming our way. Our expansion program is keyed to this increase, for we are convinced our service area faces GROWTH UNLIMITED.

This machine — called a Micronaire — will be used to test the fineness of cotton fibers produced in this area. All cotton farmers who belong to Smith-Doxey organized groups are eligible for this service offered by the Altus Cotton Classing Office. The usual fee for this USD service is 25 cents per sample. A micronaire reading is an additional measurement of the quality of cotton which supplements the traditional cotton classing for grade and staple length. Cotton fiber fineness is shown by the position of the air-flow instrument indicator on the micronaire scale seen in this picture. The lower the "mike" reading, as the trade calls it, the more immature the cotton. Usually low "mike" cottons have not matured normally and are lower in quality. These immature cottons cause processing difficulties at the mill. That's why most buyers look for cotton with a "mike" reading above 3.5. As a result more and more farmers want their cotton "miked" to help market it. To meet this need, the Agricultural Marketing Service is offering the "mike" service to all cotton farmers in the Smith-Doxey groups. Applications for the service must reach the Altus Classing Office by July 1.

FLOMOT SCHOOL ADDS TO ITS PERFECT ATTENDANCE RECORD

At the end of the school year, when the final checking of the records was made, Supt. A. J. Barron found that two freshman boys were entitled to perfect attendance certificates. They are Donnie Cruse and Stanley Degan. Through the end of the school rush their names were left off the original list.

With these two names added, according to Supt. Barron, Flomot had less than ten percent of their students neither absent or tardy. The goal for the 1963-64 school year is 40 per cent with perfect attendance. If school is worthwhile, it is worth attending.
