Local Farmers Reclaim Land With Soil Conservation Practice

Several farmers around Quitaque have shown interest in shaping of the Kent Creek channel and its tributaries into grassed waterways. One of the projects, almost completed except for the grass seeding is the Kent Creek channel that crosses the property of Pierce White. R. P. McWilliams and J. B. Baird. This channel before construction was started, was approximately fifteen feet deep in places with very steep banks. The steep banks were pushed into the channel and new banks were built that can be crossed with farm equipment. The new channel has a flat bottom with a uniform grade from one end to the other. Wheat or rye will be drilled on the new channel as soon as possible to hold the shaped surface and to furnish a litter cover to seed native grasses into this coming spring.

J. B. Baird has started construction on a tributary on the Kent Creek that crosses his property and goes just north of his house. This channel will also be seeded to native grass this coming spring.

Wayne White, Cecil Price, D. C. Duck, and J. A. Mayfield have plans of shaping more of the Kent Creek channel and one of its tributaries. This channel will start at the Erosion Control Dam No. 1 on J. A. Mayfield's and tie into Kent Creek at the highway bridge just north of Quitaque.

Some diversions and terraces have been planned along the waterways mentioned above to aid in the control of water into

This waterway is a tributary of Kent Creek. Once a yawning gully deeper than the one pictured above, it will be seeded to wheat or rye as soon as possible. When the native grasses are established some grazing will be possible, and the owner, J. B. Baird, will be able to move machinery from one field to another without detouring the deep chasm. — Photo Courtesy Briscoe County News

This waterway, inside the Kent Creek Watershed, is part of the channel not included in the Kent Creek construction program which is to begin soon. 'CONSERVING USE' PROVISION CONTINUED UNDER 1964 FEED GRAIN PROGRAM

Growers who intend to participate in the 1964 feed grain program should remember that eligibility for payments and price support will be conditional upon maintaining the farm's normal acreage (1959-60 average) in soil-conserving crops or practices, including summerfallow and idle land. The same provision has been in effect for the feed grain programs during the past three years.

Louie Kitchens, Chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Briscoe County Committee, points out that this provision is of particular importance to the feed grain grower who also produces wheat.

Eligibility for feed grain program benefits in 1964 is not contingent on staying within the wheat allotment, if any, for the signed farm, he explained. However, maintaining the normal acreage in conserving use under feed grain program will mean that any planting of wheat in excess of the farm allotment on a complying feed grain farm would have to be at the expense of some other soil-depleting crop.

Growers participating in the 1964 feed grain program, as in last year's program, will be eligible for diversion payments; price support loans on their corn, grain sorghum, and barley; and special price support payments. Also, as before, two rates of diversion payments will be offered, but the higher rate may be applied to more acres in 1964.

Mr. Kitchens invites feed grain and wheat producers to keep in touch with their ASCS County Office for further information as the 1964 feed grain program develops.

Carolyn Sanders, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Sanders, was honored on her 8th birthday with a party at the City Park, Wednesday, Sept. 11.

The cartoon character, "The Litter Longhorn," pleads with the public to "Help Stop Out Litter." The sign emphasizes that it is against the state law to litter. In 1962 the Highway Department had to spend $1.4 million to pick up litter, an increase of about a hundred thousand dollars over 1961.

of permanent vegetative cover of grasses and legumes. Also, they have planted about 350,000 acres of trees, built nearly 700,000 acres of terraces to prevent soil erosion and improve water resource management, and built about 50,000 farm ponds.

"These are practices with enduring benefits," Secretary Freeman said. "They illustrate the conservation measures we are encouraging for 1964."

USDA economists point to a need for shifting millions of acres of land that is now producing row crops & small grains

CRISS REAGAN ONE OF 27 PEACE CORPS VOLUNTEERS IN EL SALVADOR

Twenty-seven Peace Corps Volunteers begin work this month with the first "domestic Peace Corps" ever to be organized in the developing world—the El Salvadoran Social Progress Corps.

The U. S. Volunteers and members of the Social Progress Corps will work together in brigades of five persons each. Each brigade will operate in a rural area in El Salvador, teaching reading, health and sanitation, improved agricultural practices, and home economics. The teams will also introduce recreational and sport ac-activities in the areas. Twenty members of the Social Progress Corps and the U. S. Peace Corps Volunteers trained together for this project in an eight-week program at the University of Oklahoma at Norman.

The Peace Corps Volunteers left Miami on September 10 by Pan AM Charter.

On of the twenty-seven Volunteers is John Criss Reagan of Quitaque, son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Reagan. He is the only Texan listed among the Volunteers.

Mr. and Mrs. George Owens and Betty left last Thursday to visit their daughter, Mrs. Olen Lane and family at Van Horn, and another daughter, Mrs. Bill Ebbs and her family at Dell City.

GENERAL TELEPHONE TOWNS ON THE MOVE

Van Heusen Shirts come to Augusta

When the Augusta, Arkansas Industrial Development Corporation set out to secure new industry, they came up with one of America's largest and most respected manufacturers of men's shirts.

The Phillips-Van Heusen Corporation, makers of famous Van Heusen shirts, was brought to this 2300 population town about a year ago. They employed local workers, instituted an intensive training program, and completed the first products in the brief time of 14 days. Such aggressive action by local citizens and company officials has caused the plant to become a major factor in the local economy.

It is another reason we say General Telephone towns are on the move. Community improvements are under way, local resources are being developed, new businesses, new industries are coming in. If your town seeks additional information about expansion, perhaps we can help. Just write our Community Development Department, Box 1001, San Angelo, Texas.
