Family Of Briscoe County Agent Gives Scrapbook To Texas A&M College

College Station — A scrapbook filled with newspaper clippings telling of the New London school disaster of 1937 which claimed the lives of 294 youngsters has been received as the first item in Texas A&M University's expanded archives collection.

Receipt of the gift from J. W. Grosdidier, Box 227, New London, was announced by University Archivist Ernest Langford.

"All of our children have attended London school and we would like this book to be entered in their behalf," Grosdidier wrote. Among the five children are Leon E. Grosdidier, who received a Master of Science degree from Texas A&M in 1960. The others are Juanita, Glen L., Neva L., and Sarah E. Grosdidier. (Ed. Note: Leon E. Grosdidier is Briscoe County Agent).

Texas A&M Archives contain an estimated 10,000 items relating broadly to university history, but under the new program gifts are sought that will help future scholars better understand many facets of the state's history and development.

"The collection is being developed into a general archives division of Cushing Memorial Library for the purpose of permanently preserving for reference and research manuscripts, documents, pictures, newspapers, maps and records of all sorts," Library Director Robert A. Houze said.

ness firms and organizations are welcomed.

"Materials deposited will be listed under family name and carefully and properly protected," Langford said.

"The materials will be made available for public use under safeguards. For purposes of income tax deductions, a monetary value may be placed on gifts."

County Agent Leon Grosdidier told The Tribune last week that he was in the First grade and was at school the day the New London school was blasted to bits. His mother and his sister, Juanita, who was 5 years old at the time, were at a P.T.A. meeting in the school gym when the school blew up. Mr. Grosdidier said that none of his own family were killed in the tragedy but his wife had a sister, a high school student, who was one of the 297 children who were killed.

Mr. Grosdidier said that because of the New London tragedy, the Federal Government passed a law to the effect that an odor must be put into natural gas in order that a gas leak can be detected by smell. Natural gas in its natural state is said to be odorless. The blame for the New London disaster was blamed on an accumulation of gas in the basement of the school.

The County Agent said that included in the scrapbook that his family gave to A&M were telegrams of sympathy from President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Adolf Hitler.

Motley County is blessed with dedicated, professional teachers. For many years the county has boasted of 100 percent membership in the Texas State Teachers Association, yet the organization at the county level was not active. The representatives that met in Matador felt that it was time to again give the teachers of Motley County the chance of supporting a county organization. It is hoped that leadership would develop in each school system that would further the work of the Motley County Teacher Association. It is up to all teachers to make a determined effort to see that we don't fall short again in carrying out the program of the Texas State Teachers Association on the county level.

The following officers were elected:

Children's Photos To Be Taken

The publisher's of this newspaper would like to give our readers a look at the children of this area, these children who are our future citizens and the leaders of tomorrow.

The only way we can do this is by publishing pictures of them in a feature series. To assure the latest and best reproduction of the pictures, they must all be of uniform size and quality.

Winston B. Lucas, an expert children's photographer, who is well-known to people of this area, with all the necessary equipment for this specialized work, will be here Saturday, April 11 and will take pictures at The Tribune office from 10 A. M. to 4:00 P. M.

No Charge to Parents There is no charge to the parents. There are absolutely no strings to this invitation to bring the kiddoes in to have their pictures made. Parents do not have to be subscribers, nor even readers of this newspaper to take advantage of this feature. Neither are they obligated to purchase pictures taken. Those who want some additional prints may obtain a limited number by arrangement with the studio representative when they select the pose they want printed in the paper. It is entirely up to them.

The More Pictures The Better This paper wants pictures of all the youngsters and the more, the better. So the mothers and fathers should remember the date, Saturday, April 11 and bring their children to the photographer.

You'll be mighty glad afterward, if you do and the kiddoes will be proud to see their pictures in print.

Appointments may be had by calling 3131.

Green Thumb Tips

The "freshness factor" is far more important with some vegetables than with others. So, if your garden space is limited, concentrate on the vegetables in which freshness means superior flavor. Peas, sweet corn, lettuce and tomatoes are examples of these, with carrots and beets not far behind.

Do you own a vacation home where you'd like to have plenty of flowers with little work? Order nasturtium seeds now, both the dwarf and the tall form. Dwarf nasturtiums will make a gay carpet wherever you need one. Tall nasturtiums, which are vines, will cover fences or walls in short order. Just clear the spot where you want nasturtiums to grow and scatter the seeds over it.

The reason for planting certain flowers and vegetables as early as it is possible to work the soil is that they require cool weather to start growth. Sweet peas, larkspur, poppies, calendulas and delphiniums are among the flowers with this requirement; onions, peas, spinach, radishes and lettuce among the vegetables.

Should the weather prevent your working outdoors, take the opportunity to check over your garden tools. Sand any roughness on wooden handles, replace old handles with new, clean off rust and repaint the handles of small tools bright yellow or orange so they can readily be seen.

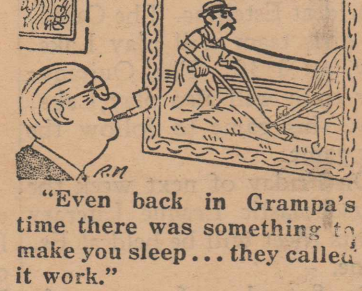

One kind of stock that will flower even in the northern part of the country is known as Trysome Seven Week stock. Most of the flowers will be fully double and all the stock colors will be represented.

From early spring to late summer you can tuck a few onion sets in any odd corner and, within 3 weeks from planting, have them ready to use on the table. So don't let those little corners go to waste.

One of the easiest of all flowers to grow is calliopsis. There are both tall and short-growing varieties, both with flowers in shades of golden yellow, reddish brown and purplish brown. Scatter the seeds where the plants are to grow.

Rhubarb chard may be used as an ornamental as well as a vegetable. Grow the plants in a seedbed and space them evenly when transplanting so they have room to spread and reach full size.

Although the Easter morning attendance was more than three times that of the evening service, it was not as much as one might have expected in relation to the numbers coming to the two worship sessions recently. With spring really here attendance should pick up.

The Vacation Church School Institute is set for First Methodist Church in Plainview on April 15. Mrs. Melvin Mathis has been designated as Director this year, and several of the women and girls have already indicated that they will be willing to assist. She is very anxious not to overlook any who have been working in this worthwhile endeavor, or who are willing to do so. For the local scene the school is to be the week immediately after the closing of public schools, the last week in May.

We hope to have a definite announcement next week regarding the Family Night program for April.

Next Sunday morning is

MOTOR VEHICLE INSPECTION DEADLINE APRIL 15

IT'S TIME FOR A CHANGE—The Department of Public Safety urges all motorists to get their 1964 Inspection Stickers before lines start forming at inspection stations.

Communion Service time. The pastor's sermon topic is to be "Healing From the Heart of Pain," based on the Fourth saying of Christ from the Cross. "My God, My God, why hast Thou forsaken me?" Matthew 27:46.

Next Sunday evening we go into our revival services, with Rev. James P. (Jim) Boswell doing the preaching. We are counting on both of our faithful accompanists, Mrs. Geneva Curtis and Miss Lynette Taylor, in the musical work. We are to be led in our singing by Mr. George Owens. Weekday morning services, Monday through Friday, are to be at seven; weekday evening worship, Monday through Saturday, is to be at 7:30. It would be very good to have a "Booster Band" of the children to sing. In charge of hospitality arrangements for the meals for the ministers are Mrs. N. V. Hamilton and Mrs. Ollie Nall. Mrs. Geneva Curtis is to make arrangements for the homes in which discussion groups are to meet after the evening service. There is to be a reception after the first service in the church Fellowship Hall, with perhaps time for a short evaluation of the sermon. Almost needless to say, the kind of revival the church has will depend on what it really wants and is willing to pay for. You are invited to be part of "We and Us," instead of "They and Them," to begin with the beginning of the services, to make a place in your schedule for them, even to help those who may be interested and without proper means of accommodation to get to the church. Every person is a part of the field of evangelism that needs winning, or of the force to win these needy ones; everyone either has a message in life, or his life is in a mess; every person must either have a mission for good or be missing out on the best things in life. Every person either is a sinner being saved by the grace of God with Christ at the center of his life, or is a sinner without a saving center, not knowing where he is or how he got there, or what he is doing or even where he is going. This is the truth that cuts and can also heal.

Jean Marie Mathis spent the Easter holidays with her family and attended Sunday services at the Methodist Church, before returning to McMurry College in Abilene.

DEFENSE FOR SECURITY

A NAVY CAPTAIN showed me a newspaper clipping the other day in which the writer, a reporter on a Northeastern newspaper, was critical of the Navy for maintaining the nuclear-powered aircraft carrier "Enterprise," the world's mightiest naval vessel and the mainstay of our Mediterranean Sixth Fleet. The reporter called the "Enterprise" a "sitting duck" in a nuclear war and hinted that the "Enterprise" was kept in commission not because of any real value in our defense effort but because of "tradition." He wrote, "... the 'Enterprise' is really not a modern weapon, despite the efficiency of her 5,000-man crew and her eight nuclear reactors..."

Perhaps the "Enterprise" would be a "sitting duck" in a nuclear war. The city of Chicago, the Panama Canal, Amariillo Air Force Base—any point on earth; none of these would be immune from obliteration if a potential enemy chose to make a target in the ultimate, civilization-destroying horror of a nuclear war. But the point is this: the obligation of the United States goes far beyond maintaining a capability to respond massively if subjected to nuclear attack.

THE SECURITY OF THE UNITED STATES does indeed depend heavily on our nuclear "arsenal," its dispersal at strategic points, the effectiveness of the weapons, the training and skill of our military personnel. At the same time, the Nation's security also depends on our being able to conduct military operations of a more conventional character, on our being able to force decisive results when the fight is not global.

Because we must be prepared to meet so many contingencies, the U. S. taxpayer bears an enormous burden of supporting a defense establishment ready for big wars and small. The President's budget request for Fiscal Year 1965, which begins July 1, calls for defense expenditures totaling $55.2 billion.

Of every dollar of the proposed administrative budget, 55 cents is earmarked for direct defense spending. Other programs involved in preserving our security—the "indirect" defense costs—add billions of dollars more.

THE DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE carries out ten major programs which provide the military diversity and flexibility required for our security. These are:

1. Strategic retaliatory forces, including manned bombers, intercontinental ballistic missiles, Polaris missile launching submarines, and the facilities (such as communications) needed to control these forces.
2. Continental defense forces, which combine warning systems against missile or manned aircraft attack with the means to resist an attack, such as intercepter aircraft and ground-to-air missiles.
3. General purpose forces, which combine ground, air, and sea forces equipped and trained to cope with conventional or brush-fire wars.
4. Airlift and sealift forces to move our combat forces quickly wherever they are needed.
5. Reserve forces to provide swift additional strength to the regular forces when needed.
6. Research and development activities on which continued military effectiveness depends.
7. through 10. General support activities, including training, intelligence, and security; retirement pay for military personnel; civil defense activities, including development of warning and fallout shelter facilities; military assistance, under which equipment training, and related services are provided to allies to bolster Free World strength.

OBVIOUSLY, if the Nation's obligation for insuring its security (and helping to insure that of other free nations) could be met by providing only a nuclear deterrent, we could do away with the "Enterprise," large numbers of other ships and aircraft and uncalculated tons of other military "hardware."

and discharge hundreds of thousands of soldiers, sailors, and marines. Our defense budget would be reduced by many billions of dollars—and still we would be ready for the ultimate war, the day when the military forces of Free and Communist nations traded nuclear destruction. Just as obviously, we cannot protect ourselves by this course alone, a course that would open the way for unchecked, piecemeal aggressions all over the world.

We must be prepared to meet military challenges in whatever form they develop. We are so prepared today and, while seeking economies where economies are possible, we will continue on the present course as the Cold War moves toward the end of its second decade.

Recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Turner of Flomot were her brothers, Albert Jones and wife of Akron, Ohio; Thornton Jones of Phoenix, Ariz.; and Mr. and Mrs. Coleman Jones and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Jones, of Plainview; her sister, Mrs. Sam Tibbets and daughter of Snyder.

JIM C. LANGDON is now serving on the Railroad Commission and doing a fine job. Texas oil production has gone up 3 per cent, meaning more income for Texans and more tax revenue. JIM LANGDON is a former high court judge who understands the problems of oilmen, truckers, butane dealers, the railroads and other industries he helps to regulate in the public interest. Texas must keep this man of integrity and ability on the job. Vote in the Democratic Primary May 2 for Railroad Commissioner
