You don't have to give up plans for your vacation by auto this summer — just because baby is still in diapers!

People who have made babies their business tell us that the whole family can enjoy an auto trip, provided you prepare carefully.

"Modern sciences has solved the two main problems of traveling with an infant in the car — feeding and laundry," says W. O. Elson, medical research director for the Kendall Company, which manufactures Curity baby products.

"For short trips, plastic bottles with overcaps are ideal," said Elson. "Mother can sterilize bottles, nipples, and formula by the terminal method before leaving. A small ice chest will keep the formula safe, and the overcap guarantees sterility."

For longer trips, Elson recommends that mothers depend on bottles of sterile water, plus six-ounce cans of evaporated milk. Each time the baby is fed, open a can of milk, pour into a sterile bottle the proper amount, add sweetening and water, and discard the rest of the milk.

"It is wise to consult your baby's doctor before a trip of any length," Elson cautions. Laundry is even simpler today. Curity disposable diapers, or diaper liners if you prefer to use regular diapers, are today completely comfortable, and eliminate laundry worries on the road.

Here are some other hints to make your trip more pleasant:

1. Limit your driving to 250-300 miles a day, and stop by 5:00 p.m.
 2. Don't overpack for your baby. Buy prepared foods as you travel.
 3. Don't interrupt baby's training because you are on the road; bring a portable toilet for one- and two-year olds.
 4. Carry your doctor's telephone number, and plan your vacation trip to go through population centers.
 5. Finally, for both adults and children, a first-aid kit, well-stocked with "ouchless" bandages, is essential.
- Remember, a traveling vacation can be enjoyable — both for you and for baby — if it is carefully planned.

THE ART OF UNMOLDING GELATIN

Do you avoid making a beautiful molded gelatin dessert or salad because you dread unmolding it? If so, these tips developed by the makers of Jell-O Gelatin will give you the confidence you need. It just takes a little practice—

Make certain the gelatin is completely firm. It should not feel sticky on top and should not sag toward the side if the mold is lifted.

If gelatin is firm, dip a small pointed knife in warm water and run the tip of it around the edge of the gelatin. (1)

Moisten the top of the gelatin and a chilled plate with cold water—the moist surfaces make it easy to slide the gelatin into the center of the plate after it has been unmolded.

Dip the mold in warm (not hot) water just to the rim—about 10 seconds. Lift from water, hold upright, and shake slightly to loosen gelatin from the mold. (2)

Invert moistened plate on mold. Then invert plate and mold together. Carefully lift off mold. (If gelatin doesn't release easily, dip mold in warm water again.) If necessary, move gelatin to center of plate. (3)

HOUSEHOLD HINTS
BY Joan M. Worden

PINE CLEANER INFORMATION CENTER

- Garage getting you down? If your garage is good for nothing — including the family car — organize a family clean-up team and see how effective a garage can be.
1. Be daring with your throw-away operation. You'll be surprised how many products you intended to use are too old to be efficient or have evaporated in cans or bottles.
 2. Make a clean sweep of the garage with the biggest broom you can find. Use a snow shovel for a dustpan.
 3. After the sweep-up, mop the floor with a pine oil cleaner — disinfectant. This treatment deodorizes, disinfects and deodorizes all at once. Then use the hose. Remember to hose down after sweeping — if you use the hose before you've swept up, you'll have mud puddles from the dust and dirt.
 4. Short of hanging up the car, get as many items off the garage floor as possible.
 5. Organize with pegboard. Hang garden equipment from hooks, add shelves for paints, patio and garden products, car cleaning equipment and outdoor gear.
 6. Spray storage hint: hang up a shoebag for your aerosol products. That way they'll be easy to see and get to.
 7. If the garage is still overcrowded after you organize, consider storing some necessary items in the attic. Garages are often damp and if there is anything which could be damaged by mildew, move it upstairs.
 8. Be sure your garage smells as clean as it looks. After the clean-up, spray the garage with a pine disinfectant spray. Admire your handiwork and your pine-clean garage, now efficient as well.

Look Ma, No Hands!
Push Button Car Washing
Instead of just washing your windshield, the corner filling station may soon offer to wash and wax your entire car in little more time than it takes to "fill" or up and check the oil. Your local service station has a chance to get into the automated car wash business. It can now offer the ease and speed of push button controlled car washing just like the big, professional auto laundries.

A low cost, automated all-in-one combination car washing-waxing-drying unit called the "Combi" was recently introduced by California Car Wash Systems, Inc. of Sun Valley, California. The "Combi" will make fast, automatic car washing available at service stations that otherwise could not support the high traffic economics of an assembly line type car wash.

The novelty of the "Combi" is that the car stands still while the cleaning unit moves back and forth around it. Unlike the coin-operated do-it-yourself auto washes, this new machine cleans the car all by itself, completely and automatically. No hand washing or drying is involved. It uses vigorous rotating brush agitation, rather than water pressure alone, to remove road grime. The full wash cycle, including sudsing, rinse, waxing, and drying, takes only six to eight minutes.

The "Combi's" low investment and operating costs will enable small businesses to offer automated car washing for the first time on a modest traffic volume basis.

In addition to service stations, you can expect to find this new car wash service at parking garages, motor hotels, and high rise apartment and office complexes. Car rental firms, municipal garages, and auto fleet operators will also be using the "Combi" to keep their vehicles sparkling with a minimum of labor.

Penny and Tinney Pigg of Bonita, Ariz. visited in the homes of their aunts and uncles, Mr. and Mrs. O. V. Hodges and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Pigg the past week.
