Carter's top officials offer to quit positions

WASHINGTON (AP) — With all of his Cabinet and high-level staff offering to resign, President Carter is expected to decide by Friday where the ax will fall as he works on a new lineup to revive his presidency.

Senior officials were shaken by the move — the latest surprise in Carter's self-declared turning point — which left the government in limbo.

The 34 top officials affected said little in public beyond confirming that they had been asked Tuesday to tender their resignations.

White House press secretary Jody Powell said the offers, made orally and not in writing, would be considered "carefully and expeditiously" by the president.

Cabinet secretaries were led to believe they would hear whether Carter would keep them on "in two or three days," one source said. Another source said the president's decision would come sometime "this week." Both sources asked not to be identified.

One White House official, reflecting the extremely secretive nature of the day's developments in this city that thrives on rumors, said, "Whatever the president's decisions may be, I can assure you he is keeping them to himself."

The number of resignations the president will accept remained unclear, but one White House official said "the president will accept some."

Said another: "It shows he means business. It isn't fatuous."

Members of Congress called Tuesday's announcement "strange" and "curious." Republican reaction was the harshest, but several Democrats also questioned the president's actions.

Powell's brief announcement that several high members of the administration had tendered their resignations left unanswered several questions:

What motivated the mass offer? Were the resignations solicited? And by whom, the president or his chief aides as they seek flexibility in restructuring the administration to bolster Carter's re-election odds?

Dodging such questions, one official who asked for anonymity, would say only that the resignations "were offered."

Asked why dozens of top people in government would be moved simultaneously to offer to quit without prodding, the official responded: "We felt it to be an appropriate step to take at this time."

Besides the 12 Cabinet officers, resignation offers came from all presidential assistants and special assistants, including Hamilton Jordan, Carter's de facto, but untitled, chief of staff. When the smoke clears, Jordan is likely to emerge with that title.

Powell, a Georgian like Jordan, could also be given expanded authority.

Speculation on those most likely to leave the Cabinet focused on embattled Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger, who has said he would leave before Carter opens his anticipated re-election campaign.

Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal, and Joseph A. Califano Jr., the secretary of health, education and welfare, both of whom have raised the ire of senior Carter aides, were also possible targets.

Reflecting the scope of the resignations, Warren Dunn, spokesman for Housing and Urban Development Secretary Patricia Roberts Harris said "my boss and everybody else's boss in Washington resigned today."

One Cabinet member was described by an aide, asking not to be identified by name or department, as "literally shaken" by the prospect that his resignation offer might be accepted.

Among those offering to resign were U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young; Budget Director James McIntyre; Middle East peace negotiator Robert Strauss; and Mary Hoyt, first lady Rosalynn Carter's press secretary.

Alfred Kahn, chairman of the Council on Wage and Price Stability, was not asked for his resignation, a spokesman said. Nor were any changes said to be contemplated that involve key national security affairs positions.

Vice President Walter F. Mondale, whose chief of staff, Richard Moe, also offered to resign, said in Omaha, Neb., that "it was time ... to see if the personnel structure was entirely appropriate to the policies that the president is pursuing."

The resignation offers pushed the dollar down at the close of Tuesday's currency trading in New York.

On Capitol Hill, Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., said, "I think the president is nuts." Referring to Carter's declaration that the nation is facing a "crisis of confidence," Weicker said the resignation offers were "just a continuation of the scapegoat operation. It is the president, not his Cabinet, that the American people have lost confidence in."

But Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., said the president was "trying to give the impression that ... policies are going to change, that personnel are going to change."

The announcement came on the heels of a new Associated Press-NBC News poll showing that Americans agree with Carter's assessment of a nationwide crisis of confidence but that most of the public is not yet ready to say Carter is a strong leader in the face of energy shortages, continued inflation and national malaise.

Pact improves monitoring

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Harold Brown said today the SALT II treaty enhances the ability of the United States to monitor the Soviet nuclear attack force. He adds the United States could detect any significant pact violations in time to effectively counter them.

The necessary two-thirds majority of the Senate is unlikely to vote to ratify SALT II if the ability of the United States to effectively monitor Soviet strategic activities and to verify Soviet compliance with the treaty is in any doubt.

"The SALT II agreement does not present a verification problem," Brown told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. "On the contrary, it improves our ability to gather strategic intelligence and enhances our national security."

Brown said the treaty does this by forbidding interference with U.S. monitoring systems and by barring deliberate concealment that would impede verification.

"Without SALT II we could be faced with concealment, countermeasures, plus all the actions that would be considered 'cheating' under the agreement," Brown said.

He said that to go undetected by American intelligence, Soviet cheating would have to be on a small scale as to be of no military value.

"Any cheating serious enough to affect the military balance would be detectable in sufficient time to take whatever action the situation required," Brown said.

He said it is more likely the Soviets might attempt to exploit any ambiguities in the treaty text and contend there are far fewer of these than in the SALT I agreement.

The United States uses photographic satellites to make pictures of launch sites, ground-based radar to track intercontinental ballistic missiles in flight, infrared detectors to measure engine heat, electronic listening posts, and, presumably, spies, to monitor the Soviet strategic force.

Brown said critics of the treaty who contend the U.S. intelligence system has been "fatally crippled" by the loss of stations in Iran which were used to monitor Soviet missile tests misunderstand the full extent of U.S. capabilities.

"Their loss reduced, but did not eliminate, our ability to make certain judgments about the tests," Brown said.

He asserted, as he has before, that the United States will regain much of the lost capacity within a year. But he said it will not be able to replace all of it until 1983 or 1984.

Police hunt assailants

After a 39-year-old man was found wounded alongside Interstate 20 east of Midland this morning, Midland County Sheriff's Department deputies today were conducting a search for the man's assailant or assailants.

The victim had been shot in the face with what may have been a .22-caliber weapon, deputies said. He was found still alive about 4:30 a.m. today, they added.

The man later died in Midland Memorial Hospital.

He was found about 10 miles east of Midland, according to Chief Deputy George Thompson of the Sheriff's Department.

The man, whose name was being withheld early today pending notification of next of kin, reportedly was from Marion, N.C.

Deputies Jim Phipps and Benny Fishback arrived at the scene after receiving a call from the Department of Public Safety.

The deputies found the man sitting against his van, officials said. The man was alive when the deputies arrived and he indicated by sign language he had been shot, the deputies reported.

The windshield of the man's van had been shattered by some sort of projectile, possibly a bullet, officials said.

The man was transported by ambulance to Midland Memorial Hospital, where he died about 6 a.m.

Peace Justice Robert Pine has ordered an autopsy in the case.

Three Midland men burned in oilfield pumping site fire

SPRABERRY — Three Midland men were burned, one critically, in an apparent flash fire while they were pulling tubing at an oilfield pumping site about 2 p.m. Tuesday on the Walton Ranch about 20 miles southeast of Midland.

Burned were Bill Shepherd, 17, 1300 Cotton Flat Road; William McGuffin, 56, 1004 S. Dallas St.; and Jerry Baugh, 37, 3409 Tanner Drive.

Most severely burned was Shepherd, who sustained second- and third-degree burns over 55 percent of his body.

Shepherd was listed in critical condition this morning in Brooke Army Medical Center's Institute of Surgical Research-Burn Unit at San Antonio.

He was flown by air ambulance from Midland to San Antonio Tuesday afternoon.

McGuffin, who suffered second- and third-degree burns, mostly on his face and hands, was listed in satisfactory condition this morning in Midland Memorial Hospital.

Baugh, who suffered first-degree burns on his face, was treated and released at Midland Memorial Hospital, authorities said.

The men were members of a crew pulling old casing from a pumping unit's well when gas from underground blew and erupted, said Midland County Sheriff's Deputy Robert Defer.

Defer and another deputy, Lt. John Kleinhaus, investigated the fire.

Americans strongly back some of Carter's moves

NEW YORK (AP) — Confident of the strength of U.S. technology, Americans strongly support some of President Carter's initiatives to cut energy use and increase domestic oil supplies, The Associated Press-NBC News poll shows.

But the public — deeply worried about inflation as well as energy — remains skeptical of Carter's leadership, reserving judgment on his actions in the future. One indicator of this attitude is the president's overall job rating, which the poll found is at the same level now as at the first of May.

President Carter unveiled the broad outlines of his new attack on the nation's energy problems on Sunday and added details in public appearances Monday.

A major element of his program is a huge new effort to tap mineral resources in this country to provide needed energy. This includes efforts to turn abundant coal into natural gas or gasoline and to wring oil from tar sands and oil shale.

The poll, taken Monday night, found that 80 percent of those interviewed said they support such an effort to wring more energy from resources in this country. Fourteen percent were opposed and 6 percent were not sure.

This support for a synthetic fuels program reflects an abiding faith in U.S. science. Forty percent of those polled said American science and technology will be "very successful" in solving energy problems. Forty-nine percent said such expertise will be at least partially successful. Only 5 percent said technology would fail to solve the problems and the remaining 6 percent were not sure.

The public also backs Carter's order to reduce energy use for air conditioning and heating.

Sixty-seven percent said they support keeping thermostats in public and commercial building at 78 degrees or above in summer and at 65 or below in winter.

Four percent of the 794 adults interviewed nationwide by telephone Monday night were not sure.

The public also agrees with Carter's assertion in his Sunday speech that America faces a crisis of confidence that is harming efforts to reach solutions to the problems of energy and inflation.

"How would you rate Jimmy Carter as a leader? Would you say he is a very strong leader, a strong leader, a weak leader or a very weak leader?"

Very strong leader — 4 percent.
Strong leader — 27 percent.
Weak leader — 50 percent.
Very weak leader — 14 percent.
Not sure — 5 percent.

There is a similar pattern in Americans' perception of Carter's performance in office thus far.

Wallace raps Carter's crisis plan

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
Staff Writer

Poor leadership on the part of the president and Congress has placed the United States in an economic crisis, Railroad Commissioner Mack Wallace said in Midland Tuesday.

Speaking during a luncheon session of a seminar presented by the Railroad Commission in The Midland Hilton, Wallace attacked President Carter's plans announced Sunday during a televised speech.

"I'm concerned about my country," the commissioner began. "I'm concerned about my state."

The country's heavy dependency on foreign crude oil can be traced to a lack of leadership in this country, he said.

"We have a shortage of oil and gas today," Wallace said, "but we don't have a shortage of taxes in the U.S. The president said the other night he can solve it with $140 billion of your money."

A better solution to the energy crisis, according to Wallace, would be to "tell the wildcatters to go back to the field."

Other methods, he said, could include repealing the Clean Air Act, the Endangered Species Act and the Environmental Protection Act.

His information on how to solve the problem comes from geologists and others in the business, Wallace said.

"I can't retreat to Camp Athens," he said, drawing an analogy between Carter's Camp David and Wallace's home town of Athens, Texas.

If the Clean Air Act had been repealed some time ago, the California to Midland pipeline would be a reality, bringing crude oil from Alaska.

"But (California) Gov. Jerry Brown has preferred to play environmental games with the security of this nation," Wallace charged.

"He blocked the pipeline to Midland. Four years and 707 permits after the company (Standard Oil of Ohio) began, they said it had been too long."

The pipeline was dropped last spring by Sohio. The irony in Carter's Sunday address, Wallace said, is that the president remarked that in the future, if there is a need for pipeline, it will be built. But Carter had mentioned the need for the Sohio pipeline in an earlier speech, and no action came from it, said Wallace.

A Marine Animal Protection Act which applies to the state of Washington could stop a pipeline from Port Angeles, Wash., to Minnesota, Wallace claimed.

That line, intended to convey crude oil from Alaska, could save as much as $2.50 a barrel on oil — a savings which might be passed on to the consumer at the gas pump, Wallace suggested.

Nor does it make sense that the federal government requires "a contraction under the hood of your car that uses 10 to 15 percent more gas during a gas shortage," he said.

"It (catalytic converter) may be okay in Los Angeles or Houston or Washington, D.C.," he said, then paused before adding, "but why would a rancher in Marfa have to use it to go pick up a sack of feed?"

If it was not for the situation the country is in today, those rules and regulations would be humorous, he added.

Wallace described Carter's proposals for increasing use of other types of energy — involving conversion to coal and solar energy — as "half measures."

"Solar energy will, I understand, heat water, but it can't run a car, a boat, a plane," he said.

Wallace also criticized the Energy Security Board proposed by Carter.

He said such a board would require more taxes to operate and will be essentially function as "the Red Tape-Cutting Board."

"We're going to lick this dependence on foreign crude oil," Wallace predicted. "But you may have to smell some coal burning and the air won't be as clean."

"We are at war for the economic survival of this nation," he added. "It can't be won with BB guns. It can be won with a drilling rig; with a coal shovel and with intelligent nuclear development with some additional help from solar."

"But it is not going to be won with an additional board," Wallace said. Ending his talk on a wait-and-see note, he said, "In the next few weeks, the next few months, we'll be able to know if we're making a turn (in the crisis)."

"We're going to lick this dependence on foreign crude oil, but you may have to smell some coal burning and the air won't be as clean." — Mack Wallace

Texan ready to 'sacrifice' his tie

Rep. James Mattox, D-Texas, seems to be following the lead of Texas Gov. Bill Clements — each favors a "no coat, no tie" summer. Mattox has received publicity because he refused to wear the "uniform" during a recent House appearance. (AP Laserphoto)

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Jim Mattox, who says he is a practical man and proud of his humble origins, wants to sacrifice coat-and-tie decorum at the altar of the energy shortage.

The Texas Democrat began the campaign Tuesday by appearing on the House floor without a coat and tie to deliver a speech about how to stay cool despite the new maximum 78-degree thermostat setting.

Mattox ignored requests House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill made for him to leave.

"The gentleman knows he is embarrassing the chair (O'Neill)," the speaker said. "I don't know if he is embarrassing himself."

Male House members are required to wear coats and ties.

O'Neill asked Mattox three times "to retire from the chamber." Although no one threw the Texan out, he was not able to present his prepared remarks.

"Let us shed our coats and ties, roll up our sleeves and let the American people know we're serious about solving the country's energy problems," the text said.

In a post-encounter interview, Mattox said his mother was a waitress and his father a sheetmetal worker. His first job was on a freight dock. Ties are merely a device to distinguish between classes, he said.

"The whole concept of the coat and tie is an anachronism that should be changed," Mattox, a lawyer and former state representative, said. "What utilitarian purpose is there for a piece of cloth hanging around your neck?"

He had his views on coats and ties read into the congressional record earlier in the summer, but said he decided to take action after hearing President Carter call for each American to examine his own energy usage.

Temperatures on the House floor have been reported to be among the hottest in the Capitol, and Mattox said the other solution mentioned for the discomfort problem was to set up electric fans to circulate the stuffy air.

The Texan said he would stick to his shirt-sleeve position for the immediate future and was not worried about riling O'Neill.

"He's not upset," Mattox insisted. He said the speaker was concerned about the prerogatives of the chair and House traditions. "I understand that and I don't object to it," Mattox said.

The burly 36-year-old added he would abandon the new shirt-sleeve look if he found it obstructing his congressional effectiveness.

"I'm a very practical individual," Mattox said. "I'm not going to allow the lack of coat and tie to jeopardize the representation of my constituents."

His own energy cutback has included less use of home and auto air conditioners and more walks to work.

Tragedy 'still with me,' Kennedy says

BOSTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy says the tragedy of Chappaquiddick Island is still with him a decade later and will be as long as he lives.

Kennedy, whose personal life has been marked with tragedy, said the accident in which a young woman was killed "was different for me in that I was the one responsible."

"The other tragedies, the assassinations, the deaths of my brother and sister in World War II were imposed on me," he said. "They had enormous impact. But Chappaquiddick made me a much different person, a very different individual."

In an interview in The Boston Globe today — 10 years after Chappaquiddick — the Massachusetts Democrat said that after the accident he "went through a very considerable period of self-evaluation, re-examination of my own life, my own values, my own purpose and the direction of my life. I wondered whether it would be possible to continue in the area of public service."

"There have been a series of traumatic events that have impacted my life," said Kennedy, the last of the four Kennedy brothers. His eldest died during World War II, an era that also saw the death of a sister in a plane crash. Brothers John and Robert died at the hands of assassins in the 1960s.

"But this tragic accident, which I bore the complete responsibility for and complete accountability for, had greater meaning. It made me re-evaluate my own direction and usefulness as a human being. After a period of time, I made up my mind that there was no turning back in life."

High winds drive bus into guard rail

BUCKEYE, Ariz. (AP) — High winds from a nearby thunderstorm battered a Greyhound bus, sending it sliding off the road onto its side and injuring 17 of its 24 passengers, three seriously, the Arizona Department of Public Safety said.

The bus, enroute to Memphis, Tenn., struck the guard rail on Interstate 10 just west of here shortly after dark Tuesday. Winds estimated at 60 to 70 miles an hour buffeted the bus moments before the accident, investigators said.

Officers said the wind appeared to lift and slide the rear of the bus. "The bus was traveling at a reduced speed due to weather conditions, but it appeared the high winds caused the accident," said Patrolman Richard Graham. "I don't know how to explain it," said Carroll Steele, 28, of Oklahoma City, Okla. "He (the driver) was going real slow and careful and then we just sort of slipped off the shoulder when the wind hit us."

"The driver tried to cut back up on the road but there was that guard rail.... We hit it hard and just rolled over," said Steele.

"It went in slow motion for me," said Lisa Knoll, 18, of Rockwell, Texas. "Everyone screamed at once, but afterward everybody calmed down real quick. It was a very relaxed accident. We crawled through a window hatch and over a tire to get out."

"Right after it went over somebody stuck their head in there and told everybody to be calm, and then started helping people out," said Tom Mason, 36, an unemployed painter enroute to Phoenix. "The people that were hurt, some of them stayed inside and got first aid in there. Like all wrecks I suppose, you just have a feeling of turning over and there's nothing you could do about it."

Driver James Christian, 59, of Phoenix, was listed in guarded condition with back injuries.

The bus fell on its right side, hanging almost half of its length over the guardrail. Eastbound traffic on the interstate was backed up for several miles. The westbound lanes were closed to allow three helicopters to land to carry the injured to hospitals in Phoenix, about 30 miles to the east.

The interior of the bus was a mass of disarray, officials said.

Another Greyhound bus traveling behind the one that overturned picked up the uninjured passengers and took them to a nearby hotel.

The Phoenix Fire Department was called to Sky Harbor International Airport when one helicopter developed control problems. But the craft landed safely and the injured were transported to a nearby hospital by ambulance.

MOSCOW (AP) — Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko's 70th birthday present from Soviet leaders came in the form of a congratulatory telegram praising his 40 years of diplomatic service.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, said Tuesday the message came from the Communist Party Central Committee, the presidium of the Supreme Soviet and the Soviet government's Council of Ministers.

"At all posts of party and state work you devote your energies and experience to boundless devotion to the cause of communist construction and to the great ideals of Marxism-Leninism," the telegram said.

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — New Mexico's rancher-governor, Bruce King, says he may start riding his horse to work as part of his personal energy conservation program.

The governor said Tuesday he has set a goal of cutting his energy consumption between 5 percent and 10 percent. "If necessary, I'll bring up one of my saddle horses and ride to work."

He said the thermostat at the governor's mansion in Santa Fe has been turned up to 68 degrees, and said he probably will walk more and use fuel-efficient automobiles for his travels around the state.

Earlier this summer King directed state agencies to develop programs for a minimum 10 percent energy savings.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Election Commission finally has a registered candidate on its rolls named Carter. But the first name is Jack — not Jimmy.

The president's son registered as a congressional candidate from Georgia's 7th District, papers filed with the commission showed Tuesday. President Carter has yet to announce his 1980 candidacy.

The younger Carter has said he doesn't expect to make a formal announcement regarding his candidacy until December. He said last week he wants to "see what the district thinks of me" before making a final decision. The 7th District has been represented since 1975 by Rep. Larry McDonald, a conservative Democrat.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Columnist Jimmy Breslin is refusing to talk with investigators about perjury allegations against actor Lee Marvin, says Los Angeles prosecutor John Kildebeck.

The perjury investigation was launched after Breslin wrote a column quoting his old friend Marvin as saying that he "learned how to lie" during his property rights court battle with his former lover, Michelle Triola Marvin.

Trial Judge Arthur Marshall ordered the district attorney's office to find out whether perjury was committed during the proceedings.

Last month, Breslin gave the court an affidavit saying he didn't think Marvin's words should be interpreted as a confession to perjury. Since then, Kildebeck said, the New York Daily News columnist has been silent.

"I don't want to be critical of Breslin," said Kildebeck. "Maybe if I was a reporter, I would do the same thing...."

Appeals pursued

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Convicted murderer Howard Virgil Lee Douglas is pursuing a string of court appeals, trying to avoid execution in Florida's electric chair, now scheduled for July 26.

Douglas lost one appeal hours after Gov. Bob Graham signed a death warrant Tuesday, the fifth death warrant of his administration. Circuit Judge William K. Love of Bartow, who sentenced Douglas, denied a request for a stay of execution.

Most lawyers, however, were confident Douglas would win a stay.

Defense lawyers Larry Spalding and Public Defender Elliott Metcalfe, both of Sarasota, said they would take their case to the state Supreme Court today. They are challenging his death sentence because the trial jury voted 12-0 in 1973 to recommend life imprisonment.

"There are two cases now pending before the Florida Supreme Court, both challenging the constitutionality of permitting a judge to overrule a jury," Spalding said in a telephone interview. "Howard shouldn't be executed until they rule on that point. You've got to go with what you have, and that's our strongest shot."

Spalding said if the Florida Supreme Court does not grant a delay, the lawyers would go to the U.S. District Court in Tampa.

Graham signed Douglas' death warrant exactly six years to the day after Douglas killed Jesse William Atkins Jr. by striking him with a .22-caliber rifle butt and shooting him in the head three times.

Conspiracy? Panel says 'maybe'

By JIM ADAMS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Was the 35th president of the United States murdered by a conspiracy involving gangsters? Did other conspirators plot the killing of a major American civil rights leader?

The assassinations committee of the U.S. House of Representatives, in a divided decision, says that may have been the case when:

—On Nov. 22, 1963, President John Fitzgerald Kennedy was shot to death in Dallas.

—On April 4, 1968, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was gunned down in Memphis, Tenn.

The committee's final report, the product of a two-year, $6 million investigation, said Tuesday that Kennedy's assassination was probably a conspiracy and King's may have been.

But three of the committee's 12 members filed dissents to the conclusion that Kennedy's assassination was a conspiracy, much less a conspiracy by mobsters.

One of the three dissenters, Rep. Harold Sawyer, R-Mich., said the conspiracy findings in the Kennedy and King assassinations are based on "supposition upon supposition upon supposition."

Committee members scheduled a news conference today to formally release the report and answer questions about it.

Conspiracies or not, however, the committee agreed with conclusions of earlier investigations that Lee Harvey Oswald assassinated Kennedy and James Earl Ray assassinated King.

It said it found "substantial evidence" that a St. Louis group offered $50,000 for the murder of King — but no proof linking the offer to his murder.

Of Kennedy, the final report said: "The committee found that it was possible... that an individual organized crime leader or a small combination of leaders might have participated in a conspiracy to assassinate President Kennedy."

It named Carlos Marcello and Santos Trafficante as "the most likely family bosses of organized crime to have participated in such a unilateral assassination plan."

But it said it found no direct evidence Marcello or Trafficante were in fact involved.

Marcello, operating out of New Orleans, and Trafficante, out of Miami, deny they had any connection with Kennedy's murder.

The final report said "one critical evidentiary element" distinguishing Marcello from other mobsters is "credible associations... albeit tenuous" linking Oswald and Jack Ruby, who killed Oswald, to Marcello associates.

It said the committee is "inclined to believe" that Oswald and David Ferrie, a private investigator who worked for Marcello, traveled together to Clinton, La., two months before the assassination.

It said the committee also found "credible evidence" that Oswald knew his uncle, Charles Murret, had been an associate of crime figures in Marcello's organization and that his mother, Marguerite, was acquainted with one of Marcello's drivers.

The report said Ruby was a personal acquaintance of Joseph Civello, "the Marcello associate who allegedly headed organized crime activities in Dallas."

"Based on a review of the evidence, albeit circumstantial, the committee believed that Ruby's shooting of Oswald was not a spontaneous act," the report said.

And it said a series of telephone calls between Ruby and crime figures before the assassination, whatever the purpose of the calls, meant mobsters "had knowledge of a man who could be used to get access to Oswald."

But on the other side, the report said, Marcello has shown he is a cautious man, "unlikely to undertake so dangerous a course of action as a presidential assassination."

All the evidence on balance, the report said, "precluded a judgment by the committee that Marcello and his associates were not involved."

It recounted the testimony of a Cuban exile, Jose Aleman, that Trafficante predicted a year in advance that Kennedy was "going to be hit."

But the report said that if Trafficante was plotting to assassinate Kennedy, he would not likely make such a comment to a man he hardly knew.

"The committee found... that it is unlikely that Trafficante plotted to kill the president, although it could not rule out the possibility," the report said.

On the King assassination, the report said there is substantial evidence St. Louis men did offer $50,000 for King's murder but "there was no direct evidence" that Ray killed King for the money.

It accepts the word of Russell Byers, a St. Louis man, that John Sutherland and John Kauffmann, in a house decorated with confederate flags, offered Byers $50,000 to kill King.

It said the committee found several ways the same offer could have been made to Ray — who was in Missouri State Penitentiary at the time — but no proof that it was made to Ray.

Student says she saw Bundy

MIAMI (AP) — A college student has testified that Theodore R. Bundy was in the Chi Omega sorority house where two women were murdered there last year.

Nita Neary told jurors Tuesday she saw a man carry a club out the front door of the sorority house the morning of the murders.

No early open court session was planned today for the 32-year-old former law student accused of strangling the women and clubbing three others in Tallahassee, Fla., on Jan. 15, 1978.

Instead, Bundy's attorneys said they would take a sworn statement from Dr. Homer Campbell, a forensic odontologist from Albuquerque, N.M.

Defense attorney Lynn Thompson said Campbell, a prosecution witness, uses "computer enhancement" of bite-mark photographs to bring out obscure details.

Miss Neary, now an art student at Ball State University in Muncie, Ind., was asked if the man she saw in the house was in the courtroom.

"Yes, he is," she replied. She extended her right arm toward Bundy. Bundy showed no emotion as he looked across court at the art major from Aurora, Ind. Miss Neary's identification of Bundy wasn't new, but the jury hadn't heard it before.

She testified that she went to a fraternity party the night of the murders, returned to the Chi Omega house around 3 a.m. and heard a "thump" upstairs.

Then she heard hurried footsteps and encountered a stranger at the front door.

She said she saw him in profile for three seconds. Lisa Levy, 20, and Margaret Bowman, 21, were bludgeoned and strangled as they slept in the Chi Omega house near FSU.

Chi Omega sisters Karen Chandler and Kathy Kleiner survived brutal beatings and another woman, Cheryl Thomas, was attacked in her apartment four blocks away.

Investigators found bite marks on Miss Levy's breast and buttocks. Dr. Richard Souviron, an assistant Dade County medical examiner, has testified in pretrial proceedings no one but Bundy could have inflicted the bite on her buttocks.

Workarama: TEC still needs summer jobs for students

By DAVID CAMPBELL
Staff Writer

Finding summer work for Midland youths is quite a job in itself, according to Rick Etheredge, director of the Workarama program.

The Texas Employment Commission sponsors the Workarama program each summer by providing a placement service where students, ages 14 to 21, can locate summer employment. Workarama has been in existence for 17 years.

Workarama tries to place high school and college students with summer jobs which give them a chance to make a little money and get some working experience, Etheredge said.

Some students are looking for jobs relating to their future careers, but the majority are just looking for any kind of work, he added.

Presently the program is in a summer lull because the business community does not know about the program or else employers are not aware youngsters are looking for jobs in the middle of the summer, according to Etheredge.

"But that is not the case," he said. "We still have 200 applicants looking for some type of employment."

Clerical, sales and general labor are the types of jobs most Midland youths apply for, according to the director. There are applicants for sales and clerical jobs at this time, he mentioned.

Already, Workarama has provided more than 500 summer jobs, but there still are more applicants than jobs. Most of the students who apply with Workarama have some temporary work experience, Etheredge commented.

One particular instance is that of a young college woman able to type 72 words a minute with business machine and office experience. But she cannot find any summer-time work, according to Etheredge.

"Workarama tries to send students who are qualified and dependable," he noted.

About half of the jobs Workarama provides are called in by employers. Mail-outs and calls to the Texas Employment Commission account for the other half.

Last year the program placed 852 of the 1,110 students who applied, Etheredge said.

Employers interested in hiring young people for the summer may telephone the Texas Employment Commission at 682-9421.

Water district reports higher expenses

BIG SPRING — Colorado River Municipal Water District officials are blaming increased energy costs for the 15 percent raise in operating expenses the district incurred during the first six months of this year.

Operating expenses climbed $217,000 over the same period last year and officials attributed nearly half the rise to higher energy costs.

Nonetheless, the district earned a 3.6 percent increase in revenues despite pumping less water — thanks to a rate increase enacted earlier this year, information released by the CRMWD showed.

The water district, which supplies the cities of Midland and Odessa, earned $3.4 million during the first six months of 1979, an increase of $117,793 over the same period last year.

Nonetheless, district officials transferred less money to debt service and indented funds as a result. Total transfer to the funds stood at $1.6 million, down nearly $100,000 over the same period last year. Most of the revenue increase resulted from municipal sales, the report shows.

That revenue increase came despite a decline in water district deliveries. Member cities pumped more water from city wells and lakes in an effort to upgrade water quality, the report noted. Deliveries to oil companies dropped nearly 117 million gallons during the first six months. Part of the reason is the cutoff of 668 million gallons from Lake J.B. Thomas.

While energy costs were up, the volume of water pumped was down, the report said.

The water district sold 7.5 billion gallons of water during the six month period. While surface water sales were down, sales from district-owned wells increased 93 million gallons.

Administrative costs were up $43,000 over the same period last year, the report indicated.

PSA blasts charges, fine levied by FAA

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Hit with a $385,000 fine — possibly the largest in airline history — Pacific Southwest Airlines charged the Federal Aviation Administration with "gross distortions" and rebutted allegations of 10 maintenance violations.

James Snody, senior vice president in charge of airline operations, said Tuesday PSA has been "singled out" following the crash of a DC-10 in Chicago in May that killed 273 persons.

PSA's attack came before the FAA officially released the specific alleged violations. The report, expected to be available today, alleged that PSA was cited for a cracked landing gear, a malfunctioning tachometer and a landing gear leak.

The nation's 11th largest passenger-carrying domestic airline, PSA serves 14 cities in California, Nevada and Arizona. The airline carried eight million passengers in 1978.

Snody called the fine "exorbitant" and suggested that the FAA made PSA its first scapegoat in a new get-tough campaign.

"Our largest previous fine was $500 and, in the five past years, we've paid a total of $7,500," said PSA spokesman Bill Hastings.

The airline can appeal the FAA action to the National Transportation Safety Board, and if that fails the matter can be taken to federal court.

"We know our maintenance practices are excellent and the 10 alleged maintenance violations will be found to be invalid or to involve maintenance record-keeping only," Snody said.

Political problems shadow Carter confidence campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — Whatever the state of America's self-confidence, public confidence in President Carter has ebbed to the point of political crisis for the White House.

And while Carter doesn't speak of it as a political problem, that is the backdrop as he vows to rally the nation to new faith and confidence, with his latest energy program as the starting point.

He talks of a national malaise, but also of a crisis that is his alone, assuming, as everyone does, that he wants another term in the White House.

"If you don't believe I've got confidence in you, then you are not going to have confidence in me," the president told the Communications Workers of America in Detroit on Monday.

In that appearance, third in the set that began with his solemn Sunday night address to the nation, Carter dealt directly with the personal side of the problem, as it affects his leadership and his future in office.

"There's only one clear voice in this country on a sustained basis," he said. "That is the voice of the president of the United States. If I can't speak to you so you understand me about the problems of our nation, then nobody can. If I don't tell you the truth, then my voice won't be meaningful.

"I've made some mistakes since I've been president," he said, recalling the visitors to Camp David who told him he had lost touch with the people and was too busy managing to lead. "I've listened to that, and I've learned my lesson."

Carter said that for the balance of his time in office, he will spend more time out in the country, listening to the people. "The best thing I can do is to put my faith in the American people. And God willing, I will act to the best of my human ability so that you will have confidence in me."

Unless he achieves that goal,

Carter will have a hard time winning a second term in the White House.

There is unquestionably a mood of pessimism in the United States, about the economy, about energy, about the ability of the nation's leaders to cope with those and other problems.

It bears most directly on Carter himself. He is, after all, the president who promised to rekindle faith and inspire confidence. By his own appraisal, the country has lost rather than gained ground toward those goals during his 2½ years in the White House.

Indeed, Carter says the gap between the people and their government is wider now than when he took office — after pledging to tear down the wall between Washington and the rest of the nation.

The national mood of which Carter speaks is difficult to measure.

But there is a system for appraising confidence in presidents. The voters do it every four years, and the pollsters do it in between.

Carter's poll ratings have slumped to levels near the lowest ever recorded for a president.

The latest, an ABC News-Louis Harris survey completed one month ago shows that only 25 percent of the people rate Carter's performance as president as excellent or pretty good.

That survey of 1,496 Americans showed only 20 percent gave Carter positive marks for inspiring confidence in the White House.

Polls conducted in 1979 don't foretell the outcome of an election in 1980.

It may well be that no president could have weathered the past two years of inflation, and soaring energy prices and shortages, without slumping as Carter has. As the president said, gasoline lines don't promote unity. They make people mad at each other.

And at their leaders, too.

"We are coming to understand that the reasons for our energy crisis go beyond gas lines and wasteful habits to a loss of confidence that divides us and threatens us," Carter said in Kansas City.

Any erroneous reflection upon the character, standing or reputation of any person, firm or corporation which may occur in the columns of The Reporter-Telegram will be gladly corrected upon being brought to the attention of the editor.

Varied reactions

The nation Sunday night heard its president — a serious, unsmiling Jimmy Carter — in a long-awaited message, addressing the energy, inflation and economic problems facing the United States of America.

What did you think of his speech? What did Americans generally think of it? Good questions, the answers to which undoubtedly will be pondered for some days to come.

If one expected a slam-bang address, with new, earth-shattering pronouncements, then the message must have been disappointing. And to some, whose reactions have been published, it was much more than disappointing. But overall, it undoubtedly was fairly well received by rank-and-file Americans who are hungry for a display of some sort of leadership, pointing the way out of a national crisis.

Several encouraging signs were detected in Mr. Carter's remarks. In the first place, he admitted publicly that the nation is faced with critical problems at home; that his leadership is questioned; that public confidence is lacking in government as well as in the nation, and that the usual American spirit of optimism is faltering. He was right candid in some of his comments.

Furthermore, he admitted that OPEC is the real enemy of this nation, and is responsible for the energy crunch, inflation, unemployment and the economic downturn — not the oil companies, mind you, but OPEC. He was as right as could be in this appraisal.

We thought it was a fairly good approach to the energy problem and that his attitude might have changed — until word of his Monday address at Kansas City was circulated. In that message, Carter once again took out after the domestic oil companies, again without just cause.

"The oil companies must cooperate," Mr. Carter said when detailing the energy blueprint he unveiled Sunday night. He said he is sending federal auditors into the field to make sure the nation's refineries comply with energy laws, and to check on the operations of oil dealers and jobbers. He said further the government will keep close check on the oil industry, and will seek better statistics on energy supplies.

"We will bring the full force of the law to bear on those who profiteer...or who try to cheat the American public," he added.

Good grief!!!! Demanding cooperation from an industry which has led the way in progress and development in America and which has cooperated in every way possible to overcome the energy shortage is something else again. If Mr. Carter had cooperated in like manner the nation would not be in the shape it is today, energy-wise.

We would say once again that he used very poor judgment in announcing his intention of keeping close check on the oil industry, threatening it with "full force of the law" and the like.

And the so-called "windfall profits" tax isn't too popular either.

Back to the President's Sunday address, his comment that he will cut through red tape to build urgently needed refineries and pipelines when and where needed, was encouraging. This is something which should have been attended to long before now.

Mr. Carter also emphasized the urgent need to produce and use more coal. Development and use of synthetic fuels also were emphasized.

The environmental extremists, of course, will scream to the high heavens at some of the president's remarks, although he said that the environment would be protected. It is necessary to cut through the maze of bureaucracy and environmental edicts in order to get on with the job at hand.

Mr. Carter's announced plan to cut back oil imports is fine IF the shackles are removed and domestic production is increased to take up the slack. Deregulation yet is essential.

We must agree that a crisis of confidence threatens American democracy, and we can find no fault with his desire to rebuild public confidence, rallying around the energy problem and coming up with the right solution. But somehow, we get the feeling that the administration still is not on the right track in approaching the overall problem.

As Gov. Bill Clements says, "The answer is the production of energy."

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND Ransom negotiations story told

By JACK ANDERSON
WASHINGTON — The kidnapers of William Niehou — leftists who called themselves the Argimiro Gabaldon Revolutionary Command — have contacts in many parts of the world, including New York City. We were in touch with them.

Indeed, when Venezuelan police accidentally stumbled across the jungle hideout where the Owens-Illinois executive was being held captive, they unwittingly ended months of secret negotiations we had been conducting for his release — and probably saved his employers $7 million.

Now that Niehou is home in Ohio recuperating from his harrowing 40 months as a prisoner, the bizarre story of the ransom negotiations can safely be told. It is a story of clandestine messages, last-minute snafus and agonizing suspense for the businessman and his family.

Niehou was kidnaped from his Caracas home in February, 1976. At the instigation of his friends, we wrote a private letter to President Carlos Andres Perez urging him to effect Niehou's release. But the guerrillas would have nothing to do with Venezuelan authorities.

They also distrusted Owens-Illinois. Early in 1978, Niehou's wife, Donna, told our associate Jack Mitchell that an attempt by the kidnapers to contact company executives in Geneva, Switzerland, fell through because of a last-minute misunderstanding. Months of ominous silence had followed.

On January 25, 1978, we published details of the botched ransom attempt. In later columns, we offered to meet the kidnapers anywhere in the world to negotiate Niehou's release. After a long wait, the wary revolutionaries sent us a note in Spanish asking for "a public statement on this matter." They enclosed a dated signature identified as Niehou's by handwriting experts.

In November, 1978, and again last February, we complied with the request and repeated our offer to negotiate. More months of silence passed.

Then on May 27 we received a letter, in English this time, postmarked New York City. "We are prepared to release him for the sum of seven million dollars," the note said. A color snapshot of Niehou holding a recent Venezuelan newspaper was enclosed — the first proof in more than a year that he might still be alive.

We were told to signify agreement to the ransom demand with a coded ad in The New York Times real estate section: "Wanted: a villa to rent from (date) with at least seven rooms." This would mean that we were prepared to deliver a ransom of seven million dollars on the date filled in.

But a snag developed. It appeared impossible to raise the $7 million in cash by the kidnapers' deadline. So we ran an ad that left the ransom amount open: "Wanted: a villa from June 11, number of rooms subject to discussion."

On June 20, we got the guerrillas' answer: "Mr. Niehou was very disappointed when we showed him your advertisement." To everyone's relief, they did not threaten to kill their captive, but said they would hold him until we agreed to pay the $7 million in full.

To show acceptance of this demand, we ran the ad as originally worded, on June 25, and waited for further instructions.

They never came. On June 29, Niehou was discovered by two Venezuelan policemen prowling the jungle for rustlers. The next day, federal troops arrived, and Niehou's ordeal was over at last.

WASHINGTON WHIRL — Budget hearings on Capitol Hill are not noted for their excitement, but when crucial matters like recessing for lunch come up, the proceedings are sometimes enlivened. At one recent session, Rep. Ed Patten, D-N.J., late for a luncheon date, was alarmed to note that the chairman, Rep. Tom Steed, D-Okla., had failed to adjourn promptly at noon. Strolling over to a couch, Patten picked up a pillow and heaved it at the chairman, saying "Let's break for lunch."

ART BUCHWALD The war of the chefs, as related by Buchwald

SOOCHOW, China — It may have been Marco Polo who said it, but the best way of summing up traveling in China is: "If you don't eat it, or buy it — you have to climb it." In our travels with our beloved Secretary of HEW, Emperor Joseph Califano, we managed to do all three.

Art Buchwald

The Chinese, whose intelligence service is not to be underrated, had heard about Califano's renowned chef, and went to great efforts to top the meals the chef serves Joe in his dining room at his office on the top of the Forbidden City in Washington, D.C.

I had mentioned to our Chinese guides that I had dined at Califano's table, and therefore they were most curious to know if their meals were as good as the ones prepared by the famous Califano cook.

Apparently it was important to them in their bridge-building with the United States.

At a lunch in Soochow the table was decorated with cold hors d'oeuvres — the centerpiece was in the form of a crane composed of razor-thin slices of whitefish and pine. This course was followed by a bowl of egg whites and shark fins.

One of the Chinese officials asked me how the dish compared with Mr. Califano's table.

"Just about the same," I said. "Secretary Califano's chef prefers Campbell's bean soup, but if he can't find white beans, he will use shark fins."

The next dish was "Beggar's Chicken," which had been cooked with herbs in clay for four hours.

They looked at me expectantly as I tasted it with my chopsticks. I finally said, "It's very nice chicken, though Mr. Califano's chef can do the same thing with hamburger. At least it tastes as if it had been cooked for four hours in clay."

The "Beggar's Chicken" was whisked away, and in its place appeared a "Sweet and Sour Mandarin Fish" surrounded by bacon and bean sprouts. Once again our Chinese hosts were waiting for an opinion.

"Truthfully," I told them, "I have never had 'Sweet and Sour Mandarin Fish' at Mr. Califano's. He prefers his bacon decorated with lettuce and tomato on white bread. But I have had this delicacy in the HEW Government Cafeteria, and yours is definitely superior."

This pleased them very much, and we toasted each other with Mao Tai, the famous Chinese revolutionary firewater.

Following this course, we were served a piping hot bowl of prawn meat in winter melon soup. Six ducks made of egg whites, with tiny pieces of carrot for eyes, were floating on top.

"Surely," one of the Chinese said, "the Secretary's cook cannot make Mandarin winter melon soup with ducks."

"He can," I said, "but he only makes it when the Secretary is in a hurry and wants a fast bite, and his chef has orders to go easy on the ducks."

For dessert, we had three kinds of pastry, and then Soochow dumplings in a wicker basket. The dumplings had been sculptured in the form of tulips and contained almonds, sweetmeats and rice.

"I have to be honest with you," I told them, "even the Jello-O and Reddi-Wip Califano's chef serves does not compare with Soochow dumplinging."

My Chinese hosts were overjoyed and the message was translated all over the dining room.

It was time for the final toast. We toasted Chairman Hua and President Carter first. And then we toasted Secretary Califano's cook, whose cottage cheese salad with canned peaches, if not superior, was at least equal to that of any dish that could be concocted by the great chefs of the People's Republic of China.

THE BIBLE CAN YOU QUOTE IT?

By LAVINA ROSS FOWLER AND ELIZABETH ROSS WIERSEMA

Mark Russell says

The government is moving to bar sales of junk food in most schools "until after lunch is served." What the government doesn't know is that lunch is pizza, sloppy joes, burritos and a carbonated imitation raspberry-flavored drink mix.

After years of research the Department of Agriculture announced that it can define junk food. If they didn't know what it was, why didn't they ask us?

Junk food is what makes America work. What would the median strips of our nation's highways be without ice-cream wrappers, half-eaten cheeseburgers and discarded bubble gum? Nothing but monotonous strips of grass, bushes and trees, that's what.

Do you think I'm going to attack junk food? Not by your cheese doodle, I'm not. Attack the very foundation of this Republic? Mom, the Flag and barbecue-flavored potato chips? And risk an investigation by the FBI?

Any official who thinks a kid will eat an apple instead of a bag of cheezie, munchy natchies doesn't have any children at home under the age of 27.

NICK THIMMESCH

Chappaquiddick: Tragedy that will never go away

WASHINGTON — The relentless polls bring the bitter and the sweet to Sen. Edward Kennedy. Now comes McCall's magazine with one (done by Dr. Gallup) showing that nearly half the adults in the republic still look poorly on Kennedy's behavior at Chappaquiddick, but would vote for him anyway if he's nominated in 1980.

So his old sin is not forgotten but, after 10 years, is pretty much forgiven. Thus the public attitude toward Kennedy is close to what any of us would feel about a person we knew in the same circumstances. We tend to forgive, but remember when prompted.

Still, as the editors point out in this August issue of McCall's, more than half of those objecting to Kennedy's conduct at Chappaquiddick see a serious flaw in his character. This view could be a latent virus which could flare up and attack Kennedy in the heat of a presidential campaign.

There are always arguments in this town over whether Chappaquiddick would be an authentic issue in a Kennedy presidential race. Those who don't want Kennedy to become President naturally insist that once that tragic episode is fully revived, Kennedy could never stand the heat, indeed, would perish in the political flames.

His defenders argue that Kennedy has already been through the whole

Nick Thimmesch

Chappaquiddick test, that he has been re-elected twice since that fateful year, 1969, and remained so high in polls of Democrats and the general public that the issue is clearly behind him.

I lean toward a middle position in this argument. I believe that as long as Kennedy handles himself well in day-to-day political combat, whether in the Senate or as a candidate, people won't think Chappaquiddick.

But if Kennedy gets rattled, becomes snappish or displays erratic or markedly indecisive behavior, Chappaquiddick will break through and stand as a formidable and nagging issue. Kennedy's stability as well as his character will be seriously questioned.

the ingredients of high drama — a glamorous married man, a single woman, death at night on a lonely road — rumors of scandal."

As Burns also points out, the possibility of "coverup," intrigue and the unsolved mystery always make Chappaquiddick a constant lure to the press.

Though Chappaquiddick was never investigated with the intensity of scope that Watergate was, it has hardly been ignored by the press. Countless newspapers and the wire services spent many months probing through records, recollections and the topography of Martha's Vineyard. There have been a number of first-rate magazine articles. A half-dozen books focusing on Chappaquiddick were published. The better ones, I believe, are Jack Olsen's "Bridge at Chappaquiddick"; Robert Sherrill's "The Last Kennedy" (quite critical), and the transcript of the inquest on Mary Jo Kopechne, edited by Henry Zeiter.

With the question of a Kennedy candidacy in 1980 swelling, and also becoming imprinted on the national psyche, political reporters and writers will dip into all the published material, like squirrels putting nuts away for winter.

Sen. Kennedy has, on several occasions, submitted himself to long, searching interviews about Chappaquiddick. However much he held back when that damnable event occurred, he has stuck his neck out in those subsequent interviews.

This is one tragedy which will not go away. Already, even before the McCall's article is on the stands, we columnist write, reporters pursue the senator's press secretary, and broadcast newsmen and talk-show hosts revive the old questions.

Burns' book, "Edward Kennedy and the Camelot Legacy," has a reasoned and uncompromising section on Chappaquiddick. Burns concludes that: "In behaving differently from the way his brothers would have done, he had betrayed the Camelot legacy of honor. And for him and for the country, the tragedy of Chappaquiddick would never end."

109 protestors convicted

LOUISA, Va. (AP) — A judge has convicted 109 anti-nuclear protestors of trespassing during a June 3 demonstration at a nuclear plant in Louisiana County and imposed suspended sentences and $50 fines.

Ten of those convicted Tuesday by Louisiana County General District Court Judge William A. Cooke refused to pay their fines and went to jail to serve 30-day sentences.

Cooke had suspended 30-day jail terms for all the protestors and imposed fines of $100, suspended all but $50 of the fines.

The demonstrators were among several hundred who staged a protest at the Virginia Electric & Power Co.'s North Anna nuclear power plant.

Volcano explodes

CATANIA, Sicily (AP) — Mount Etna, Europe's tallest volcano, today erupted small fragments of igneous rocks from its 10,000-foot central crater.

The eruption was accompanied by mighty explosions, but experts said Etna's activity was normal and could be exhausted in a few days with no prospects that lava might flow as it frequently has in recent years.

Sadat's speech brings mass exodus of African leaders

ONROVIA, Liberia (AP) — Leaders of 11 African Arab nations and several Soviet-influenced countries in black Africa walked out of the summit meeting here today as President Anwar Sadat of Egypt delivered a spirited defense of his peace treaty with Israel.

Some Arab delegations, including Libya and Algeria, withdrew from the crowded conference hall with all their officials. Others left junior delegation members to listen to Sadat as he spoke to the Organization of African Unity.

Warmly applauded by the remaining majority, Sadat repeatedly insisted the peace treaty was only the first step in the peace process and rejected accusations by Arab militants that he has usurped the role of the Palestinians in the continuing negotiations with Israel.

"The Palestinians are the crux of the entire Middle East problem," Sadat said. "And only the Palestinians can determine their own destiny. They have a veto over any arrangement that might be made concerning their country."

The walkout clearly was a pre-arranged move among the Arab and "progressive" countries. Those who walked out included Algeria's President Bendjedid Chadli, Libyan Foreign Minister Ali Triki and Angolan President Agostinho Neto.

Libyan leader Moammar Khadafi and his prime minister, Abdessalam Jalloud, are not attending the summit following the collapse of Libyan efforts to have Sadat barred from the three-day OAU summit in retaliation for the peace treaty.

Questions surround departure of Tanzanian head

MONROVIA, Liberia (AP) — President Julius Nyerere of Tanzania flew home early today following a clash at the opening session of an African summit with Sudan's President Gaafar Nimeiri over the Tanzanian invasion of Uganda.

A Tanzanian delegation spokesman claimed Nyerere's departure only 12 hours after the summit opened was previously planned and had no connection with his polite but sharp exchange with Nimeiri in the conference hall.

The spokesman said Nyerere had to return to Tanzania to prepare for a state visit by Britain's Queen Elizabeth II for the Commonwealth conference.

Liberia's President William R. Tolbert, Jr., host and chairman of the meeting of the Organization of African Unity, tried in vain to persuade Nyerere to remain at least another day at the three-day summit. A Liberian spokesman said Tolbert hoped Nyerere might have smoothed over his conflict with Nimeiri, the outgoing OAU chairman.

Tolbert already was disappointed by the turnout at the summit. Only 20 of the 49 full-ranking members sent their chiefs of state, and Nyerere's departure left 19. Tolbert had hoped for a turnout of about 40. Nyerere had announced his plans well in advance, but some Liberian officials believed his short stay was deliberate because he had known, from public statements by Nimeiri, that the conflict would emerge.

Before leaving Monrovia, Nyerere circulated to the chiefs of state a 17-page printed statement outlining Tanzania's case against former Ugandan President Idi Amin and the Ugandan attempt to annex the Kagera salient, a 700-square mile area of Tanzania.

The statement described Amin as "an abominable murderer of the people of Uganda, a turbulent menace to the peace and security of East Africa, a standing scandal and disgrace to the honor of Africa, a blatant and bragging aggressor against Tanzania."

"We are not sorry to be rid of him," the report concluded, in apparent rejection of Nimeiri's charges. Nimeiri started the formal opening session of the summit Tuesday with a detailed account of his vain efforts to mediate between Nyerere and Amin, and his opposition to the Tanzanian invasion of Uganda, as a matter of principle, and not in support of Amin.

The public sessions opening the AU summit are traditionally devoted to non-controversial speechmaking. Without once naming Nyerere, who listened impassively among the 2,000 delegates, Nimeiri said Tanzania was not interested in mediation of the dispute but only in an OAU condemnation of Amin.

Nimeiri said that as OAU chairman he had no mandate to issue such a condemnation which, in any event, would have doomed his mediation attempts. He told the summit that the Tanzanian invasion of Uganda and Amin's ouster "violated the principle of non-interference" and created a dangerous precedent for all of Africa.

Korean spies arrested today

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — South Korea's intelligence agency said today it arrested 10 Koreans who spied for North Korea.

It said in addition to spying the agents planned to raid a foreign embassy in Seoul and hold diplomats as hostage.

Soviets set off explosion

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — The Soviet government apparently set off a small underground nuclear explosion today in the Semipalatinsk area of western Asia, the Swedish Defense Research Institute's observatory reported today.

The observatory at Hagfors, in central Sweden, said it recorded seismic signals with a magnitude of 5.2 on the Richter scale at 3:17 a.m. GMT (11:17 p.m. EDT).

"The seismic signals recorded correspond to those which could be expected from a very weak explosion in hard rock," said the observatory.

Italian leader's wife dies

TURIN, Italy (AP) — Veteran Communist Rita Montagna, the 84-year-old widow of Italian Communist Party leader Palmiro Togliatti, died Tuesday night at a local hospital after a long illness.

A member of the 1946 Constituent Assembly and a senator in the first elected Italian Senate two years later, Mrs. Montagna was listed as one of the 40 "most dangerous" Italian Communists by a U.S. House of Representatives committee in the late 1940s.

She and Togliatti separated formally in 1952 after he left her for Nilde Iotti, another leading Italian Communist. Togliatti and Miss Jotti lived together until his death during a visit to the Soviet Union in 1964.

Miss Jotti was recently elected president of the Chamber of Deputies, the lower house of the Italian Parliament. She is the first woman elected to the post.

India forms government

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Former Foreign Minister Y.B. Chavan, leader of India's parliamentary opposition, was asked today to form a government to succeed the resigned Cabinet headed by caretaker Prime Minister Morarji Desai.

Chavan, 66, told reporters President Neelam Sanjiva Reddy, the chief of state, requested him to try to form the next government, and he was confident he would succeed.

Official sources at the presidential palace said Reddy tapped Chavan because he is the official leader of the opposition and because he introduced the no-confidence motion last week that brought collapse of the 28-month-old Desai government.

Trooper arrested

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Charles Stuart, a trooper and president of the New York State Police Benevolent Association, has been arrested on grand larceny charges connected with union business.

Stuart, 45, was arraigned Tuesday before Albany City Court Judge Thomas Keegan on charges of falsifying business records and of third-degree grand larceny.

British convinced prisoner in Spanish prison Hess

LONDON (AP) — The British government says it is convinced the lone prisoner in Berlin's Spandau Prison is Rudolf Hess, Adolf Hitler's deputy, despite author Hugh Thomas's claim that he isn't.

Peter Blaker, the Foreign Office minister of state, told the House of Commons the question raised by Thomas' book "The Murder of Rudolf Hess" had been studied carefully.

"On the basis of these studies, we have no doubt that the prisoner in Spandau is Rudolf Hess," Blaker said.

Cats cause death

MILAN, Italy (AP) — A brawl over the love affair between two cats ended with the owner of one stabbing the owner of the other to death, police reported.

The police said Alfredo Inglesse, 58, complained to Filippo Tagliamanti, 42, because Inglesse's male cat was courting his feline. Tagliamanti rushed home, got his skindiver's knife and stabbed Inglesse four times in the stomach. He was jailed on a murder charge.

No public funds for power

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Parliament passed a law banning the use of public funds for financing the construction of power plants to be run on petroleum.

The oil-saving measure, approved Tuesday, is designed to reduce imports and prevent a bigger foreign trade deficit. Promoters of the bill said they hoped it would also stimulate the use of coal for energy production.

Gangs battle

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — A dozen Chinese from rival gangs battled with knives, machetes, hatchets and meat cleavers in a Dublin street Tuesday night as horrified bystanders looked on. One of the brawlers was killed, one was in critical condition, and another had serious wounds.

Police said the fight started in a Chinese restaurant and spilled out into the street where moviegoers were waiting in line for admittance to a theater.

Chinese, Soviets agree unconditionally to talks

PEKING (AP) — The Chinese government has agreed unconditionally to talks with the Soviet government to improve relations between them, the Soviet Embassy announced today.

It said the Chinese reply to the latest Russian note on the subject was delivered Monday in Moscow and specified that the talks — the first since the 1960s — should begin in the second half of September and should alternate between Moscow and Peking.

China named its Moscow ambassador, Wan Youping (Wang Yu-ping), to represent it. He has been named a vice foreign minister, slightly below the level which the Russians originally proposed for the exchanges.

The Soviet Embassy said the Chinese posed no substantive conditions for the talks, which it said would range over the entire spectrum of official relations between countries. They would include trade, technological cooperation, peaceful coexistence and non-interference in each other's affairs, the embassy said.

China and the Soviet Union have maintained relations but on a diminished scale since their ideological rift in the early 1960s.

As a consequence of their sharp differences of opinion over communist ideology, the Russians pulled out thousands of technicians and abandoned key projects which were to advance the Chinese economy. The two governments took a new look at their relationship after the Chinese announced on April 3 that they would not extend the Sino-Soviet treaty of friendship when it expires next April.

China proposed negotiations to put their ties on a firmer footing and Moscow replied April 17 with a request for specifics.

China followed this up May 5 with an assertion it would consider all aspects of the relationship, except ideology, which was left in abeyance. The question of the dispute over the Sino-Soviet borders, where a million troops are said to be facing each other, also was to be put on the shelf.

Experts confirm Australian debris part of crashed Skylab

PERTH, Australia (AP) — A team of experts from U.S. space agency confirmed today that a cylindrical object six feet long and three feet in diameter found 500 miles east of Perth is Skylab debris.

The team inspected the object, brought to the Perth Entertainment Center by truck, and team leader Robert Grey said: "It's definitely a piece of Skylab. It looks like a piece of oxygen tank."

Grey said analysis "will probably tell us how the spacecraft disintegrated and landed. And we will probably find out what happened to the material after it had been in space for six years."

The 77½-ton Skylab re-entered the Earth's atmosphere last week, disintegrating into the Indian Ocean and over western Australia.

"We are not pleased because we never wanted to see it again," Grey said of the recovered chunk. "It would have been nicer if it had gone into the Indian Ocean."

The chunk, under tight security for the Miss Universe pageant Friday, will be handed back to the three Australians who found it — Bill Norton, Laurie Hotstone and Peter Ralphs.

Grey said the men had agreed to let the space agency take some pieces from the chunk back to the United States for analysis. Any leftovers from the experiments are to be returned to them.

Deposed presidents' neighbors just not sure

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The people living in the Spanish-style houses along palm tree-lined North View Drive aren't sure how easy it will be to live with their new neighbor, deposed Nicaraguan President Anastasio Somoza.

"The only concern most of us have is that if anyone tries to do him harm, one of our kids could get in the way," said a young mother in a home across the street from Somoza's white stucco mansion on exclusive Sunset Island.

"But he managed to stay alive in Nicaragua and I imagine he'll stay alive here," added the woman, who declined to give her name.

A housekeeper in the neighborhood, where servants generally answer the door, said Somoza's presence "may upset the neighbors a bit because it's pretty quiet here most of the time."

She also declined to be identified. Somoza was smiling when he arrived Tuesday at his first home in exile. He left Nicaragua after months of bitter opposition and a civil war that left thousands dead.

"I am prepared for the eventualities that politics gives you," he said. "I will wipe floors if necessary."

However, the Somoza family, which had ruled the Central American nation since the 1930s, is reported to have financial holdings estimated at between $10 million and $500 million.

Somoza told reporters he doesn't expect ever again to head the Nicaraguan government, and said he had resigned as "a matter of human compassion. I hate to see my people being killed."

"But I will be back as a politician," he said. "I am not completely gone. I do not feel morally defeated."

Somoza joins two other exiled leaders — Panamanian President Arnulfo Arias and Venezuelan President Gen. Marcos Perez Jimenez — who have come to live in Miami in the past 20 years.

The manicured lawn of the Somoza compound is dotted by royal palms and surrounded by an eight-foot stucco fence and hedge. A statue of the Virgin Mary adorns the front lawn.

The home formerly was owned by the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Miami, and land records show the archdiocese sold the estate last year to a British Virgin Islands corporation for $575,000.

The split-level house overlooking both Biscayne Bay and the Miami skyline has servants' quarters and a swimming pool. It can be seen from the causeway connecting Miami and Miami Beach.

A guard post greets visitors to Sunset Island. The guards are hired by an owners' association that a neighbor says also provides such services as garbage pickup and passes judgment on prospective residents.

"If security is tighter, he'll have to pay the bill. I don't think we can afford any more assessments on the (guard) gate," said one elderly woman, who declined to be identified.

"But apparently he brought plenty of money with him so that shouldn't be a problem."

Survivor of Auschwitz camp heads European Parliament

STRASBOURG, France (AP) — The European Parliament settled down to a round of speeches by members today after electing Simone Veil, a Jewish Frenchwoman who survived the Auschwitz death camp, as its president.

The speakers were to include the Rev. Ian Paisley, the fiery Protestant clergyman from Northern Ireland. He was expected to attack Irish Premier Jack Lynch, another member.

A fight was brewing over the duration of the presidency, with the center-rightists proposing 30 months and the leftists insisting on a year.

Vice presidents heading the committees also were to be elected after much behind-the-scenes bickering. These posts were to be divided among the political blocs rather than by nationality.

The Socialists, with 112 seats the largest party, will control the most prestigious group, the Political Committee that proposes foreign policy for the nine nations of the European Communities. But the Parliament has no authority to force acceptance of its recommendations.

The Christian Democrats were likely to get the Budget Committee, which has a limited say in the Common Market's finances. The Conservatives, dominated by British, were to get the Agriculture Committee, a key group for Britain which claims it is not getting a fair deal for its farm produce from the Common Market.

The European Parliament met Tuesday for the first time with a membership directly elected rather than chosen by the Parliaments of the nine Common Market nations. There was no expansion of its very limited powers, but the direct election of the members is expected to give its debates and actions greater weight with the public and the member governments.

Mrs. Veil, who as France's health minister helped put through a liberal abortion law in 1975, was backed by the dominant center-right faction against Socialist Mario Zagari of Italy. She won on the second ballot with 192 of the 377 valid ballots cast, three more than required.

Zagari got 138; Giorgio Amendola, an Italian Communist, got 47; four deputies present did not vote and six were absent.

Chinese ship in Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — The first merchant ship from the People's Republic of China to arrive in Port Houston is waiting to take on a cargo of grain.

The Liu Lin Hai entered the Houston ship channel near Galveston on Sunday and is preparing its holds for 37,000 tons of grain at a dock near the Cargill Grain Elevator.

Ben Hanson, vice-president of Strachan Shipping Co., said Tuesday the ship should be ready to sail by the end of the week.

Richard Leach, a Port Houston executive, said the port is quite pleased to see the results of good trade negotiations with China.

"We hope this event represents a new beginning," Leach said. A second Chinese ship is expected to arrive about July 30.

Westward trek goes on, firm says

CHICAGO (AP) — The great westward movement that began with covered wagons is continuing in semi-trailer trucks, a national household moving firm reports.

Allied Van Lines, Inc., said people continued last year to move into the three newest states, Hawaii, Alaska and Arizona, and continued to move out of the Snow Belt states of North Dakota, New York and Ohio.

Its conclusions were based on more than 203,000 shipments of household goods during 1978.

Allied said it moved 21 shipments to Hawaii and moved only one out of the state that year.

Alaska had 772 inbound shipments and only 356 outbound, while Arizona had 6,990 coming in versus 3,391 going out. Oregon had 3,126 inbound shipments versus 1,636 outbound.

Elsewhere, North Dakota had 1,579 outbound shipments and 667 inbound and New York had 16,625 outbound and 7,971 into the state. Ohio lost 11,490 households and gained 7,027.

Californians were the most mobile, Allied said, with more of them changing residence last year than in any other state. Florida was the second most mobile state and Texas was third, edging out Illinois for the first time.

Allied said "magnet" states that draw new residents are Alabama, California, Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Nevada, New Mexico, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Texas, Vermont, and Washington.

The District of Columbia was also listed as a "magnet."

States where more people moved out than moved in included Delaware, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Massachusetts, Michigan, Nebraska, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, South Dakota and Wisconsin.

Twenty states struck a balance between those leaving and those moving in.

Higher unemployment on way?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The coming recession probably will be worse than the Carter administration has predicted, with sharply higher unemployment, says Chairman G. William Miller of the Federal Reserve Board.

Miller told the Senate Banking Committee Tuesday that unemployment could hit 7 percent this year and 8.25 percent in 1980, compared with the administration's worst forecast of 6.6 percent unemployment this year and 6.9 percent in 1980.

The difference between an unemployment rate of 6.9 percent and 8.25 percent is about 1.4 million jobs.

Miller said the Federal Reserve Board has forecast an overall decline in economic activity of between 0.5 percent and 2 percent this year and a range of activity of between a 0.5 percent decline and a 2 percent growth in 1980.

The administration outlook was for a 0.5 percent decline this year and a 2 percent increase in 1980.

Inflation also will be worse, the board's forecast said.

"We see a moderate recession running through this year and into next year," Miller told the committee.

He said the recession probably started in the second quarter of this year and will continue through the first quarter of 1980.

While he said the recession should not be nearly so bad as the steep 1974-1975 economic downturn when unemployment hit a post-war peak of 9 percent, he added that nobody can be certain what will happen to the economy.

"The economic outlook currently is obscured by exceptional uncertainties, and the range of possible outcomes appears quite wide," he said.

But indicating he feels the administration's outlook is too optimistic, Miller said it "does seem to envision a somewhat more favorable combination of real output and inflation" than the Federal Reserve Board feels is likely. Miller said the board's outlook was a consensus of the seven members, the first time there has been a consensus forecast.

In a related development, Anita Miller, acting chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, said Tuesday the administration is ready to take steps to stimulate housing construction if the recession cuts too deeply into housing starts. She declined to say how low construction would have to slip before federal action would be taken.

If unemployment does rise to 8.25 percent next year; it will mean about 8.3 million Americans will be out of work. This would undoubtedly bring considerable pressure on the government to take steps to put the unemployed back to work through public service jobs programs.

A balanced budget next year would be virtually impossible in such circumstances.

Miller indicated the administration and Congress may also want to consider reducing taxes, especially for business through accelerating the investment depreciation allowance. But he also said he would favor a reduction in Social Security taxes.

"We must ensure that our system of taxation does not discourage the saving and capital investment necessary to reverse the deterioration of productivity performance observed in recent years," he said.

Carter also has indicated he would favor a reduction in Social Security taxes as his first preference if the economy needed a boost from a tax cut.

Miller said the major uncertainties in the economy are the outlook for inflation and the nation's ability to solve the energy problem.

"Over the longer run, the ability of the nation to achieve sustained growth of real income will depend importantly on whether it can solve its energy problem," he said.

The board's forecasts for inflation are for increases in prices, as measured by the gross national product, of between 9.5 percent and 11 percent this year, and between 8.5 percent and 10.5 percent next year. The administration's forecast is for inflation of 9.8 percent this year and 8.1 percent next year.

Baseball? All-Stars more like theater

By WILL GRIMSLEY

SEATTLE (AP) — A guy so big that you'd think he would do better moving pianos makes two defensive plays that are absolutely mind-boggling. A little, dark-haired guy from New York's rag-tag Mets hits the game-winning home run in his first time at bat.

The game's best home run hitter, Mike Schmidt, goes eyeball-to-eyeball with the killer speedball pitcher, Nolan Ryan, in the very first inning and hits a massive triple. The host city's lone representative, Bruce Bochte, comes to bat in the sixth and bounces a hit over short. Bedlam in the Kingdom.

With the bases full, the 1978 Cy Young honoree, walks home the winning run and a bullpen specialist of the Chicago Cubs blows down Boston's Jim Rice and Rick Burleson for the last two outs as the National League beats the American League for the eighth straight time in baseball's 50th All-Star game.

Add to that these ingredients: There are 58,905 crammed into the tight Kingdom with gadgets and red, white and blue streamers hanging from the rafters. A guy in a chicken's uniform is doing silly routines on top of the dugouts.

MORGANNA, the notorious sports stripteaser, leaps out of the stands, runs to home plate and plants a kiss on George Brett's startled features. We didn't think George protested half enough. And then this lanky guy in shorts, tee shirt and baseball cap runs out on the field and plays tag with the cops.

That, in a nutshell, is the 1979 All-Star game, won by the National Leaguers 7-6.

Baseball? Don't be stupid. It's theater. Maybe that's too kind a word. It's vaudeville. But it's fresh. It's fun. It's unpredictable. And the fans loved every minute of it.

So what if the National League has won the last eight in a row, 16 of the last 17, 31 to 18 with one tie overall?

Do you think Chub Feeney, the NL proxy, can throw out his chest and brag about superiority? Of course not. The All-Star game proves nothing in the way of comparative league strength. No more than in the World Series in which the American League has a 45 to 30 edge, 27-19 in the period since the All-Star game's inception in 1933.

Let's face it. It's a great show, with players moved in and out of the lineup like basketball players. The All-Star game has none of the organized rhythm of regular season play or World Series.

LET'S HAVE NO more of those barroom hassles about one league being better than the other. Let's just savor it for what it is — a look at our heroes in a fun-filled setting.

In this one, there were heroes and goats to go around. But the outstanding individual undoubtedly — winner of the Most Valuable Player Award — was gargantuan Dave Parker of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who played right field the entire game. You've got to hand it to Lee Mazzilli of the Mets, hitting that home run in the eighth to tie the game. You can't discount gutsy Bruce Sutter of the Cubs for his "split-finger" strikeout mastery in the ninth. But Parker, 6 feet, 5 inches, and 230 pounds, a Goliath in a solid gold uniform, was a spectacle to remember forever.

In the seventh he lost Jim Rice's towering fly ball in the lights. Big Dave recovered the ball, wheeled and cut the dashing Red Soxer down at third — eliminating a threat. In the eighth with two men on base, the Pirates outfielder outdid himself on Graig Nettles' sharp hit to right. He charged the ball and shot it on a fly to catcher Gary Carter of the Expos, who snuffed out a charging Brian Downing at home.

Parker is renowned for his offensive skills — league batting champion the last two years, 1978 MVP, first in total bases and a bidder for baseball's triple crown — batting average, home runs, and rbi titles.

Victory-starved Lasorda relishes All-Star win

SEATTLE (AP) — Tommy Lasorda's once-proud Los Angeles Dodgers, the two-time National League champions, are in shambles but he wore one of his patented Hollywood smiles.

Cubs, Caps play 2 tonight

Mark Parker, 8-5, and Jon Perlman, 2-2, both winners their last times out, will start for the Midland Cubs in the series-opening double-header against the Shreveport Captains at 6:30 p.m. today in Cubs Stadium in the opener of the five-game inter-division Texas League series.

The Captains are a farm club of the San Francisco Giants, who will be returning to Midland after a three-year absence. The Giants had been in Amarillo for years, shifted to Alexandria, La., in 1975, sharing the TL pennant with Midland that year before skipping to Waterbury of the Eastern League.

Now the Giants are back with veteran Andy Gilbert serving as manager. They replace Pittsburgh, which had been in the league for two years.

The series winds up with Ladies Night action Thursday, Two-Bit Beer

Night Friday and the close out Saturday. After this series, the Cubs have only two more home-stands as they bid for the second half TL West division pennant.

The Cubs took advantage of their off date Tuesday to participate in a Scramble Golf Tournament at Hogan Park Golf Course, an event won by Cubs' Manager Randy Hundley and Max Christiansen, who combined for a best-ball 60 before handicap. The Cubs won four of five from Tulsa. Parker won the opener, 12-3, with a route-going job and then Perlman posted a 9-8 win, a game in which he led 9-3 going into the eighth and might have finished had someone covered second on a double play ball hit back to the box. No one did, and the Drillers went on to score five runs.

But victory was incidental that night to survival as the Cubs lost shortstop Chico Alfaro, catcher Bill Hayes and outfielder Brian Rosinski to injuries. And then Sunday lost centerfielder Carlos Lezcano. Hayes and Rosinski are back in the lineup, but Alfaro, suffering a broken right leg, is out for the year, although he was a spectator at Monday's game. Lezcano suffered an ankle injury and is expected to be back after the Shreveport series.

'69, A year Randy remembers well

One of Randy Hundley's biggest thrills came just 10 years ago, the same year he was to suffer one of his two biggest disappointments in baseball.

It was a decade ago that the Midland Cubs' manager was picked to play for the National League All-Star game.

"Don't let anyone tell you that he'd rather have the three-day holiday. It's one of the biggest honors a ball player can receive and that year it was extra special because the team was picked by the players. Being picked to the team by your peers has to mean even more than being picked by the fans," Hundley said.

In fact, that was a year the Cubs dominated the NL All-Stars. "Our entire infield was picked...Ernie Banks at first, Glenn Beckert at second, Don Kessinger at short, Ron Santo at third...plus Billy Williams in the outfield. And I think Fergie (Jenkins) was selected that year, too."

The game was played in Washington and the Nationals won 9-3.

Hundley doesn't subscribe to that theory, but then he was always a glutton for work.

"We led by 12 games at one time and lost by eight," Randy recalls wistfully. "People said we lost the pennant, but you've got to give the Mets credit. They won the pennant."

The records bear Hundley out. Through the last two months, the Mets traveled at a murderous pace, winning 42 and losing only 16. It was good enough to beat out the Cubs, who finished the season 92-70.

If there was one game that was the turning point, according to Hundley it came on Sept. 8, a game in Shea Stadium, one in which Hundley was involved in a controversial call at the plate, a call which to this day Randy feels the umpire blew.

"I made the tag so hard, the ball almost popped out of my mitt and I made it from here to that door down the line," he said motioning to the door 15 feet away. You've probably seen replays of it. Hundley was so incensed he leaped off the ground with both feet.

"I knew it was a big play at the time," Randy said. "It was the kind that a whole season could turn on. Sure, I was hopping mad."

TOMMY AGEE had homered as lead off batter in the game and the Cubs came back to tie the score against Jerry Koosman in the sixth. "I thought when we got that run, we were on our way," Randy recalls.

Then in the seventh, Agee doubled and Wayne Garrett, a .218 hitting rookie, singled. Agee, a flyer, tried to score from second and was out, according to Hundley's version, and safe according to the umpire, "who was out of position when he made the call," notes Randy.

"But really, I thought we'd still win after that game. I don't believe anyone thought the Mets could keep up their pace. Teams normally cool off."

"In fact, who would have thought they would go on to beat Atlanta in the playoffs and then the Orioles in the World Series."

The Mets, however, didn't cool off, winning 38 of their last 49 and did all of the things no one dreamed they could do.

BUT THERE'S some bitter with every sweet and 1969 was also the year of the big one got away. If there's anything that tops the All-Star game, of course, it's the World Series.

After leading the league from opening day, the Cubs were overtaken by the Mets Sept. 10 and if 1951 was the Miracle of Coogan's Bluff, 1969 must have been the Fluke of Flushing Meadows.

Up until then, the Mets had been the joke of the baseball world. Just as the mention of Brooklyn always brought applause, no matter where the audience, the mention of Mets, the king of the flops and pratfalls, always was good for a belly laugh...after all, who could forget Marvelous Marv Throneberry.

The Mets had lost 737 games, more than 100 a year, since their creation as an expansion team. How could they be taken seriously?

The disappointment of those fading weeks is one of Hundley's biggest disappointments. The other came a couple of years later when he tore up a knee, an injury that shortened his baseball career. If it hadn't been for that, he probably would still be playing instead of managing.

THAT WAS the year Manager Leo Durocher picked his starting lineup in spring training and played with it intact from the first exhibition. Some contend the Cubs just went stale from overwork down the stretch.

Don Humphrey
Nicklaus scores ace on opening day

LYTHAM ST. ANNE'S, England (AP) — Jack Nicklaus registered the tenth competitive hole in one of his distinguished career Wednesday on the opening day of the 108th British Open Golf Championship.

Humphrey resigns at MHS

Don Humphrey, head basketball coach for three years at Midland High, announced his resignation Tuesday to go into private business.

Humphrey, a native of Andrews and graduate of Midwestern University, will join Houston-based Allstates Chemical as their Midland sales representative.

The move came as a surprise, since Humphrey's Bulldogs won district and bi-district titles last year with a 26-9 record before losing to state finalist Fort Worth Dunbar. "And we have good material returning for the next two years," Humphrey noted, "but this is a move I've been considering for more than a year. I have been in basketball since junior high and now I want to do something different and I feel that between the ages of 30 and 40 is the time to make the break."

"If I stay in coaching, I can see that 15 to 20 years from now, I will be preparing for another basketball season, so I want to try something different. It may be that in six months I'll wish I was back in coaching, but now I feel compelled to make a move."

Humphrey said the Midland School System has been "super."

Humphrey played prep ball at Andrews in the early 1960s, once beating an undefeated Lee team coached by Paul Stueckler on free throws in the fading seconds. After Midwestern, Don coached at Burkburnett in 1969 and came to Midland Goddard Junior High in 1971, moving up to MHS assistant under James Cagle after a year and a half.

Humphrey has been MHS coach three years, opening with a 12-20 season, but then jumping the Purple Pack to 20-12 and finally last year's district champions.

"I won't miss sitting on the bench during a game as much as I'll miss workouts. That's where I did all my coaching and got the satisfaction of watching seeing a Charles Johnson develop."

Athletic Director Sam Cox was expected to accept applications for the vacancy. One of the prime candidates probably would be Eddie Shirley, who has worked with Humphrey since Goddard days, if Cox decides to stay within the system. Shirley has been JV coach the last three years.

Evans drops baseball

SN DIEGO (P) — On opening day, Barry Evans was the San Diego Padres' starting third baseman. Now he's dropping baseball to give tennis a try.

"I just want to take about six months or a year and see how far I can go in tennis," said the 22-year-old infielder who three weeks ago refused to report to San Diego's minor league club in Amarillo, Texas.

"I told the Padres that I wanted to take some time off; that I wanted a leave of absence. And they told me that there was no such thing in baseball. Well, why not? Dave Cowens (of the Boston Celtics) took a leave of absence, so why can't I?"

During spring training, the Atlanta native was touted by Manager Roger Craig as a rookie of the year candidate.

Injuries hold key to Ag season

By RICHARD VINCENT Sports Writer

The visiting football coach's eyes opened wide when he saw the photographer's camera.

"Let me see that," said the coach, reaching for the camera. "I just bought a Canon AE 1."

Following a brief discussion with the photographer about the differences between Canons and Nikons, Tom Wilson, looking more like a golf professional than Texas A&M's latest grid boss, lounged in a chair at Midland Country Club and talked about what he knows best—football.

"We're going to have a good football team if we can avoid depth and injury problems," said Wilson Tuesday while in the Tall City to play a little golf and meet with local Aggie boosters.

Now that's what most coaches are saying about this time of year. But Wilson, who quarterbacked Corsicana to a state prep title before going on to star at Texas Tech, seemed a little more enthused than the others. It's because this fall will be the start of his first full year as a head coach.

Wilson midway through last season was named interim coach to replace Emory Bellard, who resigned amidst a mild furor. Wilson, who was the offensive coordinator since 1975, guided A&M to a 4-2 mark and a 28-12 victory over Iowa State in the Hall of Fame Bowl as the Aggies closed the campaign 8-4. Following the season, Wilson was nearly everyone's choice to remain as head coach.

Don't think that Wilson feels a great deal of pressure coaching at A&M, a school almost as well known for dumping coaches as it is for The Corps.

"There's not any more pressure at A&M than any other major college coach has. I told the people at A&M before I took the job that I'd simply do the best I could. A man's got to do his best job," he said.

And with his first full season as a head coach just under two months away, Wilson's chomping at the bit.

"We're excited about it," he said. "The players are more oriented to what we're doing. And they've got a good concept of the offense and defense, which will be different from the latter part of last year."

Tom Wilson

The adjustments, according to Wilson, include changing the offense from Bellard's beloved wishbone to the more versatile 'I' formation.

"We're not going to be quite as conservative. We want to be a little more balanced," explained Wilson.

Of the defense, well, Wilson wants it "more conservative." "We're striving to eliminate those big plays," he said, mentioning several times that the Aggies were burnt by game breakers.

There were also a few coaching staff alterations. For one, R. C. Slocum was promoted to defensive coordinator. Also reassigned was Chuck Moser, who became recruiting coordinator.

Plus, there were a few imports. Jess Stiles, who worked with Wilson at Texas Tech, will be assistant head coach, while highly-respected George Haffner comes from Florida State as offensive coordinator and Dean Campbell comes from New Mexico to tutor the defensive backs.

Mostly, however, things should remain status quo in Aggieland, which means successful football teams.

With returning athletes such as mercurial halfback Curtis Dickey, wily quarterback Mike Mosley and defensive headhunters Doug Carr and Carl Grulich, the potential is there to go with anybody in the Southwest Conference, which Wilson conceded.

Funeral services were scheduled today at Fourth Presbyterian Church for John D. Holland Jr., a top official in the Chicago Cubs organization for 33 years. Holland, 69, died Sunday in Northwestern Memorial Hospital. He is survived by his wife Gladys, daughter Janice Caldwell, son John T. Holland and four grandchildren. A native of Wichita, Kan., Holland succeeded his father as owner of the Class A Oklahoma City minor league team of the Western League in 1936. He entered the Cubs organization on the minor league management level in 1946 and 10 years later was appointed vice president and became executive vice president in 1972.

The Mid-Summer Basketball League closes its season Thursday and Friday in St. Ann's gym in a season-ending tournament which is open to the public at no charge. Thursday's action will begin at 7 p.m. with three games to be played. Friday's action resumes at 7 p.m. with the championship game slated for 10 p.m. The tournament will feature former Midland High and Midland Lee cage stars such as Gary Brewster, Charles Johnson and Greg Wright.

Oregon State's Board of Intercollegiate Athletics will meet today to interview three candidates for the position of head track coach, reportedly two are University of Oregon assistant Frank Morris and Western Kentucky Coach Del Hessel.

New York Yankees president Al Rosen reportedly is on the verge of leaving his post to rejoin his longtime friend, Billy Weber, who soon will be opening a hotel-gambling casino in Atlantic City, N.J.

The eight members of the Eastern 8 face expulsion from the ECAC because the league signed its own Saturday afternoon television package for the coming basketball season. The ECAC Infractions Committee has notified the schools of violations and possible penalties if the league doesn't relent and move its TV package from opposite the ECAC package, which is televised by TVS and NBC on Saturday afternoons. Teams in the Eastern 8, are Duquesne, George Washington, Massachusetts, Pitt, Rutgers, Villanova, West Virginia and St. Bonaventure, which replaced Penn State for the upcoming season.

CINCINNATI (AP) — On the day of another world record in the mile, former American track great Glenn Cunningham claimed it was he, not Roger Bannister, who ran the first sub-four-minute mile. The Cincinnati Enquirer, in a copyright story, quoted Cunningham as saying he ran a 3:58.9 mile in high school 39 years ago. But his coach told Cunningham to keep quiet about the performance in the 1930 practice session. "I really opened up and when my coach, Roy

Stabler now six days late

SANTA ROSA, Calif. (AP) — Oakland Raider quarterback Kenny Stabler, now six days late for training camp, is apparently in the area, but team officials insist they haven't heard from him.

Stabler reportedly arrived at a friend's home in Oakland on Tuesday, 20 miles southeast of this Sonoma County city.

Coach Tom Flores, who has been saying for nearly a week that Stabler would arrive "soon," said he hoped the wayward quarterback would report today.

Stabler became overdue at the Oakland training camp last Thursday when the team's veterans were required to report. But because he wants to be traded, Stabler has taken his own time about showing up.

Another missing Raider is tight end Dave Casper, who is at his home in Alameda, Calif. but says he's not going to play until the salary figures he will receive during the final two years of his four-year contract are renegotiated.

A third Raider, reserve Warren Bankston, is also AWOL. Unlike Stabler and Casper, Bankston took his physical before camp opened, but as not been heard from since.

John Walker of New Zealand held the old record of 3:49.4, established in Goteborg, Sweden, in 1975. It was the second world record established by Coe, 22, in 12 days. On July 5 he also set a world record of 1:42.33 in the 800 meters.

TENNIS—Fritz Buehning, a 19-year-old amateur from UCLA, was the lone player to solve the patient games of the clay-court specialists, beating Spain's Manuel Orantes 0-6, 6-3, 6-4, in the first round of the Washington Star International men's tennis tournament. Otherwise, the clay-court specialists advanced easily, all in straight sets, with top-seeded Guillermo Vilas of Argentina beating Jay Lapidus 7-6, 6-1, Harold Solomon routing Haroon Ismail of Rhodesia 6-2, 6-3, and Paraguay's Victor Pecci defeating Erick Iskersky 6-3, 6-4.

In other matches, Raul Ramirez of Mexico beat Australian Ross Case 6-3, 6-3, Emilio Montano of Mexico topped Australian John James 6-3, 6-0, Argentina's Jose-Luis Clerc beat Sherwood Stewart 6-4, 6-1 and Spain's Jose Higueras defeated John Sadrie 6-3, 6-4.

Top-seeded Wojtek Fibak of Poland eliminated Ricardo Cano of Argentina 7-5, 6-1 to move into the second round of the $75,000 Weissenhof Grand Prix Tournament while second-seeded Uli Pinner of West Germany prevailed over Jean-Louis Haillet of France 7-6, 7-6; Tomas Smid of Czechoslovakia defeated Roberto Vizcaino of Spain, 6-0, 6-3; Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia beat Onny Parun of New Zealand, 6-1, 6-3; France's Dominique Bedel downed Noel Philippus of Australia, 2-6, 7-5, 7-5; Peter McNamara of Australia defeated Peter Elter of West Germany, 6-1, 3-6, 6-1; and Colin Dowdeswell, also of Australia, beat Uli Marten, West Germany, 7-5, 6-2.

YACHTING—Chocolate Chips was nine hours behind the first finisher, but was declared the winner after handicaps were computed in the 72nd annual, 333-mile Chicago-to-Mackinac Island sailboat race, crossing the finishline in 34:35 hours.

HORSE RACING—BOWIE, Gwennie's Choice, $14.00, rallied to a three-length victory over Dark Imp in the Matthews Purse at Bowie. OCEANPORT, N.J. Navajo Princess, $4.40, beat La Soufriere by two lengths to win the $34,525 Red Bank Handicap at Monmouth Park.

Record tied

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Tim Robinson, a Coronado, Calif., teen-ager who tied a tournament record with an opening round 4-under par 68, took a one-stroke lead into today's second round play in the Junior World Golf Championships.

Now your savings deposits can earn CD rates at Midland National on as little as

Many financial institutions require $100, $500, even as much as $1,000 minimum deposits before they will pay certificate interest rates. For years Midland National has paid certificate rates on 90-day, one-year, and two and one-half year Greater Savings deposits of as little as $25.

MNB introduces the new Money Market Savings Deposit.

Now, effective July 1, 1979, MNB offers its new Money Market Savings Deposit which has a maturity of four years and pays 1 1/4% less than the average yield on four-year U.S. Treasury bills. Each deposit is non-negotiable, and interest is compounded and paid daily.

MNB's minimum requirement is only $25. This is the same Money Market Savings Deposit for which many financial institutions require $100 or more as a minimum deposit.

Interest rates on Money Market Savings Deposits will be set three business days before the first of each month, based on the U.S. Treasury bill average of the previous five days, less 1 1/4%. Call our New Accounts Department at 683-2751 for the latest rate.

Higher rates on Regular Savings, too.

Effective July 1, 1979, MNB will increase interest on Regular Savings from 5% to 5 1/4%, compounded and paid daily. The new effective annual yield will be 5.39%. This rate is also available to businesses on amounts of $150,000 or less.

Interest penalties simplified.

On deposits made before July 1, 1979, the penalty for early withdrawal is forfeiture of three months' interest on the amount withdrawn, and interest paid reverts to the Regular Savings rate. On deposits made after July 1, the higher CD interest rate will be paid, less three months' interest penalty on deposits of one year or less, and less six months' interest on deposits with maturities over one year.

All Midland National accounts are insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation up to a maximum of $40,000.

Guidry proves disappointment

After what's happened to him this season, a loss in the All-Star game might have been the final defeat to push him over the brink. His own Dodgers are 21 games under .500, have the worst record in the National League and are in the cellar in the NL West.
 "First of all," Lasorda beamed minutes after his National Leaguers' 7-6 triumph over the American League, "can't you tell how I feel by the smile on my face?"
 For the eighth time in a row and the 16th time in 17 games, the National League was an All-Star winner. Or, perhaps more precisely, the American League was a loser again.
 Bob Lemon, who lost his job as manager of the New York Yankees

June 18, said he didn't attach any particular significance to the National League's continued domination.
 "IT WAS the type of ball game that could have gone either way," agreed Lasorda.
 "We had the opportunities," said Lemon, slowly shaking his head, "but we couldn't take advantage of them. Well, this is an All-Star game and whoever gets the breaks wins."
 "Maybe it sounds like I'm crying sour milk but it looks like the National League used the artificial turf here more to their advantage than we did."
 The All-Star game's record of six home runs by both clubs was supposed to be in jeopardy in the small confines of the Kingdom. So much for suppositions.
 The best of baseball's superstars hit exactly two home runs, one by Fred Lynn of Boston in the first inning and the second by Lee Mazzilli of the New York Mets that tied the score at 6-6 in the eighth inning.

 "It was your basic shot heard around the world," said Texas' Jim Kern sarcastically.
 Kern, who has surrendered only one homer this season, gave up Mazzilli's round tripper, which bared up into the stands above the 316-foot marker along the left field line.
 WITH TWO out and the bases loaded in the ninth inning, Lemon summoned 1978 American League Cy Young Award winner Ron Guidry, his former ace with the Yankees, to face Mazzilli. Guidry walked Mazzilli to force in Joe Morgan of Cincinnati with the winning run.

"I'm not happy with the circumstances of going in there," said Guidry. "When you come in with the bases loaded, you ain't got no room to play with."
 "I used Guidry in relief before with the Yankees," Lemon explained. "He's a strikeout pitcher and we needed a strikeout in that situation."
 Pittsburgh's Dave Parker was voted the game's most valuable player on the basis of two magnificent throws. He threw out Jim Rice at third base in the seventh inning when the Boston slugger attempted to stretch a pop fly double into a triple. He threw out Brian Downing at the plate in the eighth when the California catcher attempted to score from second on a single by the Yankees' Graig Nettles.

Baker is big surprise

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP)—Houston Oiler Coach Bum Phillips says, rather surprisingly, that second round draft pick Jesse Baker of Jacksonville, Ala. State has been the surprise of the Oiler training camp.
 "His ability wasn't a surprise because we knew about that when we picked him," Phillips said. "It's his willingness to do everything that has been such a surprise."
 "We'll work on pass rush, and everybody else will do nine rushes. Jesse will do 14 because he's jogging back to the end of the line."
 Rumors spread quickly after the Oilers drafted Baker in May that he had an attitude problem. Baker answered his critics by saying he would report to training camp ready to prove himself.

TIPRO head raps Carter energy plan

HOUSTON (AP) — President Carter's energy programs will "freeze and reduce" domestic oil and gas production and cause longer lines at the gasoline pumps, an oil industry spokesman maintains.

"The best way to cure the shortage is to be certain that oil and gas is the most profitable investment anywhere," D.K. Davis, vice president of the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association, told the Men's Club of Houston Tuesday.

But Carter's plan is based on "the fallacious premise that we're out of oil or gas in this country," he said.

"Under the Carter plan being debated, only $8 million would go to the producers for exploration and $40 billion of tax proceeds would go to the government," he said.

The country's energy now consists of 53 percent oil, 21 percent natural gas and 19 percent coal, Davis said, while all others — including hydroelectric, nuclear and geothermal power—make up just seven percent.

The Department of Energy's budget for 1980 sets aside $3.6 billion for alternate energy research projects, he said, with $130 million to be spent on photovoltaic devices, which produce electricity from sunlight. The DOE's goal is to produce solar electricity at a cost of $2 per kilowatt hour by the mid-1980s, he added.

But he scoffed at the cost effectiveness of these devices and other proposed energy alternatives.

"If your Houston electric bill is $100 a month, photovoltaic electricity at its cheapest can be delivered to you for only $6,670 a month — that's on a sunny day, of course," Davis said.

"The energy savings for a solar-heated school the DOE funded in Virginia two years ago will pay out the installation cost in 645 years," he said.

Davis said the proposed production of alcohol from agricultural products is a "classic example of American ingenuity." About 30,000 gallons of ethanol a day is now being produced for $1.22 to $1.80 a gallon, he said.

"If we could increase the capacity by 120 times, enough could be produced by 1990 to put one-tenth of one percent of alcohol in the country's gasoline supply," Davis said. "Agricultural people say we can't grow enough crops to make even that much alcohol."

"The making of alcohol for fuel will increase U.S. oil imports," he continued. "So take some of the publicity about agricultural alcohol solving all our problems with a grain of salt."

He said a demonstration windmill to generate 50 kilowatts in California cost taxpayers $1.7 million, or $28,330 per kilowatt.

"That's 30 times the cost of a nuclear plant," he said.

Only 2 percent of the nation's potential oil and gas production has been developed, Davis said.

"The bureaucrats are determined that we should walk away from the potential of the other 98 percent," he said.

Investigation clears crude firms of creating shortage

WASHINGTON (AP) — A joint investigation by the Energy and Justice departments has found no evidence of any deliberate actions by oil companies to create the current gasoline shortage, an informed administration official says.

But the source, who asked not to be identified, said the investigation's final report may question the judgment of the companies, suggesting they have been overcautious in trying to make their oil supplies last longer.

The joint investigation, cited by President Carter in a speech Monday in Kansas City, Mo., has been underway for several months and is near completion, administration sources said.

Several drafts of its findings have been written and shunted back and forth for review by investigators in both departments and a final version may be sent to the White House within the next few days, these sources said.

Carter said in his speech the Justice and Energy departments were assigned to find out whether the current gasoline shortage, which created long lines at gas stations in many areas, involved any "improper activity."

An administration official familiar with the investigation told The Associated Press the two departments had found no evidence so far of "massive hoarding or conscious manipulation by major refiners at a critical time of need."

The official said the main emphasis of the investigation report probably would focus on "judgmental factors."

These may include questions of whether the companies were too "conservative" in stockpiling oil and petroleum products for the future, in setting production rates for refineries and in determining the allocation fractions that regulate the flow of gasoline to customers.

Such criticism was leveled by Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger early in June when he said refiners were being "unduly conservative" about operating refineries and using crude oil stocks.

Schlesinger had noticed that refineries had been operating at as little as 83 percent of their capacity, compared with normal operations of a point or two over 90 percent.

In a statement issued last Thursday, Schlesinger said refiners have recently increased their operations to 90 percent of capacity "at our urging," tapping their stockpiles for some of the oil they processed.

Oil industry executives have said refinery utilization was low simply because there was not enough crude oil to sustain higher operations.

Since revolution interrupted oil production in Iran, imports of crude oil have decreased and a recent Associated Press investigation found that U.S. oil supplies were further reduced by a dip in domestic production from October at least through January and perhaps into April.

With new supplies thus reduced, refiners tapped their stocks of crude oil in January and February, drawing them down below the levels estimated by the Energy Department as the "minimum acceptable" stockpiles.

Most of those stocks do not sit idle in storage tanks, but are in pipelines, trucks, barges, refineries and other parts of the system. The Energy Department and the industry agree the stocks cannot be reduced below some minimum level without causing disruptions of the refining system.

Statistics show that in March the industry rebuilt its stocks above the minimum level by adding some 761,000 barrels of oil per day to the crude oil stockpile.

And since then it has kept the crude stocks above the minimum, approaching in May the normal range of stocks for that period.

Thus, by its own standards and statistics, the administration seems unlikely to accuse the oil industry of stockpiling extravagant amounts of oil while gasoline pumps were allowed to run dry.

Its criticism, telegraphed earlier by Schlesinger, may take the form of suggesting that the industry could have eased the gasoline shortage somewhat by running more oil through refineries while letting the oil stocks skate closer to the edge of the "minimum acceptable level."

identified, said the investigation's final report may question the judgment of the companies, suggesting they have been overcautious in trying to make their oil supplies last longer.

The joint investigation, cited by President Carter in a speech Monday in Kansas City, Mo., has been underway for several months and is near completion, administration sources said.

85 Texas strikes logged

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas operators reported 24 oil discoveries and 61 gas discoveries during the first half of July, the Railroad Commission said Tuesday.

The commission said through July 15 operators have reported 247 oil discoveries, an increase of four from the same period last year. There have been 70 discoveries, 127 more than in the first six months of last year.

The new oil discoveries included six in the Refugio area, five in North Texas, four in South Texas, three in the Lubbock area, two each in Southeast and West Central Texas and one each in East Texas and the San Antonio area.

The new gas discoveries included 26 in South Texas, 12 each in the Refugio area Southeast Texas, four near San Antonio, two each in East Central and West Central Texas and one each in North Texas, East Texas and the Panhandle.

Operators reported 164 dry holes in the July 1-15 period.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — August nominations for the purchase of Texas crude oil total 2,728,735 barrels a day, a decrease of 7,494 barrels a day from June, the Railroad Commission reported Tuesday.

The commission meets Thursday to set the statewide oil allowable for August.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Railroad Commission announced Tuesday it has approved the application of Texas Utilities Generating Co. to increase by 68.2 acres its Big Brown mining and power generating operation in Freestone County.

The Dallas firm's Big Brown operation is five miles northeast of Fairfield and five miles east of Interstate 45.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Railroad Commission said Tuesday it has submitted to the federal Office of Surface Mining a Texas program for regulating strip mining for coal and restoring land that has been mined.

Acting Director J. Randal Hill of the commission's Surface Mining and Reclamation Division said the 844-page plan "will ultimately cut lots of red tape" for miners and the commission.

"Approval of the state program will allow Texas, through the Railroad Commission, to maintain primacy in the regulation of surface coal mining and reclamation in Texas," said legal examiner Chesley Bevins.

Hill said he thought the Texas plan was the first such state plan submitted to the federal agency.

Senator is impressed

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Sen. Max Baucus says he's impressed with the investment required to get oil out of the Gulf of Mexico.

The Montana Democrat was one of six senators flown out to the exotic world of offshore oil Monday by oil companies eager to hold off a tough windfall profits tax.

"We wanted to show the senators that it cost a lot of money to produce this energy," said Sen. Russell Long, D-La.

Long was accompanied by five members of his Senate Finance Committee — Baucus, William Bradley, D-N.J., David Pryor, D-Ark., David Boren, D-Okla., and Malcolm Wallop, R-Wyo.

The committee is pondering the windfall profits tax passed by the House.

That version is too stiff, Baucus said after his tour. "We've got to give producers a break," he said.

While they were out in the gulf, being ferried about in six helicopters, President Carter said the nation must invest $140 billion over the next 10 years to become self-sufficient in energy — and the money must come from the windfall profits tax.

"There will be a tax but I hope it will not be as severe as the bill passed by the House," said Sen. Long.

As the prime example of how much it costs to operate offshore, the senators were deposited on Cognac, the world's tallest platform, which Shell Oil Co. says cost about $800 million to develop.

Cognac stands on steel legs in water 1,027 feet deep in the Gulf of Mexico near the mouth of the Mississippi River, 88 miles south of New Orleans. Fifteen companies joined in the venture, with Shell as the operator.

Flowing oil discoveries final in WT counties

Forest Oil Corp. has opened a Pennsylvanian oil pool in Dawson County, 11 miles southeast of Lamesa, and Union Texas Petroleum, a division of Allied Chemical Corp., and Houston Oil & Minerals Western Division, both operating from Midland, have potentiated a Silurian oil strike in Terry County. Both are flowing wells.

Forest Oil staked location for a 10,700-foot wildcat one location southwest of its discovery.

Forest completed No. 1 Lloyd Cline Farms as the Pennsylvanian strike. It made 236 barrels of oil per day, plus 4 percent basic sediment and water, through a 10/64-inch choke. The gas-oil ratio is 381-1, and gravity of the oil is 37.3 degrees. Tubing pressure ranged from 325 to 230 pounds.

Completion was through perforations from 8,570 to 8,573 feet after a 500-gallon mud-acid wash.

Total depth is 10,630 feet and 5.5-inch casing is set at 8,724 feet.

The Pennsylvanian was topped at 8,525 feet on kelly bushing elevation of 2,945 feet.

Wellsite is 1,462 feet from north and 467 feet from east lines of section 25, block 34, T-5-N, T&P survey.

It is one and five-eighths miles north of the Spraberry, Deep (lower Spraberry) field and three miles west of the Jo-Mill (Fusselman and Spraberry) area.

The new Forest wildcat is No. 1 Grissom, 2,382 feet from north and 1,222 feet from east lines of section 25, block 34, T-5-N, T&P survey and 11 miles southeast of Lamesa.

Union Texas and Houston Oil & Minerals No. 1 Sara Bullard is the Terry County Silurian discovery, two miles north of Seagraves.

The strike finished for a 24-hour flowing potential of 476 barrels of 36-gravity oil and 25 barrels of load water, with a tubing pressure of 550 pounds.

The flow was gauged through a 14/64-inch choke and was from pay behind casing perforations from 13,330 to 13,342 feet, after a 3,000-gallon acid treatment. The gas-oil ratio is 15-1.

The total depth is 13,641 feet and 5.5-inch casing is set at 13,620 feet. The plugged back depth is 13,480 feet.

Operator called the top of the Silurian at 13,330 feet on ground elevation of 3,355 feet. Other tops include the Wolfcamp at 10,156 feet, the Atoka at 11,933 feet and the Fusselman at 13,570 feet.

The discovery is 1,320 feet from south and 2,200 feet from east lines of section 81, block DD, John Gibson survey. The closest related production is six miles to the west in the Seagraves field.

Union Texas is the operator. The companies jointly control a 1,960-acre lease block on the prospect.

NOLAN DISCOVERY

Fisher-Webb, Inc., of Abilene No. 3 McLaughlin has been completed as a Canyon oil discovery in the JMM (upper Canyon oil and Canyon gas) field of Nolan County, 15 miles southwest of Maryneal.

The strike finished for a daily flowing potential of 80 barrels of 44-gravity oil, no water, through a 12/64-inch choke and perforations from 5,796 to 5,804 feet and from 5,882 to 5,889 feet. The pay was fractured with 30,000 gallons, and the gas-oil ratio is 5,000-1.

The Canyon was topped at 5,690 feet on ground elevation of 2,361 feet.

Total depth is 6,049 feet and 4.5-inch pipe is set at 6,001 feet.

The well is 2,130 feet from south and 1,905 feet from west lines of section 9, block 1-A, H&TC survey and one location northeast of upper Canyon oil production.

Washington (AP) — The Library of Congress estimated Tuesday that President Carter's effort to limit oil imports will have no effect until 1982, when it will help push the price of gasoline above $1.30 a gallon.

The price of home heating oil would average about 95 cents a gallon, according to the study released by the House Ways and Means trade subcommittee.

Library analyst Lawrence Kumins based his predictions on assumptions that U.S. demand for foreign oil will rise above Carter's limit of about 8.5 million barrels a day, resulting in a shortage, and that federal price controls on oil will expire as scheduled in late 1981.

His admittedly rough

$1.30 gas forecast

estimates also assume that the price of crude oil will average $27 a barrel in 1982, which is within the range of predictions by some government and private economists.

"If our predictions are accurate, an 8.5-million-barrel-a-day quota will not begin to impinge upon demand until sometime during 1982," Kumins wrote. "By 1983 the shortfall stemming from the quota will be significant and will likely be over 1 million barrels a day."

Economic situation in U.S. raises tourism prospects for Canada

OTTAWA (AP) — The premium on U.S. dollars in Canada and the available supplies of gas generally has raised prospects for more tourist visits by Americans this year, a Canadian Press survey of tourist officials indicates.

The feeling is that this combination of circumstances should lure Americans here and deter Canadians from leaving home for a U.S. vacation.

But if the gas is so scarce in the United States that Americans can't make it to the border, then the tourist business here could be in trouble, the officials said. Most tourists to Canada are Americans and about 80 percent of them come by car.

Tom Fletcher, assistant deputy minister in the federal tourism office, says the forecast for the 1979 season is generally promising. But the industry may suffer, he says, if Americans succumb to the fear of being stranded short of their destination, and therefore stay home.

For similar reasons, Canadians should be more inclined to vacation at home and Canada's travel deficit with the United States should be smaller than the record $1.7 billion in 1978, he adds.

Fletcher says the American Auto Association is telling Americans that this is the year to visit Canada, especially if they can get to the border on one tank of gas. There is plenty of gasoline and no prospects of shortages and the Canadian dollar is now worth about 86 U.S. cents, meaning almost everything is cheaper.

Much of the U.S. road traffic comes from New York, Ohio and Michigan but the deputy minister admits that it's difficult to predict how travelers from farther away might react.

Fletcher says tourists also are beginning to react to the 15 percent drop in the value of the Canadian dollar.

The low Canadian dollar should encourage more Canadians to vacation at home, while attractive exchange rates draw more tourists from countries such as Japan and West Germany which have strong currencies and find the Canadian dollar a bargain.

The number of Canadians traveling outside Canada increased steadily to 39.6 million in 1977 from 31.5 million in 1974. But a new trend apparently is emerging.

In 1978, Canadian visits to the United States fell to 39.1 million, and during the first four months of 1979, decreased by 5.8 percent from the same period in 1978.

Visits to other foreign countries were down 3.3 percent and visits from overseas countries increased 18.4 percent. The number of Canadians travelling in Canada was up 2 percent.

Hopes for a healthy 1979 season are bolstered by reports from Canadian airlines and bus lines, Fletcher says.

Nicholas Dykstra, director of Eastern Airlines' Canadian operations, says tourist bookings have never been so good, with loads exceeding forecasts.

Plans for more Arizona nuclear plants scrapped

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Arizona Public Service Co., citing opposition by California Gov. Jerry Brown and his regulators to all nuclear power, has scrapped plans to build the fourth and fifth generators at the Palo Verde Nuclear Generating Plant west of Phoenix.

APS President Keith Turley broke the news Monday at a press conference. He called to comment on President Carter's energy speech. But those remarks drew scant attention after his surprise announcement.

He blamed Brown and the state's regulatory commissions for preventing the timely participation of eight California utilities in the project. Another factor, he said, was "regulatory uncertainty" at the federal level.

The California utilities, including giant Southern California Edison, were to get 55 percent of the output of the two huge generators and share that much of the cost. Turley said APS would be unable to carry the cost without their help.

SoCal Edison is a 16 percent partner in Palo Verde Units 1, 2 and 3.

"The key to the timely completion of this $2.8 billion project has been participation of California utilities," said Turley. "It is our view that the California regulatory environment would make it impossible for the California participants to continue with the project."

He described the California utilities and two other participants, El Paso Electric and Nevada Power Co., as "extremely disappointed" by the decision.

"It's a major blow for Arizona Public Service customers and the entire state," said Turley.

To offset part of the generating loss,

Turley said APS will add a 350,000-kilowatt coal-fired unit to its Cholla Plant near Joseph City, making it the largest APS generating plant. Cholla's 350-kw generators compare with 1.3 million for the nuclear-powered units at Palo Verde.

"It means that APS customer will pay about 6 to 7 percent more for their electricity in the early 1990s," said Turley. "We estimate that nuclear generation would save APS consumers $1.3 billion during the first 10 years of operation alone, compared to coal-fired generation."

Turley said APS and former partners in the defunct Kaiparowitz project, a proposed coal-fired plant in southern Utah that would have generated 3 million kilowatts, will push for its revival. It died several years ago under a wave of environmental protests.

Further coal options will be explored, Turley said, but no decisions have been made.

Turley said the decision to abandon the two Palo Verde units has the economic impact of loss of a major industry. Construction of the two units would have required 3,000 skilled workers with a total payroll of $546 million.

Total taxes on the two units, he said, would have been come to $147 million a year, with 89 percent coming from out-of-state participants.

"Their tax contribution would exceed the property taxes levied by all cities in Arizona last year," said Turley.

Southern California Edison Co. President William Gould expressed deep disappointment at APS's announcement.

Tower, Bentsen split on aid, electoral college

HOUSE
SPY BUDGET: The House rejected, 79 for and 321 against, an amendment requiring public disclosure of the total amount spent on foreign intelligence in fiscal 1980. The one-time-only disclosure would have applied to the aggregate budget of the CIA and 10 other U.S. agencies office employees. The bill (HR 927) was sent to the Senate. Although the supervisors are classified as management personnel, organized labor is sympathetic toward the bill.

Members voting "yea" favor granting arbitration rights to postal supervisors.

Hall, Wilson, Roberts, Mattox, Gramm, Archer, Eckhardt, Brooks, Pickle, Hightower, Wyatt, White, Stenholm, Leland, Gonzalez, Kazen and Frost voted "yea."
Collins, Leath, de la Garza, Hance, Loeffler and Paul voted "nay."
Wright did not vote.

Zoo enjoys last laugh

BEDFORDSHIRE, England (AP) — Rajah, a laughing mynah bird, was stolen recently from the local zoo but a few days later flew back.

Zookeeper Pippa Smith said the bird's loud laugh and whistles probably scared the kidnapper, noting "the thief must have either got fed up with him or realized he would be hard to sell."

ROLL CALL REPORT

that spy overseas. It was proposed to HR 3821, an authorization bill later passed and sent to the Senate.

Members voting "yea" favored public disclosure of the total foreign intelligence budget for fiscal 1980.

Reps. Bob Eckhardt, D-8, Mickey Leland, D-18, and Ron Paul, R-22, voted "yea."
Reps. Samuel Hall, D-1, Charles Wilson, D-2, James Collins, R-3, Jim Mattox, D-5, Phil Gramm, D-4, Bill Archer, R-7, Jack Brooks, D-9, Jike Pickle, D-10, J. Marvin Leath, D-11, Jack Hightower, D-13, Joe Wyatt, D-14, Kika de la Garza, D-15, Richard White, D-16, Charles Stenholm, D-17, Kent Hance, D-19, Tom Loeffler, R-21, Abraham Kazen, D-23 and Martin Frost, D-24, voted "nay."
Reps. Ray Roberts, D-4, James Wright, D-12 and Henry Gonzalez, D-20, did not vote.

EDUCATION DEPT.: By a vote of 210 for and 206 against, the House passed a bill (S 210) creating a cabinet-level Department of Education. The new department would absorb the U.S. Office of Education (now in HEW) and other education agencies and programs scattered throughout the government. The bill, weighted down with school-prayer and anti-abortion amendments, now goes to conference with the Senate.

Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex., a supporter, said: "We will have done what we always talk about doing; that is, just to make the federal government a bit more efficient, a bit more responsive."

Rep. L.H. Fountain, D-N.C., an opponent, said: "Enactment of this bill will mean that state and local educators will soon be mere administrative agents of the Washington educational bureaucracy."

Members voting "yea" favored a separate education department.

Wilson, Roberts, Mattox, Gramm, Eckhardt, Brooks, Pickle, Wright, Wyatt, White, Leland, Gonzalez, Kazen and Frost voted "yea."
Hall, Collins, Archer, Leath, Hightower, de la Garza, Stenholm, Hance, Loeffler and Paul voted "nay."

POSTAL SUPERVISORS: The House passed, 306 for and 94 against, a bill giving postal supervisors the right to arbitrate wages, fringes and other job issues with top Postal Service management. There are about 38,000 supervisors among 650,000 post

SENATE

ELECTORAL COLLEGE: By a vote of 51 for and 48 against, the Senate failed to muster the two-thirds majority needed to approve a constitutional amendment abolishing the Electoral College and replacing it with direct, popular election of a president.

The amendment (SJR 28), seeks to remove the possibility of a candidate winning in the Electoral College while losing the popular vote. Its future is now bleak.

Senators voting "yea" favor direct election of the president.
Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D, voted "yea."
Sen. John Tower, R, voted "nay."

NEW AID AGENCY: The Senate refused, 45 for and 51 against, to prevent the creation of a new U.S. foreign aid agency. This and a similar House vote clear the way for the International Development Cooperation Agency (IDCA) to be established under an executive order issued by President Carter. The IDCA will absorb the Agency for International Development (AID), Overseas Private Investment Corporation (OPIC), and most other non-military foreign assistance agencies. No longer the province of the State Department, foreign aid will be administered by an independent agency directly answerable to the White House.

Bentsen voted "nay."

Mineral exports

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Argentina earned $33.7 million from its mineral exports in 1978, an all-time high.

The record, a 63 percent rise over 1977 earnings, was based on exports of 08,141 tons, the mining secretariat says.

Lemon bars a munch treat

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

In recent years lemon bar cookies have become an American favorite. From North to South, East to West, they are baked and served. I've seen recipes for them in regional cookbooks assembled in various parts of the country — and I've had them served to me as a special treat in states as far apart as New York and Louisiana.

NEW LEMON BARS

- 1/2 cup butter
- 1/2 cup granulated sugar
- Grated rind of 1 lemon
- 1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
- 2 large eggs
- 1 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 cup chopped (medium-fine) walnuts

Glaze, recipe follows

Cream butter, granulated sugar and half the lemon rind. Gradually stir in 1 1/4 cups of the flour. Press evenly over bottom of a 13 by 9-inch baking pan. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until golden brown — 15 minutes.

Meanwhile, beat eggs slightly; add brown sugar, remaining lemon rind, 1/4 cup remaining flour and baking powder; beat to blend; stir in walnuts. Spread over hot baked crust. Return to 350-degree oven and bake for 20 minutes longer. Place on wire rack to cool somewhat. While still warm spread with glaze. Cool completely. Cut into 3 dozen bars.

GLAZE

- 1 cup confectioners' sugar
- 1 tablespoon butter, soft
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice

With a spoon, gradually blend a small amount of the sugar into the butter; add lemon juice and remaining sugar; blend until smooth.

Siamese twins taken home

By VERN ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Seven weeks after he sat outside an operating room wondering whether his Siamese twin daughters would survive surgical separation, David Hansen is giving his girls piggyback rides.

Lisa and Elisa, wearing identical pink checkered frocks, made their first public appearance Tuesday.

"I think it was a miracle, definitely so," said Hansen, 23. As he spoke, Elisa sat placidly in his lap sucking her thumb.

"Sometimes I sit back and can't believe it really happened," said his 22-year-old wife, Patricia, who was holding Lisa.

The beaming parents spoke at a news conference at the University of Utah Medical Center, where teams of surgeons separated the twins May 29 in a 16 1/2-hour operation doctors said was the first of its kind to be successful.

The 21-month-old twins were joined at the tops of their heads.

"I think that God played a part in it. I think it was between our doctors and our Heavenly Father," said Mrs. Hansen. The couple are Mormons.

The twins were at their home in Ogden periodically in the months prior to their separation, but Tuesday marked their first trip home since then.

They are nearly able to crawl and surgical team spokesman Dr. Stephen Minton said they should walk soon.

Despite their encouraging progress, Minton said the twins still face "constructive surgery creating a skull. At this time, they don't have a skull."

He said such an operation would be several months away.

Lisa and Elisa wear padded bonnets that contain plastic strips to protect the soft tissue covering their brains. Minton said they did not have to wear the bonnets at night, but added, "They like to play with blocks and hit each other with blocks, so basically we have to protect them from each other."

Minton said that while the twins appear perfectly normal mentally, a definite prognosis may take years. Surgeons had to cut through some brain tissue during surgery.

"Probably one of the most thrilling things for me was to give them a piggyback ride," Hansen said. He said the couple planned to take the twins to a parade next week.

The Hansens, who have had a third daughter since the twins were born, said they plan to have more children.

Woman welder likes metals

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The war that inspired the song "Rosie the Riveter" was over before Lisa Croft was born, but Miss Croft and Rosie have a lot in common. They liked to work with metals.

"When I was little, most girls had dolls," Miss Croft said. "I had locks and hammers and tools."

Miss Croft, who was wearing coveralls, a cap and a few grease smudges on her face, is a 22-year-old welder and riveter, the only woman working alongside four men at Collierville Welding and Supply.

"I do body work, pack wheels, carpentry, a little bit of everything that needs to be done. We have an aluminum welder I'm learning to use. I can use just about any machine in the shop."

A farmer's daughter, Miss Croft said she was offered the welding job recently while she was having some work done on her trailer.

She said she used to help repair the machinery on her father's 500-acre farm. "I learned how to fix it up, tear it up and get it back in running order. I figured if I could do it free at home, I could get paid somewhere else."

Welding takes patience and skill, she said.

"If you rush it, you'll spend all day trying to get it down to look slick. You have to measure, cut at angle it right. There's a fine hairline between two metals. The more space you leave between them, the harder it is to weld, to get the work stationary and do your welding."

Miss Croft said her mother isn't too pleased with her daughter's current vocation, but there may be something in welding's favor.

"Before I did this, I rode bulls in rodeos, so I guess this is an improvement," she said. She also used to be a go-go dancer, but her mother wasn't in favor of that, either.

"She was dead set against me goat tying, but when she found out I was bull riding, she told me to go back to goat tying."

In addition to her welding, Miss Croft shows quarter horses, breeds horses, plays racket ball and raises dalmatians, blue tick hounds and pit bulldogs.

More than anything she likes to be outdoors, but she plans to begin an indoor career in early fall when she enters Methodist Hospital School of Nursing.

Women in work force influential

NEW YORK (AP) — The steadily growing number of wives who work is changing life in America, affecting not just women but also men, the family, and the business world itself, says writer and lecturer Caroline Bird.

Not only are more than half of married women in the work force, but 45 percent of mothers of preschool children are working, "and that's an impressive statistic," adds Miss Bird, whose most recent book, "The Two-Paycheck Marriage," examines its impact on individuals and on society as a whole.

"These young mothers are apt to be college educated, and education is a better predictor of whether a wife will work than the presence of small children," the author explained in an interview.

It isn't that the women's movement has made wives discontented with being home, she says, but rather that the jobs are there — especially jobs in the area of health, education and welfare, which used to be performed by mothers at home and which have gradually become outside jobs.

"Women did at home what's now done by restaurants, hotels, hospitals, social agencies, the garment industry, laundries," Miss Bird enumerates. "The exodus from home to paid employment has been going on for 150 years, and there's no reason why it won't continue to go on."

"Today's volunteer work is always the paid employment of the future," says Miss Bird, who claims the women's movement is the consequence of the increase in the employment of women, not the cause of it.

"Women go to work earlier, stay longer, come back sooner after their children are born. An increasing number of women see the need for the goals of the women's rights movement — equality in the workplace — where they didn't before."

"The women's movement is important only because it articulates what women who now work and expect to work all their lives feel," she says.

Miss Bird, who has written such previous best sellers as "The Invisible Scar" about the Depression and "Born Female," researched her current book for several years, drawing on material that included matching questionnaires filled out by husbands and wives, interviews, and discussions following her college lectures.

Miss Bird considers one of the major benefits of so many wives working is that it gives women options — to work or stay home.

"Sheer quantity makes it impossible for each wife who works to think of herself as an exception," she points out. "She has a practical choice. Some react with a whoop and a holler, think it's grand; some are afraid of choice."

"And it gives the husband and wife the opportunity to switch roles; people can change over the course of their marriage," she says.

Steinem urges stronger feminism

By MEGAN ROSENFELD
The Washington Post
CINCINNATI — Women will not be "taken seriously as a political force" until they agree to transcend political party and national lines, writer Gloria Steinem told a convention of feminist women here this week.

Speaking at the concluding session of the National Women's Political Caucus' three-day meeting, Steinem said she is a feminist "before even I am an American." Without a "sense of bonding," a belief in women's ability to be autonomous, women will never achieve "power in everyday life," she said.

"Every time one person has power over another, that is politics," she said.

Steinem, who was greeted as a glamorous heroine by many of the delegates, urged women political appointees to have feminism as their first loyalty, and to "act as spies in the other camp." Otherwise, she said, "I'm not really sure that it's all that helpful to have the cream of the women's movement taken off and put inside (the system)."

In political terms, she said, women should refuse to support any candidate who isn't totally "right on the issues," such as reproductive freedom, the Equal Rights Amendment, economic parity, child care programs and job training. Furthermore, she said, women should again "march in the streets" to advance the "feminist revolution."

"It's good for the blood circulation," she joked.

"We can't approach our goal in a linear way, which is culturally masculine," she continued. "We have to do a culturally female thing and surround it."

In response to a question at a news conference, she said that President

Carter is "honest but incompetent," but urged women to "stop criticizing people at the top and get out and do something yourself."

The convention, which drew more than 1,000 delegates from 47 states, was primarily aimed at urging feminists to get elected to the 1980 national political conventions. The caucus was founded in 1971 as the bipartisan political arm of the women's movement.

AT WIT'S END

Split Game due in future

There was an ad in an LA paper for "single, attractive, outgoing girls and guys between 18 and 60" to try out as contestants for The Dating Game.

It blew my theory on where they found contestants for game shows. I thought most of them were graduates of the School for the Perpetual Cheerful with special skills in Handling Sexual Imnuendoes and How to Hyperventilate When You Win the Car.

I haven't seen The Dating Game in several years, but occasionally the Newlywed Game will flash before me on the screen. I am amazed that the marriages last to the end of the show. A bride recently was asked to respond, "If your husband was a vegetable on your wedding night, which one would he be?" followed by, "When you make 'whoopie' do you face Australia or the Virgin Islands?"

Another one was asked where her husband would predict she would say the sun set over her bedroom—in the east or west. She said the sun set in the east. Her husband predicted she would say that.

There was a lot of arm-punching, loud arguing and "You never said that!" among the contestants and then it was back to innuendo...double entendres...blank blanks and beep beeps.

It occurs to me there is only one more avenue for game shows to explore. It's only a matter of time before we're introduced to the "We've Split Game."

The show would host people like Cheryl and Don (who lost five valuable points on The Newlywed Game when Cheryl didn't know what Don would say was the most embarrassing thing their dog saw them do in their home) who qualified for the We've Split Game.

Host Chuck Whacko

will put each of them before a buzzer and for five points and a public defender ask Cheryl, "What is the worst meal Don will say you've ever cooked?"

If Cheryl misses and Don guesses it correctly, he'll get custody of the public defender and 15 points.

Then Don will be asked, "How did you react to Cheryl's dating while you were married?" An answer that matches Cheryl's would be good for 15 more points and a non-support clause.

The winner? You guessed it...will qualify for the Dating Game.

Hedgepeth gives view

Don Hedgepeth, in typical Western attire, gave an overview of Western literature for the En Ami Book Review Club.

The luncheon meeting was held at Ranchland Hills Country Club and had as hostesses Mrs. James Trotter, Mrs. Jennie Lee Guthrie, Mrs. J. T. Baker, Mrs. Glen Aaron, Mrs. H. V. Beck and Mrs. George Shettle.

Mrs. Robert A. Hobbs presided and announced plans for the August meeting. Judy McClure will review "A Confederate in East Texas." The Aug. 8 meeting will be held at the Ranchland Hills club.

Couple engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Jack L. Meldrum, Route 3, announce the engagement of their daughter, Vicki Lynn, to James Merritt Finley, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Finley Sr. of Midland.

The ceremony will take place at 3 p.m. Aug. 11 at the Cotton Flat Baptist Church.

The bride-elect, a graduate of Midland High School, attended Sul Ross University. She was a member of Future Farmers of America and the 4-H Club. Her fiancé is a graduate of Lee High School and attended Texas A&M University. He was a member of FFA and 4-H Club. He is employed by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

Change in handwriting characteristics indicates major change in individual

"If your handwriting is just like your Uncle Joe's, it's because you think alike," explained graphoanalyst Dolores Gaines at a meeting of the Permian Basin Geological and Geophysical Auxiliary.

Ms. Gaines, a certified graphoanalyst with the International Grapho Analysis Association, described her specialty as a quicker means of finding out where a person is right now. "It is not occult, doesn't predict the future nor identify illness, said Ms. Gaines, "but instead interprets a person's mental habits as they are projected on paper."

She further explained that grapho analysis is used in the business world, in vocational guidance, marriage counseling, research in pre-delinquency and even can be used to determine if a person is a good credit risk.

"An individual's handwriting characteristics do not change unless that person undergoes a major change of character," said Ms. Gaines. "Even people who have to use their toes or mouth to hold a pencil will project the same mental habits as a similar person writing conventionally," she added.

Co-chairmen for the Thursday meeting were Mrs. J. Stewart Martin and Mrs. William S. Tift.

Hostesses were Mrs. Arthur F. Oestmann, Mrs. Henry Libby, Mrs. Thomas Kiepler and Mrs. Gary DeKoning. The membership prize was won by Mrs. Gerald K. Anderson.

Women interesting in information about joining the auxiliary may call Mrs. Will Green at 697-4203.

Special mortgage not mandatory

By ANDY LANG
 AP Newsfeatures

Q.—I went to our local savings and loan association the other day to inquire about the new variable rate mortgages but was told it hadn't decided yet whether it would deal in them. It is a federally chartered association, so I cannot understand why it does not have to handle such mortgages. I thought it was a federal law starting July 1st of this year. Am I wrong?

A.—First, because some readers may not be familiar with that type of mortgage, it is the kind in which the interest rates move up and down in line with a national index of costs. You are wrong in one respect, correct in another. The federal law did go into effect July 1st, but it is not compulsory. It permits the associations to offer the special mortgages, but does not force them to do so. Incidentally, in California and a few other states, variable rate mortgages have been offered for some. In the case of your local organization, the chances are that it wants to wait to see how hot the water is. If it develops that competitive associations are doing well with the new mortgages, it undoubtedly will enter the market.

DEAR ABBY

Her old habits die hard

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I note that you frequently advise readers with legal problems to "consult a lawyer, and pay him for what he knows."

That's excellent advice. But today, when approximately 25 percent of the graduating classes of most law schools are women, your readers could wind up paying a lawyer for what SHE knows. And it would still be a good investment.—MS. PERLMAN, ST. PAUL, MINN.

DEAR MS.: Thanks for keeping me on my toes. Mandy Stellman, a lady lawyer and vocal feminist in Milwaukee, has been chastising me for years for referring to lawyers as "him." Sorry.

Old habits die hard. But I'm learning.

DEAR ABBY: A reader asked why so many children from "better" homes who have never known poverty or deprivation have turned to crime and violence.

By way of explanation, you quoted PARENTS magazine: "A peek inside the middle-class home will reveal a child lives with two adults—but has no real parents."

As a veterinarian, I have noted a similarity between the behavior of pet dogs left unattended all day long while the family is at work or at school, and the behavior of children who also, unfortunately, receive little attention or love because so-called parents are too preoccupied to spend time with their children.

Dogs become destructive and chew furniture, shoes, pillows and the like in an effort to get attention. You will find that children also become destructive, vandalizing property and injuring people in an effort to secure the attention that they, as individuals, desire and need. Thirty years of teaching experience has taught me that the child without love in the home is the problem individual in the classroom and on the street.—DAVID C. TUDOR, V.M.D.

DEAR DR. TUDOR: Well said.

DEAR ABBY: Now that vacation time is here, I have a word for those who take pictures and show them around:

Please, do not feel that you have to identify every person in every picture. For example:

"See the man on the right—the one with the red jacket? Well, his name is John Smith. He lives in Ferndale. His wife, Stella, is the one standing next to the woman in green who's holding the poodle whose name is Fifi who used to belong to the couple on the left who live in Podunk. Now the ones in the middle are Betty and Harry."

Who cares? I don't.—ABC IN PORTOLO VALLEY

DEAR ABC: You have a lot of company. And while we're on the subject of vacation pictures, readers, please be considerate and limit your show-and-tell snapshots only to those that came out well, and, have a heart, not more than half a dozen!

CONFIDENTIAL TO "MR. Z IN LAGUNA:" One of the greatest virtues is "forgiveness." Best described: Forgiveness is the fragrance of a violet on the heel of the one who crushed it.

Are you the lonely face in the crowd? Friends make you a winner, and Abby tells you how to win them in her booklet, "How To Be Popular: You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (28 cents) envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Women told to guard their political power

CINCINNATI (AP) — The National Women's Political Caucus is trying to become more sophisticated politically, but two leading feminists closed the group's convention by urging a re-examination of the traditional ways of achieving its goals.

Both Gloria Steinem and Bella Abzug, who helped found the organization in 1971, on Sunday told women they must guard their political power.

Ms. Steinem said women could exert economic and personal pressure to gain passage of issues. She also called for women to abandon traditional party labels when necessary.

"I suggest until we get together as women, instead of as Republicans or Democrats, they are not going to take us seriously," Ms. Steinem said.

Ms. Abzug urged the caucus to consider gathering blocs of committed independent votes that could be used to influence party platforms and candidates.

The former New York congresswoman also said that the idea of a "favorite daughter" candidacy might be effective in some cases.

"We've been too trusting in giving our numbers to others for help and they have done nothing for us," said Ms. Abzug.

The caucus, considered the political arm of the women's movement, should also be more self-critical of its methods, both women agreed.

The 2,000 delegates who attended the four-day convention focused much of their attention on gaining delegates to next year's Republican and Democratic national conventions and on running in local political and judicial elections.

Cheerleaders now world famous

DALLAS (AP) — Once upon a time, the only place you saw the Dallas Cowboy cheerleaders was on the sidelines, where they pranced to the music of the day and mouthed an occasional yell to justify their title.

Television cameramen and directors were fond of "cutting away" to the cheerleaders to give viewers something to look at while the action on the field was at a halt.

Some of the cheerleaders posed for a poster, which sold well.

Television executives at ABC liked the way the girls looked on the tube, so they made a television movie featuring them. Viewers liked it a lot.

ABC liked the ratings enough to ask the cheerleaders to do a sequel.

Now CBS-TV has entered the picture.

Several members of the cheerleading squad leave today for the West Coast to tape a segment of that network's "Celebrity Challenge."

The eight cheerleaders appearing in "Celebrity Challenge" will jog through an obstacle course in a program to be broadcast in November.

"They wanted us to compete in several other events, but we just didn't have the time," said

Suzanne Mitchell, the group's leader and director.

Back at ABC, it's possible that the girls will take a voyage on the "Love Boat." Ms. Mitchell says there's a "good chance" that a segment of that show might be taped next month.

If television doesn't tempt you and you're not in the market for a poster, then how about a nice yearbook? The cheerleaders are in the process of putting together 64 pages of color photographs, expected to go on sale in September.

It doesn't end when a girl's career with the official Dallas Cowboy Cheerleaders is over.

A group of ex-cheerleaders known as the Texas Cowgirls is doing pretty well, too, even though their spicy version of a poster was kayoed by Ms. Mitchell and the Cowboys organization.

The Cowgirls have sent a six-member squad to Japan, where they appeared on behalf of Mitsubishi Corp.'s automobiles in a month-long series of appearances.

Other Cowgirls are playing Las Vegas showrooms, and another squad will play the cheerleaders in the movie "North Dallas Forty," which is being filmed in Houston.

WICHITA FALLS (AP) — While Texas grain dealer Robert Johnson prepares to return to Fort Worth for arraignment on fraud charges, his traveling companion is free on bond in his home town here.

Johnson will be returned to Texas from Pocatello, Idaho, Thursday and is scheduled for arraignment on a 17-count federal indictment before U.S. District Judge Eldon Mahon Friday.

Johnson is charged with swindling Texas and Oklahoma farmers of $2 million worth of wheat. He disappeared 2½ years ago and had eluded an extensive federal search for him until last weekend, when he was arrested in Rexburg, Idaho.

His companion, Irene Mary Olson, 40, surrendered to federal authorities here Tuesday. She was arraigned before U.S. Magistrate Gene Richey on charges of harboring a federal fugitive. Richey denied a prosecutor's motion that bond be set at $50,000 and Mrs.

Olson was freed Tuesday on $7,500 bond.

The 40-year-old woman appeared at the arraignment with her 11-year-old son, Nathan, and two Wichita Falls attorneys. The charge against her was filed in Yakima, Wash., shortly after she and Johnson were spotted there by federal authorities about a year ago, the FBI said. They eluded capture at that time.

Bannock County, Idaho, authorities said Texas officers will fly Johnson, 43, to Texas Thursday for arraignment on 13 counts of interstate transportation of stolen property and four counts of aiding and abetting interstate transportation of stolen goods.

Johnson was arrested for running a stop sign in Idaho. An officer checking his identity discovered Johnson was wanted on the federal charges. The former Iowa Park grain dealer said Monday he would waive extradition and return to Texas to face charges.

U.S. District Judge Marion Callister has set bond at $1 million.

Mrs. Olson, who said she was an orphan originally from Minneapolis, said she had worked as a waitress until Johnson's arrest. Although she was present at their home in Rexburg at the time of the arrest, Idaho authorities apparently did not know of the warrant out for her capture. When they returned to the home, she had disappeared.

Although she was using her real name at the time of the arrest, FBI officials said she also had used the alias Marcie Caulder.

She listed Johnson's parent's Iowa Park home as her local address, but could not be reached for comment late Tuesday.

Oil man to pay for grid tickets

OCONTO, Wis. (AP) — A Milwaukee businessman who "didn't want the kids to be disappointed" will donate $27,500 so 1,700 low-income children can see a Green Bay Packers football game.

A plan to finance the trip with federal money was rejected in June.

Joseph Uihlein Jr., 71, president of Tamarack Petroleum Co., decided to make the donation after reading that the project was turned down as a poor use of federal funds, said Alva Nutt, executive director of the Northeast Wisconsin Community Action Project, which had asked for the grant.

"He loves children and he loves sports," said an aide to Uihlein, who was unavailable for comment. "It was something that caught his eye in the newspaper when it was turned down. He thought it would be a worthwhile thing to do in northeastern Wisconsin. He didn't want the kids to be disappointed."

Nutt said Tuesday 1,700 tickets have been reserved for the Aug. 18 Packer exhibition game against the Buffalo Bills at Green Bay. Civic organizations, park and recreation directors and agencies that work with children in 10 northeastern Wisconsin counties are being contacted about the project, he said.

Texas man confesses

IRKWOOD, Mo. (AP) — A McAllen, Texas man has told authorities he kidnapped, robbed and killed a fellow employee near Wichita, Kan., last week, St. Louis County police detectives said Tuesday.

Emilio S. Salas, 42, told authorities he kidnapped co-worker William George, 55, from a Wichita motel where the two men were staying, robbed him of several thousand dollars and then shot and killed him, police said.

Salas is hospitalized here after being accidentally shot by his father-in-law Saturday during a family quarrel in St. Louis.

Salas said he dumped George's body "about an hour's ride from Wichita on the way to St. Louis," said police Lt. Richard O'Connor, head of the St. Louis County Crimes Against Persons Bureau.

Save at First Savings... and you'll make a friend of time.

Why fight time? Let it work for you with a savings account at First Savings and Loan Association of Midland. Instead of each month becoming a series of dates when bills are due, pay yourself too, and then let time go to work. With one of our many savings plans and by saving regularly, time can become your financial ally.

Our dividends are paid quarterly, and the interest is compounded daily which gives you an accurate record of what time is doing to improve your financial future.

Stop by either of First Savings locations — downtown at 500 West Wall or in San Miguel Square — today. Remember, there is no time like the present to start building for the uncertain future.

HERE'S AN EXAMPLE OF WHAT DAILY COMPOUNDING CAN DO FOR YOU:

In some regular passbook accounts that pay 5-1/4% yearly interest and are not compounded daily, the yearly dividend paid to a $5000 passbook account would be approximately $262.00. However, with a First Savings Passbook Account that pays 5-1/4% annual interest with daily compounding, the yearly dividend on a $5000 passbook account would be $270.00. There is a difference when you save at FIRST SAVINGS. It pays to let the "Fitness People" show you how to make time a friend.

MARC presents swim awardd

Some 26 persons who successfully completed the 1979 learn-to-swim program were presented awards Tuesday night at the Midland Association for Retarded Citizens July picnic.

Wade H. Whiteley, swim program leader since its inception 20 years ago, conducted the training sessions with the help of 25 other volunteers so the instruction could be done on a one-to-one basis. Standard Red Cross skill tests were given at the completion of the summer's instruction, with certificates of proficiency presented for each completed level.

Those who received the learn-to-swim certificates included Arlis Komyathy, Bob Levisay, Eric McHam and Sherri Gilly for beginner skills. Mike Rodriguez received an advanced beginner certificate, and Nancy Vlnklarek and Mike Fisher received intermediate skills awards. Kathy Kirkpatrick and Bonita Barber were honored for successfully completing the intermediate, swimmer and advanced swimmer levels in the program.

Instructors in the program included Whiteley, Jacquelyn Gregory, Troy Bush, Emory Parrott, Sara Synatsch, Aaron Purcell, Ricky Sikes, Gary Price, Athena Deande, Carrick Eggleston, Eric Eggleston, Susie Kirkpatrick, Janet Kirkpatrick, Robert Volkmann, Ross Bush, Barbara Fisher, Sonya Schol, June Davis, Susie Alexander, Palmer Sikes, Amber Price, Mike Hudson, Mary Hellinghausen, Jerrienne Young, Douglas Neese and Edna Hibbitts.

For further information about all MARC services and programs, interested persons may call 682-9771 or go by the new MARC offices at 2701 N. A St.

City's sales tax rebates increase

AUSTIN — City sales tax rebates to the city of Midland are up 12 percent for the year already, according to State Comptroller Bob Bullock's office.

Figures released last week show Midland will receive $204,504.32 for July compared with $154,771.82 received for the same time last year.

That will bring the year's total to $2,026,674.51, up 12 percent over last year's $1,805,475.89.

The city of Odessa is slated to receive $306,460.11 for July compared to $249,314.92 in July 1978. This should up the city's total rebates to $2,813,815.38 for the year, up only 5 percent over last year's $2,658,368.69.

The optional 1 percent city sales tax is collected along with state sales taxes by merchants and other permit holders. The taxes are rebated monthly by the comptroller's office.

Rebates to Texas cities so far this year are running about 10 percent ahead of payments for the same period last year, Bullock said.

Alien information sought by agencies

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Federal, state and local agencies have been contacted to compile an inventory of organizations interested in research on undocumented aliens, a research assistant for the Texas Advisory Commission on Inter-governmental Relations says.

Jorge Anchondo said he has discussed project ideas with staff members of the Texas Good Neighbor Commission, University of Texas professor Dr. Stanley Ross, coordinator of the Border Research Program, and various federal agencies.

According to the progress reports presented to the commission at its most recent meeting, the commission directed the staff "to identify research work that is currently being done by other groups on undocumented aliens."

SHEINWOLD ON BRIDGE

Third-Class Contract

By Alfred Sheinwold

Even a first-class player gets into an occasional third-class contract. It happened to Toronto expert Karen Allison in the recent Canadian National Tournament when she and her partner somehow forgot about spades.

West led a low club at the second trick and Allison ruffed. Her king of spades forced out the ace, and East returned a spade to dummy's queen. Guarding against a really horrible trump break, Allison now ruffed another club, cashed the top hearts and ruffed a heart in dummy.

LAST CLUB

When declarer led dummy's last club East was reduced to his five trumps. He put in the ten of diamonds, and South discarded a spade. East led a low diamond, and South won a finesse with the nine.

When declarer now led her last spade, East had to ruff and return a diamond, allowing declarer to finesse with the queen and make her contract.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, you respond one spade, and he bids two no-trump. The opponents pass. You hold: ♠ Q 6 4 2 ♥ A 7 ♦ 8 4 3 ♣ J 7 6 2. What do you say?

promises 19 or 20 points since he would open with one no-trump if he had only 16 to 18 points. The partnership total should be 26 or 27 points, and he should have a reasonable play for game.

Heartache marks astronaut's re-entry into life

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) — Buzz Aldrin's return from the moon was no soft landing.

Like some modern-day Icarus, Aldrin's "wings" of self-confidence, pride and ambition melted in the blaze of worldwide publicity.

Mental depression, alcoholism, two divorces, a lot of heartache — those were his burdens in 10 years of personal hell.

Edwin E. Aldrin, who says he once felt he was a near perfect creature who could do no wrong, now is bouncing back.

At age 49, he is making a drastic change in his life — a switch from the science and technology he knows so well to dealing directly with people. He says the change is essential if he is to whip his last remaining adversary: alcoholism.

"I have to look at that bottle and say, 'Hey, that's my problem,'" he said. "If I don't mess around with that, I'm going to be OK."

Right now, he's very OK and studying to become a consultant on alcoholism.

He started with classes in June at the University of Utah's School on Alcoholism and Other Drug Dependencies, then came here to Rutgers University for a summer school course at the Center for Alcohol Studies.

The former astronaut was among several prominent Americans who gathered in Washington in 1976 to reveal themselves as recovering alcoholics.

Today, following several relapses he considers beneficial in helping him work with other alcoholics, he says he is "more comfortable now than I've ever been in my life."

Aldrin's troubles began when he and Neil Armstrong made man's first landing on the moon — July 20, 1969. Neither man liked the glare of publicity. But they were heroes and had to endure a madcap year of around-the-world appearances.

"That eventually took its toll emotionally," Aldrin said. "Many people thought my depression was brought on by the intensive training and carrying out the flight itself. But that was not it."

"It was being thrust into the uncomfortable area of public relations followed by a period of wondering where you fit in after being an astronaut on the moon." An Air Force colonel, he decided to resume his career and requested duty as commandant of cadets at the Air Force Academy in Colorado.

But he said the Air Force chief of staff, Gen. John Ryan, "thought I should go into an operational unit and get back into competing with my contemporaries."

In 1971, Aldrin was named commander of the Aerospace Research Pilots School at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif. — "a school I didn't know anything about." And, he said, his previous military training had not prepared him to be a leader.

Eight months later, he checked into a military hospital in San Antonio, Texas.

"I was on my way to having a good old American nervous breakdown," Aldrin said. "I realized it and asked for help."

While hospitalized, he took time to "look inside."

"There were things I couldn't come to grips with, and that was a first in my life," Aldrin recalled. "I'm no longer a he-man; I'm no longer a superhuman. I'm no longer flawless, perfect. And then I came to the realization that this is not something I want to cover up. I wanted to talk about it."

He wrote a book about his experiences. He became a spokesman for the National Association for Mental Health, lecturing in an attempt to erase the stigma attached to mental illness.

But it wasn't until 1975 that he realized he was an alcoholic.

Looking back now, he says he realizes that alcoholism had been creeping into his life for some time.

"A lot of my behavior shortly after the moon flight showed the very early signs of progression to alcoholism," Aldrin said. "I was soothing the uneasiness of the situation with alcohol."

"Nobody falls just pell-mell into alcoholism," he added, recalling that his mother was an alcoholic and his father drank to excess.

Aldrin retired from the Air Force and became an aerospace consultant. Under treatment, he overcame his depression, but alcoholism was taking hold.

"The person who is suffering from a degree of mental illness is usually aware that something is not quite right," Aldrin said. "But the alcoholic is usually the last one to come to the understanding and realization that, yeah, you got it. All those around him know it. But he's the last one."

vorced again.

"The space program is kindergarten in comparison with the culminating effects of alcoholism," Aldrin said.

Three months ago, he said, he made the decision that he feels will change his life and give him the happiness he's sought for a decade.

"It involves switching from dealing in technical areas to areas where I'll be relating to people and trying to help them because I have gone through — and am working my way into — being comfortable in many areas that may be bothering them now," he said.

Aldrin wants to specialize as an alcoholism consultant in occupational assistance programs, working on the existing problem in industry.

Mormon Tabernacle Choir recalls first broadcast

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Fifty years ago, before Americans ever heard of the Lone Ranger, or listened to the radio crooning of Rudy Vallee and Bing Crosby, 380 voices rang out through the airwaves, singing "The Morning Breaks."

Today, the Mormon Tabernacle Choir is still singing on what has become the nation's longest running network radio show.

None of those who sang in the first broadcast on July 15, 1929, are still members, but 24 are still living and four recalled in interviews that Monday afternoon.

Ted Kimball climbed a 15-foot ladder in the egg-shaped Tabernacle so he could reach the microphone, suspended from a wire, to introduce the first song to 30 NBC-affiliated radio stations around the country.

Kimball remained standing on the ladder during the 30-minute live performance as his father, Edward P. Kimball, an organist with the choir, cautioned him, "Don't fall."

Worried about acoustics — a little-understood science back then — radio station KSL hung a huge, red, velvet curtain behind the choir and covered the first 10 rows of the cavernous Tabernacle with old carpeting to eliminate echoes.

With only one microphone, many were worried that some sections of the choir would be heard and others wouldn't.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Cheryl Ladd has won a court order barring the star of an X-rated film from being billed as her look-alike.

Superior Court Judge Campbell Lucas granted the preliminary injunction Monday after Miss Ladd's attorney, Jerry Selna, said that the "Cheryl Ladd look-alike" advertisements for "Taxi Girls" were made without his client's permission and "put her in a false light."

"Cheryl Ladd has never appeared in an X-rated movie and has never appeared in the nude," Selna said, adding that the star of television's "Charlie's Angels" objected to the ads "on a very personal level as a family woman and the mother of a 4-year-old daughter."

He said posters advertising the film actually bore paintings of Miss Ladd's face rather than the face of Nancy Suter, the actress featured in the film.

However defense attorney Joseph Rhine said his clients — Jacob Jacqovi, Jacqovi Productions and Superfilm Ltd. — did not intend to deceive anyone.

"It's the intimidation of the big name over the smaller person," Rhine said of the judge's ruling.

Junior Rodeo Association offers western fun starting tonight

Four days of old-west rough-and-tumble fun are in store for the Permian Basin this week.

A special American Junior Rodeo Association and local rodeo will begin at 7:30 p.m. tonight through Saturday at the Thorp Rodeo Arena on FM 868, a mile west of Holiday Hill Road.

Youngsters 12 and under are invited to participate in a calf scramble to be held every night of the rodeo, and free children's tickets are available at the First National Bank in Midland.

A bull riding competition will pit personnel from radio stations KMND and KYXX. A calf-dressing event will see intrepid contestants from The Midland Reporter-Telegram, KMND and KYXX trying to put pants on a young bovine.

The arena's pavillion will be the site for a rodeo dance every night from 9:30 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. "Showdown" will provide live music for the dances.

More information about the rodeo and other events planned may be obtained by calling Joe Thorp at 694-0813.

CBS to try to improve West Coast newscast

LOS ANGELES (AP) — CBS will go west next month in an effort to shore up the Pacific time zone broadcast of its evening news program, network officials say.

Although the "CBS News With Walter Cronkite" will continue to be seen by viewers on the West Coast, portions of Cronkite's program that deal with breaking news will be deleted and replaced with late reports from the Los Angeles bureau.

As the first network to split its newscasts between the coasts, CBS will inaugurate its West Coast edition with correspondent Terry Drinkwater as an anchorman on Aug. 27, said CBS News president Bill Leonard.

CBS News broke ground in 1963 by expanding the evening news to a half-hour, with Cronkite as an anchorman.

compulsive eating causes are complex

Dear Dr. Solomon: When things go wrong or I'm worried about some problem, I find myself eating uncontrollably. Instead of losing weight when I'm troubled, I find myself putting it on. Is this an unusual reaction?—Ms. L.N.

Dear Ms. N.: The reasons people eat more than they need—or, for that matter, why they indulge to excess in any activity—are complex. Except in the five percent of people whose obesity is the result of some glandular disorder, the role of emotional and psychological factors should not be overlooked.

For some people, eating may compensate for insecurity, anxiety, or loneliness; in others, it is a reaction to emotionally charged experiences such as illness or the death of a close friend or relative. The gratification of either conscious or unconscious emotional needs is at the bottom of the problem, and overeating serves as a balancing factor in making an adjustment to life.

Dear Dr. Solomon: My doctor has told me to go easy on salt because I have high blood pressure. What does salt contain that is harmful?—George.

Dear George: Ordinary table salt is a compound composed of two elements to form sodium chloride; it is the sodium that has to be restricted in patients with high blood pressure, kidney disease, cirrhosis of the liver and congestive heart disease. By reducing your intake, you decrease the amount of excess water retained in your body.

The sodium in our bodies is found primarily in blood plasma and in the fluids outside the body cells. It helps regulate the water balance both within the cells and outside them. Foods rich in sodium include meat, fish, poultry, eggs and milk. Salt or sodium compounds often are added to processed foods such as ham, bacon, bread and crackers. The addition of salt to foods at the table frequently provides much more sodium than is desirable. You should check with

Quad Squad effective parking law enforcers

CAPITOLA, Calif. (AP) — Drivers in this tiny beach town near Santa Cruz seldom fight back when their cars are ticketed by members of "The Capitola Electric Cavalry."

"It's hard work to quarrel with a man in a wheelchair," said Police Chief Bob Allen.

Allen says the hiring of six disabled men — paraplegics, quadriplegics and an amputee — who patrol their beats in wheelchairs has "effectively taken the sting out of getting a parking ticket."

Wearing red windbreakers and carrying two-way radios, the six roll about town in electric and manually operated wheelchairs. They give tickets or man strategic corners to give visitors directions.

Residents of the beach community of 9,500, which attracts an equal number of visitors daily during the summer and on holidays, have affectionately dubbed the group the "Quad Squad."

One member — a victim of polio in his youth who admits he once "chewed out" a meter maid — said he is "surprised how friendly everyone is."

"I've never seen anyone even come close to giving me a hard time," said Gary Klein.

Allen founded the group two weeks ago after deciding that a single full-time salary for a "code enforcement" employee could be better used as pay for several part-time people during the summer season.

"We put the word out to different agencies that we'd consider the disabled for code enforcement and we got applications from everywhere," said Sgt. Joe Granata, the squad's supervisor.

Each man works 15 to 20 hours per week, with heavier patrols on weekends. They earn $5 an hour.

"At first, people ignored them," Granata said, "and some people still react in disbelief."

Generally, however, the response has been so favorable the city is considering beefing up the squad with "code enforcement" insignia and whip-antenna flags to make the members more visible.

Allen also said the police department and the city are considering keeping the squad on year-round.

Gas company wants ratepayers to pay for ads and contributions

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A utility analyst lawyer and a Plainview city councilman claim Pioneer Natural Gas Co. wants to foster a good corporate image at the ratepayers' expense.

Jack Hopper of Electric Consumers of Texas, Inc., accused the Amarillo company Tuesday of using corporate pressure to gain support for its proposal to make customers pay for gas utilities' advertising and charitable donations. "Believe me, there's been coercion to smoke people out to get them down here today," Hopper said at a Railroad Commission hearing.

Pioneer's proposed rule would allow gas utilities to charge up to 0.5 percent of their gross receipts for advertising and contributions.

"Advertising by utilities is not a four-letter word," said Tom Stephens, Pioneer spokesman.

Support for Pioneer's proposal came from hospitals such as Scott and White of Temple; charitable organizations such as United Way; chambers of commerce; private colleges such as Texas Christian and Abilene Christian universities; Entex, Inc.; Plano YMCA; Southern Union Gas Co.; and the Texas Association of Broadcasters.

Paul Plunket III of Houston, representing Entex, said the rule would add only one-half cent a day to the average customer's monthly bill.

He noted the Public Utility Commission allows electric utilities to pass on 0.3 percent of its gross receipts for advertising and donations, which gives them an advantage.

"If we have a story to tell, we need to be able to tell that story on the same basis as electric companies," Plunket said.

"The Railroad Commission should not be influenced by an error committed by the Public Utility Commission," said Plainview Councilman Tom Almon.

He presented a council resolution opposing the proposed rule.

"There's no room to ape an unpalatable and unpopular rule of the Public Utility Commission," said Hopper.

"We're opposed to any limitation on advertising," said Rush Evans of KTBC-TV, Austin, a spokesman for broadcasters.

"The public has a right to know what's happening in the utility field."

Stephen Gardner, representing ACORN — Association of Community Organizations for Reform Now — said shareholders, not ratepayers, should bear the cost of advertising and contributions because such expenditures benefit the company.

With natural gas supplies dwindling, he said, "it is a mistake to allow a company to promote the use of gas."

Hopper's statement about company pressure referred to a letter from Pioneer President K. Bert Watson to those who had received company contributions. The letter asked for support of its proposed rule and stated, "Should the existing policy be followed, a very strict review of the existing levels of contributions is likely."

"It is ... reprehensible for Pioneer to make such a threat," Hopper said.

"We all feel very warm about this rule," said R.L. Rummel of Austin, a spokesman for Texas United Community Services, Inc.

Frank Basham of Hillsboro, a witness for Electric Consumers, said, "What an outrageous proposal to make at this time, when gas rates have tripled during the last five years and will probably triple again during the next five years."

"Why shouldn't the stockholders who have gotten rich on gas utility stocks pay for any advertising or contributions if they want their management to spend the money?"

Ammonia routs 300

EASTON, Md. (AP) — Some 200 to 300 people were evacuated from their homes for a short time early today when a cloud of ammonia formed over a leaking storage tank near Easton, authorities said.

A valve on one of the storage tanks, owned by Kerr-McGee Corp. and leased to a local distributor, "apparently was open or broken," said Alan Smith, a dispatcher for the Talbot County Fire Control Board.

The cloud was spotted shortly before 1 a.m. by a passerby, who alerted police.

Most buildings set thermostats at 78 degrees

By the Associated Press

Some Texas building managers are changing their cooling systems rather than be held liable for tenants' violations of the federal mandate.

Most public buildings surveyed Tuesday were following President Carter's order that thermostats be set at 78 — to a degree.

The First International Building, one of Dallas' newer skyscrapers, has two thermostat systems — one for the interior of the building and one for the perimeter. While the first can be altered only with a key, "a bunch" of tenants have figured out how to lower temperatures in the latter system, said manager Henry B. Dirks III.

"If they change it, that's their violation," he said.

But Bill Nickolas, director of governmental affairs in the Dallas Energy Department office, said he interprets the regulations to mean building owners are ultimately responsible for violations, since they are responsible for certifying that the building is in compliance with the regulations.

The Sheraton-Dallas Hotel is starting to computerize temperature controls and is placing plastic guards over all thermostats in public areas, said Energy Manager Jim Taylor. Now, each thermostat can be raised or lowered by anyone who walks by. Two thermostats in a lobby of the hotel were set at 68 and 70 degrees Tuesday.

Next door at the Southland Life Building, the management was preparing letters alerting tenants to the new regulation and the maximum $10,000 fine for violators.

Since each office has its own thermostat, the building's management will have to rely on the honor system for compliance.

At Midland's Oil and Gas Building, manager Bobby Virgin said plastic guards may have to be placed on thermostats there because "we have them in our hallways and anyone can change them."

"We have people who are willing to cooperate and some who are uncooperative," she said.

The University of Texas at Austin will have to change the cooling system in 75 to 80 buildings, said W.A. Worsham, air conditioning and refrigeration engineer with the UT utilities department. Thermostats are individually controlled in newer buildings, he said.

While most Houston buildings said they are complying with the order, Harris County government buildings are set at 76 degrees.

Assistant County Attorney Anthony Sheppard said the county qualifies for exemptions and if the federal government orders it to go to 78 degrees, the county may take the matter to court.

Thermostats in city buildings and public schools are set at 78 degrees, but the city also is seeking an exemption.

Temperatures in Foley's department stores are still at 76, said vice president A.J. Gallarano. "Changing temperature settings isn't a simple matter of flipping a switch like it is at home, (so) we'll be coming into compliance sometime between now and the end of those 30 days," he said.

Gold price tops $300

LONDON (AP) — The price of gold topped $300 an ounce for the first time in history today amid uncertainty in the world's financial markets that President Carter will be able to implement his energy policies.

The dollar dropped again. The decline on European markets was attributed in part to the news that Carter was preparing to shake up his Cabinet and top White House staff.

"It looks like they're deserting a sinking ship," said one London foreign exchange dealer commenting on the report that all Carter's official family had submitted their resignations. Apparently he did not realize that the resignations were submitted because Carter asked for them.
