Thunderstorms dump torrents of rain on Basin

Thunderstorms roaming the Permian Basin Wednesday night and today unleashed torrents of rainfall on area communities.

Lamesa, where as much as seven to eight inches of rain caused house flooding and street closings, seemed hardest hit, according to reports.

Shortly before noon today, torna-does reportedly were sighted in the vicinity of Goldsmith, about 20 miles northwest of Odessa, and "at the edge of the caprock."

The National Weather Service office at Midland Regional Airport said the two funnels apparently were not the same.

One tornado reportedly was sighted six to 10 miles north of Goldsmith, moving to the northeast. The second was sighted west of Goldsmith, moving to the northeast, reports indicat-

Shortly after noon today, another funnel-shaped cloud reportedly was sighted in Odessa near Ector County Coliseum, but the sighting had not been confirmed by officials.

Sightings of the funnels prompted the National Weather Service to issue a tornado warning for Ector, Martin, Andrews and Midland counties. Parts of Midland had received as much as 1.79 inches of rain by late this morning and the rain continued at noon. Besides Lamesa, Big Spring and Andrews also were hard hit by torrential downpours this morning.

Lamesa Police Department officials said today that every highway leading north from that city was closed with the exception of Texas 137 to Brownfield. High water flooded numerous, La-/

it still was raining hard in Lamesa at noon today.

According to officials, at one point on U.S. Highway 87 about four miles north of Lamesa only the tops of some cars showed above the water.

A spokesman for the Lamesa Police Department said it rained nard all Wednesday night, with heaviest rains to the north of the city.

Elsewhere, varying amounts of fain fell throughout the area, ranging from little more than a drizzle to several inches.

At Big Spring, a downpour about 7 a.m. today reportedly resulted in high water on the service roads of Interstate 20 and in dips on Texas 350 to Snyder.

According to the Big Spring Police Department, lightning struck a tank battery south of the city Wednesday afternoon, causing a fire. No injuries resulted, the spokesman said.

Two Midland men, ages 17 and 20, have been arrested by Midland County Sheriff's Department deputies in the shooting death of U.S. Army Sgt.

J.B. England east of Midland about 4 a.m. Wednesday.

Continuing to act on information that led to the arrest of a man near Monahans Wednesday morning, deputies arrested a second man in Midland about 12:37 a.m. today, said Lt. John Kleinhans of the sheriff's of-

The 17-year-old man taken into custody this morning, Kelly Joe Chamblis, originally was sought as a material witness in the shooting of the 39-year-old Army sergeant, said Kleinhans.

Chamblis was charged with murder before Peace Justice Robert Pine. Bond was set at $150,000

About 10:30 a.m. Wednesday, officers from Ward County Sheriff's Department, Monahans Police Department and an officer from the Department of Public Safety assisted by two Midland County Sheriff's deputies apprehended the first Midland man, Raymond Wesley Mathis, 20, to be arrested in connection with the shoot-

A phone call from a Midlander early Wednesday gave deputies a starting place in the investigation of England's death, Chief Deputy George Thompson said Wednesday.

The phone call came about 8:30 a.m. and the caller asked to talk to Sheriff Dallas Smith, Thompson

After talking with a number of witnesses following the phone call, the sheriff's office Wednesday issued a bulletin to other law enforcement agencies in an attempt to locate a particular car, Thompson explained.

The car was seen in Monahans about 9 a.m. and Lt. Kleinhans and Sgt. Pat Fuller were dispatched to the scene, Thompson said.

Mathis was arrested at a roadblock west of Monahans about 11/2 hours after the car first was seen. Some evidence was recovered from the car Mathis was driving, Thompson said today.

Sgt. England, recently returned from duty in Korea, was shot at least twice in the head Wednesday morning about 10 miles east of Midland on Interstate 20, officials said.

England apparently was driving to Fort Bliss in El Paso from Marion, N.C., where he had been visiting his brother and sister, officials said.

The van he was driving — uniforms hung neatly in the back — had 6,087 miles recorded on its odometer.

Responding to a call from the DPS, Midland County Sheriff's deputies Jim Phipps and Benny Fishbeck arrived at the site of the shooting east of Midland and found England sitting against his van, which was parked on the side of the road, officials said.

The driver's side window of the van had been shattered by some kind of projectile, possibly a bullet, they

England still was alive when the two deputies arrived and he indicated to them he had been shot about 20 minutes earlier, officials said.

The wounded man was transferred to Midland Memorial Hospital, where he died about 6 a.m. Wednesday

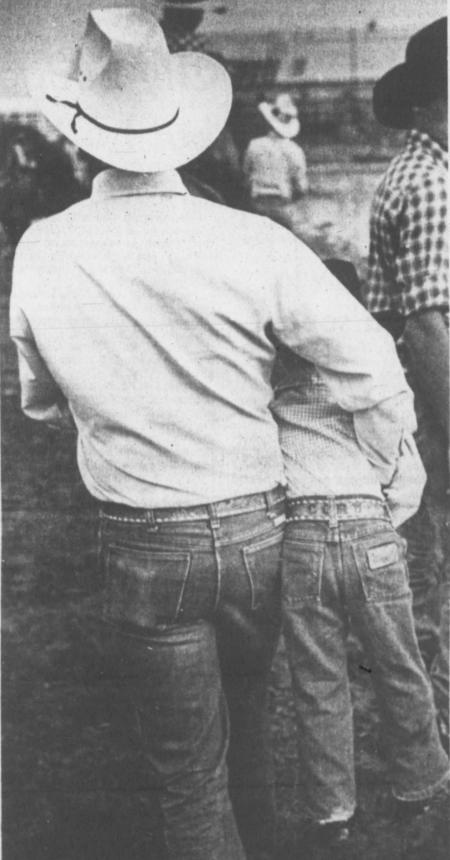

A full autopsy has been ordered, authorities have said, but a preliminary autopsy Wednesday revealed England had, in effect, drowned due to an accumulation of blood in his lungs - the bleeding having resulted from at least two bullet wounds

Officials have said they believe England was shot with a .22-caliber

Reports of shots being fired at vehicles in the area where England was shot have been investigated in past months, said Kleinhans, but those involved tractor-trailers and were associated with the recent independent trucker's strike.

'We haven't experienced any other incidents of that nature since the trucker incidents," said Kleinhans.

The deputy said the possiblity of a connection between the truck shootings and the Wednesday morning shooting had been discussed, but "there is no justification for leaning that way (in the investigation).

Califano fired as HEW head

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter announced today he has ousted Joseph A. Califano Jr. as secretary of Health, Education and Welfare and will nominate Patricia Roberts Harris, now secretary of Housing and Urban Development, to succeed him.

In announcing the first casualty of Carter's Cabinet shakeup, White House press secretary Jody Powell said a replacement for Mrs. Harris at HUD would be announced soon.

One reliable government source said her successor had not been chosen yet but that among the leading candidates was Thomas P. O'Neill III, lieutenant governor of Massachusetts and son of House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr.

Meanwhile, it was learned today that Carter has told members of Congress he intends to nominate Deputy Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti to succeed Griffin B. Bell as attorney general. Bell has said he plans to leave the Justice Department later this year once his successor has been confirmed by the Senate.

Califano and Mrs. Harris "have already discussed plans for an orderly transition" at HEW, the biggest department in government. In his letter of resignation, dated today, the outspoken, liberal Califano suggested that th inevitabe controversies surrounding the post he is vacating led to hs departue. "Whenever the laws that the Congress charges the secretary of HEW to execute are administered with vigor there will be controversy. I have tried to execute these laws vigorously," Califano wrote Carter.

In a handwritten note addressed "to Secretary Joe Califano," the president said: "I accept your resignation with a genuine feeling of appreciation

There was no immediate word on the future of other Cabinet and White House officials who had submitted their resignations Tuesday. Califano broke the news to several dozen top aides in his office at midday. One aide was seen leaving the meeting in tears. Later, at a news conference, Califano said he understands "that the president feels the need to reorient his priorities, to rely more heavily on his personal staff and to prepare his administration for the challenges of the next 18 months.'

He said he would continue to "speak out on public issues and on behalf of the people served by this department.'

Powell, when asked why Califano was leaving, noted only that Carter is conducting an intensive review and evaluation of his administration with the objective of improving future performance.

The HEW secretary has sometimes clashed with Carter's staff over policy matters, and his anti-smoking campaign and vigorous anti-discrimination efforts have angered some southern Democrats.

Fees for city services higher in new budget

Firefighters tackle rangeland blazes in four western states

By The Associated Press

Thousands of acres of rangeland flamed and smoldered today as firefighters battled new fires in areas of California, Oregon, Arizona and Idaho already deeply scarred by midsummer blazes

Six men were injured fighting California fires; shifting winds spread an Oregon forest blaze several miles toward the California border; Arizona fires persisted out of control and authorities feared lighting would touch off more; and Idaho firefighters doused one major fire just as another one blew out of control.

Six members of a U.S. Forest Service crew were treated for burns and smoke inhalation Wednesday after they contained two large brush fires straddling Interstate 5 in Southern California. More than 4,400 acres were razed in the fire.

Los Angeles County Fire Department spokesman Ken Lavoie said one of the fires, which consumed 2,150 acres, at one point threatened at least 25 homs and forced closure of 21 miles of state highway. Most of the acreage burned was in the Halsey and Chiqui-

Rabies case confirmed in Crane County fox

CRANE - Officials have confirmed a case of rables in a fox killed here last week.

The Crane County Sheriff's Department received word Tuesday from health officials in Austin that the fox, killed last Thursday near the Gulf Oil Co. office, was infected with the dis-

Chief Deputy Wendell Taylor said it is the first confirmed case of rabies he knows of in the county.

He said no actions are being planned by either city or county officials a result of the test outcome.

Nearby, another fire burned at least 2,270 acres near the Wayside Honor Rancho and San Francisquito

Canyon before it was contained. A 66,000-volt power transmission line was damaged as the flames neared Interstate 5, causing a blackout at industrial tracks and parts of the Six Flags Magic Mountain Amusement Park.

Lavoie said at one time the two fires came-within a mile of each other about 40 miles northwest of downtown Los Angeles, as 300 to 500 firefighters battled the flames in 25 mph winds.

In southwest Oregon, deputies said a forest fire came within 300 yards of Klamath County ranch buildings, and shifting winds shoved flames toward an area of California burned in a previous fire. About 365 men aided by heavy equipment and aircraft fought the fire that authorities estimate burned about 6,000 acres. Hundreds more men worked to contain five other forest and range fires in Oregon on Wednesday as hot, dry conditions caused authorities to impose logging and travel restrictions in the state.

In Idaho, just as firefighters were containing a fire that leveled 2,800 acres near Rexburg, another blew out of control 12 miles east of Grasmere and burned 1,500 by nightfall Wednesday. Later Wednesday evening, firefighters said winds had spread the blaze across a total of about 4,000 acres in an area where rocks and rough canyons hindered firefighters.

Five Arizona fires that have charred 9,000 acres of tinder-dry brush raged out of control early today, but no injuries were reported and no structures were damaged or threatened.

However, more thunderstorms swept the state and authorities feared lighting — blamed for several of the fires - would touch off new blazes.

A flash flood watch was issued for Midland and the Permian Basin for today and tonight.

Warfield, seven miles west of Midland, received about .60 inch Wednesday evening.

The Midland Farmers Co-op, on the southeast limits of the Tall City, reported .05 inch. Greenview, 10 miles east of Midland, had received .80 inch since 4 p.m. Wednesday and it was raining there early today.

What's more, heavy clouds - and the weatherman — promised more rainfall for Midland tonight and Fri-

Today's 60 percent chance of rain was to decrease to 50 percent chance tonight and 30 percent on Friday.

With the clouds and rain have come cooler temperatures, according to the weatherman. Low tonight should drop to near 70. High Friday should be in the middle 80s. The weatherman said the rain is being caused by a combination of "just an awful lot of moisture" and heat. The thunderstorms are stationary, he said.

Wednesday's high reached only 83, far short of the record high 100 degrees set in 1947. The overnight low dropped to a comfortable 70, still short of a record low 61, set in 1947.

Scattered showers were reported early today across Texas from the central gulf coast northwestward into the South Plains area.

Man in wig, gown sought

Midland police today were looking for a young man wearing a black wig and a white nightgown.

The oddly dressed man is being sought in the alleged robbery earlier today of the 7-Eleven store at 1912 N. Big Spring.

For example, the city garage is budgeted for a $300,000 increase. Of that, $95,000 is attributed to higher fuel costs and fuel needed for vehicles that will be added, Assistant City Manager Fred Poe said.

Another $130,000 reflects increased cost of parts for those vehicles.

Twenty-four additional employees are expected to be added; eight under the airport fund, three under the water division and 13 under the general fund

Of that last figure, accounting, data processing, planning, traffic and animal control each will get one new staff member, design and construction will get two and the police and fire departments each are scheduled to get three new people.

Growth in income and expenses is less than the total for inflation, estimated to exceed 11 percent this year, and the growth of Midland, which ha exceeded 3 percent," Angelo said. His announcement that the city will get increases marks the ninth consecutive year that city taxes have not gone up. Angelo said taxes decreased in three of the past seven years. Instead of higher taxes, "we are proposing an increase in several of the fees, the most significant to private citizens being a 10 percent increase in the charge for garbage collection," said the mayor. Proposed is a 40 cents per month hike, bringing the rate to $4.40. Last year the rates were upped from $2.75 a month to $4. A 15 percent increase in water rates, "the first (hike) in two years," is proposed to cover increased costs of

Also being considered for a bond election are several construction projects, including a new maintenance building and garage, remodeling of the fire station on East Texas Avenue, a new Municipal Court

Building, a two-floor addition to City Hall, a new building for the City-County Health Department and a two-level underground parking garage next to the Midland Center now under construction dowtown.

The projects are not new ideas, he said, but were delayed until they reached a higher priority level, Angetaxpayers have approved over $14 million in general obligation bonds during the last six years without any increase in taxes," Angelo said. The City Council believes the city to be in excellent financial condition with one of the lowest property tax rates in the state of Texas," he said.

UAW asking government to buy share of Chrysler

Workers union is asking the federal government to buy a piece of struggling Chrysler Corp. to keep it in business as a full-line manufacturer.

In another unprecedented move, UAW President Douglas A. Fraser told Chrysler it would not be considered as a strike target when one is selected about two weeks before the Sept. 14 contract deadline.

Fraser suggested the government action, unprecedented in peacetime, Wednesday at the opening of negotiations for a new contract covering 124,000 workers in the United States

DETROIT (AP) - The United Auto and Canada - 15,000 of them on indefinite layoff.

"Our game plan is to save jobs of Chrysler workers. If somebody has another way, be my guest, and we'll withdraw it," Fraser said after the opening round of bargaining. He said the government's interest in the company should be big enough "to keep Chrysler Corp. a viable corporation. Chrysler, meanwhile, announced it will delay 1980-model production and indefinitely lay off 4,200 more workers at Michigan plants, bringing the number idled to nearly 20,000.

Hispanic judgeships demanded

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - A top Hispanic leader says at least two Mexican-Americans must be among those named to fill four vacant federal judgeships in the huge Western District of Texas, which has 869,000 Hispanics but has never had a Mexican-American judge.

"We cannot take less than two. We'll be asking Senator (Lloyd) Bentsen to consider three, but certainly no less than two should be appointed," Ruben Bonilla, national director of the League of United Latin American Citizens, told reporters Wednesday.

"Never in the history of the Western District of Texas has a Hispanic served as a federal judge," added Bonilla, a Corpus Christi attorney. "We must put an end to the historical exclusion of Hispanics and Hispanic attorneys from federal judgeships. Three of the vacancies are in existing judgeships, while the other is in a newly created position. U.S. District Judge John H. Wood Jr. of San Antonio was assassinated May 29 and Chief U.S. District Judge Adrian Spears and U.S. District Judge D.W. Suttle, both of San Antonio, have announced they will retire and take senjor status. State District Judge Ted Butler of San Antonio, recommended by Bentsen for the new judgeship, recently withdrew his name from considera-

Bentsen, who must recommend persons to fill the vacancies, has said he will recommend at least one Mexican-American in the Western District. James DeAnda in the Southern District was the only Mexican-American among those Bentsen recommended last year to fill the state's 10 new judgeships. He was appointed by President Carter.

Bonilla, appearing with representatives of other Mexican-American groups, declined to mention any names of Mexican-Americans being supported for judgeships.

"We're supporting the concept of having two Mexican-Americans around," said Bonilla, adding that such public speculation by Mexican-Americans might lead to divisive squabbles that would harm their

Pete Torres, who heads an organization of Mexican-Americans within the State Bar of Texas, said the group has submitted a list of about 15 Mexican-American attorneys or judges qualified for a federal judgeship.

State District Judge H.F. "Hippo" Garcia and State Rep. Matt Garcia, both of San Antonio, and Carlos Cadena, chief justice of the 4th Court of Civil Appeals in San Antonio, have been most prominently mentioned as possible appointees.

Bonilla pointed out that the sprawling district includes San Antonio and El Paso, which have two of the nation's largest concentrations of Hispanics. Only New York and Los Angeles have larger concentrations of Hispanics, he said. Thirty-three percent of the 2.7 million persons in the district are Spanish surnamed, said Bonilla.

Brownwood officer testifies in trial of city's police chief

BROWNWOOD, Texas (AP) -Brownwood Police Chief Vic Fowler heard one of his officers testify Wednesday that Fowler swung his leg at a prisoner lying on the floor just before the prisoner cried out.... Fowler is on trial in Brown County court on misdemeanor assault charges. Officer Robert Pacatte said that he saw Fowler swing his leg, but did not actually see Fowler kick prisoner

Ronald A. Harling. A county grand jury indictment returned May 30 charges Fowler kicked Harling in the groin as Harling lay on the floor in front of the booking window on May 13.

Pacatte said he and Officer Oliver Still had arrested Harling on for public intoxication and were booking him when the prisoner sagged against the officers and lay down on the floor. Pacatte said he believed Harling was playing dead weight.'

County Judge James Bunnell overruled a motion by defense attorney Gordon Griffin to halt the testimony of Pacatte, Still and three other officers, who were scheduled to take the stand Thursday. Harling was called to testify, but his attorney, Dana Smith, advised him not to testify. Bunnell agreed with Smith's arguments that Harling would jeopordize his chances of a fair trial on federal charges of assault on a peace officer if he testified. Fowler, who has been Brownwood chief since 1972, is a 30-year veteran of the department. Testimony before the two-man. four-woman, jury was scheduled to resume today.

Triumphant Sandinistas enter heart of Managua

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) -Triumphant Sandinista guerrillas reached the heart of Managua this morning, stalking national guard holdouts in the "bunker" compound from which President Anastasio Somoza had ruled his country with an

The peal of church bells before dawn proclaimed a Sandinista guerrilla takeover in Managua's outer districts. Within hours hundreds of fearful national guardsmen were tossing their uniforms aside and scattering from the compound, which served as military headquarters.

Gunfire soon broke out in the compound area. Some soldiers said the fighting was between guerrillas and guardsmen, but others said it was guardsmen firing at deserters.

By 8: 15 a.m. — 10: 15 a.m. EDT most of the compound appeared deserted. But a few shots could be heard deep in the complex, apparently fired by holdout guardsmen. Small groups of armed guerrills were sent about two blocks away cautiously approaching the compound As the guard disintegrated, its remaining commander were reported trying to arrange a peaceful and bloodless formal surrender to the Sandinistas, who brought down the Somoza dictatorship earlier this week after a seven-week civil war.

The Sandinista junta was prepared to move into Managua later today or The man named caretaker president by Somoza when he resigned and left Nicaragua Tuesday, Francisco Urcuyo, resigned Wednesday evening and sped to the airport. The Sandinistas reported he flew by helicopter to a "point somewhere in Guatemala," but this could not be confirmed. Other Somoza men who had not escaped earlier fled to the airport, too.

In Washington, authorities reported 10 persons barricaded themselves inside the Nicaraguan Embassy after a scuffle in which a U.S. Secret Service guard suffered a cut hand. An anonymous caller told The Associated Press that representatives of the new provi-

Rebel supporters had similarly taken control of the Nicaraguan Embassy in Rome Wednesday. Guerrilla columns had been reported headed toward Managua fromrebel-held Leon. Late Wednesday and early today firefights crackled in areas ringing central Managua. The gunfire died down at about 4 a.m., and just before dawn church bells in outlying districts began ringing in what over the past few days has become the signal of guerrilla victory.

Military trucks carrying hundreds of uniformed and armed troops were spotted rolling out of Managua in the direction of the international airport. It was not known whether they were trying to fly out of Nicaragua or were headed to some central location for surrendering their weapons.

At one point five uniformed soldiers came into the lobby of the Intercontinental Hotel and surrendered their weapons to Managua's archbishop, the Rev. Miguel Obando y Bravo, who

headquarters in Managua. The dictatorship's military chiefs had been negotiating by radio with the Sandinista guerrilla leaders in Leon, 55 miles northwest of Managua, trying to arrange terms for the surrender of the remaining troops, a reliable source with access to the conversations said.

The guard commanders were seeking assurance that their troops would not be executed. The source said agreement would probably be reached for the troops to assemble in churches, surrender and leave their weapons there.

"I expect we will be in Managua tomorrow or the next day," junta member Alfonso Robelo told reporters in Leon Wednesday after he and other junta members flew from Costa Rica and declared Nicaragua's second largest city the provisional capi-

Sergio Ramirez Mercado, another junta member, said municipal elections would be held within "a very short time after the junta took cuyo's national guard troops began power," but the country would have to be stabilized first.

He said a new army would be formed of Sandinistas and any guard soldiers "not involved in crimes against the people.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Hodding Carter, noting the junta's call for calm, said, "This is a most constructive and helpful step in returning peace to Nicara-

Somoza resigned Tuesday and flew to his estate in Miami Beach after agreeing with the United States and Latin American governments that Urcuyo, his handpicked successor, would hold office only until the junta could take over. But once in office, Urcuyo said he would stay there for the 16 months remaining in Somoza's term and called on the rebels to lay down their arms.

The U.S. government expressed concern and recalled U.S. Ambassador Lawrence A. Pezzullo to Washington to demonstrate its anger. Urdeserting. Faced with the military collapse and the U.S. pressure, Ur-

Mexico joined Costa Rica, Panama, Ecuador, Peru, Grenada, Iran and Vietnam in recognizing the junta as the legitimate government of Nicaragua, which the Somoza family had ruled for 42 years.

The Sandinistas, who take their name from a Nicaraguan rebel who battled the U.S. Marines in the 1930s, began their "final offensive" May 28, eight months after an unsuccessful, two-week uprising last September. At least 20,000 persons are estimated to have died in the recent fighting, and hundreds of thousands more were driven from their homes. But the Sandinistas captured city after city and choked off all the highways leading to Managua. The national guard was brought to a standstill when pressure from the United States and anti-Somoza governments in Latin America kept it from getting more arms and ammunition.

They left after about an hour under an agreement with unidentified Nicaraguan officials, police said. Two guards of the Secret Service Uniformed Division were reported injured slightly and taken to a hospital for treatment. One suffered a lacerated hand in a scuffle outside the embassy and the other sustained an arm injury. Three unidentified person were reported arrested.

At midmorning, the Secret Service said without elaboration that "everything is under control."

The group left the building at about 11 a.m. EDT under an agreemnt with unidentified Nicaraguan officials, according to District of Columbia police spokesman Gary Hankins. He said no arrests were made as they left. A man who said he was a spokesman for the group, Augusto Tablada, told reporters: "It was a peaceful takeover. Just to show our support for our people and to call attention of North American people to the fact that we have the right to determine our own destiny."

Inspector Daniel Cassell of the Secret Service's uniform division said the group consisted of 10 people.

Mary Wilson of Potomac, Md., who a said she was a Nicaraguan native, was in the embassy waiting for a visa for her passport when the intruders arrived. She said they were unarmed, non-violent and courteous.

"They rang the bell and came in," she said. "All of them were nice." Sister Angelas, a member of the Carmelite Sisters of Charity who said she and another nun were in the embassy to enquire about the well-being of a third nun, gave a similar account. She said she was permitted by the intruders to leave.

Reinforcements from the division, which protects embassies, surrounded the chancery, the office wing of the embassy.

'Apparently, an officer is down. We don't know if he has been injured or shot," said spokesman Jim Boyle.

An unidentified woman, in a telephone call to The Associated Press, said representatives of the new provisional government in Nicaragua were taking control of the embassy. "We will not be moved," she said. The embassy takeover took place as Sandinista guerrilla forces took control of Managua, the Nicaraguan capital, with the collapse of an interim government left by exiled President Anastasio Somoza and the fleeing of the Nicaraguan National Guard.

Another disaster

Iran has already fallen victim to one disaster in 1979 and there is ample reason to wonder if a second is not in the making.

The Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini proved adept at marshalling the Moslem faithful who overthrew the shah. But in the six months since then, the ayatollah has met with far less success in attempting to return his country to a semblance of order.

Oil production has yet to attain pre-revolution levels and the ayatollah's hold on the oil fields and those who work them is tenuous. Unemployment and inflation remain critical problems, with both capable of undermining the ayatollah's rule.

Iran's minority populations in the provinces are agitating for a measure of autonomous rule. The Kurds, Turkomen, and Arabs have even taken up arms to underscore their demands. They may do so again, especially if the new constitution shortchanges their aspirations.

For the moment, no single group in Iran seems capable of challenging the ayatollah or his revolutionsry councils. The coun- · that country try's provisional prime minister, 73-year old Mehdi Bazargan, has only a limited constituency.

Moderates and pro-Western members of the middle and upper classes seem demoralized and frightened. The extreme left pro-Palestinian Marxists and Iran's Communist party - are busily building their strength but they still are too weak to take on the ayatollah's minions.

However, should some combination of economic, political and social turmoil cripple the authority of the ayatollah's revolutionary councils, or even unseat the ayatollah himself, Iran might be plunged into chaos beside which the anti-shah tumult would seem tame indeed.

At that point, the possibility of protracted civil war or a Marxist coup could not be ignored.

All this would be worrisome enough without the knowledge that the Carter administration's policymakers are deeply split over Iran's prospects and, at present, lack even a credible plan for rebuilding American influence in

Yes, everyone loses

The best thing about the U.S. Supreme Court's decision permitting judges to bar the press and public from pre-trial hearings in criminal cases is that four justices voted against it.

As in most cases involving free press-fair trial questions, the court was compelled to weigh conflicting rights. The First Amendment fosters a free press and the Sixth Amendment protects a defendant's right to a trial "by an impartial jury. In the New York case at issue, a 5-4 majority upheld two lower court rulings that the threat of prejudicial, pre-trial publicity warranted a decision to close the preliminary hearing. But the decision granted judges virtual carte blanche authority to close any preliminary hearing. The court, in our opinion, went too far. Granted, there may be a danger of prejudicial publicity stemming from press coverage in a distinct minority of pre-trial hearings. But giving judges a free hand to close any preliminary hearing is excessive and dangerous.

It is said that a very large percentage of all criminal cases never go to trial. Thus the pretrial hearing becomes the decisive step in the judicial process. As a result of the hearing, either the charges are dropped, the defendant decides to plead guilty, or a plea bargaining arrangement is reached.

For these defendants - perhaps nine of every 10 persons charged -pre-trial publicity is not a constitutional issue because there is

But defense lawyers, who can be expected to shield their clients from any publicity, will usually agitate for closed hearings. Under this ruling, we would guess that most judges will go along, if only to avoid a protracted wrangle and thus speed up the process.

The public's right to know will be diminished. And the ultimate losers will include everyone with an interest in an open criminal justice system.

KUNMING, China - There are many ways to see China. If you are a tourist you get to go to museums, palaces and theaters. If you travel with the Secretary of HEW, Joe Califano you get to see a lot of brain operations. The Chinese are very proud of performing brain operations with acupuncture. That and Peking Duck are their main specialties, and each hospital wanted to prove they could do it better than the one we had just visited

In Kunming, the doctors permitted Califano to talk to a man while he was being worked on. It's hard to believe but the patient was wide awake and in control of all his faculties as he conversed with the secretary.

Soviets get refined machinery

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON - American businessmen, reluctant bureaucratic regulators and detente-smitten presidents have combined to provide the Soviet Union with sophisticated, militarily useful machinery from our technological arsenal.

The workings of this incredible triple whammy were described a few weeks ago to the House Armed Services Committee in secret testimony by Larry Brady, who was then the acting director of the Commerce Department's export office.

Some years ago, remembering Pearl Harbor and the U.S. scrap iron that had helped to build the Japanese war machine, Congress passed a law designed to ban the sale of "sensitive" products that could be converted to military use by our communist adversaries. Several thousand items on the "Commodity Control List" can be exported supposedly only after careful review and approval by federal watchdogs.

But Brady told the House commit-"The export control tee bluntly: system, as it is today, is a total shambles." The safeguards written into the regulations are "not worth the paper they're written on," he said. For example, before the Russians can get permission to purchase certain products, they must sign a statement that they won't use the American-made hardware for military purposes. "Otherwise, we wouldn't approve it," Brady explain-

But sources told our associate Dale Van Atta that there is no effective way to make sure the Soviets live up to their promise. Instead, the Commerce Department relies on the fox to guard the henhouse; on-site inspections are made by representatives of the U.S. companies that sold the products. Not only are these employees often non-Americans, but they have a strong motive for ignoring any Soviet violations. Explained Brady: "The company wants to sell more ... and he knows very well that if he reports a diversion (to military use), he's not going to be able to sell more.

For the same selfish reason, American company executives are unlikely to squeal on their customers, another Commerce Department official told us. "Unless they're superpatriots, they have a very large stake in not informing," he said.

Yet sources told us it can be assumed anything that can be used for military purposes will be put to such use by the Russians. Brady cited one example to the committee: the huge Soviet truck plant on the Kama River, largest of its kind in the world. It was built with some $500 million worth of American designs, tools and computers.

Brady testified that he had recently confirmed the use of the Kama River plant to make military vehicles and parts. "The file indicates that we knew at the time the license was made...at the White House in 1974...that they would manufacture more engines than trucks," he said.

Another top offical told us, "Any reasonable individual knew then that the extra engines and other things would go to the military." Despite objections on this score, then-Secretary of State Henry Kissinger approved really gave two speeches Sunday night. The first was a well-delivered sermon, one which could touch all but the most hedonistic or cynical American. The second offered a refurbished energy program, failed to resolve serious questions and, in several ways, contradicted the first. But the man deserved credit for trying. Two-thirds of the President's address was devoted to the sermon. There was witness from the faithful. There was affirmation of the decency, strength and wisdom of the American people - as Mr. Carter put it. Indeed, he threw us off when he declared that he wanted to speak on a subject "even more serious than energy or inflation," namely, "a crisis of confidence.'

President Carter's 'sermon' and speech discussed

Oh, it's easy to spot the signs, as Mr. Carter did - pessimism, political apathy, disrespect for institutions, declining productivity by American workers. And it is easy to recite, as he did, the griefs of the past 18 years assassinations, Vietnam, Watergate, the shrinking dollar. It is unusual for the leader of a party which has promised so many worldly goods for so many years to 3 lament the worship of "self-indulgence and consumption." It is also ironical for the Democratic President to fret over the condition of the family and community in America when activists in his Administration and his party work to undermine these two great mainstays.

Still, Mr. Carter's words - propelled directty and with earnest eye contact - could move people to think about doing with less, to live simpler and more meaningfully, and to strengthen family and personal rela-

But then, bam, we were suddenly in an energy speech - the last third of Mr. Carter's address. Christian soldiers suddenly became warriors "on the battlefield of energy," as the President put it, ready to "seize control of our common destiny," presumably one fueled in part by energy.

The fact that the United States is the world's champion energy consumer also explains why we have such a high standard of living and have all those consumer goodies to indulge ourselves with. If this be war, is OPEC the enemy? I guess so. So our real test of spiritual strength is to vanquish OPEC by becoming energyindependent (Nixon's goal, too) and live in American prosperity forever. But the President's fine words raised thorny questions. He boasted that the United States has more oil in oil shale than "several Saudi Arabias," thus playing on the antipathy toward that oil-rich nation. But didn't our government just express gratitude to the Saudis for keeping their oil prices below OPEC and also for increasing production so the gas-line motorists the President professed sympathy for won't be further incon-

And what if Congress and the public say "Hell no, we won't go" to his call to arms? If domestic production isn't sharply increased, and Carter sticks to his pledge to forbid one drop of oil , to be imported above his stated goals, won't we have a depression and gas

Sure, in World II when people really thought our republic could be conquered, President Roosevelt had no trouble fashioning authoritarian powers and a synthetic rubber corporation. But I doubt that Congress will give Jimmy Carter an Energy Security Corporation. Congress and the public are already too upset with the Department of Energy to allow even more power to be invested in a federal entity It seems the more government gets into energy, the worse the situation gets. If billions of new tax dollars will be spent on energy, won't too many of them fall to Washington's "beltway bandits," that army of consultants and lawyers living in those affuent, outer-reach suburbs? They prosper from government contracts and generally do more harm than good. How can the government order utilities to cut their use of oil by 50 percent when the alternative fuels coal and nuclear - are tied up in a thicket of controversy over safety and environmentalism? Ralph Nader is already howling. The Energy Mobilization Board the President says will cut thorugh roadblocks to energy projects will firmly be resisted in

There are other puzzlers. If $10 billion will be spent to improve mass transportation, does Carter still want to cut Amtrak? Why didn't he mention nuclear power which now produces 13 percent of our electricity? And if Carter's energy war is truly a national effort, why did he fail to invite GOP congressional leaders Howard Baker and John Rh9des to Camp

Craddick, of Midland, has represented the 68th District since 1968. He outlined major bills that were passed and included an insight on fellow Republican Gov. Bill Clements while speaking to the Downtown Lions in the Midland Hilton.

"The press called it a 'special interest' session," Craddick said. "It was more of a business session," with the bills passed favoring business and industry.

A usury bill upping the interest rate on loans to 12 percent was passed by Clements although he had first said he would veto the bill. But Craddick said Clements changed his mind after loan institutions were told by outside money markets they would no longer give money for loans in

The Appropriations Bill is the major piece of legislation each session, the Midlander said. Under it, all programs and agencies are funded.

Budget for the next two years is $20.2 billion and reflects the smallest increase in the last 15 to 16 years, according to Craddick.

Clements cut the budget by deleting new construction money for state universities and state agencies. In doing so, he also cut out money for remodeling the Governor's Mansion, Craddick said.

The senators who gained fame at the end of the session by going into hiding and came to be known as the Killer Bees, crushed a products liability bill that would have helped business and industry in the state, Craddick charged.

At the same time, the Bees' action also killed the presidential primary

Court upholds decision Austin Bureau AUSTIN - The Texas

Court of Criminal Ap-peals Wednesday upheld a lower court ruling revoking probation of a man convicted in Ector County of burglary with intent to commit theft. Justin Lee Pinson was assessed a 10-year probated sentence for his guilty plea to the burglary charges, but had that probation revoked when an Ector County deputy sheriff discovered more than seven ounces of marijuana in Pinson's

The officer stopped Pinson following a tip about "narcotics law violators," and found seven ounces of marijuana in a bag on the floorboard and two bricks of marijuana in the tool box in the trunk. Pinson appealled the probation revocation order on the grounds that the tool box search was illegal. The appeals court ruled "the finding of the other seven packets of marijuana on the floor of the car was sufficient evidence upon which the court was authorized to revoke probation."

Winners of Midland County roping competition listed

Tracy Glover, the header, and Tommy McCain, the heeler, both 19, made up the winning roping team in last weekend's 16th annual Midland County Roping in which 163 teams entered in roping events, said Tat Rogers, the show's producer.

Eighteen barrel racers were also entered in the two-day event at Sandyland Arena, south of Midland.

The winning man-and-woman roping team members were Terry Glover and Angie Casbeer, and the fatherand-son team winners were Tom McCain and Tommy McCain.

Winners in the three age categories of barrel racing were Pansie McCain, age 12 and under; Kelly Jones, ages 13 through 15, and Terry Otho, age 16 and over.

The event was dedicated to Benny Johnson, a Midland roper who suffered disabling injuries in a roping mishap several years ago. Among those working with Rogers in the annual roping were Mr. and Mrs. Jake Gamel. Gamel was flagman for the roping, and his vife, Minnie Mae, was secretary.

Midlanders to attend quarterly WTCC meet

Joe Kloesel, Harry Clark, Ed Hagan and Bill Collyns are attending a quarterly meeting of the executive committee of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce today in Abilene.

Kloesel, president of the Midland Chamber of Commerce, is vice president of WTCC's District VI. Clark is chairman of the regional chamber's Local Action Committee; Hagan is chairman of the Mineral Ressources Development Committee, and Collyns is a past president.

Bob Corkins of Alpine, WTCC president, accepted the grant on behalf of the regional chamber. Corkins said the money will be used to encourage the achievement of excellence in the field of free enterprise education in the public school systems of West

Fred Barrington of Lamesa, chairman of WTCC's Private Enterprise Development Committee, which is responsible for administering the funds, said an awards program will be announced at the beginning of the 1979-80 school year, encouraging teachers actively engaged in teaching the required course on the "American Free Enterprise System" in public school systems to enter competition for an award.

The awards program will be open to secondary level teachers representing a public school located within the WTCC service region.

Award recipients will be announced at WTCC's 62nd annual meeting to be held at San Angelo next April.

The West Texas Chamber Foundation was created to conduct research, accumulate and disseminate information of a charitable, scientific, literary and educational nature which will result in solutions to urgent problems facing West Texas.

It is funded through donations and memorials, which are encouraged. The address is P.O. Box 1561, Abilene,

School board hit with second suit

A second class action suit has been filed against the Ector County Independent School District in U.S. District Court here by undocumented

The group is hoping to eliminate the Odessa school district's requirement of documentation for the enrollment of Spanish surnamed students or students of Mexican ancestry.

The suit was filed earlier this week by several "friends" of five potential students, at least four of which are 'undocumented immigrants,'' according to the petition.

Last month a suit was filed against the school district by undocumented aliens seeking an end to tuition payments for illegal aliens.

Since the suit filed this week concerns undocumented aliens, the plaintiffs were unnamed. However, named as defendants were W.M. Holm, superintendent of the ECISD, and Shirley Huffaker, Mickey Jones, Bob Clark, Sam Gipson, Vickie Gomez, John Quisenberry and Gary Whitehead, members of Ector school district's board of education.

According to the petition, the plaintiffs have attempted to enroll in Ector County's public schools, but were unable to do so because they were asked for documentation as American citizens or legally admitted aliens and could not produce it.

The petition contends they are being discriminated against by being required to produce documentation when other students are not required to do so. The suit also alleges the documentation requirements violate their equal protection guarantees under the 14th Amendment of the U.S. Constitution.

RCA XL100 RCA COLOR TRAK

And, the suit adds, their rights under several other documents are being violated because of the documentation requirement.

The suit also contends that under the Protocol of Buenos Aires, entered into by the United States, all children of school age are to be provided at least an elementary education with-out charge. Denial of a public school education violates the plaintiffs' rights under the "Universal Declaration of Human Rights.

Another contention is that parents of the potential students are taxpayers of the school district and because the children are not being admitted to school, are being denied the use of their property. The petition asks that a preliminary injunction be issued immediately requiring the school district to enroll the plaintiff without the necessity of documentation. It also asks that, upon trial, the court issue a permanent injunction enjoining the school district from requiring documentation of U.S. citizenship or immigration status as a prerequisite to admission. In addition, the suit asks that the policies of the school district and the Texas Education Agency requiring documentation be declared unconstitutional on their face and/or unconstitutional as violations of the 14th Amendment equal protection clause. Attorney for the plaintiffs is Joseph J. Rey of El Paso.

Holm, superintendent of the school district, could not be reached for comment on the second suit. Robert Cox, one of the Odessa attorneys representing the school district, said the school district had not been served by Wednesday afternoon and declined

Officials' 'favorite' is Carter

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) - President Carter is a 5-to-1 favorite over Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., for president in 1980 among Democratic county officials responding to an Associated Press survey.

Republican county officials indicated a preference for former California Gov. Ronald Rea-

The AP made a questionnaire available to all 3,300 delegates to the National Association of Counties convention. Of the 328 who responded, 280 listed a single choice for president.

Carter had the support of 59 percent of the Democrats responding, while Kennedy was chosen by 11 percent. Eighteen percent were not sure whom they would support.

Kennedy has said he will not seek the 1980 presidential nomination although he has been the overwhelming favorite for president among Democrats in recent published polls.

Reagan, who has been the front-running Republican in recent polls, received six votes from Democrats, or 3 percent. California Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. had three votes, or less than 2 percent, from his party.

Reagan was chosen by 27 percent of the Republicans and 16 percent were undecided. Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., and former Texas Gov. John Connally followed with 15 percent each and former President Gerald Ford had 13 percent. Both President Carter and Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., received three votes from Republicans.

Twenty-nine percent of those listing independent or no party affiliation said they support Carter, 16 percent support Kennedy and 16 percent were not sure. Ford and Connally each had 10 percent and Reagan followed with 6 percent.

Lumping together all respondents, 41 percent opted for Carter, 18 percent were not sure and 10 percent supported Reagan. Kennedy was next with 9 percent, Connally and Ford each had 6 percent, Baker had 4 percent. George Bush, Dole and Gov. Brown each

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN AP Special Correspondent

OLD HEAD OF KINSALE, Ireland (AP) - Even without the troubles in the North and occasional petrol shortages in the South, driving in Ireland was always an experience.

Now it's an adventure You share the great wide open road, which often isn't very wide and seldom is great, with enormous double-trailer trucks, sheep plodding to market or dozing in the right-of-way, the parish priest on his bicycle, a donkey pulling a milk cart, cows coming home to be milked, a tractor inching along with a broad-bladed rake, vacationers in horse-drawn caravans, German and French fishing enthusiasts gunning their Porsches and Citroens around the corkscrew curves, and the breadman taking up the whole left lane to make deliveries at a pub or take on

You know it's market day if the towns are an impenetrable chaos of bawling cattle and triple parked cars and trailers.

It's Sunday if the traffic jams are collected outside the churches, newspaper shops and pubs.

The sign says 8½ (miles?) to the Old Head of Kinsale, which is where the Lusitania was torpedoed. If the seas were charted like the roads, you wonder how the Germans ever found it. You drive at least a mile, more like two, and the next sign says

But then, as everyone avows, an Irish mile is longer than an English mile although no one is sure how muchlonger. Bsides Ireland is in the process of canging ovr to the metre system. Some signs ae in kiloeters. Some aren't. Some have disappeared altogether, like those mist-shrouded lakes that keep appearing and disappearing in the Celtic twilight. By way of explaining all this, the natives tell a self-deprecating story about an impatient American driver who approached a railway crossing in West Cork and found the gates half up and half down. "What's that supposed to mean?" he fumed at the gatekeeper.

"Well," answered that worthy, "to tell the truth, I was half expecting a train.

In summer in Ireland, daylight lingers on the horizon until long after 10 p.m., which contributes to the unhurried way of life. There's even time to play 18 holes of golf when you get home from work. Urgency is not in the culture here.

"You had no right to be going that fast," the Garda, a "Irish policeman, rebuked a motorist with British plates.

"I was in terrific hurry," the visitor alibied.

constable had the last word.

In the border towns of the North, the IRA frequently switches around road signs to confuse the British army. The tactic can be confusing too to non-aligned navigators.

Be grateful if that's all that happens to you on the lovely, lonely roads of Ulster. In Antrim they have turned an old Irish blessing into a grim joke: "If the road rises with you these days you may soon be in the palm of God's hand from a Provo land mine.'

But getting back to peaceful, pastoral Cork and its highway dozing sheep, the locals don't share the American passion for precision in geography.

"The Old Head of Kinsale, is it?" a farmer leans out of his tractor. "Carry on now for a mile and a bit." But he doesn't tell you that the bit is longer than the mile and the road forks several times as soon as you are out of his sight.

"Old Head? You can't miss it," the publican assures you as he pulls a creamy pint. "Keep on past the post office and through the town, up over the hill and straight on a fair ways to a ruined castle on your left. Well about a mile before that, you'll want to make a sharp left . Driving in the Kinsale Grand Prix requires some instant revisions in the American motoring vocabulary. "Road up" doesn't indicate a hill. It means the road is under repair, although you seldom see anyone working on it. "Roundabouts" are rotary or cloverleaf crossings and you negotiate them in a counterclockwise direction. "Hard margin ends' has nothing to do with the stock market. The highway is about to lose it's shoulder, so the sheep and the cows have no where to go except in your path.

And remember in the lovely land where the everyday speech is alive with the list of Yeats, O'Casey, Joyce and Behan, hey still speak a language that the stranger never knew. Brimming with imaginaton and eager to please charm it is, as a friend of mine found out when his car broke down after midnight in the streets of Cork.

"Are there any all night garages in this town?" he called out to a young constable

"Of course, there are several," the officer replied. 'But you won't find them open at this hour.'
Or the instructions in a Cork parking lot: "Go ahead, now, back away.

But relax, enjoy yourself. You'll never drive through greener, grander scenery, see such fabulously changing, cloud-chasing skies or meet a friendlier, unphonier people, which genuinely hate to see you leave.

"Sure you should stay at least until tomorrow," a farmer's wife entreated us in Mallow. "We're dipping the sheep. It's a lovely sight. The Americans all

Her deadpan delivery was as sincere as the wee slip of a tourist guide at the Rock of Cashel, who informed us: "The Earl of Kildare apologized to the "I was in terrific hurry," the visitor alibied.

"Then you have no right to be in Ireland," the He said he thought the archbishop was inside."

Fugivtive beauty queen in custody once more

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) - Fugitive beauty queen Joyce McKinney, who once said she would have skied nude down Mount Everest for a man she was accused of kidnapping, is again in custody more than a year after she jumped bail in England, the

Miss McKinney of Minneapolis, N.C., and fellow fugitive Keith Joseph May of Los Angeles were arrested Wednesday near Asheville on charges of making false statements to obtain passports, an FBI spokesman said. Bond was set at $10,000 each.

The FBI said today that Miss McKinney probably will be sent to the state of Washington for trial on the federal charges rather than being returned immediately to England. Herbert Monahan, special agent in charge of the FBI office in Charotte, said he did not know whether Miss McKinney would be returned to England to face the charges there. Monahan declined comment on details of the investigation.

Both Miss McKinney, 29, and May, 26, jumped bail in London and fled to Canada under false identities in April 1978, less than a month prior to a scheduled court appearance there on kidnapping charges.

Miss McKinney, a former Miss Wyoming-USA, and May were charged in Enland in 177 with abducting Kirk Anderson, then 21, of Provo, Utah, and imprisoning him in a remote country cottage.

Prosecutors charged Miss McKinney and May chained the Mormon missionary to a bed and forced him to make love to her.

After her release on bail in 1977, Miss McKinney denied the charges against her, saying, "Anything I did was with his (Anderson's) consent. Kirk is so afraid his church is going to excommunicate him, he just made all that up."

During pretrial testimony in England, Miss McKinney testified she once loved Anderson so much she would have skied down Mount Everest in the nude with a carnation up my nose" if he had asked her to,

Miss McKinney made headlines in Britain when Scotland Yard was unable to locate her when she and May failed to report to police under conditions of their bail agreements.

for night of killings FORT WORTH, (AP)-Millionaire Cullen Davis has offered an alibi for his whereabouts on the night four people were gunned down at his Fort Worth mansion in a deposition taken in a civil suit growing out of the

In the deposition, Davis said he went to a movie and a restaurant between 8 p.m. and 11 p.m. alone the night of Aug. 2, 1976. That night, a man dressed in black opened fire on four people at the $6 million showplace mansion, killing two.

Davis was acquitted in 1977 of the murder of his 12-year-old stepdaughter, Andrea Wilborn, one of the shooting victims. He had been tried in Amarillo on a change of venue.

The deposition is Davis' first explanation of his whereabouts taken under oath, although he had told news reporters of his activities. Davis never took the stand at the Amarillo trial. Although excerpts from the deposition did not indicate the sequence of events, Davis' attorney Phil Burleson said Wednesday his client went to the restaurant first, then to the movie. Parts of the sworn deposition were filed in 17th District Court Wednesday by the attorney for Gus Gavrel, 24, who was left partially paralyzed by the shooting spree. Gavrel has filed a civil damage suit seeking $13 million in damges. Gavel's lawyer, Grover Swift, filed portions of the deposition attempting to force Davis to answer questions for the civil suit. The attorney has asked State District Judge Charles Murray to compel Davis to respond to questions concerning his finances.

Queen starts four-nation tour of African countries

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II flew from London today to start a four-nation African tour which will end in Zambia, on the front line of the escalating conflict in Zimbabwe Rho-

The 16-day tour went ahead as scheduled after the 53-year-old monarch expressed her "firm intention" to go despite fears for her safety expressed by British politicians and newspapers. But British security officials re-ported the queen would be in no more danger — probably less — than in strife-torn Northern Ireland, where Britain mounted what was probably its biggest peacetime security operation for the queen's last visit in 1977.

Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher gave the final go-ahead for the current tour Tuesday, when she told the House of Commons of Zambian assurances that every precaution has been taken for the queen's safety.

Both Zambian-based guerrilla chief Joshua Nkomo and Bishop Abel Muzorewa, black prime minister of the embattled Zimbabwe Rhodesia ad-ministration, have pledged to hold off border incursions and reprisals during the queen's week-long stay in Zambia, ending Aug. 4.

The queen is due to open in Zambia the biennial meeting of the prime ministers of the Commonwealth, an association of Britain and her former colonies, of which the queen is the

The queen, traveling with her husband Prince Philip and second son, Prince Andrew, headed first for Tanzania, whose President Julius Nyerere is one of the most ardent supporters of the Rhodesian Patriotic Front guerrilla movement.

The tour starts formally Friday when the queen is due to arrive in the Tanzanian capital, Dar es Salaam, to a traditional and vigorous welcome from tribal dancers and drummers.

The queen is scheduled to spend four days in Tanzania, then goes to tiny Malawi and Botswana before flying to Zambia.

With Mozambique and Angola, Tanzania, Botswana and Gabarone comprise the so-called "frontline" states from which guerrillas mount their incursions against Zimbabwe Rhode-

The guerrillas now aim to topple the multiracial administration which the Patriotic Front guerrilla movement regards as a sellout to white-minority interests.

Black and white Zimbabwe Rhodesian mothers have appealed to the queen to press for the release of thousands of children allegedly abducted by Patriotic Front guerrillas and held against their will in refugee and military camps in Zambia.

"In this International Year of the Child we wish to draw her majesty's attention to the thousands of our abducted children being held in Zambia and elsewhere," the telegram from most of the embattled territory's women's organizations said. "As a much loved and respected exemplar of Christian family life we feel that her majesty would agree that these children should be returned to their homes.!"

Policeman's face full of holes

Washington County Sheriff Herb Marshall has testified in the capital murder trial of James Ray Renton that a Springdale patrolman's face was "full of bullet holes" when officers found him.

Renton, 41, of Houston, is charged in the Dec. 21, 1975 slaying of patrolman John T. Hussey, 23.

Marshall testified Wednesday that Hussey's body was found in a wooded area off Arkansas 16, near a van that apparently had been set afire.

Marshall said Hussey's hands had been handcuffed behind his back.

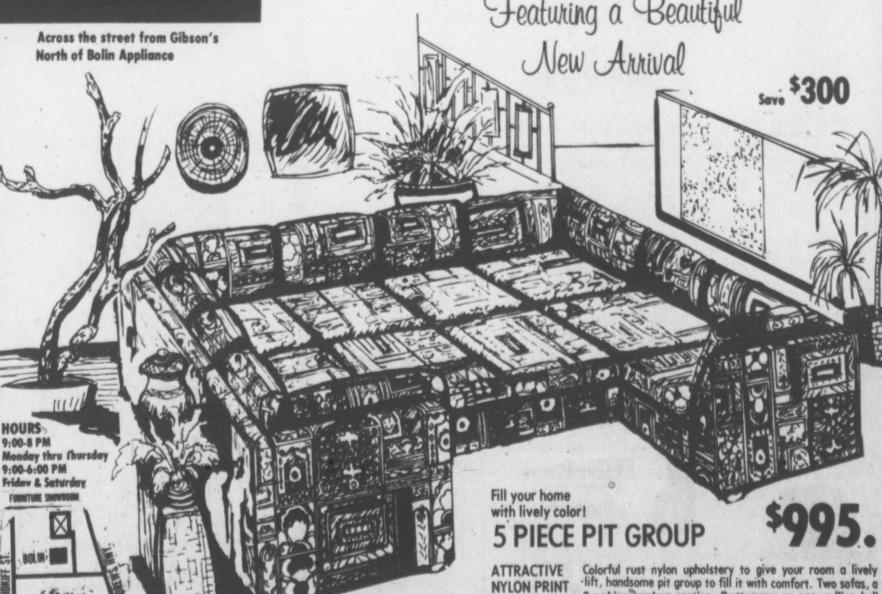

"There was quite a bit of blood," he said. "I dug around and recovered four bullets from the ground. Ap-parently, he was shot when he was lying on the ground."

Paul McDonald of the state Crime Laboratory testified that the bullets removed from the ground came from Hussey's pistol, which was found near

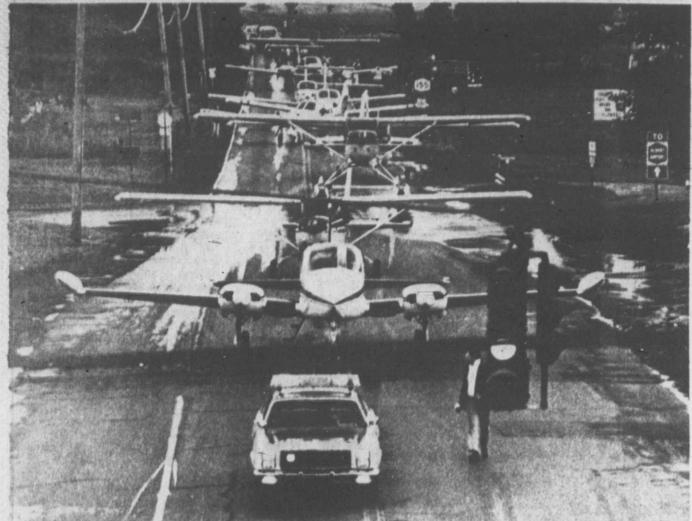

Prosecutor Kim Smith said Renton had purchased the van in Dallas on FBI agent Dick O'Connell testified that he removed a number of items from the burned-out van, including & three kinds of buttons.

Operators of Three Mile Island didn't have safety guidelines

By H. JOSEF HEBERT Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Federal investigators are hoping to find out why guidelines discussed as early as 1977 that might have averted a serious nuclear accident this year at Three Mile Island were not provided the plant's operators.

Two engineers from Babcock & Wilcox, the engineering firm which designed the Three Mile Island nuclear power plant, disclosed Wednesday that they had warned in late 1977 and early 1978 that stricter guidelines were necessary to guard against plant procedures which, they said, could lead to a nuclear accident such as eventually occurred at the facility near Harrisburg, Pa.

More B&W officials were scheduled to appear today before the presiden-tial commission investigating the March 28 nuclear accident.

John G. Kemeny, president of Dartmouth College and commission chairman, told reporters he hoped today's hearings would shed more light on why the warnings were not made known to B&W reactor operators.

Commission investigators Wednesday made public B&W documents which showed that two of the company's engineers raised questions more

The engineers, who also testified Wednesday, were concerned that operators at the B&W-designed plants were prematurely shutting off the emergency cooling pumps when they automatically kicked into place at the time of an accident.

In one memo dated February 1978, Bert M. Dunn, a B&W unit manager specializing in emergency cooling systems, urged that company guidelines be issued telling plant operators not to turn off the emergency cooling pump except when the situation "has been stable for a period of time.'

The emergency cooling pumps automatically kick on when the normal flow of cooling water at a nuclear plant is interrupted. Dunn and another B&W engineer Joseph J. Kelly, told the commission Wednesday the automatic emergency system also had been interrupted during an accident at the Davis-Besse nuclear plant in Ohio in September line supplies have increased significantly in Texas, especially in the big city areas, since last week.

Weekend gas supplies increasing, especially in Texas' bigger cities

Seventeen percent of the filling stations in Houston, Dallas and Fort Worth will be open Sunday, a survey by the American Automobile Association shows. That's a 10 percent increase over last weekend.

The AAA survey of 418 service stations statewide also showed the number of stations out of at least one grade of gasoline fell from four percent to three percent this week.

Prices for gasoline continued to increase, the AAA says, at an average Here is the expected availability of HOUSTON (AP) - Houston Lighting & Power Co. officials are trying to determine what to do with a $500,000 gantry crane that is unacceptable for the $2 billion nuclear power plant being built near Bay City.

A mixup in contract specifications is blamed for the crane not being tornado-proof. Federal regulations require that it be capable of withstanding winds of 360 miles per hour because of its location.

Cubs, Captains try twin bill again tonight

R-T Sports Editor

It wasn't exactly a deluge, but it was enough to wash away the scheduled doubleheader between Shreveport and Midland at Cubs Stadium Wednesday night.

The Captains and Cubs were in the top of the second when a steady drizzle made footing on the pitching mound and in the batter's box hazardous, resulting in a 30-minute delay and then the postponement.

As a result, the Cubs and Captains will have to play five games in the three days remaining in the series, which means a doubleheader today at 6:30 p.m., another twinbill at 6:30 p.m. Friday and a single game Saturday at 7:30 p.m. Since it is the last visit by the Giants' farmhands to the Tall City this season, the inter-division Texas League rivals would have to make up any other rainouts in the series at Shreveport when the teams meet again. There was no score when the rain delay occured, although Midland had loaded the bases in the first.

Mark Parker, 8-5, and Jon Perlman, 2-2, are the probable pitchers for Midland tonight, which is Ladies

Injuries hit Cowboys' camp

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) - Wednesday's initial two-a-day workouts in full pads took their toll on the Dallas Cowboy veterans, in a minor sort of way.

The list of injuries was long and contained some familiar names, but none was expected to miss Thursday's practice ses-

Injured were middle linebacker Bob Breunig (lower back), outside linebacker D.D. Lewis (achilles tendon), wide receiver Drew Pearson (lower back), tackle Rayfield Wright (headache and stomach cramps), defensive tackle Dave Stalls (right knee), tight end Jay Saldi (left thigh), safety Randy Hughes (dislocated finger), running back Doung Dennison (left hamstring) and rookie defensive lineman Bruce Thornton (ankle). In addition, running back Tony Dorsett was still bothered by a slight groin pull from Tuesday, but he took part in Wednesday's practice.

The Cubs are 4-1 on the current homestand and have won five of their last six games. The hot bats during the Tulsa series belonged to second baseman Dan Rohn, who was 11-for-19 against the Drilles for .579. Over the last eight games, Dan has hit at a 469 clip

Mike Turgeon went 9-for-20 (.450) against Tulsa, while Jim Tracy was 9-for-22 (.409). Javier Fierro, who moved into shortstop to replace Chico Alfaro, lost for the season with a broken leg, was 7-for-14 and superb in the field. CUB CLOUTS-The Cubs have lost only three series all season, two to Arkansas and one to San Antonio...Brian Rosinski became the sixth Cub to pass the century mark in base hits with a single in the 7-4 win over Tulsa Monday. At .365, the Evanston, Ill., outfielder remains in good shape in the Texas League batting race with teammate Jim Tracy, .354, his leading challenger...New York Yankees' scout Jack Bloomfield, in Midland for the homestand, was a Chicago Cubs' coach when the National League club played against Milwaukee at Cubs Stadium in an exhibition game in 1975. "Our infielders," Jack recalled, "All said the field here was better than any infield they played on in the National League." Bloomfield says one place where the infields are immaculately manicured is Japan, where he played for seven years. "They have a crew of 23 working on the fields." The native Texan says one of the nice things about playing is Japan is that "the longest road trip is a 25-minute jet flight."

Irwin, who defied the convention of the day by collecting three birdies on the back nine of the 6,822-yard, par-71 course, just edged in front of Pate, who turned 4-under but finished 2under at 69.

"It was very difficult," the bespectacled Irwin said. "There are so many holes with narrow fairways and the wind made things even worse."

IRWIN WAS nevertheless very satisfied with his round.

The attitude of the American professionals toward the conditions made Longmuir's round seem all the more remarkable.

Watson, the tornament favorite, saw it that way.

"Longmuir's round was incredible no question about it," he said. "It was really fanstastic in those conditions. Almost beyond reason."

Watson had a poor front nine but picked up on the tougher back nine. "I started poorly, hitting bad shots," he said, "but I responded to the test and played an excellent backside. I'm never satisfied, but I am happy with the way I finished the round.

But as Longmuir slept in his $9 a night boarding house on the Blackpool seafront, he was cushioned by the remarkable score that allowed him plenty of room for error today.

Nicklaus not unhappy over first round score

LYTHAM ST. ANNES, England (AP) - Jack Nicklaus had mixed emotions about his 1-over-par 72 in the first round of the 108th British Open golf championship.

On the one hand, "72 is, by no means, a bad first-round score in the Open," the slump-ridden defending titleholder of this ancient championship said Wednesday. On the other hand, "I'm pretty disappointed," Nicklaus said.

"I let a great break and a reasonably-good round get away from me. I'm not tht upset about 72 - that's not a bad score - but I am disappointed in the 40" on the back nine.

"If I'd got it in two or three under par, anything under par, I'd have been in really great shape," he said. But it got away on the back nine which played into the teeth of a cold, blustery wind off the Irish Sea on the 6,822-yard Lytham and St. Annes Club

And, from a chance at an excellent position in the tournament he has won three times, Nicklaus slipped back to a spot where he has his work cut out for him, seven shots off the pace.

James Young says knee healthy, raring to play

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) - Houston Oiler defensive end James Young says reports of his demise as a starter are greatly exaggerated. Young underwent knee surgery on April 21, and defensive coordinator Ed Siles said on Tuesday Young had only a "photo-finish" chance of playing this season. Young respectfully offered a different opinion Wednesday.

"I have a healthy knee. It's just a matter of getting my strength back," said Young, a free agent signee in 1977. "I can't run on it yet but it's coming along real well and I'll be going 100 percent when we open the season on Sept. 2.

Young said he suffered the injury last Oct. 29 against Cincinnati but continued to play. "But it didn't hurt betcause we were shooting for the Super Bowl," he said.

Young at first tried to rehabilitate the knee in the off-season but said surgery became necessary when the knee didn't respond. "I'll be running by the final week in August and I'll be ready by the season opener," Young said. "Ed just hadn't talked to me before he madethat photo-finish comment.' Young had settled into a career as a Houston fireman when he decided to give pro football one more shot and signed with the Oilers. Young became a rookie starter for the Oilers and now fights fires only in the Until last season, opposing offenses took advantage of Young's inexperience rather than run at middle guard Curley Culp or right end Elvin Bethea, the two more celebrated members of Houston's three man "Our defense learned pretty quick that the other teams would run at me the first three plays of the game and they started giving me help.' Young said. "I worked with Curley and he showed me some inside stuff.

"I also got with Elvin and he helped me get my outside game

Rather than feel threatened by Houston's two prize second-round draft picks, defensive linemen Mike Stensrud and Jesse Baker, Young wel-"If one of those guys can come in and start his rookie year like I did, that's fine because it will mean they can really bring in some smoke,' Young said. "And when I come in, I know I'll bring smoke. That's how you make championship teams.'

The Oiler veterans were to take physical exams today and meet the news media befor beginnin workouts on Friday. All veterans, with the exceptions of unsigned players Mike Reinfeldt, Ronnie Coleman and Greg Stemrick, made it to camp by the 6 p.m.

> FULLERTON, Calif. (AP) - He had talent, and with the talent came recognition, cars, beautiful women and money. The future seemed bright when Anthony Davis came out of Southern Cal as the man who rewrote O.J. Simpson's rushing records.

Five years later, Davis finds himself -- like a 10th-round draft choice - trying to impress the coaches, trying to stamp himself of football value, trying to make the team.

'When I talk to kids, I tell them life and football are a lot alike," Davis said. "You get knocked down again and again, but you've got to get up. The getting up, the not giving up, makes you stronger and stronger."

Davis, 26, has been knocked down often since his final season at Southern Cal in 1974. He first signed an extremely lucrative contract with the California Sun, but that choice turned out poorly the next year when the World Football League folded. Next, Davis went to Canada, where he played with Toronto in 1976. The next year, things looked up, as his college coach, John McKay, brought him to the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

But Davis, hampered by injuries, had a poor season and old friend McKay dealt him to Houston in the off-season. Davis suffered another injury during the preseason with the Oilers a year ago, and they released

The Rams, with injuries decimating their running back corps, signed Davis late last season. He carried the ball three times for Los Angeles, gaining seven yards.

"It's been very strange, the past few years," Davis said as he rested between workouts at the Rams' Fullerton State training camp. "I feel like I'm starting all over, and I feel very good about it. I don't have any doubts that I can make it, but starting over does give you some funny feelings.

"I know I have to work harder. For one thing," Davis said, "you become more aware of your physical conditioning when you start getting older. I've worked hard to make sure I'm in top-notch shape.

'Southern California is my home, and I want to stay here and play football. When I went onto the field for my first game with the Rams, I didn't even touch the football, but the ovation I got made me feel like I was

The fans probably remembered Davis' previous time on the Coliseum field in 1974. In a nationally televised game against archrival Notre Dame, Davis scored four touchdowns - including a 102-yard kickoff return to open the second half - as Southern Cal rallied from a 24-6 halftime deficit to beat the Irish 55-24. That, however, means nothing now as the 5-foot-9, 187-pound Davis competes with a host of veteran and rookie running backs for a spot on the Rams' roster.

"I think it's good we have so many fine running backs in camp," Davis said. "It makes the players fighting for jobs better, and that makes the team better.

"I just hope I can be an asset, maybe a catalyst, to the team.

Andolina nabs lead in Tucson

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Jack Andolina took over the lead position for the first time in his five-year professional career by topping rookie Charley Tapp by 24 pins after one round of the $70,000 Tucson Open pro-bowling tournament Wednesday.

Andolina, a 35-year-old righthander from Glendale, Calif., started the tournament at Golden Pin Lanes with a 276 game, followed by scores of 247, 244, 192, 269, and 224 for a 1452 total. Tapp, meanwhile spiced his round with a 300 game and was leading the field until slipping to 179 in his sixth game.

Andolina has made less than $1,000 on the national tour this season and earned only $905 in 25 tournaments last year. Dave Kappel is in third place with 1408, five time PBA champion Gary Dickinson is in fourth place at 1407 and Tom Kohler rounds out the top

Blackwell paces Western victory

Barry Blackwell hit three homers and a double while Jose Carrasco added another homer as the Western Optimists blasted the Eastern Rotary, 24-3, in the opening game of the City Sophomore League best-of-three playoff series.

The two teams play again today at 7:30 p.m. at Redfern Park. Western can wrap up the city title with a victory.

Ricky Madrid and Teddy Terrazas also doubled for the winners as Tim Davis went the distance to pick up the win.

Rotary's Bruce Sears homered in the contest and Greg Davidson doubled. Pete Payan absorbed the loss.

Porter perennial rabbit on pro tour

COAL VALLEY, III. (AP) .- Joe Porter and 53 other tour rabbits those struggling non-exempt pros came out of the hutch today for the first round of the $200,000 Quad Cities

A victory by one of them would be worth $36,000 and also bring a year's exemption from the grueling qualifying requirement, which is the real

The rabbits are against betterknown players like Larry Nelson, the second-leading money winner who is chasing his third tourney victory of the year, Gene Littler, Bruce Devlin, Bill Kratzer, Bobby Wadkins and John Mahaffey.

Most big-name players are competing this week in the British Open. Porter is a perennial rabbit. At 34, he has been trying for a PGA tour win for 10 years. His best was runner-up in the Western Open in 1976. He won $42,000 that year but was 67th on the money list and it takes a standing of 60 or better to earn exemption. Porter hasn't come close since, but he keeps trying. 'It's a way of life," he said.

This year Porter has bagged peanuts - $2,548. He failed to qualify in three tournaments, withdrew from four, missed the cut in seven and made a smidgin in five. His best finish was a tie for 42nd in the New Orleans

"I figure I have to make $2,900 a month to break even - and that includes paying my rent and what-not on a condominium in Scottsdale, Ariz.," said Porter, who has a business finance degree from Arizona State. "I have to try to make ends meet by playing in various outings and outside events. I've made $9,500 in these so far this year.'

DuPre confident after Wimbledon

WASHINGTON (AP) - "Wimbledon," says Pat PuPre, "really turned things around for me."

DuPre, a 24-year-old pro from La Jolla, Calif., is finding that his fortnight on the Wimbledon lawns has added confidence to his game and elicited respect from his peers, two ingredients that make life on the men's tennis tour more enjoyable and

"Before Wimbledon," DuPre said, "I had always been a 'brink' player, good but not in the top echelon." Then he reached the semifinals at Wimbledon, beating Vitas Gerulaitis and Adriano Panatta along the way.

DuPre came to the Washington Star tournament

this week still riding the crest of confidence. And he demonstrated it Wednesday night in his second round conquest of 19-year-old Mel Purcell, who won the gold medal in the Pan American Games. Purcell, a quick and hard-hitting youngster, broke DuPre's serve early in the first set. Before Wimbledon, DuPre might have pressed to get back the break, made errors, and let the set and the match slip away. But not this time.

Quincy (Jack Klugman) launches a fierce battle against an obstructionist city politician when Los Angeles is threatened with a typhoid epidemic after diseased corpses are unleashed from a hillside cemetery during a torrential rainstorm, in "A Night to Raise the dead," on NBC's "Quincy,"

Thursday, July 19. Although an aspiring politician tries to stop the search for more bodies, Quincy continues on his own to reverse what he sees as a politically motivated decision. 1

East Texas religious settlement members 'pioneering' for Christ

FRANKSTON, Texas (AP) - They are "pioneers" living in a remote area of East Texas and using treadle sewing machines and other implements of a bygone era - but they feel they hold the future of the world in their hands.

"As far-fetched as it sounds, we plan to actually take over this earth for Jesus," says the group's leader, Tom Crotser, 46.

Crotser does not speak in generalities. "Jesus Christ will return on the night of the 10th day of God's seventh month." That's Sept. 18, 1988, on a regular calendar, Crotster said. Crotser, who has made nine trips to Turkey in search of proof that the Biblical stories are not just tales but are historically accurate, has worked out a scenario between now and 1998 that includes a global war, worldwide disasters and suffering, and the deaths of more than 200 million persons - all to be followed by 1,000 years of peace.

"We've researched the Bible and we feel we've proved it," he said.

Crotser, the son of Vaudeville magicians, himself a former magician and once a minister in the Christian (Disciples of Christ) Church, established his Holy Ground Mission 10 years ago on 43 acres of rolling hills and woods hidden a few miles south of this East Texas town and about halfway between Palestine and Tyler. His group now numbers 70, including 30

Their women cook on wood-burning stoves and their men work with their hands. Their children go to the mission's own school. But their purpose is not to escape the cares and worries of the modern world.

"It is to restore the old paths," said Crotser, holding the hand of his attractive wife, Margie, 40. The Crotsers have had five children, including one 21-year-old daughter who is married, and all of them live on the Holy Ground Mission in cottages they Crotser said the women wear ankle-length dresses, light their homes with kerosene lamps and use foot-pedal sewing machines to make their clothes because "we have been called to restore all things to the original paths.

He said restoration was also the reason he has taken nine expeditions to Turkey where he has brought back photographs he says prove he has found the remains of Noah's Ark lodged atop Mount Ararat in Turkey. Crotser also says his group has located the Tower of Babel in Urfa, Turkey - not 1,500 miles away in Iraq where it has been generally placed by historians.

"These artifacts must be restored to the people before the second coming of Christ," Crotser said, explaining that was his interpretation of Ecclesiastes 3:15 and Acts 3:20,21, in the Bible.

In fact, all of his predictions are derived from the Bible. He said 1988 is significant because it is exactly 40 years - the Bible's definition of a generation from 1948, the date of the founding of Israel.

Crotser was born in Denton, Texas, the son of traveling magicians and "by the time I was 12 years old I had been in 12 foreign countries and 46

He said his parents, who live in Tulsa, Okla., were "kind of disappointed" at first when he set up his Holy Ground Mission. "They groomed me to become a magician." But Crotser went off to college. He said he wanted to be a lawyer. Then he met Margie, they got married, and Crotser gave up his ambition to finish law school. He and Margie put together a traveling magic act which they took on the road for about three years in the

"We did some television, some one-night stands, a few night clubs," said Crotser.

Crotser said he gave up magic for good when strong religious feelings were awakened in him. He served as pastor of churches in Smithville and Irving, Texas.

"At Irving we had quite an experience," Crotser said. "The people of the congregation actually rose up and threw us bodily out off the church because of the message we bore. But he set up another church in nearby Grapevine, preaching there until he had a vision that caused him to set up the Holy Ground Mission. The community is self supporting. The men work as a group at such jobs as construction, hauling hay, and painting. The money they earn goes into a central fund, and individuals draw allowances depending on their needs. The women buy groceries once a week in Tyler, spending about $300 a trip. They grow some of their food in a garden of about four acres. Children play team sports or take the group's four horses for rides - once their chores are done. The community makes a few concessions to technology. They have one telephone in Crotser's homeoffice. They use electricity for lights in the meeting hall and ringer-type washing machines, and the men use trucks and some heavy equipment in their work. There are no televisions, although Crotser said some members have radios.

Crotser says because the Bible does not specifically instruct people to celebrate the birth of Jesus, the group does not recognize Christmas Day.

"It's a day just like any other," he said. Crotser, who denounces present-day churches because their stand "is so lukewarm" says anyone is welcome to join his group in East Texas or a branch - he claims missions in four foreign coountries and four other states. He says he and his followers have 10 years to recruit 144,000 "soldiers" who will journey to Israel in 1988 to receive the second coming of Crotser said this meeting will be followed by seven years of worldwide disasters and suffering, culminating in the Battle of Armageddon. After that, he said, Jesus will reign as king and there will be 1,000 years of peace.

Jokes just aren't so funny nowadays

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — With things like a "crisis of confidence" to worry about, President Carter doesn't have much time for jokes.

One hit him in the face the other day and, from all outward evidence, the serious-minded president didn't find anything to laugh about.

The occasion was a question-and-answer session Monday at a union convention in Detroit. A member of the Communications Workers of America wondered if Carter had done anything about his own campaign lament that there were more admirals in the Pentagon than aboard ships, more Air Force colonels than warplanes.

"I will have to check on it and let you know," said the president, who asked the California man for his address. The following exchange ensued: Questioner: The exact address is 8155 Van Nuys

Questioner: B-l-v-d.

The audience rocked with laughter at the joke but Carter, after a whispered exchange with a union official on the platform, continued with a straight face: "Van Nuys Boulevard. I've got you."

WHEN CARTER ATTENDED a Baptist Bible class Sunday, before his much-awaited energy speech, a lay teacher discussing the conversion of St. Paul said it was not necessary to "come down from the mountain" to proclaim conversion to Christianity.

The teacher, suddenly remembering the president had come down from Camp David atop Maryland's Catoctin Mountains, threw both hands across his face in embarrassment. Hastily, he disclaimed any intent to make a topical reference.

monitors

Dear Dr. Solomn: A neighbor of mine lost a child a few years ago from crib death. Now that she has given birth again, she is very nervous about the se-cond child. She doesn't like to hear him cry, but she becomes very upset if he's too quiet. After the ex-perience she's had, I understand how she feels. Is there something that can be done to lessen her anxiety?-Mrs. D.P.

Dear Mrs. P.: As you note, it is not surprising that a parent who has lost one child because of crib death (also known as the sudden infant death syndrome) would be overly anxious about the well-being of subsequent children—especially since the disease strikes apparently healthy babies. But your neighbor may be able to get help through her physician.

Doctors at the Massachusetts General Hospital have been providing parents with electronic devices to monitor their children. The device emits a screeching alarm if a child stops breathing. While it does not help the infant begin to breathe again, it does give the parents time to take appropriate ac-

The baby wears a belt that is attached by a cord to an elelctric box. The alarm is sounded if the child stops breathing for more than 20 seconds, and continues until someone turns it off. If the breathing does not resume spontaneously, parents are instructed to shake the baby gently and then, if necessary, more vigorously. If this fails, mouth-to-mouth resuscitation is advised.

Crib death kills 10,000 babies a year in the United States. It is the single largest cause of death of children between two weeks and one year of age. The children between two weeks and one year of age. The victims appear to have simply stopped breathing.

They die in their sleep without crying or struggling in any way.

One problem facing doctors involves knowing which children should be provided with a monitor, since crib death usually cannot be anticipated. At Massachusetts General Hospital, the device was used for children who had already experienced an attack, and for those in families with a history of infant breathing difficulties or crib death. Based on five years of testing, the researches feel that the alarm provides an almost foolproof way to prevent death in babies known to be susceptible to the ailment.

Dear Dr. Solomn: Our neighbor has a young son who has cerebral palsy. The child is two years old and does not walk yet, and the doctor has told her he will need an "orthotic" device. What is the difference between that and a prosthesis?—Ms. G.L.

Dear Ms. L.: "Orthotics" refers to devices, such as leg braces worn by a person with cerebral palsy, which help support the body. The term is also applied

DALLAS (AP) - He's been turned down by three big companies, and even his wife thinks he's wasting his time. But Philip A. Brooks, 33, feels his latest invention can't miss.

"It makes stationary pictures appear to be in motion," said Brooks, 33, of Oklahoma City, a teletype repairman for Southwestern Bell. "It could bring motion pictures to books and newspapers.' He also revealed another invention - a neon light that can be made invisible to wearers of special eyeglasses. Brooks'is trying to interest the FBI in the light, saying it could be used for undercover surveil-

Brooks, who has come up with a dozen or so inventions including an unsuccessful machine that makes a singing voice sound like a trumpet, has not yet located any backers for either creation.

The "Motion Picture Apparatus" uses LCD (liquid crystal display) like that used on many digital watches and calculators to reveal in sequence photographs or drawings, making them appear to move.

The FBI said it wanted more time to look into the invisible light, but the Wackenhut Security Corp. did not want the light, and Polaroid and Mattel Toys turned Brooks down on the motion picture appara-

Brooks says even his wife, Virginia, doubts he will ever hit the big time.

"She doesn't believe that what I'm doing is going to work out," said Brooks, who estimates he has spent $8,000 to $10,000 on materials, research and patent attorneys fees, on the invisible light and the Motion Picture Apparatus. "My parents were against it too. When I was a kid this is all I wanted to do. I failed the seventh grade-I would sit in class all day and draw pictures of perpetual motion machines. My parents sent me to military school for five years."

Brooks was in Dallas early this week after business trip to West Texas where he said he discussed a $500 to $5,000 payment to him plus a 5 percent cut of the royalties with a Midland businessman considering using the invention to make novelty jewelry But they could not agree on a contract.

Several inventions Brooks has come up with were abandoned when he learned during the patent search that someone had beaten him to it. It happened with his liquid telescope and reuseable copying paper.

"I once invented a machine that when you sing into it it would come out sounding like a trumpet or a saxophone. I had a patent pending, but I dropped it. Others had done similar things, and I decided there was not much market for it," said Brooks.

"I once had an invention for 3-D television, but we did a patent search and found it was invented in "The days of the inventor are generally over what with the big research labs they have now," Brooks said. "But I think as long as a person can think he can invent."

Jewelers fret as price of gold skyrockets

NEW YORK (AP) - As the price of gold raced past $300 an ounce this week, some jewelers worried the yellow metal's lofty stature on world money markets may put it out of reach of most consumers.

Jewelers, who are the major manufacturing consumers of gold, say small buyers will likely change their habits if the $302.40-an-ounce record price reached in bullion markets Wednesday holds.

"People who buy gold jewelry buy it for the same reason they buy any type of jewelry ... for its aesthetic value, not as an investment," said Robert S. Kennedy, president of the Speidel divison of Textron and president of the Jewelers and Silversmiths

"But obviously at some point, it is going to price itself out of the market. People will buy lighter-weight materials, gold of lesser carat or gold-filled jewelry," he said.

With the market price of bullion 33 percent higher than at the start of this year, and up 70 percent from January 1978, Kennedy senses "a swing started toward the production of more gold-filled materials.'

Martin Skolnik, president of Wasco Gold Products, a manufacturing and wholesale concern, estimates that every dollar rise in bullion prices translates into a 60-cent increase for manufacturers in the cost of producing, for example, a simple 14-carat wedding band.

Not everyone, however, is certain whether the squeeze will also take a toll on small investors who have increasingly turned to gold as a hedge against inflation.

At Citibank, a New York bank that last April started selling $1,000 gold certificates aimed at small investors. reaction to the $302-an-ounce price was mixed.

"Some people have redeemed all or part of their certificates, thinking they will take it and run. We've also had people who are holding on to wait and see what happens. Some people buying, saying they want to get in on the bandwagon now," said Citibank spokesman Lester Miller.

At Deak-Perera, which has a chain of more than 50 gold, coin and currency stores in the United States, "volume is increasing month to month" as people seek gold as an investment, said Nicholas Deak, chairman of the

But investors are charged a premium for gold coins and certificates. The price of a South African krugerrand, the most popular gold coin sold in the United States, was $316 each in retail stores Wednesday, up from $312 the previous day. Certificates usually entail broker fees and storage fees, depending on the quantity pur-

The International Gold Corp., which markets krugerrands, does not break out sales to the United States. But worldwide, its figures indicate that during the first half of this year coin sales dropped to 2.27 million coins from 2.70 million sold during the same period the year before. Since January 1978, the price of gold has risen about $125 an ounce.

Gold tops $300-an-ounce, but falls short of Wednesday's record

LONDON (AP) - Gold traded over the $300-an-ounce mark in Europe today, but fell short of the record prices posted Wednesday. The dollar was generally stronger on most European markets but dipped slightly in London and Tokyo.

London's five major bullion houses fixed the morning trading price of gold at $300.10 an ounce, down 65-cents from Wednesday close of $300.75. In Zurich, gold was quoted at $300.125, down $1 from Wednesday's

The precious metal, a traditional hedge for investors in times of economic uncertainty, hit an all-time high of $303.875 an ounce during

Wednesday's trading in Zurich. The firming of the dollar in Europe sent gold under $300 an ounce in opening trading in London and Zurich. But it quickly slipped back over the psychologically-important $300 mark. Morning dollar rates in key European financial centers, compared with

Clements outpolls Legislature

AUSTIN, Texas (AP)
— A poll of 1,000 Texas voters in 200 counties showed Gov. Bill Clements getting a much better grade than the Legis-

The Henson Hopkins & Shipley poll also showed a higher percentage disapproved of the flight of the Killer Bee senators than approved.

A statement on the poll said the results "suggest that some of the state Senate bees up for reelection in 1980 may end up being stung by the voters on election day."

Sixty percent of the 1,-000 voters gave Clements a grade of "A" or "B," according to the poll, while only 6 percent gave him a failing grade of

Thirty-two percent rated the Legislature
"A" or "B," however, with 15 percent giving lawmakers an "F.

"These data suggest that in the mind of the public Gov. Clements topped the Legislature," said a statement from the polling firm.

"Fully 85 percent of all survey respondents were aware of the Killer Bee episode," the statement added, "and among those who watched the Bee flight, a plurality of 45 percent of all Texans disapproved of the swarm. Only 29 percent of survey respondents approved of the Bees."

The 12 Bee senators fled to break a Senate quorum and prevent passage of a bill establishing a presidential primary in March 1980, two months before the regular party primaries. The telephone poll employed a random sample of 1,000 eligible voters and was conducted two weeks after the Legislature adjourned May 30.

George Shipley said the poll was "an internal survey" that the firm makes quarterly to determine the mood of Texans. He said it was not paid for by any politician and the results of the poll belong to the firm.

Five indicted in credit

ATLANTA (AP) — Federal grand juries here and in Philadelphia have indicted five men in connection with a million dollar credit card swindle involving six banks.

The Citizens and Southern National Bank of Atlanta and the National Bank of Georgia are among the six banks, the U.S. attorney's office in Atlanta announced Wednesday.

The 21-count indictment was handed down July 12, but not made public until the Philadelphia indictment was handed down Wednes-

NEW YORK (AP) — Even faced with long lines at service stations and gasoline shortages, the top worry of Americans is the ever-rising cost of living — not energy, The Associated Press-NBC News poll says.

Energy remained the No. 2 concern of the public, the poll found.

Americans are slightly less pessimistic about the economic future, even though the cost of living has been jumping at double-digit rates in recent months. But the economic turmoil of the past year has taken its toll, with more and more Americans saying their families' financial picture has worsened.

Thirty-one percent of those questioned said the cost of living was the top problem facing the country today. Energy was cited by 28 percent. This is the same one-two ranking found in other AP-NBC News polls this year.

After inflation and energy came morality, 17 percent; unemployment, 10 percent; crime, 10 percent; loss of national purpose, 9 percent; drop in value of U.S. dollar abroad, 7 percent; taxes, 6 percent; foreign affairs, 4 percent; other issues, 5 percent; and not sure, 4 percent.

The figures do not add up to 100 percent because the respondents were allowed to name one or two major concerns.

The poll was conducted Monday and Tuesday by telephone. The results are based on interviews with 1,600 adults across the country.

Cost of living worries Americans most

Pessimism about the nation's economic future has declined slightly from the low point reached in May.

Fifty-six percent of those questioned said they expect the economy to worsen in the next 12 monhs, down rom 59 percent at the first of May. Fourteen percent said they expect the economy to improve, and 27 percent said the economic picture won't change. Three percent were not

The public is a bit less pessimistic about inflation now, even though the rise in the Consumer Price Index has not moderated.

Sixty-four percent expect the rate of inflation to worsen over the next year, while 8 percent expect it to get better. Twenty-six percent expect the cost of living to continue at its current rate. Two percent were not sure.

Turning to the effects of inflation on family budgets, the poll found the largest number of Americans in the past three years saying their financial situation has worsened in the past

Nearly one-third — 32 percent — said their families are financially worse off now than a year ago, up from 29 percent in March—Twenty-two percent said their financial picture has improved, down from 26 percent four months ago.

Forty-five percent said there has been no change — same as in March.

One percent was not sure this month.

The public's judgment of the economic past and future is reflected in their rating of President Carter's handling of the economy.

Fifteen percent of those interviewed rated Carter's economic work as good or excellent. Forty-three percent said it has been "only fair" and 39 percent gave him poor marks.

Three percent were not sure.

The president's economic job rating is the lowest of any for a specific topic area found by the latest poll.

As with any sample survey, the results of the AP-NBC News poll can vary from the opinions of all American adults.

Junior college group elects Langford

Dr. A.G. Langford, president of Midland College, has been named president-elect of the Texas Public Community-Junior College Associa-

His selection came during the business session of the 1979 summer workshop of the organization in Midland last weekend. Elected president of the association for 1979-81 was Dr. Jerome Weynand, president of the San Antonio Junior College District. He succeeds Dr. Theodore Nicksick, president of Wharton County Junior College, who has served during the past four years. Langford will succeed Weynand as president of the association when his two-year term as president-elect is

"I am very appreciative of this honor," Langford said. "The role of the community and junior colleges is a vital one in the state's higher education. "These schools represented by this association are educating 65 percent of all freshman and sophomore college students in Texas and 48 percent of all the college students in the state," he said.

'The association's main-thrust is directed toward pointing up the importance of the public community and junior colleges in the overall higher education activities of the state,'

Langford explained. The TPC-JCA is composed of the president and chief executive officers of all 47 community and junior college districts in the state.

Langford and Midland College hosted the 1979 TPC-JCA workshop last weekend. Activities were centered at the Midland Hilton. Program speakers included Callie Struggs from Eastfield Community College in Dallas, Dr. Miles Eckert from Odessa College and James Bramlett of Midland College.

Banquet speaker was State Sen. W.E. "Pete" Snelson of Midland.

For the past two years, Langford has served on the organization's legislative committee and is in the third year of a three-year term as a member of the group's executive commit-

NT ADS. 682-6222

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL WASHINGTON (AP) — The day after he won re-election in 1972, Richard Nixon asked his entire cabinet and senior staff to resign because he feared they might turn into "exhausted volcanoes. Jimmy Carter didn't wait nearly as

Nixon demanded the letters of resignation at a triumphant moment: he had just received 47,165,234 votes, the highest number ever for a presidential candidate. Carter, on the other hand, apparently made his decision for a clean sweep when his popularity in the polls was at its nadir. Nixon later regretted his house-

"The call for resignations included the entire White House staff and all Cabinet members," he wrote in his memoirs. "I see this now as a mis-

"I did not take into account the chilling effect this action would have on the morale of people who had worked so hard during the election and who were naturally expecting a chance to savor the tremendous victory instead of suddenly having to worry about keeping their jobs."

On Nov. 8, 1972, the day after the election, he summoned his top associates to the White House's Roosevelt

H.R. Haldeman, then Nixon's chief of staff, recalled that many of those "basking in the glory of Nixon's land-slide re-election" had hangovers and were awaiting a ritual speech of

"Instead, they were shocked awake as Nixon, instead of lauding them, stated quietly that they were all required to resign," Haldeman wrote in 'The Ends of Power."

'He then left the room and turned the floor over to me. I stood up, and in chilling tones ... told the numb-struck staff members that each and every one of them must have his resignation on my desk by nightfall. Period.

"Then the same scene was replayed with the Cabinet in the Cabinet Room.

Nixon wrote that he wanted the resignation of every non-career employee in the executive branch to avoid having them labeled "exhausted volcanoes," the charge leveled at the Cabinet of Britain's famed 19th Century Prime Minister Benjamin

"Most of the resignations would not be accepted," Nixon recalled. "My action was meant to be symbolic of a completely new beginning."

In writing later that he had erred, Nixon said, "The situation was compounded by my own isolation at Camp David, where I spent 18 days in the four weeks after the election, holding more than 40 meetings with old and new appointees and making plans for the second term."

Carter returned Saturday from 12 days at Camp David, where he conducted what aides called a "domestic summit conference" involving conferences with some 130 people in and out of government.

Nixon's first move after asking for the resignation letters was to shift Elliot Richardson from HEW to the Defense Department, replacing Melvin Laird; Caspar Weinberger from the Office of Management and Budget to replace Richardson at HEW and Roy Ash, an executive with Litton Industries, to the OMB. Other shifts:

Peter Brennan replaced James D. Hodgson at Labor; Frederick Dent succeeded Peter G. Peterson at Com-merce; James T. Lynn replaced George Romney at HUD; and Claude Brinegar succeeded John A. Volpe at Transportation.

Those who remained at that time were Secretary of State William P. Rogers; Secretary of Treasury George Shultz; Attorney General Richard Kleindienst; Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz and Secretary of Interior Rogers C.B. Morton.

Beth Ann MacCurdy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm MacCurdy of Midland, has just completed a sixweeks summer ballet course at Texas Tech University, under the direction of Ms. Peggy Willis.

Ms. Willis is a pedagogical student of John Barker of New York City and is an associate professor of classical ballet at Texas Tech. Barker is the authority in the west on the teaching of classical ballet, according to a university spokesman.

The program that Ms. Willis teaches at Tech was written by V.S. Kostrovitskaya of Leningrad, Russia, and was translated by John Barker. Kostrovitskaya is the world's leading authority on the teaching of classical ballet, said the spokesman. Texas Tech University is the first and only university to offer this schooling. Other students attending the special course traveled from as far as San Juan, Puerto Rico, Venezuela and many states such as Missouri and as close as Eldorado, Texas.

She calls for end to adversary system

By DIANE CLARK Copley News Service

She has been called an "anarchist," a "fascist," a "communist" and a "revolutionary." Anne Strick hardly looks the part. In fact, she looks like any fashionable society matron who donates her time and talent to a worthwhile cause.

It just so happens that Strick's cause is a total restructuring of our country's legal system, and this has raised the ire of a few attorneys and

"Our court system is at best a farce and at worst a fraud," maintains Strick of Santa Monica, Calif.

Strick is neither an attorney nor a judge and has never gone to law school. But she has gone to court. And it is because of that experience, which Strick said was bitter and frustrating, that she became a dedicated court

"It all started with my divorce in 1970," said Strick in an interview. Because she and her husband were pitted against one another they came out of the court experience far more bitter than they went in.

But Strick's courtroom initiation did not end there. Within the next five years she went back again and again—as juror, witness, defendant, plaintiff and just plain observer.

"Our courts are essentially a battle system, a war. Instead of trying to get to the truth about what happened, they try to choose a winner-someone who can sell his story the best," Strick

She was disillusioned about what she saw and heard. Some of her experiences include:

-Being on a jury that felt the defendant was guilty but had to vote not guilty because of a shadow of doubt, only to learn later the prosecution had neglected to introduce evidence on friend of one of her children, only to be humiliated in court with the intimation that she had an affair with the young man.

-Sueing a businessman in small claims court and winning.

-Being sued by an attorney and

It was while she was a juror in a couple of cases that Strick spent weeks observing the courts when the jury wasn't actually on duty.

'I really had believed we had a legal system that searched for the truth under the banner of liberty and justice for all.

"But while I was a forced observer, my reaction moved from befuddlement to dismay, disbelief and outrage," Strick recalled. She concluded that everyone who comes in contact with the legal system-witness, defendants and plaintiffs, alike, are victimized by the adversary setup of the courts.

"When I was a juror we were treated like children. We were not Strick, a mother of three grown children, was so disturbed by what she saw she bagan researching the legal system. For two years she gathered library information and legal data which seemed to confirm her disbelief.

She referred to a situation in upstate New York in which two girls were missing in separate cases. The father of one asked attorneys of a man suspected of murdering his daughter's camping companion if they had any clue as to his daughter's whereabouts. The other parents, considering their daughter a runaway, continued to advertise for her in newspapers.

The attorneys had already been led by their client to the girls' mutilated bodies, but the parents and authorities were not told. They didn't find out until six months later ... when the defendant blurted out his confesClearly, protecting a client is more important to an attorney than finding out the truth under the current legal system, Strick said. Another aspect of the legal system that bothers her is the flagrant use of plea bargining-where a suspect pleads guilty to a lesser charge than the one he or she originally was charged with so a trial is unnecessary in our already overloaded courts. Plea bargaining is estimated to take place in more than 90 percent of the criminal cases in the United

Strick has found this detrimental in two respects-either defendants are intimidated into pleading "guilty" when they are innoncent, or a hardcore criminal gets a lesser sentence and is back haunting society in no

In civil cases, the whole legal procedure is bogged down in a blizzard of paperwork and court filings designed to prolong the case and bankrupt the opponent so the case will be dropped. All this ends up costing taxpayers money, Strick contends.

Strick put her research and thoughts togehter in her book, "In-justice For All," which former Supreme Court Justice Tom C. Clark said "may unwittingly become a judicial innovator, arousing the public as well as the lawyers to action, and thus initiate a second renaissance in judicial administra-

Strick has certain ideas about what direciton a renaissance should take. And foremost of her ideas is eliminating the adversary approach. She envisions adjudication panels replacing judges and juries. Attorneys would become their clients' assistants, speaking only when the client is unable or unwilling to speak

Already neighborhood justice centers concentrating on mediating legal disputes are being tried in Atlanta, Kansas City and Los Angeles, Strick said.

And a number of groups dedicated to changing the legal system have sprung up. One of the foremost—Help Abolish Legal Tyranny—is a Washington, D.C., organization of the system of the system and lawyers to the system of the syst businessmen, writers and lawyers to which she belongs.

While Strick's book has thrust her into the limelight and debates with well-known people like F. Lee Bailey, she has no desire to turn her attention to writing another book, but will hammer away at her courtroom cursade. "This is my field now and I really do want to change the whole damn

—Appearing as a character witness in the trial of an 18-year-old youth, a friend of one of her children develops out of womb

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) - A healthy baby boy who developed in his mother's abdomen instead of in her womb was born Wednesday at North Carolina Memorial Hospital.

Doctors speculated that early in 32-year-old Shirley Patterson's pregnancy, the fertilized egg slipped out of the uterus and began to develop in the abdomen. They said the placenta most likely hooked into blood vessels near the pelvis for its blood

The doctors said this type of development and birth was "too rare" to calculate its chances of occurring. Family members called 6-pound, 4-ounce David Lee Patterson a "miracle baby.

"We waited for a long time for this child," said Charles Patterson of Burlington, a first-time father after 13 years of marriage.

"When doctors were unable to hear a fetal heart-beat we both prayed about it," he said. "I believe in God and believed he wanted us to have the baby." Dr. Linn Hatley, chief resident of obstetrics and gynecology at the hospital, said Mrs. Patterson was transferred to Memorial from a Burlington hospital Tuesday night suffering prenatal complications.

"The abdomen felt unusual," she said. "We couldn't outline the uterus, but we thought we could feel parts of the baby better than we usually Tests confirmed what was suspected, that the baby was not in the uterus. Doctors decided on immediate surgery, said the doctor.

"When we opened the abdomen, the first thing we saw was the placenta," she said. "Then I found the baby's feet, and the baby started kicking and screaming.'

The uterus was normal. Physicians were elated. Patterson said his wife had suffered through a difficult pregnancy.

"We talked with a lot of people and I knew her pregnancy was not like anyone else's. Something wasn't just right, but we couldn't figure out what was wrong," Patterson said.

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: My younger sister passed away last month and I found a yellowed clipping of your column in her Bible. Here it is:

"DEAR ABBY: Will you please remind your readers to look after their parents who are too old to look after themselves? Old parents need all their children. It's not always easy to cope with aging parents, but we weren't easy to cope with when they were raising US, either. We OWE it to them. I just wish someone had reminded ME of these things when Mama was still alive. It's too late now, and I haven't had a decent night's sleep since she died three months ago.

"I knew she had a good home with my sister, so that was that. Why didn't I take her for a few weeks, or even for Sunday dinner, or for a little drive? I never had time for her, yet I had time for others and anything else I wanted to do. A change of scenery or even a meal at my home would have to Edward Jones of meant so much to her, but I was too busy. Oh, I had plenty of excuses.

"I suppose the only one in our large family who is sleeping is my sister who took Mama to live with her. I've tried to ease my conscience by telling myself that I wasn't really ashamed of Mama like my brothers were. Or that I wasn't cheap, like another sister. I DID buy her things (which she never really needed or enjoyed much). But it's too late now. I hope Mama forgives me. - CAN'T SLEEP'

yet too late. — THE OLDEST
DEAR OLDEST: Consider it done. It's always later than we think.

DEAR ABBY: Your reply to HAD it, who said she didn't have a dime to call her own after working alongside her tight-fisted husband in a family business for 30 years, was WRONG. You said she not only deserved a fewdollars to do with as she pleased, but she was ENTITLED to it. Legally, in all 42 of the separate-property states, of Odessa, and Charles she's not entitled to one dime for Esterak of Midland were herself! — MAD IN MADISON

DEAR MAD: You're right. I was 12 in a 6 p.m. ceremony wrong. I should have said that the in the bridegroom's wife was MORALLY entitled to her home fair share of the profits. Thanks for reminding us that we DO need an ficiated the ceremony. Equal Rights Amendment.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 48-year-old grandmother who, for reasons of health, must have all my teeth extracted and replaced with dentures.

I have always had a very ugly mouth. My teeth were yellow, they stuck out in fron and there were large spaces between them.

My dentist promised to make me a beautiful set of teeth-nicely spaced, straight, white and pretty. I was really looking forward to having a mouth I wouldn't be ashamed to smile with. Then I told my sister-in-law about it and she said, "Oh, no, don't let the dentist do that. You won't look like yourself." Then she went on to say that a really good dentist would try to make my new teeth look exactly like my old teeth.

Abby, I don't want them to look like the teeth I hated all my life. I want to look prettier. - UGLY MOUTH IN ILLINOIS

Handy named as major popularizer of the blues

By JOHN NOLAN

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — His legacy was popularizing the blues and his influence on today's musicians is inestimable, two men familiar with the work of William Christopher Handy say.

Better known as W.C. Handy, he has for years been recognized as a composer, publisher and one who helped develop other musicians.

Two men who have studied Handy's work, however, says his most significant historical role was popularizing the blues and getting the message across to the listening public.

"I guess you could say his main contribution was probably that he was the first person to see some significant public or commercial potential in the blues and to do something about it," David Evans, associate music professor at Memphis State University, said in an interview. "He could see something in the raw material and he knew how to popular-

Darius Thieme, chairman of the Fisk University music department in Nashville, observed, "... if somebody ever kept count, I would think that pieces by him would be among the most performed by other musi-"It's like all chorales are influenced by Bach. All blues are influenced by W.C. Handy. It's hard to say what is patterned or influenced by him," Thieme said.

Handy, called "Father of the Blues," is considered among the first to publish the blues. Some of his works are still regarded as standards, among them the St. Louis Blues and Memphis Blues, published in 1911 after being written under another name as a campaign song for an office-hunting politician.

Handy, who died in 1958, was born in 1873 the son of a Methodist minister in Florence, Ala. He fell in with musicians in his youth and traveled with various minstrel shows and bands before moving to Memphis and launching his career full-scale.

His accomplishments took many forms: operator of a song publishing firm, leader of bands that toured the South, soloist at the 1893 Chicago

Earlier this year, Fisk University dedicated a collection of Handy's work. In 1931, Memphis honored him by creating Handy Park — with a statue of the horn-playing musician along Beale Street, the neighborhood where he performed for years.

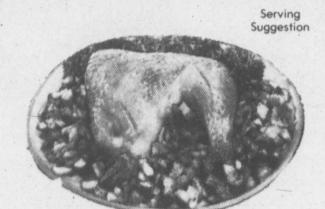

And Handy remains an integral part of music study, Thieme said.

All-day programming package for children something new

NEW YORK (AP) - It might have been as simple as collecting a library of worn cartoons and outdated kids' shows. But the people at Warner Cable Corp. decided to break new ground with "Nickelodeon," an enterprise they could call 'the first all-day, every day, something-for-every-kid programming package ever offered for cable TV.'

And "Nickelodeon," begun in April, was by Warner Cable's standards an immediate success. 'We were planning on a million contracted viewers by the end of the year," says John A. Lack, Warner Cable's vice president for programming and marketing, "and it looks like we'll have two million

"Nickelodeon," offered to the nation's cable TV systems by satellite, 13 hours a day on weekdays, 14 hours on weekends, consists of five different programs for young people of all ages.

The daily schedule includes "Pinwheel" for preschoolers, "Video Comic Books," starring heroes like Green Lantern and Space Ranger, "Nickel Flicks," featuring adventure serials from the 1930s and '40s, "By the Way," for kids 7-12, and "America Goes Bananas" for teen-agers.

The almost instantaneous acceptance of "Nickelodeon," despite some perplexing technical obstacles, was really no suprise to Dr. Vivian Horner, Warner Cable's vice president for program development and the creator of "Pinwheel."

"There is an incredible vacuum in children's programming out there," she says, "and the moment you come along and say you're going to serve the young people's market, and serve it responsibly, turning it down would be like rejecting mother-

For "Nickelodeon, "serving the market responsibly" is a concept with several meanings. "In contrast with children's programming on regular television," says Ms. Horner, "we're providing an entire program for young people, without advertising, with violence held to a minimum, and no hype.

EDITOR'S NOTE: For centuries, Tibet has been a land of mystery to the West, visited by only a few intrepid travelers, and communist control of it since 1950 has only made it less accessible. Lama is welcome to return to Tibet, government officials here in the remote central Asian plateau say, but he would come home to a religious role only in a land where religion is waning. Officials told a party of visiting foreign journalists that the exiled god-king could again be Tibetan Buddhism's spiritual leader if that's what the people want. But the government would not recognize him as such, and he would have no political place. "We welcome him back, but the Redi's views were echoed by Ishidoji, a 50-year-old warehouse keeper who lives in the shadow of the Potala, the Dalai Lama's former palace that dominates the Lhasa skyline.

"I would welcome the Dalai Lama home," he said, "but he certainly cannot come back in the capacity in which he fled. If he is a spiritual leader, it will depend on the opinion of the majority.

"I am from the old society, and I still have a certain religious habit, but in the new society it does not make much difference if I believe or not."

In April 1960, after 10 years of communist rule, Tibetan officials told the National People's Congress in Peking that Tibet had 2,469 monasteries and about 110,000 lamas and nuns, about a fifth of the population. Now officials say there are only 10 functioning monasteries and 1,000 to 2,000 monks. No one knows the number of believ-

Martin Luther King Jr., has been outspoken in his opposition to apartheid. Last January he sought to bar South African boxer Kallie Knoetze from fighting in Miami. His two-week tour of South Africa is receiving wide attention in the local press. The black newspaper The Post, calling him "the most important black leader ever to visit this country," commented that "South Africans, for so long denied the chance of listening to genuine and forthright black views, are understandably anxious about Jesse's visit.' Before his address to the Council of Churches meeting Monday in nearby Hammanskrall, Jackson is scheduled to visit Cape Town.

The Baptist minister heads the Chicago organization PUSH - People United to Serve Humanity - which aims to motivate black and other minority-group children.

Jackson told reporters he hoped South Africa's white-minority government would accord him the same privileges a visitor to the United States would receive.

Speaking of the differences between the two countries, he said, "In America at least we can look to Washington and have the advantage of a just constitution — but we also have the "People in South Africa only have

Woman accepts appointment as Portugal's prime minister

LISBON, Portugal (AP) - A 49-year-old woman said today she has accepted appointment as Portugal's prime minister.

Maria de Lourdes Pintassilgo would be Portugal's first woman prime minister, and Europe's second. Conservative Party leader Margaret Thatcher was elected prime minister of Britain in May. "It's not for me to announce. However, the offer was made and I accepted," said Miss Pintassilgo, who now lives in Paris as Portugal's ambassador to the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization. Emerging from a meeting with President Antonio Ramalho Eanes, she told reporters she had accepted his offer to become prime minister in an interim government whose task would be to prepare for autumn elec-

There was no immediate official confirmation, but an announcement was expected later in the day. Eanes was to meet first with parliamentary leaders. An appointment to the prime ministership also must have the approval of the Council of the Revolution, with which he met Wednesday. Miss Pintassilgo would replace Prime Minister Carlos Mota Pinto to head Portugal's fifth constitutional government and its 11th cabinet since a leftist coup in 1974.

She and Mrs. Thatcher are among a small group of women who have been heads of governmet in the last 20 years. They include Indira Gandhi of India, Golda Meir of Israel, and Sirimavo Bandaranaike of Sri Lanka. Miss Pintassilgo quipped that her appointment would be yet another example of Portuguese imitation of English ways. "We've always imitated the English," she said. "After all, we only started liking port wine after they did.

Miss Pintassilgo said Eanes would appoint her as prime minister immediately, rather than simply offer her the nomination and a chance to form a cabinet. She said she will have a program ready soon, perhaps by the end of the week, to present to Parliament. A prime minister-designate has 10 days to form a government and present a program to Parliament.

Carter to get authority

WASHINGTON (P) - Congessional energy leaders predict a changed mood on Capitol Hill will give President Carter the standby gasoline rationing authority he wants.

Late this week or early next, the full House will take up a bill, approved Tuesday night by its Commerce Committee, that would give the president a variety of energy-conservation powers, including standby gasoline rationing.

The committee's approval marked the first action on any of the measures Carter outlined in his energy-policy addresses earlier this week.

Under the bill, the president could impose rationing during a 20 percent oil shortage - with either chamber of Congress given the right to veto it during a 15-day review period.

He would also have the power to set state-by-state energy-conservation targets and to order motorists to leave their cars home one day a week in states not meeting the specified goals. These steps could be ordered whenever fuel shortages climbed above 10 percent.

Although the House rejected Carter's standby gasoline ra-tioning plan by a bruising 246-159 margin May 10, leaders are extremely optimistic about the new plan - even though it contains powers beyond what was in the rejected bill.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill and other key energy legislators predict the rationing plan has enough support to "The momentum is now going for the president. It's just a matter of seeing if it can be maintained," said Rep. Phil Sharp, D-Ind.

Texans criticize plan

DALLAS (AP) - President Carter's energy program came under bitter criticism from two Texans at the opening session of the 4th annual Public Utilities Conference.

Texas Railroad Commission Chairman John Poerner said Carter's plan 'is not what I call rational," contending government overregulation and "federally mandated artificially low prices" are at the root of the energy

'When we need oil ... we ought to talk to the oil men," he said.

Poerner said the administration has pushed for energy "at the lowest possible cost, no matter what the long-range result may be. "We are now experiencing a short-

Storekeeper prefers simple life,

slow pace of Glasscock County

SO, ABOUT 10 years ago, he shed his master sergeant's chevrons and donned civvies. He bought some land and eventually got hold of a cafe, filling station and the grocery store. He sold the first two and kept the store, which his wife normally minds. His mother, Stella Gray, runs the swap shop next

His little ol' store has some of that old-timey trusting, country aura to it: charge accounts. Debts are recorded on those old pulp-paper charge pads. Cash 'n' carry is okay and preferred, but if the folks are short of cash, the pad usually consumates the sale.

'As long as I can afford to carry them (charges) for 30 days, they're just as good as gold," Thomason Most of his trusting has panned

"In the eight years I've been here, I think I've lost $113, and you can't beat

The grocery store carries staple goods, but it doesn't pretend to be a supermarket. Major shopping usually is done over at Big Spring, which which is 27 miles to the north, or at Midland, which is 37 miles to the

The town's City Grocery store, though, carries "pretty much everything," said Miss Lister. "We don't sell beer. A lot of people come in here wanting it. We're pretty far from everywhere. "They (customers) just come in here and buy bread, milk and such stuff," she said.

NIGHT LIFE in Garden City is virtually ni! - at least outside of the home, church and school.

But about 15 miles to the south, there's something to do sometimes. "You know that German community down there?" Miss Lister asked.

We go dancing there. Down south is St. Lawrence, a "When they get married, they have

"They have dances about every weekend," threw in Jim Lee. "I don't go to dances; my parents won't let me, anyway.

Miss Lister said she figured that there were about "20 kegs of beer" at each wedding party at the Catholic Church's Parish Hall.

That seemed okay with Jim Lee. "I'd rather drink beer than dance," he said, in jest or not. "I don't get laughed at then.

And they all like Garden City, because good small-town living, and people from the larger places seem to view this community out in "no where" as a novelty. Miss Lister came here from "up North" - Cleveland, Ohio. 'Yeah," she volunteered, "that's where I was born; I'm not a Yankee, though. I was just born there. Then we moved to Texas. "I really like this town. A lot of people make fun of it, but I like it ike it better than a big town." Jim Lee wasn't sure he agreed.

"I don't know," he said. "There's

The case against Bundy, who is charged with killing two sorority sisters at Florida State University 18 months ago, is likely to be in the jury's hands by late next week.

Dentists Homer R. Campbell of Albuquerque, N.M., and Lowell J. Levine of Huntington Station, N.Y., were to take the stand today as the last prosecution witnesses.

On Wednesday, Dr. Richard Souviron of Coral Gables, Fla., told jurors that Bundy's teeth match the double bite mark found on Miss Levy's buttocks. Bundy's lawyers say they plan to Souviron showed jurors large color photographs — one of the mark on Miss Levy, another of Bundy's unusually crooked, twisted teeth and another of a wax mold from the teeth.

"Can you tell us with a reasonable degree of dental certainty whether those teeth made the marks on those photographs?" asked prosecutor Larry Simpson.

"Yes sir," Souviron said. "They made the marks.'

Souviron, a forensic odontologist who specializes in dental evidence, testified that he traveled to Tallahassee, Fla., a week after Miss Levy, 20, and Margaret Bowman, 21, were murdered at the Chi Omega house on Jan. 15, 1978.

He said he examined a section of flesh from Miss Levy's buttocks and a section of nipple from her breast. He said he took photographs of a double bite mark on the buttocks.

At that time, Bundy was a fugitive who escaped from a county jail in Colorado while awaiting trial in the 1975 murder of Caryn Campbell, 23, a Dearborn, Mich., nurse who was slain while on a ski vacation at Aspen,

Bundy has been convicted of kidnapping a young woman in Utah. And he faces trial on a charge of killing 12-year-old Kimberly Leach of Lake City, Fla., on Feb. 9, 1978. He was arrested in Pensacola, Fla. six days after Miss Leach disappeared. He also is being tried in Miami on three counts of attempted murder. Two other Chi Omega residents and a woman living in a nearby apartment were savagely beaten the same night the Levy and Bowman women were strangled and clubbed.

Hooded witness begins testimony in Wood case

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - A hooded witness testified before a federal grand jury Wednesday in one of the first sessions devoted to the assassination of U.S. District Judge John Wood two months ago.

Federal sources told the San Antonio Express the grand jury meeting was one of the most important since the 63-year-old judge was gunned down near his car May 29. The grand jury also has been looking into the attempted slaying of a federal prose-

After his appearance, the secret agents through a secondary exit from the U.S. Courthouse. The panel heard from one other unidentified witness before adjourning.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Wayne Speck refused to identify the hooded witness - who wore a mask fashioned from a grocery sack - but the grand jury session came just two days after FBI agents put Donald Ray Elliott under protection.

Elliott, 28, was arrested in Salt Lake City on May 31 and reportedly told police officials there he had information about Wood's assassination two days earlier.

FBI sources said Elliott was placed under protection after his name and the possible link the Wood killing became public.

The grand jury has been looking into the Nov. 21 attempted assassination of Assistant U.S. Attorney James Kerr since February. Kerr escaped with only minor glass cuts after an assailant opened fire on his car as he drove to work. Wood and Kerr had both been involved in massive investigations into huge drug smuggling rings centered in El Paso. No arrests have been made in either case.

Boy's homecoming from hospital

includes a visit to McDonald's WILLIAMSTON, Mich. (AP) - A stop at McDonald's was the first item on the homecoming agenda for 3-year-old Sammy Perkins, the boy whose feet were severed in a late-June hay-mowing accident. Then, a quiet welcome and a house full of gifts greeted Sammy Wednesday, on his return from Sparrow Hospital, where he had been staying since the June 23 accident. "The bedroom's kind of crowded with stuffed animals and toys," said Sammy's mother, Gloria. We're just trying to get organized."

Mrs. Perkins said the boy will return to Sparrow Hospital in Lansing, Mich., for therapy three times a week. When his leg wounds heal — in about four to six weeks — she said the casts above his artificial feet will be removed.

The day of the accident, the boy was playing in a hayfield near his home when a passing haymower severed his feet above the ankles. His parents raced Sammy and the severed feet to the hospital, about 15 miles from their Williamston home.

Surgeons spent 61/2 hours trying to re-attach the feet. It was the first time two feet had been re-attached in one surgical procedure, hospital public relations spokeswoman Ann Heglin said. But when blood circulation could not be restored, doctors had to remove the feet. At the time, hospital officials said the surgeons were "cautiously optimistic" but pointed out that the odds were against success.

Stock market mixed

NEW YORK (AP) - Stock prices were mixed today amid continuing apprehension over the shake-up of the Carter administration and further signals that the economy is slowing down. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial issues was off 1.96 to 826.62 at noon. But advances held a 4-3 edge over declines on the

New York Stock Exchange. There was disappointment in the personal income fig-ures released by the government. The personal income of Americans rose a modest 0.5 percent in June, compared with a rise of 0.7 percent in May, according to the Commerce Department.

J. Ray McDermott topped the active list at noon, rising % to 201/4.

The NYSE composite index of the exchange's more than 1,500 listed common stocks was off .01 to 57.75 at noon.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index gained .03 to 194.30. Volume on the Big Board in the first two hours of trading was 12.50 million shares, compared to 17.45 million shares at the same time Wednesday.

Among other active issues, Exxon rose % to 53½, Studebaker Worthington went up 11/8 to 39%, IBM was unchanged at 691/2, Caesars World lost % to 25% and Bally fell % to 40.

Economists expect recession worse than predictions

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — With both the man in the White House and the chairman of the Federal Reserve Board conceding that recession is already here or about to arrive, the question of degree now becomes the debate.

Many forecasters expect ecnomic prolems over the next year to be worse than foreseen by the White House, and that apparently includes G. William Miller, a Carter appointee who heads the Fed. Miller told the House Banking Committee this week that he foresees a "moderate" recession, with the 1979 economy shrinking 0.5 percent to 2 per-His forecast also anticipates price increases of as much as 11 percent this year and 8.5 percent to 10.5 percent next year, and unemployment hitting 6.25 percent to 7 percent by late this year and 6.9 percent in 1980. The White House forecast is for a 1979 decline in output of 0.5 percent, a rise in unemployment to 6.6 percent by the final quarter, and inflation of 9.8 percent this year and 8.1 percent in 1980. Compared with the experience over the past decade, both reports describe a dismal picture, a deeply damaged economy, particularly since inflation is seen as persisting at an unacceptably high rate. It wasn't more than a few years ago, you'll recall, that recession was viewed as a remedy - a painful one - for inflation. It was said that they opposed each other, countered each other. Or so it was Other beliefs also have been trampled in recent weeks, notably the administration's view that the economy would luck through, despite the near-consensus among private forecasters that a recession

Many economists still challenge the White House estimates as being too optimistic. Citibank's newsletter, Economic Week, comments this week that is has become more pessimistic than many forecast-

While "the White House is telling the country that this recession will be mild," it states, "slow moving cash registers are telling a yery different story.' Since December, it observes, retail sales have dropped roughly 6.5 percent, or more deeply than in many full recessions. "And if we hit a streak of bad luck," it concludes, 'this recession could vie with the last one (1973-1975) for the dubious distinction of being the deepest since World War Two.

Merrill Lynch Economics has just warned executive clients: "Caution is the watchword. This is a time when orders are likely to be canceled, and when credit difficulties may well begin to surface.'

It's recession forecast, to which it assigns a 70 percent probability, "calls for three consecutive quarters of negative real GNP (gross national product) ... beginning with the second quarter of 1979. Such forecasts have become typical in the past month or so, but there remain exceptions. Economists at Goldman, Sachs & Co., the investment house, have just issued a report questioning the recession forecasts.

Gary Wenglowski, chief economist, suggests that the economic condition might better be described as 'stagflation," suggesting a stagnant economy and a very slow decline in the rate of inflation.

Wenglowski predicts a rise in output of 1.8 percent for the year, and another gain of just under 1 percent in 1980. He foresees consumer prices rising 10.3 percent this year and 9 percent in 1980.

Regardless of the definition, that and other forecasts describe a condition that the nation has seldom experienced and which, in fact, was thought by some to be beyond the realm of economic possibli-

Gas supply rising along with prices

HOUSTON (AP) - The price of gasoline is still rising in Texas, but more is available, a survey by the American Automobile Association shows.

AAA said in its weekly report of 418 service stations that gasoline supplies are much improved in the Houston and Dallas-Fort Worth areas. Average statewide prices rose from 0.9 to 1.5 cents per gallon over last week's prices.

The average price of diesel was unchanged at 89.7 cents a gallon. The AAA said 17 percent of stations surveyed in Houston and D-FW will pump gas on Sunday, compared to only 7 percent last week. The governor's program - supplying more gas to stations in odd-even counties that agree to stay open weekends - apparently caused the improvement in Sunday gasoline supplies. Fuel availability throughout the state improved for nights and weekends, according to the survey.

Last week 25 percent of stations surveyed were open Sunday, 23 percent pumped gas after 8 p.m. weekdays and 39 percent stayed open after 6 p.m. Saturday. Corresponding percentages this week are 30, 26 and 43.

The number of stations out of at least one grade of fuel declined from 4 percent last week to 3 percent

Only 2 percent of the stations reported limiting customers' purchases.

Gasoline availability improved dramatically in San Antonio, with 35 percent of the stations surveyed open after 8 p.m. weekdays and 25 percent open Sunday, compared to 18 percent weekday night and 20 percent Sunday openings last week.

Weekend fuel availability also improved in Austin: 14 percent of the stations reported open Saturday night and Sunday compared to only 7 percent last

Sharp improvement in night and weekend fuel supplies was reported in Beaumont-Port Arthur, while supplies remained stable and relatively abundant in Corpus Christi, El Paso, Waco and Midland-

AAA reported stations along Interstate highways in small towns and rural areas have good supplies of fuel, Evening and Sunday drivers, it said, have few problems finding fuel along the Interstate except

Prices continued to increase this week, slightly more than last week's top increase of 1.1 cents per

Current average full-service prices (last week's average in parentheses) are: Regular 86.2 cents per gallon (85); unleaded 89.9 cents (89); and premium 91.7 (90.4).

Average self-service prices are: Regular 83.9 (82.4); unleaded 87.6 (86.3); and premium 88.9 (87.4).

Carter strolling with aide Hamilton Jordan named Wednesday as Carter's new chief of

Carter-Jordan relationship almost that of father-son

WASHINGTON (AP) — Everyone knows the funny side of Hamilton Jordan: he wears blue jeans and chews on ice cubes and drawls and cuts up.

And everyone knows the gossip about him: that he spat a drink at a woman in a bar and made a crack about the bosom of the wife of the Egyptian ambassador, something about "the pyramids of Egypt." Jimmy Carter knows the other side. As the first appointment of his born-again administration, Carter has designated Jordan his chief of staff. According to press secretary Jody Powell, Carter called in his top staff people Wednesday and told them "they should no longer consider Mr. Jordan their peer and they, or we, should act on his decisions as if they were his (the president's) own.' The relationship between Carter, 54, and Jordan, 34, is almost that of father and son.

Jordan sometimes makes it seem his life started in 1970, when he heard Carter campaign for the governorship of Georgia, was attracted to him and signed on - for the duration.

Jordan, son of a prosperous insurance agent, grew up in Albany, Ga., "spent five and a half unspecta-cular but fun-filled years" wresting a political science degree from the University of Georgia and two ears in Vietnam wih the Intrnational Voluntary Services.

After the 1970 campaign, he served as executive secretary to then-Gov. Carter and, when that term was ending, visited Carter one day "to tell you what you're going to do about your future" and presented him with a "prophetic" memo, now part of political

The memo outlined the strategy which would carry an unknown out-of-office Southern governor from Plains to Washington. It discussed how to deal with George Wallace and to curry political IOUs. It laid out a theme for the campaign.

"Perhaps the strongest feeling in this country

'Our 'public' strategy would probably be that Florida was the first and real test of the Carter campaign and that New Hampshire would be just a warmup. In fact, a strong surprise showing in New Hampshire should be our goal, which would have a tremendous impact on successive primaries.'

The memo revealed some of Jordan's serious side. make good use of them.

Jordan still writes memos for Carter. Sometimes they run 40 or 50 pages, and sometimes he works 12 hours polishing them on an electric typewriter. Probably no one except Rosalynn Carter knows the president's mind better, or influences it more. But little is known of Jordan's own opinions. family has liberal ties in Georgia. A relative of Jordan spent some time living at a pioneering interracial farm colony at a time when such an

White House reporters guess Jordan is liberal, more liberal than his boss. But it is possible he is little interested in political ideas or programs. "My commitment to politics," he once said, "is a commitment to Jimmy Carter."

Public labor and 13: Revolt against revolt

By ROGER GILLOTT

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Despite predictions a year ago that California's passage of revenue-slashing Proposition 13 would cause local governments to crumble and public employees to revolt, not much

Frustrated with few or no pay raises from depleted post-13 coffers and goaded by double-digit inflation, thousands of government workers have taken to the streets in sickouts and illegal strikes.

It is "only the tip of the iceberg," says William Robertson, head of the powerful AFL-CIO Los Angeles County Federation of Labor.

Tens of thousands more workers - from garbagemen to police officers to teachers - could be on strike by September.

Are the long-predicted doomsday chickens coming home to roost with Proposition 13?

MUCH OF THE answer will depend on a current budget battle between Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. and the state Legislature. The legislators said they would try again today to override Brown.

California's largest and most volatile public labor group is its 220,000 state employees, who received no pay raise at all last year. Brown imposed a wage freeze when voters approved Proposition 13.

The historic ballot initiative, which slashed local property taxes by 57 percent, robbed local government coffers of $7 billion a year revenues, and Brown decided the money that would have gone for state pay raises was more urgently needed to bail out local

Earlier this month, the Legislature voted to authorize a 14.5 percent wage boost to mollify bitter workers and help make up lost earnings. But Brown blue-penciled more than 5 percent of that raise.

An initial attempt by the Legislature to override the governor's cuts failed on Monday, which touched off a flurry of wildcat walkouts by state workers.

If the funds are not restored in legislative action today or sometime soon, says Keith Hearn of the giant California State Employees Association, massive strikes and sickouts are inevitable.

"WORKERS WERE angry and disappointed maybe somewhat intimidated - when Governor Brown slapped n the payfreeze and hiring freeze after Propoition 13. But in the face of possible massive layoffs of public workers, they didn't do anything," Hearn says.

"They're not going to put up with it again this year, and unless we get an equitable raise, we're going to see lots of strikes." The following job actions occurred this month

—Los Angeles County, the nation's largest with more than 7 million residents and 70,000 employees, has been plagued with two weeks of "rolling sickouts" that have hobbled hospitals, the sheriff's department and other agencies.

-Police in suburban Santa Monica staged a threeweek sickout that forced weary supervisors and administrators to drive patrol cars and work 12-hour shifts seven days a week. -The Southern California inland hub of Riverside was struck by city workers for the first time in its 106-year history. -Sheriff's deputies in San Bernardino County are staging a work slowdown. Deputies in Monterey

County struck for four days. -Garbage collectors in the agricultural heartland city of Fresno staged a week-long sickout and

-In San Diego County, the AFL-CIO Central Labor Council formed a special Public Employees Council to coordinate actions of several unions that officials say are likely to strike.

"THE OUTLOOK IS not very good," says Lori Kakos of San Diego's labor council. "Workloads have increased, but the money hasn't. Morale is way Between April and June, strikes and sickouts were staged by State Water Project workers, the California Highway Patrol, state prison guards, Riverside County employees and Santa Barbara County office workers and sheriff's deputies.

Discontent also is running high among many of the state's 250,000 teachers, according to John Donaldson of the California Federation of Teachers. CTA represents 187,000 of those teachers.

'Only about 20 percent of the school districts in the state have signed contracts for next year, and I expect that by the time September rolls around, strikes will either prevent schools from opening or occur shortly thereafter at 20 to 40 major districts,"

Before Proposition 13, local governments simply adjusted property tax rates upward to cover increased costs. That ended with 13, which mandated a property tax ceiling of 1 percent of assessed valua-NOW "BAILOUT funds" from the state have become essential to local governments, and it is difficult for cities and counties to settle labor contracts until they know how much money they will Last year, the state quickly came through with $5 billion in emergency funds, but this year's bailout plan became bogged down in the state Legislature. As a result, many local governments have stood firm on their meager pay raise proposals - Los Angeles County was offering just over 2 percent while contracts expired and workers resorted to strikes, sickouts and slowdowns.

"'You don't hear many complaints when workers in the private sector get raises of 8, 10 or even 12 percent" Hearn aid bitterly. "It is ridiculous to believe that public employees should settle for Many Customers Think It's Just Sound Business To Buy A Used Car. Year in and year out, we have certain steady customers who buy nothing but used cars.

To them, it makes good business sense to buy a good used car. In many cases, aside from the mileage...the only difference between a new car and a late model used car is the price! And if you'd like to pay hundreds of dollars less, we'll be glad to show you how. Here are just a few examples:
