Fire kills nine in Ohio motel

CAMBRIDGE, Ohio (AP) — Fire swept through a crowded two-story Holiday Inn in this eastern Ohio city today, killing at least nine persons, authorities said. Others escaped by smashing windows and leaping to the ground below.

Authorities at first thought 10 persons had died in the blaze. But Gayle Ogden, a spokeswoman at Guernsey Memorial Hospital, said a woman who suffered a heart attack and was believed dead was brought back to consciousness.

The bodies of four children and five adults were taken to three funeral homes in the area. Officials did not release identities on the victims and said some of the bodies were severely charred.

Guernsey Memorial Hospital officials said 61 persons were treated for injuries and 11 were hospitalized with cuts and broken bones.

A baby was found safe in the arms of her unconscious mother, lying in a pool of blood.

Trapped guests were seen banging on windows and screaming after the fire broke out about 3 a.m. at the motel, which is a quarter-mile north of the junction of Interstates 70 and 77 — the world's largest intersection in terms of area.

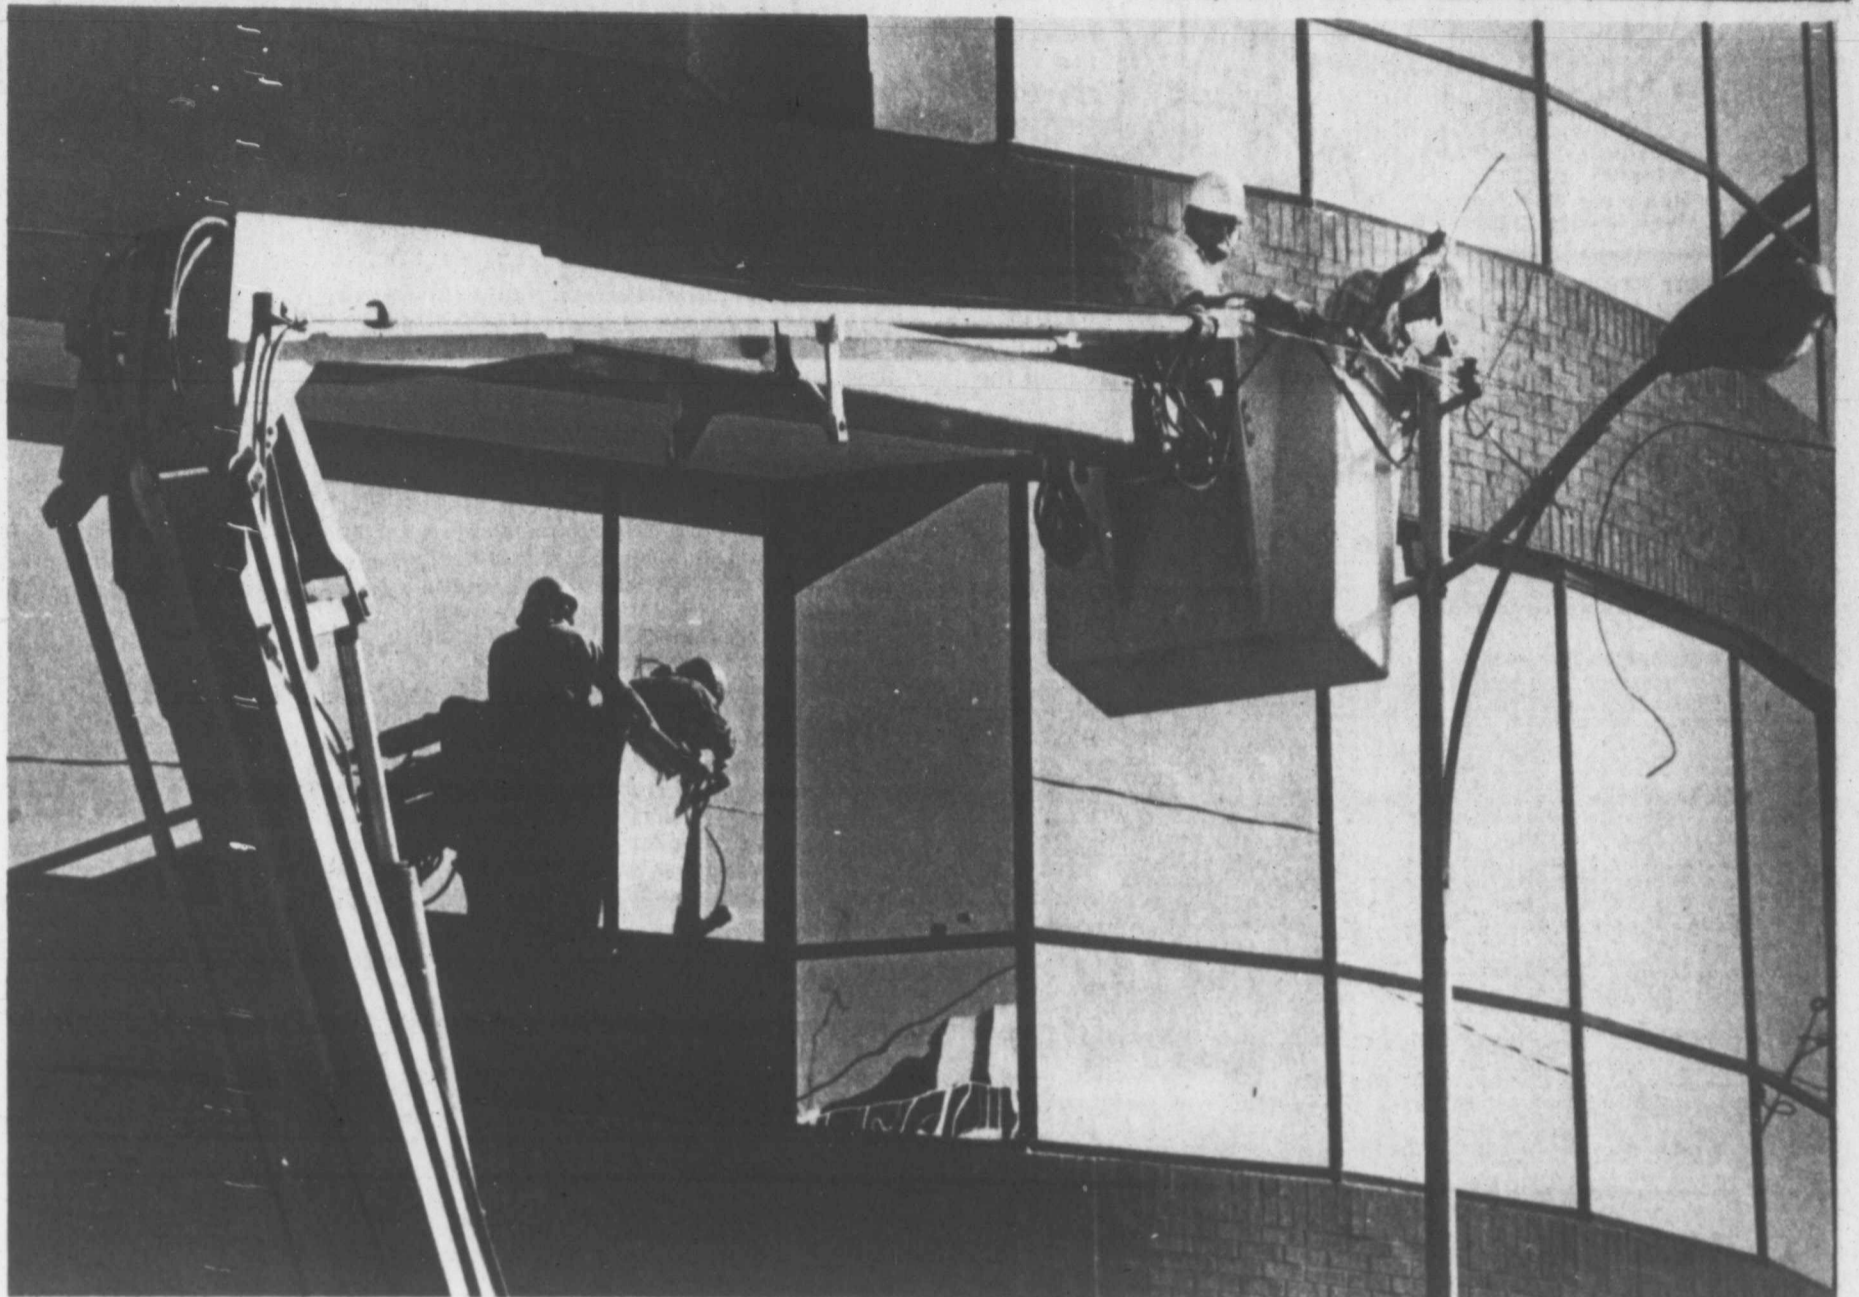

One youth picked up an iron bar and began smashing windows. Passersby found an old scaffold and rescued others.

Only four of the motel's 104 rooms were unoccupied, but the exact number of guests in the motel was not immediately known.

Most of the dead were found in hallways of the 10-year-old brick and wood structure. Fire officials said the blaze apparently started somewhere in the rear of the building.

The building was badly damaged but not destroyed.

The assistant manager of the motel, Mike Dawson, said firefighters were searching for additional bodies but thought all persons were out after the fire was brought under control at 6 a.m.

Another gas price hike in store for Midlanders

Midland motorists may face a sharp increase in area gasoline prices Wednesday.

In a spot check of service stations today, average price of regular gasoline in Midland was found to be 86.7 cents a gallon.

Average unleaded gasoline price was 89.2 cents and premium gasoline was hovering in the area of 91.8 cents a gallon.

Those prices reflect a steady increase since late last week, when the U.S. Department of Energy announced a new price formula.

Asked if the cost-to-consumer would go up even more, in line with DOE's new pricing regulations, several gas station employees today answered to the effect that their prices would be increased Wednesday by several cents.

The new pricing formula sets a 15.4-cent-a-gallon profit margin for independently owned gas stations.

As a result, dollar-a-gallon prices for premium and unleaded gas could become a reality here and throughout the rest of the nation Wednesday, the first official day of the new regulation's effect.

The new regulations will not be applicable to jobber-owned and refinery-owned stations, DOE officials have said.

Actual price of gasoline paid by customers, DOE officials have added, will depend on the tank wagon price at the time the regulations go into effect and the retailer's desire to be competitive.

Maximum figures for unleaded gas could go as high as $1.02 cents a gallon and the price for premium could be just under $1.01, at least one DOE representative has said.

Area gasoline prices today for regular ranged from 79.7 cents to 92.9; for unleaded gasoline, from 82.7 to 93.9 cents; and for premium gasoline, from 85.8 to 94.9 cents.

Investigation continuing into carnival shootings

The Midland County Sheriff's Department today was continuing its investigation of a Sunday night shooting incident at a church-sponsored carnival.

No formal charges have been filed in the melee, which took place about 10:30 p.m. Sunday.

Six men were injured Sunday night during the 19th Annual Family Fair at Our Lady of Guadalupe Church, 1301 Cherry Lane, when shooting erupted in the concession area of the carnival.

Law enforcement officials have theorized that "a longstanding feud" erupted in gunfire.

In a similar and — police said — possibly related incident Sunday morning, another man was shot in the back with a small caliber weapon.

Five men remained hospitalized in Midland Memorial Hospital today following the shootings.

A sixth man, John Cedallas, 20, was released from Odessa Medical Center Hospital Monday.

Those hospitalized in Midland include:

— Jose G. Galindo, 24, 1303 S. Jefferson St., gunshot wounds to right side and groin, critical condition.

— Henry Sanchez, 23, no address available, gunshot wounds to abdomen and back, serious condition.

— Ricky Rayos, 17, no address available, gunshot wounds to thigh and back, fair condition.

— Sammy Sanchez, 1604 Cottonwood St., gunshot wound to the back, fair condition.

Lt. John Kleinbans, an investigator with the Midland County Sheriff's Department, said today he was going to conduct additional interviews concerning the incidents.

Several spectators speculated that the shootings Sunday were the result of a vendetta.

PUC raps TESCO's capacity

Attorney says company's reserve unusually large

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Electric Service Co. is trying to charge its customers for an unusually large excess generating capacity, a state Public Utility Commission lawyer suggested Monday.

Allen King questioned why the Fort Worth-based company needs the capacity to generate 50 percent more electricity than its customers require at peak hours of a summer day.

At the first day of commission hearings on TESCO's $88 million requested rate hike, King cited other companies' backup power supply.

TESCO's customers in 48 counties eventually pay for a utility's reserve capacity, the lawyer said.

Houston Lighting and Power has an 18.7 percent power backup, Gulf States 13 percent and El Paso Electric Co. 23.3 percent, King said.

"Isn't this an unusually high reserve capacity?" he asked Wes Taylor, TESCO vice president for engineering.

"These are very unusual times for electric utilities," Taylor said.

TESCO and other utilities in the Texas Utilities system are converting from natural gas and oil power plants to lignite and nuclear fuels, Taylor said.

The conversion program accounts for some of the additional reserve capacity, the executive added.

King did not suggest how much extra capacity the company should maintain but indicated customers might be paying too much for the 50 percent reserve.

The commission staff has recommended a $27.5 million hike. Residential customer bills would increase by an average of $5 monthly if the company figure is approved. The hearing is expected to last seven to eight days.

Opponents of TESCO's rate request include Fort Worth, Burkburnett and Hurst; the county commissioners of Midland and Tarrant counties; the Texas Municipal League and the Association of Community Organizations for Reform Now (ACORN).

King also questioned Taylor about the company's request to maintain a 2 million-barrel fuel oil inventory for backup.

The utility commission approved only 1 million barrels in fuel oil reserves during TESCO's rate case last October. The company was granted a $40.4 million hike, but had asked for $110 million.

King said the commission staff thinks TESCO should be allowed to charge customers the cost of maintaining only a 1 million-barrel reserve. He said this would amount to a $1.3 million savings to customers.

TESCO President Bill Marquardt said the company needs a larger fuel oil inventory for several reasons. He said the federal government could divert natural gas supplies to the Northeast this winter.

The company would need the fuel oil, especially if freezing weather prevents mining of lignite in East Texas as happened this year, Marquardt told reporters.

Andrews traffic accident kills Hobbs woman, hurts one

ANDREWS — A Hobbs, N.M., woman was killed and a Florida man was injured about 6:15 p.m. Monday when the automobile they were riding in overturned 14 miles northeast of here on FM 1788, a spokesman for the Andrews County Sheriff's Department said today.

The spokesman identified the dead woman as Candice D. Hoofnagle, 29, of Hobbs, N.M. She was pronounced dead at the scene by Andrews County Peace Officer G.P. Ragsdale, the spokesman said.

William O. McClish, 52, of Miami Springs, Fla., was listed in critical condition in the intensive care unit at Odessa Medical Center Hospital today with head and chest injuries following the accident.

According to Department of Public Safety reports, the vehicle was northbound on FM 1788 when the left rear tire blew out, causing the driver to lose control.

The car overturned 1 1/2 times, throwing Mrs. Hoofnagle from the vehicle and pinning her beneath the wreckage, the DPS spokesman said.

Driver of the car, Frank Hoofnagle, was not injured in the accident.

What are the requirements for obtaining a hardship driver license?—C.S.

ANSWER: The procedure for obtaining such a license, which is issued to drivers under 18 years of age who have not had a Driver's Education Course, are outlined by the Driver License Division of the Texas Department of Public Safety.

A driver can apply for such a license when he is at least 15 years of age. He must obtain an application form from the department and fill it out with his parents. The next step is for the applicant and his parents to return to the department, meet with an officer, go over the application and discuss the need, such as driving to and from work or school.

The officer also will discuss the restrictions involved in such a license.

Next, the applicant must take a written test and driving test. A hardship license can be used until the driver reaches 18.

Accident kills Andrews man

CRANE — A 27-year-old Andrews man was killed about 11:30 a.m. Monday in an industrial accident at an oil production plant near here.

Jose Montoya of Andrews was working in an Atlantic-Richfield production plant about 10 miles northwest of Crane, according to reports.

Montoya was holding on to a piece of pipe carried by a fork lift when the pipe apparently came in contact with a high voltage wire, according to a Crane County Sheriff's Department spokesman today.

An ambulance transported Montoya to a Crane hospital, where he was pronounced dead on arrival by Peace Officer Mary Teague.

More thunderstorms may hit Permian Basin area tonight

By BILL MODISSETT
Staff Writer

Late afternoon thunderstorms pelted the Permian Basin area Monday and the weatherman said more of the same could occur tonight and Wednesday.

Although an official .32 inch of rain was recorded at the National Weather Service office at Midland Regional Airport late Monday, rain throughout the city and the area was spotty.

High wind damaged two Texas Electric Service Co. poles on Midland's northside late Monday, leaving 1,157 residents without electric service for about 40 minutes.

According to Shug Bowlin, staff assistant and media coordinator for TESCO, the two poles were blown over by high winds about 5:25 p.m. Monday, causing a brief power outage at Ranchland Hills, Midland Country Club, Hogan Golf Course and Parkview Hospital.

There was no major damage, Bowlin said, and service was restored within about 40 to 45 minutes.

About the same time, a major rain shower was reported 10 miles east of Midland. According to the weather service, that rainstorm dropped 1.3 inches about 6:24 p.m.

Several points in Midland reported receiving showers late Monday afternoon, but amounts of rainfall were light.

Answer Line...

I am concerned with the weeds and trash which have accumulated on vacant lots throughout the city, particularly one located at West Wall and B streets.—Mrs. G.S.

ANSWER: You are not alone in your query, because a city of Midland Inspection Department spokesman says the department is working as hard and rapidly as possible in taking care of some 100 similar reports.

Complaints should be made to the Inspections Department, 683-4281. A city inspector then takes a look at the lot, and if he discovers the lot to be in violation of city ordinances, the lot owner is given notice to clean his property. The city of Midland is responsible for care of lots owned by the city.

If the property owner does not comply, the city can move in and assess mowing costs to the owner.

The trouble in some situations, the department says, is that many owners do not live in Midland and are difficult to contact.

In order to speed up the lot-cleaning process, the department hopes to have additional manpower in the near future.

Sometime this summer there was a recipe for Chocolate Chip Cookies in the Mini-Page of The Reporter-Telegram. The cookies were delicious and I want to make them again, but have lost the recipe. Can you find it for me?—Mrs. Lloyd Peek

ANSWER: The recipe you refer to appeared in the Mini-Page of June 10. The recipe is as follows:

Ingredients: 1 package yellow cake mix (two-layer size), 2 eggs, 1/2 cup vegetable oil, 2 tablespoons water, 1 package (6 ounce) semisweet chocolate chips.

Procedure: Mix cake mix, eggs, oil and water until all are moist. Stir in chocolate chips. Drop by the teaspoonful onto a greased cookie sheet (about 2 inches apart). Bake at 350 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes; cool. Don't expect these to brown.

Fires destroy vehicle, shed

A storage shed used by Midland Boy Scouts and an automobile were destroyed in two separate fires Monday.

Three units of the Midland Fire Department responded at 12:05 a.m. to a blaze at 3500 Cunningham Drive, according to fire reports.

Firemen arrived to find a shed connected to the west end of the house in flames.

The shed and its contents were destroyed by the fire, according to reports, and the house, owned by the Rotary Club, received heavy damage on the west end.

Cause of the blaze had not been determined today, reports indicated. The shed contained materials used by Boy Scout Troops 96 and 280.

A 1969 Plymouth with New Mexico license plates was destroyed by flames after lightning struck utility lines on West U.S. Highway 80, causing the lines to fall on the car.

The incident, which occurred near the Coors Building, happened about 6 p.m. as a thunderstorm moved through the Midland area.

Lightning struck a phase-down, or the three top wires on the line, a spokesman for Texas Electric Service Co. said today.

Owner of the car had not been determined today.

Second Odessa official resigns

ODESSA — The city of Odessa has lost its second top official in less than a week.

Bryan Henderson, director of public works and city engineer, Monday submitted his resignation effective today to City Manager Kerry Sweatt.

Last Thursday, Assistant Police Chief Tommy Callendar was asked to resign over an unrelated matter.

City officials would not comment on whether Henderson's resignation was requested, but acknowledged the 14-year city employee has had "differences of opinion" with members of the City Council in the past.

Henderson's letter of resignation said he was resigning "in the interests of a better community."

Henderson's duties included overseeing a number of capital improvement projects including construction of a new fire station and an overhead storage tank, traffic signalization project and street overlay work.

Henderson joined the city staff in August 1965. He was named city engineer in October 1968 and director of public works in January 1971.

Death ruling returned

MONAHANS — A Monahans peace justice has ruled that the death of a man found hanging in his jail cell July 23 was self-inflicted.

Peace Justice Ed Hammond rendered the ruling in the death of Wesley Chamberlain. The official autopsy report showed that Chamberlain died from suffocation and strangulation.

He was being held in Ward County Jail on bonds totalling $115,000 on five felony charges at the time of his death.

Judge rules state has no jurisdiction

CARLSBAD, N.M. — District Judge John B. Walker ruled Monday morning in favor of the four men — three of them Odessans — who allegedly held a federal employee hostage in Carlsbad Caverns July 10.

Judge Walker released the men from state felony charges.

A writ of habeas corpus filed last week in the Fifth Judicial District Court in Eddy County, N.M., had questioned the state's jurisdiction in matters occurring on federally-owned property.

Walker ruled that the state of New Mexico had no jurisdiction in the July 10 incident.

The judge's action put an end to three weeks of indecision over jurisdiction in the case, which had been tossed between state and federal officials.

The four men, originally charged with federal misdemeanors, are Dennis James Mark, 39, of Riesel, and Eugene Hiram Meroney, 31, William Charles Lovejoy, 28, and David W. Kuczynski, 28, all of Odessa.

Eddy County Sheriff's Department currently is holding the four men in custody for the U.S. Marshal in Albuquerque, N.M., where they are to be arraigned later this week.

They are charged with damage to government property — a federal misdemeanor punishable by one year imprisonment and/or by $1,000 in fines upon conviction, said U.S. Attorney R.E. Thompson in Albuquerque, N.M.

The charge is in reference to shots fired into the caverns' elevators, an Eddy County Sheriff's department spokesman said.

At the men's initial arraignment, District Judge Harvey W. Fort of Carlsbad refused to accept misdemeanor charges. Subsequently, the Eddy County District Attorney's Office filed state felony charges of kidnapping and aggravated assault against the foursome.

The foursome was to have faced a preliminary hearing on the state felony charges today in Carlsbad, but that hearing was canceled after state charges were dropped as a result of the Monday hearing.

Rachel Thompson flashes a big smile as she, her husband Russell and their daughter Caroline face reporters early today on their return to Daytona Beach.

Caroline Thompson, 5, reunited with parents after kidnapping

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — As tears streamed from her parents' eyes, little Caroline Thompson hugged a playmate and smiled at reporters after her rescue from the teen-ager who allegedly abducted her from a hotel parking lot.

The blue-eyed, blonde 5-year-old clung to her father as she left the Myrtle Beach, S.C., police station where she had munched contentedly on a hot dog and asked for a chocolate milkshake following the ordeal that ended in that resort city Monday.

"She's fine," said Rachel Thompson, her voice cracking and her eyes red from crying, who along with her husband Russell was flown by chartered jet to Myrtle Beach where they were reunited with their daughter and met some neighbors who had been vacationing there.

"She wanted to have her picture in the newspaper a while back but we didn't know it would be like this."

James Keith Tucker, an 18-year-old High Point, N.C., man whom officials said was on parole for an earlier auto theft conviction, was arrested Monday evening. He was held in Florence, S.C., this morning on a $200,000 bond for kidnapping and a $50,000 bond for auto theft, set by U.S. Magistrate E.A. Swearingen.

Tucker, who did not enter a plea at the hearing, waived his right to a removal hearing — the federal equivalent of a state extradition hearing.

FBI Special Agent David Brumble of Jacksonville, Fla., said before the rescue that authorities believed the man only meant to steal the car, and did not plan to abduct the girl.

The Thompsons returned to Daytona Beach several hours after Caroline was found and was whisked by police to the Holiday Inn where the incident began Saturday — hoping finally to begin their vacation.

The parents had remained at the hotel in Daytona Beach until word came that their daughter was safe.

At a motel press conference on their return, Mrs. Thompson said she was thankful that the abductor took care of her child.

"He didn't hurt her in any way and tried to comfort her by telling her that he was taking her to her mother and daddy at home," she said.

Asked how Caroline reacted when she saw her parents again, she said: "She was just as normal as ever and is just beginning to understand that many people have been looking for her."

Caroline, cradled in her father's arms, appeared sleepy and said nothing.

The Dunwoody, Ga., family's two-day ordeal ended when Donald and Edith Howell of Goldsboro, N.C., told FBI agents they noticed a man and Caroline as they checked into a Myrtle Beach motel Sunday.

But it wasn't until the couple saw pictures of a suspect and Caroline on television Monday that they realized she was the missing girl.

The Howells quickly notified police, who spotted a man driving the Thompsons' late model Oldsmobile station wagon near the motel.

The car zoomed away, officials said. One patrolman took two shots at the tires, police said, but failed to stop the car. The high-speed chase through Myrtle Beach ended seven miles later, when Patrolman David Smith used his cruiser to block the speeding station wagon.

The little girl and the family's two dogs were safe in the back of the car.

As they left Myrtle Beach late Monday for a flight back to Daytona Beach, Mrs. Thompson thanked reporters for issuing their pleas to the kidnapper.

"No words I can ever utter can express our appreciation for everything you did to let it be known how we were looking for her and how much we needed her back," she said.

Thompson said he did not know how long they might remain in Florida. "Right now, this little girl is tired and she wants to go to the beach tomorrow and to the pool tomorrow and she's got to get to bed," he said.

Senate panel approves bill to aid Mennonites

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The Senate Judiciary Committee today unanimously approved legislation by Texas Sen. Lloyd Bentsen allowing a community of Mennonite immigrants who settled near Seminole to remain in this country.

Bentsen hailed the committee action and urged quick approval of his bill by the full Senate.

"Almost all the members of the Mennonite Church who came to Seminole fled from Mexico and the threat that their land in that country would be confiscated," Bentsen said.

"They entered this country on temporary visitor visas in the spring of 1977 after they were misled into believing they would be allowed to live here if they purchased land."

"Unfortunately, the group had been misinformed, and they found themselves subject to the possibility of deportation, despite their numerous good-faith efforts to comply with American law."

Efforts by the Immigration and Naturalization Service to deport the Mennonites have been suspended because of the legislation introduced by Bentsen which, if approved by Congress, will allow them to remain in this country and eventually become citizens.

The Bentsen bill approved by the Judiciary Committee Tuesday grants permanent resident status to 653 members of the community living in the area around Seminole.

Last April 3 — about two years after the fundamentalist religious order arrived in the U.S. from Mexico and Canada — they lost their 10 sections of farm land in an auction resulting from their inability to honor notes in paying for the land.

The land, south of Seminole in Gaines and Andrews counties, reverted to the original landowner, Lamesa farmer-rancher Dennis Nix.

The land, which the Old Colony Mennonite Church had agreed to buy for $1.7 million, was auctioned off for $1,151,000.

The original 256 Mennonite families here agreed to pay Nix the $1.7 million over a period of 10 years.

But leadership within the church waned, a drought plagued the farmland, water rights were denied them and the Mennonites were unable to honor their pledge in paying off the indebtedness.

In two years, the Mennonites had paid $575,000 toward their debt total, but defaulted on later payments.

Most Odessa police officers join in effort to obtain union charter

ODESSA — The majority of Odessa's 134-member working police force is seeking membership in the International Police Officers Association primarily to insure job security, a union advocate said today.

Sixty-three of the officers already have paid dues in the association, claimed Detective David King, one of the association backers.

"King said he believes the Odessa officers should get their association charter 'within the next 48 hours.'"

Their action reportedly stemmed from the forced resignation last Thursday of Assistant Police Chief Tommy Callendar, who was asked to resign by Police Chief Jack Tomlin after Callendar reportedly told two police officers not to appear at probation revocation hearings in El Paso unless they were subpoenaed.

The El Paso hearing was not held when the officers failed to appear to testify.

Tomlin declined today to make any comment on the unionization efforts.

Approximately 100 police officers gathered Monday in two meetings to discuss membership in the association or union.

"I'm not much on the word 'union,'" said King. "When the word union is mentioned, the first thing people think of is 'strike,' and the Odessa Police Department is not planning on ever going on strike.

"They do not plan even on a work slowdown. The policemen will not turn their badges in."

"We will not advocate this," King said. "We will not tolerate this in any way. And any of our men who do will be subjected to dismissal," he said.

King said purpose of seeking association membership is job security.

"We would hope to have job security, and would hope to have input on how the department is run," King said. "We do not plan to run it, by any means."

The association's goals, in addition to job security of the officers, would be to "have a better (police) department by any means and to do a better job ourselves," he said.

King said the association attorneys would represent IPOA members in possible lawsuits and other litigation.

King said efforts to organize an IPOA chapter here were "not to get (Assistant) Chief Callendar's job back...at this time." But after the chapter is organized, members may vote on seeking job reinstatement of Callendar, he said.

King today held that Callendar's departure sparked interest in IPOA.

"The fuel was already in the department," King said. "The forced resignation of Callendar was probably what lit the fuel."

IPOA representative Richard Keselup has been meeting with the officers, King said.

A Midland chapter of IPOA was formed about two years ago.

U.S. making friendly show to Rhodesia

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has been making friendly gestures toward the new government of Zimbabwe Rhodesia to counter conservative charges that U.S. policies have aided the country's guerrilla forces, U.S. officials say.

But these measures appear to have undermined black African confidence in the United States' ability to steer a neutral course between the contending factions in Zimbabwe Rhodesia's eight-year civil war.

President Carter reaffirmed in June his intention to retain economic sanctions against the southern African country. But the impact of that policy has been softened by these measures.

Carter's decision to meet with Prime Minister Abel Muzorewa three weeks ago, despite his status as the head of an unrecognized government.

The granting of a U.S. visa to the chief justice of the Zimbabwe Rhodesian Supreme Court, Hector MacDonaid. This is an apparent violation of United Nations' sanctions governing foreign travel by persons who normally reside in that country.

The sending of a U.S. envoy, Jeffrey Davidow, to serve as an unofficial U.S. representative in Zimbabwe Rhodesia, and a tentative decision to receive two Muzorewa government officials who will do public relations work in the United States.

A senior State Department official, who asked not to be identified, conceded these gestures were an attempt to "redress the perception" in the United States that the administration is unilaterally opposed to the Muzorewa experiment.

The country now has a black prime minister and a black majority parliament for the first time, but it also has a constitution that reserves extensive privileges for its 4 percent white population.

Black African countries have reacted negatively to the U.S. displays of friendship toward Muzorewa. At its recent annual meeting, the Organization of African Unity approved a resolution declaring the Patriotic Front, the guerrilla movement, the "sole legitimate and authentic representative" of the Zimbabwe Rhodesian people.

12-year-olds walk streets, ready to fight Khomeini

SANANDAJ, Iran (AP) — Armed Kurds, some only 12 years old, walk the streets of this capital of Iranian Kurdistan, brandishing their weapons and ready to shoot it out with Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's forces.

Heavily armed tribesmen were at tight roadblocks at intervals on the main highway through the Kurds' province in northwest Iran. Machine-gun emplacements are located at strategic points, and no government forces are in sight.

Seeking the home rule and autonomy Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi and his predecessors denied them, the Kurds claim to control the roads from Kermanshah to Rezayieh, a distance of 270 miles along the Iraqi and Turkish borders. Government forces have made no major attempt to challenge them.

A major confrontation appears to be shaping up this week at the town of Marivan, 45 miles northwest of Sanandaj and close to the Iraqi frontier, where the Tehran government sent a force of revolutionary militia men week before last to establish its authority. Marivan's population deserted the town and set up camps in the nearby hills and villages. Then Kurds from farther north started marching south to protest the military occupation of the town. They were reported to have numbered 10,000 at the start, but 30,000 now are reported on the march, and they are expected at Marivan today.

Thirty government soldiers and Kurdish fighters were reported killed and scores were reported wounded in clashes around Marivan. A government column of 30 tanks and four armored personnel carriers set out from Kermanshah to reinforce the militiamen at Marivan a week ago, but unarmed women and children blocked the road outside the town of Kamyaran. They told the troops they would lie in front of the tanks if they tried to pass.

The column turned back but three days ago started north again, this time accompanied by a number of Khomeini's revolutionary guards.

Bob goes 'way out'

State Comptroller Bob Bullock really went way out on a limb Thursday in urging labor to unionize state employees.

It was, indeed, a surprise action, and if it was his intention to shock his fellow Texans, then he got over real big. But it is quite doubtful if he gained many, if any, votes or supporters outside of organized labor and possibly some state employees.

Bullock, in addressing Texas AFL-CIO convention delegates at Austin, said if an AFL-CIO union would organize state employees into a collective bargaining unit he would be the first state official "to recognize an AFL-CIO union on all matters not restricted by the appropriations bill or state law." What a grandstand play!

And of course, the convention delegates whooped it up in a big way, and of course Harry Hubbard, AFL-CIO president, responded by saying, "I guarantee you we will follow through on your challenge."

Unionization of state employees is one thing the Lone Star State certainly can get along very well without, and we were delighted to see Gov. Bill Clements' reply that he is "absolutely opposed" to such a move.

The governor said further that state employees will not gain any benefits or improve their efficiency if they join a labor union.

In response to Bullock's comment that many state employees fear losing their jobs to the governor's drive to reduce the payroll by 25,000 persons (during his four-year term), Clements said the employees should not be fearful of losing their jobs. "We have a 25 percent turn rate in state employees each year. We are in a position of not hiring, (instead of) terminating," he explained.

Bullock, in his address, also said that state employees "need a real friend. They need someone who's going to stick by them. Someone who can produce other than just promise."

"Their cart is stuck in the ditch and they need you, every one of you, to help them pull it out. They need to be represented by the Texas AFL-CIO." Hogwash!

He went on and on, saying at one point that the 5.1 percent annual pay raise given the employees by the 1979 Legislature "won't keep up with inflation."

He told the delegates that it's not going to be any better and the future "holds no hope without your help. I'm here today to ask you for help on behalf of 169,000 state employees..."

And now you know the feeling and position of the comptroller in the role of union advocate.

What prompted Bullock to get out on this particular limb, we have no idea whatsoever.

And neither does the governor, who said he tried to call Bullock without success. "He apparently said that and left town," Clements added. We can't say that we would blame Bullock for leaving town after such a blast.

"I really don't understand Bob's position on that regard or what prompted him to say it at this particular moment," Gov. Clements said, adding that if Bullock wants to run for governor, "he's just going to have to get in line like the others."

For the time being, we will just have to wait and see whether or not Mr. Bullock gets in line officially somewhere along the way to the next gubernatorial election.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Shah's threats to U.S. cited

WASHINGTON — Top-secret State Department cables — one of them double encoded, preventing the CIA from reading it — reveal that the shah of Iran personally threatened to shut down the massive U.S. intelligence operation in Iran if any action were taken to check the illegal activities of SAVAK in the United States. SAVAK was the shah's notorious secret police.

The bullying tone of the shah's warnings to then-Secretary of State Henry Kissinger casts new light on the strange relationship between these two international power brokers. Over the years, we have told about Kissinger's curious obsequiousness toward the shah — which continued even after the shah's downfall, when Kissinger used his influence to arrange asylum in Mexico for the exiled dictator.

Whether Kissinger also used his considerable influence as secretary of state to block any crackdown on SAVAK's criminal operations in this country is not clear. What is clear is that that nothing was done about SAVAK's activities — mainly directed at anti-shah dissidents in this country — beyond a timid Justice Department investigation that ended inconclusively.

The shah's messages to Kissinger were conveyed by American Ambassador Richard Helms and Ardeshir Zahedi, the urbane, party-giving Iranian ambassador in Washington, in late 1976 and early 1977. They are contained in a supersensitive Senate report on foreign intelligence operations in this country.

The messages between Tehran and Foggy Bottom make it painfully clear that the shah was holding our CIA agents in Iran hostage to give his secret police a free hand in the United States. Following a public outcry in October 1976, over SAVAK's operations in this country, the Iranian Foreign Ministry issued a cautious statement warning of retaliation in case of a U.S. crackdown on SAVAK.

In a secret cable on Nov. 7, 1976, Helms reiterated the warning. "The statement serves notice," he wired Kissinger, "that any restraints imposed upon, or actions taken toward, Iranian representatives in the United States would be reciprocated here."

Two days later, Assistant State Secretary Alfred L. Atherton Jr., met with the Iranian ambassador in Washington and reported afterward: "(Zahedi) said that if we did not like what SAVAK is doing here, Iran would send its agents home. Then, of course, the United States would have to bring its agents from Iran. It was, he said, simple reciprocity."

On Dec. 27, 1976, Helms relayed another message from the shah to Kissinger. "The shah is very concerned to maintain the special relationship between Iran and the United States," he wired. "He contends that no SAVAK representative is operating against the United States or its citizens. Put another way, SAVAK is not authorized to conduct activities counter to U.S. law."

Helms spelled out the tit-for-tat possibilities, warning against "an inflammatory, public brouhaha over possibly ill-advised intelligence activity" by SAVAK. "As you well know," he reminded Kissinger, "we are very beholden here in the intelligence area and therefore correspondingly vul-

America's idle rich out of touch with reality

By CHARLEY REESE Sun Belt Syndicate

ORLANDO, Fla. — I was wondering the other day if all of the people trying to save whales and baby seals eat hamburgers.

Ronald McDonald, of course, gets his hamburgers by bashing bovines in the head. Those of us who enjoy bacon and ham are able to do so because somebody kills the Three Little Pigs. We also fry Chicken Little and eat fish which have been hooked, netted and suffocated before we fry them in batters with secret ingredients.

I wonder sometimes if the animal fanatics have ever heard of the chain of life concept which is best summarized by the backwoods saying, "All creatures great and small eat and get eat."

I have no desire to upset children. I'm just concerned that too many people living in an urban environment are losing touch with reality. I run into people who act as if their existence did not depend on human labor and the sacrifice of other life forms.

"All life is of one basic substance so it doesn't cut any mustard with me when people say they eat only vegetables. What's the difference between killing a carrot and killing a rabbit? The difference is the carrot can't squeal or wiggle so you can pretend you aren't doing what you are doing which is destroying the life of the carrot to sustain your own.

There is no bigger herd of hypocrites than the anti-hunters. Most of them eat flesh and wear skins. They just want someone else to do their killing for them so they can fantasize about Bambi living to a ripe old age and retiring in some antlered sun city. Well, the world doesn't work that way. If the hunter misses Bambi, then disease or starvation or another animal will get him.

Most sportsmen are great conservationists. To them, the outdoors is not a political theory of a government-constructed hiking path with little signs, but a well-used, well-loved environment. Hunters were fighting for and financing conservation several generations before today's crop of environmentalists started leaving their trash for someone else to pick up after Earth Day celebrations.

Instead of teaching children fairy tales, we should teach them to hunt and to fish so they can learn first hand the true interdependence of life.

There is a poignant moment of truth for a youngster when he stands over his first kill. He learns there is a price for everything, including his excitement and pleasure in the hunt. He learns what a responsibility it is to carry a lethal firearm. He learns about the finality of death and the irreversibility of some decisions, and he gets his first inkling of his own mortality.

Most animal fanatics are not hunters, have never hunted, and don't know any hunters. A lot of them are just nasty people who don't like their fellow man and channel their emotions toward animals.

There are bad hunters naturally just as there are bad anybodyes and sometimes greed does result in overkill, but in a world of hungry people, it's rather presumptuous of the rich and well-fed to preach sermons to the protein-short nations.

Only Japan and Russia hunt whales on a large scale today. They hardly waste an ounce. Whale oil is used to make margarine, laundry soaps and other industrial products. Whale meat is eaten in Japan and Norway and also used as food for dogs, cats and minks. Other parts of the whale are used as livestock feed and fertilizer.

I would hate to see the whales go. I'm sorry the dinosaurs went and all the other species which disappeared, with or without man's help, but I'm not going to sit here with my comfortable job and tell another man trying to feed his family that he can't hunt whales or take seal pelts because it offends my sensibilities.

My first loyalty is to my fellow man. If I were a Japanese whaler and some rich American nut tried to interfere in my work, I'd part his hair with a harpoon.

In our times, with all our pressing and dangerous problems, the seal and whale crusade strikes me as just one more example of how out of touch with reality America's idle rich are. Thousands of Vietnamese refugees are drowning and starving and these silly sons of fools are worrying about whales.

INSIDE REPORT:

Another SALT blooper discovered as debate launched

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

Evans Novak

WASHINGTON — A reading of the fine print in the SALT II treaty after it went to the Senate has revealed, to the horror of supporters of the arms control pact, an uncanny repetition of the worst U.S. blooper in the 1972 SALT I treaty.

The 1972 mistake, not discovered until long after ratification, failed to pin down specific limits on the size of a replacement for the SS-11 intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM). Now, in a new negotiating blooper discovered as Senate ratification debate begins, SALT II does not clearly define the size of Moscow's mainstay SS-19 ICBM, which it sets as the limit on the size of any new missiles.

That history should be so sadly replayed is explicable only by this fact: the Russians simply refused to agree on a specific definition of the size of the SS-19. This adds new evidence that U.S. negotiators, under orders from Washington for an agreement at almost any cost, bowed to the iron will of their Soviet counterparts.

Ironically, the 1979 mistake occurred in an effort to correct the effect of the 1972 negotiating blunder. By failing to pin down the size of the new Soviet ICBMs, SALT I contributed to the vulnerability of land-based U.S. missiles. Limiting future Russian ICBMs to the size of the SS-19 in an effort to protect the land-based U.S. missile force.

But if there was no agreement on the size of the SS-19, how can Moscow legally be held to the terms of the treaty?

The answer: it cannot, any more than it could be forced to comply with the clear understanding of limits on "new" missiles in the 1972 treaty, negotiated by Henry Kissinger.

Kissinger relied, to his later dismay, on what he called the "safeguard" of Soviet assurance "that no missiles larger than the heaviest light missile that now exists can be substituted." In 1972, that was the SS-11. But after SALT I took effect, the SS-11 was replaced by the SS-19, which almost was half again as big.

President Carter's negotiators retraced Kissinger's slippery footsteps, relying on their own understanding of the size of the SS-19. The Soviets typically refused to agree or disagree with the U.S. definition.

The State Department virtually admits that it could not nail down the Soviets. Its "detailed analysis" of the treaty, sent to all senators, spells out this country's position: the U.S. "considers" the SS-19 to have a launch-weight (weight in the silo) of 90,000 kilograms and a throw-weight (weight of the warheads) of 3,600 kilograms. These are key measurements of size. "These figures are based on our estimate for the SS-19," the senators were told. "The Soviet Union did not respond to this statement (but) the U.S. will regard these figures as the limits for the one new type of...ICBM permitted to the United States."

But will the Russians? Realists here doubt it, anymore than in 1972. Kissinger learned the hard truth slowly, as U.S. monitors in Iran began to accumulate data on the true size of the new SS-19 being tested to replace the old SS-11.

Trapped by Soviet duplicity three years later, Kissinger found himself lamely explaining away the sudden appearance of the big SS-19. "We obviously did not know in 1972 what missiles the Soviet Union would be testing in 1974," Kissinger told a State Department press conference on Dec. 9, 1975.

But there was no way to stop SS-19 development. Moscow blithely kept insisting its new missile was just a slightly updated model of the old SS-11. Now, following SALT II, the Russians have a loophole to sustain their own version of a "legal" follow-on missile to the SS-19 by claiming that the U.S. definition of the SS-19's size is simply wrong, and that Moscow never agreed on it.

This would not come up if the Russians played fair and square. But they play to win; they take advantage of whatever opportunity is granted.

Discovery of Soviet deception on the SS-19 by the Nixon-Ford administration long after SALT I took effect depended on America's ally, Iran. But the true size of the SS-19 almost certainly would have eluded U.S. intelligence for even longer had it not been for U.S. monitoring stations in northern Iran, just south of the main Soviet test range.

These stations no longer exist, and the U.S. is not close to duplicating them. This enhances the strong probability that the one new Soviet missile permitted under the treaty will not only greatly exceed limits set forth by U.S. negotiators but will not reveal its full launch-weight and throw-weight until it has been tested repeatedly — ready to enter the Soviet missile force.

This undermines the SALT-sellers' argument that the treaty, while not accomplishing all that much, does no harm. To the contrary, this new revelation of non-Yankee bargaining suggests that the Soviet Union, under SALT II as under SALT I, will loophole its way to nuclear supremacy while Americans play by the rules.

Old Chinese custom says smoke, but smoking campaign says don't PEKING (AP) — China, where smoking is an ancient national pastime, announced today a multi-media anti-smoking campaign and urged schools to prohibit students from lighting up.

The official Xinhua (Hsinhua) news agency reported that "propaganda on the harms of smoking and on smoking control" was issued July 23.

The government has tried unsuccessfully in the past to limit smoking and the latest announcement said more and more people, including women and youth, are taking up the habit in urban and rural areas.

Earlier this month, former U.S. Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph Califano brought his anti-smoking campaign to the People's Republic.

Califano said Chinese health officials were very receptive to his ideas. Out of courtesy to him, he said, not an official cigarette was lit at an official meeting. There was no suggestion in today's announcement, however, that Califano had anything to do with the new anti-smoking campaign.

The state statistics bureau reported that 150 percent more cigarettes were sold last year than in 1975, but gave no actual figures.

Current statistics were not available, but in 1975 it was reported that China's total output of tobacco was 9.5 million tons. The crop is grown on both commune-owned and privately owned land.

The current government campaign proposes educating the public on the health hazards of smoking through newspapers, broadcasts, films, pictures and slides.

Mrs. Thatcher shown all courtesy of muggers in subway, paper says

LUSAKA, Zambia (AP) — Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher arrived for the Commonwealth Conference amid an unprecedented chorus of condemnation from the Zambian government's press mouthpieces. Conservative British newspapers responded in kind.

Scores of welcoming blacks at the Lusaka airport smiled and applauded as the head of Britain's Conservative government arrived Monday for the 39-nation conference at which her policy toward the new government of Zimbabwe Rhodesia will be the chief issue.

But the government-controlled Times of Zambia accused her of "blind and pusillanimous arrogance." The Zambia Daily Mail said she was "racially biased." And President Kenneth Kaunda in a newspaper interview said her fear of the Russians was very sad "because when people become frightened, they lose their reason."

The London Daily Mail said Mrs. Thatcher was greeted "with the diplomatic courtesy a gang of muggers might reserve for a solitary woman travelling on a late-night Tube (subway)."

"Imagine the fury that would convulse the Commonwealth if the roles were reversed and Mrs. Thatcher welcomed a black leader to Britain in this fashion. Kenneth Kaunda's conduct is inexcusable," said the Mail.

The Daily Telegraph warned her not to be coerced into delaying the lifting of economic sanctions against Zimbabwe Rhodesia, asserting "this would be the triumph of the bullet over the ballot box." It added:

"Even those African leaders who try to make our flesh creep by threatening to bring in the Russians and the Cubans know well enough that such allies cannot supply what their economically ruined countries must have — Western aid, trade and technology."

As Mrs. Thatcher arrived, Kaunda was meeting at his residence with the leaders of Angola, Botswana, Mozambique and Tanzania, called the front-line states because of their proximity to Zimbabwe Rhodesia and their support of the two guerrilla armies fighting to overthrow the elected bi-racial government there.

Although Angola and Mozambique are not members of the Commonwealth, they met with the other three to work out joint strategy for Zambia, Tanzania and Botswana at the conference opening Wednesday.

Mrs. Thatcher has indicated that because of the installation of an elected government in Zimbabwe Rhodesia, the Conservative majority in the British House of Commons will let economic sanctions against the former colony lapse in the fall, and her government may even recognize the new government headed by Prime Minister Abel Muzorewa.

However, Tanzanian President Julius Nyerere, the president of the front-line group, indicated he expected Mrs. Thatcher to keep her plans for the future to herself and avoid a confrontation with the Muzorewa government's foes at the conference.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON Aggressive men type prone to heart attacks

Dear Dr. Solomon: Are certain types of people more susceptible than others to heart attacks?—Alan

Dear Alan: Men who are impatient, aggressive, and success-oriented—characteristics of what is referred to as the "Type A" personality—are more prone to heart disease. Researchers have shown that these individuals have twice as many heart attacks and more severe symptoms, and have three to four times as many second heart attacks as others.

Scientists at the Duke University School of Medicine have received a grant from the National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute to study this phenomenon. Dr. Redford B. Williams, a professor of psychiatry, feels that if he can identify a specific component of Type-A behavior—such as hostility—leading to coronary heart disease and heart attacks, patients may be able to be trained to control this factor, or it might be controlled through medication.

Dr. Saul Schanberg, a professor of pharmacology, is collaborating in the research. He will study changes in the levels of two hormones, epinephrine and norepinephrine, that affect the sympathetic nervous system, increasing both blood pressure and heart rate.

The two researchers already have demonstrated that patients with Type-A personalities have five or six times more atherosclerotic plaque—or fatty deposits—in their coronary arteries than do other heart patients. According to Dr. Williams, the Type-A personality pattern can be identified in children as young as eight or nine years of age. Although research in this area has been limited, it is assumed the children learn the behavior from their parents or through childhood experiences, since it does not appear to be strongly genetically determined.

Dear Dr. Solomon: A friend of mine recently gave birth to a baby who has a noticeably protruding forehead. She has two other children, both handsome youngsters. Can anything be done to correct the new baby's deformity?—Ms. E.S.

Dear Ms. S.: There is an excellent possibility of surgical correction for babies born with major deformities of the skull and upper face. In fact, Dr. Linton A. Whitaker, associate professor of plastic surgery at the University of Pennsylvania, advocates that the surgery be performed before the infant is six months of age. He reports that during the past three and one-half years, he has corrected such deformities in 40 infants, with results ranging from good to excellent.

Dr. Whitaker explains that in early infancy, the child's bone is membranous and easy to work with, regrowth is rapid, and the operation takes only about half as long as it would with older patients. Moreover, the deformity is corrected even before the child can be aware of its existence, thus avoiding psychological damage.

SHEINWOLD ON BRIDGE
Take Your Best Shot
By Alfred Sheinwold
You don't celebrate madly over an even chance for your contract, but grab it rather than settle for worse.
East took two high hearts and switched to spades. South took the ace of spades, drew trumps, cashed the high diamonds and ruffed a diamond.
Since the diamonds broke unfavorably, South was down one.
South needed four diamond tricks to discard his two spades. Since the odds were two to one that the six missing diamonds would not divide equally, South's play made him an underdog.
TRY FINESSE
After drawing two rounds South should lead a low diamond from dummy and try a finesse with the jack. The finesse is not guaranteed, of course, but at least it offers an even chance.
When the finesse wins, South cashes the king of diamonds, leads a trump to dummy and leads the ace of diamonds to discard a spade. He then ruffs a diamond and returns to dummy with a trump to discard another spade on the last diamond.

Miss Lillian remains in hospital

AMERICUS, Ga. (AP) — Lillian Carter, president Carter's 80-year-old mother, will be hospitalized at least "several more days," a nursing supervisor at the Americus-Sumter County Hospital said Monday night.

Mrs. Carter increased her activities earlier Monday, despite continuing pain in her left shoulder caused by what doctors had diagnosed as bursitis, hospital officials said. Mrs. Carter has been hospitalized since Thursday.

Nursing Supervisor Catherine Woodall said Monday night that Mrs. Carter's condition had not changed.

James R. Griffith, administrator of the hospital, said Mrs. Carter "is able to be up more and is trying to increase her activities" despite "moderate pain" in her shoulder and back.

Mrs. Carter's physician, Dr. John H. Robinson III, said the president's mother was taken to the hospital from her home in nearby Plains after complaining of "severe, extreme pain."

Robinson said he ruled out heart problems and said her pain "could be bursitis," a joint inflammation.

Chinese official urges reform

PEKING (AP) — A top Communist Party official urged reform of the party's bureaucracy today, culminating months of protest against leaders who live high, buy luxuries and seek privileges for their children.

"It is imperative to reform the party's cadre system systematically by introducing ... election, examination, supervision, award and punishment, recall, rotation and retirement," said Hu Yaopang, third secretary of the party's Central Commission for Inspecting Discipline.

Hu was quoted in a front-page article in the People's Daily, the voice of the Communist Party Central Committee. The newspaper, which also has called for an end to privilege-seeking, quoted Hu's recent comments at the commission's first working conference in Peking.

Hu said regulations must be drawn up at once to enforce discipline, overcome factionalism and safeguard unity.

He said the new rules should include "criteria for the party's internal political life, standards for the living conditions of leading cadres, concrete stipulations for the conscientious practice of democracy and the rights and duties of party members."

Hu's statement was the latest condemnation of privilege-seeking among party leaders and comes on the heels of mounting and noisy criticism of those who use their position to obtain advantage.

A letter to the People's Daily on July 21 said party officials come back from foreign countries laden with quartz watches, television sets and washing machines.

In the same edition the paper said some leading cadres frequently have improvements made to their homes, move to better surroundings, and are highly particular about their furniture. It also said they make trial use of high-quality products without paying a cent.

"Some spoil their children and satisfy their every demand, do their best to find them the best schools and jobs, and try every means to let them leave the countryside to work in the cities. Some even violate rules and regulations to enable their children to study or work abroad," it said.

"The newspaper called it 'an evil trend' and said, 'this unhealthy tendency is a manifestation of feudalistic ideas of privilege ... It undermines the party's prestige ... It also impedes unity and dampens the morale of the people and spreads the plague of selfish ideas.'"

Officer killed in Ireland

ARMAGH, Northern Ireland (AP) — Gunmen killed a plainclothes police officer today as he sat in an unmarked car outside a courthouse in Armagh, police reported.

The officer was waiting in the car for a colleague who was in the courthouse collecting arrest warrants, a spokesman said.

He was shot dead by two gunmen who opened up from a car driving slowly past the police vehicle.

The slain officer, who was not named, was the 12th policeman killed in Northern Ireland this year and the 89th since sectarian violence erupted nearly 10 years ago.

The killing raised the known overall death toll to at least 1,930.

None of Northern Ireland's terrorist groups has claimed responsibility for the assassination. But police sources blamed Irish Republican Army guerrillas.

Sunken ship blocks canal

GAMBOA, Panama Canal Zone (AP) — Traffic slowed down in the Panama Canal after the freighter Quidnet sank crossways halfway through the 51-mile waterway following a collision with the Greek ship Seatlde.

Only one ship at a time was able to move by and passage was restricted to ships no longer than 600 feet with beams not exceeding 82 feet. The canal locks are 110 feet wide.

The 360-foot Quidnet and the 466-foot Seatlde collided Sunday night. There were no injuries and the Seatlde continued south to Gamboa. It will take a week to figure out the best way to raise the Quidnet.

Portugal forms cabinet

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — A 16-member Cabinet has been formed by Maria de Lourdes Pintassilgo, the premier-designate who has the task of steering Portugal's government through the autumn elections.

She announced formation of the Cabinet Monday. It was described as moderate, with centrist, independent Social Democrats far outnumbering members of other parties.

Diver rescues 15-year-old

TRURO, England (AP) — Royal Navy diver Jimmy Bauld rescued 15-year-old Peter Crowther from a small plane that crashed and sank in 50 feet of water, but the boy died in a hospital.

"The boy looked as if he'd tried to get out but had become disoriented. He was going the wrong way. I got him out as quickly as possible," Bauld said after getting Peter to the hospital.

The plane crashed Monday about 1 1/2 miles off the coast of Cornwall in southwest England. Peter's 12-year-old brother, Simon, and the pilot and another passenger were rescued on the surface.

Dead woman may be off sunken yacht

MONTREAL (AP) — A dead woman found floating off the Gaspé Peninsula last week with $3,600 stuffed in her bathing suit is believed to be from the Ottawa area, Police Investigator Jean-Pierre Desgagnes said.

However, positive identification of the body is not expected until today at the Quebec City Morgue, Desgagnes said.

He said an autopsy showed the woman was about 28 years old and that the cause of death was drowning.

Bits of debris found after a tour boat picked up the body indicated the woman was from a yacht that sank in the area, Desgagnes said.

Costa Rica to return weapons

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) — Costa Rica will return weapons borrowed from Venezuela and Panama now that the Nicaraguan civil war is over and dictator Anastasio Somoza has fled.

The minister of public security, Juan Jose Echeverria, said the first of eight anti-aircraft batteries will be shipped back to Panama today, and 500 rifles will go back to Venezuela soon afterward.

The anti-aircraft guns were set up at San Jose Airport two months ago after Somoza charged Costa Rica was sheltering Sandinista guerrillas and allowing them to cross the border with guns and supplies.

Brown issues another challenge, files papers

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., describing himself as a fiscal conservative and an environmental liberal, has issued another challenge to Jimmy Carter.

Brown filed papers Monday with the Federal Elections Commission for a "Brown for President" committee, making him an official candidate — in the commission's eyes, if not his own — for the Democratic nomination for president.

He said Monday at Los Angeles airport before a trip to Mexico City, "My own feeling is that people are ready for an alternative; they're ready for a blend of fiscal responsibility and yet a bold vision for the future. That's what we lack right now."

"Most of the surveys indicate President Carter and I are running very close, even though I've barely even left the state," said Brown as he headed for talks with Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo.

Brown said that by starting now, "we'll have a lot of time to let people get to know me and for me to articulate ideas in such a way that if people like them, fine, and if they don't, I can accept that."

In Mexico City, Brown told reporters he had sought the talks because of a fear of "separation and alienation" of oil-rich Mexico in the next decade.

After an hour and 15 minutes with Lopez Portillo, Brown said they discussed "a common market between the United States, Canada and Mexico; California's electricity needs; U.S. barriers to Mexican exports;

Mexican oil; and unrest in Nicaragua."

Technically, the 41-year-old governor has not yet formally declared his candidacy. He calls his committee "exploratory."

Federal law allows potential presidential candidates to raise money to test the political waters without registering and reporting contributions and expenditures. This could include spending on polling, travel and the like.

But Brown aide Tony Dougherty said the exploratory committee, like those of other possible candidates, would go beyond the law's definition of exploratory, and that's what Brown told the commission.

In 1976, Brown won three primaries in an 11th-hour challenge to Carter but had virtually no chance of capturing the Democratic nomination because of his late start. Since then — especially in the last year — he has been unceasing in his criticism of Carter.

Brown named state Air Resources Board Chairman Tom Quinn to head the "Brown for President" committee. He said his director of administration, Jodie Krajewski, will be treasurer. Both are to resign their state jobs at the close of business today.

Differing with Carter, Brown opposes nuclear power plants and the MX missile, supports the right of poor women to government-funded abortions, and favors a constitutional convention to require a balanced federal budget.

He's not clowning anymore, but former professional rodeo clown-bull rider Tommy Owens of Rankin does "act up" when the occasion warrants it. Owens and his wife, Edra, catch their breath after riding a bicycle-built-for-two and pulling a wagon carrying their daughter, Shannon, in a parade. (Staff Photo by Ed Todd)

Rankin's two Tommys leave rodeo clowning neither rich nor healthy

RANKIN — Tommy Owens sort of taught Tommy Sheffield how to "clown around" in the rodeo arena and not get hurt. But, both were injured while protecting rodeo performers from wild critters, and both now are retired from the arena.

"That's just not an old man's game," says Owens, who has retired to ranching and drenching livestock for a living. "Thirty years is old in the rodeo profession."

Besides getting injured while sticking in there to save the cowboy from injury by being gored, kicked, hooved, stomped on, thrown into a fence or hurt in any way, Owens didn't get rich or healthy off the sport.

"That (clowning) is a poor way of serving the Lord," says Owens, who followed the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association in the late 1950s and early 1960s.

Like Owens, Sheffield has bailed out of clowning. But instead of ranching around his hometown of Rankin, Sheffield now is studying down Houston way to be a lawyer.

Sheffield, at 30, quit the circuit last year after seven or eight years of clowning. Like Owens, he had reached his prime and had been injured too many times.

His mother, Pauline Sheffield, recalls how her Tommy got into the clowning act. "He started riding bulls for Sul Ross (State University at Alpine)," she recalls. That was in the late 1960s and 1970 when Sheffield participated in the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association rodeos.

But, like Owens, he had an aching to do more than hang onto a swirling, spinning and sort-of-bucking irate and onerous bull for a 1-0-n-g eight seconds — a nice little chunk of eternity as far as the bull rider is concerned.

"He wasn't sure if he wanted to ride bulls or be a clown," Mrs. Sheffield says. Perhaps it was the other Tommy — Owens — who was his inspiration. "Tommy (Owens) gave Tommy Sheffield one of his costumes," Sheffield — then, before or later — decided to be a clown. "We adore him (Tommy Owens)," Mrs. Sheffield says with utmost sincerity. "But," she says in switching to a jestful mood, "we could have killed him."

Clowning is a hazardous job, especially when a fellow is trying to predict the movements of wild, rambunctious critters who are supposed to be mean and who are supposed to make cowboys (and clowns) respect them — be the critters bucking horses, snorting bulls or wild steers.

"They've both been hurt many, many times," Mrs. Sheffield says. "Tommy (Owens) had to quit on account of his back; his doctor told him if he wanted to live, he had better quit."

Of course, Owens still is around working like a top-notch hired hand. "He's a terribly hard worker, and he's responsible," she says of Owens.

The other Tommy quit, too, in his prime before he got crippled. "He (Tommy Sheffield) has broke his tailbone, broke about everything he has, been bruised up, banged up."

But years before, Pauline and Claude Sheffield did not try to dissuade their son from rodeo clowning despite the hazards of the work.

"We didn't encourage him because it was so dangerous," Mrs. Sheffield says. "But we didn't try to discourage him. We let him choose what he wanted to do."

Baker to spend August recess campaigning

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr. is gearing up to devote the month-long August congressional recess to intensive campaigning for the 1980 Republican presidential nomination.

The Senate GOP leader, who hasn't yet made a formal announcement of candidacy, has lined up campaign appearances in some two dozen states during the recess.

Baker will be hitting the road with the endorsement of Sen. John Chafee of Rhode Island.

Chafee, a liberal Republican who differs markedly from Baker on the SALT treaty, was holding a news conference today to announce his support for the minority leader.

A strong supporter of the SALT treaty, Chafee is expected to oppose any major amendments to it. Baker has declared he would not vote for the treaty unless substantial changes were made.

Baker recently demanded that the Carter administration and the Soviet government signal their willingness to accept Senate changes in the agreement. The Tennessee senator said he was particularly disturbed by the fact the treaty permits the Soviets to maintain 308 giant SS18 missiles, which are far larger than any in the U.S. arsenal.

Chafee's endorsement is expected to be the first in a series to be unveiled during the coming months.

Another senator in Baker's camp is Richard Lugar of Indiana, his campaign chairman.

Baker's August travel plans include three days in New Hampshire, the state that traditionally holds the first presidential primary, and other early primary states as Massachusetts, Florida and Connecticut.

He also plans a stop in Iowa, where party caucuses in January will choose the first GOP convention delegates. Other places he plans to visit include California, New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Michigan, Missouri, Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana, Minnesota, South Dakota, Oregon, Washington, Colorado and Puerto Rico.

Baker has maintained a busy travel schedule, but Senate business has made extended trips a rarity. Like most of his rivals for the nomination,

Baker has made several trips to New Hampshire.

So far, Baker has raised about $750,000 and has 30 people working at his Washington, D.C., campaign headquarters.

During his August travels, the senator has scheduled about 15 fund-raising events.

With a campaign committee registered at the Federal Election Commission, Baker is officially a candidate under federal law.

He also has said many times that he is running for president. But Baker does not plan to make a formal announcement of candidacy until the end of the year, after the SALT debate in the Senate.

Bundy's punishment now in hands of Florida judge

MIAMI (AP) — Twice deadlocked between life and death, a jury has voted to send smiling former law student Theodore R. Bundy to Florida's electric chair for strangling two sorority sisters. Now a judge must decide whether to take the jury's advice.

Judge Edward D. Cowart said he would announce today whether Bundy is to live in prison or die in "Old Sparky," the oak chair in the state's death chamber.

Bundy seemed unconcerned. "See you next trial," he said with a grin on the way out Monday after the jury recommended his execution.

The jurors were out for just under two hours. On the first ballot, six jurors voted for Bundy to live, said juror Mary Russo. Six voted for death. Another vote produced another 6-6 tie.

"Each time we voted secretly," she said. "The third time we came up with a majority." Jurors would not say what the final vote was.

Under Florida's two-stage trial system in capital cases, a unanimous jury vote is required for a conviction. But only a simple majority is needed for the jury's non-binding recommendation on a penalty.

Cowart gave no hint whether he would accept the jury recommendation. He has sentenced three people to death, once overriding a jury that recommended life in prison.

Florida electrocuted convicted murder John A. Spenklink on May 25, the first time in 12 years an inmate in an American prison was executed unwillingly.

Bundy seemed without emotion when the jury's recommendation was read. As he had when he was convicted six days earlier, he remained serene, chewing idly on a mint and making notes on a yellow pad.

Then he rose — but only to speak in calm tones. He wanted to make sure his family could visit him in jail. Cowart said they could.

Prosecutor Larry Simpson reminded jurors of Lisa Levy, 20, and Margaret Bowman, 21, who were battered, choked, and bitten in the Chi Omega sorority house in Tallahassee. Three other young women were beaten the same morning around the Florida State University campus.

Bundy wouldn't let his lawyers introduce results of his last psychiatric test, but public defender Margaret Good tried to depict a client with a troubled mind. "The crimes were the product of delusion, disorder and compulsion," she said.

She argued that the victims had not suffered. "They were sleeping," she said. "They felt no pain."

Later, she noted the defense has until Aug. 10 to file a motion for a new trial and said "We will file it before that time."

Bundy has other dates in court.

He is due for trial in September on a charge of murdering 12-year-old Kimberly Leach, of Lake City, Fla., on Feb. 9, 1978. He is charged in Colorado with the 1975 slaying of Dearborn, Mich., nurse Caryn Campbell. He is still under a 15-year Utah prison sentence for the 1974 kidnapping of 17-year-old Carol DaRonch.

The FBI said in early 1978 that Bundy was sought for questioning in three dozen murders of young women. He was not charged except for the Utah, Colorado and Florida cases.

American Airlines mechanic says instructions sidestepped

ROSEMONT, Ill. (AP) — American Airlines mechanics routinely sidestepped company maintenance procedures because they could not be followed to the letter, according to a mechanic testifying at a hearing on the nation's worst air disaster.

Tulsa-based mechanic William R. Robinson appeared Monday on the first day of hearings before a National Transportation Safety Board panel investigating the May 25 crash of a DC-10 airliner at Chicago's O'Hare International Airport. All 271 persons aboard the plane and two persons on the ground were killed.

The hearings were to resume today with three other American Airlines mechanics and an inspector to testify further on how American's wide-bodied DC-10s were maintained. The bulk of the testimony on Monday addressed that issue.

Robinson, who worked on the doomed DC-10 during its last maintenance check at a Tulsa, Okla., facility in March, said he and other mechanics did not follow exactly the sequence of steps in a work order issued by American. That order outlined the procedure for removing the engine from the pylon, which is attached to the wing.

He said the company's directive for removing the engine and the pylon could not be followed step by step. He said he performed the tasks out of order without telling his supervisor.

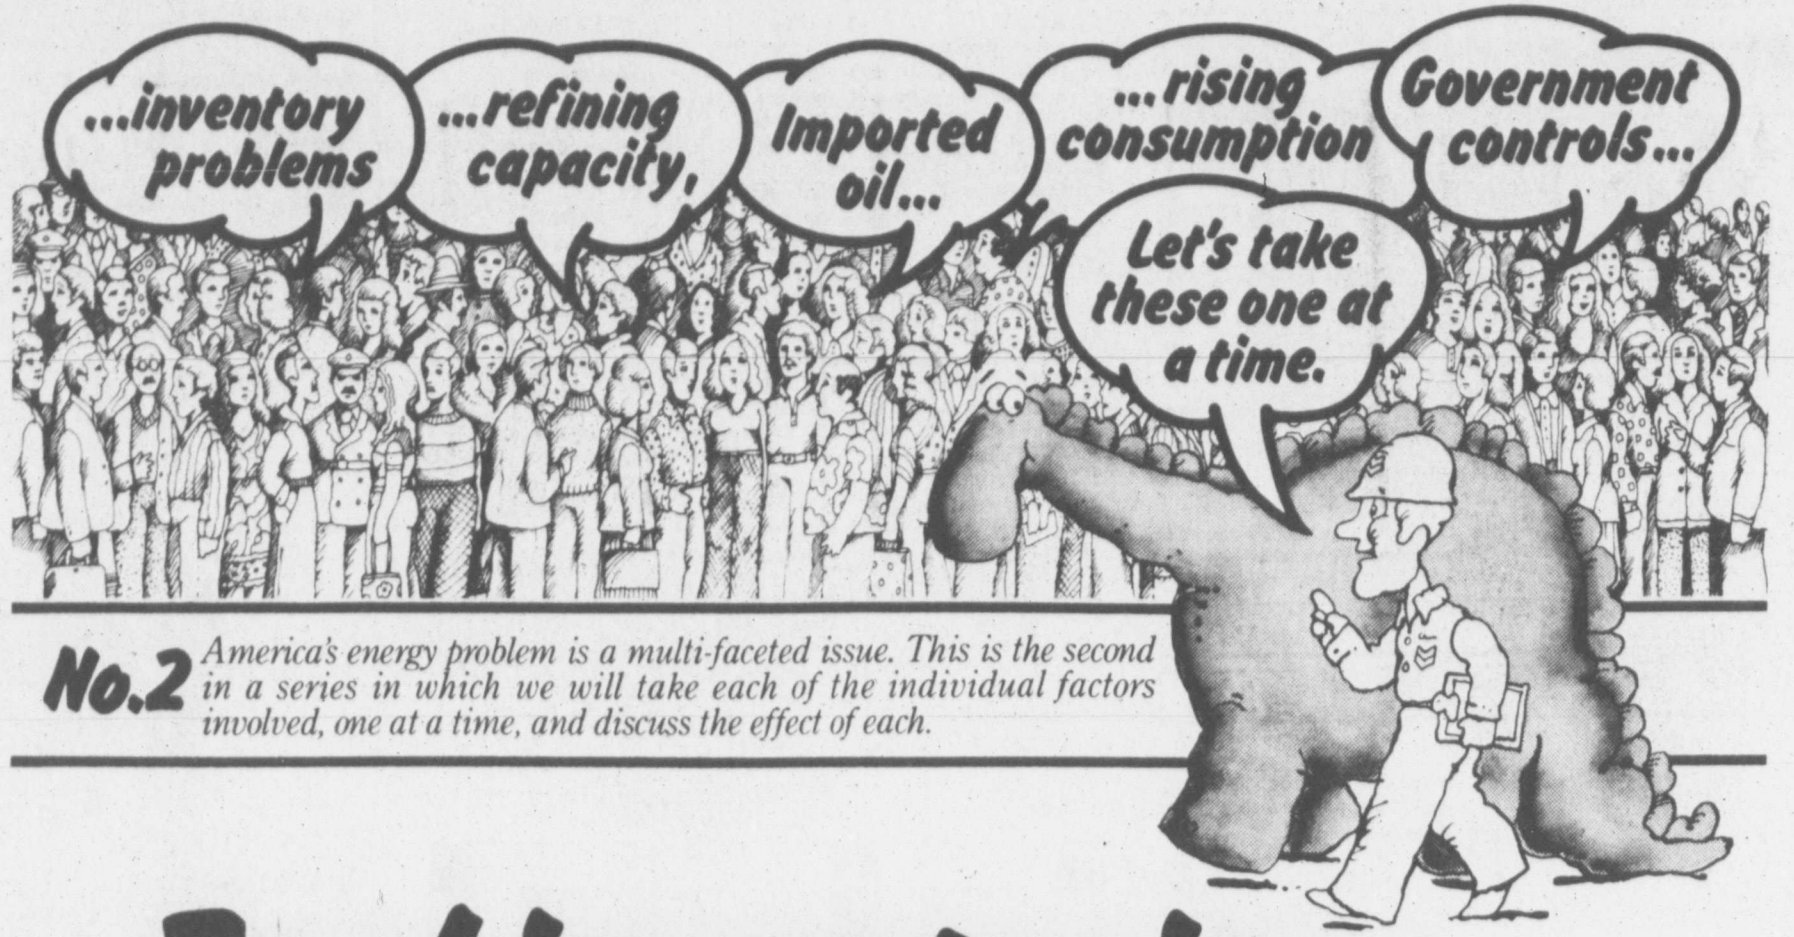

Michael Marx, an NTSB metals expert, said the method of removing the engine and pylon described by Robinson caused a crack in the support structure. Such a crack caused the left engine of the DC-10 which crashed at Chicago to fall away on takeoff.

Marx also told the panel that American saved about 50 man hours of time on each engine it serviced in that way.

Marx, in often complicated and technical remarks, said American maintenance crews removed both the engine and its supporting pylon as a unit, rather than separately as instructed.

Then, in order to reattach the engine to the wing, the maintenance men had to force the bolting mechanism to fit, thus causing a bend in the engine mounting structure and eventually a crack, he said.

"It's just common sense that they (mechanics) could very well have caused the crack then (when reattaching the engine)," Marx said.

No. 2 America's energy problem is a multi-faceted issue. This is the second in a series in which we will take each of the individual factors involved, one at a time, and discuss the effect of each.

Fuel inventories: Keeping our balance is part of the problem.

It takes a constant balancing act to meet America's energy needs, because the kind and amount of fuel most needed at a particular time and place change with the seasons. For instance, gasoline consumption usually goes up about 10% during the heavy summer driving months. Then, as winter closes in, many parts of the country need tremendous amounts of heating oil.

During the peak seasons for gasoline and heating fuels, the amounts needed are greater than can be met by day-to-day refinery capability, so it is necessary to refine and store a supply ahead of time.

At the same time, throughout the year we are obliged to turn out a steady amount of aircraft jet fuel as well as diesel fuel for farming vehicles and large trucks.

What does inventory balance have to do with the fuel shortage?

All fuels are vital to Americans, so no particular fuel including gasoline can be produced in a totally unrestrained manner at the expense of other fuels. Thus, when demand for gasoline unexpectedly surged to record levels early this year, it created problems in storing enough gasoline to supplement summer production for peak season driving. And now that the peak driving season is upon us, it's virtually impossible to make up for diminished gasoline inventories since inventories of heating oil must be built up for the coming winter.

Also, an inventory of crude oil must be maintained to avoid refinery disruptions if deliveries of new crude supplies are delayed. Nevertheless, we are holding our crude oil inventories down at minimum safe levels so as to maximize gasoline and heating oil availability.

Large inventories must be used just to make the systems work.

In addition to this constant balancing act, sizeable inventories of crude oil and other petroleum stocks are needed just to keep the facilities that make and transport fuels physically operating.

For example, 9 million barrels of oil (the daily total of all U.S. oil production) must actually be inside the Alaskan Pipeline for it to even function.

Putting inventory problems in perspective.

The necessity of adequate and balanced inventories to meet America's varying year-round fuel requirements is not the only factor involved in the shortage. Other factors like refining capacity, increased demand, government controls, environmental restrictions, and even differences in crude oil qualities all play a role and each will be discussed individually in the future.

Regaining our balance.

World and U.S. crude oil supplies are still short of demand. So in addition to continued careful management of inventories, America must do everything possible to speed development of our domestic sources of energy, while at the same time doing a better job of conserving the energy we have now.

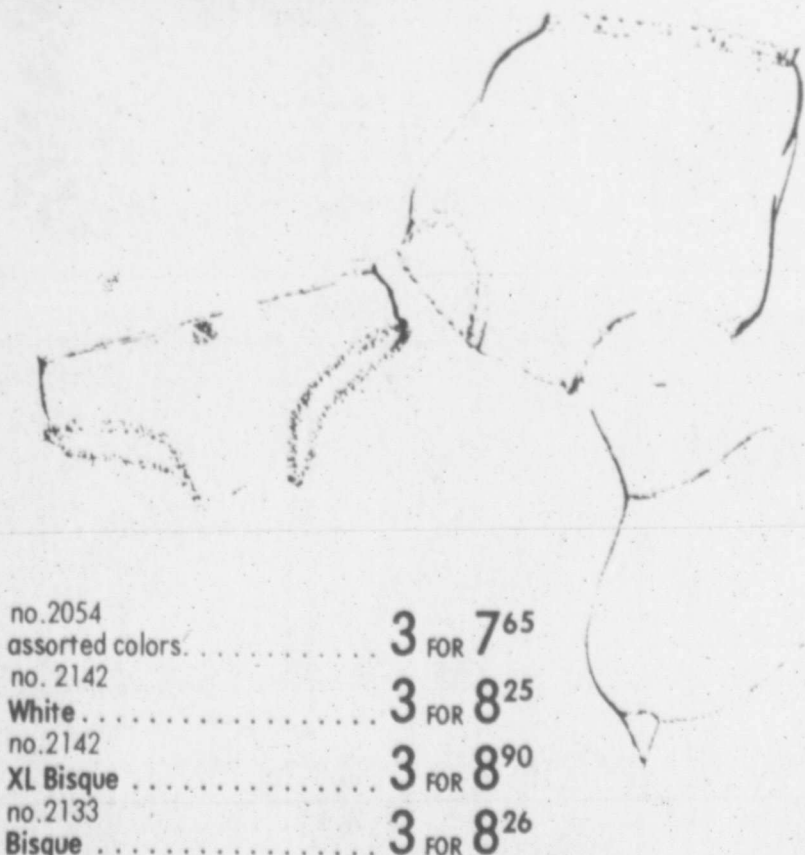

Thank you for listening.

Oriental foods offer short-cut to nutritious, balanced meals

By WANDA MOUTON
Lifestyle Editor

Spending long hours preparing everyday meals or special treats for entertaining is a luxury not available to the 24 million working couples in the United States, but there are short cuts to achieving the same results. Cooking well-balanced, attractive meals does not have to be a time-consuming chore. Tasty, nutritious Oriental meals can be prepared quickly, and the cook can have fun doing it. Paula Purdom of Midland does.

Mrs. Purdom first became interested in Chinese cooking about five years ago when she and husband Larry received as a wedding present a wok, which is a bowl-shaped cooking utensil used in preparation of Chinese food.

Since then, she's become a real gourmet in the area of Oriental food, having studied under Irene Wong at the LaBonne Cuisine School of Bon Appetit in Austin.

Her goal is to "turn West Texas on" to Chinese cooking.

"My husband, who grew up here, is basically a meat and potatoes man," she said. "I thought I was doing good when I finally got him to try stir-fried broccoli."

SHE IS ENTHUSIASTIC about the advantages of Oriental cooking.

"It's economical because a small amount of meat is used with a large amount of vegetables," she said.

In addition, cooking times are short, with actual time for most Oriental recipes averaging about 10 minutes.

"As a result, the stove is on for just a very little while and the house doesn't get heated, saving on energy," she said.

Oriental cooking, by its very nature, is time-saving, said Mrs. Purdom. It employs three main principles that add speed. "First, you are using meat and vegetables that are cut into small pieces that naturally cook faster. Then, the ingredients are exposed to a lot of cookware surface, especially if a wok is used. And, finally, Oriental foods are cooked at high heat, cutting down on the time."

"Additionally, the food is good for persons on a diet because of its low-calorie, low-salt and low-cholesterol content."

The local grocery stores have begun stocking the basic ingredients used in Oriental cooking, said Mrs. Purdom.

bit of experimenting.

Many of the recipes, for example, call for seafood and shrimp, not always easy to find in West Texas. She adapts the recipe by using chicken and economical cuts of beef.

"Also, everyone has to alter recipes to suit the tastes of individual families," she said.

Many of the vegetables used in Oriental cooking can easily be grown in the West Texas climate. Mrs. Purdom plans, in fact, to plant a fall garden soon with broccoli, bok choy, cauliflower and spinach, all of which are excellent vegetables to include in Oriental recipes.

For Midlanders interested in learning the basic art of Chinese cooking, Mrs. Purdom will offer four classes beginning in August.

Courses will be held in (1) Stir-frying (the basic method of Oriental cooking); (2) Eggrolls and Wonton; (3) Hunan (also called Szechwan); this is the hot, spicy food of the Orient; and (4) Steaming (using the wok and bamboo steamers).

"By the time a person takes all four courses he or she will have acquired a basic feel for Chinese cooking," said Mrs. Purdom.

CLASS SIZE WILL BE LIMITED and schedule will include the preparation of three recipes at each session. Instruction will also be given in chopping, equipment and operation, and following the recipe. Students will eat the foods which they prepare at each class.

She advises that there are two basic rules to preparing a Chinese meal. "One, cut meats and vegetables in advance and have all sauces mixed before cooking," she instructed. "That's the secret to Oriental cooking. The ingredients are cooked for a small amount of time at high heat, resulting in crisper vegetables and meat that is seared, but juicy."

Secondly, she advises that it is important to chop vegetables and meats in similar shapes and sizes "to make the dish pleasing to the eye."

Mrs. Purdom plans a demonstration of her art from 1 to 3 p.m. Saturday at the Gourmet Emporium in San Miguel Square. For further information on the demonstration and classes, call 683-8625.

"I believe Oriental cooking is really fun, especially for people who enjoy cooking and want to be rewarded by a beautiful and delicious meal," she said.

She offers some basic recipes below:

EGGROLLS

4 slices bacon
1/2 teaspoon grated ginger root
5 mushrooms, diced
2 green onions, diced
2 stalks celery, diced
1 cup alfalfa sprouts

2 teaspoons soy sauce
1/2 teaspoon vinegar
1/2 teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon cornstarch, dissolved in 2 tablespoons cold water
Purchased eggroll wrappers
1 beaten egg
2 cups oil

Fry bacon and grated ginger until crisp. Remove and drain on paper towel. Pour off all but one tablespoon bacon grease and fry mushrooms, onion and celery for two minutes. Add sprouts, return bacon to pan. Stir together soy sauce, vinegar, sugar and cornstarch mixture; add to vegetables. Heat until thickened. Place two to three tablespoons of mixture in middle of wrapper. Fold one point in, fold the two side points in over filling and roll up to last point, sealing with beaten egg. Deep fry in oil until crisp and serve with hot mustard or sweet and sour sauce.

Makes 4-5 eggrolls.
(Reserve beaten egg for use in fried rice.)

FRIED RICE

2 cups cooked rice
2 mushrooms, sliced
1 green onion, minced
1 beaten egg
soy sauce

Fry rice in two tablespoons oil until it begins to brown. Add mushrooms and onion, and continue frying for one minute. Add beaten egg and stir into rice mixture until egg is absorbed. Season with a dash of soy sauce and serve.

Serves 4.

BEEF WITH MIXED VEGETABLES

1 lb. beef round, sliced in 1/4 inch strips
2 tablespoons soy sauce
2 tablespoons dry sherry
1 clove garlic, crushed
1/2 small head of cabbage (bok choy), shredded
1 yellow onion, sliced thin in rings
12 snow pea pods
1/2 cup chicken broth
1 tablespoon soy sauce
1 tablespoon cornstarch in two tablespoons water

Marinate beef in soy sauce and sherry for 20 minutes. Heat wok, add two tablespoons oil and fry garlic clove until brown. Remove clove and discard. Stir fry vegetables two to three minutes. Return vegetables to wok, add broth, cornstarch mix and soy sauce, and heat until mixture thickens. Serve over chow mein noodles, if desired.

Serves 4.

AT WIT'S END

What really scares her...

By ERMA BOMBECK

Okay, Hollywood. Just try to scare me half to death.

And give it your best shot. For the last couple of years you've made nothing but promises. "You'll never go to the beach again." "A nurse will be in attendance to revive you." "In outer space, no one can hear you scream."

Heaven knows you've tried. You've paraded across the screen giant spiders, frogs, snakes, and flies. Killer bees, rats, ants and sharks.

You've popped up monsters out of the deep, big footprints in the snow and sweet little English children with weird eyes.

When that didn't work, you tried to terrorize me with towering infernos of fire, airplane disasters and Shelley Winters in a wet suit.

Now you're onto space objects falling to the earth, cloning, nuclear waste turning humans into mutations, giant rabbits and vampires with a sense of humor.

I don't scare easily. What kind of a movie would it take to really throw me into shock? Maybe one of the following teasers:

Jaws III: A teenage boy comes home ravenous and terrorizes his mother who has a refrigerator full of food for her first dinner party in seven years.

Mother Moth: A spine-chilling tale of a woman who discovers a pregnant moth in her garment bag storing the only fur she will ever own.

Rosemary's Crazies: The story of a town that has a sadistic school board that decides to start school two weeks later in the fall than originally planned.

The Leftover That Refused to Die: A bizarre story of a leftover piece of liver that refuses to die after being bludgeoned, threatened and all life systems have been pulled.

Omen III: A child called Damian vacations with his parents and kicks the back of the seat for 262 miles while smiling.

The one that really would strike terror into the hearts of women everywhere is the Bleach Syndrome, where a hairdresser would be done in, taking the formula for all her "standings" color with her.

Doesn't that make your flesh crawl?

Leaflets warn about Darvon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaflets are being distributed to warn consumers that the painkiller Darvon can cause illness or death when used with alcohol or other drugs.

The fliers also warn against excessive doses of Darvon, the third most widely prescribed drug in the United States.

The Food and Drug Administration announced Monday that Eli Lilly and

Co. is making the leaflets available through pharmacists on a voluntary basis.

The Indianapolis-based firm makes more than 80 percent of the Darvon and related compounds sold in the United States.

Companies selling Darvon-like medications under the generic name of propoxyphene are being required to take similar action.

New regime brings new swim fashion for Iranian women

By ALEX EFTY

ANDAR ANZALI, Iran (AP) — The bathing belles of this Caspian Sea resort had to give up their bikinis to swim with the men.

They now go into the water fully clothed and swathed in chadors — head-to-toe veils — to conform with Iran's post-revolutionary mores.

"It was either this or complete separation, with men and boys on one beach and women and girls on another," fumed Jaleh Hashemi, a pretty young woman wading in the sea, as she struggled to keep the waves from sweeping her chador away.

"I want to stay with my husband, other friends or relatives, and to be able to do so I have to go through this nonsense," Hashemi, who works in a laboratory, added. The overall beachwear was an unofficial compromise worked out with the authorities here, to win the battle for mixed bathing. A recent order segregating the sexes is being strictly enforced elsewhere along Iran's Caspian Riviera.

THE AUTHORITIES agreed to the local exemption following noisy protest demonstrations in the town recently, organized by local businessmen. The resort, the most popular on the coast, caters every weekend to 150,000-200,000 people who camp out or stay in the beach-huts lining the 7.5 mile-long, wide sandy beach.

The businessmen argued that the total absence of women, whether unveiled in bikinis or veiled in chadors, would ruin this lucrative tourist trade.

The authorities told the protesting tradesmen the ban was designed to end "feminine indecent exposure" in the skimpy swimsuits prevalent along the beach before the overthrow of the shah and the advent of the Islamic republic.

"So when we suggested the chador-as-a-swimsuit solution, they had no objection. They told us if decorum was maintained they would not enforce the segregation ban, if this was what the people wanted," said Mahmoud Minachi, one of the protesting beach-hut owners.

The usual massive turnout the following weekend, with thousands of cars, trucks, buses and scores of motorbikes carrying whole families of four or even five persons, congregating on the Anzali beach from all over the hinterland, demonstrated the people's choice.

BUT THINGS ARE different from last year and the ones before that, complained any of the operators of the beach-side catering stalls.

"And it isn't simply because people are sober after the new government banned the sale and consumption of alcohol," one of the operators said. It was evident the decorum desired by the authorities reigned the whole length of the beach. With thousands of women in the water and sunning themselves on the sandy beach, there was not a single modern feminine swimsuit in sight and little feminine bare flesh could be glimpsed beyond bare ankles and arms.

The scene was reminiscent of the Victorian era, with the beach belles all covered up, except that the men, unlike their Victorian forebears, disported themselves unselfconsciously in the latest and briefest male swimming trunks. Strict Moslem tradition on dress applies only to women.

MATRONLY LADIES and young but rather inactive girls, waded into the water up to their knees. Fully clothed, they clasped the long loose folds of their chadors tightly around them as the waves lapped at the billowing lower ends that kept floating off.

More lively girls determined to swim at least a few strokes — something almost impossible in a chador — dropped their veils briefly and struck out, still clad in slacks and shirts they wore as special swim-wear underneath.

The bolder girl swimmers mingled with the

New homes to include a warranty

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

About 25 percent of the new houses sold in the United States this year or will be covered by a warranty protecting the quality of the construction. That's twice as many as had such protection only one year ago.

The warranty, offered by many builders, is guaranteed by the National Association of Home Builders, the industry trade organization, which is a lot better than a guarantee from a single builder who may or may not be around when something goes wrong with the house.

Under the arrangement, builders enter into a contractual arrangement with the National Home Owners Warranty Corp. and are responsible in the first year for the repair of all defects in craftsmanship, in the home's mechanical systems (wiring, plumbing and ductwork), and any defects in structure, as specified in the guidelines.

In the second year, the builder is obligated to correct all defects in mechanical systems and major structural defects. For years three through 10, the program guarantees repairs on all major structural defects. An interesting part of the protection is that it applies even though there may be a change in house ownership.

How did such a program get started?

Obviously, it was inspired by the complaints of consumers regarding faulty construction. But some reputable builders took it upon themselves to get behind the idea because they saw the industry was suffering from the misdeeds of other builders.

So, as Robert Levenstein, president of Kaufman and Broad Inc., put it, "This is a chance for private industry to play an important role in consumer protection. The rise in consumer complaints over the years is injurious to the industry in the long run. Eventually, I believe that the majority of new houses in the country will be covered by a Home Owners Warranty program."

All such consumer guarantees (there are others) will do much to erase the bad image created by some fly-by-night builders over the years. Curiously, various forms of warranties have existed for many years on other costly items — among them television sets, refrigerators and automobiles — but the most expensive of them all offered the buyer little assurance of redress for grievances. Reputable builders usually cooperated with the new home owners, but others did not and, worst of all, some were out of the building business or had disappeared or both.

Having a way with words is important for writers, politicians, preachers and lawyers—among others. It's also helpful if you're a contestant on a television game show.

Capt. Lennox K. "Tex" Absher, a copilot with the 55th Weather Reconnaissance Squadron, McClellan AFB, Calif., and a native of Midland, definitely had a great way with words recently when he taped a week's worth of participation on NBC's "Password Plus" program.

Actress Elizabeth Montgomery was his "copilot" and she "bewitched" him into earning $18,200 in cash and $144 in prizes.

For those familiar with the show, the alphabets round is the most difficult; when the contestant must correctly guess 10 words from one-word clues given him or her in 60 seconds. Tex and Ms. Montgomery set an all-time record for the program, guessing all 10 in just 32 seconds.

The shows which Tex taped will appear this week.

Capt. Absher has been stationed at McClellan since December of last year, and in the service since June, 1971. He and his wife, Bonny, have two children, including son Lennox, age 4, and daughter Larissa, age 2.

His wife, as well as his mother and two nieces from Dallas, were in the audience during the taping sessions.

...GAIL GRIGGS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Griggs, 3506 W. Michigan Ave., was named outstanding twirler at the West Texas State University twirling camp held recently at the university. She will be featured Oct. 13 at the WTSU football game.

Gail also won among the top ten in the National Baton Twirling Association competition held in San Antonio this year. She was invited to participate at the American Youth on Parade championships held this month at Notre Dame University.

She has won state championships every year since 1972, has collected 500 trophies and medals, and has been featured in "Who's Who in Baton Twirling."

Gail was also a twirler with Alamo Junior High School for two years and one year at Edison Freshman School. She is entering her senior year at Midland High School where she is head twirler in the MHS Bulldog Band.

...VISITING IN the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Osborn, 2413 Stanolind St., this week are Mrs. Osborn's sister, Mrs. Jerry Garrett of Athens, Greece, and her brother, P. T. Quast Jr. and his wife from Englewood, Colo.

Mrs. Osborn, Mrs. Garrett and Quast are the children of a pioneer West Texas family, the late Dr. and Mrs. P. T. Quast of Sweetwater.

...A BREATHING FUNCTION and blood pressure screening clinic has been scheduled at Midland College Saturday between 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. The clinic will be held in the MC Occupational/Technical Building. Sponsored by the Midland College Respiratory Therapy School, Midland Memorial Hospital, County Lung Clinic, and State Medical Inc. of Abilene, the clinic is painless and free of charge.

...JOHN KEVIN CLARK of Midland has been awarded a scholarship for study in the Baylor University School of Law for the fall, winter and spring quarters of 1979-80. He will enter Baylor law school in fall, 1979.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Clark, 1013 Tarleton, Clark attended Baylor University.

...MARTHA GRIFFIS of Midland recently returned from a visit to Ruidoso, N.M., where she attended the Rainbow Futurity horse racing competition.

She was accompanied by friends from Brownwood. The competition is an annual event in quarter-horse racing.

...MARINE SERGEANT Curtis M. Smith, son of Terry P. and Marquita L. Smith, 111 S. Dewberry St., has been promoted to his present rank while serving with 1st Marine Brigade, Marine Corps Air Station, Kaneohe Bay, Hawaii.

A 1974 graduate of Lee High School, he joined the Marine Corps in January 1976.

DEAR ABBY

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Six years ago I lent my brother $1,000 because he was in a tight spot. (I was married at the time and so was he.) I didn't ask him to sign an IOU. Neither did I ask for interest on my money.

He promised to pay me back within a year, but never did. I would have been satisfied if he had paid me a few hundred dollars at a time just to show good faith, but he ignored the debt as if he never owed it. In the meantime he bought his wife a new car. Now they are buying a boat!

I called him up and reminded him that he should pay his honest debts before buying luxuries. He replied by saying if he had known I was that hard up he would have managed to repay me before this. I am NOT hard up and he knows it. I lost my cool and said, "It's not the money — in fact, you can skip it; it was worth $1,000 to me to find out how lacking in character you are!"

He had a lot in common and hit it

WHAT'S YOUR PROBLEM?

'If he loved me he wouldn't act that way'

By the Staff of Family Services of Midland

"If Joe cared anything about me, he would have been more sympathetic when I had a headache last week." "If Jane really loved me she would have been more understanding when I was having all that trouble on the job last month."

These are the kinds of complaints that marriage counselors hear very often in the course of their working day.

The fact is that Joe might have been very sympathetic in his own way or that Jane may have tried to convey understanding in a way her husband failed to comprehend. Everybody just got their signals crossed.

Perhaps Joe, who saw that his wife was depressed and miserable, tried to cheer her up by telling her all the latest office jokes, or by tuning on her favorite TV show. What she wanted him to do was to offer to cook dinner and get her the aspirin. She

Now my brother claims he doesn't owe me anything because I let him off the hook by a remark I made in anger. Does he owe me or doesn't he? — BIG-HEARTED SISTER

DEAR SISTER: When you told him he could "skip it," you let him off the hook, verbally. But, morally, he still owes you.

DEAR ABBY: How about a repeat on undressing in the closet? My wife undresses in the closet and always has. When we make love, it's lights out and under a sheet.

Must I go to a peep show so I won't forget what a woman looks like? — POOR ME IN ESTHERVILLE

DEAR POOR: No. Try the beach.

DEAR ABBY: I recently met a New York man on vacation. He told me he had lost his wife three months before. (I've been a widow for four years.)

We had a lot in common and hit it off immediately. It was wonderful! For the next two weeks we spent all our time together. He asked me to marry him in about a year. I accepted.

After I arrived home (Chicago), he came to meet my married children. They adored him.

My problem: He also has married children, but doesn't want to tell them about me yet. He says it's "too soon." I don't mind waiting a year to be married, but I think the longer he waits to tell his children about me, the harder it will be.

I love him very much; Abby, and am willing to wait a full year, but his stalling about telling his children bothers me. What do you think? — SECOND TIME AROUND

DEAR SECOND: Don't be hurt. He knows his children better than you do. But suggest that if he holds off too long in telling them they'll assume he's marrying a woman he knows only slightly.

CONFIDENTIAL TO S.A. IN

took his apparent cheerfulness to mean lack of sympathy for her headache.

Jane may have started to talk about their planned vacation, when she saw that her husband was unhappy about his job. She thought that she might divert him from his troubles and give him something to look forward to. The husband may have interpreted her action as lack of concern for his job problems...he wanted her to tell him that, of course, the boss was all wrong, and he would certainly be missed...should he ever decide to quit.

In both cases Joe and Jane had some very specific ideas about how they wanted love and sympathy conveyed...and they were not prepared to accept any other token of affection. They were also not prepared to explain to their spouses what they expected by way of sympathy and understanding. As a result, their partners, who found their expression of affection rejected, became angry and resentful, and a whole cycle of conflict and misunderstanding had

Houswife wins miscarriage suit

DENVER (AP) — A 30-year-old Denver housewife has received a $6.8 million judgment in a suit charging that an intrauterine birth control device caused a miscarriage that nearly killed her in 1973.

The judgment against A.H. Robins Co. of Richmond, Va., was handed down Monday in Denver District Court. Presiding Judge Robert Fullerton said the award — $6.2 million in punitive damages and $600,000 in actual damages — was the largest in Denver legal history.

The suit brought by Carrie Palmer was one of several hundred filed against A.H. Robins, which manufactured an IUD called "Dalkon Shield" in the early 1970s.

It was removed from the market in 1974 after the federal Food and Drug Administration reported a "sharp increase" in the number of deaths and uterine infections among women who used the shield.

Some scientists contend that the multi-filament string on the Dalkon Shield allowed bacteria to enter and infect the wombs of women who became pregnant while using it.

Attorneys for some of the women suing A.H. Robins claim there have been more than 200 "septic abortions" — or miscarriages with uterine infections — associated with the Dalkon Shield. There have been 17 deaths associated with the IUD, attorneys claim.

Prevention of disease stressed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Surgeon General Julius Richmond stressed this week Americans save lives and money by stressing prevention rather than treatment of disease.

Richmond suggested six ways Americans can "enhance the prospects of good health." They are:

"Elimination of cigarette smoking, reduction of alcohol misuse, reductions in excess calories, fat, salt and sugar; moderate exercise, periodic tests for major disorders, and adherence to speed laws and the use of seat belts."

In a report on health and prevention of disease, Richmond said American health care spending has skyrocketed to $192 billion last year, but without any striking improvements in mortality rates as might be expected.

Technical problems hamper experiment

SAN BENITO, Texas (AP) — An experimental attempt to use gas derived from oil and coal to replace natural gas at a South Texas power plant has been stalled by technical problems.

A Central Power and Light project engineer said Monday the gasification process was shut down in June a few days after it began operation. Mike Shropshire said the $10 million project may be delayed until September while repairs are being made.

CP&L is testing the feasibility of making gas from low quality oil and coal. The resulting gas will be tried as a substitute for increasingly expensive and scarce natural gas at the La Palma power station here. The station's boiler has used natural gas since its opening in 1946.

Shropshire said the major problem was in the "cyclone," a mechanical process used to purify the gas derived from the thick oil and East Texas lignite.

The utility company paid $5 million for the construction of the experimental facility. Foster Wheeler Energy Corp., of New Jersey was granted a $5.7 million federal contract to handle the engineering.

Fred Ulrich, Foster Wheeler's senior engineer here, said the Environmental Protection Agency is interested in the project as a cleaner gasification process.

Ulrich said the system being tried here is the only one of its type in the nation. The system uses a limestone bed to clean the oil or coal. Ulrich said the high temperature in the process — up to 1,600 degrees — may have contributed to the cyclone's failure.

Shropshire said there were also minor problems with vibration and insulation. He estimated it will cost up to $12,000 to make the necessary changes before the experiment is resumed.

The engineer added that CP&L officials fear natural gas will be unavailable or too costly within a decade. Shropshire is confident the experiment will be a technical success. But he cannot tell if the system will prove economically worthwhile.

Wildcat projects staked; Midland gets confirmer

Wildcat operations have been announced in Howard, Pecos and Coke counties, field confirmations have been potentialized in Midland and Reeves counties, and fields have been reopened in Irion and Tom Green counties.

Howard Explorers A pair of wildcats have been spotted in Howard County, one by Tom R. Metcalfe of Midland and the other by Barron Kidd of Dallas.

Metcalfe will dig No. 1 Kim Unit as a 10,500-foot operation in Howard County, 12 miles north of Big Spring. It is 1/2 mile northeast of an 8,864-foot dry hole and 3.5 miles southwest of the Luther, North (Canyon reef oil) pool. The drillsite is 2,400 feet from north and 1,650 feet from west lines of section 13, block 33, T-2-N, T&P survey.

Kidd No. 1 Cassie Buchanan is a new 3,800-foot wildcat 7.5 miles north of Coahoma and two and seventh-eighths miles northwest of production in the Coahoma, North multipay field.

Location for No. 5 Ligon-State is 990 feet from north and 2,050 feet from west lines of section 16, block 7, H&GN survey.

Station owners rebelling on new DCE price rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Energy Department is scrambling to revise recent gasoline price rules as angry service station owners plan a Wednesday protest march on the White House.

At issue is a new Energy Department rule requiring dealers to post profit margins for public inspection. "It's degrading and unnecessary. Other businessmen don't have to do that," said Risque Harper, spokesman for the National Congress of Petroleum Retailers, which represents 60,000 independent service stations nationwide.

Energy Department sources, who declined anonymity, said the department plans revisions, probably by Wednesday, allowing station operators simply to certify that they are not exceeding legal profit ceilings.

But dealers can expect no revision in the department's main ruling that set a uniform 15.4 cent-per-gallon profit margin. Moreover, department sources say the ceiling also will apply to about 25,000 gasoline wholesalers and refinery-owned service stations not covered by the price rules announced earlier this month.

In related developments: Congressional leaders worked today to win House approval of a standby gasoline rationing plan for Senate action that eliminates a previously approved provision for congressional veto any rationing plan in advance. A vote was expected this afternoon.

The House Monday approved and sent to the Senate a $3.4 billion appropriation for energy development, including a symbolic $1.5 billion for future federal purchase of synthetic fuels. The measure also provides money for conservation, development of shale oil reserves and conversion of coal to oil.

New York analysts say world oil supplies are just about meeting demand again, a reason behind the virtual disappearance of long gasoline lines. But the analysts said the stable condition might not last long, because militant foreign oil producers are cutting supplies to support higher export price levels.

Meanwhile, patrons of Sohio, Boron and BP gas stations in 12 states and the District of Columbia have been hit with another price increase, Sohio announced Monday.

Prices for all grades of gasoline at company-operated stations were raised three cents a gallon in Ohio, Indiana, Michigan and Kentucky, and four cents a gallon in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, New Jersey, New York, Connecticut, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia, said officials of the Cleveland-based firm.

Wholesale prices to independent dealers were raised similarly in both sales regions, Sohio officials said.

And in Congress, Republican members of the Senate Judiciary Committee blasted a proposal from Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., to restrict major oil company mergers in a bid to encourage more oil and gas exploration. Under Kennedy's proposal, the 16 largest U.S. oil firms would be prohibited from acquiring other firms worth more than $100 million.

"We are hoodwinking ourselves if we think legislation like this is going to create energy supplies," said Sen. Thad Cochran, R-Miss.

In another gasoline-related matter, the Federal Trade Commission said Monday its investigation into alleged antitrust violations by Shell Oil Co. has been closed. The commission was investigating whether Shell allowed dealers to buy unleaded gasoline, which was in short supply, only if they bought a minimum amount of leaded fuel.

The FTC sent a letter to Shell's Houston headquarters saying that during its bureau of competition's investigation of the matter in December 1978, "Shell discontinued the alleged practice.... Further investigation now is not warranted."

Oil slick 90 miles from Brownsville

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Preliminary toxicity tests taken from the oil slick approaching Texas waters are expected today, and scientists plan to test the currents to determine where the slick is headed.

An overflight Monday revealed the northernmost patch of oil was 90 to 100 miles south of Brownsville, he said. "That was two isolated ribbons and some sheen, but not what you would consider as a slick," said Coast Guard spokesman Richard Griggs.

Members of the federal-state tracking team will drop current probes, which release dye into the water, he said. By watching the dye, scientists can calculate speed and direction of the oil.

A team of scientists rode the Coast Guard cutter Point Baker into the Gulf Monday to take samples of some of the oil. The scientists, part of the Environmental Protection Agency response team, also dropped a buoy about 155 miles southeast of Brownsville. A satellite will monitor movement of the buoy to show which way the currents are running, Griggs said.

Meanwhile, two truckloads of oil containment equipment are headed for Texas from North Carolina, he said, adding that scientists will use the equipment offshore when it nears Texas waters.

The Coast Guard, which has been flying over parts of the Gulf in a C130 daily with special electronic surveillance equipment, spotted oil on a flight 180 to 240 miles south of Brownsville.

Griggs said from 110 to 180 miles south of Brownsville, the team observed "a lot of sheen, ribbons of oil, as well as some ribbons of oil a little bit farther north of that. But there was no significant amount of oil any farther north than we had expected."

The Coast Guard will make another overflight today, he said.

A Mexican official helping American monitor oil drifting from a runaway well off the Yucatan Peninsula said the flow from the well has been reduced by a third and should be capped by Sept. 16.

"The spill has been reduced from 30,000 barrels a day to 20,000 to 21,000 barrels a day," said navy Capt. Jos H. Orozco of Mexico City. "That's by direct methods — pumping in special mud (to try to clog the well). We are still working on two relief wells."

He said relief wells will take the pressure off the well, which blew out June 3, "and eventually stop the flow. Sept. 16 is the target date." Orozco joined the U.S. team Sunday as a liaison officer.

A small patch of oil already has washed ashore near Tuxpan, Mexico, south of Tampico, but Orozco said it caused no lasting damage. "It was cleaned up in a day. The beach wasn't harmed," he said.

ENERGY OIL & GAS

Gasoline crisis fades with improved supplies

NEW YORK (A) — The gasoline crisis, which just a few weeks ago forced Americans into long lines at service stations around the country, seems to have all but disappeared.

But analysts say its disappearance is not as mysterious as it might seem. It's just that supply has once again caught up with demand.

The supply of gasoline is improving because the effects on oil supplies of the Iranian revolution and a drop in U.S. oil production last winter are substantially subsiding.

When they were unable to get the crude oil to make as much gasoline as they needed, oil companies had to allocate what gas they could make — about 90 percent as much as last year.

Under federal rules companies then had to give priority customers as much as they got a year ago, with the rest divided up among service stations. This meant that many stations were getting about 80 percent of what they got a year ago.

Because gasoline that couldn't be bought also couldn't be burned, consumption was cut sharply.

"In essence, you had rationing," said Larry Goldstein, an analyst at Petroleum Industry Research Foundation, a group supported by the oil industry.

Lines and gas station closings proliferated because of the sudden cut-back in supply. But once Americans got used to the smaller amount of gasoline available, they drove less and the situation stabilized, analysts say.

Fears of shortages and the effects of higher prices also decreased consumption, say analysts.

But the higher prices did not, as has been suggested, ease the shortage by freeing up hidden supplies of gasoline, analysts say. Rather, consumer resistance to the higher prices cut demand, taking pressure off supplies.

The loosening of the supply squeeze has, in some cases, even brought a return of old-fashioned gas price wars.

Seven Astro errors hand Giants victory

Bucs' Dave Parker

By The Associated Press
San Francisco shortstop Roger Metzger watched the Houston Astros make seven errors and realized he had seen it before.

(Giants reliever) Randy Moffitt came by and asked me if I had ever seen a major league team make seven errors and I realized I had, in my last game in an Astros uniform.

There was no coming back for the Astros Monday night. Left-hander Bob Knepper held them to five hits and drove in four runs with a bases-loaded double and a bunt, helping the Giants to an 8-0 triumph.

"It was good to see them kick the ball around so we could score more runs," said Knepper, 8-5. "But a pitcher can't be concerned with that."

A manager certainly can be, which is why the Astros' Bill Virdon could only shake his head, as if to sweep the game from his mind.

"I can't forget it tonight, but I'll have to tomorrow," he said after Houston's first-place lead over the Cincinnati Reds was shaved to 2 1/2 games in the National League's West Division.

The Astros played as if it were. When the smoke cleared, Cesar Cedeño and Julio Gonzalez had two errors apiece while Rafael Landestoy, Art Howe and Bruce Bochy had the others.

On a night when nothing would go right for the Astros, even the most pair of homers as Cincinnati beat Los Angeles for its seventh victory in eight games. Knight has driven in 22 over the last 16 games.

Harry Spilman added a two-run double in a five-inning Cincinnati eighth inning.

Cardinals 7-1, Expos 2-5
Ellis Valentine celebrated his birthday with two home runs and Larry Parrish and Chris Speier added one each as Montreal salvaged a split of the doubleheader and remained first in the East by .002.

"I talked to my mother and my agent earlier today and they both told me to go out and hit a home run in each game," mused Valentine, who got the total right, if not the timing, and now has 17 homers.

Keith Hernandez carried the Cardinals to victory in the opener, clouting the fourth grand slam homer of his career and adding a sacrifice fly to back the five-hit pitching of John Denny, 5-8.

Pirates 8, Mets 5
Dave Parker's tie-breaking single sparked the three-run eighth inning that carried Pittsburgh past New York and kept the Pirates close to the Expos. Former Met Tim Lincecum, who had four hits, added a run-scoring single and Omar Moreno had a sacrifice fly in the eighth-inning burst that sent the Pirates to their fourth victory in five games.

Phillies 5, Cubs 4
Manny Trillo's bases-loaded single in the 10th inning delivered Mike Schmidt with the run that gave Philadelphia its victory over Chicago and relief ace Bruce Sutter.

Sutter, 11-4 with 23 saves, gave up a leadoff single in the inning to Schmidt, who then stole second and advanced on a wild pitch before Bob Boone and Garry Maddox were walked intentionally to set up a force play. Trillo then followed with his single.

standard strategy went haywire. In the seventh, after Darrell Evans walked and Terry Whitfield doubled, Dennis Littlejohn was walked intentionally to bring Knepper to the plate.

Knepper promptly cracked a double which delivered three runs. Perhaps the memories of the seven errors last year were too vivid for Metzger. In the eighth inning, he misplayed Art Howe's grounder and was charged with the Giants' only error of the contest.

Meanwhile, the Reds bested the Los Angeles Dodgers 9-4, the Montreal Expos beat St. Louis 5-1 after losing 7-2 in the opener of their twin-nighter, the Pittsburgh Pirates downed The New York Mets 8-5 and the Philadelphia Phillies edged the Chicago Cubs 5-4 in 10 innings.

Knepper also drove in a run with a bunt in San Francisco's two-run sixth. Metzger went 3-for-5 against his former teammates while Willie McCovey and Bill North added two hits apiece.

Rex Dockery wishing for more team speed

By RICHARD VINCENT Sports Writer

FORT WORTH — The Texas Tech football team had their share of award winners during last year's 7-4 season which saw the Red Raiders finish fourth in the Southwest Conference.

Rex Dockery was tabbed conference coach of the year while James Hadnot, who was converted from tight end to fullback and led the conference in rushing, was the SWC offensive player of the year. And, freshman quarterback Ron Reeves copped conference newcomer of the year.

ALL THREE return for the upcoming campaign, which begins Sept. 8 in Lubbock against, ouch, Southern California.

Yet, with all the holdover award winners, Dockery isn't about to concede a national championship, much less a SWC crown, to the Red Raiders. Not at this time, anyway.

There are just too many ifs. On offense and defense.

"Defensively we need more quickness, we need more pursuit," said Dockery here last week during the Texas High School Coaches' Association convention. "Our two critical areas on offense are strength and wide receiver."

Reeves, a sophomore from Lubbock Monterey, threw for 1,195 yards last season while completing nearly 50 percent of his passing attempts.

Dockery, who's been Tech head coach since 1977, plans to utilize an air attack, saying "you've got to be able to throw the football." Before that happens, though, he's got to find somebody to catch Reeves' aeriels. What the Tech taskmaster thinks the Raiders need are fleet people. "We're lacking speed at the skill spots," he said. "You need somebody that's got speed. We need a fast guy that can turn around a game with a big play."

SPEED ISN'T a problem with Hadnot. The bruiser from Jasper has shed a few pounds and Dockery thinks it has to help. "Hadnot gives our running game hopefully a chance of being better," said Dockery. "He's down to about 231 pounds (from 240). Hopefully, less weight will help him."

Last year, Hadnot rushed for 1,369 yards. Still, Dockery sees room for improvement. Not necessarily more acreage but improved technique. "He (Hadnot) needs to work on his open-field running," explained Dockery.

Perhaps the area where Tech is most blessed is the kicking game, where both regulars return. Maury Buford led the nation in punting last fall as a freshman with a 44.1 average. Bill "Blade" Adams, a senior from Fort Worth Arlington Heights, is a sidewinder who led the Raiders in scoring last year and who has missed only one extra point during his college career.

The strength of the Tech defense will be the secondary, said Dockery. Strong safety Larry Flowers of Temple and cornerback Willie Stephens of Abilene High return, and they're among the best in the SWC. Plus, Alan Swann, a sophomore from Odessa Permian, appears fully recovered from knee surgery.

RUSTY MARONEY, a 6-foot-1, 215-pound linebacker who was a former Midland High standout, might be playing an important role for the Raiders this fall, said Dockery. Maroney did a superb job last fall when called upon to replace injured starter Jeff Copeland.

"Rusty plays with a lot of intensity, he made some big plays for us last year," said Dockery. "Right now, he'll be battling Copeland for the starting job."

A couple of other Tall City products will be trying to impress Dockery this fall. Jeff McCowan, a 5-foot-11, 205-pound linebacker, and Herb Pearce, a 6-foot-2, 215-pound lineman, are 1979 Midland Lee graduates signed to play with the Raiders.

All told, eight of Tech's incoming recruits participated in the Coaches' All-Star game, which bodes bright for the Raiders.

AND THEY'LL need everything they can muster when USC, a heavy favorite for another national championship, invades Jones Stadium. "We feel it means a lot to our players, West Texas and our conference having USC come here," said Dockery. "Our fans are looking forward to the game. It should be exciting."

Exciting is a word that can also be used to describe the coming SWC warfare. "After Texas, there are five or six teams with a chance of winning it (the conference)," said Dockery. "Every week you line up, it's just going to be tough." Amen, Rex.

Cowboys reduce player roster

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys reduced their roster to 76 Monday by trading two free agent rookies and releasing four others.

Al Pitts of Michigan State was traded to the Chicago Bears for an undisclosed draft choice, and wide receiver Mike Kirtman of San Jose State went to the Buffalo Bills also for an undisclosed draft pick.

Pitts was a sixth-round draft choice by Cleveland last year, but was released by the Browns. Defensive back Ken Randle of Southern Cal, running back Adger Armstrong of Texas A&M, defensive lineman Mike Beal of Kansas and middle linebacker Paul Suhey of Penn State were placed on waivers.

Randle was drafted by Cleveland in 1977 as a wide receiver, but was cut and signed by Dallas last year. He was injured in training camp and spent last season on the injured reserve list.

grove of the Indians was forced out despite this slide while teammate Rick Manning was out at first. (AP Laserphoto).

Texan wins three softball games in seven hours

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — If a gold medal were given for stamina, fast-pitch softball pitcher Kathy Arendsen would have to be a favorite to win it.

Arendsen, who will be a senior this fall at Texas Woman's University, pitched three games in a seven-hour period at this year's College World Series in Omaha, Neb., which her team won. All three were shutouts — a no-hitter, a one-hitter and a two-hitter.

"I slowed down a little bit toward the end," quipped the 20-year-old Arendsen, who is pitching for the world champion Raybestos Brakettes of Stratford, Conn., at the National Sports Festival.

Arendsen has compiled an enviable record since she began playing softball as a seventh-grader in her hometown of Zeeland, Mich.

In 400 innings of college softball this year, she did not allow an earned run and compiled a 40-5 record. And in the last two College World Series, she has allowed only one earned run.

"I consider myself one of the best (women softball players), and some day I hope to be the best," said Arendsen, adding that her teammates deserve a lot of the credit for her success. "They score the runs and they're always behind me mentally and physically."

Arendsen, whose parents are avid golfers and bowlers, began playing baseball with the boys in her neighborhood when she was in the fourth grade. By junior high she was playing in a softball league, and it was her high school coach who recognized her potential as a pitcher.

"He recognized I was tall (she's 6-foot-2 now) and had a good arm," said Arendsen. "He hung in there with me."

After graduating from high school, Arendsen enrolled in Grand Valley State College in Michigan, but transferred to Texas Woman's after her freshman year because it had a better softball program and a good academic program as well. A physical education major, she would like to coach at the college level some day.

Right now, however, she's enjoying international competition. "The Pan Am Games were one of my biggest thrills," said Arendsen, who struck out 17 and pitched a perfect game against the Dominican Republic at the recent Games in San Juan, Puerto Rico, where her team won the gold medal.

"Just getting involved to try out was a big thing. My family isn't rich and I'd never get to do this (travel) if it weren't for softball."

Arendsen said she thinks there's a pretty good chance that women's softball will be added as a sport at the 1984 Olympics.

Elcor raps Waco in state tourney

TYLER — The Midland Elcor Chems pounded Waco B&B, 8-1, in the opening round of the Texas Teen-Age Senior League State Baseball Tournament Monday night.

Doug Schmidt went all the way on the mound for the Tall City team, scattering three hits while striking out 13.

Elcor's bats were ringing out 11 hits in advancing into the second round of play tonight when it takes on the Tyler Raiders in the 8 o'clock featured game. Tyler drew a first round bye Monday.

Leading the hit parade for Elcor were Brian Cantrell, pickup player from Odessa, along with John White, Steve Pitts, Terry Willis and Clay Calhoun. Cantrell slammed a triple while White, Pitts, Willis and Calhoun, all had doubles each.

The Chems take an 11-4 record into the game with Tyler tonight in the double elimination tournament.

Minnesota trades Carl Eller to Seattle Seahawks

By The Associated Press
Carl Eller didn't bother reporting to the Minnesota Vikings' preseason training camp this summer. Now he doesn't have to.

The 37-year-old Eller, once the premier defensive end in the National Football League, was traded to Seattle Monday for defensive tackle Steve Niehaus. The Seahawks also get a draft choice in the deal.

"I think he'll set a tremendous example for our young defensive lineman," said Seahawks Coach Jack Peters of Eller, a 16-year veteran and a starter every season until last year. "We don't have anyone who can rush the passer as well as Carl."

ELLER WAS being fined $500 a day for his absence from the Vikings' camp. He said business interests were keeping him away.

Niehaus, 24, was the Seahawks' first draft pick. The former Notre Dame standout was selected second in the opening round of the 1976 draft.

In his first season, Niehaus was the NFC defensive rookie of the year. He hurt his shoulder the following year and started just 11 games the last two seasons.

WHILE ELLER and Niehaus were exchanging training camp addresses, two veteran linemen — defensive end Jack Gregory of the New York Giants and offensive tackle Shelby Jordan of the New England Patriots — walked out of their team's camps Monday. The Giants also learned that fleet running back Bobby Hammond will be lost for three weeks with a bruised left shoulder.

And Miami Dolphins star wide receiver Nat Moore has a lower back injury that will sideline him for three weeks.

Jordan is involved in a contract dispute with the Patriots.

The fourth-year pro, who sat out the 1976 season while serving a federal prison term on drug charges, has started the last two seasons for the Pats. He wants a contract extension.

GIANTS COACH Ray Perkins said of Gregory, a 13-year veteran and the club's defensive captain:

"I don't know where he is or why he's not here. In my mind, he was still the starting right defensive end. He was having a good camp."

Moore hurt his back in the Dolphins' scrimmage with New Orleans Saturday. He's expected back for Miami's final pre-season game, Aug. 24 against Philadelphia. Rookie running back Tony Nathan of Alabama will sit out Friday's game against New Orleans with a sprained ankle.

THE LOS ANGELES Rams may be without guard Dennis Harrah, who hurt his back and will miss drills prior to the team's game with Oakland Saturday. Los Angeles already has problems on the offensive line, with guard Tom Mack and tackle Doug France having retired.

Among veterans cut Monday were three-year pro center Lee Gross, by Denver and second-year defensive back Ted Burmeier, by Kansas City.

Indians going on war path

By The Associated Press

The Cleveland baseball team has been playing like a bunch of wild Indians since Dave Garcia took over as manager last week.

He can't explain it — he can only enjoy it.

"I can't answer why we're so hot," said Garcia after winning his eighth straight game Monday night, a 6-5 decision over the Boston Red Sox. "I just know that when this club plays to its utmost, it can win a lot of games."

Nor have the Indians been playing over their heads, points out Garcia, who took over for the beleaguered Jeff Torborg last Monday.

"When you take a look at the nine guys we put out on the field, we probably have the best defensive infield in the league, and I think Rick Manning is the best defensive outfielder in baseball," said Garcia.

"Then you throw in our good pitching, our excellent relief pitching and our timely hitting, and you see what can happen. Right now, we don't have Toby Harrah, but when you face (Andre) Thornton, (Bobby) Bonds and Cliff Johnson in the middle of the lineup, you're going to see some real power. And tonight we could bring a guy like Gary off the bench."

That would be Gary Alexander, who slammed a pinch-hit homer leading off the eighth for the winning run.

"You know he can hit a home run, you know he's capable of it," said Garcia. "There aren't many right-handed hitters who have more power."

In other American League games, the Baltimore Orioles defeated the Milwaukee Brewers 2-1; the Detroit Tigers turned back the Texas Rangers 6-4; the New York Yankees stopped the Chicago White Sox 7-2; the Kansas City Royals routed the Toronto Blue Jays 9-0; the Seattle

Mariners blanked the California Angels 8-0 and the Minnesota Twins defeated the Oakland A's 3-0.

Alexander led off the Indian eighth with his 13th home run, off Boston reliever Tom Burgmeier, 2-1. Bonds gave Cleveland its eventual winning run later in the inning with a sacrifice fly.

Bonds had given the Indians a 4-2 lead in the fourth inning when he hit a two-run homer, his 17th, off Boston starter Steve Renko.

Victor Cruz, 3-7, relieved Cleveland starter Rick Waits with two out in the top of the sixth inning and held the Red Sox to four hits and one run the rest of the way.

"It was a perfect day for me to throw," said Cruz. "It was hot — and when it's real hot, I throw hard."

Orioles 2, Brewers 1

Steve Stone allowed only one hit — a third-inning homer by Charlie Moore — before needing last-out relief help from Tippy Martinez, and Al Bumbry hit a two-run homer in the Baltimore sixth to lead the Orioles over Milwaukee.

Aside from Moore's homer, the only other Brewer to reach base against Stone, 9-7, was Don Money, who walked two times — with one out in the fifth and two out in the ninth.

Yankees 7, White Sox 2

Willie Randolph keyed a five-run sixth inning with a bases-loaded triple and Lou Piniella crashed a solo homer to power New York past Chicago. Jerry Narron's suicide squeeze scored Graig Nettles from third after Nettles and Roy White had singled. A walk to Fred Stanley filled the bases before Randolph tripled and scored on a sacrifice fly by Juan Beniquez.

Piniella's ninth homer came in the fourth, and New York added a run in the fifth on a single by Randolph, an infield out and a single by Thurman Munson off loser Richard Wortham, 11-10, helping to make a winner of Tommy John, 14-6.

Royals 9, Blue Jays 0

Left-hander Larry Gura pitched a three-hitter and Darrell Porter drove in three runs to lead Kansas City's rout of Toronto. Gura, 7-7, surrendered a leadoff single to Alfredo Griffin in the first inning and another single to Rick Bosetti in the second before setting down 19 of the next 20 men he faced.

The veteran southpaw, winning his fourth game in five decisions, struck out two and walked one, Roy Howell, who was erased by a fourth-inning double play.

Mariners 8, Angels 0

Mike Parrott pitched a four-hitter and Willie Horton knocked in six runs with two homers and a single to lead Seattle over California. Parrott, 9-7, struck out a career-high nine batters and gave up no walk in pitching his sixth complete game of the season and handing the Angels their eighth loss since the All-Star game.

Horton's 18th homer of the season, only his second hit in 25 at-bats, came in the sixth inning after Angels starter Jim Barr, 7-7, walked Ruppert Jones with one out and gave up a single to Danny Meyer. The Mariners' slugger added a solo shot in the eighth and then a two-run single in the ninth.

Twins 3, A's 0

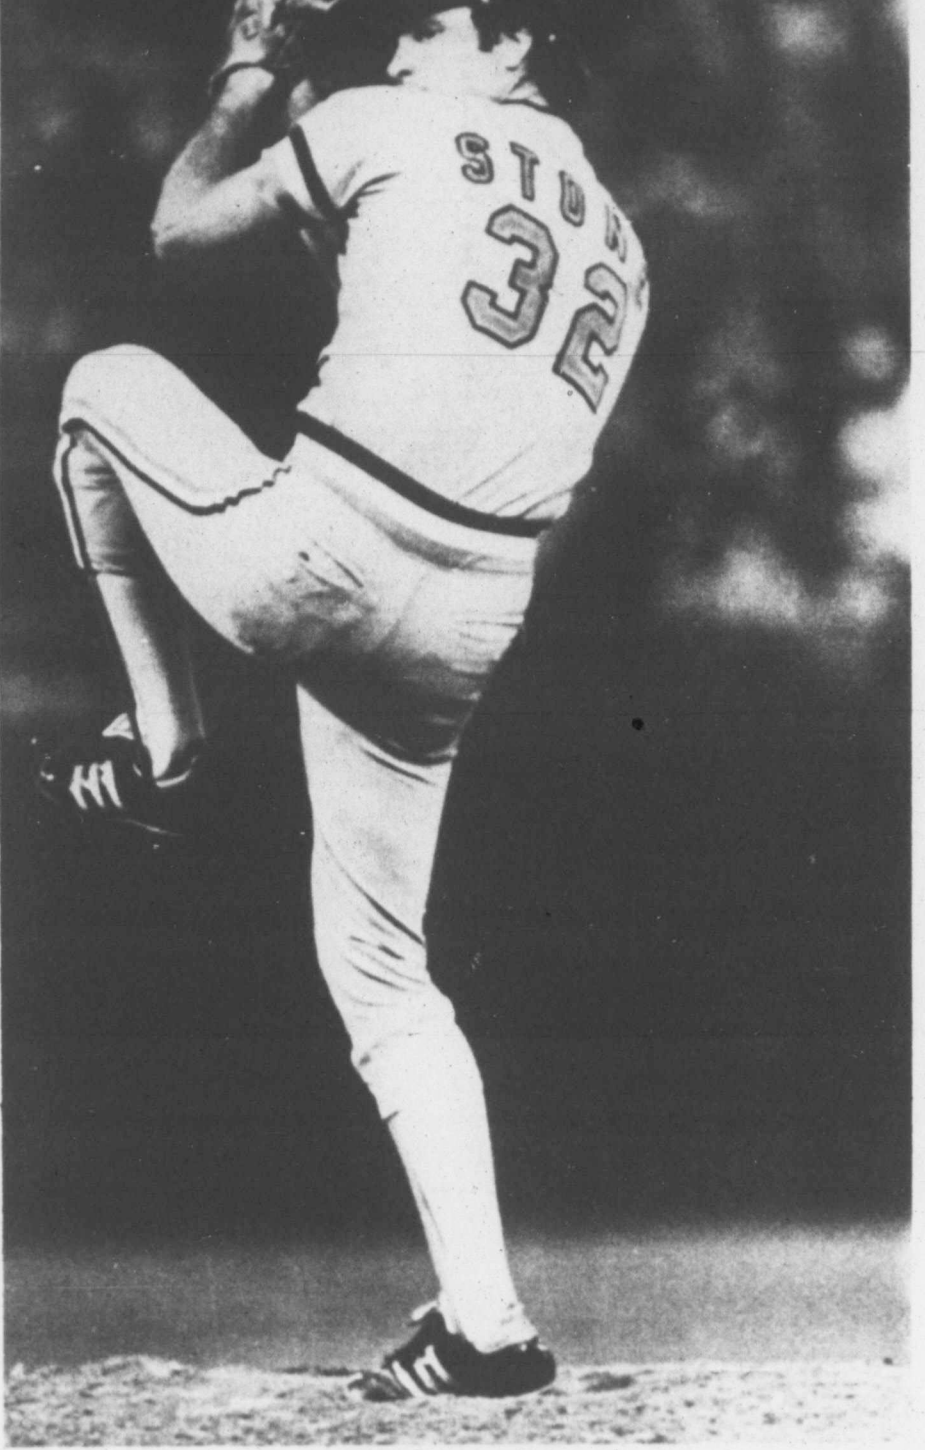

Right-hander Dave Goltz pitched a six-hitter for Minnesota's first complete-game shutout of the season, and Ken Landreau hit a two-run double, as the Twins beat Oakland. Goltz, 10-7, struck out five and walked none while insuring that he would win at least 10 games for a sixth consecutive season.

Shreveport — Pitching was the order of the day as the Midland Cubs and the Shreveport Captains split a Texas League double-header here Tuesday night.

Herman Segelke picked up his 10th win of the season in the first game with a 4-1 victory over the Caps, but Bob Tufts lifted Shreveport to a 3-0 blanking in the nightcap with a nifty four-hitter for his 11th victory of the season.

Segelke's win was a seven-hit route going performance, his second route going out in a row. He walked four batters and struck out one. Shreveport left eight runners stranded in the seven inning game as Segelke worked out of trouble time and again.

Dan Rohn was the big bat for the Cubs. He doubled, homered and scored three of the Cubs' four runs. Rohn's homer, his third of the year,

Baltimore's Steve Stone ...on way to two-hitter came in the first inning. Gary Krug also hit his first homer of the year with a solo blast in the fifth. Shreveport's only run came in the second inning when Steve Wilkins scored.

Tufts was the story in the second game as he limited the Cubs to four hits, two of them, both singles, by Krug. Midland left six base runners. Jack Ledbetter gave Midland another route going effort, but Dan Barton got to him for a first inning two-run homer and that was all the Caps needed with Tufts on the mound. A Wayne Peckek double in the fifth gave the Caps their other run.

The two teams play single games today and Wednesday to end the series, which Shreveport now leads by a 3-1 margin. Thursday in an off day for the Cubs, but they will be returning home for a 7:30 p.m. Friday outing at Cubs Stadium against San Antonio.

Tigers run Rangers ragged during victory

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Amid all the Mickey Rivers hoopla at Arlington Stadium Monday night the Detroit Tigers ran the Texas Rangers ragged.

Manager Sparky Anderson orchestrated all the right plays, including a steal of home in the 6-4 victory over the Rangers.

"I like to play a moving game," said Anderson, who ordered up two critical hit-and-runs and a double steal against the sagging Rangers who have lost 11 out of their last 13 games.

Rivers, traded earlier in the day from the New York Yankees to the Rangers, arrived in the seventh inning, just in time to spark a two-run rally that tied the game 4-4.

However, Al Greene's sacrifice fly in the eighth inning and Jerry Morales' run-scoring single in the ninth inning proved more than the Rangers could handle.

John Heller (4-7) picked up the victory in relief of hard-luck Jack Morris, who had to leave the game in the seventh inning after a collision with his own first baseman Jason Thompson.

The loser was Danny Darwin (2-2) who relieved Ranger starter John Henry Johnson.

"We're starting to play ball the way it should be played," said Anderson, who became the Tiger manager in June. "I sure would like to pass the Yankees. We're running well."

In the first inning, Tom Brookens stole home on the tag end of a double steal after and hit-and-run single set up the scenario.

Detroit got another run in the fourth, thanks to a hit-and-run single.

"We hit and ran right out of the textbook tonight," said Anderson. "I called the double steal because I didn't think the Rangers were ready for it."

Rivers led off the seventh inning in a pinch-hit role and singled to center. He later scored as the Rangers tied the game 4-4.

"I needed a change," said Rivers. "I'm glad I was traded to Texas. I like the guys over here."

Rivers received a standing ovation from the fans when he was announced as the pinch-hitter instead of the Rangers' audience. "I loves peoples. The trade will be good for me and I will try to do my best."

Asked why he had the reputation of not giving 100 percent, Rivers said "Somebody's always having something bad to say about somebody. I didn't have any problems with (Yanex manager) Billy Martin because he took care of me."

Rivers was inserted into center field and manager Pat Corrales moved Al Oliver, who was outspoken in his criticism of the trade, to left field.

"I will lead this team to a championship," said Rivers.

The U.S. Gymnastics Federation chose Colorado State to host the trials, during which the top seven finalists will earn slots on the U.S. World Games team.

Sixteen contestants are expected to compete in each event at the trials.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Colts have announced today the release of eight players from their training camp roster.

Jim Husband, a Colts spokesman, said the cuts dropped the number of players in the Colts' camp to 73.

The players include linebackers Tim Black of SMU and Raymond Peyton of Mississippi State; kicker Tim Gibbons of Missouri, wide receiver Orin Griffin of Albany State and runningbacks Paul Rice of East Texas State and Dave Riley of West Virginia.

Also released were two defensive linemen, Lucien Nibbs of North Carolina A&T and Earl Bryant of Jackson State.

AKRON (AP) — The World Series of Golf tournament, held at Akron's Firestone Country Club during the last weekend in September, will be played earlier in the summer beginning in 1980.

PGA Commissioner Deane Beaman announced at a news conference Monday that the $400,000 tournament will be shifted to the last week in August in 1980.

Tracee Talavera electrifies crowd in gymnastics

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Because she has only one international competition under her belt, it's far too soon to tell whether Tracee Talavera, a tiny dynamo from Eugene, Ore., may be the next Nadia Comaneci.

But judging from the reaction of an overflow crowd at the women's gymnastics finals of the National Sports Festival, something exciting is about to happen to American gymnastics. The 4-foot-9, 74-pound Talavera, who is only 12 years old, electrified the crowd Monday night — first with a 9.8 performance on the uneven parallel bars to tie for the gold medal, and then with a 9.8 on the balance beam to easily claim first place in that event. She earlier won the all-around title here.

Tracee is already an excellent gymnast," says Marlene Bene, a U.S. Gymnastics Federation representative at the festival. "Is she another Nadia? Well, that's hard to say. We really don't know what's going to happen one or two years from now."

What Bene will say is that the presence of such young talents as Talavera and 13-year-old Jackie Cassello has pressed the veteran women's gymnasts into better performances and given the United States "more depth than we've ever had. At the 1980 Olympics, we'll have the strongest team in the history of U.S. gymnastics."

Talavera clearly figures to be on that team, although she'll likely miss the World Games in December because of her age. She turns 13 in September, but entrants must be at least 14 years old, and the international federation apparently won't grant her an exemption.

Talavera was introduced to international gymnastics in the recent American Cup competition in New York. She surprised everyone by finishing third in the all-around, showing the guts of a youngster and the expertise of a veteran in a scintillating performance.

"Frankly, we didn't expect her to do that well," admitted Bene. "But she has always had an excellent coach to work with."

The dark-haired, dark-eyed Talavera took up gymnastics five years ago, tagging along with an older sister who had begun taking lessons. In no time at all, she shot up through the lower levels of competition.

Olga Korbut and Comaneci both influenced Talavera, although the American says she hasn't copied their styles.

Her favorite event is the uneven bars — "because I usually do best in the bars" — with the beam second. But she has received her highest mark, a 10, in the vaulting.

Cooper's Cougars picked to gain semifinal round

FORT WORTH — The coaches and sports writers have spoken. And, if you believe their predictions, Houston Stratford, China Spring and Union Hill will all repeat as state football champions in their respective classes.

The selections were made during the recent Texas High School Coaches' Association meetings here. Stratford, according to the guessers, will retain the Class AAAA crown against the same team they defeated last year, Plano.

Of interest to District 5-4A fans, Abilene Cooper was the choice to win that prestigious circuit. In fact, the Cougars are tabbed to go all the way to the semifinals, where they're predicted to lose to Plano.

China Spring will defeat Hawkins to retain the Class A championship, or so the sages say. Area teams afforded district crowns included Reagan County in 9-A and Rankin in 6-A. Neither was picked to go past district kingpin. In District 5-A, Seagraves was the choice. The Eagles, say the predictors, will then defeat Rankin in the first-round playoff.

The crystal ball revealed that Union Hill will once again reign as Class B kingpin. In Class AAA, Bay City was the choice for state champion. Ft. Stockton got the nod as District 2-3A titlist while Lake View was the pick in 3-3A.

Pittsburg will claim the Class AA title, according to the selectors. Kermit was the choice to win District 7-2A.

NOTES — The final registration for the coaching school was 7,254, a smidgen under last year's record sign-up for the Houston confab. Paul Stueckler, basketball coach at Midland Lee was re-elected to another term as director of Region IV. Eddie Joseph of Wharton will be the Texas High School Coaches' Association president for the coming year while Bill Shipman of Andrews is the president-elect.

Competitive juices flow during Sports Festival

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — The nation's inability to develop good young discus throwers and the stirring return to action of 42-year-old Al Oerter got the competitive juices flowing again in John Powell.

Powell, a former policeman from San Jose, Calif., now is so enthusiastic about his own comeback that he has a secret plan he hopes will culminate in an Olympic gold medal next year.

The 32-year-old Powell, idle most of 1978 because "I thought America was going to pick and develop three discus throwers better than me," completed a gruelling long-distance double Monday. He won the gold medal at National Sports Festival II with a toss of 214 feet, and last week, he was the winner at Spartacus in Moscow.

"When they didn't develop them, I said I thought I could do better than the guys competing, so I decided to come back," said Powell, the United States' top-ranked discus thrower in 1973, 1974 and 1975. "Also, Al's presence helped."

Powell said he was pleased with his progress — his best this year is 220-11 — but tempered his enthusiasm by saying: "Last tie, with a year to go before the Olympics, I was No. 1 and Mac Wilkins came in and demolished me (in the Games)."

Now, Powell, the third-place finisher in the Olympics, said he has a 12-month plan that will bring him to his peak at the Games in Moscow. But he would not reveal much about it. All he would reveal about what was "that it takes patience, it takes setting a goal and it will require more weightlifting — something that I hate to do and have neglected, but I guess I'll have to get back to it."

Powell, whose best throw came on his third attempt, said he was glad Oerter passed his final throw when it started to rain.
