

sident's economic sanctions o not represent a well thought-out couse of action." — Dr. Howard I.

UTPB prof says economic sanctions 'cosmetic'

President Jimmy Carter's economic sanctions against the Russian invasion of Afghanistan is a "cosmetic action for the American people,' which will do very little to solve the present crises in the Middle East, says Dr. Howard I. Lukens, professor of management at The University of Texas of the Permian Basin.

Recent events in the Afghan crisis have been regarded as war-like actions by several world leaders. However, the U.S. is using bread rather than bullets to fight the enemy. Lukens said he believes this policy will do more harm than good.

Until recently, Lukens was director of operations for Bell Helicopter International in Tehran, Iran, a position he held since 1974. He was involved with the "conceptualization, coordination and evaluation of multi-divisional training operations" per-formed for the government of Iran under Foreign Military Sales for Bell Helicopter.

Lukens remained in Iran through the revolution, only recently returning to the U.S.

"JIMMY (CARTER) IS lost...when he chose to impose grain, business, technology and fishery sanctions against the Russians," the UTPB professor claimed, "because he did not establish a definite objective for these measures.

"The president's economic sanc-out course of action. It is more a knee-jerk action," he charged in describing the president's overall policy toward the Russians.

Lukens says the U.S. should employ some "demonstrative measures" to stop further Soviet advances in the Middle East. He suggested development of allied satellite nations in the regions of Oman, Kuwait, Pakistan, Saudi Arabia, India and Somalia for the purpose of establishing agreements where the U.S. could send military troops to respond in the event of further Soviet invasion.

Also, establishment of open military relations with China is a very important demonstrative measure, Lukens suggests, which would show the Soviets the seriousness of any future aggressive actions.

a massive military aid program to Pakistan if the Soviets are to be contained in the region, he said. Within the Pentagon, there is a "grant aid" program where the U.S. can give military assistance to nations during emergency situations.

"THERE ARE NO winners in economic warfare," he said in reference to Carter's present policy of economic sanctions. Farmers and businessmen will be the first to experience hardships, but the effects of the sanctions will eventually have an effect on everyone

'Spin-off'' reactions in the economy resulting from grain and high technology sanctions affect individuals who are associated with these businesses

The U.S. should immediately start such as people in the transportation industry.

This is not the first time economic sanctions have been imposed against the Soviet Union, he said. In 1968, when the U.S.S.R. invaded Czechoslovakia, the U.S. retaliated by imposing economic sanctions. But they were

If your lights flickered or telephone didn't work for a while Saturday, it could have been a Midland relic saying

The Hill house, the longtime home of Midland pioneers J.E. and Irene Hill, was moved Saturday through downtown Midland to the edge of town. Displaced by a now-delayed master plan to add playing and practice fields to the Midland High School campus, the rambling, classic-style ranch house will continue its journey Monday to its final resting place on property owned by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Viney south of Midland. After a series of delays, the actual move - though handled in slow motion - went smoothly Three tractors and trucks were used to pull the house, which had been placed on a truck axle weeks before, from its resting place on the corner of Illinois Avenue and F

The procession paraded through most of downtown Midland with a series of outriders, including men on foot to check clearances and direct drivers through the 15-minute ordeal of turning corners, police and sherriff's deputies to direct and hold back traffic when needed, housemoving helpers in pickup trucks, just in case extra help was needed, and sightseers out to bid farewell to a structure that had been a part of the Midland landscape since the early 1900s.

Advance men for the procession were work crews raising or removing telephone, electric power and cable televison lines to make room for the massive structure to

Bullock predicts hike in Texas' gasoline tax

AUSTIN (AP) — State Comptroller Bob Bullock predicts the 1981 egislature will raise Texas' 5-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax, which he said is 3 cents lower than any other state's gas tax.

He said Gov. Bill Clements already has asked him to study gasoline prices throughout the country before the Legislature convenes next

Bullock estimates legislators will only have a $124 million "surplus" to work with in 1981, and he adds, "Frankly, I think we're in trouble ... serious trouble ... I think we've come somewhat to a crisis ... $124 million

Any appropriation bill passed by the Legislature can take effect only after Bullock certifies there is enough money to pay for it. Bullock was interviewed on the radio program "State Capitol Dateline" for broadcast over the weekend. Asked what would be the "most desirable" new taxes — in his opinion-Bullock said, "I'd recommend No. 1 the oil production tax be increased I'd say the same thing about natural gas.'

Increases in those taxes, which are based on a percentage of production alue, could be "passed on up East," Bullock said. "If you increase both by 2 percent, you're talking about many millions

f dollars," he said.

'The least desirable (increase)," he said, would be in the sales tax.

U.N. adjourns without action

UNITED NATIONS (AP) - The Security Council met privately for two hours Saturday night to consider new messages from Iran and then adjourned without acting on U.S.-requested sanctions against Iran. It scheduled another meeting Sunday night but set no time.

Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim said before the meeting began that he had received a new message from Iran which could bring further postponement of a

As he entered the council chamber for a closed meeting of the 15-member body, Waldheim said he received Saturday afternoon a reply to a message he had sent hours earlier to Iranian Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh. Waldheim did not identify the author of the reply, saying only that it came from Iranian authorities. He did not say what proposals the message con-

"I conveyed the answer immediately to the United States government and also to the president of the Security Council," Waldheim told reporters. "The United States government wishes to clarify the matter further and I indeed feel the answer needs further study and further clarification.'

Asked if the new development could mean a further postponement of the council meeting to consider a vote on the sanctions, Waldheim said "That is quite possible.

A conference between Waldheim and U.S. Ambassador Donald F. McHenry had delayed the start of the cloed meeting at which the full council was informed of developments.

Council members conferred privately before their meeting, first scheduled at 6 p.m. EST but delayed for 21/2 hours as consultations continued on the Iranian

The United States has proposed sanctions in response to the continued holding of some 50 American hostages at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran by Moslem militants. Western sources at the United Nations said a majority of the council would vote for the measure, but the Soviet Union has said it will veto it.

A one-day postponement of the sanctions vote was accepted by the United States Friday night when council members said oral information they received from the Iranian mission warranted further consideration.

McHenry told reporters Saturday afternoon he would agree to a further postponement of the vote if Iran were to give "unequivocal indications that

Brezhnev accuses U.S. of telling lies

MOSCOW (AP) - Soviet President has been some speculation in Western Leonid I. Brezhnev on Saturday accused U.S. leaders of "whipping up militaristic psychosis" and spreading "mountains of lies" about the Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan. Brezhnev's interview with the newspaper Pravda, read over prime-time Soviet television, was the 73year-old president's first public pronouncement on the Afghan crisis.

previous Soviet explanations for the intervention in Afghanistan — that it was necessitated by "imperialist aggression" in the central Asian state. But attributing the positions direct-

"But the party's Central Committee and the Soviet government acted in full Most of his statements repeated awareness of their responsibility and took into account the entire sum total of circumstances.'

He declared it was "sheer nonsense" to claim that U.S. national interests were affected in Afghanistan. And it was "absolutely false" to ity and lwnked the Soviet president say that the Soviet Union has "expandirectly to the Afghan crisis. There sionist plans" in the region.

percent of the members, and a strike vote was approved by the same amount," said Joe Medley, assistant general manager of the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers.

Federal mediators called another negotiating session immediately after the votes were tallied in hopes of averting a walkout.

"The company will send representatives." Southwest president Howard Putnam said of the late bargaining session, "but the unreasonable position of the union does not make a settlement likely. Putnam, in a prepared statement,

The Dallas-based airline's final offer, Putnam said, totaled more than $1.6 million in pay raises, additional compensation and benefits.

Strike would cut local flights

Southwest Airlines jet service will only be curtailed by one-third if the threatened strike of 108 union aircraft mechanics, cleaners and stocks clerks is carried out, a spokeswoman for the Dallas-based airline, which serves Midland Regional Airport, said late Saturday night.

"We do have a contingency plan to operate 12" of the airline's fleet of 18 Boeing 737 jet airliners should the strike occur, the spokeswoman said. Southwest is one of four major air carriers which serve the Midland airport. The others are Braniff Interantional, Continental and Texas International. Southwest President Howard Putnam said 1,600 of the airlines employees probably would be laid off as a result of the strike for demands which Putnam calls unreasonable.

French and means something like "accommodation between foes when neither wishes to fight." But detente does not mean a cessation of the cold war. It is always with us.

It is about time that we accepted

The Soviet communists are our enemies - not by our choice, but theirs.

Ours is a capitalistic nation, and always has been, and it is the avowed goal of the Leninist-Marxist doctrine to either destroy or absorb capitalism wherever it exists.

Sometimes this is done from within (as in Cambodia, Cuba and C sometimes it is done openly, as in Afghanistan

It must also be remembered that the Soviets' Eastern philosophy is completely the opposite of ours. At the end of World War II, for example, we began the rebuilding of Japan, Germany and Italy at great cost at the same time that the Soviets proclaimed their enslavement of East Germany, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Austria, Romania, Bulgaria and North Korea. To the victor belongs the spoils, is the policy followed by the Kremlin, and it has been so all along. Why have we failed to realize this after more than 63 years? The "capture" of Afghanistan - and it is no less than that - should forever seal this fact in our minds.

The term "cold war" is about as obscure as the word "detente." We have had a cold war with Russia ever since we chickened-out on the issue of East Berlin. Sometimes it is hotter than at other times. Sometimes it is cooler. With Afghanistan, the cold war is heating up. We have not lost detente, for the simple reason that there never was a genuine detente. There can never be a real detente between a peace-loving, peace-seeking nation and an atheistic, aggressive nation bent on world domination through force of arms.

We yearned for true detente so much that we began to believe it really existed.

It did not. It cannot, under present conditions.

We will have detente only when the Soviets become as civilized as we are and comes to realize that world power stems from production, pursuit of wealth, and the distribution of wealth among the less fortunate. Americans should not be alarmed when self-styled liberals or "peace at any price" idealists preach that unless we keep on with imaginary detente and allow the Soviets to do as they please in the world, we "will return to the days of the cold war."

Repeat: There has been constant cold war since the revolution of 1917 which ovethrew the czar, and certainly it has been constant since the end of World War II. We lose nothing by being firm.

The cold war will be with us always because it is simply an incompatible confrontation of political ideas and ideals; of morals and ethics; and of a religious versus an atheistic society. We can, of course, live peacefully with one another - Russia and the Western world — but we can never trust the Soviets. We know that they lie, as Gromyko lied to President Kennedy about missiles in Cuba. We can fraternize with them as we do when we drink and break bread together at their splendid embassy parties.

But the cold war will always be with us because our basic philosophies cannot be reconciled.

Russia obviously will not change her approach to the Western world. She is having too much success with

Nor, pray heaven, will we change ours to accommodate Moscow.

Russia's rulers must have been taken aback somewhat by the loud denunciations coming from Third World countries at the United Nations' Security Council meeting. The Soviets have set themselves up as the one major nation that will befriend the small countries. Suddenly, in the short span of two days, Moscow learned that the old malarkey wasn't working any more.

Apparently some small nations are coming to the conclusion that if you have Soviet Russia for a friend, you don't need any enemies.

I believe that most of the moves President Carter has made since the seizure of Afghanistan are correct and warranted, relatively ineffective though they might be. We don't want to get too tough at this time, for this is just another phase of the cold war.

Betimes we should be preparing for the day, which will come sometime, when the Soviet makes its move toward the oil fields of the Middle East. Now that we have cut off the sale of oil drilling equipment and of technology to the Russians to hinder them from exploring for their own oil, we must expect them to reach out for ours, sooner or later.

We get 25 percent of our oil from the Middle East, notably Saudi Arabia, while European nations get about 50 percent of their oil from the same will become one-way as of 9 a.m. Monday. The city street department already has installed posts, and the one-way street signs will be bolted on sometime this weekend, said Fred Baker,

Therein lies the problem.

Section of Cuthbert gets one-way designation Monday

True to the word of Midland City Council, a section of Cuthbert Avenue

When the Monday morning traffic rush is over, covers will come off the signs and the ordinance approved by the council a month ago takes

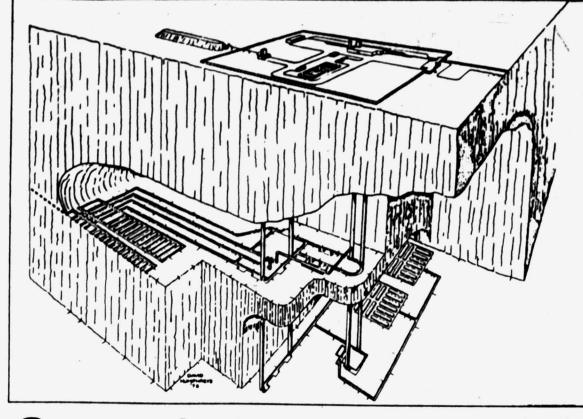

The section affected by the ordinance is between Garfield and Ward Streets. Instead of two-way, traffic will be heading west.

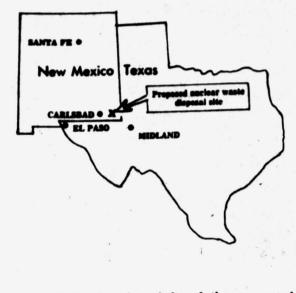

Traffic lights at the intersection of Garfield and Cuthbert will be changed about 9 a.m. Monday also, Baker said. "And we've asked the police traffic division to assist people in reading the signs," he added.

Drivers accustomed to going east on that section of Cuthbert can go one block farther north or south to get to their destination, he advised. The ordinance was approved by council members after several residents along that section of Cuthbert complained about the high traffic

"Ground water is addressed in this study because of the particular interest in the Permian Basin," Beckett said.

"If we proceed as planned, and there are many institutional problems associated with this schedule, we will start construction in 1982.

The idea of the SSI program is to provide monthly checks when they are needed to assure people of a basic cash income.

Federal SSI payments currently can be as much as $208.20 to an individual and $312.20 to a couple. Not everyone gets that amount in his or her SSI check. Some get less because they have other income, while others get more because they live in a state that adds to the federal payment.

My nephew has recently purchased a mobile home. When I visited him, immediately upon entering the home, my eyes began hurting, and when I commented on it, I was told it was caused by insulation, but my eyes would soon become accustomed to "it" and would quit hurting. As predicted, this did happen.

Is this situation true of most mobile homes? If so, is this dangerous to the health of the occupants? My nephew's 5-year-old daughter has been sick since they moved into the mobile home, and I wonder if this toxic atmosphere might contribute to her illness?

Thanks for enlightening me on this. - Betty Lewis

ANSWER: A spokesman with a mobile home dealership answers that the only subtance in the insulation of mobile homes which might be toxic is figerglass, and "you would have to swallow it."

He also said the irritation to the eyes in a new mobile home could be caused by the photographic finish on the paneling or the formaldehyde, a preservative sometimes used on the carpeting. He also said that the irritating effects from a new mobile home do "wear off."

Is it true that nearly all Midland County hospital rooms are now going to be private rooms, while insurance coverage allows at the most for semi-private rooms?

We have to finance the improvements and then won't be able to afford

The public should be informed about improvements. Thank you for a prompt reply in your column. - Mrs. F.A.

ANSWER: A check with Midland Memorial Hospital reveals that the hospital has 195 beds, with 26 of the beds in semi-private rooms, which means that 13 percent are semi-private in this institution.

It also was pointed out that many patients prefer private rooms, because they do not wish to tolerate the smoking of the other patient in a semi-private room

Here's something from the Health Insurance Institute, which states that the high cost of hospital care has increased dramatically in the last six years. A recent survey conducted by the institute of new group health insurance policies "shows a substantial rise in benefits for hospital room and board, particularly in 'full service' coverage - comparable to a hospital's average charge for semi-private room and board.

"This year, 78 percent of newly insured employees had coverage for semi-private room accommodations compared to 24 per cent in 1973.

Storage of nuclear reactor waste on Texas island halted

By LEE JONES

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The radioactive waste stored by Todd Shipyards on an island near Galveston is so low-level "you'd have to drink it for it to do any harm to you," says State Health Commissioner Robert Bern-

But Bernstein, who toured the controversial waste storage site, said Friday that Todd has too much nuclear waste and must permanently stop taking reactor waste.

He said a nuclear power plant at Sacramento, Calif., trucks thousands of gallons of waste cooling water to Todd for processing. His ban on storage of reactor waste, however, applies to all reactors, not just the California plant.

Gov. Bill Clements had asked Bernstein to look into the Todd situation, which the governor called "deplorable," and do something about it.

Bernstein said he orally instructed Charles Hathway, manager of Todd's nuclear storage facility, to:

- Permanently stop receiving waste cooling water and any other radioactive materials from reactors. Stop accepting shipments of any radioactive waste until Todd reduces the number of barrels of waste in storage "to a reasonable inventory. Bernstein said Hathway acceded to the embargo on reactor waste and promised not to take any nuclear shipments until he and Bernstein meet here Wednesday "to get down to hard numbers.

Todd currently has 12,000 barrels of waste materials, compared with a limit of 2,000 barrels in its original permit, Bernstein said. But the permit was amended in October to give Todd a full year to reduce its inventory to 2,000 barrels, he said.

Bernstein said Todd is not technically in violation of its permit because of that extension.

He attributed the large quantity of waste in storage mainly to the temporary shutdown in November of permanent disposal sites in Nevada and Washington.

One of Clements' concerns was what would happen if a hurricane hit Pelican Island.

Bernstein said the Department of Public Safety sent him a report suggesting the chief worry was the high tides accompanying a hurricane, not wind. Bernstein said the drums could withstand winds of up to 400 mph.

"If a drum was picked up by the wind and dropped in somebody's yard, you'd have to drink it for it to do any harm to you. It's that innocent. It isn't very dangerous," he said.

Bernstein said that while an island would not be the best choice for a new nuclear waste storage site, "they are already there."

Judge orders West stamps be auctioned

LOS ANGELES (AP) - A $1.5 million-plus stamp collection belonging to the late Sandra West, the Beverly Hills millionairess who was buried in her favorite sports car, will be auctioned off in London, a probate judge ruled Friday.

The exact date of the sale hasn't been set, but Scott said it will take place after the collection is exhibited there may be 10 to 20 times more abuse and neglect at the prestigious London international stamp exhibition.

However, Scott said it is likely to be quite some sizeable estate.

The widow of Texas oilman Ike West, Mrs. West most basic kind of child-care instruction. was 37 when she died of a drug overdose in Beverly Hills on March 10, 1977.

In accordance with instructions in her 1972 will, her husband

Scott said that at last accounting, in August 1979, her estate was valued at $4,765,192.43. But at that time the stamp collection was valued at only about

The estate also includes jewelry sold for more than $900,000, interest in a Texas oil field mineral trust valued at roughly $2 million, and a home in the posh care for them or uninterested in doing so. A number Truesdale Estates which has not been sold.

Scott said five parties are battling for the riches. The 1972 will, a handwritten document that contained her unusual burial instructions, leaves the bulk of her estate to her brother-in-law, Sol West

But a typewritten 1976 will names San Antonio attorney Fred Semaan as major beneficiary.

Paul LaPorte, a pediatrician with the Children and Youth Project conducted by the University of time before the proceeds of the sale are distributed Texas Health Science Center in Dallas, has found because of the complex, almost soap opera-like court that many mothers involved in cases of child abuse battles looming over Mrs. West's two wills and her are literally children themselves, and do not know how to be mothers. Dear Dr. Solomon: I never believed child abuse are emotionally ill. Other causes of child abuse include unwanted pregnancies and failure of the mother and child to form a bond between them, particularly if, for health reasons, the child and mother had to be separated for a lengthy period of Evidence of child abuse or neglect includes not only the obvious symptoms such as broken bones and bruises; absence from school, infected insect bites, improper clothing and lack of personal hygiene may also be clues. Where there has been abuse, venereal disease may be present. Some teen-agers, as well as younger children, who have been turned out of their homes and obliged to look after themselves, constitute another kind of child neglect.

It is interesting to note that the first recorded case of child abuse in which society intervened had to be brought to the attention of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals since, in 1874, there were no laws protecting children from their parents. An awareness of child abuse was given some impetus when the increased use of X-rays demonstrated to physicians that some of the children they treated for broken bones had been victims of physito get from its starting point to the corner of Texas Avenue and Loraine Street in downtown Midland, stopping at each intersection to allow the power lines to be moved, backing and edging forward to get around corners designed for much smaller vehicles.

Once downtown, workers strained and worried the extra-wide load past and sometimes over cars parked along Texas Avenue.

Eventually, the structure was sit-ting quietly, looking stark without its ring of trees and shrubs at the edge of Midland, waiting for Monday's final trek to restoration.

Moving day for the turn-of-thecentury structure was delayed well past its original schedule, as unexpected problems kept turning up. The normal trials of such a move were handled early.

The site on the Viney's ranch was prepared, permission from the telephone, electric, cable television companies, the city, county and police all were arranged. But unexpected obstacles kept setting the schedule back

Three brick chimneys had to be dismantled, brick by brick, before the structure could be moved.

Bad weather, sickness and equipment delays added idle time while a stream of passersby wondered if the Midland landmark would ever be moved.

Whether it should be moved at all was the object of a controversy that helped defeat the $10.2 million school bond election last October. Half the proposed bond money was to be used to expand Midland High School, putting a baseball diamond in the place of the Hill house.

While the issue ended in an out-ofcourt settlement with the Hill heirs and the home sold separately to the Vineys who plan to restore it to its original condition, many Midlanders viewed the school's threat to use its eminent domain power to take the landmark as "high-handed," and that may have helped defeat the bond

The district has not announced definite plans for using the four-plus acres it owns - now strewn with discarded bricks, rubble and residue of removing the home

Although no one is sure of the Hill house's age, an uncovered roofing board appears to have been signed in 1908.

Give a thought to Arbor Day

By CHARLES W. GREEN Midland County Extension Agent — Agriculture

The 1979-1980 cotton harvest has been virtually completed, but another two months will be required field-stored modules and ricks that can be seen in fields throughout the southern high plains. It now appears that Midland County will produce a record crop from the standpoint of bales, even higher than the most optimistic guesses made before the har-

Some area farmers who have concluded field stripping have begun stalk shredding, discing, listing and breaking of land in preparation for the coming crop year. Moisture conditions generally are fair to good in the Midland area following rain and snow in

SINCE TEXAS OBSERVES Arbor Day Jan. 18, 1980, the history of Arbor Day might be interesting to readers of this column. The following appeared in a publication of the Texas Forest Service:

Fifteen hundred years ago in a little town in Switzerland, the people of the village decided that they must have a grove of oak trees on their common. A work day was set, and the men, women and children went into the woods and dug up little trees, carried them to the common and planted them under the direction of a gardener.

The story says that everyone did his duty gladly. That evening, the older folks held a festival, and every boy and girl received a wheaten roll as a reward. Thus was the first Arbor Day observed among the people of the Alps.

Arbor Day, as we know it, was first observed in Nebraska, a state in which only three percent of the land originally was covered by tree growth. On Jan. 4, 1872, J. Sterling Morton, a member of the State Board of Argiculture and later governor, introduced and secured the adoption of the first Arbor Day resolution. Following the adoption of this resolution, Nebraska's governor issued the first Arbor .Day proclamation.

THE NEED FOR OBSERVING Arbor Day in Texas was first recognized in a community which originally had comparatively few trees. In 1889, citizens of Temple held a mass meeting on a street corner and passed a resolution advocating the designation of Feb. 22 as Arbor Day. Introduced in the legislature by Senator Tyler of Belton, the Arbor Day resolution became a law.

The pecan has long been a popular tree in Texas. In June 1919 it was officially designated the state tree of Texas by an act of the legislature. Sentiment which led to its adoption probably grew out of a request by the late Gov. James S. Hogg, who said: "I want no monument of stone or marble but plant at my head a pecan tree and at my feet an old-fashioned walnut. And when these trees shall bear, let the pecans and the walnuts be given out among the plain people of Texas so they can plant them and make Texas a land

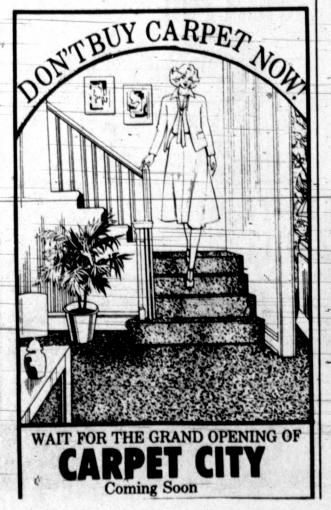

An amendment to the act in 1927 requested certain state agencies to give due consideration to the pecan tree when beautifying state parks and other public property belonging to the state. The original Arbor Day law expired in 1925. During the succeeding 24 years, the custom of observing Arbor Day on George Washington's birthday was continued by proclamation of the governor. In 1949 the Texas Legislature adopted the present resolution which designates the third Friday in January as Arbor Day.

THERE IS NO BETTER way we can aid in preserving our environment than by planting a tree adapted to our area of this great state. In recent years much has been written about the value of trees for purposes other than to provide lumber and shade, Research reports indicate that tree barriers can reduce noise levels as much as 50 percent. They also serve as giant air cleaners, filtering out dust as well as using carbon dioxide in the air to produce lumber, shade and fruit. Too often we take the majestic beauty of our trees for granted, and we forget the benefits they give us.

As a gift to future generations, we should initiate programs in our community to plant trees around our homes, in parks and on public grounds. Give some thought to selecting varieties and species suited to our area.

Too frequently people are impatient and want immediate results, so weak, fast-growing varieites are used. All too often the silver maple, cottonwood, Siberian elm, mulberry and other rapidly growing trees grow, mature and die out in one or tow generations. For permanent plantings select the oak, pecan, deodar cedar, Aleppa, Mondell and Japanese black pine and other similar species.

Texas Arbor Day occurs during the prime tree planting season. The cold, moist soil at this time allows the roots to become established before top growth occurs. Trees are usually in prime condition for transplanting at this time, and the chances for success are greatest. So, why not plant a tree sometime during the next few weeks? Future generations will thank you for doing so.

Astronaut to speak to science club

Astronaut Dale Gardner will be in Midland Monday to address the Junior Engineering Technical Society, a club sponsored by the school district for secondary students interested in science.

The 7 p.m. meeting, which will be held in the Marian Blakemore Planetarium, is open to the

Lt. Commander Gardner, who is training as a mission specialist for the space shuttle program, will discuss the "Get Away Special," a NASA educational project that students from both Midland high schools are participating in.

A graduate of the University of Illinois, Gardner was selected as an astronaut candidate by NASA in January 1978 and began a two-year training and evaluation program in July to qualify for assignments as a mission specialist on future space shuttle flight crews.

Gardner, a Navy pilot, has logged more than 1,290 hours flying time in 20 different types of aircraft. In 1970 he was awarded the National Defense Medal followed by the Navy Unit Commendation and Armed Forces Expeditionary Medal in 1975.

The "Get Away Special" is a space shuttle designed to take science experiments from high school students throughout the country into space.

A $500 down payment has been made to assure the Midland project room in the cargo bay for the giant shuttle, and the remaining fee of more than $6000 may be paid in installments. A 15-member citizens committee headed by Midlander Wallace Craig has been formed to help the JETS raise funds for the project, according to John Hicks, plantetarium director.

JETS, who number more than 100 in each high school, are studying space experiments and develop-ing some of their own, one of which will be selected to make one of the 200 flights on the space shuttle during 1981 or 1982.

Faculty members Mike Mullen of Midland High School and Dick Standefer of Lee High School are working with the students in adapting experiments for weightless, near-vacuum environments. operate in orbit like a satellite and return to earth like an airplane," explained Bryant Saxon, MISD, program director.

Former Red Army musician now fiddling for capitalism

By SHARON HERBAUGH

GARLAND, Texas (AP) - Lev Kardonsky, formerly a violinist with the Red Army Ensemble and now branded a "traitor" in Mother Russia, has been enlisted by corporate America to spread the free-enterprise

"There are times when Americans don't know when to keep quiet. And that's one advantage the Russians have. Like (in) Afghanistan, they never said they were going to move, they just did," he explained.

'The Russians are very smart people. They know what they're doing. But they only do what they do because the United States and other capitalist nations just sit back and watch. And you can't deal with the Russians that way."

The 33-year-old musician's plight began in 1970 when he applied to audition with the Riga Symphony Orchestra, but was refused. He believes he was denied the position because he is Jewish.

Disilluisioned with the socialist life, Kardonsky asked permission to leave his homeland lying on the western edge of the Soviet Union.

"I guess I always thought of leaving," he said. "I don't like or believe in socialism. It doesn't progress a

However, his request became tangled in a maze of "conditions" established by the socialist government before he could abandon the Soviet

"When they finally let you leave, you aren't allowed to take any documents with you," said Kardonsky, who arranged to have the vital records, including his master's degree in music, smuggled out of the country before his departure.

"Leaving, especially if you're Jewish, is very scary. You lose your job because the government considers you to be a traitor. You're watched very closely," he said. "And it's especially tough now. I have a cousin who's supposed to go to Israel later this month. But right now it's hard to say, because of everything that's happening," referring again to Afghanistan. The military situation there is very bad right now.

When Kardonsky arrived in New York on May 7, 1975, he was "shocked. Everything was different. The customs, the food, the language, the thinking."

The following day Kardonsky, with $3 in his pocket, packed his bags and moved to Texas, where he went without work for three months while he learned English. Finally, aided by the Jewish Vocational Services, Kardonsky landed a position with the Fort Worth Symphony Orchestra and later was hired by a Dallas restaurant to entertain customers. A year ago, Employers Insurance of Texas recruited the musician to endorse advertisements supporting the American corporate philosophy.

"In the Soviet Union, they told us how bad capitalisits make it for the American worker. Compared to the Soviet Union, most people live very well here," the ad begins.

"I know that's probably what most Americans expect to hear, but the fact is the wages are poor, your time is very tied, and you live in constant fear someone will tell the government what you say."

Although his parents, brother and sister have immigrated to Israel, Kardonsky admits he would like to return to Russia to see his friends. "But I know I can't. The goverment believes all foreigners to be spies. I think it would be interesting to go back for a while. but I know for me that's impossible. Everything that's printed about what I say goes into a file," he said.

"And I think it wouldn't be wrong to say my file is growing, and growing and growing," he laughed.

STANTON - Martin County farmer Harold Henley has filed for election as sheriff and in doing so became the first candidate, other than Sheriff Dan Saunders, to file for the job in more than 20 years.

Henley, who is the first to announced candidacy for the post, said he is "not a politican," and that he is concerned about "good govern-ment and policy making."

McCamey voters to go to polls

McCAMEY - McCamey voters will going to the polls on Jan. 24 to vote on a $4.85-million school-improvements bond issue.

A similar issue was voted down last year. The McCamey Independent School District's board of trustees unanimously called the election which, if successful, will mean that tax rate increase will be 35 cents per hundred valuation. Absentee voting began Jan. 4 and will continue through Jan. 18 at the

Bryant mellows in late years, but he's still a winner

Bear going for three in a row.

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) - He has won more national championships — five — than anyone else and two more seasons — three at the most — should make him the winningest college football coach of all

In the last three Sugar Bowls he has bested the likes of Woody Hayes, Joe Paterno and Lou Holtz and when September rolls around he will be seeking to become the first coach ever to win three consecutive national championships. Until then, he will have to remain content with being the only coach ever to win two in a row twice (1964-65, 1978-79).

He is, of course, the Bear of Alabama, but talk to Paul William "Bear" Bryant and you come away wondering if he's ever won one single game, much less 296 of them.

"Credit," 66-year-old Bear Bryant drawled the other day when someone mentioned all his acccomplishments, "I don't deserve any credit for anything. The only thing I do is kinda run the ship.'

Within minutes after Alabama's convincing 24-9 thumping of Arkansas in the Sugar Bowl, Bryant was participating in his second favorite sport - down-

'I can't think of a thing I contributed," he mumbled. "Lou Holtz certainly keeps you off-balance. He calls all of their offensive plays and he caught us flatfooted at times. He's so brilliant. It makes me feel so inadequate seeing him standing there doing

BRYANT wasn't being sarcastic or facetious. It's just that coaching has changed so much over the years and most head coaches have to be administrators and organizers first and coaches second. Besides, he has poor-mouthed himself for so long that it's second-nature, by now.

'When I first came to Alabama (1958), I coached the team," Bryant says. "I'd be down there every day, moving around to different spots."

These days, he does most of his coaching from his famous tower overlooking Alabama's practice

"I never go down there any more," he recalls wistfully. "If I have to, it means we're in a hell of a And though winning - at Maryland (1945), at

Kentucky (1946-53), at Texas A&M (1954-57) and especially at Alabama since 1958 — has been fun, Bryant remembers that "the most fun I ever had coaching in my life — on-field coaching," was at Vanderbilt, where he was an assistant under Red Sanders in 1940 and 1941.

'We had about eight or nine linemen, that's all I coached. I was young then and I was a half-baked assistant coach. I thought I was the best one in the world, but I wasn't worth a damn. I tried to help them, demonstrate a little. I let them block me and I tried to block them. It near'ty killed me."

Perhaps because he doesn't need headlines any more — although he'll get plenty if he breaks Amos Alonzo Stagg's record of 314 coaching triumphs -Bryant is loathe to accept, much credit for Alabama's success in the 1970s, a decade in which he became the first coach ever to win 100 games in 10 years (103-16-1). Keep pressing the point and he may yield some — but just a little, mind you.

Yeah, I think I oughta get some credit because I don't think you can run U.S. Steel or the Bank of America or The Associated Press or Kilgore

Bjorn, Vitas in finals Borg beats McEnroe; Connors loses

Bjorn Borg of Sweden overcame No.1 seed John McEnroe in a third-set tiebreaker and Vitas Gerulaitis beat Jimmy Connors for the first time since 1972 Saturday to qualify for the finals of the $400,000 Grand Prix Masters Tennis Tournament. Borg won 6-7, 6-3, 7-6 and the fifthseeded Gerulaitis scored a 7-5, 6-2 upset victory over No.3 Connors to up his lifetime mark against Connors to 2-16. Gerulaitis and Borg - each of whom won $10,000 for placing first in their round-robin groups - will play for the $100,000 first prize Sunday in this event, which serves as the championship of the 1979 Grand Prix tour. Gerulaitis is 0-14 against Borg.

Connors meets McEnroe in the consolation match.

Like prizefighters, Borg and McEnroe slugged it out from beginning to end. The final set featured a break by Borg in game one and a McEnroe break in game four. Each displayed the caliber of tennis that has earned them the 1-2 spots in world rankings. It was McEnroe's aggressive net game against Borg's passing shots. And both served well.

McEnroe lost the third set tiebreaker more than Borg won it. Three McEnroe forehands went long in the tiebreaker that Borg took 7-1.

McEnroe pretty much controlled action at the net in the first set. The 20-year-old U.S. Open champion and court with his forays to the net and Borg, who has never won a tournament in New York, rarely could pass his opponent. Still the set went to a Borg had gotten the initial break of the first set with four consecutive passing shots. The four-time Wimbledon titlist saved four break points in the next game to hold service but McEnroe got back the break in the eighth game with some terrific vol-

McEnroe blew a set point when he netted an easy overhead of a poor Borg lob in the 10th game and Borg held for 5-5. Each held to force the tiebreaker.

McEnroe grabbed a 6-4 lead in the tiebreaker, then Borg saved another set point with an overhead before McEnroe put away a volley for the

Each held serve until game eight of the second set, when Borg uncorked a couple of bullets on service returns to break. Then he held in a deuce game

Finesse was the key to Gerulaitis' triumph over the third-seeded Connors, who once again failed to advance past the semifinals of a major tournament. Connors did not get over that barrier at all in 1979.

Both players appeared to be feeling Each held service through six games reading that I'm one of 100 guys who before Connors hit a pair of forehand lead. He held for 5-3. Then, in the ninth game, both players were upset by inconsistent line calls and overrulings by the umpire. Connors even conceded a point to Gerulaitis after a poor line call on the preceding point had moved Connors to his second set

Gerulaitis held in that game. As he had done in his amazing comeback victory over McEnroe on Friday, he broke when his opponent was serving for a set, then held and broke again to

The finesse style of play continued in the second set with both players making effective use of off-speed shots. Gerulaitis broke in game four as his lobs and spins kept him one step ahead of a seemingly befuddled Connors. It was the same approach that turned around his match with McEnroe the night before.

Gerulaitis moved out to a 5-2 lead then broke Connors after the lefthander had saved one match point to clinch the victory.

"We've had close matches before but I've never won," said Gerulaitis of his one-sided rivalry with Connors. "I lost three or four matches where I was ahead 6-2, 5-1 against him.

Chaps return to win column against Hawks

BIG SPRING - Midland College, playing only its third game of the second semester and trying to regroup from Friday night's emotional loss to Western Texas, defeated Howard College, 106-82, Saturday night in the final round of the ABC Classic here.

The Chaparrals, 16-1 overall and 5-0 in the tough Western Junior College Athletic Conference, resume league warfare Thursday night at the Chaparral Center against Frank Phillips College.

Sophomore Robert Tate sparked the Chaps with 22 points while Kevin Willingham added 15, Charles Johnson 14, Tim Shelby 13, Kenneth Young 12 and Raleigh Freeman 10.

Things were tight through much of the first half until late in the session when Ernie Tate's basket gave Midland a 40-29 cushion. The scrappy hometown Hawks, however, fought to within six, 49-43 at halftime.

But Midland ran wild in the second half, eventually hitting the century mark at 2:00 on Tate's basket, and then coasting to victory.

Howard was led by Mike Wallace, who scored 36 points, Ron Akins with 16, Felix Bonds with 12 and Kenneth Jones with 10.

Totals 31-36-19-82. Score at halftime: Midland 49, Howard 43.

defender here cut off much of thr winners to secure a break and a 4-3 beaten two of them. Granger Ghost still has good moves as Midland's AD

Gil Bartosh admits he wasn't quite ready to become an athletic director, but it hasn't slowed him down, notice-

"I would have liked to coach three or four more years," he said, "but you don't pick the time for opportunities to come along. You just jump when they come and this, of course, was too good to pass

Succeeding Sam Cox as athletic director, Bartosh found himself with two football head coaching jobs to fill, but it was the kind of safety blitz Gil handled like a Roger Staubach, Terry Bradshaw, or, maybe, a Gil Bartosh. Displaying the same kind of moves that made the Granger Ghost an all-Southwest Conference quarterback at Texas Christian in 1950 when he accounted for 710 yards rushing and 1,023 passing, Gil quickly filled the vacancies with top caliber coaches in Pat Culpepper at Midland High and Spike Dykes at Midland Lee.

And speaking of moves, Bartosh was also impressed by Mrs. Dykes' ability to make one, "She came to Midland two days last week and had already found a home for the Dykes family before going back to Missis-

DYKES IS a familiar face in West Texas, having coached at Coahoma, San Angelo and Big Spring before moving into the college ranks as an assistant at Texas, Texas A&M, New Mexico and Mississippi State.

Dykes is strong on fundamentals and discipline, Bartosh points out, and this corner can vouch for the latter.

The first time we ever saw Spike was when he was coaching the San Angelo JV basketball team against Midland's JV. For some reason, a fan in the stands was giving Spike a hard time and it was personal, he called Spike by name. After one time out, the fan became abusive again barely avoiding an X-rating in taste. We looked at Spike from about eight rows up in the stands to see how he was taking the badgering. Spike looked around straight at Mr. Innocent. We thought, "If looks could kill." And there was no question as to what Spike was thinking, "If a look won't do it, maybe a punch

Perhaps the most impressive credential Dykes has from a Midland standpoint is that he coached at Big Spring three years (1967-69) and the Steers haven't had a winning team since.

CULPEPPER comes to Midland High from Northern Illinois University, but was a standout at the University of Texas at fullback and linebacker for Darrell Royal back in the early 1960s. Pat played on the 1962 team that came within a game of a national championship. That was the year, you'll remember the Longhorns stumbled over TCU, 6-0, on the way to the title, prompting Royal to utter that famous TCU quote, "They're like cockroaches, always falling into something and spoiling

At Texas, Pat won about every honor possible, including a "I just hope my children grow up to be like Pat Culpepper," commendation from Royal.

All of his coaching has been in the college ranks and if there is one area that might create some skepticism about his choice, it's the 14-29 record at Northern Illinois.

That's something Bartosh knows something about from personal experience. After winning district championships with monotonously regularity in Houston, Gil took Odessa Permian to a state championship in his second year there, then was named head coach at UTEP. He left a loser for the only time in his life when it became apparent that administration assurances that the Miners' program would be upgraded to a competitive level would not materialize.

Pat ran into the same type of situation at Northern Illinois, the poor relation to Southern Illinois. "Pat went out and spent $2,000 of his own money on weight equipment his first year and took a paint brush himself to spruce up the field house. They wanted a winner, but wanted Pat to do it with mirrors.'

Even so, Culpepper went from 1-10 in his first year 1976 to 5-6 last year, which is progress.

In Midland, Pat should find a more receptive atmosphere. Bartosh will make sure of that.

Randy returns to Cubs

Randy Hundley didn't finish the job last year, so the Midland Cubs are going to give him another chance...anyway.

The former major league catcher will be returning to the Tall City for his second stint as manager of the Midland Texas League entry, and although he didn't finish the job last year, no asked for their money back.

The 37-year-old skipper, who works for a Chicago bank during the winter, guided the Cubs to one of their most exciting seasons last year as the Cubs wound up in the Western Division playoffs by winning the second half flag and an overall 76-59 record for the year. The Cubs won the second half by 5 1/2 games after losing the loudly disputed first half by a rain-arranged .003 points to San Antonio.

In addition, the Cubs walloped the Los Angeles Dodgers' farmhands in the season's series, but still had to go through a playoff, all games in San Antonio, no less, and wound up losing two games to

This will be Hundley's third managerial season. In his first he guided the Bradenton Cubs to third place in the Gulf Coast

A three-sport letter winner at Bassett, Va., Hundley was signed by Tim Murchison to a San Francisco Giants contract, although most of his career was with the Chicago Cubs.

In 1963, he led the Texas League catchers in fielding with a .987 and was named to the league and National Association AA West allstar teams.

As a major league rookie in 1966, Hundley set a major league record for most home runs by a catcher in his first season (19). led NL catchers in assists (85) and made the Topps Major. League Rookie All-Star team.

In 1967, Hundley led NL catchers in putouts, total chances on his way to a major league record in fielding for catchers in 150 games or more (.996). He made only four errors.

That led to his selection as catcher on the major league allstar team picked by the Sporting News. In 1968, he set a record for games caught, 160, and in 1969, the year the Chicago Cubs almost won the pennant, he paced NL catchers with 17 doubles plays and tied for the lead in assists

A couple of knee operations slowed him down in 1970 and 1971 and probably shortened his career, although he bounced back to lead the NL catchers in fielding in Another ex-Midland Cubs manager will be back in the Texas League this year. Jim Saul, who piloted Midland in 1977 and 1978, has been hired as El Paso Diablos manager, EP GM Jim Paul announced. Which moves one to observe that any club presenting a Paul-Saul combination must have a lot of gall.

Regalado ties Nelson for lead in Hope Classic

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) -Victor Regalado birdied three of his last four holes for a solid 68 and tied Larry Nelson for the third-round lead Saturday in the rain-delayed Bob Hope Desert Classic, kickoff tournament for the 1980 PGA Tour.

Regalado, a seven-year regular on the American tour and a two-time winner, and Nelson, the second-round leader and golf's No. 2 money-winner last year, had identical 54-hole totals of 205, 11 under par.

"I don't understand it," Regalado said with a shake of his head. "I don't play like this early in the year. And I've never played any good in Southern California. I don't know what it is, but this is the first time I've played well here

Thomas scored on a 14-yard run and on passes of 15 and 5 yards from All-American Marc Wilson of Brigham Young, who also fired a 16-yard scoring pass to Kevin House of Southern Illinois.

It was the North's fourth victory in the last five Senior Bowls and produced the most one-sided contest in this 31st annual event. The North scored five touchdowns and a field goal following turnovers

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Alan Zahn, U.S. Reed and Scott Hastings hit the crucial baskets and the Arkansas defense - one of the best in the nation shut down high-scoring Texas Saturday as Arkansas captured a 55-50 Southwest Conference victory.

Earvin "Magic" Johnson of the Los Angeles Lakers, Larry Bird of the Boston Celtics, Bill Cartwright of the New York Knicks and Calvin Natt of the New Jersey Nets have all earned A's after three months of classes on NBA campuses.

That says a lot for this freshman class, because at this time last year there was only one A student - Phil Ford of Kansas City, who went on to win Rookie of the Year, or class vale-

Ratings are based on personal examination as well as test results filed by coaches, other players and beat writers around the league.

The leading candidate right now is

Bird flies highest among NBA's prize rookie crop probably Bird, college basketball's Player of the Year from Indiana State who has been a key factor in the Celtics' success story. "He's the best, most complete, rookie I've ever seen in this league," says his teacher, Celtics Coach Bill Fitch.

> BIRD, A 6-foot-9 forward who was drafted in 1978 but elected to remain in school for his final year of eligibility, leads the Celtics with 19.6 points and 10.4 rebounds per game and is second with a 4.4 assists average.

> Bird's arch-rival from last year's NCAA final, Johnson, has been everything the Lakers hoped for. Collecting a pro paycheck has not diminished his schoolboy enthusiasm, and he's be-come even more of an offensive threat than expected, averaging 19.5 points per game to go along with his assists average of 7.7, fourth best in the While Bird and Johnson - who meet Sunday in a nationally televised game - are both best known for their passing ability, Cartwright specializes in scoring. The 7-foot-1 center, pressed into starting duty because of Marvin Webster's knee injury, has given the Knicks something to rebuild around. He ranks seventh in the NBA with 23.1 points per game, eighth with a .555 field goal percentage and third with 1,678 minutes played through Jan. 6.

Natt hasn't gotten the publicity of his classmates, perhaps because it's so hard to find Piscataway, where the Nets hold their classes. But he excels on defense, something the other three cannot claim, and also leads his team with averages of 19.2 points and 9.5 rebounds per game.

JUST A notch below those four is David Greenwood, the ex-UCLA star who was the second pick in the draft, behind Johnson. Greenwood's steady play at power forward has been one of the few bright spots in the Chicago Bulls' season. Greenwood, who is averaging 16.1 points and a teamleading 9.4 rebounds per game, rates an A minus.

Below these five there is a definite drop-off, particularly in terms of consistancy, although several other rookies have shown considerable prom-

Just below them, at B minus, are guards Sidney Moncrief of Milwau-kee, Clint Richardson of Philadelphia

Other rookies who have earned passing grades of C include center Jeff Cook of Phoenix and forwards Larry Demic of New York, Cliff Robinson of New Jersey and Abdul Jeelani of Portland.

Greg Kelser and Roy Hamilton, the most highly touted of Detroit's five rookies, have been disappointments, playing their way out of the Pistons lineup. Give them D's, although they both have the potential to do better.

Other first-round disappointments include Jim Spanarkel of Philadelphia and Sly Williams of New York, who have gone straight to the back of the class — and the end of the bench. # LSU picks Stovall as Rein's successor

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) - Jerry Stovall, a Heisman Trophy runnerup at Louisiana State University in the early 1960s, Saturday was named head football coach at his Southeastern Conference alma mater, succeeding the late Robert "Bo" Rein.

Stovall, 38, served last year as LSU varsity club coordinator after five years as an assistant on the Tigers' coaching staff.

Stovall was given a four-year contract at $42,000 a year. He promised to retain the staff hired by Rein, who died Friday in a plane crash while on a recruiting trip to Shreveport, La. Rein had served as LSU head coach for just 42 days when the crash occurred in the Atlantic Ocean off the Virginia capes.

Stovall was hired unanimously at an emergency executive committee meeting of the LSU Board of Supervisors. He was recommended by Athletic Director Paul Dietzel, who first recruited Stovall as an LSU player in

"I'm an eternal optimist, but I'm not a miracle worker," Stovall said. "I'll do the best - all I can - to win. LSU is not just another university, another football team. It is my home. I love LSU and the people

It is the first head coaching job for thr former All-Pro defensive back with the St.Louis Cardinals. "I would gladly surrender this job or any other head coaching job — and my right arm — if he (Bo) were still here," Stovall said. "I will attempt to measure up to the high ideals exemplified by Coach Rein and carry on in a manner which he would want."

Stovall had not been considered when LSU selected Rein on Nov. 30 to replace Charlie McClendon, forced out after 18 years as head coach.

At the time, Dietzel limited his search to established head coaches, and after a year's search settled on the 34-year-old Rein of North Carolina

Although the Coast Guard still is searching for survivors, it was presumed Rein and pilot Louis Benscotter died when their plane unexplainedly strayed 1,100 miles off course and crashed into the Atlantic after apparently running out of gas.

"When I heard the airplane went down, my mind turned to a successor and Jerry's name immediately came to mind," said Dietzel. "It seemed he was the logical selec-

Dietzel said several options were discussed at Saturday's closed meeting with the executive committee, including having him take over as head coach for the 1980 season. Dietzel coached LSU to its only national collegiate football championship in 1958 and also was head coach and athletic director at South Carolina.

"You can't do both, I found that out," said Dietzel. As for retaining the staff put together by Rein, Stovall said, "Oddly, had my football philosophy been written down - defensively an offensively it would be so close to this staff it would be amazing.

He said he would stay with the split back - veer offense that Rein was to install and said the Tigers would show, "multiple faces" on defense.

Stores or the University of Alabama football team without somebody at the top. But I'd like for my assistant coaches to get some credit, because they do the work. So many people have something to do with running a football team, but all you ever hear about is the head coach.

WHAT BRYANT does better than anyone is prepare a team properly. He prepares for every eventuality, including losing.

"I learned early in life to have a plan if you get beat. When I was at Kentucky in 1950, we played LSU. We were both picked high in the ratings. We opened against one of those Texas teams (a 25-0 rout of North Texas State) and our quarterback, Babe Parilli, got hurt and couldn't move too

"We moved him back 10 yards, moved the fullback over and moved the halfbacks up. Pat James, one of our assistant coaches, told our linemen, 'If you let him get his shirt dirty, I'll kill you.' We received and Babe threw 17 straight times, I think. He wasn't real sharp, but he was sharp

"He started out 10 yards back and he stepped back two or three more. It was like those big LSU linemen were covering a punt on every play. We were ahead 14-0 at the half (that was the final score) and they were so tired they could hardly walk off the field. Our kids didn't do anything except

"LSU didn't win much that year because they put all their eggs in one basket hoping to beat our butt. I decided right then to have a plan for losing." What was Bryant's plan if Alabama lost to Arkansas?

"I was gonna brag on Arkansas, explain how I lost the game in our preparation and start preparing for next year. We've got to work harder anyway, not next season, but starting now, in our winter and spring programs.

Bryant intends to put some new wrinkles in Alabama's Wishbone at-

"In the Wishbone, the only back you can get out in a hurry is the fullback." he explains. "We'll use a flanker a little more next year because we've got some fast backs and we want to throw more to them.'

Bryant was reminded that no team has ever won three national championships in a row. A scowl crossed his face as he recalled that his 1966 team, an 11-0 squad which he still considers perhaps his best ever at Alabama, finished third in the rank ings behind Notre Dame and Michigan State, which were unbeaten but played a 10-10 tie. The Crimson Tide. of course, took national honors in 1964 and 1965

"We won three in a row," the Bear said. "We just never got credit for it. Maybe we ought to do it in 1980 just so we won't leave any bases untouched.'

Five years ago, the word Amistad in a fisherman's mind was something that meant scrawny fish, poor fishing and an expensive fishing trip to the benefit of no one other than the marinas and lodges in and around Del Rio.

Today, however, Amistad and region has rid itself of those facts and now is providing some of the finest fishing in the Lone Star

Black bass, striped bass, white bass and channel catfishing have all made a tremendous comeback, and Amistad visitors are not going home empty handed anymore.

There are several reasons for Amistad's fishing comeback. Number one is the fact that this huge border impoundment, situated eight miles west of Del Rio on the Mexico-U. S. border, is not a sterile specimen of giant water reservoirs anymore. Four to five years ago, this huge lake was virtually sterile. For the most part, vegetative matter had decayed and vanished, leaving very little fertilization sources in the water for plankton to survive. Without adequate plankton, baitfish can't survive. And without forage fish, gamefish species will tend to drop off to low populations.

According to all biologist reports throughout the tough Amistad years, this was the number one cause of poor sport fishing at this border lake. Fishing situations have now changed at Amistad. Just in the last two years, sport fishing for many species has made a complete turn around. Black bass fishing is considered the best since the early 1970s. White bass fishing, which was once absolutely fabulous on Amistand during the early years of the lake, is now back to normal. Now, maybe even better than the early years. And a treat has been added to this lake - striped and hybrid striped white bass fishing is making a rapid gain on black bass fishing.

The main reason for this comeback is due to heavy amounts of vegetation that now inhabits the clear border reservoir waters. Where the moss and aquatic vegetation came from, that's the $64,-000 question.

But the lake now supports large stands of underwater weeds and cover, which in turn, produces oxygen and offers hiding sanctuaries for baitfish and smaller gamefish. Here's where nature's cycle works adequately, there-fore supporting an ample gamefish population. The moss was the main factor in bringing Amistad back to the ranks of being one of the finest fishing lakes in the Southwest

Once this was established, concerned individuals in and around the Del Rio region determined something needed to be done to bring fish life back to Amistad waters. Meaning fishable populations that would compare to the early 1970s.

Studies by biologists, the National Park Service and other interested parties combined their thoughts and talents and decided that a restocking program certainly couldn't hurt anything.

Four years ago concerned individuals began a restocking program with Florida black bass. Today, after those four long years, results are reflecting their efforts from day to day catches made by Amistad anglers.

H. K. Fawcett, who is finance director of the Del Rio based fish restocking program, says, "Our restocking program on Florida bass is the largest privately operated restocking program in the United States.'

Each year this group, made up of local bass clubs, Del Rio businesses, fishing guides and other interested parties, is stocking more and more Florida bass into Amistad waters. To date, they've stocked almost a million fry to fingerling Florida bass in Amistad's now fertile waters. Statistics from bass club tournaments through data taken from Texas Parks and Wildlife fishery biologists claim that now about 10 percent of the bass taken are of the Florida strain. This in itself shows that the restocking programs undertaken by local concerned citizens are paving the way to good fishing for the fu-

H. C. "Smokey" Janes, a professional Amistad fishing guide of seven years said, "Amistad is now the best lake in the country for catching a limit of two to three pound bass. Of any lake I've fished, or had rather fish, Amistad is now the finest reservoir anywhere."

Now that the fishing for most all species of Amistad gamefish is up to par, it's also a great lake to visit for some winter and early spring fishing. Del Rio is far enough south that cold northers that invade Texas regularly during winter months do not always hit this region, therefore, creating a winter haven for fishing.

Black bass fishing on Amistad is now the thing for most fishermen, but don't overlook the possibilities of catching some giant striped or hybrid bass. Channel catfish by rod and reel menas is also exciting and is a fine way to fill the freezer.

CHALLENGE BY CHOICE

MARC will sponsor seminar genetic defects Tuesday

Huntington disease, clubfoot, cystic fibrosis, heart disease, Down syndrome and mental retardation.

These are just some of the genetic defects estimated to occur in one out of every 15 live births in the United

If anyone is concerned about how these defects may affect members of the family and would like to know of the help available, a meeting spon-sored by the Midland Association for Retarded Citizens will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Opportunity Center, 2701 N. A St.

Adrianne Hamilton, coordinator for the Texas Mental Health-Mental Retardation Genetics Screening and Counseling Service in Lubbock, will be the featured speaker.

There is no charge and the public is invited.

The Texas Department of MH-MR Genetics Screening and Counseling Service began as a pilot project to determine the need for genetics diagnosis and counseling.

Initial funding was provided by Moody Foundation in Galveston. However, as a result of the pilot, the Texas Legislature started funding the program in Sept. 1, 1975. National health statistics reflect that birth defects strike more than 200,000 infants every year in the United States. In their severest forms. defects can lead to early death or substantially interfere with the normal life of the disabled person and those close to him, causing emotional trauma, physical stress and economic burdens for the family and communi-

The President's Council on Mental Retardation has determined that the cost of institutionalizing a person with severe disabilities for life can amount to $500,000 or more.

Goals of the screening and counseling service are to diagnose individuals with genetic problems, to identify carriers of the genetic disease, to counsel families and-or individuals affected, assist the family in understanding cause of the problem to alleviate guilt and anxiety and to support them in decision making, to refer families and individuals for appropriate and necessary treatment and to educate the general public, the professional community and the academic population about genetics and its services.

Other clinics are located in Abilene, Corpus Christi, Beaumont, Denton, Fort Worth, Harlingen, Laredo, Longview, Lufkin, Tyler, Waco and Wichita Falls.

Indicators for referral may in--The family with a newborn suspected of having genetic abnormali--Pregnant women at high risk (with a history of genetic disorder).

—Very young parents. -Those with a history of mental retardation and-or birth defects in the immediate or extended family. -The couple with a history of repeated miscarriages or stillbirths, as well as those unable to conceive.

-Persons suspected of having mental retardation and other developmental disabilities that may be genetic in origin.

Department of Health, Education and Welfare reports indicate there has been a virtual epidemic of teenage pregnancies. The number of births to mothers under the age of 16 climbed by 80 percent from 26,000 to 48,000 annually between 1960 and

Pregnant adolescents have a much higher incidence of having babies who are underweight, sick and more likely to have birth defects than do women in their prime period for motherhood - 20 to 29 years.

Another factor showing the need for referrals is that about 50 percent of all spontaneous abortions are due to chromosomal aberrations.

Briefly, the referral procedure is as

A family is referred to the regional clinic coordinator who gathers the necessary medical data and family history. The coordinator then submits the information to the Lubbock genetics center for evaluation and, if appropriate, schedules the family to be seen when the interdisciplinary team arrives at the next clinic date.

Should referral not be appropriate, the clinic coordinator is responsible for referring the family to another source for help.

You Become the General Contractor-

General contractors buy the basic materials to build a home. They do some of the work themselves and hire sub-contractors for the rest. They mark up all their costs and pass it on to the buyer. They manage the project. We say you can do the same. Maybe better.

Approximately 200 youngsters in 4-H Clubs and Future Farmers of America chapters in the county will be exhibiting some 400 cattle, lambs and swine in the annual show in the Midland County Exhibit Building off U.S. Highway 80 East. The county's 4-H Clubs number 10, including those in Midland, Greenwood, Valley View and High Sky Girls Ranch. Both Midland High and Robert E. Lee High schools in Midland sponsor FFA chapters.

MIDLAND COUNTY Livestock Association is sponsoring the show in cooperation with the county agricultural extension ageints, vocational-agricultural instructors in the school system and 4-H Clubs and FFA chapters countywide.

Approximately 400 calves, including steers and heifers, ewes and wethers, and barrows and gilts, will be exhibited in the show this year, said Rusty Jones, association president.

Jones said he expects a heavy entry of pigs. "We'll have more animal s than we had last year - at least more swine will be shown this year," said Jones. He said the market is low on swines, Temperamental and gentle calves, balking sheep FFA youngsters than are the higher-priced catand stirring pigs were to be hauled in from the rural tle, and are easier to feed, groom and handle than how come a baink wants to help kids raise better livestock?

It's smart, that's how come ...

For one thing, we like to see youngsters become interested in basic things like raising livestock.

For another, the livestock industry is mighty important to each of us. We believe: there's a lot to be said for helping train boys and girls, who are interested. Over the years, the livestock show program has proved a valuable tool in such training. So, we salute these young people for their hard and effective work. We'll be out there Monday and Tuesday applauding their efforts. Won't you join us?

Dawson County show to honor Derstine

LAMESA - The annual Dawson County Junior Livestock Show next Friday, Saturday and Sunday for area youth in 4-H Clubs and Future Farmers of America chapters will be dedicated to H.H. Derstine "for his special interest in serving the youth of Dawson County" for the past 30

Derstine, a bookkeeper, has helped make livestock shows a success by serving on committees, writing numerous prize-money checks, weighing pigs and assistance in soliciting funds.

An estimated 300 4-H Club and FFA boys and girls will be exhibiting about 240 barrows and gilts, 200 lambs and 60 calves, said Joe Ed Wise, the Dawson County agricultural agent.

"We'll have a big show — generally always do," said Wise. Wise will be in Midland Monday to judge lambs in the Midland County Livestock

Monte Griffin is general superintendent of the Lamesa show, which will be for youths in Lamesa and in and around such farming communities as Klondike, O'Donnell, Welch, Sands and Ackerly.

The livestock — from docile little lambs to heavyweight and sometimes temperamental steers — will be weighed in Thursday.

Plains growers oppose Delta plan

LUBBOCK - Plains Cotton Growers Inc. of Lubbock is openly opposing a cotton acreage reduction scheme profferred by the Delta Council of Stoneville, Miss.

The proposal would achieve a desirable reduction in cotton acreage, but almost the entire cutback would be forced on Texas and Oklahoma with the mid-South and most of the rest of the Cotton Belt giving up little or nothing," said Donald Johnson, PCG executive vice president.

The proposal would mean that cotton producers in the mid-South "would be free to plant as many or more acres (as before) and would reap a disproportionate share of the price benefits, if any, from reduced Texas-Oklahoma production."

Stanton show opens Thursday

STANTON — Martin County youngsters in 4-H and Future Farmers of America programs in Stanton, Grady, Klondike and other communities will be showing between 180 and 200 calves, sheep and swine in the annual Martin County Junior Livestock Show this Thursday, Friday and Saturday in the Martin County Community Center here.

Approximately 115 youngsters will be exhibiting an estimated 45 head of cattle, 60 gilts and barrows, and 80 sheep, said Martin County Agent

The Martin County Young Farmers and the Stanton Jaycees are helping promote and set up the show, which will begin with weighing in, stalling and penning of swine, sheep and calves from 2 to 6 p.m.

In expressing "thanks" for supporting the youth-development show, the Martin County Championship Club, the financial backbone of the livestock show, will hold an Appreciation Dinner at 6 p.m. Saturday for all contributors to the show. The club has raised $13,000 in premiums.

SALUTE TO Midland County Livestock Show

This week offers us the opportunity to pay tribute to the outstanding young farmers of our community. Agribusiness has long been our strength. We're counting on our future farmers to continue the tradition of hard work and agricultural leadership our community has been famous for!

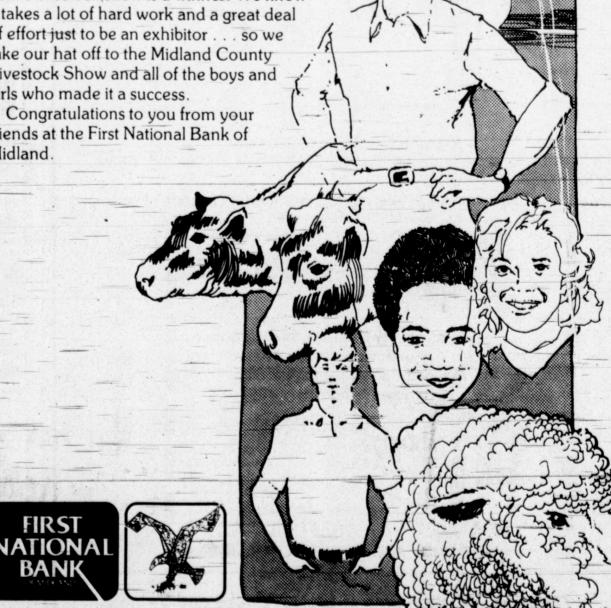

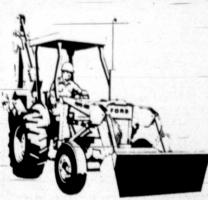

Midland County Livestock Show takes first place.

In our book every participant in this year's livestock show is a winner. We know it takes a lot of hard work and a great deal of effort just to be an exhibitor . . . so we take our hat off to the Midland County Livestock Show and all of the boys and girls who made it a success.

. A rare opportunity for residents of Midland and surrounding area to see outstanding Old Master paintings in "home territory" is currently offered by Midland's Museum of the Southwest.

A collection of paintings spanning several centuries — from the late Renaissance era to the 19th Century — has gone on view in the museum's Turner Memorial Gallery and Thomas Gallery at 1705 W. Missouri Ave. The collection, which will be on display through March 9, will be on view between 2 and 5 p.m. today, and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. each weekday. Admission is free

The collection is made up of almost three dozen paintings, featuring such famous artists as Thomas Gainsborough, John Singer Sargent, Sir Joshua Reynolds, J.M.W. Turner, Antoine Coypel, Hans Holbein, T. Tintoretto, Daniel Myrtens, Gerbrandt Van der Eekhout, Philippe Mercier, Ugolino de Sienna, John Hoppner and Jean-Baptiste Monnoyer.

The collection belongs to the Marquis de Amodio, who came to the U.S. during World War II and trained with a segment of the Royal Air Force at a military base in the Dallas area. He was so impressed with the fabled Texas hospitality that, following the war's end, he decided to express his gratitude by loaning his paintings to Texas museums.

The paintings, which came to the Museum of the Southwest on loan in early 1979, have not been shown in recent months. Now, the entire collection is available for public viewing between now and early March, when the collection will continue its travels to museums and art galleries in the

Among the more outstanding paintings in the collection are a portait of Thomas Cromwell, done by Hans Holbein the Younger, and "Angel Ministering to the Body of Our Lord," reputedly done by the famous Italian Renaissance painter Tintoretto.

the Symphony Guilds of Midland and Odessa, that the competition has become what it is today — one of the largest and most prestigious events of its kind in the nation.

The NYAC is divided into two segments — a college division and a secondary schools division. Competition categories within each segment include piano, strings and woodwinds. There also is a voice category within the college division.

In the 1980 event, contestants will be vying for some $7,000 in prize money contributed by Mr. and Mrs. W.D. Noel of Odessa as well as by Mrs. Raiford H. Burton, Mr. and Mrs. D.A. Ross and Mrs. A. A. Bradford, all of Midland.

Administrative expenses of the competition are met in part by a grant from the Beal Foundation of Midland, as well as by financial gifts from Mrs. Paul Moss of Odessa and Mrs. C.R. Mallison of Midland. Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Fullinwider of Midland are donors of the Lara Hoggard Performance Awards given to NYAC top winners each year. In the 1980 competition, more than 80 registered students in secondary schools, colleges, universities and conservatories will be participating, said the general chairman, Mrs.

Adjudicating the competition will be a panel of distinguished musicians and musical educators. Following each student's performance before the judges, finalists will be chosen, and from the finalists the winners and performing winners will be selected.

Performing winners are those who are selected to return here in March to perform with the Midland-Odessa Symphony in the orchestra's fifth pair of subscription concerts.

Mrs. Stimmel, the 1980 NYAC general chairman, served as co-chairman of the 1978 competition here, and in addition assisted in the 1979 competition held in Odessa. She is a mem-ber of the Midland Symphony Guild board and also is a member of the board of the Midland Symphony and Chorus Association and the Midland-Odessa Symphony and Chorale, Inc.

Her co-chairman, Mrs. Fullinwider, is a longtime Midland Symphony Guild member. She will be general chairman of the 1982 NYAC here. (The NYAC alternates yearly between Midland and Odessa.)

Other NYAC committees and their chairmen are as follows: Registration, Mrs. Horace Griffin; transportation, Mrs. John Hammett; practice piano schedule, Mrs. Robert Anson; presiding officials and attendants, Mrs. John Greer; social events, Mrs. George Thomas; mailing, Mrs. John Ochsner; refreshments, Mrs. Charles Koch and Mrs. Abbott B. Jenks; physical arrangements, Mrs. Earl Bruno and Mrs. E.J. Gemmell; students housing, Mrs. P.D. Peterson; judges, Mrs. William Beach; ushers, Mrs. Danny O'Grady; accompanists, Mrs. Howard Parker; publicity, Mrs. James Ingram; social committee for contestants, Mrs. Henry Tillett. Mrs. Winfree L. Brown is serving as secretary for the NYAC. Mrs. Frank Powell, current president of the Midland Symphony Guild, will be official hostess of the 1980 National Young Artist Competition.

A special NYAC advisory committee is made up of several past NYAC chairmen. The committee members include Mrs. LaDoyce Lambert, Mrs. Paul Campbell, Mrs. Robert Cowan and Mrs. Charles Jones.

The Imperials, an award-winning vocal ensemble which combines traditional gospel sound with contemporary music, will appear in concert at 8 p.m. Saturday in Chaparral Center at Midland College. The Permian Basin Region ranks second in the State of Texas in infant death rate. "In 1978, there were 1,145 infants born to mothers under the age of 20 in a 17-county region of West Texas. There is a correlation here."

"This year we are asking our Mothers' March volunteers to help us dettermine what kinds of community actions are needed to deal with the serious problem of adolescent preg-nancy," explains Mrs. Michael Gray, chairman of the 1980 Mothers' March on Birth Defects.

"By conducting the opinion survey concerning pregnancy in young ado-lescents at each household they visit, marching mothers can furnish important directions to meet these needs."

Midlanders visited by Mothers' March volunteers will be asked how seriously they view the problem in Midland, how well the community is dealing with the problem, and whether they favor or oppose family life education in schools including genetics, nutrition, and the biology of reproduction.

Results of this survey will be uti-lized by the Midland County Chapter to influence and direct their plans for community based programs reflect-ing Midland's health and educational needs. In addition, the survey infor-mation obtained will become a resource available to school systems, PTA, and other organizations with which the March of Dimes shares a common concern in this critical

In some communities, girls as young as 10 and 11 are giving birth to babies, many of whom begin life too soon, too small, or not at all. Fatal and disabling birth defects are common among infants born to mothers under 18. According to the most recent statistics from the Texas Department of Health, 21 percent of the 1,808 births in Midland County in 1978 were to mothers under 20 years of Figures from TDH show that these babies are at highest risk of birth defects. Their youthful parents face an uncertain educational and economic future.

Yet statistics in recent years have stayed at a depressingly steady rate of more than 225,000 births annually to girls under 18. Even more alarming now is the incidence of youngsters who become mothers at ages 9, 10 and

"The impact of adolescent pregnancy on these very young girls and their babies has long-term health, educational and financial repercussions on both," said Mrs. Gray. "We look forward to long-range planning in this area with our school systems, the PTA and other organizations, health providers, and religious and civic ate problem of the pregnant adolescent. The high incidence of infant death, especially in West Texas, and damage among this age group cannot be reduced without availability and use of quality prenatal care services, ongoing education, and social and psychological counseling.

The March of Dimes is busy elsewhere, too, providing assistance to other groups who are concerned with birth defects, prenatal care, etc.

For example, the organization provides literature to the Child Development class at Lee High School. The class is taught by Betty Ambrose, homemaking teacher and Future Homemakers of America adviser.

"We study the child from prenatal development to early childhood," explained Mrs. Ambrose. This is only the second year it has been taught at LHS, but the reaction has been very good among the students," she said.

Among other things, students learn preparation for parenthood, different methods of having children such as natural childbirth and adoption, child abuse, birth defects, mother's diet, care of the infant after it is born,

"It's a good class," said Claudia Colbert, LHS junior. "I learned so much about child development that I never knew before."

She particularly remembers the unit on "The Egg." Each student was required to carry a hardboiled egg everywhere with him or her for an entire week to learn the importance of responsibility in caring for a child.

"Some of us got very protective of that egg," said Claudia. "First we had to draw it, paint it and make clothes for it. Even the guys enjoyed it and it particularly taught them the responsibilities of being a parent. They learned that they, too, had to diaper and wash and clothe a baby. When some of them dropped their egg, they learned shout child abuse. egg, they learned about child abuse. Everyone was embarrassed at first to

Couple returns here after seven years in London

By SANDI BREEDEN Lifestyle Writer

Smokey and Jean Durosette lived in London, England, for seven years, during a time of great activity in the United States.

Richard Nixon was re-elected by a landslide only to become the first United States President to resign office, Watergate itself occurred and the election of peanut farmer Jimmy Carter became a fact while the longtime Midland residents set up temporary housekeeping in London.

Moving there in 1972, the Durosettes learned to adapt to the English way of life until returning to Midland permanently in November of 1979.

"I know I will miss a lot about London," said Mrs. Durosette. "But I've got a lot to do here and we're really glad to be back."

THE DUROSETTES LIVED in Midland 14 years before his job took them to London. Durosette is regional sales manager for Haliburton Oil Co. in "What did I get myself into?" Mrs. Durosette asked herself after settling into a London flat.

However, the Durosettes kept closely in touch with the U.S. and were able to vote in U.S. elections at the American Embassy. According to Duro-sette, the English respected Richard Nixon, and still do, as far as foreign policy was concerned.

Although Midland grew rapidly during the seven years the Durosettes lived in London, they were able to "come home" every year or so to visit friends and relatives. They admit that the city showed quite a change during their seven years' absence.

The darkness and dampness of London is a drastic change from dry and sunny West Texas, say the Duro-settes. Although the sand and dust in Midland causes Durosette to have sinus problems, a problem familiar to many West Texans, the mold growing in the walls because of the continuing dampness in London gave him problems also. "I couldn't smell anything for over a year after we moved there," he said.

Some 10 million people live in Lon-don and almost all of them live in flats, or what Americans know as apartments. Many Londoners walk or take the subways instead of driv-ing, said Durosette. He attributed this to an attempt to conserve energy. Also, gas costs $2.25 a gallon there, and with a population of 10 million people, there are enough people driv-ing already, said Durosette.

TOO, THE ENGLISH car is smaller. "The largest car over there can only hold four people," he added with a laugh.

The cleanliness of the parks and countryside especially impressed the Durosettes. "They are very clean and much neater (than in the U.S.)," said Mrs. Durosette. "There is no litter on the grounds of the parks because the people really take care of them. They treat the parks like they are their own backyards."

The pomp and circumstance of the royal family also impressed them. The changing of the guards was impressive," said Mrs. Durosette.

However, to the Durosettes, the Trooping of the Colors, also known as the Lord Mayor's Parade, was the most impressive thing about the Queen and the royal family. "Once a year the queen reviews all the regiments," said Durosette. "This is similar to our New Year's parades with all the colors and the crowds of people lined up on the streets. The people come from throughout Great Britain to see this," he added.

London is the crossroads of the world, said Durosette, and as a result, the Durosettes often saw many of their Midland friends. "Jean acted as a tour guide for them," he added.

ONE THING NOT available and which Mrs. Durosette craved was Mexican food."You can't get it there," she said. They also both wanted corn chips and saltine crackers, but were unsuccessful in their search. "For Christmas I'd give Jean a bag of corn chips and she'd give me saltine crackers," said Durosette jokingly.

Supermarkets were not in abundance, either, when they first moved to England. "There were only a couple of supermarkets in London when we first moved there, but before we left many more had been built," said Mrs. Durosette. London, like most European cities, still has the individual shop. One buys meat at one place, bread at another store and vegetables at still another. Mrs. Durosette added the supermarkets are not as clean nor as good in quality yet as those in the United States.

And, strangely enough, there were no fast food places in 1972 when the couple arrived in London. According to Durosette, one reason for this was because there was no room for parking places. However, the leading U.S. hamburger chain came through for the Durosettes and two years before they moved back to the States, they enjoyed hamburgers and french fries "the American way."

Naturally, the Durosettes were able to see a lot of Europe while living in London and the antiquity of sites in Europe never failed to impress them. "It's awe-inspiring to see those things that are so old," said Mrs. Duro-

She said it was especially nice now to be back home where she is "one of the people" and not a guest of the country. "We were always outsiders," she said. "We were never around our own people and I was always conscious of being a guest in their country. I had to conform to their ways," she said. "But, we'd expect the same of them," she added.

THE ENGLISH FASHIONS are not much different from here, according to Mrs. Durosette. "They dress warm, but they have to," she said. The English government only allows heat in homes between October and April in order to conserve energy.

'Some of the European fashions are a little ahead of ours and never reach the United States," she added. However, as she pointed out, many fashion designers live in Europe, so, while they may wear designer clothes first, some of their not-so-popular designs that never reach the U.S. are also worn first there.

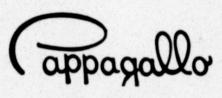

"Americanization" is rapidly taking place throughout Europe, said the couple. "The people are adapting more to American ways," said Mrs. Durosette. She and her husband believe this is because so many Americans are traveling abroad where Europeans are exposed to our way of Outgoing persons was one thing Durosette especially missed, for the American image of the quiet, reserved Englishman is apparently true. "On the subways and elevators, it was always quiet," he said. "When we moved back to Midland it was refreshing to meet people on the street or get on the elevator with a group of people and hear a stranger say, 'Hello, how are you doing?'

Claudia is also third vice-president of the FHA chapter whih will be cooperating with the March of Dimes during National Healthy Baby Week. The week kicks off every Mother's Day. In Midland, the local FHA chapter will promote good prenatal care for babies by distributing literature at the malls and health clinics, giving away prizes and participating in a number of other projects. The March of Dimes has also closely with the Perinatal Clinic operated by the City and County Health Department and the Junior League of Midland Inc. Leslie Forshagen, chairman of the league's Perinatal Clinic committee, explained that the main clinic is currently located in the basemen' of Midland Memorial Hospital, but will change its location soon

There are also two satellite clinics at 1109 E. Parker Ave. and 310 E. Florida Ave.

One Junior League member is placed at each satellite clinic every Thursday from 9 a.m. until necessary, and three volunteers are at the main clinic, also every Thursday.

The clinic is funded by the city and has several professionals in the health care field available to examine indigent pregnant women.

Usually 15 to 27 women are administered to each week, according to Mrs. Forshagen. 'The Junior League's role is strictly educational," said Mrs. Forshagen. While the patients are waiting for their checkups, we provide them with information on a wide range of prenatal care subjects, such as nutrition for the mother and infant, infant care, LaMaze breathing techniques, safety, birth control, and whatever else the patients think they need."

Much of these teaching materials are provided by the March of Dimes.

The Junior League initiated the project upon discovery of the high infant motality rate here. "The statistics have gone down since the survey was done in 1976," said Mrs Forshagen. "We're not taking credit for that, but hope our work has helped

The national Junior League had also done a child advocacy study which showed that prenatal care was one of the most urgent areas that needed attention, spurring the local project even more.

The League also participates in a postpartum class in which two volunteers teach a 30-minute class three days a week at the hospital.

The class for new mothers gives instruction in feeding, bathing, cord care, circumcism, illness danger signals, how to hold and feed the baby, mother care and birth control.

Participants are usually indigent mothers who qualify according to income and number of family members, among other considerations. Instruction is given through visual aids, posters, models, filmstrips, written literature and actual demon-

TOKYO (AP) - The swan's death "song" comes at the tender age of 10, not 60 or 80 as commonly believed, a Japanese bird watcher says.

Kiyoshi Honda, secre-tary general of the Japan. Swan Association, said his organization's sixyear study of 10,000 swans which migrate from Siberia to Japan's western coast every winter found that the average lifespan of the swan probably does not exceed a decade.

Till divorce

LONDON (AP) - Some of the romance was missing when Spaniard Francisco Fernandez married his sweetheart, Christina Sirviente, in London this week.

There was no "till death us do part" about it. The couple came over from Spain to get hitched in Britain just in case their marriage hits the rocks in the future and they want a divorce. 'There's no divorce at all in Spain," Fernandez, 33, explained after Wednesday's civil ceremony at Willesden Register Office in north London. The newlyweds had no immediate plans to split up, however. Said the 28-year-old bride: "We're still very much in love.

A foreign divorce of a Spanish marriage would not be recognized in Roman Catholic Spain, barring them from remarriage. Now their civil marriage, not recognized by the Spanish church, circumvents the objection to divorce.

I nope that your house plants survived the move Personally, I find that getting people and pets moved without too much trauma is enough of a task, but I'm not about to throw out good plants either, so I move Years ago, movers would not be bothered with your plants, but now they'll take them — at your risk, of course. If you're lucky and move during the spring or fall, the plants should survive, but several days on the van in the summer heat or freezing temperatures is very risky. One of the moving companies now publishes a booklet on "Moving With House Plants" and it is very helpful. They tell you how to move them yourself in the car or how to prepare them for transport on the van. They also have a chart of "State Inspection and Certification Regulations" which lists all the states and if certification of inspection is required.

Alaska, Arizona, California, Florida, Hawaii, Louisiana and Virginia have the most restrictions and require inspection of all plants on arrival. The certification can be provided by your county office of the state department of agriculture — but no more than two weeks prior to moving time. It may require XI ALPHA fumigation of the plants, or the "dipping" of them in MU CHAPTER, a protective solution. According to this booklet, BETA SIGMA many house plants are "prime hosts of burrowing PHI SORORITY nematodes." I'll bet you didn't know you were

Women seem to have a real attachment to certain plants which have a connected meaning in their lives. I know a woman who hid a large fern in a garbage can in their mobile home to get it into Arizona because she had had it all her married

My big pot of Sansevieria is all from a little plant I received at an engagement party 29 years ago and my Dieffenbachia is 22-years-old.

Women are not the only ones to get hooked on plants. My husband admired Stag Leaf Ferns on a restaurant wall in Santa Barbara while traveling one year, so our daughter presented him with one for his birthday. It is now known as Claude and gets 'misted" in the shower and drinks only rainwater.

There are many nurseries and shops with really outstanding selections of houseplants in Midland. Chuck Redger, director of Teen Challenge, presented the program, "Durgs: Your Child and Accepting the Facts." He also informed club members of the purpose of the Teen Challenge program.

The program was established nationally by David Wilkerson, author of "The Cross and the Switchblade," with goals of rehabilitating people with drug problems. Redger said that the purpose of the Teen Challenge ministry is to "evangelize people who have life controlling problems and initiate the discipleship process to the point where the student can function as a Christien in society, applying spiritually motivated Biblical principles to relationships in the family, local church, chosen vocation and the community.'

Teen Challenge stresses the individual's relationship with God, with authority, with other people, and with himself and his future.

Tea plays big part in Russian life

BATUMI, U.S.S.R. (AP) - The Russians may hate to admit it, but they have the Chinese to thank for one thing - tea.

Centuries ago, Chinese traders sold samples to the Czar and soon tea-drinking was a passion of aristocracy and peasants alike.

Then, in 1892, the first Chinese tea plants were brought to the Black Sea, enabling the Russians to grow their own fragrant brew.

Now this wet, subtropical city in the southern Soviet republic of Georgia is the cradle of Soviet tea-growing. Women in Chinese-looking straw hats to shade their faces pick tender top leaves by hand. Cows wander boldly through the fields, encouraged by farmers who know they eat only the weeds.

And, like most things transplanted here from abroad, the Russians have embraced tea drinking as vital part of their society. It vies with vodka as the favorite national drink.

Somehow the brew tastes better when made in a Russian samovar, those handsome brass or silverplate water boilers shaped like graceful urns. Prerevolutionary samovars are considered to be antiques. and the government jealously controls their export.

The Soviets have included plenty of tea on the official menu of the 1980 Moscow Olympics, pointing out to athletes that it is rich in vitamins C, B1, B2 and pantothenic acid.

But, more than anything, tea is a gesture of Russian hospitality.

Before the revolution, tea was delivered to rich people's homes to help mark spring and summer

Domestic drilling operations fall away from 22-year high

By MAX B. SKELTON Associated Press Oil Writer

HOUSTON (AP) - Domestic oil and gas drilling operations have backed away from a 22-year high.

The weekly average for rotary drilling rigs in use has dropped from 2,577 to 2,495 since Dec. 10.

But drilling contractors indicate there is no cause for alarm.

Ed McGhee, executive vice president of the International Association of Drilling Contractors, says industry observers believe the rig count probably will repeat this year its historic pattern of first-quarter decline.

"They cite as the main reason the traditional reluctance of small investors to commit their funds until later in the year when they can better predict their own tax liability,"

McGhee said. "Almost as large a factor in precimoving land rigs over winter ter-

The early December rig count of 2,577 was the highest since a 2,581 average the week ending Dec. 23,

Between those two averages, the industry had moved through a prolonged drilling slump that did not bottom out until the weekly rig count plunged to only 814 late in the first quarter of 1971.

McGhee said there is still reason for 1980 optimism in that several factors are at work to soften the potential

Administration backs plan for 10 percent gasohol use By STAN BENJAMIN gallons or less a year might be built,

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Carter administration is lining up behind a program that would substitute "gasohol" for 10 percent of the nation's unleaded gasoline supply by 1981, using millions of tons of surplus grain in the process.

That would be a sixfold increase in production of gasohol, a mixture of 90 percent unleaded gasoline and 10 percent ethyl alcohol — or ethanol — a poisonous, undrinkable liquid.

In addition to providing power when it burns, the alcohol increases the anti-knock properties of unleaded

Gasohol generally costs 5 or 6 cents per gallon more than unleaded gasoline, but its cost may decline with production improvements.

The $3 billion program outlined Friday by President Carter's aides stakes out a middle ground between a $5 billion gasohol program approved by the Senate and the absence of any such program in House-passed energy legislation.

Stuart Eizenstat, the president's domestic policy adviser, said the administration was not submitting new legislation for the program, but was supporting the $3 billion figure in a congressional conference committee already considering legislation that includes the Senate's $5 billion ver-

The 10-year program being backed by Carter would provide loans and loan guarantees for construction of small- and medium-sized alcohol distilleries to produce additional alcohol that would be blended with gasoline.

Eizenstat told reporters the administration was not "earmarking" for the program the 17 million metric tons in grain being withheld from the Soviet Union in reprisal for its military intervention in Afghanistan.

But he noted that the supplies originally intended for Russia remain in the nation's supply, available for purchase by distillers.

Eizenstat said Carter's gasohol policies were developed over the past 18 months and would have been announced about now regardless of events in Afghanistan.

A number of measures have already been adopted or proposed to stimulate gasohol production. Perhaps the most important is the exemption, until 1984, of gasohol from the federal gasoline excise tax of 4 cents a gallon.

Eizenstat said Carter proposes to make that exemption permanent as a significant inducement to investment in new distillery capacity, now the bottleneck limiting alcohol produc-"We will quadruple current gasohol production capacity by the end of this year." Carter said in a statement issued by the White House. "During 1981, we should be capable of producing ethanol at an annual rate of 500 million gallons - more than six times the current rate." It would take about 5 million tons of grain to produce 500 million gallons of ethanol. This year's ethanol production is estimated at 80 million gal-

Eizenstat said the loan programs outlined by Carter might encourage construction of some 2,000 small fuelalcohol distilleries on farms, where plant or animal wastes could be used as well as excess crops. An additional 500 small- or medium-sized commercial distilleries producing 30 million

Asked why the administration was seeking a smaller program than one already approved by the Senate, Deputy Energy Secretary John C. Sawhill said it felt $3 billion would support a, "very generous" program.

for gashol by announcing that Gulf Oil Corp. has been persuaded to reverse itself and now has agreed to allow purchases of gasohol under other brands, using Gulf credit cards.

Sawhill added one more small boost

Sawhill said Exxon Corp. has agreed to "review" its refusal to allow gasohol purchases on Exxon credit cards.

He said the two firms responded to inquiries he made after their credit card policies were publicly reported. Sawhill said, in answer to questions, that he was unaware of a similar policy stated by Texaco Inc. and hat he would look into it. Meanwhile, Sens. Robert Dole, R-Kan., and Birch Bayh, D-Ind., called on the oil companies to allow use of their credit cards to buy gasohol.

Tests made at French site

AUSTIN - Universal Resources Corp. announced that testing operations are in progress on the L.R. French Jr. No. 1 Little Washita in Comanche County, Okla.

On a two-hour test the well flowed at the rate of 2.86 million cubic feet of gas per day through a 10/64-inch choke from perforation at 20,255 to 20,286 feet being approximately the lower half of the potentially productive Springer Sand section. Flowing tubing pressure was 4700 pounds per square inch.

Universal Resources Corporation owns for its account a 12.25 percent working interest in the well before payout and a 7.5 percent working interest after payout.

Coastal chairman among three drawing large fines

HOUSTON (AP) - Three oil executives, including Oscar S. Wyatt Jr., chairman of the billion-dollar Coastal Corp., have drawn $40,000 fines after pleading guilty to violating federal crude oil pricing regulations.

U.S. District Judge George E. Cire, accepting plea bargaining and consent decrees, also directed Friday that Coastal, two subsidiaries Coastal States Crude Gathering Inc. and Holborn Oil Co. Ltd - and a fourth firm, Coral Petroleum Inc. of Houston, pay $20 million in restitution and fines.

The appearance of Wyatt, Sam F. Willson Jr., a Coastal senior vice president, and David B. Chalmers. president of Coral, had been preceded by day-long negotiations with U.S. Attorney Tony Canales.

Each pleaded guilty to one count of criminal information in the wilful violation of federal regulations. All the criminal information counts alleged Coastal Corp. received a higher-thanpermitted price for 331,458 barrels of domestic crude by falsifying invoices and making up the difference through a later sale of 426,500 barrels of for-

After 1980's first quarter, McGhee said, there are some predictions the active rig count will recover and climb during the fourth quarter into the same range as in 1956.

For new wells drilled, 1956 was drilling's best year ever, with the industry completing a record 58,160

"In mid-December of that year, the active rig count hit 2,894," McGhee "However, the absolute all-time record count had been set 12 months earlier at a level of 3,137 active McGhee said the 1955 figure appears unattainable in 1980.

"It is not that too few rigs will be available," he said. "Rather, operators just give no sign of requiring that many new holes this year.

After the all-time high for well completions was recorded in 1956, the long drilling slump dropped completions to a modern low of 27,300 in 1971. Increases in six of the next seven years enabled the completions total to move back to 47,057 in 1978. Petroleum Information Corp. has placed 1979 completions at 48,709 and has projected an 0.8 percent increase

The Denver data analysis firm said the 18,856 wells last year completed as oil producers represented a 4.5 percent decline from 1979 but the 14,394 natural gas producers represented a 15 percent gain. There were 15,851 dry McGhee says drilling contractors may face another shortage of diesel fuel during the first quarter. Watch for such supplies to grow scarce, he said, within the next 30 to 45 days. The disruption of Iranian supplies is being compounded by the peak winter demand for home heating oils in the United States," he said. "The result is drilling contractors may expect a repeat of the diesel shortages and price jumps that grabbed headlines a year ago."

At that time, McGhee said, the Department of Energy wound up assigning the same top priority to drilling rigs that had been given to agricul-

"This time, no such favors will be given," he said.

"Election year politics won't permake any encouraging moves toward the petroleum industry.'

Wall Street beams over oil prospects

By WILLIAM GLASGALL AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - Wall Street is beaming over prospects for domestic oil companies in 1980 as petroleum prices keep rising and U.S. exploration efforts gain.

'We like them," said Dean Witter Renyolds Inc. analyst Eugene L. Nowak of the domestic companies. "The earnings outlook ... is excel-lent," said Sanford C. Bernstein & Co.'s Charles C. Cahn Jr. "Impelled by the substantial in-crease in world oil prices over the past year and prospective further increases" over the next few years, profits for one group of oil companies 'are expected to grow at an average annual rate of 23 percent over the 1974-1983 period," Cahn said in a re-

Of the six domestic companies he follows, Cahn picks Phillips Petroleum and Amerada Hess for "the highest earnings per share growth rate," in the period, "at 30 percent and 29 percent, respectively.

Each company will benefit from production in the United States and the North Sea, he said.

Phillips' profitability will be "unrivaled," Cahn said, while Amerada Hess will gain benefits from production that will outweigh narrow profit margins at its giant refinery in the Virgin Islands

Nowak sees earnings growth of 10 percent to 15 percent a year between 1980 and 1984 in the 10-company group he watches, and he's especially enthusiastic about prospects for companies with major interests in Alaska.

"There's going to be a lot more oil coming out of there" as new production in the Beaufort sea and elsewhere is added to North Slope output, Nowak

Nowak recently upgraded his earnings forecast for Atlantic Richfield, a major Alaska producer, to $9.25 a share for 1979 and $11.50 for 1980, against $6.60 in 1978. He also sees Arco boosting dividends by 21 percent to $3.40 a share this year.

Standard Oil of Ohio, another Alaskan producer, probably will raise its dividend by 56 percent to $2.50 a share this year, Nowak forecast, as pershare earnings climb from $3.99 in 1978 to $9.35 "or a little better" in 1979 and around $13.50 in 1981, he said.

"Sohio's favorable profit trend in 1979 overwhelmingly reflects rising prices for Alaskan crude oil from the Prudhoe Bay field," said a Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith Inc.

Sohio also is "benefitting from a sharp recovery in refining-marketing profitability, and higher interest income," Merrill Lynch said.

With interest rates sharply higher since last summer, "earnings on cash investments should be very high in the fourth quarter" for most oil pro-

It estimates Sohio's interest income will jump from $20 million in the third quarter of 1979 to $35 million in the fourth quarter.

Cash generated by higher invest-ment income will help pay for in-creased oil and gas exploration. Sohio plans to boost capital spending by 90 percent this year to $950 million, against $500 million in 1979.

About $650 million of this year's budget will be spent on oil and gas development and production, Sohio

Arco, meanwhile, has announced a $3 billion capital budget for 1980, 67 percent ahead of the $1.8 billion it spent last year.

Rising interest rates also could cause costly burdens for some companies. Smith Barney Harris Upham & Co. Inc. analyst Michael K. Dahood estimates Shell Oil's borrowings to help pay for its $3.65 billion takeover of Belridge Oil couldtotal $2 billion to $3 billion.

Assuming "a very generous 10 percent rate of interest" that probably is 'unrealistic in view of a 15 percent prime rate," Shell could be facing annual interest expenses of $200 million to $300 million, he said.

All remaining shareowners of Mostek were to receive $62 per share as part of the merger agreement.

Mostek, with sales of $154 million in the first nine months of 1979, manufactures integrated circuits. UTC said Mostek would become a subsidiary of its Electronics Group.

The merger was first announced in September 1979. Before the acquisition of Mostek, UTC's most recent acquisition was Carrier Corp. of Syracuse, N.Y., a maker of air conditioning equipment, which became a wholly owned subsidiary of UTC in for the big slide in housing sales to moves by the Federal Reserve Board in early October which tightened credit and forced up interest rates.

In some places mortgage interest rates reached 14 percent. In others where state usury law set a limit on how much could be charged for a mortgage loan, many lenders simply haven't been lending because it is not profitable to do so.

The latter situation may be eased somewhat by legislation President Carter signed late last month which suspends through next March usury ceilings on mortgages. And the administration is looking at a number of ways to ease the housing crunch.

But forecasts for this year still look for a substantial decline in housing construction and sales. Housing construction starts in 1979 at an estimated 1.75 million are already down from 2 million the year before. For 1980 many economists look for housing starts to drop off dramatically early in the year then recover a bit for an annual of around 1.4 million.

"The worst of the decline is still to come, for the higher interest rates accompanying the latest Federal Reserve tightening (of credit) will further reduce both demand and supply of mortgage financing," said a Bank of America economic forecast, issued last month.

That report points out a fundamental reason for its pessimistic outlook. People are being priced out of the housing market by a gap between housing costs and their income

Rising interest rates and rising home prices increased the average monthly payment on a family home by over 20 in 1979. At the same time, personal income, after adjustment for inflation, went up only about 11 percent, Bank of America said.

Despite slowing home building, most economists don't think it is likely that the housing industry will collapse as it did during the 1974-75 recession. At that time, housing con-

A slowdown of the magnitude economists are looking for this year is expected to have an adverse effect on employment and the general economy but not nearly as severe as last

Partly as a result of the housing problems in the last recession, the government has taken a number of steps in an attempt to protect the housing industry. Among the most important are changes in some banking laws that put mortgage lenders in a better position to accumulate funds for home loans than they were in during the 1974-75 recession.

From another perspective, the housing slowdown - provided it comes in a gradual manner - could provide a breather with some favorable results for consumers.

Housing prices are likely to continue to rise as fast as they have for a while and may even come down a bit since fewer people are interested or able to buy. That has already started to happen in today's market where there are more homes for sale than

According to Commerce Department figures, the median price of a new home rose $10,700 between January 1978, when the price was $52,300 and Janaury 1979 when it was $63,-

The price generally continued to climb in 1979 to a peak $61,100 in September, but as demand for homes slackened, so did prices. The latest price of $63,800 in November is only $800 above median home prices at the

In other business developments this past week:

-The nation's unemployment rate edged up slightly in December to 5.9 percent from 5.8 percent the previous month. But economists still saw that as surprisingly strong performance. Many expected the unemployment rate to rise sharply because signs of a slowing economy and announced lay-offs in the auto industry.

The Labor Department report said that just over 6 million persons were unemployed in December, about the same number as had been jobless a year earlier. Total employment last month was 97.9 million, compared with 97.6 million in December 1978.

-Prices of wheat and other grains dropped sharply in frantic trading on commodities futures exchanges in the Midwest after President Carter's decision to embargo 17 million metric tons of grain in retaliation for the Soviet Union's invasion of Afghanis-

Even though Carter announced government plans to protect American farmers by increased buying up much of the grain, many commodity futures traders said that wasn't enough. But prices recovered from their worst osses late in the week, at least partly because of buying by exporters seek-ing supplies for customers in Europe and elsewhere

-The Commerce Department's chief economist, Courtenay Slater estimated that the economy expanded at a surprisingly strong 2 to 3 percent rate in the final quarter of 1979. While those figures aren't official, they indicated that the long forecast recession still isn't underway.

Ms. Slater, in making the estimate, said that while the last three months of economic activity were strong, "the forces making for a recession the expanded petrochemical industry in Mexico, both a user and transporter of such products. Blair notes Mexico recently constructed a large new refinery outside Monterey, which could tie into the Texas pipeline system. And Mexico has some large urban location on the Texas border which would be good locations for refineries, Blair says. Mexico will seek relaxation of some U.S. restrictions on import of manufactured products, Blair adds, perhaps in the areas of shoes, textiles and ceramics, which are highly restricted at present.

The State Board of Insurance has taken under advisement proposed rules to regulate indeterminate premium reduction policies, a type of life insurance policy in which the premium charge to the user may vary.

At a hearing on the proposals, SBI staff memebers and industry officials disagreed regarding language in a proposed rule regarding reclassification of persons from the "original class" on which the policies are issued-with no agreement as to just what a "class" may be.

There was general agreement regarding provisions for disclosure to prospects, although there was industry objection to a proposed seperate summary from which is intended to assure that the prospect is aware that he or she may end up paying more than the initial premium rate at some future date.

Confusion apparently still exists over the effects of Federal legislation overriding state constitutional and statutory interest ceilings, with the Texas Savings and Loan Department reporing its telephones "ringing off the wall" with requests from associations for various clarifications.

Those associations are sure of one thing, however: they want savings, and are seeking those funds wherever it appears they may be available. That's reflected in the crowded hearing docket of the departmentwhich, with the contested cases from the Jan. 7 docket call, is set up to June

'Objectives for 80s'

The Midland Chamber of Commerce merits the commendation of Tall City residents for sponsoring, oganizing and launching its "Objectives for the Eighties" pro-

The program, in the planning stage for several weeks, now is ready to begin a series of meetings to formulate "Objectives for the Eighties." It is said that more than 200 Midland residents will participate in the initial task force

The task forces, incidentally, represent local government, economy, education, housing, urban design, spiritual concerns, recreation and entertainment, and health and welfare.

The chairman of each task force has selected committee members to give input on what they feel goals for Midland should be in the 1980s. Essays will be prepared covering the background of each

Then, in mid-March, 100 conferees will attend a retreat at San Antonio, where they will work for two days in discussion sessions to hammer out the final objectives. Half the conferees will come from the task force, while the other half will be made up of other people in the community.

Program leaders insist that they desire input from the entire community, not just a part of it. And this most certainly is as it should and must be in order to make the project successful.

A copy of the objectives as drafted will be published April 4.

This will be followed by neighborhood meetings scheduled April 14-25. The revised objectives and essays will be ready for publication by May 9.

This is a similar format used by the chamber in its first objectives program in the late 1960s. It worked exceptionally well then and there is no reason why it shouldn't work even more effectively now. Much of the Tall City's progress and betterment of the 1970s resulted from the first Objectives for Midland program. It is almost unbelievable, the number of the original objectives which have been achieved in the intervening years. Needless to say, the Tall City stands even taller today as a result of the initial program, proving that planning and establishing goals for community growth and betterment really do pay big dividends. In fact, they are essential.

Thus, Midland's "Objectives for the Eighties" program very well could be the most important happening of the decade insofar as the Tall City's future growth, development and betterment are concerned.

This is why it is so important for all residents of the community to become interested in the program and to participate in same.

Sincere appreciation is expressed to all those who have had a hand in planning and arranging the project and to all those persons and groups who will participate in same during the coming weeks. This is another forward step for the Tall City

New industrial plant

Announcement that French Tool & Supply Co. Inc., an Odessa truck distribution firm, will locate a manufacturing subsidiary in Midland's Industrial Park was good news, indeed, for the community.

The wholly owned subsidiary, French Tool and Manufacturing Inc., will occupy a 35,000 square foot facility requiring an initial investment exceeding $2 million.

French Tool & Manufacturing, in its new plant, which is the first of its type, will design and build oil well stimulation equipment, in an effort to better serve the oil industry, both domestic and for-

Site of the facility is on Commerce Drive at Interstate 20 on a 22-acre tract in the Industrial Park. Future plans call for doubling the size of the plant to 70,000

The new plant will employ about 60 persons when operations begin, with an ultimate goal of 125 employees, according to L.R. French Jr. of Midland, president of French Tool & Supply. The manufacturing facility will be managed by Don Draper, presently manager of French Tool & Supply.

Next, when the Soviets go to war,

they go to war. They are ruthless,

Restraint? time for an ultimatum!

ORLANDO, Fla. - Communist propagandists play American liberals like Van Cliburn plays Bach.

CHARLEY REESE

I recently watched four American clergymen, all big shots in their churches, talk about their visit to Iran and it was enough to make a Christian want to send a donation to Madelyn O'Hare the atheist.

These clergymen, on the basis of a ten-day visit, swallowed the Iranian line right up to the reel. The Ayatollah Khomeini, they think, is a very moral man. The United Sttes has been a bad boy and should apologize to the Iranian people. We must make an effort to understand their point of Hogwash. The similarity between and the propaganda which came out of North Vietnam via the same American liberal voices is uncanny. Let me outline it:

Point One: Anything the Iranians do is to be excused because of the terrible injustices perpetrated by the United States. Remember that one? The American left used that to explain away communist atrocities in South Vietnam.

Point Two: The Iranian people make a distinction between the American government and the American people so don't be offended when they seize your embassy, burn your flag, and abuse your representatives. This is a standard communist allegation made by any leftist as gospel. The shah, of course, is not al lowed to speak and if he does, is not to be believed. You would think that someone who pretends to be liberal would be ashamed of adopting such a totalitarian mentality

Point Four: The United States is

Of course, he goes through the motions of being anti-Soviet, but just look at the evidence: (1) compare what he says about the U.S. with what he says about the Soviet Union; (2) note that even after the invasion of Afghanistan. Khomeini's bully boys drove demonstrators away from the Soviet embassy with rifle fire; (3) note his warm embrace and regard and coop-

I think the situation is this: the revolutionary council is made up of communists and non-communists and that the communists have gained the upper hand as they usually do in these coalitions. I would not be surprised at all to see the Soviet Union "invited" into Iran to protect it from American

ART BUCHWALD

There he goes, Mr. America, link to a nostalgic past

WASHINGTON - No one in their wildest dreams ever thought that the first casualty of the 1980s would be Bert Parks, the master of ceremonies of the Miss America pageant. For those of us who have been watching the show for the past 25 years, the news of his firing could not have come at a worse time. Bert Parks was the only link we had to a nostalgic American past. Every year as he broke into song with, "Here she comes, Miss America," the country choked up with tears and we all went to bed that night knowing that no matter what disasters we would face in the coming months, Bert Parks would always see that this country had a beauty queen. There was a time when we watched the Miss America pageant because of its prurient interest. But somewhere along the way many of us lost interest in the women parading up and down the runway. We tuned in just to watch Bert Parks sing and dance his way through Miss Alaska to Miss Mississippi, creating the excitement and the suspense that kept us all on the edge

You can say what you want about Bert Parks, but he had teeth. He had more teeth than anyone who has ever appeared on television. When he opened his mouth he lit up every screen in America. As the cameras closed in on his teeth you had the feeling he was going to bite down on your bathrobe and drag you right onto the stage of the Atlantic City auditorium. It was of course an illusion, because Bert would never bite anybody - but no one could deny it was great show business.

Why was Bert Parks fired? The organizers of the Miss America pageant gave as their reasons that Bert was getting too old and "too powerful." Bert is 65 years old. He looks 40, and has the zest of a teen-ager. If Bert Parks was emcee in the Miss People's Republic of China beauty pageant, they would have said he was just reaching his prime.

The Miss America pageant needs a mature person to prevent it from turning into just another flesh market. Bert was the father figure that made it okay for the home audiences to still believe in the American dream, and we knew that with Bert on stage no harm could come to these young, innocent girls.

I'm not sure what the pageant organizers meant when they said he was getting too powerful. His reported salary for emceeing this important event was $18,000. That's less than an office boy gets at Playboy magazine. So we know it wasn't money that drove the pageant people to take such a desperate measure. If he was difficult to work with, he must have had his reasons. When you have the awesome responsibility of choosing the person who will represent the purity of American womanhood for an entire year, you can't be a paper

So, as we say farewell to the large automobile, 50-cents a-gallon gasoline, the five-cent chocolate bar, and 79-cent mom's apple pie, we must now bid goodbye to Bert Parks.

We'll never forget you, Bert - your teeth will always be in our hearts.

POSITIVE THINKING

For the positive thinker, handling life's little problems is no problem

SUNDAY, JANUARY 13, 1980

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

The positive thinker gets results because his is not afraid of or abashed by that phenomenon called a problem. Indeed, the positive thinker rather enjoys problems as a challenge and a keen test of mind and spirit. He is also aware that every problem contains the seeds of its own solution.

Having a positive attitude, he further knows that he has what it takes to handle problems successfully. But still many people take a dim view of a problem. In fact, not a few, either by direct statment or by implication, seem to believe that life would be simply wonderful if we had fewer problems, or easier ones, or, better still, no problems at all.

Now actually, would you and I be better off if we had fewer problems or easier problems or no problems at all. Let me try to answer that question by telling you of an incident.

Walking along New York's Fifth Avenue I encountered a friend of mine by the name of George. It was evident from George's melancholy and disconsolate demeanor that George wasn't filled with the ecstacy and exuberance of human existence. Which is a sort of high-class way of saying that George was dragging bottom. In fact, he was very low. This excited my natural sympathy and I asked, "How are you, George?" This, of course, was only a routine inquiry, but it represented an enormous mistake on my part. For George took me seriously and for fifteen minutes he enlightened me meticulously on how badly he felt. And the more he talked the worse I felt.

Finally I interrupted his dismal recitation by offering help in any way that I could. "What is the cause of your down feelings, George?'

That really set him off. "Oh," he said, with stepped-up irritation, "it's these problems, problems, nothing but problems! I am fed-up with problems. An if you want to do something for an old friend, get rid of my infer-

He had grown so strong in his feelings abour his problems that he began to castigate them vehemently, using in the process a great many theological terms, though he did not put them together in a theological manner. But I knew what he meant, all right, for he had what the super-erudite call the power to communicate.

'Well, George," I said, "let's get it straight. You wish to be rid of your most difficult problems or perhaps most of your problems. But surely you are not saying that you want to put an end to all your problems." "The latter is the answer. I've had it and I want to get through with all my problems."

OK, I believe I can tell you how to do that, though I doubt you'll go for it. The other day, George, I was in a certain area on professional business, if I may characterize it as that, and the head man told me that there are in that place approximately 100,000 people and not one of them has a prob-

The first enthusiasm George had shown flashed up as he said, "Boy, that's for me. Lead me to that place.

"OK, you asked for it. The place I refer to is the cemetery."

And that is a fact. No one in the cemetery has a problem. But they are dead. If therefore follows in logical sequence that problems constitute a sign of life.

In fact, I will go so far as to suggest that the more problems you have, the more alive you are. The individual having 10 tough, man-sized problems is twice as alive as the poor, miserable character who has only five problems. And if you have no problems at all, you are in great jeopardy. You are on your way out and don't

Perhaps you should go to your room at once and pray to the Lord and say, "Lord, look, what's the matter? Don't you trust me anymore? Give me some

To The Editor:

What did you watch on January 6th after the two play-off games? Maybe you turned the darn tube off.

By chance, I watched part of a 30-minute program on Channel 9, called simply "Paid Political Programming." The odd thing about this program was that most (maybe all) of it was filmed at the White House. The star, of course, was none other than Jimmy Carter. And this star was supported by various top government officials and "advisers.

Very clever programming. Let's hope the naked arrogance of this make some people realize that acting, playing a role, is what Jimmy does best. He's good at that. He sold us his "down-home, folksy fellow" last time. Now he's using the White House as a stage, and using high government officials as bit players in "paid political programming.

Lessons to learn

To The Editor:

If there is one thing the Iranian students studying in the United States should learn it is that America is the only salvation of their country.

It is here that they have a ringside seat to see objectively and learn what is happening in their country and what is threatening it from the inside and the outside.

Can they remotely think that there is anything but anarchy at home? Too many military weapons in the hands of the civilian populace; the mindless "death to Carter" chanting of militant "students;" a fanatical madman who does not seem to have control of the government nor be in touch with reality. All of these things are all the U.S.S.R. needs for a coup.

Iran has the U.S.S.R. on its northern border. Now with the overrun of Afghanistan it has it on its eastern border. And Iraq is on the west looking at them with avaricious eyes abetted by Russian machinations. And Russia wants an outlet to the Arabian sea which occupied Iran will

When these students go home, they had best look at their hole card. The U.S.S.R. is bent on their conquest. If a final showdown must someday come the holocaust will be catastrophic. In technical warfare man is secondary to the machine. And it will be the industrial might of America, which Russia cannot ultimately match, and the determination of the American people that will prevail.

Sino-American relations: The plot thickens

(Linda Mathews is the Los Angeles Times correspondent in Peking.)

> By LINDA MATHEWS The Los Angeles Times

PEKING — There was a moment last week, as Secretary of Defense Harold Brown clambered aboard a Chinese T-59 tank for a close inspection of its guns, when the world seemed to tilt slightly on its axis.

All those who watched the tank demonstration alongside Brown sensed, with varying degrees of disbelief, that they were also witnessing a significant geopolitical shift. Only a year after resumption of formal diplo matic ties, the United States and its long-time antagonist, China, are forging an alliance of sorts. A marriage of convenience, born mostly of a common desire to throw up a united front against the Soviet Union's invasion of Afghanistan, the new relationship may not survive long enough to achieve any of its objectives. But, for the moment, the need for a joint Sino-American policy toward Soviet expansionism has made both sides downplay the ideological gulf and the policy differences that separate them. Perhaps in an effort to suggest more agreement than actually exists, the Chinese did not publicly protest the Carter administration's recent decision to furnish $280 million in arms to Taiwan, and voiced only muted criticism of the U.S. move even in private sessions with Brown.

Equally tactful, the American defense secretary said nothing on the record about China's persistent threats to "teach Hanoi another lesson" by launching a second invasion of Vietnam, though the Carter administration disapproves. Instead, Brown chose to emphasize the willigness, both in Peking and Washington, to prop up Thailand if the Vietnamese campaign to wipe out resistance in Cambodia spills across the border. Brown, the first American defense chief to visit China, studiously avoided the word "alliance," but he used every euphemism in the dictionary to describe the joint campaign to make the Soviets pay dearly for their adventure in Afghanistan.

As he concluded 17 hours of consultations with senior Chinese politicians and commanders, Brown announced that the two sides had "parallel views" of the Soviets' outrageous and brutal action" and would coordinate their efforts to bolster the defenses of nations on the periphery of Afghanistan, particularly Pakistan. 'Our strategic views - and even more important, our strategic interests - converge in many instances," the defense secretary said. "Our talks will also help to ensure that our parallel actions will be mutually rein-

So far, the deepening Sino-American friendship does not qualify as a full-fledged military axis, though there are signs that that might change. For the record, Brown reiterated the Carter administration's position that it has no plans to sell weaponry to me chinese, but then he and his aides dropped hints all week that their position on arms was flexi-

"The (People's Republic of China) and the United States can, and I trust someday will, bolster and support the other in arms when help is needed," he told the commandant of China's premier military academy, "There is no country, no matter how rich, no matter how powerful, no matter how numerous its people...that does not need friends.

The Pentagon delegation may, in fact, have been laying the groundwork last week for eventual arms transactions by openly promising to supply the Chinese civilian technology with military applications.

If the first transfer is approved by Congress, China will be able to purchase a ground station for the Landsat-D photo reconnaissancae satellite to be launched late next year. Landsat-D is not a military spy satellite the Chinese will receive primarily photos useful in crop forecasting and oil exploration — but it includes computer technology that the Americans admit can be diverted to military

The transaction, disclosed here just a day before President Carter suspended high-technology transfers to the Soviet Union, seemed designed partly to get the Soviets' goat. So did Brown's announcement, as he left Peking, that the Pentagon stands ready to sell China more "dual use" technology items, without any apparent restrictions on their military applications.

From the American point of view, the Brown trip's most lasting legacy may be that it formally brought to a halt the policy of "even-handedness" that the United States followed in its dealings with the Communist governments in Peking and Moscow throughout the late 1970s.

The tilt toward the Chinese has een developing ever since last fall when the White House recommended for Peking most-favored nation status and other trade concessions that have long been denied the Soviets. But now the Carter administration is no longer merely tilting; it has chosen sides, deciding to be not only anti-Soviet, but pro-Chinese.

The lines were drawn in Brown's first banquet toast, when he warned the Kremlin that the United States and China would take "complementary" military action if their "shared interests" were threatened anywhere in the world.

Defending the administration's move away from even-handedness, a senior official traveling with Brown commented, "It would be foolish for us not to behave differently toward the Chinese and the Soviets since they behave differently toward us.'

From the Chinese perspective, the events of the past two weeks - first the Soviet invasion, then the Ameri can reaction to it - have largely vindicated China's foreign policy. For years, as Washington struggled for what China regarded as a largely meaningless detente with Moscow the Chinese have doggedly denounced the Russians as "social imperialists" and "hegemonists" intent on subjugating most of the Third World. Successive administrations ridiculed the Chinese concern, in favor of arms limitation treaties and grain deals

Now, with grain sales suspended, the Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty blocked and the United States looking for new ways to punish Soviet aggression, the Americans have finally been won over to the Chinese point of Delivering a mild "I told you so,"

Chinese Defense Minister Xu Xianggian told Brown, "People have come to see more clearly that Soviet aggression and expansion are the source of serious threats to world peace, and to the independence and security of all countries."

To underline their convergence of views, China and the United States in the past week have been using remarkably similar rhetoric to condemn the Soviets. American officials have not yet added "hegemonist," a Chinese code word for the Russians, to their vocabularies, but three days after Vice Premier Deng Xiaoping denounced the "outrageous action" in Afghanistan, Brown called it "outrageous and brutal."

Moral satisfaction is important to the Chinese, but they are probably hoping that their closer ties to the United States will yield some tangible results, too, perhaps sophisticated American weapons systems.

The Chinese offered Brown glimpse of their outmoded arms, putting on display tanks and fighter aircraft 10 years to 20 years behind the Soviet and American equivalents, as if to prove how backward China is, but then never directly asked for ac-lack the hard currency needed to outfit their armed force. The military apparently has the lowest priority of China's so-called "four modernizations," trailing agriculture, industry and science. Brown suggested that the Chinese, moreover, may have resolved never to become dependent on foreign arms supplies, preferring to develop their own armaments indus-

More than arms, what the Chinese may want from their new American ally is persuasive evidence that Americans will continue to take resolute moves against the Soviet threat. The Chinese have been disappointed before by the American listlessness toward Soviet (and Cuban) actions in Angola and the Horn of Africa.

For all the American rhetoric in the past week about Washington and Peking approaching each other as equals, the Chinese recognize that To The Editor: they have far less to bring to the relationship, militarily, economically and diplomatically.

The Chinese may be in a better position than the Americans to marshal Third World opposition to the Soviet move, but world opinion does not seem to matter much in Moscow. Similarly, the Chinese can continue to supply arms to Pakistan, already a major beneficiary of China's foreign aid program, but the Chinese have relatively little to spare. And China may indeed be able to slip weapons to the rebels in Afghanistan, as the Soviets allege is already happening, but Chinese contributions cannot begin to match Russian firepower.

President Carter has already acknowledged that it is too late to reverse the Solviet occupation of Afghanistan, though China and the United States agree for the moment that the Russians can be made to pay dearly for that are now submerged — over Taiwan, over human rights, over trade are likely to resurface.

Scientists revising theories about origin of sea minerals

By WARREN E. LEARY AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - It has long been assumed that most minerals found in seawater come from river runoff from the land. However, new discoveries indicate underwater fissures may supply an even greater portion of the elements found in

Scientists are revising the scenarios on the composition of seawater because of last year's major discovery of undersea volcanic vents spewing mineral-laden, superhot

"Across the oceans, these vents are probably of equal, if not greater, importance to rivers in controlling sea chemistry," Dr. John Edmond said last week in a telephone interview.

Edmond, a Massachusetts Institute of Technology geochemist who was aboard the submarine that found the vents, said the discovery is very significant to ocean science and appears to answer a century-old question.

Edmond and Dr. Robert D. Ballard of the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution note that when land effluent was regarded as the major source of seawater mineral enrichment, it couldn't account for certain elements being out of balance.

For instance, there is more manganese in seawater and not as much magnesium as would be expected if runoff was the chief mineral source. The chemistry of water samples taken around the vents appears to explain what happens, the scientists

Sea water circulates miles deep in cracked, volcanic ocean crust near the vents, the scientists said. During this circulation, the water deposits some elements, such as magnesium, and picks up others, including manganese, they added.

"There has to be a 'sink' that re-thing that adds others to give us the balance we find," Edmond said. "Unless we find out what these things are, we can't really understand the

Edmond estimates that all of the world's ocean water circulates through the crust approximately once every 8 million years in a continuous recycling process.

The belching underwater vents were discovered last spring by the Woods Hole deep-diving submarine Alvin during a $2 million expedition funded by the National Science Founmoves certain minerals and some- dation and the Office of Naval Research.

> The volcanic vents, described as lined up "like a row of factory chim-neys belching black smoke," are located in an area called the Zast Pacific Rise in Mexican waters off the Gulf of California.

Mineral deposits, containing zinc, cobalt, lead, silver and other elements, are built up in mounds 20 feet in diameter and several feet high around the vents. And the vents themselves, located at depths of about 9,000 feet, rise 5 to 20 feet from the ocean floor.

Ballard said the vents follow a line where two tectonic plates are slowly moving apart. These plates are huge sections of the Earth's crust that move about slowly over centuries shifting continents, releasing buried volcanic activity and causing earthquakes when they collide. Although no active mineral venting has vet been discovered in other oceans, Edmond said there is evidence it occurs sporadically in other

DEAR HELOISE:

Here's a unique and easy way to decorate a gift for a baby shower. Just cup your hand into a loose fist and, with the pinkie side down, press the edge of your hand onto an ink pad, or some other type of coloring, and then onto wrapping paper or a greeting card.

Then, with your fingers, dot five little toes onto your "baby footprint.

GOOD SHOT! DEAR HELOISE:

When cleaning aquarium, I never seem to have any filter tube cleaners. So I came up with the idea of DEAR HELOISE: using my husband's gun cleaning rod, using a small tip idea to take along a roll of (not the larger ones with aluminum foil. It can be used brushes) the one that holds a cotton pad.

I wet the pad and ran the emergency drinking cups, is cleaning rod back and forth handy for damp facecloths, through the tube being careful not to break the tube.

HINTS FROM HIM

DEAR HELOISE: After making some threefeet long knickknack shelves, I pondered on how to hang them on the wall.

Spying a pull tab from the top of a beverage can, I flattened it out and drilled a hole in the solid end.

After spacing three of them equal distances apart on the back side of the shelf, I nailed them to the wood.

Bingo! The shelf hangs on the wall like a charm and is easily removed.

Jack Guerrier It might be a good idea to consider the weight of the shelf and what is to be displayed before trying Jack's hint, making sure the tabs are sturdy enough to support it.

pensive gift a child can make.

SUPER SCARFERY

DEAR HELOISE: Would you believe I have 34 scarves hanging on the paneled wall in my dressing room?

Now I can select one easily and, a big plus, they are wrinkle-tree.

I scrounged around the house for an idea on how to hang them and discovered a long, brass chain and two large brass cup hooks.

You can figure out the rest. I just poked the ends of the various scarves into the links, every other link or so.

And the best part of it is that now I have two extra drawers! Betty Prentice

BAG A STOPPER DEAR HELOISE:

If you ever have trouble keeping water in your sink, just set the sink's plug stopper in a small plastic bag, then into the drain.

Works like a charm.

WHERE'S THE SOAP?

DEAR HELOISE:

Punch small holes in the bottom of a plastic margarine tub and use it for a soap holder in the bath. Carol Clem ALL IN ONE

DEAR HELOISE: It seems that at one time or another I always manage to have a greeting card but no envelope to go with it.

I've solved this problem. I just write my note and sign my name as usual, then I tape the card shut and use the back side to address and stamp it.

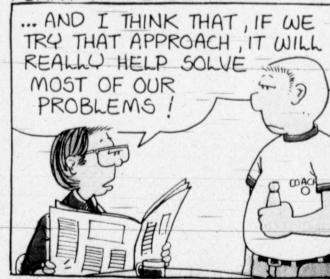

LOTS OF FUNNEL DEAR HELOISE:

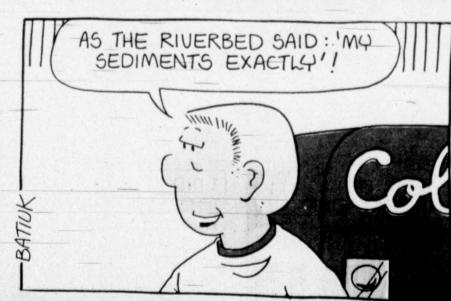

When filling salt and pepper shakers or transferring spices from one container to another, who have loaded up the sink no matter how large or small, cut the corner from an envelope and shape the envelope. into a funnel.

A paper funnel even can be used with some liquids and it can be thrown away.
