Carter, in a victory statement of his own, said his triumph shows voters "support the policies that we've espoused" on foreign crises, inflation and energy.

Midland School board trustees ap proved Tuesday by a 6-0-1 vote a $3 million bond issue in April to be used for repair and renovation of existing

City to try again to fix airport terminal's roof

By LANA CUNNINGHAM Staff Writer

Two years after Midland Regional Airport terminal building was reroofed during its major expansion program, the roof still leaks.

Midland City Council decided Tuesday to try again to fix the roof by instructing Harry Hill, with an architectural firm based in Oklahoma City, to have a study conducted and plans and specifications drawn that would eliminate the leaks. The need for repairs came up when Hill appeared at the council session in City Hall to discuss plans on relocating the Pliska plane in the airport building by suspending it from the ceiling. The Pliska plane was con structed by John Valentine Pliska, an early Midlander.

Before the plane can be hung, Hill said the roof needs to be repaired and strengthened. On examining the roof after a recent snow, Hill said water was standing in pools and "drainage should be done in some manner

The roof's original design provided holes through beams to drain water. But the concrete beams "creep" over a period of 15 to 20 years and the holes are no longer there

'A lot of people travel on business and leave in the morning and come back that evening. They don't want to leave a car in the parking lot," she said, adding that the same thinking applies to those who are gone several days or for a weekend.

"If we offer service to the airport, we feel it should be for seven days, Ms. Fisher added. The director advised the council she is working on a grant application for more MidTran buses. The demand for subscription service justifies the need, she claimed.

We have 160 subscription riders a day, and that means 300 trips. A majority of these have renewed for next month," she said. "There are 171 on a waiting list for subscription ser-

'The momentum is now. People want to ride the bus." Ms. Fisher said

At least one backup vehicle is need ed for the seven buses on the road, she said, citing the current situation of one bus that has engine problems and can't be used.

To continue that subscription route, Ms. Fisher said she has had to borrow vans from agencies until the bus can be repaired.

To meet the demand, Ms. Fisher said seven new buses are needed, but that she probably will apply for five

Before approving the additional driver, Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr. cautioned John Ingram, president of the MidTran board, and Ms. Fisher to operate the system "so it will be economically justified. You're adding things that may not be economically feasible. We need to be as judicious as we can in growing.

Bids from Ford Motor Co. for 11 new police cars and two small cars for city staff were accepted by the council. Cost for each police car will be $6,072.56 with the city to receive a $300 rebate for each car from Ford.

MidTran's request for a car for administrative purposes was denied. Councilman Tom Sloan said that they 'could ride the bus.

The amount of revenue bonds to be sold was reduced from $4.5 million to $3.8 million. Angelo explained that in view of rapidly rising interest rates the council decided to "take out what we felt we could safely delay. We hope in the future the interest rates will go

NEW DELHI, India (AP) - Afghanistan's government radio reported more attacks by foes of the communist government, with food stocks destroyed and roads cut. It also asked parents to pick up children arrested during last week's violent street protests against the Soviet occupation.

Merchants who staged a general strike to protest the occupation began returning to work today in the Afghan capital of Kabul, Western diplomatic sources here said.

The sources said as many as 25 percent of the shops in Kabul reopened today, the seventh day of the strike, but one diplomat quoted reports from the Afghan capital as saying Kabul was still "very tense" in the aftermath of the anti-Soviet

The official Soviet news agency Tass said life in Kabul was completely back to normal.

The Afghan government issued a broadcast appeal asking parents to come to the western entrance of the prime minister's building, formerly the headquarters of the secret police. to pick up children arrested during the disturbances.

A broadcast monitored here today said the children, reportedly as young as eight years old, were "misled by reactionary propaganda." Western reports said the youths were detained after throwing rocks and bottles at Radio Kabul said Tuesday that the government's "enemies" were "looting the shops which are providing our daily necessities. They are destroying public property and setting fire to the food depots.

They are destroying stores of wheat and other provisions and preventing their transportation ... destroying our roads, which are like our arteries, setting fire to vehicles which are crucial to our livelihood."

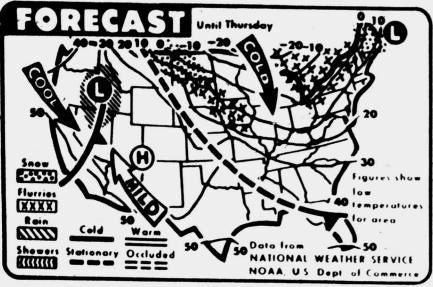

Reliable sources in Kabul reported that forces loyal to the communist government swept through the Afghan capital Tuesday and arrested a large number of Afghan Shiite Moslems, who make up about 10-20 percent of Afghanistan's overwhelmingly Sunni Moslem population of 16

The sources said the Shiites were seized on suspicion of involvement in last week's anti-Soviet riots, which broke out after the first day of a protest strike against the Russian intervention

They said the eight gains and would be taxed at a much were not being held hostage.

The brothers have refused to surrender since Monday night when officers surrounded the white mobile home situated behind an adobe wall.

Sheriff's investigator Ben Archuleta said he talked with one of the brothers Tuesday night and the man told him the other people inside could leave if they wanted. None did.

He said the man told him, "I don't want to go to jail. I'd rather shoot it

Amarillo doctor indicted for tax evasion

A federal grand jury Tuesday indicted an Amarillo osteopath for three counts of income tax evasion. Dr. Austin B. Tibbetts of Amarillo and formerly of Midland also was charged with willfully failing to file his federal income tax returns for the years 1974, 1975 and 1976.

The indictment alleges Tibbetts attempted to evade his income tax by not filing returns or paying taxes, using cash, money orders and cashier's checks to conceal his transactions, filing a protest-type Form 1040 and admitting orally and in writing he intended to not pay income taxes.

Tibbetts is subject to a maximum penalty of 18 years in prison and a $60,000 fine. The investigation was conducted by special agents of the IRS stationed in Midland and Lubbock.

Rhodesians vote despite rain, tension jammed polling booths three days of parliamentary elections. There was heavy foreign pressure for guerrilla leaders Ro-Nkomo to unite in a coalition government.

With nine parties fielding candidates for the 80 black seats in the new none was expected to get a majority. The parties headed by Mugabe, Nkomo and Bishop Abel Muzorewa were expected to finish in front, in that order.

The other 20 seats were reserved for whites and were all won Feb. 14 by Prime Minister Ian Smith's Rhodesian Front. This raised the possibility that he would hold the balance of power unless some of the black neighbors. rival black leaders got together

Armored cars and with guns prowled city streets and the Rhodesian countryside today to protect the black voters. No incidents were reported, although some they had problems with youths under the official voting age of 18 trying to cast ballots.

Lines of work-bound men and women, many with babies strapped to their backs, formed at some 650 polling stations throughout Rhodesia beginning at dawn.

Egyptian police wound gunman, free hostages

AGHOUR, Egypt (AP) — A gunman proclaiming Islam as Egypt's salvation seized hostages in a clinic for 19 hours and demanded the expulsion of the new Israeli ambassador, but he was shot and critically wounded early today after opening fire at more than 120 security officers, police on the scene said.

The 23-year-old assailant, described as a mentally deranged university dropout armed with a sawed-off shotgun, submachine gun and lots of ammunition, was hit seven times, including once in the head, and was not expected to live, one officer said. The clinic's walls had more than 60 bullet holes.

The officers, who declined to be identified, said the man seized seven hostages Tuesday and took refuge in a clinic in Aghour, a small farming village about 20 miles north of Cairo. They said six hostages escaped and one was slightly wounded when police shot the gunman, identified as Saad Halawa.

The siege began as Israeli Ambassador Eliahu Ben-Elissar presented his credentials to President Anwar Sadat in Cairo. Egyptian Ambassador Saad Murtada presented his credentials in Jerusalem earlier Tuesday, and the exchange completed the establishment of diplomatic relations between Egypt

The officers said Halawa demanded that the Israeli Embassy in Cairo be closed, that Ben-Elissar be expelled and that Sadat's regime be replaced. Police said Halawa called the Egyptian leader "a Zionist

The officers said Halawa prepared his move carefully at least three days in advance. They said in addition to arms and ammunition, he had a microphone and a loudspeaker for broadcasting his demands and a searchlight to dazzle the infra-red scopes of police snipers.

Authorities dispatched some 120 troops and police, as well as members of a special anti-terrorist army commando unit. Halawa's family was brought to the scene but failed to persuade him to give up. Police said Halawa opened fire early today and was shot and captured in the ensuing fusillade.

Aliens exploited, says former INS chief

HOUSTON (AP)- Leonel Castillo, the commissioner of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service from 1977 to 1979, says illegal aliens are "the most exploited, most vulnerable group in the United States."

Testifying Tuesday in a federal court trial challenging the constitutionality of a Texas school law, Castillo said, "The exploitation includes everything from law wages to poor working conditions to physical abuse.

"And most illegal aliens will avoid federal or state authorities unless their situation becomes critical," he said.

Castillo, now head of a Houston consulting firm, said the illegal aliens, the great majority of whom are Mexican nationals, "pay more in taxes than they receive in services" while living in the

"All pay property taxes through rent, and all pay sales taxes, 80 percent pay income taxes and contribute to Social Security through payroll deductions," he said.

The trial before U.S. District Judge Woodrow Seals is now in its second week and expected to last three more weeks.

A group of Hispanic parents filed lawsuits against several Texas school districts where their children are either forbidden to attend classes or must pay tuition. Seals ordered those suits held in abeyance until he heard testimony and determined the constitutionality of the 1975 law which prohibits state financial aid for the education of the illegal alien children.

A group of Mexican-American parents, joined by the U.S. Justice Department, are challenging the law in the current proceeding.

Representatives of the state attorney general's office have argued that if an estimated 110,000 undocumented children are forced upon the school system, the financial load will be too heavy for many districts.

The lawyers for the State of Texas also have questioned whether taxpayers should be required to pay for the education of those who are in the United States illegally and who do not contribute a fair share of the dollars needed to support the school

Some Texas school districts admit the undocumented aliens if they pay tuition. In Houston, the cost is $162 a month. Some districts bar the students altogether. Several witnesses brought to the stand by the plaintiffs have disputed the cost factors; offered alternatives to meet any shortage of bilingual teachers; and criticized any attempt to sterotype the illegal aliens as poor, illiterates who pay no

Castillo said most Mexican nationals who come to the United States illegally are single males searching for better paying jobs, not families looking for a free education for their children.

Some undocumented aliens, he said, grow weary of the average seven year wait to get papers processed for a legal entry.

The residents of this Long Island community say their neighbor at tracts hundreds of pigeons by dumping about 75 pounds of bird seed a day into a two-tier, 5-foot feeder in her backyard.

Neighbor Kevin Gilligan, appearing at a Hempstead Town Board meeting Tuesday, presented several color photos of houses in the area whose roofs were covered with the birds and their excrement.

"We can't even have our kids play in the backyard because of the obvious health problems,' Gilligan said.

Paying the price

For nearly a generation after World War II, the Soviet Union had merely to supply the weaponry while Third World nations advanced the goals of commu-

The United States, too, has fought at least two wars in Asia against forces armed primarily by the Soviet Union.

Now the Soviet Union is in Afghanistan in full strength and the United States is attempting to provide arms to the valiant Afghan rebels fighting there.

Since January the Carter administration has been supplying arms to Afghanistan. To date, however, the quantities supplied apparently represent little more than a token.

Recently, an administration source described the arms flow into Afghanistan as "driblets." And in Afghanistan the willing Afghan rebels buy ammunition for $3 per cartridge.

The Afghans may not win their battle. The entire Soviet Union is behind its battle there compared to the relatively small and economically weak Afghani force.

The United States had better hope that the Afghan rebels are better fighters than we've been told. We do not need to be reminded of the nations in which Marxism has gained a foothold in recent years throughout Asia, Africa, Latin America and the Middle East.

Recently, Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan said, "The Soviets are now engaged, directly or indirectly, in five distinct colonial wars: in Angola, in Ethiopia, in the western Sahara, in Cambodia, and now in Afghanistan."

Sen. Moynihan then drew the obvious straightforward conclusion: "There is a sense in which it is we who are in the mountains and they down in the plain. They are everywhere being fought by native peoples and there is no reason they shouldn't bleed."

The people in the United States don't want another war at this time or any other time. But like it or not, we've got it.

There are certain risks with enabling the Afghans to better defend themselves and their country. Most of the arms being sent to Afghanistan from the United States must be funneled through Pakistan.

But the Soviets will pay a price for the aggression in Afghanistan, The Afghans will make them pay the price.

It's important that we realize why we're in Afghanistan, though not fighting there ourselves. We must continue putting up every resistance possible to the So-

To not do so would be to ask the Afghans to resign themselves to Soviet expansionism.

That would be a form of forced surrender we could not accept. Neither can the Afghans.

Zaffarano's death may spark war

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON - The death of organized crime's pornography czar, Michael (Mickey) Zaffarano - who dropped dead of a heart attack as FBI agents were closing in on him - will touch off a gangland war among Mafia chiefs seeking control of the multibillion-dollar porno industry, according to knowledgeable law enforcement sources.

Zaffarano, 57, was the owner of the D.C. Playhouse in Washington, D.C., and the Pussy Cat Theater in New York City. But this modest front concealed Zaffarano's real role as the mob's porno king for the entire country. Sources told my associate Gary Cohn that Zaffarano was the Mafia's main man when it came to dealing out distributorships to the various mob families and mediating the frequent disputes among the territorial imperators.

Zaffarano was a capo (captain) in the Bonanno Mafia family, but he had become trusted by the other underworld families to make sure that everyone got a fair share of the mob's immense take from pornographic films and publications. As part of the FBI's anti-pornography "Miporn" operation, undercover G-men attended conferences at which Zaffarano directed his Mafia colleagues in setting prices and territories.

Secret law enforcement files give additional evidence of Zaffarano's position in the smut trade. According to one such report, Zaffarano boasted to an FBI undercover agent that he was "the main distributor of pornographic films in the United States."

Another report describes Zaffarano's role as mediator between competing elements of the mob in porn matters. "He has been involved in numerous shakedowns and extortions of pornography dealers on the West Coast in an attempt to control various aspects of the pornography business," the report states. "Zaf farano is the link between organized crime figures in the United States and the West Coast pornography indus-

His key role as the arbitrator among the various Mafia families sting after profits from the porno business makes Zaffarano's unexpected demise a serious concern not only to the mobsters who depended on him as the smut umpire, but to federal investigators who are trying to keep track of the sordid industry.

His death "brings violence back" to the smut business, according to one law enforcement source. While there is no question of the mob's control over the porno business, the source explained, violence is likely to follow the death of the underworld arbiter as local Mafia families try to muscle in on other families' territory.

One confidential report explains the smut industry's operations: "Pornography is the third largest income maker for La Cosa Nostra in the United States, behind gambling and narcotics. Although La Cosa Nostra does not physically oversee the dayto-day workings of the majority of pornography businesses in the United States, it is apparent they have 'agreements' with those involved in the pornography business, in allowing these people to operate independently by paying off members of organized crime for the privilege of being allowed to operate in certain geographic areas. Information obtained reflects extortion of pornographic dealers, distributors and processors as presently a lucrative activity of La Cosa Nostra.

PLAYING GAMES: The Soviet invasion of Afghanistan - and the Carter administration's Olympic view of it - has given increased support to the idea of a permanent site for the Olympic Games in Greece.

But the International Olympic Committee has shown a certain hostility to the notion of returning the games to their historic site. Though the Greeks have publicly offered a permanent home for the summer games on at least two occasions since the Soviet invasion, not to mention a previous offer after the Montreal games in 1976, the IOC is pretending

"We had a report from somebody in Greece that Greece was not interested." an IOC member told my reporter Scott Benarde without saying whether the "somebody in Greece" was a government-official or an Athens cab driver. The truth is, the Greek government has never rejected the idea of acting as permanent host to the games.

One source who has observed the IOC's shenanigans for many years suggested that the proposal of a permanent site in Greece constitutes a threat to the IOC members. "A permanent site would deprive the IOC of the authority to designate which country will be host," he explained. "It would deprive them of their junkets and meetings and a variety of their adventures.

An IOC spokesman said the latest Greek proposal "was heard and is being considered." But it may take a while: No one has yet been named to the five-member panel the IOC agreed to set up to look into the matter.

Soviet television never announces in advance when it is changing its anchorman. The only way people know is when they turn on their sets for the 7 o'clock news and see a new face on the screen. No mention is made about what happened to the previous anchorman, and nobody in his right mind would dare ask.

But in the United States, we do not have a precedent for choosing a new TV anchorman. The reason for this is that no one, including the founding fathers, ever imagined that anyone but Walter Cronkite would give the country its news.

Since the position of the CBS an-Commentators, who meet secretly in a studio in the basement and cast chorman has now become the highest office in the land, the only democratic way of selecting Cronkite's successor would have been to allow those seeking the job to run for it in a nationwide and the new anchorman is carried in his glass news booth through the

CBS could have easily done this by holding primaries in each state and whittling down the candidates until there were only two left by Novem-

The candidates should have been given free time to allow the American people an opportunity to decide who was best fitted to bring them the grim tidings of the day. They should have been tested in the public arena as to how they would handle the news of wars, pestilence and inflation. They should have been evaluated by the TV viewers to see if they had the moral and physical strength to tell it straight without regard to personal prejudices and special interests.

And, finally, they should have been required to debate each other so that the public could judge how they comtared with Cronkite for grace and serenity under pressure.

The people, not CBS, should have been the ones to determine which anchorman they would trust to have his finger on the control room but-

I am not saying that Dan Rather will not be a worthy successor to Cronkite. All I'm claiming is that, under our system of government, the selection of a TV anchorman should be decided by ALL the people.

U.S. Presidents may tell you the truth - or they may not, depending on how the political winds are blowing. But the man who anchors the CBS evening news is the only one required under oath to swear to the American people every night, And that's the way it is.

Will Carter change his mind on Olympic boycott?

WASHINGTON — The President seems to be of the firm opinion that since Soviet forces didn't leave Afghanistan by his Feb. 20 deadline, it would be in the national interest for the U.S. Olympic team to not compete in the Olympic Games in Moscow next summer Now I say seems because Jimmy Carter, to put it charitably, has a record of occasionally going back on his word. This time, however, he has really gone out on a limb and, in my view, unnecessarily. There are other ways to stick a finger in the Soviet eye for their latest expression of bad behavior, the invasion of Afghanistan. The respected architect of the postwar U.S. policy to contain the Soviet Union, George Kennan, recently declared that a U.S. blockade of Cuba would be a more appropriate response after Afghanistan than an Olympic boycott. Kennan wasn't bothered that Ronald Reagan also made this suggestion, because Kennan knows that a military response is far more meaningful to the Soviets than a symbolic boycott. Kennan understands the Soviet mind.

The Carter Administration's boycott project is quite popular politically but amounts to awkward pressure on many allies. The governments of Canada, Britain, Japan, the People's Republic of China (naturally) and Saudi Arabia (naturally) have echoed Mr. Carter's high-pitched cry for boycott. But France, West Germany, Italy, Spain and scores of other U.S. friends, including Israel, haven't. They prefer to wait a while, before announcing a sham holy war.

Whatever the national security considerations, the relentless pressure on the U.S. Olympic Committee (USOC) to keep our 550 athletes home amounts to federal interference with the private sector.

It is a heavy-handed effort. There are special Boycott-the-Olympics task forces in the White House and at the State Department. The Administration denies it would use power to hold up passports of athletes or stop any necessary commerce between the U.S. Olympic Committee and the Soviet Union. But the fact those questions have been raised is intimidat-

Old hands in government are hard put to find a precedent for the U.S. government to lean on private organizations in order to get them not to attend an international event. The United States didn't try very hard to stop Jane Fonda from traveling to Hanoi during the Vietnam war at a time when American soldiers were being killed by Fonda's Communist friends.

Anyway, despite the pressure and fanfare, the U.S. Olympic Committee has not decided it will keep our athletes here during the Olympics. Nor has any Olympic Committee of those nations whose governments have announced they don't want their teams

The Cartermen declare that the President's opposition is unequivocal and that the decision is final and irrevocable. But U.S. Olympic officials have only agreed to go along with Carter if the national interest is in jeopardy. The committee's House of Delegates meets on April 11 to formally accept or reject President Carter's urging. The USOC's administrative committee meets March 15 to draft its own recommendation to

at some future date, might not be so involved with U.S. national interest.

The USOC also feels the situation is flexible until May 24 when the world's Olympic committees must accept or decline the Soviet Union's invitation from the Soviet Olympic Committee to compete in the summer games. By then, the Soviets might well have pulled out of Afghanistan, thus giving even our closest allies reason to let their Olympic committees know it is okay to head for Moscow. The Olympics don't belong to the Soviets. They belong to the world. The European nations don't like the Soviet Union any more than we do, but since the bombs, missiles and bullets of World War III - nuclear or conventional - will rake their populations first, the Europeans are still interested in the quaint concept of detente. Similarly, Israel is hardly chummy with the Soviets these days, but Israel would like to see its athletes competing before a world audience, however repugnant the national setting. So Israel waits on the boycott decision, just as the overwhelming majority of nations in the world do.

After all, President Carter has already swallowed some of his most Hawkish statements about Iran. Irrevocable to him could mean maybe. We have just seen his grimly uttered call for a resumption of registration for the draft weakened by explanations that those young souls who trek to the post office to register won't be issued a draft card, and that criminal penalties for not going to the post office will be lessened. We've even got Administration officials saying now that there won't really be a draft. Now what kind of finger in the Soviet eye is that?

Carter shot another finger their way when he called for gas rationing. but his secretary of energy just said there would be no gas rationing. Ditto on finger-power. I enjoy being in the minority which argues that for the U.S. athletes not to compete in Moscow is a finger of another sort. Alas, the hard-boiled Soviets respond to real fingers, not gestures.

There appears to be an overabundance of material filtering through pressrooms across the country as of late on the subject of adopted children who for one reason or another are trying to find their natural parents. It has become tiresome reading about

The article "Ten Years of Patience Pays Off" in the Sunday edition of The Midland Reporter-Telegram of February 17, 1980, is another example of an individual spending much of her adult life in desperation and frustration in order to find her natural parents, succeeding and living happily

One thing about this article stands out. The only mention of the parents who adopted her in the beginning of her life was that she came from "a very loving home" in upper New York. These are the same people who clothed her, fed her, cared for her when she was sick, and comforted her when she had problems maturing into a responsible adult. These are the same people who are suddenly in the background somewhere in upper New

It is sometimes sad that we have progressed into a society where our own individual selfish motives have overcome responsible reason.

To The Editor:

The purpose of this letter is twofold: to congratulate and nominate.

I would like to congratulate the present administration in Washington because through their efforts the federal budget will undoubtedly be balanced within the next four years, regardless of who wins the next election. The way the budget will be balanced will be through more taxation and not through reduced government spending. The tax for doing this is the excise tax already passed and in conference committee. This tax will be more familiar to you by its "popular" name in the media and bureaucratic circles, i.e., the windfall profits tax.

The oil companies are going to be the biggest government agency collecting the tax from the consumers and passing it on to the federal government, an unwitting partner in a reverse Robin Hood con game.

I would like to nominate the Carter administration for the Nobel prize in chemistry. They have successfully converted the dollar into horse ma-

In closing, I would like to ask the question: Where will responsible government leadership come from to lead this country through the 80s? All of the declared presidential candidates leave a lot to be desired and none appear to be capable of strong foreign policy and domestic leader-

To The Editor:

At long last, it appears that we are going to get some desperately needed street rebuilding, widening and straightening. All of the main streets have degenerated into the worst shape in the 25 years I've been a Midland resident.

Let's hope the city will expand this to include the many more heavily traveled streets not included or listed in Monday's announcement such as all of Illinois, Texas, Louisiana, Gar-field and "A" (south of Louisiana) to name a few. Barbie, 21 this year, known as collectible in doll circles

Copley News Service

This year marks the 21st birthday of America's most famous doll, Barbie. And the estimated 2,000 Barbie collectors are now paying big bucks for early models of their favorite Barbie was introduced in 1959. She was named after the daughter of he dolls' cretor, Ruth Hanler. At the time, she was a new type of toy, a teen-age fashion doll. Barbie soon became the most popular doll in the country. By the mid 1970s, nine girls in 10, under the age of 11, owned at least one!

The first Barbie came with either blonde or brunette hair. The darkhaired version was the least popular and so is rarest today. A mint copy of a 1959 Barbie doll was sold at acton in 1978 or $501.59.

In 1961, Barbie got a boyfriend, Ken (named after the Handlers' son). Although desirable, he is not as valuable. A mint copy of the first Ken is worth around $20. Perhaps one reason for his lesser popularity is his appearance. Barbie seemed worldly and so-phisticted, while Ken looked like an asparagus sorter from Milwaukee. Among collectors the first Ken is kown as "fuzz head."

He was sold naked, except for a pair of red swimming trunks and either brown or red sandals. From the expression on his face, one might assume he feared some broke little girl would take off his shorts to make yet another outfit for Barbie.

While additional clothing was available, apparently it didn't sell well at first. One clothes horse in the family was enough. So later in 1961, Ken was given a towel. At least he'd have something to put over him when he took Barbie out on the town.

The early '60s were a tough time to be a boy doll. Especially if your girlfriend was Barbie.

In 1963, Barbie got a new pal, Midge. This button-nosed, blue-eyed, freckle-faced doll was the same size as Barbie, but had an entirely diffrent image. With hr wide-eyed, friendly smile, she looked more like Ken's type than Barbie. The original Midge is now worth up to $15.

That year also saw the introduction of a 3-inch baby doll for Barbie. Just whose baby it was supposed to be was not explained. Unfortunately, this was before talking Barbie. One can only speculate what the subject of conversation between Barbie, Midge, and Ken would have been if they could have spoken. With all standard accessories, the baby doll is currently valued at $20.

As the years went by, Barbie got more and more friends - Skooter, Ricky, Skipper, Tutti and Francie, to name a few. She also got more accessories - cars, airplanes, houses, etc All of these are also sought after by collectors.

I am pleased to report that our Aphorism Scam (Aphscam) investigation is almost complete.

Our agents, posing as Gallup pollsters, have found that many Americans still abide by such conventional expressions of wisdom as "a stitch in time saves nine," even though many such aphorisms are now inoperative and in several cases openly misrepre-

'A penny saved is a penny earned." - Economists demonstrate that a penny saved today probably will drop in value tomorrow. Therefore, pennies saved may not be pennies earned at all, but could constitute erosion of security.

The only advertising in the morning and afternoon newspapers was the list of paid death notices and "two small legals," according to Darrow Tully, associate publisher and gener-

The papers that normally run more than 70 pages each were held to a single section.

"Watch how you pick it up," one wag said of the morning Republic. "It's so light you'll toss it over your head if you don't watch out."

With a single section, the papers didn't a single section, the papers didn't lend themselves to being "divvied up" in the usual fashion.

But Tully praised the newspapers' advertisers for their cooperation.

"They realized it was an emergency," Tully said. "I don't think we've had one major complaint.

Publisher Mason Walsh said the "drastic action" was taken after flooding rivers closed bridges and threatened a railroad trestle, halting or markedly delaying both train and highway deliveries of newsprint.

Ironically, the new supplies began arriving Monday, too late to change plans to publish without advertising. Still more newsprint was unloaded Tuesday, and newspaper officials said they would resume normal publication on Wednesday.

Asked about the financial effect of eliminating advertising, Tully replied, "We took a bath."

Advertising normally makes up about 65 percent of the papers, with the "news hole" — the space for sports, news, entertainment, editorials and other copy - getting the remainder.

The news space was reduced by about 10 percent and virtually all of the ads were omitted, reducing the normal 250-ton press runs by about 162 tons, Tully said.

"So far as I know, we're the only ones to take such a drastic step,

Tully said. "Newsprint has been in short supply everywhere, and there are others who have been close to it. The difference here was that the weather caught us with no inventory to fall back on. And when the trains stopped running, that did it."

Seminole 'John Wayne' dies of cancer at age 93

BIG CYPRESS RESERVATION, Fla. (AP) — The 400 residents of this Seminole community planned to gather today to bid farewell to a medicine man who for decades treated them with his potions and inspired them with his dignity.

Josie Billie, said to be the highest ranking medicine man in the Seminole Indian nation, died of cancer at his home here Tuesday at the

Billie, who headed a complement of six medicine men and seven apprentices, mixed traditional herbs into healing potions and composed chants that became part of the tribe's lore. He helped pass teachings from one generation to the next through colorful stories in the unwritten

'Josie Billie always talked of the days when he hid in the bushes to keep the soldiers from finding him," a close relative said. "He said he was afraid if they didn't torture or kill him, they would send him far away to a

At the time of his death, Billie lived in a modest two-story house on the reservation in South Florida's Hendry County. He had electricity but wouldn't allow a television set or radio in his home. Last year County Road 833 was renamed Josie Billie Road.

"Josle Billie was so proud," said Priscilla Sayen, another relative now living in Hollywood, Fla. "He remembered, frequently talked of when there were no roads at all - of a time when the wind blew unhampered across the Glades and when there was game, wildlife and fish in great James Billie, the medicine man's grandson and high chief of the Seminole nation, said his grandfather was prepared for death.

'He was not afraid and declined an offer to die more comfortable in a modern hospital," Billie said. "He was ready to go. He had outlived all his childhood friends.'

Tycoon's business rival blamed in 1979 slayings know if we'll ever know who. But I have to know the why," Lloyd Cotsen, a businessman haunted by the slayings of his wife and son, said last year.

On Tuesday, police an-nounced the answers to the questions that had forced the soap tycoon to hire bodyguards — the 1979 slayings were committed by a Belgian busi-ness rival who commit-ted suicide as authorities closed in on him.

The announcement came four months after the apparent suicide of Erich Arnold Tali. Ms. Regenie, speaking at a Permian Basin Planned Parenthood Workshop in Odessa, said that the mortality rate is high because of the large number of rural areas.

'Southern states have the highest infant mortally rates in the nation," she said. "Reasons for this are because of the low income areas, a higher non-white population, little access to health care and because some people are probably still using 'granny' mid-

However, statistics are available to show prenatal care makes a difference to the health of the baby and mother," she said.

Several other leaders of organizations involved with mothers and babies spoke at the workshop. Jamie Hamilton of the La Leche League in Odessa gave a history of that group and explained why she thought women should breast-feed their babies.

Energy Department predicts cut in gas consumption

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Energy Department predicts there will be plenty of gasoline this summer but says American motorists, driving more fuel-efficient cars and faced with prices topping $1.50 a gallon by year's end, will cut their consumption for the first time in seven years.

The findings, in a quarterly report due out next week, closely follow similar assessments by private sources, including the head of the American Petroleum Institute and the highly-regarded Lundberg Letter.

Moreover, the prediction for lowered consumption would follow a trend already established by Americans drivers. Government figures indicate gasoline consumption was down about 10 percent during the last quarter of 1979 and the first two months of 1980 when compared to the same months a year

Home heating oil usage also is reported down, partly because of rising prices and partly because of a relatively mild winter. The government report says heating oil is likely to be selling for $1.15 a gallon by next win-last year — if the winter of 1980 is not exceptionally cold. That would enable imports of foreign oil to drop from about 7.7 million barrels a day in 1979 to 7 million barrels a day this year.

Such a development would represent the first annual drop in U.S. oil consumption since the Arab oil embargo of 1973-74.

Although rising prices - for gasoline and home heating oil - are cited as the main cause for the drop in demand, other factors include more fuel-efficient automobiles, recessionary forces in the economy and calls

The report estimates a decline in gasoline demand of 7 million gallons a day and predicts there will be 260 million barrels of gasoline on hand by April. It calls that "a relatively comfortable balance of gasoline supply and demand at the beginning of the peak driving season." The American Petroleum Institute reported last week that crude oil in-

The Energy Department report predicts overall petroleum consumption in 1980 will be 17.6 million barrels a day compared to 18.3 million barrels their highest point since the API started keeping records in 1971.

The API reported at the same time that gasoline stocks were at their highest level in more than two years.

API president Charles DiBona told reporters the large stockpiles reflect a fear among oil companies "that there is a real danger of a very substantial cutoff of supply, no one knows where or when.'

The Energy Department report noted that its optimistic estimates could go by the wayside if there are serious disruptions in the flow of imported oil to the

Even if the predictions of ample overall supplies hold, the government report warns that "problems in distribution may develop in providing the growing portion of unleaded gasoline." Ed Vilade, an Energy Department spokesman, confirmed the data in the report, a copy of which was published in today's editions of The New York

PEMEX officials ignited the wellmouth shortly after the blowout, to try to reduce pollution. A Coast Guard overflight Tuesday reported the fire was out, but a PEMEX spokesman

"There's a lot of concern in the United States that the coming change in northerly winds this spring will push the oil back on the beaches," the PEMEX spokesman said. RINGING THE BELL Black leadership: What's it about?

C.E. Christophr, noted columnist for the blackoriented Oklahoma Eagle, writes recently: "White society is always looking for the black society's mystical 'leader.' This mythical and somewhat utopian person is supposed to be repository, a confidant, if you will, of all the knowledge and wisdom about all of the aches, pains, emotional stresses and the psyche of all the black people, 'not being too smart, and not overly bright . . . as all black people are supposed to think alike, in essence a monolithic

Christopher believes white society does not in general take into account the great diversity in genetic variations, individual value systems, education, ambitions, job and work experience, moments of happiness and frustrations, and the widespread trauma that comes with a black person's daily intercourse with an oft-times alien and hostile

IN A RECENT column, Gil Hinshaw, editor of the Hobbs News Sun, asks: "Do the minorities and the poor - or for that matter, anyone - have a valid case against city government in Hobbs?

Nonetheless, it is a certain fact that never in the history of Hobbs has a black been elected to a post of oity councilman although several qualitied blacks have offered themselves for city duty. What is true in Hobbs is true in such Permian Basin towns and areas as Clovis, N.M., and Midland and Lubbock in Texas, it is reported. Odessa elected a black councilman several years ago and today has a black county commissioner, which was caused by a combination of black and brown votes. Appparently some whites are beginning to see the need of all ethnic groups having representation in city government. One bellringer reported that it took the U.S. Department of Justice to order redistricting in Dallas so that blacks and browns sould have representation in city

Hinshaw cites the case of a black leader, Rev. Frank Wells, who has been fighting escalating gas prices for years; yet only a handful of whites and a few more blacks ever made contributions to the finances needed to keep Wells' campaign alive. We ask: Is it Wells' fight or is it the peoples? Who has the answer for black leadership.? Because there is no single person with all of the answers, the black community is thought of as being "leaderless" by the white society, and the search goes on to find this mystical and mythical person, Christopher be-

He says black leadership is by and large a very thankless responsibility, and those who exrcise it, in most cases, lead lonely and, too often, ill-requited lives. And in spite of all this, there are those who must pick up the banner and lead the people in the battle for freedom from deprivation, hardship and poverty. And in the black community this must be the people with expertise in the arts, sciences and CHIMES: The Black Jubilee Singers, musical ambassadors from Nashville since 1971, will present an Easter Sunday concert in New York City's worldfamous Carnegie Hall as the highlight of their 1980 spring concert tour, according to Walter J. Leonard, president of Fisk. The April 6 concert will feature a program of spiritual music in keeping with the 108-year-old tradition of the Jubilee Singers. It was through tours of the original Jubilee Singers in the 1970s that the spiritual was prserved and given to the world as a distinctive form of American music.

for the Oak Cliff Tribune of Dallas and a registered Democrat, told us recently that he will return to the GOP fold. And while popular with many of his colleagues in Austin, Smothers has proved to be one of the most controversial figures in history among black leaders. "

Smothers states that he would like to run against incumbent U.S. Congressman Martin Frost provided he could raise ample funds, which many think doubtful. He represents District 33-G in Big D and has a sprinkling of white voters. If Smothers does not file against Frost, he will run as a Republican this time around in his home district. It would be a political miracle if he should be elected, observers

Wildcat strike closes four Keebler bakeries

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A wildcat strike by about 2,600 workers halted production at the Keebler Co. bakery here and in three other cities Tuesday, despite a back-to-work order from a federal judge.
U.S. District Judge Louis H. Pollak issued a temporary restraining order Monday directing Local 492 of the Bakery, Confectionary and Tobacco Workers International Union to withdraw pickets, a company spokesman said.

But a spokesman for Local 492 said the union does not condone the strike, in which he said members were protesting the use of foremen to do the work of laid off union workers. In Georgia, where workers are off the job at Keebler plants in Atlanta and Macon, a spokesman for Local 434 said the strike was to protest the firings of elderly workers in Philadelphia. The union spokesmen asked not to be identified.

Production was halted at Keebler plants in Philadelphia, Macon, Atlanta and in Fairfax, a suburb of Cincinnati, after picket lines went up Monday.

Affected are about 600 workers in Philadelphia, 700 in Macon, 500 in Atlanta and 800 in Fairfax.

Judge says defense can show Pinto films to jury

WINAMAC, Ind. (AP) - Re-enactments of the impact that Ford Motor Co. attorneys say caused a Pinto sedan to explode in a fatal Indiana crash were being viewed today by jurors hearing the automaker's criminal trial

Ford scored a major victory Tuesday when Pulaski Circuit Judge Harold R. Staffeldt said the defense could show the six crash test films. Ford contends that the force of impact, rather than any defect in the Pinto, caused a 1973 sedan to burst into flames in an accident that killed three young women.

The ruling, after a day-long hearing with the jury out of the courtroom, came over prosecution objections that the Ford tests did not deal with the key issue - whether the 1973 Pinto would leak fuel in low to moderate-speed rear-end

Ford is charged with reckless homicide in the August 1978 deaths of three teen-agers whose Pinto exploded after it was hit from behind by a van.

The state contends Ford knew defects in the Pinto's fuel system made the car likely to explode in a rear-end collision but did not effect repairs or warn

Ford, the first manufacturer to face criminal charges in an product defects case, contends the Pinto was as safe as comparable cars. The defense said its crash tests showed no car in a similar situation would have fared better than Impala, American Motors Gremlin and Toyota Corolla were struck from behind by a van traveling 50-51 mph.

The prosecution also objected that allowing the Ford tests was unfair because Staffeldt repeatedly has refused to allow the prosecution to present crash tests of cars other than the 1973 Pinto.

Staffeldt said he was admitting the films to show why fuel leaked in the Indiana accident and to show the standard and practice of the industry in 1973. He said he would reconsider his ban on use of crash tests on 1971 and 1972 Pintos if the prosecution could show they are relevant on the same grounds.

The difference in speed between the Pinto and the van has become a crucial issue in the trial. Ford contends the Indiana Pinto was stopped at the time of the accident. Prosecution witnesses testified both vehicles were moving and there was a 15-35 mph difference in speed.

"The higher the speed differential in the jury's mind, the harder it is for the state to prove its case," said chief prosecutor Michael A. Cosentino. "It's a question of whether the jury believes the crash tests or whether they believe

The six films produced at Ford's Dearborn, Mich., testing facility showed repeated crashes with the vehicles and included a soundtrack with the noise of

In the Ford tests, 1973 models of the Pinto, Dodge Colt, Chevrolet Vega and each high-speed crash. In the Toyota Corolla test, the camera zeroed in on the ground beneath the car, where fuel was puddling as it dripped from the torn gas tank

"Perhaps what we have here," Cosentino said, "is a question of whether or not the entire industry made a safe car in 1973.'

Hearing held on MKT closing

LAWTON, Okla. (AP) - A meeting was scheduled to be held today with representatives of Gov. George Nigh concerning the abandonment of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas rail line between Altus and Burkburnett, Texas.

The decision issued in Washington D.C. Tuesday by the Interstate Commerce Commission has scheduled March 10 as the abandonment date of 64.5 miles of rail line.

The meeting today was to attempt to form an entity to operate the line in Oklahoma

Ralph Penn, a Norman business consultant involved in trying to preserve the line and other threatened Oklahoma rail lines, said a proposed public trust would provide an appropriate vehicle to negotiate with Katy.

BUSINESS BRIEFS

Sears charged with conspiracy

Co. faces federal grand jury charges of conspiracy and of making false statements to U.S. Customs officials in an alleged nine-year scheme to conceal $1.1 million in rebates from a Japanese television set manufacturer.

The indictment against the nation's largest retailer was issued Tuesday by a federal grand jury sitting in Los Angeles. It was the first of a series of indictments expected out of grand juries in Los Angeles and elsewhere that have been conducting a year-long probe of so-called "dumping" of Japanese television sets on U.S.

Such actions may have resulted in millions of dollars in unpaid customs duties by American retailers.

Dumping is the sale of foreign-made items in the U.S. at prices below those in the producing country. While the practice is not illegal, U.S. Customs requires that the importing retailer pay duties on the difference between the domestic and overseas retail price.

Such laws are designed to protect U.S. manufacturers and laborers from what is seen as unfair competition from cheap foreign imports.

The indictment charges Sears with understating on Customs forms the retail price in Japan of the television sets and of paying kickbacks to Japanese manufacturers.

Chrysler making tanks

STERLING HEIGHTS, Mich. (AP) Chrysler Corp. rolls out a new model Thursday - the nation's first new Army tank in 22 years. Ceremonies at the tank plant in Lima, Ohio, will call attention to a $600 million annual business buried in the footnotes of the annual re-

Though reeling from the blows of an 11-month slump in car and truck sales, Chrysler does have a bright future in tanks.

Nobody else in the country makes them. Marine engines, outboard motors and tanks are practically all that Chrysler has left outside the auto industry after the sale of a recreational boat operation last year and an air-condiess in 1976.

Altogether, non-automotive business earned Chrysler $37.6 million last year before undisclosed deductions for the corporations's overhead, down from $40.3 million in 1978.

Insurance rates to fall?

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Texas insurance companies have told the State Insurance Board they are willing to offer cash-value life insurance policies with premiums that drop when company earnings rise Five companies say they would like to sell indeterminate premium" life insurance if the board gives its approval.

The board will hold a hearing on the new inflation-era coverage on March 27 and is expected to approve them the same day or shortly afterward.

An insurance company that expects to make a high rate of interest from investing policyholders' premium dollars could reduce premiums, but not more than once a year.

Ordinary whole life premiums are guaranteed for the life of the policy.

Premiums on indeterminate premium policies could rise and fall but not exceed a maximum stated in the policy.

Ford plant to stay open

CLEVELAND (AP) - The Ford Motor Co. says it will continue to operate its $800 million engine production complex in suburban Brook Park, but long-term layoffs loom for 1,200 of the workers there.

Layoffs for up to three years will begin in 18 to 24 months as Ford converts its Engine Plant No. 2 to make engines that are more fuel-efficient, said John A. Betti, a Ford vice president.

Concern for the future of the plant grew last week when U.S. Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, said he had learned Ford planned to phase out operations at Brook Park and build a new engine plant in Mexico.

Questions, answers about 'windfall tax'

WASHINGTON (AP) - Here are some questions and answers about the $227.3 billion "windfall" tax on the oil industry agreed on by a House-Senate conference committee.

A. The tax is designed to win political acceptance of President Carter's decision to end price controls on U.S. crude oil. The money will help finance Carter's energy program, which includes helping lower-income Americans cope with higher fuel costs.

Q. Won't decontrol mean higher prices for gasoline and heating oil? A. Yes, and for just about everything else produced in the United States, since the price of energy must be figured into the cost of most products. But economists say price controls have held down the price of petroleum in this country to unrealistic levels, fostering the notion that cheap energy will last forever.

Because U.S. oil production has been falling, more and more must be imported. And that takes billions of dollars out of this country annually, further weakening the dollar and worsening inflation at home.

Raising oil prices, the theory goes, will force people to use less energy. Opponents say it would be smarter to let the oil industry keep the $227.3 billion for investment in energy.

Q. Will the tax prevent the oil industry from profiting unduly by removal of price controls?

A. That's the idea. Economists guess that decontrol will raise consumer energy costs by $1 trillion in the 1980s. Existing state and federal taxes will take a big chunk of that. When the $227.3 billion "windfall" tax is included, taxes of all kinds will drain off about 78 percent of the Q. What's the government "windfall" that the oil industry talks about?

Because decontrol will raise oil prices and oil industry income, the industry will pay an estimated $355 billion more in income taxes in the 1980s - in addition to the $227.3 billion "windfall" tax. Q. What will the government do with all that money?

The extra income taxes will go into the treasury for whatever pur-

A. No one can say for sure. Congress intends that oil producers and owners of oil-producing lands pay the tax when they sell their oil to refineries. However, opponents say the tax ultimately will be paid by consum-

A. Although the tax often is referred to as a "windfall-profits" tax, it would not apply directly to profits. The tax would simply take for the federal government 30 percent to 70 percent of each crude oil price increase above 1979 levels. The tax rate depends on the age and location of the oil field pose Congress sees fit. The conferees want to set aside for individual and business income-tax cuts 60 percent of the $227.3 billion from the "windfall" tax. But any tax cut would require further action by Congress.

The conferees want about 25 percent, or nearly $57 billion, for helping families near the poverty level - about $11,600 a year for a family of four - pay rising fuel costs. Again, details would be provided in subse-

The rest of the money would be used as incentives for residential and business energy-conservation, for subsidizing development of alternate energy sources and for improving the nation's transportation system.

Q. Except for the chance of an income-tax cut, is there anything in all that for the average consumer?

A. Not directly, unless you are planning to install a solar heating system or a windmill for power generation. The tax credit for such purchases would be increased from the current maximum $2,200 to $4,000.

However, a motorist who uses gasohol might eventually find that fuel more available and at a slightly lower price than otherwise, because of incentives in the bill.

Tax would hit pre-1979 pools hardest

By JIM LUTHER

WASHINGTON (AP) - The "windfall" oil tax on which congressional conferees have completed work would hit hardest at oil from fields discovered before 1979.

The conferees reasoned that a higher tax should apply to such "old" oil because the costs of finding these fields were considerably lower than those that will be associated with future discoveries.

Too, the panel approved generally lower taxes for independent producers - large and small operators that drill more than 90 percent of the nation's exploratory wells. Independents would get a lower rate on the first 1,000 barrels produced each day. All told, independents would pay slightly less than 10 percent of the $227.3 billion the tax is expected to

The tax would take effect March 1, begin phasing out no later than January 1991 and end 33 months later. The phase-out could start earlier, depending on how quickly oil prices

Here is how the tax would affect various types of oil:

OLD: This now accounts for twothirds of U.S. daily production of 8.6 million barrels, but old oil gradually will disappear as wells play out. The tax would take from the major oil companies 70 percent of price increases above 1979 levels, which averaged in the $13-per-barrel

Independents would pay a 50 percent tax on the first 1,000 barrels produced daily.

NEWLY DISCOVERED: This

future. The tax would take 30 percent of price increases above about $16.55 a barrel; the same rate would apply to independent and major companies, although most of this oil will be owned by the majors.

The same tax would apply to "heavy" oil, a thick, hard-to-recover variety found mainly in California.

TERTIARY: When oil can't be pumped any other way, chemicals are injected into the well to facilitate production. These are called tertiary recovery techniques. Any increased production resulting from these expensive techniques would be taxed basically the same way as newly discovered oil.

STRIPPER: This oil, from wells averaging 10 barrels a day or less, accounts for 16 percent of current U.S. production. Major companies would pay a 60 percent tax on price increases above about $15.30 a barrel; independents would pay 30 percent. Stripper oil already is free of federal price controls. Economists say the average price of stripper oil is around $35 a barrel. ALASKA: Any newly discovered oil from a well north of the Aleutian Range or more than 75 miles from the Trans-Alaska Pipeline would be exempt from the tax. Oil from the currently producing Sadlerochit Reser-taxed at 70 percent. In all cases, the base price to which the tax would apply would be adjusted regularly to offset inflation.

voir on the North Slope would be Any oil owned by a state or local government or an Indian tribe would be fully exempt from the tax. The exemption also would apply to most oil owned by charitable educational or medical facilities.

Stock market gaines

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market posted a modest gain today in an advance led by oil issues.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose 3.58 to 867.83 in the first two hours. Gainers outnumbered losers by about a 6-5 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. Analysts noted some anticipation of possible new moves by the Carter administration in response to the recent surge in the inflation rate.

Treasury Secretary G. William Miller confirmed Tuesday that such steps were being studied. In the economic news, the Labor Department said productivity in private business declined at a 0.6 percent annual rate — a smaller drop than the 1.6 percent rate estimated earlier. Among actively traded oil stocks, Gulf Oil was up 3/8 at 52%; Exxon ½ at 66¾; Standard Oil of California 2 at 82½; and Texaco ¼ at 40¼. Middle South Utilities was the volume leader, unchanged at 11%. A 321,400-share block traded at 11. The NYSE's composite index gained .13 to 65.27. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index climbed 5.06 to 302.89. Volume on the Big Board came to 19.75 million shares at noontime, against 18.05

TODAY'S ANSWER

BUSINESS MIRROR Inflation linked directly to U.S. productivity dip

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) - Americans have known for at least 15 years that they have been slipping behind other countries in the rate at which they improve their production efficiency.

They have known, but maybe haven't cared, though the steady decline — from 3.2 percent in the years 1948-1965, to 2.3 in 1965-1973, to 0.9 in 1973-1978 and to a minus last year - has coincided with The relationship still may not be comprehended, even after Congress' Joint Economic Committee last year released to a people long accustomed to higher living standards a conclusion that was designed to Said the committee: "The average American islikely to see his standard of living drastically decline in the 1980s unless the United States accelerates its rate of productivity growth. For many Americans the process has begun: hourly workers in 1979 earned about 6 percent or 7 percent more than in 1978 in terms of dollars, but with inflation of 13.4 percent their takehome pay was Still, says C. Jackson Grayson Jr., chairman and founder of the American Productivity Center, whose mission is to raise the efficiency of American output, millions might still not comprehend the message.

"Not enough people are listening," said Grayson. He conceded "There is a greater degree of awareness among Congress, business and unions, but not among ordinary people. Can people understand, he was asked? "If they're afraid enough," he replied. "Now they're afraid of inflation and afraid of unemployment, and they should be afriad of what is happening to productivi-But, said Grayson, who was President Nixon's price commissioner, an experience that convinced him that controls don't work, too seldom is the connection made between inflation and low produc-The relationship is direct. If it costs less to turn out a product then everyone — shareholders, employees and purchasers benefit - without depriving the other of their share. The more it costs to produce a product the less competitive it is; the price is higher, the market is smaller, and that means less for shareholders and workers. Productivity growth lags because of myriad reasons, all of which the center is examining at conferences and seminars, and then instituting remedies, working in-house with executives of specific com-Government intervention in the marketplace, some of it necessary, is one cause, Grayson says.

Tax disincentives to investments are another, he believes. Like cancer, there are probably scores of He is disturbed, for one thing, by the tendency of business today to measure performance in terms of immediate return on equity, no matter what it does to the company's long-range strength. Grayson would like to see annual reports include a productivity masurement along with the money measures. High productivity, he feels, would show that management was looking to the future, building the company's strength rather than squeezing out quick dollars. He is distressed at how little business knows about productivity. "I keep telling business people they don't know as much about it as they think they do,' he says. If they challenge him, he asks:

1. How do you measure productivity in your company? Could you give me a number? "Only 10 to 20 percent can," he says. 2. What is the relationship between productivity and profitablility? 3. Do you have productivity

Generally the result is chagrin; the fact is, says Grayson, they do not know productivity in its specifics. In fact, because many executive profit-sharing plans are based on immediate earnings, long-term strengh sometimes is sacrificed. A particular goal of Grayson's is to "restore the ability of people to influence their own work and permit them a greater say and influence on their jobs." And, he adds, to share in the rewards as "We urge employees and managers to sit down and seek ways to improve worker participation, worker contributions, and then to return to them rewards in proportion to their contribution.'

Individual companies, mainly small and medium size, can call the Houston center and receive answers to their questions, and even have individual surveys made and their furture performance monitored.

At the moment, the biggest project of all is an April meeting at the Houston headquarters of producitivy experts from all over the country. The week-long conference will include academics, executives and labor officials, with Lane Kirkland, AFL-CIO head, a main speaker.

Peacock said the 300-foot depth of the Alamo well appears to be the ciencies at existing plants. With this task nearly completed, staff members can now be used for licensing new ones, he testified.

Rep. Tom Bevill, D-Ala., subcommittee chairman and one of the most outspoken nuclear advocates in Congress, said the moratorium already has lasted too long and that, for the Sequoyah plant alone, every month of delay costs consumers $10 million.

'You have been nit-picking on these plants," Bevill said. "If this plant (Sequoyah) is not in low-power operation by early March, we're going to hold another hearing and you're going to have a low-power budget.'

Bevill noted that both the House and Senate in votes last year had overwhelmingly rejected proposals for nuclear moratoriums and that President Carter had come out in strong support of nuclear energy as a replacement for imported oil.

There currently are 70 nuclear plants licensed to operate in the United States, although only 67 are in

NRC to lift self-imposed ban on licensing, chairman says

Commission is ready to start lifting its seif-imposed ban on new nuclear power plants, NRC chairman John F. Ahearne says.

Ahearne told a congressional panel Tuesday that a plant near Chattanooga, Tenn., is on the verge of becoming the first commercial nuclear reactor licensed since the accident at Three Mile Island 11 Barring unforseen complications, a license likely will be issued to let the plant begin "low-power" operation in the next few weeks, Ahearne told a House Appropriations subcommittee on energy. It could go into full operation after a shake-down period of four to six months, he testified. The NRC consider the request. The plant — the Tennessee Valley Authority's Sequoyah Unit No. 1 — tops the NRC's list of 14 new plants that could be put into operation in 1980. Next on the list is Virginia Electric & Power Co.'s has tentatively scheduled a meeting Thursday to North Anna No. 2 plant in north-central Virginia, Ahearne said. No nuclear plants have been licensed since the accident last March 28 at the Three Mile Island plant near Harrisburg, Pa. — the nation's most serious commercial nuclear accident. Ahearne said there had been a major revision of NRC safety standards and procedures since that accident Expected licensing of the Sequoyah plant "will be viewed as an end" to the licensing freeze the NRC imposed upon itself last fall, he testified.

However, he said there are still some new requirements, prompted by the incident at Three Mile Island, that will have to be met before the readyfor-operation plants can be authorized. He said decisions will be made "on a case-by-case basis."

Arkansas, second to Texas A&M in the regular season, plays the Texas-Houston winner on Friday night. A&M takes on the SMU-Tech winner in the other semifinal.

Sutton said he had no preference about the Razorbacks' opponent.

Texas has beaten Houston twice this year.

"Rob Williams and Larry Rogers have made the big difference in Houston. They are by far the quickest team

"I'd have to admit there's a great deal of anticipation - and a little nervousness about it.

"I don't expect to go in and in one year do the job Roger's been doing. There'll be some adjustment, some bumpy times, but once I get over the hump there'll be nothing but improvement from there on."

As for his off-season physical conditioning program, White said, "Usually I take a break, but this time I just didn't stop working out."

White's boss, Cowboys coach Tom Landry, also is thinking about the possibility of Staubach's departure.

Stenmark's win string

(AP) — It was the most impressive test time of heat No. 2 — 1:18.90 — to string of victories in the history of skiing, one of the most impressive in Ingemar Stenmark of Sweden, a double gold medalist at the 1980 Winter Olympics, had won 14 consecutive World Cup giant slalom races, dating back to March 11, 1978, in Arosa, Switzerland. No man in ski racing history had approached that degree of domination.

That streak ended Tuesday on the same mountain - Mount Tecumsah - where he last was defeated in a giant slalom race. That was March 6, 1978, and the victor was Andreas Wenzel of Liechtenstein. This time, Wenzel was second to Hans Enn of Austria.

"I'm not too disappointed," said Stenmark, who actually fell on his first run but recovered in time to make the next gate. "You have to lose sometime. The streak had to end any-

Enn, an Olympic bronze medalist in giant slalom, led after the first run in minute, 26.34 seconds. Stenmark literally got off his back to finish in 1:29.41, more than three seconds back. In the second run, Enn clocked

1:18.76, again the fastest time of the round, for 2:45.10. Stenmark was home in 1:19.66 for 2:49.07, nearly four seconds back and in 24th place. "I didn't think I would have a good run the first time anyway because I started so badly," Stenmark said. 'Then, after the fall, I lost concentration on the second run.

Stenmark, a three-time World Cup overall champion, said he now conceded the title to Wenzel. Stenmark led with 160 points; Wenzel was second with 142. Wenzel can gain substantial ground in the downhill March 4 at Lake Louise, Alberta, since Stenmark shuns the downhill. Points will be awarded for combined performances in the Lake Louise race and a giant slalom held Jan. 21 at Adelboden, Switzerland. "The World Cup should be easy for

Wenzel now," Stenmark said. "I see no chance to win, and it's all laid out for Wenzel. Wenzel was 11th after the first heat home to Duluth.

WATERVILLE VALLEY, N.H. in 1:27.33, but he had the second-fasfinish second in 2: 46.23. Jarle Halsnes of Norway was third in 2: 46.30 on runs of 1:26.86 and 1:19.44, and Boris Strel of Yugoslavia was fourth in 1:26.59-1: 19.96 for 2: 46.55. Fifth went to Gerhard Jager of Austria in 1:27.20-1: 19.51 for 2: 46.71.

Stenmark was asked if his gold medals in slalom and giant slalom at the Olympics had caused a mental letdown

"Always when you lose, people ask if it was a reaction to something," Stenmark said. "I don't know. Maybe I wasn't able to concentrate.'

"I can't say I beat Stenmark because he fell in the first heat," said the 21-year-old Enn. "If Stenmark had had a good first heat, then I could say I really beat him.

"I would have liked to see what would happen if Stenmark had a good run," Enn said. "It would have been a bigger victory for me.'

Phil Mahre of Yakima, Wash., an Olympic silver medalist in slalom, was second after the first heat in 1:27.02, but he nearly fell in the second heat, took a gate backwards and wound up with 1:20.01, a total of 2: 47.03 and ninth place. Steve Mahre was 12th in 2: 47.28 and Cary Adgate of Boyne City, Mich., finished 22nd in

"I couldn't concentrate," he said.
"I haven't skied for three days, and we couldn't practice yesterday because of the bus. We wanted to get started at 8 a.m. We finally left at 11 and arrived here at 6 o'clock. It was

Hockey players receive red carpet treatment

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) - Minnesota members of the U.S. Olympic hockey team got red carpet treatment Tuesday, riding through the downtown streets of Minneapolis and St. Paul in parades before being welcomed by 4,000 cheering students on their home ice at Williams Arena on the University of Minnesota campus.

Team members who hadn't tired of the many celebrations - six of them - attended a pre-parade press conference, rode in the parade, and attended the pep rally.

Bill Baker, Dave Christian, Rob McClanahan, Mike Ramsey, Steve Janaszak and Buzz Schneider were on hand, along with their Coach Herb Brooks

The 4,000 fans at Williams Arena cheered wildly when Brooks was introduced

Steve Christoff, who signed with the Minnesota North Stars of the National Hockey League Tuesday afternoon, missed the frigid motorcade, but appeared at Williams Arena.

"One of the reasons we won the gold meal," said Brooks, "was the spirit of our players, and our fans. That's something that's special for Minnesota players, because when you talk about crowds and spirit, there's nothing like Williams Arena

'I said after we won that we were all from the U.S.A., but it's great to be home. And it's great to be back in this building, which means so much to so many of us.

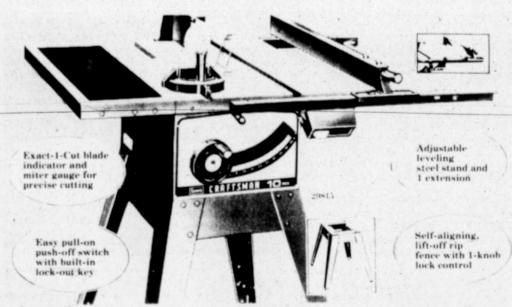

Brooks introduced the players and gave a special introduction to Chris-

Bullet' Bob to get release

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) -Texas prison officials today prepared the paperwork to release "Bullet" Bob Hayes, the former record-breaking Dallas Cowboy receiver convicted last year on narcotics charges. Hayes was convicted of delivering cocaine to an undercover police officer and sentenced to a maximum five years in prison last April. He became eligible for parole this month.

Hayes, once known as the "world's fastest human" has served 10 months of his sentence.

'It's been tough" Haynes told an writer with the "Dallas Cowboy Weekly" last October, the only prison interview he has granted. "I miss my family, I miss my friends ... I miss freedom in general. But I paid my price and now I'm ready to get out of "The first thing I want to do is grab my wife and hug and kiss her," he Hayes won the 1964 Olympic gold medal in the 100-yard dash, a feat which earned him the "fastest human" nickname. Drafted by the Cowboys in 1965, he made All-Pro that year and later set several team receiving records before leaving the Cowboys for private business. Little was heard of Hayes after he left football until his 1978 indictment for alleged drug delivery.

Haves told the "Cowboy Weekly" he has considered writing a book, a television series or a movie based on

"I want the public to know what has happened to me, the pros and cons of Bob Hayes."

Hayes worked as a gym porter durspirit, that I once did."

Hayes said adjusting to prison was difficult at first, because of his notori-ing his stint at TDC's Ferguson unit.

But it certainly didn't compare to his

"Basically, you're living a real good life ... you've got a lot of money in your pocket, you're eating the best of food, and then all of a sudden, you can't eat that food, you can't get on an airplane and ride first-class around

"Now everything that I do there's

Finley, Martin explosive mixture

AP Special Correspondent

Charles Finley and Billy Martin the most explosive mixture since some flendish scientist found a way to blow up everything around him with an oily compound known as nitroglyc-

"It's almost colorless when pure and has a sweet taste," says Webster's Third International Dictionary on Page 1531, "that is obtained by nitrating glycerol.

'It burns quietly in the open air but explodes on heating in a closed vessel or especially on percussion with formation of about 10,000 times its own volume of gas.

Now baseball fans can only see the clear liquid and appreciate the sweet taste. All is serene. But the Oakland Coliseum is a pretty closed vessel for two such volatile components and the question is who will create the first percussion that will wreck baseball's atest and most bizarre marriage.

Will it be Charlie O himself, who makes a career of keeping his managers on a conveyer belt - one managing, one going, one coming? Or will it be Billy the Kid, Charlie O's new skipper of the Oakland A's, who might provide the required shock by landing a right on somebody's jaw - maybe

HOLD YOUR breath. It could happen as quickly as the snap on Nolan Ryan's fastball.

They are two mavericks - both proud, headstrong, uncompromising, predictable only in that either can be counted on to do the unpredictable. There is a bit of irony in Finley's selection of Martin as the man needed to lead the cellar-prone A's out of their dingy dungeon. He had the idea once before, back in 1970, and, after considering all the possible consequences, changed his mind.

That was when Martin called Finley a liar and vowed never to work for · Baseball historian Maury Allen tells about it in the latest of his many biographies, "Damn Yankee, The Billy Martin Story," scheduled to hit the bookstores in the spring.

Martin was between jobs at the time. In his first major league managerial assignment, he had taken the Minnesota Twins into the 1969 American League playoffs only to lose three straight to the Baltimore Orioles.

While driving to the home of his in-laws in Nebraska, Martin heard the news on the radio. He had been fired by Twins owner Calvin Griffith. Billy got a job with a brewery and a radio station.

But the fiery ex-Yankee was restless to return to the game. About this time Jim Campbell, general manager of the Detroit Tigers, was becoming disenchanted with his manager, Mayo Smith, and was looking around for a possible replacement. Meanwhile, at Oakland, Finley was preparing to give walking papers to John McNamara.

IN HIS BOOK, Allen relates that Finley was so interested in signing Martin that he called Griffith on the telephone

"Don't do it," Griffith advised. "You'll be taking an awful chance."

Finley ultimately replaced McNamara in 1971 with Dick Williams, who led the A's to three straight World Series victories. Martin went to Detroit where he managed for three years before moving to Texas in 1973 and later to the New York Yankees.

"Finley said he changed his mind after he thought of Billy's track record," Allen discloses. "His (Billy's) fight with Jim Brewer, his fight with Dave Boswell, his fight with Howard Fox.

"That's Billy Martin," Finley is quoted as saying. 'He suckered Brewer, he beat up a club executive and he took advantage of one of his own players who was intoxicated."" Martin, apprised of Finley's statements, reportedly blew his stack.

"He's a liar," Billy blurted. "When the A's started winning again I neverheard from him. Then I just sat down and wrote Finley a letter. "I told him to forget it. I don't like liars and I'll never work for a man who lies to me. But Billy gulped hard and changed his mind. We're in for a hot sum-

I-State Sycamores ache without Bird

By The Associated Press

What a difference a year - and the absence of a 6-foot-9 superstar named Larry Bird - made for Indiana State University

Last winter, the Sycamores were unbeaten and rolling toward a berth in the finals of the National Collegiate Athletic Association Basketball Tournament against eventual champion Michigan State.

But Bird, college basketball's Player of the Year in 1979, now plies his trade for the Boston Celtics and Tuesday night his former teammates couldn't even make it past the opening round of the Missouri Valley Conference postseason tournament.

Freshman Cliff Levingston scored 14 of his 24 points in the second half to pace Wichita State over Indiana State 82-70, ending the Sycamores' season with a 16-11 mark, compared to last year's glittering 33-1 log. An 8-0 burst put Wichita on top to stay 50-43 with 13: 24 left.

It was 67-62 with 2:35 remaining when Carl Nicks, Indiana State's leading scorer with 22 points, fouled out. Wichita promptly ran off the next 10 points.

The Shockers moved into the semifinals against regular-season champ Bradley, which trounced Tulsa 97-76 as reserve Hasan Houston scored 27 points and David Thirdkill added 20.

"I think this team is peaking at the right time," said Bradley Coach Dick Versace. "Some of it was by design, some of it by happenstance. But I don't want people to think I'm some sort of Machiavellian genius or anything. It's just that I've got a group of young guys who want to listen and work and play as they're capable of

The other MVC semifinal will pit Creighton, an 86-80 winner over Drake, against West Texas State, 98-87. Drake's Lewis Lloyd scored 37 points but was unable to overcome a balanced Creighton attack. Eddie Harris came off the bench to lead West Texas with 20.

It's tournament time these days on several fronts. The only member of The Associated Press Top Twenty in action Tuesday night was No.11 Missouri, which defeated Oklahoma State 82-69 in the opening round of the Big Eight Tournament. Larry Drew led the Tigers with 20 points on 9-of-12

Miller in a separate interview, saw things differently. "Basically, the thrust of the owners is that the players go backwards," said Miller. "The primary push is in two areas.

Winfield, Padres break off talks on bitter note client is worth three times what the San Diego Padres are offering, Dave Winfield's agent broke off salary talks Tuesday, aiming a bitter barrage at the club's new president.

The offer the Padres made Dave was insulting," said Al Frohman, who represents Winfield.

The development came a day after Ballard Smith, Padres' president, accused the New York Yankees and Montreal Expos with tampering. Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said Tueday he will investigate the matter.

'Maybe the final chapter of this thing will just have to be Dave playing out his option and becoming a free agent so the Padres can see what he's worth," said Frohman.

Winfield, who has emerged as one of baseball's most versatile players, is nearing the end of a four-year $1.4 million contract. The 28-year-old outfielder led the National League in run batted in last year with 118, batted .300 for the second straight year and had 34 home runs.

"Bruce Sutter (Chicago Cubs relief pitcher) just wins a $700,000 a year contract in arbitration and the Padres offer Winfield $200,000 less," fumed Frohman. "You tell me how that makes any sense. I guarantee you, if Dave becomes a free agent, he willget a dozen offers for over $1 million and Ballard Smith knows that.'

Frohman acknowledged that the contract offered by Smith could, through incentive clauses, provide Winfield with as much as $1.1 million a year.

But, Frohman charged, "I'll tell you how smart Smith is. He's so smart that a couple of those incentive clauses are illegal and he doesn't even According to Frohman, Smith "is just playing games. The only license he has is for mediocrity. Hey, I don't need the aggravation and neither does Dave.

He said Winfield, who has publicly stated he wants to stay in San Diego,

'was hurt" by the Padres' offer. Frohman estimates that Winfield is worth $1.5 millon a year with no incentive strings attached.

Federal judge refuses to order deportation of accused war criminal Karlis Detlavs

BALTIMORE (AP) — A federal immigration judge says prosecutors failed to make a case for deporting Karlis Detlavs, accused of participating in Nazi war crimes in Latvia during the early 1940s.

Immigration Judge Emil M. Bobek ruled Tuesday that Detlays had not been clearly identified by witnesses who have testified in a series of hearings over the past few years.

During those hearings, prosecution witnesses gave emotional testimony that Detlays participated in the slayings of Jews and other civilians as a member of the Latvian Legion working under the Nazis.

Detlays of Govans, Md., denied the charges, but did admit to lying to immigration officials about other matters when he entered the United States in

In his ruling, Bobek said, "None of the witnesses identified (Detlavs) at this hearing in court. None of the witnesses knew the name Detlavs until told so by the Israeli police. None knew his given name and that (he) had a brother

"Could there be then a possibility that it was the brother?" the judge

Justice Department officials were reviewing the opinion Tuesday, and said they did not know yet whether they would appeal the case to the five-member Board of Immigration Appeals in Washington.

Detlavs said from his home Tuesday, "I'm going to think I'm lucky. Very lucky." He added that there would be no celebration and no hard feelings.

The government filed charges against the 69-year-old retired General Electric Co. worker in 1976, charging that he lied when he entered the United States in 1950 when he denied any war crimes and said he had been a forestry worker from 1936 to 1944.

The witnesses accounts were presented during intermittent hearings before Bobek in 1978 and 1979. Some witnesses testified in 1977 hearings, which were interrupted by the murder of the first immigration judge while he was on vacation in the Virgin Islands.

Last January, Detlavs admitted he had lied to immigration officials. He said he had been a member of the Latvian Legion, but he had been forced into the army as an unemployed woodsman, rather than being sent to Germany as a forced laborer.

But he denied having any part in atrocities.

In his ruling, Bobek said the admitted lie alone was not enough to warrant coalition government for Tuesday and was bad relations with the Rules of thumb on weight, diet

Dear Dr. Solomon: Do women have stronger willpower than men? About a year ago, my wife and I both went on diets, and we both lost weight. Today, however, I'm back where I started, while she continues to look trim. Is this true of most men and

Dear Tom: Actually you and your wife are the exceptions. The Medical University of South Carolina studied 22 men and 18 women for a period of 12 weeks and then retested them a year later. It was concluded that generally men did a better job than women of losing weight and of keep-

Dear Dr. Solomon: With all of the emphasis on low-cholesterol diets, I wonder if my husband and I should be drinking milk any more. Is milk good for grown-ups, or is it only for children? - Mrs. G.H.

Dear Mrs. H.: Milk is an important food product for adults and for children. Many adults are not getting a sufficient supply of calcium as a result of their low intake of milk or milk equivalents. Women should have two or three servings of milk or milk products daily; men require an additional serving. Pregnant women, who need calcium to nourish the developing baby, should have at least four Milk products that can be substituted for milk in your diet include cheese, yogurt and ice cream. One ounce of cheese is the equivalent of a cup (eight ounces) of milk. If you have a weight or cholesterol problem, skim milk and low-fat cheeses are more advisable

Dear Dr. Solomon: Is there any rule of thumb for determining the ideal weight and the amount of calories that a person needs daily? - Ms.

Dear Ms. H.: One method of calculating a woman's ideal weight is to allow 100 pounds for the first five feet of height and an additional five pounds for each inch over five feet. If the person has a small frame, the total is decreased by 10 percent; for a person with a large frame, 10 percent is added. A woman of average build, five feet, three inches in height, should therefore weigh 115 pounds. For a man, 106 pounds is allowed for the first five feet of height, and six pounds for each additional inch. A five foot, 10 inch man of average build should weight about 166 pounds.

To compute the amount of calories you need at complete rest (your basic caloric requirement), simply add a zero to your ideal weight. The total daily caloric requirement for a sedentary person is computed by increasing the basal caloric requirement by one-third. Persons who are moderately active should add one-half to obtain their daily caloric requirement.

Physically active people, such as athletes, who burn up more-calories, can double their basal caloric requirement and still maintain their ideal weight.

Indicted CETA official suspended without pay

Under CETA, the Comprehensive Employment Training Act administered by the Labor Department, large amounts of money are routinely funneled into a myriad of agencies for training the unskilled. It has come under close scrutiny across the country because many local programs were found to be riddled with corruption.

A nine-count indictment was returned last week against Curtis Vaughan, manager of the Dallas, County programs. The indictment charges Vaughan with soliciting bribes in return for awarding CETA contracts and jobs to recipients who, in many cases, were ineligible for the assistance.

The commissioners court, acting Monday, also learned federal investigators were questioning the roles of certain other county officials influential in the management of the $6 million a year CETA

Jim Cooksey, Vaughan's immediate superior as head of the county's Planning, Research and Grants Department, acknowledged that federal investigators have talked to him more than once and asked that he turn over records of CETA participants and contracts. He said he has complied.

Federal agents would not talk, saying the investigation is continuing.

It is improper to hesitate in an attempt to fool an opponent. However, there is nothing wrong in trying to read an opponent's hesitation, although you do so at your own risk. To hesitate at the wrong time against an expert declarer is often the equivalent of exposing your cards! Watch Martin Hoffman, one of Britain's finest

Tournament in Amsterdam. North-South were overly ambitious in climbing to - Venus can be seen three no trump. At the other no trump, but that contract was defeated when declarer tried the heart finesse in the hope of collecting either four heart tricks or three hearts and four clubs

Against Hoffman, West led the king of diamonds and continued with the queen, declarer holding up both times. Now West thought for a while before playing a third diamond to declarer's ace.

Hoffman needed no other clue to the winning line. If West held either the ace or king of spades, he would have had no problem - he would have cleared diamonds because he had a sure entry. So declarer gave up all thoughts of relying on hearts and clubs for the fulfilling tricks and adopted what seemed to be a better line.

He crossed to dummy with the king of clubs and led a low spade. East played low and the jack won. Now Hoffman exited with a low spade, and East was end played. After cashing his remaining spade, he would have to lead a heart or a club, and in either case declarer would have clear sailing after playing low from his hand.

East could have made life more difficult for declarer by rising with an honor on the first spade lead, cashing the other honor and then exiting with a spade. Now declarer would have to take a backward finesse in hearts (leading the jack from his hand and, if covered, finessing against the ten on the card players, at work on this way back) to land his conhand from the Caransa Philip tract.

Bush once again looking ahead

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — George Bush is an upbeat kind of man, even in defeat. His philosophy is such that he can take the beating he got in New Hampshire and still say, "I feel good tonight."

When Bush conceded Tuesday night that he had been trounced by Ronald Reagan, he said he had accomplished what he set out to do: to reduce the Republican field, essentially, to two candidates. That's the outlook of a man who sees a glass as half full, not half empty. But this morning, Bush sounded less upbeat. "I'm groping to find something good about being defeated," he said. "Disappointed as I am," he said. "I am absolutely convinced I'm going to win this nomination." And then he talked about the battles to come, in Massachusetts, Vermont, Florida and South Caro-Bush today ventured one explanation for his New Hampshire defeat — his role in a controversial debate with Reagan last Saturday in which four other GOP candidates were excluded.

"I don't know what effect it had," Bush said on ABC-TV's "Good Morning America" show. "Clearly

t had an adverse effect.' Bush's campaign manager, Jim Baker, said the thing that did Bush in was his image as the bad guy in last Saturday's debate circus. If future analysis bears that out, it will rank with other campaign turning points of recent years: George Romney's claim in 1968 that he was "brainwashed" in Vietnam and Edmund Muskie's alleged

Reagan says he'll campaign just like he did for primary

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) -After purging his top command and punishing his chief GOP rival with a runaway victory, Ronald Reagan promises to campaign from now on just as he did in New Hampshire, affording the voters "an opportunity to question and talk.'

THE MIDLAND REPORTER-TELEGRAM, WED., FEB. 27, 1980

Reagan, once criticized as an aloof and reluctant candidate, swamped former U.N. Ambassador George Bush and the rest of the Republican pack Tuesday with 50 percent of the vote in the Granite State's primary.

But the former California governor told The Associated Press that it will take "several primaries yet" before the race for the Republican presidential nomination settles down to even two contenders.

"When you get into the South, you may get a better indication of that," Reagan said in an interview in his motel room Tuesday night.

He said today he was surprised by the size of his triumph.

"I don't know how to explain it," he said. "I was not prepared for the margin that we had."

Next Tuesday, two more New England states, Massachusetts and Vermont, hold presidential primaries. The following week, the race shifts into the South with contests in South Carolina on March 8 and Georgia, Alabama and Florida on March 11.

The size of Reagan's victory in New Hampshire became clear a few hours after the candidate abruptly replaced the top ranks of his campaign staff.
Forced to resign was John Sears,

Reagan's campaign manager and a longtime target of many conservative backers. Sears was replaced by William Casey, a former chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission and who has been active in Republican presidential mpaigns over the past 30 years.

The New Hampshire results gave Reagan a victory far larger than he dared predict over Bush, who had emerged in Iowa as the Californian's chief contender for the nomination.

"This was a surprise, the size of this," said Reagan.

No prosecution in air rhubarb

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) - The U.S. attorney's office says it had no case against four angry airline passengers who were jailed overnight after two of them insisted on smoking during a flight and the others insisted on carrying a painting in the passen-

"It's not like they hijacked an airplane," acknowledged Assistant U.S. Attorney Robert Breakstone, criminal division chief in the San Francisco office. 'When the facts came in, it wasn't the kind of case to lodge a complaint in federal court," he said Monday. "There are more important things." But the events during the Hughes Airwest Las Vegas-San Jose flight on Feb. 18 were not unimportant to Paul Turner and his wife Patricia, both 50, of Spokane, Wash., and Michael L. Ostrofsky, 23, of San Jose, and his sister Carol, 25, of nearby Camp-Both couples were arrested when the plane landed, then booked, fingerprinted and photographed. The men spent 19 hours in the Santa Clara County jail, the women 17 hours in a women's detention facility in Milpitas. The complaints were dropped the next morning. Mrs. Turner said she and her husband took seats in section marked 'Cigarette Smoking Only,' but were then told by a woman flight attendant that the 'no smoking' area had been extended to include their seats. They were told to douse their cigarettes, she said.

She said her husband lit another cigarette, and a second stewardess, identified as Carol Bost, told him

Mrs. Turner added that when her husband said he did not understand why he could not smoke, the stewardess said, "I won't discuss it with you. I'll just let the security police take care of it."

The Ostrofskys, who sat behind the Turners, said they would have no comment until they conferred with their lawyer. However, they confirmed the equence of events outlined by the other couple.

It was initially reported to me that these individuals had created a disturbance on an aircraft," said Breakstone. "It is our policy to investigate such disturbances. Mrs. Turner was outraged, saying they were arrested on "the whim of a stewardess who had had a bad day and decided to take it out on us." The Ostrofskys said they were talking to their lawyer. Tom Joyce, Hughes Airwest manager at the San Jose airport, said flight attendants have the option of deciding how many rows are to be for non-smokers But Herbert said given the information received so and can declare the entire aircraft off-limits to smokers if they want to. 'The flight attendants did what they should have done," he said.

A dispute over smoking in a no-smoking section of a Washington-New York shuttle flight last year prompted the pilot to bring his plane down shortly after takeoff in Baltimore.
