Warnings issued in Iranian rallies

By The Associated Press

Iranian President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr, addressing a mammoth anti-American crowd in Tehran, warned Western Europe and Japan on Friday they will not get "so much as snake's poison" from Iranian oil wells if they help Washington put an economic squeeze on Iran to free the U.S. Embassy hostages.

A leading Moslem clergyman took the threat a step further, broadcasting a direct appeal to the people of Arab oil-producing countries to stand by for orders from Iranian leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini to "cut off the vein" of all Mideast oil to the West.

Massive "unity rallies" across Iran

Friday, the Moslem sabbath, were aimed as much at Iraq as at America.

The Iranians claimed Friday to have inflicted "heavy losses" in lives and materiel on Iraqi forces in the two countries' continuing border hostilities, and the first Iranian deaths were reported.

Bani-Sadr threatened to invade Iraq if Iraqi forces "dared to take one step forward" into Iranian territory.

The Iranian news agency Pars said one Iranian soldier was killed and two were wounded in an artillery exchange with Iraqi gunners near the Iranian border town of Qasr-e-Shirin, 300 miles west of Tehran. Tehran Radio reported one Iranian revolutionary guardsman killed and four wounded in a clash near Paveh, 50 miles north of Qasr-e-Shirin. The radio said the Iranian military command reported a "serious clash" Friday in the Kermanshah border region, with one Iranian soldier killed and another wounded.

There have been no battle or casualty reports from the Iraqi side.

Bani-Sadr had called for Friday's marches and rallies after President Carter severed diplomatic ties with Iran and imposed an almost total economic embargo against it because of Iran's continued holding of the 50 American hostages, who spent their 160th day in captivity Friday.

Revolutionary organizations brought shouting, fist-waving demonstrators into central Tehran by the truckload. They marched in long lines toward the rallying point at Tehran University, many toting guns, some with flowers sprouting from the barrels, and many chanting "Death to Carter!"

Tehran Radio claimed 3 million people thronged the rally — which would be two-thirds of the capital's population — but Western reporters put the number in the hundreds of thousands.

As rivers of humanity flowed through the city, the Tehran ambassadors of U.S.-allied nations were preparing to withdraw from Iran in a show of concern over the continued hostage-holding.

The ambassadors of the nine European Common Market countries are to meet Saturday with Bani-Sadr to demand on behalf of their governments that the U.S. Embassy hostages be freed. Afterward, in a coordinated attempt at diplomatic pressure, the ambassadors will return to their home capitals for consultations. The Japanese Foreign Ministry said its ambassador will do the same.

It was unclear when the ambassadors would return to Iran.

The Common Market governments and Japan, which import large amounts of Iranian oil, have thus far not agreed to President Carter's request that they join in economic and other sanctions against Iran. But they say they will review their positions depending on Bani-Sadr's response to their demands.

Pipeline explodes

LEVELLAND, Texas (AP) — Officials at the Oil and Gas Cryogenics plant estimate damage from a liquid nitrogen pipeline explosion "in the thousands of dollars."

No one was hurt when the underground pipeline, about 3 miles west of Levelland, exploded early Friday. But Levelland Fire Chief Eddie Sanders said the blast awakened residents as far away as Whiteface, 10 miles to the west.

President Jack Joplin, who flew in from Houston to survey the damage, said his company plans to rebuild the plant, which produces liquid nitrogen used to enhance oil recovery.

Island blacked out

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — All of Puerto Rico suffered a massive blackout Friday night from a breakdown in the island-wide electricity network, officials reported.

The San Juan police radio carried reports of looting and gunshots in various sections of San Juan, but a spokesman at the general police headquarters said there were no major disturbances.

This U.S. commonwealth plunged into darkness at 7:30 p.m. EST, and officials of the state-operated Electric Energy Administration said they did not know how soon power could be restored.

Several injured

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — A natural gas explosion rocked downtown Columbus at mid-afternoon Friday, injuring several people and destroying part of an office building, authorities said. Witnesses said the explosion destroyed the interior of the Ogletree office complex of Rankin Square, a restored area of shops and office buildings in this west-central Georgia city.

Columbus Medical Center spokesman Tom Titus said 16 people were treated for burns and cuts. The extent of the injuries was not immediately known, but Titus said no one was injured critically.

Quake reported

WASHINGTON (AP) — A strong earthquake occurred Friday in the South Pacific, the U.S. Geological Survey reported.

The survey's earthquake information service said the tremor registered about 6.5 on the Richter scale and occurred in the sparsely populated Loyalty Islands area, about 1,000 miles northeast of Brisbane, Australia.

There were no reports of any damage.

Navy short-handed

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time in at least 15 years, the Navy has taken a ship out of operation because of a shortage of key crewmen. It was learned Friday.

The Navy said the oiler Canasteo, based at Norfolk, Va., has "temporarily suspended operations due to a personnel shortage" of veteran boiler technicians and machinists mates. Two Navy reserve destroyers, the Johnson and the Dyess, are "in the same fix." Navy officials said, but they are due to be decommissioned anyway.

However, the Canasteo was supposed to be undergoing refresher training before being deployed overseas and its deployment will now be delayed, probably beyond this summer, officials said.

Conference asked

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Republican presidential candidate Ronald Reagan has asked to have a private talk with Republican Gov. Bill Clements, Clements said Friday.

"Around April 24 he probably will be visiting me in my office here," Clements told a news conference when asked if he planned to see Reagan on an April 17-18 visit to Texas. "He wants to come by here and talk with me. I do not know about what. I have no intention of seeing him other than in my office."

Brief, violent outbreak staged by 150 in Colombian prison

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — More than 150 prisoners, including members of the guerrilla organization holding 18 diplomats hostage in the Dominican Republic's Embassy, seized control of a prison area in a brief but violent protest over suspension of family visits. It was reported Friday.

Among the inmates involved in the prison disturbance were two whose freedom has been demanded by the embassy captors as part of the hostage release price. Officials at La Picota Prison said some doors were broken down before guards restored order.

Two government negotiators met again Friday with the masked woman representing the embassy invaders. It was the 13th meeting since the embassy takeover 45 days ago and lasted 110 minutes.

When the talks ended in a van parked in front of the embassy, the woman shook hands with the government representatives and made a V for victory signal before returning to the embassy.

The government had expressed some optimism before the meeting, but a brief statement issued after the talks said only that they "served to give better precision to the positions" and both sides agreed to meet again.

"We're closer on several important positions," Colombian Foreign Minister Diego Uribe Vargas had told reporters earlier.

A U.S. Embassy source said "things are moving very fast. Everyone involved with the situation seems to be accelerating his schedule. There's more optimism heard today than before."

In Washington, however, State Department sources said privately that they didn't expect an early solution. U.S. Ambassador Diego Asencio is among the hostages.

La Picota Prison director Col. Rolando Pena Angarita said Friday that family visits at the penitentiary had been suspended March 19 for security reasons.

He said guerrilla suspects awaiting courts martial under the country's state of siege law took over an interior patio on Thursday, shouted slogans, bashed in several doors, tore off some locks and urged other inmates to riot. No injuries were reported.

Two imprisoned leaders of the M-19 guerrillas, Ivan Marin Ospina and Elmer Marin, are among the 28 prisoners the embassy invaders say must be freed. The newspaper El Tiempo quoted Ospina and Marin as saying after the prison disturbance that they "could not control their colleagues."

Israel pulls troops out of Lebanon

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israel said it began pulling its troops out of southern Lebanon Friday after a three-day occupation in retaliation for a Palestinian guerrilla attack on a Jewish settlement that killed three Israelis.

U.S. officials said they were informed all would be withdrawn in several days.

A brief announcement by the Israeli army spokesman here gave no indication how many of the 300 troops estimated to have crossed the border in the previous two days were pulling back Friday. The army said it "began to withdraw from southern Lebanon those of its forces which have completed their missions."

U.N. spokesman Timor Goksel told The Associated Press in a telephone interview from U.N. headquarters in Naqoura, Lebanon, that as of late afternoon, about 150 Israeli troops with 12 armored personnel carriers and three halftracks were deployed in two positions near the villages of Markabe and Shakra. This was 100 troops fewer than the number reported in those positions a day earlier.

An additional 110 Israeli soldiers with nine armored personnel carriers were reported deployed near the village of Kounin on Thursday. There was no information on their status Friday because they were out of view of U.N. peacekeeping troops who patrol most of the Lebanese-Israeli border.

Goksel said there was "some movement" but it would be difficult to determine how many Israeli troops were still in the area until Saturday morning.

U.N. spokesmen in Lebanon have said the Israelis, with about 23 armored personnel carriers, were in an 11-mile north-south arc along a route the Palestinians would have had to cross to attack Israeli border villages.

Israel defended the move, saying the troops were patrolling "as a precaution against possible terrorist activities."

Some form of reprisal had been expected following the Palestinian guerrilla attack on the Misgav Am border settlement, in which the three Israelis, including a baby, were killed. The five Palestinians were also killed.

The United States had urged restraint, especially because of talks President Carter had scheduled this week with Egyptian President Sadat and next week with Israeli Prime Minister Begin on the stalled Palestinian autonomy talks.

The State Department sought clarification of the incursion and on Thursday, the U.S. charge d'affaires in Tel Aviv, William Brown, discussed the Israeli action with Defense Secretary Ezer Weizman.

Shortly before the Israeli announcement, a State Department spokesman said Israel had informed the United States it was pulling out and expected the entire operation to be completed in several days.

On Thursday, Lebanon requested an emergency meeting of the U.N. Security Council to discuss what it called Israel's "insolent violation" of Lebanese territory.

A spokesman for U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim called the Israeli move "a very serious development."

Earlier Friday, Israeli-backed Christian militia fired on an armored vehicle carrying a top U.N. officer.

Wamba, Texas, plane crash claims lives of Missouri couple TEXARKANA, Texas (AP) — Two Sikeston, Mo., residents were killed Friday afternoon when a single engine airplane crashed in an open field near Wamba, Texas.

Bowie County Sheriff Earl Sabo identified the victims as Dr. Daniel L. Rosenstein, 52, and his wife, Elba B. Rosenstein, 53.

Sabo said the pilot had radioed the tower at the Texarkana Municipal Airport shortly before the crash that the plane had run out of fuel and would have to attempt a forced landing.

The airplane apparently attempted a landing in the open field, but clipped the top branches of a row of trees next to the field, Sabo said.

Sabo said the aircraft nosedived to the ground killing the passengers instantly.

They won't be flooded with aid

By YARDENA ARAR

LAKE ELSINORE, Calif. (AP) — You can't go home again, at least not if you want government aid to do so in Lake Elsinore. That's the message to hundreds of residents whose lakeside homes were flooded during this winter's rainstorms.

Under a "hazard mitigation" program authorized by Congress in 1974, the federal government is refusing to authorize low-interest Small Business Administration rebuilding loans or issue new flood insurance for homes located below the 1,265-foot flood threshold elevation above sea level.

"It makes a lot of sense," said Jim Keene of the Federal Emergency Management Agency. "If you're going to have to come back here every two years and rebuild or seek loan money for a place that was destroyed two years ago, it makes sense to loan people money to move out of there."

The lake, swollen from both rainfall and runoff in its 750-square-mile watershed area, peaked on March 20 at 1,265.72 feet. By Friday it had receded half a foot from that level. The Army Corps of Engineers has estimated it will take until April 21 for the lake to fall to the 1,265-foot level and until the start of next year's rainy season for it to approach the pre-flood level of 1,245.

Keene said that while 500 federal flood insurance policies were issued in Lake Elsinore, it was impossible to determine how many people will be affected by the hazard mitigation measures "because a number of people down there moved out long before we ever were on the scene. But there are at least 400."

Homeowners that had federal flood insurance are eligible for up to $45,000 in benefits, he said, and can get that money even if they rebuild below the flood level.

"But who would choose to do that?" he said. "You can't get new federal flood insurance below 1,265 feet, and you can't get an SBA loan without new flood insurance."

Homeowners who meet SBA requirements are eligible for loans of up to $55,000 at 3 percent interest. Renters can also take out loans of up to $10,000 for property loss. The loans are available only for uninsured portions of losses.

While the city has banned new construction below the 1,265-foot flood line since 1967, City Manager Ira B. Pace said there are no laws barring rebuilding below that elevation. But he said such reconstruction would be virtually impossible without federal support.

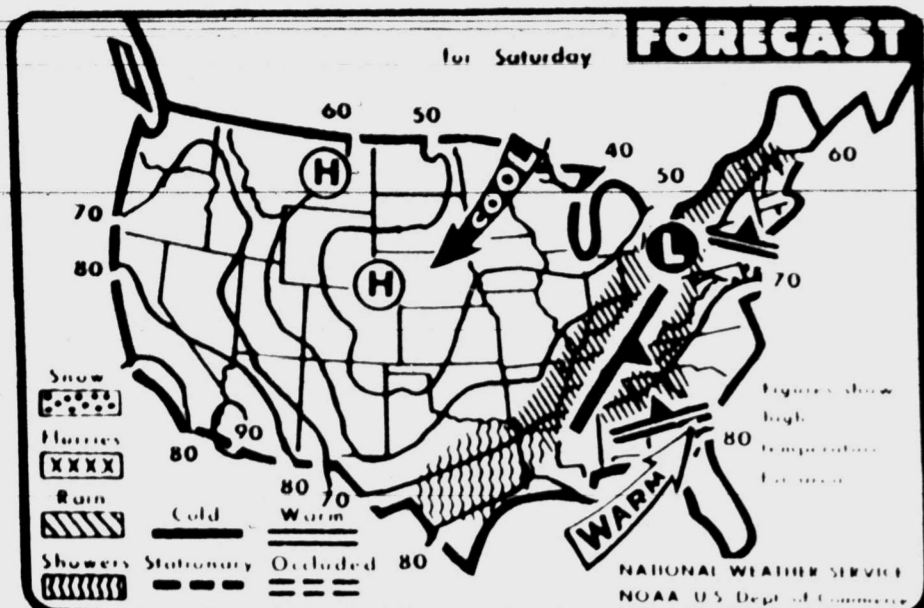

In Harrison Canyon in North San Bernardino, residents of 27 flood-damaged homes have also decided to move to safer sites, leaving the area an uninhabited flood control channel.

Seven Southern California counties — Los Angeles, Orange, Ventura, San Diego, Riverside, San Bernardino and Santa Barbara — were declared federal disaster areas in the wake of torrential rainstorms in February and March.

Keene said about 25,000 stricken families sought some sort of aid — grants, loans, insurance benefits, temporary housing and the like — at 19 disaster centers that were set up shortly after the storms.

The SBA expects to lend more than $255 million to nearly 3,000 Southern California businesses and about 12,850 homeowners who have already filed disaster relief claims, compared to about $120 million loaned to 2,491 businesses and 15,333 families after flooding in 1978.

Four charged with murder

MELBOURNE, Fla. (AP) — Authorities have filed first-degree murder charges against the widow, mother-in-law and two female employees of an optometrist who was beaten to death in his home with a skillet and another kitchen utensil.

But police were reluctant to discuss a motive or exactly what role they believed the four women, who were arrested Thursday, played in the March 28 death of Dr. John Young Bradford.

Priscilla Bradford, his 36-year-old widow, claimed she had been a battered wife. On March 27, the day before his death, she showed up at the police station with her face black and blue to file a complaint against him. "She had been beaten all to hell," one officer said.

Bradford home the night of his death. "It would appear that it was a combination of things, one of which was a domestic situation that deteriorated over the years," Miller said. Initially, police had said only Mrs. Bradford and her 14-year-old daughter, Eden, were home at the time of the killing. Eden reportedly was taking a shower.

But Miller later said the two employees also were in the house.

Transit workers to return to work

NEW YORK (AP) — The 11-day bus and subway strike that had left millions of commuters without their usual means of travel ended at least temporarily Friday when union officials deadlocked on a contract proposal and ordered a return to work.

Buses and subways were expected to begin returning to service within hours, with full service by Saturday morning, said Richard Ravitch, chairman of the Metropolitan Transportation Authority.

John Lawe, president of Local 100 of the Transport Workers Union, ordered his 35,000 members to return to work after the union's board reached a 22-22 deadlock on whether to accept a 17 percent wage hike package over a two-year period.

The offer which the TWU executive board members could not agree on must be approved by a majority of the union's divided rank and file. No date was set for this voting, which is to be by-mailed ballot. Lawe said negotiations would resume if the pact were rejected.

The walkout began April 1, only the second citywide transit strike in the city's history. The first one in 1966 lasted 12 days.

The city was plagued by large-scale traffic tieups during the strike as commuters drove their cars onto the island of Manhattan or rode fleets of buses hired by employers. Sidewalks were jammed by hordes of pedestrians, and bicycles were nearly as numerous as taxis.

The union board's vote was preceded by a 9-4 vote in favor of the package by the members of the MTA executive board, with one abstention.

The contract proposal provides for a 9 percent raise the first year and 8 percent the second year. However, the second year figure was to be increased by cost of living additions at the rate of one cent per hour for each four-tenths of one percent increase in the regional cost-of-living.

The proposal also contained productivity clauses that management had demanded, mainly relating to reduced overtime.

Transit wages before the strike averaged $18,000 a year.

Also taking part in the strike was the Amalgamated Transit Union, with 2,500 members operating buses in Queens and on Staten Island. They voted unanimously for the settlement upon recommendation by their regional vice president, George Link.

He called the pact "the best we can get under the circumstances."

The TWU ranks had been divided when they went into the strike, with a strong contingent of dissident members forcing the walkout. And the division remained when the executive board meeting ended.

"The membership is not going to buy it, no way," said David Ruebenstein, a conductor and a dissident union member. "Something is wrong here and something stinks."

Sale of Gibson's stores to unnamed Austin holding company revealed

ODESSA — The seven Gibson's Discount Center stores in Midland, Odessa and El Paso have been sold to a holding company in Austin.

A spokesman at Gibson's main office in Odessa said the holding company was composed of an investment company and part of the present Gibson's management, but he declined to have before with the seven stores we now have.

He added the sale should not mean changes in Gibson's corporate structure.

"As a matter of fact, the corporate headquarters and officers will remain the same here in Odessa. We do not anticipate any management changes and will continue to operate as always."

West German woman lifts veil of secrecy on Saudi Princess Mishaal's love affair

LONDON (AP) — Saudi Princess Mishaal "knew the risks she was taking" in the love affair that ended in the execution for adultery of her and her commoner-lover in 1977, says a West German woman who claims she was the princess' closest Western friend.

"I think she thought she could get away with it. But she and her lover were arrested at the airport while trying to leave secretly to enjoy their lives together," Rosemarie Buschow told reporters after a British TV documentary about the executions brought outraged protests from Saudi Arabia's ruling royal family to the British government.

Miss Buschow, who is 39 and now works in London as a receptionist, said she spent 18 months in Saudi Arabia in 1976-77 as governess to Prince Susu, a young grand-nephew of King Khaled. She said 19-year-old Princess "Misha" was the king's niece, the daughter of an elder brother of the king, but she did not know the identity of her lover.

"I knew about the princess's romance," said the woman. "I knew she wasn't happy about the marriage that had been arranged for her, but having an open association with someone who was not her husband was indiscreet to say the least."

"Princess Misha was married to her first cousin. He left her. I was told the affair had been going on for about eight months. She found love and happiness with this other man."

"She never talked openly about it, but she often referred to him as 'habibi,' which in English means darling. I remember Misha wore a medallion with her lover's picture on it. She referred to it as 'my love.'"

"I must confess, that I didn't realize that the punishment for adultery was death. When Princess Misha disappeared, we were told that she had drowned while out swimming. That couldn't have been right because she never went bathing."

...had something to do with the princess but I wasn't prepared for that dreadful outcome. ... I was horrified. It hit me that our culture and theirs were centuries apart."

The Guardian newspaper said the princess was the granddaughter of Prince Mohammed, the oldest surviving son of Saudi Arabia's founder, King Ibn Saud, and "among the most influential figures in the royal household." The Daily Express said Prince Mohammed and King Khaled decided that "because of the gossip about the affair," and because adultery is punishable by death, the princess must die.

"The two men were in tears over the decision," Miss Buschow told the Express.

The princess was shot and her lover was beheaded. The Saudi government announced in 1978 that they were executed for "adulterous acts."

The film "Death of a Princess" was shown Wednesday night on a British commercial network despite a reported offer from King Khaled of $11 million to suppress it.

The Saudi government protested to the British government, saying the film was "very offensive." The British government expressed its "profound regret" to the Saudis but said it could not interfere with such a TV program.

The film is to be broadcast on public television in the United States on May 12 and is to be shown in the Netherlands next Thursday.

Miss Buschow admitted she advised producer Anthony Thomas on the making of the film but said she had second thoughts after seeing it.

"The film should not have been made," she said. "It achieved nothing but discord. ... Every family has a black sheep — and this is a large family of around 5,000 people."

Influenza, pneumonia deaths drop

By NANCY KENNEY

ATLANTA (AP) — For the first time in 11 weeks, the number of reported deaths from influenza and pneumonia has dropped below epidemic levels, public health officials announced Friday.

The national Center for Disease Control said 450 influenza and pneumonia deaths were reported in 117 U.S. cities for the week ending April 5. That was roughly the number projected by the CDC and below the epidemic threshold.

"We would hope that the epidemic is over," said medical epidemiologist Richard Goodman. "There has been very little reporting over the past two weeks."

Because death figures usually lag behind reported flu cases by two weeks, Goodman said the data raised hopes that the influenza epidemic is reaching an end.

The CDC released the figures as part of its Morbidity and Mortality Weekly Report.

In the previous 10 weeks, 6,300 influenza and pneumonia deaths were reported nationally, compared to 4,850 expected for that period.

For the week ending March 29, only one state — Michigan — reported widespread outbreaks, the CDC said.

Regional outbreaks — or outbreaks in counties with less than 50 percent of a state's population — were reported in only one state, Virginia. Nineteen states reported sporadic cases, and 17 reported no activity.

The CDC characterizes widespread flu outbreaks as those in which influenza activity is reported in counties where the majority of a state's population lives. This winter's flu outbreak was caused primarily by Influenza-B, to which all age groups were susceptible, Goodman said. A high incidence of cases was reported among the elderly, who are more likely to experience complications such as pneumonia.

Last winter, the number of influenza and pneumonia deaths reached the epidemic threshold for only three weeks, Goodman said.

Living costs big transfer factor

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — When an executive turns down a transfer one of the major reasons is the high cost of living in the new area, according to a recent survey sponsored by Merrill Lynch Relocation Management Inc.

The executive relocation service firm says 43 percent of 603 firms surveyed reported employees turned down transfer opportunities because of high living costs.

Clements characterizes state as economic 'bright spot'

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas will be the "bright spot" in any severe national economic depression, Gov. Bill Clements predicted Friday. "I'm bullish about Texas. I'm optimistic," the Republican governor told a news conference Friday. Clements also said he had no sympathy with Democratic Party officials who have complained the Republican administration in Texas, the first this century, is giving Republicans a break on primary election expenses. "I challenge these disgruntled Democrats to take their case to court," Clements said, smiling. Clements said there are many answers to how Texas would be affected by a "severe depression." "In the past, Texas has been immune to the national economic factors to a great extent...it is reasonable that Texas would not feel the effects of a deep recession as severely as the rest of the country. Our economy may be the strongest in the nation." Clements said some experts have predicted Texas' economy may increase 50 percent by 1990. "It will bring on problems but it also will do much for our economic activity," he said. "I am bullish on Texas," said the former Dallas multimillionaire who established a worldwide oil drilling service. "While we may have nationally a rather severe depression, I think Texas will remain a bright spot economically," he said. Clements was asked if he planned to do anything about recent complaints from some Democratic county chairman that Secretary of State George Strake had bent state election laws to give Republicans an advantage in dispensing state funds for the May 3 primary elections.

Strake, as chief state elections official, held that state appropriations for the primary elections should be based on voter participation in the 1978 gubernatorial race, when Clements was elected. In previous years, funds appropriated by the Legislature have been based on votes in previous presidential election years.

"I have no plans in that direction (to make any changes)," Clements said. "I think we are doing more or less what has been done in the past by the Democrats."

Earlier, sources said the large turnout expected for Republican primaries when John B. Connally was still a presidential candidate caused a larger allocation for the Republicans to take care of defecting Democrats.

"I don't know that is right," Clements said. "I think it should be normal to use the last governor's election as a basis. I challenge these disgruntled Democrats to take their case to court."

On other subjects, Clements said: — He had received no more word on how a decrease in revenue sharing funds would affect Texas. "Sooner or later we will have to consider this but to say anything now is premature. We do not know which funds will be cut and which the state might pick up."

— He has no plans to see GOP presidential candidate Ronald Reagan on Reagan's April 17-18 visit to Texas but he understands Reagan would visit him personally about April 24. Clements said he was sure Reagan knew he was neutral in the Republican presidential race.

Muniz: Just another prison inmate

By GREG THOMPSON
Associated Press Writer

Eight years ago, he got 214,000 votes for governor of Texas. More than 93,000 Texans voted for him in 1974. But Friday, Ramsey Muniz was just another federal prison inmate excitedly talking about his upcoming parole, his family and his future.

Federal officials announced Wednesday that they had granted Muniz' parole from the Memphis, Tenn., federal prison, where the former La Raza Unida Party leader is serving two five-year sentences for marijuana smuggling and one for bond-jumping.

He is to be paroled Dec. 15 after almost four years in prison.

"I was really waiting for the news. I kept checking every day, trying not to get panicky," Muniz, 37, said Friday by phone from the prison. "For the first time, I'm really able to talk about my future."

He then talked excitedly about his impending transfer to a minimum security prison in Seagoville, Texas, and the possibility of a work release job as a law clerk in Dallas. He hopes that leads to the halfway house by summer, giving him a chance to be with his wife and 9-year-old daughter.

"I want to spend as much time with them as I can. That's the most important thing right now," said Muniz. "I can't find the words to express the courage and the strength and the support my wife and my little girl have given me since I was incarcerated. It's been very hard on them."

"I'm going to take everything real slow and be very patient with whatever direction I go. But I'm looking forward to it," he added.

But Muniz' future is fraught with problems. He was disbarred after pleading guilty in early 1977 to conspiracy to smuggle hundreds of pounds of marijuana into the United States from Mexico. Despite plea bargaining, Muniz got the maximum five-year sentence on all three counts. Two sentences were concurrent, but it meant 10 years in prison.

The late John H. Wood Jr., a federal judge notorious for his stiff sentences on drug cases, also tacked on a special 10-year parole period.

Muniz, therefore, is facing another 16 years as a parolee.

When he is freed, Muniz said he will quickly ask the federal courts for a reduction in that parole time. If successful, then he plans to try to get his law license back.

The former candidate feels his notoriety and success as the leader of the now-defunct Mexican-American third party contributed to his stiff sentences.

"I feel I got too much time for the crime itself. Compared to other first offenders from other districts, people with similar crimes didn't come close to the time I received," he said.

"I question very seriously the 16-year special parole on top of time that was excessive to begin with."

"There has to be a reason for that. I can't stand here and tell you it wasn't because I was a candidate, a candidate of opposition to the Democrats and Republicans," he said.

"It's very evident why I got it. People don't want to admit it, and they won't. But I know. I'm the one who did the time. And believe me, I've had some time to think about it," he said.

Muniz also feels his notoriety explains why he was kept in maximum and medium security federal prisons, unlike some other attorneys convicted of nonviolent crimes.

Ron Burkhard, executive assistant to the warden at Memphis, said Muniz served time in two maximum security facilities and two medium security prisons, including Memphis.

Caraway will join Bryant in bid to unseat Clayton

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Rep. Bill Caraway, a three-term legislator from Houston, has become the second candidate to challenge Speaker Bill Clayton's bid for re-election to a fourth term as presiding officer of the Texas House. Caraway, 34, earlier had tried to persuade House members to remain uncommitted in the 1981 speaker's race, but he announced Friday he has collected "31 firm pledges of support." He announced his candidacy in a news release distributed in the Capitol press room. Rep. John Bryant, D-Dallas, is the other announced candidate against Clayton. Bryant made his decision before Clayton became a target of the FBI's BriTAB (bribery and labor) investigation.

In early primaries, blacks supported Carter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Blacks consistently favored President Carter over Sen. Edward M. Kennedy in four early primaries, giving the incumbent as much as 68 percent of their votes in Florida, a new analysis asserted Friday.

The Joint Center for Political Studies, a nonprofit, nonpartisan research group which monitors black participation in politics, sampled the vote in Florida, Alabama, Illinois and New York. Only in New York, where the vote split among blacks was 52 percent to 48 percent, did Kennedy come close to winning a majority of the black vote.

An analysis prepared by the center after the 1976 election showed that blacks gave Carter more than 90 percent of their votes in the general election and provided him with his margin of victory over then-President Gerald R. Ford.

Although Carter has collected endorsements from many black elected officials this year, supporters of Kennedy, the challenger from Massachusetts, had counted on much of the black citizenry to support their candidate.

In Illinois, blacks who voted in the Republican primary heavily favored Rep. John Anderson, giving him 59.2 percent of their votes to 17.2 percent for Ronald Reagan and 9.4 percent for George Bush.

On the Democratic side, black support for Kennedy was significant in each case and generally hovered around 30 percent.

In Florida, where Carter beat Kennedy handily, the president polled 67.4 percent of the black vote to Kennedy's 29.6 percent in the center's election sample.

The president's performance was somewhat better in non-metropolitan areas (69.4 percent) than it was in urban centers (66.9 percent) among black voters.

In Illinois, Carter won 59.4 percent of the black vote in the Democratic primary to 33.9 percent for Kennedy. Statewide, the vote tabulation was 65.1

percent to 30 percent in the president's favor. In New York, Kennedy won the primary 59 percent to 41 percent, but lost the black vote to Carter 52 percent to 48 percent.

The samples from Illinois and New York do not include non-metropolitan voting areas because so few blacks live outside the cities in those states. The non-urban black population in Illinois is only about 2 percent. In New York, it is less than 1 percent.

In Alabama, Carter won the Democratic primary 81.4 percent to 13.4 percent. No official statewide figures on black voting patterns were available. But votes at 67 percent for Carter, 29 percent for Kennedy and 3 percent for California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., who has since withdrawn from the presidential sweepstakes.

But Carter won a bit more than two-thirds of the black votes in the metropolitan and nonmetropolitan areas sampled.

The majority of black voters have aligned themselves with the Democratic Party in recent years. Votes cast by blacks in the Republican primaries in Florida, Alabama and New York either were too few to analyze or were cast for delegates rather than for candidates, the center's analysis said.

The Joint Center took its samples in predominantly black sample units in each state. The turnout of black voters was slightly lower than for all registered voters in Florida, Alabama and New York. But in Illinois, it was about the same.

On the campaign trail: —George Bush accused rival Republican presidential candidate Ronald Reagan of displaying inconsistency in his campaign statements.

"There are beginning to be all these, 'I said it, then I didn't, I didn't say it, I did,'" Bush told reporters in Philadelphia. "You can't be on one side one day and one side the next," he said.

Two days ago in Texas, Gov. Reagan called for a Berlin-type airlift to help evacuate these Cubans who have sought refuge in the Peruvian Embassy (in Cuba). This is a gross overreaction, an emotional reaction. An airlift into Cuba is unnecessary, it's unreasonable and, indeed, it's highly dangerous. Jingoistic statements are not the solution to a problem that can be solved in an orderly, safe manner."

Bush said his differences with Reagan on the Cuban situation and on other issues "indicate to me that some of Gov. Reagan's positions lack consistency and a full understanding of the issues.

"I think his position on the Cuban situation reflect a lack of judgment. So what I must do in Pennsylvania is hammer away at these differences and at the same time offer, hopefully, constructive answers to both the foreign affairs and economic problems that have been disastrous under Jimmy Carter."

—Kennedy said Carter's proposed cuts in the fiscal 1981 budget will cost California $1 billion in lost aid to education, jobs programs and other services.

Appearing before a labor audience in Oakland, Calif., the Massachusetts Democrat assailed Carter's move as "a shell game."

Mailing of tax refund checks delayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Treasury Department is delaying sending about $3 billion in tax refund checks for a few days just to be sure there will be enough money in its accounts to cash them.

The delay, from Friday until Monday, reflects "conservative cash management policies" by the Treasury, said a spokesman. He said there probably would have been enough money to cover the tax checks if they had been mailed as planned.

"It was really a decision to get refund checks to recipients on Tuesday, rather than Monday, which simply reflects the Treasury's cash management policy during this period of a seasonally heavy drain of government cash," said the spokesman, who did not want to be identified.

The Treasury's cash needs have increased sharply in recent weeks, in part because of tax refund payments, but also because of large-scale redemption of Savings Bonds and of U.S. government securities by foreign investors.

The spokesman said the Treasury Department tries to keep its cash balances as low as possible to keep its interest costs on borrowed money to a minimum. Although he didn't say so, he indicated the current cash balance may have fallen too low.

Tax refunds are up 20 percent so far this year compared to 1979. If the present trend continues, 1980 refunds will total more than $42 billion, up from $35.3 billion in 1979.

The average refund is $591 this year, up more than $100 over the 1979 average of $490. A spokesman for the Internal Revenue Service, Larry Batdorf, said the normal yearly increase in the average refund is about $40.

"It's higher than ordinary," he said of the 1980 increase. "Obviously, this is the result of inflation."

The final deadline for filing tax returns is April 15, next Tuesday.

But the spokesman said the delay did not mean there was a serious cash shortage. He said it reflects a "conservative attitude of Treasury...they like plenty of margin for error."

The procedure until Friday had been for Post Office employees to pick up tax refund checks on Fridays at eight regional disbursing offices around the country. However, this week they were told to come next Monday instead.

The spokesman said a similar weekend delay occurred once last year, although it apparently escaped public notice.

The overpayment of taxes by taxpayers represents a windfall to the federal government, as the government does not pay interest on the money, which it is free to use along with regular tax receipts until taxpayers claim the refund.

Since there may have been as much as $42 billion in tax overpayments by individuals last year, it represents a considerable savings at a time when interest rates have been well into double-digit levels.

The cash bind apparently caught the Treasury Department by surprise, said Donald Maude, the chief financial economist of Merrill Lynch & Co. in New York.

Carter asks more price limits

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter asked the nation's chemical industry on Friday to follow the lead of food and drug companies by holding down prices even if it means losing some profits this year.

Several company executives and a spokesman for the industry's trade group refused to commit themselves to a freeze or postponement of planned price increases as they emerged from a White House jawboning session with Carter and key aides in his anti-inflation fight.

"The government itself is taking very strong action, as you know, to restrain credit and balance the budget and reduce government regulation of industries," Carter told the executives during a brief portion of the meeting open to reporters. "I notice in the chemical industry that recently the price increases per quarter have been very high."

Without apparent reference to notes, the president rattled off the latest figures for the industry, saying prices had risen 28 percent in the last three months, 18 percent in the previous quarter and 38 percent in the quarter before that.

Food and drug retailers, Carter noted, "voluntarily constrained themselves at some considerable sacrifice in order to help in this overall effort. I would like to ask you to consider very seriously taking the same action."

The president said he was aware "this may result in some decrease in profits for your industry...but I know that your profit margins in 1979 were up considerably compared to 1978, and 1980 will also be a good year for you."

"It would be extremely helpful to our country at this time of high inflationary pressures for this major and basic industry to take action on an individual company basis to voluntarily restrain your prices below what you would have done otherwise."

In addition to the chemical giants like Du Pont, Monsanto and Union Carbide, the chemical divisions of several big oil companies were represented at the meeting, including Gulf, Texaco, Atlantic Richfield, Conoco, Chevron and Union Oil.

But none of the executives approached by reporters as they left the meeting would commit their firms to do anything they aren't already doing to keep within the administration's voluntary wage and price guidelines.

Robert A. Roland, president of the Washington-based Chemical Manufacturers Association, said the industry leaders had taken the opportunity of the meeting to tell administration officials that government regulations, including proposed restrictions on the dumping of hazardous wastes, add to the costs of production and drive prices upward.

"The consensus around the table was, we will continue to do everything we can" to stay within existing anti-inflation guidelines, Roland said. But he refused to say whether any of the companies might go further as the president requested.

In another economic development, the inventories of the nation's wholesalers and retailers grew 0.7 percent in February to $434.5 billion as sales fell, the Commerce Department reported.

This Amana Energy Saving Upright Freezer can save you MONEY in operating costs compared to our previous comparable models.

To achieve these dramatic savings, Amana put up to 2 1/2 inches of foam wall insulation around the entire freezer to maintain safe, zero-degree temperatures and reduce freezer running time. Typical freezers have about 1 1/4 inches of foam wall insulation. In addition, the door is filled with a combination of superior slab foam and fiberglass insulation.

Amana then lined the interior with an easy-to-clean, one-piece insuliner that adds better insulation protection than metal or porcelain-coated steel liners.

Finally, Amana included a Magna-seal door gasket that grips the cabinet for an airtight seal, and a radiant shell condenser, eliminating the need for an energy-consuming condenser fan motor.

Amana Energy Saving Upright Freezers have built-in quality along with built-in energy efficiency.

- Amana-matic Contact Freezing helps keep foods at safe, zero-degree storage temperatures. Each solid aluminum shelf is a prime freezing surface with coils attached to the bottom. There are even coils at the top of the insuliner. All foods are on or directly below a prime freezing surface.
- Shelves in Stor-Mor Door are deep enough to hold standard packages upright. Flip-up retainer bars let you store a variety of package sizes. Makes shelves easy to clean, too.
- Large glide-out basket keeps odd shaped, hard to store packages for easy access. (Model ESU-13 has a removable insert.)
- Large-size capacity in a space-saving cabinet that's only 28" wide.
- Amana safety lock with self-ejecting key helps prevent unauthorized openings.

Amana Energy Saving Upright Freezers come in a size perfect for your family's needs. 13.1, 15.1 and 17.1 cu. ft.

A BIGGER WORLD

There comes a time, even in a chick's life, when the way must open to a greatly expanded world. When his confining shell no longer allows proper growth, he makes a point of throwing off his shackles and steps out into a big, strange world.

This comparatively simple phenomenon is paralleled in human existence as each child grows toward adulthood, and reaches out for the wider horizon. What he finds there will depend in great part on what he has been taught.

For this reason the early and continued guidance of Christian home and church are all-important. From these things the foundation of faith is built. Through faith and understanding the shackles of fear and bondage are dispelled, and your child grows spiritually strong to meet the ever-widening horizons and challenges of a modern world.

THE NEWSPAPER BIBLE

Never be in the dark

12 Later, in one of His talks, Jesus said to the people, "I am the Light of the world. So if you follow Me, you won't be stumbling through the darkness, for living light will flood your path."
13 The Pharisees replied, "You are boasting—and lying!"
14 Jesus told them, "These claims are true even though I make them concerning Myself. For I know where I came from and where I am going, but you don't know this about Me.
15 You pass judgment on Me without knowing the facts. I am not judging you now.
16 But if I were, it would be an absolutely correct judgment in every respect, for I have with Me the Father who sent Me.
17 Your laws say that if two men agree on something that has happened, their witness is accepted as fact.
18 Well, I am one witness, and My Father who sent Me is the other."
19 "Where is your father?" they asked.
Jesus answered, "You don't know who I am, so you don't know who My Father is. If you knew Me, then you would know Him too."
20 Jesus made these statements while in the section of the Temple known as the Treasury. But He was not arrested, for His time had not yet run out.

Riggs nominated for Baptist Convention post

The Rev. John D. Riggs, pastor of Wilshire Park Baptist Church since April 8, 1973, has been nominated to serve on the Executive Board of the Baptist General Convention of Texas for a three-year term. Wilshire Park will be honoring Riggs Sunday during services.

Riggs held the office of moderator for the Midland Baptist Association from February of 1977 through October of 1979 and is currently serving his second year as chairman of the Midland County Child Welfare Board. He was recently accepted as a candidate for studies leading to the doctor of ministry degree from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary.

During his pastorate at Wilshire Park, 409 new members have been received. The building indebtedness has been paid off, a staff member in Christian education has been added and missions giving has increased substantially.

Mrs. Riggs has also made a significant contribution to the Midland community. She began with the Midland school system in 1973 as an elementary teacher and for the past five years has been an elementary school principal.

Rev. Murray to keynote

ODESSA — The Rev. Michael F. Murray, a consultant to the Fort Worth Council of Churches, will keynote the ninth annual meeting of the Women of Tres Rios Presbytery Thursday at Odessa's First Presbyterian Church.

He will speak on "Servant Leadership — the Church in the '80s" to approximately 125 women convened for the all-day meeting.

Murray, a resident of Arlington and a native of Weatherford, is vice president of Creative Interchange Consultants International, a Florida based consulting and training firm; an associate in three other consulting firms; and a member of the adjunct faculty of several colleges and universities.

As a member of Grace Union Presbytery which covers the North Central Texas area, he works with some 30 church groups. He received his bachelor of arts from Austin College in Sherman and a bachelor of divinity from Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary in Austin.

The meeting opens with registration at 9 a.m. The short business meeting will conclude with the election and installation of new officers. Mrs. James Frizzell of Midland's Trinity Presbyterian Church is retiring as the district's chairwoman. Currently serving as officers are Mrs. Robert Hobbs, personal growth chairwoman from Midland's First Presbyterian Church and Mrs. Thomas Newbold, treasurer from Trinity Presbyterian Church.

Workshops will follow Murray's address. Leaders will include Mrs. Hobbs, the Rev. John Evans of the Texas Presbyterian Foundation in Dallas and the Rev. James Elder of the First Presbyterian Church in Fort Stockton.

Tres Rios stretches west to El Paso, east to San Saba, north to Seminole and south to Sanderson, encompassing 27 churches.

RELIGION IN BRIEF

Methodists hold conference Tuesday

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — The United Methodist Church will hold its quadrennial general conference beginning Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. at the Indiana Convention-Exposition Center here.

Between the conclusion of the Laity Address and the final adjournment, scheduled for 10 p.m. April 25, the major task facing delegates will be the processing of more than 900 pages of reports, legislative proposals and special study committee recommendations as well as action on more than 20,000 petitions from individual members, congregations, caucuses and boards and agencies of the church.

Issues expected to garner major attention include homosexuality, finances, pensions for ministry, quadrennial emphasis and special programs, agency accountability, the church's stance on social issues and communications.

Among new programs being proposed which carry sizable funding tags are a special program on Africa with a $7 million fund for African church growth and development; a television and ministry program which include a three-year campaign to raise $25 million to purchase a television station and produce programs for prime-time TV; a single mission priority on the ethnic minority local church with an apportioned fund of $5 million for each year of the quadrennium, and a new pension plan designed to create no new unfunded liability and eventually eliminate the current $542 million worth of unfunded liability.

Women priests not welcome

NEW YORK — One of the first women ordained a priest in the Episcopal Church linked her Church's attitude toward women to belief in witchcraft.

The Rev. Suzanne Hiatt, one of 11 women who forced the Episcopal Church to accept women as priests, explained that women priests are still not welcome in many dioceses.

"The real resistance we find out there is not having women preach as deacons but in having them celebrate the Sacrament," Hiatt said. "That goes back, I think, to some very primitive feelings about women and magic. For women to be involved in the mysteries of the Sacrament conjures up ideas about witchcraft in the minds of some people."

Hiatt was one of "The Philadelphia Eleven," who entered the priesthood without the church's blessing and eventually won enough support that the church voted to accept women as priests. She now teaches pastoral theology to other candidates for the priesthood, both women and men, at the Episcopal Divinity School in Cambridge, Mass.

'Family' film series scheduled

The public is invited to see "Focus on the Family," a new film series by Dr. James C. Dobson, starting Sunday and running for the next seven Sunday evenings (April 13-May 25) from 6 to 7:40 p.m. at the Fellowship Hall of the First United Methodist Church, Main Street at Illinois Avenue.

Dobson is associate clinical professor of pediatrics at the USC School of Medicine and the author of "Dare to Discipline," "The Strong Willed Child," "What Wives Wished Their Husbands Knew About Women," "Hide or Seek" and "Preparing for Adolescence."

Church marks 80th anniversary

MONAHANS — The First Baptist Church of Monahans will celebrate their 80th anniversary Sunday and all former members are invited to attend.

A covered dish luncheon is planned in the fellowship hall for all those attending. There will be pictorial exhibits of historical events and an open house for the new building.

One of the former pastors, the Rev. Cecil Pearson, will preach for both morning and evening services.

Midlanders attend session

Midlanders Robbie Canton and Pearl Perryman will be among the 1,800 delegates and 20,000 observers attending the 53rd World Session of the Seventh-day Adventist Church in Dallas April 17-26. The convention will include representatives from 190 countries.

Adventists meet every five years to elect some 300 church leaders worldwide. Their last session was held in Vienna, Austria, in 1975. All words from the podium will be simultaneously translated into six languages via portable radio receivers.

On hand recently for the special film donation by the Mormon church to the Midland County Library were, from left, John Deats, library director; Anne Trout, audio-visual librarian; Blaine Bushman, church bishop; John Mullen, ward mission leader; and Dennis Palmer, church bishop. The two films, produced by Brigham Young University, are "The Gift" and the award winning film, "John Baker's Last Race." Both may be borrowed. (Staff Photo)

Mormons give two films to library

Two films — "The Gift" and "John Baker's Last Race" — were recently presented to the audio visual department of the Midland County Library by members of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. "John Baker's Last Race" is the true story of a champion athlete with terminal cancer who was given only six months to live. His last race, the race for life, became his greatest. This film is recommended for teachers and students of all ages.

"The Gift" is said to be a Christmas story, but can appropriately be shown during any season because of its universal application and timeless message. Caught in the depression of the mid-1930s, a 12-year-old boy has only 39 cents to buy a Christmas present for his dad. This film is recommended for groups of all ages.

Both films, produced by Brigham Young University, may be borrowed.

Harris named interim pastor

The Rev. Lindell O. Harris, chairman of the Division of Religion at Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene, has been called as interim pastor of Crestview Baptist Church, Midkiff Road and Thomas Drive.

Harris has been with Hardin-Simmons Division of Religion for 28 years and is widely used in interim pastor work across this area of Texas. In fact, he served in this position with Crestview Baptist just over seven years ago.

Rev. Lindell O. Harris

The Rev. Cleo C. Gillespie, pastor of South Oak Cliff Baptist Church in Dallas, will be conducting a revival starting Monday and concluding Friday at 7:30 each night at Macedonia Baptist Church, 201 S. Carver St. The public is invited to attend.

Court OK's property suit

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A federal appellate court has ruled that Americans United for Separation of Church and State Inc. can sue the federal government in a case involving the transfer of government property to a Bible college.

The non-profit, tax-exempt organization is challenging the conveyance of 77 acres of land near Phoenixville to the Valley Forge Christian College. The school is a sectarian institution operated under the supervision of the Assemblies of God with a curriculum devoted to Bible study.

Americans United for Separation of Church and State claims the property transfer violated the First Amendment rights of its some 90,000 members, and thus sought injunctive relief in U.S. District Court here to void the transfer.

The district court dismissed the suit on grounds the plaintiffs lacked standing as taxpayers to challenge the action. An appeal was then filed.

In its decision Tuesday, the 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals said it accepted the lower court's conclusion that the plaintiffs lack taxpayer standing to contest the transfer.

Novelist prefers to write in area of science fiction

By PHIL THOMAS

NEW YORK (AP) — How did the princess feel when she kissed the frog?

"It may sound curious," says novelist Walter Tevis, "but I'd really like to know. Feelings interest me."

This interest, the 52-year-old Tevis says, may be seen in his new novel, "Mockingbird."

Although the book is a science-fiction tale on the surface, Tevis says he deliberately chose that literary form in order "to deal with spiritual growth. Much science fiction writing doesn't have any great interest in human beings, preferring ideas instead. But I try to deal with the emotional life, with the feelings of my characters and not have the ideas run away with the book."

"Mockingbird" is set in the 25th century, but Tevis is quick to point out that "I'm not all that interested in the future. What I tried to do is write in a fairy tale kind of way about the present."

The book deals with a society run by robots in which humans have nothing to do but enjoy themselves — primarily by sedating themselves heavily with drugs. Paul Bentley, the protagonist, however, rebels against this way of life and, says Tevis, "what I'm trying to do is show the hero waking up out of his stupor and realizing his own feelings, of becoming aware that there is a world out there."

"When I first started Paul's story I thought about doing a novel about an alcoholic. That didn't work, so I thought about using the science-fiction form as my vehicle, and, as it turned out, that worked."

"Mockingbird" is Tevis' third novel. The first two — both made into movies — were "The Hustler" and "The Man Who Fell To Earth."

"The Hustler," says Tevis, was "straightforward, and I can still write that way, but I don't want to. I want to make up the world I write about."

"That's why I use science fiction. I have a reformer's zeal toward science fiction. I feel it is a great potential medium that has never realized itself. When I read contemporary science fiction I so often find myself in the midst of sophomore writing. I find good ideas that tend to turn comic-book. I find characters who are stick figures. They have no feelings. I try to make my characters real. I'd like to see science fiction become a serious art form."

Tevis currently lives in New York City and writes full time. But for many years he taught and wrote in his spare time.

"I started teaching high school English in rural Kentucky when I was 21," he says, "and then I was a professor of English at Ohio University at Athens. I'm now on leave of absence. I had a full career as a teacher for some 30 years."

"I like teaching and I miss it. I have verbal energy and I use it when I'm teaching. I love to talk and spin ideas with students. I suppose I spent a lot of my imagination in teaching, and I used it up that way instead of in writing."

"But now I feel that it is more important for me to write. I feel very guilty when I'm not writing. Unfortunately, I have difficulty doing so. I do work at high speed when I'm at the typewriter. I really turn it out when I'm hot, but I only get hot about every 20 days or so, and I hate to force it. I could write junk but I don't want to."

"Like a lot of novelists, I'm a failed poet so it's painful to squeeze the emotions every day. Unfortunately, it's also painful not to write."

Tevis, who says a book of his short stories, "Far From Home," will be published soon, currently is working on a new novel.

"It's science fiction. It deals with a middle-aged tycoon whose life is so messed up that he buys a spaceship and goes off into space looking for uranium. I'm about halfway through, and I like it a lot. It's a more grown-up piece of work than "Mockingbird."

("Mockingbird" is published by Doubleday.)

Extensive use of glass in building expected to make it energy-efficient

CHICAGO (AP) — Maximum use of glass is expected to make the new $115 million state office building in Chicago one of the nation's most energy-efficient buildings, says an industry publication.

The 17-story structure, scheduled to be occupied in 1983, will have walls made of a mixture of reflective and clear glass designed to make the best use of the sun's rays, according to Energy User News.

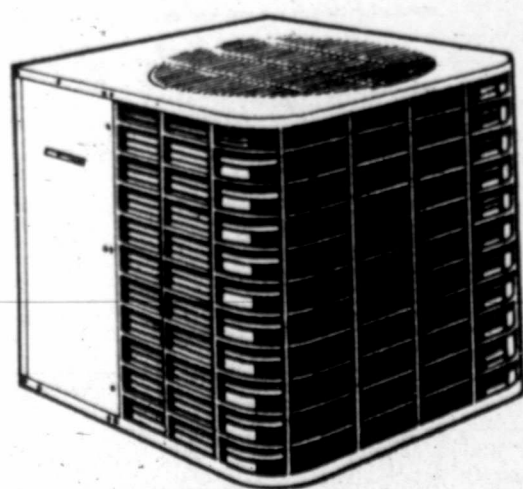

The building will also have a heat-pump system for heating and cooling, plus a 250-foot-high atrium and ancillary atriums located along a curved wall to bring light into the inside of the building.

Officials estimate it will cost about $666,000 a year for energy to operate the building, while a conventional structure of similar size and function would cost some $1.26 million.

Ballesteros captures lead by four strokes

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer
AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Severiano Ballesteros, the Spanish conquistador of European golf, turned potential disaster into a barrage of birdies that produced a 69 and a stranglehold of a 4-stroke lead Friday in the 44th Masters.

Playing with the flair and flourish, the drive and drama of a young Arnold Palmer, the dynamic Ballesteros compiled a 36-hole total of 135, 9 shots under par at the halfway point of golf's annual spring classic.

HE WAS simply spectacular. He put himself in a position where the Masters is to win or lose. "He's going to be very hard to catch," observed Tom Watson, the outstanding player in golf for the past three years, from a position seven strokes back.

The eventual outcome of the tournament, "all depends on what Ballesteros does," said Jack Nicklaus, now 10 behind and all but deprived of a chance to cap his hopeful, but unsuccessful, comeback in the event he has won five times.

BALLESTEROS, the current

British Open champion who celebrated his 23rd birthday last Wednesday, was a little more cautious.

"If I continue to putt the way I've been putting, I will be very close, I think," he said.

He was cautious only in his comments, however. His play was the bold, daring, gambling style Palmer used to popularize the game a generation ago. And, like Palmer of those glory days, his gambles paid off.

He played extremely well in Thursday's first round. He cut back on the power of his drives and kept them in play.

This time he reverted to a more familiar form. The drives went booming from the tees. And they often went clattering and clacking among the pines.

He converted three hits, screaming hooks into birdies.

IT WAS unorthodox. But it was spectacular.

And it worked. "Good drives," Ballesteros said, straight-faced as could be, of the errant shots that — somehow — he turned into birdies.

When Nicklaus was told how Seve played the 17th hole — making birdie after driving on to the seventh green — Jack simply cradled his head in his hands.

WITH 36 holes to play on the 7,040 yards of flowered, rolling hills that compose the Augusta National Golf Club course, Australian David Graham, the current PGA champion, and Rex Caldwell, a non-winning journeyman on the American tour, shared second at 139.

Caldwell, described by defending champion Fuzzy Zoeller as "an easy-go-lucky type like me," moved up with a no-bogey, 6-under-par 66 that was the best round of the day.

"Just rockin' and rollin' with the putter," Caldwell said.

Graham, who had shared the first-round lead with Ballesteros, had to overcome a double bogey for his 73.

"I was trying a little too hard," he said.

Ed Sneed, the man who had the 43rd Masters in his grasp until he bogeyed the last three holes, headed a group at 140 that included Tom Kite, Jerry Pate, Jim Simons and Doug Tewell.

Sneed shot a 70. Pate had a 68, Simons 72, Kite 71 and Tewell 69.

TIED AT 141 were Jeff Mitchell, Ed Flori and Larry Nelson. Nelson matched par-72 and Flori had a 70. Mitchell, the young Texan whose opening 66 had given him a place in a three-way tie for the top, slipped to 75.

"I was a little bit nervous. I was a little bit afraid. I was a little bit tentative. I lost a little of the edge because of the nerves," he said.

The big group at 142 included Zoeller, Watson, Hubert Green and Gary Player, who is seeking a fourth Masters crown.

Green shot a 74. Player had a second 71. Zoeller birdied three holes in a row on the back nine on the way to 70. Watson improved to 69 but wasn't impressed with his chances of overtaking Ballesteros.

"I'll have to shoot a couple of 67s, at least, to have any chance at all," he said.

NICKLAUS, holder of the greatest record of all time and trying a comeback at age 40, saw all his preparations go for naught.

Cubs lose, 9-6

Violent winds hit Cubs Stadium

BY TED BATTLES
R-T Sports Editor

It wasn't so much that either side won or lost, but that they even played the game.

For the records, San Antonio's Dodgers won 9-6 to take a 2-0 lead over the Midland Cubs in the six game Texas League series which continues at 7:30 p.m. tonight, but more importantly, no one was seriously hurt, although there was one frightening close call.

SOME 1,387 FANS were on hand for the start and less than 10 blanket-huddling fans were around at the end as the game deteriorated into a man-against-the-elements battle for survival.

The reason was a violent wind that struck in the fifth, emptying the stands, and bringing an icy chill from out of the north along with the sand that caused frequent delays as players and umpires at home plate turned their backs and waited for the wind to subside.

It took on the aspect of a game of Russian Roulette in the eighth when one batter stepped out of the box twice as lefthander Bill Earley came through with his delivery, wisely holding the ball at the last minute. A wind gust simply blinded the hitter. Then tragedy was averted when San Antonio DH John Shoemaker dropped into the dirt to avoid a chin high Earley pitch. If the wind had kicked up the infield dust with the delivery, the consequences could have been tragic.

Tuesday—San Antonio, 6:30 p.m.

LEFTHANDER RICKY Wright, signed off the University of Texas campus last June, pitched six innings of three-hit ball for the win with Steve Shirley, another southpaw, finishing up for the save, despite a three-run double by Javier Pardo.

Herman Segelke worked four innings in taking the loss, but seven Midland errors, assisted no little by the abominable weather conditions, made eight of the nine runs off Segelke and successor Earley unearned.

The Dodgers nicked Segelke for a run in the first when Mark Bradley singled, stole second and raced home when Alex Travers lined an infield hit off Herman's leg. San Antonio added two more in the third, this time a one-out walk to Bradley starting things. Travers beat out an infield hit as Bradley, after stealing second, moved to third. Bradley scored on a wild pitch and with two out, an error and Bill Swope's infield hit scored Travers.

MIDLAND MADE it 3-2 in the fourth on Todd Winterfeldt's two-out triple behind a walk to Scott Fletcher and Randy LaVigne's single to right.

Three errors, two walks and hits by Hernandez and Mike Marshall highlighted San Antonio's three runs off Earley in the sixth and the Dodgers wrapped it up with three more in the seventh as the weather conditions made surviving more imperative than victory.

Bradley singled in one run and Hernandez another as Midland committed two more errors.

The Cubs rallied in the home seventh as Joe Hicks, Winterfeldt and Mel Hall singled and Fierro cleared the bases with a line drive to left that went over the head of Dale Holman as outfielders on both sides cheated toward the infield.

In tonight's game, lefthander Fernando Valenzuela will pitch for San Antonio while fastballer Henry Mack, 10-4 for the Cubs last year, will be Manager Randy Hundley's choice.

Odessa Permian wins 5-4A track crown

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Sports Writer

ABILENE — A bitter wind, a major controversy in the 100-meter dash, and a tainted but shocking team championship by Odessa Permian dampened a few spirits in the annual zany District 5-4A track meet at Abilene Christian University Friday night, but there were some efforts by local athletes that had some eyes popping.

Permian, with the aid of a disqualification by Abilene High in the 1,600-meter relay, posted 81 points to pull off a surprising 5-4A championship. Permian finished sixth in that race but moved up to fifth by virtue of a disqualification by AHS when the Eagles threw the baton at the end of the race. The disqualification broke a 79-79 deadlock by Cooper and Permian and the Panthers came out a victor. Midland Lee, by virtue of five victories, finished third with 78 points and almost pulled out their second straight championship with a 30-yard victory in the 1,600 relay.

SAN ANGELO, the meet favorite, finished in a lowly fourth-place tie with AHS, both with 62 points. Midland High, feeling roused from a decision in the 100 meters, followed with 61 points while Big Spring had 44 and Odessa High had 29.

San Angelo was an easy victor in the girls' division with points. Midland Lee scored a surprising 32 points but didn't challenge for the team title. Midland High had 29 and was paced by Donna Repman, a winner in both the 800 and 1,600-meters.

MIDLAND HIGH came out like stormtroopers in the field events, as expected, when David Simmons shook-off a 5-4A nightmare from a year ago by winning both the shot put and discus and a 59-6 1/2 in the shot put to win easy victories. He was a favorite to go to regional last year but finished third in both events. He had the last laugh Friday.

And Midland High's James Lary shocked the 5-4A discus throwers with a 164-11, getting another lefthander's wind that propelled him to a surprise region berth a year ago. So Lary has been a shocker for two years in a row.

And if it's shockers you wanted, the Midland Lee Rebels dealt them out in bushels. They won easy victories in both the sprint relay (42.70) and the mammoth victory in the 1,600 relay with a wind-slowed 3:24.67. In addition to that, Keevin Harper pulled off one of the meet's big surprises with a shocking 1:57.10 win in the 800 meters, beating the likes of San Angelo's Frank Rodriguez and Odessa High's Johnny Herrera.

FOLLOWING HARPER'S victory, Lee's David Piccolo stunned the 300-meter hurdles field with a 39.84, the first time in Piccolo's career that he'd broke the 40-second barrier and he still had to win it over Robert Jones of Big Spring by lunging at the tape.

But that wasn't the end of the bushel baskets of surprises for the Rebels. Robert Schooler must have known it was going to be a good day Friday morning when he won an HBO t-shirt from a local radio station, but he saved the best for last as he posted a 4:38.35 victory in the 1,600-meter run in unbelievably easy time.

ALL OF THOSE will have region berths in two weeks in the region meet in Lubbock.

Midland High earned two other region spots when Jerry Zachery posted a 14.28, a career best, in the high hurdles, losing to San Angelo's Dennis Nolder, who posted a lightning fast 13.8.

Jeff Robnett, coming off a major foot injury that had him sidelined for more than five weeks, posted a 10.80 for what officials called a second place in the 100-meters. That mark will stand for a region berth, but that race was marked by a controversy that had Midland High coach Johnny Williams and sprinter Billy Taylor in near tears. Judges picked Abilene High's Mark Smith as the winner with a 10.76 and Taylor third with a 10.84, but those at the finish line had so many different stories of the finish that it was hard to tell what really happened. Some had Taylor winning it with Robnett third and everything

Chisox topple Orioles by 8-4

CHICAGO (AP) — Lamar Johnson's three-run homer and a two-run blast by Wayne Nordhagen, both off Cy Young award winner Mike Flanagan, powered the Chicago White Sox to an 8-4 victory over the Baltimore Orioles Thursday.

Flanagan, a 23-game winner last season, issued two walks in the first inning before Johnson hit an upper deck homer to wipe out a 2-0 Baltimore lead produced by Ken Singleton's first-inning homer.

Then, after Rick Dempsey restored Baltimore's lead with a two-run homer in the second, Nordhagen's shot, following a walk to Johnson, put the White Sox in front to stay.

Nordhagen also had a wasted triple in the first inning and he singled leading off the sixth to ignite a clinching two-run rally.

Sox starter Ken Kravec was the winner but needed help from Mike Proly and Ed Farmer in the sixth and seventh innings. Farmer earned the save.

The game was played in 36-degree weather with a steady drizzle through the first six innings.

Midland High netters gain today's semifinals in District 5-4A play

ABILENE — The Midland High tennis team will be well represented in today's closing action of the District 5-4A championships.

Coach Pete Barizon has two players in the boys' singles semifinals and two teams in the girls' doubles semifinals after Friday's action.

In boys' singles first round, top-seeded Lance Armstrong trimmed Kevin Angelo's Steve Enriguez, 6-0, 6-0, while Richy Houdek, Armstrong and Andrews of Odessa Permian, 7-5, 6-3. In the quarterfinals, Armstrong defeated Kip McLaughlin of Big Spring, 6-3, 4-6, 6-1, while Houdek stopped Midland Lee's Peter Brewer, 6-7, 6-0, 6-0. In today's semis, Armstrong meets Abilene High's Alan Smith while second-seeded Houdek tangles with Mitch Nichols of San Angelo.

THE SECOND-SEEDED duo of Karin Farquhar and Caroline Kirwan blanked Abilene High's Brenda Gonzales and Lisa Miller, 6-0, 6-0, in the first round of doubles. Meanwhile, teammates Renata Hasek and Monica Blair were disposing of Odessa High's Michelle Hinesy and Melinda Woods, 6-1, 6-1. In the quarters, Hasek-Blair defeated Laurie Runyan and Cindy Engleman of Midland Lee, 3-6, 6-1, 7-5, while Farquhar-Kirwan defeated San Angelo's Mary Stell and Lisa Huling, 6-0, 2-6, 6-1.

In girls' singles, young Vee Ann Attipp took a first round victory before falling in the quarters. Attipp whipped Karen Hollowell of Abilene High, 7-5, 6-0, then lost to Cooper's Leanne Hill, 6-0, 6-2. In other first round action, Charlene Bynum lost to San Angelo's Jill Lawrie, 6-2, 6-1.

MIDLAND HIGH'S John Martin and Brent Burchard defeated San Angelo's Darrell Eeden and Steven Deats, 6-1, 6-1, in the first round of doubles, but then lost to Permian's Kelly Porter and Kasey Porter, 2-6, 6-3, 6-0, in the quarters.

Also, David Burtus and Runcan Fraser lost to Cooper's Lance Proctor and Scott Orren, 6-2, 6-2, in the first round.

The top two finishers in each event advance to the regional tournament.

Slaughter paces Cougars to crown during 5-4A golf

Abilene Cooper's John Slaughter retained his District 5-4A medalist title and in the process led the Cougars to the district championship Friday afternoon at Hogan Park Golf Course.

Slaughter, whose booming tee shots drew oohs and aahs from the gallery, crewd a sparkling 70 Friday, giving him a 294 four-round total. Odessa High's Curtis Merrill, one of the big reasons behind the Bronchos' remarkable third-place finish, was closest to Slaughter with 308.

THE COUGARS took the team crown nearly as easily, outdistancing runner-up San Angelo, 1,575-1,610, in the five-round event. Cooper and San Angelo advance to the regional tournament later this month in Lubbock. The trip will be a repeat for the Bobcats, who were second in district last year.

MIDLAND HIGH, the defending district kingpin, finished seventh. Midland Lee, which made progress throughout the season, was tenth. The Lee junior varsity finished fourteenth and the Midland High junior varsity was seventeenth.

Mark Leonard, the only senior on Tim Peden's Lee squad, closed his prep career in fine fashion with a 78. That sparked the Rebels to a 318, their best district effort of the campaign. Mike Smith added a 78. Leo Gallegos (1), Nicky Hernandez and Emil Hale 85.

Britt Gardner put together an 82 to lead the Rebel junior varsity. Kelly Cook wasn't far back at 83 while Kevin Lundy had 86, Rob Marburger 87 and Greg Kemp 97.

STACY RANEY fired a nifty 76, but his Midland High cohorts couldn't match that output, finishing with 320. Joe Sloan and Jeff Howes had identical 80s while Randy Minnix had 84 and Eric Fry 85.

Brad Hughes garnered an 83 to pace the Midland High junior varsity and was followed by Ross Bassinger (88), Phillip York (89), Roger Taylor (91) and John Heard (93).

Kingman paces win

NEW YORK (AP) — Dave Kingman drove in four runs with a pair of home runs and Jerry Martin hit two solo homers as the Chicago Cubs defeated the New York Mets 7-5 Friday.

Kingman, who led the major leagues with 45 homers last season, opened the second inning with his first homer off New York starter and loser Ray Burris, 0-1. One out later, Martin hit the first of his two.

Chicago took a 5-1 lead in the third when Kingman hit a three-run homer off Burris, who was lifted when Ken Henderson followed with a double.

Phillies take 6-3 victory

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Greg Luzinski's three-run homer in the ninth account backed the eight-hit pitching of Steve Carlton and helped the Philadelphia Phillies to a 6-3 victory over the Montreal Expos Friday night in the Philis' season opener before a crowd of 48,460.

Montreal starter Steve Rogers retired the first two Phillies, then walked Garry Maddox and Mike Schmidt. Luzinski, trying to come back from his worst major league season when he managed just 18 home runs, crashed a 2-2 pitch over the left field fence for a 3-0 lead.

The Phillies made it 4-0 in the fourth when they took advantage of a mental lapse on a Montreal run-down play. Bob Boone drilled a one-out single and was forced on a fielder's choice by Larry Mota. Rangers blister Yankees by 11-7

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Pinch-hitter Rusty Staub lashed a two-run homer to cap a six-run outburst in the fifth inning and doubled to start a four-run rally in the seventh Friday night, carrying the Texas Rangers to an 11-7 victory over the New York Yankees.

Texas chased Yankee starter Tommy John with four doubles before Staub bombed reliever Ron Davis for his first home run as a Texas Ranger.

Ranger starter Ferguson Jenkins, who yielded six runs in five innings, was the winner with relief help from Dave Raj-slich.

Bob Watson blasted a two-run homer off Jenkins in the fourth inning and Oscar Gamble hit a three-run homer in the fifth as the Yankees built a 6-1 lead.

Pepe Frias doubled to lead off the Yankee fifth. Mickey Rivers beat out an infield single and Frias scored on a wild throw by catcher Rick Cerone. Bump Willis doubled home Frias and Al Oliver doubled across Willis. Richie Zisk then doubled to score Oliver and Staub hit his two-run homer.

Texas touched loser Davis for four runs in the seventh inning.

LaCock paces Royals

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Pete LaCock singled and doubled to drive in three runs in support of Larry Gura's six-hit pitching as the Kansas City Royals beat the Detroit Tigers 4-0 Friday night.

LaCock is a former Midland Cub player.

By the game's end, the temperature had fallen into the middle 30s while a 20-mile-an-hour wind howled out of the north.

LaCock, who was moved to left field this season after platooning with John Wathan at first base the past two years, singled off loser Dan Schatzeder to score Hal McRae with the first run in the fifth.

In the seventh, McRae doubled with one out and LaCock doubled into right field after Wathan was given an intentional walk.

Pat Underwood relieved Schatzeder after LaCock's double and gave up an RBI single to Bobby Detherage, who was making his first big league start.

Gura struck out five and walked three.

Canadiens win, 4-3

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Yvon Lambert scored his second goal of the game with 29 seconds gone in overtime to give the Montreal Canadiens a 4-3 sudden-death victory over the Hartford Whalers in National Hockey League Stanley Cup play Friday night.

The victory gave Montreal a 3-0 sweep of the Whalers in the preliminary round.

Lambert scored his winning goal when he stationed himself at the right edge of the crease, took a pass from Rejean Houle and slipped the puck by Hartford goaltender Al Smith.

The teams swapped a goal apiece throughout each of the regulation periods.

Pat Boutette scored a shorthanded goal to give the Whalers a 1-0 lead. Boutette went around Montreal defenseman Gaston Gingras and lifted the puck into the upper left corner of the net. Guy Lafleur tied the game for the Canadiens on a low slapshot from the blue line.

OTHER POINTS for Lee came from a fifth in the shot put by Keith Brown, a sixth in the discus by Blaine Huddleston, a fifth by Piccolo in the high hurdles; a fifth by Arthur Williams in the 100 and a sixth by Williams in the 200. Midland High got other points on a sixth by Zachery in the long jump, a fifth in the sprint relay and a sixth in the 1,600 relay. Midland High seemed to lose heart after the 100 controversy and didn't score in the 200.

For the Lee girls, only Lori Breeding won a region berth with a second place (15.39) in the 100 hurdles. Reppan, of course, is the only MHS representative headed for region as she posted a 2:29.16 in the 800 for a hard-fought victory and a wind-blown 6:04.14 in the 1,600 for her two victories.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Bucks, with 24 points by Bob Lanier leading balanced scoring and with Quinn Buckner and Harvey Catchings anchoring a tenacious switching defense, beat the Seattle Supersonics 95-91 Friday night for a 2-1 lead in their National Basketball Association Western Conference semifinal playoff series.

Austin wins; Evonne upset at Sea Pines

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Tracy Austin had an easy time advancing to the semifinal round of a $150,000 women's tennis tournament at Sea Pines Racquet Club Friday, but No. 2 seed Evonne Goolagong didn't have it so good.

Goolagong, who had problems with her serve and concentration, lost to Czechoslovakian Regina Marsikova 7-5, 6-7, 4-6. Austin, the No. 1 seed, dropped Yvonne Vermaak of South Africa 6-1, 6-1.

Marsikova was down five games in the second set and appeared on the verge of bowing out of the tournament when she rallied to win five straight games from Goolagong and capture the match.

"When I was down, I knew I had to be aggressive," Marsikova said. "I'm very happy right now, and this win gives me confidence for my other matches."

Marsikova will face countrywoman Hana Mandlikova in the semifinals today. Mandlikova advanced with a 3-6, 6-3, 6-1 win over Kathy Jordan of Pennsylvania.

The fourth semifinal slot was nabbed by Iwanna Madruga of Argentina, who defeated Virginia Ruzici of Romania 6-4, 1-6, 7-5 in a match that lasted over 2½ hours.

"My confidence is very high now," Madruga said. "I've beaten two very good players in this tournament already," she said, referring to her victories over Ruzici and third-seeded Virginia Wade.

But Madruga will have serious troubles with Austin, recently ranked No. 1 in the world by the Women's Tennis Association computer.

"I feel like I'm getting stronger," Austin said. "My serve is better and I'm more confident."

Sunday's winner of the tournament, sponsored by Family Circle magazine, will receive $35,000.

Lendl upsets top-seeded player again

HOUSTON (AP) — Sixth-seeded Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia continued his recent mastery over top-seeded Jose Higueras of Spain Friday with a 6-3, 6-3 victory in the quarterfinals of the $174,000 World Championship Tennis Tournament at River Oaks Country Club.

Lendl, who defeated Higueras the last time the pair met in a tournament at Buenos Aires, will meet Brian Gottfried in one of today's semifinals.

Gottfried, who still has a chance to make the WCT Championship finals in Dallas, had little trouble eliminating Marty Riessen 6-1, 6-2 in Friday's other quarterfinal match.

Higueras, rated one of the top clay court players in the world, was no match for Lendl's hard-hitting baseline game. Lendl, meanwhile, was erratic throughout the match.

Lendl, the 20th-ranked player in the world, hit 12 clean winners in the first set and broke Higueras in the fifth and ninth games.

Higueras, ranked number seven in the world, hit three straight errors to lose his serve in the fifth game and Lendl hit two backhand winners to break again in the ninth game.

Gottfried outclassed Riessen in a dull second match, dominating the American by losing only five points in eight service games.

Third-seeded Eddie Dibbs will meet fellow American Bill Scanlon in today's other semifinal match.

Keady joining Purdue

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Gene Keady, a coach who has proven himself as a successful recruiter, said Friday he's ready for his biggest challenge, competing for the top high school stars as Purdue University's basketball coach.

Keady, 43, succeeds Lee Rose, who resigned last week to accept the coaching position at the University of South Florida after leading the Boilermakers to third place in this year's NCAA tournament.

"This is the best recruiting area in the nation," Keady said of the four-state area of Indiana, Illinois, Ohio and Kentucky. "There are some great programs operating here, at Indiana, Notre Dame Kentucky, Louisville, Ohio State and DePaul, but I'm anxious for the challenge of getting players from the area interested in Purdue."

Keady comes here after two years as head coach at Western Kentucky, where he compiled a 39-19 mark. His Hilltoppers shared this year's Ohio Valley Conference championship and were a first-round loser in the NCAA tournament. Previously, he was an assistant coach at the University of Arkansas.

Keady's wife, Arnette, 39, will be his assistant coach at the University of Arkansas.

Alcott, Adams share LPGA lead

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Defending champion Amy Alcott sank a 25-foot birdie putt on the final hole Friday and shot a 4-under-par 68 to tie Lynn Adams for the opening-round lead in the $100,000 LPGA tournament event at the North Ridge Country Club.

Adams, a native of Kingsville, Texas, had taken the lead with a birdie at the par-5 17th hole. It was her fifth of the day against a single bogey as she carved out a 34-34-68 over the 6,142-yard, par-72 layout.

Alcott, fourth on the money-winning list, birdied the 12th, 13th, and 18th holes to turn in a 3-under-par 33 on the back nine. She also sank three birdies to offset a pair of bogeys on the front side to go out in 35.

Tour rookie Holly Hartley was alone in third place after shooting a 3-under-par 69. She got there by firing successive birdies on the final two holes.

Donna Caponi Young, the leading money winner on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour, was another shot back at 70 after the first day of the 54-hole event. Joining Young, who has won the last two events, were Debbie Austin and Cathy Young.

Grouped at 71 were Hall of Famer Kathy Whitworth, Vicki Tabor, Catherine Duggan, Sandra Post, Sylvia Bertolacini, Kathy Martin and Marlene Floyd.

Matching par at 72 were Dianne Dalley, Patty Hayes, Barbara Moyness, Julie Stanger, Betsy King and Mary Dwyer.

Adams was consistent throughout the day. She bogeyed only the 11th hole and hit 17 greens en route to recording the best round of her three-year career.

She had birdies at the fourth and eighth holes on the front side and at the 13th, 15th and 17th holes on the back nine.

Alcott, who owns nine LPGA victories, won the event when it was last played in 1978. The Santa Monica, Calif., resident defeated Hollis Stacey, who did not enter the tournament this year, in a sudden-death playoff.

Also among the missing in the chase for the $15,000 first prize are Nancy Lopez-Melton and JoAnne Carner, who already has won four LPGA events this season.

The event is cosponsored by the American Defender Life Insurance Co. and the Capital Broadcasting Co.

Sampson won't turn professional

CHARLOTTEVILLE, Va. (AP) — Ralph Sampson, the University of Virginia's 7-foot-4 freshman basketball star, will not turn professional but will play for the Cavaliers one more year, the Virginia News Network reported Friday.

The network, based at WINA Radio here, quoted an unidentified source as saying Sampson felt honored by an offer to sign with the Boston Celtics of the National Basketball Association, but would stay at Virginia another year to "attain professional status."

Neither Sampson nor officials of the University of Virginia athletics department could be reached immediately for comment on the Virginia News Network report.

Sampson himself was in Harrisonburg, Va., being honored by his hometown at "Ralph Sampson Day" ceremonies.

Griffey inks pact with Reds

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds announced today they had signed outfielder Ken Griffey for the 1980 and 1981 baseball seasons.

The announcement ended weeks of speculation that Griffey would sign with the National League team after negotiations had stalled during spring training.

Griffey holds a .310 lifetime average over 800 games in parts of seven National League seasons.

"It was the desire of all of us to see Kenny remain with the club," Griffey said.

Alcott, Adams share LPGA lead

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Defending champion Amy Alcott sank a 25-foot birdie putt on the final hole Friday and shot a 4-under-par 68 to tie Lynn Adams for the opening-round lead in the $100,000 LPGA tournament event at the North Ridge Country Club.

Adams, a native of Kingsville, Texas, had taken the lead with a birdie at the par-5 17th hole. It was her fifth of the day against a single bogey as she carved out a 34-34-68 over the 6,142-yard, par-72 layout.

Alcott, fourth on the money-winning list, birdied the 12th, 13th, and 18th holes to turn in a 3-under-par 33 on the back nine. She also sank three birdies to offset a pair of bogeys on the front side to go out in 35.

Tour rookie Holly Hartley was alone in third place after shooting a 3-under-par 69. She got there by firing successive birdies on the final two holes.

Donna Caponi Young, the leading money winner on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour, was another shot back at 70 after the first day of the 54-hole event. Joining Young, who has won the last two events, were Debbie Austin and Cathy Young.

Grouped at 71 were Hall of Famer Kathy Whitworth, Vicki Tabor, Catherine Duggan, Sandra Post, Sylvia Bertolacini, Kathy Martin and Marlene Floyd.

Matching par at 72 were Dianne Dalley, Patty Hayes, Barbara Moyness, Julie Stanger, Betsy King and Mary Dwyer.

Adams was consistent throughout the day. She bogeyed only the 11th hole and hit 17 greens en route to recording the best round of her three-year career.

She had birdies at the fourth and eighth holes on the front side and at the 13th, 15th and 17th holes on the back nine.

Alcott, who owns nine LPGA victories, won the event when it was last played in 1978. The Santa Monica, Calif., resident defeated Hollis Stacey, who did not enter the tournament this year, in a sudden-death playoff.

Also among the missing in the chase for the $15,000 first prize are Nancy Lopez-Melton and JoAnne Carner, who already has won four LPGA events this season.

The event is cosponsored by the American Defender Life Insurance Co. and the Capital Broadcasting Co.

Sampson won't turn professional

CHARLOTTEVILLE, Va. (AP) — Ralph Sampson, the University of Virginia's 7-foot-4 freshman basketball star, will not turn professional but will play for the Cavaliers one more year, the Virginia News Network reported Friday.

The network, based at WINA Radio here, quoted an unidentified source as saying Sampson felt honored by an offer to sign with the Boston Celtics of the National Basketball Association, but would stay at Virginia another year to "attain professional status."

Neither Sampson nor officials of the University of Virginia athletics department could be reached immediately for comment on the Virginia News Network report.

Sampson himself was in Harrisonburg, Va., being honored by his hometown at "Ralph Sampson Day" ceremonies.

Newly arrived refugees describe Cubans as hungry, desperate folk

By DAN SEWELL

MIAMI (AP) — While their relatives chomp on quarter-pounders in Miami hamburger joints, families in Cuba carefully ration the quarter-pound of meat that must last them 10 days.

While their relatives run thriving shops and restaurants or climb the ladders of American business, workers in Cuba find their jobs dull and frustrating, with little prospect for bettering themselves.

While Miami Cubans wear expensive designer jeans and gaudy jewelry, the people in Cuba wear plain-colored, poorly made clothes.

A gloomy portrait of life in Cuba emerges from conversations with the newest refugees to arrive here, and even recent Cuban government statements admit the island nation is staggering in its 21st year under President Fidel Castro.

There have been reports from Cuba of increased street crime, worker absenteeism and black market activities.

Some 10,000 Cubans — made desperate by a worsening economy and freshly aware of a better life available elsewhere — have been jammed into the compound of the Peruvian embassy in Havana since last weekend. The human flood began when six Cubans crashed a bus through the embassy gates seeking asylum, and Castro removed guards from the embassy area.

The Cuban government calls the people at the embassy "vagrants and bums" and says they may leave. Some Cuba-watchers say they believe Castro is hoping to end his nation's malaise by allowing such "anti-social" refugees to emigrate.

"I think that the events (at the Peruvian embassy) are playing more or less as Castro wanted them to play," said Harvard University professor Jorge Dominguez, author of several books on Cuba.

"The people there are so desperate to leave, they will do anything. This is the opportunity they have been waiting for," said Benjamin Valdes Perez, a former political prisoner.

"Some people from my hometown of Artemisa ran all the way to Havana when they heard the news," Perez said. Artemisa is about 30 miles southwest of Havana.

"Thousands of young people are trying to leave. There is nothing for them there," said Jose Mario Campos, 28. He said Cuban youths don't have the sentimental attachment to the island of their parents.

Campos, who arrived here last week with four other refugees after a daring escape aboard an inner-tube raft, is one of a growing number of Cuban "boat people" arriving in the United States in the past six months.

Perez, who spent 10 years in a Cuban prison for treason, arrived here Monday on a flight carrying other prisoners released under a program begun two years ago. Some 8,000 former prisoners have emigrated to the United States under a 1978 agreement.

Perez carried a list of Miami exiles he was asked to contact by relatives in Cuba. He said rumors are rampant that Castro will soon open a port to all Cubans wishing to leave.

In 1965, Castro reacted to a series of boat escapes by opening the northern port of Camarioca. Over 5,000 Cubans were picked up by boats rented or borrowed by members of southern Florida's Cuban exile population, which now numbers half a million persons.

Another apparent factor in the unrest is a program that has allowed more than 100,000 exiles to visit their homeland since 1978. Their glowing portrait of life in America differs with the Castro government's version: that Cubans in the United States live a disgraceful ghetto life.

"When they talk to their families, they learn how much worse the Cuban economy is, and they then want to live in Miami," said exile leader Dr. Diego Medina.

"For 20 years the people have lived in hunger, and they can't take it any more. Thousands — millions — want to leave," said Abelardo Zamora, 35, who served five years in prison for alleged sabotage.

"People get tired of working because the future doesn't get better. Things keep getting worse."

"In one month, a family must live on five pounds of rice, 20 ounces of grain, three quarter-pounds of meat. There are a lot of eggs, but there is not enough of anything else," Zamora said.

Zamora said Castro's frank state-of-the-union address last December increased the Cubans' despair, and that his countrymen were stunned when some 20,000 cigar industry workers were laid off last month after disease ruined 50 percent of the country's tobacco crop.

In addition, some 20 percent of this year's sugar crop has been devastated by fungus, officials say.

Castro told a government assembly in December that his country had become increasingly dependent on the Soviet Union. He expressed his dismay over low production standards in everything from sugar cane to clothes-making, and "evident resistance" of the people to government policy.

Castro's brother Raul, in a speech last fall, criticized Cuban workers for "lack of discipline and control, irresponsibility, negligence and cronyism."

"The Cuban people are convinced that they are living in a critical present and will have an even worse future. That belief was reaffirmed by Castro himself," said Dr. Salvador Lew, president of Spanish-language Miami radio station WQBA.

Utility shareholders reject anti-nuclear proposal

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Dayton Power & Light Co. stockholders have voted against a proposal that the firm get out of the nuclear power business.

But because holders of 8 percent of the utility's 23.8 million shares of common stock voted for the anti-nuclear proposal Thursday, backers of the measure won the right to introduce it at the next annual stockholders meeting.

The proposal called for the utility to stop planning and construction of nuclear power plants and to divest itself of its one-third interest in the Zimmer nuclear power plant now under construction at Moscow.

"It's significant. It's extremely significant," said Peggy Halsey, a representative of the Women's Division of the United Methodist Board of Global Ministries and of the Interfaith Center on Corporate Responsibility. "During the years we have filed resolutions of one kind or another with all the major corporations and 8 percent is the best we've ever done."

The Methodist women's group — which owns 300 shares of DP&L common stock — forced the anti-nuclear resolution to be submitted at the meeting. The interfaith-center-coordinated effort.

Peter Forster, a director for the utility, called the vote a show of "overwhelming support" of the company's energy policies.

"In essence, when we began construction of the Zimmer plant, we felt it was in the best interest of the people here and we were quite pleased that 92 percent of the people here felt it was in their best interest," Forster said.
