Mount St. Helens goes again

By SUE FAHLGREN Staff Writer

More than 50 Midlanders showed up to hear the candidates for the local races Thursday night at the League of Women's Voters Candidates Forum at the Midland Center.

Charleen Rosebery, president of the LWV, said the forum co-sponsored with the Midland Jaycees, the Midland County Republican Women and the Midland County Democratic Party, had "undoubtedly the most participation of the voters we have of their views. Afterward, members of the audience wrote out questions for the candidates, which were later presented by the League members.

Only Kent Hance, incumbent candidate for representative of the 19th congressional district, did not appear at the forum.

Hance's opponent, Libertarian candidate J.D. Webster did show, however. Webster said, "There are three things that bother me: inflation, taxation and regulation." Webster called these things "creatures of the Congress," and said he wished Hance had been there to justify his voting for increases in each of the three.

Tom Craddick, unopposed incumbent candidate for state representative of the 68th district, outlined what he said were things the representatives would be facing in the coming term. He said next year's budget appears to be between $22-23 billion next year. Craddick said more money would have to be collected from a "surplus of funding or a new form of Craddick called for increasing the gas tax increase by a "floating" percentage or by a "fixed rate" of 1 cent for increased highway costs. He said $600 million had to be appropriated by the legislature "to keep up the highways last year."

Candidates for judge of the 142nd District Court, Pat Baskin and J.H. "Timber" Floyd, were asked several questions after their alloted speech.

Baskin, the Democratic candidate for the office, said, "There's no more important work ever performed in the United States than that of a judge." He said he would work to help citizens understand that there is justice and fairness" in the court system.

However, the audience was interested in issues in the judicial race and asked candidates at least six questions on their qualifications and their yiews for change.

After four questions addressed to him, Floyd finally came out with his opinions. "There needs to be a lot of work done at the courthouse with the civil docket," he said, adding that appeals in civil cases néeded to be speeded up.

Vern Martin, unopposed Republican candidate for district attorney of the 142nd District, started on a more humorous note. "John Green is not running as a write-in in this district," Martin quipped. Green is a write-in candidate for district attorney in Ector County. Martin said he did not have time to go into any issues, but invited citizens to "not hesitate to call and ask me" about anything whether before or after the election.

Iran denies deal is working to free hostages

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - An official in Iranian Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai's office in Tehran today denied a report that a deal was in the works to free the 52 U.S. hostages in exchange for spare parts for American-made military equipment.

Reached by DAY 349 telephone from the Beirut office of The Associated Press, the official, who identified himself as a public relations official in Rajai's office, said: "The public relations office officially denies these reports on behalf of the Islamic Republic of

The official, who gave his nave only as Mahdavi, denied that the hos-tages, held since Nov. 4, were being assembled at the American Embassy in Tehran or that the Iranian gov ernment would be receiving spares in exchange for the embassy captives. .

"The Majlis (Iran's Parliament) will decide on the fate of the hostages to," the spokesman said in reference

U.S. officials, including President Carter have also denied that a deal was in the works that would give Iran the spare parts it needs to keep its U.S. made military equipment operating during the nearly monthold war with Iraq.

Rajai was in New York to attend a U.N. Security Council session in which he was to present Iran's case to the world body regarding the war with Iraq.

The Swiss government, which represents U.S. interests in Tehran, also discounted the report that a deal for the hostages' freedom had been Ohmar Uhl, a Swiss foreign ministry spokesman in Bern, told The Associated Press today, "If there had been such a deal, we would have been informed, I'm pretty sure. So far, nothing has happened. Nothing has happened. We would be aware of any move (to free the hostages) would hear about it."

A Chicago TV station reported Thursday that, as part of an arms deal with Iran, the hostages have been gathered at the U.S. Embassy compound in Tehran to prepare for a trip home for all but four, who would 'remain for trial."

The last hostage released, Vice Consul Richard Queen, was flown from Iran to Switzerland, aboard a Swissair jet, and accompanied by a Swiss diplomat.

Queen was released in July.

New study ordered by hospital board

By SUE FAHLGREN Staff Writer

The Midland County Hospital Dis-trict board of directors voted Thursday in their regular monthly meeting to hire Tribrook management researchers once again for a 60-day study on the functions of the governing bodies of the hospital.

Directors approved spending an estimated $18,000 for the study of management positions "from the administrator on up." The study will include the roles of both the board of directors and the board of trustees and their relationships to one another.

Ed Magruder, president of the board, was quick to add, "Mr. (Robert) Bash (interim administrator and Tribrook employee) is not one of the personnel of the Tribrook group that would be involved in that study. He said there was "no conflict of interest." Magruder said, "In his own company's opinion, he (Bash) is not the best qualified for this study."

The study was recommended by board of trustee president Tevis Herd, who said the trustees passed the recommendation in executive session on Wednesday.

In other board news, the directors approved reimbursement for a land purchase of part of Ohio Avenue from the City at a cost of $12,169. The hospital purchased the area to increase its number of parking spaces. Traffic in that area will be one-way by a city ordinance to be formally approved at the City Council meeting on Funds were also approved for the hospital expansion program amounting to $1,571,875. Those funds will be used for the six items currently awaiting Hospital Facility Commision approval on certificates of need: the laboratory expansion, the expansion of the physical and occupational therapy units, the creation of the medical staff lounge, the expansion of the linen area, the medical records room expansion and the changeover of the CT scanner to a body scanner.

The funds represent an increase of about $500,000 since the original estimates for the new renovations were adopted. Magruder said the increase showed the additions to the original plans to meet building codes and plan These items include the extension

ODESSA - President Jimmy Carter's winning of Texas's 26 electoral votes is crucial to his retaining the presidency for another four-year term and to keep Republican challenger Ronald Reagan out of the White House, Sarah Weddington, special assistant to the president, said in a press conference here Thursday.

We believe that Texas is one of those states that we must carry to win this nomination," said Ms. Wedding-ton, a 35-year-old West Texas native and lawyer who was a Texas state representative before she went to Washington, D.C., in 1977 as a U.S. Department of Agriculture counsel. up by traffic, authorities imposed a 20 mph speed limit in Clark County cities, including Vancouver, and a 30 mph limit outside the city.

The ash was too light to measure in Portland but left streets an ashen gray, and street-cleaning crews were out early to flush the material into gutters before the commuter rush. Calm winds kept the ash from blowing, but a dense fog made it almost impossible to see across the street in some areas.

Most airlines suspended operations at Portland International Airport, where a half-hour fallout left ash lightly covering runways. The airport remained opened but was prepared to shut down if conditions worsened.

Northeasterly winds carried the ash fallout over Salem and Newport, on the Oregon coast, as the cloud drifted to sea. Steve Bryant of the University of Washington's Geophysics Department, which monitors the volcano, said two Class B seismic events minor earthquake activity - occurred in the first hour following the eruption. But he said there was no seismic activity in the next four hours, indicating the eruption was a relatively small one. "A very black cloud" of steam and ash spewed to more than 40,000 feet after Thursday's eruption, said U.S. Forest Service spokesman Jim Unterwegner.

The volcano quieted after the 9:58 p.m. blast, and by midnight, only a light dusting of ash had been reported in the area.

A'red glow was seen at the bottom of the volcano's crater by a U.S. Forest Service pilot who flew over the 8,400-foot-high mountain less than an hour after the eruption.

We've got reports of ash falling in LaCenter, Amboy, Ridgefield, Battle Ground and Hazel Dell, but no accidents or complications reported yet,' said Linda Simpson, an information officer for Clark County, south of the volcano. "It was late enough that few people were out on the road.'

The eruption was accompanied by harmonic tremors - which indicate the movement of molten rock - for nearly 10 minutes, said Don Leaver of the University of Washington geophysics center.

By 11 p.m., the Forest Service reported the volcano had ceased venting ash and only a minor steam plume to 9,500 feet was reported.

University spokesman Bob Norris said the mountain was seismically quiet after the eruption, adding: "It's not necessarily the end of it. We've seen activity die down like this before renewed activity."

At a news conference in Hazel Dell late Thursday, U.S. Geological Survey geologist Don Peterson said the eruption did not catch scientists totally by surprise. He put the time of the blast at 9:58 p.m.

From about 1 p.m. to 2 p.m. Thursday there were three to four seismic events per hour, he said, and at 7 p.m. an earthquake measuring about 3.0 on the Richter scale of ground motion was recorded beneath the volcano's

Peterson was asked if he thought the eruption signified a new period of activity for Mount St. Helens, which came alive this spring after lying dormant since 1857.

"We'll just have to wait and see," he said. "At this state, it's premature to make a declaration."

The mountain's five previous significant eruptions all occurred during daylight. The last major eruption was Aug. 7.

of the pneumatic tube system in the original contract to include two tube line to the Allison Permian Basin Cancer Therapy Center and one to the laboratory, at a cost of $60,000, Magruder said.

Trustee and member of the building committee Gene Abbott said the original renovation changes were currently $27,000 under the budgeted costs and that these construction additions would be funded separately.

The directors also discussed the bad debt accounts and possible policy

Director/Thomas Ingram suggested some of the accounts be turned over to a local attorney rather than a collection agency and that the hospital file some small claims court cases against certain debtors after attorneys had written them letters.

"I think filing with a collection agency in some cases is fine," Ingram said, but added that in cases where hospital officials knew persons could easily afford payment of their bills, attorneys should be contacted.

Director Martin Neill said, "I still. can't believe that all these accounts are actually being pursued." Neill said he was being contacted by people whose names have shown up on the charge-off list - and whose names have gone to collection agencies when their bill has already been paid

"I thik after Mr. (Ray) Branson (new administrator) gets in here in a few weeks, things will be cleared up," Ingram said.

But Neill caution, "I don't want to expect too many things too quickly." He added that even though officials say they have been working more diligently on the charge-off problem during the last few months, "I don't see much change here."

Neill continued to say, "The people we see here (on the charge-off lists)" don't reflect any personal contact."

Magruder agreed. "We are charging off a lot of money," he said. He added the directors should "talk with Branson about the possibility of getting some (more) people on our/staff to work on these (accounts)." Magruder continued, "I don't think we can expect our billing clerks... to direct their attention to these probtems as well."

No action was taken on the problem, but directors removed one $454 account from the list, passing $81,725 on the bad debts charge offs. They also approved $18,680 for indigent accounts for September.

Tie some yellow ribbons

Those yellow ribbons Midlanders will see their friends and neighbors wearing in coming days are really forget-me-nots, reminders that 52 of our countrymen still are held hostage in

Saturday will be Yellow Ribbon Day in the Tall City, part of a nationwide effort sponsored by the Jaycee-ettes to show support and concern for the hostages. Mayor G. Thane Akins has officially proclaimed Saturday as the day for the observance. Activities associated with Yellow Ribbon Day got under way today.

But why have a Yellow Ribbon Day? What's the purpose and what will it accomplish?

Think back almost a year in time. The date might be Nov. 23 or, for that matter, any date in late November. Americans had been held illegally by revolutionaries in Iran nearly a month. How did you feel at that time? Were you angry? Were you outraged by the lawlessness of that event? Did your heart go out to the hostages? To their families?

Did you feel a sense of national unity of purpose? Did it make you proud to be an American, unafraid to walk with your head held high into the field of adversity?

All those emotions, and more, existed back in November 1979, you know. But now, almost a year later, they've been swept under the carpet where we won't have to look at them. It hurts to look at something ugly when you realize that for the most part your hands are tied. Frustration is the result when you want to make a change but can't.

So we've all hidden our emotions - pushed aside the thought of the hostages, of their hopes and desires, of their despair. The old saying applies: Out of sight, out of

That's the problem. We have successfully ended our ordeal. For the hostages, the ordeal is a never-ending affair that rocks on and on, surely breaking them both mentally and physically, and, perhaps, spiritually. They can't merely ignore the problem and mask their anguish.

Why a Yellow Ribbon Day? Because something must be done to rekindle the emotions we all felt back in November. We've got to get mad again. We've got to scream and shout. We've got to let the Ayatollan Khomeini know that our patience is just about gone. And we've got to let the hostages know that we haven't forgotten, that we'll never forget.

Yellow Ribbon day is a commendable undertaking that should be supported by all Midlanders. Let's decorate the city with yellow ribbons and let's not take them down until our countrymen are safely home.

Awakening Christians waging battle for decency

It's no surprise that many liberals have become as nervous as frogs in a restaurant parking lot about the awakening of the Christian conservatives. When the times get bad, the good get going.

One example of how quickly and thoroughly these people can get organized once you make them angry is the Clean Up Television campaign originated by the Joelton Church of Christ in Nashville, Tenn. They are blessed with an extremely smart minister, Pastor John Hurt, who about a year ago decided he had had enough of sleazy television shows. His plan is beautifully simple. He asks members of churches to sign pledge cards that they will boycott the sponsors of offensive programs. No censorship. No coercion. No seeking legislation. Just consumers exercising their first amendment right to express themselves.

Pastor Hurt spent about a year working out the details of his plan. By March, 1980, he had 1,200 congregations; as of this month, he has 6,000 with about 500,000 signed pledge cards and his plan is picking up mo-

the largest boycott in American his-

The object is not to eliminate any shows, but to persuade the producers to clean them up. In a letter to the president of General Foods, one of the targeted sponsors, Pastor Hurt said, We, therefore, plan to do everything within our power to oppose the presentation of material which is an insult to decency and a negative influence on young people. Specifically this includes presentation of scenes of adultery, sexual perversion or incest as well as material which treats any form of immorality in a joking or otherwise favorable light.

Well said, Brother Hurt. We're a great nation and our children are our greatest resource. We should be inspiring them with stories of great men and women instead of debasing them, or rather allowing a bunch of pseudo-sophisticated fops and greedy materialists to debase them. A child who's taught by television that nothing is sacred and that men and women are no better than animals is unlikely to aspire to greatness.

Pastor Hurt polled all of the participating churches to find out which programs they considered the most offensive and then made a study of the sponsors. General Foods and American Home Products sponsored the most offensive and both have brushed off Pastor Hurt's efforts to persuade them to reconsider their

I suspect, however, that when the boycott begins to take a bite out of their sales, these giants of advertising will discover that good taste is the better part of valor.

As for you liberals on the edge of hysteria, let me remind you of how many pious liberal Christians have asked, "How high?" everytime Caesar Chavez's United Farmworkers. Union has said, "Jump." There is no difference between a Christian boycott of products in the name of decency and a Christian boycott of lettuce in the name of unionizing farmworkers. Well, there is an important difference, but I don't expect a liberal to understand it.

I say, charge on, good people. For too long the liberal intellectuals have tried to maintain a monopoly on the public morals and they've turned the entertainment industry into a pig

The next 1,825 days are going to be difficult and dangerous for us and our children and we will need spiritual strength to see us through. There's no time left for timidity or apathy. If you love your life, your children, your liberty, your God and your country, you had better stand up now and fight for them with every weapon you can find - boycott, vote, voice, pen and

People like Pastor John Hurt will show you how.

Investigative files point finger at White

WASHINGTON - The name of Democratic Party boss John White, identified by the code word "Blanco," is scattered like smudged fingerprints throughout the Justice Department's investigative files in a $30 million bribery case.

The huge payoff was offered by Libya to a coterie of con men who promised to break the U.S. ban on the sale of transport planes to the Libyan government. At the center of the bribery plot was the international swindler, Robert Vesco, who had close ties to the Libyans.

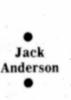

The scheming Vesco put Libya's United Nations ambassador, Mansur Rashid Kikkia, in touch with White. The contact was arranged by a freewheeling Texas lobbyist named James Day, who was a good-ole-boy buddy of the Democratic national

Unknown to the plotters, the Justice Department had penetrated their ring through James Feeney, a convicted con man, who gained Vesco's trust and reported the developments of the conspiracy to federal investigators. My associate, Indy Badhwar, has reviewed hundreds of pages of notes and transcripts kept by the investigators. These indicate that White was pulling strings inside the White House to release the planes for shipment to Libya - a charge that White had denied under oath. The investigators' notes quote Ambassador Kikkia, for example, as saying "that he has spoken to John White on the telephone and in person in New York, that as recently/as this morning he spoke to John White on the telephone, that it is extremely important to his government that they receive the delivery of the (planes) ... Mansur stated that he is satisfied with the Washington, D.C., people and with John White's representation." White's cut of the $30 million pie, according to the Justice Department files, was supposed to be $7.5 million. The files also indicate that White met not only with the Libyans but with the fugitive Vesco. In one taped conversation, Feeney and Day discussed a Vesco meeting with the Democratic Party leader. An April 3, 1979, discussion between Vesco and Day indicated the financier was going to meet with White on the high seas:

Vesco: "When I pull up alongside his boat do I say 'Hi, I want to see Mr.

Day: "Yeah, and he will come out, and he's about, I have a picture, blond, green eyes, 5 feet 10-and-a-half inches, 5 feet 11 inches, a build similar to you. I'd say 190 lbs.

'When you think about the insanity of this," chortled Feeney during another taped conversation, "here's the chairman of the national Democratic Party having a meeting with the most famous world fugitive. It's like something out of a Janzes Bond movie."

Peeney also reported that the Libyan ambassador had huddled with White. "You guys know that Mansur met Blanco (White) ..." Feeney said. "There's no question about that." There was, indeed, no question about it. I reported last year that the FBI had photographed a rendezvous between White and Mansur Kikkia.

As a Vesco confidant, Feeney was able to tip off the investigators that White and Kikkia were planning to meet at the Washington Hotel on June 20, 1979. Before White arrived, Day, Feeney and Kikkia huddled at a restaurant table. White showed up and derson backers split down the middle,

Feeney left. The federal investigators then recorded this account:

"They, Day, Mansur and White, carried on a low 20 minute conversation ... White left. Then Day carried on a conversation with Mansur for several minutes . "At the point where John White left the table, Day and Mansur were standing and spoke. Day could be overheard telling Mansur that things would be a lot easier if they would modify the C-130's. (Among the aircraft purchased by the Libyans were some C-130 transports. Day's comment apparently meant that the State Department would be much more willing to release them if they were modified for civilian, rather than military use.) Despite this evidence, White swore to a grand jury that his meeting with the Libyan ambassador was fully innocent and that no money was offered or accepted. The Justice Department files also implicate indirectly some of President Carter's closest confidants.

In an April 11, 1979, conversation, for example, Feeney asked Day whether White could get the Carter administration to release the planes. Day responded that Vesco had "certain information that would bury certain people at the White House." This was a reference to compromising letters allegedly written by Hamilton Jordan to Vesco which would be surrendered if the administration settled the financier's extradition problems.

Continued Day: "The reason there's no problem with solving this problem (the Libyan planes) is because, let's face it, Blanco (White) is no fool. He is saving Hamilton, (Atlanta attorney and Jimmy Carter friend Charles) Kirbo and those bastards, you know what I mean, to do this thing. The president would do anything to save this from ..." (At this point, there is an inexplicable gap in

Curiously, the Justice Department cut off funds for the investigation as it was getting closer to the White House. Sens. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., and Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, have now more money on defense. While An- picked up the investigation, but the Justice Department is obstructing it. Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti, for example, refused to grant Vesco immunity from prosecution to testify in Washington. His statement left the misleading impression that Vesco had demanded blanket immunity though in fact he requested only limited immunity during his stay in Wash-

Footnote: White, through his attorney, denied any knowledge of the influence-peddling attempt. White has never met Robert Vesco, the lawyer said, and the meeting with Ambassador Kikkia was an entirely innocent effort to arrange a meeting between the Libyan official and President Carter.

By ROWLAND EVANS AND BOBERT NOVAK

WARREN, Mich: - President Carter's attacks on Ronald Reagan as a racist warmonger, while helping bring back to the party fold some waverers in this blue-collar Democratic stronghold, have hardened anti-Carter sentiment among voters who backed him in 1976 and must be recaptured to carry Michigan and other pivotal states. The president still falls short in blue-collar country. This was typified by a 30-year-old autoworker who backed Carter four years ago but has been turned off by his slashing at Reagan. "Carter's trying to slam Reagan for only one reason," he told us. "He knows he is going to lose the presidency and he's panicking."

He was one of 63 registered voters whose homes we visited in several precincts in southern Macomb County, a lower-middle-income Detroit suburb filled with autoworkers, many of them unemployed. Armed with a questionnaire prepared by Patrick Caddell's Cambridge Survey Research, we obtained these voter preferences (in votes, not percentages): Carter 29, Reagan 21, Anderson 5, undecided 5, won't vote 3.

That is a substantial decline from Reagan's dizzying heights last May when we interviewed in the same precincts. He then actually led Carter in this 3-to-1 Democratic area. But even Reagan's diminished strength in precincts that Carter carried by 62 percent while losing Michigan to Gerald Ford is bad news for the

Novak

One-fifth of the 29 Carter voters and nearly two-thirds of the other 34 voters called the president's campaign "mean and negative." It is this reaction that prompted Carter's admission to ABC's Barbara Walters of "mistakes" in his anti-Reagan attacks even though "I don't think I'm mean, Barbara. Our interviews confirmed White House concern over voter reaction to Carter's tactics. A 41-year-old insurance salesman told us: "Now Carter's called Reagan a racist, I guess the next thing he'll do is go back to Reagan's Hollywood days and call him a red. Weren't they all commies out there in the '40s?' Many pro-Carter voters, on the other hand, have been fortified by Carter's assaults on Reagan. "Reagan might end the recession real fast," said a 42-year-old housewife, 'but we'd be in World War III quick-This suggests Carter's strategy in painting Reagan as unsafe was good politics but was overplayed, alienating the pro-Reagan and undecided voters he needs. "I don't believe anything Carter says anymore," a 41year-old mother of three told us.

This reaction spells special trouble for Carter with supporters of Rep. John Anderson. All but one of the five Anderson backers called Carter 'mean and negative." These are voters the Carter camp desperately hopes will desert Anderson between now and Nov. 4 and come to the president. That prospect now seems

Despite Reagan's decline here from last May, these voters still give him a higher rating than Carter on "leaderon "handling the economy" and, by almost 2-to-1, on giving the country "a strong defense. Reagan's vulnerability on the warand-peace issue shows up in answers to the question: "Which is better able to deal with the Russians?" When we asked that in May, Reagan edged Carter narrowly. Today, despite Carter's charge that Reagan wants to launch a "nuclear arms race" and has an itchy trigger-finger, Reagan is only slightly behind Carter; 25 of our voters with an opinion named Carter, 20 named Reagan as "better able" to handle the Russians.

Clydesdales awe many Midlanders

By ED TODD Staff Writer

Danny Truelove was sitting on 100 horses, as he watched eight big horses draw nigh.

"I had a whole lot rather ride this," he said, as he was sitting astride his one-eyed "hoss" — a 100-horsepower, 1,100cc motorcycle. "It's a lot smoother, I assure you. And you don't get as sore."

What had struck Truelove's curiosity and that of a growing horde of spectators Thursday afternoon was eight Clydesdale draft horses heralding the virtues of Budweiser beer.

The one-ton horses, each standing about 18 hands high, were being unloaded from Anheuser-Busch Inc. tractor trailers, harnessed and hitched up to a 1902 red Studebaker beer wagon decked with wooden beer cases. They were being readied to prance around Midland Park Mall.

Four-year-old Spring Wright eagerly watched the equine creatures, whose ancestors were used as mounts by warring knights and by farmers to pull earth-tearing plows. The horses emerged from the trailers and were gently led to the red beer wagon, which was embellished in gleaming leather

"ARE THEY BIG ONES?" Spring innocently queried, as she was in a strung-out line with other children from her day-care class.

'Will the horses bite?" she asked, as she was holding hands with classmates Jason Paul Barden, 4, and Justin Paul Hunt, 4.

Their teachers had brought them out to behold the regal horses, which had been trucked in for the Permian Basin Oil Show.

'Teacher," the girl asked of Jarene Teters, "can we go look at them?

She stayed put. Within a short gallop of the youngsters, who were just learning something about horses, were a couple of fellows decked out in genuine cowboy attire from their Western hats to their boots.

The seasoned cowboy, 83-year-old John McWhorter, had worked with many a horse on ranges in West Texas and New Mexico, but those massive Clydesdale were mostly foreign to him. "Oh, we just had 'horses' in those days," the old cowpoke said. "We didn't have Quarter Horses. We just had Spanish horses. Oh, we used to have some Percheron (draft) horses and a few Clydesdales. Some of the farmers did." L. Saunders, 64, was leisurely standing with the old cowhand. He said he remembers back in 1948, when the "Budweiser horses" were in Midland for a Horse handler Steve Dawson was patiently awaiting for the return of the Budweiser Clydesdales, whom he could readily call by name: Sammy, Buck, Craig, Grant, Davy, Captain, Mark and John. The "two spars," Duke and Commander, were off that day and were stabled elsewhere.

'They've got a lot of sense. They're fairly easy to train and to work with," Dawson observed.

When Henry Kaufman speaks, everyone listens

NEW YORK (AP) — The bull market that sent some stock market indexes to record highs has suffered a significant setback — and Henry Kaufman is the man Wall Street analysts are blaming.

Kaufman, the chief economist of Salomon Brothers and one of the most respected economists in the financial community, on Thursday warned that double-digit interest rates are "here to stay" and said neither President Carter nor Ronald Reagan is likely to do much about

When Kaufman spoke, the Dow Jones industrial average was above 980 a level it hasn't closed at since Jan. 10, 1977 — and the more broadly-based New York and American stock exchange indexes were at all-time highs.

Minutes after his remarks were reported at about 2 p.m., stock prices began sliding

In the final two hours of trading, the Dow Jones industrial average lost 21.59 points to close at 958.70, down 13.74 for the day.

One decline does not end a bull market, and this market has survived sharper drops as the Dow Jones average has climbed more than 200 points since March. But the drop once again emphasized the respect commanded by Kaufman, who has acheived an impressive record of forecasting interest rate trends.

"It was Henry Kaufman," said Newton Zinder, an analyst at E.F. Hutton & Co., as prices fell.

Kaufman, a soft-spoken economist who worked for the Federal Reserve Bank of New York before joining the investment firm of Salomon Brothers, said little he had not said before.

But it served as a warning to Wall Street that the economy has major problems as it emerges from what seems to have been a relatively mild

"Only a limited war seems possible against inflation," Kaufman said at a conference sponsored by Institutional Investor magazine. "There is simply no indication that either of the major political parties can, or will, produce fiscal — or any other — measures which will make a significant dent in the inflationary forces that will swell as the new business recovery progresses," he said. "Indeed, the inflationary fever will worsen with tax cuts and sharp spurts in military outlays that are not offset by constraints on other

Kaufman said the absence of federal government spending restraint puts the burden of fighting inflation on the Federal Reserve Board, which seeks to control growth of the nation's money supply. Yet, he added, "an exclusively monetary approach to cutting inflation is unlikely to produce startling results."

Kaufman's speech also affected the bond market, where prices dropped and interest rates rose. The yield on long-term Treasury bonds climbed above 11.2 percent.

Kaufman noted that the big federal deficits had forced the government to borrow more and more. The amount of federal debt owned by the public has grown from $285 billion in 1970 to $707 billion at the end of last month. That was one reason the credit standing of major corporations has been slipping, pushing up their cost of borrowing, he said.

One of the casualities of the sharp drop in stock prices Thursday was Genentech, the hottest issue to hit the stock market in 10 years. The company, a pioneer in genetic engineering, issued stock Tuesday at $35 a share and saw it rise as high as $88 as speculators rushed in.

It slipped to $68.50 by Wednesday, and on Thursday it plunged $14.50 to close at $54 a share, down $34 from the midday peak it had reached just two days earlier.

ed value of all goods and services — the real gross national product - rose by $3.5 billion during the July-September period to an annual rate of $1.41 trillion. The annual rate is determined by projecting the change in one quarter over a full 12 months.

Before adjusting for inflation, GNP rose 10.2 percent during the quarter, to $2.58 trillion.

The third-quarter performance contrasted with the record 9.6 percent decline in real GNP in the second quarter. The Commerce Department said the turnaround was caused by a 3.7 percent, or $91 billion, increase in final sales after a 10.2 percent decline during the previous three months.

Personal spending, which had fallen $2.9 billion in the second quarter, rose $55.2 billion in the third. A key factor in that increase was higher automobile sales, which raised the purchase of durable goods by $24.5 billion in the third quarter after a decline in the

The Commerce Department's measure of inflation, called the GNP deflator, showed the price spiral slowed in the third quarter. The deflator indicated A preliminary report showed the inflation-adjust- prices rose by 9.1 percent in the third quarter compared with 10.7 percent in the second.

Today's report indicated that by one popular definition, there was no 1980 recession at all - simply because the downturn was limited to one calendar quarter.

The popular definition of recession is two consecutive quarters of GNP decline. Statisticians say the economy began sliding in January or February, but the first quarter still registered an overall growth rate of 1.2 percent.

That was followed, however, by the worst quarter in history — an annual rate of decline of 9.6 percent in economic output from April to June.

That plunge, concentrated in the construction and automobile industries, resulted in unemployment of 7.5 percent to 7.8 percent from May to September, a steep decline in industrial production, a drop in retail sales and the worst slide in corporate profits in five

Some economists don't doubt the economy fell into recession this year, despite the two-quarters theory. The second-quarter fall was, by itself, so steep that it indicated a recession, they say.

These analysts add that the widely watched Index of Leading Indicators — designed to foretell trends in the economy - declined 12.6 percent from last October through May before turning around in

U.S., Israel sign oil agreement

WASHINGTON (AP) - The United States and Israel today signed a 14year agreement to guarantee oil to the Jewish state in emergencies.

The agreement is a further step in implementation of the Camp David accords that called for Israel to return to Egypt oil fields in the Gulf of Suez. The United States promised to guarantee Israel's oil supply in exchange.

The agreement was signed by Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie and Israeli Energy Minister Yitzak

Modai at a White House ceremony. The final agreement outlines such issues as pricing and transportation of the oil the United States will supply if the Israelis face a shortage.

At the ceremony in the Roosevelt Room, President Carter said the agreement provides security for Israel, but also is "a very sound investment in the security of the United States of America.'

The agreement provides for three

- If Israel cannot obtain enough oil to meet its needs, currently about 160,000 barrels a day, the United States would make up the shortage.

— If Israel can obtain oil only at an excessive average price and under insecure arrangements, the United States would provide oil under a formula arrangement. If Israel loses a main oil source and cannot replace the oil, the United States would make up the shortage for 120 days and perhaps longer. An initial U.S. oil supply commit-ment was made in 1975, but has not had to be used. The agreement does not involve a subsidy. Israel would pay the cost of Carter said Israel made a "very bold apd courageous decision" when it agreed to give up the oil fields and depend on foreign oil. Modai said Israel was "very happy to have a document which is so clear. so detailed and which relates to such a vital and delicate issue."

Teenagers murder man they think backed Amin

GULU, Uganda (AP) - Sister Paula Abero said she screamed when she saw a gang of vengeful teen-agers leading her brother from her convent to kill him.

"I tried to embrace him," the 40year-old Roman Catholic nun recalled. "I told them, 'You kill me, too. He is my brother. He is not a soldier of Amin. He is a teacher.

"One young man said, 'You come. We will kill you, as well.' Then a father (priest) pulled me away. The last I saw, my brother was silent. They had cut him on the head and shoulder. There was blood all over

An invasion of Uganda by exiled soldiers loyal to ousted dictator Idi Amin took place 11 days ago 100 miles west of Gulu, a small, northern provincial center. The invasion never came near Gulu but David Andama, 33, the nun's brother, was a victim of the fighting.

He was killed by members of Gulu's dominant tribe, the Acholi. Hearing that Amin's men were slaughtering Acholi soldiers in the west, Acholi civilians took revenge on men, women and children belonging to four tribes they believed still loyal to Amin.

Gulu residents said more than a dozen Lugbara, Madi, Kakwa and Alur tribesmen were killed in a threeday spasm of violence. Houses were looted and scores of victims took refuge in the bush or at Christian mis-

Bodies lay near bridges and railroad tracks for several days, decomposing in the sun because relatives were afraid to collect them.

It was the latest round in tribal conflicts that have afflicted this region near Lake Victoria since long before the British arrived in 1894 and later put together the nation of Ugan-

After Amin, a member of the Kakwa Tribe, took over in 1971, his troops killed thousands of Acholi men. When Amin was overthrown last year by Ugandan and Tanzanian troops, several thousand of his tribal allies fled the Gulu district, leaving about 200 who seemingly believed themselves immune to retribution. Among them was Andama, a Lugbara from Amin's native West Nile district, who taught school for more than 10 years near Gulu and who had two children by an Acholi wife. Soldiers seized him at a roadblock last Friday when he tried to visit his sister at a convent on the edge of town.

"They took him at 10 a.m. I got there at 4:30 p.m.," Sister Paula said in an interview Thursday. "They said if I wanted my brother I had to pay 200 shillings ($25) and come back the next day with 4,000 shillings ($530).

"I asked them, 'What wrong did you find with him?' They said, 'He is not

Sister Paula paid the 200 shillings ransom and took her brother to the convent. She spent the weekend in a fruitless round of government offices, trying to persuade someone in authority in Gulu to intervene.

Officials were either away from their desks or unwilling to act, she

"On Monday, I found the education officer and he wrote a letter asking the soldiers to let my brother go," she said. "But when I got back to the convent with the letter, they were attacking him."

Other nuns said they had hidden Andama under the trees behind the convent buildings, expecting anyone looking for him to search the rooms. He started running, they said, when about 10 teen-age boys and girls broke into the convent, armed with spears, arrows, clubs and knives and accompanied by soldiers.

The gang caught him and began beating him.

"I found those people taking him away," Sister Paula said. "All the sisters were shouting and crying. He was bleeding all over.

"They also took two women. One was the wife of a man they had killed the day before. They took all three to the railroad tracks and killed them.'

Council due brothel study

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The city council will hear the results of a special investigation into an alleged brothel that one councilman claims operated for two decades with the sanction of powerful city officials.

City Manager Tom Huebner told the council Thursday he wanted a special session Monday at 5 p.m. to present results of the study he began last Three women were arrested and an alleged "trick list" confiscated in an Oct. 2 raid of the bordello. Councilman Bernardo Eureste charged the bawdy house was allowed to operated with police protection for 20 years.

The council last week empowered Huebner to look into the allegations after Eureste shocked council members and Mayor Lila Cockrell with his Theresa Brown, 46, alleged madam of the operation, was arrested and charged with promoting prostitution, and two Houston women were charged with prostitution as a result of the raid.

Capt. James Despres said more than 2,000 names, including those of well known businessmen and politicians, were on the "trick list" and some names were accompanied by sexual preferences of the

Ms. Brown has waived arraignment on the promotion of prostitution charge and under the state's Speedy Trial Act, a trial date must be set within 120 days. Negotiations for a plea bargain broke down last week and her attorney said if his client were brought to trial, he might introduce the "trick list" in her defense.

Eureste, in open session last week, charged that a police inspector and fellow councilman's names were on the list, but both denied they were clients at the brothel. Mrs. Brown said she would take a polygraph test on behalf of the police official.

Police hold sniper summit

CINCINNATI (AP) - A federal weapons charge has been filed against Joseph Franklin, the fugitive who is the subject of a police conference here on the unsolved shootings of blacks in cities across the country.

Franklin, who is believed to be a native of Birmingham, Ala., was charged in Lexington, Ky., on Wednesday with transporting stolen firearms across state lines. Authorities said a .357-caliber Magnum stolen from an Indiana state trooper 10 years ago was found in a car owned by Franklin.

Franklin, who is white, earlier was charged by federal authorities with violating the civil rights of two black oggers who were slain Aug. 20 in Salt Lake City.

Representatives of 10 police departments, three federal agencies and the Hamilton County prosecutor's office are believed to be participating in the meeting about Franklin, which began Thursday. Police said they would not make a statement about the meeting until it concluded today.

The meeting was requested by Salt

Lake City Police Chief Bud Willoughby. Although federal charges have been filed against Franklin in the Salt Lake City case, Willoughby said his department has been unable to amass enough evidence to charge Franklin with murder.

Franklin also is wanted for questioning in the shooting deaths of two black youths in Cincinnati, the wounding of National Urban League President Vernon Jordan in Fort Wayne, Ind., and sniper slayings in Oklahoma City, Indianapolis and Johnstown, Pa. Most of those incidents involved high-powered rifles. Franklin reportedly is a gun enthusiast who buys and sells high-powered rifles.

Rain hampers quake rescue efforts

AL ASNAM, Algeria (AP) - Heavy autumn rains began falling on this earthquake-ravaged city, bringing a new hardship to the tens of thousands left-homeless by the quake, and further hampering the search for survivors and bodies buried in the rubble.

Four more survivors, including an eight-year-old girl, were dug out of the ruins Thursday after lying buried for the six days since the quake, officials said. There was no immediate word on their conditions.

Authorities said electronic listening devices were still reporting signs of life deep in the ruins at several locations and rescuers were focusing their attention on those spots.

Many survivors were issued tents and blankets before the onset of the autumn rains on Thursday. Up to 25 persons were often crowded into tents intended to shelter five or six. Thousands of others, particularly in the hard-hit mountain villages surrounding Al Asnam, spent their seventh night in the open, suffering the added hardship of the cold rain.

Thousands of tents donated by foreign governments and relief organizations have arrived at the airport in Algiers, 120 miles northeast of Al Asnam, but hard-pressed relief workers have been unable to distribute them

Rescuers, working round-the-clock, used heavy earthmoving machinery to clear huge blocks of concrete, steel girders and tons of rubble from two of the worst hit areas - the Chelif Hotel and a low-income housing complex named after Egypt's late President

Gamal Abdel Nasser. About 300 guests and staff were believed in the hotel when it collapsed and some 3,200 people lived at the housing complex. Both were complewere indications as of Thursday af- have been buried without being ternoon that some trapped survivors were still alive in the ruins.

A crane lifted a 30-foot-long slab of concrete from shattered housing complex, revealing the bodies of six persons apparently crushed to death in the quake. A small crowd of survivors who once lived at the complex were gathered beside the crane, waiting to identify missing relatives.

 Whenever a body was identified, weeping relatives took it away on improvised stretchers for immediate

Unidentified bodies were taken away by the truckload and laid out on the lawn of a shattered hospital. By noon Thursday, more than 50 such bodies lay on the lawn, where they were sprinkled with quicklime as a precaution against disease. Later in the day, the bodies were tipped into a common grave and quickly covered with earth

Many of the bodies recovered so far have been so badly decomposed or mutilated that they were buried immediately in huge pits along with debris scraped from the ruined city.

"Nothing can be done to identify them," said a rescuer. "The decomposition has gone too far. Some disintegrated bodies are so intertwined are dealing with.

'Undoubtedly, no one will ever know how many people died in Al Asnam."

Official estimates vary between 10,-000 and 20,000 dead, an equal number seriously injured, and up to 350,000 homeless in the Al Asnam region, which had a pre-quake population of about 1 million.

In the city alone, 6,000 bodies have been counted, many of them unidenti-fiable. An unknown number of dead tely destroyed, but officials said there Texas State Fair located in violent neighborhood

DALLAS (AP) - Fred Woolsey grew up in a neighborhood at war with a rising crime rate — but unlike most neighborhoods besieged by violence, this one surrounds the historic, art deco fairgrounds, site of the world's largest state fair.

Woolsey has lived in the area surrounding Fair Park all of his life. He claims it is one of the most violent, crime-plagued area of the city. And the situation is getting worse. The 32-year-old former Marine is, himself, the victim of the alarming increase in violent crimes. He's been in St. Paul's Hospital for nearly seven weeks, after he was shot in the leg by a burglar he was pursuing. His mother, Wanda Woolsey, operates a small liquor and grocery store about a block from the main gate of the fair. She has been burglarized more than 25 times this year.

'We've been having an average of 10 to 15 burglaries a year, but this year it has skyrocketed," he said.

Woolsey keeps a close watch on his mother's store. His father died of injuries sustained while fighting off attackers at one of the parking lots near the fairground in 1959. But it isn't just the Woolseys who have been victims of the high crime

In the first 12 days of the fair this year, there were five rapes reported in the area surrounding Fair Park. Last year, only one rape was reported, police said.

The latest victim was a 25-year-old woman who was raped Tuesday by three men while she clutched her 3-year-old son to her chest. Police saythe trio robbed the woman and her husband as they left the fairgrounds, then held the man at gunpoint, forcing him to watch the assault on his wife. The three are still at large, officers said. Assaults on increasing, also, police said. There were 12 assaults the first 12 days of the two-week fair, compared to only five during the same period last year. Woolsey says the rapes and attacks don't surprise him. What does alarm him is the virulent rate at which the violence is growing.

Fair visitors can feel relatively safe inside the grounds, where 70 officers are assigned on overtime.

But just outside the gates, there are only 55 officers to watch over thousands of fairgoers who often walk down dark streets and alleys to the vacate lots and front yards that double as parking lots during the fair.

"This new meeting is a confirmation of the good relations and the cordial feelings between the Holy See and the British nation," the Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano said in a front-page article today.

Reagan, Carter get in jabs at N.Y. charity fete

By The Associated Pless

President Carter and Ronald Reagan shook hands and then came out - well, if not fighting - at least jabbing verbally.

The two men met Thursday night for the first time since the presidential campaign began. The scene was a charity dinner in New York at which serious political speeches are traditionally put aside in favor of humor, but both Carter and Reagan managed to get in at least one undercut at his

Across the continent in Santa Barbara, Calif., independent candidate John Anderson continued to maintain that despite his poor showing in public opinion polls he could still win the presidency.

'There's going to be a surprise on the fourth of November when the results come in," Anderson said Thursday. "When the last vote is counted, I'm going

Reagan picked up the endorsement of two wellknown black leaders, meanwhile, and Carter's camp disavowed a statement by another black, former U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young, that Reagan's rhetoric means "it's going to be all right to kill niggers when he's president."

Today, Reagan is meeting with Mayor Ed Koch for a briefing on New York's needs, and Carter is back at the White House. Anderson is campaigning in California

The prospect of a debate remains vaguely in the offing, meanwhile, as League of Women Voters officials continue to consider canceling their debate invitation to Anderson. Such a move could lead to the long-awaited contest between Reagan and Carter.

Thursday night, Carter strode up to Reagan and shook hands with him at a charity dinner honoring Al Smith, the New York Democrat who was defeated for the presidency by Herbert Hoover in 1928.

Reagan, who is 69, kept up the dinner's tradition of humor by denying the "rumor" that he had been at the first dinner for Smith. °

Carter, too, drew laughs when he said that Cardinal Terence Cooke, who heads the foundation that sponsors the dinner, had demonstrated "a power even greater than that of the League of Women Voters" in getting Reagan to share a platform with

Reagan mentioned the 52 American hostages whose captivity in Iran has come up more and more with the approach of the first anniversary of their seizure, which coincides with Election Day.

"No one in America will rejoice more than I when America's long wait for a resolution of this crisis is ended," Reagan added.

Carter, for his part, brought up a statement about God not hearing the prayers of Jews, which was made at a meeting of fundamentalist Christians at which Reagan was enthusiastically greeted. Reagan later criticized the statement.

'In our zeal to strengthen the moral character of our nation, we must not set ourselves up as judges of what God may hear," Carter said. Earlier in the day in Detroit, Reagan was endorsed by the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy and Hosea Williams, two men associated with the late Martin Luther King Jr. during the civil rights struggle. "Crime has increased, inflation has increased, unemployment has increased and interest rates have increased" since Carter took office, Abernathy said as Reagan and GOP vice presidential candidate George Bush stood by.

'Poor black people cannot make it under this type of system for another six months, and we don't need this doctor any more," he said.

Autumn's total look

"It's fun be glamorous, to look rich," enthused commentator Suzanne Brien at Thursday's style show presented by the Junior Woman's Association and Pappagallo at Midland Hilton.

And glamorous it was.

More than 300 women were on hand to view the latest in autumn fashions, featuring costumes by Victor Costa, accessories by Alexis Kirk and a host of others.

Benefits from the $20-per-ticket event will go to the Midland Memorial Hospital pediatric equipment fund and scholarship endowment to Midland College.

Outstanding feature of the show was a medley of Western fashions. This favorite look featured tailored narrow pants in corduroy or wool, topped with boots (from shiny vinyl to leather), a cowboy hat and fur coats of rabbit, oppossum, coyote, fox and more.

"The overall look is luxurious, but classic," said Ms. Brien of New York but formerly of Midland. She is the daughter of Mrs. Jack

Victor Costa's after-five dresses and ball gowns were a clear audience favorite, receiving much spontaneous applause. Many of these "just occasion enough" dressses were designed with ruffles and lace collars, and in classic materials such as taffeta, velveteen or

Ms. Weddington said that it was a challenge of supporting the Planned Parenthood staff and working to retain laws which would enable the group to work toward their goal to make sure every child is a wanted child.

Ms. Weddington, who grew up in West Texas, argued and won a landmark decision at age 26 which gave Texas women the right to choose if

DEAR ABBY: Do you know what it's like to: -Walk down the street and have a total stranger say, "You have such a pretty face, it's a shame you're so fat." Shop in a grocery store and have people watch to see what you put in your cart?

-Walk into a restaurant and wonder if you'll fit into the booths or chairs? (Or worse yet, got to someone's home and pray there will be a chair that's sturdy enough to hold you?)

-Squeeze into a theater seat, and sit in agony during the entire performance while the sides of the seat dig into you thighs?

-Lose out on a job for which you are highly qualified because of the way you look? (They never tell you that's the reason, but somehow you know it

-Be told that someone would like to date you if you would lose some weight?

-Wonder if maybe you wouldn't be better off Well, I do. I know there is nothing you or anybody else can do about my problem, Abby, but it felt good to get it off my chest. Thanks for listening. —FAT, FEMALE AND MISERABLE DEAR MISERABLE: I know of two solutions to your problem. One is Overeaters Anonymous, P.O. Box 6190, Torrance, Calif. 90504. They have chapters in nearly every city in the nation, and a more loving, caring, understanding and supportive group of peo ple you could never hope to meet. The other is The National Association to Aid Fat

When writing, please enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

DEAR ABBY: If you have room for just one more letter about "the other woman," I hope this is it, because I am an authority. When I'd read a Dear Abby letter from "the other

He always talked about "someday" when he'd divorce his wife and marry me, but he never got around to divorcing her. (He said it was too expensive, but he bought himself a $4,000 watch.) Then suddenly a terrible thing happened. His wife died.

THE NEWSPAPER BIBLE

You are a V.I.P.

Now here is what I am trying to say: all of you together are the one body of Christ and each one of you is a separate and necessary part of it.

Here is a list of some of the parts He has placed in His church, which is His body:

Apostles,

Prophets—those who preach God's Word,

Teachers,

ys

Those who do miracles,

Those who have the gift of healing,

Those who can help others,

Those who can get others to work together,

Those who speak in languages they have never learned. Is everyone an apostle? Of course not. Is everyone a preacher? No. Are all teachers? Does everyone have the power to do miracles?

Can everyone heal the sick? Of course not. Does God give all of us the ability to speak in languages we've never learned? Can just anyone understand and translate what those are saying who have that gift of foreign speech?

No, but try your best to have the more important of these gifts. First, however, let me tell you about something else that is better than any of them!

Tokyo-San Firancisco balloon trip planned

TOKYO (AP) - Two crewmen of the Describle Eagle II, the first balloon to successfully cross the Atlantic, will join a third American and a Japanese restauranteur in an $1 million attempt to become the first copie to sail a balloon across the Pacific from Tokyo to San Francisco, an associate of the restaurant owner said thoday. The first trans-Atlantic balloonists, Ben Abruzzo, 50, and Larry Newman, 33, both of Albuquerque, N.M., vill be joined in their planned April flight by Rocky Aoki, 42, owner of the Benihana restaurant chain, and American balloonist Ron Clark, 40. Eddie Hata, vice president of Aoki's Henihana of Tokyo Inc. and chairman of the Japan Committee of Trans-Pacific Balloon Flight, disclosed the flight plans at a news confere nce.

He said the 204-foot-high helium-filled balloon, with a passenger ondola, will try to ride the Pacific jet stream air currents at altitudes of between 28,890 feet and 33,705 feet on the 5,1 152 mile flight.

The balloonists, commanded by Abruzzo, hope to complete the trip in three or four days, Hata said.

Abruzzo and Newman, together with Maxie Anderson, made ballooning history by becoming the first men to cross the Atlantic in a six-day flight from Maine to France in August 1978.

There was no immediate comment from the balloonists on the proposed Hata said Aoki, the organizer of the adv enture, plans to spend $1 million on the project. ABC Television has signed a contract with the restaurant owner to film the flight with three cameras attached to the balloon, he said.

He did not give the amount to the ABC contract and there was no immediate confirmation from the U.S. network.

HATA said the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the U.S. Air Force had agreed to assist in communications with the

Team works inside TMI

MIDDLETOWN, Pa. (AP) - Relieved of heavy protective gear that slowed previous work, a five-man crew spent up to 90 minutes on maintenance and other chores inside the containment building at the Three Mile Island nuclear plant.

The mission Thursday, the third since the plant was damaged in the nation's worst commerical nuclear power accident in March 1979, was termed a success by plant officials.

"It seems to have gone very well," said plant spokesman David Delzingaro. "This was indeed the longest time (since the accident) that the men have stayed in the building."

The only hitch during the mission was a camera that broke down, but the crew had a spare one for its

The team was made up of two maintenance men and three health physicists. It measured radiation levels between 150 and 500 millirems in an area around the top of the nuclear reactor, Delzingaro said, adding the levels dropped as the crew moved to the next level.

The findings were similar to those of an August survey team.

Earlier, crew members wore heavy iters' raincoats and self-contained breathing gear. The combination of weight and heat forced two members of a four-man team to leave halfway through a 40-minute mission in August.

This time, each man wore only two sets of cloth coveralls and gloves, booties, fireman's boots and batterypowered air masks.

Delzingaro said each man received a radiation dose of between 200 and 450 millirems. The average person is exposed to about 130 millirems a year from natural sources. Plant operators had set a 625 millirem limit for the

Hit man tells of death plan

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An aging Mafia executioner, unlocking secrets of the West Coast underworld, told a federal court jury how reputed mob figures plotted the murder of a gangster-turned-informant.

Aladena "Jimmy the Weasel" Fratianno, testifying under immunity to escape the death penalty, linked five old Mafia friends to extortion and three to murder as they glared at him across the court-

Fratianno also admitted guilt, saying: "I helped set up the death of Frank Bompensiero. He was to continue testifying today.

Fratianno, 67, named three defendants - Louis Tom Dragna, 59; Dominic Phillip Brooklier, 66; and Samuel Orlando Sciortino, 62 - as the Mafia chieftains who ordered the 1977 killing of Bompensiero, an underworld figure known as "the Bomp.

He linked two other defendants - Jack LoCicero, 68, and Michael Rizzitello, 52 — to extortion plots involving the pornography industry.

Fratianno described rules and rites of La Casa Nostra, saying the most important was "omerta," the vow of silence.

'And what is the penalty for violation of the rule of omerta?" asked prosecutor James Henderson. "You die, sir," said Fratianno.

The witness recalled when he first heard from Dragna in 1975 that Bompensiero was marked for death. Dragna was acting boss of the family then, Fratianno testified, and Fratianno was acting underboss - replacing Brooklier and Sciortino who were in prison.

Brooklier and Sciortino. ... We decided to clip

Fratianno said Dragna proposed that Bompensiero be elevated to consigliere — counselor — as a ruse. "He told me ... that would relax Frank and give us a good chance to clip him," said Fratianno. "That means kill him.'

Bompensiero was told of his promotion, Fratianno recalled, and "Frank was very very delighted."

Meanwhile, Fratianno said, mob members were trying to shake down Los Angeles pornographers — a move he said was dictated by Brooklier. The previous Mafia boss, Nick Licata, who died in 1974, opposed infiltration of the pornography industry, Fratianno said, relating a conversation about this with Brooklier.

away from you?"' Fratianno testified. "He said,

'Nick Licata thought it was porcaria — an Italian word for dirt - and we shouldn't fool with it." He said Brooklier added: "Now we are going to fool with it.'

Their efforts to extort money from two pornographers failed. Then, Bompensiero suggested they approach a company called Forex. It turned out to be covert FBI operation.

Rizzitello walked into the trap, Fratianno said, and became angry. "He said Frank set him up."

By then, Fratianno said, plans for Bompensiero's murder had escalated, adding Dragna favored luring him to a phone booth where he could be targeted.

"I called Frank one day, and I said, "This is no good, talking on your home phone. Why don't you get a number of a pay phone where I can call you?" He said Bompensiero complied, and for several months he would go to the pay phone at appointed times, It was at the phone booth, Feb. 10, 1977, that Bompensiero was gunned down.

In five hours of testimony, Fratianno named scores of Mafia members and associates and spoke of meetings with the Cleveland and Chicago branches of the mob. He also described extortion attempts on two Las Vegas gambling figures -Benjamin Binion and Moe Dalitz.

Fratianno said he has been promised relocation and a new identity in return for testimony.

At one point Henderson asked: "How do you get out (of La Cosa Nostra)?'

There's no way out, sir," said Fratianno. "They Fratianno said Dragna told him: "I met with tell you: 'When you come in, you're alive. When you go out, you're dead.""

Childrens' bodies hunted

ATLANTA (AP) - As volunteers prepared to search for the bodies of five missing children, the mother of one of nine children found dead here asked the city to call off Halloween.

NEW YORK (AP) - Stock prices edged lower today as some major banks raised their prime lending rates and the government said the economy is growing again.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial issues slipped 1.28 to 957.42 in the first hour of trading as declines outnumbered advances by a 8-5 margin among New York Stock Exchange issues. Chase Manhattan Bank was the first to raise its prime rate today from 13.5 percent to 14 percent, a rate previously charged only by Citibank and a rate that has drawn criticism from the Carter administrtion as too high. A number of other banks joined in the increase, including Chemical Bank, Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co. and the First National Bank of Chicago. The raises came one day after a leading Wall Street economist, Henry Kaufman of Salomon Brothers. warned that double digit interest rates "are here to stay." Kaufman's statement brought a sharp reaction, and stock prices fell rapidly in the last two hours of trading on Thursday. They had been at their highest levels in 31/2 years.

The Commerce Department report ed the nation's output of goods and services ross at an annual rate of 1 percent in the third quarter, after adjusting for inflation.

That is a slow rate, but it is up sharply from the record annual rate of decline of 9.6 percent in the secnd quarter, when the nation was in a

China air route goes to Pan Am

WASHINGTON (AP) - The government today tentatively awarded the prestigious U.S.-China air route to Pan American World Airways, opening the way for regularly scheduled air service between the two countries for the first time in 30 years.

The Civil Aeronautics Board selected Pan Am from among five U.S. airlines that sought the route, which government officials have hailed as symbolizing the new, closer relations between the United States and China.

Economic forecasting still remains as an art

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) - Economic forecasting has improved from the days of omens and portents, but it remains an art rather than a science. It is hard as mathematics and computers, but soft as its basic assump-

In making his hard, decimalized projections, Dr. Lawrence R. Klein, this year's winner of the Nobel Memorial Prize for Economics, is forced by the nature of forecasting to build on various soft assumptions. Klein, for example, foresees a moderate recovery in 1981, with gross national product rising 4.6 percent, inflation averaging 9.2 percent, and unemployment settling to around 8.2 percent in the final quarter. Critics point out, however, that the firm mathematical depictions of the economy that are characteristic of what is called econometrics are built on a quivering substructure of subjective assumptions. In the projections of Wharton Econometric Forecasting Associates, of which Klein is chairman, at least four important assumptions are made: -That a tax cut will become effective at the beginning of 1981.

-That the reduction will be about $27 billion, "with roughly half of the benefits going to individuals and half

-That the Federal Reserve will follow a course of moderate monetary restraint. "This implies that growth in the monetary aggregates will be moderate and that interest rates will rise, but not precipitously.

-That the Saudi Arabian price for oil "will average $34 a barrel in the first quarter of 1981, and that the average of other OPEC producers will rise by a somewhat lesser amount." Saudi oil now is about $30.

Because such assumptions precede the mathematical equations, which seek to relate how the various segments of production and consumption interact on each other, the results sometimes are far wide of the mark.

Klein and other users of mathematical models concede their results are only as good as their assumptions. A good econometrician must therefore be widely knowledgeable as well as scientifically precise.

Klein, of course, has these qualifi-cations, being solidly grounded in eco-nomics and the world of academe, and widely connected in both the political and business worlds, where his models are eagerly awaited.

Clients of econometric firms, such as Wharton Associates, Data Resources Inc. and Chase Econometrics, need not accept the models as inflexible, but can adjust them to their own forecasting needs.

As tools, therefore, they remain useful no matter what criticisms are leveled at their imperfections. If an assumption is questioned, for instance, a different assumption can be made and the model adjusted.

Never, however, can one avoid the assumptions, and in a world that grows more interrelated, the job becomes increasingly complex.

Moreover, nobody can consistently foretell political upheavals, wars, and the myriad, natural phenomena such as volcanic eruptions or severe droughts. Nor is mass psychology fully understandable.

Because of this, the award is likely to be seen as recognition for having advanced the art, and having solved some problems along the way, rather than having accomplished a goal.

So long as humans act like humans the future is likely to remain a contin-uing puzzle. And if mankind ever catches it, of course, the very act might change it. You might say we've come a long, long way, and that professor Klein has done more than his share to push us along, but that the future is still out there in the ether where it's always

Ronald Reagan aides worry about war-peace charges

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Campaign aides to Ronald Reagan, anticipating a "major surge" by President Carter in key industrial states, are increasingly concerned about the impact of the war-and-peace issue, despite their current assessment that the Republican presidential candidate is leading in 35 states.

Robert Strauss, the Carter campaign chairman, heid a news conference on Wednesday to say the surge already has occurred and that Carter now is even or ahead in every major state except California and Florida. Strauss gave his assessment as he renewed his call on Reagan to debate the president one-on-one.

Reagan's camp said it still wanted a three-man debate including independent John Anderson, but there are hints that position could change or Reagan could go on national television to rebut Carter's comments

Strauss' assessment has Carter leading in Illinois, Michigan and Michigan and Texas and with the race even in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Connecticut and Wisconsin. He said the election "is beginning to move our But an internal assessment distributed within the Reagan campaign organization listed the GOP candidate as solidly ahead in 23 states and leading in 12. If he carried them all he would have a total of 372 electoral votes, 102 more than the 270 required to win. But the assessment also warned that "Carter may be on the verge of staging a major surge in certain traditional Democratic industrial states. In other words, while we are still ahead in Pa., N.J., Conn., and Mich., these states could very well end up in the Carter column." Those four states have a total of 73 electoral votes and would not be enough to re-elect Carter if the rest of the assessment held true. The two biggest states the memo counted as solid for Reagan are California with 45 electoral votes and Ohio On the other hand, the memo indicates the Reagan campaign has written off New York with its 41 electoral votes. The state is listed as solid for Despite the optimistic assessment of where the election currently stands, there are clear signs that the Reagan staff is worried about polling data showing a sharp increase in the number of voters who fear Reagan would get the country into war if he were president.

Edwin Meese III, the campaign chief of staff, said in an interview on Wednesday that in an effort to defuse the war and peace issue, it is "highly possible" Reagan will agree to debate Carter or will deliver a 30-minute speech on national television.

Meese said Carter's attacks on Reagan "have raised questions in people's minds that have to be over-fired and that "people are going to see through that after a while." That opinion seemed supported recently when the president said in a television interview after he'd charged Reagan might divide the nation that "I have gotten carried away on a couple of occasions.'

But Meese never mentioned the results of polling by Richard Wirthlin, a top Reagan aide, who reported that he found only a slight increase in opposipared with a dramatic jump in the number who said they feared Reagan would get the country into war.

In another effort to defuse the issue, the Reagan campaign is starting an intensive advertising campaign, primarily on television, geared to present the Republican candidate as a man of peace.

The campaign also is beginning to use longer segments of television time. Last weekend, the first of a series of five-minute ads ran on national television, just before the 11 p.m. news. Another ran on Wednesday night. Both the Reagan and Carter camps are watching closely for signs as to which way supporters of John B. Anderson might go as his independent presidential candidacy fades.

Anderson announced on Wednesday that he had failed to obtain bank loans he planned to use for a major television advertising blitz during the closing days of the campaign. However, aides to the congressman said he is raising $2 million in loans from supporters and will use it for an ad campaign.

Anderson dropped to 8 percent in the latest Gallup Poll, down from 15 percent three weeks earlier. The League of Women Voters is considering whether to drop Anderson from its presidential debate plans and invite Carter and Reagan to a one-on-one confrontation.

Japan top crude steel producer

TOKYO (AP) — Japan will move ahead of the United States in 1980 to become the top producer of crude steel in the non-communist world, the Japan Iron and Steel Federation said

The Federation sald that Japan's total crude steel production for the calendar year will reach about 111.7 million tons, unchanged from 1979 production, while U.S. steelmakers will produce only 98 million tons, a drop of 21 percent from the 123.4 million-ton output last year.

It said U.S. steelmakers, hit by severe recessions in the construction and auto industries, will produce less than 100 million tons for the first time since 1963.

The Federation obtained its figures from data reported at the Interna-tional Iron and Steel Institute meeting in Madrid, Spain, earlier this month.

A large selection of handmade Oriental and Persian Rugs (new and old). Kerman-Kashan-Tabriz-Ardebil-Suk-Saruk.

Good handmade Persian Rugs are recognized as one of the finest investments on today's market. You will app preciate these values!

Aladdin House is proud to present this fabulous showing and sale just in time for the holidays!

Oriental rugs and carpets have been produced for centuries and the rugs and carpets produced today are the same in almost every respect as those produced 500 years ago. The best known and most beautiful rugs come from Persia but there are also excellent pieces that come from China, Afghanistan, Turkey, Pakistan, India and Romania. There are other countries in Asia and Africa who produce hand made rugs, but we do not have enough space here to enumerate all of them. All these rugs are made of wool. There are exceptions such as some of the Persian Qum that are made of pure silk.

One may ask why is a hand made oriental rug or carpet the most prized and sought after of all floor coverings? The main reasons are:

1) An oriental rug, being entirely hand made, has a guaranteed durability. Even accidental damage can be repaired without decreasing the rug's value. This cannot be said of a machine made rug which, once damaged,

2) The decorative value of an oriental rug in undeniable. It greatly enhances a room and creates an immediate impression of friendly warmth on entering it. 3) Provided it is used with care, the value of an oriental rug increases year by year. It is a safe investment and can be turned into ready cash at any time It is sometimes believed that oriental rugs and carpets are very expensive items. This is not so. We have many fine pieces that sell at under $500.00

A brief summary of our rugs and carpets, and their characteristics, is as follows:

Persian: The finest pieces come trom the towns such as Istahan, Qum, Kashan, Tabriz and Kerman. In addition there are the nomadic rugs of coarser weave such as Hamadan, Shiraz, Abadeh, Afshar and Belouch. We also have Kelims which have no pile, which come in colorful, geometric designs.

Chinese: The thickest pile of all carpets and rugs. They are very luxurious and come in embossed Aubusson, Floral and Peking designs

Pakistan: Specialises in Bokhara and Atghan designs and in excellent copies of Persian design. Considerably less expensive than Persian rugs.

Afghan: In well known elephant foot designs in red and gold. Useful for ottices and hallways. Other designs are India: Mainly heavy pile. Produced with beautiful pastel backgrounds in Floral, Aubusson or Chinese Peking

Turkish: Made of wool, silk and artificial silk. Some rugs rival those of Persia in quality and design. Reasonably Romanian: Mainly copies of Persian designs, but we also have large carpets with the Aubusson design made in wool supplied from England. Extremely good value at very low prices.

Bulldogs gird for Warbirds' aerial barrage

By BOB DILLON

Abilene High's aerial circus comes to Memorial Stadium tonight.

Quarterback Loyal Proffitt, the No. passer in District 5-5A, takes dead aim at the Midland High secondary as the Bulldogs celebrate Homecoming against the explosive Eagles.

The football will be teed up at 8 p.m. Proffitt, starting his third season as signal-caller for the Warbirds and Coach Louie Spinks, comes off a 31-14 loss to unbeaten Odessa Permian last weekend. The Eagles led Mojo, 7-3 at haltime and only trailed Permian 17-14 until the Panthers scored twice in the final period.

MIDLAND FANS remember Proffitt from last year. He hit tailback Leo Parrish on a six-yard touchdown pass with 10 seconds left to upend the Pack, 13-10 in Abilene.

Spinks is impressed with Midland's size. "They (Midland) are big and I don't know if we can keep up with them physically, "stated Spinks. "I really am impressed with Michael Feldt and when they put in those two big tackles on defense, they are impressive. "They also have a fine line-backer in Gary Willis," added

ABILENE IS 3-2 on the season and 1-1 in 5-5A play. Both losses have been to state-ranked teams in Temple and

Midland Coach Pat Culpepper feels this game tonight is the most important of the year for his Purple Pack. 'We need a win badly. I was proud of the way we came back against Big Spring last week after our loss to Permian the previous week, quipped Culpepper. His Pack is also 3-2 and

Getting back to Proffitt, the 175pound senior has connected of 36 of 81 passes for 520 yards and three touchdowns this year. Joining Proffitt and Parrish in the Eagle backfield tonight will be Jacob Flores (170) and wingback Derrick Fields (165). Flores replaces Todd James, an 180-pounder in the lineup. Parrish is a 160-pound

Fields is Proffitt's favorite target. He has latched on to 12 passes for 177 yards and one touchdown while Kenny Joyner, a 165-pound senior split end, has nine receptions for 158 yards. He also throws to tight end

David Coffey and Austin England.
Midland brings the No. 4 offense in the league into the game while Abilene stands sixth while on defense, Midla t stands fourth and Abilene

PARRISH IS the leading rusher for the Eagles with 303 yards in 68 carries and five touchdowns. Midland's leading ground gainer is senior fullback Scott Yocham, a 197-pounder, who has 353 yards in 57 carries and two Feldt has passed for 451 yards in completing 28 of 55 passes for four touchdowns. His top receiver, David Bledsoe, is still out with a broken thumb. Kyle Ford who replaced Bledsoe has caught four passes for 94 yards and one TD.

Proffitt, like Feldt, also handles the punting chores. He has an average of 43.3 yards per kick while Feldt has an average of 31.4.

'We are in the best physical shape of the year with the exception of Jerry Zachery and Bledsoe, "said Culpep-per. Zachery is still in a cast and Bledsoe's cast comes off next week,'

Midland Lee's Rebels can propel themselves back into the thick of the District 5-5A race with a victory over Abilene Cooper at Abilene tonight, but the state-ranked Cougars will go into the game a 10-point favorite.

KC's Brett would rather play than sit

By ROSS NEWHAN

The Los Angeles Times KANSAS CITY, Mo. - Dr. John Heryer, a local proctologist, was there. Dr. Paul Meyer, the Kansas City team physician, was there. More than 100 members of the media were there. This seemed to be the most dramatic moment of the 1980 World

The topic of the Thursday afternoon press conference:

Hemorrhoids. The bottom line:

George Brett, who now more than ever would rather play than sit, is expected to be at third base Friday night when the Royals, down 0-2 to the Philadelphia Phillies, host Game 3 of the best-of-seven tournament.

"I plan on George being able to play tomorrow night," Dr. Meyer said, "I'm sure he will not be at peak level. Running and sliding will cause some discomfort, but there is no risk of permanent damage."

Brett, who first began to experience discomfort Saturday in New York, was forced to leave Wednesday night's game in Philadelphia after five innings. He entered St. Luke's Hospital here following the Royals' early morning arrival and underwent a 20-minute surgical procedure during which Dr. Heryer excised an external blood clot. Dr. Heryer ("It's Hurry-er, as in the hurry-er I go, the behinder I get") said that Brett would spend most of the afternoon and evening soaking in a hot tub. He will be released Friday morning, rejoining a team that is itself in hot water.

WILL THE Royals drown if Dave Chalk, a career .252 hitter, is forced to replace the man who batted .390. driving in 118 runs in his 117 games this year?

There is this evidence: the Royals were 75-43 in games Brett started this year and 22-22 in games he did not. Now Kansas City is in a must-win situation, drawing the home field advantage for at least two, and possibly, three games.

Thirteen times in World Series history, a team has lost the first two games and rallied to win. The Royals, lowever, are in against a team that has created an art form out of the business of coming back.

The Phillies have rallied in all five of their post-season victories with a winning streak now of four. The drain and strain that Philadelphia was expected to exhibit after the five-game playoff with Houston now has the appearance of momentum.

The Phillies rallied from a 4-0 deficit to beat 20-game winner Dennis Leonard in Game 1 of the Series and then rallied from a 4-2 deficit to beat Dan Quisenberry (33 saves) in Game

Del Unser, who contributed significant pinch hits in Game 4 of the playoffs and Game 2 of the Series, said Wednesday, "This is a type of confidence I haven't seen with any of the other six teams. I played with. It comes from the fact we are doing it, have done it and expect to do it again. We all now expect we will come through when we have to."

THE ROYALS, meanwhile, haven't won in almost a week. They completed their three-game playoff sweep of New York last Friday and had three off days before opening the Series in Philadelphia, which even the home teams have never really regarded as a City of Brotherly Love.

Now there seems to be some feeling among the Royals that the organization made a mistake in waiting out the results of the National League playoff in New York rather than returning to Kansas City for a day or two of civic celebrations.

"We beat the team we wanted to beat, winning the pennant some said we would never win," catcher Darrell Porter said, "and we've yet to hear our first cheer. We were booed in New York and booed in Philly. It's been like one long road trip. We need to hear some cheers more than anything."

Only about 500 faithful greeted the Royals when the team arrived here at 3 a.m. (CDT) Thursday morning. The playoff victory seemed a distant memory. The Royals returned with a two-game losing streak.

"It's hard to say we let down in Philadelphia," catcher-outfielder John Wathan said. "After all, we led both games. But there were things we didn't do that we normally do and it seemed like the Phillies were just more ready to play than we were. I didn't like the idea of walking around New York for a couple days. I'd have rather come home and shared it (the pennant victory) with people who had waited so long for it."

Manager Jim Frey disagreed, saying he did not believe the Royals had experienced a letdown or had looked on the Yankee sweep as their World

"We scored six runs on three home runs in the first game (of the Series)," he said, "and we had a tworun lead in the eighth inning of the second game. The people responsible for that weren't flat, weren't going,

George Brett...awaits verdict on bottom line.

"We didn't hit the ball as well in the playoffs as we have in the Series, but the one thing we haven't done is control the Philadelphia offense in the same way we controlled the Yankee through a letdown.

> as much as I anticipated, but the credit there belongs to (Steve) Carlton (who worked eight innings Wednesday night). We put the steal sign up a couple times but the guys just weren't able to get a jump."

"We also haven't been able to run

THE ROYALS, who stole 40 more bases than Philadelphia during the season, also haven't been able to run because their generator, Willie Wilson, has found it difficult stealing first base. Wilson is hitting only .111. He is 1 for 9 with five strikeouts.

"Willie reached base on an average of two or three times every game during the season," Frey said, "but it's unrealistic to believe a player can do that all the time. It's unfair to point the spotlight at Willie and say he's responsible for the two losses. I've been reading about all those players with characteron the other team and some of them don't have a lot of hits

The Yankees scored only six runs off Kansas City after averaging 5.1 during the season. The Phillies have now scored 13 runs in two games.

Right-hander Rich Gale (13-9) will be asked to defuse that attack Friday. Gale won 11 straight games between June 17 and Sept. 1, but hampered by tendinitis in his elbow and shoulder, made only five appearance over the final five weeks and has not pitched since he worked four innings in relief on the final day of the season. Frey said he would be satisfied if Gale gives him six strong innings Right-hander Dick Rutnven (17-10) will pitch for the Phillies, who may be without Greg Luzinski. The Bull missed Wednesday's game because of a stomach virus and did not accompany the team here Thursday. Manager Dallas Green said Luzinski may be flown in Friday.

will have to play our very best game by far to be in it with them tonight," stated Culpepper. "Our secondary will get a stern test." Culpepper is impressed with linebacker Scott Hamilton and safety Karl Kearney. Both are juniors and played extremely well last week against Permian. Hamliton was in on over 20 tackles against Mojo last week, according to

JOE GOEBEL, 250-pound junior tackle along with tight end Wade poundn, a 235-pound senior, anchor down the Bulldog line. Johnson will return to his tight end slot tonight if defensive tackle Jerry Dedrick (220) is able to go on defense.

New tailback Johnny Garza, a tough 143-pound senior, is back in the lineup tonight after a 100-yard plus performance last week in Midland's 25-12 win over Big Spring.

Besides Feldt, Yocham and
Garza,the fourth back, slotback Mark Hewitt, a 200-pound senior, rounds out the backfield. Hewitt, after missing the first four games of the year with a back injury, recovered a fumble in the end zone last week for a touchdown against Big Spring.

Ford will be at wide receiver and either Johnson or Wally Klein, a 6-foot-6, 225-pound junior, will be at the tight end slot. The offensive tackles will be Craig Bostwick, 6-4, 235pound junior and Richard Barton, 190-pound senior. The guards will be David Vinson, a 200-pounder and Scott Ballew, 185. Hank McClung, a 190-pound senior will be over the ball

On defense, Matt Carr, 180-pound senior and Elston Montgomery, 170-pound senior at the end slots. Tackles will be Johnson and Goeble while the linebackers will include Greg Spencer, 160-pound junior or Willis; Lance Langford, 190-pound senior and Curt Holcomb, 1n 180-pound junior. Scott Louderback, 170-pound junior and Jim Sutherland, a 165-pound ju-nior, will play cornerback. The safe-ties will include Doug McLean, a 175-pound senior and Feldt.

Royals unhappy with trip home

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) - The Kansas City Royals were not only unhappy coming home without a victory to show for their first two games in the World Series, they didn't like the travel arrangements.

In a copyright story in today's editions of the Topeka (Kan.) Capital-Journal, Royals players said the charter flight home from Phildalephia, which arrived in Kansas City around 3 a.m. CDT Thursday, was overbooked because of front office people, Royal Lancers (volunteer season ticket salesmen) and media representatives.

The players said every one of the 140 seats available on the TWA charter 707 jet flight was filled.

Player representative Pete LaCock said Major League Player Association rules provide that players not seated in first class will be assigned three seats for two players, allowing a vacant seat between players.

LaCock said the team would probably meet today to file an official griev-

Second baseman Frank White, Most Valuable Player in the American League Championship Series against the New York Yankees, said, 'This is ridiculous. If you're a first class organization, you either charter two planes like the Phillies or a 747 so there would be room. But they treat us like second class citizens.

"You can't be comfortable," White told the Capital-Journal. "It should be your wife, an empty seat, and you. We're sitting by people we don't even Catcher and utility man John Wathan was quoted as saying, "We always travel first class during the season and now, in the World Series, we

The newspaper said two players, who asked that their name not be used, complained that catcher Darrell Porter had his fiance along and the charter was supposed to be limited to wives only.

Bill Beck, traveling secretary for the Royals, said flights during the regular season normally provide for 42 people, but on the flight home from Philadelphia there were 138 and the ailing George Brett was provided with additional space for his com-

Beck said the players are not telling the entire story. He said "the Phillies did not allow wives to travel on the charter to Houston for the playoffs." He said, "18 paid their way to Houston and back."

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Dan Devine says he sympathizes with the Green Bay Packers for discarding two aides whom he accuses of having greased the skids for his forced resignation from the National Football League club six years ago.

"I know what they pulled on me," Devine said, referring to public rela-tions director Chuck Lane and defensive coordinator Dave "Hawg" Hanner, whom Packer Coach Bart Starr dismissed last year.

"I don't blame him for getting rid of them," Devine said. "Those two guys hurt me the most. I should have never hired them. Members of my own staff were telling me the first year I was there I should get rid of Lane and Hanner.'

Devine, now coach of Notre Dame University, made his remarks Thursday to sportswriter Mike Christopulos of the Milwaukee Sentinel in a telephone interview from South Bend,

He had a 25-27-4 record as Packer coach before resigning under pressure after the 1974 season.

Devine said management sided with griping players rather than with him while associates warned him "my own staff was cutting me up. I never believed it. It took me three years to find out.'

Lane, whom Starr removed amid the gloom of last season's 5-11 record. replied in Green Bay that he had not

Madrid sparks MHS sophs to 21-6 victory over Odessa

The Midland High sophomores, behind the great running of tailback Ricky Madrid and some stout defensive play, turned away the Odessa High sophs, 21-6 Thursday afternoon at the MHS practice field.

Madrid scored on runs of 80, 55 and one yard to pace the victory.

After holding OHS at the Bulldog 20, Madrid got loose around his right end to scamper all the way for an 80-yard journey into glory land. Wayne Perry booted the PAT for a 7-0 lead in the first period.

Madrid did his thing again in the second period by skipping 55 yards to pay dirt. This time, he also ran over for the two-point conversion and a

Maybe the Astros didn't bring the National League pennant to Houston, but they brought baseball fever to Texas, a malady that raged out of control the closing weeks of the season and reached near hysteria proportions during the series with the Phillies, a five-game set unparalleled for drama in playoff annals.

One could make the J.R. and, two, winning trip from Dallas to Waco Saturday after the OU-Texas game and never miss a pitch, whether or not he was in a car or stopping on the way. The play-by-play even invaded the football sanctity of the Baylor Stadium press box over the public address system.

It didn't even seem to matter that much, after it was over, that the Astros really didn't pull it off. After all, no one in his right mind expected this bunch of unknowns to accomplish what teams blessed with the likes of Jim Wynn, Don Wilson, Larry Dierker, Roger Metzger, Doug Rader, Rusty Staub, Mike Cuellar, Jesus Alou, Joe Morgan...was

A 25-year career man with the Phillies organization, Green didn't want the managing job after the dismissal of Danny Ozark in the final months of the 1979 season.

The new manager discovered he had a team used to having its own way. The talent was there, but togetherness was lacking.

Green didn't carry any eye-opening credentials himself as a major leaguer, but he did bring to the new job a solid understanding of the game acquired as a player, minor league manager, coach, and finally director of the minor league system.

He also was the first Phillies manager in years with absolute authority to make stick the rules he set down. No more running over the manager's head to Carpenter when a player didn't get his way.

The stars found out they were on the same plane as the utility players. They discovered that Green used all his players, and he wouldn't hesitate to bench a petulant star if he wasn't producing.

Although they fought him all the way, the Phillies got the message. They won their division, beat Houston in the National League playoffs, and now lead in the World Series over American League champion Kansas City, 2-0, in the best-of-seven set.

Green feels he has succeeded, although he says a few players may not yet have bought his tactics.

Dear Bowie: Wha's goin' on here? Who are these people?

THE MIDLAND REPORTER-TELEGRAM, FRI., OCTOBER 17, 1980

Los Angeles Times PHILADELPHIA -- Memo to Bowie Kuhn, commissioner of all baseball. 'Dear Bowie

"Look, Commissioner, I hate to be an old crab, I've really tried to be understanding but - well, it's about the World

"You know me as a traditionalist, Commissioner, a man who takes a great pride in the noble standards of the grand old game. I mean, I like the World Series as well as any man living. I am always reminded of the glorious feats of Babe Ruth and Gehrig and Mantle and Maris and Lefty Grove and Pepper Martin and Country Slaughter and the great DiMaggio.

Now, then, I found myself looking at the opening game of this year's World Series, the 78th, and I found myself making notes to myself like 'Check on No. 12, a right fielder.' Or I put down that 'No. 24 made a nice stop

'My point is, I have to look up 'No. 12' in a book they give you and I find out it's 'John Wathan.' Now, look, Commissioner, I want you to tell me right quick what or who a 'John Wathan' is, what's his background, and above all, what's he doing in a World Series? I mean, is he even on bubblegum

"LOOK! Johnny Bench is a World Series player. Reggie Jackson. Ruth. Gehrig. Cobb. Dizzy Dean. Mantle. Willie Mays is a World Series ballplayer. But is Willie Mays

'Where are the New York Yankees, Commissioner? Who in heaven's name are these guys in those funny-looking violet uniforms?

"I mean, the KANSAS CITY ROYALS, for cryin' out loud?! They're a Yankee farm club, aren't they? They're in the American Assn. or the Pacific Coast League. They play Scranton and Toledo and Albuquerque or somebody like that, don't they? Who told them they were big leaguers? What kind of a scam are you pulling here?

You mean to tell me these guys are playing in the same hallowed series as the Miracle Braves, Connie Mack's A's, the 1927 Yankees, the Gas House Gang, the 1963 Dodgers?

"The Kansas City Royals' sole function on this earth was to lose to the New York Yankees, wasn't it?

'I'm not too thrilled about the Philadelphia Phillies, to tell you the truth. In my day, we didn't take them all that seriously. The 'Phutile Phils' was what the scribes always called them. The word 'hapless' was most commonly applied to them. They're about 50 lifetime Series behind the Yankees. I think they've been in two, lost both of them, naturally. Won one whole game the first time around and lost all four in a row the second time. Not exactly your basic juggernaut, the Phils.

'But, at least, they're legit. They've been around a long time. You know. Grover Cleveland Alexander pitched for them. Maybe you remember Ronald Reagan took the part in the films? With Doris Day.

But if you want me to run down the Kansas City Royals lineup for you, well, there's Richard Blackwell Gale. Guess what he does for a living. Lawrence Cyril Gura is on the roster. Ralph Pierre LaCock. James Patrick Quirk. And, of course, the ever-popular John D. Wathan. 'I'm not making these names up, Commissioner. They're

"I WOULDN'T mind if these guys knew their place. They got a nerve being here in the first place. You can bet me NBC isn't too thrilled. NBC's idea of a World Series

"You know what the pitching rotation for the Kansas City is, Commissioner? Dennis Patrick Leonard, Lawrence C. Gura and Richard Blackwell Gale. I mean, what happened to pitchers like Schoolboy Rowe, guys named Lefty or Rube? Dizzy, even? Richard Blackwell Gale sounds like a guy running for office. 'Alabama casts 37 votes for the honorable Richard Blackwell Gale, the ne-e-xt President of these United States!

"While I'm at it, baseball is supposed to be played on World Series on carpeting and under light bulbs. I mean, what is it - baseball or pool? It's billiards, is what it is. Also, there's supposed to be nine on a side. Well, there's 10 in this Series. Abner Doubleday would have a stroke.

"Commissioner, what are they doing to the grand old game? Shouldn't somebody be prosecuted?

"Did you see some of those goings-on over the weekend? Took seven umpires and the league president to decide on a comebacker to the mound. Think Bill Klem ever went to the league president to make a call on a play 60 feet away? They almost had a triple play by legislation. I think we lost a triple play by a vote of 5-4 with one abstaining.

"An outfielder trying to throw a guy out at the plate actually threw the ball BACKWARD. I didn't think you even "Now, you take Tuesday night's opening game of the 1980 Socks. Philadelphia starts a 23-year-old pitcher infelicitously named Walk - Robert Vernon Walk, to give him his rich for you. It might be embarrassing for the Philadelphia full monicker. Robert Vernon was pumping gas in Newhall, Phillies to finally win a World Series and somebody says, Calif., a year ago at this time. He has done most of his best pitching lately at Spartanburg and Reading, if you get sas City Royals," and the other guy says, "Oh!"

'The Kansas City's treat him like he was Christy Mathewson for seven innings, but his best pitch is a gopher out over the plate. The Kansas City's rough him up for three home runs, but the '27 Yankees might have roughed him up for three by the third batter. They would have had him out of there before the anthem died down.

"I HATE to put the knock on the Kansas City's, Commissioner, but let me tell you what the third baseman does with a relay he takes from the outfield with a man on third. He spots the runner on first caught off the bag and he runs across the diamond, turning his back on the grass and in the sun, isn't it? Well, they're playing this runner on third who, of course, scores. I haven't seen a play like that since third grade schoolyard, but it's more or less typical of the grade of play in this Series which I would have to characterize as Early Sandlot or 5 o'clock industrial league. These guys should carry plumbing advertising on their backs.

'I know they think a lot of these Whozits in K.C., Commissioner, but what do they know in Kansas City? I mean, it's not like Ruth, Gehrig, DiMaggio, Dickey, the real Willie Mays played there or John McGraw managed, is it? A team that would lose to a kid pitcher with an ERA of 4.56 would buy a watch from a guy in a checked suit in the

"The Philadelphia Phillies have now won their second World Series game ever. But, before, they had to play teams like the DiMaggio Yankees and the Boston Red Sox who had, get this, Babe Ruth at the time. When you hit three home runs and get beat, you might be in a game a notch too "That's great! Who did you beat?" and they say, "The Kan-

By luck or design, they are playing, not sitting

By BRUCE LOWITT AP Sports Writer

Whether by design or merely luck, they're playing instead of sitting on the bench — and they're getting the job done in the National Football League this season.

Danny White, Jim Plunkett, Kenny King, Vince Ferragamo, Kevin Long, Louie Giammona — they've proved their worth as reserves-turned-starters or as temporary replacements for bigger names.

White, of course, knew all along that he'd be Dallas' No.1 quarterback when Roger Staubach retired. But getting the job and getting it done are two different things. So far he's done it well enough to keep the Cowboys winning. On Sunday he did it better than ever, completing 16 of 22 passes and throwing four for touchdowns in Dallas' 59-14 romp over San Francis-

PLUNKETT had to content himself with carrying a clipboard on Oakland's sideline, until quarterback Dan Pastorini went down with a broken leg. Plunkett, thrust into the starting completing 11 of 14 passes, one for a TD, as the Raiders upset San Diego

Plunkett's teammate, Kenny King, was a virtually anonymous running back in 1979, seeing as he was with the Houston Oilers, home of Earl Campbell. Three rushes for nine yards last year did not make him a household word when he was traded to the Oilers for safety Jack Tatum. This year, King is among the league's rushing leaders, thanks in part to his 138 yards and two touchdowns against the Vince Ferragamo was, many fans believed, deserving of a starting role as Los Angeles' quarterback, seeing as how it was he and not Pat Haden who guided the Rams into the Super Bowl. Haden, however, was back in the driver's seat when the season began - until another injury sidelined him again. And Ferragamo, No.1 again, has the Rams winning. His TD pass and TD run Sunday gave them the second-quarter points they needed to beat St. Louis 21-13.

KEVIN LONG is one of the New York Jets' "which one's he?" running backs who supported Clark Gaines' 905-yard performance last year with 442 of his own. But when Gaines broke a leg a week ago, Long took over — and on Sunday he had the Jets' first 100-yard running game of the year and scored the winning TD in a 14-7 upset at Atlanta.

Like Long, Philadelphia's Louie Giammona is a supporting character in a world of superstars. No other runner on the Eagles is in Wilbert Montgomery's class. But with Montgomery on the bench Sunday with a recurring groin injury, Li'l Louie (5foot-9, 180 pounds) stepped in and led Philadelphia's ground game, Abilene Cooper's junior varsity won it's first game of the season at the expense of the Midland Lee Stonewall Brigade, 21-18, Thursday night in Memorial Stadium.

No roster was avaliable and even the Cooper fans didn't know whatplayers were suited out, but the visitors from the Key City scored a touchdown on the final play of the first half and then erupted for 15 points in the third to take the hard-fought win over Ernie Johnson's crew. The loss gives the Lee JV a 2-2 record while Cooper. now stands 1-4 on the year with the win.

Fumbles played a big part along with a blocked punt. Lee recovered four fumbles and Cooper three, but an interception by the Cougars along with a blocked Lee punt and safety, was too much for the Tall City team to overcome.

Lee jumped in front, 6-0 in the first period when Kyle Cox banged over from the one. The kicked failed, making it 6-0 with 52 seconds left in the first period.

Giants first baseman Mike Ivie, who was injured much of last season before briefly retiring, then returning to the club, doesn't have Manager Dave Bristol rooting for his return next year. "We've got to get rid of the cancer on this club," adding that getting rid of Ivie would be the first'step. BOWLING BEAT

Stephens' 710, Denton's 703 pace bowlers

Gary Stephens paced bowlers leading off the month of October with a 710 series in the Oil Star League, posting games of 249-213-248. John Denton, bowling the Petroleum American League, rolled 258-221-224-703 Sept. 30 to pace bowlers as September ended. In the same league, Charlie Lacy bowled

Dot Fielding was tops for the women with 624 on 208-231-185 and Dot Wilkerson bowling in the Sparettes League, rolled the first 600 series by a woman at Dellwood Lanes with a 603 Oct. 8. Her high game was 231.

Oct. 6, Robert Belcher converted a 7-10 split in the Air Park Classic Scratch League. Belcher, a teammate of mine, was rolling on 18 and I was keeping score when the rarity happened. Although this is the fourth time in the last five years it has been done at the center, it was the first time I actually witnessed the bowler's fencepost being converted.

Belcher, as happens with 99 per cent of the bowlers who convert the 7-10, did not see the split being made. He did it by ramming the seven pin straight back to the wall. The pin came back towards his ball, deflected off the ball and clipped the 10 pin.

hardly believe it either and accolades from other bowlers began pummelling Belcher's hands. He'll probably never believe it even after he receives his award from ABC. After all, seeing is believing and he never saw the spare converted.

While this was taking place; time seemed to hang for a few minutes as I stared at Leonard Rodriquez, who was keeping score for his team next to me to be sure that what had happened did actually happen.

Taxes on the legal stuff, still known as "Parliament Whiskey", have gone up again; the police are otherwise occupied with the troubles in the North, which like any crisis increases the national thirst, and the lads in the hills have not lost their skill at distilling the blessed stuff right under the noses of the authorities. October is the month for making it.

A letter from Ireland just this morning confirms all this.

"Paddy McCann made his Christmas deliveries early this year," a cousin twice removed (once by the police) in County Cavan informs me. 'He cooked up a lovely batch and put it in those big stone calor gas cylinders; you know, like the ones they store oxygen in at the hospital. Well, that was a new one on me. Cannon ---, who has the central heating, has two drums standing outside the priest house and the Gardai (the Irish police) haven't tumbled.'

I have never met Paddy McCann,

he used to be known as "Paddy the Porker," because the false floor in his old Austin taxi was deep enough to smuggle a herd of pigs across the Ulster border in the poteen off-sea-

Paddy is a "cadger," a professional poteen distributor. Men of charm, daring and deception, to whom the risk is often more enticing than the profit, cadgers over the years have resorted to all sorts of ruses to throw the excise men and the police off the scent, including tossing a few bottles here and there along the trail to slow down the search.

The nectar of the bogs has been delivered in milk carts, butter churns, hay ricks, diaper trucks, tinkers' caravans, canal boats, jaunting carts, whatever moves in Ireland. It has been hidden in fairy forts, school houses and church confessionals. It has been tied beneath cattle on the way to market, concealed in the drum of a "honey wagon" - a fertilizer spreader — and piously paraded in front of the police barracks by old "shawlies" wearing hollowed out metal bras and containerized fake pregnancy protrusions.

Rarely, however, despite the old John Ford movies, has the lovely stuff, also known as the delicious dropeen, made its way into town in a casket, hearse, flower car or other funerary conveyance.

"It wouldn't work at all," Martin Thornton of Galway once informed me: "If there's a funeral procession, the police might start looking around That was a few years back, and I thought it was the best description of white lightning I had come across since Irving S. Cobb described some Tennessee moonshine: "A sudden violent jolt of it has been known to stop the victim's watch, snap his sus-

Thornton, who once was the heavyweight boxing champion of Ireland, is a renowned cadger and poteen maker. In the John Ford classic movie "The Quiet Man," he not only did the fight scenes for the aging Victor McLaglen in that unforgettable donnybrook with John Wayne, but also provided the poteen for the endof-film cast party, which like the famous fight sequence sprawled out over several counties.

What does the really good stuff taste like?

"Well," he pondered my question, licking his chops longingly, "it has a kind of smoky, thundery taste."

penders and crack his glass eye right

But then last year in an Irish country hotel, which like most such centers of learning came equipped with a library as well as a fully licensed pub for seminars, I happened on a learned treatise called "In Praise of Poteen" by the Irish writer John McGuffin.

McGuffin quotes the ecstasy of an old man named Seamus, sampling a first rate drop at a shebeen - an illegal pub - out in Connemara in the West: "It goes down yer throat like a torchlight procession - sure, 'tis grand altogether."

According to the author, poteen from the Irish word for "wee pot," in which the mash is cooked - had been made for donkeys years in the Auld Sod. It became the wine of the country in the late 18th century when the British Crown outlawed private distilling and Parliament put a heavy tax on legal whiskey, forever afterwards known as Parliament Whis-

Ireland was blessed by her Maker with all the ingredients for producing a pleasingly pulverizing un-Parliamentary potion: clear running water, turf for fuel, an abundance of potatoes, barley, corn, oak husks or whatever else, even sugar beets, that could be boiled up for mash; remote caves and coves for the skilled craftsmen to hide in, friendly judges who didn't mind a dram themselves, a clergy that preached temperance but also blessed the stills at the outset of each season and a police force never quite large enough to cope with the dimensions of this cottage industry.

Sometimes the army had to be called in. In Limerick in 1778, McGuffin relates, "a detachment of the 27th Regiment and two field pieces proceeded to attack Castle Ognolly in which had been carried on for some years an immense distillery." But in 1819 "a force of 140 infantry and 40 cavalry were repulsed and forced to flee" by the poteen lovers of Buncrana and Culdaff.

Modern home heating assists the poteen makers by doing away with the telltale smoke of a turf-fired still. Last Christmas the I.R.A. lads in Long Kesh, the Ulster internment camp, made poteen right under the noses of the guards. They called it "Special Powers," after the unpopular act authorizing imprisonment without trial. And not long ago in County Mayo, the "Gardai entered a dwelling house where they found 30 gallons of 'wash' simmering in a barrel under the heat of an electric blanket." Defendant Geoffrey Fair told the sergeant, McGuffin relates, "that the barrel was used for salting a pig which had been killed." The explanation cost him a fine of 100 pounds, but it was worth a try.

Mickey McIlhatten, the king of the County Antrim poteen makers, once got off with a small fine by solemnly assuring the magistrate he came by the stuff because "a man from Sligo told me that a rub of poteen on the fiddle makes it sound all the

ssociated Press Writer

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) - Audrey Marie Hilley — charged with using arsenic to poison her daughter, who lived, and suspected of doing the same to several other relatives, who didn't - has been missing without a trace almost one year.

The 19-state search for the woman is complicated by investigators' growing suspicion that the Audrey Marie Hilley who disappeared from a Birmingham motel last November may be quite a different person

The only thing Mrs. Hilley left behind at the motel was a note. Investigators won't release its contents, but say the scribbled message makes them believe Mrs. Hilley is living a life where she "changes her personality to fit her surroundings."

'She can be kind, laughing, considerate and then brutal and hateful,' said the FBI agent who is coordinating the coast-to-coast search for Mrs.

with make-believe friends and enemies....When she reads this, if it's the real Marie Hilley, she will probably change her personality when she realizes what she is accused of doing."

THE 47-YEAR-OLD Anniston woman - charged with unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for murder and attempted poisoning - is being hunted coast-to-coast by the FBI and 28 other federal divisions.

The FBI warrant against Mrs. Hilley stems from a Calhoun County indictment of Oct. 25, 1979, charging her with trying to poison her 20-yearold daughter, Carol Marie Hilley, with arsenic.

On Nov. 16, Mrs. Hilley disappeared from the suburban motel where she was living while awaiting trial, free on $14,000 bond. On Jan. 11, a Calhoun County grand jury indicted her on murder charges for the 1975 arsenic poisoning of her husband, Frank. She has also been indicted for check fraud. The FBI agent, who asked not to be identified, has followed several hundred leads since the search began in January, all in vain.

"It's not likely I'll arrest Marie Hilley. An agent in another state will most likely arrest her," he said. "But if the real Marie Hilley reads this she will likely change her personality or relocate or get careless and hopefully we'll find her.'

The agent said that interviews with Mrs. Hilley's friends and relatives, whom she hasn't contacted since disappearing, have led him to believe she may be exhibiting separate perdied of cancer, but pathologists found ordered autopsies on other relatives.

Carrie Hilley, the fugitive's mother-in-law, was ill for several weeks before dying last November. Her autopsy report has not been released, but investigators have given evidence about her death and that of Mrs. Frazier to a Calhoun County grand jury. No indictments have been returned from that investigation.

THE TESTS WERE MADE only on relatives who had died since Carol Hilley's birth. Psychiatrists think the birth may have touched off Mrs. Hilley's behavior. Wed at age 18, she was having marital troubles when Carol, her second child, was born: Psychiatrists and investigators alike believe she resented her daughter's birth, and that her resentment began surfacing long before they had evidence of arsenic poisonings. As examples, the FBI agent noted two arson fires at the Hilley house, one when Frank Hilley was still alive, the second when Carol and her grandmother were in the house alone.

Dove hunting main issue in South Dakota election

While the liberal Democratic senator faces a stiff Republican challenge, the Nov. 4 ballot also will ask whether mourning dove hunting should be allowed to resume in South Dakota. As the campaign takes wing, forces are divided according to whether they view the dove as the symbol of peace or as a tasty dinner. "The dove is a gentle bird, he'd like to be friends," says Maggie Warren, who's leading the fight to keep dove hunting illegal. "Dove ... offers a meal to be enjoyed for its special flavor and tenderness," says a brochure by pro-hunting "Protect us doves ... it's a matter of Life and Death to me," says an anti-dove-hunting newspaper ad with a drawing of the bird talking to voters. "Don't let the anti-hunters win in South Dakota," counters an ad by the Committee to Protect Hunting.

Mrs. Warren, 63, a Hermosa rancher, led a successful referendum campaign to outlaw the state dove hunting season in 1972, the year of the ill-fated McGovern presidential campaign which sometimes saw the dove used as a symbol of his opposition to the Vietnam war. McGovern trailed badly in recent polls but has been closing the gap in his current race for re-election against conservative U.S. Rep. James Abdnor.

The Legislature voted in 1979 to re-establish dove hunting, but Mrs. Warren then launehed another petition drive that blocked the season.

The Committee to Protect Hunting, a group chaired by former Gov. Joe Foss and aided financially by the National Rifle Association, is leading the fight to bring back dove hunting.

The committee cites statistics indicating no biological reason for not hunting South Dakota's 15-20 million doves - they are America's most abundant game bird and typically

Mounted policeman fights mall car thefts, vandalism

DEPTFORD TOWNSHIP, N.J. (AP) — Sgt. Wayne Quesada is shunning the traditional patrol car in favor of his 15-year-old horse in the battle against auto rustlers at a local shopping mall.

Car thefts and vandalism have been on the rise at the Deptford Mall, so Quesada took a new tack by patrolling from the back of a horse named Shaker's Mountain Man.
Atop the reddish-brown horse, Quesada says he gets a better view of the parking lot than he would in a patrol car. And he's hoping his increased visibility might discourage would-be 'I think it'll have a deterrent effect but I don't know how much yet.

"It's a little better than foot patrol because it's a little faster and you see better. This could also work in residential areas where you have a high crime rate," he said.

There were no arrests on Friday, his first day in the saddle, but Quesada did solve an old car theft.

"We found some lady's car ... up on some other parking level," the 39-

Gifted, talented advisory committee has been created

Joseph Baressi, assistant superintendent for instruction, has an-nounced the creation of Midland Independent School District's Gifted and Talented Advisory Committee.

Parents serving on the committee include Joan Baskin, Marilyn Culp, Gloria Hinojosa, Ted Kerr, Fred Middleton, Karl Reagan, Doris Redfern, Betty Sumner, Mike Williams and Jane Wolf.

Principals, teachers, coordinators and school board members serving on the committee are Joe Cummins, Frank Marlow, Norma Ross, Pablo Salas, Olessie Moore, Lois, Rogge, Parker Humes and Joyce Sherrod. Members will advise the district on the structure and scope of a program for high-achieving or talented stuyear-old officer said. Quesada owns the horse and makes the patrols on his own time.

It takes Quesada and Shaker's Mountain Man-about 10 minutes to circle the mall, but the horse can speed it up if he's pressed. Quesada expects to patrol the shopping mall once or twice each week. "We laughed when we saw it, but I think it's an excellent idea," said Terrie Morris of Berlin, whose husband's car was stolen at a mall in suburban Boston. Quesada has outfitted his faithful companion with padded horseshoes to soften the shock of parking lot asphalt, and Quesada rides in a padded

Similar patrols in Philadelphia have cut car thefts at Veterans Stadium, the Spectrum and at Philadelphia International Airport, according to Quesada.

Mall manager Lou Couch isn't paying Quesada for his volunteer work, but that could change if the service proves "a valuable thing."

Unfortunately, as in frontier times, the bad guys often wait until the good guys are gone before springing an attack. After Quesada completed his inaugural horse patrol here, another vehicle was reported stolen.

Off-camera, Miss Moore also seemed to radiate those qualities. Her marriage to producer Grant Tinker, her partner in Mary Tyler Moore Enterprises, seemed dyllic, a model for women aspiring to career and family life.

He had them all over the place. It was just one of those things.'

As an actress, Miss Moore has been dealing with tragedy in several highly-acclaimed performances since she left weekly television after flopping in two variety series. In a TV film, "First You Cry," she played a career woman dealing with a mastectomy. In the Broadway show "Whose Life Is It Anyway?" she was a paralyzed artist fighting for the right to die.

And in an uncanny parallel to her current ordeal, Miss Moore plays a middle-aged, well-to-do matron whose normal self-control deserts her in the face of the death of one son and the attempted suicide of the other in the recently released, highly praised film "Ordinary People.' In real life, the 43year-old actress - "devastated" by her son's death, according to Tinker - is a private person, reluctant to talk with friends about her own problems, much less to reporters. Hence the rosy image of her Mary Richards persisted.

New medical committee being formed

JERUSALEM (AP) The Israeli government is setting up a new watchdog committee to give prior approval for new medical techniques on humans like the experiment in genetic engineering conducted here last July.

Professor Baruch Modan, a top Health Ministry official, said Thursday that govern ment regulations applying to the introduction o untried medicines will be expanded to include new medical practices.

The regulations were drawn up after news broke last week that an Israeli woman received an injection of foreign genes to treat a fatal blood disorder, in what was reported as the first test in humans of genetic engineering. Treatments in Jerusalem"s Hadassah Hospital and in a separate case at the University of Naples were supervised by Dr. Martin Cline of the University of California at Los Angeles after a committee at UCLA turned down a proposal for similar treatment

Modan said Cline won approval from Hadassah's ethics committee and had acted properly under existing regula-tions in July. "We are not trying to criticize what happened in the past. Everything was done legally," he said.

But the Hadassah operation drew attention to gaping hole in the reguations that was now to be filled, Modan said. If Cline wanted to repeat the experiment here he would have to apply to the new seven-man national committee, he

T.G. Sheppard performs in concert at 8 tonight at Chaparral Center along with Conway Twitty and TomPall Glaser and the Glaser Brothers. T.G.'s latest hit is "Do You Wanna Go To Heaven." Tickets priced at $8.50 may be purchased at area record stores and Chapparal Center.

T. G. Sheppard concert is tonight

By GEORGIA TEMPLE Staff Writer

"Hello, this is T.G. Sheppard. How are you this

"Fine," came the reply, which was not true. It had been one of those uneasy out-of-sorts with self nothing wrong, nothing right days. And now it was early evening and things didn't seem to be faring much

But the voice had a refreshing quality to it which stopped the grumbling thoughts of a writer caught unprepared in the midst of an ill-lived day. He sounded as easy to talk with as an old friend. And he

T.G., who "works fron 7 a.m. to 1 a.m." and considers himself "to be in that 2 percent that love to get up and go to work everyday," will be per-forming at 8 tonight at Chaparral Center along with Conway Twitty and TomPall Glaser and the Glaser

He said he lives for those performances when the "lighting is just right, the audience is with you"; and those "nights when the magic unfolds on stage. I haven't been able to find that feeling anywhere except on stage."

Although T.G. "likes singing," he would "rather be known as an entertainer.'

For him, a performance should "take the audience away from where they just came," encompassing both "comedy and sadness. It should show every aspect of a person's life," so that when an entertainer leaves the stage the audience feels it "knows that person personally."

At 36, T.G. said he spent some years working at purging himself of his ego and getting his priorities

'Ego can totally destroy a person," T.G. said. "An entertainer takes a big chance if he portrays somebody other than himself on stage because, if he becomes popular," he never knows whether he's liked for what he is or what he pretends to be. "I want people to like me for what I really am.'

Perhaps the event that most altered T.G.'s perspective on living was the death of his long time friend, Elvis Presley. 'A drastic change occurred in my life when Elvis died," T.G. said. "It scared the hell out of me. "Until then, I thought life was what you obtained; the things you can keep score by.' In the 16 years T.G. knew Elvis, he said, "Elvis tried to teach me differently, but I couldn't hear because I had never had anything" like expensive rings, cars, homes - in other words - unlimited resources. "I was watching the funeral procession, when I turned to my wife, Diane, and said, 'I think a wall just fell on me.' She said, 'What do you mean?' I said, When you leave this world you don't take anything with you.' I quit from that moment on trying to collect and began to give.

"I really learned then," said T.G., "that peace and happiness come from within. Before that, I was working in this business for the wrong reasons.

"That was Aug. 16, 1977 and I've been a happy person since then. The more I work toward being a good person, the more successful I am.

T.G., whose latest album is "Smooth Sailing," said he is "a great believer in the power of positive thinking" and surrounds himself with people who "are positive" and who know him.
"If I get off the track, they tell me," T.G. said, adding he works at utilizing positive power. "I believe anything is possible, if you want it bad enough.

A lover of the outdoors who admits he doesn't have much time to enjoy nature, T.G. said he also likes to play golf and tennis when he gets the chance. But, his favorite hobby is people.

"I'm a people person and an avid people watcher. For him, the healthiest thing in life is a "deep laugh. "I'll do anything for a laugh. Now I'm not the kind of ham," he said, laughing,"that when the light comes on in the refrigerator I do 20 minutes. But I do like to have fun.

"I'm very spontaneous. If a funny line comes to me, I say it.' Perhaps spontaneous best describes the impact he has on the phone. T.G. believes the "secret to success is being able to communicate and converse with others," which he certainly does in a straightforward manner.

And maybe he best summed up his approach to life when he said of himself and those around him, Everyone gives 100 percent. We all work toward a goal - living a day at a time and getting as much out of it as we can because tomorrow it might all be over. We work as hard as we can for our families and we have a good time.'

Charley Pride feels so lucky to be alive

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - Country music star Charley Pride, spared from death in an airplane collision over Texas in August, would like to portray the late Nat King Cole in a movie.

"I could do it with a little practice," said Pride, who has little acting experience but whose mellow voice is comparable to that of the late Cole. "The possibility is there; it's on the burner," Pride said.

Meantime, he said feels himself lucky to be alive to be considered for such a role. He and his traveling band escaped death Aug. 6 when their plane and a small Cessna collided, killing two people in the smaller plane. Pride's plane, a Fairchild 27, landed 20 minutes later despite extensive tail and rudder

"I'm glad I'm here," Pride said in a telephone interview from his home in Dallas, where he was taking a couple of days off from concert dates.

"There could have been 19 casualties instead of

"We heard a 'whomp' while we were playing cards in the back. I said, 'What was that?' The captain came on and said we had a slight problem and to buckle up.

"We didn't get all the details until later so we were speculating what had happened. But we could tell the plane wasn't running normal as usual. The engines were fluctuating." Thirty minutes after the plane landed, he found out two died in the other plane.

'My first thoughts on the ground were about the other people," recalled Pride, who picked cotton with his 10 brothers and sisters in Mississippi until he was 17. "I felt they probably came up on the shorter

After he landed amid the presence of emergency vehicles, he embraced pilot Bob Sowers whose cool handling of the situation may have saved 19 lives.

"We didn't realize until we landed what he went through," Pride said. "He put his great ability plus all his experience to work to get us down. A good pilot doesn't think about the circumstances, he just uses his experience to get you on the ground safely."

Pride is still flying, using a plane formerly owned by Donny and Marie Osmond. In fact, he flew one night after the accident. "I hope and pray it doesn't happen again. It was in the hands of a higher being," he said.

Steve Allen: back in prime time

AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Last spring, just after carving for himself one of the sweetest deals in the history of television, Johnny Carson proceeded to kill a "Steve Allen Show" NBC had planned for the slot following "Tonight."

Carson didn't want comedy following his show. So, NBC kept Tom Snyder and "Tomorrow."

In vetoing the proposed Allen show, Carson was actually doing Allen and TV viewers a favor. Beginning Saturday night, Allen will have a comedy series in prime time. Steve Allen is back in network

It is a circumstance to be welcomed (although it's strange to realize that even his huge talent could be subject to the trends and whims of TV fashion).

Allen's entre this time around was his brief stint in that NBC variety elephant, "Big Show," which stuck just long enough for people to realize that network television needs Steve Allen. This isn't said as a nostalgic exercise, but because Steve' Allen is a genius with a sense of humor. If television can have him, it should jump.

NBC President Fred Silverman did, excitedly offering Allen the late-night job, then, after the Carson nix, this comedy series.

This could be just the right thing. It will be an hour of comedy, nothing else, with Allen and guests working skits and those patented Steve Allen impromptu devices - man-on-the-street interviews and the like. "I'm not doing a variety show," Allen says. "I make my living with comedy and that's what it will be. There will be no dancing bears." 'My stock has risen, and they're willing to put me on the air now. It's purely a matter of what's box office, and I don't say that critically. Five years ago, ou couldn't have sold a 'Steve Allen Show to You could have told them 'This guy's great, he's funny," and all of that, and the network feeling was, You don't have to tell us about Steve Allen. But we need ratings. We need someone who's hot.'

'This wouldn't be happening now if it weren't for the fortunate accident of their needing someone with some experience to come out and say, 'Good Evening' for the 'Big Show.' There are some things that Erik Estrada is just not perfect for."

Even his job with "Big Show" was offered with reluctance. NBC wanted Burt Reynolds to act as host, asking Allen after Reynolds declined.

In the premiere show, Saturday, Allen will be joined by Steve Martin, Lucille Ball, George Kennedy, Louis Nye and Steve Landesberg, himself a talented ad-lib comedian. NBC isn't quite sure what Rebs defeat attempt to take valley

NEW DELHI (AP) — Moslem rebels repelled an attempt by Soviet and Afghan government forces to capture a strategic Afghan mountain pass in a four-day battle, causing heavy casualties, according to a Kabul source whose reports have been accurate in the past.

The source, who arrived from the Afghan capital Thursday, said the enti-communist rebels killed or vounded 40-50 Soviet soldiers and Lilled "hundreds" of Afghan Marxist volunteers and tribal mercenaries during the fighting in the Ghorband Valley, 60 miles northwest of Kabul.

"Losses on the Mujahedeen (rebel) side were heavy as well," he said.

The source said 400 Soviet tanks and armored vehicles and about 1,000 Afghan volunteers and mercenaries were involved in the attempt, which he claimed was the first major government offensive since the Soviets abandoned efforts to seize the Panjshir Valley last month. Rebel-held Panjshir lies northeast of Kabul.

There was no independent confirmation of the report, but diplomatic sources in Kabul said they had received accounts of a pitched battle in the Ghorband Valley area with heavy losses on both sides.

In a separate meeting with reporters here, an Afghan army defector claimed in a report that could not be verified that an underground network with 40,000 members was being set up around the country, preparing to move against Soviet forces.

Within three months, he said, there would be a wave of assassinations and bombinss in Kabul. "The events will be very sensational," said the defector, who declined use of his name.

He said the group stole money from the Afghan government and weapons from Soviet troops.

Sometimes the Soviets readily accepted hashish in exchange for their Kalashnikovs, he claimed. "The soldiers take the hashish and get intoxicated and we overpower them and take their arms."

The rebel said he had helped set up the group shortly after an estimated 85,000 Soviet troops entered Afghanistan last December, ousting Afghan President Hafizullah Amin and installing Babrak Karmal.

Karmal traveled to Moscow Thursday for the first time since he was installed. He met with President Leonid I. Brezhnev and other Kremlin officials, and receiving a warm welcome despite speculation by sources in New Delhi that the Afghan leader

Brezhnev used the occasion of a state dinner in Karmal's honor to repeat Soviet charges that America was behind an "undeclared war" on Afghanistan.

He also charged that "feverish military preparations and unrestrained propaganda — it can be even said a eulogy of nuclear war - have reached an unprecedented scale in the United States," according to a report in the official Tass news agency.

Before the dinner, the Soviet and Afghan delegations signed a joint statement expressing satisfaction "with the successful and fruitful development of Soviet-Afghan friendship," Tass said. The news agency account made no mention of the Soviet troops in Afghanistan.

The declaration was not expected to be made public until after Karmal leaves the Soviet Union sometime this weekend, but diplomats here predicted the Afghan regime would receive pledges of massive econmic, technical, political and military support.

'Pray-in' timed to witches' meeting

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) - As followers of the Church of Wicca — also known as witches - head for a weekend seminar here, evangelists are organizing a "pray-in" aimed at thwarting the "demonic forces" they believe will be conjured up at the pre-Halloween gathering.

Those prayers are welcome, says an organizer of the seminar. "We don't want any demonic spirits either," said Skip Tarrant, director of the International School of Wicca in New Bern, N.C.

People who show up at the seminar in hopes of seeing bizarre rituals will be disappointed, he said, adding that gathering will be nothing more than discussions and lectures that many people might find boring.

"We are here for a seminar, not to cast circles, put on robes and dance around fires. Most of us do that at one time or another, but we do it at home," he said. "Our avowed intention is to ignore them (the evangelists) as much as possible.' But Judy and Jimmy Mamou, an Amarillo couple, disagree. They have organized a "pray-in" Saturday for what they say will be "several hundred people" near the hotel where the witches will meet. "We're not there to interfere with the seminar at all," Mrs. Mamou said. "We felt they would be chanting and using witchcraft and wizardry and that is forbidden in the Bible.

'We feel like the spirits they will be calling on will be demonic. ... If we stand together, our prayers of faith to the God Almighty will cancel those demonic forces.

The witches' seminar, expected to draw "several hundred" of the church's "several thousand" members nationwide, coincides with the witches' new year - celebrated on the full moon closest to Nov. 1 — Oct. 23 this year, Tarrant said.

The gathering has attracted attention because of the involvement of Loy and Louise Stone, directors of the Church of Arinahu, a branch of the Church of Wicca. Stone was acquitted last February of the 1977 Halloween shooting death of a 15-year-old girl.

Stone has said he and his wife were holding a witchcraft seminar at their Dimmitt, Texas, home that night and were harassed by teen-agers. He said
