He's coming home, and now his theme will be 'Jailhouse Rock'

Staff Writer

"Won't you come home Bill Bennett," began a July 3, 1979, story in The Reporter-Telegram after a model prisoner escaped from the Midland County Jail, using his grandmother's funeral in Luling to gain his re-

According to the story, Bennett was released June 17 from the jail - about eight months before his one-year sentence was finished — to attend the funeral.

The only problem was that his grandmother wasn't dead - she was alive and well in Houston - and Bennett never returned.

Well, Bill Bennett's finally coming home, according to Midland County Sheriff Dallas Smith. Orange County has notified the Midland sheriff's office that they have Bennett in custody.

"Now I'm singing songs more like 'Jailhouse Rock," Smith said Tuesday.

Bennett was in jail serving a one-year sentence for a misdemeanor car theft conviction.

'This girl called the county judge and said his grandmother had died in Luling and wanted to know if he could be released to go to the funeral," the

'The judge called and talked to the jail officers and they said they thought he would come back if he was released. So the judge issued the order on the fact that the officers felt he would return.

"Well, Bill didn't return, and Bill's grandmother hadn't died. And obviously, he hadn't gone to any funeral." Smith said Shortly after the escape, Tom Green County Sheriff's office in San Angelo issued a warrant for Bennett's arrest after he reportedly took a car belonging to the mother of Bennett's girlfriend.

But Bennett soon will be on his way back to Midland, and he is going to serve all of his sentence, Smith stressed.

"He was a plumber and had been up there quite some time. Guys who get a long sentence are allowed to work if they want to, and they get credit for the days

"But we're going to be hard pressed to see why he should work anymore," Smith said.

Bennett's time off previously accumulated for good behavior has been canceled.

Bennett was arrested in Orange County for reportedly driving while intoxicated in an allegedly stolen ve-

'So we may not get him back for a few days.

"I'm kind of worried about stressing that Bill is coming home for fear he'll escape before he gets here,' said Smith. "But we're going to call and tell them that his grandmother in Luling is just fine. She's healthy, alive and doing well."

New Mexico officials knew of inmate deaths, but didn't storm prison

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — Authorities knew inmates were being killed and mutilated soon after a 36-hour state prison uprising began, but put off storming the facility to protect guards being held hostage, officials

The death toll in the weekend rebellion at the New Mexico State Penitentiary has been revised several times. Gov. Bruce King's office said Tuesday that at least 36 inmates died some of drug overdoses and a few from fire, but most at the hands of other prisoners.

Warden Jerry Griffin said 33 bodies had been found, but a King aide said that count did not include three bodies found in a burned prison gymnasium that some convicts said was used as a torture chamber.

Authorities said about 50 inmates were unnaccounted for, but said that did not mean they should be presumed dead or missing. A number still refused to identify themselves Col. Bill Fields, commander of the National Guard troops called to the scene early Saturday, said there was "some talk" of storming the penitentiary when officials learned inmates were being killed.

"But our primary concern was that they had the hostages and we wanted to do everything we could to get them out alive," he said.

The siege ended Sunday afternoon when a Special Weapons and Tactics team and about 60 National Guardsmen seized the ravaged prison without firing a shot.

Fields said he was aware some inmates had been tortured as early as 7:30 a.m. Saturday when a wounded prisoner was released. "A doctor told me he had been cleavered across the head and his hands were almost chopped off. It gave me a pretty good indication," he Medical Examiner James Weston said a team of anthropologists would search for more victims in the prison gymnasium and a dormitory considered unsafe to enter Tuesday because of fire damage.

Weston said one prisoner had been beheaded and another arrived at the morgue with a rod through his head. He said it appeared both mutilations occurred after death. He said other mutilations were confirmed, but most of the dead had been beaten and stabbed.

"I would say the injuries indicated there was a great deal of rage," he said. "It's not so much mutilation per se, it's more what we would call overkill. They inflicted more injury than necessary to kill."

Authorities have said much of the violence apparently was directed against informants, but prison psychologist Dr. Marc Orner said racial hostility and personal grudges also appeared to be factors. Attorney General Jeff Bingaman has promised a complete investigation and said inmate ringleaders could face the death penalty under a section of state law allowing capital punishment for "anyone found guilty of killing an informant.

Griffin said Tuesday he thought the guards' lives were spared because there was "a mutual trust" between them and the prisoners.

Until today, Bani Sadr's criticism of the militants had been confined to statements to the effect that the new government alone must make decisions for the country.

Other official Iranian signals were confusing, however.

Tehran Radio quoted an unnamed Foreign Ministry spokesman as saying, "It is almost certain the commission's work will have a profound effect on the hostage crisis.

But the influential secretary of the Revolutionary Council, Ayatollah Behesti, sounded a different note. Asked by reporters whether the hostages might be freed without the ex-shah being returned to Iran, Behesti replied, "I do not think so, and my belief in this regard is still not changed," Tehran Radio reported. The hostages were spending their 95th day of captivity today. They were seized Nov. 4 by militant students who took over the embassy and demanded that the U.S. government return the deposed shah to Iran for trial.

A group of 49 Americans sympathetic to the embassy militants' cause was to arrive in Tehran today at their invitation, but it was not known whether Bani Sadr would meet with

The militants invited the Americans to Tehran to use them as a publicity pipeline to the U.S. public, replacing the TV coverage they have been denied since the expulsion of all American reporters from Iran.

Judge upholds permits for building Stacy Dam

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN - Travis County District Judge Herman Jones said today he is upholding the Texas Water Commission's action in granting permits for construction of Stacy Reservoir by the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

Jones said he had sent a letter anneuncing his decision to attorneys involved in the lawsuit by opponents of the project Tuesday afternoon, and has asked in that letter that an order be prepared.

That formal order should be entered in "just a matter of a few days,"

Austin attorney Fred Werkenthin, who has represented the Lower Colorado River Authority in its opposition to the reservoir, said he has not received the letter, but "we would appeal" the decision.

Werkenthin said the LCRA has 30 days in which to initiate its appeal, which would go to the Third Court of Civil Appeals in Austin, How long it takes for a decision in that court would depend on how crowded its docket is, Werkenthin

Final arguments in the lawsuit were presented before Judge Jones last Thursday and Friday.

MIDLAND, Mich. (AP) - The folks in Midland want to thank the folks in Midland for Canada's rescue of six U.S. diplomats who had been hiding in the Canadian embassy in Tehran until they escaped Iran last week. So next week, residents of Midland, Ontario, will be receiving several thousand "thank-you" notes from residents of Midland, Mich. The U.S. city of 39,000 also will honor the mayor and five residents of the Canadian city north of Toronto at a dinner Saturday night.

An unidentified Midland resident will pick up the tab for a charter jet that will fly the six Canadians to the United States.

Midlander files for peace justice

Charlie Spraberry, Midland real estate salesman, has filed to run in the Republican primary for Justice of the Peace, place 1, precinct 1.

The position is currently held by John Biggs, who has filed for re-election in the Democratic primary.

Spraberry, 39, has lived in Midland 41/2 years. He is a 30-year resident of the Permian Basin area. He was awarded a bachelor's degree in business in 1966 from the University of Texas at El Paso. In announcing his candidacy, Spraberry noted that the Justice of the Peace court is one of the original courts mentioned in the 1876 Texas Constitution.

"The Justice of the Peace court is for the convenience of the people," Spraberry said.

"I feel that the position needs a responsible and fair person to guarantee the rights and obligations for the fair and equal representation in an impartial court," he added.

Spraberry, who has been active in working with Midland youth, noted this is the first time he has run for a public office. He is the father of two sons and lives at 129 Barbara Lane

Tass says China trained some Afghans

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet news agency Tass today said Chinese advisers were being sent across the border into Afghanistan along with "thousands" of Afghan rebels trained in China to fight the Soviet-backed Afghan government.

We have facts indicating that Chinese 'advisers' and 'instructors' often accompany their 'charges' on their bandit raids," Tass said in a dispatch from its correspondents in Kabul, the Afghan capital.

Tass said the Afghan rebels in the province were armed with Americanmade weapons and said two of them taken as prisoners were carrying photographs of themselves dressed in Chinese army uniforms

"When questioned the bandits testified that these pictures were taken at one of the special bases for training anti-Afghan bandit (rebel) formations in the Chinese province of Xinjiang," Tass said.

It quoted a spokesman for the Afghan Ministry of Interior as saying the Chinese had turned its approximately 50-mile-long border with Afghanistan, in the northeastern province of Badakshan, "into a source of constant tension.

Tass quoted the ministry spokesman as saying "armed gangs" were being systematically smuggled across the frontier. "These gangs kill innocent people, burn peaceful villages, blow up bridges and spoil roads," it said.

Tass said "a number" of rebel bases had been set up in Chinese territory after Afghan rebel leaders received the consent of Chinese officials. "Thousands of bandits and terrorists (the anti-communist rebels) are being trained there so as to be smuggled later on into" Afghanistan, Tass alleged Tass also said the rebels were continuing attacks in Badakhshan province, part of which borders China. It said rebels were being "liquidated" by Afghan troops but did not mention whether Soviet forces were involved.

On Tuesday, Western diplomatic sources in India reported the rebels had launched new attacks against Soviet troops in the remote province, inflicting casualties on Soviet units

An estimated 85,000 Soviet troops have been in Afghanistan since late December following the execution of former Afghan leader Hafizullah Amin, who was replaced by Sovietbacked President Babrak Karmal. More calls recorded

Sheriff's activities grow

By KAY HORD Staff Writer

The Midland County Sheriff's Office received 1,190 more calls requesting an officer in 1979 than in 1978, according to the Sheriff's Office annual report released

And part of this jump was due to an increase of calls within the city limits, Sheriff Dallas Smith said. Total for 1979 was 5,203, compared to 4,013 in 1978.

These are instances where the officer actually went out and contacted someone and talked to them," Sheriff Dallas Smith said. "It doesn't count if someone calls in, and we talk to them over the telephone. The officer must actually go out there.

"WE'VE WORKED real hard to convince people to call us. A lot of times the public thinks there's nothing we can do. But even if he suddenly notices there's some property missing and there's no chance of any physical evidence for us to look at or any fingerprints, we can list the missing property in our files in case it's ever recovered.

"Or their information may help us complete a picture of the criminal, if he's committed any other crimes.

'We're also getting more and more calls within the city limits. In 1976, we rarely got one. We can't refuse to answer those calls because live in the county, too," Smith said.

Total investigations for 1979 totaled 1,387 - 95 more than 1978's 1,292. Totals for 1977 were 1,041 and for 1976,

"This includes everything we looked at and any investigation we made," Smith said.

ARRESTS IN the narcotics division of the Sheriff's Office were down 18 from 1978 and 10 from 1977. Thirtyseven arrests were made last year compared to 55 the previous year and 47 in 1977.

"The reason for the drop in narcotic arrests is that 1979 was the year I decided I didn't like the procedures they (narcotics officers) were using. I wanted more effort made on the larger dealers," Smith said.

"That's not to say we didn't want the small user, but I wanted the bulk of our money spent on the bigger guys, and then as we came across the little guys, we could arrest them, too," he said.

The drop in narcotic arrests also affected the figures for number of cases presented to the grand jury and for which indictments were returned.

IN 1979, 123 cases were indicted by the grand jury, down one from 1978. 1979's figure, however, was up 37 from 1977's total of 86.

"If we had had a higher total of narcotics arrests, we would have had a higher rate here," the sheriff said.

"It would have made our chart look prettier." Again, Smith said some of the increase in cases indicted was due to calls within the city limits. The other numbers that figure into the grand jury indictments are felony offenses investigated. "The bulk of this is burglaries and thefts," Smith

1979 SHOWED a total of 537 felonies investigated by Sheriff's deputies, up 37 from 503 in 1978 and from 415 in

"This is the same situation of getting people to report it and having a good clear picture of what we really have," he said.

"Instead of trying to build a clearance rate formula. which can mean anything from someone was arrested for that burglary to having the property recovered, I'm going about it a little differently this year," Smith

"A clearance rate can be whatever you want it to be. I know one Texas Ranger who says a case is closed when you're putting the last shovel of dirt in and patting it down. And he's right, that's pretty

"So I'm trying to build a clear picture of what we are doing. It may not be as impressive, but I think it means something.

PROPERTY RECOVERED by the Sheriff's Office during 1979 totaled $446,976, more that $200,000 more than 1978's $200,399.

Warrants and subpoenas served by deputies were 1,837, just over double 1978's total of 918

"Now these are warrants and subpoenas actually served," Smith said. "Even if they spent two days working on one, if they didn't actually find the guy and serve his subpoena, then it doesn't count." Civil papers served worked the same way, Smith said. If they were't actually served, it didn't count on the report. Civil papers served for 1979 were 4,907; for 1978,

4,488 and for 1977, 4,050.

Heflin, D-Ala., noted that his full committee planned to meet with Heymann and other Justice Department officials later today

"Unless they (the officials) change their mind, I think they will tell (the committee) that they don't think it would be proper to turn over the evidence and the information that they have," Heflin said.

A source close to Heflin said earlier that the Justice Department was concerned with protecting "the integrity of its own investigation. Heymann, who runs the depart-

The official, Kenneth MacDonald, has denied accepting any money.

Also under scrutiny is an alleged boast by Sen. Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J., the only senator among the eight congressmen linked to the probe, that he saved the developers of a new casino $3 million through the intercession of commission chairman Joseph Lordi. Williams' wife Jeannette is a con-

How far do the leaders of Iran think they can push the United States of America? Pretty far, they must think.

The situation involving the approximately 50 Americans held hostage in Tehran since Nov. 4 seemed to thaw a bit, perhaps, when it was announced earlier this week that the Iranian government had agreed to an international commission to consider charges against Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.

According to the Revolutionary Council, "The international investigation commission will consider the shah's crimes, his violation of human rights and the return of his wealth to Iran."

It appeared promising when Foreign Ministry spokesman Nassirosadat Salami said the commission "will be effective in solving the hostage crisis.'

But did you notice the stipulation added to that comment by Iranian President-elect Abolhasan Bani Sadr?

Bani Sadr said, in effect, that the United States must help Iran get the shah back for trial before the American hostages will be freed Ridiculous! Is Bani Sadr mad? Does he think the people of the United States have no concept of right and wrong any more?

Ever since the Americans were taken hostage on Nov. 4 the Iranians have acted as though the United States is to blame for the entire situation. From time to time it's seemed as though there would be a break in the situation, but unrealistic demands always were added by the Iranians.

It's obvious that the Iranians have only one thing in mind at this particular time - pushing the United States for befriending the shah in earlier times and for allowing him entry into this nation for medical treatment. Now they want the United States to drag him to their doorstep before a world audience; they want the United States to grovel at their feet in return for the freedom of the hostages.

We want the hostages freed unharmed; there's no question about that. But how far are we willing to go to achieve that goal?

Perhaps the Iranians are playing on the past wounds afflicted upon the United States. They've seen us back out of the Vietnam War, licking our wounds and calling it a "stalmate" although we suffered severe damage to our national pride and respect.

They've seen us go through the agony of having an incumbent president resign with the stain of wrongdoing on his hands.

Now, perhaps, they think the United States will be brought to its knees once again - this time by international blackmail. Maybe even some Americans question whether the United States has the courage now to stand up to this kind of blackmail and to tell the Iranians that if they want the shah, they'll have to be the ones to drag him back to Iran.

But the U.S. has not lost all its respect from the nations of the world. It is true respect has been lowered but it would be lowered more if this nation allows itself to be subjected to this type of black-

U.S. in Canada's debt following Iranian rescue

WASHINGTON — As soon as the news broke about the Canadian rescue of the six American diplomats in Tehran, everyone who had a friend in Canada wanted to pick up the phone and thank them personally.

I called my pal George in Toronto. 'On behalf of all the people of the United States, I want to thank you for what you did to save our diplomats. You may have lost an embassy for a while, but you've gained a friend for

"Don't thank us," he said, "we thank you.

"How can you thank us when you were the people who stuck your necks out while the rest of our friends kept insisting the hostage situation was an 'American problem'?'

"If you'll forgive me, you Americans don't really understand what makes another nation feel good. For years you people have been going around the world aiding other countries for self-serving or altruistic reasons. All you've gotten in return is resentment and envy. No self-respecting country enjoys being on the receiving end of someone else's largesse. By doing something for you we have restored our national pride.

"I assure you," he continued, "that after our recent adventure, the Canadians are twice as pro-American as the Americans are pro-Canadian."

"But you can't be. Your act of bravery, in one of our darkest hours, has every loyal American - man, woman and child - in your debt." "Exactly," said George, "that's why we feel so pro-American. For years Canadians have been in America's debt and frankly it's been a pain in the ass. For the first time we don't feel inferior to you.

"I see what you mean," I replied. "But still you people went beyond the call of duty. Did you see Foreign Minister Ghotbzadeh on TV? He was fuming and said Canada will pay dearly for smuggling out the diplo-mats. He called it a 'flagrant violation of international law, a betrayal of Iran and a brutal act of espionage." "It was the icing on the cake for us.

Ghotbzadeh is a twit. "All the same, you people didn't have to do what you did. Iran had no quarrel with you.

"For heaven's sake, man, stop being so grateful! A little groveling can go so far. If you were up here you would realize how happy the Canadi-: ans are that they could spit in the Ayatollah's face. We rarely get a chance to play even a small part on the world stage and, believe me, it feels wonderful. There's nothing better for a Canadian's spirit than to pull an American's chestnuts out of the! fire. All of us would have given up three embassies if we had to - for this opportunity.

U.S. technology aided Soviet invasion

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON - Any suggestion that American officials and businessmen helped the Soviet Union invade Afghanistan would raise cries of outrage from the White House and Wall

Unfortunately, it happens to be

Both the military trucks and the transport jets that disgorged Red Army troops and supplies in Afghanistan during Christmas week were built with the indispensable technological know-how provided by profithungry U.S. firms and approved by high-level U.S. officials. In an incredible replay of pre-Pearl Harbor days, when American busi-nessmen sold the Japanese war machine scrap metal that later rained down on U.S. and allied troops in the Pacific, we have been selling the technologically backward Russians U.S. computers and other sophisticated equipment that have enabled the Kremlin to threaten our economic lifeline in the Middle East. For years I have warned against the openhanded giveaway of American technology — the one field in which the United States was clearly miles ahead of the Soviet Union.

There was one momentary success: A May 24, 1977 column stopped the shipment to Russia of a Control Data computer, which was more than a decade ahead of the Soviets' own technology.

I also published warnings against the sale of other sophisticated equipment to the Russians, including IBM computers. But the warnings were drowned out by eager corporate salesmen and an administraion eager to believe the Russians. The CIA has now learned that the IBM computers were used to build military trucks, which hauled Soviet troops into Afghanistan.

Over the objections of Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., and members of the National Security Council, President Carter personally approved the sale of $144 million worth of sophisticated equipment, ostensibly to be used by the Soviets for deep-well oil drilling. Experts cautioned that the American machinery could easily be converted to the manufacture of antitank ammunition.

To quiet critics of the deal, Carter appointed a special task force of technological experts, headed by Fred Bucy, chairman of Texas Instruments, to study the sale. To the administration's consternation, the panel opposed the sale. But it went through anyway.

According to Dr. Miles Costick of the Institute on Strategic Trade, the Russians also acquired their knowhow to build wide-body jet transports from American firms. The Soviets' technique was simple: They kept after the three U.S. aircraft firms bidding on a contract to submit more and more detailed information until the Russians had enough data to build their own planes. Costick also said the Soviets went so far as to send their technologists to U.S. plants wearing special shoes that picked up traces of the special alloy metals used in construction of American products.

Armored cars and amphibious vehicles produced at the Gorki automobile plant were built with technical assistance from the Ford Motor Company. Truck chassis used for anti-air-

1100-10C computer the Kremlin had been thirsting after for two years. According to intelligence sources who talked to my reporters Vicki Warren and Mark Zusman, the computer is being used to upgrade the Soviets' Backfire bomber. The Russians originally wanted a super-Univac, supposedly to help Tass in its coverage of the Olympic Games. Administration advisers warned against the sale. After initially vetoing the Soviets' purchase, Carter okayed the sale of a scaleddown version of the computer. So to give U.S. businessmen a few lucrative contracts, and to promote the now-shredded hope of detente, the United States has given the communists the one thing they lacked in their arsenal of aggression - American know-how.

SCUTTLEBUCKS: The White House is mulling over a proposal by Rep. John Murphy, D-N.Y., to close all U.S. ports to Soviet merchant ships - an economic sanction that would hit the Russians hard in the pocketbook. A CIA analysis estimates that in 1977 the Soviet merchant fleet earned nearly $1 billion in hard currency for the Kremlin - second only to the income from oil, gold and tim-

COSTLY CONFUSION: Officials at the Energy Department seem to be so deep in the dark about what the agency is doing that they've shelled out $34,000 of public funds for more than 90 subscriptions to a private publication they hope can shed a little light on their own activities. It's called "Inside DOE."

WATER, WATER: When Rep. Robert Edgar, D-Pa., decided to fight $4.4 billion in new water projects which he described as "pure pork" he was ostracized by the powerful House Public Works and Transportation Committee. When he took his fight to the floor, he sank like a stone. The committee had added 25 new pork-barrel projects — in districts of key congressmen. The vote was no contest.

Fauntroy leads stumbling quest for D.C. statehood

WASHINGTON - Without occasional comic relief, this tensed-up city would be impossible. We got some last week when our man in Congress. Walter E. Fauntroy, a nonvoting delegate at that, got into a rhubarb over a report that he was ready to denounce the Palestinian Liberation Organization (PLO) in exchange for votes for the so-called D.C. Voting Rights Amendment by Jewish members of the Maryland General Assembly. After a week of wrangling, it is uncertain who promised whom what, but all parties seem offended, and the republic has new evidence that the District of Columbia hardly deserves to be considered a candidate for virtual statehood. Somehow, Fauntroy is the leader of the movement designed to grant D.C. two elected congressmen and a pair of U.S. senators. Despite Fauntroy's wide travels and extensive lobbying. most state legislatures are not too keen to bestow such status on this federal enclave. After all, we are only a city and possess few characteristics of the 50 legitimate states. For openers, we don't have cows. There are some chickens here.

Anyway, Fauntroy was confident that the General Assembly (state legislature) of next-door Maryland would ratify the D.C. Amendment, euphemistically called "Voting Rights," last year, and to his aston-ishment it failed by only one vote in the House, though passed by the Sen-vote this session, Fauntroy vigorously lobbied the Maryland Assembly halls, but, bam, ran into the charge that he had toadied to the PLO on his muchpublicized visit to Lebanon, and had even sung "We Shall Overcome" with Yasser Arafat. Zounds!

Anxious that he couldn't even overcome Maryland, Fauntroy held a private meeting with four Maryland legislators of the Jewish faith and, according to the Washington Post, agreed to draft a statement critcizing the PLO in return for their votes.

Now it must be pointed out that 21 of the 24 Jewish members of the Maryland Assembly voted for the amendment last year, and that the four who met with Fauntroy were not speaking David Shapiro, a member from Baltimore, said he never favored the D.C. Voting rights measure, but voted for it last year because of the "alliance of blacks and Jews." But with Fauntroy singing with Arafat, he couldn't support it again unless Fauntroy put into focus where he and the country should stand on the PLO. Another Jewish delegate complained that even in private sessions, Fauntroy refused to "repudiate the PLO's anti-Americanism.

Still, there was reason to believe that Fauntroy wanted to strike a deal with this minority cluster in order to get his precious votes. But the very idea of such groveling appalled not only the ardent advocates of virtual statehood for D.C. but the Baltimore-Washington area's major Jewish organizations as well.

"News of such a deal was shocking to us," said Amy Goott, community consultant of the Anti-Defamation League's D.C.-Maryland office. "The PLO question is an unrelated issue. We have strongly supported the amendment from the start. We agree with Fauntroy on that issue.' Well, by the end of the week, Fauntroy was vehemently denying that he had agreed to recant in order to get votes and placed the blame for an offer of a deal on the four Jewish legislators. He argued that he had criticized the PLO before for its terrorism (he has also criticized Israel on the same score) and claimed he was only trying to explain once more his efforts to stop violence in the Middle East. Alas, Fauntroy's performance is what we probably can expect if D.C. is given the privilege of near-state-hood. Presently, D.C. citizens elect a nonvoting delegate in Congress (Fauntroy), a mayor, a city council and a school board and vote for President. The voter turnout is far below the national average, and the politics are so lopsided Democratic that D.C. Republicans can find plenty of room in a broom closet for meetings. I am for the D.C. citizenry electing two representatives to the U.S. House who can vote and, by process of rescission, being able to vote in elections of U.S. senators in Maryland. This would give them all the voting rights of citizens in other states and would avoid the infernal problem of statehood being granted to this feder-

If Fauntroy continues to perform on behalf of the D.C. Voting Rights Amendment as he has in this latest episode, editorialists like me won't have to fume about the absurdity of the nation's capital becoming the 51st state. The 50 real states won't let it IAL

Criminal charges expected in chemical dumping case

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) - Trucks cruised up and down the highway to avoid suspicion as they waited their turn to get into a garage and dump waste chemicals into a hole leading to an abandoned mine that drains into Susquehanna River, a grand jury says.

State Attorney General Edward Biester says he will file charges soon againt two companies and 11 individuals as recommended by an investigative grand jury which released its findings Tuesday.

The grand jury said millions of gallons of toxic and hazardous liquids were poured into a borehole above the abandoned coal mine in Pittston in a plot to avoid proper processing. The material, much of it from industrial facilities in New York and New Jersey, created an enormous pollution problem in the river.

"This has been one of the most significant investigations into the dumping of toxic wastes in the country," Biester said at a news conference. "These charges will be filed in Pittston, Luzerne County Court ... definitely within a month," he said. The borehole is located at a garage directly over the abandoned Butler

Mine. A drainage tunnel has been carrying the wastes to the river, where the federal Environmental Protection Agency and the state Department of Environmental Resources have mounted clean-up efforts.

Elmo Scatena of Wilkes-Barre, owner of the Highway Auto Service Garage, was allegedly paid $150 to $200 for each tank truckload of material dumped into the hole.

"At times there were so many trucks waiting to dump at the borehole that the drivers drove up and down Route 315 to avoid having too many trucks parked in front of the station," the grand jury said.

Biester estimated it would cost "thousands of dollars" to dispose of a truckload of the chemicals properly at a processing plant.

The alleged dumping began last July. David Milne, press officer for the state Department of Environmental Resources, said Tuesday it will cost about $1.2 million to clean up the mess. The grand jury issued its presentment Nov. 28 but it was sealed until Tuesday because of legal moves. It cited the Hudson Oil Refining Corp. of Edgewater, N.J. and Ag-Met, Inc. of Frackville, along with the 11 Russell Mahler of Edgewater, president of Hudson Oil and an Ag-Met board member, allegedly participated in the conspiracy that led to the Mahler, Scatena and the other defendants may face charges of risking a catastrophe, recklessly endangering, creating a public nuisance or violations of the Clean Streams Act, Biester said.

The charges carry total maximum penalties of 12 years in prison and $50,000 in fines. Others cited by the jury were Louis and Jerry Scatena, Elmo Scatena's sons who work at the garage; Ken Mansfield, Hudson Oil's manager and dispatcher; Harry Sutton, Hudson Oil's Syracuse, N.Y.

dispatcher; and Robert Vancio, Jim Carruthers, Don Wilson, Frank Reilly and Bud Thayer, drivers employed by either Ag-Met or Hudson The persons and spokesmen for the companies mentioned by the grand jury were not immediately available for comment.

$4.2 billion water project bill passed by House

WASHINGTON (AP) - Critics of a $4.2 billion water projects bill approved by the House are hoping to get objectionable provisions removed in the Senate.

The bill passed the House by a 283-127 vote despite protests by the administration and civic organizations that it is little more than a pork-barrel giveaway.

Administration lobbyists are hoping cuts can be made in a Senate version now pending in committee. Some White House lobbyists have said the Senate bill in its present state is "far worse" than the House mea-sure passed Tuesday.

President Carter has indicated a veto is likely if the final legislation sent to him is not changed from the present state of the two bills.

The measure approved Tuesday by the House authorizes some 200 construction projects and feasibility studies around the nation for such things as flood control, harbor navigation and shore erosion prevention.

Supporters say it carries a backlog of projects that were delayed by the feud between Congress and the president over water policy. They argued that many of the projects are badly needed to save lives or jobs.

But Common Cause and the League of Women Voters opposed the measure, as did Howard Jarvis of Proposition 13 fame. The National Taxpayers Union called the measure "fiscally irresponsible.'

The White House said the House action "continues the long-established tradition of authorizing water projects that are unstudied, that benefit only special interests at the expense of the American taxpayer, and that move the federal government into an increasingly larger role in state and local decision-making."

Rep. William Harsha, R-Ohio, the senior Republican on the House Public Works Committee, defended the bill, charging that environmental groups were putting out "propagan-da, distortions and misrepresentations" in an effort to defeat it. Even its staunchest opponent, Rep.

Robert Edgar, D-Pa., conceded there were simply too many congressmen with a stake in the bill — a project planned for their district, debts owed for projects approved in the past or an eye toward projects in the future.

Rep. Floyd Fithian, D-Ind., who pushed through an amendment repealing the authorization of 17 projects approved in past years but never built, said the Public Works Committee has become vengeful master, rewarding its friends and punishing its enemies, and thus ensuring support for its proposal.

"When you develop a buddy system in Congress that overrides the public interest ... that brings into the clear light of day what's wrong with the system," Fithian said. But all opponents could do was snipe at the bill, offering amendments they knew were doomed to failure and savoring small victories.

There were few of those small vic-tories. Besides Fithian's amendment, the House agreed to establish a commission to study U.S. water policy.

Congressmen also adopted a provision requiring states to develop dam dards in order to qualify for federal dam safety assistance. Opponents also won an amendment to put cost ceilings on open-ended authorizations for several projects, and managed to get a $190 million hydroelectric dam in Montana — op-posed by local residents — deleted inspection and maintenance stan-from the measure. Most of the opponents' proposals were voted down, however.

Prison riot fulfills charges

By ROB WOOD

HOUSTON (AP) - Texas and New Mexico prison plaints in federal court charging inhumane treat- cials. ment and unsanitary living conditions.

Today, while Texas prisons are quiet, the New Mexico State Penitentiary has been reduced to a blood-spattered, smoldering hulk - a reminder that violence is an inmate's constant companion.

In 1977, a class action suit filed by New Mexico inmates charged the prisons were overcrowded and prisoners were receiving improper treatment. Eight Texas inmates brought a long list of of charges against the Texas Department of Corrections in October, 1978.

Both suits were similar but the New Mexico suit, on which no action has been taken, proved to be chillingly prophetic with its charge that overcrowding led to incidents of prison violence.

The carnage that exploded in the Sante Fe facility over the weekend left 35 prisoners dead. Some had been castrated, some had been dismembered, some had been tortured with blowtorches. Fifteen are still

Even though Texas prisons have nearly doubled their inmate population in the past seven years from 17,000 in 1974 to 29,000 today — the only recent incident occurred in 1978 when 1,300 inmates rioted two years ago in support of the suit filed by

Following the incident, W.J. Estelle, TDC director, said "overcrowding could lead to more violence even though 90 percent of the inmates want to avoid further disturbances.'

'Overcrowding is relative," a TDC spokesman said Tuesday. "Of course, we have more prisoners than in the past, but we are able to absorb them into the system.

BUSINESS MIRROR Only taxpayers want balanced federal budget By JOHN CUNNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) - Nobody but the people seem to want the federal budget balanced, said Jim Davidson of the National Taxpayers Union, and so he is seeking a constitutional amendment to consider the people's will.

Thirty states already have signed up. Add just four more, and a limited constitutional convention is likely to be called. That is, unless Congress gets the hint and proposes an amendment of its own. 'There is no way around (the connection between) loose fiscal policy and the level of prices the ordinary person suffers," said Davidson, a 32-year-old candidate for a doctorate in economics.

The fiscal policy that offends him, and most Americans if you can judge from polls, is centered on deficit spending. Just once in two decades has the federal budget been balanced. And it's getting

In the past five years, Davidson points out, deficits have totaled more than $276 billion, eight times higher than in a similar period 10 years earlier. Interest on the public debt amounts to $60 billion.

It doesn't take an economist to see the consequences. As the deficits have increased so has the consumer price index. Since 1967 it has more than doubled. "At current rates it will double again by the early 1980s," according to a leaflet distributed by the Taxpayers Union.

Ironically and destructively, Davidson maintains, the ups and downs of the economy which Congress claims deficit spending is needed to counter, are partly the result of political manipullation in the first place. The end result, he fears, is more federal control and inflation.

Congress rewards special interests and gives the bill to everyone, he continues. To him, not even inflation or threats to freedoms will make elected officials cease when their self-interest, getting elected, conflicts with the public good. "Congress is an obstacle," he says. "The government is on a binge.

To counter it, Davidson would take away "the hypodermic needle of deficit spending that keeps us

Then, he said, "we'd have to face the problems of production, of paying our way insead of kidding ourselves. We'd have to stop printing money and we'd have to invest. And when faced with recession we'd have to face the facts rather than just print more money.'

Many people, including congressmen, are sur-prised that Davidson and the Taxpayers Union have come so close to calling a constitutional convention to propose a balanced budget amendment. Davidson

While still in his early 20s, working on the fringes of the Washington power structure and possessed of "a sense one has that things were being screwed up," Davidson sought to donate $25 to a taxpayer

Finding none, he formed the union, recognizing, he said, that while articulating rational, logical arguments might have some impact, the goal was reached sooner when rationallty was combined with

The Taxpayers Union, based in a Pennsylvania Avenue townhouse in southeast Washington, now has about 150,000 members who pay $5 or more. "We ask for $15. Some pay $1. We don't turn anyone away."

The amendment is the centerpiece of its activities, for now, although it steadfastly monitors, sometimes in fine detail, the various financial habits and excesses of elected and non-elected officials.

"Popular government, if it is to work, must have a way out if its leaders are not wise," he says. "We can take action on our own. State legislatures are more responsive than Congress."

He is convinced that the American people, "if given a chance would oppose many of the things Congress and the president support." And he thinks the impending success of the balance-the-budget drive proves it.

Another 25 persons on the bus were injured in the accident Monday, said a police spokesman in the town about 140 miles west of here. The accident was apparently caused by a failure of the crossing signal devices, he said.

The locomotive remained jammed into the twisted metal of the bus and rescuers worked for several hours Monday night to remove the dead and injured from the wreckage, he said.

Reagan changes his tune, says debate not 'divisive

By WALTER R. MEARS

HOOKSETT, N.H. (AP) - Ronald Reagan, having decided to debate his rivals for the Republican presidential nomination, is likely to make it a doubleheader by also meeting George Bush one-on-one before New Hampshire's primary election.

Reagan, the preseason favorite who lost his first 1980 outing, said he is now ready to face the other six Republican candidates because he has decided it will not divide the party after all.

That was his excuse for shunning a debate last month in Iowa: debates divide the party.

Hampshire's debates is essential to

"I think it became necessary," idential nomination.

Reagan said Tuesday.
The former California governor wound up a 10-stop, round-the-clock campaign burst at a birthday party with about 200 supporters at a Chinese restaurant Tuesday night in Hooksett. He is 69 today. Reagan said his years should not be an issue; that he has his health and his faculties, along with the experience age brings. "Someone asked me how I felt about my birthday and I said, 'Considering the alternative...' "The rest was drowned out in applause and don't miss a chance to draw attention to it. Bush, who beat Reagan in the GOP's leadoff competition Jan. 21 in Iowa, makes the point by emphasizing his own vigor, his 54 years, and his dedication to jogging.

But debating was the exercise of the day Tuesday in New Hampshire. All the candidates save Reagan had agreed earlier to meet as they did in Iowa and the fogmer California governor said Tuesday he'll be there,

"On Feb. 20 in Manchester, I'll be debating," Reagan declared at his birthday party.

The 90-minute debate is sponsored by the League of Women Voters and is to be televised nationally by the Public Broadcasting System.

It will match Reagan, Bush, Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., of Tennessee, former Texas Gov. John B. Connally, Rep. John B. Anderson of Illinois, Rep. Philip Crane of Illinois and Sen. Bob Dole of Kansas.

In addition, two more debate proposals are awaiting answers. Foster's Daily Democrat of Dover, N.H., wants all the GOP candidates to debate and The Nashua Telegraph has invited Bush and Reagan to a twocandidate meeting Feb. 23, three days before the presidential primary.

Reagan aides said both invitations are under consideration, but that the two-man debate is the one they are most likely to accept. John P. Sears, Reagan's national campaign manag-

Reagan insists he shunned the Iowa debate only because he feared it would split the party, although his strategists acknowledge the decision had a lot to do with his role as the leader of the Republican pack at the

It was Reagan pushing for a debate four years ago when he was trying to overtake then-President Gerald R. Ford for the GOP nomination.

Although he acknowledges he was wrong in saying debates would be divisive this year, Reagan insisted he will adhere to his position that Repubhave a right to find out just what the candidates believe and if we differ, where we differ, and also to learn more about us," Reagan said.

Baker renewed his New Hampshire campaign today in Nashua, gaining the endorsements of two Republican governors - Richard Snelling of Vermont and Robert Ray of Iowa. BOSTON (AP) - A Massachusetts environmental official says he will refuse to issue permits for offshore oil exploration in the Georges Bank unless he is convinced that the byproducts of the drilling will not pollute fisheries.

John Bewick, the state secretary of environmental affairs, told a U.S. House subcommittee Monday that he has asked the federal office of Coastal Zone Management for funds for a "technical review" of the environmental impact of drilling.

'I'm not yet convinced that the muds can be safely disposed of," he told the subcommittee on oceanography of the House Marine and Fisheries Committee.

Under terms of the federal Coastal Zone Management Act of 1972, Bewick, as a representative of the governor, could refuse to issue permits if he found the drilling violated the state's Coastal Zone Management Plan.

The state plan, adopted two years ago, says drilling shall be permitted only if potential damage to traditional fishing grounds is "evaluated and avoided" and "disposal of drilling muds and cuttings does not damage spawning areas and fishing resources.'

However, if Bewick refused to issue the permits, he could be overruled by U.S. Secretary of Commerce Philip Klutznick if he found the offshore drilling was in the national interest.

The subcommittee meeting was the last in a series of regional hearings on the Coastal Zone Management Program, which expires Sept. 30. Congress must decide whether to re-enact the program and whether any changes are needed

The long-delayed sale of drilling rights in the Georges Bank, about 100 miles southeast of Cape Cod, was held in Providence Dec. 18. Environmental groups had blocked the sale for almost two years, arguing in court that the drilling would harm the area's prime fishing grounds.

Oil company executives said they hoped the drilling could start late this summer.

If the federal government wants to enforce an energy policy, that enforcement must be "across-theboard" for all states, not just Texas, John Poerner said Tuesday while announcing his candidacy for the Railroad Commission.

Poerner, who serves as chairman of the RRC, is seeking re-election to a six-year term on the board. He won election in 1978 to fill an unexpired

* The candidate chastised the federal government in its concept of energy regulation which calls for taxing the producer instead of encouraging more production. While President Carter is backing the idea of more conservation, Poerner said the chief executive needs to get past that to the second step on the ladder of more energy, and that is increased produc-

"I hope Carter will have a better understanding of oil and gas in the future," Poerner said with a smile. "I never give up on anyone."

The RRC has served as an advocate for oil and gas interests in the federal government, he claimed. "If the RRC had not been an advocate for conservation of natural resources, we (Texas) would have lost a lot of our hydrocarbons.'

A primary role of the RRC is to make available a good steady supply of energy to meet the needs of a rapidly-growing state, according to Poerner. To accomplish this means developing and utilizing all possible energy sources, including lignite coal, gasohol, uranium and solar.

"We can't eliminte any source of energy for the future," he said. Although the U.S. recently sold 7 million tons of grain to Mexico, the country still has an oversupply with an embargo to the Soviet Union. This excess, suggested Poerner, should be used in gasohol production.

Marine authorities give names of dead

TOKYO (AP) — U.S. military authorities released the names Wednesday of two Marine fliers killed in separate aircraft accidents in the Far East in the previous week.

The pilot of a Marine A-4 Skyhawk that crashed during a training exercise Monday in South Korea was identified as Maj. John E. Day, 38, of Pensacola, Fla.

First Lt. James O. Hensley III, age not given, of Huntsville, Ala., was killed Friday when a Marine CH-46 Sea Knight helicopter slipped off the deck of the U.S.S. Okinawa, an amphibious assault ship operating in Pacific waters.

Hensley was the co-pilot of the helicopter and was listed as missing and presumed drowned after a nine-hour search failed to locate him.

Five other Marines aboard the helicopter were rescued, although the craft sank immediately, a spokesman said. The pilot, Maj. Wallace R. Creel, whose age and hometown were not given, was injured and listed in stable condition aboard the Okinawa.

The big twin-rotor helicopter was assigned to an air group flying in support of the 1st Marine Brigade, based in Hawaii. Hensley is survived by his wife, Karen, of Kailua, Hawaii.

Day's single-seat jet was participating in a close air support exercise involving U.S. Marines at "Nightmare Range," a training area 40 miles north of Seoul.

He was based at the Marines' Iwakuni Air Station in Japan. He is survived by his wife, Carolyn, and four sons who live at Iwakuni, the spokesman said.

He said the causes of both crashes were under investigation

Mugabe unhurt in attack

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) - Marxist guerrilla leader Robert Mugabe escaped injury early today when a grenade exploded outside the security wall of his home, but one of his political associates was badly hurt in a rocket attack on his home two hours before.

Four and a half hours after the attack on Mugabe's home, the British governor, Lord Soames, threatening political parties with severe penalties in an effort to check the growing wave of violence in advance of the parliamentary elections Feb. 27-29,

Police said they arrested two black men suspected of hurling the grenade that exploded harmlessly near Mugabe's home in a Salisbury suburb about 3:30 a.m. They said they did not immediately know their names or political affiliation.

Turkish envoy shot in Switzerland

BERN, Switzerland (AP) - Gunmen in a passing car shot and injured the Turkish ambassador to Switzerland as he was being driven to work today, Turkish diplomatic sources reported.

They said Ambassador Dogan Turkmen was shot while being driven to the embassy. He was taken to a Bern hospital where doctors said his injuries were not serious.

Gunman says one hostage dead

MILAN, Italy (AP) - A gunman held seven Italians hostage under threat of death in the offices of Ralston Purina's Milan subsidiary today. Meanwhile, two gunmen on a motorcycle killed an Italian policemen guarding the Lebanese Embassy in Rome.

The gunman in Milan claimed to have killed one of the employees of Purina Italia shortly after taking over the offices Tuesday. One of the hostages confirmed the killing but police ringing the building were

At least nine persons have been killed in political violence in Italy so far this year — the bloodiest toll ever for the period.

Bomb hoax on Clark's plane

CHARLOTTETOWN, Prince Edward Island (AP) - Canadian Prime Minister Joe Clark's chartered campaign jetliner returned to Charlottetown Tuesday night after the pilot was notified of a bomb threat. But after 90-minute search, no bomb was found and the threat was pronounced a Capt. Rick Morrow said the plane had been in the air for 25 minutes on a flight to Ottawa and was at an altitude of 14,000 feet when he received a radio message reporting a bomb threat.

Officials said an anonymous telephone caller told the Air Canada office in Charlottetown that a bomb was aboard the craft.

Clark was taken quickly from the plane to a Royal Canadian Mounted Police vehicle and driven to a hotel.

Korean hot line reopened

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP) - North and South Korea today resumed their eight-year-old reunification dialogue after an 11-month delay and agreed to reopen the Seoul-Pyongyang hot line.

The direct phone link between the two capitals was installed in 1972 in a mood of detente but the line was cut by the North in August 1976 after communist troops axed two U.S. officers to death in a dispute over tree-pruning.

The hot line will reopen as of 10 a.m. Thursday, officials said. Both sides also agreed to hold future meetings alternately at North Korea's building in Panmunjom and in South Korea's Freedom House facility in the joint security area of the truce village.

Assad delays Syrian withdrawal

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - Syrian President Hafez Assad delayed the withdrawal of most of his troops from tense Beirut after snipers wounded four persons, Moslem militiamen clashed among themselves and Lebanese, Palestinian and Saudi Arabian leaders appealed to him to wait:

Assad said he told former President Suleiman Franjieh that he would postpone the pullout "for some time," until the Lebanese Army could enforce the 38-month-old armistice that ended the 1975-76 civil war between Christian rightists and an alliance of leftist-Lebanese Moslems and Palestinian guerrillas.

Franjieh, the leader of one of the three biggest Christian factions and a staunch supporter of the Syrian military presence in Lebanon, rushed to Damascus after the Syrian government without prior warning announced it was withdrawing the 5,000 troops policing Beirut to the Bekaa Valley, 40 miles to the east.

Others who pleaded with Assad to reverse the order were Lebanon's Moslem premier, Salim el Hoss; Yasser Arafat, the leader of the Palestine Liberation Organization, and Saudi Arabia's second deputy prime minister, Prince Abdulla Bin Abdul Aziz.

Two more Soviet dancers defect

TOKYO (AP) - Two lesser members of one of the Soviet Union's leading ballet families left for the United States tonight after defecting during the current Japanese tour of the Bolshoi Ballet.

The defectors are 31-year-old Mikhail Messerer, an occasional solo performer with the Bolshoi and a nephew of the Soviet Union's leading ballerina, Maya Plisetskaya, and his 71-year-old mother, Soulamif Mikhailovna Messerer, a teacher with the troupe.

Three other Bolshoi dancers defected during the company's tour of the United States last summer. They included Alexander Godunov, one of the stars of the company.

Ali says Nyerere right

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) - Muhammad Ali, President Carter's special envoy in black Africa, says Tanzanian President Julius Nyerere was right in refusing to meet him if Nyerere "thought that I was coming as a tool of America.

The former boxing champion made the comments in an interview to be published Thursday in Nairobi's Daily Nation, eastern Africa's largestselling daily.

It quotes Ali as saying, "I am glad that he didn't talk to me to show the world that he doesn't like the message that I had."

Ali went on to defend his diplomatic role in seeking African support for a possible boycott of the 1980 Moscow Olympics. He said he believed a boycott would make the Soviets aware they were wrong to invade Afghanistan, and thus would help prevent nuclear war.

Ali told the Daily Nation his only purpose in coming to Africa was to try to prevent nuclear war.

'I am not here to be pushed around to sell American policies." he said in the interview.

Spanish Embassy in San Salvador under siege by leftists; Right-wing terrorists kidnap three Communist political heads

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) - Right-wing terrorists kidnapped three Communist political leaders and said they would kill them if leftists occupying the Spanish Embassy did not pull out by Wednesday night.

The rightists also said they would burn the embassy if their demand was not met.

About 20 members of the Feb. 28 Popular Leagues, or LP-28, took over the embassy without a fight Tuesday, taking the Spanish ambassador and eight other persons hostage. They demanded that Spain break relations with El Salvador's military-dominated government and that the government release four LP-28 members they claimed were arrested Sunday. The government denied holding the four leftists.

Meanwhile, police reported another leftist leader machine-gunned to death at his home Tuesday night, and about 100 radical high-school students were holding Education Minister Eduardo Colindres and hundreds of others hostage at the Education Ministry. The students invaded the ministry Tuesday demanding a 40 percent reduction in the tuition fees charged by private colleges, expanded enrollment at free public universities and the dismissal of some Education Ministry officials. A spokesman for the students said they ranged in age from 13 to 18, and their occupation was peaceful. But it was not known if they were armed.,

The government, mindful of the consequences of the police attack on the occupied Spanish Embassy in neighboring Guatemala last week, said the ruling junta assured the Spanish government in a telephone call to Madrid that security forces would not intervene in the embassy siege

There was no immediate indication of what the government might do about the threats from the ultra-rightist Organization for the Struggle Against Communism. It said in a communique to local newspapers it had taken Mario Avinada Carranza and two other unidentified leaders of the Nationalist Democratic Union, the Communist-front party, from their
