10,000 flee flames in Southern California

By BRIAN BLAND Associated Press Writer

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP) - Six fires pushed by winds up to 90 mph roared out of control over 30,500 acres of timberland today after burning nearly 240 homes and forcing about 10,000 people to flee, authorities said.

One blaze was headed "over the hill" north of San Bernardino 75 miles east of Los Angeles into the mountains toward several towns. Part of southern Crestline was being evacuated early today, said Jimmy Jews, spokesman for the San Bernardino Fire Department.

Jews said at one point Monday night more than 100 homes in a 10-square-block residential area of northern San Bernardino were in flames, and one entire city block of homes in the $80,000 to $100,000 range was des-

Another swiftly moving brushfire that broke out early today in the Malibu Canyon area of Los Angles County was whipping south toward the Pacific Coast Highway after burning more than 2,000 acres within two hours.

Some residents in Malibu Canyon, about 30 miles west of Los Angeles, were being evacuated, and two major area roads were immediately closed, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Still another fire threatened the entire village of Mount Baldy in the Angeles National Forest westof San Bernardino, and three blazes were out of control in Riverside County to the south.

The latest fires came just 10 days after firefighters controlled a 6,600-acre Bradbury fire, which developed 20 miles southwest of Mount Baldy and destroyed 55 homes and damaged 27 others for a loss of $25 million. One man died of a heart attack as he fled the flames.

More than 1,200 firefighters were battling the six fires. and six firefighters were injured, including two who suffered broken legs in falls down steep terrain.

No other injuries were reported. One of the Riverside County fires had charred 4,000 acres, and threatened homes in Lakeland Village, southwest of Lake Elsinore. An undetermined number of residents were evacuated as the fire advanced toward the mountain community of Rancho Capistrano and populous Orange County.

Seven miles north of Lake Elsinore, another blaze burned 5,000 acres of scrub brush and threatend 50 homes at one point.

Another fire was burning out of control in the Prado Flood Control Basin in Riverside County after consuming 100 acres. A dairy was destroyed, and other structures were threatened, officials reported.

Many San Bernardino residents went to a central evacuation shelter on the grounds of the National Orange Show, which has a number of large exhibition buildings

Thirty hand crews from Western states were expected to be flown in to help exhausted firefighters battle the seemingly uncontrollable blazes.

Many residents stayed at their homes until the last minute, hosing down houses in attempts to save them from the blaze.

The largest fire, the Panorama blaze that officials said was set by arsonists, began Monday morning in a canyon north of San Bernardine, 60 miles east of Los Angeles.

It was fanned by hot, gusty winds as it burned some 10,400 acres in San Bernardino and the nearby Sycamore

Fire officials were unable to predict when the fire would be contained. "It's going to be trouble throughout the day," said San Bernardino County Fire Chief Don

Another fire was threatening an entire mountain village near the summit of Mount Baldy in Angeles National Forest, 15 miles northest of Los Angeles. It had destroyed more than 9,000 acres and damaged four buildings by this

Candidate Hobby says Clements' program doomed

AUSTIN (AP) — Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby says the 1981 Legislature will spend $280 million for two new prisons but will resist major elements of Gov. Bill Clements' program.

Hobby made the predictions at a Menday news conference where he made it official that he will seek re-election in 1982. Hobby, 48, has been lieutenant governor since 1973. If he is reelected and serves his full term, he will have held the office 14 years — longer than any of his predecessors.

He said he was announcing 15 months before the filing deadline because "I like to get it done early to discourage a few who might try otherwise. Among those mentioned as possible contenders for the job are Sens. Peyton McKnight, D-Tyler, and Bill Meier, D-Euless, who led the Democrats and Independents for Reagan organization this year.

Snow, sleet, drizzle fall on Permian Basin

Snow, sleet and freezing drizzle were falling over a wide portion of the Permian Basin early today as yet another major winter cold front unleashed its icy fury on the area.

Light rain fell most of Monday evening in Midland, but it changed to snow early this morning. The National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport issued a travelers' advisory for today and placed a winter storm watch in effect for tonight.

Accumulations of 2 to 4 inches of snow were being predicted as of early this morning although the weather service officially had only measured .25 inch of precipitation by 8 a.m.

That wasn't the story throughout the Permian Basin, though. As of 8 a.m. today, Lamesa already had 3 inches of snow on the ground with more falling. Andrews reported snow and Big Spring and Odessa reported rain mixed with snow. Stanton was receiving sleet and snow this morning, but at Rankin and Crane rain and drizzle were report-

Midland's area forecast, issued early today, called for snow continuing into tonight with accumulations of 2 to 4 inches possible. The snow should end late tonight. Cloudiness should decrease on Wednesday and it won't be quite as cold.

Probability of additional precipitation will decrease to 40 percent to-

Low temperature tonight should drop into the low 20s and the high on Wednesday should reach only the low Winds tonight and Wednesday should be variable and blow at 5-10 Monday's high temperature reached only 42. That was considerably cooler than the record high for that date — 83 degrees, set in 1965. Low this morning was 32. Record low for today's date is 18 degrees set in The precipitation recorded early this morning boosted the total so far this month to .68 inch. The yearly, total now stands at 16.51 inches.

Fire code violations found Search for bodies in charred hotel continues

BY LINDA DEUTSCH Associated Press Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) - Evidence of serious fire code violations, including holes cut in fire walls, was discovered in the charred MGM Grand hotel as crews searched for more victims of the blaze that claimed 84 lives, officials said.

No additional bodies were found Monday after firefighters broke into sealed elevators and pumped six feet of water out of the rubble-strewn basement, said Deputy Fire Chief John Pappageorge.

"I would say we are pretty positive now that we've got everybody. Nobody is reporting anybody missing, and we feel confident we got them all," Pappageorge added.

But the search uncovered such fire code violations as holes cut into fire walls on the casino's catwalk, or "Eye in the Sky," an area from which observers can peer down at the casino floor below, said Fire Chief Roy

MGM officials were not immediately available for comment. "I don't know what the people's intent was," he said. "They would probably cut the holes for easy acess to air-handling rooms (where air conditioning is controlled) and electrical parts and so on

"These kinds of violations are always serious," said Parrish. "People should not cut holes in fire walls for any purpose whatsoever."

A fire wall is a fireproof wall to prevent the spread of fire from one room or compartment to the next. The holes, near a lobby next to elevators, might have contributed to the rapid spread of smoke in the quick-moving fire, officials said. 'I'm sure the smoke got in through the areas that were cut into the drywalls," he said. Among other factors that helped make the smoky fire a killer were open elevator doors in the lobby. The open doors caused elevator shafts to act as chimneys funneling smoke up through the hotel's 26 stories, Par-

The fire began early Friday in electrical circuitry above a delicatessen on the hotel's main floor. It smoldered for hours before it erupted and sent smoke billowing upward. The final toll of injuries in Friday's devastating fire was 706, officials said, Some 308 people required hospitalization, but only 23 of those remained hospitalized Monday and none was believed to have life-threatening injuries, medical officials

Meanwhile, some 800 mourners turned out to pay tribute to the victims at a special Mass in a cathedral constructed for Las Vegas tourists.

Although the 84 dead "were wiped out by one horrifying blow," Bishop Norman F. McFarland said, "God was there in the heat and smoke."

Monday's search was hampered by winds, which gusted up to 48 mph and hurled glass and debris into the streets below. Some workers said winds whipping through broken windows forced them to retreat.

Investigators from the U.S. Fire Administration and the National Fire Protection Association will continue analyzing evidence from the blaze for at least another week, Parrish said.

"The national organizations have a lot more experts than we have, and we're all here to help each other. They are bringing in specialists on wiring and elevator cables," he said.

Some 56 fire chiefs from across the country have examined the devastation, and more still are arriving. "All of us feel we have to learn from this fire and make a concentrated effort (to improve) the building codes," Parrish said.

With the investigation into the fire, firefighting manpower and equipment and reports for federal investigators, "This fire department won't be back to normal for a year," Parrish said.

"I've been told I'll be involved in this (the MGM fire) for at least a year," the chief said.

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Surrounded by choking smoke and flames, the baker at the MGM Grand hotel figured a note might help explain how he met his death.

co-worker Scott escaped the fiery holocaust by spending more than two hours in near-freezing temperatures. Their ordeal began when a wisp of gray smoke puffed out of an air conditioning register shortly after 7 a.m. Friday. Within minutes, "thick, black acrid smoke started coming," said

Most of the bake shop staff fled, except Feldman, Scott and Clarence White, the assistant pastry chef.

Turning to White, Feldman said, "Clarence, I've got 30 pans of rolls in the oven and 12 gallons of dough prepared. What do you want me to

"As he started to answer, the lights went out. I screamed 'Scotty, let's get out of here.' The three of us started down a corridor ... in the dark. We were going following the wall, hand over hand, when this black smoke with soot particles were hitting us. "We were halfway ... when I said, 'We're not going to make it. Let's get back in.' At that point, Mr. White fell down with a thud. We found out later

Once inside the stainless steel enclosure, they were safe from the heat and smoke, but were soon suffering from 37-degree cold.

"We were jumping up and down and rubbing our arms to keep warm,' said Feldman. "We thought of building a fire, but that would have eaten up our oxygen. We knew it would take a while for the fire to break through the 8-inch walls, so the freezer section was going to be our last resort."

Flurries are forecast over the Pacific Northwest and upper Plains. Flurries mixed with rain are expected over much of the Gulf coast states. Elsewhere skies will be partly cloudy or cloudy. (AP Laserphoto)

Witnesses place convicted hit man near Wood home

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - A convicted hit man was seen near the me of U.S. District Judge John H. Wood Jr. shortly before the jurist was assassinated by a sniper who has eluded FBI agents for a year and a half, the San Antonio Express reported in today's editions.

Witnesses have told the FBI they saw Charles V. Harrelson, 42, walking inside the Chateau Dijon Townhomes ex shortly before the judge was shot and killed the morning of May 29, 1979, sources told the newspaper.

Harrelson was convicted as the trigger man in the 1968 slaying of a Hearne grain dealer and was paroled in 1978. He appeared last week in Houston at a lineup of suspects in the Wood assassination, sources said.

After his appearance before a San Antonio grand jury investigating the slaying last October, Harrelson said he had been in Dallas on the day of the Wood, 63, known as "Maximum John" for his stiff sentences on drug offenses, was gunned down about 8: 40 a.m., by a hidden sniper who fired a single .243-caliber rifle bullet into the judge's back.

One of the witnesses who saw Harrelson at the scene has undergone hynosis to aid his recollection of that morning, the newspaper reported.

The newspaper quoted sources as saying Harrelson has been a suspect in Wood's death from the outset. One source said it is believed the man was not alone at the Chateau Dijon complex, the newspaper re-

Nine women reportedly viewed last Thursday's heavily guarded lineup, which included Harrelson and several other men. Harrelson is being held in Harris County Jail on state charges of possession of cocaine, altered gam-bling paraphernalia and a firearm by ed felon.

He has been held without bond since ne was captured in the West Texas own of Van Horn in September after he failed to appear at a Harris County hearing on the state charges.

Attorney Bob Tarrant of Houston, who represents Harrelson on the state charges, said U.S. Attorney Jamie Boyd told him two months ago that Harrelson had offered a sound alibi to the grand jury meeting last October.

"Boyd told me they had checked his alibi and found that it was true, that he had an excellent alibi," Tarrant told the Express Monday. "He told me that Mr. Harrelson had been a prime suspect from the beginning, but that after checking Harrelson's alibi, they shifted the investigation to other suspects.

ther suspects.
"Now, all of a sudden, it has shifted ack over here to Harrelson," Tarant said. "I think they're doing smething unfair and are trying to rejudice his rights."

Tarrant confirmed that Harrelson peared in last Thursday's lineup in uston, but the attorney declined to comment further.

He said he has not discussed the Wood case with Harrelson and is not representing Harrelson in connection with that investigation.

Dallas attorney Charles Tessmer, who represented Harrelson during his 1979 grand jury appearance here, could not be reached for comment.

Boyd declined comment on last Thursday's lineup or the latest developments in the investigation of Wood's slaying, except to say, "I'm encouraged."

He added, "We're working on the case night and day to do everything we can to see that it's brought to a successful conclusion.'

John C. Lawn, special agent in charge of the San Antonio FBI office, which is heading the probe, declined

Both have said in the past, however, that they did not want anyone charged in connection with Wood's killing until cases can be made against all those involved, the newspaper said.

No charges have been filed in either the Wood case or the attempted killing of Assistant U.S. Attorney James Kerr on Nov. 21, 1978. Both cases are now being investigated by a special San Antonio federal grand jury.

Harrelson was convicted in 1973 of the execution-style shooting death of Hearne grain dealer Sam Degelia Jr. on July 6, 1968, near McAllen. Degelia's partner, Pete Thomas Scamardo, was convicted of hiring Harrelson to kill Degelia for $2,000. Harrelson received a 15-year sentence and was paroled in 1978. Scamardo received seven years proba-

Harrelson was acquitted in 1970 of a murder-for-hire charge in the slaying of Houston carpet firm executive Alan Berg near Angleton in 1968.

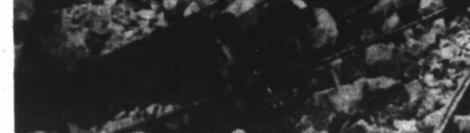

In 1969, he was convicted on a federal charge of possession of a sawed-off shotgun in Kansas City, Mo., and received a three-year sentence.

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — The Italian Military Rescue Command estimated the death toll in Sunday's earthquake at more than 3,000 today, making it Italy's worst quake in 65 years.

The director of relief operations, Giuseppe Zamberletti, said 1,750 people were known killed, 570 missing with little hope of finding them alive, and 1,879 injured. But the rescue command's office in Naples said it estimated at least 3,132 dead on the basis of reports from previously isolated villages in the mountains behind Naples and Salerno.

The Interior Ministry said there were 100,000 homeless, and seismologists reported that more than 40 aftershocks shook the region since the initial quake Sunday night. They said new tremor in Avellino, east of Naples, knocked down buildings damaged in the first jolt.

The Italian military announced that 500 soldiers and 150 pieces of equipment left the northern city of Milan to reinforce the 10,000 soldiers and 1,500 firemen already in the zone digging for survivors.

Residents of Laviano, Santomenna and other towns dug through the ruins with their hands in search of husbands, wives, children or other loved Exhausted rescue workers were short of bulldozers and other equipment to clear the rubble. It was difficult to get the large vehicles available up the narrow roads in the impoverished region.

and the walls of the Church of Santa Maria Assunta collapsed on them. President Sandro Pertini and Premier Francesco Cossiga visited victims of the quake Monday, which was declared a national day of mourning. The quake, which measured 6.8 on the Richter scale, damaged 97 cities, towns and villages across 10,156 square miles of southern Italy, an area with a total population of 7 mil lion. As aftershocks continued, countless thousands spent their second night out of doors Monday, sleeping in cars and tents.

In Naples, a city of 1.5 million, families spanning three and four generations camped in their cars in the piazzas, at the San Paolo soccer stadium and in open spaces along the shoreline of the famed Bay of Naples. Officials estimated that up to 15 percent of the city's buildings suffered structural damage and 35 percent more had superficial damage. Rescue workers pulled 30 bodies from a 10-story apartment house that col-

"I don't know why, but St. Januarius is punishing us," said 63-yearold Anna Pavese, as she sat in the back of a small blue car in the Piazza del Plebiscito.

Januarius, a 4th century martyr, is the city's patron saint. According to tradition, he protects it from disaster if his dried blood liquefies in ceremonies in May and September. Believers in the tradition were bewildered because the blood liquefied both times this year but still the quake occurred.

Guns, coins, jewels stolen

Fire Department officials suspect arson in an early morning fire at a Midland laundromat. At 12:22 a.m. today, firemen were disparched to the E-Z Way Laundry, 1113 E. Scharbauer Drive. On arrival they found lint in several machines burning. The fires were deliberately set, said a Fire Department spokesman. Damage was minimal.

Commissioners approve revenue bond application

By DAVID CAMPBELL Staff Writer

Midland County Commissioners approved Monday the revenue bond application of NDT Systems, Inc. of Odessa to move into the new Interstate 20 Terminal Industrial Park.

Grant Billingsley of the Midland Industrial Development Corporation presented the application to commissioners during Monday's regular meeting in the Midland County Court-

NDT Systems Inc. is a manufacturer of non-destructable pipe testing equipment. The business currently employs 125 persons and has plans to expand its employment to 250-300 persons, Billingsley told commissioners. The $5 million facility will consist of several buildings which will house the various stages of NDT's manufacturing process. Billingsley explained that the corporation will not have any problems selling the bonds. For most of Monday's session, commissioners reviewed and examined bids for sheriff's and county extension vehicles, a turbine for mosquito control and a word processing computer for the county judge and county court at law.

After an hour and a half of discussion, commissioners agreed to spend $24,622.90 for three vehicles for the Sheriff's Office, $8,725 for a pick-up truck for the County Extension Office, and $9,774.01 for a turbine. Commissioners also approved

County Court secretary June Ocker's recommedation to purchase a word processing computer for $14,249. In another action, commissioners approved the preliminary selection of 12 persons to serve on the community development block grant committee. According to County Judge William Ahders, the committee would decide where federal money should be spent if approved by the federal government.

Commissioners approved several stop signs to be erected at three intersections along FM 1308. Before going into executive session, routine items such 'as personnel appointments to various departments met commissioner approval. Approval of state and county bonds for the tax assessor-collector was postponed until the first meeting in

Tough guy, George Raft dies at 85

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - George Raft, the dapper veteran of 105 films whose underlying air of menace made him a natural for such roles as the coin-flipping gangster in "Scarface," has died at 85 after a lengthy bout with emphysema.

The aging actor, who also was linked with underworld figures in real life, was admitted to New Hospital one week ago and died Monday afternooh, said hospital spokeswoman Susan Lindquist. She said he had been in and out of a coma.

Raft recently had developed an 'unusual blood condition'' which might have been considered "pre-leukemia," said Dr. Rexford Kennamer, who had treated the actor for 20

He said Raft had no living relatives, but hospital officials said a friend was nearby when the 50-year movie veteran died.

"I was sorry to hear the news. I've known this good man for 40 years and I loved every minute of our friend-ship," said Frank Sinatra.

Raft had been inactive professionally in recent years, although he made a cameo appearance as a gangster in the spoof "The Man With Bogart's Face" this year,

It was his performance as the cool killer in "Scarface" in 1933 thatbrought the dark-haired actor stardom and set off his career as a movie gangster. In his most famous scene. he flipped a half-dollar as he was gunned down by Paul Muni.

In the 1930s and 1940s he was one of Hollywood's highest-paid stars. He was in "Souls at Sea" with Gary Cooper, "Each Dawn I Die" and "In-Sometimes he played such straight parts as the truck driver in "They Drive By Night" with Humphrey Bogart and Ann Sheridan, or the entertainer in "Follow the Boys.

But most often he played men with shady pasts, as in "Background To Danger," "Mr. Ace," "Johnny Angel," "Intrigue," "Dangerous Pro-fession," "Lucky Nick Cain," and many others.

When film styles changed, Raft began playing cameos in films like "Around the World in 80 Days," and Some Like It Hot.

A product of New York's Hell's Kitchen, Raft was a boxer, electrician and baseball player before landing a job as a dancer in night clubs owned by New York underworld figures in

He became a vaudeville star and then moved on to films, first as a dance contest winner in "Taxi." a role friend James Cagney asked him to play. Raft was famed almost as much for his snappy appearance and entourage of beautiful women as for his acting.

In the mid-1950s, Raft left the silver screen for the gaming tables of Las Vegas and purchased a 2 percent interest in the lavish Flamingo Hotel. Recently he had appeared in a few TV commercials, often in prison garb, and spent his afternoons as a greeter in the Beverly Hills office of the Las Vegas Riviera.

Raft's money had vanished, partly because of his support of his estranged wife who refused to divorce him. He said he paid Grayce Mulrooney Raft more than $1 million CHILDRESS, Texas (AP) - Officials of Lancer Homes ordered double shifts and studied other ways to keep layoffs at a minimum today after a fire crippled a production facility at Childress County's largest employer.

Economy comes first

It is significant that Presidentelect Reagan and his chief advisers are concentrating their attention first on solving the country's economic problems, which they clearly consider to be more urgent just now than defense and foreign-policy challenges.

Tax and budget strategies for the new administration were mapped at the recent weekend economic summit conference in Los Angeles that brought Gov. Reagan together with some 15 top economists. The unofficial word is that broad tax cuts will head the list of initiatives the administration plans immediately after inauguration day on Jan. 20. In reaffirming his campaign pledges, Mr. Reagan has said he plans to "hit the ground running."

Thus, it appears the incoming administration has opted against wait-and-see gradualism in favor of a more audacious approach. This in turn suggests a tilt toward supply-side economics over the traditional, which is to say that the free enterprise system will be freed up from its burdens of federal taxes and regulations to produce more goods and even more tax revenues.

We share the belief of conservative economists that the Reagan administration should pursue a vigorous, audacious economic strategy.

Other nations, notably England and Canada, have suffered the consequences of too gradual an approach to economic recovery. The economic problems of this nation cry out for resolution.

Economic audacity may be President-elect Reagan's only hope of reining in runaway federal spending that bounded $157 billion beyond budget estimates in just 13 months - $36 billion since June. Only the strongest medicine can deal with such an affliction.

In departing the summit meeting in Los Angeles, Gov. Reagan, as though to put down the fabricated campaign report that his economic reforms will be at the expense of the poor, suggested his budget cuts would come mostly from government "extravagance."

That may be stretching it a bit. If there are to be income tax cuts totalling 30 percent during the next three years and more than $30 billion in reduced revenue, there may have to be some drastic cuts in federal programs, especially if national defense is to be strengthened. It's our hope that the cuts aren't too drastic. though.

There just isn't any way to end this deficit-inflationary spree without some sort of a national withdrawal syndrome that will be painful. The test of Reagan economics will be to make that pain as brief and bearable as possible.

The American economy has been sick, sluggish, or feverish one time or another in every administration since that of Dwight Eisenhower. And the nation's economy was, as much as anything, responsible for dragging down the Carter administration.

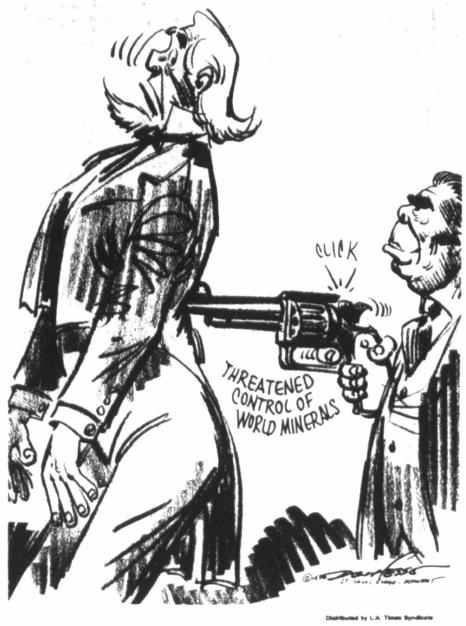

We believe the American people are tired of do-nothing politics and empty reassurances. We believe the average American will respond affirmatively to bold leadership that dares to share the unvarnished facts. And we believe Mr. Reagan is capable of rising to that challenge and will do so.

CHARLEY REESE

Horrors of 'the Holocaust' are beginning once again

Anti-semitism, a real undying monster, is on the prowl again and American Jews have begun to think the unthinkable: that for the first time they must think about the question of survival in this country. This fear is real and so is anti-semitism.

In Europe and in the U.S. there has been an increase in anti-semitic acts. The worst so far have been in Belgium and France. Someone threw a grenade into a group of Jewish children in Antwerp, killing some and injuring more. In France a series of anti-semitic incidents was climaxed by the bombing of a Paris synagogue.

In our country, a synagogue in New Jersey was destroyed. Nazis and Klansmen are on the move again. One of each made unseemly good showings in recent political campaigns. Underlying the fear of American Jews is the memory of Holocaust, Hitler's final solution which murdered six million Jews, including two million Jewish children. Anti-semitism is an old beast which feeds on economic hard times, scapegoatism and religious differences. Today it is being fed also by Arab hatred of Israel, by the Soviet Union - that reservoir of evil in the world, by the moral decline of the West and by the need and greed for oil. Unless it is confronted, it will accelerate and God knows what damage the beast would do if allowed to rampage unreined.

What does this mean to non-Jews? Is it a Jewish problem that we non-Jews can ignore? I don't think so. The Israelis live by a creed - "never again" — meaning never again will a Jew die unresisting or unavenged. We non-Jews must also live by a motto: Never again will we permit a whole people to be victimized. We have it in our power to stop anti-semitism in its tracks.

We have only to open our arms and embrace our Jewish friends and say never again will we allow you to stand alone, never again will we allow you to be isolated and dehumanized, never again will we remain silent when you are abused, or inactive when you are attacked. We are one people. The new anti-semites are clever.

They use "Zionist" and "Israeli" as code words but they are the same people who stripped naked mothers and daughters, fathers and sons, and shot, hanged and tortured them. starved them, beat them and gassed them. When I remember — and I shall never forget - I weep with rage.

Years ago in a London flat, I read the diary of a 13-year-old Dutch girl, Anne Frank. Her words, more than all the statistics and all the grisly photographs of bodies, engraved the horror of anti-semitism on my heart. That such a sensitive, innocent, intelligent and good human being could be destroyed by mindless prejudice is almost incomprehensible. I have carried the memory of her in my heart ever since.

I am often asked, usually by antisemites, if I am a Jew. No, I am not but I would be proud to be a Jew. I am often asked why I like Jews. I don't like all Jews any more than I like all members of any group. I often disagree even with my Jewish friends; they are mostly liberal and I am mostly conservative.

But I feel a deep and abiding bond with the Jewish people that transcends political, religious and cultural differences. That relationship is as close as I have ever come to a mystical experience. I think it is because the Holocaust crystalized for me the whole of human existence. Here man at his worst and at his best, here all human morality was laid bare.

I owe — we all owe — that child and all the others who perished...a life. She was murdered, but we can redeem her by seeing to it that her murderers and their spiritual heirs never triumph. We can redeem her by living up to our humanity.

She died because no one came to save her. She died as much from Western appeasement, from selfishness, from fashionable anti-semitism among the allies as from the cruelty of Nazi swine.

I have made a solemn promise to her. I will fight anti-semitism for as long as I live, with words and with fist and gun if it comes to that. I make no

Those reports incorrectly made Scowcroft seem to be an "advance man" sent by Reagan to sound out the Russians on U.S. relations and new SALT negotiations. That caused a stir in the Reagan transition because of Scowcroft's background: Henry Kissinger's deputy and later his successor as national security adviser. Scowcroft is definitely not regarded by Reagan's national security aides as part of the incoming team. To them, he is Kissinger-tainted. Scowcroft's visit to Moscow with a group of American foreign policy ex-perts who have little politically and less philosophically in common with the president elect was a surprise to most Reagan insiders — and to Reagan himself. They first learned about t by reading the newspapers.

BROCK AT STATE?

Republican National Chairman William Brock, who may not get the secretary of commerce post he covets, has been offered the possibility of a prestigious subcabinet post: deputy secretary of state.

The idea intrigues Brock, who previously had turned down the idea of going to Brussels as ambassador to NATO. Brock has no intention of going back to Tennessee to seek the Senate seat he lost in 1976. There still remains an outside possibility that Brock will serve another term as national chairman, particulary if no high-ranking post in the administration for him opens up. There are no notable prospects for chairman. Drew Lewis, the Pennsylvania political operative who played a key role in the national Reagan campaign, is not interested (though he has put in a bid to be secretary of transportation.)

Out of 16 new Republican senators, only four are practicing lawyers. Of these, three - state Attorney General Slade Gorton of Washington, former state Attorney General Warren Rudman of New Hampshire and former Philadelphia District Attorney Arlen Specter — are considered liberals. The fourth, Rep. Dan Quayle of Indiana, is a moderate conservative.

Since the judiciary committee traditionally is the exclusive preserve of practicing lawyers and there will be three or more Republican vacancies there, this creates a problem for Thurmond. #### DEAR ABBY

Family totem pole slippery

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN DEAR ABBY: CURIOUS asked, Which is the hardest? being the youngest, middle or eldest child? You replied, "It all depends where you're coming from.' Well, I'm the youngest, and I think being the youngest is an advantage. Sure, I got plenty of hand-me-downs, but they were mostly good as new and I was always the best-dressed kid in my class.

Since I was the last one to leave home, I was treated like an only child and got plenty of attention and love. Because my folks were much better off financially after my brothers and sisters left home, they were able to do more for me than they did for the

Also, I had plenty of examples to follow. My parents were more relaxed and made fewer mistakes raising me than raising the older ones. I honestly can't think of any disadvantages in being the youngest. — LUCKY IN

DEAR ABBY: I think being the oldest child is definitely the hardest especially when there are only two in the family and they're both boys.

I'm the oldest, and when a fight breaks out between me and my brother. I'm always blamed. They say, "You're older and you should know

Being the oldest means that you start out being an only child, then all of a sudden you've got to share your parents and divide everything with another child. And the baby gets more attention just because he's little and cute and helpless. It's only normal to be jealous of him.

Being older means having more responsibility, like looking after my little brother. My parents give me the job, but they don't give me the authority to do any hitting.

If I could choose, I would be the youngest. - RICKY IN KANSAS

DEAR ABBY: The middle child definitely gets the worst of it. If the oldest accomplishes something, it's a big deal because it's the first time. Same with the youngest, because "the baby is growing up.

When the middle does it — nothing. It's neither the first nor the last.

The middle child is second in everything. Never the first.

Do you know what it feels like to be introduced by your parents? It goes something like this: "This is our oldest. And this is our youngest. And the other one is Kathy." You feel like

I'm sure parents don't realize they do this. Maybe this will help. — A MIDDLE NOTHING

DEAR ABBY: I'm the youngest in a family of five children. When our mother died at 77, she left a houseful of lovely antique furniture, plus enough silver, linen and china to open a store. She also left some valuable heirloom jewelry. She didn't leave a will, but guess who got first crack at everything? Mother's first-born daughter, of course. - GYPPED IN JOPLIN, MO.

DEAR ABBY: You ask, "Is it better to be the youngest, middle or eldest child?" Strange you should

Birthdays are getting a terrible reputation in this country. Six of them have already been declared "milestones" and several others are under

I'm not really sure what this means except when you hit a "milestone" your mind shifts gears, your new age doesn't fit any part of your body, and your sense of humor goes under-

What made me think of this was a letter from a girl named Charlotte who goes to college in Virginia. She wrote to ask why everyone thought her 18th birthday was such a big deal. Her friends treated it like a timetable. According to them, age 18 is jumpout-of-the-cake time. Time to buy beer, watch X-rated movies and swing whether she wanted to or not. As everyone pointed out, "You're only 18 once.

I think I've hit most of the milestones and I've always been intrigued turkey or chicken or 1 with the myth surrounding them vs.

Take age 21. Everyone said, "It's the best year of your life." The reality: I hadn't finished college, didn't know where the tuition was coming from and according to my vocational guidance scores had a big future in license plates. My wisdom tooth was coming in weird, I was the only girl in North America who wasn't going steady, and my mother said you're not getting any younger.
At age 30 I was told, "These are the years you'll look back on and want to relive." The reality: My husband worked from daylight until dark and the baby wore orthopedic shoes that cost $34 a pair and were outgrown every three weeks. I got a water heater for my birthday. I wanted long fingernails and a dinner ring. I saved money for three months to have my hair frosted.

Age 40: Everyone said, "Next week you won't even remember hitting 40." The reality: These stupid remarks were made by well-meaning people who were only 31 at the time. I remembered them every time I saw my mother's hands coming out of my coat sleeves. Every time I used Erase for my wrinkles and my entire face disappeared. I remembered every time I ate hunch and had to rest while it digested. I remembered every time I spen#430 to cover God's made. Just sit back, relax, and enjoy it." The reality: We installed a revolving door in the house for the returning children. The dress I could afford now only came in size 10. And the idiot who said, "You're only 50 once," didn't know about women.

Stock market loses

NEW YORK (AP) - Oil issues with interests in the North Sea were the most prominent casualties Monday as the stock market posted its second broad decline in a row.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, off 10.24 on Friday, fell another 11.18 to 978.75.

New York Stock Exchange volume totaled 51.12 million shares, down from 55.95 million in the previous session. The selling in the oils followed a proposed new British tax on oil from its sector of the North Sea. British Petroleum fell 41/4 to 43 as of the 4 p.m. close in New York; Amerada Hess lost 3¾ to 481/6; Murphy Oil 6 to 57, and Allied Chemical 5% to 55%.

Ranger Oil of Canada, which said it did not expect any material change in its British income, nevertheless fell 5% to 56 on the American Stock Exchange.

Mattel led the active list, off 3 at 12% on turnover of more than 1 million shares. The company estimated a 10 percent decline in quarterly earnings, and said it also expected to show lower profits for the full fiscal year.

MGM Grand Hotels fell 1 to 9 on top of a 3-point drop Friday, when a disastrous fire at its Las Vegas hotelcasino resulted in 83 deaths and caused extensive dam-

On the upside, Coca-Cola Bottling of New York chalked up the day's biggest percentage gain with a 1% rise to 9. Coca-Cola Co. said it agreed to buy the bottling concern for $10.375 a share, with plans for a subsequent transfer of ownership of the company to a group of inves-

The daily tally on the NYSE showed more than two losers for every stock that gained ground, and the exchange's composite index slipped .50 to 79.67. Standard & Poor's index of 400 industrials was down .89 at 158.31, and S&P's 500stock composite index dropped .80 to 138.31. The Amex market value index lost 2.00 to 356.44. In the over-the-counter market, the NASDAQ composite index closed at 204.22, down 1.85

TODAY'S ANSWER

Reagan aides say he will not retreat from income tax cut

By VIC OSTROWIDZKI Hearst Special News Service

WASHINGTON-Two of President-elect Reagan's closest financial advisors insist that he will not retreat from his commitment to a 30 percent reduction in personal income taxes.

Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., Monday reinforced Caspar Weinberger's statement Sunday that Reagan is standing firm on his pledge to slash individual income taxes while reducing federal spending and pushing for regulatory reform.

Weinberger, a former Nixon administration budget director and a senior economic advisor to Reagan, also called for severe" reductions that would limit government spending to $621 billion in 1981, which ends Oct. 1.

Recent reports indicated that Reagan might be moving away from fulfilling his campaign pledge to support the Kemp-Roth supply side economics" tax The Kemp-Roth bill would couple cuts in personal income taxes, 10 percent a year for the next three years, with reductions in corporate taxes and dividends and an end to the inheritance tax. The Kemp-Roth plan is based on a theory that a cut in taxes would generate new a new upsurge of economic activity which would produce more revenues for the federal government than were lost by the original cut. Kemp, who has been meeting with Reagan and his transition team, gave no new insight to Reagan's plans. He said a laundry list"of possible budget cuts is being considered, including a reduction in use of consultants, a cut in government travel and slashes in congressional spending. Kemp said the Reagan administration must make clear it is not attempting to balance the budget and cut spending on the backs of the poor and the

We must use prosperty to balance the budget," he added. Kemp, who is in an uphill fight to win the chairmanship of the House Republican Conference, also warned tha cutting the budget by $30 billion by next October would be unwise" since it would risk an early victory in Congress that Reagan needs.'

Weinberger said Sunday that Reagan is committed to the $620 billion target despite the fact that budget officials now predict federal spending at about $650 billion by next October, due to increases in govern-Opting for a $20 billion reduction, Kemp said it was more likely to be approved by Congress and more in line with the Reagan goal of achieving prosperty without inflation. Between June and November the estimates of federal spending in the 1981 fiscal year have soared from $613 billion to $650 billion. Of that increase, Kemp said, $26 billion is due to spending triggered automatically by the country's economic weakness. Interest charges in the federal budget are now expected to add $3.2 billion to the spending total; $9.2 billion more will be spent on trade adjustment assistance payments, food stamp aid, unemployment compensation and other federal aid programs affected by the economic slump. Kemp said there is room for compromise"in the Kemp-Roth bill but insisted that it is unlikely" that Reagan will alter the plan too much.

He also said he doesn't expect the Reagan administration to seek changes in the retirement age for social security purposes or in the way social security paments are boosted to cover inflation.

Kemp insisted that he had no idea where the news stories saying that Reagan is backing off' from his tax cut commitment may have originated. I don't know why these doubts keep creeping up,"he said.

There is a near unanimity among president-elect Reagan's advisors of the need for a major tax cut,'

Texas employment at record level

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Total employment in Texas reached a record level of 6,188,700 in September, and total unemployment fell to its lowest mark of the year, the Texas Employment Commission reported today.

The commission said employment had risen each month from June through September, with the number of workers increasing 2.4 percent - "a very respectable growth rate for what had been expected to be a dismal summer for employment in Texas." The unemployment rate for Texas dropped from 5.8 percent in August to 4.6 percent in September as summer jobseekers returned to the classroom, the It added that the September unemployment rate is the lowest since last December but is above the September 1979 figure of 4 percent.

LEASES ON PUBLIC LANDS AGAIN OPEN TO U.S. CITIZENS

Exploration for oil and gas is at an all time high and lease sales have never been so active. Next month, citizens of the U.S. will again have the chance to apply for leases located on public lands by the payment of small filing fees to the Federal government. The decision as to who receives these leases will be determined by public drawings that are conducted by the Department of Interior. Information will be sent at no cost to individuals interested in these lease offerings when they contact: Energy Research & Marketing Services.
