Jurors find no negligence in hospital case

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

The jury in the negligence suit brought against Midland Memorial Hospital deliberated four hours Wednesday afternoon before finding the hospital's nurses guilty of any negligence in causing injury to a former patient.

Nevertheless, the jury "awarded" the patient, 26-year-old Paula Ann Thomas of Midland, $100,000 in damages for her physical pain, mental anguish and injury.

But no penalty can be assessed against the hospital, since the 8-woman, four-man jury voted 10-2 in favor of the hospital and found no negligence.

"They (jurors) evidently thought they were awarding $100,000," said Warren Burnett, Mrs. Thomas's attorney, who said the case would be appealed. He was arguing for $450,000 in damages for his client, who suffered a foot drop while recovering from a knee operation in Midland Memorial Hospital in October 1978.

THE CASE AGAINST the hospital gained impetus on the afternoon of Oct. 12, 1978 — the day following the surgery by Dr. Thurston Dean. In making a routine check of his patient, Dean noticed the swelling on Mrs.

Thomas's left foot and leg, which was in a cast, detected numbness in her foot, and promptly cut away and removed the cast.

Subsequently, Mrs. Thomas, a secretary at Midland College, and her husband, mortician Bill Thomas, lodged the negligence suit against the hospital. They claimed that the nurses failed to notify Dean of symptoms of a possible medical problem, failed to heed Mrs. Thomas's complaints of pain and foot numbness, and failed to remove the cast to relieve pressure on the leg.

The peroneal nerve in the left leg was damaged and subsequently caused the foot drop and limited control of the foot.

Though 10 of the 12 jurors found no negligence on part of the hospital and its nursing staff, they did rule, however, that Mrs. Thomas "did inform" the nurses of symptoms of numbness or pain in the left foot.

AFTER THE THOMAS suit was filed against the hospital, the hospital in turned sued Dean for malpractice. The hospital claimed that Mrs. Thomas's post-operative care was his responsibility and not the hospital's since he was not in the hospital's employ.

Dean in turn sued the hospital for libel and alleged the hospital challenged his professionalism.

But Wednesday morning, the hospital dismissed its suit against Dean, an orthopedic surgeon who has practiced in Midland since 1960 and who has performed well over 10,000 successful knee operations.

THE HOSPITAL'S defense attorney, David Davis, told The Reporter-Telegram that there was "no reason" for dismissal of the counter-suit against Dean.

Burnett said otherwise.

"They didn't have a case against him," said the Odessa attorney. "He was rather providently brought in" to the litigation.

But Davis, an Austin-based attorney, did say that he hoped Dean would reciprocate and drop his libel suit against the hospital. That suit is still pending.

Moments after the jury returned its verdict, Davis, who was leaving to catch a return flight to Austin, said he would "hate to be around" when Dean learned of the verdict, which pleased the defending attorney.

Burnett called the verdict "ridiculous."

In closing arguments of the three-day trial, Davis defended the nurses' judgment in not recognizing the al-

Computer millionaire H. Ross Perot is on a crusade to save young Texans from drugs as chairman of Texans' War Against Drugs. He spoke to Midlanders Against Drugs, the Midland Junior League and other Midlanders Wednesday in an all-day seminar at Theatre Midland. (Staff Photo by Bruce Partain)

Anti-drug education goal of local seminar

He was sitting in the auditorium listening intently to the speaker condemn the use of drugs. Suddenly he began shaking uncontrollably. It started in his hands and soon consumed his entire body. He couldn't sit still. He squirmed in his seat and began making unintelligible noises. And then someone stopped the speaker and said the paramedics were on the way.

What some members of the large group of Midlanders attending the all-day drug abuse seminar at Theatre Midland Wednesday thought was a typical example of what drugs can do to a young person was really a demonstration of what the lack of them can do.

The young man from the Palmer Drug Abuse Program has been beating his drug problem. The lack of these drugs has changed his body's chemistry, and since he is a diabetic, what happened to him Wednesday afternoon in the auditorium was insulin shock. Once his blood sugar level was back to normal, he was fine.

Coming off drugs is not as easy as getting on them, which is what members of the Texans' War Against Drugs (TWAD) and the Midlanders Against Drugs (MAD) are trying to tell the public through seminars and workshops. Speakers for the groups said Wednesday they want to help parents keep children from experimenting with the dangers of drugs.

H. ROSS PEROT, chairman of TWAD, said the statewide plan to fight the number 1 social problem in the United States and the number 1 criminal problem in Texas was threefold. Perot said education of the public with emphasis on parents, enactment of tough drug legislation and maintenance of strict law enforcement throughout the state would soon bring the Texas drug problem under control.

Perot said illegal drug traffic is "a $50-60 billion industry." He said that made illegal drug sales comparable to Exxon, General Motors and American Telephone and Telegraph in size and scope. In addition, he said drug paraphernalia amounted to another $3 billion in sales in the U.S. "with no legal purpose except to promote the use of illegal drugs."

The Texas businessman and chairman of the board of Electronic Data Systems said the "marijuana industry" had an economic impact on the United States' inflation rate comparable to that of all OPEC oil countries — roughly $40-60 billion dollars in international trade — without taxation.

In addition, he said California's largest money crop was marijuana and Hawaii's revenues from marijuana was roughly twice as much as from sugar cane.

But what TWAD and MAD members are most concerned about is the extent of drug use among children and teen-agers.

PEROT REPORTED the findings of a survey of teen-agers. "The number 1 concern of children in the U.S. is drugs. The number 2 concern is their relationship with their parents," he said.

Perot said getting children away from drugs was not going to be easy and parents would have to be the main force. "Children are crying out to their parents to give them guidance and support," Perot told the audience.

Perot explained parents should meet not only their children's friends, but also contact and meet the friends' parents. Together, he said, the parents can set up strict guidelines of

Iranian official says hostages' fate hinges on U.S. response

By The Associated Press

The American hostages will be freed, stand trial, or have their fate decided by Iran's Parliament depending on the latest U.S. response to Iran's demands, and so far the Iranian government has not taken custody of the captives, a top Iranian official said today.

One of the militants occupying the U.S. Embassy in Tehran for nearly 13 months also said the Americans have not been transferred. "We have not delivered the hostages yet. We will announce it in a statement when we do," he said when contacted by telephone by The Associated Press in Beirut, Lebanon.

The Iranian official, Bhzad Nabavi, minister of state for executive affairs who is head of a state committee charged with carrying out the release of the hostages, told a news conference in Tehran he will meet with the Algerian envoys carrying the U.S. response as soon as they arrive late today.

"We are not going to negotiate with them. We are only waiting for the response. If the response is positive, the release will be done. If negative, we will give the hostages to the court for trial, and if the response is halfway, that is some conditions are accepted and some not, we will ask the Majlis (Parliament) to tell us what to do," Nabavi said.

He added: "At present the government is taking the hostages but the transfer of the hostages has not been completed yet because of some security considerations and other things."

"Transferring the hostages who are dispersed in different cities and places and preparing a suitable place for them — we cannot keep them in our prison — takes time. Thus we should find a safe place for keeping them."

Swedish Radio's correspondent in Tehran said that 49 of the hostages were moved from the U.S. Embassy in Tehran to a secret location in the Iranian capital last Friday and no longer are guarded by the Islamic militants who seized them 397 days ago. The other three hostages remain at the Iranian Foreign Ministry, the correspondent said. Iranian officials denied similar reports last week.

Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie told reporters in Washington Wednesday that the United States has informed Iran that President Carter can't implement to the letter the four demands for releasing the hostages, but he added the U.S. government will do all it can to observe the spirit of the four demands set down more than a month ago by the Iranian Parliament.

"A literal reading of the (parliament's) proposal is beyond the president's authority to implement," Muskie said. "But he can go a significant way and indeed a substantial way towards the objectives of that resolution."

"We have undertaken to indicate (to Iran) we are willing to do that, we cannot go beyond that, and the Iranians must understand it," he added.

As Muskie spoke, his deputy, Warren Christopher, was wrapping up two days of talks with Algerian intermediaries.

Christopher, who returned here early today, met in the Algerian capital with Foreign Minister Mohamed Benyahia and a three-man panel that has been acting as go-between for the United States and Iran.

Christopher is scheduled to brief President Carter and Muskie later today.

Grasso announces resignation

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Gov. Ella Grasso, recently diagnosed as having cancer of the liver, announced today she will resign at the end of the year.

In a one-sentence letter to Secretary of the State Barbara B. Kennelly, Mrs. Grasso said, "I hereby resign the office of governor of the state of Connecticut by reason of physical disability effective at the close of business Dec. 31, 1980."

Mrs. Grasso, the first female governor in the state's 341-year history, will be succeeded by Lt. Gov. William A. O'Neill.

News of the resignation originally came from news executives around the state. The news executives asked not be named.

In a statement to reporters released by her office, Mrs. Grasso said "Last week, it became apparent that cancer is present in my liver and further treatment is required. Chemotherapy has now been instituted."

Cancer of the liver is regarded as virtually incurable. Mrs. Grasso had a hysterectomy earlier this year in which doctors removed cancerous ovaries and she underwent chemotherapy at that time also.

"Regrettably," her statement said, "it is my belief that I do not have the stamina or the endurance for the rigors of the new legislative session and the myriad problems which face the administration of a vital and vibrant state."

"I make this decision with a heavy heart," the governor said, "but with full appreciation that the people's business must continue at the highest level and that an orderly transition can be secured."

"All of my life has been one of dedication to working for people. I ask God's help that I may continue to do so. I thank again the many who have sent me prayers and good wishes."

Another housing bond program possible

'Big IF' raised at Housing Authority meeting

By DAVID CAMPBELL
Staff Writer

The "big IF" raised its head again during Wednesday afternoon's meeting of the Midland Housing Authority concerning another proposed single family mortgage revenue bond program.

Harry Clark, president of the MHA, reported that another housing bond revenue program may be offered to Midlanders in the early part of next year IF the bonds can get a rating and IF the bonds can be sold for under 10 percent.

Clark said it is probable the program would get the necessary AA rating in New York since the other two housing revenue programs for the city and county received AA ratings.

The difficult part would be in selling the bonds to buyers for under 10 percent by Dec. 31 as required by state and federal law. And it was that big IF which seems doubtful at the moment, noted Clark.

Bonds for the county's housing revenue bond program sold for about 9.992 percent, Clark noted.

If these two big IF obstacles can be hurdled, it is possible that $13 million would be available to the public on a 30-year mortgage plan, explained Clark.

During the first 12 years of the mortgage, recipients would pay an 11 percent interest rate. Then, for the last 18 years, the federal interest rate at that time would apply, he said.

It is possible, Clark added, that this may be the last time any housing revenue bond programs would be made available to the public since the federal government has begun to phase out such programs.

In another action, MHA members revised the admission income limits of the handicapped and the elderly for housing in Hillcrest Manor.

Single persons with annual income of $10,550 or less or couples showing an income of about $12,000 or less would qualify for residence in the complex under the new limits.

Another requirement is that total assets would have to be under $25,000.

In the past, single residents making less than $7,200 and couples making less than $8,200, with total assets of no more than $20,000, would qualify for occupancy at Hillcrest.

Since the economic climate in Midland is different from that of the rest of the nation, "raising the ceiling would be raising the floor," noted Clark.

However, this should not be interpreted as having more vacancies available, noted Fred Kester, secretary, since there are about 140 persons on a waiting list.

Other actions approved by commissioners include routine items such as bill payments, maintenance reports and the financial statement for November.

Dallas man's confession has lawmen checking

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas man who claims he has strangled nine women has lawmen in four states reviewing old murder cases and at least one has flown here to talk with the jailed confessor. Officials in Texas, California, Wyoming and Nevada say there are several similarities between the female victims and they are taking a hard look at Carroll Edward Cole's statements to a Dallas homicide investigator.

Midland man critical after shooting

A 68-year-old Midland man was listed in serious condition in the critical care unit of Midland Memorial Hospital this morning after being shot during an argument Wednesday afternoon.

Officers were dispatched to a shooting at Blaylock's Garage, 1104 E. Illinois Ave., at 4:35 p.m. When they arrived, they were told the victim, George Jackson, was en route to the hospital by ambulance.

and drink in the home while under age was not necessarily leading them to drugs. However, she said, it is important for the parents to display role models for behaviors. If teen-agers learn to drink wine with dinner — and not to get drunk — then they may have a different approach to alcohol use.

DR. SCHUCHARD also encouraged parents to band together "to make a mutual commitment to stop drug use — and a commitment to honesty not to overlook (drug use) or make excuses for yourself or your child."

PEROT SAID THE problem with childhood drug use — including marijuana — is that it results in permanent damage to immature body tissue — especially in the brain. "Children's bodies and minds are still growing," he said. "The creation of new cells is ongoing."

A bill to require persons over 21 convicted of selling drugs to minors be imprisoned for mandatory minimum terms of five years will drastically cut down illegal sales to children in Texas.

More than just "snooping" on kids, Dr. Schuchard suggested parents "put in time with your kids. Teenagers sense that TV is the enemy of relationships — even though they like to watch it. If you spend more time with them, it keeps you talking."

separate hostage situations were too different to compare, Perot answered. "Every hostage situation is different." He continued, "There's no way to do it" because of the uncertainty of how the captors will react.

Britain will grant Belize independence

LONDON (AP) — Britain says it will grant independence to Belize with or without the agreement of neighboring Guatemala.

The British Foreign Office said a constitutional conference will be held soon to arrange early independence for Belize, formerly British Honduras and the last remnant of Britain's colonial empire in the Western Hemisphere.

Guatemala has claimed Belize since the 19th century. Its right-wing military government fears that if it becomes independent, it will be a sanctuary for Guatemalan guerrillas.

No criminal charges filed against film producers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Allegations that the producers of "Charlie's Angels" tried to keep $1 million in profits that belonged to investors, including actors Robert Wagner and Natalie Wood, have not been substantiated, according to a prosecutor. District Attorney John Van de Kamp said Tuesday that because of lack of evidence he would not file criminal charges against Aaron Spelling and Leonard Goldberg.

Spelling and Goldberg said they never had anything to hide. "But they said they were hurt by 'sensationalized media coverage' of allegations they diverted up to $30,000 per episode from 'Angels' to another of their series, 'Starsky & Hutch.'"

"We have from the outset cooperated fully and openly with Mr. Van de Kamp's office," Spelling and Goldberg said in a statement. Wagner and Miss Wood, who own 42.75 percent of "Angels" but none of "Starsky," said they were satisfied with the investigation.

"As friends of Aaron Spelling and Leonard Goldberg we are delighted with this result and we look forward to a continuing relationship with them," said the married acting duo in a statement.

"Van de Kamp said that reallocation of funds between the two shows had indeed taken place, but that all such transactions were on the books, although sometimes sketchy. He said 'shoddy business practices' such as incomplete bookkeeping and lack of audits needed to be cleaned up to avoid misunderstandings and avoid the kind of trouble with which this investigation necessarily had to deal."

The fraud charges had been leveled by former ABC attorney Jennifer Martin in a series of memos to ABC officials in October 1979. She said extra fees being paid to the "Angels" producers were improper and the money should go to the profit participants.

MC offering driving course

Midland College is offering a three-evening short course in defensive driving beginning Dec. 9.

Soviets warned against invasion

By MARK S. SMITH Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — While key officials say there is no evidence the Kremlin has decided to launch a military strike, President Carter and his top aides are calling the Soviet troop buildup along the Polish border unprecedented and encouraging Moscow to imagine the worst if it decides to invade.

In a written statement Wednesday, Carter said, "The United States is watching with growing concern the unprecedented buildup of Soviet forces along the Polish border and the closing of certain frontier regions along the border."

He added: "I want all countries to know that the attitude and future policies of the United States toward the Soviet Union would be directly and very adversely affected by any Soviet use of force in Poland."

Noting Soviet references to "anti-socialist forces" alleged to be operating within Poland's trade unions, which are openly challenging the Communist Party's domination of that nation, the president said: "We know from postwar history that such allegations have sometimes preceded military intervention."

In Moscow, the Soviet Foreign Ministry responded by saying that "as is known, many statements are being made in the West that are clearly aimed at exacerbating the situation in the Polish People's Republic. As for the statement made by the president of the United States, it fully and completely is on his own conscience." The Soviets did not directly deny Carter's claim relating to the buildup along the Polish border.

Meanwhile, the scope and purpose of the Soviet buildup were uncertain.

Some administration sources who have been monitoring the situation closely said that the president might be oversteering the case somewhat by calling the Soviet buildup "unprecedented." These specialists said there has been no overall pattern of reinforcement of the 21 Soviet divisions in western Russia, from which strategists believe any attack on Poland would be most likely to come.

Intelligence sources, meanwhile, said that despite Carter's reference to border closings, traffic between East Germany and Poland has been moving freely. They said the Soviets have barred only Western military observers from a "temporary restricted zone" in preparation for an air defense exercise within the next few days.

Nevertheless, Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie said, "The fact is that military preparations have proceeded and are proceeding."

One Carter aide, who asked not to be identified, told reporters "there has been indication of growing Soviet readiness to engage" in military intervention.

And other key administration officials said privately that the potential for a Soviet military move against Poland has become more worrisome with reinforcement of some western Russian divisions.

"The machinery is oiled so that if the decision is made in Moscow, they could move within a week," one military analyst said.

Boy tells how father killed mother

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — A 7-year-old boy says his father instructed him to strike his mother with a knife after the man attacked her with a hammer, "cut her up," and "cut her head off ... with a sharp, big knife."

The chilling revelation came in a statement Wednesday at a habeas corpus hearing for Floyd Baker, who is being held in connection with the dismemberment death of his 22-year-old wife, Linda Sue Baker.

State District Judge Naomi Harney denied the writ. Baker was trying to gain his release since he had not been charged with any crime.

The couple's son, Monty, told Potter County Deputy Sheriff Carl Haidle that on Nov. 16, his father "hit her on the head with a hammer" and "he kicked her in the ribs."

Mrs. Baker was reported missing in a snowstorm on Nov. 17.

Haidle testified that he questioned the boy after a judge had appointed an attorney for the youth.

"She got up and run ... to the wrecking yard," the boy told Haidle, referring to the nearby auto salvage yard where the woman's body was discovered Monday when an employee saw a dog carrying the woman's head down a driveway.

Haidle said the boy said his mother returned to the family's mobile home Nov. 18 and was again attacked by Baker.

Your horoscope

By JEANE DIXON

Friday, December 5, 1980

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Two top film producers, Otto Preminger and the late Walt Disney, were born on this date. Romantic, impulsive and almost totally fearless, you are apt to become impatient with everyday routine. Yet it is very important that you learn to concentrate on just one project at a time. The sooner you buckle down to work, the sooner you will be free to pursue those outside interests that command the lion's share of your attention! Your love relationships are happy ones, and your friends are eager to see you succeed. A close associate may help you to improve your finances after the new year begins.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Personal relationships are on a more solid footing today. Long-range financial security depends on your ability to further a career interest.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): "Impossible conflicts" in romance, work have been exaggerated. Former customer or patron could appear at crucial moment. Show your appreciation!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Someone else's good luck rubs off on you again. Share your feelings of exhilaration with loved one. Where children are involved, patience now will pay off in the future.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Partners seem well-disposed to your suggestions, ideas. A chance encounter could both enliven and complicate romance. Be careful not to say too much too soon.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): The emphasis is on dependability, reliability. Now is the time to collect on loans, pay your bills, and repair small but useful items. Special project can be advanced now.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Telephone message could confirm ideas. Dig deeper, however, and leave nothing to chance. Discuss holiday, travel plans with romantic partner.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Differences of opinion could develop at work. Keep any critical observations to yourself. A reunion with a former associate may be part of day's plan.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Preferment awaits you in employment matters. Plan to spend more time with higher-ups. Mate, offspring need further information regarding finances.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You may be feeling increasingly serious about a new romantic interest. Be careful not to go to one extreme or the other where money is involved.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Finances show slow but steady improvement. Rely on expert advice regarding investments, pensions. Something that suited you yesterday may now appear in a less favorable light.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Avoid acting smug about a recent success at work or it might boomerang. Conversation with member of the opposite sex has calming effect.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You need an open mind to be at your best with associates now. Love is very much in your thoughts. Don't let social activities infringe upon your responsibilities.

We have been conditioned to the fact that presenting declarer with a ruff and sluff is a cardinal crime. Yet there are almost as many occasions when it is the right thing to do as when the opposite holds true.

South was rather aggressive in jumping to slam after his partner made a try with a club cue-bid—he had not left much unbid to that point. But good play, together with an assist from the defense, landed the contract.

Declarer won the opening club lead in dummy and cashed the ace-king of diamonds, discarding a club from his hand. A diamond ruff was followed by two rounds of trumps, ending in dummy. The last diamond was ruffed, and declarer exited with a club.

Either defender could arrange to win the club trick. West was afraid that his partner might be end played, so he rose with the queen and East allowed his partner

Stock market rallies

NEW YORK (AP) — An attempt to stage the second late-afternoon rally in as many days failed Wednesday and the stock market moved lower amid nervousness over a welter of gloomy economic and political news.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was off 2.13 at 972.27, but advances outnumbered declines 784-779 on the New York Stock Exchange and volume slowed to 3.43 billion shares from Tuesday's 52.34-billion tally.

The National Association of Purchasing Management, an organization of executives who buy raw materials for industry, said business slowed in November as prices and interest rates moved higher.

The borrowing-cost increases continued Wednesday as California Federal Savings & Loan — the largest federally chartered savings and loan in the country — raised its base rate on home mortgages a full point to 16 percent despite "very sluggish" loan demand.

Analysts said investors also were discouraged by news of an Israeli commando raid into Lebanon, an increase in border tensions between Syria and Jordan, and continued fears of a Soviet intervention in Poland.

Among Wednesday's losers on Wall Street were international oils. Gulf Oil, which said fourth-quarter earnings would trail those of 1979, was off 1/4 at 48 1/2.

BUSINESS MIRROR Amount you have to spend important

NEW YORK (AP) — "It isn't how much money there is in the family," said the Beacon Hill matron who lived through the brownstone on a monthly dole from the family trust. "It's what you have to spend."

Many Americans are finding the statement now applies to them. And since it does, it could hurt retail sales and other businesses over the next few months. Americans have lots of assets, but can they use them?

And, since paychecks are losing in the contest with inflation, will they be in the mood to use their assets. It is estimated, for example, that between the end of the first and third quarters of the year, consumer holdings of corporate stocks rose more than $260 billion, and the market value of houses $190 billion.

Even if you discount for inflation, say economists at Goldman Sachs, the securities house, Americans in that period increased their real financial assets, including homes, by $146 billion to $2.16 trillion.

When you look at where the assets are, however, you wonder how easy it is to tap those assets, even if some analysts consider consumers today to be more liquid than they were back in the recession of 1973-1975.

Besides houses and stocks, sizable assets are tied up in savings certificates, on which costly penalties are incurred if redeemed before maturity, and in short-term and long-term Treasury securities.

While in theory most of these assets can be converted to cash, the realities are different, especially in regard to housing.

During the 1970s, for example, many thousands learned to tap their home equity by refinancing. They considered it a good deal if they could withdraw $35,000 for education or automobile expenses even if it meant adding two percentage points to the interest on their mortgage.

Auto issues were mixed following a report that Big Three car sales last month were 7.3 percent off-1979's pace. General Motors, with a 6.5 percent decline in car sales, was unchanged in active trading at 43 1/2. Chrysler led reported a 6.8 percent sales gain.

The NYSE's composite index fell 0.10 to 78.81; the Amex market value index was up 0.40 at 363.21. The Standard & Poor's 500-stock composite index fell 0.26 to 136.71; the S&P 400-industrial index slipped 0.34 to 156.53. The NASDAQ composite index of the over-the-counter market rose 1.19 to 204.90.

SEC head would like to stay on job

The Los Angeles Times

Harold M. Williams, chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission, likes to tell a story these days about a recent meeting in Florida of business leaders.

"There was a lot of euphoria about the election," he recalls.

"But as the euphoria continued, I turned to Charles Brown (chairman of AT and T). I said, 'Charlie, you were quoted in the morning Miami Herald ... about what a disaster the antitrust action against AT and T is.' I said, 'What year was that antitrust action?' He said 1970."

"Republican administration?"
"Yes."
Then Williams turned to Stuart Watson, chairman of Heublein Inc., the food producer of alcoholic beverages had just prevailed in a divestiture action brought by the Federal Trade Commission.

"What year was that brought?" Williams asked. It was 1972. "Under a Republican administration," he noted.

"I reminded people when the SEC went out on its sensitive (foreign) payments kick. Republican administration."
"All I'm saying," Williams concludes, "is it may be the millenium (for businessmen) has not yet come."
Williams, dean of the University of California, Los Angeles graduate school of management until he was tapped for his regulatory post in 1977 by President Carter, argues that trends in corporate accountability, consumerism and regulation "are not going to go away" under President-elect Reagan. On the contrary, he says, "over time, they will continue to revive and resurge."

To a large degree, however, the tone that Williams has set at the SEC is not out of step with much of the Reagan philosophy. Though he has talked a hard line about corporations being more accountable to shareholders and the public, the major initiatives during his chairmanship have been toward deregulation.

To the dismay of some consumer groups and old hands at the SEC, which has had a reputation as a tough and ever-present overseer in the securities area, Williams began to question whether existing and new rules were really needed. After concluding that many of them were not, Williams' commission began to dismantle some of the intricate regulatory framework for securities.

In an interview, Williams took obvious pleasure in furnishing an inventory of what he has done as the SEC chief and what he'd like to do if he stays. But, in a follow-up telephone conversation, he said: "I hope this piece doesn't sound like a petition (to the Reagan camp) that I want to stay on. That's not what I'm about."
Odds are that Williams will not be retained as SEC chairman. Although the Reagan transition team has expressed no particular dissatisfaction with Williams — in fact, transition chief and former SEC Chairman William J. Casey has Williams has been described as a "mystery" and "enigma" as the SEC chief.

Under Williams, the SEC also implemented peer review process in the accounting profession. He also oversaw the imposition of a 3-year moratorium on expansion of stock options trading until serious questions about rapid growth and consequent abuses were resolved. The moratorium was lifted early this year.

He made life easier for many public corporations by standardizing disclosure, accounting and filing requirements for annual reports and other documents filed with the SEC.

Williams' deregulation emphasis did not endear him to various consumer groups that expected a tougher regulator at the helm of an agency with the reputation as Washington's toughest.

In the self-regulation theme, Williams has pushed for a tougher would link the six stock exchanges and the over-the-counter market into a single computerized system enabling investors to get the best trade-on any exchange.

"I think our progress has been responsible, purposeful and very appropriate," Williams says. "I think we'll see a national market system in the next several years." In a Reagan administration? "Yeah."
