ODESSA (AP) — Investigators are looking into the actions of a company that may have bilked investors in three states out of as much as $22 million, authorities said.

The company is being investigated in Texas, Arizona and California, but it may have operated in 11 states, said Texas Department of Public Safety intelligence officer Jim Barnes of Midland

Candidates have mixed reactions

Candidates for the presidency, all of whom have been critical of President Carter's Iranian policies in recent weeks, had mixed reaction today after receiving word of the failed U.S. military rescue mission.

Republican George Bush said he supported Carter's decision "no ifs. ands or buts.

Democratic challenger Sen. Edward M. Kennedy called for national unity in support of the Americans being held hostage in Iran.

Independent candidate John Anderson likened the military move to the Bay of Pigs disaster and said: "I'm at a loss on what our government was trying to do. Kennedy was in Michigan where he planned to campaign in advance of the state's Democratic caucuses, set for Saturday. But he cancelled his activities to fly back to Washington. Vice President Walter Mondale also canceled his Michigan appearances. He was to campaign on behalf of Carter; instead he was at the White House in meetings concerning the Iranian situation. First Lady Rosalynn Carter cut short a campaign visit to Texas, leaving Austin hastily at 2 a.m. CST. Asked if she would comment, she said: "No, I'm going home. Kennedy has been among the most caustic in criticizing Carter in the past, but today he said simply, "Whatever our other differences, we are one nation in our commitment to the hostages, our concern for their families and our sorrow for the brave men who gave their lives trying to rescue their fellow citizens.

'We are also united as Americans in our determination to hold the Iranian government fully accountable for the safety of the hostages," Bush was also in Detroit, where he told reporters: "I unequivocally support the president of the United States — no ifs, ands or buts. And it certainly is not a time to try to go one-up politically.

Bush called Carter's decision very difficult and courageous. Asked what he thought would be the political fallout of the failed mission, he said: "I hope it is a positive one."

Rep. Anderson, R-Ill., who announced Thursday that he was seeking the presidency as an independent, said. "I want to express my profound grief at the loss of American lives and my profound shock. ... I fear that this may lead to further danger and imminent harm to the (Americans) who are there in Iran. I'm at a loss on what our government was trying to do.'

In Los Angeles, Robin Davis, a spokesman for Republican presidential frontrunner Ronald Reagan, said "there is no comment at pres-

British jetliner crashes

SANTA CRUZ DE TENERIFE, Canary Islands (AP) - A chartered Boeing 727 plane bound for the Canary Islands carrying 146 passengers, most of them British, crashed into the Atlantic Ocean today minutes before it was scheduled to land here, aviation sources reported.

In London, a Ministry of Defense spokesman said "the plane has come down in Spanish territorial waters." It was not immediately known if there were any Americans on board. The airport sources here said there was no immediate word on the fate of the plane. Three search planes had not so far reported finding any trace of the craft, they said.

The sources said the charter, flight number DA1000 of the British Dan-Air charter airline, was enroute from Manchester, England and lost contact with the Tenerife airport control tower five minutes before it was scheduled to land.

In London, a spokesman for the airline said the flight was more than three hours overdue at II: 30 a.m.

On March 27, 1977, a KLM 747 jet slammed into a taxiing Pan American World Airways 747 on a foggy runway at Santa Cruz in Tenerife, killing 582 persons in the world's worst air crash.

The worst air disaster in U.S. aviation history occured last May 25th when an American Airlines DC-10 jetliner lost its left engine and crashed shortly after takeoff from Chicago's O'Hare International Airport, killing all 272 persons aboard and three persons on the ground

The area where Iran says the U.S. aircraft crashed during the abortive hostage rescue effort is near Tabas and between two of the world's most forbidding deserts, the Dasht-e-Kavir and the Kavir-e-Lut, in eastern Iran. Together, they cover one-sixth of Iran's total area of 1.6 million square

The Kavir is a salt swamp, with a surface of thick plates of crystalized salt with sharp, vertical edges. Beneath the plates are deep channels and patches of mud, making the area so treacherous that much of it has not been explored

Other parts of the two deserts are covered by "dasht," or loose sand and

Allies shocked by rescue attempt

LONDON (AP) - President Carter's abortive attempt at a military rescue of the American hostages from Tehran appeared to daze his European allies today and brought angry condemnation from his foes in the Soviet bloc and the Middle East. "I can tell you there was no consultation, repeat no consultation," a NATO spokesman in Brussels said.

British, West German, French, Dutch and Italian Foreign Ministry officials also said their governments had not been informed in advance of the U.S. mission, and the Danish Foreign Ministry said the operation "created a new situation" which would be discussed at the Common Market summit next week.

A high-ranking Common Market administrator in Brussels, who declined use of his name, said: "We went to all this trouble to show solidarity with Carter's position and then he pulls something like this. It's a disgrace." He went on: "The reaction is very bitter; I think 'upset' is too mild a word stood. At a news conference, the Foreign Office spokesman side-stepped direct questions on whether Britain thought Carter was right in launching the rescue mission.

British Deputy Foreign Secretary Sir Ian Gilmour told a somber House of Commons that Britain was not consulted beforehand, but was informed of the "possibility" of a rescue bid. He said he would not condemn the U.S. bid to rescue the hostages. "This is the time for allies tostick together and not to criticize each

It was not "a suitable moment" to criticize the U.S. leadership, Gilmour added, while Britain's opposition Labor Party condemned outright the military action. Labor foreign affairs spokesman Peter Shore declared: 'We cannot support and will oppose military action against Iran." Shore added: "The world will be holding its breath this weekend.'

Tony Benn, a leading opposition Labor Party lawmaker, rose at the start of the House of Commons session to demand an urgent government statement on the American mission. aborted when the two U.S. planes collided on the ground in an Iranian desert, leaving eight U.S. crewmen

"There is no doubt whatever that this is a matter of very grave international importance," said Benn. "The

On the ruling Conservative Party side, Mideast expert Jonathan Aitken warned in a radio interview that Carter was in danger of turning the 'sideshow" of the Tehran hostage siege into a world "conflagration."

Another Conservative member of Parliament, Winston Churchill, grandson of Britain's great wartime prime minister, said: "I'm appalled that it should have been attempted and should have failed in the way it has — not only for the sake of the hostages but for the way the West as a whole is handling this question, playing totally into the hands of the Soviet Union.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko told a news conference in Paris, where he is on a state visit, When I learned of this affair this morning, I started by not believing it. Then I had confirmation. I want to repeat that we are resolutely against all military action by the United States or anyone against Iran."

The official Soviet news agency Tass said "purely egoistic and narrow political considerations" had prompted Carter to authorize the abortive mission in Iran. "This new dangerous venture was attempt to show himself to be a strong leader, one prepared for resolute actions," said Tass. It claimed that Carter's aim was "to raise his declining popularity inside the country and to stay in the White House for another term at any price.' Tass said: "In defiance of interna-

undertaken by the president in a vain

tional law, ... Carter undertook an armed operation that might have led to the death of thousands of innocent people and the appearance of a hotbed of war in the Persian Gulf Moscow Radio described the abortive rescue as an "armed provocation" against Iran. The broadcast added that the White House announcement "contained the ludicrous statement that the provocation had the goal of 'alleviating international tension.' But in fact we're talking about an unprecedented adventure by Washington undertaken under the cloak of promises to restrain from military measures in the U.S.-Iran conflict.

The state radio of Soviet-bloc member Czechoslovakia said the U.S. mission "threatened world peace" and "could create an extraordinarily grave situation.

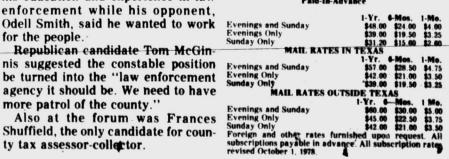

The government radio of Syria, the staunchest Soviet ally in the Middle East, said that Egypt and Israel cooperated in what it called an "act of overt aggression" and "American pi-

Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin expressed his country's sorrow over the deaths in the abortive mission. Begin and Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir met Richard Brown, the charge d'affairs at the U.S. Embassy in Tel Aviv.

It is where animals shipped here from abroad, which could carry diseases to American livestock or poultry, pause for a period of quarantine until they pass a stiff physical exam. That could take anywhere from a month or so to a year.

Okapis, kudus, gaurs, bongos, dikdiks, oryxes, gemsboks, Argentine parrots, cockatoos from Thailand, pink pigeons from Malta, all such exotic creatures, and more, are routine transients.

Two reindeer sent to Amy Carter, gifts from Finland, were held 30 days. A rare species of crane, sent from Russia, first had to pass muster at the center. So did a French stallion named Alleged, who went on to command $85,000 stud fees.

"The most memorable?" Dr. Taylor said, stroking his beard.

'That would be a certain Hyacinth macaw. Meanest damn bird I ever saw. Loudest and meanest. Could eat right through a coconut hull, or a galvanized iron cage, and did."

Inevitably, the town grew and needed more space. So did the center. Now it is being moved here to a properly isolated area about 60 miles from the port of New York, where most immigrant animals, like most immigrant people, arrive.

Survival of freedom

Even as we Americans wander through the wilderness of our domestic and foreign crises and yearn for strong, intelligent leadership to show us the way, we are so distracted we don't recognize salvation's path when it is shown to us.

Henry Kissinger's recent address before the American Society of Newspaper Editors in Washington, D.C., was perhaps the most lucid, thoughtful, and authoritative analysis of the United States position in the world today that has been enunciated during recent years, certainly during our current time of troubles. But it did not receive the notice we desperately need to give

For one thing, Kissinger was sandwiched between President Carter and Sen. Ted Kennedy. And, as columnist William Buckley aptly observed, "in such circumstances Pericles could come and go" without creating much of a stir. Even so, the former secretary of state provided about the only meat on the largely political, dry program. The leading presidential contenders were, without exception, uninspiring and unexceptional. Only Kissinger, it is said, was presidential. Only he relieved the tedium.

Against a backdrop of incompetent national leadership, Kissinger defined the full extent of the danger now facing the American people. And, fortunately, he advised what we must do to save ourselves. National survival is what this was about.

If there was a weakness in the Kissinger analysis, it was his expressed thought that the Soviets could end their offensive. This presupposes the most unlikely Kremlin renunciation of the Lenin-Marx doctrine that the whole human race must embrace communism. Thus, assuming, indeed, that the Soviet Union will continue to pursue its dogma of expansion, what can the United States and its allies do?

Kissinger prevented his analysis from becoming an unrelieved complaint because he concluded on a hopeful note that most of our problems are self-inflicted through a lack of will and not resources.

Indeed, Kissinger drew the same hopeful conclusion as that voiced by Britain's Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher when she visited this country last December. The Kissinger-Thatcher thesis is that communism is so thoroughly discredited in the world by fleeing refugees, as witness the latest wave from Cuba, and by its bleak betrayal of human hopes that it is no longer an appealing or dangerous ideology. It cannot withstand the test of Communism is dangerous to the United States now because of the massive Soviet arms buildup in recent years.

There are no easy or quick solutions to this problem. What is needed from President Carter and other leaders of the free world is the will to stand up to the Soviet

It will take courage and resolve to call the hand of the Soviets and to help shift the momentum back toward the goals of the freedomloving nations of the world.

Jordan still left out of Mideast negotiations

The big stumbling block to achieving autonomy for the Palestinian Arabs on the West Bank and in Gaza has been hidden under hot air and superficial reporting.

It's plain as a cold drink stand in the desert if you bother to read the text of the Camp David Agreement. The United States made a promise and hasn't been able to keep it.

That promise was to bring Jordan into the negotiating process. It had to have been made by President Carter at Camp David because neither Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin nor Egyptian President Anwar Sadat were in a position to make it. After all, King Hussein was for years on the CIA payroll and even today receives a sizeable U.S. subsidy

The first paragraph of the agreement which talks about the West Bank says, "To negotiate the details of a transitional arrangement, the Government of Jordan will be invited to join in the negotiations on the basis of this framework."

After that, every other paragraph assumes the participation of Jordan. Paragraph b says, "Egypt, Israel and Jordan will agree on the modalities for establishing the elected self-governing authority - Israeli and Jordanian forces will participatte in joint patrols..." Paragraph c talks about the conclusion of a peace treaty be-

Well, you don't have to be a diplomat to understand plain English. The guy who drafted the Camp David Agreement and the people who signed quite obviously assumed Jordan would participate. Inflation squeezing life from small farms

WASHINGTON - For 60 years, the Curtises have farmed a 1,120-acre patch on the dry prairies of Montana. They have triumphed over hail, drought, disease and other natural enemies. But today, economic forces more devastating than any natural pestilence may wipe them out. For six decades, the Curtises have been part of the American family farm tradition, the backbone of America's food supply. In 1975, Pete Curtis bought the family farm from his father. He wants to pass it on to one of his five children - if he doesn't lose it to his creditors. This uncertainty about the Curtis legacy hasn't been so ominous since the Great Depression, our country's last economic holocaust. The Curtises pulled through the scourge of the 1930s; they may not survive the squeeze of the 1980

There are hundreds of thousands of farmers in the same predicament as Pete Curtis. Small family farms, although they still make up 80 percent of America's 2 million farms, are in jeopardy

If small farmers like Curtis go under, they will be replaced by great agribusinesses - some still owned by families, but some owned by investment companies more interested in tax shelters than in working the soil. A conglomerate has already gobbled up some of Pete's neighbors. With the decline of the family farm. a part of America will die. The loss would be more than nostalgic. There is evidence that small farms, in which the families-working the land care for it because they own it, produce higher quality agriculture than do the agribusiness monsters. To tell the story of America's current economic upheaval, I have sent reporters criss-crossing the country, looking behind the headlines and statistics to find the real faces of Americans struggling to maintain their way

Pete Curtis isn't the Montana farmer's real name. I agreed to use a pseudonym to protect the one Curtis commodity which isn't mortgaged to the hilt: simple, human dignity. While his name isn't real, his story is all

The Curtis land is mortgaged three times, including a loan through the Farmers' Home Administration, the 'lender of last resort." 1979, he paid $19,000 in interest on loans to keep the farm alive. "All that's keeping us going is the paper increase in land values," he told my reporter James Grady. Democrats still looking; Reagan running mate talked

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON - A widening circle of powerful Democratic politicians and financial contributors is talking about rejecting both President Carter and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and instead nominating Vice President Walter F. Mondale for president.

Their plans are based on the still unlikely prospect that a succession of Carter losses to Kennedy in primaries will trigger a stampede of pledged Carter delegates away from the president. That could create a climate at Madison Square Garden in August where there are insufficient delegates to nominate either Carter or Ken-

Moreover, there is a desire voiced increasingly among Democrats for an alternative to both Carter and Kennedy, which lately has focused on Mondale as the best bet to heal the party's wounds. In the Northeast, the talk often specifically mentions Gov. Hugh Carey of New York as Mondale's running mate.

REAGAN'S VP The rise of Sen. Howard Baker andthe fall of Rep. Jack Kemp as vice presidential prospects, might be

Baker is now the overwhelming favorite of Republican politicians, including Reagan's own staffers, to become Reagan's running mate. They write off Kemp as too controversial and not prestigious enough. Today, it's the talk of the tavern

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - The consistently high ratings for "Archie's Place" in the TV listenership sweepstakes confirms anew the importance of the neighborhood tavern as a lecture hall for literary and philosophical seminars.

Archie Bunker, the blue collar Socrates, holding forth behind the bar is in the grand tradition of Mr. Dooley sloshing out beer and wisdom in his Chicago premises, the Elizabethan wits gathering at the Mermaid Tavern in London's Cheapside and the landlord at the Tabard in Southwark loosening the tongues of Chaucer's cavalcade of pilgrims before they set out for Canterbury.

"Let schoolmasters puzzle their brain - (wrote Oliver Goldsmith after auditing one of Dr. Johnson's lectures at the Cheshire Cheese) With grammar and nonsense and learning;

Good liquor, I stoutly maintain.

Gives genius a better discerning.

It was in this famous pub off Fleet Street that Johnson advised young Jamie Boswell, down from Edinburgh, notebook in hand, to tipple with the giants: "claret is the liquor for boys; port for men, but he who aspires to be a hero must drink bran-

Elizabethan drama got its start in the intellectual atmosphere of the local inn. When Shakespeare was a boy and before London's first theater was built, plays were performed in the coachyard of the inns with the audience seated on stools or looking down from the upper floor balconies.

Perhaps the most famous of all Elizabethan inns was the Mermaid Tavern on Bread Street in Cheapside, the heart of old London. Through its stout wooden door under the painted sign of the Mermaid passed Will Shakespeare, Ben Johnson, John Donne, Francis Beaumont and John Fletcher. Rare Ben Johnson collected such a loyal literary circle around him at the Mermaid that the poets Robert Herrick and Sir John Suckling called themselves the "Sons of Ben.

Benjamin Franklin's the Junto Club met for 30 years in various Philadelphia taverns and ale houses, discussing such philosophical fine points as "What is wisdom?" and "Can man arrive at perfection or is this impossible?" The colonial dames may have looked with disdain on these well-lubricated discussions but out of this sprang the American Philosophy Society.

Charles Dickens and Alfred Lord Tennyson were both regulars at The Cock Tavern in London but Dickens also frequented a number of other pubs that provided inspiration for his novels, like the George and Vulture, where Mr. Pickwick's friends were served with subpoenas, the White Hart where Sam Weller served as boots, and the Trafalgar in Greenwich, recently restored and as famous now as then for its whitebait dinners.

Archie Bunker's predecessor Martin Dooley, a bachelor from the County Roscommon, made his first appearance behind the bar of a small saloon on Archer Avenue in a rundown Irish ward of Chicago in October, 1893. He was the creation of Peter Finley Dunne, an editorial writer on the old Chicago Eve-

Soon the whole country was quoting what the sagacious immigrant saloon keeper had to say to his great listener, the ever present Hennessy, pronounced "Hinnissy.

Thanksgiving Day, Mr. Dooley informed Mr. Hennessy, "Twas founded be th' Puritans to give thanks f'r bein' preserved fr'm th' Indyans...we keep it to give thanks we are preserved fr'm th' Puritans."

Mr. Dooley's philosophy was simple: "Thrust ir-vybody — but cut th' eards."

"This will put the burden of attending school back on the child and the parent, where it belongs," Wilhelm said this week after school trustees voted to allow students 10 unexcused absences per semester.

Wilhelm said teachers, tired of reading forged excuses from parents, complained about the problem and the trustees decided to grant the extra

"I'm campaigning on the theory we need judges on this court who are attuned to the needs of the people and are in touch with what's happening in the courts," said McCormick. The 35-year-old Austin prosecutor believes it is time the judicial races quit taking a back seat.

Another problem that has arisen out of the crimiet. nal appeals court system recently is the number of cases being reversed on technicalities, McCormick charged.

World's largest nuclear plant readies pumping stage

WHEATLAND, Wyo. (AP) - After surviving lawsuits, fatalities and whooping cranes, the nation's largest consumer-owned power plant is nearly ready to start pumping power to eight states.

Unit 1 of the Laramie River Station Power Plant is being tested, and later this spring will send 500 megawatts of electricity along transmission lines from eastern Wyoming to the Missouri River Basin.

Another 500-megawatt unit is scheduled to be finished this fall, and a third should be "on line" by this time in 1982. Together they will provide power for some 2 million residents in parts of Wyoming, Colorado, Nebraska, Montana, Minnesota, Iowa and the Dakotas.

These are happy days for the Missouri Basin Power Project, the consortium of six consumer-owned electric cooperatives building the coalfired plant on the Laramie River plains near Wheatland.

First came the inevitable problems of arranging financing and permits

"It's been frustrating at times, but for the $1.6 billion project. That was solved by federally guaranteed loans from the Rural Electrification Administration.

> Then came lawsuits by farmers and ranchers, environmental groups and the state of Nebraska, all of whom claimed the power plant's thirst for water could dry up the Laramie River, a major tributary of Nebraska's Platte River.

But it took a flock of endangered whooping cranes to lend credence to their claims. Unknown to MBPP developers, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service declared the Big Bend area of the Platte, some 200 miles downstream in central Nebraska, a "critical" roosting area for about 70 endangered cranes who migrate from Texas to Canada.

In October 1978, federal Judge Warren Urbom in Lincoln, Neb., agreed MBPP had not adequately surveyed the impact of its Grayrocks Dam on Nebraska water users and the whoop-

Urbom ordered a halt to construction of the dam, which MBPP is building to store water for the project. His order also halted REA financing, and that threatened the entire Financing was restored quickly, and nearly two months later, MBPP agreed to provide adequate water for downstream farmers and establish a $7.5 million trust fund for the whooping cranes.

implications for other states trying to control the use of atomic power, a federal judge ruled that the United States government has sole authority to regulate the nuclear power industry.

The ruling by U.S. District Judge Manuel Real struck down as unconstitutional three 1976 California laws, including one blocking new nuclear power plant construction until a waste disposal method is found, and all other laws relating to nuclear plants. "The judge's decision strikes at the right of the people of California to be free from the risk of nuclear reactors," said Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., an opponent of nuclear energy. "I intend to see the state of California vigorously fight the decision through the higher courts."

Real said in a 35-page opinion that the federal Nuclear Regulatory Commission has exclusive power over nuclear plants and the state Energy Commission must not "regulate or monitor the construction or operation of any nuclear power

The Energy Commission said it hoped to have its appeal of Real's decision heard with a similar case pending in the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeal.

Energy Commission attorney Michael Jencks said several other states have modeled their nuclear laws power plant is located, to continue the suit in U.S. after California's and are watching the nuclear cases

Real said Wednesday the 1954 Atomic Energy Act grants the federal government final say over states in nuclear regulation. The three state laws, he said, "obstruct the accomplishments and execution of the purpose of Congress...to promote the private development of nuclear power plants as electrical energy sources in the United States.'

Leftists say democracy flourishing in Portugal

LISBON, Portugal (AP) - Six years after Portugal's revolution, three former leftist premiers say democracy is still flourishing. But two of them fear big business may regain control of the economy.

Gen. Vasco Goncalves, Mario Soares and Maria de Lourdes Pintassilgo were asked to evaluate the results of the coup by leftist army officers on April 25, 1974, that ended half a century of rightist dictatorship, halted 13 years of war in the colonies and broke up Portugal's centuries-old foreign empire.

In conversations with The Associated Press on the sixth anniversary of the coup, the three ex-premiers hailed the 1976 constitution as one of the most outstanding achievements of the revolutionary process, begun by a group of discontented army officers angered by low pay and a seemingly never-ending string of bush wars in Portugal's African colonies.

The constitution, one of the most liberal in Europe, is under attack by the present conservative government of Premier Francisco sa Carneiro.

Two of the former premiers, Soares, leader of the moderate Socialist Party, and Gen. Goncalves, now a reserve officer who maintains close ties with the country's pro-Soviet Communist Party, expressed fears that the country was heading back toward the era of big business control over the economy that existed during the 48-year rightist dictatorship of the South African blacks protest 'racist education'

- Four years ago, a strike by black students touched off racial violence in which 700 died. Now colored students are boycotting classes to protest "racist education" and their strike is gaining momentum.

South Africa's white-minority government threatened to close the schools by today unless pupils returned to classes.

Opposition leaders, clergymen and academics pleaded with Minister of Colored Affairs Marais Steyn to heed student demands for equal education with whites and avoid a replay of the 1966 violence.

The black rioting four years ago began as a protest against the compulsory use of Afrikaans, the language of the white minority, in black schools in the Soweto ghetto, on the

The current demonstrations started last week in the western Cape Province, home for most of the 2.4 million colored, or persons of mixed-race, who are descendants of black women and 17th century white settlers. Asian children quickly joined and protests flared around the country, sweeping up an estimated 100,000 youngsters.

Guerrillas to free hostages, fly to Cuba

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — The guerrillas holding U.S. Ambassador Diego Asencio and 15 other diplomats in the Dominican Republic's embassy for two months will free most of their hostages and fly to Cuba, possibly Saturday or Sunday, a high-ranking Colombian official reported.

The army tripled its guard around the embassy, and President Julio Cesar Turbay held a Cabinet meeting late Thursday night.

"I'm confident of a quick solution," Communications Minister Jose Manuel Arias said. Cuban Ambassador Fernando Robelo, who went to the occupied embassy Thursday to discuss the flight to Cuba, said a settlement was "imminent."

An informed source who refused to be identified by name said the guerrillas would take Asencio and three or four other hostages with them as insurance, then free them when they reached Cuba Government representatives and the guerrillas' masked woman negotiator met twice on Thursday. The president's office said they "shortened the distance" between their positions, but a Foreign Ministry spokesman said another bargaining session would be held this morning. President Fidel Castro of Cuba previously offered asylum to the 15 to 20 guerrillas who stormed the embassy in a hail of gunfire during a diplomatic reception on Feb. 27.

The informed source said that the government would not meet the guerrillas' demand for the release of seven imprisoned leaders of their M-19 organization, but instead other guerrillas held without charges would be allowed to accompany the group to Government sources reported previously that the government agreed to expedite the trials of other alleged guerrillas and to the presence of observers from the Inter-American Human Rights Commission at the

The guerrillas originally demanded $50 million in ransom and the release of 311 alleged political prisoners but have cut their ransom demand to $2.5 million. Two Colombian businessmen representing several of the 14 governments whose diplomats are held hostage are offering to contribute $2.2

The pace of negotiations, reported near settlement 10 days ago, increased this week when the Human Rights Commission arrived and took a hand in the negotiations.

The guerrilla organization, called the April 19 Movement or M-19, was founded by followers of a presidential candidate who claimed he was cheated of victory in an April 19, 1970 election. In 1977 the movement announced a merger with the leftist National Liberation Army, aligned with Castro.

Prime minister jailed

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands (AP) - Deposed Prime Minister Henck Arron of Surinam has been jailed by the military council which ousted him Feb. 25 and now rules the former Dutch colony, newspapers here reported today.

The Volkskrant daily said the arrest was carried out by 10 soldiers led by a member of the council, identified only as Horb, in connection with corruption investigations which opened a few weeks after the coup. It did not say when the arrest took place.

"Eight deaths for ened. We don't know what?" asked Bonnie. Graves of Reston, Va., wife of hostage John Graves. "I hope to God that the Iranians are capable of restraint in the situation."

Rep. Clement Zablocki, D-Wis., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, accused Carter of violating the War Passages Act by not consulting with Congress in advance. 'There is no excuse for

"Obviously, this indicates nation of the ill-fated Iranian rescue effort was labeled unsatisfactory today by the chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee as lawmakers expressed a mixture of disbelief and dismay over the failed mission.

Committee Chairman Clement Zablocki, D-Wis., voiced grief over the death of eight military crewmen during the rescue effort and the congressman attacked Carter for failing to confer with members of Congress in advance.

That, Zablocki said, violated the 1973 War Powers

After watching Carter's nationally broadcast address this morning, Zablocki said: "I don't think he's satisfactorily explained the use of military force in

Zablocki was one of a number of congressional  leaders whose initial reaction was one of criticism * for the president for not letting them know about the

"Consulation with the Congress woud have been wise," Jackson said. "But this is a time to keep the lid on...to cool it and avoid moves that can lead to action against the hostages." And Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y., said

Carter had kept to himself "a responsibility that could have been shared by the Congress." Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., the ranking Republican on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, agreed, saving it "would have been wise" for Carter to share the burden and responsibility of the operation However, Moynihan said Carter had the right under international law to rescue the seized dipolmatic personnel. House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill and Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd both declined to comment at all until they were more fully briefed by administration officials. Earlier, Zablocki said, "It was stupid on the part of the president to not consult with us.'

Zablocki accused the president of violating the War Powers Act, which requires consultation with Congress before American military forces are committed to action on foreign soil. Zablocki said he did not know about the proposed military rescue of the hostages until less than an hour before the White House announced the aborted mission publicly. "My initial reaction is we shouldn't have done it," he said.

Most members of Congress who reacted to the incident expressed dismay over the death of the eight Americans and concern for the fate of the

"My God, I can't think of anything appropriate enough to say at this time," said Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., expressing a sentiment shared by many on Capitol Hill.

But offering a another viewpoint, Rep. Samuel Stratton, D-N.Y., a senior Democrat on the House Armed Services Committee, called the aborted mission a possible "plus for the president." "The feeling has been that the president has done no prior briefing on the mission, a Church aide something has been done even if it didn't work. It's entirely possible we may try again.'

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Energy Committee and second ranking Democrat on the Armed Services Committee, said the new development clearly put the American hostages in new risk and "will push Iran further into the arms of the Russians.'

Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., also expressed concern for possible retaliation against the Americans being held in Tehran. "The risks have been taken and it has not panned out," Percy said. "I deeply regret what has happened.' Many Congressional leaders were reluctant to comment too specifically until they had heard Carter's explanation.

DEAR ABBY

Fantasy needs weaker signal

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been happily married for 16 years. My problem is that since before we were married. I've had a crush on my husband's older brother, whom I'll call Arnold. It seems ridiculous at my age (39) to admit this, but it's true. Arnold is 42 and seems happily married.

Arnold and I have the same interests, share the same opinions, and we seem to have much more in common than he has with his wife or I with his

Not that it's important, but even members of the family have commented on how much alike Arnold and I are. I'm ashamed to say that I've often wondered what it would be like to go to bed with him.

How do I put this man out of my mind? And why do I still fantasize about him after so many years?

I love my husband, and at times feel that my feelings about his brother could be considered infidelity. It would be a great relief to have an answer soon .- OLD-TIME CRUSH

DEAR CRUSH: Fantasizing is a far cry from acting out, so don't feel guilty. Unless you're looking for trouble, avoid fantasizing in Arnold's presence. He could be operating on the same wavelength and pick up your signal.

DEAR ABBY: I have just graduated from college and am thinking about getting married. I have a girlfriend whom I love very much, but I am afraid if I marry her I will also be marrying her mother.

My girlfriend is 24, and she still tells her mother everything! When she's not at home with her mother, she calls her on the phone just to "talk" or "ask her advice." She has never made an important decision without consulting her mother first. She freely admits she doesn't have any selfconfidence, and she needs her mother

Abby, I can give her all the support she needs, and if she wants to talk things over, she has ME to talk with. I think at 24, it's time she cut the cord between her and her mother. What do you think?-ME IN NYC DEAR ME: I think you're right. If you marry this woman now you will be competing with her mother. So unless she changes her priorities, don't rush out to buy a ring-it might end up through your nose.

DEAR ABBY: You recently asked how the children should be named if both parents retained their own

Both my wife and I kept our own names, and we agreed that our children will be named in this way: Girls will take their mother's last name, and boys will take my last name. This seems both fair and sensible.

We rejected using both our names, hyphenated, because it would be too cumbersome. And we didn't want to give our children a new name unrelated to ours .- M. H. IN IOWA CITY DEAR M. H.: Your solution makes sense. Read on for another solution: DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are profession people, each with a separate identity, so we decided that I should keep my maiden name after we married. What to name our children was no problem. My last name was used as our children's MIDDLE name; their last name is the same as their father's.-TWO ATTORNEYS

CONFIDENTIAL TO G. C.: If you are going to the hospital and prefer that no one know you are there, under the Privacy Act you have the right to request that your name not be listed on the switchboard.

Mental health, religion discussed

WARWICK, R.I. (AP) - What relationship is there between mental health and religion? What influence does religion have on mental health?

Some 270 physicians, psychologists, priests, ministers, nuns, social workers and nurses joined in an all-day conference here to discuss these questions recently.

The conference's consensus was that psychiatry and religion have much to offer each other, and that religion may be an important element in maintaining mental health.

Judith Krauss, associate dean of Yale University's School of Nursing, told participants that while neither psychotherapy nor religion can substitute for each other, both come together in meeting human needs.

ACID SOLUTION

INSPIRATION, Ariz. (AP) - More than seven miles of tough plastic pipe are being used at a copper mine here to carry copper-bearing water and an acid solution.

"The pipe can withstand the corrosive action of the sulfuric acid and also provides 10 percent more strength than other plastic (polyeth-ylene) pipes available," says Harold Benjamin, project manager at Inspiration Consolidated Copper.

The supplier, Phillips Driscopipe, says the material's strength allows for a thinner wall thickness than other pipelines would require, while still providing sufficient toughness.

There aren't too many incentives anymore for a woman to clean her

Spring used to inspire it. So did a visit from the local minister or the parish priest. And what woman didn't bring in the excavating and dirt-removal machinery months before her mother-in-law dropped in?

But those days are gone. Women on the go, mobile families, and a more casual style of living have reduced the "lemon-scented" dream houses to a mere pucker.

All except one occasion. A woman going on vacation. Have you ever seen a half-crazed woman with the family in the car waiting to leave while she gives the house a last check?

Why do we do it? Maybe it's the same reason we wear new underwear. Who wants to be in an accident and hear them saying, "I don't think she has long. Sure, she's wearing nice underwear without runs, but we'll never know what she's really like until we check her house to see if the shower curtains have mold, will

Last year my husband actually came in from the car and said, "What in heaven's name are you doing in There? We're ready to leave."

Water hyacinth not economical

NAIROBI (AP) — The water hyacinth looks beautiful but it clogs waterways, hinders commercial fishing and reduces yields from rice paddies in more than a score of countries from Argentina to the Philippines.

In the United States, the infestations in Florida, Louisiana and Texas cost more than $11 million annually in control efforts.

Herbicides have been used against it but these have ecological side effects. Aquatic mammals and fish which eat the hyacinth have been introduced in some areas, Mechanical removal is slow and expensive

Q. - Can aluminum doors be painted? We have two of them and want to change their colors. Besides, they are beginning to look a bit seedy, as we have had them a long time. Can we use enamel?

A. - Yes, you can use enamel, but be sure it is of the exterior type. First you should scrub the aluminum with a very fine grade of steel wool and a detergent. Rinse thoroughly. When everything is dry, coat the aluminum with a metal primer which states on the container label that it is suitable for use on aluminum. Allow the primer to dry for a few hours, preferably overnight, then enamel.

Q. — We have a rust-colored tile on our vestibule floor. I believe it is ceramic. How can I make it look lively again? It is now quite dull, probably from accumulated dirt.

A. - Wash the surface with warm water and a detergent. Rinse and dry. Apply a coat of ceramic tile sealer. Then you can put on a thin coat of wax, depending on whether you want an extra shine and protection, but be sure not to apply too much or it may become slippery.

Q. — Can I put gypsum board panels over a plaste wall? How are they attached?

A. — With a special adhesive if the wall is even and there is no peeling or flaking. Or with nails long enough to go through the boards into the studs. Or by applying 1 by 2 furring strips, also with nails, and then attaching the panels to the strips.

Court needs leadership: Teague Lack of leadership on the part of Texas Court of Criminal Appeals is a primary issue in the campaign for Place 1 on that court, said Marvin O. Teague during a campaign swing through Midland Thursday.

Teague is opposing incumbent Leon Douglas for the Democratic nomination to the court post.

"Changes in the court system must come from the leadership," said the 46-year-old Harris County criminal lawyer. And change is definitely needed in the Court of Criminal Appeals, he added.

The primary problem in that court is the backlog of cases. Teague said it takes about 21/2 years for a case to be resolved. "This isn't good for society or the defendant. The question is how to resolve it. It didn't get this way

One solution on the ballot in the general election is a constitutional amendment that will give the Court of Civil Appeals criminal jurisdiction. Under this proposal, said Teague, this body of judges would become an intermediate court that would handle certain criminal appeals.

In Teague's opinion, this procedure wouldn't eliminate the backlog, but only add to it. And the civil court is loaded with its own work. For those reasons, he opposes the amendment while the incumbent is in favor of it. "I don't think sufficient study has been made to what effect it would have and how it would affect the taxpayer," said Teague.

Instead, he proposes formation of a commission to handle the backlog of cases. Teague said this system was used in the 1930s to solve a backlog, and when the job was done, the commission was dissolved.

creased if two types of opinions were written in the cases. One, said Teague, is the published opinion. The court, however, can write a second opinion which only the prosecutor, trial judge, defense attorney and client are privileged to see.

Eliminating the second opinion would save time and more cases could be resolved, according to Teague. "We're getting bankrupt on time."

He also contended the court has listened to too many lawyers when more time could be used to examine the case. Listening to oral arguments takes 90 percent of the court's time.

"A lot of lawyers are up there to hear themselves talk," he said. Instead, Teague suggested the court review the case and if they felt it was necessary for an oral argument, could invite the lawyer to speak.

On some appeals, the justice system appears to take the cart before

That backlog also could be de- the horse, in Teague's eyes. In one case recently before the court, the decision was overturned on the basis of a defective indictment.

The strength of indictments or search and seizure warrants should be certified before the trial even begins. Then, said Teague, if these papers are judged insufficient, the trial wouldn't even take place, thus saving time and money.

Teague contended Douglas has been "in an ivory tower" too long and has lost touch with the system and with the people. "It's time he took off his robes.

Among his credentials, Teague has been a member and president of Harris County Criminal Lawyers Association, Texas District and County Attorneys Association, American Judicature Society and editorial consultant to "Texas Criminal Practice

Carriers report missile shortage

WASHINGTON (AP) — A reported shortage of air-to-air missiles on two U.S. carriers stationed near the Persian Gulf is likely to bolster congressional arguments for higher defense spending in the 1981 budget. Pentagon sources said Thursday the Navy has had to scrounge for air-to-air missiles to arm warplanes aboard the carriers sent to the Persian Gulf region. "We've had to draw from other areas and put most of our eggs in the Indian Ocean basket," said one source who asked to remain anonymous.

One of the Pentagon's leading allies on Capitol Hill, Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., said the shortage is evidence that the warships "don't really have what they need if they get into a confrontation with Soviet ships.

"This is one of the manifold shortages that we face in all of our services," said Stratton, a member of the House Armed Services Commit-

Debate argues for MX missile

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) - Despite booing from the audience and doubts expressed by other panelists, Carter Administration and Air Force officials argued in a nationally broadcast debate that the giant MX missile project is needed to counter Soviet nuclear strength.

THE TWO-HOUR, live program Thursday night, described as the first of its kind ever attempted by the Public Broadcasting System, focused on arguments surrounding the $56 billion missile system the Air Force wants to build in Utah and Nevada desert valleys. The show, moderated by journalist Bill Moyers, was beamed to more than 450 public television and radio stations across the country from the new wedgeshaped Symphony Hall here. "The Soviets paid $100 billion to acquire the capability of a first nuclear strike. We must respond to that ... or the Soviets will conclude we won't take steps to defend ourselves," said panelist David E. Aaron, the president's deputy assistant for national security affairs.

But Herbert Scoville Jr., former deputy director of research for the Central Intelligence Agency, said the MX is itself a "potential firststrike weapon" and a "bad waste of our money because it does not improve our security."

HE SAID THE MX deployment plan would tempt the Soviet Union to set their missiles to "launch on warning." He said that would increase the risk of being "involved in a nuclear war due to computers."

"That's ridiculous," countered defense analyst John F. Lehman. 'That logic is worthy of the Mad Hatter. I haven't heard anything so ridiculous in years."

The audience, about 1,-000 fewer than the 2,800 program organizers had hoped would fill the hall, consisted mostly of MX opponents who hissed and booed administration and Air Force officials. Before the show, about 300 persons heard folk singers, politicians and religious leaders denounce the missile system at a rally outside the

UNDER THE AIR FORCE plan, 200 MX missiles would be shuttled among 4,600 desert shelters to avoid detection by the Soviet Union. The boundaries of the proposed MX area cover 45,000 square miles about the size of Pennsylvania Area residents have voiced strong opposition, saying MX would destroy the fragile desert, end their quiet, rural lifestyle and make them prime targets for Soviet missiles.

YOUR BIRTHDAY TO-DAY: Popular Carol Burnett continues to be influenced by the revelations of the past year. You, too, may have to deal with a family problem. Helping a loved one can make you both stronger and wiser, giving you a clearer insight into the needs and fears of others. You have a great desire for security and stability, and 1980 could well be the year in which you lay the foundations for both. Some excellent work you did in the past may provide you with a golden opportunity in the near future. Old admirer has not forgotten. Reach out to romance!

The bidding: North East South West Pass 2 🛡 Pass Pass Pass Pass Pass 5 🌩 6 0 Pass Pass Pass Opening lead: Ten of .

The rewards of good bidding are obvious. You arrive at the right contract and you should make it more often than not. But once in a while you are the victim of circumstances that make you want to go to your bridge library and rip out every chapter ever written on bidding.

When this hand was played in a major tournament, the popular contract was six hearts. That was an eminently sensible slam, but unfortunately it was doomed to fail because of the 4-1 trump split. One pair, however, got very involved. South was a super-scientist. and he initiated a cue-bidding sequence before his side had agreement upon a suit. Then, when North elected to jump to six diamonds, South suddenly became worried that his partner might not have a heart in his hand. So he elected to pass, and the result was this rather fantastic slam.

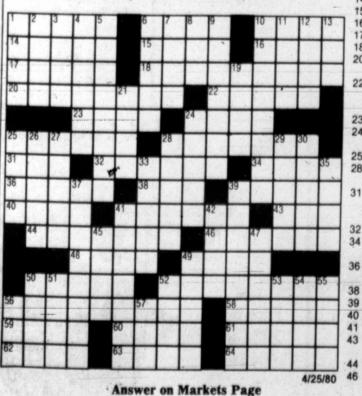

ed a spade. Dummy was reentered with the ace of hearts and another spade was ruffed with the ace of trumps to set up the suitmuch against the odds. Declarer led a trump and boldly finessed dummy's ten. When that held, he cashed two more rounds of trumps, and was quite delighted when everyone followed.

Now West held the only trump in the game, but that was soon neutralized. Declarer simply ran spades until West ruffed. No matter what West chose to return. declarer could win and get back to dummy with a club to take the rest of the tricks.

DEMING, N.M. (AP) - The state Board of Economic Development endorsed a plan Thursday for an oil pipeline that would cut across southern New Mexico and connect California oil reserves with Texas refin-

Parker said the line could move up to 800,000 barrels of crude oil daily from Kern County, Calif., near Bakersfield, to Midland, Texas. "There are 9 billion barrels of oil in California that need to be produced," Parker said. The oil sitting in California wells cannot be refined in that Parker said the $1.5 billion project could be finished in 1983 or 1984 if he gets proper permits from the states involved. A similar project failed, he said, because of business problems in California.

The Federal Energy Regulatory

United States border where it will split into two legs. FERC's approval was for construction of a pipeline running from Monchy, Saskatchewan, to Ventura, Iowa. Confederate Air Force Col. Jim Tilson of Odessa will be flying his Vultee BT-13 Valiant "Vibrator" Saturday and Sunday in the Roy Schlemeyer Memorial Air Show at Schlemeyer Field in Odessa. He will be among a

Air Show to be real 'fun fly-in ODESSA - Aerobatic pilot Dr. Bill McCollough of Levelland and veteran World War II pilot Jack Morgan of San Angelo will be detailing the aerial feats and profiling pilots and their airplanes Saturday and Sunday in the fourth annual Roy Schlemeyer Memorial Air Show at Schlemeyer Field here.

At least 28 Confederate Air Force fighters, trainers and observation aircraft from the World War II era and 15 homebuilt aerobatic airplanes will by flying overhead and going through precision maneuvers in the two-day event, which is being sponsored by the Midland-Odessa chapter of the Experimental Aircraft Association (EAA) and by the Desert Squadron of the CAF's West Texas Wing.

Pilots of the EAA and CAF airplanes will be joined by scores of other pilots who will be flying their "regular" and sports planes

"It (the Odessa air show) is the most fun fly-in in the whole world," said McCollough, who has been announcing air shows since 1968

McCollough, a physician who has been flying for 10 years, is the 1975 national champion in sportsman competition and is a national aerobatic judge. He regularly does the aerobatic commentary at the the EEA annual fly-in at Oshkosh, Wisc., and for the Franklin Brothers aerobatic team.

"I know the pilots; I know the planes," said McCollough, who figures that the best part of the show is his announcing. "What I'm telling (about the aerobatics) is the truth. I really enjoy

One of the highlights of the show will be precision flying by Odessan Gene Beggs, who is the U.S. national champion in advanced aerobatics. He will be doing the torque roll, hammerhead stall, snap rolls, low-level inverted passes, and among others, the Waldo Pepper loop.

"Gene is absolute perfection in the sky," McCollough said of Beggs, a pilot instructor who meticulously work for four years to build his Pitts Special biplane. "His airplane building is unsurpassed by nobody," said McCollough, "and I have seen some of the best airplanes in the world. Nobody can build airplanes like McCollough will be describing the feats of the aerobatic aircraft in the show, and Morgan, a CAF colonel, will profile the warbirds and their pilots. At least 28 warbirds, such as the P-51D Mustang, Curtiss P-40N Warhawk, SNJs, AT-6s, the Me. 108, BT-13s "Vibrators" and the Wildcat will be in the show. Numbered among the 15 or so aerobatic aircraft will be the Pitts Special, Taylorcraft, J-3 Cub, the De Havilland Chipmunk, and the Bellanca Decathlon.

Gates to the show open at 9-a.m. Saturday and Sunday. Aerobatic competition begins at 10 a.m. Saturday, and warbirds will be making fly-bys at 11 a.m. that day. Skydivers will be jumping at 1 p.m. The spin, loop and roll contest starts at 1:20 p.m. Aerobatic demonstrations start at 2 p.m., and CAF warbirds will give demonstrations at 3 p.m.

On Sunday, flying competition begins at 10 a.m. Skydiving teams will jump at 1 p.m. Dog fights between two biplanes, piloted by Bill Wicks and Sam Holloman, begins at 2 p.m. Skydiving launches again at 2:30 p.m. Warbird and aerobatic flying will be at 3 p.m. and 4 p.m.

A barbecue is set for 6 p.m. Saturday for air show pilots. Others may purchase tickets to the feed at $5 a plate.

Admission to the show is $2 per person or $5 per carload.

Volcker accused of aiding Hunts

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congressional investigations of the silver transactions of the Hunt brothers are widening after reports that the chairman of the Federal Reserve Board helped arrange an $800 million credit line to help the two men. The chairman of the House Banking Committee of violating the Fed's credit restraint policy by approving of the loan to Texas billionaires Nelson Bunker Hunt and William Herbert Hunt. Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., said he will hold hearings on Volcker's action. He suggested Thursday that the Federal Reserve Board should consult his

accused Federal Reserve chairman Paul A. Volcker

The Hunts needed the funds to make payments, called margin calls, after the price of silver dropped from about $50 per ounce in January to $10.80 in March. The Hunts have active in the silver market for years and it was reported that they lost tens of millions of dollars in the silver fall.

expects Volcker to also testify next week. There was no word on whether the Hunts will comply with the subpoenas. They have agreed to appear voluntarily next Friday before a Senate committee or the Senate Banking Committee before taking any similar actions.

Meanwhile, federal subpoenas were served on the Hunts in Dallas, directing them to appear next

"Contrary to published reports, neither the Federal Reserve nor its chairman, Paul A. Volcker, initiated any effort to obtain bank loans in connection with financial transactions of the Hunt brothers." the statement said. "Banking officials have kept the Federal Reserve informed regarding such matters but, contrary to some reports, the Federal Reserve has not approved any such loans." it said. FDA to tighten down on Darvon availability

WASHINGTON (AP) - Darvon, the nation's most widely prescribed painkiller, is coming under renewed scrutiny by the federal government in a move that could sharply limit its availability at doctors' offices and drugstores. The Drug Enforcement Administration said

Thursday it already has tightened federal regulations on Darvon in pure, bulk form. The Food and Drug Administration is considering the same restrictions, including prohibiting telephone prescriptions and banning refills, for other, more common forms of Darvon. This would include the pills and capsules, plain or combined with other drugs, used by millions of Americans each year for pain ranging from headaches to tooth-

All types of Darvon had been on the government's list of low-risk drugs - those having little potential for abuse and leading to only limited physical or psychological dependence. Pure, bulk Darvon now is being reclassified as a drug with only limited medically approved uses and with a greater danger of being abused.

By WILL GRIMSLEY

AP Special Correspondent There is a friend in town, a longtime sports buff and one of the original disciples of the New York Mets, who is sore enough to blow a gas-

"Look," he said, smoke pouring from his ears, "the Mets could have had Billy Martin, and they blew it. So what happens? Here we have the Mets still wallowing in the cellar, going nowhere fast, and Billy's out there in Oakland setting the place on fire.

"It's a tragedy." The friend, Eddie Jaffe, press agent for sports personalities and a man who has counted Joe Namath and Muhammad Ali among his clients, is just one of 7,256,553 residents who have become disenchanted with the "other team" in New York's major league baseball structure.

Jaffe recalls, with some bitterness, that the Mets had their big opportunity last January when Nelson Doubleday and friends purchased the deteriorating, financially-troubled franchise

At that time, Martin, the feisty saloon-brawler but possessor perhaps of the sharpest managerial mind in baseball, was in limbo, having been fired again by Yankee owner George Steinbrenner for slugging a marshmallow salesman in a Minnesota hotel lobby.

"I know Billy had his heart on managing the Mets," Jaffe says. "Representations were made to the new Met owners. It never got around to a discussion whether the Yankees would release him from the remainder of his contract. Money wasn't a factor.

"Billy was sure he could turn the Mets around - just as he has done with every big league club he ever managed. It was a personal thing with him - a sort of vendetta. He wanted to show up Steinbrenner."

ACCORDING to Jaffe, the idea was quickly nixed by the Mets' new brass. Fred Wilpon, the club president, reportedly said, "We can't do this to Joe Torre (Mets manager). He is too nice a fellow." Doubleday and others determined that they didn't want to inherit the problems associated with a guy whose quick temper and quicker hands were constantly getting him in hot

"They said Billy was not their kind of guy," Jaffe insisted.

For all of his off-the-field skirmishes and controversies, Martin is just the kind of tonic needed to stimulate the moribund Mets, who are gasping for breath.

Shock treatment may be the only cure. Nobody ever accused Billy of failing to create shock

A trip to Shea Stadium, once an exciting adventure, now is an exercise in depression. The subway shops are shuttered. Activity around the grounds is dead. People are scarce. Only the most faithful diehards show up to suffer through repeated frustrations.

THE METS were more exciting even back in their formative years when Marvelous Marv Throneberry and his bumbling brothers were delighting the galleries with their sandlot antics.

They became the darlings of life's wretched "have nots" and "never was-es" only to change their image and become baseball champions of the world (1969).

Shedding players who could fill an All-Star roster - Tom Seaver, Nolan Ryan, Dave Kingman, Ken Singleton, for openers - they slowly disintegrated under unsound management.

Now they have retired Ed Kranepool, traded Richie Hebner (79 rbi's) and Willie Montanez (96 rbis in 1978) and lost ace reliever Skip Lockwood to the free agent draft. They have tried to fill the gaps with raw, unskilled farm labor.

The Mets need talent but, while awaiting that. they need a motivating force - an electrifying personality who can again spark interest and rally their old supporters. New York is a National League town.

A Reggie Jackson could do it, a Pete Rose, certainly a Billy Martin. Bad Billy has produced miracle first-year reversals with every club he has managed -Minnesota, Detroit, Texas, the Yankees and now the ragtag A's, who won eight of their last nine games through Wednesday and stormed to the top of their division. It's the old Martin touch - daring base-running, hit-and-run, suicide squeezes, bottled excitement. It's heady stuff for Oakland. The poor old Mets could use a shot of it.

Perlman tops Diablos

LaVigne parks 3rd homer in 5-3 victory

EL PASO-Righthander Jon Perlman turned in his best pitching effort of the young Texas League season, pitching shutout ball through seven innings to come within three outs of the first complete game of the season by a Midland pitcher as the Cubs made it two in a row over El Paso, 5-3, here Thursday night.

Perlman lost his shutout in the eighth when Dale Sconiers doubled and scored on a couple of infield outs. Then, in the ninth, the former Baylor University pitcher walked Bill Springman and surrendered a homer to Tom Brunanski, which brought on Bob Blyth in relief. Blyth gave up a one-out walk and a two-out single by retired the side without further damage to pick up his third save.

Midland had a 5-0 lead before the Diablos lit up the scoreboard with a

Are Games worth all that trouble?

If they didn't hold the Olympic Games, we'd never miss 'em, or, more properly, the irritation that goes with 'em. We enjoy the competition. Who doesn't? If they'd just let the kids run, jump and splash, it would be okay. It's the meddling mommies and daddies that cold-shower the enthusiasm. If they'd just stay out of it ...

But the bickering between nations and the accompanying power politics are part of the franchise. I guess it has been for years, only in recent years it has subordinated the true spirit of the Olympics.

Back in the 1912 Games in Sweden the world was horrified when Jim Thorpe, the Super Chief athlete, was stripped of his medals because someone discovered he had played baseball for money someplace in the

In comparison to today's athletes, Thorpe's naivety and purity might qualify him for Olympic sainthood. If Thorpe were around today and committed the same indiscretion, his modern contemporaries would be as equally horrified as they back were in 1912. Only Thorpe would be ostracized from the athletic fraternity as a scab. for not having accepted under-thetable remuneration suitable to his talents

BUT the Olympic athletes only reflect the times. They seem reasonably chaste when the Pac-10 and WAC begin hanging their laundry.

The nations in their greed have tarnished the Games' image. The big, powerful nations beat their chests like Tarzan as they display their collection of expensive medals and pout like a spoiled brat when Lichtenstein wins the Downhill or Giant Slalom.

Russia's Olympians, 'tis widely reported, are unabashed professionals who train the year round for the Games. It's a job and brings with it special privileges in the Communist suspent the athletes and the U.S. Olympic Committee would like to go to Moscow, but daddy has made up his mind. He could be right, especially when the athletes start talking about the sacrifices they have made, sacrifices that pale when one thinks of those made in Viet Nam.

IT'S a sensitive area and we suspect most people aren't really sure what course of action is right or what they themselves believe. True, a boycott is not consistent with past actions, but this time it's in Moscow and the message would be loud and

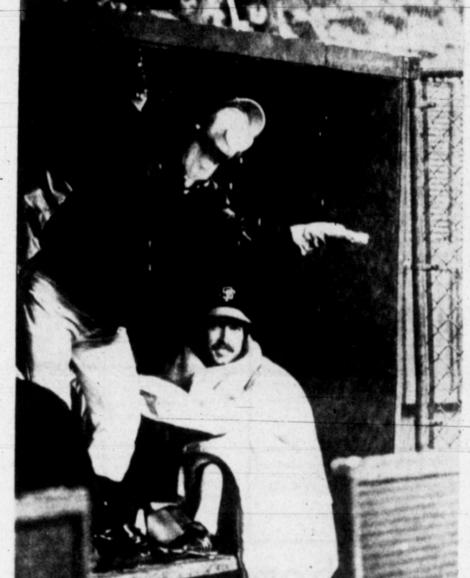

Ordinarily, it wouldn't make much difference here, if it hadn't been for the recent death of Jesse Owens. Now, we don't know

The U.S. probably should have boycotted the 1936 Olympics in Berlin. Maybe it was even more demanding of a protest action than Moscow

Yet, if the U.S. had boycotted the Games, the world would have missed one of the great stories of our time. and Owens passing would have drawn little note. And if it had, it would have been for his forgotten feat of setting four world records, all long since erased, at a college meet in the space of 45 minutes.

The fact that the U.S did participate in 1936 and Owens did win everything in sight left an indelible imprint.

There might be another Jesse Owens story to go with the U.S. hockey team's imagination-capturing feat at the Lake Placid Olympics, but we'll never know, will we?

White Sox lefties defy the Monster

Dodgers nip Giants; Braves beat San Diego

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

The Chicago White Sox are loaded down with left-handed pitchers. But as everyone knows, Fenway Park is not for left-handers.

When in Boston, it's usually to your advantage to throw right-handers at the Red Sox, with that cozy "Green Monster" wall looming in left.

Two of Chicago's leading men were pitchers Richard Dotson and Ed Farmer, who combined to hold the Boston sluggers to two earned runs.

"Dotson pitched a good game but his arm stiffened during the sixth," said Chicago Manager Tony LaRussa. "I had to take him out.

Dotson struck out nine and walked two through his strong six-inning performance before giving way to Farmer. The right-hander left with the game tied 3-3, but the White Sox came up with two runs in the top of the seventh and thus presented him with the vic-

"If we hadn't scored (the two tie-breaking runs), I really would have been weighing taking him out," LaRussa said of the 21-year-old Dotson. "I hate to take a pitcher out with no decision, especially after he has struck out four batters in a row, like he

Along with the good pitching supplied by Dotson and Farmer, the White Sox continued to get good hitting from Lamar Johnson. Johnson drove in four runs, two of them with a homer in the third inning. His RBI grounder in the seventh produced the tie-breaking run.

The victory gave the surprising White Sox a 9-4 record so far this young season.

What we have is a bunch of guys who like to play," said LaRussa, explaining his team's hot start. "If we go out and play every day, we're good enough to be in the ball game.'

Braves 8, Padres 7-Brian Asselstine's RBI single capped a two-run rally in the ninth inning, leading Atlanta over San Diego. Larvell Blanks started the rally with a single and eventually scored the tying run on Jeff Burroughs' infield single before Asselstine's game-winning hit.

Willie Montanez' two-run homer in the top of the eighth had provided the Padres with a 7-6 lead before Atlanta's rally

Dodgers 5, Giants 2-Dusty Baker's three-run homer broke a 2-2 tie in the bottom of the 10th, leading Los Angeles ever San Francisco. Reggie Smith, who homered in fourth, singled to start the winning rally. Steve Green followed with another base hit before Baker's homer gave the victory to Jerry Reuss, 3-0.

Howard's slam propels Jackson past Arkansas

By The Associated Press

Mike Howard's grand slam home run powered the Jackson Mets to a 6-1 Texas League baseball victory over the Arkansas Travelers Thursday night.

In the only other Texas League game played Thursday night, Midland beat El Paso, 5-3. San Antonio's scheduled game at Amarillo and Shreveport's scheduled game at Tulsa were postponed Keno Perry singled home Ron Gardenhire in the first inning for Jackson's first run.

Arkansas tied the game at 1-1 in the sixth when Mike Calise doubled and came home on Frank Hunsaker's single

Jackson regained the lead at 2-1 in the seventh when Stan Hough singled, Brian Giles doubled and winning pitcher Dan Smith singled Hough home. In the ninth, Randy Johnson and Russ Clark singled and Giles walked to load the bases, setting up the situation for Howard's grand slam. Smith is now 1-1. The loser was Al Olmstead, 1-2, although Howard's homer came off relief pitcher Rvan Kuroski

JIM MURRAY

You could never accuse Detroit of class products

By JIM MURRAY Los Angeles Times

I guess the United States of America has turned out more motor cars than anyone else on earth, most of them highly forgettable hunks of chrome and steel about as stylish as a housecoat on a fat lady, about as dashing as a plow. Detroit never could get the hang of class and fashion, and kept turning out things like the 1953 DeSoto and some models that seemed to be trying to duplicate the

The most obscene efforts were those monsters of the 1950s with the huge fins on the back. They were positively hideous, and seemed often to be driven by little old ladies in blue hair who had about as much chance of parking them as they had of docking the Berengaria.

Detroit thought they were just swell, although connoisseurs of the automobile as an art form covered their eyes and acted as if someone had just brought home from an auction a statue with a clock in its belly.

One trouble was, Detroit changed the styling a little every year, not so much to make it better as to make it different. Sometimes, the effect was like ketchup on ice cream, but the American consumer wanted everybody to know his, by God, car was a 1937, not a 1934. This conspicuous consumption did in the Packard, a graceful, partly hand-tooled car which had hit upon a design uniquely its own. Trouble was, you couldn't tell a 1930 Packard from a 1935 except by the serial number. So, people bought lesser cars and Packard drifted out of the business.

SOME CAR companies even thought things like safety and engineering and comfort sold cars - but they soon got disabused. Another trouble was, the carmakers hired European carriage builders in the early days, and these guys thought cars were just going to be automotive surreys with a fringe on top, or stagecoaches with horns. They seemed to think they should design them so horses could pull them again when the oil ran out.

The Auto Show was the big social event of the year when you were a kid in those Depression-locked years of the '30s, and I'll never forget the time the one and only truly classic American car made its appearance. I believe it was 1936 and the car was the Cord, the brainchild of the flamboyant huckster from the Middle West, Errett Lobban Cord, the head of the then-Auburn Motorcar Co.

It was a gorgeous thing, the Cord, the nearest thing to a yacht you would find in that roomful of barges. It had pipes coming out from the sides, and it made the throaty purring sound of a mighty cat when its instant ignition was turned on. The car was made with loving care, only a couple a thousand of them were ever turned out, and, out in Hollywood, every cowboy star or actress married to royalty promptly turned in their Duesenbergs (which Cord also made) for the new Cord cars. It was only fitting. They were not made to carry eggs to the market, they were sleek racing machines, and deserving of the finest

E.L. Cord didn't put his masterpiece in a showroom with a ribbon around it, he put it on a racetrack in Atlantic City where it drove a 24-hour endurance test at an average speed of 103 miles per hour. Cord's Cord (cq) was not just another pretty grille, it was a top performer.

THIS WEEK, at Riverside, Calif., another Cord will be on the track -- not the car, the scion. Chris Cord is the grandson of the late E.L. He's a chip off the old stock block, as it were. E.L. would have understood him perfectly. Chris shuffles papers through the week at his office in Beverly Hills so he can go racing on weekends. Some weeks it's Le Mans or Watkins Glen, but this week it's Riverside, where he'll be piloting in the five-hour enduro there.

During the week, you would see young Cord in an old Cord, a gorgeous black-and-silver chassis, circa 1938, the only authentic classic car ever turned out in this country.

Chris Cord can't pilot an E.L. Cord at Riverside this week in The Los Angeles Times Grand Prix event because the conditions call for a production car (Chris will drive a Chevy Monza) and a Cord hasn't been in production since the Germans were in

What happened? So, why didn't the Cord drive the Cadillacs and the Rollses and even the Mercedes right off the road? Chris Cord believes it was a combination of circumstances. 'It wasn't price," he says. "The Cord cost only about $3,000 originally." It couldn't really be mass-produced. "It was a turbo-charged beauty 20 years ahead of its time," boasts Chris. It was turned out by automotive watchmakers or their equivalent. Its lines were as clean and uncluttered as a diamond. Just standing still, it looked as if it were going at Mach one.

IT GOT lost in the postwar clutter of Firebirds, Sunbirds, DeSotos, Raymond Loewy-Studebakers, and the like. If anyone had told you that the German Mercedes would survive the war but the American Cord wouldn't, you would have wanted to certify it. But the hand-crafted pride of E.L. Cord couldn't compete with the assembly-line iron from Detroit. The Ford had only one letter different, but the economics were quite different the custom-car business was flooded over by the output from the Rouge.

Still, it's nice to have a Cord on the track at again. Too bad the grandson of the original car can't be out there, too. It's all our cultural loss.

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — The Minnesota North Stars' offense, all but dead for three games, exploded with a flourish Thursday night and prevented the Montreal Canadiens from eliminating them in the Stanley Cup playoffs.

By SCOTT PAPILLON

Glen Sharpley's backhanded goal with 41 seconds left in the second period capped a five-goal outburst by the North Stars and carried them to a 5-2 victory over the stunned Canadiens.

The triumph tied the best-of-seven National Hockey League quarterfinal series at three games each, with the deciding game scheduled for Sunday night at the Montreal Forum. "I would be lying to you if I told you I was expecting a second period like that," said Minnesota Coach Glen Sonmor. "I was as sure as can be that the score would be 3-2 or 4-3." Minnesota had won the first two games of the series in Montreal, but then was outscored 16-3 by the Canadiens in the next three games. Now, the fourtime defending Stanley Cup champs must overcome

Thursday's triumph and win once more before the demanding Montreal fans at the Forum.

"If we cannot win one game in our building, we do not deserve to be in the semifinals," said Montreal Coach Claude Ruel. "There is just one game left; it is a whole new series.'

A very mini-series, and that's just why the North Stars don't feel the Canadiens will have a home-ice

'I've said from the start of the series that in the playoffs the home-ice advantage is not nearly as much a factor as it is during the season," said "There's not going to be too many things affecting that game except good or bad play," added Steve Christoff. hristoff.

Christoff, an Olympic standout who joined the North Stars late this season, scored his sixth goal of the playoffs on a power play at 5:22 of the second period to offset a first-period tally by Mark Napier.

the momentum the North Stars achieved with North Stars took command of the game before a crowd of 13,829 at the Met Sports Center.

Andersson scored on a breakaway for a 2-1 lead and Paul Shmyr made it 3-1 at 13: 20 with a brilliant, unassisted effort. Shmyr, not known for his speed, stickhandling or scoring ability, did all three.

After collecting the puck at his own blue line, Shmyr raced across center ice, blew past two Montreal defenders and skated in all alone on goalie Bunny Larocque after Canadiens defenseman Gaston Gingras left the slot to cover Christoff on the Twenty-seven seconds later, Bobby Smith connected on a power play with his first goal of the playoffs after 11 assists for a 4-1 lead.

Sharpley completed the surge at 19:19 by scoring from point-blank range. Andersson beat a Montreal skater to a loose puck near the faceoff circle and fed Sharpley, who grabbed the puck with his back to the Then, at 10:29, Minnesota's Kent-Erik Andersson net and fired as he spun around to beat the ignited a three-goal flurry over four minutes as the surprised Larocque.

NEW YORK (AP) - Stock prices posted a slight loss in moderate trading today as financial markets reacted to word of the abortive attempt to rescue the U.S. hostages in Iran.

The news also prompted a decline in the dollar and a jump in the price of gold. On Wall Street, the Dow

Citibank reduces prime lending rate

NEW YORK (AP) - Citibank, the nation's second largest commercial bank, today reduced its prime largest commercial bank, today reduced its prime lending rate ¼-point to 19½ percent.

In doing so, Citibank joined the majority of U.S. banks which moved last Friday to a 19½ percent prime rate level, largely in response to falling short-term rates in money markets and weakening loan demand.

The prime is the rate banks charge their best corporate customers and is a widely followed indicator of general interest rate trends.

Most businesses must pay a point or more above the prime rate for loans. Consumer loan charges are not directly linked to the prime.

Chase Manhattan Bank, the nation's third largest, and Wells Fargo Bank of San Francisco, No. 11, reduced their prime rates to 19 percent in separate moves earlier this week.

But that lower rate, initiated by Chase on Wednesday, has failed to spread throughout the industry.

Analysts predict the prime rate, which reached a peak 20 percent in early April, will continue to decline. But they note that profit pressures on some banks and differences in loan demand may mean that banks may not move as uniformly as they did during a rapid series of increases earlier this year.

$17 million rescinded for Carlsbad WIPP plant

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House Energy and Water Development Appropriations Subcommittee has voted to rescind $17 million in funding for the Waste Isolation Pilot Plant near Carlsbad.

The action was taken Thursday at the request of one of WIPP's strongest backers, Melvin Price, D-Ill., chairman of the House Armed Service Com-

Bevill said. To revive WIPP, it would take action by the

"I won't fight the rescission," Rep. Harold Runnels, D-N.M., said Thursday. He said the New Mexico delegation "did as much as we could to get a fair hearing for WIPP.

Rep. Manuel Lujan Jr., R-N.M., also is not expected to fight the decision when it comes to the House floor next month as part of a supplemental appropriations bill. Lujan supported deletion of the funds several weeks ago, partly out of concern that WIPP would become a high radiation level waste repository in the future. Runnels said he deplored the fact that $100 million had been spent on WIPP with any ruling whether it would be safe to store nuclear wastes in the saltbeds

THE NEWSPAPER BIBLE

He really did raise a dead man!

Now Jesus had stayed outside the village, at the place where Martha met Him.

When the Jewish leaders who were at the house trying to console Mary saw her leave so hastily, they assumed she was going to Lazarus' tomb to weep; so they followed her.

When Mary arrived where Jesus was, she fell down at His feet, saying, "Sir, if You had been here, my brother would

When Jesus saw her weeping and the Jewish leaders wailing with her, He was moved with indignation and deeply troubled.

"Where is he buried?" He asked them.

They told Him, "Come and see." Tears came to Jesus' eyes.

"They were close friends," the Jewish leaders said. "See how much he loved him."

But some said, "This fellow healed a blind manwhy couldn't he keep Lazarus from dying?" And again Jesus was moved with deep anger. Then they came to the tomb. It was a cave with a heavy stone rolled across its door.

"Roll the stone aside," Jesus told them. But Martha, the dead man's sister, said, "By now the smell will be terrible, for he has been dead four days." "But didn't I tell you that you will see a wonderful miracle from God if you believe?" Jesus asked her.

So they rolled the stone aside. Then Jesus looked up to heaven and said, "Father, thank You for hearing Me.

(You always hear Mc, of course, but I said it because of all these people standing here, so that they will believe You sent Me.)"

Then He shouted, "Lazarus, come out!"

And Lazarus came-bound up in the gravecloth, his face muffled in a head swath. Jesus told them, "Unwrap him

And so at last many of the Jewish leaders who were with Mary and saw it happen, finally believed on Him!

son is employed as a social worker in a drugabuse program. Although it is the agency's policy to check urine samples periodically to detect drug use, he says that people coming to the clinic find it easy to fake it by switching samples. Isn't there a better way to determine if an addict is free of drugs? - Hal

Dear Hal: Dr. A.M. Baumgartner and his colleagues at the Aerospace Corporation in El Segundo, Calif., have used hair analysis to detect morphine and heroine use. They found that the concentration of drugs in hair near the scalp is different from that in the outer sections of hair, and that these concentrations are related to the length of time the drug has been used.

The researchers emphasize the potential advantages of hair analysis over urine and blood analyses in regard to its accessibility, stability of the sample and the longterm retention of information.

Dear Dr. Solomon: My 83-year-old aunt recently entered a nursing home. When I visited her last week, I found the place pleasant enough, but there was a pervasive odor that was almost unbearable. When I asked one of the nurses about it, she told me that many of the patients are incontinent. I must admit I was only too glad when the time came for me to leave. How do you account for the fact that my aunt' did not appear to be upset by the odor, although she could not have helped but notice it? - Mrs. O.N.

Dear Mrs. N.: Many elderly people suffer a decline in ther sense of taste and smell. Dr. Susan Schiffman, assoctate professor of medical psychology at the Duke University Medical Center, attributes this decline to an age-related loss of neurons, the fundamental units of the nervous tissue. Aged nursing home patients, therefore, may not be bothered by odors that upset their younger visi-

Depression is a very prevalent coping behavior in response to any chronic illness. Patients are overwhelmed by their illness and are unable to deal with the stress by their usual might. The usual outlets of alcohol, sex, exercise, food or withdrawal are not practical for dialysis patients. Education may be a very effective means to help the patient cope with slight to moderate depression. An experienced health team assists the patient to move from despair and defeat to a realistic adaptation manifested by hope and planning. Being on dialysis can not be only a satisfactory, but a fulfilling and productive way of life. - Dana Laird, R.N., Charlotte, N.C.
