

Midlanders feel rescue attempt too little, too late

By DAVID CAMPBELL
Staff Writer

Friday's attempt to rescue the 50 American hostages in Tehran was considered by most Midlanders on Friday as an action that is too little and too late.

However, they agreed that the worst thing the United States could do now is to sit back and lick their wounds.

Midland County Republican Chairman William T. Shaner said because of the blunder in which eight Americans lost their lives, the U.S. has lost the element of surprise. But, the president should not be "called up and put down" as a result of the incident.

He did note that the mechanical failure of the helicopters could be directly related to the administration's defense budget cuts.

"IT'S BEEN KNOWN that our Air Force is flying with nothing but chewing gum and rubber bands," he said.

What Carter should do now is "pray a lot," suggested Shaner.

It could take the U.S. a long time to find the hostages because the militants might scatter the Americans throughout Iran, according to Shaner.

The only way we might get them (hostages) back is if they (Iranians) voluntarily give them up, he added.

Getting world support of economic sanctions against Iran would put that country in an economic squeeze where they (militants) would have to give up the hostages, he suggested.

Howard Lukens, professor of management at the University of Texas at the Permian Basin, said he was perplexed, concerned and "madder than hell" about Friday's events.

LUKENS WAS stationed in Iran with Bell Helicopter during the Iranian revolution.

Lukens flew over Tabas — a city near the area where the rescue mission failed — and he described it as a series of mud huts. A year ago, the area was severely damaged by earthquakes, he said.

He noted the timing of the mission was bad and the terrifying aspect about the attempt was "how in the hell were we expected to get from the desert staging area and into the compound?"

"I have been in the embassy compound and have flown helicopters over it and landed in a military base near the area," Lukens said, noting the impossibility of landing helicopters in that area. "Yet Secretary of Defense Harold Brown said he was very confident that that part of the mission would have succeeded."

Lukens toned down his criticism of the president's action. "Just the fact we have demonstrated to the world that our patience is not unlimited means something," he said.

"OUR ALLIES WILL start to view us with a different view. They have looked at us as an impotent monster thrashing about with rhetoric and now they are probably saying 'Hey, these guys mean business.'"

"Instead of licking our wounds for the next six months, let's go ahead with a naval blockade and get rough with these characters," he suggested.

The U.S. must make Iran pay a high price for holding the hostages, said Lukens in agreeing with a statement made Friday by former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger. "So far, these guys (Iranian militants) are having a lot of fun and they think they have defeated us militarily," he added.

Lukens said the U.S. is dealing with an infantile mind and the only thing the Iranians understand is force. Their basic religion respects a show of force, he explained.

"THE WORD 'Islam' means to submit and they do understand force," he continued. "In the last 2,500 years anybody with a big stick who has wandered through Asia has beaten the hell out of them."

In regards to the president's chances in the May 3 Texas primary, Shaner predicted that Texas Democrats probably won't vote.

Darrell Smith, Democratic county chairman, voiced his displeasure over the incident saying that Carter "has got to be the most snakebit man alive."

Khomeini calls rescue attempt silly maneuver

WASHINGTON (AP) — A dramatic effort to free the U.S. hostages in Tehran failed Thursday and the bodies of eight American servicemen were left behind in blazing aircraft wreckage on an Iranian salt desert. The mission was doomed by the malfunction of three helicopters in a fleet of eight.

Iranian revolutionary leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini and the have spent the intervening period

A White House official, who asked to remain anonymous, said the rescue attempt apparently debated at the desert site whether to recommend going ahead anyway with one helicopter short. But when it came time to make the go/no-go recommendation to Carter, they agreed the mission should be cancelled. Carter then made his decision within minutes, the source said.

As the task force prepared to head back, lifting off in the blackness of the desert night, a helicopter and one of six C-130 transports collided and burst into flames.

Eight of our men were killed and four others suffered burns," Brown said. To ensure the safe evacuation of the rest of the party, the commander on the scene directed his men to leave the helicopters and depart on the remaining C-130s.

The four functioning helicopters were left behind.

Brown said all Americans involved in the mission left Iran. But a Tehran broadcast quoted Khomeini as saying the claim that all the aircraft crews have been flown out is contrary to the reports received by us.

Khomeini also was quoted as saying that Carter must know that had the group attacked the center of espionage (the U.S. embassy in Tehran) all of them, and all of the 50 spies (hostages) would be in hell now."

A senior administration official told reporters that another such operation cannot be mounted for at least six months for a number of physical reasons, including wind, temperature and length of night during the Iranian summer.

At 7 a.m. EST, a dejected President Carter told a nation just awaking to the news. "I ordered this rescue mission prepared in order to safeguard American lives and protect America's national interest." He pleaded for support.

By midday Friday, the White House had received 1,841 telephone calls and, according to press secretary Judd Powell, 83 percent were positive.

militants holding the 50 American captives reacted with a chilling threat to kill the Americans if President Carter tries another "silly maneuver."

And foreign minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh, characterizing the mission an act of war, said the waters of the Persian Gulf would be set ablaze with oil if the United States makes another such attempt.

Defense Secretary Harold Brown said 90 military men from four services plus air crews were involved in the operation that brought aircraft from the carrier Nimitz to Posht Badam, a refueling site in the Iranian desert late Thursday, Iran time.

Two of the helicopters had trouble en route, Brown said. One landed in the desert, its crew then boarding another chopper. Then a second helicopter malfunctioned and returned to the Nimitz.

At Posht Badam, 200 miles from Tehran, a third RH 53 chopper was put out of commission by hydraulic problems. That Brown said caused the mission to be cancelled. It had been decided a minimum of six helicopters needed to be operational for the mission to continue from the refueling point. By then the rescuers had only five.

A senior State Department official said the operation had been planned to extend over two days, with the rescue attempt to be on the second day. The official said he did not want to discuss anything that wasn't done, or where the raiders would Charter crashes

SANTA CRUZ DE TENERIFE, Canary Islands (AP) — A charter jet carrying eight crew and 138 British vacationers, including three children, crashed into a mountain Friday minutes before it was scheduled to land. Airport authorities said there was no sign of survivors.

They said the airport control tower lost contact with the plane, a Boeing 727 owned by the British charter airline Dan Air, six minutes before it was scheduled to land. The pilot's last radio contact was "a perfectly normal message from the pilot asking for permission to land. There was no indication that anything was wrong," said an official at Las Rodeas airport, site of the world's worst air disaster in 1977.

The account from tower officials conflicted with one from British authorities who said the last contact was a garbled distress message from the plane.

Authorities here said weather conditions and visibility were good with clouds at 1,000 feet over the island when the plane crashed.

Search teams said they sighted the plane wreckage just before nightfall on the slope of the 12,198-foot high Teide peak, a snowcapped volcanic mountain, the tallest in Spain's Canary Islands chain. Tenerife is the largest island in the chain, is a 795-square-mile island located in the Atlantic Ocean off north-west Africa.

Drug charges

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The wife of state Appeal Court Justice Paul Halvonik has lost a bid to have the felony drug charges against her dropped on the grounds that she was unfairly denied a chance to plea bargain.

Alameda County Superior Court Judge Winton McKibben on Thursday denied a series of defense motions, clearing the way for Deborah Halvonik, an attorney, and her husband to go on trial May 5.

The trial, stemming from a police raid on the couple's Oakland home that netted 323 marijuana plants, is scheduled before retired state Supreme Court Justice Louis H. Burke.

Mandel sentence

BALTIMORE (AP) — The federal government said Friday it opposed reducing four year jail sentences for former Gov. Marvin Mandel and three of his co-defendants. Sentence reduction or probation was recommended, however, for two others convicted in the same political corruption scheme.

In response to motions from the six to have their sentences reduced or suspended, U.S. Attorney Russell T. Baker Jr. said four year jail terms should be retained against Mandel, W. Dale Hess, Harry W. Rodgers III and Irvin Kovens.

Baker did not oppose reducing the 20-month sentence of William A. Rodgers.

Congress plans inquiry

Was War Powers Act Violated by President?

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's aborted military rescue raid in Iran triggered an inquiry Friday into whether he violated the War Powers Act by not consulting Congress in advance.

Rep. Clement J. Zablocki, D-Wis., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs committee, said it was stupid of Carter not to consult Congress and said he will hold hearings to investigate.

"We want to know why he violated the War Powers Act," Zablocki said. Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said the act "clearly requires consultation."

Church's panel also will investigate Carter's decision to send a combat team into Iran.

This is an inherent question in light of the War Powers Act," Church said.

Church added that the president has assured him he will submit a report on the aborted rescue mission within the next 48 hours as stipulated in the act.

"Without knowing all the details, I cannot pass judgment on the wisdom of the mission," Church said. However, I do regret that the president failed to consult congressional leaders prior to making a final decision.

But Carter's supporters, including Sen. John Warner, R-Va., said the act only requires consultation "in every possible instance," and that consultation might have endangered hostages' lives if the word leaked out.

The provision Zablocki and Church said Carter violated states.

The president in every possible instance shall consult with Congress before introducing U.S. armed forces into hostilities or into situations where imminent involvement in hostilities is clearly indicated by the circumstances.

The War Powers Act was passed by Congress near the end of the Vietnam War to prohibit presidents from ever again from committing the country to war without specific approval from Congress.

Congress had rejected a series of proposals to cut off money for the war by ever narrower margins. In the end it cut funds for all U.S. military action in Indochina effective Aug. 15, 1973.

Democrats' constable candidates have 40 years in law enforcement

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a two-part series on the candidates for constable in the May 3 primary.

By DAVID CAMPBELL
Staff Writer

Midland Democrats shouldn't worry about Odell Smith's and Charlie Jones' qualifications for constable in the May 3 primary.

Both men have more than 40 years of law enforcement experience between them.

Jones, presently deputy constable, worked 6 1/2 years with the Midland Police Department, 13 1/2 years with the Midland County Sheriff's Office and four years as deputy constable.

Smith has worked 21 years in law enforcement with various agencies, starting with the Odessa Police Department. From there he has gone to the Department of Public Safety, Midland Police Department and the constable's department under Jack Merritt.

During the time he has worked with the various law enforcement agencies, Smith explained, he has come to know most of the sheriffs in the surrounding areas. "One has to have interagency cooperation with other county agencies," Smith said.

The hot checks problem in the county is an area which the constable's office could attack, according to Smith. "There needs to be more teeth in the law and a little more effectiveness if the county is going to curtail the problem," he explained.

Also, Smith said there needs to be some assistance with the sheriff's office in patrolling the county at night, especially when there is an increase in rural burglaries. He noted there would not have to be an immediate increase in the department's size or budget to effectively handle the problem.

Jones said the present operation of the department is doing well. However, the constable needs to be alert to the peculiar needs of the position and if a need should arise, he continued, "I will meet it."

The position of constable is a relatively unknown office, Smith said. "It (Midland County) is the only working constable between Abilene and El Paso," he explained. The constable in Fctor County is basically a figure-head position, as it is with most other places in this area, Smith noted.

The position has a historic past in that there were constables serving in England at a time when there were knights," he said.

Most of the time, the constable works the smaller law enforcement matters like serving papers, Smith said, and leaves the weightier matters of the law in the hands of the sheriff.

However, the constable has the same law enforcement power as a sheriff or city policeman, he added.

Jones also agreed that the constable handles the smaller matters of the law. But the position has been closely related to the justice of the peace court and is considered the law enforcement arm of that court.

"We handle both civil and criminal matters of the law," he added.

The deputy constable noted that the most important duty of the constable position is to gain respect for law enforcement.

"People still have respect for the law," Jones said. Yet, a person in that position should treat people the way he would want to be treated by them, he said.

Clocks spring ahead

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most Americans will set their clocks ahead an hour this weekend to start six months of daylight saving time.

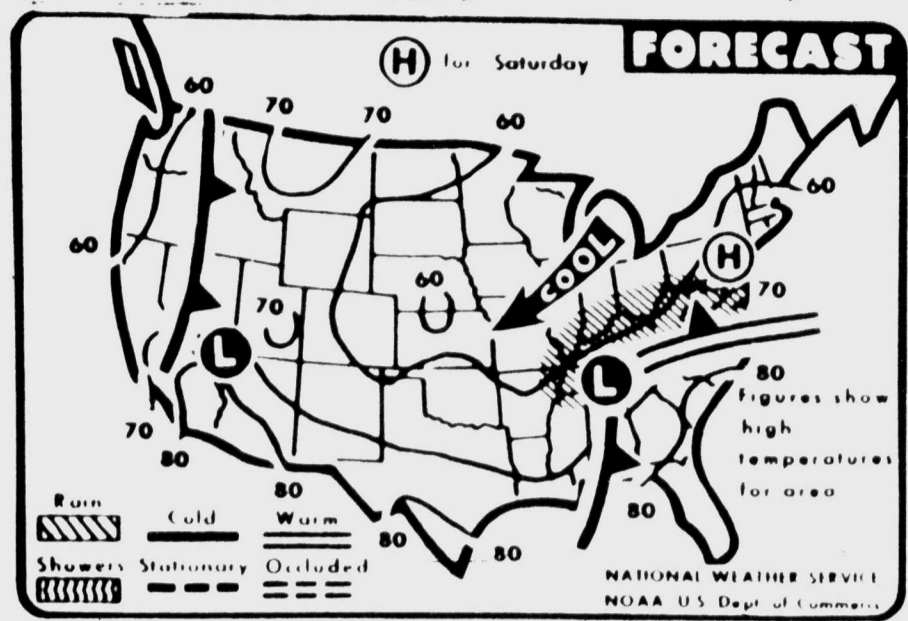

The official time to change is 2 a.m. local time Sunday, which means that adjusted clocks and watches then will read 3 a.m. But most people are expected to make the switch before going to bed Saturday.

Under the Uniform Time Act, daylight saving time is observed in most of the United States and its territories for six months — from the last Sunday in April until the last Sunday in October.

Areas which do not observe DST are Arizona, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, American Samoa and the area of Indiana within the Eastern Time Zone.

In another change, citizens of Juneau and the surrounding area of southeastern Alaska will shift at 2 a.m. Sunday from the Pacific Time Zone to the more westerly Yukon Time Zone. They will do this by not moving their clocks forward.

Carter bungled again: Clements

An aborted attempt to rescue the American hostages in Iran — including three from Texas — stunned their families and politicians and brought an array of reactions Friday. Gov. Bill Clements laid the blame on President Carter in a succinct statement.

"This was President Carter's own initiative. He started it. He ended it. He bungled it again," an aide quoted Clements as saying. "It's just another blooper, another fiasco."

"I've said before and I'll say again there should be a naval blockade where no lives are lost and no oil is shipped out of Iran, either."

"I feel terribly sorry for the eight lives lost," she said, adding she thought any rescue attempts "should have been done a long time ago."

Tower said some congressmen will criticize Carter for not consulting them before approving the military mission. But he said the mission required the utmost secrecy and noted Congress' secret-keeping record "has been less than exemplary."

U.S. Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Texas, said the rescue attempt "surprised" him. "All of this has been ruled out in the briefings I have attended. I can't see how you could effectuate such a rescue, if the hostages are even still in the embassy," he said.

Gonzalez said the briefings left him with the belief that Entebbe-like military commando raids had been ruled out as not feasible.

U.S. Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Texas, fired a verbal salvo in Beaumont that drew applause from about 50 persons at Lamar University and tempering comments from his aide.

"We should mine Iranian harbors, bomb the airstrips and make Iran eat its oil," Brooks declared. Later a Brooks aide insisted the congressman never intended to imply the United States should start a war.

Brooks said Iran should realize "our patience is not infinite" and praised a statement by Republican presidential candidate George Bush that this is no time to nitpick about efforts to free the hostages.

Nancy Reagan, wife of Republican presidential candidate and former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, changed planes in Dallas at 11:30 a.m. and said she had just learned of the Iranian mission. She was en route to Tulsa, Okla.

"I have reached the tentative conclusion that there was no breach of either statutory or constitutional restraints by the president," Tower said.

"There may have been other failures of judgment, thoroughness in planning and overall command, and in adequate consideration of political and military risk," he said.

Raid at-a-glance

By The Associated Press Here is an at-a-glance look at major developments in connection with the attempt to rescue the American hostages in Tehran:

THE RAID The United States made an attempt to rescue the hostages in Iran, but it failed when three of eight helicopters involved malfunctioned. Eight U.S. servicemen were killed in the collision of a helicopter and a C-130 transport as the rescue force was preparing to leave Iran after the mission was called off.

STRIKE FORCE Pentagon officials and informed sources said the rescue try was made by 90 volunteers specially trained in anti-terrorist activities and based at Fort Bragg, N.C. Defense Secretary Harold Brown declined comment on the home base of the unit, but said the group was composed of volunteers from the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Air Force and training began last November.

KHOMEINI Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini and the militants holding the hostages threatened to kill their captives if the United States tries another "silly maneuver," Khomeini said in a statement.

RUSSIAN VIEW The Soviet Union denounced the rescue operation as a "piratic plot" and an attempt by President Carter to make "cheap political capital."

FOREIGN REACTION America's allies were stunned by — and sometimes critical of — the rescue mission. An official of the European Common Market, who asked not to be identified, said in Brussels, Belgium: "The reaction is very bitter."

NATIONAL REACTION The rescue attempt was met with mixed reactions. Reaction to the decision to stage the attempt was mixed, however, and political leaders complained that they were not consulted in advance.

FAMILIES Families of the hostages reacted with bewilderment, shock, worry and some anger and bitterness. "We have eight dead boys now and the only thing we can do is live in fear," said Virgil Sickmann of Krakow, Mo.

POLITICS The rescue attempt clouded the outlook for the weekend Democratic Primary caucuses in Michigan. Robert Strauss, chairman of the Carter-Mondale Presidential Committee, asked administration officials to cancel campaign appearances.

PREVIOUS RAIDS The Iran mission was the third time in the last decade that U.S. forces tried to rescue Americans held captive overseas. A 1970 attempt to free American POWs in North Vietnam was unsuccessful.

ILLEGAL ALIENS found in truck HOUSTON (AP) — Police reported Friday finding 55 illegal Mexican aliens in a truck that had been stopped for a traffic violation.

Don't sit, lick wounds (Continued from Page 1A) He suggested the Democrats — in Texas and around the country — should send uncommitted delegates to the national convention and choose a promising presidential candidate from among the party, instead of going with Carter.

Sue Johnson, 1107 Delmar, noted that the country needs to take more positive action that would be better planned "than the last batch." It is probable, according to Mrs. Johnson, that the president would not get re-elected.

However, she said she was sympathetic with President Carter and is glad she isn't in his shoes. The military did not consider the Iranian sandstorms when they planned the operation, suggested a Midland geologist who is familiar with the Iranian terrain.

"IT WAS A VERY formidable trip they were intending to take," he continued. "And when sand gets in the hydraulics of the turbo-helicopters, it really presents a problem."

Because of the unstable nature of the Iranian situation, the geologist said he feared the U.S. might have to take more radical measures to secure the hostages.

The incident may not hurt Carter in the May 3 Texas primary because a large block of conservative Texas Democrats will fall in behind Carter just because he is the president, the geologist predicted.

However, Lukens concluded that Americans should exercise understanding and support the president to execute a series of progressive reactions instead of showing restraint.

Carter criticized for failure to stockpile oil

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of a House energy subcommittee sharply criticized President Carter Friday for failing to build up U.S. oil stockpiles in the face of a worsening crisis in Iran and threats to Mideast oil supplies.

"The possibility of this nation going into a major shutoff of (oil) supplies without a Strategic Petroleum Reserve could be disastrous," said Rep. John D. Dingell, D-Mich., chairman of the House Commerce energy and power subcommittee.

Dingell's concern, voiced only hours after Carter announced that U.S. military men had failed in a bid to rescue the American hostages held in Iran since last November, was echoed by other committee members as well.

"If in fact through Iranian madness from this latest attempt, ... we are plunged into a terrible, dramatic supply interruption, is this administration going to stand there and take the responsibility for not having the Strategic Petroleum Reserve?" asked Rep. Toby Moffett, D-Conn.

Energy Secretary Charles Duncan told the panel that the administration remained committed to the oil reserve although he argued that now was not the time to resume buying oil.

"The only issue is an issue of timing, an issue of pace," Duncan told the subcommittee. Duncan said the administration was waiting for a "stabilizing" of the international oil markets and a change of other "economic and political" conditions. But he refused to discuss publicly those other conditions.

Rescue attempts historically fail

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three times in the past decade U.S. forces have tried to rescue Americans held captive abroad and each time the attempts ended without clear success. Twice, including this week, the raids were total failures.

Unlike the two previous missions — a 1970 attempt to free American POWs in North Vietnam and the 1975 rescue of the USS Mayaguez crew from the Cambodians — the aborted raid Thursday in Iran failed almost before it began.

Shortly after the U.S. force landed in the Iranian desert with aims of eventually rescuing the U.S. hostages, President Carter canceled the mission because of "equipment failures." Officials said eight Americans were killed when a helicopter and a C-130 transport plane collided on the ground during the withdrawal.

A similar mission on Nov. 21, 1970, in Vietnam came much closer to success, but also brought disappointment. Using helicopters and support from jetfighters, Brig. Gen. Leroy Manor led a secret strike force of Air Force and Army volunteers to the Sontay prison camp 23 miles west of Hanoi in North Vietnam.

But when they arrived they discovered the camp empty. The American POWs had been moved. During the surprise raid, one American was slightly wounded and one helicopter was shot down. Nearly five years later, another crisis involving American captives developed as the Cambodians seized the merchant ship Mayaguez and took its crew to Koh Tan island 60 miles off the Cambodian coast.

On May 12, 1975, an American military assault on the island ended with the rescue of the 39 crewmen. But the raid's success has been widely questioned since 41 American servicemen were killed — 23 of them in a helicopter crash in Thailand after mechanical failures — and 50 others were wounded.

Later investigations into the Koh Tan raid revealed that the Mayaguez crewmen were already in the process of being released when the raid began. The captives were no longer on the island during the U.S. attack, but on a boat nearby.

While American efforts at such rescues have been largely unsuccessful, Israel and West Germany gained international acclaim in recent years for pulling off successful rescue missions. On July 4, 1976, Israeli commandos flew 2,500 miles from their home base in Israel and during the night stormed the airport terminal near Entebbe, Uganda, to rescue 103 persons held hostage by Palestinian terrorists.

The hostages, mostly Israelis, had been taken during an airline hijacking. One Israeli soldier and three of the hostages were killed as were eight Palestinians and 20 Ugandan soldiers guarding the airport.

An airline hijacking also prompted the West German raid. A West German commando unit, formed after the 1976 terrorist attack at the Munich Olympics, stormed a Lufthansa jetliner, which was being held at the airport in Mogadishu, Somalia. The 86 hostages were freed and three of the hijackers were killed.

Defense Secretary Harold Brown, giving details of the raid in Iran, said he believed no other country could have attempted such an operation. "Tehran is not Entebbe," he said.

Since the Americans were taken hostage Nov. 4 at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran, however, American military as well as knowledgeable civilian sources have said repeatedly that an Entebbe-like raid would be virtually doomed to failure in Iran.

Last November, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the onetime U.S. commander in Vietnam and former chief of staff, said the sending in of a raiding party to rescue the hostages would be "a very difficult military operation."

One problem that has been pointed out is that the hostages are being held in the heart of Tehran, which lies more than 400 miles inland from any existing potential staging site.

The unsuccessful move Thursday apparently was an attempt to secretly establish such a staging force inside Iran for a later move against the embassy, political analysts outside the government said.

Correction Richard Moore was incorrectly identified in Friday's issue of The Midland Reporter-Telegram as a Democrat seeking the office of county attorney.

He is a Republican who is campaigning for the office being vacated by Les Acker. Moore, an assistant district attorney, is being opposed in his bid by Robert Rendall, an assistant county attorney.

The two are on the May 3 primary ballot.

Nothing mars Fiesta parade

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Security was a bit tighter, police officers were a little more wary and some spectators were nervous Friday at the Battle of Flowers Parade. Few forgot the deadly sniper attack on last year's parade.

More than 300,000 spectators lined the two-mile downtown parade route Friday for the biggest and most colorful event in San Antonio's 10-day Fiesta celebration. Pre-dawn rainstorms had cleansed the air, and it was a brilliant spring day. There was absolutely nothing to mar the parade festivities.

Police Lt. Robert Maldonado observed that the scene was just like it was supposed to have been last year — before heavily armed Ira Attebery began firing on Maldonado and thousands of others at the parade starting point.

Band wins sweepstakes

ODESSA — One of Midland's three junior high bands won sweepstakes in the Junior High School University Interscholastic League concert and sight reading band contest. The contest took place Thursday and Friday in Odessa.

San Jacinto Junior High band, under the direction of Randy Storie, received a Division I rating in concert and sight reading and was named sweepstakes band. They performed "Flags Unfurled," "Arietta for Winds," and "The Declaration Overture."

Goddard Junior High band performed "Imperial March," "Prologue and Pageant," and "Variation Overture." They received a Division II rating in concert and sight reading. The band is directed by Scott Lewis.

Coombes' dreamboat 39

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

George Coombes' dreamboat is a 39-year-old bird. It's a rumbling, spiffy aluminum craft that fits quite nicely in his flying family and has been aloft for a total of 4,100 hours.

"It's got big airplane performance...it's a first-line airplane," Coombes, a former U.S. Navy Hellicat pilot in World War II, said of his old bird — a radial-engine-powered Harvard Mark II.

Coombes, a colonel in the "rebel" Confederate Air Force, found the plane, manufactured early in 1941 by North American Aviation in Inglewood, Calif., and otherwise known by the U.S. Air Force as AT-6 and by the U.S. Navy as the SNJ advanced trainer.

Just last week, his brother Jim, a Boeing 737 United Airlines jet captain based in San Francisco, Calif., and his son Jack, flew the aircraft into Midland for George Coombes to pamper, fly around and call his own.

"It's a rugged airplane. There's no doubt about that," Jim Coombes said. "My wife (Dea) said this sounds like an airplane," he said of the propeller-driven-bird. Some die-hards don't exactly consider jets "real" airplanes.

George Coombes, operations manager for Union Oil Co. in Midland, first flew a similar plane, designated the SNJ by the U.S. Navy, in 1944 when he was learning to land on aircraft carriers during WW II.

Later, he graduated to the Grumman F6F Hellicat, powered by a 2,000-horsepower radial engine, and ended up in the Pacific Theater.

"I didn't have any of them (Japanese pilots) shoot at me," Coombes reflected. "The only ones that shot at me were on our side."

Though George does have another airplane, a 1947 Luscombe Silhouette, he wanted the Harvard for reasons only sentiment can explain.

"You're on a nostalgic kick," his brother allowed. And George affixes the "fault" for his buying the Harvard on his son Bill, a radio-control airplane fancier and a fellow CAF colonel.

"Actually, it was his fault," father said of son. "We got in the Confederate Air Force and..." fellowship with other aviators and air buffs got Coombes & Coombes into the mood for getting a warbird.

George's wife, Alice, who has some say-so in family matters, offered no flak when George became enamoured with the single-engine, two-place

Harvard. "Well, she (Alice) has been married 35 years to this type of thing," he reasoned. "So it's not totally unexpected. That would be a fair statement."

The ol' Harvard, painted Navy gray and graced with touches of orange and yellow from tail to spinner, will be on display this weekend with about 30 other CAF warbirds and about 15 home-built aerobatic airplanes. The display will be part of the Roy Schlemmer Memorial Air Show at Schlemmer Field in Odessa.

"If I don't bust it up getting it over there," the Harvard will be in the line-up, George jested.

The aircraft got the Harvard Mark II designation after the U.S. government sold the aircraft to the Royal Canadian Navy in 1941 as an instrument trainer. It was finally released into civilian service and came back to the United States late in the 1950s.

George is unabashedly proud of his rare bird.

"He (brother Jim) got it out here in one piece, and my biggest worry is to keep it in one piece," said George. "The guy who says he is not going to bust up an airplane had better not fly it, because it can happen."

Three-year-old Will Coombes of Midland is not trying to hide from anything, least of all airplanes, at Midland Regional Airport. He's an airplane buff, just like his father Bill, and granddaddy George. Will stands under the spinner of his granddaddy's proud Harvard Mark II — a World War II vintage aircraft. FHA rate cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time in more than three years, the maximum allowable interest rate on government-backed home mortgages has been lowered, the Carter administration announced Friday.

The maximum rate on mortgages for single-family homes insured by the Federal Housing Administration and guaranteed by the Veterans Administration will drop, effective Monday, from a record 14 percent to 13 percent, according to the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The decline in the rate for home mortgages was the first since October 1976. At that time, the maximum allowable rate fell from 8.5 percent to 8 percent.

"Assuming a $60,000 mortgage, an interest rate of 13 percent would enable as many as 1 million more families to qualify for an FHA or VA home loan," HUD Secretary Moon Landrieu said in a statement.

He said the action was taken "because of encouraging signs that the administration's efforts to cool down the economy are working" as shown in the recovery of bond prices and declining money market yields.

Texans go to polls next Saturday

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas voters say next Saturday who should be the Democratic and Republican nominees for president, with the startling news of the aborted hostage rescue fresh in their minds.

Democratic leaders hope the development will have little effect on the 2 million persons expected to vote.

REPUBLICANS SAY the effect in Texas should be "positive" attracting more Democrats to the Republican primary than expected.

Although the presidential preference polls are the main attraction, Texans also will be balloting on two hotly contested races for the Texas Railroad Commission, three seats on the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals, two seats on the Texas Supreme Court and a host of legislative and local campaigns.

By an analysis, President Jimmy Carter and Ronald Reagan are the expected winners in the Texas presidential primary, with Sen. Edward Kennedy and George Bush getting their share of the votes.

The GOP presidential primary, expected to attract about 500,000 voters, will dictate how Texas 80 delegates to the national Republican convention in Detroit will be divided between Reagan and Bush.

REAGAN SWEEP the 1976 election but Bush hopes to block that effort this year, maybe winning three or four congressional districts which would be 9 to 12 convention delegates.

Kennedy, who possibly could be helped by Carter's part in the unsuccessful hostage rescue attempt, hopes to make a good showing in the "beauty contest" poll on election day. Then the Kennedy campaign, which has a sizeable number of supporters within the party machinery, hopes to keep Carter from getting more than 60 percent of the 152 Texas delegates to the New York national convention when the state convention meets June 20-21 in San Antonio.

State Democratic Chairman Billy Goldberg estimates about 1.5 million voters, "maybe a few less," will appear at Democratic polls May 3. "In the long run I would guess the hostage rescue attempt will not affect our primary," Goldberg said.

"It probably will have a positive effect on our primary," said Chester Upham, Mineral Wells, chairman of the Texas Republican Party.

"I think it would help

Reagan and Bush equally by decreasing the Democratic support and increasing the Republican support."

REP. JOHN ANDERSON, R-Ill., will not be on the Texas ballot May 3 but he may be on the Nov. 4 general election ballot as an independent.

With no elections this year for Texas governor or U.S. senator, two races for the Texas Railroad Commission and six for places on the state's two highest courts are the most important votes that Texans will cast.

In the commission contests, Chairman John Poerner, 47, appointed to the $48,500-a-year job two years ago, seeks a full six-year term against Democratic challenger, Rep. Buddy Temple, 37, son of a prominent East Texas family with large timber holdings.

THE WINNER of the Democratic primary race faces the winner of a three-man GOP primary contest that includes former state Sen. Hank Grover, Houston. The other Republican candidates are John Henderson, Austin real estate broker, and Billy Kidd, Weatherford auto dealer.

Commissioner Jim Nugent faces Jim Hightower, Austin, former magazine editor, for two years of an unexpired term. The winner meets H.J. "Doc" Blanchard, Austin attorney, the only GOP candidate.

Efforts of three prominent attorneys and judges to succeed Associate Justice Zollie Steakley on the Texas Supreme Court may end with a runoff election in June.

The contestants are Judge Jim Wallace, 51, former state senator and now on the Houston Court of Civil Appeals; Judge John C. Phillips, 63, of the Austin Court of Civil Appeals and Wayne Scott, 42, law professor at St. Mary's University, San Antonio.

THE REPUBLICAN candidate for the post is Austin attorney Jim Brady, 59.

Stolen Loot

Sheriff Lobo (Claude Akins, right) is convinced he's clinched the Lawman-of-the-Year award when BJ McKay (Greg Evigan) and Bear (Sam the chimp) lead him to Lake Mead and the site of the stolen loot from a Las Vegas hotel casino in "Run for the Money" on NBC's "BJ and the Bear," Saturday, April 26.

BJ is Billie Joe McKay, a former POW who has returned to the United States and become an independent trucker, and Bear (named after Alabama football coach Bear Bryant) is a 4-year-old chimpanzee who saved BJ's life in Vietnam. The two are constant companions.

Production gain recorded in '80

WASHINGTON (AP) - Private business recorded a thin productivity gain during the first quarter of 1980, the first rise since late 1978, but only because of a large gain in farming, the Labor Department said Friday.

The productivity rate for all private business, a key factor affecting inflation, rose at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 0.6 percent during the first three months of the year, the department said.

However, productivity among non-farm businesses declined at an annual rate of 0.2 percent, and productivity in manufacturing dropped at a 1.9 percent yearly rate.

Separate figures for the farm sector are not made public because they change erratically from quarter to quarter, but Labor Department economist Lawrence Fulco attributed the rise in the overall productivity rate to a very large increase in agriculture.

Fulco said the latest figures suggested a continuation of the nation's sluggish productivity rate, which has remained essentially flat for more than two years.

The rate rose a mere 0.5 percent in 1978 and then declined 0.9 percent last year, marking only the second time since 1947 that productivity has fallen for a full year.

Productivity declined at a 0.3 percent annual rate during the fourth quarter of 1979.

The recent decline in productivity, which measures how many goods and services people and machines produce in an hour of paid working time, has been a major factor in the nation's high inflation rate.

Productivity increases are needed to help offset rising wages and other forms of worker compensation. Otherwise, unit labor costs soar, and that eventually results in higher consumer prices.

Government economists have been at a loss to explain the nation's eroding productivity, which increased by an average 3 percent a year between 1947 and 1967, but has grown by only 1.5 percent a year on the average since then.

But the government warns that unless the trend is reversed, less new wealth will be created in this country and Americans will face a diminished standard of living with continued high inflation.

Some business groups blame recent productivity declines on tax laws that discourage employers from investing capital in more efficient production equipment.

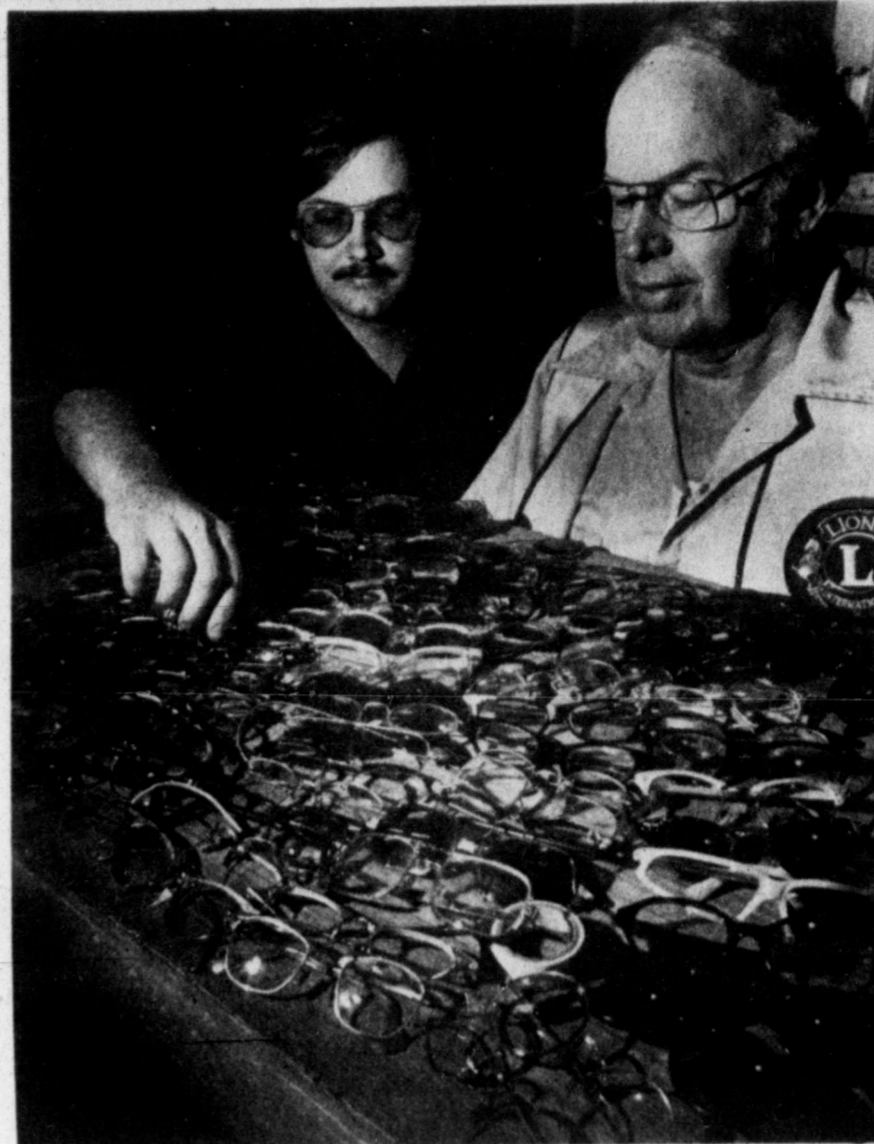

The AFL-CIO, however, says the declines may be only a statistical aberration resulting from faulty government measurements of productivity in service industries, which have been the fastest growing sector in the economy during the past decade.

The overall productivity rise during the first quarter, the first increase since a 0.3 percent gain in the fourth quarter of 1978, resulted from output increasing at a 1.1 percent annual rate while hours rose at a 0.5 percent rate.

Hourly compensation rose at a 10.7 percent rate, the highest advance in a year. But after inflation was taken into account, "real" hourly compensation declined by 5.3 percent.

Unit labor costs rose at a 10 percent annual rate in the first quarter, compared with a 7.8 percent rise in the fourth quarter.

In a separate report, the Labor Department said major collective bargaining settlements during the first quarter provided average first-year wage increases of 7.8 percent, up from the 7.4 percent average for all major contracts negotiated in 1979. However, the figures do not reflect cost-of-living wage increases and fringe benefit improvements workers also received under those contracts.

Fired students to set policy

WACO, Texas (AP) - Students at Baylor University have elected two former newspaper editors, fired in the flap over Playboy magazine, to the Board of Publications.

Jeff Barton and Cindy Slovak received more votes from their peers than any other candidate - 1,525 and 1,449, respectively.

They were two of six students elected to the board, which sets policy for the newspaper, the Lariat, and other university publications. Five faculty members also serve on the board.

The pair and the third Lariat editor, Barry Kolar, were fired last month after Baylor President Abner McCall objected to editorials concerning Playboy.

The magazine's plan to photograph coeds in the buff as part of its Southwest Conference edition caused a furor in Waco, and McCall said any student who posed would be expelled.

Texas labor groups endorse Kennedy

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Leaders of more than 20 Texas labor organizations endorsed Sen. Edward Kennedy's candidacy Friday, with one stating President Carter had asked labor to sacrifice too much to curb inflation.

Sam Dawson of Houston, legislative liaison for the steelworkers, said Carter's economic policies are "devastating and demoralizing to the spirit of the American worker."

"We have been asked too much by this administration to cure the ills of inflation when it was not created by us," Dawson told a Capitol news conference.

Dawson contrasted an 8 percent loss in workers' buying power last year with a recent report Exxon had more than doubled its profits in the first three months of 1980.

"I support the president's efforts with the Middle East problems," said Dawson, but by the end of the year he predicted Americans' "eyes will be off the flag and on their pocketbooks."

Carter's popularity, he said, "will go down as fast as the price of gasoline has gone up."

The labor leaders endorsing Kennedy said their unions had more than 250,000 Texas members. They said, however, they were speaking for themselves.

Dawson noted the Texas AFL-CIO would not endorse a presidential candidate until after both national conventions.

He acknowledged that if Carter should win the Democratic nomination most of the unions would probably support him.

Wage-price controls, he said, "would be better than the voluntary guidelines we have right now." He said Carter's "voluntary" wage-price guidelines "have been voluntary to business - to us they've been mandatory."

Pancho Medrano of Dallas, representing auto workers, said Kennedy is the only candidate who would bring out the black and Mexican-American vote. "If Kennedy is not running in 1980, I'm sure we will lose this election," said Medrano.

Kennedy, said Dawson, "can put the country on the road to full employment."

Dawson said it would be a "long, hot summer," and he expects some Carter delegates to change their minds before the Democratic convention in August.

Those endorsing Kennedy included state or local leaders of electrical radio and machine workers, machinists, auto workers, state-county-municipal employees, longshoremen, sheet metal workers, building trades unions, boiler makers, glass bottle blowers, paperworkers, teachers, firefighters, government employees, chemical workers, law enforcement officers, telephone workers, railway and airline clerks, police, rubberworkers, meatcutters, laborers, plumbers and steam fitters, musicians, and typographical workers.

Mayor sets curfew

WASHINGTON, Ind. (AP) - City officials imposed a nightly curfew Friday, warning that violators would be jailed, in an effort to avert violence stemming from a labor dispute.

Mayor Leo Sullivan said the curfew would remain in effect from 11 p.m. until 5 a.m. "until further order of the Common Council."

Sullivan, who escaped injury Thursday when a firebomb was hurled through his bedroom window, said violators would be arrested and given the option of posting $500 bail or remaining in jail.

He said the curfew would be enforced by city, county and state police, and that violations would be punishable by fines up to $1,000 and six months in jail.

The mayor said those traveling to and from work, medical or personal emergencies, or to and from educational or governmental functions would be exempt.

Sullivan first proposed the curfew Thursday, after the community of 11,500 went through its most violent night to date in the 6-month-old strike against Evans Railcar Co.

Three security guards at the strikebound plant were injured when a bomb exploded outside Evans' main office. One was hospitalized with a severe cut on the leg, flash burns and a fractured elbow. The others were treated and released.

Later that night, a half-gallon jug of gasoline crashed through Sullivan's bedroom window and ignited a fire that the mayor extinguished with his bare feet.

The 350-member striking union, Local 39 of the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen, said it was not involved in either of the bombings.

Sullivan said the curfew would be ratified by the Washington Common Council at its weekly meeting Monday. "And if it's not sufficient the way it is, we'll amend it and make it stricter."

11 Lee students gain ICT Nationals

Eleven Lee High School students have qualified for the National ICT competition in Atlanta June 24-28. The students won the right to go to the contest by receiving first place ratings at the 32nd Annual Skill Olympics held in Fort Worth April 17-19.

In the leadership contest, Mark Jungman, Lisa Rikli, Chuck Sonneburg, Doug Creecy, Karen Fidler, Lorraine Barnhill, Francie Myers and Jo Beth Ellzondo won first place in the club business procedure competition.

Ed Jezisek and Lisa Rikli took first place honors in the skill speed contest. Jezisek also received a $300 scholarship from the Texas Association of Builders and was awarded the American VICA Degree and third place in the Harry W. Sears award. Doug Creecy also took first place honors in the selected job division with his work in sheet metal.

Top businessmen due Liberia probe

MONROVIA, Liberia (AP) — Liberia's new military regime threatened on Friday to place the directors and managers of all state-owned corporations, including foreign citizens, under house arrest while investigating whether they were involved in corruption under the former government.

About 20 American, British, French and other foreigners might be affected, but American and British diplomatic sources said they doubted that Liberia's leaders would carry out the threat.

Such vital services as the country's only oil refinery, the government Produce Marketing Board, the 50 percent government-owned Cubitt Construction Co., the Liberian Electricity Corp., the housing authority, the Agricultural Development Bank and Monrovia's major hotel could be idled by such action.

Numerous foreigners working for the government corporations were arrested in the chaotic early days of the military regime and accused of corruption, but all were released later with apologies.

Justice Minister Chea Cheapoo also announced at a news conference that the ruling People's Redemption Council, headed by Master Sgt. Samuel K. Doe, had suspended the country's 133-year-old constitution and proclaimed martial law.

Martial law had been in effect since Doe and 17 enlisted men stormed Monrovia's executive mansion, killed President William R. Tolbert and took control of this West African nation April 12.

In announcing that the directors and managers of state-owned corporations would be placed under arrest until their accounts had been verified, Cheapoo did not identify the persons concerned and said he did not know how many they were. The new regime has alleged "rampant corruption" by Tolbert and most of his ministers.

Thirteen former ministers and high officials of the Tolbert government were executed Tuesday for alleged high treason, corruption and violation of human rights. Cheapoo said 80 other officials of the ousted government were still held for trial by a military court on similar charges.

Cheapoo was asked whether there would be any more public executions. "To answer that question would be to interfere with due process of law," Cheapoo replied.

Asked why the executed persons had not been allowed defense counsel or witnesses and had not been informed of the charges against them, Cheapoo said: "If they had asked for any of these things, they would have had them."

The five-man military court trying those accused of treason suspended its hearings, reportedly in protest against the Redemption Council's decision to execute 13 men of whom only four had been sentenced to death and two had been acquitted of all charges.

Cheapoo denied these reports at his news conference but when asked to produce death sentences signed by the judges, he said they were a military secret.

Refugee flotilla faces rough sailing

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — The makeshift flotilla of small boats ferrying refugees from Cuba to the United States faced stormy weather Friday, but refugees from the communist country continued to stream across the Florida Strait.

An estimated 1,279 refugees had arrived since Sunday, including about 275 jammed onto a shipper that arrived in Key West Friday morning.

The official Communist newspaper Granma reported 349 boats waiting off the Cuban port of Mariel, opened up by the government of Fidel Castro for refugee departures.

Francisco Veliz, Key West port director, said "close to 2,000 boats" had been launched here since Wednesday morning, when exiles in the United States started a chaotic rush to bring fathers, brothers, cousins and friends across the 90-mile strait. Many boats were smaller than 30 feet long.

The National Hurricane Center in Miami forecast winds of up to 20 knots on Saturday with thunderstorms Sunday and swells up to six feet. "For a small boat, it's either going to stop them or pose a definite problem," said forecaster Bob Case.

The Coast Guard in Key West said there were numerous reports of boats breaking down in the first five days of the unorganized operation. Many were taken in tow by others.

In Miami, exile leader Napoleon Vilaboa said he'd been told by the Cuban government that no restrictions would be placed on numbers or destinations of refugees. He said as many as 250,000 might leave the island.

In Key West the refugees, who appeared to average about 20 years of age, munched ham sandwiches and milled about an old USO center in Key West. Donated clothes, food and supplies filled a back room.

Youngsters scrambled for pieces of chewing gum.

"There is no chewing gum in Cuba," explained Nelba Ponticella, a volunteer aide from Miami.

Fulgencio Milanés, 59, said he had been among the 10,000 Cubans who jammed the Peruvian embassy in Havana.

"Everybody is not going to be allowed to leave from the embassy," he said. "They have taken some to prison already. I know of at least two they took to prison this week. They didn't say why. When we leave the embassy the people are there and they throw rocks at us and they beat us."

An airlift of Cubans who sought refuge at the embassy three weeks ago was suspended last Friday after Castro insisted that refugees flown to Costa Rica not be allowed to emigrate to other countries.

In a faint, static-filled broadcast late Thursday, one boat captain anchored at Mariel said there were delays in picking up refugees.

"Food is running short on some of the boats," the captain radioed. "They expected to load with refugees in five or six hours but it's taking forever. It's so slow, we're wondering if Castro is changing his mind."

"There are troops on shore, Cubans and armed Russian soldiers," the captain said. "At night we're watched. They use searchlights from shore."

But the guards were friendly, he said. "Cuban government boats marked 'Turismo' come by from time to time, selling fruit, juices, rum, cigars ... even selling 'CUBA' T-shirts," the broadcast said.

At the port director's office, Veliz called the scene in Key West "chaos."

"It reminds me of just before a hurricane," he said. "People are cleaning out the grocery stores."

He said he had seen nothing similar since 1965, when Castro made a similar offer and an estimated 5,000 to 6,000 refugees left. That prompted President Lyndon Johnson to initiate the Freedom Flights that brought 250,000 Cubans to the United States.

Some boat operators were reported charging $1,000 a passenger to ferry refugees.

The Immigration and Naturalization Service reminded the captains they could be fined — also $1,000 per refugee.

"I'm not worried," said boat skipper Tony Ravello. "I've got my family here now. I don't think this country will arrest me for rescuing my family."

Las Vegas hotel strike averted

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A walkout that could have crippled the resort hotel industry here was averted Friday when representatives of major hotels tentatively agreed on a new contract with six labor unions.

Details of the pact were not released pending its presentation to some 30,000 unionized hotel workers. Leaders of the largest and most powerful of the unions, the 26,000-member Culinary Local 226, had threatened a noon walkout Friday unless an agreement was reached.

Fred Lewis, a spokesman for the Nevada Resort Association, which represents most major hotels in Southern Nevada, said the agreement was reached about 5:30 a.m.

The all-night negotiations were the first since last week, when both sides met for four days with federal mediators in San Francisco.

Contract talks began last month between the association and the unions. In addition to the Culinary Union, the Teamsters, Bartenders, Operating Engineers, Painters and Carpenters unions were involved.

A stumbling block in the talks reportedly was a "no strike" clause agreed to by negotiators but rejected by union members. The issue reportedly was resolved by inclusion of the current clause which prohibits a union from honoring another's picket line for 10 days.

Union members have worked without a contract since the old agreement expired April 1 and — until the culinary strike deadline set last Tuesday — contract talks had continued with the "clock" stopped one minute from a previously set deadline.

Government has exclusive nuclear energy powers

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A federal judge has thrown out all of California's laws regulating nuclear power plants, ruling the federal government has exclusive power over nuclear energy.

U.S. District Judge Manuel Real said the state's three 1976 nuclear laws, including one blocking new plants until a waste disposal method exists, and other laws regulating plant construction are unconstitutional.

California's laws, he ruled, "are either in conflict with or substantially impede the regulation of nuclear energy reserved to the federal government by the Atomic Energy Act." "I believe the people of California will be upheld on appeal," said Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., who opposes nuclear power. "The state has the right... to set forth reasonable rules to protect the health and safety of its residents."

The Los Angeles judge, sitting here as a visiting judge, said in a ruling issued late Wednesday that the federal Nuclear Regulatory Commission has exclusive power over nuclear plants. He said the state Energy Commission cannot "regulate or monitor the construction or operation of any nuclear power plant."

Energy Commission member Gene Varanini said the decision directly affects several states that have passed laws regulating nuclear power and "indirectly all the states."

He said he expected other states to join California in the appeal of the decision, which the commission would like to combine with the pending appeal of a similar case in the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeal in San Francisco.

The challenge was filed in October 1978 by the Pacific Gas & Electric Co. and Southern California Edison Co., both of which were planning nuclear plants.

The other suit was filed the same day by Pacific Legal Foundation, a pro-business public interest law firm. U.S. District Judge William Enright of San Diego ruled in March 1979 that one of the 1976 laws is unconstitutional.

The three nuclear laws were passed by the Legislature in 1976 as its alternative to a ballot initiative, later defeated, that would have virtually banned nuclear power plant construction in California.

The law declared unconstitutional by both judges states that new power plants cannot be built in the state until the federal government has approved a way to dispose of nuclear wastes. The Energy Commission ruled in early 1978 that no such method exists.

The other two laws relate to the reprocessing of spent nuclear fuel and underground nuclear plants. Enright said they were moot because they do not apply to reactors proposed for California; Real said they are unconstitutional.

In addition, Real struck down all parts of the 1974 Warren-Alquist Act relating to nuclear power.

FDA refuses to allow heart attack drug sale

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration on Friday refused to allow the sale of a drug, which had been used for treating gout, as medication to prolong the lives of heart attack victims.

The agency said there were serious flaws in a study which claimed that the drug Anturane was useful in preventing a type of fatality known as "sudden death" following a heart attack. Sudden death is a very rapid death believed to result from a disruption of the electrical signals controlling the heart. The disruption causes the heart to stop beating and pumping blood.

The study claimed a 74 percent reduction in the rate of sudden cardiac deaths in the crucial period just after a heart attack when Anturane had been used. But the FDA's analysis of the data showed that in many cases the causes of death were either misclassified or vaguely defined.

The FDA found that the American-Canadian study "provides suggestive evidence that sulfinpyrazone (the generic name for Anturane) may be effective in reducing the rate of death in patients who have had heart attacks, but this study does not provide us with the quality of scientific evidence the law requires to approve the drug for this use," said Dr. J. Richard Crout, director of FDA's Bureau of Drugs.

Ciba-Geigy Corp. of Summit, N.J., has sold Anturane as a prescription medication for gout since 1959.

Company spokesman Donald J. Storch said a special committee of doctors and scientists would be convened within a few days to consider the FDA's contentions. But he added: "The results of the trial have undergone close scrutiny, peer review and ultimate acceptance among a wide audience in the medical and scientific community."

"Ciba-Geigy is confident that in cooperation with the FDA, the differences will be resolved and Anturane will be found useful in preventing sudden death following a heart attack."

The FDA said it is willing to cooperate with the company to study the drug further.

Cardiovascular disease is a leading cause of death in the United States, accounting for 54 percent of the total. American Heart Association figures show that there are about one million heart attacks a year. Some 400,000 persons survive hospitalization for treatment of a heart attack but 50,000 die within a year.

The use of Anturane in the crucial six months after a first heart attack had been expected to save between 15,000 and 18,000 lives a year, Storch said.

The Anturane Reinfarction Trial, the study on which the projections were based, involved 59 investigators and 1,500 patients at 26 medical centers in the United States and Canada. The study results were published in the Jan. 31 edition of the New England Journal of Medicine.

Two Navy jets collide, crash near Garland

GARLAND, Texas (AP) — Two Marine F-4 Phantom jet fighters collided in flight Friday causing one to crash in flames near this eastside Dallas suburb, a Navy spokesman said.

Three planes had left the Dallas Naval Air Station after refueling to continue their flight from El Toro, Calif. to Panama City, Fla.

After the accident, the two other planes in the group returned to the Dallas base, the spokesman said.

The pilot and radio-man on board the crippled jet ejected and parachuted to safety. They were taken to Garland Memorial Hospital to await helicopter transportation to the hospital at Carswell Air Force Base in Fort Worth.

Their injuries were not believed to be serious.

Navy spokesman said. Jerry King of Dallas said he saw the aircraft plunge in flames and three parachutes drifting toward earth. Dallas County Sheriff's deputies speculated one of the parachutes could have been one used to slow the jet.

"The plane was going straight down, nose down, and was spinning," said King. "I did not see it crash, but in just a minute I saw a great big puff of black smoke."

Mount St. Helens bulging due to first days of eruption

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — When the Mount St. Helens volcano blew its top on March 27, it also got bent out of shape, scientists say. A large area north of the crater has raised or bulged out 250 feet, the U.S. Geological Survey reported Thursday. The bulging apparently occurred during the first days of the eruption, said Rocky Crandell, a USGS volcanic hazards coordinator. Although scientists were aware of the bulging, the amount of the elevation was not reported until after aerial photos were analyzed Wednesday, he said. "Scientists familiar with the mountain realized it didn't look as it had before to them," said Don Mullineaux, a USGS geologist in Denver. Mullineaux led the government's observation of the mountain immediately after the eruption and is scheduled to return to Vancouver next week. "It was a matter of getting aerial photos and comparing before and after," he said. The exact cause of the bulge is not known, Mullineaux said, but it obviously has increased the possibility of an avalanche on the north side of the mountain. The bulging has not altered the altitude of the mountain — 9,877 feet.

Picture Pretty

Pretty as a picture, isn't she? She looks "downright" angelic. Yet, five minutes from now, she may be a little bundle of fury!

Children change faster than the wind. They haven't learned to hide their feelings. But while grown-ups may present a better camouflage to the world, there are few of us without inner conflicts. And these conflicts can be serious.

It would be a lonely world if we had to keep all our problems to ourselves.

We don't. God never intended that we should have to solve all our difficulties single-handed. Remember, He established His church on earth for us. In that Church we will find understanding fellowship, and the faith to work out our own destinies.

Take your problems to Church. Pray that you will find a solution to them. Talk them over with your minister. And what seems a maze today may become a straight road tomorrow.

Methodists act on homosexuality

INDIANAPOLIS — An eight-year-old statement of the United Methodist Church that "we do not condone the practice of homosexuality and consider this practice incompatible with the Christian teaching" was overwhelmingly reaffirmed this week by delegates to the denomination's General Conference.

"The action taken by the General Conference is essentially the same as my own position prior to the Conference," said Dr. Charles Lutrick, pastor of the First United Methodist Church of Midland.

"I am supportive of this action which denies ordination to self-proclaimed homosexuals. My own congregation is aware that I have supported these positions prior to the General Conference."

An amendment which would have deleted the reference from the church's Social Principles was defeated 729 to 225 with eight abstentions. A similar attempt to have the phrase stricken during the 1976 General Conference also was soundly defeated.

The statement on homosexuality says:

"Homosexual persons, no less than heterosexual persons, are individuals of sacred worth, who need the ministry and guidance of the church in their struggles for human fulfillment, as well as the spiritual and emotional care of a fellowship which enables reconciling relationships with God, with others, and with self. Further, we insist that all persons are entitled to have their human and civil rights ensured, though we do not condone the practice of homosexuality and consider this practice incompatible with Christian teaching."

Another reference to homosexuality which says, "We do not recognize a relationship between two persons of the same sex as constituting marriage," was removed from the section in favor of a positive affirmation of the "sanctity of the marriage covenant which is expressed in love, mutual support, personal commitment and shared fidelity between a man and woman."

An addition to another section calls divorce "regrettable," while reaffirming the church's long-standing position recognizing divorce and remarriage.

Another slight revision was made in a section on abortion which adds "only," "thoughtful and prayerful," "and other appropriate" to a statement which now says: "Therefore, a decision concerning abortion should be made only after thoughtful and prayerful consideration by the parties involved, with medical, pastoral and other appropriate counsel."

Two proposed amendments to the section on homosexuality were soundly defeated. One would have substituted "abuse" of the "practice" of homosexuality and another was a broader substitute: "...though according to traditional teaching we do not condone the practice of homosexuality."

The Rev. Arthur Kelius of Schenectady, N.Y., supported the deletion of the language critical of homosexual practice, saying the church must "regain the prophetic edge." Responding to several speakers who called attention to the large number of petitions to retain the language, he said, "...if we went by majority vote, we'd probably still have slaves in the U.S. and be in the Vietnam War."

A minority report from the Legislative Committee on Church and Society asked that "and only between" be added to the newly revised statement affirming marriage between a man and a woman.

The Rev. David Seamanda, pastor of the First United Methodist Church of Wilmore, Ky., and an active Good News caucus leader, presented the report for the minority.

Dr. Seamanda said some ministers in the church are illegally participating in services which acknowledge "mutual loving covenantal relationships between persons of the same sex in the marriage context."

The Rev. James M. Lawson, a Los Angeles pastor, expressed "outrage" at the amount of attention given homosexuality at the conference "as if it were the only critical issue."

Bellview Baptist presents Tumlin

Bellview Baptist Church will present Gary Tumlin during Sunday worship services.

Tumlin is a 3-foot 1-inch music evangelist, who has been involved in evangelism since 1975.

He is 26 years old and has been active in Baptist Student Unions. He has been a guest soloist for evangelist Walter Ayers and was also part of a revival team at the Wallingford Baptist Church in Wallingford, England. He is also a frequent speaker in schools, colleges, conventions and service clubs.

Tumlin has recorded an album, "Give Them All to Jesus." He will sing selections from this record during morning and evening Sunday services.

Bellview Baptist Church is located at 1710 N. Big Spring St. The pastor is G.A. Magee.

Methodists send messages to Khomeini and hostages

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — The United Methodist General Conference sent a message earlier this week to Iran's Ayatollah Khomeini assuring that "we hear the agonies of your people; we hear their cries for freedom," and calling for a start toward reconciliation.

Adopted almost unanimously, the message followed one authorized April 19 to President Carter declaring the conference's concern for the American hostages and urging "restraint, peace and reconciliation." The delegates also directed the church's bishops to send a "message of love and concern" to the hostages' families.

In this second response to last week's report by Bishop Dale White of New Jersey concerning his visit last winter to Iran, the nearly 1,000 delegates at the conference accepted this message to the Ayatollah, President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr and the people of Iran:

"In the name of God the merciful, the compassionate. In the name of Jesus Christ our loving and forgiving Lord. We, the General Conference, religious leaders who care about the poor and oppressed in the United States and the world, hear the agonies of your people; we hear their cries for freedom from their domination, from cultural imperialism, from economic exploitation. We long for that time when our people may dwell together in peace. In the words of Moses, the liberator, let us say to each other, 'Let my people go.' And let us begin to walk together down the long, hard road toward reconciliation."

The Rev. Charles Lutrick, pastor of First United Methodist Church of Midland, who is attending the conference, had this comment on the Iran statement: "I can personally affirm the actions taken by the General Conference in sending this message to Khomeini, President Bani-Sadr, and the people of Iran. I stand behind this action of the United Methodist Church to call for our own spiritual leaders to develop a spirit of understanding and communication between our nations. I am also highly affirmative concerning the request for our Council on Bishops to send a letter of concern to the families of the hostages."

"I appreciate the United Methodist Church is the first major denomination to take a stand affirming a spirit of peace and reconciliation. My hope is that other religious bodies will follow," Lutrick added.

Two proposals were voted down which would have expressed regret for "complicity of the American people for crimes and injustices against the Iranian people" by the Shah, and would have supported Iranian rights for self-determination.

RELIGION IN BRIEF

Laura McCoy to serve as missionary

Laura McCoy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George McCoy of 1214 E. Cowden Ave., will serve as a Texas Baptist student missionary this summer.

Ms. McCoy, a student at Midland College, will work at the Denton State School.

The Baptist General Convention of Texas Student Division commissioned Ms. McCoy and 109 other students as short-term missionaries.

Young people at Baptist Student Unions on 110 Texas college and university campuses will support the summer missionaries with fund-raising projects this spring.

Missionary to speak at rally

Barbara Liddle, Assemblies of God missionary to Indonesia, will be guest speaker for a missions rally 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at Christian Life Center, Kansas Avenue and Andrews Highway, according to the Rev. Wayne Snyder, pastor.

In a recent four-year assignment in Indonesia, Miss Liddle worked in Malang, a major city on the island of Java. Java is about the size of Tennessee and is one of the most densely populated areas of the world.

Her work in Indonesia centered around the Assemblies of God press, Golden Grain Publishers. One of her accomplishments this term was the establishing of a bi-monthly magazine for the denomination's churches through Indonesia.

In addition to writing and editing, Miss Liddle participates in writers' seminars, speaks at youth camps and women's retreats, ministers to local congregations and teaches at the Assemblies of God Bible school in Malang.

Before going to Indonesia, Miss Liddle served three years as a writer-editor for "Revivaltime," the inter-

Trinity Baptist to hold revival

Trinity Baptist Church, 3308 W. Cuthbert Ave., will hold a revival Sunday through May 2 featuring the Rev. Ron Lee of Houston, an evangelistic speaker.

Services begin at 9:45 a.m. Sunday for Sunday School with church services at 10:50 a.m.

Week night services begin at 7:30 p.m.

Special music will highlight the services.

'Washington for Jesus' formed

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A shared sense that the United States has gone off course spiritually and is consequently facing serious crisis provided the common ground on which the leaders of the "Washington for Jesus" effort came together, says a release by the "Washington for Jesus" campaign.

"Washington for Jesus" is the name being given to the drive to call together a million Christians in Washington, D.C. Tuesday for a day of repentance and prayer in behalf of the nation.

Plans for the program emphasize the theme of repentance and turning to God in the spirit of II Chronicles 7:14, and are being designed to provide "a common ground on which all Christians can stand together and seek God in humility and repentance," according to John Gimenez, a Virginia pastor who helped form "Washington for Jesus."

Episcopal Women hold April General Meeting

The Episcopal Church Women of the Church of the Holy Trinity will hold their April General Meeting and Mexican Fiesta Lunch at 11 a.m. Tuesday.

The special guest speaker will be Marta Guerrero, a lay missionary from the Diocese of Northern Mexico. She works part time in Hispanic ministry at the Church of Redeemer at Eagle Pass and in house churches in Piedras Negras. She spent many years working at San Matthias Church in Juarez, where she was head of the day school. Ms. Guerrero will speak about her work in Hispanic ministry along

He works miracles: Let's kill Him

Then the chief priests and Pharisees convened a council to discuss the situation. "What are we going to do?" they asked each other. "for this man certainly does miracles."

If we let him alone the whole nation will follow him—and then the Roman army will come and kill us and take over the Jewish government."

And one of them, Caiaphas, who was High Priest that year, said, "You stupid idiots— Let this one man die for the people—why should the whole nation perish?"

This prophecy that Jesus should die for the entire nation came from Caiaphas in his position as High Priest—he didn't think of it by himself, but was inspired to say it.

It was a prediction that Jesus' death would not be for Israel only, but for all the children of God scattered around the world.

So from that time on the Jewish leaders began plotting Jesus' death.

Jesus now stopped His public ministry and left Jerusalem; he went to the edge of the desert, to the village of Ephraim, and stayed there with His disciples.

The Passover, a Jewish holy day, was near, and many country people arrived in Jerusalem several days early so that they could go through the cleansing ceremony before the Passover began.

They wanted to see Jesus, and as they gossiped in the Temple, they asked each other, "What do you think? Will He come for the Passover?"

Meanwhile the chief priests and Pharisees had publicly announced that anyone seeing Jesus must report Him immediately so that they could arrest Him.

Dr. Miller to speak

Dr. Charles Miller, missionary to Zimbabwe for the United Methodist Church, will speak in the Glass Memorial Chapel of the First United Methodist Church, Main Street and Illinois Avenue, at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Miller will interpret the state of the church in Zimbabwe.

Representatives from local churches of the Big Spring District of the United Methodist Church will be present, and everyone is invited to attend.

Miller is responsible for conference stewardship and is director of publicity and promotion for the Methodist Annual Conference in Zimbabwe. He has served in many capacities in Zimbabwe, and has most recently worked closely with Bishop Abel Muzorewa, for several months, served as head of the coalition government in Rhodesia's shift to Black-majority control.

Mrs. Miller is a women's work advisor and assistant for publicity and promotion.

There are no George Gervins among Dallas Cowboys

But America's Team can entertain on the court, too

TERRY WILLIAMSON

In the dawning age of creation when it was decided that America's Team would don the Silver and Blue in a Dallas satellite called Irving, there must have been sincere hopes that those future "Mansters" would never stoop so low as to try and play basketball.

The bodies for America's Team were designed to dish out punishment on their fellow men. The "soft touch" was never meant for this crew. The "layup" was supposed to be the whole week following a game. And a "rebound" was supposed to be a win after a loss.

BUT AT Chaparral Center Friday night, the Dallas Cowboys...er Hoopsters...found a way to get 2,000 Midlanders to watch seven football players play against some former greats, near greats and some never so greats. The would be greats even won, 81-63, which is a rather clear way to say that there are no George Gervins among America's team.

And it's not hard to figure out why the Cowboys should stick to football instead of basketball. Just take a look at the team captain of the Hoopsters. It was Jay Saldi, who is the special teams captain for the football edition of the Cowboys.

Do you know what it takes to be a special teams captain? Saldi starts each day by waking up on the wrong side of the bed, and he doesn't go to the office until he has banged his head up against the wall a couple of times to clear out any nice thoughts that might have crept in overnight.

ON THE basketball court, he tries to carry out the only role he knows. He beats up on people and never really gets the ball in the hoop.

And Saldi called on the likes of linebacker Bruce Huther, mammoth center Jim Cooper and running back Larry Brinson to be on his team. Huther couldn't chew gum and dribble twice. He thought you were supposed to run over people. Cooper is big enough to sit on people. Brinson has legs that look like tree trunks. And none of them can shoot. The backboard must have thought they had already opened up an MX missile site in West Texas. They thought you were supposed to shoot through the backboard.

And then there was wide receiver Butch Johnson, who scored 16 points and committed 11 fouls. Poor Butch just thought he was supposed to get open on every play and it didn't matter who he slapped in the process.

Cornerbacks Aaron Kyle and Bennie Barnes came along for the ride. They didn't play much. After all, they looked too much like basketball players and Saldi wanted Murderer's Row on the court. After all, they have an image to uphold.

BARNES TRIED to give a play-by-play, only to prove that one of the major networks will not be beating down his door when his playing days are over.

While the Cowboys were trying to send missiles through the backboard without dribbling, the Midland squad, made up of local ringers, took things in stride. Delnor Poss, Midland College athletic director, poured in 20 points just to show Archie Meyers, former national junior college scoring champion, that he could do it. Meyers still has his touch, the "soft" kind that the Cowboys had never heard of.

Bernard Lankford thought it was a baseball game and thought he could get away with saying a few words to Saldi. They allow arguments in baseball, but Saldi had gotten up on the wrong side of the bed again as usual.

GREG WRIGHT, a former Midland Lee junior varsity basketball coach, spent some time on the floor. C.E. Boyd got a moment of glory on a snowbird shot. Nate Poss, a Big Spring sports writer who doesn't have to work on Friday nights like the rest of us showed why he gave up sports for a typewriter.

If Tom Landry could have seen this display, the computer inside his head would have tilted. He would have smiled right there in front of the world — to keep from crying.

However, with all the woes that the Cowboys have suffered through during the off-season — the retirement of Roger Staubach and Cliff Harris, the release of Rayfield Wright, the troubles of Mike Hegman and learning of a season opener against the Washington Redskins — one can see why the Cowboys are not suited for basketball. Their minds are elsewhere.

Saldi said, "With the troubles we've had since the end of last season, I think we will have to take three steps back this summer and regroup. But we'll come out charging."

Oh yea, "charging" is another Saldi football term that has no place on a basketball court. And we might add, neither does a football player.

Young, old star at Drake

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Tall, muscular James Mallard of Alabama sped to a meet record in the 200-meter dash and ageless Al Oerter won the invitational discus Friday at the 71st Drake Relays.

Mallard, a late entry in the race, won the 200 in 20.5 seconds and beat defending champion and former record holder LaMonte King. King, who captured last year's race in a record 20.54, was second in 20.87 and former Oklahoma sprinter William Snoddy took third in 20.94.

The 6-foot-2 Mallard, defending Southeast Conference champion, grabbed the lead early and held it for the entire race.

"I knew there were some great guys in the race, so I had to stay in the lead," Mallard said. "I knew if I was five yards ahead at the final turn, I could maintain my form in the straightaway."

Mallard's record in the 200 was one of five major marks posted before a crowd of 15,135 that watched in near ideal weather conditions. Temperatures were in the mid 60s and skies were sunny for most of the day.

Although Oerter did not set a record, the four-time Olympic gold medalist was clearly a favorite of the crowd. He won the discus with a throw of 200 feet, 2 inches, beating five much younger competitors.

Carlos Scott of Texas-El Paso was second with 193-10 and Scott Lofquist of Arkansas, the university-college winner, was third at 184-7.

Michael Carter, the highly touted freshman from Southern Methodist, threw only 143-7 and finished fifth. Carter's specialty is the shot put, however, and he'll try for the title in that event Saturday. He won the shot earlier at the Texas and Kansas Relays.

"I knew it was exhibition and that we did not have to throw that far," said 43-year-old Oerter, who had a throw of 221-4 earlier this year.

He said throwing conditions Friday were "terrible" because the ring was rough and it was too windy.

Defending champion Arkansas set a record in the 6,400-meter relay, and Prairie View's women athletes, who dominated the women's events a year ago, established three new marks.

The Prairie View men also made their presence felt, qualifying for Saturday's finals in three relay races. The Panthers were deprived of a record in the college 3,200-meter relay by a disqualification involving anchorman Evans White, the NCAA 800-meter champion.

Arkansas set a record of 16:14.0 in the 6,400 relay, even though its best miler, David Taylor, did not run. Taylor stayed out of the race in order to be at full strength for Saturday's 1,500 meters.

The Razorbacks were helped by the return of Mark Muggleton, who missed his team's victory in the Kansas Relays last week because of a blood disorder.

Dr. J shines as 76ers win

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Julius Erving scored 12 of his 30 points in the third quarter as the Philadelphia 76ers built a 16-point lead and then held on to beat the Boston Celtics 102-90 Friday night and take a 3-1 lead in their National Basketball Association playoff series.

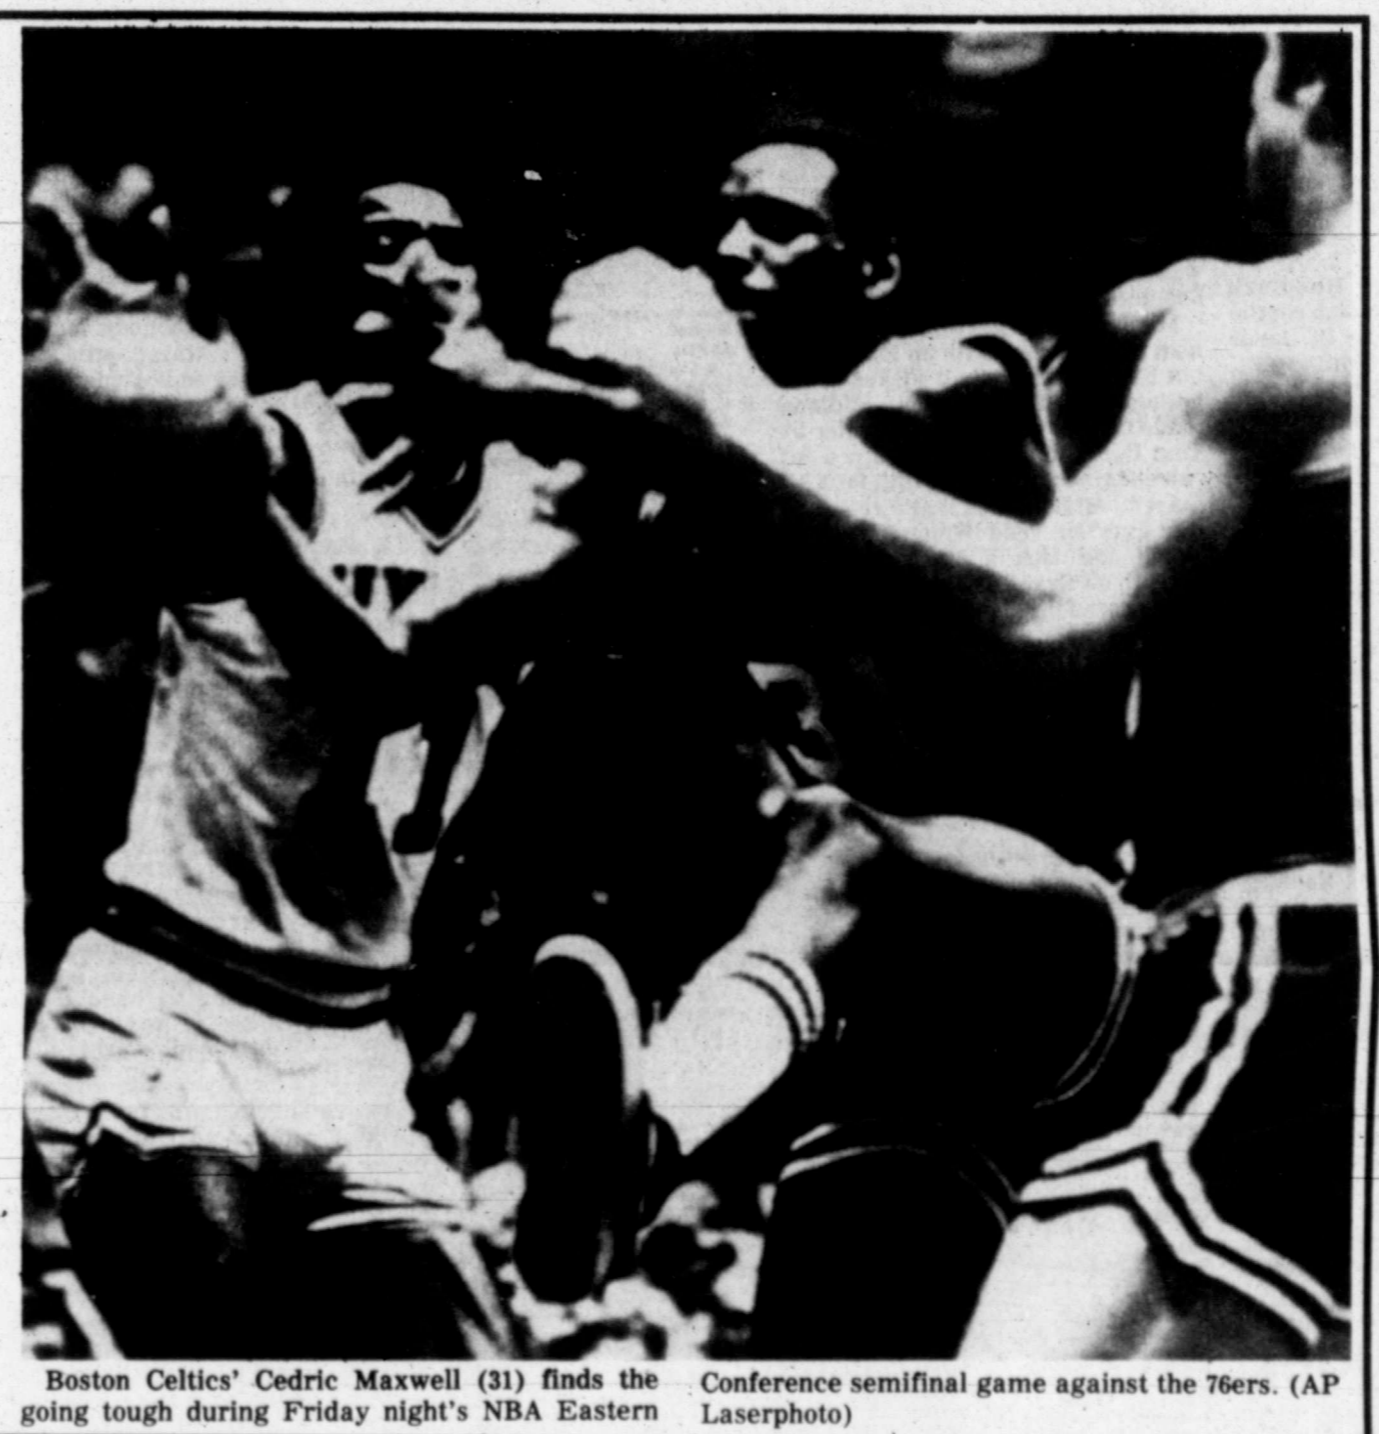

It was the first time either team had scored over 100 points in the best-of-seven Eastern Conference finals, which Philadelphia can wrap up with a victory at Boston Sunday. If the Celtics win that game, the series will return here for Game Six Wednesday night.

Philadelphia, which moved ahead to stay midway through the first quarter, broke the game open with a 17-5 burst in 4½ minutes of the third period, their best offensive display of the series. Erving and Lionel Hollins scored five points apiece in the surge that carried Philadelphia to a 76-61 lead with 5:14 to go in the third quarter.

Two minutes later, Erving sank a pair of free throws to give Philadelphia its biggest lead of the game at 82-66.

Philadelphia led by 12 points going into the final period but suddenly lost its shooting touch and failed to score for nearly four minutes. But Boston could get just two baskets by reserve forward M.L. Carr in that period, so the Sixers remained comfortably in front.

They were ahead 92-81 with 4:45 to go before four points by Dave Cowens and two by Carr cut the lead to five with 3:15 to play.

Villanova is tough at Penn

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — They changed the rules, but the result was the same Friday, as Villanova, for the 15th straight year, won the distance medley relay at the 86th annual Penn Relays and set a national collegiate record time of 9:24.2.

It also was the 17th time in 19 years that Coach Jim Elliott's Villanovans won the distance medley, which involves legs of 1,200, 400, 800 and 1,600 meters.

The distance medley is not recognized by world track organizations because it basically is an American institution, so the fact that Villanova ran the fastest time ever for the race is not recognized as a world record.

The previous best time recorded in a distance medley was 9:28.2, by Villanova in 1975, when the total distance was 2½ miles. In 1977, at 4,000 meters, Villanova recorded a 9:28.5.

This victory, however, was closer than their margins of recent years.

Villanova won by about five yards over Georgetown, which was clocked in 9:24.9, the second fastest time ever recorded for the event. Richmond was third in 9:30.0, followed by Penn State (9:31.3) and Tennessee (9:33.8).

Sydney Maree, the controversial South African distance runner, had a 40-yard lead on his 1,600 middle-anchor leg and lost it briefly on the back stretch of the final lap to Georgetown's John Gregorek, the ICA4 indoor 1,500 champion.

Gregorek took less than a yard lead, but Maree surged back and at the finish was running strong as Gregorek staggered home in his fruitless chase of the Villanova anchorman. Gregorek ran his 1,600 in 3:56.2, while Maree ran a 3:57.4.

The rules change involved altering the distance of the opening leg from 800 to 1,200 meters, forcing Villanova's Elliott to lead off with Don Paige. In recent years, Elliott has had the strong finishing duo of Paige and Maree. But splitting them up made no difference.

Paige sent Villanova ahead on his opening 1,200 with a 2:51.4 in the 1,200. Anthony Tufariello ran the 400-meter second leg in 46.7 and Mike England covered the 800-meter third leg in 1:48.6.

J. R. Richard joins Astros' elite club

HOUSTON (AP) — J.R. Richard became the third pitcher in Houston history to win 100 games and Jeff Leonard hit his first major league home run Friday night to lead the Astros to a 7-4 victory over the New York Mets.

Richard, 3-0, boosted his career record to 100-67 with ninth-inning relief help from Dave Smith, spacing three hits, striking out eight and walking four in 8-13 innings. Larry Dierker and Don Wilson are Houston's only other 100-game winners.

Leonard led off the game against New York's Pete Falcone, 1-1, with a single, was sacrificed to second base by Craig Reynolds and scored on Art Howe's single.

The Astros gave Richard a 2-0 lead in the fourth inning when Enos Cabell led off with a double and scored on a single by Alan Ashby. Leonard's home run led off the fifth, sailing over the 400-foot marker in left-center field.

Richard pitched four no-hit innings against the Mets until Mike Jorgenson singled to right field opening the fifth. It was the first hit Richard had given up in 91-3 innings, going back to the fourth inning of his last start, a one-hit victory over the Dodgers.

Paige sent Villanova ahead on his opening 1,200 with a 2:51.4 in the 1,200. Anthony Tufariello ran the 400-meter second leg in 46.7 and Mike England covered the 800-meter third leg in 1:48.6.

David Simmons grabs Region I discus title

LUBBOCK — Midland High's David Simmons, the top ranked discus thrower in the state, came through with a bang here Friday by winning the discus in the Region I AAAA track meet on the campus of Texas Tech University.

The giant MHS senior won the region title in his first attempt after failing to get out of district last year in the event. Simmons uncorked a throw of 172-4 on a cold blustery day. It was not his near his best of 187-8, but it was an easy winner as Lubbock Monterey's Jack Tatum finished second with a 165-9.

Simmons' victory qualifies him for a state berth and a possible state discus championship in Austin in two weeks. Simmons will also enter the region shot put this morning in an effort to earn a second state berth.

MHS teammate James Lary, however, failed in his second bid in as many years for a state discus berth, but did finish fourth in a tough field with a 154-9. That was not Lary's best throw of the year either. Lary was fourth last year in the region meet.

While Simmons was gunning down the gold, disaster struck the Midland Lee sprint relay team during a qualification race for a berth in today's finals. An exchange between third leg runner Steve Waldron and anchor man Phil Carleton was muffed and the team was disqualified when the baton was dropped. Lee was currently in second place when the disaster struck. Good legs had previously been turned in by Darrin and Arthur Williams.

Lee's mile relay team, however, qualified for today's 1:30 p.m. finals by winning their qualifying heat with a 3:28.0, far below their best of 3:21 this year. Cold weather kept the times down. Running for Lee were Waldron, Gary Butler, Keevin Harper and Carleton.

Midland High also qualified two other runners for today's finals as senior Jeff Robnett posted a 10.6, his best, in the 100 meters. However, he was third in his qualifying heat. Jerry Zachery also qualified third in his heat in the 110 meter hurdles, but no time was available. He will still be in today's finals.

Lee's David Piccolo, the 300 meter hurdle 5-4A champion, also qualified for today's finals, but was fourth in his heat and no time was available. Lee's Keevin Harper and Robert Schooler will also be in the finals today in the 800 meters and 1600 meters, respectively.

Logjam continues at top of 5-4A baseball chase

By BOB DILLON
Sports Writer

Four teams — Midland Lee, Midland High, Abilene High and Abilene Cooper — share first place in the District 5-4A baseball race with identical 3-1 records heading into today's action.

Coach Ernie Johnson's Rebels entertain Odessa Permian at the Lee diamond at 2 p.m. while Midland travels to Odessa to take on the Odessa High Bronchos at Fly Field at the same time. In other games today, Abilene Cooper plays Big Spring and Abilene is at San Angelo.

Both Permian and OHS are 2-2 and still in the race, but must win today to remain within shooting distance.

Cooper has the best season record, a 15-5 mark while Lee stands 13-10. Midland is 10-9, Abilene 11-7 and Permian 12-9.

All Cooper has to do is tie for the second half crown and they will be in the playoffs for the second straight year since they won the firsthalf outright with a 6-1 mark.

Alan Koonce will throw today for Lee. The junior righthander owns a 7-3 mark and has been throwing well all year despite a leaky defense behind him. He has less than a 2.0 earned average.

Lee's Barry Corley continues to hit the ball well. He owns a season batting average of .440 and is at a .512 clip in 5-4A play. He has knocked in 21 runs in the Rebs in 23 games and has 11 RBIs in loop play. He hit a grand slam homer against Roswell Goddard Thursday afternoon at the Lee diamond. Next comes another junior, Jeff Hicks, with a .381 season batting average and an even 400 mark in league play. Koonce is hitting .358 on the season and .324 in district competition. Catcher Tom Morrison is hitting .387 in league play and .291 on the year while Wade Cartwright is hitting .333 on the year and .316 in 5-4A.

Midland High, meanwhile, is led by Jerry Zachery, who will miss today's game since he will be running in the Class AAAA regional track meet in Lubbock. Zachery, a junior, owns a season batting average of .457 and has 23 RBIs on the year along with three homers and two triples. He is spanking the ball at a .486 clip in league play.

Shawn Mowles is also hitting well in league warfare with a .526 average and a .407 season average. David Zarate is next with a .500 mean in 5-4A and .412 on the year for Coach Tim Whalen's Purple Pack.

Whalen will call upon lefthander Paul Cox to face the Bronchos today.

Catcher Frank Garramone is hitting .387 in district and .326 on the year while Joel Castaneda is hitting .370 and .304. Eddie Portillo moved his district batting average from .206 to .308 by going five-for-five against San Angelo.

NFL scouts expect sub-par talent from this year's draft

By BOB OATES
The Los Angeles Times

What conclusions have the National Football League scouts reached about the college players in this month's draft?

Checks with some of the men who have watched the class of 1980 for four years, produced these consensus views:

- There are fewer sure-fire prospects — the athletes who have it all — this time, perhaps as few as eight, not necessarily ranking in this order:
Running backs Billy Sims (Oklahoma), Curtis Dickey (Texas A&M) and Vagas Ferguson (Notre Dame), offensive linemen Anthony Munoz (USC) and Stan Brock (Colorado), defensive end Curtis Greer (Michigan), quarterback Marc Wilson (BYU) and cornerback Mark Haynes (Colorado).

The unusual feature this year is the large number of qualified cornermen. Altogether, a record seven or eight defensive backs might go on the first round April 29. Some of the better prospects in addition to Haynes include:

ROLAND JAMES (Tennessee), Johnnie Johnson and Derrick Hatcher (Texas), Roynell Young (Alabama), Darrol Ray (Oklahoma), Don McNeal (Alabama), Dave Waymer (Notre Dame) and Mark Lee (Washington).

- The demand for running backs far exceeds the supply. After Sims, Ferguson and Charles White (USC) there isn't much at halfback. Fullbacks include Perry Harrington (Jackson State), James Hadnot (Texas Tech), Matt Suhey (Penn State) and Earl Cooper (Rice).

- The leading receivers seem to be Johnny Lam Jones (Texas) and Art Monk (Syracuse). Leading tight ends: Junior Miller (Nebraska) and Doug Marsh (Michigan). Top guard: Brad Budde (USC). Top centers: Dwight Stephenson (Alabama) and Jim Ritcher (North Carolina State).

- Some of the better defensive line prospects: tackles Doug Martin (Washington), Phil Murphy (South Carolina State), Bruce Clark (Penn State) and ends Jacob Green (Texas

A&M), and Jim Stuckey (Clemson). Linebackers: Otis Wilson (Louisville), Kenna Turner (Purdue), Bob Kohrs (ASU), Lance Mehl (Penn State) and Dennis Johnson (USC).

- It's impossible to get unanimity on the members of USC's class of 1980. For example it is accepted that Munoz has the ability but some wonder about his knee operations. At quarterback they're wondering if it's enough that McDonald can do everything but throw bombs. Most of the top Trojans have been assigned to the group ranking just behind Sims, Dickey and the others in the nation's top eight or 10.

OF THE qualities the scouts are trying to measure this year, intelligence, they say, is the one that seems conspicuously more important than it used to be. They're still listing size, speed and quickness first; but where as mental prowess was down the line five years ago, it is considered an essential now. This has been the main recent change in NFL scouting.

"There are four big reasons for this," says Dick Steinberg, director of player personnel for the Rams. "The draft is held later than it used to be, training camp is shorter and there are only four preseason games now. At the same time there is more to learn than ever. If you aren't smart enough to pick it up fast, you can't play on a pro team these days."

Steinberg's fourth reason is what he calls the "enticements" of the off season.

"You've got to spend the offseason working (on football) now," he says. "But some guys still can't resist the pleasures and temptations of other things. Generally, these are the lower-IQ guys."

Asked how the Rams measure intelligence, Steinberg says: "We use tests, of course, but only as a guideline to further research. You can learn the most interviewing the player personally, talking to his coaches and watching him on film. Smart players are usually easy to spot on film. They're the most productive players — the ones who are always moving positively toward the ball and making the fewest mistakes. It takes a certain amount of intelligence to concentrate."

Martina regains perch atop women's tennis

Martina Navratilova has regained her position as the top woman tennis player in the world, according to rankings released by WTA...Navratilova, 23, edged out 17-year-old Tracy Austin for the No. 1 spot, 16,522 to 16,406...Austin had replaced Navratilova in the top position in rankings released April 8, but Navratilova's victory in last week's WTA tournament at Amelia Island, Fla., was enough to push her back on top...

WBC welterweight champion Sugar Ray Leonard, who is scheduled for a title bout in less than two months against Roberto Duran, is walking with a cane as a result of a foot injury he suffered earlier this week...Leonard is expected to continue walking with a cane for up to a week...He is not scheduled to begin active training until about one month before his June 20 title fight with Duran, the former lightweight champion...Leonard strained a tendon in his right foot on Sunday while playing in a pick-up basketball game...

A preliminary injunction sought by a season ticket holder to bar the Oakland Raiders from moving to Los Angeles was denied Friday in U.S. District Court...Judge Robert Schnacke said he had "extreme doubts" that William S. Downing had a federal claim under antitrust laws...He also said he felt any damages to season ticket holders would be minimal if the team were to leave Oakland...Schnacke said he would hold a hearing on May 30 before ruling on a Los Angeles Coliseum motion to dismiss the action on grounds that federal antitrust laws were not involved...Raiders attorney Joseph Alloto said the team still intends to move to Los Angeles for the 1980 season if it can get favorable rulings from the U.S. Court of Appeals and state courts where other litigation is pending...

Safety Chet Moeller, a 1975 All-American at the Naval Academy who has completed his four-year military commitment, has signed as a free agent with the NFL New York Giants...As a senior, Moeller, now 26, had three interceptions and 98 tackles, 21 of which were behind the line of scrimmage...In 1974, as a junior, he had 118 tackles...

Midfielder Franz Beckenbauer of the Cosmos admits he's considering returning to West Germany when his contract expires at the end of the NASL season...Beckenbauer came to the Cosmos from Bayern Munich in 1977 and was quickly shifted from sweeper, the position he helped revolutionize into an offensive weapon, to the midfield, where the Cosmos felt he could be more effective... "There are two things about soccer in America that I do not like — the artificial turf and the travel. The long trips around the country, the tours, they're killing me," said Beckenbauer... "Everything else here is perfect. The organization of the Cosmos, the players, the country — it is a great country, a friendly country. There are many more things on the plus side..." The arrival of West Germany's Hennes Weisweller as the new Cosmos' coach is believed to be working in the Cosmos' favor...

Iona College announced that star center Jeff Ruland had signed a contract with an agent before the 1979-80 season, prematurely ending his college career and putting the school's best basketball season in severe jeopardy...One day after Ruland had announced he was forsaking going hardship in the NBA draft to take his senior year at Iona, Ruland entered his name with the league office because he had forfeited his amateur status by signing with agent Paul Corvino of Scarsdale, N.Y...Ruland also received money for entering into the agreement.

King rejects NBA draft, will remain at Maryland

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Maryland's All-American forward Albert King "shut himself in his room and locked the door," and then decided to complete his college education instead of turning pro, according to a University of Maryland official.

And Maryland Coach Lefty Driesell said Thursday night that the 6-foot-6 King turned down "an awful lot of money" to remain in school instead of applying for the National Basketball Association draft.

It was reported that King, a junior, in making the decision to return to school, rejected a $1.3 million five-year contract from the Chicago Bulls.

"I was told that he was coming back to school and naturally I'm elated," Driesell said Thursday. "I think it shows the kind of person Albert is — it's a team priority — he's interested in his team and the university. If he was selfish, I think he would have taken the money and run."

Driesell said he hoped everyone connected with the university shared his elation at the news. "They should be because he turned down an awful lot of money to come back and play for Maryland."

According to Thursday's Washington Post, King was asking the Bulls for a five-year contract worth $400,000 a year with no deferred payments. King's decision, however, will help his career and the NBA, Driesell said.
