NEWS IN BRIEF Carter wants quick confirmation

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) — President Carter hopes his weekend guest, Secretary of State-designate Edmund Muskie, will be confirmed in time to attend a mid-month NATO meeting in Brussels, then perhaps talk with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in Vienna, an administration spokesman said Friday.

The spokesman, who asked not to be named, said that if the Democratic senator from Maine is confirmed promptly as successor to the resigned Cyrus R. Vance, Muskie will attend a meeting of foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Brussels on May 14-15.

From there, the same source said, Muskie would go to Vienna for a celebration of the 25th anniversary of Austria's post-World War II independence.

American officials said they assumed Gromyko would be in Vienna at that time, on May 15-16, and that Muskie would have an opportunity to meet with him.

This informant said the timing of Senate action on the senator's confirmation as the nation's top diplomat would "depend on Muskie and the folks in the Senate."

Producer dies

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Science fiction film pioneer George Pal, an eight-time Academy Award winner, died Friday of an apparent heart attack at his Beverly Hills home, family spokesmen said. He was 72.

A native of Hungary, Pal earned fame as a producer-director in Hollywood and the adoration of sci-fi fans the world over with such movie classics as "War of the Worlds," "The Seven Faces of Dr. Lao" and "When the Worlds Collide."

He also won Oscars for "Destination Moon," "Tom Thumb," "The Time Machine," "The Wonderful World of the Brothers Grimm" and for his creation of the animated Puppets in 1939.

Bus wrecks noted

By The Associated Press
Three separate collisions involving school buses took a total of seven lives Friday, but no bus passengers died.

Four people died in a collision in West Virginia, one died in a crash involving two Texas vehicles near Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, and two people were killed in a wreck in Georgia.

Four Alderson-Broadus College students were killed when their car collided head-on with a bus near Phillip, W. Va., authorities said.

West Virginia state police Cpl. J.E. Elkins said none of the students on the bus were hurt, but the bus driver was slightly injured.

A Houston man was killed when a school mini-bus and a car collided head-on near Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, and 13 others, including eight members of a high school band from Port Aransas, Texas, were injured.

Ricardo Martinez, admitting clerk at the Laredo Mercy Hospital, across the border from Nuevo Laredo, said one of the injured was sent to surgery and another was admitted for observation. Ten others were treated and released. Authorities said a passenger in the car suffered undetermined injuries and was taken to another hospital.

At Danielsville, Ga., two persons were killed and several students were injured when a truck and school bus collided Friday afternoon near Madison County High School, authorities said.

No students on the Athens Christian School bus were killed, but several were taken to local hospitals for treatment of injuries suffered in the wreck, the Georgia State Patrol said.

Terrorists attack Jews in city on West Bank

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Terrorists tossed hand grenades from rooftops and fired into a procession of Jews returning from Sabbath prayers Friday in the occupied Arab city of Hebron, killing five persons and wounding at least 17.

Israeli Radio said some 40 Jews, including women and children, were walking through the narrow streets of Hebron's marketplace on their way back to the dilapidated Hadassah Hospital when they were attacked. The hospital building has been occupied by Jewish squatters for more than a year to press demands that the Israeli government resettle Hebron's old Jewish quarter.

Most of the squatters are women and children, but Assa Harel, director of the Hadassah Hospital in Jerusalem, said the five persons slain and most of the wounded were young men. There were reports that up to a half dozen women were wounded.

The victims were flown by helicopters from Hebron, in the Israeli-occupied West Bank of the Jordan River, to hospitals in Jerusalem. Harel said 17 persons were admitted to three Jerusalem hospitals, and three were in serious condition.

Israeli television and radio broadcasts referred to the attack as a well-planned ambush by three or four terrorists. It said they were on the tops of buildings overlooking the narrow street leading to the hospital and threw several grenades into the procession before opening fire with automatic weapons.

Military sources said some explosive charges had been planted in the area and they also went off.

Surge in unemployment pushes U.S. jobless rate to 7 percent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The sharpest monthly surge in unemployment among men since 1949 pushed the U.S. jobless rate to 7 percent in April, the highest level in 2½ years, the government said Friday. It was convincing evidence that a recession has taken hold of an economy already beset by inflation.

The figures were the latest and most dramatic indication that the economy is plunging into a deeper recession than President Carter has predicted, casting doubt on his ability to balance the 1981 budget as a key element of his anti-inflation effort.

The Labor Department said the number of jobless Americans rose last month by 825,000, with auto and construction workers leading the way. That boosted unemployment from a 6.2 percent rate in March, the sharpest monthly rise since January 1975, when the economy was in the depths of its last recession.

One Labor Department official, who did not want to be named, called the unemployment figures "absolutely mindboggling," adding, "Trying to balance the budget will become more elusive now."

A White House spokesman, who asked not to be named, responded to the latest unemployment figures by reading reports excerpts from an administration paper on the economic situation.

"There is no doubt the economy is in a recession," he said. "After some months in which unemployment remained lower than expected, this increase was very steep, larger than had been expected."

The spokesman said the administration remains optimistic.

"Several major developments are under way that will help moderate the recession and create conditions favorable to non-inflationary recovery," he said, noting a recent decline in interest rates and a "significant slowdown in the growth of energy prices."

Carter predicts inflation will subside substantially by summer. Critics of his economic policies contend his tight-budget and tight-credit approach may reduce inflation somewhat later this year, but at the expense of a more severe recession.

The April report, which showed a weakening job market in almost every sector, also revealed that:

— Unemployment among adult males, who comprise the bulk of the nation's workforce, shot up from 4.9

percent to 5.9 percent in April, the fastest rise in 31 years.

— In Michigan, the home of the slumping auto industry, the jobless rate jumped to 12.2 percent, up from 10.2 percent in March.

— Overall, total employment fell by 500,000 jobs from March to 97.2 million, while the number of jobless Americans rose to 7.3 million.

— The jobless rate hit 7 percent for the first time since August 1977.

Employment fell in virtually every market sector except government, which recorded a rise in jobs partly due to the hiring of temporary workers for the 1980 Census.

"A labor market recession is clearly under way," declared Janet Norwood, commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Inflation, however, has been Carter's top economic priority, with consumer prices surging at an annual rate of 18.2 percent during the first quarter of this year.

The centerpiece of his anti-inflation program is to produce the first balanced budget in a dozen years. That policy is hinged on the prediction of a "short and mild" recession this year, with unemployment rising only to 7.3 percent by 1981.

Conventions: Action begins as polls close

By SUSAN TOTH
Staff Writer

When the polls close in the Democratic and Republican party primaries at 7 p.m. today, the action will be just beginning for the county's major political parties.

Precinct conventions — the seeds of grass roots politics — will begin at 7:15 p.m. for Democrats and 8 p.m. for Republicans in the same place residents voted.

Anyone who voted in that precinct's primary may attend the convention, which is the starting point for platforms, resolutions, and — in the case of the Democrats — presidential delegates which eventually may reach the national conventions.

Each precinct will choose a predetermined number of delegates to next Saturday's county conventions. Delegates chosen at that gathering will attend the state conventions, and the state delegates will go on to the national conventions later this summer.

Resolutions begun in the smallest precinct convention might eventually be voted on by delegates from across the nation.

By the time the precinct conclaves begin, voters will have determined at least some of the local party officers.

Each party will select a county chairman during primary voting. This year, Republican chairman Bill Shaner is unopposed. His Democratic counterpart, Darrell Smith, will vie for re-election to his non-paying job with R.L. "Bob" Corley.

Each precinct also has a spot on the ballot for a precinct chairman. The jobs are generally not hotly contested, and in fact, some precincts have no announced candidates at all.

The GOP, for instance, has no known willing candidates for the chairmanships in precincts 3 and 4.

"Anyone who votes Republican in one of those precincts is welcome to write himself in as precinct chairman, come back at 8 (p.m.), call a convention to order and elect himself convention chairman," according to Shaner.

He can then fill out the convention minutes forms that will be at all the polling places and designate delegates to the party's county convention which will be held next Saturday.

A convention of one will have all the validity of more crowded gatherings and can submit resolutions and ideas to be considered next Saturday along with all the other precinct delegates.

Such a move, in fact, Shaner said, would be welcomed, since one of his jobs as county chairman is to recruit chairmen for the 28 precincts.

Republican precinct conventions will have no say in committing delegates to presidential candidates, however, because that will be done in the primary voting.

The situation is different for Democratic precinct conventions. Although all voters in the Democratic primary will get to cast a vote for a presidential candidate, the voting that really counts takes place in the precinct conventions.

Polling places, Page 2A

The "beauty contest" voting does not commit delegates. That is determined by participants in the precinct elections.

At least one candidate hopes to take advantage of that fact.

People responding to ads placed in The Reporter-Telegram to organize for Sen. Ted Kennedy are advised to attend their precinct conventions and make their voices heard.

While the ads apparently have had little impact in conservative Midland, Bill Bingham, West Texas coordinator for the Kennedy campaign, reasoned it might be easier to gain delegates here since many conservatives probably will vote in the Republican primary.

But on the prospect of sending large numbers of Kennedy-committed delegates to the county convention next Saturday, Bingham was noncommittal.

"It's hard to say. Usually we have a lot of trouble getting anybody to the precinct conventions," he noted. "It's all a matter of who decides to show up."

Lone Star State bucking business trend

By JOE STROOP

DALLAS (AP) — Texans like big business and the feeling is mutual. That's one reason, analysts say, that while unemployment rates for April leaped sharply in most industrial states, the rate declined in the Lone Star State from 5.8 percent to 5.4 percent, according to Labor Department figures released Friday.

Texas analysts say those figures reflect the general health of the state's economy, which may not be immune to national business trends but is better able to withstand downward turns than most states.

"The point is, the Texas economy is broad-based, it's diversified and it is still able to produce more jobs, relatively, than most other areas," said research analyst Sharon Cohany in the Labor Department's regional office.

She said Texans generally like big business and the feeling is mutual.

"Texas recently has been discovered as having a favorable business climate," she said. "Local governments are willing to extend themselves toward business, which is not the case in a lot of other states."

Ms. Cohany said state laws, which impose no corporate income tax, and local governments which aggressively seek out new industries and offer incentives for businesses to relocate from other states, contribute to Texas' strong, diverse economic position.

The Texas right-to-work law which prohibits closed union shops has generally been credited with keeping payrolls lower than other states without such laws.

"You have to remember the position Texas is in," she said. "It's got this diversified industry because it's considered a desirable place to be right now — it's considered one of the few areas where it's going to be happening" in the 1980s.

"Surveys have been conducted asking business leaders where they expect the most opportunities, where they see the most action, and Texas cities are always at the top of the list."

Texas benefits also as a Sunbelt state and as a leader in oil, gas and agricultural production — all always in demand.

Iran claims 10th body found in wreckage; Election set

By The Associated Press

The Iranian army said Friday it had retrieved the badly burned body of another American commando — supposedly the 10th — from the rubble and ashes of last week's doomed U.S. rescue mission in Iran's eastern desert. But the Pentagon rejected the claim.

The Iranian government, meanwhile, finally set a date, next Friday, for completing the election of a new Iranian Parliament, a possible step toward eventual resolution of the U.S.-Iran hostage crisis.

Revolutionary leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini says the Parliament must decide the fate of the American hostages. It is not expected to take up the issue until June or later.

But coupled with this faintly hopeful sign were statements by the Muslim militants holding the 50 American hostages that added a new complication to the crisis. The young radicals accused President Carter of engineering Wednesday's terrorist takeover of the Iranian Embassy in London, and said it would make a settlement of the U.S.-Iran showdown "more difficult."

The militants also said they had transferred some of the U.S. Embassy hostages to yet another Iranian city, Mashhad in the northeast. Since the aborted rescue operation, the militants say, they have dispersed the Tehran hostages to a total of eight other Iranian cities, while leaving some at the Tehran embassy.

Friday was the 181st day in captivity for the Americans.

Iranian officials have claimed variously that as many as 30 American raiders died in the failed hostage rescue mission last Friday. But the United States insists only eight were killed, all in the fiery collision of a transport plane and helicopter as the rescue team prepared to withdraw from a staging area in the Dasht-e Kavir desert 200 miles southeast of Tehran.

Ayatollah Sadegh Khalkhali, a leading revolutionary who oversaw the recovery of commando bodies from the site last weekend, claimed then that the remains of nine Americans had been found.

On Friday, the Iranian news agency Pars quoted a local army commander in the area as saying a 10th charred body had been pulled from the wreckage of a burned-out aircraft.

The report could not otherwise be confirmed. In Washington, Defense Department spokesman Thomas Ross repeated Friday that the American death toll was eight and that all others on the mission had been accounted for.

There were reports from Iran last weekend that at least one Iranian was killed at the desert site in the aftermath of the commandos' withdrawal — either in an unexplained explosion as he rummaged through abandoned equipment, or during the Iranian air force strafing and bombing of the abandoned aircraft.

Ross said the Pentagon has no information on any Iranian fatalities.

U.S. officials are still awaiting word from the Swiss government, which is acting an intermediary, as to when the bodies of the dead Americans will be flown out of Iran.

The Pars report, carried by Tehran Radio, also quoted the local commander as saying one of the Navy RH-53 helicopters the raiders left behind had been repaired and taken to Tehran.

Pope begins six-nation Africa visit

KINSHASA, Zaire (AP) — Pope John Paul II began his six-nation African mission Friday with a warm and musical welcome from a hymn-singing choir and spear-brandishing tribal dancers in plumes and leopard skins.

The Polish-born pontiff, in white cassock and skullcap, told the multitude gathered at Kinshasa's Ndjili Airport, "I come here as a man of hope. I come to give courage to the people of Africa."

Speaking in French, John Paul said the nations of Africa have a long way to go to achieve unity and full development and he voiced a wish that "every African child has food for the body and the spirit."

"God bless Zaire, God bless Africa," said the pontiff, who has embarked on his fifth trip outside Italy since becoming leader of the world's 700 million Roman Catholics on Oct. 16, 1978.

The pope's Alitalia DC-10 jumbo jet touched down to a raucous greeting from dancers, military bands and choirs singing lilting African hymns in the native Lingala language.

Barefoot children and mothers with babies strapped to their backs pressed against police lines to get a glimpse of the pontiff, who stepped off the jetliner and kissed the soil, a gesture he has made on each of his other four trips abroad.

The temperature was 90 degrees on a muggy, gray afternoon, but John Paul, 59, seemed to bear up well in the heat during a 90-minute arrival ceremony.

The Midland area, which has been led on rain this year, may be getting a few drops and a little roaring thunder this morning and tonight.

That's what the weatherman in the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport suggested. He forecast a 30 percent chance of rain this morning and a more paltry 20 percent chance tonight.

And should the rain clouds drip their nectar, it will be first rainfall since April 24, when showers covered much of the Midland area.

Rainfall so far this year is at 1.64 inches, which is 0.95 inch off the normal precipitation through the first quarter of the year. The yearly average is 13.51 inches.

Today's high temperature should be in the low 70s, while tonight's low is expected to be in the upper 40s. Sunday's high should be in the mid-70s.

Winds today will be light and variable. Friday's high temperature was 78 degrees, which was 18 degree lower than the record high of 96 for a May 2 in 1965. The overnight low was 47 degrees which missed, by 10 degrees, tying with the low of 37 degrees for the date in 1970.

Sunset today will fall at 8:30 p.m. Sunrise Sunday will be at 7 a.m.

Billionaire Texans William Herbert Hunt, left, and Nelson Bunker Hunt prepare to testify before a House Commerce Operations subcommittee in Washington Friday. Hearings were called to look into recent fluctuations in the silver market and the role the Hunt brothers played. (AP Laserphoto)

Hunts assure Congress that they were 'victims' in silver scandal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The billionaire Hunt brothers assured Congress on Friday that they were victims, not manipulators, of the collapse of silver prices and denied attempting to corner the market.

Nelson Bunker Hunt and William Herbert Hunt also confirmed that negotiations for a $1 billion loan have been completed to settle their financial problems arising from the dramatic drop in silver prices at the end of March.

In testimony before the House Government Operations subcommittee on commerce, consumer and monetary affairs, which had threatened them with a jail sentence for their failure to answer a subpoena earlier this week, the Hunts denied reports that their holdings approached two-thirds of the world's supply of silver.

But Herbert Hunt said he held about 7.5 million ounces of silver, at the end of March while Bunker Hunt estimated his holdings at 10 million ounces.

The billionaire Dallas brothers denied acting together to corner the silver market for speculative purposes. "We know each other, we office in the same building, we do eat lunch together," Herbert Hunt said. "I make all my own decisions."

"At no time did I attempt to corner, squeeze or manipulate the silver market," Herbert Hunt said. "At no time did I participate in an agreement to corner, squeeze or manipulate the silver market. At no time did I attempt or agree with others to manipulate the silver market."

While acknowledging details of the highly publicized billion dollar loan, the Hunts side-stepped most questions about the amount of silver they have owned, their profits and the losses they suffered as silver prices climbed to $50 an ounce in January before plunging to $10.80 in late March. Herbert Hunt said the nine-year loan will be made to Placid Oil Co., a corporation wholly owned by a Hunt family trust.

He said the loan, to be secured by oil and gas properties, will have Placid as its managing partner and three Hunt brothers in a limited partnership.

Herbert Hunt said he, Bunker and Lamar Hunt will put silver, contracts for future silver purchases, coal properties and stocks into the limited partnership, amounting to more than $450 million in assets.

The partnership will liquidate the Hunts' silver over a considerable period of time, Herbert Hunt said. He said terms of the loan will prohibit the money from being used for further speculation.

When asked for specific figures on their silver investments, both agreed to provide such information later. Herbert Hunt said the figures would have to be reconstructed from records.

Insurance board slashes rates

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The State Insurance Board slashed property insurance rates by an average of 6.5 percent Friday, a step that should save Texans $65 million in premiums.

New rates will take effect on Aug. 1. Rates for homeowners insurance, the most common form of property coverage, will drop an average of 4.3 percent statewide.

Only in the northwestern corner of Texas will homeowners rates rise, but the increase will be only 1 percent.

"The Wichita Falls tornado hurt them," said board actuary Gaylon Daniel.

Homeowners rates will drop 7 percent along the Gulf Coast, including Houston, and 3.8 percent in the sprawling Central territory that extends from Texarkana to El Paso.

The premium on a one-year homeowners policy on a brick veneer house insured for $50,000 will drop from $352 to $339 in Austin, Dallas, Fort Worth and Waco; from $452 to $421 in Corpus Christi; from $334 to $321 in El Paso and San Antonio; and from $394 to $368 in Houston.

Premiums will increase from $576 to $581 in Abilene, Amarillo, Lubbock, Midland, San Angelo and Wichita Falls.

The 7 percent homeowners reduction for the coastal area will apply in Victoria, Galveston, Texas City, Brownsville, Corpus Christi, Beaumont, Port Arthur and other cities in 14 counties in two tiers along the Gulf of Mexico.

Cities in the Central territory that will receive a 3.8 percent homeowners rate cut include Dallas, Fort Worth, San Antonio, Austin, Waco, Brownwood, Tyler, Longview, Kilgore, Lufkin, Paris, Laredo and Del Rio.

The North-Northwest territory receiving the 1 percent increase includes Lubbock, Amarillo, Midland, Odessa, Abilene, San Angelo, Wichita Falls and Vernon.

Daniel said homeowners rates are falling despite an inflation rate of around 18 percent because "we haven't had a storm" — meaning a major hurricane — and because of a change made several years ago in the way the board gathers statistics.

"We are just now getting the full benefits of the statistical plan," he said.

Board actuaries now take into account the fact that people pay more in premiums because inflation forces them to increase the insurance on their homes every year. Recognizing this added income for the insurance companies tends to reduce rates.

Rates also were reduced last year, and have not been increased since 1976.

Besides homeowners, the board made these other changes in rates for insurance on homes, farm buildings and business structures:

— Tenant homeowners, Seacoast down 7.5 percent, Central down 9.7 percent and North-Northwest up 19.2 percent.

— Farm and ranch owners, Seacoast down 1.3 percent, Central up 0.2 percent and North-Northwest down 2.7 percent.

— Fire, down a statewide average of 3.5 percent.

Mediation effort rejected by Iran; Standoff continues

LONDON (AP) — Iran rejected mediation by Arab governments Friday as the standoff at the terrorist-held Iranian Embassy settled into long hours of patient, methodical negotiation by weary British police.

A continent away, the Moslem militants holding 50 American hostages in Iran injected an ominous new element into the tense situation by tying the London takeover to the fate of the captive Americans.

The Tehran militants, accusing President Carter of engineering the London terror strike, said the siege here would make it "more difficult" to resolve the U.S. hostage situation in Iran.

The Iranian Arab gunmen — thought to be three — who seized the London embassy and a score of hostages Wednesday were demanding the Iranian government release 91 of their comrades imprisoned in Iran's Khuzestan province.

If their demands are not met, the gunmen said, they will kill their Iranian hostages, believed to number 16.

The terrorists are supporters of autonomy for oil-rich Khuzestan, where most of Iran's Arab minority is concentrated. Arab dissidents there want to end years of domination by Iran's Persian majority.

Iranian Arab groups claiming to speak for the London gunmen issued a statement Friday through the Iraqi News Agency threatening "dozens" of similar attacks around the world against the "racist Persian" government of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

Iranian government leaders have refused to negotiate the terrorists' demands, saying they would rather see the London hostages die than submit to "blackmail."

In Tehran, Iranian Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh said the gunmen proposed negotiations be conducted through the London ambassadors of three Arab nations — Jordan, Algeria and Iraq.

Ghotbzadeh said this mediation proposal had been rejected. He said Iran considers the Iraqi ambassador "one of the terrorists." The Iranians accuse Arab Iraq of fomenting the unrest in Khuzestan and of having a hand in the London takeover.

The Iranian foreign minister said the "solution to this problem should be undertaken by the British government."

The official Soviet news agency Tass said Friday it was possible that "U.S. secret services" were involved in the embassy siege, and there was a "possibility of a close connection" between the London affair and the unsuccessful American attempt a week ago to rescue the U.S. hostages in Tehran.

Also Friday, in the House of Commons, legislator Jack Page sought an inquiry into what the Iranians were doing in Britain.

Midland area homeowners may pay more for insurance coverage

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Homeowners in the Midland area will pay an average 1 percent more for homeowners insurance coverage if the State Board of Insurance adopts the recommendations of its staff actuaries.

The 1 percent increase was recommended for the north-northwest rating territory at the SBI's property insurance hearing Friday.

Industry officials recommended a 4.2 percent increase.

Statewide, a 4.3 percent reduction in homeowners rates is recommended by the staff, with a 6.5 percent reduction in all classes and coverages sta-

Hernandez was injured when tongs fell on him, as he was working on Cactus Drilling Corp.'s Rig No. 60 west of Andrews and off the Clabber Hill Road, said a spokesman for the Andrews County Sheriff's Department.

Award-winning illustrator Ben Stahl insists he's an artist

By DEAN GOLEMBSKI

LITCHFIELD, Conn. (A) — Television has claimed many victims and among them is the illustrator. "Illustrators in the '40s and '50s were akin to movie stars, today, it's different. There are stars, but not the public recognition. It's because our society is TV-oriented rather than magazine-oriented," says Ben F. Stahl.

Stahl is an award-winning illustrator who doesn't "see myself as that good. But I am curious, and that's the nice thing, I never stop learning. "The knowledge required is unbelievable. From jungles to Scottish castles, I have to gather all the information" before beginning an illustration.

Many people have probably seen Stahl's work and don't know it. His illustrations have appeared in magazines, on book covers and in books for children and adults. His illustrations for children's books have earned awards from the American Institute of Graphic Arts and the National Science Teachers Association.

Some of his illustrations have also been used on television. His illustrations for the series, "Little House on the Prairie," and the mini-series,

"The Immigrants," are shown before and after the commercials within the programs.

Most recently, three of his book illustrations were selected for an annual New York exhibit by the Society of Illustrators.

Stahl admits there is a difference between an artist and an illustrator. An illustrator, he says "produces on demand and has a deadline. Also certain concepts are dictated to him and he must deliver.

"A painter," he says, "has no pressure, except pressure to please himself."

Despite those differences, Stahl considers himself an artist.

"An artist never sees things as ho-hum. You're always searching, always curious," says Stahl.

"You try to bring your own personal outlook and way of expressing to an illustration. The only problem is time. The challenge is there. So, I say a prayer and hope it will come off."

Stahl says he paints "loosely" but with more "expression" than some illustrators. Rather than trying to make a photographic reproduction of a scene, he says he tries to express the scene with paint. But he does use photographs to help develop ideas for illustrations.

"If you're careful, you don't let the photo take over," he says. "I establish my viewpoint on the book and then try to get that point across.

"An illustration is a key to selling a book. It catches the eye and tells what the book is about. It piques the curiosity."

Stahl's roots as an illustrator can be traced to his parents.

His mother was an amateur artist and his father, Ben Stahl, was one of the country's top illustrators in the 1930s, having his work published in the Saturday Evening Post and other national magazines.

"It's satisfying to be a successful illustrator, to make it in a tough world," the younger Stahl says.

"There's always an element of luck. The difference is in the standards set. My father was more of a painter than an illustrator. He set extremely high standards that I kept shooting for. I'm always shooting, reaching to be a better artist."

Many injured as security agents attack Cubans awaiting visas

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — Cuban security agents swinging clubs, pipes and plastic-covered chains waded into a crowd of some 1,500 persons gathered at the U.S. Interest Office in Havana on Friday, touching off a battle that U.S. officials said left many injured.

The Cubans had gathered at the U.S. Interest Section seeking visas to enter the United States. Many of them described themselves as former political prisoners of the Castro government.

In Washington, State Department officials said about 400 of the Cubans took refuge in the U.S. Interest office when the battle erupted.

State Department spokesman Thomas Reston said no decision has been made about what to do with the people who crammed into the U.S. Interest office to escape the fighting. He said many were injured in the melee.

The battle erupted after about 40 Cuban security agents, some armed with clubs, pipes and plastic-covered chains, got off a bus and charged the throng waiting in front of the U.S. Interest office. Reston said the security agents were joined by about 300 persons who arrived in buses and armed with two-by-four clubs.

Some of the Cubans in front of the U.S. office fled as others pressed to reach the safety of the office itself. Still others fought back with cinder blocks and bricks.

Reston described the Cubans who were attacked as former political prisoners. He said the assault "was clearly permitted, if not sponsored, by the Cuban government."

He said the Cubans were in a parking lot outside the U.S. diplomatic office, protesting the slow processing of their requests for visas.

Reston said that during the fight-

Castro may be using exodus as method of 'purging society'

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — While much of the world perceives the continuing flight of Cubans as a blow to this communist island's prestige, President Fidel Castro sees the exodus as more of an opportunity than a problem.

What began as a seemingly minor diplomatic tiff between Peru and Cuba over the right to asylum now has the earmarks of becoming a full-scale purge of Cuban society.

Since swarms of Cubans invaded the Peruvian Embassy April 4-5, some 4,000 have left the country and thousands more have indicated a desire to leave.

ping with sarcasm that these people are not "real Cubans. We don't want them. We don't need them."

No one here doubts that some of 10,800 Cubans who fled to the Peruvian Embassy compound last month were members of the Cuban underworld — black marketeers and operators of gambling, stolen car and drug trafficking rings.

Whether these elements represent a significant percentage of the embassy compound crowd is not known and probable never will be.

As of Friday, slightly more than 500 Cubans remained at the Peruvian Embassy. The Cuban government has asked that they go home, promising not to impede their departure from the country. But so far, this group has stayed put, refusing to take the government at its word.

Some Western diplomats have been told that the remaining Cubans at the embassy are made up mostly of Communist Party members who fear arrest if they leave the compound.

The government's new open-door emigration policy appears largely aimed at ridding Cuba of those elements Castro derided in his May Day speech.

Castro admitted last December in a secret speech that common crime was becoming an increasing problem for his revolutionary regime.

The arrangements for facilitating the departure of these disaffected Cubans has become the object of a highly unusual series of negotiations.

On one side are the thousands of Florida-based boat owners who have come to Cuba the past two weeks in hopes of finding relatives and friends and taking them to a new life in the United States.

On the other side is the Cuban government, which has agreed to try to locate those being sought by the boat owners.

But Cuba's efforts carry a price. For each relative or friend allowed to emigrate, the government wants the boat owners to take out several additional Cubans — some are criminals — who have asked to leave.

These are the "lumpens, anti-socials and delinquents," according to Castro's description of them.

Details of the process are sketchy. Hundreds, perhaps as many as 2,000, of the boat owners have been housed at the Hotel Triton while awaiting word of the government's attempts to locate the Cubans they came to pick up.

Conditions at the tightly-guarded hotel are said to be extremely difficult, with the number of boat owners far exceeding its capacity. Many sailed here without a change of clothes and with little money.

In the United States, the Cubans who have left their country in recent weeks or have said they want to leave are seen as freedom-loving people seeking a better life under a different system.

In a May Day speech Thursday, Castro said in a voice at times drip-

Tent city set at Florida base

EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP) — Life in the United States for thousands of Cuban refugees will begin with canvas tents and Air Force chow.

The White House formally announced Friday that a processing and screening center would be established at Eglin Air Force Base, in the Florida Panhandle, to handle the crush of Cuban refugees in southern Florida.

In Miami, Juan Colon, spokesman for a federal refugee task force, said that, beginning Saturday, refugees would be carried to Eglin from South Florida aboard chartered planes.

The timing and number of later flights was still being discussed, but White House aide Jack Watson said Eglin could handle 1,000 refugees within 24 hours. He said it could accommodate up to 10,000 people within 10 days.

Even before the White House announcement, experts from the Air Force and the Federal Emergency Management Agency were swarming over the new processing site, located on the 48-acre Fort Walton Beach, Fla., city fairgrounds. The Air Force owns the land and leases it to the city.

Bulldozers worked noisily to clear a one-acre site on the midway so a "city" of wood-frame and canvas tents could be erected. Trucks hauled in lumber and supplies. Crews set up dining areas, an air-conditioned medical clinic and a chapel.

"They'll be eating Air Force food," said one worker. "It will be as close to Cuban style as we can make it. We're going to be as responsible and as compassionate as possible. We're going to try and make them feel at home."

Dade County officials, strained by processing up to 6,000 refugees in Miami, had threatened to close their facility at a county fairgrounds if the government didn't come up with another processing center.

Officials have said the Eglin center would be used to help refugees who don't have family ties in the Cuban-American community in South Florida.

Eglin helped process 10,000 Vietnamese refugees five years ago and the news that homeless foreigners were coming again drew mixed reactions from some local residents.

"There goes the neighborhood," said a housewife who would not give her name. "I hope they won't stay. It'll drive the welfare rolls sky high."

But Okaloosa County Commission Chairman Larry Anchors said the only major complaint he'd received was that the center was close to residential areas.

"Once everything comes together the first couple of days the attitude and the mood will change," he said.

Coburn: Now he wants to be alone

By TONY KORNHEISER
The Washington Post

"Something to drink?" the waiter asked. "Beer," the first man said. "Me, too, beer," the second man said. "And you, sir?" the waiter asked. James Coburn was standing now, looking hard, like a knife stuck in an oak tree. His eyebrows were arched. His hair, the color of slush. His voice began in the basement.

"Beer," Coburn said. "And this, of course, was the moment you wait for, when life imitates art, when what goes around comes around, when the moon comes over the mountain. (Say it, Say, "Schlitz . . . Light.") "Whatever," Coburn said. (Cut. Shoot the scene over. Coburn orders a beer. Take Two. Okay, say it, say "Schlitz . . . Light.") "C'mon, man," Coburn said. "I don't drink that stuff."

He started to laugh, laugh lines stretching from the top of his forehead to the bottom of his jaw, a distance about the length of an aircraft carrier. Deep lines. Straight and thin, like Venetian blinds. Creases, the kind you'd find in a gabardine suit after 200 pressings.

"Schlitz . . . Light," he said. He pressed his hand to his head to keep himself from exploding.

"When they came to me to do the commercial I thought I placed conditions which were impossible to grant," he said. "I demanded an enormous sum of money. I told them I'd only say the product's name; they couldn't use my name; I had to play a character." He arched his eyebrows so high, he almost had to peel them off the ceiling. Hey, man, it's their money. "As commercials go, they were pretty good. They sold a lot of beer, man — initially. But the beer was so bad . . ."

The waiter came back with Heineken. Coburn poured it down the middle and smiled.

NONE OF THE FOLLOWING matters: He is 51 years old. He was born in Nebraska, moved near Los Angeles when he was 5, began acting after he got out of the service, always wanted to play the drums like Gene Krupa and dance like Fred Astaire, plays the flute for relaxation and is negotiating a settlement so he can divorce his wife of 17 years.

What matters is his look. He looks cool. He is one of those men who could walk out of a coal mine disaster looking like he'd just come from a second fitting at Hart, Schaffner and Marx. The man drinks cool. The man eats cool. When he chews, he uses one tooth at a time. He could probably fix an air conditioner just by laying hands on it.

What matters is his face. What a face. An all-time face. Lines. Creases. Crevices. Sir Edmund Hillary should climb his face. Large teeth. Narrow eyes. The kind of face that seems to know and chooses not to tell. A three-card monte face. A face that could be on the cover of GQ and the wall of a post office.

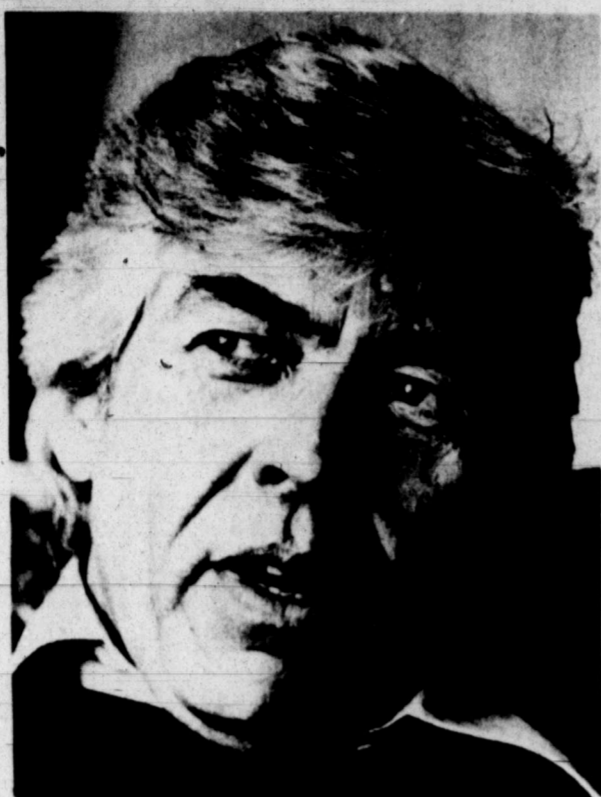

"My face?" Coburn asked.

Your face, sir. "Well, it changes from character to character," he said. "The face is something you can't do much about. I just think of it as my, well, my face. As time goes on it just gets more and more, well, whatever it is. I look at my face now, and I look back at my old films and see my face then, and now, well, it seems like a different face, man."

(He says "man" a lot. California.)

"I didn't think I was handsome enough to be an actor of any note when I was younger," he said. "At that time you just couldn't get a job unless you were Tony Curtis. So I concentrated on character. I always played characters who were older, man, I been old all my life. But by the time I started doing movies I was 30 and by then how you looked wasn't as important as what you did. By then guys like Rod Steiger were big actors. I don't think my face limits me. I've played everything from psychiatrists to rodeo riders. I know people say I'm too funky or too ethnic or too rough, but I think I can play anything. I've tried to play everything. Maybe they all come out the same."

By now he had a long, brown cigar. Razor thin. Even the exhalation was cool. The big break was "The Magnificent Seven." "It grew into a classic," Coburn said. "It's the only classic I was ever in. I don't think I'll ever do anything as lasting. Nothing better ever happened to me."

Actor James Coburn says that in his perfect nirvanic ecstasy he would be in a very high place, and there would be solitude. (Washington Post Photo by James Thresher)

Talk about great faces. Yul Brynner, Steve McQueen, Eli Wallach, Charles Bronson. ("Charlie once told me that he was so poor as a kid, he had to wear his brother's hand-me-downs. Hand-me-down shirts. Hand-me-down pants. Even hand-me-down shoes. The trouble was that Charlie was bigger than his brother, so the shoes were too tight. Maybe that's how he got that face, walking around in shoes four sizes too small.")

Coburn played the guy with the knife.

If you saw it, you couldn't forget it.

"I wanted that part so bad," he said. "I read for the director on the last day of testing, and he told me I had a part. There was only one left — the guy with the knife. Well, I practiced throwing that knife so much, until overhead from 20 feet I could stick it in the knot of a tree trunk. I must have ruined two dozens sets of knives practicing. Knives were illegal in California, so they had to be smuggled in up from Tijuana. Man, I got so good with that knife."

From that time on, and it's 20 years now, he was always a leading man. Even a star with "Our Man Flint" films, though probably no longer a star. Just a leading man.

"What's a star, man?" he asked. "That's someone else's label. I'll tell you who I think is a star. Brando's a star. De Niro's a star. McQueen's a star. Striesand. Bobby Dylan." (Bobby?) "I never considered it. I wanted to work. Make movies. Act. I'm very satisfied. It doesn't matter what people say or think as long as I can make movies and work. I compromise a lot because like to work. I'd rather work than sit around the house. I sit around as long as I can stand it, and then I pick something to do. If I have nothing else to do and it seems good — maybe a good director, a good cast, a big budget, a great location — I'll jump in there. I pick up the script and read it. If I like the story, I do it. I never read for just my character. Maybe that's why I made so many poor choices."

Not that there haven't been some good films. "Americanization of Emily." "Waterhole No. 3." "The President's Analyst." "Hard Times." Coburn has made a good living — now it's up to $1 million a year — making a lot of B-films and playing a lot of essentially slippery characters. Hustlers. Pickpockets. Con men. Men named "Speed." And it's okay with him. No hassles, man.

Now we come to a philosophy section. Coburn is enamored of that kind of California Zen that grows ever outward from the seed of a mung sprout and produces things like: "The mystery — if there is a mystery — is something only I know and can't say because it's still a mystery." (Earth to James? Come in James.) "The movies are the real reality. I'm most happy when I'm filming. When I'm involved in the process. I really don't give a f--- about the result of doing anything. It's only in the doing of it. The working. The process. The evolution. The rest of it is just marking time. Waiting for Godot." Sometimes he talks like Leonard Nimoy looks. You know, man?

AT THIS POINT there are certain roles he is unlikely to get. You won't see him as a Jewish labor organizer, or as an Italian cop. But there are two he said he could have had that might have made him Mondo Boffo. He said he could have been R. P. McMurphy in "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest." And he said he could have been Sundance in "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid."

For years, Kirk Douglas tried to put "Cuckoo's Nest" together, but he couldn't get the proper package. When he finally gave the property to his son, Michael Douglas cast Jack Nicholson in the role. "I would have done the role, but honestly, I never understood it," Coburn said. "Then I saw Jack do it, and I said, 'Of course, that's it.'"

British Laborites score gains

LONDON (AP) — The opposition Labor Party scored impressive gains over Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's Conservatives in local elections in England and Scotland.

Labor claimed its victories in Thursday's municipal elections represented a nationwide verdict against Mrs. Thatcher's tight fiscal policies and Britain's near-20 percent inflation rate. Conservatives said the losses were not as bad as they had feared.

With 159 of 192 British districts reporting, Labor had gained 488 seats on local city councils, assuming overall control of dozens of them, while losing just 31 seats. The Conservative Party lost 404 seats and gained 40.

In Scotland, the Liberal Party added 84 seats and lost 26, while the Scottish National Party was devastated, losing 96 seats and gaining only seven.

The elections, just a year after Mrs. Thatcher came to office, do not affect her comfortable 43-seat majority in the House of Commons.

DOE hires top consultant to study world oil supply

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Energy Department, sharply criticized by Congress for abandoning the Strategic Petroleum Reserve, has quietly hired a top-level consultant to recommend when purchases can resume, officials confirmed Friday.

Energy Secretary Charles Duncan picked Abram Chayes, a Harvard Law School professor, to examine the world oil supply situation and make recommendations on when and how to resume purchases, officials said.

Energy Department spokesman Les Daly said that Chayes' appointment "signals we are very interested in filling the petroleum reserve and we want to move forward to put everything in place to allow us to do it."

Various members of Congress have voiced unhappiness recently that no oil has been added to the reserves, located in salt domes along the Gulf Coast, for more than a year even though there are current surpluses on the world market.

None missing, injured in Utah refinery fire

WOODS CROSS, Utah (AP) — An explosion and fire ripped through part of a Phillips Petroleum refinery Friday afternoon, forcing the evacuation of a 72-unit trailer court south of the plant.

Phillips officials said no one was missing or seriously injured in the explosion. A Davis County deputy sheriff said one firefighter was treated for smoke inhalation.

Miles Lacey, plant manager, said there were three explosions, including two blasts that ruptured pipelines in a section of the plant that manufactures high octane gasoline.

Lacey said the fire would burn itself out, but he said he didn't know how long it would take. He said he had no idea how the fire started.

Carpooling nothing new

By SIDNEY C. SCHAEER
Newsday

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. — It is 6:30 a.m. in East Meadowland, a community on Long Island, and Harold Rohde slides behind the wheel of a 10-year-old blue Plymouth Satellite sedan.

Like a finely tuned watch, clicking off the seconds and minutes, Rohde stops first at a small deli on Newbridge Avenue and emerges with three morning newspapers, a Daily News and two editions of the New York Times. Now he can begin the first leg of a 22-mile trip that will end near an elevated train station on a street in Queens.

From the deli, Rohde takes a circuitous route through the back lanes and roads of East Meadow, heading to the first of three pick-up points.

At 6:37 a.m. he picks up Fred Morgana, the second member of his carpool. Three minutes later, as he comes to a halt in front of Harry Gebhardt's home, Gebhardt comes out the front door. By 6:45 a.m., his last passenger, Paul Bardyn, is sitting in the back and the car is full.

Twenty minutes from the time the car began its journey through East Meadow, it emerges from the sleepy suburban streets and heads toward the Southern State Parkway and into the crowded traffic streaming towards New York City.

So begins the ritual of suburban commuting. Except this group is different in one rather remarkable way:

Since St. Patrick's Day 1958 — for the past 22 years — these same four men have shared the expenses and the driving, suffered the same traffic tie-ups and slushy snowstorms. In a country where the average commuter trip is 1.2 persons per car, these four have made their system work so long that they own a car used strictly by the carpool.

Because they have been carpooling so long, they have a matter-of-fact attitude about their achievement. What amazes them is that more people haven't discovered the advantages of carpooling. They are a little self-conscious when a reporter riding along tries to unearth some secret ingredient to their success.

"I think if anything we believe that since we have to work, we ought to get to work on time. It's that simple," said Rohde, who works for New York Telephone.

Were they clairvoyant back when gasoline sold for less than 30 cents a gallon?

Hardly. According to Gebhardt, the original motivation was basic. Carpooling turns out to be the most convenient and economical method of getting to and from work. At various times before 1958 they had used their own cars or commuted by the Long Island Rail Road.

When they began carpooling, they were in their mid-30s, and they shared the driving by using their own cars. After seven years, they decided to experiment by chipping in to buy a car they agreed would be used only for the carpool. They are now on their fourth car, a 10-year-old Plymouth, equipped with air-conditioning. The car has clocked about 92,000 miles. They each paid $1,100 to buy this one. It is actually listed in Gebhardt's name.

Right now it costs them each $48 a month to commute: $28 for a month's worth of subway tokens and $8 a week to cover all the maintenance and operating costs of the car, including gasoline and insurance. When they started, it cost them $4 a week. If they had to get to work by train, it would cost them $67.45 each for a monthly commutation ticket, and they would have to work out their own transportation to the station, as well as paying for subway tokens.

Multiply the weekly share four times, and you get a pretty good indication of what it would cost them to drive alone. And add to that the cost of owning a second automobile that would serve the purpose of commuting. Ever since they began carpooling, they've eliminated the need to use their own cars for commuting. Each of them drives one week a month.

While the four say there was no magic formula for creating an enduring car pool, they all agree that certain factors are necessary to make it work. Punctuality, compatibility and stability, in that order.

They have certain rules to make their complicated routine work effectively, since part of their trip involves switching from automobile to subway, and then returning by subway and automobile.

One rule is that they all must be ready. While there may be a rare occasion when one member oversleeps, the standard rule is that if one rider is late, he must go to the window and wave the car on. The tardy member then has to figure out how to get to work by himself. All say that is a rare event. There is also a backup call system if the driver is late arriving to the first pick-up.

How they came to organize their pool revolved on a strange turn of events. Morgana and Bardyn have been carpooling to work since 1954. Their original carpool arrangement with another driver, not one of the present carpoolers, disbanded because of personality differences, the fundamental obstacle to making a carpool succeed, according to experts.

Rohde, who had moved to East Meadow in the late '50s, was recruited into the carpool by Morgana through a chance conversation at the firehouse in East Meadow where they were both volunteers. Before Rohde joined, Morgana and Bardyn were making a daily round-trip to Brooklyn, and looking for more riders. One night as they were walking down the street back to where their car was parked, they noticed another man walking on the other side of the street. They all stopped at the same time, the two cars parked parallel to each other.

"Are you from Long Island," Morgana recalls yelling across the street.

"East Meadow," Gebhardt replied.

"East Meadow!" was their retort in unison. And so they exchanged names and addresses, but nothing came of it. Both had misplaced the scraps of paper with the others' names on them.

Several months later, Gebhardt and Morgana's paths crossed again. This time it was not in Brooklyn, but near a fire in East Meadow. As Gebhardt stood watching the volunteer firemen extinguish a blaze near his home, he realized that one of the firemen being treated for smoke inhalation was Morgana, the guy whose car pool he had wanted to join. Eventually, the fourth member was added.

Poerner predicts railroad, motor carrier controls to end

DALLAS (AP) — Chairman John Poerner of the Texas Railroad Commission said Friday railroads and motor carriers appear to be the next industries that will get out from under federal government controls.

"At the federal level," said Poerner, "a substantial degree of deregulation has already been accomplished with regard to airlines, and the railroads and motor carriers appear to be the 'next items on the agenda.'"

Poerner's comments were in a speech to the Mariner's Club of Dallas, whose members specialize in insuring pipelines, drilling rigs and certain motor carriers.

Poerner said to some extent the "sudden interest" in deregulation "is simply one manifestation of a general disenchantment with the expanding role of government in our society."

Energy crisis spawns crime

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's energy crisis has created a new type of organized crime, according to an energy-industry journal. Energy User News says the cost of stolen electricity may have topped $5 billion last year.

Organized groups of meter-tampering specialists charge monthly fees to business establishments to turn back meters three to five days prior to scheduled meter readings by utility crews, the publication reports.

Recently, a ring in Florida was charged with stealing more than $120,000 over a six-month period for a group of businesses including motels, apartment complexes, restaurants, supermarkets and food-processing plants.

Similar rings have been apprehended in cities in New York, New Jersey and Illinois.

Prosecutors in several locations are reported to be considering filing charges against the companies that used the specialized service.

Coalition broadens black experience

With BOB TIEUEL

Ector County Commissioner Willie Hammond Jr. of Odessa told a large group attending the 14th annual dinner of the Black History Association of the Permian Basin in Pecos April 20 that it was a combination of brown and Anglo votes, along with a "small black vote" that caused him to be elected as the first black councilman in the history of Odessa and that the coalition put him in the commissioner's seat in Ector County as the first black in West Texas to hold a county commissioner post. Since his election, a black has been elected to a similar post in Amarillo.

Hammond stated that blacks are only about five percent of the population of Odessa, with approximately 80,000 residents, and that a large number of them do not register and vote.

"There can be no doubt that it is most important for minorities to become a part of the political process, especially our black brothers and sisters, and then urge our justice-loving white brothers and sisters to join with us in electing the best qualified men and women to public office," he continued.

HAMMOND commented and praised the good race relations exhibited in Pecos, where "the browns are a majority and where you show that all ethnic groups can work together and help build a stronger America."

He was introduced by state Rep. Dick Slack of Pecos who, after Hammond's speech, presented the speaker a "Distinguished Service Award" given each year by the Black History Association.

This was the first year that the banquet was held in Pecos, and the director (yours truly) said it was one of the finest in the history of the dinner. Mayor William R. Bickley of Pecos brought greetings from the city. Raul Flores, the first Mexican American ever elected to the sheriff's office, was presented and-brought remarks to the assemblage.

Some black religious leaders are calling for a strict reduction in the number of these religious confabs, stating that the people just cannot continue to meet the rising price of gasoline and the skyrocketing costs of motels in the larger cities, where a great number of these meetings are held.

Egypt still dependent on ships of the desert

By NICOLAS B. TATRO

ROMANI, Egypt (AP) — When Egypt's 3rd army was encircled by the Israelis in the Sinai desert during the 1973 Middle East war, food and supplies were smuggled through enemy lines by a corps of camels and elite trackers.

Now the unique cavalry force, which sources estimate to number more than 2,500 men, is being used to combat a growing tide of smuggling that has sprung up among desert nomads following the opening of borders between Egypt and Israel.

"There was virtually no smuggling in Sinai before we had peace because the army maintained tight control," Col. Mahmoud Singer explained to a reporter on a tour of the Romani camel corps post in the Sinai near the Mediterranean, about 100 miles northeast of Cairo.

army jeeps patrol the seacoast and inland routes, but in a country that is 96 percent desert there is little chance of the corps being phased out

"A jeep costs me $4,000 and can wear out in a year in this terrain," said Abdel Rahman. "A camel costs $400 and is good for at least seven years. Besides, you don't have to worry about maintenance or spare parts."

Camels can move swiftly and silently in waist-deep sand that is impassable for even four-wheel drive vehicles. They also get better mileage, traveling up to 30 miles a day for three days without water, he said.

The more than 40 camels at Romani are from Sudan, bred for speed and durability and given a special three-to-six-month training course. Abdel Rahman says the cream-colored male dromedaries known as Bisharis are used here because they are the "Cadillacs of camels — fast and comfortable." He scorns breeds such as the thick-legged Al Hadandawis, comparing them to breakdown-prone Russian cars.

IRONICALLY, the corps is known in Arabic as the Hagannah, the same name adopted by Jewish underground fighters who founded the state of Israel. The corps is made up mostly of volunteers known for their keen tracking abilities. The riders are armed with Russian light machine guns and carry daggers in their belts, while each of the camels is branded with an identifying number.

The corps was the backbone of the Egyptian army after the British formed the first unit in 1882. But in modern times it has concentrated on stopping smuggling and saboteurs.

In one recent operation, military officials said a camel patrol intercepted a caravan of smugglers coming from Sudan. The troopers seized a load of spices from Chad — borne on the backs of 40 camels.

AT A SEACOAST outpost five miles from the base camp at Romani, 33-year-old Sgt. Mohammed Ali Koraim leads a five-man patrol with orders to fire on sight anyone who enters the restricted coastal zone.

"I grew up with camels," said Koraim, a 15-year veteran who grew up on a farm near the southern Egyptian city of Aswan. "My father was in the camel corps and I just followed the tradition."

Britain's rightists divided

By ED BLANCHE

LONDON (AP) — The National Front, vanguard of Britain's ultra-rightists, is being torn by a bitter leadership feud after its failure in last summer's general election and a fierce campaign by the left-wing Anti-Fascist League.

The party, the most controversial faction in British politics because of its virulent racist campaign to halt all non-white immigration into Britain, is also being kicked out of its headquarters in London's Cockney East End by the local borough council.

But political insiders are reluctant to dismiss the Front as a spent force. Britain's chronic economic woes and simmering racial tension remain fertile recruiting factors for the Neo-Fascist Party.

"DESPITE its failure to make any big impact on British politics, there's nothing to suggest that the Front has shot its bolt," said a strategist of Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's Conservative Party, who declined to be identified.

"The Front panders to the disaffected and the hooligan element, and there are plenty of them around these days. The signs are that there's a considerable body of hidden support for the Front's racist policies."

The leadership feud centers on moves to oust the Front's chairman, John Tyndall, by a group led by Andrew Fountain, a former vice chairman squeezed out in a recent power struggle within the party's national directorate.

FOUNTAIN charged in a recent memorandum signed by 25 leading Front members that Tyndall and his supporters were responsible for "the collapse in morals, finance and administration and, most importantly, in political credibility that has taken place over the last few years."

Fountain said the Front has been badly hurt by the Anti-Nazi League. This bitter rivalry has triggered sporadic violence, including street battles and petroleum bomb attacks in several cities.

"We were not ready for this onslaught and we should have been," he said. Tyndall countered by accusing the rebels of being homosexuals bent on seizing power.

The Anti-Nazi League is made up of communists and a variety of other left-wing groups, as well as blacks and whites of no strong political persuasion except their opposition to the Front. The avowed intention of the League is to drive the National Front off the streets through violence if necessary.

THE FRONT'S troubles were heightened in recent months after several members were arrested for trying to bomb the headquarters of the rival Socialist Workers Party.

Martin Webster, the Front's 36-year-old national organizer, was convicted last October of inciting racial hatred in articles in the Front's newspaper, Spearhead.

Front marches against non-white immigration have triggered street battles in recent years, the worst street violence in mainland Britain since fascist riots in 1936.

THIS HAS fueled racial tension. There are 1.9 million non-whites in Britain, some 3.2 percent of the 56 million population.

The Front's latest rally, in London's predominantly non-white Lewisham district April 20, was contained only through a massive display of police strength that kept left-wingers and non-whites away from the rightists.

But Webster says the street marches are designed to force confrontations with the left and will continue.

As Texas primary approaches, Reagan blasts Bush campaign

By MERRILL HARTSON
Associated Press Writer

Republican presidential front-runner Ronald Reagan, showing signs of growing impatience with George Bush's never-say-die campaign, lashed out Friday at his lone remaining major GOP rival as vote-seeking in Texas entered its final hours.

Reagan flew from Memphis, Tenn., to Houston to make one last pitch for votes in a state where he has been heavily favored. The decision to add Houston to Friday's campaign schedule was made only three days earlier. And Bush was asserting the change of plans showed Reagan was worried about the outcome of Saturday's presidential primary election.

On his arrival, Reagan accused Bush of distorting his statements in support of the Kemp-Roth income tax cut legislation, which would slice taxes by 30 percent over a three-year period.

Bush was in an upbeat mood, telling supporters he might duplicate his upset of Reagan in the April 22 Pennsylvania primary.

While those two sought to win the hearts of Texas Republicans, former President Gerald R. Ford was asserting that President Carter's handling of the economy could hand the Democratic Party presidential nomination to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

Reagan acknowledged at an airport news conference that he has been angered by some of Bush's campaign rhetoric.

"I've tried not to respond to several of the things he's been saying," the former California governor said.

Reagan said Bush is making misleading statements about the Kemp-Roth bill.

Bush has said that if enacted, the legislation would cost the federal government up to $90 billion the first year alone and that it has little support in Congress.

Reagan said the correct figure is $19.5 billion and that the measure has 89 co-sponsors and has been endorsed by Republican leaders of the House and Senate.

"I'm not out here in left field all alone with some cockamamie proposal," he groused.

Mayor winks

way to polls

BERLIN, Md. (AP) — From a side window of the Style Guide clothing store, passersby can glimpse a pair of feet poking from under a blue and white crocheted afghan. The feet are attached to their mayor, who's campaigning in his sleep.

Clad in baby blue pajamas and snuggled on a cot, Mayor John Howard Burbage is spending three nights in a display window. He hopes to reassure voters that he actually sleeps in town.

Burbage, who has been mayor of this small Eastern Shore town for 18 years, is up for re-election May 13, and his opponents are making a campaign issue of how much time he spends outside Berlin.

"People claim I don't sleep here enough. It's the most ridiculous thing I heard tell of," the 62-year-old Democrat said Friday morning from his window perch.

"I'm trying to prove I am dedicated to this town," he said.

Richard Moore, Republican candidate for Midland County Attorney, and his wife Sandy greet one of the many Midland families they have met during his door-to-door campaign. Richard, an Assistant District Attorney, has endeavored to personally meet each voter, but if he is yet to knock at your door, please accept this as his introduction and request for your vote today.

RRC races generating excitement in primary

DALLAS (AP) — Two spots on the powerful Texas Railroad Commission, which regulates the oil and gas industry and public utilities in the state, have generated hotly contested races in Saturday's primaries.

Challengers claimed the three-member panel — all Democrats — serves oil companies rather than consumers in its regulation of energy, transportation and gas utilities systems.

A new dimension was added to the races this week when Texas became the first state to receive control of surface mining. That function was relinquished to the commission by the federal government on Monday.

Incumbent John Poerner, appointed to the commission in 1978 by then-Gov. Dolph Briscoe, faced a well-financed campaign by State Rep. Buddy Temple for a six-year term.

Temple, 37, son of an East Texas timber magnate and a Time, Inc., vice president, charged the commission has been "a private club" for special interests. He called Poerner a lackadaisical commissioner who "does little to influence things."

Poerner, 48, a South Texas rancher and real estate dealer, also served six years in the legislature. He attached his campaign to a high-speed train system for the "Texas Triangle" — Houston, San Antonio and Dallas.

Temple called the "bullet train" concept a "boondoggle."

Both candidates favor decontrolled oil and gas prices, deregulation of the oil industry and lower coal freight rates.

Three Republicans vying to challenge Poerner or Temple in November are:

—John Thomas Henderson, 74, an Austin real estate broker, who campaigned as a "not anti-industry or anti-profit but pro-consumer advocate."

—Henry C. (Hank) Grover, 52, a Houston public relations man and former state senator, who once ran a close race for governor.

—E.W. (Billy) Kidd, 51, a Weatherford car dealer who portrayed himself as an Eddie Chiles-style "mad conservative." Chiles, board chairman of the international Western Co., is known in Texas for his "I'm mad" radio commercials extolling the virtues of private enterprise and criticizing the federal bureaucracy.

Commissioner Jim Nugent, also appointed by Briscoe two years ago, is challenged by Jim Hightower for two years of an unexpired term.

Hightower, 36, is former editor of the liberal magazine Texas Observer and is making his first bid for public office. He describes himself as an old-style populist.

He characterized Nugent as a "Robin Hood in reverse" who voted to let consumers pay for retroactive rate increases and oil and gas advertising and legal bills.

Hightower claimed Nugent is "owned by industry," and has helped the commission prevent competition by limiting the number of trucking permits granted. He said the panel allowed strip miners to escape land reclamation through a legal loophole that does not require that topsoil be restored.

Nugent, 57, who was a Kerrville legislator for 18 years, said strip mining has "left few scars on our land." He calls Hightower a "radical left-wing liberal" who wants to ship Texas oil to Northeastern liberals.

Nugent said the commission has balanced consumer interests against the long-range need for energy of all kinds.

The Republican candidate for Nugent's seat on the fall ballot is former State Sen. H.J. (Doc) Blanchard, 56, an Austin lawyer and occasional lobbyist.

The third commissioner, Mack Wallace, is not up for re-election.

Texas voters may reveal opinions of rescue attempt

AUSTIN, Texas (AP)

— Texas voters could demonstrate on Saturday whether the ill-fated effort to rescue the American hostages in Iran had had a major effect in the state on President Carter's bid for re-election.

The balloting also will reveal whether Republican George Bush's determined five-day drive closed the wide lead generally given front-runner Ronald Reagan.

Campaigning continued in the final hours as Reagan and Bush worked energetically to gather more votes.

Polls open at 7 a.m. Saturday and close by 7:00 p.m., followed by Democratic precinct caucuses which will determine the allocation of the state's 152 national convention delegates.

About 5.5 million Texans are eligible to vote but only 2 million are expected to take the trouble — about 1.5 million in the Democratic primary and 500,000 in the Republican primary.

Absentee voting has been slow in larger cities, although strong in Mexican-American areas.

There will be two types of voting in the presidential contests Saturday. The Republican vote will allocate the state's 80 GOP national convention delegates between Reagan and Bush. However, the Democratic side of the ballot has no effect on picking the 152 national convention delegates.

These will be selected by the June 20-21 state convention in San Antonio.

Until the aborted hostage rescue effort in Iran, Carter had been given a wide lead over Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, as much as 3-1. However, there were indications Kennedy's support has grown since his victories over Carter in Pennsylvania and Michigan.

White rules voters may sign nominating petitions in any party

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Attorney General Mark White said Friday that persons who sign nominating petitions for a candidate of one party can vote in another party's primary and conventions.

White's opinion went to Bell County Attorney Patrick Ridley of Belton.

Candidates can get on primary ballots by posting a filing fee or submitting petitions.

White said the required statement at the top of nominating petitions says it is a misdemeanor to sign a petition in one party and vote in another primary. But the attorney general said that law is no longer on the books.

Pope's trip to Africa launches papal safari

ROME (AP) — Pope John Paul's trip to Africa has launched a new fashion among clergymen — papal safari.

Although the style of the ankle-length cassock remains the same, the color is bright white, with red trimmings for cardinals and purple for bishops and monsignors.

All the ecclesiastics in the papal retinue arrived at Rome's Leonardo Da Vinci airport today for their 10-day tour of Africa wearing the new white outfits.

Among the most fashionable was Vatican Secretary State Agostino Casaroli, whose white cassock had red buttons and red piping along the collar and cape to match his red skull cap and sash.

The other wear black shoes.

In his hand, the cardinal carried a Panama hat with a black band.

Missionaries working in tropical climates learned long ago that black attracts the heat and opted for lighter shades. But in the mild Mediterranean area, somber black is "de rigueur," except for the pope. He always dresses in white.

Some prelates who had worked in African nunciatures already owned a white cassock, but others like Casaroli and papal master of ceremonies Virginio Noe had themselves outfitted for the trip at the Gammarelli brothers in downtown Rome, where the pope himself has all his clothes made.

The new look has one drawback — how to distinguish the Pope from the others.

Papal watchers on other trips knew the pope was the one in white. African watchers will have to look up — or down — to be sure.

John Paul is the only one with a white skull cap on his head and red moccasins on his feet.

THE NEWSPAPER BIBLE

Who is the traitor?

How true it is that a servant is not greater than his master. Nor is the messenger more important than the one who sends him.

You know these things—now do them! That is the path of blessing.

I am not saying these things to all of you; I know so well each one of you I chose. The Scripture declares, "One who eats supper with Me will betray Me," and this will soon come true.

I tell you this now so that when it happens, you will believe on Me.

Truly, anyone welcoming the Holy Spirit, whom I will send, is welcoming Me. And to welcome Me is to welcome the Father who sent Me."

Now Jesus was in great anguish of spirit and exclaimed, "Yes, it is true—one of you will betray Me."

The disciples looked at each other, wondering whom He could mean.

Since I was sitting next to Jesus at the table, being His closest friend,

Simon Peter motioned to me to ask Him who it was who would do this terrible deed.

So I turned and asked Him, "Lord, who is it?"

He told me, "It is the one I honor by giving the bread dipped in the sauce." And when He had dipped it, He gave it to Judas, son of Simon Iscariot.

As soon as Judas had eaten it, Satan entered into him. Then Jesus told him, "Hurry—do it now."

None of the others at the table knew what Jesus meant.

Some thought that since Judas was their treasurer, Jesus was telling him to go and pay for the food or to give some money to the poor.

Judas left at once, going out into the night.

Bishop Henton resigns seat to accept First Bishop chair

LUBBOCK — The Rt. Rev. Willis R. Henton has resigned his jurisdiction as Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Northwest Texas in order to accept his election to be the First Bishop of the Western Diocese of Louisiana, newly created at the Denver General Convention of the Episcopal Church in 1979.

Bishop Henton was elected as Bishop Coadjutor of Northwest Texas in 1971 and took over as head of the diocese in 1972 when Bishop George H. Quarterman retired. Bishop Henton was instrumental in moving the diocese offices from Amarillo to Lubbock, a more central location.

Prior to coming to Texas, the bishop had lived in Louisiana since 1958. While there, he was arch deacon for Christian Education for the Episcopal Dioceses of Louisiana from which the new Western Diocese was carved.

The standing committee of the Diocese of Northwest Texas is planning a Rt. Rev. Willis R. Henton procedure for election of a new bishop in the near future.

U.S., Russia in vodka war

By ANDRES OPPENHEIMER

NEW YORK (AP) — Importers of Turkish, Chinese and Scandinavian vodkas, cashing in on the current chill in U.S.-Russian relations, are gang-up to put Soviet vodka sales in the United States on the rocks.

Major importers of non-Russian vodkas have launched a hard-hitting advertising campaign of sometimes subtle, sometimes blatant anti-Soviet appeals to urge Americans to say "nyet" to Russian vodkas.

Imports amount to less than 10 percent of the U.S. vodka market, but the Soviet brands account for 80 percent of America's import share.

The campaign is controversial, described by some as brilliant advertising strategy and by others as unethical.

It all began early in January, following the Soviet Union's military intervention in Afghanistan.

days later with ads such as "Izmira Vodka—the best reason for giving up Russian Vodka" and "Izmira Vodka—revolutionary vodka without revolution."

By early February the Chinese entered the "vodka war" with an ad featuring a sign they said could be found in bars throughout this country, saying "Russian vodka not served here."

The message: don't drink Russian vodkas; try Tsingtao, imported from China.

Then Finlandia, the Finnish imported brand, ran ads declaring:

"It's no surprise that the world's finest vodka has acquired so many allies."

Ironically, producers of vodkas made in the United States who had earlier tried to project a Russian image found themselves desperately trying to emphasize the true red-and-white-and-blue nationality of their products.

Smirnoff vodka ran full-page ads on the day following the U.S. Olympic team's victory over the Russians to "congratulate" the American heroes.

"The campaign has been a hit," says Marshall Goldman, a spokesman for Tsingtao. "Our sales have increased by 300 percent since we launched it."

Steve Ryan, Izmira's vice president of marketing, says sales of his company have increased substantially.

As for ethical questions, Ryan says they don't concern him. "The role of advertising is to give the consumer a good reason to buy a product," he says. "We're telling people to stop subsidizing the Russian economy, and it works."

But a sales manager for another major vodka brand, who asked not to be identified, says the attack on Soviet vodka is an irony in itself.

"After all, the Chinese invaded Vietnam last year, and the Turks took Cyprus in 1974," he commented.

What has this all-out crusade done to Soviet vodka sales?

Experts in the U.S. alcoholic beverages business say it will take at least a couple of months — until the U.S. government releases its figures on vodka imports — to find out if Russian vodka sales have been damaged.

Meanwhile, importers of Soviet vodkas claim their sales are still in good shape.

Labor troubles hurting Swedish stability image

By ROLF SODERLIND

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Sweden was swept by strikes and lockouts affecting almost a million workers Friday as its biggest labor conflict ever worsened.

The paralyzing labor disputes, costing an estimated $120-140 million a day in production losses, signaled the bankruptcy of the "Swedish model" of labor stability through central bargaining in an understanding spirit.

The Swedish Employers Federation announced it was extending its lockout of 750,000 blue-collar workers, planned to last a week, by another three days to May 11. Olof Ljunggren, federation director, said the extension was prompted by the Confederation of Trade Unions action in putting 100,000 member workers on an indefinite strike.

He warned that the lockout could be extended even further at a federation meeting Monday. Any escalation of the conflict by either party must be announced one week in advance—the one thing labor and management agree on in this dispute over a new one-year wage contract.

Labor is demanding a contract with increases totaling about 11 per cent, including previous employers' commitments and an offer from the government of a price freeze and tax package, plus a general raise. The previous contract expired in November.

The Transport Workers Union, retaliating for the federation move, called an indefinite strike at oil companies, including a halt in all delivery of petroleum products, beginning May 9. This country gets 70 percent of its energy needs from imported oil.

"We are closing Sweden now," said Bertil Gustavsson, the transport workers' chief negotiator. Exempted was one cooperative that holds 15-20 percent of the oil and gasoline market.

The Factory Workers Union called a strike at three of Sweden's four refineries beginning May 9, threatening Sweden with an acute lack of gasoline in about two weeks.

Before the latest strikes and lockouts began, some 25,000 government and municipal workers in key posts were on strike or locked out, affecting such vital sectors as hospital care in some cities and the subways of this capital of one million.

The subway workers strike, in its fifth day, halted a system that normally handles 900,000 passenger trips a day.

Although the government is barred by tradition from intervening in labor market negotiations, government-appointed mediators had contacts Friday with labor and management negotiators. No progress was reported. The trade unions confederation earlier rejected an offer of a 2.3 percent pay hike for its 2.2 million members.

While the nation already was almost isolated by week-old selective strikes grounding air traffic, stopping ferries and limiting goods transportation to one port, the new massive actions affect much of Sweden's private industry.

Some 100 supermarkets, 70 hotels and restaurants, and many bakeries are closed.

In Göteborg, Sweden's second largest city of 700,000, cooperative supermarkets reported they had run out of milk, and some stores had no more bread, flour and yeasts, apparently due to hoarding.

Some 30,000 school children in Göteborg were barred from classes as of next Monday because the Swedish Teachers Union called a strike, saying authorities violated an employment blockade by hiring new personnel on a temporary basis.

The blackout on all television programs, except news, went into its fifth day. Workers for the Post Office, which controls television, sat with stop watches, abruptly cutting off extended news casts reporting on the conflict.

Scholars label 'Hanta Yo' story hoax

By JIM KLAHN

SEATTLE (AP) — Indian leaders who claim the best-selling novel "Hanta Yo" is a hoax have vowed to block a television mini-series based on the book by Ruth Beebe Hill.

"This book is not our history, not our story, and most certainly not our 'Roots,'" said JoAllyn Archambault, a graduate student in anthropology at the University of California-Berkeley.

She was one of a number of Indian scholars who gathered Thursday to attack the credibility of the book at a news conference at the Daybreak Star Indian Center in Seattle.

The book supposedly represents Sioux life from the mid-1700s to 1835, and is based on a Mahto Indian document discovered in 1865.

Ms. Archambault called the book "insulting."

"It is at best a badly written, poorly researched fictional novel," she said.

The book was published in early 1979 by Doubleday and now is being made into an ABC-TV mini-series by David Wolper, who produced "Roots."

There was no immediate comment from Doubleday or Wolper.

The Indian critics said they doubted Mrs. Hill's claims to have spent 25 years researching the book, and accused Mrs. Hill's collaborator on the novel, Chunksa Yuha, of misrepresenting himself.

The Indian critics said his real name is Lorenzo Blacksmith and offered documents to show Blacksmith was not full-blooded Dakota Sioux as he claimed.

Also, they said documents show Blacksmith, who claimed to have been educated by tribal elders and away from the white man until he was 12 or 13, attended a boarding school in Genoa, Neb., when he was age 7.

Mrs. Hill, who lives at Friday Harbor on San Juan Island, insisted the book is truthful.

"The credibility of 'Hanta Yo' stands now and forever," she said. "Everything in 'Hanta Yo' can be corroborated in some way."

Blacksmith could not be reached for comment.

Vine Deloria Jr., a Sioux lawyer, author and educator, said the book and all the attention it has received is a "public relations phenomenon" that is being pushed on the American public despite Sioux Indian efforts to show it to be a lie.

"David Wolper and Doubleday are the only ones saying this work is authentic," said Deloria; who heads the graduate program in American Indian studies at the University of Arizona.

Deloria said the promoters of the book, which spent 30 weeks on the New York Times best-seller list, were using the media to convince the rest of the country what they say is true.

Wolper has said he would consult Sioux Indians to make sure the television version is accurate, but Deloria said Sioux opposing it "are absolutely opposed to the series and the book."

Much of the criticism has been directed at passages in the book dealing with homosexuality, wife-beating, the eating of afterbirth by the mother and oral sex as part of a religious ritual.

But the inaccuracies go deeper than that, even to translations in the language, said Victor Dou-

ville, of the Lakotah

Sioux Studies Department at Sinte Gleska, an all-Sioux college in Rose-bud, S.D.

When you buy a used car, what else do you get besides the car?

In a good restaurant, when you buy a dinner, you get more than just food. You get service, a pleasant atmosphere, and a feeling that the owners would like you to come back. It's the very same way that we like to sell used cars. Since our reputation is more "on the line" when we sell a used car, you can be sure we'll do everything we can to make our used car customer a satisfied customer.

It moves with lots of style.

LTD750c $2469

It's set up to cruise. With a stepped seat, teardrop tank, pullback handlebars, a powerful 745cc four-stroke DOHC twin engine, cast alloy wheels, short megaphone pipes and a fat rear tire. City streets or open road, it's a quick, nimble machine.

First class ticket.

KZ1000 $3449

The KZ1000 is an unquestionably fast motorcycle. With its legendary 1015cc engine, the KZ1000 has been Superbike Production Champion two years running. It comes with an automatic cam chain tensioner, transistorized ignition and three all-weather drilled disc brakes. The handling is superb and so's the comfort. It's a winner on the track and a winner on the street.

Fun. Whether you're 6 or 66.

Reg. $569 KV75 $499

With a little instruction anyone can ride the KV75. It's light enough to throw in so it won't leak oil or gas, even laying on its side. It has a tough 73cc engine, folding handlebars, a nice soft seat and a suspension that'll take bouncing through the dirt. You can't beat it for fun or price.

Tall City elevens opening spring football

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Sports Writer

Just as we were getting use to the sound of a baseball meeting the bat, Midland Lee and Midland High are bringing back the sound of locomotives meeting in a head-on collision.

The Lee Rebels started spring football training today at 8:30 a.m. and the MHS Bulldogs will start at 3 p.m. Monday, and all local players concerned will have more to adjust to than just the sting of leather.

Case in point, of course, is both schools will begin a new grid era as coach Spike Dykes moves in for his first look at the Rebs and coach Pat Culpepper will take his first look at the "Dogs in full battle gear. Both coaches are looking forward to the opportunity.

THE SPRING grind will run until May 23 for the Rebels, the date set for the annual Maroon-White intersquad scrimmage at Memorial Stadium, and until May 24 for the Bulldogs, who will stage the annual Bill Mims scrimmage game at the same site on that date.

DYKES SAID Friday that his spring goal is simple. "We will be just trying to develop a contending football team."

But anyone knows things are not that simple, but Dykes likes what he has seen so far. "We need to find out who can play and who wants to play, and from what I've seen, we don't have anyone that doesn't want to play. Of course, we have some youngsters that haven't played a lot and we need to take a good look at them," Dykes said.

Dykes promised a heavy dose of fundamentals for his squad, staying with his coaching theory that you have to be sound in fundamentals before you can be a good football team.

"We are up in the air right now as far as the offense is concerned. I can't tell you right now what we will run, but I hope we can answer that question by the time spring training ends. It will all depend on the type of personnel we have. We hope to have a lot of fun and we hope the kids leave with a good taste in their mouths and maintain a high moral," Dykes said.

CULPEPPER IS also anxious to get started, but he is going to take first things first.

"The first thing we want to do is for the players and coaches to get to know each other. We also want to take a look to see if some of the freshmen can work into some varsity playing time," Culpepper started.

"We are going to work hard on the specialty teams and hope to find our specialty people. I don't think we will have all that much contact because most of our time will be spent teaching our system. But we do want to establish discipline in pads that will carry over into the fall."

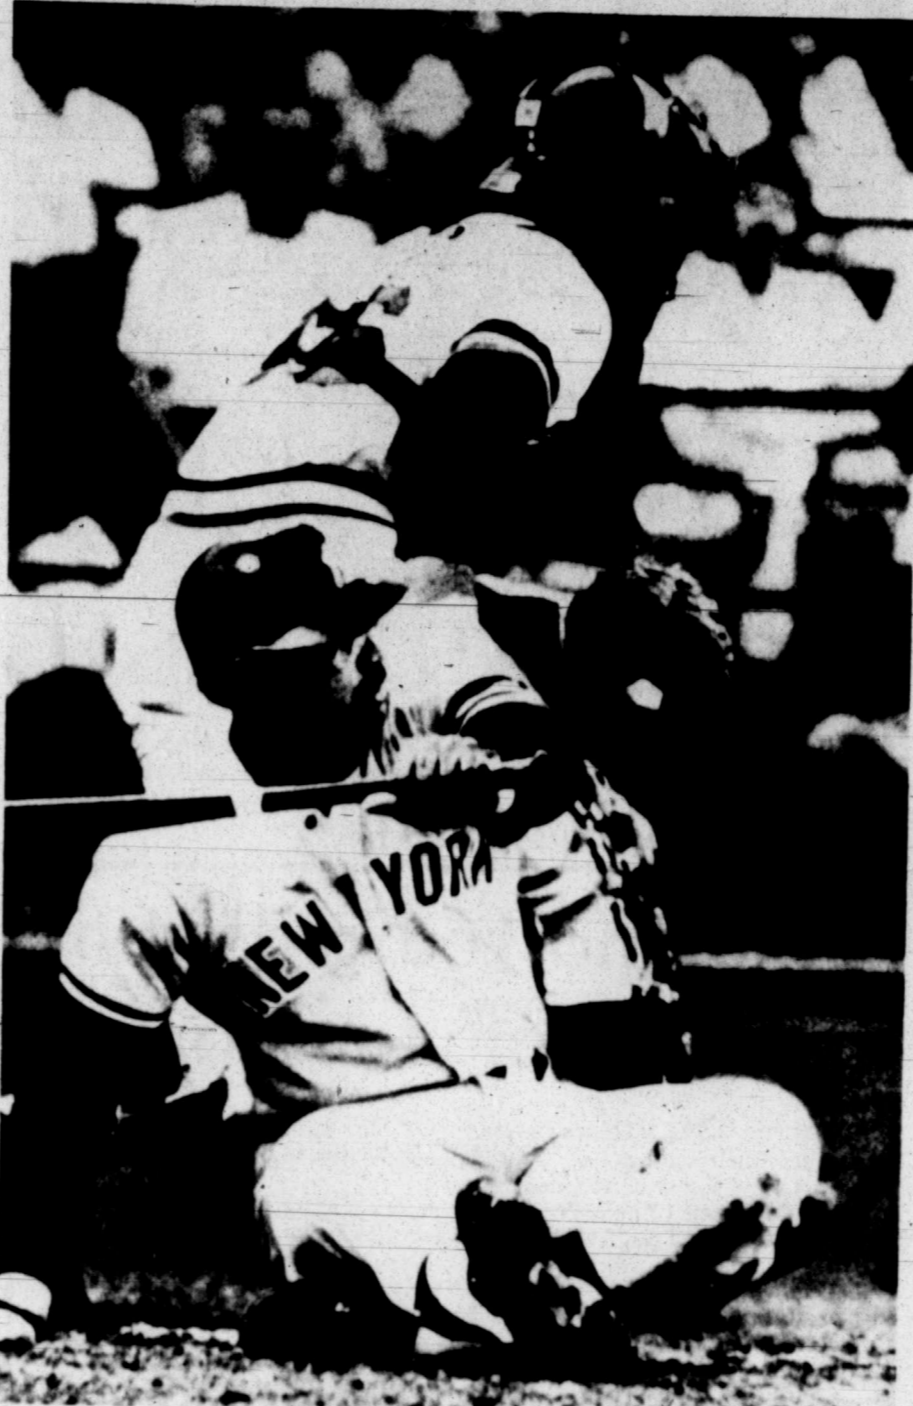

Culpepper will install the "I" formation on offense, but he seems more concerned with the defense at this stage of the game.

"I looked over last year's statistics and Midland High was just about last in all of the defensive categories. We have got to establish a sound defensive team and that will be a top priority this spring. I think we will have some players going both ways this spring because we need to have our best people on the field."

Everyone concerned should have a much better picture of the Tall City football future in the next few weeks.

M-Cubs lose in 12th, 5-4

George's hit wins it; Cubs, Diablos to tangle

Reggie Jackson of the New York Yankees, hits the dirt in Friday's game with the Minnesota Twins in Bloomington, Minn. after pitcher Geoff Zahn almost hit him with a pitch. Jackson went on to hit a home run moments later. (AP Laserphoto).

Frankie George doubled to left center with two out in the 12th to score Joe Hicks from third base and give Amarillo's Gold Sox a 5-4 victory over the Midland Cubs before 1,601 fans at Cubs Stadium.

The Cubs open a five-game series against the El Paso Diablos at 7:30 p.m. today at Cubs Stadium. It will be Cubs Sun-Visor Night.

Hicks opened the fateful 12th with a pop fly down the right field line that second baseman J.W. Mitchell almost caught with a diving lunge. By the time Mitchell recovered the ball, Hicks had reached second and then moved to third on a sacrifice by Jerry DeSimone. Kent Hunziker, 0-1, Midland's third pitcher then appeared on the verge of escaping unscathed when he fanned Greg Pastors and had two strikes on George, but it wasn't to be.

Midland almost tied it in the 12th when Tom Hall doubled to left-center with two out and Scott Fletcher singled to center. Centerfielder Hicks' throw to catcher Tom Vessey ended the game in a cloud of dust as Hall slid home, but was ruled out. It brought a violent reaction from Cubs Manager Randy Hundley who contested plate umpire Harry Knuths all the way to third base after the end of the game.

Lefthander Daniel Boone pitched four scoreless innings in relief of Mark Thurmond to earn his second win of the season.

Midland got off to a terrible start as the late evening sun blinded Midland first baseman Joe Hicks on a couple of throws from Mitchell at third. The first was an infield hit by Amarillo's Hicks and when the throw got by, Hicks took second. Then DeSimone bunted and Hicks scored as Mitchell's throw got by Hicks. Pastors singled, sending DeSimone to third from where he scored on a sacrifice fly by George.

Midland got the runs back and another to boot in the home first as Fletcher singled, Hicks singled with two out to score Fletcher and then Mitchell looped a singled into short left. Javier Fierro then doubled to left to score both runs.

George homered with two out in the third off lefthander Tom Spino who went the first 6 1/3 innings, but Midland quickly went back ahead as Tom Grant doubled and Mitchell's single to center plated the run.

Amarillo tied it in the sixth on a run scoring single by Vessey and Spino went out in the seventh with one out and runners on first and second as Bob Blyth came on in relief to get Alvarez on a double play ball to third.

Blyth surrendered singles to Curt Reed and John Flannery with one out in the eighth, but Fierro came up with the play of the game at short backhanding Vessey's grunder in the hole, whirling and throwing off balance to second for the force. He still had enough on the throw for Fletcher to complete the inning ending double play.

Boone took over in the ninth after Thurmond walked the lead off batter and his screwball held the Midland bats at bay the rest of the way.

There was one brief moment in the 11th when it looked like Midland might win. With two out, Javier Fierro walked and Mike O'Berry yanked a liner over the left field fence, foul. O'Berry never got another chance to swing as Boone picked Fierro off first.

The win gave Amarillo a 3-2 edge in the series.

Mackey, Leverich set hot pace

The annual three-day race to the wire called the Ernie Nelson Partnership Golf Tournament is underway at the Midland Country Club with Graham Mackey and Ron Leverich setting the torrid pace.

Mackey and Leverich combined for a first round 66 on the MCC course Friday to own a one-stroke lead over the field. However, there are a lot of holes to be played between now and Sunday and there are a lot of contenders.

But for now, at least, Mackey, a former MCC club champion and 1978 winner of the Nelson, and Leverich, a former golf professional, are standing tall with a blazing start.

RIGHT ON their coattails, however, is the defending champion duo of Randy Geiselman and Steve Whiteside with a 67, and they have the credentials to stay in the race until the end. Geiselman is two-time MCC champ, a former pro and a former UT golfer in college. Whiteside fits in nicely as a former Aggie from Texas A&M and a former city champion and Midland Lee golfer.

Ted Ferguson and Dr. Dean Strack also own a 67 and Strack has won this thing four times, the most titles of anyone, and Ferguson, a two-time MCC champ, is a one-time winner when he teamed with Dr. Strack in 1977.

Jobe Moss and Bucky Sheffield, a team not listed among the favorites, stands at 69 with the team of Ron Folk and Steve Thompson, the tournament's bridesmaids the last two years.

THREE MORE TEAMS are knotted at 70. They include Andy Shapira-Bill Munn, Ed Brooks-James Wright and Mike Walling-Jamie Winkle.

There are also battles going on in nine other flights. Martin Allday and Bill Franklin own a three-stroke lead in the second flight after a round of 70 Friday and the third flight duo of Buck Watkins and Jeff Dewesse raised a few eyebrows with a 69 for a two stroke lead.

The teams of Bill McWilliams-Larry Freeman and Don Ormond-Fred Williams are knotted at 74 to lead the fourth flight while Dick Webster and Ricky Webster lead the fifth flight by one stroke.

The teams of Bob Houser-Dan Leonard and Jack Lieber-Lawrence Bledsoe pace the sixth flight with 75. The seventh flight is a real horse race after the first day as the teams of Jim Walker-Don McComb, Charles Gaines-Dan Bailey and Mark Martin-Paul Gill all own 76 for the lead.

BILL SCHNEEMAN and Howard Derrick took an early two-stroke lead in the eighth flight with a 76, but Nick Nicholas and Randy Upham may own the ninth flight trophy already with a seven stroke lead.

The tenth flight is another tight race with teams of Tommy Thomas-Charles Perry, Newton Page-Tom Welch and Plegas Childress-Charles Childress all owning 84.

Rebels keeping fingers crossed today in 5-4A

Midland Lee's Alan Koonce to throw

By BOB DILLON
Sports Writer

Coach Ernie Johnson's Midland Lee Rebels have their fingers crossed today.

They take on Coach Tim Whalen's Midland Bulldogs at the Memorial Stadium diamond at 2 p.m. in what could be the final baseball game of the season.

Lee needs a victory over the Pack and then must pull for Abilene to knock off Abilene Cooper in order to gain a playoff spot with the Cougars for the overall District 5-4A title.

Cooper won the first half of the race with a 6-1 reading and is currently tied the Lee with 5-1 marks going into today's game. A win by Cooper winds up the race and sends the Key City team into the Class AAAA state playoffs for the second straight year. A loss by both Lee and Cooper would still put the Cougs in the playoff, so Lee needs a win today and a loss by Cooper.

LEADING THE HITTING attack for the Bulldogs are Jimmy Zachery, Shawn Mowles and David Zarate on the year with .469, .441 and .389 averages, respectively, while in 5-4A play, Zachery is hitting the ball at a .500 clip and Paul Cox is next with a .458 average. Zarate is hitting .450 in 5-4A and Mowles .423.

Lee's hit parade is led by Barry Corley, Koonce and Jeff Hicks on the year and this must make Johnson happy since they all are juniors. Corley owns a .439 average in 25 games while Koonce is hitting .417 and Hicks .406. In loop play, Corley is hitting a sizzling .558 average while Hicks is hitting .444 and Koonce .415. Next comes senior catcher Tom Morrison with a league average of .371.

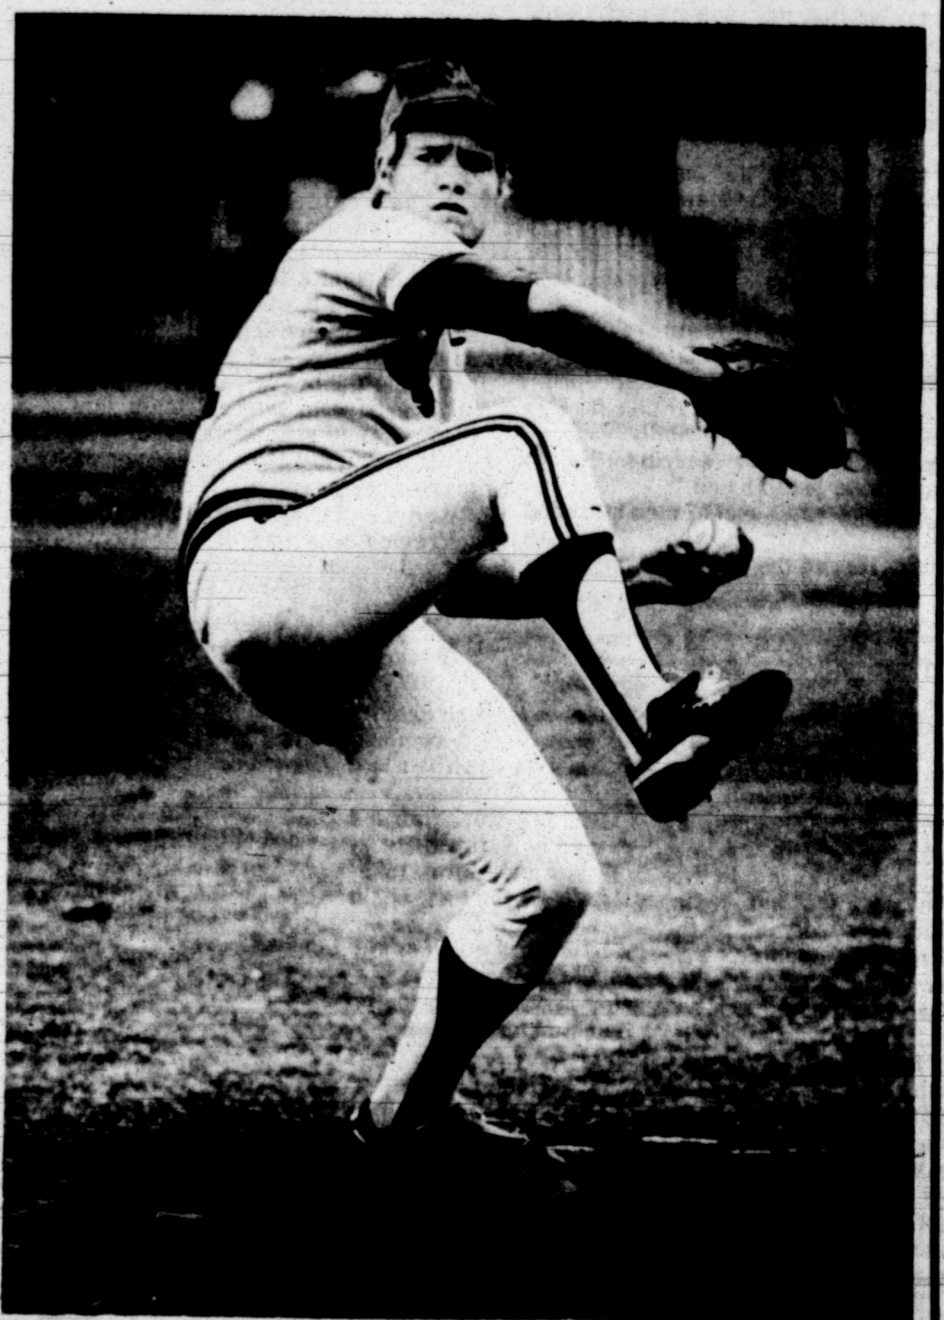

A pair of juniors are expected to duel today with Lee going with Alan Koonce and Midland probably with Mark Hewitt who threw a no-hitter at the Rebs for five innings when Whalen's crew won, 5-2.

Midland ended a 14-game winning streak with the win over Lee at the Lee diamond in the first half of the race and takes a 10-11 season mark and 3-3 5-4A record into today's confrontation while Lee is 15-10 and 5-1.

WHILE MIDLAND and Lee are squaring off, of course, Cooper is at Abilene, Odessa at Odessa Permian and Big Spring at San Angelo in season finales in the latter two games.

The winner of 5-4A will play R.L. Turner of Carrollton in the bi-district playoffs next week. Turner beat Cooper last year in the best-of-three series and played in the Tournament of Champions at Cubs Stadium in March. The Lions went all the way to the state tourney in Austin last year and lost to eventual state champion Spring in the semifinals.

Cooper has the best overall record on the year with a 17-5 record, but it's ace righthander, Kirk Russell has a sore arm and Kyle Stuard went all the way on the mound in Tuesday's wild 11-10 win over Midland, so the Rebels are hoping that Abilene's Eagles can knock off the Cougs today.

Midland High's Mark Hewitt ready too

Baltimore stages rally in eighth inning to edge Texas Rangers by 7-5

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Doug DeCinces and Lee May hit consecutive two-run doubles in the eighth inning to spark a five-run rally that gave the Baltimore Orioles a 7-5 victory over the Texas Rangers Friday night.

Mike Flanagan, 3-2, got the victory. He gave up eight hits, walked two and struck out one before Tim Stoddard relieved in the eighth to register his fourth save.

Al Oliver's two-run homer gave Texas a 2-0 lead in the first inning and, after Baltimore tied it with single runs in the fifth and sixth, Jim Sundberg gave Texas a 4-2 lead in the seventh with another two-run homer.

But the Orioles batted around against three Texas pitchers in the eighth. Starter Jon Matlack gave up six hits in seven innings but Jim Kern relieved him after Eddie Murray opened the Baltimore seventh with a single and went to third on Benny Ayala's double.

Kern, 1-3, walked pinch hitter Pat Kelly to load the bases before DeCinces hit a 3-2 pitch down the left field line to tie the score. May then doubled off the center field fence to put the Orioles ahead and chase Kern. Rich Dauer singled off Sparky Lyle for the fifth run of the inning.

Texas got a run in the bottom of the eighth when Bump Willis doubled and later scored on a groundout.

Clayde was expected to have a close race with Sealy, Slaton and possibly Canadian for the 2A team championship. But Clyde ranked up 80 points to take an easy win.

Sealy was second with 52 and Slaton third with 42.

No state records were set in the first day of the two-day meet. But there were several conference marks, including a 4A discus throw of 146-feet 1-inch by Jo Beth Palmer of Bryan, a University of Texas women's track recruit.

Stacey Morgan of Georgetown leaped 19-2 1/2 to break the 3A long jump record, and Susan Bean of Miami set a class B mark in the same event with a jump of 18-5 1/2.

Carla Wilmont of Stafford Wilowridge surpassed the 3A high jump record by two inches with a jump of 5-8.

Other 2A records were set by Camille Cockerham of Red Oak in the high jump, 5-9, and Ella Smith of Groesbeck in the 400-meter dash in 54.4.

Brenham wins title

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Brenham nipped Canyon by one second for first place in the 800-meter relay Friday night and held on to win the team championship in class 3A at the girls' state track and field meet.

Clyde, piling up points in the 1,600-meter relay, 800 relay and discus, was a runaway victor in 2A over Sealy.

Brenham, the defending 3A champion, finished with 51 points, including 20 for winning the 800 relay in 1 minute 41.3 seconds. Canyon had 34 points going into the final event—the 1,600-meter relay—and could have won the title by finishing first since Brenham had no team in that race.

However, Canyon was third in the 1,600 relay and finished with a team total of 46 points.

Sweetwater, with Tina Lopez setting a 3A record of 2:11.1 in the 800-meter run and winning the 1,600-meter run in 5:09.9, was third in the team standings with 40 points.

Clyde was expected to have a close race with Sealy, Slaton and possibly Canadian for the 2A team championship. But Clyde ranked up 80 points to take an easy win.

Sealy was second with 52 and Slaton third with 42.

No state records were set in the first day of the two-day meet. But there were several conference marks, including a 4A discus throw of 146-feet 1-inch by Jo Beth Palmer of Bryan, a University of Texas women's track recruit.

Simmons powers Cards over Astros

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ted Simmons snapped a 1-1 tie with a sacrifice fly in the sixth inning and then lashed a three-run homer to cap a seven-run seventh as the St. Louis Cardinals whipped the Houston Astros 9-1 Friday night.

Simmons delivered the Cardinals' go-ahead run in the sixth after Keith Hernandez walked, stole second and took third on a wild pitch by Nolan Ryan, 1-1.

The Cardinals then broke open the game in the next inning as Ken Reitz and Garry Templeton each singled home a run, Keith Hernandez knocked in two more with a base hit and Simmons hit his second homer of the season, over the left-center field fence.

St. Louis left-hander Don Hood, 1-1, was the winner with relief help from Jim Kaat. Hood, summoned from the bullpen when starter Bob Forsch was spiked by the Astros' Jose Cruz, yielded six hits in 5-2/3 innings, permitting a run in the third when Ryan scored on Dennis Walling's grounder.

St. Louis tied the score at 1-1 in the fourth when Simmons drew one of four Ryan walks, advanced on a wild pitch and scored on George Hendrick's single.

Jackson, Spencer pace Yankees

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Reggie Jackson and pinch hitter Jim Spencer hit two-run homers and Ron Guidry won his first game of the year as the New York Yankees defeated the Minnesota Twins 9-6 Friday night.

Jackson slammed his fifth homer of the season off loser Geoff Zahn, 2-2, with two out in the first inning. Jackson also drove in a run with a double in the seventh and then scored when Spencer, batting for Eric Soderholm, homered off Terry Felton, his third of the season.

Guidry, 1-0, allowed 10 hits before getting relief help from Rudy May. May came on with two runs in and none out in the eighth and retired the next three batters to earn his second save. He also got John Castino to bounce into a game-ending double play in the ninth with runners at first and third.

Ken Landreaux had four hits, three off Guidry, and drove in Minnesota's first four runs with a pair of two-run singles.

Ron Jackson doubled home a run in the eighth and then scored on a single by rookie Jesus Vega, his first major league hit. May then struck out Dave Edwards and Willie Norwood and got Butch Wynegar on a fly ball.

Phils end LA streak

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Pinch-hitter Greg Gross hit a two-run single with the bases loaded in the bottom of the eighth inning, breaking a 5-1 tie as the Philadelphia Phillies went on to beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 9-5 Friday night and snap the Dodgers' 10-game winning streak.

Pete Rose followed Gross's hit with a walk and Bake McBride drove in the final two runs of the four-run inning.

The Dodgers had rallied from a 5-2 deficit after the second rain delay of the long, rain-soaked game, scoring one run in the seventh and two more in the eighth off reliever Ron Reed.

TORONTO (AP) — Len Barker and Mike Stanton combined on a two-hitter and Tom Verzer drove home two runs with a double in Cleveland's four-run second inning to pace the Indians to a 6-1 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays Friday night.

Barker, 3-1, never was in trouble in his seven innings before giving way to Stanton to start the eighth. Barker struck out three batters and walked two while yielding the two Toronto hits, both doubles by Damaso Garcia.

The Indians pushed across four runs in the top of the second on three hits and two walks. Dave Stieb, 3-1, issued consecutive walks to Ron Hassey and Toby Harrah, with Hassey advancing to third on a wild pitch. Cliff Johnson scored Hassey with a single. Verzer then sliced a double down the right field line to score both runners and came home on Jorge Orta's double.

An error by second baseman Garcia on a throw from the outfield and Mike Hargrave's RBI single accounted for two Cleveland runs in the seventh inning and chased Stieb.

The Jays scored in the sixth without benefit of a hit. Ernie Whitt reached second when left fielder Joe Charboneau dropped his fly ball and eventually scored from third on Rick Bosetti's sacrifice fly.

The loss was Toronto's third in a row.

Ace at Hogan

By REX WORRELL
Hogan Park Golf Pro

It didn't take long for the new nine holes at the Hogan Park golf course to be christened with its first hole-in-one.

Blackie Coffman holed out an 8-iron shot on the 180-yard, par three, No. 4 hole. Blackie doesn't get to have his golf ball mounted on an ace trophy because he continued playing with it and hit it into the lake on No. 6. His playing partners were David Teichmann, Phil McGuire and Sam Wood.

The first recorded eagle on the new nine came from Gordie Fry, who holed out his approach shot on No. 9 with a 6-iron to score his eagle. Gordie went on to score a fine round of 35 on that nine. His playing partner was his son, Paul.

The new nine will be closed Monday and Friday each week while the front nine will be closed on Tuesday and the back nine on Wednesday. This will allow the maintenance crew to maintain the golf course.

Walt Schuyler has arranged for the delivery of 16 used plow discs to be used as distance markers on the new nine. We would like to thank Fred Bowlin of the John Deere Company in Stanton and two Stanton farmers, Tommy Hurst and Wayne Cook, for providing the discs.

The Hogan Park Men's Golf Association held a Two-Man Scramble Saturday, but first place in the championship flight ended in a three-way tie between the teams of Wheeler-Coffman, Gray-Dutcher and Dishman-Miller, all with 68. Fourth ended in a two-way tie between Teichmann-Marburger and Glenn-Baker with 69.

The first flight was won by Campbell-Madrid with a 69 while second went to Granger-Cook with a 70. Howle-McGuire won the second flight with a 71 while second ended in a two-way tie between Mack-Tomberlin and White-Stiles with 72. Conklin-Welborn won the third flight with a 71 while Holman-Reese and Thomas-Bergeron tied for second with a 74.

Mark your calendars for Memorial Day weekend. The HPMGA will hold a Two-Man Low Ball event that weekend. The format will be a partnership event. Entry fee is $25 per man plus green fees. The entry includes free refreshments all three days. There will be a free barbecue on Monday night for the contestants and their wives. First place in each flight will receive a trophy as well as merchandise certificates. For more information, call the golf shop.

The Hogan Park Women's Golf Association will hold a Torphy Day event for the 18-hole division Thursday with the following pairings:

NBA player matchups even between Los Angeles, 76ers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Basketball is a team game, at its best when the five players on a club mesh as one so that the whole becomes greater than the sum of the individual parts.

But within that team game there are individual matchups, the one-on-one battles that are the basic building blocks of the overall structure. Here's a look at the matchups in the National Basketball Association championship series between the Philadelphia 76ers and Los Angeles Lakers, which begins Sunday at the Forum:

Center

Darryl Dawkins (6-11 1/2, 252), 76ers, vs. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar (7-2, 235), Lakers:

Abdul-Jabbar, 33, is coming off one of his finest seasons in which he probably earned the sixth most valuable player award of his 11-year career. He was among the league leaders in scoring, rebounding, blocked shots and field goal percentage, and also anchored the Lakers' defense.

Dawkins, a five-year veteran though only 23, has awesome strength and will spend his time leaning on Abdul-Jabbar, trying to muscle him away from his favorite spots on the floor. Dawkins is capable of dominating stretches of a game with his rebounding and emphatic dunks, but at other times he mysteriously fades from view. He must overcome this inconsistency to become a top-flight NBA center.

Power forward

Caldwell Jones (7-1, 220), 76ers, vs. Jim Chones (6-11, 220), Lakers:

Jones is the quiet man of the Sixers, the league's fourth-leading rebounder and a defensive ace who bottled up Boston's Larry Bird in the semifinals. He was moved from the starting center spot to make room for Dawkins and adapted to forward better than anyone expected.

Chones came over from Cleveland this season and became the Lakers' No. 2 rebounder. He works well around the basket and can hit the 15-foot jumper if left open.

Small forward

Julius Erving (6-7, 200), 76ers, vs. Jamaal Wilkes (6-6, 190), Lakers:

Erving is the most exciting player in the league, one who can personally take control of a game at any time. He ranked fourth in the league in scoring with a 26.9 average, playing up to his early ABA days, and has no peer at driving to the basket.

Wilkes was the Lakers' No. 2 scorer with a 20.0 mark, his best in six pro seasons. His soft outside shot helps open the middle for Abdul-Jabbar, and like Erving he can get downcourt to score on the fast break.

Big guard

Lionel Hollins (6-3, 185), 76ers, vs. Earvin "Magic" Johnson (6-8, 215), Lakers:

Hollins was obtained from Portland in midseason for a No. 1 draft choice and filled in superbly for the injured Doug Collins. He averaged 12.2 points per game and lived up to his reputation as one of the best defensive guards in the league.

Johnson, the brilliant rookie who led Michigan State to the NCAA title a year ago, is the biggest point guard in the game, a great passer and ball-handler whose unselfishness and enthusiasm has added a welcome new dimension to the Lakers. He scored better than expected, averaging 18 points per game, and was the top rebounding guard in the league, often moving up to forward.

Small guard

Maurice Cheeks (6-1, 180), 76ers, vs. Norm Nixon (6-2, 175), Lakers:

Cheeks, in his second pro season, became one of the league's best play-makers, sparking the Sixers' tough running game.

Nixon, the Lakers' playmaker the last two years, had to adjust to being an off-guard with the arrival of Johnson. He averaged 17.6 points per game, and despite doing less of the ballhandling, ranked fourth in the league with 7.8 assists per game. He played more minutes than any other player in the league.

Coaches

Billy Cunningham, 76ers: Has done a fine job in reshaping what used to be an undisciplined, offensive team, fixing Erving as the hub of the offense and instilling a new orientation toward defense. Gambled on moving Caldwell Jones from center to forward, and it paid off.

Paul Westhead, Lakers: A college coach a year ago, the Shakespearean scholar stepped right in when Jack McKinney was hurt in an early season bicycle accident and club did not miss a beat.

76ers, Lakers open series Sunday

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Darryl Dawkins calls him "white lightning" because of the way he races downcourt on fast breaks. Billy Cunningham calls him his "stopper" because of the way his defensive work turns off opponents' top scorers.

The man in question, Bobby Jones, doesn't say much about himself. That's not his style. He just comes off the bench and does the job at both ends of the court for the Philadelphia 76ers, who open the best-of-seven National Basketball Association championship series against the Los Angeles Lakers Sunday.

"The only problem with Bobby Jones," said 76ers General Manager Pat Williams, "is that he sings too loud in church."

Jones exemplifies the change in the 76ers, from the group of talented individuals that lost to Portland in a six-game final in 1977 to the smooth team that will take on the star-studded Lakers this time.

An all-star who came from Denver two years ago in the George McGinnis trade, the 6-foot-9, 212-pound forward is the consummate team player, a coach's dream who is unconcerned about personal achievements, headlines or statistics.

When Cunningham, coach of the 76ers, took Jones out of the starting lineup during the preseason and made him the club's sixth man, it didn't bother Jones. He knew Philadelphia would get more rebounding with the 6-11 Dawkins and 7-1 Caldwell Jones in the starting lineup together, and that he could work effectively off the bench.

"Playing the sixth man has helped me because it has given me more freedom," said Jones, who averaged 26 minutes and 13 points per game this season. "On the bench I try to keep my mind on the game. I try to know the tempo, which calls the refs are making and which they are not. Physically I try to get into the game as soon as possible, make something happen. It seems to work for me."

Cunningham, who sometimes played the role of sixth man during his standout NBA career, appreciates the job done by Jones.

"The thing that is so different from any other sport is that you don't have any time to warm yourself up if you're coming in from the bench," he said. "You can't prepare yourself physically for the games, so you have to get involved mentally."

"Bobby does so many things on the floor that will never appear in a boxscore," added Cunningham. "Bobby's defense has become contagious on this team. Because of Bobby's defense, our thinking about team defense has changed. We don't beat people with our offense. Our defense creates everything. And Bobby Jones is defense."

Cowboys sign Marshall tight end

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys have signed Mike Natale, a former Marshall University tight end, to a series of three one-year-contracts.

Marshall spokesman John Evenson said Friday that Natale, who played for Marshall for four years, started every game for the Thundering Herd during the last three years.

During the 1979 season, Natale led Marshall in receiving, catching 21 passes for 247 yards and scoring one touchdown. He will attend the Cowboy's mini-camp May 15.

Dick Motta given o.k. for talks

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — Coach Dick Motta, with a year remaining on his contract with the Washington Bullets, has been given permission to talk with other National Basketball Association teams about a job.

"It's his idea," said General Manager Bob Ferry. "We're not dissatisfied with his coaching."

"Dick's daughter just graduated from high school," Ferry said, "and one of his sons is in college in Idaho, I believe. I think Dick would like to move back west, closer to his roots."

Motta, a native of Utah who began his coaching career at a high school in Idaho, reportedly went to Texas Thursday to discuss an apparent coaching vacancy with the San Antonio Spurs.

In four years with the Bullets, after eight seasons as head coach of the Chicago Bulls, Motta won an NBA championship and finished runner-up on another occasion.

Last season, however, Washington barely made the playoffs and then was eliminated in the first round.

Meanwhile, on the West Coast, Coach Gene Shue of the San Diego Clippers also has been given permission to negotiate for a post elsewhere.

Among his previous coaching jobs in the NBA, Shue directed the then Baltimore Bullets to four division titles in seven years. During that time, he coached Ferry and later hired him as an assistant coach and scout.

"If Dick goes," Ferry said, "we'd be interested in talking with Gene. He'd certainly be one of the candidates."

Even should Motta not find another job, his days with the Bullets apparently are over.

"He's already expressed a desire to leave," Ferry said. "A lame duck situation isn't good for anybody."

NAGOYA, Japan (AP) — Defending champion Isao Aoki and Namio Takasu, both of Japan, fired two-under-par 68s and shared the second-round lead Friday at 137 in a $260,000 international golf tournament.

Aoki, gunning for his third straight title in this tourney, had a flawless second round with two birdies and no bogeys, while Takasu had four birdies and two bogeys on the par-70 Wago Country Club course.

First-round leader Johnny Miller of the United States fell into a third-place tie at 140 with Australia's Graham Marsh, Taiwan's Lu Liang-Huan and Japan's Norio Suzuki.
