NEWS IN BRIEF

Missiles added

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Armed Services Committee, acting in a closed-door session this week, approved a measure that would add 100 multiple-warhead Minuteman III missiles to the 550 already deployed, according to published reports.

The action, on an amendment by Sen. Gordon Humphrey, R-N.H., has the potential for pushing the United States above the ceiling of 1,200 land- and sea-based missiles with multiple warheads, set by the strategic arms limitation treaty with the Soviet Union. The treaty has not yet been ratified by the Senate.

The committee action, according to an account in Saturday's editions of the Washington Post, took place as the panel was winding up work on the Defense Department's $51.9 billion weapons procurement bill for the 1981 fiscal year, which starts Oct. 1. No mention of the action was made in a public statement released Thursday by the panel, reportedly due to an "oversight."

Committee staff members were not immediately available for comment.

Clark returning

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Attorney General Ramsey Clark will return from his controversial trip to Iran this weekend and will hold a news conference here Monday, Clark's law partner said Friday.

The partner, Melvin Wulf, said Clark would arrive at Kennedy Airport at 7:10 p.m. Sunday on Air France Flight 17. He has been in Paris since leaving Iran.

President Carter has said it was his "inclination" to prosecute Clark for violating a presidential ban on travel to Iran, and he said it was his guess that the Department of Justice, which Clark once headed, would seek civil or even criminal penalties against Clark.

Carter invited

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — The government announced Friday it sent a letter to the U.S. Embassy for delivery to President Carter, inviting him to the first anniversary celebration July 19 of the overthrow of President Anastasio Somoza.

A government statement announcing the invitation said Nicaragua wants "a face-to-face dialogue" with Carter.

No charges due

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Hillsborough County officials say they don't plan to file criminal negligence charges against the harbor pilot who was at the helm of a freighter that rammed the Sunshine Skyway bridge.

However, John Lerro does face the possibility of losing his pilot's license in state action stemming from the accident that claimed 35 lives.

Lerro, 37, was guiding the phosphate freighter Summit Venture when it rammed a bridge support during a storm May 9. Thirty-five people died as seven vehicles and a Greyhound bus toppled into Tampa Bay when a 1,400-foot chunk of the southbound span collapsed.

Jury to convene

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A special federal grand jury is scheduled to convene Tuesday to investigate the unsolved 1979 assassination of U.S. District Judge John H. Wood Jr., and the 1978 attempted slaying of a federal prosecutor, the San Antonio Express-News said Saturday.

U.S. Attorney Jamie Boyd had said last month that prosecutors here planned to convene the special panel, which is authorized under anti-organized crime laws.

Middle East initiative launched in Venice

VENICE, Italy (AP) — The Common Market countries on Friday launched a new Middle-East initiative that would bring the once-ostracized Palestine Liberation Organization into peace talks up to now dominated by the United States, Israel and Egypt.

In a declaration issued at the end of a two-day summit conference here, heads of government of the nine nations said involvement in negotiations must be extended to the Palestinian people, "and to the PLO, which will have to be associated with the negotiations."

In Washington, Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie said he did not see anything in the statement that directly challenged the process set in motion at the Camp David peace talks in 1978, and he offered the PLO a role in negotiations if it disavowed its commitment to destroy the state of Israel.

Farouk Kadoumi, head of the PLO's political department in Beirut, Lebanon, said the Common Market action was "positive but lacking several basic subjects." The declaration "deserves more consideration," he said, and the PLO leadership will meet Saturday in Beirut to review the matter.

Israel, which has said any mention of the PLO would legitimize the organization, made no immediate comment on the European initiative or Muskie's words.

But in Cairo, Egyptian Foreign Affairs Minister Butros Ghali said the principles in the European declaration are "compatible" with those of the U.S.-mediated Camp David accords.

"The European declaration calls for a comprehensive settlement, and so does Camp David, it calls for Palestinian participation in the negotiations, and so does Camp David, and it considers East Jerusalem an integral part of the West Bank and so does Camp David," Ghali said. He added "we have no objections to any contacts the Europeans may seek in the common quest for peace in the Middle East."

Palestinians refused to join the negotiations to determine the extent of autonomy to be granted to the 1.2 million Palestinians living in Israeli-occupied territories. The talks have stalled, but Egypt, Israel and the United States are working on a plan to resume the negotiations.

European officials said Friday's announced policy was not meant to be a slap at President Carter and his hopes for autonomy talks. But the leaders said the member states "consider that traditional ties and common interests which link Europe to the Middle East oblige them to play a special role and now require them to work in a more concrete way towards peace."

Carter had urged the Europeans to hold off on a Mideast initiative and continue giving support for the peace proposals outlined at Camp David. The Americans fear that attempts to bring the PLO into the peace process will make Israel more intransigent.

Italian Prime Minister Francesco Cossiga, spokesman for the nine heads of government, said "we did not embark on a collision course with Camp David or support Camp David, it will be alongside Camp David."

The declaration said representatives of Common Market nations will make contacts with interested parties in the Middle East as a first step for European involvement.

City of canals covered with security forces

VENICE, Italy (AP) — This sun-dappled city of canals on the Adriatic is awash with shock troops, frogmen and police determined to secure President Carter and a conference of leaders of the Western World from the threat of urban terrorism.

Italy has mobilized a formidable security machine to protect a tiny island where European heads of government met this week and where Carter joins a conference of Western powers June 22.

"We haven't had such an invasion since 1804 when Napoleon took Venice with his troops," said a Venetian official as he surveyed some of the 8,000 seaborne police, carabinieri and Alpine troops shipped in for the Common Market summit Thursday and Friday.

The European summit on the island on San Giorgio Maggiore — a complex of palaces, monasteries, cloisters and gardens across from St. Mark's Square — provided a dress rehearsal for the upcoming gathering of leaders of the big seven — the United States, Canada, Britain, France, West Germany, Japan and Italy.

Organization of the two consecutive summits posed some tough logistical and protection problems for a country where terrorists have killed 22 persons — one of them in Venice — since the start of the year. The Red Brigades' urban terrorists have threatened to disrupt the meetings, which they branded as "anti-proletarian" in leaflets scattered through the canal-laced city last month.

Police raided more than 1,000 dwellings in the Venice area this week in the wake of last month's terrorist killing of the head of Venice's anti-terror squad.

Tourists will not be barred from Venice, but they are apt to be stopped and frisked.

Italian officials say the island will offer the best built-in security of any summit because President Carter and his colleagues will be completely isolated from the rest of the tourist-clogged city at the height of the tourist season.

"We couldn't block the center of a city like Paris and Tokyo did when they hosted their summits," explained an official from Premier Francesco Cossiga's office.

"Venice can be easily patrolled, and San Giorgio isolated from the bustle. It was an operational choice," he said. The Italian government spent $5 million for restoration and communications for the conference. The island is off limits to the public for the duration.

Italian officials ordered Venice's Marco Polo Airport shut tight during arrivals and departures of leaders for both summits and ruled out any gondola rides for them because snipers might too easily fire from the canal-side buildings.

Several gondoliers, dressed in their striped shirts and straw hats, are to drive the chiefs of state around in motor launches and 28 police frogmen are on 24-hour duty to check every boat for hidden bombs.

Italian officials at first thought they might house the visiting world leaders in the island monastery's 15th century dormitory hall, still used by monks.

That idea was rapidly discarded, as was a U.S. proposal to house President Carter aboard an aircraft carrier cruising in the Adriatic.

Clayton addresses Boys State, believes he can win fourth term

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Speaker Bill Clayton, his political future jolted by a federal indictment, insisted Friday he could be elected to a fourth term if he is found innocent.

He said he had a "lot more" than the 76 House member votes needed to elect a speaker in January.

"I can count, and I can count more than 76," he told reporters as he waited outside the House chamber, to address American Legion Boys State. "It depends on getting this behind us, and we're going to get it behind us."

State Treasurer Warren Harding, a member of the committee that escorted Clayton into the crowded House chamber, shook hands with Clayton, and the speaker assured him, "We're losing a few skirmishes but we're winning the war."

Clayton was chipper enough to joke with a reporter, "Why don't you write me out a contribution this morning, and I'll put it in my desk drawer."

The indictments by a federal grand jury in Houston said Houston labor union official L.G. Moore, aided by Austin lawyers Randall Wood and Donald Ray, delivered $5,000 to Clayton during a meeting in Clayton's office to discuss the $70-million-a-year state employees' insurance plan.

Clayton has acknowledged receiving $5,000 in cash from Moore last November, but he said he thought the money was a campaign contribution. Clayton said he put the money in a credenza in an aide's office and planned to return it to Moore, the regional director of the Operating Engineers and International Union.

The indictments also charged Clayton with accepting a promise of an additional $600,000 if the state insurance contract was awarded to the insurance company FBI informant Joseph Hauser claimed he represented.

Hauser accompanied Moore on the visit to Clayton's office.

Following his speech to Boys State, which greeted him with a standing ovation and later broke into rhythmic applause after he donned a Boys State T-shirt, Clayton told an impromptu news conference.

"We plan on going ahead with business as usual. I don't see any reason why not to."

'Judicial emergency' sought

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Chief U.S. District Judge William Sessions, faced with a shortage of judges in his Western District of Texas, which includes the Midland area, asked the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals on Friday to declare a judicial emergency in the district.

If the unusual declaration is granted, it would extend the deadlines imposed by the federal Speedy Trial Act.

Beginning July 1, charges must be dismissed against defendants not given trials within 70 days of indictment or within 90 days of arrest if they have remained in jail.

Sessions asked that the time limit from indictment to trial be extended to 180 days.

It would be the first such declaration in the 5th Circuit's six-state region and only the 11th in the United States and its territories, according to officials in Washington.

Sessions pointed out in his request that the district has only three of the six active judges authorized by Congress.

He said he had had numerous "sympathy" calls, including several from House members.

He said he wanted to go into detail on several questions but could not because of a court order restricting his comments. "I hope you all don't think I'm chicken, but you don't want a contempt citation," he said.

Asked about a trial date, Clayton said, "I'd like to get it out of the way tomorrow if I could."

Clayton entered the House chamber, with television cameramen backing in front of him as he walked.

"Public service is a noble endeavor, and a sense of wanting to do something for mankind, in my opinion, is one of the highest and noblest goals one can seek ... but sometimes the road is rocky and the pay is meek and the trials and tribulations that confront you can make you cause to wonder," Clayton said in a 15-minute speech.

He said he hoped delegates to Boys State would consider assuming public offices — "then I would have no fear what might be in store for Texas."

"Yesterday," he said, in reference to his court appearance in Houston, "I had an opportunity to observe young men in a different situation... they were brought before a magistrate because they were in trouble. They had stepped over the line, kept the wrong company, not set goals for their lives that were noble... I felt for those young men."

He advised the teen-agers to "read the constitution, know what it says and what it means... our constitution does protect."

"I have faith in our constitution, our system of government," Clayton said. "I have faith in God. I have faith enough to believe that each of us will do what's right for mankind so that generations yet unborn will enjoy the fruits of our labor."

Capitol reporters seldom staff Boys State meetings, but at least a dozen were at the Friday session at which Clayton spoke.

"I'm glad Boys State is bringing the attention of the press to Boys State this morning, and not me, because I've had plenty of it," he said.

Co-defendants Wood and Ray surrendered Friday to the U.S. marshal in Austin and were released on personal recognizance bonds of $10,000 each.

More volcanic ash falls in Northwest

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — A new dusting of volcanic ash and pebbles settled on cities in parts of the Pacific Northwest on Friday after Mount St. Helens erupted for almost six hours in its third major explosion in a month.

The unpredictable volcano pumped a plume of steam, ash and marble-size pumice 10 miles high late Thursday night, giving some cities south-west of the mountain their worst dusting yet. Erratic winds also pushed the gritty ash to the east and northwest.

Geologists expressed surprise at the force of the blast, which dropped pebbles of pumice up to an inch in diameter on Cougar, 10 miles southwest of the mountain.

Cougar had the heaviest ash fall, with half an inch reported on the ground.

No injuries or deaths were reported from the latest eruption.

"It was a major eruption," Pete Rowley, a U.S. Geological Survey geologist said Friday. "It is silent for now, but it could do the same thing it did last night again."

A team of geologists landed near the base of the mountain Friday and reported finding evidence that superheated gas and ash — with temperatures ranging from 200 to 500 degrees — had rushed down the north face of the mountain.

"This indicates this eruption is very similar to the eruption of May 25," Rowley said.

Seismic activity decreased Friday, with no earthquakes registering more than 3 on the Richter scale of ground motion. The harmonic tremor that first appeared when the mountain erupted was diminishing.

"The mountain is essentially dead right now, seismically," Rowley said.

Pulsating bursts of steam about 30 seconds apart rose slowly to about 10,000 feet above the crater through most of Friday.

There was speculation that the latest eruption was linked to a strong phase in the moon's gravitational pull on the earth, but Rowley said that was probably only a small factor in the eruption.

Traces of ash were reported as far north as Seattle and as far south as Medford, Ore., a distance of 450 miles. Ash was reported as far east as Pullman, Wash., and west along the Oregon coast.

The weather service said that a light to very light ash fall was possible from the area of Red Bluff, Calif., and Redding, Calif., north to the Oregon border.

A limited state of emergency was declared in Portland, Ore., but it was lifted. One logging community pelted by pumice was evacuated.

The eruption, which came about 9:10 p.m. Thursday, was first confirmed by pilots circling the mountain. They reported seeing a large, mushroom-shaped plume of dark ash rising through the cloud cover which obscured the peak.

"It looks like an atom bomb," said an observer in a U.S. Forest Service observation plane. "It's very, very black. It's mushrooming way up."

About 20 persons were evacuated from areas surrounding the mountain Thursday.

Muskie cites 'diffusion of power'

By The Associated Press
U.S. Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie said Friday the diffusion of political authority in Iran continues to be the chief obstacle blocking the release of the 53 Americans held hostage in Iran since Nov. 4.

He told a Washington news conference a growing awareness seems to have developed in Iran that holding the Americans does not serve Iran's national interest.

Political observers in Iran said they viewed renewed rioting in Tehran as part of a breakdown of political unity among Iranian groups that co-operated after the 1979 revolution that toppled the shah.

Three hours of clashes Thursday at Tehran University Stadium left five persons dead and 300 injured, witnesses reported. The stadium is across the street from the U.S. Embassy compound where some of the American hostages still are believed held.

The fighting started between supporters of revolutionary ruler Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini and members of the People's Mujahadeen, or Warriors, Iran's largest leftist opposition group. Iranian revolutionary guards, used automatic weapons and tear gas to control the rioting, the witnesses said.

The Mujahadeen, a key element in the anti-shah revolution, were said to have called a rally to protest alleged intimidation of opposition groups by the Khomeini regime and the loss of human rights since the ouster of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi 17 months ago.

Fighting began when Khomeini supporters tried to force their way into the rally attended by some 100,000 Mujahadeen at the stadium, witnesses said.

On April 19, a clash at Tehran University among rival groups of students set off a week of violence that left 20 persons dead and a number injured.

Earlier this week, Khomeini went on nationwide radio and television to warn against internal differences he said were creating "chaos" in Iran and threatening his regime.

At his news conference, Muskie said he thought release of the hostages could come when political authority in Iran is concentrated and "Iran begins to perceive it has other over-

Senator quotes German leader

WASHINGTON (AP) — West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt was quoted Friday as having told a U.S. senator that America can "depend on the bloody Germans" to stand up to Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev on Afghanistan and the modernization of Europe's nuclear defenses.

Sen. Joseph R. Biden, D-Del., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations

European subcommittee, said that in nearly two hours of "blunt" and "stark" conversation earlier this week, Schmidt said repeatedly that Germany will not renege on its commitments.

Biden said it was obvious Schmidt wanted to send a message to the United States and the Carter administration and that, for some reason, he believed normal channels of communication were blocked.

Biden said he had received a lengthy series of communications from West German officials making clear that Schmidt wanted a meeting.

The session took place Wednesday in the chancellor's private office in Bonn. The meeting took place little more than a week before President Carter will meet Schmidt at a summit of Western industrialized nations in Venice.

Biden said Schmidt told him he chose the senator as a channel for his message because Bonn-Washington relations at the highest levels are being handled through "distorted press releases."

"There have been rumblings in the press that the Germans were backsliding," Biden said.

He said there was speculation that in his scheduled meeting with Brezhnev later this summer, Schmidt would offer a separate peace proposal on Afghanistan or back off from a commitment to modernize Europe's theater nuclear force.

"In very, very blunt, stark terms he reassured me that there was no intention on his part to depart from allied positions on both those issues," Biden said.

He submitted a formal report on his conversation with Schmidt and with West German Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher to Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie and said he would also report to the Senate leadership.

Biden said that before his trip, Muskie and other high State Department officials had evidenced nervous uncertainty as to Germany's reliability.

riding priorities which it ought to be concentrating on and pursuing."

Muskie said signs of widespread political unrest in Iran have produced what seemed to be a recognition of the fact that the hostage crisis "is more of a problem than an opportunity."

Iranian Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh responded testily Thursday when Austrian television interviewer asked him in Oslo, Norway, about the captive Americans. He accused the media of allowing the hostage issue to overshadow other developments and said: "To hell with the American hostages!"

Ghotbzadeh, during a break in the the Socialist International meeting he was attending, told the interviewers the deadlock over the American captives "has taught me not to make statements about the freeing of the hostages."

He had said earlier that the Iranian parliament, which Khomeini has said will decide the hostage issue, probably would take up next month whether to free the Americans or try them as spies.

Another delegate at the Oslo socialist meeting, Austrian Chancellor Bruno Kreisky, said a tentative negotiating plan for releasing the hostages has been formulated. Kreisky, who met privately Thursday with Ghotbzadeh, told a Swedish-news agency, "There is a plan for how we will act in the further discussions."

Bolivia to proceed with elections

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — Bolivia's armed forces surprised political circles Friday by declaring they will accept President Lidia Gueiler's defiant decision to go ahead with general elections set for June 29.

Gen. Armando Reyes Villa, the overall commander, issued a statement to the press saying, "The armed forces are disciplined and we accept all of the dispositions and orders of our captain general (Mrs. Gueiler)."

On Monday, the military chieftains had called for a postponement of the elections for one year "to reorganize" the nation.

Reyes Villa also indicated the generals were backing down from their call that U.S. Ambassador Marvin Weissman be found persona non grata and ordered to leave the country.

"We have asked that the United States abstain from meddling in internal politics. We are a sovereign and free nation and we don't want any other country involved in our af-airs," the general said.

The commanders formally asked the Foreign Office to take action against Weissman after a State Department spokesman in Washington warned last week against a military coup and suggested the U.S. government would not recognize a government imposed by force.

Congress reacted emphatically Tuesday to the proposed election postponement, voting 144-0 against any delay. President Gueiler released a statement Wednesday saying, "I have decided to follow the congressional mandate to bring clean and free elections to Bolivia."

The congressional and presidential rebuffs sparked fresh rumors of a possible coup, and the armed forces quick acquiescence was unexpected.

Some diplomatic sources said the threat of a military move remains and would become paramount if voters do not pick a clear winner on the 29th.

There are 12 presidential candidates, making it unlikely any will receive the majority required to win, and it would then be up to Congress to choose a president from the three front runners.

"The danger will come when Congress tries to pick a winner," Marcelo Quiroga, one of the presidential candidates said.

Reyes Villa, in his comment about Ambassador Weissman, said the armed forces did not want a break in relations with the United States and would respect Mrs. Gueiler's decision.

Mrs. Gueiler had said Saturday her government rejected "journalistic comments that contain elements of interference in internal affairs." She did not mention Weissman's name. Aides said Thursday she would recall the Bolivian ambassador to Washington, Aorberto Arce, for consultations on the matter, and this was seen by some observers as a gesture to the generals.

Soviet Union builds airstrip 80 miles from Iran's border

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union has hastily constructed an airstrip suitable for troop transport planes only 80 miles north of the border of troubled Iran, according to Western travelers recently returned from the area.

Western military sources who analyzed the reports said the airstrip, located in Soviet Azerbaijan bordering northwestern Iran, appears to be part of a major new troop staging area.

The sources said they doubted the Russians plan to use the facility to invade Iran, and speculated it might have been constructed in response to the aborted American attempt to rescue the hostages from Tehran in late April.

The staging area, which included hundreds of Red Army trucks, communications equipment and tents, also could be used as a stopover for Russian AN-12 troop planes flying from Eastern Europe to Soviet Central Asia near the border of Afghanistan, military analysts said.

An estimated 85,000 Soviet troops are fighting Moslem rebels trying to overthrow the Soviet-installed regime in Afghanistan.

They also speculated that Soviet concern over the Iranian Kurdish rebellion against the Tehran government, which is being waged near the Azerbaijan border, could have prompted construction of the military facility.

Only two days before the new airstrip was spotted last month, a Soviet official flatly denied the Central Soviet military leadership was beefing up its troop strength along the border near the oil-rich Caspian Sea.

Taira Tairova, the Azerbaijan foreign minister, said the border needed to be defended but said there already were enough troops and they were well equipped. "We need nothing more. We don't need other territories," she added.

But Western military sources said the new Soviet outpost appears to fit other reports of stepped-up military activity in the area, including flights by highly-sophisticated Russian aircraft never before seen in the skies over Azerbaijan.

The new airstrip is located in near-desert scrub land about 20 miles west of Baku, the capital of Azerbaijan.

U.N. Council calls for release of South Africa's prisoners

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The Security Council called unanimously Friday for South Africa to release all political prisoners, end political trials and act immediately to scrap its race-segregation policy.

In a period of unrest in the white-ruled nation — involving strikes, sabotage and school boycotts by non-whites — Western countries on the 15-nation council joined with the Third World majority to approve a resolution that had been negotiated between the Western and black African nations.

The council showed the same unanimity in previous periods of unrest in South Africa — adopting resolutions in June 1976 and October 1977 condemning "massive violence and repression" there and voting an arms embargo in November 1977.

Friday's vote came at the council's fourth meeting on "the question of South Africa." The 50-nation African group asked for the debate at the urging of the African National Congress, a movement outlawed in South Africa that took responsibility for recent sabotage of oil refineries there.

The council members are the United States, Britain, France, Portugal, Norway, China, the Soviet Union, East Germany, Tunisia, Niger, Zambia, Bangladesh, the Philippines, Mexico and Jamaica.

While they voted for the text the Africans put before the council at the end of the negotiations, Western delegates criticized some of its wording.

U.S. Ambassador Donald F. McHenry told the council, "Unless South Africa is immune from the historical forces that have triumphed in every other corner of the world, the majority in South Africa will in the end obtain what it seeks."

McHenry, who is black, called on South Africa to move toward peaceful change and said no progress would be made until "all South Africans — black, white and colored (mixed-race) — come together and find a level of accommodation that will provide the basis for a just and representative government."

"We call upon South Africa," he said, "to make a gesture of good faith by freeing, recalling and dealing with those whose participation is essential to the country's peaceful and stable future."

McHenry objected to a passage in the adopted resolution calling on South Africa for "cessation forthwith of its indiscriminate violence against peaceful demonstrators against apartheid (race segregation), murders in detention and torture of political prisoners."

Diplomatic sources, who asked not to be identified, suggested three main reasons for the military capitulation: Another coup-installed government could face international isolation, the isolation probably would interrupt vital economic aid to this impoverished country, and there could be a bloody revolt.

Some 200 civilians were killed in November in clashes with security forces after Col. Alberto Natusch Busch seized power. He was unable to gather any popular support, and after two weeks he stepped down and turned the government over to Congress.

It elected Mrs. Gueiler as interim president to prepare for the elections.

DEATHS

William Parkis

TEMPLE — Services for William Martin Parkis, 76, of Temple and formerly of Midland, will be at 4 p.m. today in the Sheffield Funeral Home Chapel in Temple. Burial will be at 3 p.m. Monday in Resthaven Memorial Park in Midland.

Parkis died late Thursday night in a Temple hospital following a brief illness.

He was born June 15, 1903, in Brown County and had lived many years in Midland, where he was a carpenter and painter. He had been living in Temple for the past 10 years.

Survivors include his wife, Phelma Parkis; two daughters, Mrs. C.W. Dabney of Goldwithe and Mrs. A.L. Phillips of Midland; a son, William Hershel Parkis of San Diego, Calif.; three stepsons, Jess Howse, Luther Howse and Stanley Howse, all of Temple; eight grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Highs near 100 degrees forecast

June's hot temperatures will continue this weekend with expected highs to be near 100 degrees.

The temperature may just exceed the record set in 1947 of 103 degrees. Strangely enough, the record low for this date, 56 degrees, was also set in 1947, but the low this year should be in the upper 60s.

Warm southerly winds of 10-20 mph will do little to cool off the sizzling day.

Again, no rain is in the forecast, so the day should be sunny followed by fair nights. Last week's torrents brought the rainfall-to-date figures almost up to normal for this time of year. According to weather service sources, June should record another 1.5 inches of rain before the month is through to keep up with the norm.

But, the rain won't be coming this weekend. Washing the car or going to the pool will provide the only wet relief from the burning heat.

CARTHAGE County resident and law enforcement band together. "We're not pleased Friday meeting. The Committee try and help and thefts." "Our aim is which is having Massey's Sp in the last egg $132,000 in cash. And nothing working on it."

Panola County forms vigilance group

Committee to functions as law enforcement auxiliary

CARTHAGE, Texas (AP) — A group of 100 Panola County residents, weary of climbing crime statistics and law enforcement they consider ineffective, have banded together as a citizens' vigilance group.

"We're not out for blood," George Massey explained Friday, a day after the group's organizational meeting.

The Committee for Crime Prevention, he said, will "try and help obtain evidence on these burglaries and thefts."

"Our aim is to try to help the law enforcement, which is having problems," Massey said.

Massey's Sporting Goods has been robbed 38 times in the last eight years, he said, and has lost about $132,000 in cash and merchandise.

"And nothing has been done, up until I started working on it myself," said Massey, adding his efforts have solved two of the robberies.

Several others have complained of difficulty in getting law enforcement officers to investigate burglaries and thefts, Massey said.

He says a shortage of officers and abundance of crimes, coupled with inept enforcement, led to formation of the group.

Massey singles out Bill Warren, district attorney for Panola and Shelby counties, whom he calls a "lame duck."

"Mr. Massey is entitled to his opinion of me, and I have an opinion of him that I am certainly entitled to," said Warren, who will leave office Jan. 1.

Massey claims he gave evidence concerning his robberies to Warren, but that Warren never submitted the bulk of the evidence to the grand jury.

Asked whether he withheld evidence, Warren said he was prohibited from disclosing grand jury proceedings.

"In any case, when an indictment does not result, the members of the grand jury felt there was not enough evidence," Warren said.

He pointed out that Massey himself testified before the last grand jury.

Warren conceded the county has more law enforcement work than manpower, but added, "I think it's a problem everywhere."

Warren lost a race for district judge in May, and his replacement will be Shelby County Attorney John Walker, who is unopposed in the general election.

As for the vigilance group, Warren said he was concerned about the citizens' inexperience.

"From a law enforcement standpoint, I can't say it's a bad idea because we need all the help we can get. The problem which has historically popped up with these civilian organizations is that you get a bunch of folks out trying to act like policemen...who fundamentally don't know what they are doing," he said.

"Possibly one of these volunteers could get hurt, or for lack of schooling in proper law-enforcement procedures, they could make a procedural error that could damage an otherwise good case. I'm not talking about what can or will happen here, but what has shown up in other communities."

Both Sheriff Tommy G. Harris and Police Chief Carson Parks said they would appreciate any help they can get.

Massey insists his group does not intend to replace the authorities.

Anti-Superstition Society gathers to show disdain

By DAVID L. LANGFORD
Associated Press-Writer

Mount St. Helens was acting up again, and some blamed it on the date. But the Anti-Superstition Society was meeting with its 13 black cats to show its disdain for Friday the 13th.

The 313 members planned to gather at a fashionable downtown Chicago club to smash mirrors, trample four-leaf clovers and open umbrellas indoors.

As far as was known, no evil beset Chicago or the members of the group, but out in the Pacific Northwest there was much speculation about why the volcano grew angry.

It is known that cosmic forces were at work on this Friday the 13th. The moon swung closer to the mountain and gave it a gentle tug with its gravity. Scientists had said earlier that would make the volcano "slightly more susceptible" to an eruption.

But they wouldn't buy the notion that the calendar was an influence.

On Thursday, Pete Rowley, a geologist with the U.S. Geological Survey, had said: "If it blows up on Friday, it will set back science 10 years."

That night, Mount St. Helens blew its top for the third time and pumped a mushroom cloud of volcanic ash over much of the Pacific Northwest in the early hours of Friday the 13th.

The Anti-Superstition Society went on with its meeting anyway, since it's the only Friday the 13th they'll get this year. They'll meet three times next year.

"In 1981, there will be three Fridays the 13th — in February, March and November," said Les Lear, the society's executive vice president.

The group was organized in 1930 by 13 members, including Chicago Bears owner George Halas. He and one of his former stars, Harold "Red" Grange, were among 26 men honored this year by the organization for their civic contributions.

Grange, who wore football jersey No. 77, turned 77 years old Friday. "The society tries to discourage belief in silly superstitions," said Lear. "Thirteen black cats were invited to prowl about the meeting room. Meanwhile, inflation also took a lick at the superstition business."

In Grand Rapids, Mich., Jack Diamond, holding a "Friday the 13th Sale" at his magic shop, reported that the cost of rabbits' feet has jumped.

"It costs more to raise the rabbits, but I suspect they may be just getting on the inflation bandwagon," said Diamond. He said the price for the good luck charm had gone up from 35 cents to 50 cents since last year. But he does offer a cut-rate model, an imitation rabbit's foot from Hong Kong that goes for 25 cents.

In Indianapolis, Jerome Kutche wasn't at all concerned that Friday fell on the 13th. That's his lucky number.

Kutche is a retired Indianapolis railroad worker who was born on Friday, March 13, 1918, the 13th of 13 children. He lived on Indiana Highway 13 at Elwood for 13 years. He turned age 13 on Friday the 13th.

He says he has had his share of illness and accidents, beginning at age 5 when he fell from a second-story window and barely survived. He has undergone major heart surgery and was forced to retire early because of disability.

But Kutche, the father of nine children, doesn't blame the number 13. "I don't have any fear of 13," says Kutche. "I'm not superstitious. I don't care if I have 13 black cats. It makes no difference to me. I think I'm the most fortunate person alive today."

Friday also was the lucky day for one passenger riding a Mass Transit Administration bus in Baltimore.

The MTA estimated that was the day the one billionth passenger would climb aboard a city bus.

And that passenger, expected to ride Line 13, in East Baltimore, was to be presented with a plaque and a free monthly pass good for one year.

Barbuto sentencing delayed

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Summit County Probate Judge James V. Barbuto was acquitted Friday of swapping judicial help for sexual favors from women, but was convicted on other charges.

Judge George J. McMonagle convicted Barbuto of imposing himself sexually on a woman and intimidating two detectives who investigated him.

Sentencing was delayed pending the conclusion of a trial on a second set of charges against Barbuto, involving alleged weapons violations, set to begin June 23.

Barbuto, 58, was acquitted on seven counts of bribery, one count of attempted rape and two counts of obstruction of justice.

McMonagle dismissed five other counts on Thursday in the non-jury trial.

Barbuto was convicted of intimidating Summit County sheriff's detectives Sam Williams and William Evans, who testified they were pulled off an investigation of Barbuto in the weapons case in 1977.

He was also convicted of gross sexual imposition in a 1974 liaison with Roslyn Becker. Both Mrs. Becker and Barbuto testified they had engaged voluntarily in one sexual encounter, but Mrs. Becker said she resisted his advances in another instance.

Barbuto's lawyer, James Burdon, said he would appeal the convictions.

Seventeen prosecution and nine defense witnesses testified for five days in the widely publicized, heavily guarded trial.

Many of the witnesses, some of them felons, described in vivid detail alleged encounters with the judge, a former county prosecutor. In an effort to allay the fears of female witnesses, McMonagle decreed that none be photographed or filmed; even though television cameras were allowed in the courtroom.

When put on the witness stand Thursday, Barbuto adamantly denied their allegations. "Absolutely not," he told Burdon when asked whether he was guilty of the charges.

But when he took the stand again Friday, Barbuto said he had sex in his chambers at least once.

"Since 1971, have you had sex with any female not owned there."

Financier Sindona sentenced in biggest U.S. bank failure

NEW YORK (AP) — Financier Michele Sindona, once one of Italy's richest men, was sentenced Friday to 25 years in federal prison as the perpetrator of the biggest bank failure in United States history. He also was fined $207,000.

In addition, he was ordered to pay an undetermined share of the cost of his prolonged prosecution. Authorities said the share would not exceed the fine.

Assistant U.S. Attorney John Kenney said it was believed to be the stiffest sentence ever imposed for a white-collar crime.

The 60-year-old Sindona, recently recovered from a near-fatal dose of a heart stimulant in a suicide attempt, accepted the penalty with no display of emotion. As he was led out of the Manhattan federal courtroom he had a wry smile for his daughter, Maria Elisa Magnoni, the only member of his family present.

Sindona was convicted March 27 of defrauding the Franklin National Bank of $45 million, causing its 1974 collapse, a conviction he is appealing. He also is wanted in Italy where he is accused of a $225-million fraud involving two banks he owned there.

The Long Island-based Franklin National was the nation's 20th largest bank, once boasting $3 billion in assets. In sentencing Sindona, Judge Thomas Griesa said he was going along with a government contention that for the protection of the public and because of the "extraordinarily serious nature of the crimes, a substantial prison sentence and substantial fine is mandatory."

Sindona disappeared last Aug. 6 after walking out of the Pierre Hotel on Fifth Avenue, where he maintained a $400,000 cooperative apartment. Various communications suggesting that he was a kidnap victim were reported by his lawyers, as his original Sept. 10 trial date came and went.

Just as mysteriously as he had disappeared, the dapper Sindona turned up in Manhattan on Oct. 16 with a tale of being kidnapped by Italian radicals. The government scoffed at this story, and said it had evidence Sindona had fled the country to avoid trial, but returned when he realized his kidnap hoax had been unmasked.

As his trial opened last your spouse in your chambers?" Special Prosecutor Orval Hoover asked.

"Yes," Barbuto replied. The prosecutor did not press for details.

Barbuto also was asked about pornographic magazines and other sexual material he allegedly kept in his chambers. Barbuto said he used those for anti-pornography presentations to civil groups.

In his closing statement, Prosecutor Bradford Gearing said the women who appeared against Barbuto had nothing to gain from their testimony. In fact, for some of them, there was good reason not to cooperate, he said.

"They had an in with the judge," Gearing said. "The only thing they had to offer was sex and this defendant accepted it."

Burdon said the evidence was not strong enough to prove the state's case "beyond a reasonable doubt."

Williams and Evans testified that they were pulled off an investigation of Barbuto by Sheriff Anthony Cardarelli after they visited Barbuto in his chambers. Barbuto contradicted their testimony.

Gearing and Hoover banked heavily on the testimony of Linda Marie Foster, 29, who testified Barbuto sexually attacked her in his chambers in 1974. Barbuto said under oath that he had never seen her before.

One defense witness said Mrs. Foster was untruthful, but Barbuto said under questioning by Hoover that the witness, Roseanne Dain, was the daughter of his second cousin.

Barbuto was charged with attempting to rape Mrs. Foster and grabbing Mrs. Becker.

Barbuto was charged with bribery for allegedly giving favors to four women in return for sex.

Eleanor Bridges, 27, testified she got a pay raise and an air conditioner for her office.

Essie Vaughn Pryor said Barbuto put her on probation after she pleaded guilty to assault but lifted all restrictions on her before the term expired even though she had pleaded guilty to shoplifting.

Arlintha Wims said she asked Barbuto to put a friend of hers on probation.

Shirley Williams also was placed on probation.

Schreiner College to honor Midlander

KERRVILLE — Midlander N. Ford Chapman, a former student of Schreiner College, will be recognized by the college's board of trustees at a banquet in his honor this June.

Chapman, class of 1928, was announced as the recipient of the 1979 Distinguished Alumnus Award in November.

Selection for this award is based on a person's accomplishments in his chosen career after he or she leaves Schreiner, as well as demonstrated leadership, citizenship, and contributions to society.

Chapman was a delegate to the 1956 Republican National Convention in San Francisco and a delegate-at-large to the 1961 Republican National Convention in Chicago. He will represent Midland County at this year's Republican State Convention at Houston.

He was the first two-term president of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association and served on the committee which conceived and built the Permian Basin Museum, Library and Hall of Fame. He is presently a director and vice-president of the organization.

Recession continues to spread

WASHINGTON (AP) — Production at the nation's factories, mines and mills plunged 2.1 percent last month as the recession continued to spread through the economy, the government reported Friday.

Meanwhile, the recession-bred slack in demand for consumer and business loans prompted the Chemical Bank in New York, the nation's sixth largest, to lower its prime commercial lending rate a full percentage point to 12 percent.

A number of other major banks quickly followed suit. The action lowers the interest rate commercial banks charge their most credit-worthy corporate customers to the level that prevailed in August.

And it accompanied the Federal Reserve's decision to lower its key bank lending rate on Friday to 11 percent, where it stood before the central bank began fighting inflation by tightening up money and credit last October.

The May drop in industrial production was the fourth consecutive monthly decline and reduced factory output to its lowest level in two years, according to the Federal Reserve report.

The drop was the largest since a 2.2 percent decline in February 1975 during the last recession and followed a 2 percent production dropoff in April, the data indicated.

"Reductions in output occurred in all major market groupings and were particularly sizable for automotive products, home goods, construction supplies and durable goods materials," the report said.

William Cox, deputy chief Commerce Department economist, pointed out that the production decline of 4.8 percentage points since January was not as great as the 11 point drop that occurred during from December 1974 through March 1975, which was the last time production declined for four consecutive months.

"Are larger drops ahead?" he was asked. "I would doubt that, simply because I continue to believe that we are seeing the worst of this recession in terms of the rate of contraction at present and that we are likely to see at least a beginning of a bottoming (in the recession) in the third quarter," Cox responded.

The Carter administration has been predicting a "mild and short" downturn. However, joblessness in May rose to 7.8 percent of the workforce, or well above the administration's prediction of no more than 7.2 percent unemployment by year's end.

Most private economists now are saying that the 1980 recession could be the second worst since World War II, surpassed only by the 1974-75 downturn, and that unemployment could exceed 8.5 percent by year's end.

In other economic news Friday, the U.S. League of Savings Associations said mortgage activity in May dropped to the lowest level since March 1975, during the last recession.

The value of mortgages that were closed last month was $3 billion, the Washington-based trade association said.

This matched the March 1975 level, represented a 32 percent drop from the $4.4 billion in mortgage loans closed in April and was 71 percent behind the $10.2 billion pace of May 1979, the league said.

The Federal Reserve report said the index of industrial production stood at 145.5 in May, or 45.5 percent ahead of its 1967 base of 100.

This was a 1.5 percent below the level in May 1979 and the lowest since a 141.8 reading in May 1978.

Banker thinks depositors deserve chance for 10 percent mortgages

CATSKILL, N.Y. (AP) — The other bankers in town think he's a fool, but James J. Murphy, president of the state's smallest savings bank, thinks his loyal depositors deserve a sale on mortgage money.

The phones began to ring before opening time Friday morning at the Greene County Savings Bank, where Murphy has made available $1 million at 10 percent interest for depositors.

"The whole idea is to stimulate the economy," Murphy said. "We feel an obligation to our depositors."

"Three banks I talked to think I'm a fool," he added. "But I think a small-town bank like ours maybe could start a trend."

The two-office institution has total assets of about $48 million and about 10,300 depositors in a mostly rural county which borders the Hudson River between Albany and New York City.

Murphy said he received several calls at home Thursday night from depositors after an Associated Press story was published.

"They just wanted to thank me," he said. "They didn't even want to take out a loan."

Pensioners on 'payroll' as matter of conscience

WASHINGTON (AP) — Under the law, no one owes a penny in pension funds to the former employees of the old Kann's department stores, most of whom are in their 70s and rely heavily on their pensions.

But B. Bernei Burgunder Jr. is going to see to it that they continue getting pension money. To him, it's a matter of conscience.

Kann's stores on Pennsylvania Avenue, half a mile from the White House, and in suburban Arlington, Va., were sold in 1971.

The new owners, L.S. Good & Co., a West Virginia chain of stores, continued to pay Kann's retired employees their pensions, even after closing the Kann stores in 1975.

Then Good & Co. fell upon hard times.

In April, the 200 pensioners received letters telling them that the May checks would be delayed.

They never came. Two weeks ago, Good & Co. went bankrupt.

None of that matters much to Burgunder, who runs the S. Kann Sons Co., which went into the real estate and investment business after getting out of retailing.

Burgunder is arranging for the pensioners to get their checks, averaging about $100 a month. "And don't call it a gift!" he thundered into a telephone Friday. "It's a moral obligation."

"It's true it was verbal. There wasn't anything in writing. And the pensions were unfunded."

"But as far as I'm concerned, it's as much an obligation as if it were funded and it were in writing."

"It's not a gift and it's not a handout. These people worked for their pensions, they earned them and they deserve them."

Burgunder's moral obligation will cost his firm about $20,000 a month.

He is setting up a fund to have the benefits continue no matter what happens to him or his firm.

"Damn it," he said. "This isn't going to happen again."

Henry Fonda, wearing bee-proof veil and protective gloves, looks closely at a honeycomb from one of the hives in his Bel-Air estate's backyard. (AP Laserphoto)

Henry Fonda's busy as a bee in his Bel-Air estate's backyard

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — He looks as anonymous as any masked beekeeper. But behind the mask is a face familiar to millions of moviegoers, who have seen him play presidents, outlaws and nearly everything in between.

And the unique flavor of the honey from "Hank's Bel-Air Hive" has made beekeeper Henry Fonda almost as famous to local honey-lovers as he is to movie fans for his roles in "Young Mr. Lincoln," "The Grapes of Wrath," "The Return of Frank James," "Advise and Consent" and "Twelve Angry Men."

"There's not a honey on the market like mine," Fonda said in an interview beside his backyard hives. "It has nothing to do with me. It's the variety of forage on my back 40."

The "back 40" is Fonda's huge Bel-Air estate, with its lush gardens and orchards — acres of flowers and groves of lemon, grapefruit, tangerine, apple and orange trees.

"It's really a paradise of bees," said Fonda. Despite getting stung a few times, he said, he and his honey-producers coexist more or less peacefully.

Fonda, 75, isn't keeping bees for profit, though he could. He delights in passing out jars of Hank's Bel-Air to his co-workers, as he did recently on the opening night of the play "The Oldest Living Graduate" at the Wilshire Theater in Beverly Hills.

And he always has a jar ready for the knowing hostess who invites Fonda and his wife, Shirlee, to dine.

"We've noted an upswing in our dinner invitations," he said with a chuckle.

"I have a really tough time keeping up with demand," Fonda said. "Waiting in line are my daughter Jane, my son Peter, my sister in Omaha, a cousin in Denver, nieces all over the place, friends

Experts question claims of low-tar cigarettes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Smokers who switch to low-tar cigarettes may run just as high a risk of heart and lung disease — other than cancer — as before, and suggestions that they are safer may be compounding the danger, experts at a government-sponsored conference say.

While challenging the wisdom of government efforts to encourage persons who insist on smoking to switch to "light" brands, one group of the 75 doctors and scientists at the three-day meeting also called for stern new warnings against smoking at all during pregnancy.

Surgeon General Julius B. Richmond is re-examining a 1966 government pronouncement that smoking lower tar and nicotine cigarettes is "less harmful." He has said some people who switch to low-yield cigarettes might actually be doing themselves more damage by smoking more and inhaling more deeply.

The recommendations of this week's meeting will form the basis of the 1981 report to Congress on smoking, due in January.

Dr. William Castell, director of a long-term study of heart disease in Framingham, Mass., said current studies show "no benefit to date on cardiovascular disease" from low-yield cigarettes.

"It's much better to quit than to switch," he said.

Dr. Lawrence Longo, a physiologist from Loma Linda University in California, said that despite the reduction in tar and nicotine in cigarettes, pregnant smokers still run a 30 percent to 70 percent higher risk of spontaneous abortions.

Also, he said, they bear babies weighing 200 grams less than average, and run a 36 percent to 47 percent greater risk of a premature delivery. Smoking also is associated with higher disease rates in their young children, he said.

Experts cautioned that while the industry has reduced tar and nicotine levels, carbon monoxide levels have not come down.

Dr. Jesse Steinfield, dean at the Medical College of Virginia in Richmond, said carbon monoxide may be the culprit in complications during pregnancy.

Madalyn Murray O'Hair announced during a Friday news conference a lawsuit to fore Congress to stop paying chaplains. The atheist leader predicts the suit will lead to the end of prayer at all levels of government. (AP Laserphoto)

Atheist sues to stop salaries of congressional chaplains

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Atheist Madalyn Murray O'Hair wants Congress to stop paying Edward Elson and James David Ford, the salaried chaplains who offer prayers before House and Senate sessions. In a lawsuit Mrs. O'Hair said was filed in Washington Friday, her Society of Separationists asked a federal court to prohibit Congress from paying for the prayers. "It's straight out of tax funds and we want to stop this," said Jon Garth Murray, Mrs. O'Hair's son. Mrs. O'Hair declined to comment about the "problems" of William Murray, her son who recently apologized for his role in the atheist movement. Mrs. O'Hair claimed the atheists are in good company in the fight to get rid of the chaplains. "Thomas Jefferson didn't like it. Ulysses Grant didn't like it. Andrew Jackson, I believe, was another one... who tried to put through something to get the chaplains out," she said. The suit said the Senate chaplain (Elson) gets $34,398 a year and has an expense account of $28,500 a year. The House chaplain (Ford) gets $26,691 a year. A total of $89,789 in tax money is spent each year for the chaplains, according to the suit. "Their prayers are published in the Congressional Record. Federal funds are expended to pay for publishing these religious prayers," the suit said. Mrs. O'Hair said the suit, if successful, will be followed by legal action to ban even voluntary prayers in Congress. Murray said the organization decided to file the suit after being frustrated in attempts to stop prayers at local government meetings around the nation. "One thing the defense always uses is, 'Well, the U.S. Congress opens with a prayer and the U.S. Congress has chaplains...'" Murray said at a news conference at the American Atheist Center. "It's been a burr in the saddle for every other suit we have," he said.

Census director admits many missed, but survey incomplete

CHICAGO (AP) — The regional director of the U.S. Census Bureau said Friday that charges that the bureau undercounted Hispanics are probably true, but he noted that the survey is nowhere near complete. "We didn't only miss Spanish households, we miss all kinds of households (during the first phase of census counting) because of the way the system works," said Stanley Moore. Eight Hispanic groups and 55 individuals filed suit Thursday alleging that the bureau failed to count thousands of Chicago Hispanics. They claimed that will cost residents of Hispanic neighborhoods political representation and money from federal and state programs based on population. The suit named Moore, Secretary of Commerce Philip M. Klutznick and Census Bureau Director Vincent Barabba and asked that the alleged abuses be corrected. Moore called the charges premature. During the first counting phase, "we buy a number of commercial mailing lists and send forms to those households," Moore said. "So we know that we're missing some households. Next, census takers visit post offices and obtain addresses of households which were missed during the first sweep. I don't understand why they're saying we undercounted, when we've just begun the follow-up. It's not giving us a fair chance," he said.

Census behind schedule; Bureau 'optimistic'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The census is running slightly behind schedule, but officials at the Bureau of the Census remained optimistic Friday that the national head count will be a success. The local review phase of the count, in which officials of communities will get a look at preliminary figures to see if any large groups of people have been overlooked, is now getting underway. Census Director Vincent P. Barabba explained that a preliminary count of the housing units in each census tract is being mailed to the chief elected official of communities across the country. "THEY CAN compare these figures, which will not be published by the bureau, with information available locally. Bureau officials hope that any problems will be reported over the next few weeks so corrections can be made while local census offices are still open. Barabba said no decision has been made on whether to make adjustments for any undercount in the census. The figures will be studied, he said, and a decision on whether or not to adjust isn't likely before fall. He said he doesn't feel there should be any adjustment of figures used to apportion Congressional seats, but adjustment may be appropriate for figures used in other activities.

SOME communities and minority groups have complained they weren't fully counted in the 1970 census, resulting in less federal aid and programs than they feel entitled to. Because of various local problems, particularly in hiring enough workers, the census is about two weeks behind schedule, Barabba said. But he said original planning had left enough room for delays and noted that the unexpectedly high return rate for the mailed forms will eliminate some of the followup work originally planned. THE PROGRESS of the census varies from area to area, Barabba noted, with some communities nearly complete while others, for various reasons, are further behind schedule. New York, Chicago, Houston, Los Angeles and Miami are areas where the count is going slowly because of the density of the population. Barabba also cited the riots in Miami, volcano eruptions in the Northwest, a fire in Framingham, Mass., and the tornado in Grand Island, Neb., as among reasons for local disruptions. But, Barabba said, of the census forms mailed out, 97 percent have been completed and returned through the mail or collected by census workers going door to door. The editing of the short forms is 98 percent complete and that of the long forms is 94 percent done. GERALD POST of the bureau said that on the short forms, about 20 percent have one or more answers omitted, while the rate of one or more omissions on the long forms is about 40 percent. The bureau will try and get those answers in its followup. Many of the omissions are things people tend to feel are obvious, Post said. For example, in areas where virtually everyone speaks English many don't bother to answer what language is spoken in the home. Some people are skipping the more detailed financial questions on the long forms, he added. Asked about reports that some census workers haven't been paid on time, Barabba said the bureau has about 300,000 temporary employees and 95 percent have been paid on time. Some workers were not paid because of clerical errors or forms not correctly filled out, he said, adding, "I realize that if you haven't been paid, you aren't impressed with our ability to pay the other 95 percent of the workers."

Census tests scheduled June 23

GARDEN CITY — The Census Bureau will be in Garden City at 2 p.m. June 23 to test for census workers for follow-up enumeration. Workers will be paid $4 an hour plus mileage, according to Janet Faulkner, district manager of the Census Bureau in El Paso. Those eligible for the job are students home from college and wanting employment lasting from 10 days to three weeks, teachers who have the summer off, anyone over 18 who has a high school diploma or GED equivalent or bilingual. "I don't understand why they're saying we undercounted, when we've just begun the follow-up. It's not giving us a fair chance," he said.

Watson is ready for charge

SPRINGFIELD, N.J. (AP) — Tom Watson has put the disappointment of missing the cut at last year's U.S. Open totally out of his mind as he readies to make a charge over the final 36 holes of this year's tournament.

"I really don't think about last year at all," said Watson, who won five tournaments and $462,636 in 1979, but was a victim of the cut in the U.S. Open at Inverness in Toledo, Ohio. "I never look back at past disappointments."

WATSON EASILY survived the cut this year by stringing together a 36-hole score of 71-68—139, to climb within five strokes of leader Jack Nicklaus entering today's third round at Baltusrol Golf Club.

final two rounds are Gibby Gilbert, Chi Chi Rodriguez, Bobby Nichols and Al Geiberger. Masters champion Seve Ballesteros was disqualified after arriving after his 9:45 a.m. starting time.

There are some big names, however, that missed the 146 cut, including South African Gary Player, who wanted a victory very badly to make him only the second player to win each of the four major championships at least twice.

PLAYER SHOT a respectable 2-over 72 Friday, but that was not enough to compensate for his 77 on Thursday.

Player arrived five days early to prepare for his assault on Baltusrol but left two days ahead of time.

Andy Bean, given a good chance to win the Open, also was a victim of the cut with a 73-74-147. Other prominent players relegated to watching the BOBBY CLAMPETT and Gary Hallberg were the only two of 18 amateurs to make the cut.

Watson, meanwhile, shot himself back into contention by knocking in a six-foot birdie putt on 17 and then sinking a 100-foot wedge shot for an eagle-3 on the 18th hole.

"Those last two holes gave me a very big lift," he said. "It meant I was under par for the tournament and within five shots of the lead. If I can shoot a couple under par the next couple of rounds I can be in position to win the tournament."

Watson was looking forward to today's third round.

"I'm extremely happy with the way I played," he said. "I'm happy with my position."

Jack Nicklaus, U.S. Open leader

Nicklaus leading U.S. Open golf

SPRINGFIELD, N.J. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus has often said he would like to join the elite club of three players who have won four U.S. Open golf championships. He's nearing his goal.

However, it won't be easy for the 40-year-old Nicklaus, who this week at Baltusrol has pieced together all the parts of his game, although different than when he was in his heyday, good enough to lead the field of the world's best golfers for the first two rounds of the 80th Open at historic Baltusrol Golf Club.

"I played very well, actually," said Nicklaus after shooting a 71 Friday to go with his Open record-tying 63 in the opening round. "It was very similar to Thursday except that the putts I hit then went in and all the putts I hit today sort of stayed on the edges of the cup."

"Obviously, 71 makes a pretty good round in the U.S. Open following a 63."

"I came out with the attitude to be as aggressive as I could and leave the field behind if I got off to a good start," he said. "I'll have the same opportunity Saturday."

Nicklaus, who shared the first day's lead with fellow Ohioan Tom Weiskopf, went into today's round as the sole 2-stroke leader in his bid to join the club of quadruple Open winners with Willie Anderson, Bobby Jones and Ben Hogan.

Pursuing from two strokes back at 136 were big Lon Hinkle, known for the tree incident in last year's Open but winner of the World Series of Golf and the Bing Crosby in 1979, Japan's Isao Aoki and Mike Reid and Keith Fergus, steady tour players who have been playing well lately but have no tour victories.

Mark Hayes, a three-time winner in his eight years on the tour, was three strokes behind Nicklaus, while Weiskopf lost five strokes to par Friday and shared the 138 slot with relative unknown Pat McGowan.

Tom Watson, the pretournament favorite, birdied No. 17 and eagled No. 18 to shoot a 68 Friday to go with his initial 71 to join Pete Jacobsen at one under par 139, a position Watson believes puts him in contention for the final two rounds.

"Those last two holes gave me a big lift, he said. "I shot myself right back into the tournament. I'm now only five strokes behind the leader and three strokes out of second place."

Lee Trevino, a two-time Open winner, was among a group of eight at even par 140 that included defending champion Hale Irwin, J.C. Snead and steady Gene Littler.

Sixty-three players from the starting field of 156 made the 146 cut, with Arnold Palmer, Hubert Green, Dave Stockton and Ray Floyd just barely getting in.

Only two of the 18 amateurs who started will go on to the final two rounds — Gary Hallberg of Barrington, Ill., at 142 and Bob Clampett of Carmel, Calif., 146.

Among those failing to make the cut were Andy Bean and Jerry Pate, 147; Chi Chi Rodriguez, 148, and Gary Player and Bob Murphy, 149.

Nehemiah qualifies with easy win in semifinals in Congress Outdoor

WALNUT, Calif. (AP) — Renaldo "Skeets" Nehemiah, world record holder in the 110-meter hurdles, easily skinned through his heat and semifinal at The Athletic Congress Outdoor Track and Field Championships Friday night in his first competition in five weeks.

"Technically, I feel better than ever," added Nehemiah, who set the world mark of 13.00 last year. "I've improved in a lot of areas."

Among those joining Nehemiah in Saturday's final were Rod Milburn, the 1972 Olympic champion who did not run as an amateur from 1973 until 1980, and consistent Dedy Cooper, who has run 13.34 this year, his career best.

SPORTS

"I was just being cautious and I was certainly not trying to impress anyone," said the University of Maryland star, who has been sidelined most of the year with an assortment of injuries and had not run since May 11 when he finished fourth in the UCLA Invitational.

Nehemiah's times were not overly impressive—13.70 seconds in the heat and 13.57 in the semifinal. But they were good enough to win and prove to Nehemiah that he was getting back into shape.

"My left foot is about 85 percent OK now," he said. "But it may be a matter of time before I will be able to tell whether I'm back physically."

Meanwhile, Clancy Edwards, the 1978 champion in the 100- and 200-meter races, failed to qualify for the 100 semifinals, placing seventh and last in his heat in 10.79 seconds.

John Smith, world record holder at 440 yards with a time of 44.5 seconds in this meet in 1971, was unable to get through his heat of the 400-meter dash, finishing fourth. Only the first three in each heat advanced to Saturday's semifinals.

George Frenn, the 1970 and 1971 hammer throw champion, did not get out of the qualifying for Saturday's final. His best toss was 197 feet, 7 inches. Both of his winning throws in the past decade exceeded 230 feet.

Another hammer throw veteran, Ed Burke, the 1966-67-68 champion and the American record holder, made it through the qualifying round, with a heave of 206.6. Burke was idle for 12 years before resuming competition this year.

Segelke tames San Antonio, 2-1

SAN ANTONIO — The Midland Cubs may be out of the first half race in the Texas League West, but they are getting in their two cents worth against the league leading San Antonio Dodgers.

Midland's Herman Segelke, with ninth inning relief help from Bob Blyth, bested the Dodgers, 2-1, here Friday night to shrink San Antonio's West lead to a mere 1/2-game lead over Amarillo, who defeated El Paso Friday.

It was the second victory in a row for the Cubs over the pace setters and Segelke, 4-4, was the big weapon. He gave up only five hits and one unearned run in the ninth when Blyth came on to get him out of trouble for his 11th save of the year.

With the Cubs leading 2-0 going into the ninth, Segelke walked Alex Taveras and gave up a single to Tom Byers. Blyth came on at that point and loaded the bases by walking Mike Marshall. Taveras then scored when Dale Holman's grounder was booted by Midland first baseman Joe Hickey. But Blyth got out of the jam when a fly ball by Bradley to Midland right-fielder Randy LaVigne turned into a double play as LaVigne nailed Byers at the plate with a perfect throw to end the game.

Midland took a 1-0 lead in the second inning when Hicks tripled and scored on a balk by losing pitcher Fernando Valenzuela, 5-5. The winning run came in the Midland seventh. LaVigne got an infield single and went to third on Jim Payne's single. LaVigne then scored on a sacrifice fly by J.W. Mitchell.

The two teams met again at 7:30 p.m. today, and Midland could knock the Dodgers out of first place with their third victory of the series.

New probe hits Colorado again

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — In the wake of a recruiting violation scandal, the University of Colorado's athletic department is the subject of a new probe — this time for the alleged misuse of public funds.

University detectives and auditors said four or five athletic department staff members are being questioned about their use of university travel vouchers and telephone credit cards.

Earlier this week, a university committee announced the athletic department has violated 50 National Collegiate Athletic Association regulations concerning recruiting and other matters.

Campus Police Lt. Jim Fadenrecht confirmed that an investigation into alleged misuse of athletic department funds is in progress at the school.

In a release from the campus police department, a spokesman said the amount of misuse of funds is "under $5,000."

"The investigation was started through normal university fiscal control practices," according to the campus release. Members of the campus police department and the school's auditing department are conducting the investigation.

Bucks, Nuggets go before arbitrator

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Both sides in a dispute over the Milwaukee Bucks' reacquisition of forward George Johnson from the Denver Nuggets have agreed to submit the matter directly to an arbitrator rather than going before a grievance panel, a Bucks' spokesman said Friday.

John Steinmiller, director of business operations for the Bucks, said the decision to skip the grievance panel step was normal "when both sides want to get the problem settled quickly."

Johnson, who was the Bucks' No. 1 choice in the 1978 National Basketball Association draft, was sold to the Nuggets last fall, but the Bucks purchased his contract back at the end of the season.

Schmidt powers Phillies to win over San Diego

By The Associated Press The Philadelphia Phillies scored seven runs in the first inning, two on major league leader Mike Schmidt's 19th home run, and beat San Diego 9-6. The first seven Philadelphia batters got base hits in the game Friday night.

Allen Trammell triggered a six-run sixth inning with a triple to support eight-hit pitching by Jack Morris as the Tigers defeated the Chicago White Sox 8-4. Willie Aikens knocked in three runs with a pair of homers and a grounder, leading the Kansas City Royals to a 4-3 victory over Milwaukee for their ninth victory in 10 games.

And in the first game of a two-night doubleheader in Oakland, Mickey Klutts led off the bottom of the ninth with a homer of Ron Guidry as the A's, playing before more than 45,000 fans, beat the New York Yankees 4-3.

Braves topple Chicubs

CHICAGO (AP) — Chris Chambliss lashed a tie-breaking, two-run double in the seventh inning and scored the eventual winning run to lift the Atlanta Braves to a 7-6 victory over Chicago Friday and send the Cubs to their fourth straight defeat.

Glenn Hubbard and Dale Murphy, who early had homered and doubled, both singled before Chambliss drilled a double into the left field corner off loser Lynn McGlothen, 3-3, to snap a 4-4 tie. Chambliss scored the third run of the inning when centerfielder Jerry Martin dropped Bob Horner's fly ball for an error.

The Braves took a 1-0 lead in the first on Murphy's eighth homer.

TEE TIME Eagle at Hogan

By Rex Worrell Hogan Park Golf Pro

Another eagle was scored at Hogan Park this week by Dick Massey. Dick eagled the 400-yard par four No. 12 hole with a driver and a 5-iron.

He hit his 5-iron shot from 160 yards out for the eagle. His 18 hole score was 71 and he was playing with Joe Wilkinson, Bill Phares, Larry Coggan and Nub Keller.

TOMMY URPS shot an even par round of 71 on May 30. This was his first even par round, and if he hadn't choked on his six-foot par putt on No. 18, he would have broken par. He was playing with Terry Dummer when he shot the 71.

The Hogan Park Junior Program ended with a tournament Friday. Winning the three-hole group was J. Kurc and was followed by Steven Hernandez and Roy Varnon. J. Price won the six-hole group with Tom Knittle second and Anthony Vitran third.

Also on Friday, Hogan Park hosted the West Texas Chapter PGA Junior Tour, and Abilene's Grant Maples was the 16-year-old winner while Brian Burrell of San Angelo was second and Chris Mickelson of San Angelo was third. For the 14-15 age group, the winner was Brent Burnett of Sweetwater, runner-up Berry Fletcher of San Angelo and third place Rob Marburger of Midland. For the 12-13 group, Andrews' Michael Campbell was the winner while Joel Brooks of Odessa was second and Mike Haught of Crane third. There was a field of 50 players from the West Texas area.

Longhorns recruit nine top players

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas has recruited nine players to replace losses to the pros, including Bobby Hinson of La Marque, a pitcher some compare to Nolan Ryan of the Houston Astros.

Another Longhorn recruit is first baseman-outfielder Randy Day of Orange Coast Junior College in Los Angeles, a .360 hitter who is the brother of Boots Day of the Montreal Expos.

Texas Coach Cliff Gustafson said Friday his four pitching recruits — Hinson, Calvin Schiraldi of Austin Westlake, Mike Capel of Spring and John Machin of Carrollton Turner — are four of the top, if not the top, pitchers in the state.

All four were chosen in the recent pro draft, Schiraldi by the Chicago White Sox and the other three by Philadelphia.

Departing to the pros were junior pitchers Keith Creel and Jim Acker, who won a combined total of 25 games during the past season as Texas gained the NCAA regional playoffs before being ousted by Hawaii.

Texas' other recruits include Dallas Hillcrest catcher Brad Jones; Wichita Kan., outfielder-first baseman Mark Reynolds; outfielder Tracy Dophied of San Jacinto Junior College; and Rusty Uresti, former Austin Crockett player who caught for Southmost Junior College in Brownsville.

The Austin American-Statesman also reported outfielder Larry Long of Southern Methodist, which dropped baseball, will transfer to Texas, with one year of eligibility remaining.

Hinson was the highest draftee, going to Philadelphia in the seventh round.

"Some people compared him to Nolan Ryan in high school," said Gustafson. "He struck out 97 in 70 innings and had an 8.3 record. He's got the basic equipment and an outstanding arm, but he needs to get stronger and fill out a little bit."

Capel, a 24th-round choice of the Phillies, finished at 13-2, after losing, 1-0, on a two-hitter to Houston Cypress Creek, which advanced to the Class 4A semifinals.

Machin, the only lefthander among the pitchers, was 17-2 after losing in the state tournament to Pearland, which won the 4A championship. Machin went in the 14th round to the Phillies. Schiraldi, a 15th-round draft choice, had an 18-1 record and won the 3A title game against defending champion DeSoto.

Reynolds, who hit .490 with eight home runs, is the brother of Ron Reynolds, a senior catcher for Arkansas during the 1980 season.

Dophied, a Houston Westchester graduate, had only a .270 season average for San Jacinto JC but hit .500 in the playoffs. Uresti hit .335 with eight home runs for Southmost.

Eller hanging up grid cleats

SEATTLE (AP) — Defensive end Carl Eller, a 16-year National Football League veteran who played four times in the Super Bowl for the Minnesota Vikings, has retired, the Seattle Seahawks announced Friday.

Eller, 38, came to the Seahawks before last season in a trade for defensive lineman Steve Niehaus, Seattle's first draft choice in 1976. He played with the Vikings for 15 seasons.

In 1979, Eller played in all 16 regular season games and started in eight contests. Although the Seahawks went 9-7 for the second straight season, they failed to make the playoffs and lacked an effective pass rush.

The Seahawks' first round draft pick this year was defensive end Jacob Green of Texas A & M, considered a premier pass rusher in college.

Jury convenes in Ali slander suit

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The jury convened Friday to decide who won the legal fight over a $20 million slander suit against former heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali.

The four women and two men, all white, listened intently as opposing lawyers made final arguments in the five-day-old U.S. District Court trial, with Judge Morey Spear presiding.

Ali, 38, of Chicago, was sued by City Councilman Phillip Ciacio and Jake J. DiMaggio.

They claimed he accused them of racism at an extraordinary news conference, thus subjecting them and their families to humiliation, ridicule and fearsome threats from Ali fans.

"Ali jumps into other people's fights, and he fights dirty," attorney William Wessel told the jury. "He made vilifying remarks, and he made them with reckless disregard of the truth."

"Reckless disregard" is an important element in proving malicious intent, a necessity in a slander suit.

On the other hand, attorney Jack Martzell told the jury it is now clear to anybody that this lawsuit, seeking $10 million for each plaintiff, was frivolous.

Small towns fight water chlorination

By T. LEE HUGHES

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Thomas Micheel, mayor of tiny Germantown, Ill., didn't want to wait for the legislature to act on a bill about water chlorination.

So one day in April he marched into the Germantown water plant, disconnected the chlorination machine and locked it up in the village hall.

"God gave us this good water out of the ground. I've never seen such beautiful water," says the 56-year-old first-term mayor.

But the water contains manganese, and Micheel said the chlorine was reacting with it to turn the water in this town of 1,200 "black and dirty."

"I had everybody on my tail, their clothes were dirty and they couldn't drink the water," Micheel said. So, "I hid the machine."

At the other end of the state, near the Wisconsin border, the village president of Orangeville, population about 550, has refused even to initiate chlorination.

"We never have and never will, under present circumstances," said J. Milton Bostian. "A mandated chlorination rule is just plain nonsense."

Since December 1975, all Illinois communities have been required to chlorinate their public water supplies, under a rule adopted by the state Pollution Control Board.

Chlorine, a disinfectant, is used to inactivate bacteria that cause water-borne diseases such as cholera and typhoid.

But Germantown and Orangeville are among hundreds of little towns and subdivisions that get their water from wells. And in some of those communities, local officials believe the purity of well water makes chlorination unnecessary.

At Bostian's request, Democratic state Sen. James Gitz introduced legislation last year to exempt small communities from chlorination requirements. The bill has passed the Senate and House in different forms, but a final version has yet to be ironed out.

In its present form, the measure would exempt communities of fewer than 5,000 people from chlorinating, as long as their water is proven safe, and standby chlorination systems would have to be maintained for emergencies. In Illinois, most towns that size get their water from wells rather than surface water, such as rivers.

The state Environmental Protection Agency, which strongly opposes the proposed exemption, estimates 1,200 communities would be exempted.

Bostian estimates between 90 and 100 water services are already refusing to chlorinate. Ira Markwood, manager of the state EPA's Public Water Supplies division, said towns refusing to chlorinate can be fined up to $10,000 by the Pollution Control Board, plus $1,000 for each day the violation continues.

He said the board has not yet decided to act against any of the communities, pending results of legislative action.

But Markwood said local officials who refuse to chlorinate are doing a disservice to their townspeople. They may not want to drink chlorinated water themselves, he said, but "I see no reason why they should force that on other people such as children who have no choice in the matter."

Markwood said the practice of chlorinating public water supplies began in the early part of this century. As a result, he said, "There has been no major epidemic of a disease such as typhoid" in Illinois since 1939.

Markwood said local officials opposed to chlorination are using the absence of such diseases as an argument against chlorination.

"It's like saying polio vaccine has stopped polio epidemics, so we can stop vaccinating against polio," Markwood said.

Markwood conceded that if chlorine is improperly used, or combines with certain substances already in the water, it can cause unpleasant odors, taste and color.

He also acknowledged the EPA believes trihalomethanes, substances formed by chlorine reacting with decaying vegetable matter in water, may increase the risk of cancer if drunk over long periods of time.

But Markwood said steps can be taken to reduce or eliminate from water the unpleasant side-effects of chlorine. And he said the tiny risk of cancer must be balanced against the greater threat of water-borne diseases.

Markwood agreed that well water may be less likely to cause disease than surface water, but noted that the distribution systems carrying any water into homes are still open to contamination. "I would like to see every bit of water going from a water supply chlorinated," said Markwood.

But Bostian said: "We have excellent water. To put chlorine in it would downgrade our water. Not one person in our town wants our water monkeyed with, because we have been drinking it throughout our history."

And Micheel said that since he disconnected the chlorine machine the quality of his community's water has improved.

"I took away the machine and I brought the town good water. God is on my side, because it's just cleaned our water up."

New rabies vaccine wins CDC approval

ATLANTA (AP) — The national Center for Disease Control recommended Friday that a new vaccine be used whenever possible to treat persons exposed to rabies.

The Food and Drug Administration announced earlier this week that the vaccine, called human diploid cell vaccine, or HDCV, has been licensed for commercial use in the United States.

Dr. William Winkler of the CDC's viral disease division said HDCV was first developed in the 1960s. A French firm, Merieux Institute, has marketed the vaccine since 1975, but it has been used only on an experimental basis in this country, he said.

"This is the most effective and safe rabies vaccine we've ever had," Winkler said in a telephone interview. "It's one of the most significant advances since Pasteur first developed the rabies vaccine."

Tests in the United States, Europe and Iran have shown HDCV to be effective in preventing development of rabies in persons exposed to the disease, according to an updated report on rabies immunization from the CDC's Immunization Practices Advisory Committee. The report was contained in the CDC's Morbidity and Mortality Weekly Report.

Duck embryo vaccine, or DEV, the vaccine traditionally used for rabies treatment in the United States, can have more serious side effects than the new vaccine and may not be as effective, the CDC said.

"HDCV is the vaccine of choice whenever available" because of its "presumed greater efficacy and because fewer adverse reactions are known to be associated with it," the CDC said.

'Freeway Killer' suspect booked

DOWNEY, Calif. (AP) — A 32-year-old man with a history of sex offenses has been booked for investigation of murder in a death police believe may be linked to the "Freeway Killer" slayings, authorities say.

William G. Bonin was booked in connection with the strangulation of 15-year-old Charles Miranda of Bell Gardens, the 31st victim on a list of 41 killings authorities believe could be the work of the Freeway Killer, Los Angeles Police Lt. Dan Cooke said Thursday.

But investigators say more than one person may be involved in the slayings and that at least some of the cases may be unrelated. Police refused to say whether Bonin was under investigation for any of the other slayings, in which the bodies of nude young males were dumped along highways in six counties during the past eight years.

Search warrants were issued for the Downey home of Bonin's parents and for an apartment house where Bonin lived.

TMI venting approved

WASHINGTON (AP) — Radioactive gas trapped at the disabled Three Mile Island nuclear plant near Harrisburg, Pa., may be released into the atmosphere as early as June 22, following approval for the release from the federal government.

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission on Thursday gave the plant's operator, Metropolitan Edison Co., permission to conduct the venting. The commission, which acted unanimously, had spent nearly eight months weighing the proposed release. Company officials said they intend to start the operation, the first step toward decontaminating the plant, sometime during the last seven days of the month.

Robert C. Arnold, Metropolitan Edison's senior official at the site, said that, "with NRC approval, there is now recognition at all levels of government and throughout the scientific community that the company's proposal for venting is safe."

The krypton gas discharges will be allowed in 15-minute to 30-minute bursts on 30 days spread over a 60-day period.

Strangler charges dismissed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In a brief court hearing, the last 16 charges against confessed "Hillside Strangler" Kenneth Bianchi have been dismissed as part of a plea bargain saving him from the death penalty.

Superior Court Judge William Keene dropped the charges Thursday — five counts of murder, 10 of conspiracy to commit murder and one of pimping — during a 10-minute session Thursday, said Deputy District Attorney Roger Kelly.

Bianchi had been sentenced to life imprisonment last October after pleading guilty to five counts of murder, one of sodomy and one of conspiracy in connection with the "Hillside Strangler" deaths of 10 young women between October 1977 and February 1977.

In exchange for the guilty plea and an agreement to testify against his cousin, Angelo Buono, prosecutors agreed not to seek the death penalty and to drop the remaining charges.

It was not known if Bianchi had testified against Buono during a preliminary hearing because the session was closed to the public and all participants were under a gag order.

Kelly said Bianchi still must testify at Buono's full trial if the case reaches that stage. Bianchi will remain at the county jail until proceedings against Buono are completed, at which time he will be sent to a state prison.

Bianchi also faces two consecutive life terms in Washington state, where he was convicted in the deaths of two students.

Meanwhile, a local television reporter, partly reversing an earlier stand, agreed to let the judge in the Buono case view parts of an interview with one of two former prostitute who are witnesses in the case.

Wayne Satz of KABC agreed to let Municipal Court Judge H. Randolph Moore view unused film after obtaining the consent of one of the two women involved. The screening was delayed until Monday to give Satz time to get the other woman's approval.

Radio station wants rights to Chicken

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The radio station that gave birth to the San Diego Chicken has returned to court to stop the man who used to perform as the station's bird from appearing in "any chicken ensemble or suit."

Station KGB of San Diego asked the California Supreme Court on Thursday to keep Ted Giannoulas, a former employee, from appearing in costume in San Diego County or bordering counties or at any sports or public event in which a San Diego team participates.

KGB had originally gone to court in 1979, contending that Giannoulas had breached his contract with the station and infringed on their trademark by performing as a chicken without the KGB emblem.

Early this year, the state Court of Appeal ruled Giannoulas could appear in a fowl suit as long as it was not "substantially similar" to that worn by the KGB bird.

Shortly after Giannoulas and the KGB chicken began appearing in 1974, the station registered the service mark with federal and state agencies and also copyrighted the KGB Chicken.

KGB said if Giannoulas wanted to reserve any right to perform in a chicken costume he should have done so in the contract and that it has exclusive rights to the costume, the concept and the KGB Chicken.

Under the appellate ruling, a former employee now has greater rights to unfairly compete or infringe upon the service mark of his former employer than any other member of the public, the station told the state high court.

THE NEWSPAPER BIBLE

'Overwhelming victory' is ours for the asking

Who dares accuse us whom God has chosen for His own? Will God? He is the one who has forgiven us and given us right standing with Himself.

Who then will condemn us? Will Christ? NO! For He is the one who died for us and came back to life again for us and is sitting at the place of highest honor next to God, pleading for us there in heaven.

Who then can ever keep Christ's love from us? When we have trouble or calamity, when we are hunted down or destroyed, is it because He doesn't love us anymore? And if we are hungry, or penniless, or in danger, or threatened with death, has God deserted us?

No, for the Scriptures tell us that for His sake we must be ready to face death at every moment of the day—we are like sheep awaiting slaughter.

But despite all this, overwhelming victory is ours through Christ who loved us enough to die for us.

For I am convinced that nothing can ever separate us from His love. Death can't, and life can't. The angels won't, and all the powers of hell itself cannot keep God's love away. Our fears for today, our worries about tomorrow.

Or where we are—high above the sky, or in the deepest ocean—nothing will ever be able to separate us from the love of God demonstrated by our Lord Jesus Christ when He died for us.

Romans 8:33-39

Noted Bishop intends to serve many parishes

By ED TODD Staff Writer

The fledgling Anglican Catholic Church is shy of a priest for every parish in the Diocese of the Southwest, noted the Rt. Rev. Robert C. Harvey, church bishop whose intent is "to be rector of every parish that doesn't have a priest."

"The main thing," he said in meeting last weekend with parishioners from Midland, Big Spring and Alpine, "is to preach the Word of God and to labor on behalf of the people... (and) to have some grasp of the pain that Christ suffered."

And to help get The Word — the gospel — out to all who would listen and heed, Bishop Harvey said he relies, in part, on some "gimmicks" to capture people's interest in the Bible, in God and in Christ.

Far from being a ploy or a guise, his so-called "gimmicks" include historical revelations, such as those concerning the life, death and resurrection of Jesus Christ.

The 64-year-old Austin-based bishop, who is a scholar of church history, offered illustrations to arouse increased interest in Christ and the church: the controversial Shroud used in Christ's entombment and the early travels of the young Christ.

—The Shroud: "This is the image of Jesus' face and form," he said. The image was made "of Christ in death at the moment of resurrection."

—Jesus' travels: Evidence indicates that the young Christ was a shipwright who sailed to England with Joseph.

"It's the sort of thing that captures people's interest," the bishop said. He also offered insight into the early church in England.

The Anglican Catholic Church was organized in recent years by Episcopalians who believed that the Episcopal Church was falling away from old doctrines and from The Word.

Bishop Harvey, a former Episcopal priest, left that church and became part of The Anglican Catholic Church after he had returned from England, where he was doing historical research into the early church and into Christianity.

Upon his return to the United States, "I found myself... in a church that was not my church and in a country that was not my country. I could see the Western World was changing, and values began to deteriorate."

The bishop said he realized that social decay was setting in and that the Episcopal Church was "disintegrating" morally.

"We're dead serious in being in the Anglican Church and to continue the traditions (of the early church)," he said.

Bishop Harvey is also priest of the Church of Saint Augustine of Canterbury in Austin.

Parishioner John Kelly of Midland termed the bishop's talk as "illuminating."

"We thank God how lucky we are to have a man like this for a bishop," Midlander R.L. "Bob" Corley, a lay reader, said of Harvey.

The bishop held confirmation and communion last Sunday at the 5200 W. Illinois Ave. church, where the parishioners meet at 11 a.m. each Sunday for services.

In Midland, The Anglican Catholic Church is organized through the Saint Paul's Parish. The parish is made up of about 25 members from Midland, Big Spring and Alpine.

Bishop Robert C. Harvey of The Anglican Catholic Church says "The main thing is to preach The Word of God and to labor on behalf of the people... (and) to have some grasp of the pain and suffering that Christ suffered." The Rt. Rev. Harvey, bishop of the church's Diocese of the Southwest, was in Midland last weekend to hold confirmation and communion for parishioners in Saint Paul's Parish. (Staff Photo)

200 killed as warplanes attack

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — South African warplanes and ground troops attacked a Namibian black nationalist base inside Angola this week, killing 200 guerrillas, Prime Minister Pieter W. Botha told Parliament on Friday.

Sixteen members of the South African Defense Forces, both black and white, also lost their lives in the cross-border raid, he said. The death toll on the South African side was believed to be the highest in a single incident since the fighting for control of Namibia, also called South-West Africa, began 14 years ago.

Botha said the "shock attack" was against a new guerrilla headquarters established after South African forces destroyed a base camp in a 1978 raid.

He indicated that South African troops remained inside Angola on Friday collecting captured equipment.

Film on the raid, apparently released by the defense department, was shown on the evening television news. It showed hundreds of South African troops aboard armored personnel carriers and in armored cars with cannons taking part in the raid, as well as shots of soldiers searching bunkers or walking past bodies of guerrillas.

One picture series showed mess tables with half-eaten plates of food at the guerrilla camp — apparently a sign the guerrillas were caught by surprise at mealtime. Another picture showed helicopters airlifting wounded South Africans out of the battle area in a pall of black smoke.

Radio Luanda said Angolan anti-aircraft artillery shot down three South African Mirage fighter-bombers last Saturday during a raid on Namibian refugees in a camp in southern Angola.

A South African military spokesman refused to comment on the report, describing it as "obviously nothing but propaganda."

Botha said it was known that the Angolan government and the guerrillas shared military bases. He said South Africa "noted" with appreciation that Angolan armed forces have until now withheld themselves from giving assistance to (the guerrillas) during the present operation."

This appeared to observers to refute Radio Luanda's claim that Angolan artillery responded to the South African raid by shooting down three planes.

"The target was well prepared and spread over an area of about 25 square miles, with various strong points which had to be destroyed," Botha said.

"The initial attack was over difficult terrain and took about six hours," he said, but did not specify of which date the raid began.

Namibia remains controversial region

By WILLIAM F. NICHOLSON

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — A South African air and ground attack this week against black nationalist guerrillas inside Angola, in which 200 guerrillas and 16 South Africans were reported killed, focuses new attention on controversial Namibia. Here, in question and answer form, is a look at the background.

Q. What is Namibia?
 A. Namibia, also called South-West Africa, is a largely arid region 320,000 square miles in area on the southwestern coast of Africa. It has a population of one million, mostly black tribesmen.

Q. Is Namibia a country?
 A. No. It was originally a German colony but became one of the spoils of World War I. Since South Africa fought on the allied side and captured Namibia from the Germans, the League of Nations gave South Africa a mandate to administer the region in 1920.

Q. Does South Africa continue to administer Namibia?
 A. Yes. But the United Nations, successor to the league, revoked the mandate in 1966 because South Africa refused to go along with plans to grant independence to Namibia. As a result, a nationalist group called the South-West Africa People's Organization declared itself in a war of liberation against South African forces that year.

Q. What is the status of this war?
 A. The conflict has spluttered on and off for years. But casualty figures on both sides have taken an upturn since the beginning of 1980. While the South African military is secretive about many details of the war, unofficial figures list 632 guerrillas and 59 South African soldiers killed since Jan. 1.

Q. What makes Namibia worth fighting for?
 A. The region contains considerable mineral wealth beneath its forbidding expanses of sand and brush. It produces diamonds, uranium, copper, zinc, lead and tin. In the fertile zones, livestock is cultivated. Commercial fishing is carried out off its long South Atlantic coastline.

Q. Are efforts under way to end the war and bring independence to Namibia?
 A. Yes. Negotiations between South Africa and the so-called Big 5 nations — United States, France, Britain, West Germany and Canada — have been going on for more than three years. The West wants U.N.-sponsored elections for independence in Namibia but the negotiations keep stalling as both sides wrangle over conditions. The latest stumbling block is over details for establishing a demilitarized zone separating Namibia from Marxist-ruled Angola, where guerrillas have their havens.

Q. Is there a renewed sense of urgency about Namibia?
 A. Yes. Especially among black African nations. With the war in Rhodesia ended and with the birth of black-ruled Zimbabwe there, South Africa remains the only white-ruled nation on the continent, thus Namibia is the scene of the last conflict in southern Africa.

100 Polish intellectuals urge radical reforms

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — More than 100 Polish intellectuals, including Communist Party members, have urged radical reform of the government and the party in a secret report, saying the country was in its "worst predicament" since World War II.

Sources said the report was compiled by four journalists who sought opinions on how to improve national life from professors, artists, writers and other intellectuals associated with a discussion group called "Experience and Future," or DIP.

Although the report has not been published here, a copy was obtained by The Associated Press. Sources said the respondents included 51 Communist Party members as well as Roman Catholics.

"There is no way out of the crisis without a radical change in the style of government because this is the root of all the trouble," the report concluded, calling for greater democracy and citizen participation.

Most of the respondents, the report added, believed the government needed to "present the full truth" about the nation's present situation, including its relationship with the Soviet Union.

Respondents also wanted an end to authoritarianism in the party and government ranks, though not abandonment of the socialist system, the report said.

The respondents felt Poland's leadership placed too much emphasis on the country's economic problems without recognizing that "the Polish crisis has primarily a social and political aspect."

A "new minority," ever more isolated from the intellectual class, now governs a "silent majority" which has lost faith in the leadership, the report said.

It blamed a "lack of credibility in the mass media" for destroying confidence in government and widening the gap between the government and the governed.

"People do not even believe in bad news, sensing also here some form of maneuver," the report said. All mass media, including Catholic newspapers, are subject to censorship and are tightly controlled by the state.

In a reference to one of the most sensitive areas of Polish life, the report said the lack of credibility was enhanced by a lack of true information about relations with the Soviet Union and the "servile, humble and insulting of our national dignity style of propaganda."

"Nothing injures more our relations with the Soviet," the report said.

Anxiety, confusion mark Cambodian repatriation plan

By DENIS D. GRAY

they are returning voluntarily.

On Wednesday, the program is to begin at the Sa Kaew Camp, 30 miles away. Relief workers there fear pressure is being exerted by Cambodian backers of former Premier Pol Pot who entered Thailand among the refugees.

A Thai sound truck has been traveling among the thatched huts of Khao I Dang announcing the repatriation program to the refugees.

Although the Cambodian-language announcements stressed that the move is voluntary, they also said the alternative — resettlement in another country — is "just a dream."

In a camp alive with rumors, some refugees appeared frightened and upset, convinced they would be forced to go home. Others were confident the move would be voluntary.

One Cambodian-speaking relief official who is often in Sa Kaew said he was "extremely worried" that many people there will be forced by their own leaders to return. He estimated there are fewer than 500 hardcore supporters of Pol Pot among the 30,000 refugees but said these might intimidate thousands more into returning with them.

He said these strongmen have been telling the refugees that U.N. involvement in the repatriation program means their war-torn country is safe and at peace.

He said he believed the repatriation is truly intended to be voluntary. But, he said, at night "nobody is at Sa Kaew to protect the people, so they'll just have to go along with what the (Pol Pot) Khmer Rouge tell them."

Another relief official said, "We're afraid that once the repatriation gets its own momentum and the Thai troops are running the show there may be a tendency for things to just run away. Some Thai soldiers may say, 'We've gotten the first thousand back to Cambodia, why don't we see how many more we can get?'" the official said, "We still remember the bad experience with the involuntary repatriation last year" when the first huge wave of 42,000 Cambodian refugees were forced back across the border, many of them to their death.

In Khao I Dang, registration began Friday with refugees wanting to return signing in their individual housing sections. No figure was available on the number of signers but they appeared to include only a small percentage of the refugees, who are among the survivors of Cambodia's educated class.
