

Texans likely to pay higher tuition at state schools

By LEE JONES

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The odds are strong that young Texans will pay higher tuition to attend state universities after the 1981 Legislature finishes its work.

While nothing is certain in state government, so much momentum is building for a tuition increase that the biggest question seems to be how big it will be.

The latest to recommend an increase was a special committee on higher education finance, created by the 1979 Legislature and headed by Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby.

The committee voted 10-0 — with Hobby and House Speaker Bill Clayton among the "aye" votes — to recommend that tuition at least be doubled for undergraduates and graduate students, with much bigger increases for medical and dental students.

Gov. Bill Clements repeated Friday his support for a tuition increase. That puts the three most powerful people in state government squarely behind higher tuition. Clements and Hobby, at least, will be around to enforce their views in 1981. Clayton, however, might become a rank-and-file House member because of his Brilab indictment.

The Texas College Coordinating Board also favors an increase and might decide on a specific figure at its July meeting.

Clements said Friday a tuition increase "certainly will be a part of my legislative package and budget message."

"We will be solidly behind it," he said.

The Hobby committee proposed that resident-tuition rise from the present $4 per semester credit hour, with a minimum of $50 a semester, to at least $8 per semester hour.

It also left open the possibility of establishing by law that tuition must pay a fixed percentage of the cost of higher education, which would make automatic increases every two years almost certain.

Tuition covers 4.58 percent of the cost of educating a full-time Texas resident student. When required fees are taken into account, students cover about 8 percent of their education costs.

If resident tuition were doubled, it would pay 8.76 percent of the cost.

Non-resident tuition should cover at least half the cost of education, the committee said, and this would push it from $1,200 to $1,300 a year for a full-time student.

Hobby's committee got the attention of the Texas Medical Association — and a favorable review from Clements — by saying medical school tuition should rise from $400 to $3,600 a year. It also said dental school tuition should increase from $400 to $2,500.

"Many students now attending or planning to attend Texas medical schools could be affected harshly and possibly could not be able to continue their medical school studies nor to enter Texas schools," said Dr. Ted Forsythe of Lubbock, chairman of the TMA's Council on Medical Education.

Clements said his Medical Advisory Council also is working on the question. He said that over seven years of medical school and residency, medical students "are costing Texas about $300,000 each."

"This is a big number. We are looking at this. We sure are. But we are not at the point of making a recommendation," he said.

A Texas governor was behind the last major tuition increase, from $25 to $50 a semester in 1957.

Gov. Price Daniel told the Legislature the $25 rate was set "in the depths of the Depression. The $25 fee then was more difficult to earn than $50 today."

Appointments report denied

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements denied Friday that his appointments to state boards and commissions are made on the basis of whether they will support his program to reduce the number of state employees.

Clements was questioned about a published report that the director of the governor's budget office had warned state agency heads that those who fail to cut back enough employees could lose their jobs.

Paul Wrotenberry was quoted as saying the effort to reduce state employment by 8,000 by August is going much more slowly than had been hoped.

"Some agency directors are working diligently," Wrotenberry said, "and some are sitting on their duffs.... An accounting is going to be asked for and some may come up short."

Clements cannot hire and fire agency directors, but his appointees to boards and commissions that oversee the agencies can get rid of directors.

Clements was asked at a news conference Friday if he had threatened to have directors removed, and he responded, "I never threaten anybody."

He said there is a feeling among agencies that "we should whenever appropriate reduce personnel."

He said he was not talking about across-the-board cuts but "very selective cuts on a very prudent kind of basis. I don't know any boards that vigorously oppose this. Some are certainly more enthusiastic than others."

Clements said "some departments overall probably should not be reduced."

Alabama death penalty struck down

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court struck down Alabama's death penalty law Friday, removing 45 convicted murderers from the state's death row, at least for now.

By a 7-2 vote, the justices ruled that the law is unconstitutional because it limits juries in capital cases to recommending the death penalty on conviction or acquitting the accused murderer. This limitation, the court said, could increase the risk of "unwarranted conviction."

It will be up to the Alabama Supreme Court now to decide whether the state Legislature must draft a whole new capital punishment law. It is conceivable that the state court will sever and amend the objectionable portion of the law, leaving the remainder intact.

BUT IN ANY event, no person can be sentenced to death in Alabama for the time being.

There have been 44 men and one woman sentenced to death under the invalidated law, according to state officials.

But there was some confusion Friday over how many of those persons could have been executed even under the law that was struck down. The state attorney general's office pegged that number at "somewhere between 38 and 45."

It is obvious that none now may be executed, but it may be up to the state Supreme Court to decide whether all death row inmates are entitled to new trials on guilt or innocence.

EDWARD CARNES, an assistant state attorney general, said it might be possible to re-sentence all affected inmates to life terms, but such a move surely would come under legal attack.

Friday's ruling specifically overturned the conviction of Gilbert Beck, sentenced to die for the 1976 stabbing death of an 80-year-old man in Boaz, Ala.

Under the invalidated law, a jury had to convict or acquit persons charged with first-degree murder, and recommend the death penalty if its verdict was guilty. Then it was up to the presiding judge to consider all the circumstances of the case and decide whether death or life was the appropriate punishment.

THE LAW DID NOT allow the jury to find the defendant guilty of a lesser crime not punishable by death, such as second-degree murder or manslaughter.

"The failure to give the jury the 'third option' of convicting on a lesser included offense would seem inevitably to enhance the risk of an unwarranted conviction," Justice John Paul Stevens wrote for the court's majority.

Justices William H. Rehnquist and Byron R. White dissented for technical reasons, saying that the case was not properly before the high court.

None of the 37 other states with capital punishment laws limit juries the way Alabama did. There are more than 600 persons on death rows nationwide.

THE COURT also ruled:

—That states may not prohibit public utilities from using bill inserts, leaflets included in consumers' bills, to discuss "controversial matters of public policy" such as nuclear power development.

By a 7-2 vote, the court struck down a New York Public Service Commission policy barring distribution of such inserts as "tantamount to taking advantage of a captive audience."

Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr.'s opinion for the court said the ban was an unconstitutional infringement of free-speech rights. He noted, "The utility customer may escape exposure to objectionable material simply by transferring the bill insert from envelope to wastebasket."

Despite such advice, Consolidated Edison Co. hailed the decision as a victory for it and its customers.

—That New York's related policy of banning all promotional advertising by electric utilities also is unconstitutional.

Splitting 8-1, the court said the blanket ban also violates free-speech rights. But Powell's majority opinion, joined in fully by four other members, left open the possibility that New York could devise some way to suppress that promotional advertising leading to an increase in overall energy use.

—That an Illinois law barring all but labor-related picketing at private homes is unconstitutional.

By a 6-3 vote, the justices said the law violates the Constitution's equal-protection guarantee because labor picketing is no more deserving of free-speech protection than other public protests.

The decision, however, leaves the Illinois Legislature free to pass a law that would ban or regulate all residential picketing without regard to purpose.

—That the FBI violated the privacy rights of the owner of some obscene films when it screened the movies without first getting a search warrant.

Juneteenth activities to begin with parade

The "shackles" for the Juneteenth celebrations will be cut loose at 10 a.m. today, when a 75-unit parade will start moving southward to the music of the Negro National Anthem, "Let Every Voice Sing," and to the old standby "We Shall Overcome" along with some old blues.

Events to follow will include religious services, gospel singing, jazz and soul sounds, and a Black Cultural Exhibit at the Tall City Lions Club Den, which is headquarters for the Midland celebration at Stonewall Street and Indiana Avenue in far southeast Midland.

A slew of booths featuring barbecue and beer, soul food and the fixings and trimmings will be on the Lions' Den grounds.

The Juneteenth holiday recognizes June 19, 1865, when Negro slaves in Texas were set free in the announcement of Abraham Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation, which was issued some 2½ years earlier midway in the Civil War.

The parade will start at 10 a.m. at Northgate Shopping Center at Lamesa Road and Nobles Avenue, proceed south on Lamesa Road, then east on Front Avenue, south on Lee Street and east on Indiana Avenue to the Lions' Den at 305 S. Stonewall St.

Most of the music flowing forth from the parade will come from recorded music in vans, for no marching bands were available for the holiday. The parade, led by Parade Marshal Marjorie Lombard, also will feature a drum corps, floats and a strong force of sedans and limousines.

Religious services, including sermonettes and gospel-choir singing, will be held from noon to 4 p.m. on the Lions Den grounds.

"We're going to have some church choirs singing gospel music that are just fantastic," said Roosevelt Campbell, a Juneteenth promoter.

Later in the afternoon and into the night, live bands will play "soul sounds," rock 'n' roll and jazz.

Campbell said the celebrating will go "far into the night."

On Sunday, activities will resume after church services, Campbell said.

The Juneteenth celebration, which is open to the public, is being sponsored by the Tall City Lions' Club.

Embargo on grain, high technology lowers U.S. exports to Soviet Union

MOSCOW (AP) — U.S. exports to the Soviet Union dropped sharply during the first four months of 1980 because of an embargo on grain shipments and the sale of high technology imposed by the United States after the Russian military intervention in Afghanistan, according to figures released Friday.

Overall U.S. exports through April 30 still amounted to a substantial $597.5 million, but this was far below the $870 million for the first four months of 1979, U.S. Embassy figures showed.

U.S. grain deliveries to the Soviets — greatly reduced by President Carter after the Afghanistan intervention in December — amounted to $482.3 million for the first quarter of 1980, down 23 percent from the same period in 1979, the embassy said.

Shipments of U.S. non-agricultural goods plummeted 52 percent to $115.2 million in the four-month period, partly because of Carter's embargo on sales of high-level technology to the Soviets, U.S. diplomats said.

Carter restricted grain sales to 8 million metric tons for 1980 and 1981, blocking the Soviets' option to purchase an additional 17 million tons this year because of their intervention in Afghanistan.

U.S. diplomats said the entire 8-million-ton allotment for the year reached the Soviet Union by late May.

The Russians apparently made up most of their 31.2-million-ton shortfall — caused by chronically poor harvests — by purchasing grain from Argentina and other wheat producers, the U.S. Department of Agriculture said.

Trade in non-restricted goods continued at a healthy pace, according to the U.S.-Soviet Trade and Economics Council, a bilateral commission created in the heyday of detente.

"For many U.S. companies with Moscow offices, it's business as usual," an American commission official said.

Agricultural machinery and supplies, medical goods of all kinds and low-technology computers are some of the U.S. goods being sold here, he said.

U.S. officials said this year were yellow corn, wheat and soybeans, because of the large shipments before the embargo level was reached.

Other items listed on the schedule of U.S. exports in first quarter were phosphoric acid for fertilizer, petroleum products, almonds, pressure sensitive tape for pipeline wrapping, parts for track laying tractors and machine belts.

But digital processing equipment, an $11 million item in the first four months of 1979, was blocked completely by the high technology embargo, diplomats said.

Police fire on crowd, arrest two to disperse South African marchers

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Police fired tear gas and shotguns to disperse striking black and mixed-race workers who marched in Uitenhage on Friday, the South African Press Association said. A mixed-race man was reported wounded in both legs.

The national news agency said police arrested two people.

More than 7,000 workers in the Uitenhage area, the center of the country's automobile industry, were on strike demanding higher wages. Some factories not hit by the strikes were forced to close because they could not get components they needed from striking plants.

Twelve companies, including Goodyear's tire factory, were closed Friday. Negotiations continued between management and worker representatives.

About 1,000 Goodyear tire workers walked off the job Friday when management refused to meet demands for wages of $3.75 an hour. The current hourly wage is $1.35.

Black municipal workers in the eastern Cape area near Port Elizabeth joined the strike, the news agency said.

The Cape Flats, an area of mixed-race townships outside Cape Town, and non-white townships outside Johannesburg and Durban were calm Friday.

Iraq elects assembly for first time since 1958

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Some six million Iraqis, many who had never voted in their lives, turned out in 105-degree heat Friday to elect their first national assembly since 1958.

The elections come at a time when Iraq is experiencing border skirmishes with neighbor Iran and Iranian leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini has urged Iraqis to overthrow the Baghdad government.

The polls closed after 12 hours of voting in the oil-rich country of 12.7 million.

Although the 250-member assembly will share its legislative powers with the 20-member, ruling Revolutionary Command Council and be subject to dissolution by the council, voters in the capital seemed optimistic.

"I don't know if it will be good, but I sure do hope so, and I'm glad to be able to do it," said 69-year-old Shahim Isho Ibrahim Bazzi, a watchman casting the first vote of his life. "There were elections under King Faisal, but that was controlled by the British."

Bazzi and hundreds of Iraqi men and women, many of the women clad in black, head-to-toe, robes, lined up at a Baghdad polling place and gratefully sipped ice water offered by election workers. All Iraqi men and women over 18 years old were eligible to vote.

The assembly vote is the first since a military coup in 1958 that overthrew the monarchy of King Faisal II.

In northeastern Iraq, the estimated 1.5 million-strong Kurdish community also elected a 20-member legislative council that will oversee administration in the area that fought bitter battles with the central government until 1975.

Afghan basketball players defect to Pakistan to avoid Olympics

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — The captain and six members of Afghanistan's national basketball team have defected, fleeing to Pakistan to avoid playing in the Summer Olympics in Moscow next month.

The captain, Karim Dad Khan, told reporters Friday he and the others fled their homeland because of the Soviet military intervention. "The people of Afghanistan hate the Soviets and are heroically resisting the Soviet troops, despite a reign of terror let loose by them in Afghanistan," he said.

Several weeks ago, members of the Afghan national soccer team defected in West Germany while on an exhibition tour preparing for the Olympics. They also were protesting the presence of some 85,000 Soviet soldiers now in Afghanistan to support the Marxist regime of President Babrak Karmal.

The basketball captain told journalists in Peshawar, Pakistan, that he and the other team members escaped by crossing the frontier near the town of Parachinar in northwestern Pakistan. He did not say how they had made the journey or how long it had taken.

Mohawk Indian woman moves step nearer to sainthood

AURIESVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — A Mohawk Indian woman who lived 300 years ago will come one step closer to sainthood in the Roman Catholic Church on Sunday.

A group of Indians who have converted to Christianity will go to Vatican City for the beatification of Kateri Tekakwitha by Pope John Paul II. The ceremony will put her one step away from being canonized as a saint. The feeling of joy is not unanimous, however. Jake Swamp is one of nine traditional Mohawk chiefs on the St. Regis Reservation on the New York-Ontario border, the only all-Mohawk reservation in the United States.

"She was one of us at one time, and we respect that," he says. "It was the missionaries who forced their way on our people. It was not her fault."

Swamp, like many Indians who follow traditional Indian beliefs and customs, believes Kateri Tekakwitha was taken away from her natural environment. He thinks she should be studied and scrutinized — not copied.

"We try to learn from whatever happened to her," Swamp says. "So that it will never happen to anyone else."

To Father Joseph McBride, one of those who will be in Rome for the ceremonies, the beatification represents decades of work. He is the head of the National Kateri Center here at the Auriesville Shrine, a quiet rural area overlooking the Mohawk River.

The shrine was erected in memory of three missionaries killed by the Mohawks in the 1640s. Kateri Tekakwitha was born here in 1656, about 10 years after the killings. Her father was a Mohawk chief and her mother was an Algonquin who was a Christian, McBride says.

Although not formally educated, "she became a devout, intense Christian and lived the Christian life in a heroic way," McBride says.

After an early bout with smallpox that left her skin pockmarked and her eyes weak, Kateri moved across the river to what is now the village of Fonda, where she was baptized at age 20.

A year later, according to lore, she left her tribe after harassment from her friends and family. She eventually settled in an area south of Montreal, reserved for Indians who had converted to Christianity.

She died of natural causes at 24 and, according to religious books written at the time, her skin cleared up as she died. The 78-volume Jesuit Relations, written by missionaries during the late 17th century, say several people were healed of disease by praying to her as she died.

Prayers to her continued, in private, for years. In 1943, Pope Pius XII declared Kateri a venerable, making her worthy of prayer, and the prayers went on publicly.

McBride has spent years studying Kateri's life and championing her cause to the Roman Catholic Church.

"By the end of the 1970s, I knew the beatification would come," he says. He says he feels the same way about her being canonized, but adds: "It could come next month, or in 30 years."

He said the church traditionally requires evidence of at least two miracles being performed by the person. "But lately, the church is putting more stress on the holiness of the person's life," the father said.

About 7,000 Mohawks live on the St. Regis Reservation, and they are considered the closest descendants to Kateri Tekakwitha, as the tribe has scattered widely in the last 300 years.

Water board preparing for summer bond sale

AUSTIN — The Texas Water Development Board is preparing to sell about $50 million in water development bonds this summer. The board's financial consultant, First National Bank of Dallas, reported that official statements for the bond sale should be completed within a week, and that the sale could begin within 10 days of favorable changes in the bond market condition. The board also appointed a finance committee to oversee selection of bond counsel and financial consultants and to advise the board and Texas Department of Water Resources staff on matters concerning the sale.

Members appointed to the committee include Glen Roney, McAllen, chairman; George McCleskey, Lubbock; and W.O. Bankston, Dallas.

Roney said he believes market conditions should be favorable for the sale within 30 to 60 days.

The bonds will be used to finance loans to local and regional governments for water resource development, such as reservoir construction.

The board authorized sale of the bonds in May.

Texas' Democratic delegates taking sides

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP)—The Texas Democratic state convention opened Friday night with President Jimmy Carter's three-to-one majority urging harmony while die-hard supporters of Sen. Edward Kennedy pleaded for a chance for their candidate at the New York national convention.

Kennedy himself made a last-minute appeal in a telephone call from Washington to several hundred supporters in a caucus.

"I am in the campaign all the way through, right to the roll call, and I am very hopeful," he assured his followers.

Earlier, Kennedy's nephew, Robert F. Kennedy Jr., spent the afternoon talking to delegates and trying to switch their votes.

First formal action of the 3,900 delegates after the 7 p.m. gavel rap was a meeting of the 31 state senatorial district caucuses. The presidential preference shown when the delegates sign in will dictate the division of Texas' 152 national convention delegates between Carter and Kennedy.

According to county convention reports, there were 2,682 state convention delegates favoring Carter at the local level, 770 for Kennedy and 621 uncommitted. The Friday night sign-in was the last chance for a change of mind.

Other opening activities included speeches by State Democratic Chairman Billy Goldberg, former Attorney General John Hill and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby. There was speculation the three would be named Saturday as co-chairmen of the Aug. 11-14 national convention in New York.

The delegation chairmanship usually goes to the Texas governor but this year the state has a Republican chief executive, Gov. Bill Clements, for the first time in 104 years.

Final selection of the national convention delegates, the naming of Texas' eight members to the Democratic National Committee, and action on any party rule changes or resolutions will be taken Saturday.

Friday morning, U.S. Rep. Mickey Leland, D-Texas, told a news conference that state black Democratic met and decided to urge Kennedy backers to cook their campaign.

"Any further campaigning for Kennedy in Texas is divisive," said Leland, a member of the National Democratic Committee and co-chairman of the Carter-Mondale effort in Texas.

"We have such a crossover of Democrats to Republicans that we must unite and use the rest of the time to organize and get out the vote. Otherwise, minority people will be disillusioned and not vote ... I hope this convention will end up at least in harmony if not in unity."

A small group of members of the American Agriculture Movement met in front of the Alamo to urge a change in party rules that would let the national convention choose the presidential nominee, regardless of the presidential primary results.

One sign read: "Open the Convention: Dump Carter." Another said "Carter, Kiss My Grits."

Bush, Connally forces seem ready to back Reagan's race

HOUSTON (AP)—There was little doubt the home state of John Connally and George Bush would stand behind conservative favorite Ronald Reagan as Texas Republicans arrived Friday for the largest GOP convention in the state's history.

State chairman Chester R. Upham of Mineral Wells said the early unification of Reagan, Bush and Connally camps was the "greatest thing that has happened."

"Texas is going for Reagan and the country is going for Reagan," he said.

The state Resolutions Committee passed statements against the Equal Rights Amendment, homosexuality and the windfall profits tax and prepared to present the resolutions to the convention's 1,825 delegates Saturday.

The committee also drafted a resolution urging consideration of a Human Rights Amendment to the constitution and stating abortion on demand violates the right to life.

Committee members toned down an earlier version against abortion on demand except in cases of rape, incest or when the life of the mother is in danger.

The ERA resolution called for opposition to further extensions of ratification deadline and opposition to the ERA. It passed the committee unanimously.

When you've arrived... Meadowpark

What is Meadowpark?

Meadowpark, a project of Citizens Savings & Loan Association, is a Planned Unit Development of attractive patio home and townhome clusters. Meadowpark will consist of up to 200 attached and detached patio homes and attached townhomes on nearly 60 acres in north Midland. The development is inside the city of Midland and receives all municipal services, including police and fire protection, and water and sewer services.

Meadowpark Owners' Association

Common recreation facilities and park areas are managed by the Meadowpark Owners' Association. Purchasing a patio home or townhome on your own lot automatically makes you a member of the Meadowpark Owners' Association. The Association provides management and maintenance of the common park areas, playgrounds, tennis courts, and swimming pool with cabana, bathhouse and deck area. Homeowners are assessed a monthly maintenance fee.

A low density development.

Meadowpark residents will enjoy a great deal of room and privacy because of the very low density of the development. A low density of 2.5 residences per gross acre allows for privacy. (Many fine residential developments average more than four residences per gross acre.)

The cluster arrangement of Meadowpark restricts traffic flow on residential streets. On-street parking is prohibited, so that streets become areas for family activities.

Patio Homes and Townhomes

Meadowpark residences range in size from a two-bedroom townhome with 1,576 square feet, up to a four-bedroom patio home with 3,600 square feet livable. A total of 17 floor plans are available in one and two story designs, or a buyer may employ his own architect/builder.

As a Meadowpark homeowner, you own the lot on which your home is located, all of the improvements on the lot, and an interest in the common areas and facilities.

Meadowpark homes offer two or more enclosed patios, affording a relaxed, suburban lifestyle. General landscaping includes entrances off of FM 868 (proposed Loop 250) and North "A" Street, berms for noise and visual barriers, trees, ground cover and grass. Clusters of live oaks and red oaks will be used throughout, and poplar and flowering trees will be used at various locations.

Each Meadowpark residence is designed as an energy efficient home and will meet Texas Electric Service Company's strict "E-OK" rating.

What does it cost?

Patio homes and townhomes start in the low eighties and range up to $150,000. Of course, you may request additional features in planning with your builder which may affect the final sales price.

Citizens Savings & Loan Association serves as both developer and permanent lender, and you may wish to visit with one of our loan officers about interim financing and permanent mortgage for your Meadowpark home. We will be pleased to supply a list of reputable builders who will execute your selected Meadowpark plan.
