Locals donate seed to Boys Ranch

The West Texas Boys Ranch harvested a bumper crop of large round hay bales this past year, thanks at least in part to a group of Coke County residents who donated the seed for last year's hay crop on the ranch.

What makes this hay so important is that most of the hay that is baled goes to feed the ranch's growing herd of Beefmaster cattle, which now numbers sixty head. The ranch's cow herd was started years ago with the donation of a single heifer. And last year's dry weather conditions placed even more importance on the hay crop that would have to feed the herd through the dry weather.

Listed below are those county businesses and residents who donated seed to the ranch's hay crop:

BRONTE

Judge Aubrey Denman, Royce Fancher, Billy Joe Luckett, James Tidwell, Joe Rawlings, Steve Kelton and Parker Plumbing.

Carl Rusk, Horace Scott, David & Joe David Key, Ben Bessent, J&B Lumber and Hardware, Doug Gartman, Bill Helwig, Wayland Drennan, Cumbie Ivey Jr., Finis Millican, Noel Gregston, Skinner's Grocery & Station, Troy Montgomery, Edward Rives, Foy Askins, Add Davis, O.B. McCabe, and Earl Lindsey.

The Boys Ranch facilities currently house 51 boys at the present time. Two new cottages are under construction which will increase the capacity to approximately 80 boys.

Over 1100 boys from all over Texas have found a home at West Texas Boys Ranch since 1947.

PICTURED ABOVE IS a portion of the large crop of hay produced by the West Texas Boys Ranch last year. A major portion of the seed to plant the hay crop was donated by Coke County residents. Most of the hay produced goes to feed the ranch's Beefmaster cow herd, which now numbers sixty head.

THANKS TO ROBERT LEE E.M.S. - We have always appreciated the E.M.S. and know it to be a valuable asset to the community.

However it made me realize how much effort and time the members give when Gene Hinnard, Judy Williams and Monte Bogard carried me to St. John's Hospital about 2:00 a.m. several nights ago.

The sleep they lost, their time given to help someone will not be forgotten!

Thanks again!
