15th annual pageant to include patriotic tribute

"Ole Coke County - Home of the Rabbit Twisters" is being rehearsed for its 15th annual performance the last two Friday and Saturday nights of July. Pre-time entertainment starts at 8 pm.

It will be a thrilling patriotic tribute to our nation and its veterans. All veterans are urged to be present.

Prices for tickets are $2.50 for children 5-12 years, and $5 for adults. Groups of 20 or more persons receive 25% discount. Groups should call 915/453-2831.

Mountain Creek Amphitheatre, where the play is performed, is located on the north end of Austin Street, behind the second ball park. It can easily be seen by following Austin to dead end.

For those who have seen the play numerous times, the number of completely new scenes will be apparent. For new-comers, the development of Coke County will unfold in pathos and humor, fact and fancy, performed by people from all points of the county, all natives or married to natives. All are amateurs becoming professional through experience. That's the "Ole Coke County" way!

Plan your vacation so you will be able to see the performances, the last two weekends, July 19, 20, and July 26, 27.

Reach the theatre in time to get food at the concession stand, then go in and watch the exciting pre-time activities starting at 8 pm. The play itself will start at 8:30 pm with a new scene starring Samuel Thomas, Booger Red Privett, a famous bronc rider who performed at the turn of the century. Some old timers remember his being in Robert Lee rodeos held behind where the Robert Lee State Bank is now.

The gossips will have a new problem, solved in a reasonable way, that you will enjoy.

If you believe in Coke County and its historical heritage, attend the show and enjoy seeing your friends there.

Deadline set for entries

July 19-20 are the dates set for the annual Coke County Rodeo. Entry deadline is noon Saturday, July 13.

A large array of open divisions and events are planned for boys and girls from 8 and under to 19 and over. The team roping event will be open to Coke County members and their invited guests only.

Sanco Homecoming activities detailed

By Janet Pentecost
Approximately 200 people enjoyed the annual Sanco Homecoming this year. It was held June 9 in the old Sanco tabernacle. The morning program began at 10:30 am with Mrs. James Bird Pentecost as emcee of the program. Darryl Copeland led the congregation in the opening hymn. Doyle Berryman of Hobbs, New Mexico, gave the invocation.

Other special music included a trio of Darryl Copeland, John Stephens, and Scott Stephens accompanied by Myna Kay Copeland on the piano. Mrs. Charles Fowler and her daughters of San Angelo delighted the listeners with their music. Reverend Charles Williams of San Angelo also sang and later brought the devotional. Bill Helm of Colorado City brought a flag for the occasion and the pledge to the flag was led by Craig Helm, also of Colorado City.

Traditionally, each year, flowers are presented in memory of Mrs. I. A. Bird to people who travel the farthest, the oldest attending, and to parents of the youngest child. Janet Pentecost aided with the presentation of the flowers. This year, flowers were awarded to Josephine Bird, Oldest Woman; Otha Bilbo, Oldest Man; Rowena Tucker Randall, Oldest Woman Born in Sanco; Otis Walls, Oldest Man Born in Sanco; Ben and Leilani Scarborough of California, Those Who Traveled the Farthest to Attend; Sheila and Gene Adkins, Youngest Child's Parents; and 6-week-old Jordan Austin Adkins, Youngest Child. A boutonniere was also presented to Tennis Creighton of Christoval as having the standing honor of consistently being the oldest man present at the Sanco Homecoming for several years.

Reverend Charles Fowler of San Angelo gave the benediction and blessing of the food.

The bar-b-cue was prepared by James Bird Pentecost, Bruce Knowlton of San Angelo, and Stephen Taylor of Sanco. The tea was prepared and served by Cuin and Elaine Norvell of Robert Lee, and of course everyone enjoyed all of the wonderful dishes brought by the people in attendance.

Many others helped with the Homecoming. Without their help, the Homecoming would have been impossible to carry on this year, especially since the President, Nolan Pentecost, and his wife were unable to attend due to her recent emergency surgery.

ACS collections totalled

American Cancer Society Crusade Chairman Dianne Simpson reported that the collections for the 1991 residential drive amounted to $1,264.71 and the business drive was $482. This gave a total of $1,746.71 that was transmitted to the state office in Austin, Texas. This year's crusade was successful because there were so many volunteers that pledged their time to this worthy cause. The American Cancer Society would not be able to survive if it wasn't for all the volunteers.

It is very hard for the volunteers to contact everyone in such a short period of time so if you were missed and would like to contribute to the 1991 crusade, please send your donation to American Cancer Society, PO Box 566, Robert Lee, Texas 76945. The new year begins September 1, so it is not too late to contribute to this year's residential crusade. Memorial chairman, Cindy Bessent, reported that $234 has been received as of this date. Memorials can be made at anytime during the year and Cindy is always ready to help you express your sympathy and at the same time support the fight against cancer.

Dianne Simpson is retiring from her position of crusade chairman on September 1, 1991. She has served as an American Cancer Society volunteer for thirteen years. The past seven years, she has served as the crusade chairman. Dianne stated she is going to retire from the chairmanship position, but would like to continue as a volunteer worker. If anyone is interested in chairing the yearly crusades, please contact Dianne Simpson or the American Cancer Society office in San Angelo. Cindy Bessent will continue with the memorial collections.

Safety tips given for eclipse viewing

A partial solar eclipse will be visible throughout the Southwestern United States on Thursday, July 11. In those states, the moon will cover about 60% of the sun. A full eclipse will be visible in Hawaii, making this the last total solar eclipse visible from the United States in the 20th Century.

"Never look directly at the sun, not even for a second," warns Wayne E. Fung, MD, an ophthalmologist and spokesperson for the American Academy of Ophthalmology.

"Staring at the eclipse can burn the retina, the membrane at the back of the eye that senses light," Dr. Fung said. "Though you won't feel any pain, you may be permanently damaging your sight."

Dr. Fung likened the retina to film in a camera. Once the film is damaged, no pictures can be taken. "There is no treatment for the vision-impairing scarring and permanent blind spots that result from staring at the sun," he said.

DPS urges caution during holiday

As many as 12 persons may be killed on Texas roadways during the 30-hour July 4th period, according to Department of Public Safety estimates.

DPS Director Colonel Joe Milner said the summer and vacation traveling holiday times will challenge motorists to avoid driving risks.

"The DPS and other law enforcement agencies throughout Texas will be working together to keep dangerous drivers off the local and rural streets," according to Colonel Milner.

During July 4th last year, which was also 30 hours in length, the DPS tabulated 15 deaths. Deaths due to critical injuries raised last year's final count to 19. This year's counting period begins at 6 pm Wednesday, July 3, and continues to midnight Thursday, July 4.

"In 1990, 89% of fatalities during July 4th occurred in accidents where speeding over the limits or driving while intoxicated was a factor in this state," Milner added.

Of the 19 traffic deaths, 13 were persons in vehicles where seat belts could have been used.

Milner said additional troopers will be working in areas where high volumes of traffic could be anticipated.

"DPS officers will be watching for intoxicated drivers and speeders, the leading traffic death elements in Texas," Milner stressed.

He stressed that sunglasses (with or without ultraviolet-blocking coating), welding goggles or smoked glass WILL NOT protect the retina. Viewing the eclipse directly through a telescope or binoculars is even more hazardous, since these devices increase the intensity of the light.

Watching the eclipse on television may be the safest way to enjoy this natural phenomenon, Dr. Fung said.

"Many planetariums, science museums, and university astronomy departments will use optical instruments to project large, bright, focused images of the eclipse from a telescope onto a screen," noted Bing Quock, assistant chairman of the Morrison Planetarium in San Francisco. "These eclipse watches are open to the public and are always supervised to ensure safety," he added.

The eclipse will last approximately two and a half hours. At maximum eclipse, the sun will appear as a crescent, with its "horns" pointing south. The time of maximum eclipse varies with the time in Coke County falling between 2 and 2:30 pm.

The full shadow of the moon will move from Hawaii across the Pacific to the southern tip of Baja California, then through Mexico and Central America into central Brazil. For people living along this path, the sun will gradually be blocked from view as the moon slowly moves in front of it. The moon will completely cover the disc of the sun, leaving only its outer atmosphere or corona in view.

Whiting addresses group

The West Coke County Community Development met Monday evening in its first meeting of the fiscal year with only a small group. Guest speaker for the evening was Martin Whiting, a graduate student at Texas A & M. He is with a group of other students from the university who are spending the summer at Lake Spence studying the endangered Concho Water Snake. Whiting, who is from North Africa, is doing a thesis on the study.

His work has nothing to do with the agreement between the Upper Colorado River Authority, CRMWD, and the Parks & Wildlife concerning preserving the snake's environment.

According to Whiting, the small snake has an average of 11 young born alive, are harmless, and quite common to our immediate area of Texas but not found anywhere else. They are strictly small fish eaters and live under rocks in shallow water. Since they are small snakes, their natural enemies are coons, blue herons, and other snakes. The students measure, weigh, and tag the snakes, in addition to implanting some specimens with radio transmitters.

Two other university students, Sharon Mahew and Don Foley, accompanied Whiting.

Bob Wrinkle was the winner of the $25 door prize drawing at the meeting.

A short business meeting followed the program, including the announcement of the beginning of a membership drive. Two new members were added to the board of directors of the organization, D'Ann Eubanks and Dee Anna Harmon.

Committee members reported on several projects the WCCCD is involved in - new barbecue pits at the county park, the Rabbit Twister Festival on July 20 to support the "Ole Coke County" pageant, the purchase of a banner for the Pageant Association, the fundraiser dance on July 5, and the group's involvement with the city's 4th of July plans.

West Coke County Community Development will meet again on Monday, August 5, in the courtroom at 7 pm.

Bapt. Youth attend Dallas conference

Youth from First Baptist Church of Bronte were in Dallas last weekend for the Youth Evangelism Conference on Friday evening and Saturday morning.

The group went to Six Flags on Thursday and enjoyed a shopping spree Friday at the Galleria.

Mrs. Margaret Boyd shows off her 15 1/2 lb. cabbage. She and her husband, Boyd, have a large garden in Bronte. Talk about a green thumb!

Oglesby visits daughter

Pat Oglesby of Bronte and her sister, Joy McDaniel of San Angelo, recently went on a vacation to Mt. Zion, Illinois. They spent eight days in the home of Cindy and Russ Stuart, daughter of Mrs. Oglesby.

While there, the group, including grandchildren, Heather and Casey Easterling, visited Lincoln country, in and near Springfield, Illinois, to view the historically restored village where Abe Lincoln grew up and his family tomb.

One day was spent in traveling throughout an Amish community and shopping in shops located in individual homes. An evening listening to jazz music on the downtown square of Decatur was also enjoyed. A day's outing took them to St. Louis to tour the world-famous Arch and a walk along the Mississippi river in the evening after a dinner at the Spaghetti Factory.

Heather and Casey returned to Bronte for an extended visit with their grandmother. A stop-over in Natchitoches, Louisiana, for a fortnight visit with the Sid Eubanks and Dewey before arriving back in Bronte to learn that the area had received eleven inches of rain while they were gone.

Connie Bozarth and Mrs. Oglesby took the kids to the DFW airport for the flight home.
