Detection clinic slated

Breast cancer cannot be prevented, but early detection can save many lives. Breast cancer will strike one in nine American women. The American Cancer Society predicts that about 44,000 women will die of breast cancer this year. Experts estimate that if every woman had regular mammograms according to guidelines established by the American Cancer Society, nearly a third of the women who die of breast cancer would survive. The guidelines are:

- A. Begin mammography by age 40.
- B. Age 40-49 mammogram every 1-2 years.
- C. Over age 50 annual mammogram.
- D. Monthly breast self-examination.
- E. Regular breast exams by a physician.

Mammography is the best means for early detection of breast cancer.

Transamerican Diagnostic Services has been accredited by the American College of Radiology since 1989. The American College of Radiology program is voluntary and designed to insure women receive optimum quality mammographic examinations. The accreditation is done through evaluation of the Facility's staff qualifications, (technologist, radiologist, and physicist), equipment, quality control, quality assurance, image quality, and breast dose. Transamerican Diagnostic Services is also approved by the Texas Department of Health to accept self referred patients and is approved by Medicare as a provider to the Medicare Mammography Program.

Transamerican Diagnostic Services recently has been contracted by the Texas Department of Health to be an official provider for low income women.

Transamerican Diagnostic Services will have a mobile breast cancer detection unit available to local women on Monday, June 29th. The unit will be parked at West Coke County District Nursing Home, 307 West 8th Robert Lee, Texas. Appointments may be made by calling 453-2511.

200 attend annual Sanco Homecoming

by Janet Pentecost
The 39th annual Sanco Homecoming, held at the Sanco Tabernacle on Sunday, June 14, was a great success; close to 200 people attended the program.

The morning service began at 10:30 am. Nolan Pentecost, President of the Sanco Village Association was master of ceremonies, he opened the program by welcoming everyone back, and then gave acknowledgements to everyone who helped to make the Homecoming possible again this year. Kenneth Prine of Robert Lee gave the invocation.

Some special music was provided for the program by a quintet, members of which were John Stephens, Gaylon Pitcock, Scott Stephens, Ricky Ross, and Daryl Copeland, all of Robert Lee.

Pat Stephens accompanied them on the piano. Other special music was provided by three members of the Fowler family of San Angelo. Twyla Martin, Chira Dravetz, and their mother, Evabelle Fowler.

Scott Stephens then led the pledge to the flag. The devotion was brought by W.D. Reese of San Angelo.

Mary Jo Pentecost presented a corsage to Josephine Bird of Rockport, Texas; and announced that this year's Homecoming was dedicated to her for all of her hard work and devotion to the homecoming in years past and for her continued support and information she provides every year, even though she no longer lives in the Sanco area.

Traditionally, each year flowers are presented in memory of Mrs. I.A. Bind to people who travel the farthest, oldest attending, and parents of the youngest child. Janet Pentecost aided with the presentation of flowers. This year flowers were awarded as follows: Oldest woman present, Evelyn McKinley; Oldest man present, Orville Smith; Woman who came the farthest, Mrs. Billy Jo Gartman, of Beaumont, California; (approximately 1,300 miles) Man who came the farthest, Ben Scarborough, of Sacramento, California; (approximately 1,700 miles) Oldest woman born at Sanco, Evelyn McKinley, but since she received the oldest woman present award the corsage went to Louise Whiteside who was next in line; Oldest man born at Sanco, Otha Bilbo; Youngest baby, Paxton Martin 8 months old; (parents are Twyla and Curtis Martin of San Angelo).

A special boutonniere was presented to T.K. Whiteside who had recently been ill, but was able to be with us that day.

Following the program everyone enjoyed bar-b-que, beans, and tea provided by the Sanco Village Association and many delicious dishes brought by the people attending.

Old acquaintances and friendships were renewed here again, smiling faces were seen chatting and reminiscing about old times in spite of the heat. Everyone in attendance seemed to have a wonderful time.

Saturday evening, June 13th, a country musical group led by Ben Arnold played and sang at the Sanco Tabernacle several people who came early were in attendance, and requested their favorite songs of long ago. Christie Thompson, Ben's granddaughter also sang. They all did a wonderful job.

Town meeting slated

Citizens concerned about the quality of the water in the Colorado River basin are invited to a "town meeting" in Big Spring on July 8 to speak out.

The meeting, which is part of an effort to conduct a detailed assessment of the Colorado River basin, is being held by the Colorado River Municipal Water District and the Lower Colorado River authority.

The meeting is to begin at 7:30 pm at the Big Spring City Auditorium at 3rd and Nolan, directly behind City Hall. Water conservation items, including leak detection kits and water sprinkler gauges, will be distributed free to attendees.

"The public meetings are an extremely important part of the water-quality assessment," said Owen Ivie, general manager of the CRMWD. "The meetings give citizens an opportunity to point out problems and to suggest what can be done to correct them."

The assessment is required by the Clean Rivers Act passed by the Texas Legislature in 1991. The act requires river authorities and other designated agencies to conduct comprehensive assessments of each river basin in the state.

The Upper Colorado River Authority, the Colorado River Municipal Water District and the Lower Colorado River Authority are jointly responsible for the assessment of the Colorado River, which stretches from the New Mexico border through Central Texas to the Gulf of Mexico. The LCRA is responsible for coordinating the overall Colorado River study.

The Big Spring meeting is the second of four basin-wide meetings planned by the three water agencies. Other basin-wide sessions are set for Bay City on September 16 and Austin on November 11. At the initial town meeting in San Angelo in April citizens spoke out on such problems as salinity and discharges of sewage effluent.

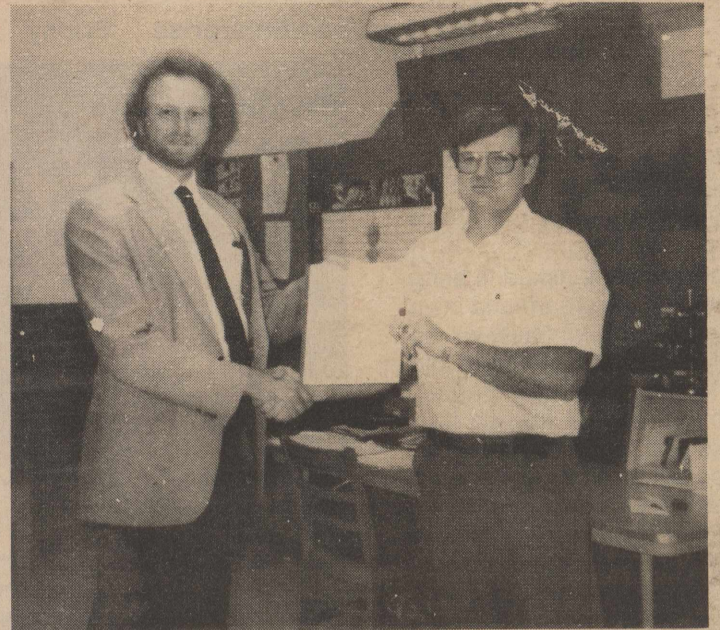

In addition to the public meeting in Big Spring, the water agencies also will be gathering information from a special basinwide steering committee made up of representatives of local governmental bodies and other water-quality experts. The steering committee will meet in Big Spring on July 9 at the Days Inn following an 8 am field trip to Natural Dam Lake and the Red Draw Diversion Works.

BRONTE'S BRIGHT FUTURE has been insured by businesses such as Sublett's Antiques

115 N. Main, Bronte Owned and Operated by Paul & Elaine Sublett

A series of different businesses have been located in the building that now houses Sublett's Antiques. Among those were a grocery store, a barber shop, a flower shop, a golf shop and more.

The Subletts started their business in October, 1989. They leased half of the building from Richard Hembree. In October, 1991, they purchased the entire building and after extensive remodeling, they re-opened.

They enjoy serving the community and the many traveling customers they serve very much. The Subletts attend auctions, flea markets, garage sales, and estate sales to find merchandise for the business.

Paul does most of the refinishing of furniture. At times it takes a lot of effort before a new piece appears in the shop.

They buy, sell, and trade, buy estates, and do consignments. Stop by and see all their lovely stock of antiques.

Heat can take its toll

The season for rising temperatures and numerous outdoor activities - is in full swing. However, time spent in the sweltering heat can take its toll unless some precautions are taken.

When exercising or playing outdoor sports, drink plenty of liquids to replenish the body's fluids. According to Chuck Barton, M.D., medical director of Methodist Hospital's Emergency Room, if an adequate amount of fluids are not replaced, dehydration can result.

"One warning sign of dehydration is heat cramps," Dr. Barton said. "If cramping occurs, sit down and relax, dab yourself with wet towels and drink plenty of cool water."

Heat exhaustion, a more serious condition, can follow dehydration. However, it does not necessarily occur immediately; instead, it can take several days or even weeks to develop. Symptoms of heat exhaustion can include cool clammy skin, headache, nausea, dizziness, profuse sweating and an elevated temperature.

To treat heat exhaustion, loosen or remove tight clothing, lay down with feet propped up and drink water. When symptoms begin to subside a little, seek medical attention.

The worst case scenario is heatstroke. Symptoms include a red blotchy face which then turns white, dizziness and confusion, and cessation of perspiration.

Heatstroke is life threatening and emergency personnel should be notified immediately.

"Until paramedics arrive, cool the body by fanning and soaking in cool water or wrapping in wet sheets; slowly begin to drink fluids," Dr. Barton said.

To prevent heat associated illnesses, avoid outdoor activities from 11 am until 2 pm because these are the hottest hours of the day, drink more fluids than normal; and get plenty of rest.

Mature workers program

55+ Experience works! and how well it works in San Angelo is evident by the number of local businesses calling to hire the mature worker.

Virginia Tate, Director of 55+ Experience Works! Mature worker program said, that as of May 31st, the program had more jobs than it was able to fill - many more! Businesses are calling daily with job orders and asking specifically for the mature worker. While program staff are excited about this turn of events, they have had to launch a major campaign to recruit more participants into the program.

Young pitchers should learn technique

Young baseball players aspiring to be the next Nolan Ryan should worry less about arm strength and more about pitching technique, says an orthopedic surgeon and sports medicine specialist at the Methodist Hospital.

"Teenagers think if they get stronger with weight training, they can throw harder," says Dr. William J. Bryan, who is also a team physician for the Houston Astros. "That's not true at all. Arm strength has nothing to do with being able to pitch well. If that were true, Arnold Schwarzenegger would be Nolan Ryan."

"Pitching is kind of like golf," Bryan continues. "You don't hit the ball farther because you're stronger, you hit it farther because your mechanics are better."

Ironically, Bryan says, pitchers usually have the weakest arms and the strongest legs on major-league teams.

He says parents of young players should encourage their kids to learn the fundamentals and forget about throwing fast. Trying to throw beyond one's ability is a frequent cause of injury and soreness in pitchers, especially adolescents.

"It's rare for a seven or eight year old to hurt himself by throwing too hard because kids that age can't throw very fast anyway, and Little League regulations prohibit throwing too frequently," says Bryan. "But when a kid turns 13 or 14 and is able to throw faster, there's a good chance of injury."

Bryan encourages parents to use instructional videotapes to teach kids proper pitching techniques. Some of those techniques include:

- * Having a definite pause at the "gathering point" of the pitch, when the leg is up, to gain momentum for the delivery;
- * Fully extending the arm behind the back before delivering the pitch;
- * Keeping the body "closed" and using the entire body, not the arm, to throw the pitch;
- * Keeping the chin and the shoulder opposite the pitching arm "tucked in"; and
- * Landing smoothly, not bouncing, after delivering the pitch.

For players who ignore the warnings and injure themselves trying to throw too hard, Bryan says rest is the best therapy.

Newspaper Funnies

The old saying around the newspaper office is: "Other people hide their mistakes. We print ours." With that in mind, here is a list of newspaper errors from Richard Lederer's collection in Anguished English.

"The attorney general's office said yesterday that an autopsy performed on the headless body of a man found in Mason failed to determine the cause of death."

"Moby Dick, the great American classic by Herman Melville, will be seen next week with veteran actor Victor Jory in the title role."

"A man was arrested on charges of disorderly conduct after he was found nude in a car at a motel parking lot. A woman staying at the hotel said a man, wearing only a T-shirt, confronted her near her room. The woman told police she chased the man, but he escaped."

"Columbia, Tenn., which calls itself the World's Largest Outdoor Mule Market, held a mule parade yesterday headed by the governor."

"Ronald Reagan was accompanied on his tour by his friend Chuck Connors, Television's 'Rifleman,' who plugged Reagan every chance he got."

"Since the disclosures about his finances, the usually ebullient representative has been unavailable to reporters."

pro-business voting record of at least 70 percent, based on key votes cast in 1991.

H. William Lurton, U.S. Chamber chairman and chairman and chief executive officer of Jostens Inc., said, "We commend Representative Stenholm for consistently supporting the policies that will help the United States become more competitive in the world economy."

Richard L. Leshner, the Chamber's president, added, "Rep. Stenholm's support of the business agenda in 1991 helps ensure that all businesses -- both large and small -- are given the opportunity to prosper, thus creating more jobs for more Americans."

Key business issues addressed by Congress in 1991 included "fast track" trade agreement legislation; a civil rights bill subjecting business to unnecessary financial burdens; a ban on hiring permanent replacements for striking workers; an extension of unemployment benefits paid for by increased business taxes; a mandated family leave bill; and most - favored - nation trading status for the successor countries of the former Soviet Union.

The Chamber presents the Spirit of Enterprise Award to show appreciation for those legislators who have worked to support the American economy and the free enterprise system.

Celebrate freedom

The 4th of July, 1992, is a day to celebrate America's freedom and to remember that we Americans are unique in the world, says U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm.

America is a stronger and better country than ever and every American should take pride in the fact that after more than two centuries of challenge, our unique nation prospers," he said.

Gramm said that Independence Day is also a time to remember that America is not a great and powerful nation because the smartest and most talented people in the world came to live here; they didn't.

"America's greatness lies in the fact that it affords ordinary people an opportunity to succeed through hard work and by using their God-given talent," the senator said.

"Independence Day is a time to take pride simply in being what we are: Americans."

Avoiding dehydration

Children should "play it cool" on hot, summer days.

Too much summer fun can result in dehydration, so parents should make sure their children have plenty to drink before sending them outdoors, says a scientist at the USDA's Children's Nutrition Research Center.

"Once they become dehydrated, a single drink will not instantly replenish their body's need for water. It is important that parents "tank up" children before they become preoccupied with play and ignore that parched throat," said Dr. Rob Shulman, an associate professor of pediatrics at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

Dehydration is a condition where the body's water loss exceeds intake. The body depends on a consistent water content for healthy functioning of cells and tissue.

Parents should watch for symptoms including lethargy, nausea, complaints of dizziness, confusion, severe thirst, a dry mouth or decreased urination. In infants, one of the first signs of dehydration is a consistently dry diaper.

Children normally drink at least six 8-ounce glasses a day. The amount of liquid children need during the summer depends on the climate, how long they are outdoors, and the degree of activity.

Although the body needs water to keep from drying out, soft drinks can complement nature's ultimate refreshment.

Most juices make ideal thirst quenchers and safeguard the body's water supply as well, said Janice Stuff, CNRC nutritionist.

Stuff does not recommend drinks that contain high levels of caffeine such as iced tea, a Southern favorite, and some soft drinks. Caffeine is a diuretic, so instead of replenishing the water, it can promote dehydration.

Children use a lot of energy, and there is nothing wrong with drinks that contain sugar, if given in moderation.

She encourages parents to alternate these beverages with more nutritious offerings including orange juice, apple juice, milk, and, of course, water.

According to Shulman, children drink more than adults per pound of body weight.

"Parents need to be aware that children can dehydrate much faster than adults," he said.

Teenage Job Hunters

Teenagers looking for summer job opportunities need to know a few things about Social Security.

The first thing you need to know is that you will need a Social Security number for most jobs. More than likely, your parents already got a Social Security number for you, since tax laws now require a number for all dependents over the age of one who are claimed on tax returns.

But, you will need to have your Social Security card to show it to your employer. If you have lost or misplaced your card, or if you don't have one, you will need to contact Social Security. Our national toll-free number is 1-800-772-1213, and our local office number is 915-949-4608.

To replace your lost card, you will have to fill out a form and provide identification, such as a driver's license, school ID, or report card. If you were born outside the United States, you may also need to show proof of U.S. citizenship or lawful alien status.

The second thing you need to know about Social Security is that almost all jobs require you to pay Social Security and Medicare taxes. This year, the combined Social Security and Medicare taxes are 7.65 percent.

Employers are responsible for withholding taxes from each employee's paycheck and matching that amount with a similar contribution. However, some workers, such as waiters, waitresses, babysitters and gardeners, receive cash payments which they must report as income.

Cash tips of $20 or more in a month are subject to Social Security tax. If you receive cash tips of $20 or more in a month while working for any one employer, you must report the total amount of your tips to that employer by the 10th day of the next month.

Household work paid in cash is often not reported correctly to Social Security. Household work includes babysitting, lawn mowing, and other chores. Teenagers should be aware that if they are paid $50 or more in a calendar quarter by one household employer, this work is subject to Social Security tax. Cash pay from different employers cannot be lumped together.

If you have any questions about paying Social Security taxes, you can call the Internal Revenue Service's toll free number of 1-800-829-1040.

Water-skiing safety

Nearly 17 million Americans take to the nation's lakes, rivers and oceans every year to enjoy the great sport of water-skiing. Most of these people ski safely and use good judgment while water-skiing, which accounts for one of boating's most popular pastimes.

"Without exception, everyone should wear a Personal Floatation Device (PFD) while skiing, and most states require them," says Scott Atchley of Cobia Boats. "Wear a Type III PFD that is designated as a ski vest and approved by the U.S. Coast Guard. Make sure it fits snugly."

Ski only where it is safe to do so.

"An area is big enough for skiing if a boater can operate in a corridor at least 200 feet wide and 2,000 feet long. Keep well away from shore and give a wide berth to other boaters. Never ski near swimming areas, low-speed mooring lanes or marina channels," Atchley said.

Water-skiers and their boat observers need to communicate with one another. Skiers should point their thumb down to signal the boat to slow down, and give a thumbs up to increase speed. Skiers can signal to stop by running a finger across their throat. Fallen skiers should clasp their hands together over their head to let the driver know they are ok.

"It's also important to communicate with other boaters to make sure they steer clear of skiers in the water. Always designate an observer to keep an eye on skiers, and have them alert others that a skier is down by holding up a red flag. Fallen skiers can increase their visibility by sticking a ski several feet into the air," Atchley said.

When picking up a skier, always approach from the driver's side so the driver can see exactly where the person is. Turn off the engine when the skier is boarding.

SS checks to be delivered July 3rd

Social Security checks for 42 million beneficiaries will be delivered on July 3rd, although Social Security offices will be closed. "While that Friday is the date that federal offices are closed for the Independence Day holiday observance," said Franklin H. Upp, District Manager, "the U.S. Postal Service will deliver mail as usual on July 3rd."

Beneficiaries who have direct deposit will also have their July payments deposited on July 3rd.

Supplemental Security Income recipients will receive their checks on the first day of the month.
