Early voting continues for general election until Nov. 3

Early voting for the upcoming November 7 general election will continue through Friday, November 3. This is the last day to mark ballots by personal appearance during the early voting period.

Polling place for the early vote is in the county clerk's office in the courthouse in Robert Lee during regular business hours 8 am - 5 pm, weekdays. The office is closed 12-1 during the lunch hour.

Coke County Clerk Mary Grim will be conducting early voting in Bronte Wednesday, November 1, at the Bronte City Hall from 9 am to 12 noon. As of presstime, eightyseven people had already cast their ballot in early voting.

No reason is now needed to early vote; being unsure of your schedule on election day is good cause. Although early voters are not required to present their voter registration cards, some form of identification may be needed.

H&F Guide in this issue...

by Hal Spain Subscribers will find a bonus in this issue of the Observer/Enterprise, in the form of our annual Hunting & Fishing Guide. Some of you may not know who deserves the credit for this publication; so we're gonna set the record straight and give credit where it is due.

Since I bought the newspaper back in 1983, I have felt a need to promote our hunting and fishing resources. As a newspaper, I knew we couldn't do too much to help our declining oil field in Coke County. Nor could we assist in propping up sagging agricultural prices. One thing we could do as a newspaper was to promote our hunting and fishing resources in Coke County, and we made a commitment to this goal.

When discussing hunting or fishing, there is no more avid fan or knowledgeable source than our own Joan Davis. Joan now serves as a fulltime peace justice for Precincts 1 & 3, and writes stories for the paper on a parttime basis. She has contributed to the paper on either a parttime or fulltime basis dating back to when it was owned by Ben Oglesby and printed in Bronte. We'll not discuss those dates for several reasons, not the least of which has to do with the fact that she still writes whatever she wants for the paper, and, as the old joke goes, "you don't pick a fight with anybody who buys ink by the barrel."

Be that as it may, the primary credit for whatever success we've had with the Hunting & Fishing Guide goes to Joan. She is the driving force behind its content, and will remain in this position as long as she desires. By the way, the old, old picture on the front cover of this year's issue is a product of her imagination and hard work, with some assistance from former local game warden Sparks Burdett.

The bottom line is that the Coke County Hunting & Fishing Guide is recognized as one of the best publications of its type in the state, and the primary credit for its success goes to a hardworking "Justis o' peace" and parttime contributor Joan Davis.

Lest I leave anyone out, I would like to recognize Melinda McCutchen for building the eye-catching ads for this annual publication. Kudos also go to Pat Taft for typing the mountain of copy included in this year's issue.

As a final word, I would again like to thank the merchants who advertise in this annual issue. Their support makes this whole effort possible.

Once again, we hope you enjoy this annual issue, and also hope you get a chance to get outside and enjoy our wildlife resources this season.

Endowment to fund ASU Scholarships for Coke County

A $100,000 bequest from the estate of longtime Robert Lee business and civic leader Cumbie Ivey Jr., will be used to establish a scholarship for Coke County students attending Angelo State University.

Ivey died April 9, 1998, in San Angelo and included the $100,000 provision in his will to benefit Coke County students and ASU, which will establish an endowment with the funds. Income from the endowment will be awarded to "worthy and deserving students" from Coke County in the form of partial or full scholarships to ASU.

arships to ASU. A check for the endowment was presented to ASU by Ivey's daughter, Patti Lynn Ivey Petersen of Dallas, and his father, Cumbie Ivey Sr. Also representing the family at the presentation was San Angelo attorney Frank W. Rose. ASU President James Hindman and University Relations and Development Vice President Mike Ryan accepted the gift on behalf of Angelo State University and the Texas State University System.

Hindman said, "We at Angelo State University are honored that Mr. Ivey chose to name the university as custodian of this gift to help deserving students from Coke County continue their education. He had done in death what he always did so well in life by serving the residents of Coke County, recognizing their needs and working to fulfill those needs."

"Through the students it will serve, the Ivey endowment will continue the legacy of a great West Texan in perpetuity," Hindman said.

Ivey was a former mayor of Robert Lee, first being elected in 1956 at age 30. At the time he was the youngest Mayor in Robert Lee history and one of the youngest in all of West Texas.

A Bronte native, he graduated from San Angelo High School and North Texas State College, which later became the University of North Texas. After graduation from North Texas, he worked for Sun Oil Co. in Dallas before entering the Air Force, where he worked in the Office of Special Investigations.

After he was discharged from the Air Force, he returned to West Texas and joined his father's Ford dealership in Robert Lee in 1953. He remained active in the business and civic affairs of Robert Lee and Coke County until his death at the age of 72.

Rains bring smiles to Coke County faces by Hal Spain Maybe it's the fact that we are facing the worst drought since the 50's, (some say worse than the 50's). Maybe it's because the good rains came in the fall, and it's the combination of mild temperatures and wet weather, as opposed to the 100 degree plus temperatures we endured this summer. Whatever the reason, the rains over the past ten days have put smiles on the faces of Coke County residents.

It all started on Sunday night, October 15 -- the night Abilene caught the flood (over 5 inches in some places). The big winner that night in Coke County was Silver, with 2 inches. Robert Lee residents poured out right around 1 inch even. Just east of Bronte about 2 1/2 miles was next with 1.5, with the City of Bronte getting .6, and three miles north of Bronte receiving .85.

From the night of the 15th, it's hard to compare different parts of the county because they got differing amounts from that point in time up til the 23rd, when the last showers were received (prior to our presstime). What all of us have in common is that the totals for all parts of the county range from 3.5 inches in the City of Bronte, up to 5.4 inches east of Bronte, to 4.3 inches in West Coke County (Robert Lee got a 3 inch downpour on Monday night, the 23rd, to boost their totals).

Wherever you live in Coke County, the rainfall has just been wonderful. We have some uncomfirmed reports that Lake Spence got a 5 foot rise from the same system that dumped five inches on Abilene, and water is still flowing into Spence from the downpour on October 23rd.

More good news is coming from Oak Creek Lake.

Reports are that Oak Creek is on a 4 foot rise, and the lake will be the benefactor. Oak Creek has been so low, we are really excited about raising the water levels in this reservoir. In addition to supplying water for Sweetwater, Oak Creek is the major supplier of water for the City of Bronte.

Hunter Appreciation Barbecue

Robert Lee's 12th annual Hunter Appreciation Barbecue will be held in the rec hall at the county park on Saturday night, November 4. The free feed for hunters will be from 6-9 pm. Both beef brisket and sausage will be served, as well as pinto beans, potato salad, dessert, iced tea, and fixings.

Sponsored by West Coke County Community Development, aided by local businesses, donors, and lots of great volunteers, the big annual feed has fed as many as 1,050 hungry hunters.

Landowners and lease managers are urged to see the folks at Waggonner's Hardware or barbecue chairman Gaylon Pitcock - (453-2942) where donations are being accepted for tickets to pass out to your hunters.

Hunters, ask your landowner or participating businesses for your free tickets to the annual feed.

Diane's & RL Care Center team up for Halloween

Saturday, Diane's Chuckwagon will be having a Halloween costume contest from 5:00 to 6:00 pm. Prizes will be given to the most original and best costume.

County lamb and goat validation set

All 4-H and FFA members who have either show lambs or goats will have to have them validated by the county validation committee on Saturday, October 28, 2000, at the show barn in Robert Lee. We will be validating lambs from 8:00 am- 10:00 am; and goats from 10:00 am. until 12:00 noon. Both county show and major show animals will be validated or be ineligible to show at the county livestock show this year.

If a youth is validating for one of the major stock shows, Fort Worth, San Antonio, Houston or San Angelo, they and their parents MUST BE PRESENT TO SIGN the validation cards or validation will not be accepted. There are no exceptions to this.

If there are any questions, please call either the County Extension Agent or one of the Ag. Science teachers.

Story hour Trick or Treat walk slated

The Halloween trick-or-treat walk is set for Tuesday, October 31. Children three to five years old, along with their brothers or sisters and parents, are invited to gather at the library Tuesday morning at 10:00 o'clock. Everyone who wants should wear a costume and bring a sack. Many downtown merchants and offices are looking forward to seeing the children and providing treats.

October is Head-Start Awareness Month. October 24 was the birthday of Belva Lockwood who was the first woman to be nominated for the U.S. Presidency. Readers have already guessed that the next line is, "Don't forget to vote." The almanac also lists the birthday of poet John Keats as October 31. He is attributed with this quote, "Nothing ever becomes real till it is experienced - even a proverb is no proverb to you till your life has illustrated it

Story Hour is Tuesday at 10:00. This week, the children heard a story about a ghost who couldn't say "Boo" and made ghosts with wiggly eyes. They then decided the ghosts needed hair and some shoes as well. Creativity rules.

Two web sites for Halloween are suggested by the Texas Library this month. One is www.rats2u.com/halloween. For a perfect pumpkin carving site, they offer www.learnfree-hobbies.com/designer-pumpkins.

The Coke County library has received a copy of the Texas Fire Ant Research and Management Project, 1997-2000, from the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, at Texas A & M. The report is available for check-out.

Thoughts on the Scripture

By Rev. Jim Reeves

Ephesians 6:4 "Fathers, do not exasperate your children; instead, bring them up in the training and instruction of the Lord."

If our children turn out wrong, we may have only to look at ourselves for the reason.

May God bless each one of you.

Steers lose heartbreaker to Yellowhammers by Bill Burns The Steers went to Rotan last Friday night and lost a heartbreaker to the Yellowhammers. When I say heartbreaker, it's because the Steers weren't suppose to win even as a healthy team and the Steers aren't healthy. The Steers, besides being bruised and sore from playing that great game against Roscoe last week, had to go into the game against Rotan without their leading running back, Chase Rainwater.

To make things worse for the Steers, Lewis Samaniego took a hand-off on the first play from scrimmage, went 68 yards to the Rotan 2 yard line where he was tackled and came up with an injury to his arm that put him out for the rest of the night. Now the Steers are without their top two rushers. As the game progressed Adam Cates and Taylor Clendennen went out with leg injuries. Through all of this the Steers did not quit and very nearly won the game.

The stats for the game were: first downs, RL - 11, Rotan - 8; rush yards, RL -230, Rotan - 75; pass yards, RL - 10, Rotan - 31; passes, RL - 1,13, 2, Rotan - 2, 7, 0; punts, RL - 9-27, Rotan - 9-35; penalties, RL - 6-26, Rotan - 2-20; and fumbles, RL - 0-0 and Rotan - 1-2.

1st quarter

The Steers received the opening kick and Samaniego carried the ball 68 yards on the first play from scrimmage down to the 2 yard line. Stewart Millican punched it in from there for the Steer TD with 11:11 left on the clock. The PAT failed.

The Steers forced Rotan to punt after they gained only 1 first down, but the Steers couldn't move the ball and punted to Rotan. started a drive at mid-field and with 6:32 remaining on the clock they scored on an eight yard run.

The rest of the quarter was a defensive battle but Millican added 14 more yards rushing and Bret Ballew added 16

2nd quarter

It was still a defensive battle out there. Millican gained another 27 yards, Ballew another 20 yards and Garrett Brown a 10 yard reception. Rotan scored on an interception with 1:06 left in the quar-

3rd quarter

With 8:05 left on the clock Millican scored from 1 yard out. The TD was set up by a fumble recovery by the Steers and a 33 yard run by Millican.

4th quarter

The 4th quarter was still a defensive battle with a total of 45 yards by both teams combined 25 for the Steers and 20 for Rotan. Rotan did score again with :33 seconds left on the clock. The final score was Robert Lee 12 - Rotan 20. Great job Steers!!! Keep your heads up!!!

Jump Rope for Heart

This week, the 3rd and 4th grades from Robert Lee will be collecting donations for the American Heart Association. The Jump Rope for Heart is a very important program for the Association because is raises needed funds for the fight against heart disease and stroke. The JRFH encourages the children to establish a healthy lifestyle through physical activity. All efforts in this program can truly make a difference in promoting heart-healthy lifelong habits for children.

Pet Talk

The discomfort of allergies is common - rashes, itching, watery eyes, even vomiting and feeling listless.

And that's just among animals. People get them too.

Your pet can suffer from allergies as much or more than you do, although it's usually in a different form, says Dr. Robert Kennis, a researcher and clinical dermatologist in the College of Veterinary Medicine at Texas A&M University, who has been studying animal allergies, what causes them and the best treatments involved.

Dogs and cats are the most frequent victims of allergies among companion animals, Kennis says, but almost any animal is capable of some type of allergic reaction. The most common cause of pet allergies: fleas.

When fleas bite a dog or cat, the saliva from the flea very often results in an allergic reaction in the animal, Kennis explains. Even one or two fleas can cause a dog to scratch constantly, with the back half of the dog usually the most affected. However, not all pets with fleas will develop an allergy to flea saliva and experience the severe consequences.

In cats with flea allergies, Kennis says, the back half of the body and the head and neck areas are usually affected because that's where cats groom themselves.

"We see cases where the animal has scratched itself literally raw, which is its natural response of trying to cope with the discomfort," Kennis adds. "And it doesn't take dozens of fleas to start the itching - only a few can make a dog or cat miserable.

Tommy Hood gets a "bear" hug while Mrs. Sawyer enjoys eating her chili at the Fall Fest October 7.

"An uncommon viewing"

Dr. Terry Maxwell Professor of Biology (Editor's Note) Dr. Terry Maxwell of San Angelo is a professor of biology at Angelo State University and is also curator of birds for ASU's Natural History Collections. It's not surprising that his career work is enhanced by hours of being outdoors and observing a large population of species for pleasure, too.

Dr. Maxwell, writing in his "Naturally Texas" column in the San Angelo Standard Times, recounted "an uncommon viewing". He and his wife had been feeding doves in the alley behind his home for a time. In early evening on October 5, they noted the doves taking to the air.

He described the happening. "The doves had flown in alarm, and a roadrunner ran a few feet toward a neighbor's parked car. In its bill was a justcaptured and quite alive Inca dove, wings thrashing to no avail. Barring an unlikely escape, its fate was foregone.

We watched the unfolding biology lesson for about 20 minutes. Without sharp talons or a strongly hooked bill, the roadrunner had to kill its supper by the only means open to it. It proceeded to pound the dove against the ground not a sight for the weak of heart.

Once the dove was dead, the roadrunner spent the next 10 to 12 minutes plucking its feathers. It struggled mightily with the dove's firmly rooted wing feathers, but soon enough had the dove sufficiently denuded. What then happened was startling. You and I would gag and choke if we attempted to swallow whole something as large as a cantaloupe or a roast.

This roadrunner slowly and with considerable struggle swallowed the entire dove, head first. The swallowing process took about a minute.

It then stood there in what might best be described as a pained posture, throat bulging, until the dove was appropriately situated, partially in its stomach and partially in its throat.

Whoo! Ann and I took breaths and walked on out to the car, largely ignored by a now dyspeptic roadrunner. We had just witnessed a predator taking prey and processing it - something done everyday by most predatory animals but not often witnessed by people (especially in urban settings) when the actors in the drama are as large as a roadrunner and a

We considered ourselves privileged to have seen the event. There was no moral lesson to be had. All organisms, ultimately, are food for something - whether it effects their deaths or not."

Not many roadrunner facts are known by the general public. We recognize them they are not anti-social - they seem to enjoy our company, at a distance. At my house, we always had bird dogs in our pens and one old rooster would strut up and down the fences. The dogs would just go wild at the teasing.

The birds - also known as chaparral or paisano - are the state bird of New Mexico. They belong to the ground cuckoo family, advised Dr. Maxwell. The speedy runners (about 15 miles per hour) build well-hidden nests. In about three weeks, the young leave the nest and are nearly adult size at that time. The young are not often seen until they are almost grown but I've heard some say they are carbon copies of adults as soon as they feather out. He observed that the roadrunner will eat anything he can catch and swallow, including lizards, snakes, mice, grasshoppers, tarantulas, fruit, dog food and, obviously birds.

Euterpean Club meets

The Euterpean Club met Thursday, Oct. 19 at 3:30 in the Fellowship Hall of the Blackwell Methodist Church. Roll was called and Dianne McGlothlin was introduced as a guest. Later in the meeting, she became a member of the club. The president, Gypsy McMullin, led the members in reading the club Collect. Treasurer Heather Sanderson gave the financial report.

Sharon Cooper of Sharon's Boutique, Bronte, Texas presented a delightful program on making pumpkins out of dryer vent hose, decorating boxes for Christmas gifts, making wreaths, and snowmen out of canning jars. It was a very informative program and Sharon made it look and sound so easy. She then answered all of the members questions.

Rosemary Ten Eyck and Collene Fletcher were hostesses for the meeting. Using a Halloween theme, with many animated figures of witches, ghosts and skeletons from Rosemary's collection, they served a vegetable

RL Board votes to cut energy costs

The RLISD Board of Trustees met in its regular monthly meeting on Thursday, October 19, at 6:30 pm. Among items approved were two proposals that could mean lower energy costs for the district. The board approved entering a contract with the Texas General Land Office to supply electricity to the district. The new state program will supply electricity to schools at a 5% discount compared to current base rates of West Texas Utilities, the current supplier.

Trustees also approved contracting with Gutierrez, Smouse, Wilmut, and Associates of Midland to do an Energy Conservation Survey of district facilities. The object of the survey is to identify facility upgrades that could result in savings in energy costs. The survey will be done at no cost to the district and if facility improvements are undertaken they will be paid for with the savings on utility costs.

In other action, the board adopted updates to a number of district policies recommended by the Texas Association of School Boards. They also declined to approve a facility use request from a San

College Daze for prospective ASU students

Angelo State University will host "College Daze" Saturday, Nov. 11, to give prospective ASU students and their parents a taste of college life at ASU.

Campus tours given by student volunteers are scheduled at 10:30 am and will conclude in the Food Service Center with a free lunch. At noon students and their families may attend the ASU Expo in the Physical Education Building for information on financial aid, Carr Academic Scholarships and campus activities. Representatives from each field of study at ASU as well as from various student organizations will be available to answer questions.

Information sessions will be presented at 1:30 pm for students interested in ASU preprofessional programs, including nursing, physical therapy, pre-law and pre-health professions. General information sessions at 2 pm will cover selecting a major, securing financial aid and identifying ways to get involved on campus. At 2 pm the ASU Planetarium will offer a free showing for interested College Daze participants.

"It is important for students to make an informed decision about the next step in their education," College Daze coordinator Katy Williams said. "College Daze is an opportunity for students to 'try on' ASU for a day and get first-hand knowledge about the university and what it can offer them."

The day's activities will conclude with a 2 pm football game between ASU and Texas A&M-Kingsville. College Daze participants, including guests, will be admitted free to the game with tickets provided at the Expo.

For more information on College Daze, contact the Office of Admissions at 915-942-2058 or 1-800-946-8627.

Carve pumpkins like a pro

Pick a Primo Pumpkin. While at the pumpkin patch (or in the grocery store), imagine a face on the pumpkin before you lug it home. Extra-large pumpkins are great for elaborate carvings, and mediumsize ones work well for traditional jack-o'-lanterns. Remember, you don't have to choose a perfect sphere. Lopsided and squashes can make the funniest faces, and you can turn your pumpkin on its side and use the stem as a schnoz.

Create your best-ever jacko'-lanterns with these expert tips and tricks.

Cut it correctly

1. Cover work surface with newspaper or an old sheet. Better yet, head for the backyard.

2. No matter how much kids beg for a turn, don't let them do any knife work-pumpkin carving is slippery, potentially dangerous business. For an upright jack-o'-lantern, cut a hole around the stem using a long, thin-bladed knife. The hole should be about twothirds the diameter of the pumpkin. To prevent the lid from falling in, carve at an angle so it's wider at the top than the bottom.

3. Remove the "pumpkin guts" using a metal ladle or ice cream scoop. The youngest of your group may have more fun using their hands.

4. Draw a face pattern on the pumpkin with marker or crayon. Use a small paring knife to cut simple shapes like triangles for noses and eyes.

5. Feeling ambitious? Try a stencil printed from your computer or make your own, drawing a template of a leaf, star, or curlicues. Scrape the rind down from inside until it's an inch thick behind the carving area. Tape stencil to pumpkin. Use a tack to make small holes along pattern lines, about one-quarter inch apart. When you remove the stencil, the holes will work like a connect-the-dots carving pattern.

Light it right

Use white candles in your pumpkins to get the brightest illumination. A glass votive holder will allow candle to burn longer. Other lighting tips:

*Shave the inside bottom of pumpkin flat, so candle will sit securely. After anchoring candle and letting it burn for a minute, lightly blow it out and look for a smoke-blackened spot, where you can cut a tiny hole for ventilation. If black spot is on the bottom of the lid, shave the lid down and poke a hole in it.

*If you prefer, instead of a candle, use a battery-operated flashlight or colorful glow stick, sold in stores.

Lengthen you r pumpkin's life A carved pumpkin stays fresh only a day or two, so clear out those leftovers and store it in the fridge when it's not on display. Or try these methods:

*Submerge pumpkin in cold water for two to eight hours when it starts to look dry.

Cover all cut edges of the pumpkin with a light film of petroleum jelly immediately after carving. Using a paper towel, coat the inside of the pumpkin to keep it from drying

*Spray pumpkin with special preserving products that will keep it fresh for up to a week.
