

Report From Washington

The Army completed the first phase of its officer expansion program with promotions of 2,244 lieutenants to temporary captains effective last December 30. Of the total, 476 were Regular Army officers. More temporary promotions are expected soon.

The Bureau of Naval Personnel has announced the names of 846 officers promoted to the rank of lieutenant, General Line, Medical Corps, Supply Corps, Civil Engineer Corps, Chaplain Corps, Medical Service Corps, Dental Corps and Nurse Corps. The promotion list is published in BuPers Circular Letter 205-50. The Navy also announced that 27 women have been selected for commissions as ensign, General Line, Regular Navy.

Requirements for Naval Reserve Supply Corps commissions have been eased slightly through changes in the educational qualifications. The new requirements are that candidates must hold a baccalaureate degree in one of four general fields from an accredited college or university: economics, commerce, business administration, textile engineering. Other qualification requirements remain the same.

The Army will open two more Officer Candidate Schools next month, with an Infantry course at Fort Benning, Ga., and an Artillery course at Fort Sill, Oklahoma. The only OCS for male students currently in operation is that at Fort Riley, Kan.

The Army has cautioned all personnel to be on the alert to discover and report any unauthorized use of concealable portable recorders. The device is small enough to be carried in a suitcase, briefcase, or similar container, and could be placed secretly in locations where conversations could be recorded without the knowledge of persons discussing classified matters.

Training Command Reopens New Base

Plans for the immediate reactivation of San Marcos Air Force Base at San Marcos, Texas, were announced today by the U. S. Air Force. (13 Jan.).

The base has been on standby status since December, 1949.

San Marcos AFB was used during World War II as a navigator training school. Later, liaison and helicopter pilots were trained there. This training activity was moved to Connally AFB, Waco, Texas late in 1949 when San Marcos AFB was inactivated.

The base has been used recently as a landing site for Air Force pilots engaged in training flights.

MEMORANDUM TO: All Personnel, this Command

The March of Dimes Drive for 1951 will be conducted from 15 January 1951 through 31 January 1951. This drive is sponsored by the National Foundation of Infantile Paralysis, to raise funds for carrying on the fight against Infantile Paralysis.

In the past the Air Training Command has always responded to this great cause with enthusiastic and generous support. The drive in the Training Command for 1950 showed an increase in funds of 62% over collections for the previous year. The progress made in the research and treatment of this dread disease during recent years has been gratifying. It is of vital importance to all of us that funds be made available for the continuation of the fight against this disease.

I sincerely hope that all personnel of the Air Training Command will again enthusiastically support this worthy cause.

Junior League Talent Show Scheduled Soon

Got any talent for singing the "blues?" Or can you knock out a hot jazz chorus on a horn? Perhaps you do a snappy version of the Charleston?

Then "twenty-three skidoo" is the good word for you when the Junior Welfare League of Lubbock meets at the Reese AFB Officer's Club on 1 February to review talent for the "Torrid Twenties," a Follies presentation to be given 22 and 23 February at the Lubbock High School auditorium. The group plans to dine at 2000 hours and spend the rest of the evening holding a talent show where all kinds of skits and specialty numbers will be reviewed.

All Reese personnel who have any musical or comedy talent are invited to participate in the meeting. Additional information concerning the tryouts may be obtained from Mrs. Byrd G. Wear, Reese AFB Service Club hostess.

Proceeds from the musical will be used to further the work of the Welfare Clinic presently operated in Lubbock by the League. The clinic makes possible medical care for those otherwise unable to afford it and accepts the needy regardless of race or creed.

The "Torrid Twenties" will be directed by Bill Lotta, from New York, and publicity for the show is being handled by Mrs. H. A. Watson. Hostess for the talent show at the Officer's Club will be Mrs. E. G. Pharr. Mrs. Robert J. Walker is chairman of the Lubbock Junior Welfare League.

Attention All Personnel

Two agents of the Bureau of Internal Revenue will be at the Wing Legal Office, 081 5 hours to 1700 hours on February 5 & 6 for the purpose of aiding Military and Civilian Personnel of Reese Air Force Base, Texas in the completion of their 1950 Income Tax Return. Income Tax forms will be available at that time. Each person must have his statement of earnings, Form W-2, at the time he requests assistance and any other papers or documents necessary to complete his return.

Berle Worried As Gene Corber Group Performs For Reese

Pvt. Harvey M. Gibbs

The Gene Corber Comedy Group performed before 400 people at the Base Theatre Wednesday evening.

The show was not great but it was satisfying to most of the airmen. Their pantomimes were humorous especially the one called "Temptation", Gene Corber dressed as a mountain woman accompanied by a hillbilly band, scratched and squirmed to the howls of the audience.

A brother juggling team captured and held the audiences attention through a maze of well organized and colorful tricks. This reporter regrets that he wasn't alive to see them forty years ago when they probably were at their peak.

Undoubtedly the star of the show was a comely lass by name, Jeannie Hill. She appeared almost wearing a "gownless evening strap." She fondled the audience with a warm smile and went about her business of tying herself in knots and appearing suddenly in the most alarming positions. (At this time lumps appear-

Under the policy of the Foundation the local chapter must assist any polio patient within its assigned area irrespective of the legal residence of the victim. If the kind of assistance is not available they will explain where the patient could get the help required. The policy, assume responsibility for the case first, then arrange for treatment and payments of necessary cost.

The above policy makes it possible for the families of service men to obtain prompt assistance for polio cases where ever they may be.

In Reese Air Force Base a contribution will assist not only the personnel in the area but can assist a service mans family where ever they may be.

The Ladies Christian Fellowship will have a cake and cookie sale in the PX on March 31st. The NCO Ladies Auxiliary will have a bingo in the very near future. These benefits will have the proceeds going to the March of Dimes

In all sincerity, the personnel in charge of this drive have the fullest confidence in the men of Colonel Tom Says . . .

Have you noticed some new faces around the base? They're here—and in considerable number. Within a short time all these new people will be assigned to work in the various organizations throughout the base.

Who is going to train them? That is a good question. The answer is, "YOU ARE." At the same time, if you have the best interests of your section and of the Air Force in mind, you will train someone else to do the job that you are doing now.

WHY? Because new bases are scheduled to open in various locations throughout the United States. Several of these will be staffed by Air Training Command personnel. All of these transfers will not be from the group which recently completed basic training. Cadet and key personnel will be drawn from among those who have been on duty at their present base long enough to be thoroughly familiar with their jobs and with Air Force requirements. This may afford an opportunity for some of you to get away from Texas dust storms and into a nice wet climate, or a place where the thermometer hovers around zero a good part of the time. In other words, some of YOU will be transferred.

We are not suggesting that two men do the job now done by one—or that you get a "helper" so that you will have more loafing time. Far from it. Instead, we are suggesting that YOU understudy the man above you and be ready to take his place and at the same time prepare another man to take your place, should the need arise.

There is no way of telling at this time who will be chosen for the new assignments. However, we do know that some of us will be leaving—and that it is best for everyone to keep in mind that the possibility is here more than ever before. Now is a good time to go over your personal affairs, too, and make sure that, if your name appears on a transfer list, the move can be made with a minimum amount of confusion.

The "peaceful" day when you pick a good assignment and then "sit tight" are rapidly fading into the past (at least for a time). I hope that all of us here will be ready to meet the changing conditions.

KADET KORRAL

After four weeks, the cadets in 51, (frosch) have become well oriented to Reese. Everyone is well pleased with everything about the base except for the wind and sifting terra firma.

Regarding all the cold weather, Charles McConnell swears that the recruiting sergeant told him that the Air Force had built a wall along the Northern and Western borders of the Panhandle to keep the Cadets warm.

That famous Irishman of 51-B, Sully, christened Marlon Green "Gaylord" (draw or stud, Mr. Minty?) and the name seems to have stuck. Seems to be some doubt if Upp will have any pay coming, after the Cadet Club gets their cut. But then he won't be going anywhere for a few weekends, anyway.

It's taking 51-C a while to establish a foothold in Lubbock, but in the meantime, J. P. Shaddock, Jack Trost, and R. J. Voyles (51-B) took off for San Angelo to console some poor Cadet widows down thataway. Had the trip figured down to the last peso, until the Texas Boy-Scouts clocked them at 88. Still trying to scrape up the necessary 19 bucks I hear.

E. J. Vangaasbeck doesn't have any social problems, his are family problems—Two aspiring young pilots, overheard last week trying to say the Gump check.

"Moose" Roob solved the problems of feminine companionship—went overboard and got married. Don't see hide nor hair of him weekends anymore.

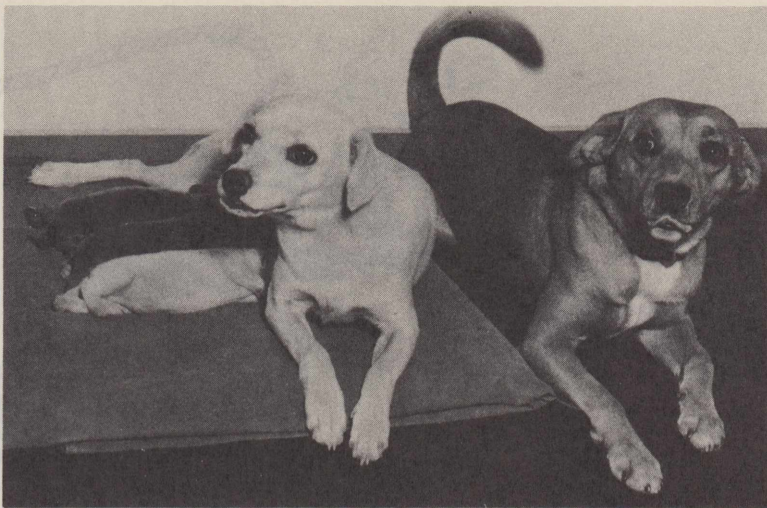

I hear the boys in Charley from Connally say their prayers before each hop—used to the T-6G, you know. Somebody tell Vangaasbeck that toe-brakes won't slow you down when you're flying formation.

First men in Baker to solo the big iron bird were Hay and Hill. Congratulations, fellows. Ol' Jim Sallsand "Lieutenant" Dunphy ran a close second, and there's a rumor that Gibbs got in the act, too.

All the members of 51-B are declaring that the "economy cut" is still in effect. The Baker Two-Bits has two engines, yet they insist on utilizing only one at a time.

It seems that our Canine protege "Rattler" has had a busy week. To start off, he had a group board for manners unbecoming a canine and a gentleman at the Cadet Club and next, he was dognapped by some gentlemen (?) from Vance. This set off an immediate furor among many of the high ranking officers of the Training Command, causing drastic action to be taken in order to retrieve Rattler. Due to the initiative of Paul Jones, the red tape was out, and the rescue of Rattler was expedited. Although Rattler is back (with a single-engine to his credit, too), he still has 100 tours to walk as a result of the group board action.

Rattlers' Family

"Rattler" takes time out from his mascot duties to sit for a family portrait with Mrs. "Rattler" and the three young 'uns. The occasion for the shot is Rattler's return to Reese after his "dognapping" by aviation cadets from Vance AFB, Oklahoma. Headquarters

Rattler 'Dognapped' By Cadets From Vance

By PFC DICK McCUNE

Rattler is back.

And if he could talk he'd probably testify that being the mascot of a cadet detachment is NOT an easy life.

But it HADN'T been hard for the nondescript canine pal of the cadets. After all, he had the run of the advanced multi-engine flying school at Reese Air Force Base, Texas, good chow and quarters, and the respect of all future pilots. Not only that, but his dog-wife offspring. All in all, no GI was any happier than Rattler.

And then it happened. He was dognapped.

No one knew how or when the foul deed had been committed, until, several days later, word came back to the cadets that their dog was being held by aviation cadets at Vance Air Force Base, Oklahoma, also an advanced multi-engine flying school. It was reasoned that the Vance flyers had taken possession of Rattler when a group of them were at Reese AFB to meet the Regular Air Force Selection board.

As it happened, soon after Rattler had been abducted, there appeared on the cadet bulletin board a notice that he had been charged by the Group Board with violating the privileges mentioned above in the Aviation Cadet Club, was found guilty of riotous conduct, absent from call to quarters, barking after call to quarters, causing unfavorable comment, defacing government property, expressions or language probably obscene or indecent, exhibition of temper, and surly attitude.

Col. Thomas J. Barrett, base commander at Reese, wrote directly to the commanding officer of the Pilot Training Wing at Vance, Col. Tom W. Scott, requesting an investigation as to the whereabouts of the wanted Rattler ASN Dog 0000, and asking that he be returned to Reese to undergo his punishment. (The Group Board had assessed a penalty of 100 demerits and 100 tours, walking.)

But the cadets had become restless waiting for the procedures to go through military channels. There was even an ugly rumor that the Vance cadets were requesting a permanent change of station for Rattler through Air Training Command headquarters. So, when a routine training flight was scheduled for the Oklahoma air base, Aviation Cadets Paul Jones, Madison, Wisconsin, and John R. Kitchens, Atlanta, Georgia, were quick to make plans to locate Rattler after their arrival at Vance.

As soon as Jones and Kitchens could climb out of their TB-25 they made for the Vance AFB Cadet Club where they boldly inquired from lower classmen as to their mascot. While Jones was demanding that Rattler be brought forth to serve his time back at Reese, Kitchens, who had been searching the squadron area and come upon Rattler, brought the dog into the club. Jones took Rattler and the two made for the flight line while the befuddled underclassmen fumed.

All was not so easy, however, when the Reese cadets ran into a carload of Vance cadets, also class 51-A. From there a hectic chase to the flight line, several exchanges of Rattler between the rival factions, and a last desperate dash to the operations building ensued before Jones and Kitchens could claim complete ownership of the bedraggled pup.

Always allow an extra margin of safety between your car and the one in front, in winter more than ever.

The Snob is not what he once was, an incorrigible social climber with slightly raised nostrils and an air of intolerance. He's gone underground now or, rather he's come out in a whole new set of guises which only a sophisticated snob detector can recognize. Are you sure you're not a snob, perhaps a Literary Snob, or an emotional Snob?

Russell Lynes—who pinned the Highbrows, the Lowbrows, and the Middlebrows in his dissecting pan last year and made something of a national pastime of our brow-levels (remember the chart in Life Magazine) has now put his pins in the Snobs. These are not the old-fashioned snobs, but the Regional, Political, Moral, Sensual, Physical and Taste Snobs and into the most virulent species of all the Reverse Snob or Anti-Snob Snob.

Your Chapel

A combination of a well known saying of Emerson and a poem by Edgar A. Guest will express to you my thoughts much better than I could ever hope to express them.

Emerson once said in a writing; "If ever a man writes a better book, preaches a better sermon, or builds a better mouse trap than his neighbor, though his house be in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door."

Edgar A. Guest in his poem, "A Man's Ideal," says:

"To live as gently as I can
To be, no matter where, a man;
To take what comes of good or ill
And cling to faith and honor still;
To do my best and let that stand,
The record of my brain and hand,
And then should failure come to me,
Still work and hope for victory.
To have no secret place wherein
I stoop unseen to shame and sin;
To be the same when I'm alone,
As when my every deed is known.
To live undaunted, unafraid
Of any step that I have made;
To be without pretense or shame,
Exactly what men think I am."

As we travel this long road of life together my constant prayer is that we will strive together for that better life and that it will ever be without shame or pretense and that we will be exactly what men think we are. For then all mankind will beat a path to our door seeking that better way of life.

Bingo tonight — Consolation $225.00—Saturday night will find Sgt. Simmons and his Symphonious Syncopators on the bandstand—Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday open house—Ahah! Comes Wed., nite and the square dance class which is growing by leaps and bounds. Didn't have enough room last time but we are going to move some tables and chairs this time to really have floor space

Thursday night at 2000 the Ladies Auxiliary is going to give a benefit bingo party for the March of Dimes. Needless to say this is a most worthy cause so lets all turn out and really help these ladies put the party over. Valuable prizes will be given for every game—Remember they feed you once a month so let's show our appreciation by feeding them our dimes.

Been looking over the new entrance—gonna have a circular drive and hat check stand—landscapers are expected to start to work sometime next week—really gonna be first class.

For your convenience the mess now has two cashiers—Mrs. Bozik from 0800 to 1300 and S-Sgt. Conley from 1700 to 2230 hours.

We have also obtained the services of Mr. John D. Wallis who has over 20 years experience in food service. He has been chef in such places as Marios, Italian Village, Baker Hotel all of Dallas and Mark Hopkins of San Francisco. He introduced Parmesan bread and Remolaud sauce to the South Plains—told me he got his first job in a restaurant in 1926, pay was $7.50 a week, all he could eat, seven days a week and the promise of his first pair of long pants. He's a fine fella and an excellent chef—makes an excellent Mexican dinner and intends to give you just what you want—so drop by and let him know what you want and how you want it seasoned—he can do it.

A final word—this is March of Dimes month—"Let your dimes march so that it might not happen to you or yours."

Don't take the chance of entering a burning building to save property. Only the saving of lives justifies taking a personal risk. Leave the job of firefighting to firemen.

If forced to remain in a smoke-filled building, remember that the air is usually better near the floor. If you must make a dash through smoke or flame, hold your breath.

Hic - Cut - Up

Last Wednesday night at the NCO Club an old fashioned square dance was held. Engarbed in dress befitting the occasion this session became a rollicking, colorful extravaganza of a life that is being re-instated all over the country.

Clothing Sales Store Opened For Business

The clothing sales store officer, Capt. A. T. Adams, Jr. recently announced the completion of the store and that it's now open from 0930 to 1500 for business. However, recent TWX's from Air Material Command restricted clothing sales to those individuals who do not possess a complete Class "A" uniform, Blue or OD.

The store, located in Bldg. T-536, compares favorably with any city haberdashery as to furnishings and equipment which includes dressing booths for trying on uniforms, three-way mirrors, and a shoe fitting machine. Also trained personnel are available to insure that each purchase fits the individual.

In addition, facilities are available to order any size required by special cases that do not run in the standard sizes.

New enlistees and reservists are completely outfitted and after the first month of service are given $4.20 until three or more years of service are completed and then the amount is raised to $5.70.

Administration of the store is under the supervision of Captain Adams, T/Sgt. J. H. Rogers, supervisor of warehouse and store; Mr. J. M. Kirkssy, store manager; Mr. J. W. Avery, cashier; Sgt. Salvatore Catroppa and PFC Leon R. Kiedel, sales clerks.

"Got Any Ideas?"

"You heard me. If you wan'na see me, you gotta get cartoon ideas. Now don't say you don't understand, 'cause I know you do. So until you guys show some interest and tell my boy, Milton, what you'd like me to do, I won't be seeing you. And if you don't remember me, just ask your older brother, Mister — just ask your older brother."

These words of wisdom are sent out by Miss Lace to all Servicemen (and women too). The American Cartoonist Society wants humorous situations and ideas for a new Armed Forces cartoon strip. Ham Fisher, Jimmy Hatlo, Caniff and others will follow through and draw the cartoons.

Here's your chance to pass on some of those gags you've been saving. Your name, rank and outfit will be credited on the cartoon.

Reports Section Helps Determine AF Progress

(Editor's note: In last week's Roundup we had progressed through an explanation of the placement and mission of the Wing Comptroller Section. This week's article will be concerned with one of the three sub-divisions of this section, the Reports Section.)

The Reports or Statistical Services Section of the Wing Comptroller is given the responsibility for the official receipt, audit, and transmission of all recurring and special one-time reports required by higher authority. Reports or Stat. Service section are found as subdivisions of comptroller sections from Wing all the way up through Hq. USAF level.

Catholic Mission Set For February Fourth

A Catholic Mission will be conducted in the Chapel at Reese Air Force Base from February 4 through February 9. The Mission will be conducted by guest Chaplains, Father John D. St. John, a Jesuit, and Father Stephen J. O'Connor, a Redemptorist.

The Mission opens Sunday evening at 8:00 p.m. and continues through the week at 7:30 p.m., closing on Friday evening. For the evening service the following order will be used: announcements, instruction, rosary, sermon, and benediction. Daily masses with instructions will be held at 6:30 a. m and 12:00 p.m.

Both Fathers have had considerable experience conducting missions. They have covered every major overseas base in the Air Force during the past two years, conducting about 65 missions in all. Father St. John is a graduate of Boston College, taught at Holy Cross and Boston College, served with the 15th Air Force during the war, and was a Missionary on the Jesuit New England Mission Band. Father O'Connor studied at St. Mary's College and served with the 8th Air Force during the war.

ed in throats) A curly haired airman remarked, "Its getting pretty warm in here". To some of us her act appeared well formed; to all of us her limbs were well formed. A wise cracking Revolutionary Veteran would probably have said, "Bunker Hill was never like this Hill."

There are more than 250 religious bodies in the United States.

Its basic duties are concerned with the supervision of the collection and submission of all Stat. Service reports, the issuance of studies and product reports required by Wing or higher headquarters, the efficient operation of a system of reports control, the maintenance of the USAF Strength Accounting Systems for Military, civilian, and reserve forces personnel.

The multitude of reports necessary for accomplishment of the command function is fully justified by the importance of these reports in determining the efficiency and programs of the base by higher echelons of the command. There are approximately three hundred (300) recurring reports submitted each month in addition to ten (10) quarterly, and fifty (50) as required. In addition, one-time special reports will vary from five (5) to fifteen (15) each month. Various ones of these are sent to every headquarters and agency conceivable. Subjects of these reports range from the number of flying hours and the comparative AWOL rate to the number of appendectomies and a total of dental fillings performed.

Continuous effort by the Reports Section is made to keep reports currently useful and economically justifiable. By this we mean that the benefit derived from a report must outweigh the cost in man hours expended toward its compilation and presentation. The value of any report varies directly with its timeliness and accuracy.

Next week an article on the Management Analysis Section will appear in the Roundup.

Rattlers Gain Clean Sweep Of Series By Dumping Perrin Twice

The Reese Rattlers racked up their 9th and 10th Interscholastic League basketball triumphs at the expense of the Perrin Pilots: 49-48 in the first game and 60-50 in the second game. The twin victories gave the Rattlers a chance to tie for the lead in the Northern Zone which is currently being paced by the Vance Cherokees. The Rattlers are at Vance this weekend to determine the race for first place. Previously the two teams split a doubleheader.

In the first game with the Pilots, Dale White netted 15 markers for the Rattlers in keeping the Rattler hopes alive in the first half when Perrin forged ahead to hold a 27-21 lead at halftime. In the second canto the Reese attack came alive and soon the Pilots were overtaken, the lead changing to Reese's favor at 39-38. The game see-sawed back and forth with Perrin recapturing the lead at 44-42. Wayne Cox sank a field goal for Reese to tie the game 44-44 as the regulation game ended.

In the overtime period White and Touchett hit the hoop and Cox came through with a free throw to give Reese a one point victory.

A second game saw the Rattlers lead the Pilots all through the game until the second half when the Pilots took a 44-43 lead coming from behind after being on the short end of 30-24 half-time score. White, Cox, and Touchett spearheaded a Rattler attack that turned back the Pilots and finally gave Reese a ten point margin as the game ended.

Pete Fortner, ace center for the Pilots, tallied 22 markers in the first game and 20 in the second to set the scoring the pace for the two games.
