

Report From Washington

The Air Force has given temporary promotion to 575 majors and 1,077 captains—all Regulars—who last year had been selected for permanent advancements and who, consequently, were declared ineligible to be considered for forthcoming temporary promotions. For some time there had been speculation of such forthcoming action to prevent these officers, successful in rigorous permanent selection proceedings from being penalized unfairly. The temporary advancements were made effective, with few exceptions, as of Oct. 19, 1950, for the 575 Regular majors promoted to lieutenant colonel and as of Dec. 14, 1950, for the 1,077 Regular captains promoted to major.

CWO Luce Leaves Goes To Kelly AFB To Head Band There

in San Antonio where he will take over the leadership of the band there. M-Sgt. Charles L. Simmons will serve as acting conductor of the band until the new band conductor arrives.

Born in Naples, Italy, Mr. Luce came to the United States at the age of five, having begun his musical career when he was four.

A veteran of 35 years of military service, his career as a military band leader was temporarily halted during World War I when his band exchanged musical instruments for rifles. He was wounded twice in combat and lost a leg as a result of one of the wounds. He resumed his musical career in time to lead his band into Coblenz, Germany at the end of World War I. He won the Croix De Guerre, a Commendation ribbon, and the Fourragere.

As a band leader Mr. Luce has attained a vast reputation in Air Force band circles and at one time served as Director of Bands for the Air Training Command. Proficient with any band instrument, the trombone remains his specialty.

He is married to the former Edith Noel of San Antonio, who is, in her own right, a noted concert and opera singer. She performed many times with the 514 in concerts given on the base.

New Courts Martial Manual Scheduled For Armed Services

President Truman recently signed an executive order prescribing the Manual for Courts-Martial, 1951, which sets out and explains the rules of procedure to be followed in court-martial proceedings under the New Uniform Code of Military Justice.

The Uniform Code was enacted by the 81st Congress and signed by the President last May 5.

Like the Code, the Manual for Courts-Martial will be applicable to all of the armed services. A single set of rules will, accordingly, replace the separate manuals for the administration of justice now used by the Army, the Navy (including the Marines), the Air Force, and the Coast Guard.

Also like the Code, the new manual will not go into effect until May 31st of this year. This effective date was written in the law in order to allow time for the preparation of the Manual and time for familiarizing all personnel with the new provisions of both the Code and the Manual. The training program will be touched off by the publication of the Manual. The training program will be touched off by the publication of the Manual in the Federal Register. The Manual will be printed in book form as soon as possible, and an estimated 450,000 copies will be distributed through the services.

Highlights of the new Manual and Code include the right of an enlisted man who is being tried by general or special court-martial to have one third of the court

SUGGESTIONS PAY OFF—Mrs. Roy A. Camp of 1419 Ave. H, a civilian employee at Reese Air Force Base and Mr. Aldene E. Huntsman of 1810 Ave. M, also a civilian worker, were recently awarded $10.00 checks for suggestions they submitted. Mrs. Camp suggested a guide for the installation of fabric covers for B-25 elevators and rudders. The device will save 72 man hours per year or $115.00. Mr. Huntsman suggested a pistol grip soldering iron that will heat faster, cool faster, and doesn't require cleaning. This will save $98.00 annually. Maj. Dean B. Brown, staff personnel officer, presented the awards. Mrs. Camp was also the first woman to be rewarded under the suggestion program.

ROTC Cadets On Base Tour Weather Station

ROTC cadets from Texas Tech got plenty of first-hand information February 15 and 22 when groups from the sophomore class made tours of the Reese Air Force Base weather station.

The Air Force ROTC cadets, who are currently studying weather in their military science classes, were led by Capt. Harry E. Baumgarten, assistant professor of air science and tactics at the college.

Weather plotting charts, with cold and warm front and high and low pressure markings, barometers, plotting boards and teletype equipment were all shown to the students and explained by M-Sgt. Marion E. Culver, weather squadron. "This is the worst place in the country in which to plot the weather," confessed Sgt. Culver to the group, as he explained that this area is located in a "basin" which often defies the weatherman in their predictions.

The groups also toured the flight line where they were allowed to inspect the TB-25. The cadets were also shown the weather station's radar tower and the balloon equipment.

Another group of Air Force ROTC students will be on the base March 1st.

Base Drive Begins On February 28th

Military leaders of the nation this week endorsed the March 1951 American Red Cross Fund appeal, the largest since World War II. Heading the nation-wide campaign will be Brig. Gen. David A. Sarnoff, chairman of the board, Radio Corporation of America.

The national goal in the campaign will be $85,000,000. Of this total it is estimated that $38,221,600 will be spent for services to the armed forces and veterans.

The Reese drive will be conducted from 28 February through March 31, Mr. H. E. Albright, base Red Cross director, announced Wednesday.

In pledging the "full support" of the Department of Defense, Secretary of Defense Marshall said: "Never in its long history has the Red Cross faced a larger test of its responsibility than it does today. The emergency calls for a blood supply, strengthening of disaster preparedness, and intensification of first aid training. These programs are public responsibilities and require generous support from the public."

Secretary of the Air Force Thomas K. Finletter stated, "The Red Cross record of achievement merits wholehearted support of all segments of the American Republic."

The Air Force Chief of Staff, Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, added, "The Red Cross must be able to gear its vital program to responsibilities raised by the emergency."

Refueling Unit Fire Partially Burns Bldg Injures One Airman

A refueling and maintenance building near the Motor pool was partially destroyed by fire at 1540 hours Monday and one airman was sent to the base hospital with minor leg burns.

Officials stated the fire began when a gasoline hose being rolled up by workers spewed gasoline over the floor toward an open gas stove. The gasoline on the floor ignited, and the clothes of Pvt. Herbert Smith of London, Ky. caught fire also.

Smith was rushed from the building and rolled in sand to extinguish the flames. Later he was taken to the base hospital where officials described his condition as good.

Badly damaged by the fire, the building was saved from complete destruction by base firemen who extinguished the flames.

RATTLER THE DAWG, mascot of the aviation cadets of RAFB, above, receives his wings from Col. Thomas J. Barrett, Wing Commander, at graduation ceremonies held at Reese for class 51-A on Feb. 11. Capt. Clyde W. Bradley, commandant of cadets, explained that although Rattler was being given his wings, it was felt that he needed more military training before being given his commission. Assisting Colonel Barrett with the pinning ceremony is 2nd Lt. Paul Jones of class 51-A.

Colonel Tom Says . . .

Reese Air Force Base will join other military posts and stations and Red Cross chapters throughout the country in asking military personnel to contribute to the support of the Red Cross service programs.

The fund campaign will start this year on February 28 and will continue through the month of March.

Many of you do not realize, perhaps, the many and varied services offered by the American Red Cross. On our own station during the past year, 1,683 cases were handled and financial assistance was given in the amount of $22,009.59.

In addition to financial aid in emergencies, the Red Cross sends emergency communications, verifies the need for emergency leave, compiles health and welfare reports, gives information regarding government benefits and assistance in applying for them. It also takes an active part in the recreational program for service personnel.

I think all of you know about the national blood program carried out by the Red Cross and their excellent disaster and relief and rehabilitation work.

When you are solicited for funds during the next month, give as much as you feel you are able in order that these vital Red Cross programs may continue.

KADET KORRAL

With many "where did you take your Basic" and "how is everything at ___ ___" greetings, 51-Easy was welcomed into the fold Wednesday morning. But the official welcome was by all the top brass (including MAJORS Livingston and Estes) and we are now just fourth-class at Reese you've-got-it-made Air Force Base.

Of course it will take us a while to acquaint ourselves with everything here but it is unanimous that we could not have picked a better base for Advanced Pilot Training. To most of us in 51-E the idea of Self-Discipline is a drastic departure from previous training in the various Basic schools, however we are beginning to see why Captain Bradley is justly proud of the spirit among the cadets here at Reese.

51-E was guest of honor at the cocktail party held at the cadet club Sunday afternoon. The receiving line consisted of the cadet wheels—Maj. Fremont, and Capt. Krueger and Ford. Perhaps the name tags helped but it seemed unusual that when we got to the last person in the line, our names were being pronounced the same as when we started. Usually we finish with something entirely different.

During the first day at the flight line spirits were high and we were eager to fly again, however the weather didn't permit, so we were briefed by our flight commander, Capt. Krosier, who was happy to say that if everything goes as scheduled (which it probably won't) we will spend six weeks in the T-6, six weeks in the T-28, and then go into B-25's.

51-Charley is to be congratulated for the dance Friday night. Liebrock, Krueger, et al. The dance was in the cadet club, which was nicely decorated for the occasion, and music was by the base dance band. Sounded very good too. The dance was one of the best yet. Thanks Charley.

The entire cadet detachment "voluntarily" attended the basketball game Saturday morning to see Baker squadron triumph over Able. Baker won without the help of "Pinkie" Coughlin, an Able man who seemed to have vertigo or possibly his gyros were 180 degrees out of phase, when he tried to sink a shot in the wrong basket. Stan "Swish" Ellis and Bruce Graham were high scorers for A squadron, with 5 and 6 points respectively, and Charlie Hill and Sweetie McCowan each made six points for the victorious B squadron. Nicest shot of the morning was sunk by Wally Ryan. Final score: 26 to 21.

THE PROSPECT BEFORE US
By Don Passos

In THE PROSPECT BEFORE US, John Dos Passos carries on a grassroots examination of post-war life in the western world. Using a series of homely "lectures," with overtones of satiric humor, the author points out that though there is much talk of systems of society, there is very little direct observation of life under such systems. Seeking for the integrity and freedom of the individuals, Don Passos finds that whatever the political structure under which he lives, man is today faced by a common problem. How can he adjust society to the massive corporation—industrial or governmental—so that the liberties and dignities of the simpler society can be preserved?

With Don Passos, the expert reporter, as his guide, the reader watches life in London under the blitz and again under post-war socialism; he travels in provincial England and Scotland observing farmers, industrial workers, managers—the young and eager, the mature and doubting, the wise and the foolish. In South America Mr. Don Passos takes us through the democracy of Uruguay and Chile and the stranger regime of Argentina. Finally, our own country is explored in all its variety—the farm, the great industry, the labor union, the producer and the consumer.

Before the great project of our era—the restoration of a just and stable society—can be accomplished, we must examine our materials dispassionately and with penetration. The Lecturer and his heckling audience do just that in a lively appraisal which runs the gamut from exhortation to quip and paradox.

BROTHERHOOD

Many of us are always ready to quote Kipling's dictum that

"East is East, West is West;
And never the twain shall meet" when it comes to the consideration of brotherhood of all men, regardless of religious creed, racial characteristics, or national extraction. However, in so doing we fail to realize that the continuation of the quotation from Kipling would furnish us the right corrective for this cynicism, for he goes on to say:

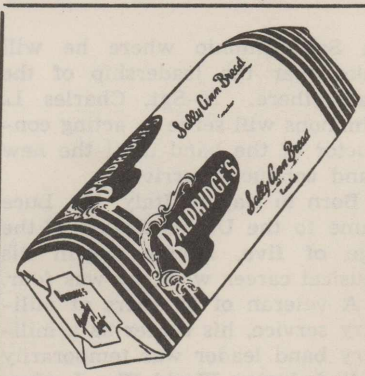

"Bue there is neither East nor West,
Border, nor breed, nor birth;
When two strong men stand face to face,
Though they come from the ends of the earth."

Our celebration this week of Brotherhood Week can have little meaning unless we come to the realization that our true brotherhood is dependent upon our acceptance of the truth that "God hath created of one blood all the nations to dwell upon the face of the earth." This implies that we are the creative work of one God who is Lord of all and Father of all.

Not only does the religion which we embrace insist upon the recognition of this truth in the principles by which we live, but also the very logic upon which the democratic way of life is founded demands it. When any of us rely upon bigotry, prejudice, or dogmatism to justify our false assumptions of racial, religious, or national superiority, we not only hinder the process of our spiritual growth, but also hinder the process by which our democratic way of life is attempting to extend the dignity and liberty of all men. May we, therefore, during this Brotherhood Week realize the truth of Edwin Markham's words:

"There is a destiny that makes us brothers;
None goes his way alone:
All that we send into the lives of others.
Comes back into our own."

Medical Officers May Transfer Inter-Service

Officers of the military medical services, Regular and Reserve, who wish to apply for transfer from one military service to another should submit requests at the earliest possible date, the Department of Defense said recently.

Authority for such transfers, provided by Public Law 779, 81st Congress, expires July 9, 1951.

Officers of the Medical Corps, Dental Corps, Nurse Corps, Medical Service Corps, Veterinary Corps, and Women's Medical Specialist Corps are eligible to apply. Transfers will not be made except upon the individual officers request and with the approval of both military departments concerned.

The law does not authorize the transfer of retired officers and commissioned warrant officers of the Navy's Hospital Corps since there is no counterpart for that grade in the Army or the Air Force.

Personnel transferred will be credited with Federal service already performed, for purposes of promotion, seniority and retirement, and unused leave may be transferred without loss.

Remaining Holidays In The Year Listed For All Personnel

(AFPS) Legal and special holidays to be observed by members of the Armed Forces at home and abroad for the remainder of 1951 have been announced.

The holidays include Memorial Day, Wednesday, May 30; Independence Day, Wednesday, July 4; Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 3; Armistice Day, Sunday, Nov. 11 and Monday, Nov. 12; Thanksgiving Day, Thursday, Nov. 22; and Christmas Day, Tuesday, Dec. 25.

AACS Detachment Nears End Of Building Operation

Airways and Air Communications Service personnel here at Reese have completed the first building phase of the new Control Tower and Remote Transmitter station, detachment officials announced this week. The antennas to the Remotet station were completed recently and they are located just south of Reese proper.

The new-type antennas are nearly 100 feet high as compared to 60 for the old ones. One will be used for Very High Frequency Transmitters and the other for Low Frequency output.

The new transmitter site is expected to make things much simpler for the control tower operators and maintenance men as far as operation and maintenance are concerned.

The new radio equipment to be installed will be five times more powerful than that now in use, also the antenna system is better. Radio contact with aircraft approaching or leaving Reese will be increased to a greater distance.

When completed the project will include all new equipment in the tower, and a building to house the transmitter equipment under the antenna towers.

Man Besieged By Calls Is Found To Be Reese Chaplain

Who is the mystery man who won't answer his telephone?

This question baffled a Lubbock Avalanche-Journal writer who printed a story Wednesday morning about a man who won't talk to anyone on the phone.

The reason for this person's anti-social attitude, according to the article, is the fact that his new number "6311" was the old number of the Lubbock police department. And, as the irate customer told the phone company, people keep calling all hours of the day and night trying to reach the police.

"So," said Reese AFB Chaplain (Capt.) Robert L. Jones, who confesses he is the one in question, "I just left the receiver off the cradle from midnight until six o'clock Wednesday morning.

When confronted with the article by an alert airman who recognized the telephone number as that of Chaplain Jones', the usually mild-mannered minister admitted that he had become somewhat unnerved by the continual pleas for police aid. "I must have answered at least fifteen calls—" Jones related, "two of them were people wanting me to investigate automobile accidents, and one woman even tried to have me send a doctor to examine a sick child."

Jones called the telephone company office Tuesday and he said they promised him a new number sometime this week.

But if you should want to see the chaplain this week, you'd better do it during duty hours—chances are he won't answer if you telephone his house in Lubbock.

Military Personnel To File Income Returns

(AFPS Washington) All Armed Forces personnel must file federal income tax returns for earnings during the year 1950. With limited exceptions—including those in combat zones—the returns must be filed no later than March 15.

Returns must be filed regardless of whether or not any tax was withheld or due. All Service personnel are required to file returns if they earned $600 or more during the calendar year 1950.

The rate of withholding tax on Oct. 1950 was increased from 15 to 18 per cent. Thus, if your disbursing officer had been withholding $20.10 from your pay monthly before Oct. 1, he is now required to withhold $24.20 from the same amount.

Enlisted men and warrant officers may exclude all active service pay for any month or any part of which they served in a "combat zone," and commissioned officers similarly may exclude up to $200 per month of active service pay.

Returns and payments are to be made to the Collector of Internal Revenue for the district in which legal residence is maintained. For those not having a legal residence returns and payments must be sent to the Collector of Internal Revenue, Baltimore 2, Md.

IF EVERY ONE

If every one who drives a car could lie a month in bed, With broken bones and stitched-up wounds, or fractures of the head

And there endure the agonies that many people do, They'd never preach safety any more to me or you.

If every one could stand beside the bed of some close friend, And hear the doctor say, "No hope," before the fatal end, And see him there unconscious, never knowing what took place, The laws and rules of traffic I am sure we'd soon embrace.

If every one could meet the wife and children left behind, And step into the darkened home where once the sunlight shined, And look upon the "Vacant Chair" where Daddy used to sit, I'm sure each reckless driver would be forced to think a bit.

If every one who takes the wheel would say a little prayer, And keep in mind those in the car depending on his care, And make a vow, and pledge himself to never take a chance,

The greatest crusade for safety then would suddenly advance.

Blackbirds. He'll cut down on mileage and possibly be a little more choosy concerning the opposition.

Paul Zimmerman, sports editor of the Los Angeles Times, obviously doesn't think much of the idea current among Pacific Coast colleges in favor of non-participation future Rose Bowl grid games. He types this caustic comment:

"Man, can't you see the rest of the nation laughing at us if the PCC does blackball the Rose Bowl. We take five straight lickings from the Big Ten and then tell the world we're through.

"If the PCC does blackball the game I know what I'd do if I were in charge at SC and UCLA. I'd pull out of the conference pronto, arrange an all-intersection schedule featuring teams from Texas, Dixie and the Midwest, and then tell the Tournament of Roses they could alternate us (SC and UCLA) in the Rose Bowl every other year.

"Why should somebody 'way up there in Idaho or Oregon tell us to junk the Rose Bowl? Or in Berkeley, for that matter? In my book the Rose Bowl is bigger than the PCC. Maybe that's what's the matter."

Washing windows in a Pusan hospital, a Wac lost her balance, fell one floor and lit in a garbage can. A South Korean passed by and saw her.

"Americans very wasteful," he reflected. "That woman good for ten, twenty years yet."
